PREFACE.

At the suggestion of a friend, a Funk by name, and a descendant of Bishop Henry Funck, and who was greatly interested in the work, we consented to, and arranged with him to compile a history of the Funk family.

The work was commenced in the spring of 1891. The family is an old one, originally either from Holland or the Palatinate in Germany, and already traces of some of the second generation have been lost sight of, or some of them may have left no issue.

We have made it our earnest endeavor to make the work as complete as possible.

In some instances, however, the records are incomplete, owing to the lack of interest manifested by some of the descendants in the work, and who failed to respond to communications asking for information.

We however acknowledge ourselves greatly indebted to many of the friends who manifested a lively interest in the work, for their kind favors in furnishing information for the same. More prominent among those who gave us much assistance are the following: Miss Sue Funk, Kenilworth, Pa.; D. K. Cassel, Philadelphia, Pa.; James Y. Heckler, Hatfield, Pa.; H. W. Gross, Doylestown, Pa.; Eld. John F. Funk, Elkhart, Ind.; Rev. H. R. Funk, Philadelphia, Pa.; H. S. Funk, Springtown, Pa.; Rev. Abel Bean, Ironbridge, Pa.; Rev. H. A. Hunsicker, Mont Clare, Pa., and others.

AUTHOR.
INTRODUCTION.

The best lessons of our lives are those we learn from actual experience.

History holds up to our view the wisdom as well as the follies, the good as well as the bad acts of men who have lived before us.

From the experiences and the necessities of the men of the past we learn how knowledge develops and how men make progress in arts, science and general intelligence.

The world's history is a record of events that have taken place in the development and progress of nations, tribes and peoples that have inhabited the earth since time began.

While arts, science, philosophy, inventions, education, literature, politics, religion, social science, war and the works of nature have all contributed to the records of history, by far the greater portion of the world's written history has been drawn from the events associated with war and politics.

Writers of history seem to have taken a special interest in recording and bringing before the minds of the people the glory of human strife, and in honoring and applauding those who have distinguished themselves in the scenes of carnage and the destruction of human life; and in this way the common mind has been especially educated to delight itself in the study and contemplation of scenes of horror and human misery, and by this means cultivating and perpetuating the spirit and practice of war, malevolence and devastation; and we, no doubt, have all, to a greater or less degree, aided in and given our influence to the bringing about of such a condition of things.
While this book contains biographical sketches of soldiers, and men who have given their lives to this sad work, and of others who have no special regard for religion and religious principles, and of some of whom it may indeed be said that they have lived "without God in the world," yet the large majority of them are men who have been identified with the peaceful doctrines of the gospel of Christ, men of more decided religious views, and who were devoted and fully consecrated to the teachings of the word of God, men who suffered much for conscience' sake and yet remained faithful, men who followed their Lord through evil report and through good report, and who made it a principle of their lives never to do anything to the injury of their fellow men.

We are glad that a history of the "quiet people of the land" is to be brought before the public mind, or we may say, we are glad that a number of histories of this class of people are being brought before the public, for this is really a phase in history that has been greatly overlooked. The public life of a nation or a people, in which only the warlike and the political aspects are presented, shows only one side of the picture. The quiet, every day life, the earnest, devoted, faithful heroes that make up the bone and sinew of a nation, in their daily toil, on the farm, in the work shop, in the home and in their religious bearing, form another aspect of life which must necessarily be brought out in order to show what the people really are, and this is what a book of this kind will do.

It is one of the marked signs of progress and development in civilized life, one of the signs of progress and development in the right direction. These are the things the good people that have lived in the world have too long neglected. The "quiet people" became too quiet, —so quiet indeed that in too large a degree their light was hid under a bushel, and to a very large extent their influence for good was lost, and now that we see a wave coming up, bearing on its crest the white foam of peace and purity, telling of the life and labors, the faithfulness, devotion and quiet endurance of brave and noble men and women who have stood by the noble, though despised, principles of the gospel of peace, whose names the world never heard, whose fame neither bard nor poet ever sung, and which were never written in their country's history, and whose deeds of love and charity were never blazoned before the admiring multitude, that children and children's children might learn from the pure, gentle, peaceful ways of their ancestors the grand lessons of truly great and noble lives, we have cause for rejoicing. In this indeed we see the marks of human progress.

It is a declaration of the divine Word that "he that ruleth his own spirit is greater than he that taketh a city." So is he that standeth by the pure principles of the gospel, the life of peace, of righteousness and true charity, though his life be an humble one, a greater man and more worthy of true honor, than he who through mighty deeds of valor by force of arms or the display of physical strength and at the expense of others, has won the applause of men, enjoyed the honors of the world and gone to his grave amidst the pageantry and applause of admiring multitudes.

May the history of that form of life which leads upward and makes us grow day by day more godlike, more divine, engage our thoughts more and more, and ever find more acceptance in the minds of our people and nation.

LIST OF EXPLANATIONS AND ABBREVIATIONS.

In the preparation of this work it will be observed that all descendants are recorded as near as possible in the regular order of birth, from the oldest to the youngest, each generation being marked consecutively from first to last. The Roman numerals placed before each name indicates the generation to which they belong, as:

I. Bishop Henry Funck, (First generation.)
II. John Funk, (Second generation.)
III. Anna Funk, (Third generation.)

Beginning with the first (I) ancestor, Bishop Henry Funck, all his children are named in the order of birth as near as possible. Then follows his oldest son John Funk (II. generation), and his children (III. generation) next. Anna, being the oldest, is followed down to the last of her descendants; then the second in order of birth of the III. generation, and so on until the end of the entire branch of John Funk of the II. generation is reached.

Then the second son of Bishop Henry Funck of the I. generation, viz.: Henry Funk (II. generation), is carried down in like manner to the last of his descendants, and so on throughout the entire connection.

Where marriages occur between members of the connection, the husband carries the record. In all such cases a numbered reference is placed after name and marriage of the wife, as, for example: (See Index of References No. 1.) In the Index of References will be found No. 1.

Page —. On the page given, in the body of the book, the family records will be found.

To find family records see Index of Branches, where names of all that had issue of the first, second, third and fourth generations are given.
In the General Index will be found the names of all the descendants of eighteen years and over, also the pages on which their names and family records are given in the body of the book.

THE FUNK FAMILY HISTORY.

1. Bishop Henry Funck, born in Europe, either in Holland, or the Palatinate, emigrated to America in 1719, settled at Indian Creek, in Franconia Twp., Montg. Co., Pa., where he died in 1780. He was married to Anne Meyer, daughter of the pioneer Christian Meyer, of Salford Twp., Montg. Co., who emigrated from Europe to America about 1700. Anne, wife of Henry Funck, died July 8, 1758.

Henry Funck purchased three tracts of land, in all 201 acres, lying along the Indian Creek, in Franconia Twp., Montg. Co., Pa., where he settled and built the first mill on the Indian Creek.

* "A warrant bearing date December 20, 1718, was granted to Henry Funck, then of Germantown, by the commissioners of property, Richard Hill, Isaac Norris, and James Logan, and by virtue and in pursuance of said warrant 'there was surveyed to him a certain tract of land situated on a branch of the Perkeawming Creek,' containing 101 acres and three-quarters, with allowance of six per cent, being in all about 108 acres. This tract extended from a certain corner south-west 166 perches, then north-west 104 perches, then north-east 166 perches, and then south-east 104 perches, for which he paid £20, in lawful money, and the annual quitrent of one shilling per 100 acres, on the first day of the first month (March), and for this tract he received a patent dated Dec. 20, 1733.

He afterwards purchased two adjacent tracts from James Steel of Philadelphia, one of these tracts situated south-east of his first purchase, the whole length thereof containing 53 acres, for which he paid £10, and received a conveyance Dec. 24, 1719, which is witnessed by Jacob

* James Y. Heckler's History of Lower Salford Twp.
Taylor and Lydia Bolton. The other tract containing 40 acres, for which he also paid £10, and received a conveyance dated Nov. 14, 1729. The three tracts constituted his farm of 201 acres on the Indian Creek. He afterwards divided this farm into two unequal parts, granting 137 acres 146 perches to his son Christian, and 63 acres 19 perches with the mill and other buildings and improvements to his son Abraham.

At the time of the division of this land, there probably were two dwellings there, one for the farmer, and one for the miller."

The house opposite the mill is a very old structure, and was probably built by Bishop Henry Funck. The mill was twice burned down, and rebuilt, and nothing but the foundation of the original remains.

Besides his 201 acres on the Indian Creek, he also owned a farm of 166 acres which he purchased "of ye Mannor Lands, on ye upper part of a branch of Perckyoming, for £160," probably a part of the Manor of Perkasie, in Hilltown Twp., Bucks Co., and which he willed to his son Henry. He also owned another tract with buildings and improvements, which he had purchased from Ebenezer Kitnesly, and where his son-in-law, Jacob Bare, lived.

Christian Funk, in his "Mirror to all Mankind," says, that his father "came from Europe in 1719, settled at the Indian Creek; other of his brethren came over from Europe and then Henry Funk was elected as minister to serve the church at Franconia," of which he was the first minister, and later was ordained bishop in which office he served a long time.

He held his membership at Franconia, and besides ministering to that congregation, he also preached at Clemen's, now Salford; in Skippack, and the "Plain's," which included Hatfield and Towamencin, and other places.

Henry Funck was the author of two religious works, one a small book in German entitled, "Spiegel der Taufe"—Mirror of Baptism, and the other a larger work, entitled, "Eine Restitution, oder eine Erklärung einiger Hauptpunkte des Gesetzes," which was published after his death in 1763, and was reprinted at Biel, Switzerland, in 1844, and at Lancaster, Pa., in 1862.
He also, in connection with Dielman Kolb, was appointed by the Mennonite church to supervise the translation of van Bracht's Martyrs Mirror, or "Der Blutige Schauplatz," from the Dutch to the German, a folio of 1514 pages printed at Ephrata in 1748. It was one of the largest works published in this country during the Colonial period.

Bishop Henry Funck was well educated for the times, and was a man of extensive influence in his church and community. He was a faithful and zealous servant for his Master, and did much to advance the interests of his church.

His Will which was very lengthy and explicit, he wrote with his own hand—June 13, 1759, in the German language.

In its provisions and composition it is a somewhat singular document, "but to the sincere Christian it has lessons of instruction and examples, in the highest degree worthy of imitation, while to the large number of the descendants of its author, it is full of interest," and is herewith produced in full.

The Last Will and Testament of Henry Funck.

Franconia Township, the 13th of June, 1759.

The last Will and Testament of me, Henry Funck. Whereas we know that we have no permanent station in this world of trouble, but must by death depart therefrom in hopes of a better Kingdom: it is therefore in my mind as if my departure were nigh at hand, though ye time is unknown to me. And as God has blessed me and my late wife with a numerous family of children, as well as my endeavors in obtaining a livelihood, I do, therefore, judge it to be my duty to put down in writing what I ordain shall be observed after my said departure. And as it is hard for me to see how I shall order all matters right, I shall therefore herein act as well as I can according to the best of my understanding as followeth. And do hereby wish unto all herein concerned, peace and righteousness, in ye Name of the Lord.
I. After I am departed this life, I desire to be decently buried after our usual and Christian manner.

II. All my Funeral Expenses and all my just Debts shall be previously paid out of my Estate, that no person may suffer loss thereby.

III. As on ye 8th day of July, 1758, my first wife, Anne, died, and as there is no second, no regulations on that account are necessary.

IV. For as much as my daughter Esther is lame in all her limbs, and to this day, can neither stand nor walk alone herself, nor any likelihood appears she ever will, therefore, it is necessary this my daughter should be provided with her maintenance. I do, therefore, as Father, give her: First,—a good, complete, new suit of apparel, such as is usual amongst us: Secondly,—Bedsted and a good bedding ye same, viz: under and over Bed and Pillows, all well cased or covered: Thirdly,—£400; I say Four Hundred Pounds, good Current Money out of my Lands: Fourthly,—As my late Father-in-law, Christian Meyer, bequeathed, unto ye said lame Esther, the sum of £3, which said Three Pounds I have received, and ye same shall also be added for ye use of ye said Esther, with ye interest thereof. It is, therefore, my will that ye said Esther shall of ye same what I, by ye Divine blessings, have been enabled to bequeath and give unto her, be well maintained and attended by my Executors, and her Brethren and Sisters, by reason of her being in so poor and helpless a condition.

V. For, and in which case, and the management thereof, I do appoint as Directors therein, ye Elders in the Congregation of Christ, named ye Mennonists, wherein I was a Servant Minister a long time, namely Christian Meyer and Michael Dirstein, and their successors in ye ministry with consent of their fellow ministers; and if contrary to my expectations through or by reason of any accidents or alteration befalling my Executors or my Heirs, it should happen that their love toward their said poor Sister should decrease, and she should be not duly regarded or attended, I do then, in such case, fully empower ye said Elders and Ministers, of ye aforesaid Congregation, to call my Executors, or their heirs and executors, to account in regard of all what I have given unto ye said Esther, and to take all what is left thereof into their custody, and therout, as long as it lasts, provide for ye said Esther; put her to a good place, and pay for ye same. And after Esther is departed this life, and everything relating to her paid off, then, the remainder thereof; if any, shall go unto my heirs: and I am in hopes, my Executors and Heirs, as well as ye Elders of ye said Congregation, will accept of this of me in good part, and observe their Christian Duty herein in regard of ye said poor Esther, which Divine favor may grant. Item.—It is also my will that beside the said new suit of apparel and bed for ye said Esther, all her future new apparel and bedding shall be bought and paid out of ye aforesaid money unto her given, and whosoever shall best keep and provide the said Esther shall have her first and keep her; that is to say, for £12, I say Twelve Pounds yearly of good current Money out of her abovesaid Estate; and if by reason of any accidental increase of infirmities, that should not be enough yearly, then an addition shall be made thereto, at ye discretion and with consent of said. In this manner, it is my will, that ye said Esther shall, be kept, in health and sickness, in meat and drink, and lodging, and be kept clean, in washing and mending of clothes and bedding; and be also kept clean of lice and other vermin, as well as of all other uncleanness.

VI. My eldest Son, John Funck, shall gratis enjoy his having got his trade and have £5, I say Five Pounds in Money beside, and over, and above his equal share which he is to have with his other brethren and sisters.

VII. For and touching my lands, whereon I lived, I have certain 137 acres, I say one hundred and thirty-seven acres and 146 perches thereof, heretofore given unto ye possession of my son Christian Funck. For 136 acres thereof, he shall pay £362, I say Three Hundred and Sixty-two Pounds, and in consideration of the remaining one acre and 146 perches thereof, he shall leave unto ye Miller (my son Abraham Funck,) sufficient ground and room on ye said land for his Mill-dam and head and tail race for ye accommodation of the said Mill, in such manner as may best be done and as the same is occupied at present, and occasion no hindrance in regard of water of the said Mill. On the other hand, ye said Miller shall let him who hath the aforesaid plantation (as ye residuary part of ye same Tract of Land) have a road by or near ye said Mill House and Mill, into his field towards ye Burying-ground: and as there is yet besides remaining certain other 63 acres, I say Sixty-three acres and 19 perches of land of ye same tract, which with ye said Mill on ye same, and all ye utensils to ye said Mill belonging, together with all other ye Buildings thereon, I have heretofore given into ye possession of my son, Abraham Funck, and valued to him at £338, I say Three Hundred and Thirty-eight Pounds, yet so that I reserve to live thereon as long as I will, or live.

VIII. The payments, for ye said plantation and for ye said Mill and Land, shall be payable in one and ye same manner: First,—After my decease, ye said Christian Funck shall pay unto ye said Esther, ye interest of Two Hundred Pounds, yet only at four per cent.—In like manner, ye said Abraham Funck shall pay ye same of Two Hundred Pounds at four per cent. And then ye said Christian Funck shall on ye first May Fair or Fall fair, next after my decease which first happens, pay of ye principal sum, ye sum of £25, I say Twenty-five Pounds. In like manner, Abraham Funck shall pay ye same sum: and so they are to continue respectively to pay every year until ye whole is paid. And when Esther's monies are so paid off, then my Executors may put ye same out into trusty hands on interest; and if to my children, then take only four per cent thereon. But if my Executors for want of trusty hands can't put out ye said monies, then my Executors shall not be liable to account for any Interest thereof, and when Esther is departed this life, my children are to pay no further Interest thereof, but pay ye principal sum as is justly due.

IX. There shall no Vendue be held by reason of uneasiness, and my moveable goods, my heirs may sell and divide amongst themselves as well as they can. And as relating my outstanding debts, they shall be collected in manner as I have done hitherto, so as not to sue any person for it. But whatever is or shall be deemed as lost, may be lost, and my heirs shall leave all such bad debts uncollected, as I hope the Divine Blessing will make it up to them another way, which article I would not have neglected.

X. It is also my earnest will, that immediately after my decease and burial, £5, I say Five Pounds Current Money shall be paid into ye Alms box of and for ye Congregation aforesaid (named ye Mennonists), amongst whom I served a long time in ye Ministry. And likewise, as in thankfulness to ye Lord: If ye said Esther should, by Divine favor, be enabled to walk, or in case and when she in her present indigent state is called by the Lord, by death, to go out of ye misery of this world to Eternal rest; at ye fulfilling of either of which cases, when the said Esther is delivered from her present life of misery, the sum of £10, I say Ten Pounds shall then immediately, without any evasion, be paid out of ye said Estate into ye Alms of ye Congregation aforesaid.

XI. After due partition is made unto every one of his Inheritance and Legacy, as is in this my Will contained and is deducted out of my Estate, it is my will that ye remainder of what name soever, be it moveable Goods or Money, or outstanding Debts; as also, what my married children have heretofore received and is put down in writing, in my book for that purpose, shall be reckoned together. And that shall all be in Equal parts divided amongst my Nine Children; namely: my sons, John, Henry, Christian and Abraham Funck; and my daughters, namely: Barbara, Anne, Mary, Fronicka and Elizabeth Funck. But such of them as have heretofore received a good deal, shall not receive anything until such as have had less are Equal with them. So that my said Nine Children's shares shall all be equal; and such as have received too much, shall refund in proportion aforesaid.

XII. As the Land whereon Jacob Bare now lives, I purchased of Ebenezer Kinnesly, of whom I have a Deed for the same, and I gave him bonds for ye money, so that I have to this time paid for the said Land inclusive of ye Charges and ye Interests gradually accruing thereon, a sum of £84, I say Eighty-four Pounds, 3 Shillings and 5 Pence. Besides for ye same Land, the sum of £50, I say Fifty Pounds is due by a Bond unto Dirk Johnson. Now if ye said Jacob Bare or his heirs do pay ye said debts for ye said Land; then my Executors shall give him my Deed for ye said Land, with all my right therein, to hold to him, his heirs and assigns, and also for ye same, make and execute a Deed unto him (out of ye said Deed), which shall be deemed as valid as if I, myself, had acted therein: But in case my Executors and heirs are obliged to pay ye said debt for ye said Land, then they shall have power to sell a part of ye said Land, and make a title as aforesaid to ye purchaser for ye same, in order to reimburse themselves of ye said Debt for ye said Land; and then leave all ye remainder of ye said Land to ye said Jacob or his heirs, and in such case make him a deed for such remainder of the said Land only in manner aforesaid.

XIII. And as I have also purchased a tract of Land of 166 acres of ye Mannor Lands, on ye upper part of a branch of Perclyoming, for £160, I say One Hundred and Sixty Pounds, and I have paid for ye said Land, and have a Deed for ye same, which said Land my son Henry Funck shall have to him, his heirs and assigns; but as I have been at sundry charges of making ye deed, of making improvements on ye said Land, and paying for Nails, &c., all which together, whatsoever ye same may be, I do totally estimate at £180, I say One Hundred and Eighty Pounds to be paid for ye same after my decease, in certain terms of payment, to-wit: On ye first ensuing Fall Fair, £10, I say Ten Pounds; the second Fall fair, £15, I say fifteen Pounds; and so on every Fall fair, £15, until ye whole is paid off: but if any of ye said payment remains unpaid at ye time appointed, ye same shall, thenceforth, pay Interest for ye maintenance of ye said Esther—but after ye decease of the said Esther, no Interest shall be paid by my heirs for their said payments.

XIV. It is also my will and order that soon as conveniently may be done after my decease, my sons, Henry, Christian and Abraham Funck, shall have Deeds for their Lands herein given unto them respectively, out of my Patent and Deeds for ye same, together with all my Right I have therein, to hold to them, their heirs and assigns, which Deeds, my four sons shall Execute and make unto each other; which shall be as good and valid as if I, myself, were acting therein. But if any of these; my said sons, should happen to die before the same is accomplished, and leaves heirs of his body, then ye Executors of such, so deceased, shall join with my other sons aforesaid in ye Execution of ye said Deeds, which shall then be also as good and valid as if such, my deceased son, had done it himself. But if any one of them should behave himself disobediently to these Presents, then such as are obedient thereto, shall Execute ye said Deeds, which shall then stand and be as good as if I had done it myself. And none other of my heirs shall henceforth have any claim to any of ye said tracts of Land whatsoever. And it is also my further will that at ye Execution and delivery of ye aforessaid Deeds, the owners of ye Lands therein contained as aforesaid, shall then respectively give Security in obligatory writings unto my Executors, that they respectively will pay in lawful money the aforesaid consideration sums for ye same Lands, as is herein before ordained by this Will.

XV. And I do hereby appoint my two sons, John Funck and Christian Funck, to be my Executors, and fully Empowered to act agreeable hereto relating to my whole estate, and as Co-heirs to superintend ye whole management in manner aforesaid; and more especially relating to my beloved, lame daughter, Esther, and her Estate; in hopes they will willingly act ye just part towards any one as much as is in their power, as is hereinbefore directed; and as it is not my will that my Executors shall suffer any demand by acting herein, yet it is not my will nor mind that my Executors shall take ten per cent. of ye whole for their service of their Brethren and Sisters; but that for whatever time my Executors shall spend and be at more Charges than my other heirs, an adequate Satisfaction, according to Christian Equity shall be made unto them for all such purposes. It is my perfect will and desire that all ye said matters and things may be completed and done according to brotherly love and Christian Justice; that none may load any guilt upon himself on account of such a trifle of worldly goods. And as to such as are disobedient here-unto, it will be good to make use of the established laws against them. At ye conclusion hereof, it is my hearty will and desire to my Executors and heirs, and to ye overseers of ye Congregation aforesaid, to manage all in love and peace; to love ye said poor Esther, and attend her well, hoping it will be serviceable unto them in ye way of obtaining a greater inheritance hereafter. This, my Testament or will, is by me, Henry Funck, at the time of my being in usual good health, and of sound understanding, perfected and writ with my own hand. HENRY FUNCK. [SEAL]

JACOB FUNCK,
JACOB OBERHOLTZER,

III. Rev. David Funk, bn. in Bucks Co., Pa., Dec. 28, 1765; died in Westmoreland Co., Pa., Oct. 4, 1833. Mrs. Catharine Godshall. She was born at Mount Bethel, Pa., Apr. 1, 1765; died in Westmoreland Co., Pa., May 4, 1850. In early life Mr. Funk was a farmer and distiller, later was converted and became a Mennonite preacher. Children: John, Samuel, Susan, Elizabeth, Barbara, Christian, Solomon, Nancy, Abraham.

Mr. Funk moved to Chester Twp., Wayne Co., Ohio in 1826, where he built a “Mennonite church” on his land at Chester Crossroads and preached for them several years when a contention arose among the members saying, he preached too much like the “Methodists.” So the minority withdrew, but could not get the “church,” as he had built it on his own land. Mr. Funk continued to preach for the remaining members until Rev. John Winebrenner, founder of the “Church of God,” and his two missionaries, Rev. Jacob Keller and Rev. Thomas Hickernell, came through there, and Mr. Funk invited them to hold a “protracted meeting” and thereby gained many converts. They then organized a “Church of God,” Mr. Funk and his members joining the church. Mr. Funk was ordained elder, and continued preaching at Chester Crossroads and neighboring churches for several years. In 1849, he moved to Wooster, Ohio, where he lived until he died.

He was one of the oldest members of the Ohio eldership. Children: David, Anna, Catharine, Maria, Henry, Samuel, Martin, Barbara, John, Magdalena, Daniel, Jacob, Elizabeth.

V. David Funck, bn. in Westmoreland Co., Pa., Nov. 8, 1811; died Dec. 19, 1896. Mrs. Elizabeth Rosenberger, Apr. 10, 1834. She died Jan. 27, 1869, aged 56 years. P. O., McComb, Ohio. Mr. Funck came to Wayne Co., Ohio with David mrd. second wife Mary Ann Young (nee Cook), Mar. 7, 1875. She died Oct. 12, 1892.

Mr. Funk enlisted for 3 years in the 65 Inf. Regt., Ohio Vol., Company K. and served from 1861 to 1864. He participated in the following battles: Stone River, Chickamauga, Buzzard Roost at Dulton, Resaca, Mission Ridge, Kennesaw Mountain, Peach-tree Creek, and Jannesborough, besides numerous skirmishes. He was with his regiment all the time except a few days when sick and in the hospital, and was never wounded, but was hit several times with ball at Stone River, a ball passing through his canteen. Children: Infant, Henry, David, William, Mary, Cyrus.

VII. Henry Benton Funk, bn. in Hancock Co., Ohio, Feb. 5, 1858; died Mar. 19, 1884. Mrd. Susan M. Calvin, Aug. 26, 1890. She was born Sept. 19, 1858. P. O., Flat Rock, Ill. Children:

Mr. Funk enlisted Nov. 13, 1861, as a private soldier in Co. K., 65th Regt., O. V. I. Mustered at Camp Buckingham, O., and on arriving at Louisville, Ky., was assigned to the Army of the Cumberland. In the spring of 1862, was ordered to Pittsburg Landing under Gen. Buell, to re-inforce Gen. Grant, from thence to the siege of Corinth under Gen. Halleck. After the evacuation of Corinth, marched to Ridgeport, Ala., and countermarched to Louisville, Ky., at the time of Bragg's raid in the fall of 1862. Engaged in the battles of Crabb Orchard and Stone River, under Gen. Rosecranz. At the latter place Mr. Funk was wounded. After a march over the Cumberland Mountains, to Lookout Mountain, and thence to Lee, and Gordon's Mills, where the command lay about a week, was next engaged in the battle of Chattanooga where Mr. Funk was again wounded. After participating in the siege of Chattanooga, and battle of Mission Ridge, the command marched to Knoxville, Tenn., in pursuit of Longstreet's army, then countermarched back to Little Tenn. and went into winter quarters. In the spring (1864) went with Sherman in his Atlanta campaign, engaged in battle at Rocky Face, where Mr. Funk was again wounded. After the Atlanta campaign, and just before the battle of Nashville, he received his discharge and returned home. Children:

She is a graduate of the public high school, and also of the University of Wooster, class of '91, and for some five or more years has been teacher of Latin and Greek in the Wooster high school. She was married Nov. 18, 1897 to Fred J. Miller, son of S. A. Miller, of Doylestown, O. The ceremony occurred in the First Presby. ch., Wooster, O., at eight o'clock in the evening, and was performed by Rev. Dr. O. A. Hills, pastor, assisted by the bride's uncle.
Rev. Dr. A. J. Imhoff, of Urbana, O., and withal was a very beautiful scene. The beautiful and impressive ring ceremony was used. Many elegant and costly wedding gifts were presented. Mr. Miller is a graduate of Cornell University in the class of '94. He is connected with his father in the manufacture of agricultural machinery.

P. O., Doylestown, Ohio.

VI. Cloe Devona Funck, bn. Sept. 29, 1873. Student at University of Wooster, O., (1895).

Mr. and Mrs. Purdy held their silver wedding, Aug. 28, 1878, which proved to be a very pleasant party of relatives and friends, who happily assisted them in celebrating the event in their own home in Wooster, O. Among the number was the mother of the bride, Mrs. Maria Funck, in her 91st year, and in good health. Mrs. Purdy being her youngest child. A very fine supper was prepared and the guests made enjoyably at home.

Quite a number of useful and ornamental silver articles were presented in the name of the donors to Mr. and Mrs. Purdy, in approving terms by Rev. S. P. Kiefer, and the acknowledgements were tendered by Mr. I. T. Thorley. The whole, as a wedding anniversary, family reunion, and social party, was one of the most pleasant of the kind.

VI. Clement Edwin Purdy, bn. Aug. 23, 1856; died Mar. 23, 1883, aged 26 yrs., 7 mo. At the age of 20 he went to Tallahassee, Fla., and wrote for Assembly for a time, after which he was appointed mail agent on the Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad. His principal points were Lake City, Tallahassee, and Chattahoochee. In 1879 he was promoted to the Postal car, and run from Savannah, Ga., to Jacksonville, Fla. He held this position until his health failed, when he resigned, after which he traveled in the interest of the Western Business Guide, thinking to improve his health, but was obliged to quit on account of sickness. He was also correspondent for the Atlanta (Georgia) Gazette and several other papers. The last year of his life was spent at home with his parents, when he invented a "Parlor and Ice Scate Combined," which he had patented. Several capitalists visited him and endeavored to purchase the right, but he did not wish to sell. The scate is simply constructed, and experiments have proven it to be an article that would command a ready sale, had he lived several years longer and placed it on the market. The patent papers were received only a short time before his death, for which reason it has not been manufactured and placed on the market.

As a writer he assumed the name of "Ed. P. Cleon." Among his writings are two poems, one dedicated to Gov. Drew, of Florida, who was one of his intimate friends, and A Satire on Ministers of Church and State, both of which we append.

Written Jan. 18, 1877.

THE FLORIDIAS’ INVITATION.

DEDICATED TO GOVERNOR GEORGE F. DREW,

BY ED. P. CLEON.

Oh, Florida! thou queenly paradise unknown,
Thou great peace-maker, if such there be;
Deciding a nation’s fate, if not, decides thy own,
Showing the world her people once more free,
And by so doing, rending loose the very chains
That barred her golden gates, depriving immigration,
Mark her with homes, at which she dearly aims,
And keeping her the last among the nation.

And now let the bright angel of triumph sound
The glorious news, both far and wide;
Let snow-flakes sing it, as they fly to meet the ground,
And comets tell it in their wondrous pride.
Yes; let it be echoed o’er the bridge of sighs;
Let the meteor reflect it to the worlds afar:
Let it ride on the mist, from the seas to the skies
That the golden gates of Florida now stand ajar.
Here emigrants may clasp a welcoming hand,
    Be they from North, South, England or Ireland hurl’d,
We ask—beseech them to come, join our band,
    For Florida, yet, will be the Eden of the world.
Here are the fields, uncultured and unclaimed,
    Like other fertile lands, awaiting for the plow;
And in this centennial year the gates have been unchained,
Yet few shall know they ever were one hundred years from now.

Composed by Clement Edwin Purdy.

For the Republican.

MINISTERS OF CHURCH AND STATE.
    (A SATIRE.)
BY CLEM. PURDY.

Awake! Ye Ministers of State and Church—
Wash from your heart and eyes the smirch;
Study your duties, be to them confined—
Too many irons will sear or scorch the mind.
Let reason rule, and fools alone cry bosh,
Because the paper of satire won't wash!

Where are the minds, with reason given,
Which actuate the soul to love and Heaven?
Are they alone among the clergy found?
And are their minds alone the sound?
Fool! he who thinks their reasoning more true
Than he who expounds on a drop of dew,— Interprets earth, exposing to our view
Its hidden layers, and their meaning, too.
Vain, shattered mite, is he who dares to mix
Sacred religious duties with irreligious tricks:
They will not blend, the difference is too great—
Sacred religion rules the soul, not State!

True, if the Ministers of State be true,
Our laws will be,—their administration, too.
But true men, like bad, are born to die;
They fill this, that, position with a sigh—
Then pass away, their place to be soon filled
By him whose art in cunning is most skilled.
Contemptuous politician. what is thy gain
But honor, reaped from out a world's disdain?
Oh, meddling clergy! this but makes it worse,
What causes you, grasp such reward, the purse!

Still stand at bay, don't jest my song to scorn,
Remember truth oft pierces like a thorn:
But tell me this: thy duty since ordained?
Not that I wish to see thee more enchained,
But that by reason I may fully show
That thieves of duty won't to Heaven go.
Should all the farmers in this land of ours,
 Cultivate but roses and such-like flowers,
'Twould not be long before we'd cry for bread—
'Twould not be long before we'd all be dead.
Or should the rulers of our States turn seamen,
What barbarism would befall the god Hymen?
Alas! should clergy seek to rule the State,
What creed would most predominate?
Pre-eminence in creed cannot be found—
Each claims its own to be most true, most sound.
Most Reverend Sir, since you don't wish to rule,
Why, like a school-boy, in debate at school,
Expound on things which you have only read
With no more understanding in your head
Than he, who says that Heaven's color's blue?
Ask how he knows, he's seen and read so, too.
Perchance he learns that air by distance grows
As blue as indigo—his former knowledge goes:
Thus he is left more wiser than before—
Atmospheric blue is not fren (1) Heaven's floor.
Thus, subjects, questions, themes which do arise Require most cogent reasoning from the wise—Months of hard study, in their field of labor spent,
Is all that makes their knowledge worth a cent.
Acknowledge this, for it is Heaven's law
That knowledge grows, just like the grain in straw.

Since knowledge grows and you have been ordained,
Is not your duty here, in life, explained?
Mark well my words, for he who studies law
Can't set the bones or patch a fractured jaw:

(1)—The word "fren" means foreign.
Can he who expounds God's most Holy Word Find time to study politics? Absurd!
Then why, ye softs, why try to interpose Duties, which each the other will transpose.
Amend your course, let reason guide your sail
Instead of passion, with its wrecking gale,
And thus good morals to humanity instill:
Fill heart and soul with God, and love, good will:
Let politics and all the minor duties go—There're other men to study them you know.
Each has his work—yours is of most import
For it all other duties does support.
Thus steal not from the time which God has given.
But prepare as many souls as possible for Heaven!

VI. William Wood Shuler, bn. in Findlay, O., Jan. 9, 1861. Mrs. Mary Clift Marks, Sept. 4, 1883. She was born in La Salle Co., Ill., Sept. 30, 1863. Mr. Shuler's mother died when he was but eight months old, and he was then taken by his Grandfather Abraham Funck, with whom he lived until he was three years old. His oldest sister Mary would often come over to see her little baby brother for whom she had formed a warm maternal-like attachment. One day, when about to return to her father's house after one of these visits, she managed to get the little fellow away from the old people without their noticing that she had gone off with him, and gaining strength and courage from her success, she actually carried him off to her father's home, from whence no amount of persuasion or threats could induce her to let him go, and therefore he remained with his father. He was by nature studious and at the age of nineteen he graduated from the Findlay Schools (Normal Dept.) The next two years he spent in teaching school in Findlay, O., at the end of which time he became of age, and then, like other young men, took Horace Greeley's advice and went west in the spring of 1882 to the state some call the "Italy of America," locating at Hutchinson, Kan. Six miles west of this promising city he "took up a Homestead," working on his "Claim" in the summer, and teaching school in the winter, while his "spare" time was spent in reading law, which profession he had determined to adopt as the hope of his future. In 1883 he was married to Mary, the accomplished daughter of Enoch C. Marks, a prosperous farmer and stockman, of Reno Co., Kan. In Jan., 1889, Mr. Shuler proved up on his claim, and on St. Valentine's day, 1889, he sold off all his personal effects, and started for his boyhood home, Findlay, Ohio, on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1889, where he intended to complete his law reading and be admitted to the practice of his profession under the laws of the state of Ohio. A year and six months were spent in further preparation, and in June, 1890, he was admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court of Ohio, and immediately began the practice of the profession, to attain which he had labored diligently for eight years. He purchased a little home for himself and family in Findlay, and no doubt has permanently located there. Ch. of God. Children:
PHANGONIA Mennonite Meeting-House.

VII. Sarah G. Landes, bn. Dec. 13, 1866; died May 15, 1898. Mrd. Daniel Heebner. P. O., Kulpsville, Pa. Farmer. Menn. Children: Jacob, Abraham, Albert, Horace, Mary. The death of Mrs. Heebner by drowning was a very sad occurrence, and took place on Sunday, May 15, 1898. At about 11 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Heebner and their five children, and Allen, son of Cyrus Clemmer, of Hatfield, in a covered express wagon left the Heebner home to visit Mrs. Heebner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Landes, a short distance north of Mainland. As they approached the crossing of the Skippack creek Mr. Heebner saw that the bridge was entirely covered and surrounded by water. His horse did not want to follow the roadway to the bridge, but Mr. Heebner urged him on. At the same time Mrs. Heebner urged her husband to go ahead, she being well acquainted with the creek and the crossing at that point. As the bridge was reached Mr. Heebner tried to guide the horse to the left, but could not.
There being no railing on the upper side, there was no means of telling how near the edge was, and the next instant the horse went off the bridge into the rushing waters. Mr. and Mrs. Heebner and their daughter Mary were thrown headlong into the stream. The horse tore out of the shafts and was carried by the current under the bridge, as was also Mrs. Heebner and the little child which she held, and this was the last seen of them alive. Mr. Heebner managed to get hold of a wheel of the wagon and saved himself. Horace, one of the boys, made an opening in the rear cover of the wagon and got out on the bridge, the other boys also managed to get out on the bridge and safe to land, and the horse also reached the shore, but the wife and child had entirely disappeared. By this time a number of people had hurried to the scene and search at once began for the bodies of the drowned mother and child, which was kept up until night. The stream as far as Mainland was thoroughly searched. About 7 o’clock Benjamin A. and Sheridan A. Metz found the body of the child washed upon some brush along the bank below the residence of J. C. Landis. They took the body to the home of Mr. Landis. Early on Monday morning search began for the body of the woman by a large number of people. By noon nearly 300 people were counted along the creek at Mainland. Several boats with men and poles went down stream for two miles carefully searching every foot of ground without success. They, however, had passed the body, which was found by Henry G. Metz at a quarter to one o’clock lodged along the bank near the residence of Isaiah Garges, completely covered with brush and rubbish. It lay about a hundred yards farther down than where the child was found. The body was removed to the yard of Mr. Garges. It had lain in the water 25 hours. Benjamin A. Metz conveyed the body to the desolate home where the sorrowing husband and relatives were in waiting and relieved to know that the body had been recovered. The child’s age was 2 years, 10 months and 27 days. The mother’s, 30 years, 6 months and 2 days. At the double funeral an immense concourse of people were in attendance, from 1200 to 1500. Interment at the Plain Mennonite meeting house. Revs. Jacob E Moyer, Christian Allebach, Jonas Mininger, H. S. Bower, Michael Moyer and Josiah Clemmer conducted the services.

VI. Aaron Haste, bn. Feb. 19, 1842; died Aug. 21, 1864. He enlisted July 10, 1862, in Co. B., 32nd Wis. Vol. Inf., and was in the Army of the West under Gen. Sherman, and was with Gen. Sherman’s raid in Mississippi, and with that army until the siege of Atlanta when he was shot by a sharp shooter, while in his capacity as corporal he was relieving the men in the rifle pits in the early morning. He was buried at Marietta, Ga.

Col. Haste’s early childhood was spent at the place of his birth, but before he was five years of age his parents removed to Waukegan, Illinois. From there they afterwards moved into the country and were engaged in farming at that place until 1856 when they again removed, this time to Waupaca Co., Wis. Here they lived happily in their rural home for many years. During the winter months George, together with his sisters
JOHN W. MEYERS.
and brothers, would attend the country public schools, while in the summer he would do—well—the work of an honest, industrious farmer boy. At school, notwithstanding the meagre facilities for mental discipline then to be had, he made a record for improvement and progressiveness which even at that early period presaged the career that afterwards followed. When on the farm, although he aspired to different pursuits, yet he went about his work with that degree of energy and with that spirit of earnestness which never fails to bring success. Such were his early advantages, such the surroundings and opportunities that helped strengthen and invigorate him for the active work of life. At the early age of fifteen he started out to do for himself. Thus early in life he started out to meet the world, and the world was ready to receive him. The active and the faithful never fail of their reward. Going to Valparaiso, Ind., where he still resides, in 1860, he took a clerkship in a dry goods store, working hard and receiving small compensation for his services. For four years he served in this capacity, and during that time by his manliness, deportment and business tact, he won the fullest confidence, not only of his employer but of his associates and the general public as well. But during these years the great civil conflict was raging. Deluged in blood, the giant powers of the North and South were arrayed against each other and spending their deadly force. It was then, loyal to the institutions of his country and true to the promptings of his heart, that he gave up his position and went forth in the great struggle for right. He enlisted with Co. C, 138th Indiana Vol., May 25, 1864, serving in the Army of the Cumberland which campaigned through middle Tennessee and Alabama. Wherever duty called, there was he ever ready to respond; and for unflagging courage and steadfastness was he known alike to his comrades and superiors, each of whom found in him a cheering companion and friend. He was discharged with the rank of corporal Oct. 5, 1864. Returning to Valparaiso in 1866, he again engaged in the capacity of a clerk, but this time with a hardware establishment. So faithful was he in the service of his employer that after a five years' engagement he was admitted to a partnership. The business of the partners prospered, and for over two decades by wise management, judicious and honest dealings with the people, their enterprise gradually assumed larger proportions. In 1892, Col. Haste purchased his partner's interest in the concern, thereby assuming entire ownership and control. Thus he advanced step by step from a clerkship to the head of one of the largest business enterprises in his city. It is an example of prosperous growth, of activity and thrift well worthy of emulation. Col. Haste not only stands as sole owner of a large and prosperous establishment, but has other interests as well. He has a lovely home which is presided over by a devoted wife. In short, he is one of the city's substantial and most esteemed citizens. In 1882 he enlisted in the state militia and served three years as Captain of Company C, 3rd Regiment Infantry Indiana Legion. From this rank he was promoted to that of Battalion Major, serving in this capacity for two years. He afterwards served as Regimental Major two years and was then again promoted to the rank of Colonel, which office he held for three years. In each of these positions he displayed rare military skill and he discharged his official duties with that degree of credit that has been so characteristic of the acts of his life. His military record, no less than his record as a citizen, stamps him as a man of superb courage, of moral strength, and as a man who is unwilling to remain idle when there is a higher plane to be reached. Early in life he united with the Methodist Episcopal church, of which he has always been an active member and his influence for good has never ceased to be felt. He is a member of the Knights of Pythias and served four years as Lieutenant Colonel of the uniformed rank. His voice is also heard in the councils of the Masonic order to which he is a conservative and valued adherent. Although he has just rounded out his fiftieth year, yet his physical condition gives promise of many useful years to come. By perseverance, diligence and indomitable energy he has pushed himself forward from the unknown unaided boy to the full dignity of matured manhood surrounded by affluence honorably acquired, and more than all he has won for himself a name of spotless and unquestioned integrity.

VI. Richard A. Haste, \textit{bn. Dec. 2, 1856}, in a log shanty situated among the pines of Waupaca Co., Wis. Extreme poverty both of purse and opportunities was the lot of all the pioneers of the '50's. A few months' school in the winter months constituted his opportunity for education until he became thirteen years old when he went to Valparaiso, Ind., where by working during vacation and doing chores for his board, he managed to attend the city schools three years. At the age of sixteen years he began teaching school. In 1876 he entered the Normal School at Valparaiso, graduating in 1878. The years 1879 and 1880 he spent teaching in Illinois. During the latter year he was elected president of the Kansas State Normal School at Concordia, Kan., which position he resigned to accept the principalship of the Streator High School, Streator, Ill. Here he remained two years, when he entered the Law School of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, completing the law course in 1885. He immediately located in Wichita, Kan., in the practice of law. The great boom of 1886 and 1887 enabled him to amass quite a fortune (some $40,000) in real estate speculations which was duly lost in the following reaction. In 1887 he was married to Sarah Atherton. During the year 1887 he was elected professor of law in the Garfield University, which position he held until his removal to West Superior, Wis., in 1891, since which time he has been engaged in the practice of law at that place. He has never held any public office. His only experience in politics was in Kansas where he ran for the Legislature on the Republican ticket in 1888 and was defeated. Mr. Haste has also some local reputation as a writer of fiction and poetry. He is the author of a political drama, in three parts, entitled "To the Victor Belong the Spoils," which has been published in pamphlet form, and some after dinner poems that have also been published, and which speak well of his ability as a writer. He has also a work of fiction under way, but which will not be ready for publication for about two years yet. One child.

Co., was educated in the schools of Lower Salford Twp., and taught in Salford and Skippack townships for two winters, beginning when he was eighteen years of age. He attended one session of the West Chester State Normal School, and one session at Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa. In May, 1881, he entered the office of Dr. Samuel Wolf at Skippack to read medicine, and entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania in October of the same year, graduating in May, 1884, from the Medical Department with the degree of M. D. and in June, 1884, from the auxiliary department of medicine, with the degree of B. S. In June, 1884, he entered upon the practice of medicine at North Wales, Pa., and continued in active practice there until November, 1893, when he sold his practice there and removed to Philadelphia, to pursue post graduate studies in the Department of Philosophy and in the Department of Hygiene, in order to fit himself more thoroughly for the exacting duties of his profession. He was married to Annie S., oldest daughter of Joseph F. and Kate Hallman. June 5, 1884. Trinity Ref. church. Skippack, Pa. No issue.

miller in the Maitland Valley Roller Mills, of Listowel, Perth county, Ont., Canada. In 1888 the firm increased their business by purchasing the Victoria Roller Mills, of Palmerton. Mr. Meyers was left in control of the former, and his partner assumed control of the latter. The water works of the town of Listowel also belong to Mr. Meyers, and have been operated by him since 1891. As he and his son Josephus buy all kinds of grain, they purchased in 1892 a large elevator in Listowel, and further increased their business by leasing in 1894 the Oatmeal Mills of Palmerton, with the privilege of buying. Besides carrying on his own private enterprises, Mr. Meyers has always been identified with matters pertaining directly to the public. While living on his farm he was for some time a member of the township council, and later of the Listowel council, until he accepted the contract to furnish the town with water. The subject of this sketch was received as a minister on probation by the Mennonite Brethren in Christ, at the Annual Conference held at Dixons Hill, Ont., in June, 1880. He took charge of Nottawasaga Mission, where he continued his labors until Mar. 1882, when he was appointed to the Berlin charge, remaining two years. He was then appointed editor of the Gospel Banner and Evangelium-Panier, by the General Conference, in which capacity he served three years; then took charge of Elmwood Mission for five months. The following year he took no work on account of ill health. In 1890 the Annual Conference appointed him to Bethel circuit where he served four years. In the spring of 1894 he was assigned to Alberta Mission, N. W. T., Canada, his present field of labor.

IV. Sarah Detweiler, bn. in Montg. Co., Pa., Sept. 14, 1782; died Mar. 22, 1851. Mrd. Peter Heckler. He was bn. Dec. 27, 1770; died Jan. 22, 1847. Peter Heckler was a farmer and lived on his farm on the Skippack, above Mainland, where Benjamin Ruth now lives. He was the son of George Heckler. His father used to call him “Honest Peter,” because he could be trusted for honesty. Sarah Detweiler was a young girl when her father died, after which she lived with her uncle, John Detweiler, for a time. At the time of her marriage with Peter Heckler, she was living at John Lederach’s. She, in all probability, was a handsome girl, as it is said she was still good looking when she was old. Mr. Heckler held the Dunkards in derision and called them “water creepers,” but after he died, his wife, Sarah, was baptized through the ice in the Indian Creek. Children: Jacob, Abraham, Henry, Joseph, Christiana, Michael, Sarah.

V. Jacob Heckler, bn. Dec. 20, 1800; died Jan. 5, 1890. Mrd. Barbara Delp, daughter of Abraham Delp, of Franconia. She died Nov. 18, 1860, aged 66 years, 1 month and 27 days. Mr. Heckler purchased a farm adjoining that of his father-in-law, where he lived until he was old, when he came with his son to Harleysville where he died. One child.

VI. Abraham Heckler mrd. Magdalena Price, daughter of Elder William Price, dec’d. She died July 2, 1891; aged 58 years, 6 months and 20 days. Mr. Heckler, while out gunning for squirrels July 1, 1857, accidentally fell, discharging the contents of his gun into his elbow, and would have bled to death had he not soon received help. It was found necessary to amputate the (right) arm, disabling him from work ever after. One child.

V. Abraham Heckler, bn. Nov. 13, 1801; died Aug. 1, 1885. Married Sarah Detweiler, daughter of Abraham Detweiler, of Worcester, Pennsylvania. She died October 2, 1882, aged 82 years, 5 months and 29 days. Farmer. Lived on their farm of 90 acres, below Kulpsville, on the Towamencin Creek, now owned in part by Jacob Rosenberger. In their old age they lived on a corner lot in Kulpsville, which they owned, and there died. Menn. Children: Eli, Mary, John, Peter, Sarah, Susan, Reuben, Israel, Abraham, Jacob.

VI. Eli Heckler, bn. June 3, 1825; died July 15, 1894. Mrs. Annie Drake, daughter of Joseph Drake. She died while on a visit to her son, Joseph Heckler, at Sellersville, Pa., Nov. 10, 1886, aged 57 years, 1 month and 5 days. Mr. Heckler kept store in Franconiaville for some time, after which he kept a hotel in Philadelphia some years. In later years he kept a toll-gate on the Bethlehem turnpike several miles below Sellersville. He was unfortunate in business and became poor. One child.

Lived on their farm where Henry R. Landis now lives, in Lower Salford Twp., for about 44 years. Children: James, Charles, Jesse, Sarah, Mary, Joseph.

Mr. Heckler in early life taught school for 22 years, and is a local antiquarian of note. He is author of a history of Lower Salford township, published at Harleysville in 1888. He is also author of a history of the Heckler family, and of "Ecclesianthum," or a Song of the Brethren. He has also for many years been a newspaper correspondent and has contributed to the following papers: the Neutralist, a German paper in Skippack, the North Wales Record, Lansdale Reporter, Montgomery Transcript, and Harleysville News, and at the present time writes regularly every week for the Lansdale Reporter and the Harleysville News. For some years he also contributed much to the German Baptist church papers, viz: Gospel Visitor, Christian Family Companion, Brethren at Work, Primitive Christian and Gospel Messenger. He also composed a number of poems, to one of which we give place, entitled,

THREE SCORE.

Full three score miles my journey on Have I been traveling now,
From Tropic isles and sunny skies
To Arctic hills of snow.
How many miles among these hills
My journey yet may be,
Until I can no farther go,
Is quite unknown to me.

My pilgrimage in all this land,
Through dark and thorny vales,
Has often been on barren sand
In strong tempestuous gales,
With cloudy skies and thunderstorms
Thick gathering overhead,
And threatening me with false alarms,
With danger, fear and dread.
Like winter on the Arctic hills
The frosts are on my brow,
Which seems to bring November chills Through all my being now.
My vision fails me where'er I be In this Autumnal haze,
The winter is awaiting me,
The winter of my days.

I have a home beyond these hills
Which I have never seen,
A home where neither frosts nor chills Disturb the smiling green.
They say the street is paved with gold,
The mansion large and fair,
And that the people, young and old,
Are very happy there.

Mr. Heckler was reared on a farm and received but a limited education. In arithmetic, however, he was pretty good, and at the age of 17 was admitted into Cassel's store at Harleysville as clerk. In January, 1854, Mr. Heckler was admitted as a partner in said store where he remained until 1861, when he withdrew from the store and went into the tobacco business, which eventually proved a failure. About the year 1871, Mr. Heckler removed with his family to Rock Creek, twelve miles west of Sterling, Ill., and a year or two later to Mount Carroll, same state, where he was called to the ministry about the year 1874. For several years after moving west he engaged in farming, but afterwards served as clerk in a store at Mount Carroll, Ill., for four or five years, when he removed his family to Nebraska. where they purchased a farm, which after farming for several years, they rented out and came east, spending about six months visiting friends and relatives, after which they returned west to Mount Carroll, Ill., and kept store for a year or two, and then sold out and returned to their farm near Elmwood, Cass Co., Neb. In the meantime his boys grew up and went into business for themselves, and having many calls to preach, which made it impossible for him to run his farm himself, others performed that service for him until 1894, when he rented his farm out and moved to Alvo, a small place in the same county, and devotes all his time to the ministry. Mr. Heckler belongs to the German Baptist church and has been appointed or employed by the Missionary Board to fill those many calls for preaching and to organize churches where it is advisable all along the northern and western frontier of Nebraska. He has been ordained to the office of Bishop and has full power to organize churches and to do church work of all kinds. Children: Irwin, Horace, Jesse, John, William, Mary.

V. Michael Heckler, bn. Apr. 14, 1813. Mrd. Hannah Rittenhouse. She died Nov. 13, 1886, aged 72 years, 2 months and 21 days. Several years after their marriage they moved to Lancaster Co., Pa., where his brother, Henry, was already living, and some time later the brothers changed residences, Michael and his family moved into the house formerly occupied by Henry, the latter having built himself a new house. While Michael lived in the former home of his brother Henry, one of their cats got into the habit of climbing up the fire corner into an open place in the wall where she would sit and whine; so one day his wife told Michael to get that cat down that was always sitting there and whining, and Michael in trying to get the cat, got hold of a bag of money, containing one hundred dollars, after which the cat came down of her own accord and never went up again. Michael went to see Henry about the money. At first he did not recollect that he had ever put any money up there, but thought because he had formerly lived in the house he ought to have the half of it. Michael was sure it was not his money and the longer Henry considered the matter the more did he think it was all his, especially when he saw the bag, which he thought he recognized as having been his and, therefore, he claimed all of the money, but gave Michael $5.00 for his honesty. Other people thought it belonged to Michael more than to Henry. After a residence of several years in Lancaster Co., Michael and his family returned to Lower Salford Twp., and several years later they purchased a farm in Montgomery Twp., Montgomery Co., where they lived many years and succeeded well. DESCENDANTS OF HENRY FUNK, SON OF BISHOP HENRY FUNCK.

II. Henry Funk, b. in Montg. Co., Pa., ——; died in Rockingham Co., Virginia, ——. Mrs. Barbara Showalter.
Henry Funk inherited the farm of 166 acres that his father purchased "of ye Mannor Lands on ye upper part of a branch of Perckyoming." Just where this farm was located is not known, but was no doubt some where in Bucks county, probably in New Britain township. As there is on record at Doylestown that letters of administration in the estate of Henry Funk were granted Sept.
24, 1783, who probably was the son of Bishop Henry Funck.
In 1786 he with all his family, except his eldest son Jacob, moved to Virginia, where he lived, prospered and died.
From the following letter of Col. Daniel Hiester, Jr., to Dr. Joseph Gardner, member of the Council of Skippack Twp., furnished by James Y. Heckler, it is found that Henry Funk had also been a minister among the Mennonites for many years, but on account of his having taken the "test of State," was excluded from the Society, in like manner and for the same reason as was his brother Rev. Christian Funk. After which he seems to have continued to preach in connection with his brother, Rev.
Christian Funk, to the people known as the Funkites, until his removal to Virginia.

Hatfield, Pa., Sept. 2, 1895.
Rev. J. F. Funk, Editor and Publisher.

As you are publishing a history of the Funk family,
I send you the following letter which came under my notice quite recently. It ought by all means to find a place in your history. As it was written by Col. Hiester at the time of the Revolutionary war, it shows to some extent what delicate and perplexing questions some of the officers had to deal with, and in this case also how justly.

J. Y. HECKLER.

OCTOBER 4th, 1781.

TO DR. JOSEPH GARDNER, Member of Council, Skippack Township:

SIR:—The bearer hereof, Mr. Henry Funck, is going to Council with a complaint respecting a Demand of Substitute Fines made on him by Frederick Limback, Esqr., one of the Sub-Lients of Northampton County. The complaint, I confess, appears to me of a new Kind and Mr. Funck states it thus, that he (Mr. Funck) is a preacher and has been so for many years among the people called Menonists, but having taken the test of State and done a great deal of Business for the publick in the purchasing and milling way, was read out of that society; and as he is not now acknowledged a preacher by the Body of the society, Mr. Limback says he cannot consider himself such, and consequently Fines him, for neglect of duty in the militia, altho' he favors many non-jurer preachers of the same people. Mr. Funck can inform you more particularly of the circumstances, but I know that he and his brother Christian Funck (a remarkably strong whig), are preaching to the few well affected of that society; that he is a man of good character, (so think there is no reason of reading him out of the society, but his attachment to the cause of this country) and that he has done much publick Business. Upon the whole, I think it a new Doctrine that a man sho'd be unprivileged because he is disowned by a people for his complying with the Laws of his country, and beg you will be Kind enough, if you find his complaint reasonable, to see him justice done as far as possible.

I am, with real Esteem, Sir,

Your very H'bl.

DANIEL HIESTER, JR.

Of the personal history of Henry Funk, the following sketch has been furnished by a grandson, Rev. Benjamin Funk, of Singers Glen, Va.
"Men are very prone at the present day to repeat what was long ago said, 'If we had lived in the days of our fathers, we would not have permitted their bones to fall into their graves and buried out of sight, unmarked, unnumbered and unsung.' With but few exceptions, however, the same may be said to the generation now living that was said to the scribes and Pharisees, 'As your fathers did, so do ye.' But it is a matter of congratulation that some are turning attention to family genealogy. Whilst we lament the meagre and fragmentary character of the data, which, like the relics of upturned grave yards, lie strewn upon the ground or buried beneath its surface, and which require great labor and time to gather up, still perhaps enough may be found to show in whose loins the members of the same great family may have reposed one hundred and seventy years ago.

"The Funk family in America have sprung from an ancestry whose lines are well marked as far as they can be traced. These lines, however, are mainly found within the limits of agricultural industry, genuine morality, and sincere earnestness in the performance of the duties of the Christian religion, coupled with a firm faith in its saving power. No fame of arms-bearing or military skill has ever been attached to any bearing the name of Funk. The records of American history, at least, are silent, and know not the name. But other records are also silent. The state prison of Virginia has never incarcerated a convict of the name of Funk belonging to the line descended from the pioneer of the Virginia Valley. But the records of the Christian church, especially of that branch of it known as the Mennonite church, are alive with the names of pioneers and heroes in the several generations of Funks that have lived since the establishment of the church in America. First and foremost among these stands the name of Henry Funck, whom fancy pictures as a tall man, having a large and well proportioned frame, very muscular, with dark hair and eyes, a face indicating great firmness and resolution, and a body capable of enduring great hardships. How nearly this fancied representation of him may correspond with truth, cannot be said. But of this there is sure proof, that he was a man of great mental and moral force.
"His German writings which his grandson Joseph read much, and to which he often alluded in the presence of his children as being the production of their great grandfather, were eminently pious and full of love to God and man.

"Of Henry Funck, of Indian Creek notoriety, whose memory is embalmed in the heart of Franconia township, Montgomery county, Pennsylvania, nothing more need be said. But stepping downward along the banks of "the river of time," we find a stone sacredly engraven to the memory of his son Henry, the progenitor of the family in the Virginia Valley. Of his early days little is known; of his later life, when he had become the father of thirteen children whose names are well known, we are better informed.

"About fifty-two years ago his son Christian Funk went to Pennsylvania to hunt up, if possible, some former acquaintances and visit the old home. He found what he sought. But few, however, of those whom he had known in youth, were to be found; but in speaking of his trip he mentioned having met some who were still remembered by relatives in Virginia, and he was especially interested in telling about the old homestead and the mill owned by his grandfather.

"About the close of the Revolutionary war he disposed of his property, and in the year 1786, he with all his family removed to the Virginia Valley, except his eldest son Jacob, who remained in Pennsylvania. They settled in Rockingham county, about eight miles north of the city of Harrisonburg."

In early life Mr. Funk was a member of the Hereford Mennonite church of which he was a deacon for seventeen years. Always a devotedly religious man with strong convictions of the need of a change of heart, he was finally brought into the full light of the assurance of his salvation. After this change in his spiritual nature, he connected himself with the Evangelical Association church, in which he labored as an exhorter and class leader until his death. Before he passed away he had the desire of his heart to see every one of his eight children with their mother brought into the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ as their Savior from sin, and so passed away triumphantly into the heavenly, eternal home. Children: Joseph, Caroline, Albert, Medora, Mary, Ida, Henry, Leah, Flora, Ella.

VI. Joseph E. Funk, bn. June 10, 1848. Married Ella Stucker, Aug. 2, 1873. P. O., Akron, O. His early life was spent on the farm and teaching school. He studied for one year in the Mennonite Seminary at Wadsworth, Ohio, after which he was steward of the institution for several years. He is at present lumber inspector at the Diamond Match Co., Akron, Ohio. Meth. Ep. One child.

VII. Leah Funk, bn. July 20, 1877.

VI. Caroline E. Funk, bn. in Berks Co., Pa., Sept. 14, 1850. Mrd. Oliver S. Schultz, son of Joel and Leah Schultz, Dec. 29, 1871. Mrs. Schultz was converted in 1874, and the husband in 1876. In 1879 the dear Lord revealed himself to her as her Healer and Physician of spirit, soul and body, and she was healed of an incurable disease of eight years' standing. Through the wonderful work of God in her life, she consecrated health, strength, time, talent, and all they had and hoped for, for time and eternity, to the work of the Lord.
In 1881 they sold their farm and dedicated the proceeds to the Lord's work. In 1882, April 1, they left their home in Pennsylvania and went to New York, entering upon city mission work in connection with Bethany Institute. May 13, 1882, they went to Brooklyn into a definite work for God among the unsaved, and also among the sick. In the fall of the same year they entered upon the mission work of the Mennonite church in Indian Territory with their brother, Rev. A. E. Funk, and remained nearly a year. May 12, 1883, they came back to New York and opened the Home for the students of the N. Y. Missionary Training College. In 1886 they opened an Orphanage work in connection with the work already begun.

This is a work of faith like that of George Mueller, in England, where God supplies all needs in answer to the prayer of faith alone without any solicitation for money for the purpose. Already God has given a permanent Home for this work at Collegepoint, L. I., where 46 are daily cared for by Him.

Wm. Rev. Albert E. Funk, bn. in Berks Co., Pa., June 25, 1852. Mrd. Catharine Clemmer, daughter of Rev. Samuel G. Clemmer (dec'd), Oct. 14, 1883. Mr. Funk attended the common schools of his district until the age of sixteen. His seventeenth year was spent in the Boyertown Academy. In 1869 he entered the Mennonite Seminary at Wadsworth, Ohio, where he remained until 1872. Here, at the age of twenty, he was converted and at once began to labor for the spiritual welfare of his family and several of them were soon converted and became active Christians. After his return from the Mennonite Seminary, he taught (1872-73) the district school near his home where his early school days were spent. He then spent one term in the Franklin and Marshall College Academy at Lancaster, Pa. In the beginning of 1874 he was called to the pastorate of the first Mennonite church at Philadelphia, and was ordained at the same time and place. Of this church he remained the pastor for eight years, where he enjoyed the blessings of a successful ministry of the Gospel, and during the last year of his pastorate (1882) a new brick church was erected at a cost of $9,000. From October, 1882, to June, 1883, was spent in the Mennonite missions among the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians in the Indian Territory. He then became pastor of the Mennonite church at Germantown, Pa., serving the same for nearly a year, 1883 to 1884. In 1885 he removed to New York City and entered the work of the Gospel Tabernacle, Rev. A. B. Simpson, pastor. During the first year he was the associate pastor of this church. The following year (1886), in addition to his other duties, he was appointed secretary of the New York Missionary Training College in which he is also a teacher and having the spiritual oversight of the same, in which relation he still continues.

VII. Jacob Meschter, bn. Feb. 10, 1891.

VI. Mary A. Funk, bn. May 30, 1856. She was converted when eleven years old. At the age of twenty-two she consecrated her life to God and entered the work of Dr. Cullis, in Boston, as nurse, later on as matron in Cancer Home. In 1881 she went to New York, entering upon city mission work in connection with Bethany Institute. In 1883 she entered Bellevue Hospital for two years where she graduated as trained nurse. In 1886 she entered the Missionary Training College, of N. Y., as student and assistant matron. In 1888 she went to China where she is now matron of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Home in Wuhu, China.

VI. Ida Funk, bn. Apr. 1, 1861; died Apr. 18, 1862.

VI. Leah E. Funk, bn. May 16, 1864. Mrd. Ambrose K. Schultz, Dec. 28, 1885. Mrs. Schultz was converted at the age of fourteen years. In 1885 she went to New York where she was led to see Christ as a satisfying portion and consecrated her life to God. In 1888 they entered the Berachah Orphanage as Matron and Assistant Supt. of the Home, which place they still hold. Children:

VI. Alma Schultz, bn. Nov. 10, 1887.

VI. Flora E. Funk, bn. Dec. 19, 1866. Leaving public school at the age of seventeen, she taught school one term, after which she attended the West Chester S. N. S. for two years. In 1887 she went to N. Y., to teach in Berachah Orphanage. The following year she took the position of Assistant Matron in the Missionary Training College. She was converted at the age of fourteen and during her stay at the College consecrated her life to God to be used in His service. In 1889 she was married to Daniel Y. Schultz, son of Rev. Edward Schultz. He graduated from the Kutztown S. N. S. in 1886, and taught school until 1890 when they returned to N. Y., she to resume her former work, and he to enter the College, besides doing mission work and for a time had charge of a church in Brooklyn. The second year he was also employed as a teacher in the College. Through a severe illness in 1891-'92, the Lord revealed Himself to him as his healer and both were led to consecrate their lives more fully than ever before to uphold Jesus to a dying world.

VI. Ella C. Funk, bn. Mar. 25, 1870. She was converted at the age of eleven years, and after the death of her father she went to N. Y., where she fully consecrated her whole life to God. In 1886 she attended the West Chester S. N. S., after which she returned to N. Y. where she attended public school and a private high school. In 1888 she received a call for foreign mission work in China. The way was opened the following year and in October, 1889, she left for China. In 1891 she was married to Rev. Albert F. H. Saw, of England, a missionary in China, with whom she labored under the Christian Mission Society until his death which occurred May 22, 1898. No issue.

V. Aaron F. Shelly, M. D., bn. at Milford, Pa., Feb. 10, 1823; died in Philadelphia, Oct. 13, 1883. Mrs. Elizabeth Strassburger, daughter of Rev. John A. and Catharine (Stout) Strassburger, Mar. 12, 1846. She was bn. in Rockhill Twp., Feb. 25, 1826; died in Philadelphia, Nov. 9, 1880. Mr. Shelly received a common school education in Bucks Co., and taught school upon reaching manhood. After marriage he kept a general store at Sellersville, Pa. for several years. He then removed his family to Philadelphia to attend lectures at Jefferson Medical College, and graduated from that institution. He practiced his profession for several years at Milford Square, Pa. He afterwards removed to Philadelphia where he enjoyed a large and successful practice in medicine until his death. He introduced to the medical profession the remedy named Ingluvin, which is now largely used throughout the civilized world. Dr. Shelly was a prominent member of the Reformed church, and an elder for many years, and a liberal and active worker. Mrs. Shelly was also a member of the Reformed church, and performed a large share of work in the "Ladies' Aid Society," and other movements in her church. Children: Mary, John, Rebecca, Oliver.

Alexander S. Hiester, in Philadelphia, May 9, 1867. He died in Reading, Pa., in 1884. Mrs. Heister resides in Paris, France. One child.

VII. Albertus Shelly Hiester, bn. in Philadelphia, Pa., marked musical talents from his Shelly ancestry. When but eight years of age he began to play in public. In 1883 he played for Adeline Patti, the world's famous singer, and received from her a testimonial letter and a present of a lovers'-knot gold ring. On the 27th of May, 1891, he was invited by Mrs. President Harrison to the White House at Washington, D.C., where was given a reception, at which were present the President of the United States, several members of the Cabinet and other distinguished persons. Mrs. Harrison presented him with a diamond scarf pin. The young artist is now in Paris pursuing his musical studies. His professional name is Bertie Shelly.

Mr. Dotterer received an academic education in Norristown, Pa. Learned the trade of printing and taught school in 1861-1862. In 1862 he removed to Philadelphia and has since been employed as accountant and business manager by mercantile and financial firms and corporations. He is now (1891) engaged in a responsible position in the office of City Treasurer W. Redwood Wright. Mrs.
Dotterer is a graduate of the Philadelphia public school.
She has devoted much time to charitable and religious work, notably to the Children's Country Week Association, and the Philadelphia Society for organizing charity, of Phila., Pa., and to the Women's Missionary Society of the Reformed church. After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Dotterer took a three months' trip to Europe, visiting principal points of interest in England, France, Italy, Germany, Switzerland and Belgium. Since then they have traveled in the United States and Canada. Mr. Dotterer has written a number of works relating to the local history of Montgomery Co., Pa., and has made some translations from the German, which have been printed in the local press. VII. Nora Belle Brunk, bn. Sept. 15, 1874; died Apr. 15, 1892, aged 17 years and 7 months. Her life on earth was a short one, but it was full of loving deeds and kind words. Three years before her death she united with the Mennonite church and was a faithful and devoted worker for the Lord, adorning her life with Christian humility, godly piety and unaltering zeal in the cause of Christ. By her earnestness and zeal and her loving gentle ways she endeared herself to every one, and her loss is sadly felt in the church and Sunday school and by her classmates and teachers at Mt. Clinton where she was attending school when she took sick.

Menn. Children: David, Daniel, Sarah, Mary. Mr. Brunk was naturally of a rugged constitution, which was broken by over-exertion, so that he did not enjoy good health for many years, and was a great sufferer much of his life. In 1869 he very wonderfully escaped an awful death. While engaged in removing an overshoot of a barn, the roof tilted, and he with roof, plates, and all came to the ground with a dreadful crash. Several men present with paled faces hastened to his help, but to their great surprise found him uninjured.

He then attended the Northern Indiana Normal School at Valparaiso, Ind., from April till November, 1880. He then began teaching at Ransom, Ill., a village school of two departments, where he taught until the spring of 1882, when he took a trip East, and in June decided to try the entrance examinations of Cornell University, at Ithaca, N. Y. These he passed and in the following September he entered the University and passed up several branches. In the spring of 1883, he returned to Ransom, Ill., to teach. He taught a year at Ransom, Ill., after which he started East to finish his course of study. By hard work and passing up by actual examinations some branches in the course, he was able in two years more to pass creditably on 200 hours of work while only 180 were required for graduation. Hence in June, 1886, he graduated at Cornell University in the Scientific Course, in Agriculture with honors, on his 108 paged Thesis. Upon graduation he became principal of the high school and graded school of Tonic, Ill., where he taught one year, being then (1887) elected Professor of Botany and Horticulture of the State Agriculture and Mechanical College of Texas, which he accepted at a salary of $1,200 per year. Here he remained three years with an increase of salary to $1,500. He was then elected to fill the same chair at the Maryland Agricultural College (1890), being Horticulturist of the Agricultural Experiment Station and Botanist and Horticulturist of the College. While in Texas, he was editor, for a year, of the Southern Horticultural Journal, published at Dallas, Texas, and in which he held an interest until it was sold to the American Garden, of New York City, where it was merged into the American Garden, of which he has for a time been an Associate Editor. Later he graduated in medicine and practiced his profession for two years in Chicago, Ill. He recently moved to Dixon, Ill., where he is now an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist. Meth. Ep. ch. South.

VI. Anthony J. Showalter, bn. in Rockingham Co., Va., May 1, 1858. Mrd. Callie Walser, Nov. 13, 1881. P. O., Dalton, Ga. Music teacher, author and publisher. He studied with Unseld, Root, Palmer, etc., and has also enlarged his experience by travel abroad, studying the methods of the leading teachers and conductors in the musical centres of Europe. He is the author of 50 music books of which he has sold more than a million copies. Of these many books the most popular have been "Class, Choir and Congregation," "Work and Worship," "Perennial Songs," "Glad Evangel," "Revival Choir," "Showalter's New Harmony and Composition," "Song-Land Messenger, No. 2," "Lamp and Light," and "Highway to Heaven." These and other very successful books, together with The Musical Teacher, which he has edited for fifteen years, and the many sessions of the Southern Normal Musical Institute, of which Mr. Showalter has been principal since its first session in 1880, have made the name of this branch of the family a household word in hundreds of thousands of homes in all sections of the country, but especially so in the Southern and Southwestern states. Among the many prominent pupils of Mr. Showalter may be mentioned: his brother, J. Henry Showalter, of Ohio; J. D. Patton, E. B. Fowler and M. G. Barringer, of Alabama; J. Mooring York, H. H. Sewell, S. J. and F. Clark Perry, S. L. Howard and J. B. Moon, of Georgia; J. M. Bowman, Geo. B. Holsinger and J. H. Ruebush, of Virginia; Mrs. Emma Pitt, of Baltimore; Henry Newton, of Chicago; John J. Matthews, of Indian Territory; J. S. Hendricks, R. H. Cornelius, T. J. Kellum, Rev. E. F. Stanton, H. P. Clock, A. Eby, H. N. Lincoln, S. D. Thomason and R. D. Burleson, of Texas; W. H. Morris, of Missouri, and A. B. Little, of Arkansas. These and many others of Mr. Showalter's pupils are among the leading teachers and composers of sacred music in the states where they live, while their teacher is recognized as the foremost composer and teacher in the Southern states. Among his productions are many popular hymns and tunes. Elder in the First Presbyterian church of Dalton, Ga. Children:

VI. J. Henry Showalter, bn. at Cherry Grove, Rockingham Co., Va., Nov. 2, 1864. His distinctive life work, to the present, has been that of singer, teacher, composer and publisher of sacred music. And while he is a hard worker all along the line of his profession, his greatest delight is in singing sacred songs and he is a singer of unusual power and sweetness. While temporarily residing in East Tennessee, he was popularly known as the "Sweet Singer of East Tennessee." Born and reared on the farm, he early learned the habits of industry and they have never forsaken him in his professional work. His parents being of strong religious sentiments, he early sought a religious life, and at the age of seventeen united with the German Baptist church of which he is still an earnest member. His primary musical education was received from his father, who was for many years a prominent teacher of music. His voice closely resembles that of his father's, which is a high baritone and very full of musical quality. His professional life began when he was 19 years of age and has been a busy one. In the year 1886 while pursuing his work in the state of Ohio, he met and married Miss Emma, daughter of J. H. and Marguerette Brumbaugh, of Darke Co., Ohio, since which time his home has been at West Milton, O., where he now has quite a successful publishing house. He has been especially fortunate in having associated with him in his business efforts, men of strong mind and character, of whom we would mention Rev. J. H. Snow, of Knoxville, Tenn.; Judge John P. Davis, of Rome, Ga.; Rev. and Prof. E. S. Young, of North Manchester, Ind.; Prof. Geo. B. Holsinger, of Bridgewater, Va., and Prof. S. J. Perry, of Dalton, Ga., etc.

While he has been very busy teaching and singing, as well as looking after his publishing business, he has found time to edit a number of books, viz., "Vocal Music Reader," issued in 1889, "Choice Chorus Collection," issued in 1890, "Regal Singer," issued in 1891,
"Psalms, Hymns and Spiritual Songs, No. 1," issued in 1892, No. 2 of last named collection, in 1895. "Showalter's Vocal Studies," in 1896, "Psalms, Hymns and Spiritual Songs, No. 3," along with P., H. and S. S., Nos. 1, 2 and 3, combined, in 1897. The last named collection has become a great favorite among church and Sunday school workers and about 70,000 copies have been sold and ere the present year (1898) is gone, will have reached the 100,000 mark. Such under the blessings of God has been and is the life and labor of a young country boy who at present is engaged in a very successful season of normal work in the state of Alabama. No issue.

IV. Christian Funk, bn. in Rockingham Co., Va., Aug. 3, 1791; died in LaSalle Co., Ill., Aug. 29, 1856. Married Susanna Rodehafer in 1817. She was bn. in Rockingham Co., Va., Sept., 1799; died in LaSalle Co., Ill., Jan., 1889. They at first moved to near Staunton, Augusta Co., Va., where they lived until 1820, when they moved to Fairfield Co., O., and in 1850 to LaSalle Co., Ill., where they died. He was twice drafted during the war of 1812, and he and his father paid the fine of $80.00 each time. Blacksmith and farmer. Menn. Children: Abraham, John, William, Catharine, Henry, Lydia, Elizabeth.

Mr. Funk was admitted to the bar, Jan. 3, 1871, and practiced law until Jan. 1883, when owing to ill health, he abandoned the profession and engaged in farming and stock raising which he has followed ever since. In Nov., 1872, he was elected prosecuting attorney for Livingston Co., Ill., and was corporation attorney from 1873 to 1883. In 1882 he received the republican nomination as a candidate for Judge, but as the party at that time was in the minority he was defeated by 49 votes in a total of over 10,000. In May, 1890, he sold his farm in Livingston Co., and removed to Iowa Falls, Ia., and bought a farm adjoining the city where he now resides. A republican in politics, he has taken part on the stump in every campaign since 1860. He is also a Prohibitionist when that is an issue. He is strictly temperate in his habits, never having taken a chew of tobacco or smoked a cigar in his life. When nineteen years of age he joined the Congregational church, and recently connected himself with the Universalist church. Mr. Funk is a member of the Executive Committee of the state. He owns a little over 2,000 acres of land in Iowa, most of which he runs himself.

Mr. Funk left home at the age of fifteen and from that time until he became of age, he worked by the month in summer and went to school in winter. Later on he taught school and studied law alternately. He was admitted to the bar at Ottawa, Ill., by the Suprême Court of the state, with a class of twenty, Sept. 25, 1875. Practiced law at Fairbury, Ill., five months, then formed a partnership with his eldest brother, James H. Funk, then of Odell, Ill., who was at that time States Attorney of Livingston Co., and removed to Streator, Ill., in April, 1879, opening a law office at that place, and where he practiced until March, 1887, when he moved to Lakefield, Minn., where he now resides. He was for two years a member of the city council of Streator, Ill., and was prominent in local politics, being a leading Republican. He was elected county attorney, of Jackson Co., Minn., Nov., 1890, having the endorsement of all political parties. Was re-nominated by the Republicans in 1892, and elected over the combined forces of the Democratic and People's parties. He has been for five years a member of the school board, and is attorney for the village council of Lakefield, of which village he was the first mayor in 1887. He is a member of the Odd Fellows' organization, and has been Grand Representative both in Ill. and Minn., and is an elder in the Presby. ch. Children:

III. Susanna Funk, daughter of Henry Funk, was born Oct. 30, 1775. Married George Beery. During the latter part of her life she took much interest in her grandchildren and related to them many incidents of her early life. Among others were the following which were given by her grandson, George W. Beery. Her father, Henry Funk, was pressed into the service during the War of Independence, to do transportation service with his team.
The farmers in the eastern states at that time did their heavy hauling with four horses. He was very reluctant to accept this service and assist the army in this war. Finally Susanna said she would go with him and rode the saddle horse. As they were driving along a cannon ball struck the two horses on the lead, killing them both. This so shocked the father that he immediately determined to leave the service and go home, saying that he would refuse further service whatever the result might be.

In the vicinity where they lived, the Indians were still numerous and to some extent dangerous. The chief of the tribe was a very good friend of the family and told her father to watch his wigwam and whenever he should see no smoke issuing from it that they might know that there was trouble and to get themselves away. One morning after they had risen they noticed that there was no smoke from the wigwam of the chief. They took their horses and gathered together what they could and left the place. That same day the Indians started out on the warpath and destroyed everything that came in their way.

V. Rev. John M. Brenneman, born in Fairfield Co., Ohio, May 28, 1816; died Oct. 3, 1895. Married Sophia Good, June 1837. Minister and bishop of the Mennonite church. Children: Joseph, Susanna, Lydia, Anna, Henry, Moses, Manasseh, Catharine, Levi, George, Elizabeth, Magdalena. He with his wife united with the Mennonite church in Fairfield Co., Ohio, shortly after their marriage. In April 1844 he was chosen and ordained to the ministry of the Gospel. In the fall of 1848 he moved to Franklin County, where he resided a little over six years, and then in the spring of 1853 he moved to Allen Co., where he resided to the time of his death. In 1849 he was ordained to the office of bishop in Franklin County.

He was the father of twelve children, six sons and six daughters, of whom eight, three sons and five daughters survived him. There were also forty-five grandchildren of whom thirty-seven survived; and twenty-seven great-grandchildren of whom twenty-five survived.

He was an earnest, zealous laborer in the vineyard of the Lord, and the great purpose and concern of his life was the welfare and prosperity of the church which he loved, and the salvation of souls. He always was especially concerned for the salvation of his own children and grandchildren. So marked was his desire in this direction that even during the prime of his life he gave very little attention to his temporal affairs, but spent most of his time in the work to which the Master had called him and in the study of the Scriptures. During his last illness, he very frequently desired devotional exercises, and asked those who came to visit to pray with him, and on one occasion he desired that the prayer might be especially for the salvation of his children and grandchildren; and when his grandchildren came to see him, he would take them by the hand and admonish them to be good, or ask them if they would not be good, and often held them by the hand until they promised they would.

His disposition was to look rather on the dark than on the bright side of things—rather to the serious and solemn than to the enjoyable or glad aspect of things; and from this fact he often suffered intense grief and sadness of heart. Afflictions seemed to take so deep a hold on his mind, that sometimes it seemed as though they were too heavy for him to bear. When he saw members of the church becoming unfaithful, it caused him intense grief, and he would with tears plead with them, and try to win them back. When troubles and dissensions came up in the church, he was often greatly troubled and those who shared with him the fiery trials of the past forty-five years in the church well know of the tears he shed and the sorrows which he endured.
on account of the church and the part which those he dearly loved took in them.

One of the great afflictions of his life was the sudden death of his son Henry, who was instantly killed by lightning, during a thunder-storm, on August 28, 1872. His wife Sophia died thirteen years before he was called to his eternal rest. This also caused him great sorrow, but putting his trust in the Lord, he looked forward in an abiding hope—yes, as he said on two occasions during his last illness in a living hope, "Eine Lebendige Hoffnung."

About twenty years before he died he became subject to an affection of a paralytic nature and which gradually grew on him until it disabled him altogether for the work in which he was so deeply interested. During his last years he was very feeble in body, so that he could seldom even go to meeting, but his mind was strong and vigorous to the end. His last sickness was first malarial fever, of which he suffered about four weeks. During the last week of his life the disease turned to irritation of the bowels. He suffered patiently and without a murmur until death came to his relief.

On the morning before his death he requested to have sung the hymn, "Abide with me, fast falls the eventide," etc. A week before he died he was impressed with the thought that his end was near and requested that his daughter Annie should be sent for, made arrangements for his burial, and who should conduct the services, and named some of the hymns to be used, and especially requested that he should be buried in a quiet way without pomp or display, and without eulogy, so as not to give anyone the idea that he could be saved by good works, but alone through grace as the free gift of God.

His funeral services were held at the Salem meeting house on the 5th of October. His funeral was largely attended. The services were conducted by Bish. J. F. Funk, of Elkhart, Indiana, from the text, Deut. 5:29, which he himself had selected for the occasion some years ago. He was not only an earnest preacher, but also a diligent writer. He wrote a great many able and edifying articles in the Herald of Truth. His first work was the little book "Christianity and War," published in 1863 which has passed through several editions.
At the communion season in the spring of 1895 he was unable to attend the public services, but desired that the communion be given him at his home. This was done and was such a source of comfort to him that he shed tears of joy on the occasion.

"Plain Teachings," an excellent collection of his best articles, including several hymns, was published in 1876.

Thus, both by preaching and writing, did he seek to do his Master’s work and labor for the promotion of the cause. For a time he felt that he wanted to stay, that he might still be a comforter and an advisor to his children and their descendants. But before he died he could leave it all to God and said he was now fully resigned and willing to go.

VI. Henry A. Mumaw, M. D., was bn. near Winesburg, Holmes Co., O., Jan. 27, 1850. Attended the district schools until the age of sixteen when he engaged in the profession of teaching. Six years later, June 27, 1872, he was married to Malinda Blosser, of Hocking county, same state, when he settled in Elkhart, Ind., to engage in the printing business, which vocation he pursued for nearly fourteen years, when he matriculated for a course of lectures in Hahnemann Medical College, Chicago, graduating with honorable mention in February, 1896. He practiced two years in Nappanee, six months in Elkhart, and two years in Orrville, Ohio, when he returned to Elkhart, Ind. In the fall of 1894 he opened the Elkhart Institute, which was successfully conducted one year when his interests were merged in a stock company. In September, 1898, he opened the Elkhart Normal School and Business Institute which enrolled two hundred students in less than a year. Menn. Children:

V. Henry B. Brenneman, bn. in Fairfield Co., O., Aug. 12, 1831; died at Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 28, 1887, aged 56 years, 1 month and 16 days. He was mrd. to Matilda Blosser, Oct. 26, 1854. She was bn. Aug. 15, 1836; died Sept. 15, 1895, aged 59 years and 1 month. No issue. Menn. He served in the office of deacon twenty-three years. For a number of years he wrote for the "Children's Column" in the Herald of Truth, (published at Elkhart, Ind.) where he was known as "Brother Henry." Through his writings in the Herald, Words of Cheer, "Gems of Truth," a valuable little book written by him, and his correspondence in private letters, he endeared himself to many children and young persons, many of whom had never seen him personally. He was a great friend to the children and so great was his interest in them that almost every boy and girl he met on the street or in the country expected a kind word from him. He labored earnestly in the Sunday school, and regularly taught a class of boys till within a few weeks of his death. Their teacher is gone, but may his instructions in which he so often pointed them to Jesus live in their hearts, and obeying them may they so live that they may meet their teacher in heaven where he so often longed to be. He frequently gave earnest and instructive admonitions in the church services. About four or five years before his death he composed a beautiful hymn and set it to music. While this was being sung at his funeral service almost every one present was affected to tears. May we not hope that he has now gone to that "Home of the Blest" and now realizes the closing words of his hymn.

"When we get to that Home of the Blest,
From all pain to be free,
And with Jesus forever to rest,
Oh, how sweet it will be!

CHO.—Oh, that beautiful, beautiful land,
Is for you and for me!
There to be with the glorified band,
Oh, how sweet it will be!"

IV. Catharine Beery, bn. in Rockingham Co., Va., May 10, 1802; died May 23, 1877. Mrd. Nicholas Stemen in 1821. He was born May 11, 1802, in Green Co., Pa.; died Dec. 22, 1878. He emigrated with his parents to Fairfield Co., O., in 1803. He was a successful farmer, having accumulated a considerable fortune. He was a financier and a natural arithmetician, being able to compute mentally the most difficult problems more quickly and more accurately than when computed by others with paper and pencil. He was of more than ordinary intelligence. He was a member of the Mennonite church, being a faithful deacon in that denomination for many years. During all of his many and important business transactions he never endorsed another's note, neither did he ever ask for an endorsement save once, and then for the small amount of three dollars. Children: Daniel, Henry, Nicholas, Leah, Benoni, David, Catharine, George.

He would rather labor half of the night himself than have his children miss a day from school. Menn. Children: Anthony, Barbara, Christian, Susannah, Daniel, Nicholas, Nancy, Henry.

V. Anthony M. Stemen, bn. Jan. 14, 1833. Mrd. Mary Ann Baker in 1854. He died Mar. 10, 1874. She died in 1872. He entered the ministry in the U. B. church in 1859, and the regular itinerancy in 1860 in the Sandusky Annual Conference, and continued in the work of the ministry up to the time of his death. He was a very successful and able minister, but having a large family and a wife much afflicted, and receiving a small salary he did not prosper so far as this world is concerned. Frequently unable to own a horse, he would travel on foot to his appointments to preach. He died very poor, leaving nothing for his orphan children but the memories of his holy life and pious example. About six months before his death he united with the M. E. church and was appointed to the Leipsic circuit, Putnam Co., Ohio, but his health failed so that he never visited the circuit. Children:

V. Christian B. Stemen, A. M., M. D., LL. D., mrd. Lydia Enslen, Nov. 7, 1858, in Allen Co., O. He had been teaching in the public schools and reading medicine for several years before his marriage. In the spring of 1859 they moved to Elida, O., where he read medicine with Dr. R. Rice until August of the same year, when they moved to Ft. Jennings, Putnam Co., O., where he engaged in the practice of medicine, his wife teaching school in the same village and he aided her when not professionally engaged. In June, 1860, they moved to Kalida, the then county seat of Putnam Co., O. During the winter of 1863-4 he graduated in medicine at Cincinnati, Ohio.
While living at Ft. Jennings he was converted and united with the church and in a short time he was licensed to preach and was ordained an elder in 1865. He is still a local minister in the M. E. church. In 1865 they moved from Kalida to Piqua, Ohio, and in 1866 moved to Van Wert, Ohio, where he continued the practice of his profession until the winter of 1874-5, when he attended the Medical College of Ohio and graduated from that institution in March, 1875, and in June of the same year he was elected Demonstrator of Anatomy in the same college, which position he filled until 1876, when he was elected to the chair of Theory and Practice of Medicine in the Medical College at Ft. Wayne and continued to fill that chair until the organization was abandoned and the Fort Wayne College of Medicine was organized when he was elected Professor of Surgery in that college. He is at present (1899) and has been for a number of years Dean of that institution. He served two years as President of Taylor University and is now its Vice-President. He is a surgeon of the Pittsburg, Ft. Wayne & Chicago Ry., and has traveled through many foreign countries, including Germany and Switzerland, the latter being the country from which his ancestors came, (Christian and Joseph Stehmann arrived in Philadelphia in the year 1717, both being members of the Mennonite church.)

He was elected and presided as President of the National Association of the Local Preachers of the Methodist Episcopal church three times and in 1887 was elected and went as a delegate from this Association to the Methodist Association of England.

He preaches nearly every Sunday, not only for the Methodists, but also for other denominations, Grace Reformed, United Brethren, Presbyterian, Congregational, etc. He receives no pay for preaching, preferring to take no money for his services in the cause of his Master.
He has not officiated at a marriage ceremony for nearly twenty years, rather leaving this solemn and sacred work to those who devote their entire time to the work of the ministry. Children: Infant, Katie, George, Charles, Margaret, William, Harriet, Mary.

VI. Infant son, (dec’d).

V. Daniel F. Stemen, b. Apr. 22, 1841. He enlisted as a private soldier during the Civil War and died at Corinth, Miss., Feb. 15, 1863, aged 21 years, 9 months, 23 days.

V. Henry G. Stemen, M. D., b. Sept. 9, 1850. Mrd. Lizzie Welch, May 1, 1873. He was licensed to preach in the U. B. church as a local minister and received into the Auglaize Annual conference two years later. In the year 1878 he moved to Fort Wayne and attended his first course of lectures in the Medical College of Fort Wayne, and in the winter of 1877–78 he attended the second course and in the spring graduated from this institution. He then moved to Delphos, Ohio, where he has lived and practiced medicine ever since, except a few months when he was at Pleasant Mills, Ind.

IV. Bishop Christian D. Beery was b. in Rockingham Co., Va., on the 20th of June, 1815. He had ten brothers and sisters, of whom only one brother and one sister survive him, 1878. While the subject of our sketch was yet quite young, his parents with their family emigrated to Fairfield Co., Ohio. Here he grew up to manhood's years and in 1835, when he was about nineteen years of age, he was united in matrimony with Nancy Blosser, who also resided in Fairfield county, and was then only a little past sixteen years of age. She was the daughter of Isaac and Elizabeth Blosser, who had a family of fourteen children.

A few years after their marriage he and his wife both united with the Mennonite church, of which they remained consistent members to the time of their death. In 1838 they moved to Hocking Co., Ohio, and in 1852 they removed again from Hocking Co., Ohio, to Franklin Co. Here, in the same year, he was chosen by the church to the office of deacon, in which office he served the church until he was called to the ministry.

In 1855 he removed to Allen Co., and resided there until August, 1865, when he removed to Branch Co., Mich., where, with the exception of a little less than a year, he spent the remainder of his life.

In a small memorandum book found among his effects we find over his own signature the following record, "In Branch Co., Mich., on the 26th of August, 1867, I was called to the important work of preaching the word of God." Signed, C. D. Beery.

He remained in this relation to the church until the 22d of December, 1869, under which date we find in the same book the following record, "I was ordained to the bishop's office. May the Lord aid and assist me in this great and important work." Signed, C. D. Beery.

In June, 1873, he removed to Jewell Co., Kan., where he remained not quite a year, and then returned again to his church in Branch Co., Mich., where he died on the morning of the 15th of March, 1878, aged 62 years, 8 months and 25 days.

He took sick with lung fever some two weeks previous and though quite sick, his physicians did not think his condition serious. His wife, Nancy, who for some years had been in rather feeble health, also took sick with the same disease, and though not considered dangerously ill MENNONITE MEETING-HOUSE, DEEP RUN, BUCKS, CO., PA. during the earlier period of her sickness, suddenly became worse and died on Wednesday afternoon, March 13, at the age of 59 years, 2 months and 13 days, and was to be buried on Thursday afternoon. The coffin had been ordered immediately after her death on Wednesday, but requiring a very large one, it had to be made to order and the undertaker did not succeed in completing it before evening. The coffin was then brought, and the corpse laid into it and conveyed to the grave at the Mennonite church, about three miles from the residence, where it was committed to its last resting place, as the evening twilight was deepening into the more sombre hues of night, and the hymn which her husband had chosen for the occasion was sung by the light of a lantern.

On Saturday night previous the passage, 2 Tim. 4: 6–8, came to his mind and he desired that it should be read to him, so that he might be sure of having it in his mind correctly. After his wife was dead he seemed fully reconciled to the will of God and accepted his bereavement with entire resignation, and directed that the funeral services should be deferred until such a time that he too could be present; and that the words referred to above should be used as the text for the occasion, naming also the person whom he desired to perform the services.

He was most devotedly attached to his wife and spoke of her frequently, referring to her faithfulness and consistent Christian walk and conversation, and admonishing others to follow her example. At one time he made the remark, "She has fought the good fight; she has kept the faith; she has washed her robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." Many times during the former years of his life he expressed his desire, that when it should please the Lord to call one of them away from earth that they might both be permitted to depart together, that the separation might be of short duration, and in this his prayer was fully answered. On Thursday after they had taken her to her burial, he remarked to his nephew, who was with him, that he could not stay here any longer; he must go to where Nancy was.
During the night he was restless and uneasy and wished that daylight might come that he might be able to see out. When the morning came at last, he seemed cheerful and possessed sufficient strength almost to raise himself up in his bed. He then conversed freely with his friends who were with him, and after trying to take a little rest and sleep he woke up, inquired for his nephew, Dr. Stemen, who had been with him for several days, and reaching out his hand to his nephew, George Beery, who was also with him at the time, he said "Farewell," and in a few minutes his spirit winged its way to the spirit land, and the voice so often raised in earnest entreaty and admonition to sinners, pointing them to Jesus, the sinner's friend, was hushed in death.

He served the church faithfully, and in the discharge of duties devolving upon him as bishop, he was a man of great usefulness, and will be greatly missed, not only at home, in his own church, but also in the surrounding churches. Even as a neighbor and friend, his loss will be deeply felt.

He preached his last sermon in the church where he lived, on Sunday, three weeks before his burial, from the text, Luke 7:45-49, and it was remarked by many of his hearers, that he spoke with more feeling and earnestness than usual. He was a man that was firmly grounded in his faith, and amidst the religious commotions of the day, he never wavered, but stood faithful at his post, and until the Lord called him from the watch tower, he ceased not to sound the trumpet with boldness. He died peacefully and both he and his wife died as they had lived with a firm and abiding faith in Christ. Only about forty hours intervened between their deaths. They had been married forty-three years and lived together very happily. He was buried on Sunday, the 17th, followed to the grave by a very large concourse of mourners, at which time the services were held for both by John F. Funk, assisted by J. J. Weaver and Peter Long, the discourse being preached from 2 Tim. 4:6-8, the words which the brother had chosen for the services of his wife. May we all be enabled to say, "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like this." No issue.

At a very early age Mr. Funk removed with his parents to Rockingham Co., Virginia, where he lived until his death. His life and labors were various and useful. His favorite pursuit was that of sacred music, to which he gave much attention, both as instructor and as editor of several popular music books. Hundreds of the old fathers and mothers in the Valley of Virginia in which he lived remember him as their instructor, not only in the sacred art of praise, but as their literary teacher.

Thousands unknown to him, personally, will cherish his memory as the instrument through whom their lives have been cheered, and their devotional hours brightened by the songs of praise which were brought to them through his labors.

He was a man of prayer, and had proven its power in sustaining the soul in all the varied trials of life. Rigid in an observance of the decencies of life, and scrupulous and unswerving in Christian morality, the profane or disorderly were awed in his presence, or fearlessly rebuked.

Firm and confident in the support of his religious views, he was nevertheless liberal in his Christian intercourse and fellowship with those differing from him in doctrine and external forms.

The Bible was his daily companion. He studied it, not as a theorist, but to understand its teachings and practice its precepts. Yet his hope of a blessed immortality was not based upon his own works, but his faith in the merit of Jesus Christ alone was the surety in which the hope of his soul was anchored. In the hour of death he was not forsaken by that faith in which he lived for nearly seventy years. His last words were, "It is all well." Few men have ever lived in the common walks of life who enjoyed a more extensive personal acquaintance, and more pure and disinterested friendship. He was a member of the Mennonite church, in which his memory will long be cherished as a faithful and useful member, zealous of her welfare and the cause of truth.

Aside from his work as a teacher of vocal music and a compiler, he also translated from the German language into English the "Mennonite Confession of Faith," with nine reflections written by Peter Burkholder. This work, a 12mo Vol. of 460 pages, he published in 1837, with an extended introduction, written by himself, giving a brief sketch of the history of the Mennonite church, and other interesting matter, from which it is manifest that Joseph Funk was well read, not only in the Bible, but in religious literature in general. He established a printing office at Singers Glen, in 1847, (which was the first Mennonite printing office in America,) where his popular book of sacred melodies, "The Harmonia Sacra," known far and wide, and which passed through many editions, was printed for many years.

He no doubt also compiled and arranged the first English Mennonite Hymn Book which he published, and which also passed through many editions. This book was arranged to be used in connection with the "Harmonia Sacra," in which appropriate tunes were found for all the hymns. This book, which is still used in some of the Mennonite congregations, was also printed on Joseph Funk's hand press at Singers Glen, for many years. After the father's death the business was continued by Joseph Funk's Sons. The right to publish the Hymn Book afterwards passed into the hands of John F. Funk & Bro., Elkhart, Ind., and is now owned by the Mennonite Publishing Company.

After marriage they served the church at Weldon, North Carolina, Mr. Blake being pastor of the Baptist church at that place. Later served as general missionary to the Indians for two and one-half years—located at Eufaula, I. T. He then became pastor of the Baptist church of Herington, Kan., which he served for two years, and during the following six years, as missionaries to the Indians, they have been with the Seminole Academy at Lasakwa, Ind. Ter., of which he is the superintendent. This school, which is for Indian girls, has a capacity of 40. In their new building which will soon be occupied, the capacity will be increased to about 100. V. Rev. Erasmus P. Funk, born at Singers Glen, Va., Mar. 28, 1848; died in Baltimore, Nov. 13, 1883. Mrd. Margaret A. Jordan, of Churchville, Augusta Co., Va., Feb. 3, 1869. Mr. Funk was largely a self-made man, applying himself very diligently to his books. Most of his education was acquired through private instruction and his own efforts. He received Annual Conference license at Edinburg, Va., Feb. 15, 1872, and was ordained to the office of Elder, in the United Brethren in Christ church, at Kudysville, Md., by Bishop Edwards, Feb. 5, 1875, and was at his own request transferred from the Virginia to the East Pennsylvania Conference in 1879. During his ministry he served the following respective charges, viz.: Rockbridge circuit, Va., Highland circuit, Va., Potomac Mission, Md., Shamokin, Pa., Halifax, Pa., and Baltimore North church where he died. His end was triumphant, precious promises proceeded from his mouth during his last illness, which was of heart disease and dropsy. Such words as, "I am only sitting here waiting for the Lord to take me." "I never had such a rich experience in my soul in all my life." When his heart-burdened companion would manifest her grief he would say, "Come, Maggie, my dear, don't cry, I want all sunshine in my room." His remains were interred in the Stover's Memorial cemetery, near Hummelstown, Dauphin Co., Pa. One child:

VI. Loula Funk, bn. at Singers Glen, Va., Nov. 16, 1869. In 1884 she entered the Lebanon Valley College at Annville; Pa., from which she graduated in both the musical and scientific courses, in the class of 1890; of which class her husband was also a member. Since graduation she has devoted some time to public speaking and has entered the lecture field. She was married to Rev. Edward S. Bowman, Oct. 30, 1890. They are members of the United Brethren in Christ church, of which Mr. Bowman is an itinerant minister in the regular work.

Nov. 30, 1853. Mr. Fairburn lived at home with his father until he was 17 years old, when he went to work with Mr. John Schatterle, to learn the miller's trade. After serving nearly 6 years, he left and went to Parkersburg, W. Va., and there engaged in the business of refining petroleum oil. This was in the year 1875, and he has been employed by the same company since that time.

Dec. 15, 1886, he arranged to go to the City of Mexico to locate, construct and operate an oil refinery. He has traveled over 18 states of the Mexican Republic during his residence in the Republic, going by rail roads, horse and mule back, has been carried on the backs of Peons, also by canoe, and by almost every means of transportation known to that country. Having severed his connection with the Standard Oil Co., on July 1, 1890, he removed to Burbank, Cal., where he is engaged in fruit raising. Meth. Ep. Children:

IV. Mary Funk, bn. July 4, 1815, at Mountain Valley, (now Singers Glen) Va.; died Apr. 19, 1888. Mrd. John Kieffer, of Rockingham Co., Va., May 30, 1837. After marriage they moved to the wilds of Missouri, and settled in Saline Co., near Miami. Here the struggle of life to make a home began, in which effort they were happily rewarded. The years were all happiness, and although two pairs of hands toiled hard, there were two hearts full of love. On June 22, 1847, John Kieffer died, and Mary removed to Mountain Valley, the home of her birth. Here began the real struggle of her life, to train her children and provide for them. In this she was successful, despite misfortune and deprivation.

Mary Kieffer was naturally possessed of more than ordinary intelligence, a vigorous organism, and large faith in God's providence; and, like Whittler, she could exclaim:—

"I know not where His islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care."

Her heart was full of sympathy for everyone in distress, and that sympathy was expressed by deeds of charity, and not words alone. During the war no soldier ever called at her gate without being the recipient of some expression of kindness, and her prayers followed them to the battle-field. She lived a widow for over forty years, and up to the fatal morning of her last illness, she was engaged in caring for her grandchildren.

In early childhood she connected herself with the Presbyterian church. Her last hours were full of the joyful anticipation of rejoining her husband and the two daughters who had preceded her, and were before the throne of God and the Lamb, praising Him for the new

VI. James H. Ruebush, bn. at Singers Glen, Va., Oct. 19, 1865. Mrd. Ella V. Funkhouser, of Mt. Jackson, Va., Aug. 7, 1889. P. O., Dayton, Va. Mr. Ruebush was reared on a farm until 14 years of age, when his father moved to Dayton, Va., where he entered Shenandoah Institute, which he attended for five years.

In the fall of 1884, he entered Otterbine University at Westerville, Ohio, to continue his musical studies. In 1885, '86 and '87, he was in the Grand Conservatory of Music of New York, after which he taught vocal and instrumental music in the Shenandoah Institute several years, and during vacation attended such summer schools as Silver Lake, N. Y., and Chautauqua Lake assemblies, being a pupil of H.N. Barttelb, H.R. Palmer, Geo. F. Root, F. W. Root, W. S. B. Matthews, and others.

Mr. Ruebush is the author of several song books. The first was "Gems of Gladness," a small Sunday school book of 64 pages, of which 20,000 copies have been sold. This was followed by the "Star of Bethlehem," (assisted by Prof. J. H. Hall, who also assisted him in the preparation of his other books,) of this over 30,000 copies were sold. Then others followed, viz:—"Pearls of Truth," "Practical Voice Culture," "Harmony and Composition," "Fountain of Praise," and "Messenger of Song." The combined sales of these books have reached 200,000 copies. Mr. Ruebush is at present engaged as director of Kee Mar College Conservatory of Hagerstown, Md. U. B. One child:

Mr. Funk was born in East Tennessee, where he lived with his parents until the close of the late rebellion, after which they moved to Middle Tennessee, remaining until 1872, when they again moved, making their home in West Tennessee.

His father having met with serious losses during the war he had but little opportunity to secure an education, but was brought up to do hard work on the farm. Thirsting for an education, however, when he became of age he went to work to secure the necessary means with which to fulfill his desires, and at the age of 26 he entered an educational institution, from which he graduated in 1888, with the degree of B. S.

After graduation he was licensed as a local preacher in the Meth. Ep. ch. So., and has since served as local preacher, and also as a teacher, having at present charge of the High School at Brunswick, Tenn. One child:

Timothy mrd. second wife, Agnes Mason, of Singers Glen, Va., Apr. 20, 1898. P. O., Singers Glen, Va. Bap. He was baptized in 1852, by Rev. John E. Massey, and was ordained to preach at Adid church, Nelson Co., Va., in 1862. He and his brother Solomon Funk were known throughout the Valley of Virginia as teachers of vocal music. Timothy began teaching music in 1844, and taught four years in succession, through the summer in Spotsylvania and Caroline counties, Va., and during the winter in Rockingham and adjoining counties. He has engaged in this work more or less ever since, up to the present time (1899), though mostly by receiving pupils at his home.

At an early age, Solomon, at the instance of his father, was apprenticed to learn the art of printing, and for several years followed this trade in Harrisonburg, Staunton, and New Market, Va. In 1847 his father founded the printing office at Singers Glen, which Solomon conducted for many years. He was well known throughout the Valley of Virginia as a teacher of vocal music.

Early in life he became a member of the Methodist church, but afterwards united with the Baptist church, and was ordained a minister in that denomination in 1869, and remained in the active service until the day of his death. He was a man of strong likes and dislikes, impulsive: a man of more than ordinary culture, a broad, grasping mind, generous to friend and fearless to foe; hence it is not strange that life to him was a success. Children: Minnie, Isadora.

III. Frances Funk, bn. ——; died in Fairfield Co., Ohio, in 1845. Mrd. Henry Culp, ——. He died in 1838. Buried on Daniel Funk's farm in Logan Co., Ohio. In the spring of 1830 Mr. Culp set out on horseback to find a location for a home in the West. He came to Union township. Logan Co., Ohio, and entered 40 acres in the "fallen timber" district in the west side of the township, whither in 1831 he brought his family of about fifteen persons, including his son-in-law, Samuel Claytor, a widowed daughter and her three children. They set out from Virginia with a three horse team, arrived in the fall, and put up in the cabin which had been prepared for them.

Two sons, Joseph and Jacob, followed next year. They improved the 40 acres of government land which they had entered, and succeeded well in the new country. His occupation in Virginia was that of miller. Menn. Children: Joseph, Barbara, Jacob, Henry, Samuel, David, Christian, Frances, Nancy, Susan, Elizabeth.

DESCENDANTS OF CHRISTIAN FUNK, SON OF BISHOP HENRY FUNCK.

II. Rev. Christian Funk, bn. in Franconia Twp., Montgomery Co., Pa. in 1731; died May 31, 1811, aged 80 years. Mrd. Barbara Cassel, daughter of Yelles Cassel.* She was bn. ——; died Dec. 29, 1792. Lived on the Indian Creek, where he inherited from his father 137 acres and 146 perches of the old homestead. He afterwards purchased the remaining portion of the old homestead of 63 acres, 19 perches and the mill from his brother, Abraham Funk, who owned it only about 3 years. Christian Funk was a large land holder, and in addition to the homestead he purchased on Aug. 2, 1790, 40 acres from the heirs of Dirk Johnson, Samuel Morris and wife Rebecca, and Catharine Greenleaf, making a total of 241 acres, and 51 perches, which vast plantation, with the grist mill, water rights, buildings and improvements he conveyed to his son-in-law, John Detweiler, on July 29, 1794, for the sum of £3,300 in gold and silver.

Christian Funk was chosen to the ministry at Franconia in 1757 and remained a faithful worker until the breaking out of the war in 1774, "when his troubles commenced," an account of which is contained in the History of Lower Salford Township by James Y. Heckler, from which we take extracts as follows:

"It was during these years which are known as 'the time that tried men's souls,' that society in this vicinity was considerably shaken by the surges of the Revolution. "The Mennonites, though non-resistant, were looked upon, by the Revolutionary element, as torles, but as they did not show any signs of hostility to the government nor to the army, there was no trouble in that respect; though they suffered the loss of some of their best horses, some cattle and some grain, which the army was greatly in need of.

"But the different views entertained by the officials of the said church in regard to the 'attest,' or oath of allegiance, and the payment of revenues demanded by the government, brought matters into collision among themselves. It was principally on this account that Christian Funk, a Mennonite preacher, with a party of adherents were expelled from their communion. He himself says, 'How easily we might have gone through this war. But no—the Congress and American government was rejected as rebellious, and the king acknowledged by my fellow ministers, under the idea that Congress would soon be overpowered. The war, however, constantly increased and mutual abuse between those who were favorable with Congress and those inclined towards the king manifested itself, and discontent was almost universal.'

"Christian Funk was not an ignorant man, for he was well read and well acquainted with the affairs of the country, and espoused the cause of the American Congress as the most reasonable side of the question; for he knew the causes which brought matters into collision between the British government and the American colonists, and for taking sides with Congress he was excommunicated.

"By reading Mr. Funk's own statement we are led to the conclusion that he acted too indifferently in those matters preferred against him, and that if he had been a little more shrewd and persevering he might have driven his accusers against the wall.

"But it appears that he still had hopes of reconciliation, of being restored to the church of his choice even in his old age yet; but the ban of excommunication had been laid upon him and those in office in the Mennonite church, after many of the former officers were dead, and when Mr. Funk was an old man, still refused to remove it and restore him.

"He and his followers organized themselves into a church some time after their excommunication, which was known as the "Funkites." His influence extended over a considerable district. They built a meeting house in Evensburg, Lower Providence township; one on the Skippack, in Towamencin, in 1814, and one about a mile north of Harleysville in 1814 or 1815. Before building these houses they held meetings in their homes.

"They had other places of worship, among them Frick's school house, near Line Lexington, which they probably built, as well as the one near Harleysville.

"We will yet add that in 1807 Christian Funk made his last effort to be restored to his mother church, but on account of his own church the ban was not removed. The Mennonites came near yielding so far as to receive him and his members, but they would not receive his ministers. He afterwards made a statement of his troubles, which he left to posterity. This statement is endorsed by Henry Rosenberger, John Funk, John Reiff, Henry Gottwals, John Whisler, Christian Gottwals, Jacob Whisler, John Gottwals, and George Shoemaker."

After the death of Christian Funk the care of the church devolved upon his son, John Funk, and about ten years later began to decline until about the year 1850, when it became extinct. One of the chief causes of the decline of the church, was allowing one John Herr, a heretic from Lancaster county, to preach among them, and divide them, some taking sides with John Herr; in his peculiar doctrines, and others opposing, which caused a division among themselves, a part adhering to the Herrites, and part opposing.

Christian Funk and wife are buried at Delps graveyard. Their children are: Anna, Elizabeth, Mary, Catharine, Barbara, Sarah, John, Abraham, Susanna.

III. Anna Funk, bn. in Montgomery Co., Pa., —; died, —. Mrd. David Rosenberger* (his first wife). He died in 1829, aged about 80 years.

In 1771 he received his patrimony from his father. The two hundred acres bequeathed to him was bounded on the north-west by the cross-road, now a turnpike, running from the county line to Hatfield station. It comprised the Landis farm, those of Henry and Samuel Wean, at Canton, Ohio. She died Mar. 4, 1897, and was buried at Alliance, Ohio. Mr. Rosenberry was engaged in the butter and egg business at Alliance, Ohio; was also a miner, and a manufacturer of terra cotta ware and crockery, on his extensive farm one and one-half miles west of Alliance, Ohio. Moved to Bourbon, Ind., in 1877, where he again engaged in the butter and egg business.

Moved to Argos, Ind., in 1891, where he continued in the same business until 1896, when, owing to advancing years, he permanently retired from business, having laid by an ample competence. He was always an indefatigable worker, and a prudent and sagacious business man. P. O.,

VII. Mary Rosenberry, bn. in Stark Co., Ohio, Nov. 2, 1851. Mrd. James H. Watson. He was born at Wellsville, Ohio, Nov. 15, 1848. His parents moved to New Lisbon, Ohio, where, at the age of fifteen, he entered a printing office to learn the printer's trade. For a year and a half he continued in this position, until the last call for troops was issued by President Lincoln, in 1864. At this time he was a little over sixteen years of age. He enlisted in the regular army, becoming a member of Co. H, 195th O. V. I. Owing to a severe illness he returned home after serving ten months of the year's enlistment. He again entered the printing office at New Lisbon, and it was at this place, at the age of eighteen years, he was converted to Christianity at a Methodist revival meeting. He later took a position in a printing office at Alliance, Ohio, where, on Feb. 14, 1871, he was united in marriage to Mary Rosenberry. In the same year he moved to Stubenville, Ohio, where for ten years he was engaged as foreman of the Gazette. Here a home was established, and here were born John H., Janette, and Homer. In 1880 the family removed by steamer on the Ohio river to Lawrenceburg, Ind., where Mr. Watson took a position on The Press. Being washed out by floods, and desiring a larger field for labor, he moved to Argos, Ind., in 1882, and purchased the Argos Reflector. For seventeen years he wielded the pen as editor, and managed his affairs ably and well. In 1899, having disposed of the Reflector, he moved to Chicago, Ill., where he resides at the present time. During his residence in Lawrenceburg, Ind., B. F. Watson was born. Howard, Mildred Emma, and Paul were born at Argos, Ind. Since his conversion at the age of eighteen, Mr. Watson has been actively identified with the M. E. church in various official capacities, and has always been a zealous worker for the Master. He never willfully injured any one, and all honor him as an upright, conscientious man. Address, 1299 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill. Meth. Ep. Children: John, Janette, Homer, B. F., Howard, Mildred, Paul.

   VII. Elizabeth Greenwalt, mrd. Harry McKean. P. O., Yuma, Arizona.

VI. Joseph A. Munk, M. D., bn. in Mahoning Co., Ohio, Nov. 19, 1847. The family subsequently removed to Salem, Ohio, where they lived several years and then moved to Mt. Union, Ohio.

Dr. Munk enlisted as a private soldier in Co. I, 178th Regt. Ohio Vol. Inf., in August 1864, and remained in the army until the close of the war. After his return he attended school at Mt. Union College and later studied medicine with Dr. D. H. Rosenberg, at Bettsville, Ohio, and graduated in medicine in 1869 from the Eclectic Medical Institute of Cincinnati, Ohio.

He began the practice of medicine at Lindsey, Ohio, and has practiced his profession successively at Chillicothe, Mo., Topeka, Kan., and Los Angeles, Cal., at which latter place he now resides. He is a frequent contributor to medical journals. His deep interest in the Territory of Arizona led him to collect an extensive library on that subject. For several years past he has been collecting every book, pamphlet, and historical scrap obtainable, and is to-day possessed of more published and written information on the Territory than any other living person. It is expected that some day he will publish a book on Arizona, which will be the most complete of anything ever issued from the press. He is also the author of a pamphlet on the climate of Southern California.

He was married to Emma Beazell of Webster, Pa., in 1873. Meth. Ep. One child:

VII. A daughter, died an infant.

VI. E. Henry Munk, M. D., bn. near Georgetown, Ohio, Apr. 12, 1849. Mrs. Lillian Hoag in 1874. P. O., Nevada, Iowa. Dr. Munk was educated at Mt. Union College, and graduated, taking his degree of M. D. at the American Medical College in St. Louis, after which he settled in Story Co., Iowa, in the practice of medicine. Soon after he reached the legal age for admission to the rites of Masonry he entered Columbia Lodge 292. Changing his residence to the county seat his membership was transferred to Nevada Lodge No. 99, where he entered into full fellowship as a Master Mason, June 7, 1873. He has been an active member of that lodge for more than 20 years, and has perhaps vouched for as many petitioners as has any other member. He has filled numerous offices, and ably performed his full share of work on committees and on the floor. He holds membership and office in three times three chapters, where he fills his chair promptly when not professionally absent.

He has held the office of Health Officer for the past ten years. Mrs. Munk is a graduate of Carthage College, Ill., and is city Librarian. She is also a lineal descendant of Elder William Brewster, the spiritual leader of the Plymouth Colony, Massachusetts, that came to America on the Mayflower, in 1620; also of Rev. John Robinson, pastor of the Pilgrims at Leyden, Holland.

She is a charter member of Abigail Chapter of the "Daughters of the American Revolution," and eligible to membership in "Society of Colonial Dames." Meth. Ep. Children:

VI. Judge Edward R. Munk, A. M., who is one of the prominent lawyers of Arizona, and a pioneer among the cattlemen in the Territory, has for some years been a resident of Tucson, Arizona, and is recognized as a man of superior ability, force of character, determination and integrity. He is a native of Stark Co., Ohio, and was bn. Jan. 31, 1855, and inherits all the thrift, enterprise and perseverance of his Teutonic ancestors, but contrary to their custom remains a bachelor. Judge Munk had excellent educational advantages in his youth, of which he early availed himself, and graduated when he was 21 years old. After a thorough course in Mt. Union College, he entered the Michigan University, and was duly graduated with the post graduate degree of A. M., and shortly after admitted to the practice of law before the Supreme Court of the State of Michigan.

For a number of years after this, he practiced his profession in Des Moines, Iowa, and St. Louis, Mo., but failing health caused him to give up his practice in the city, and to seek health and wealth in the far South west. Early in the spring of 1883, he, in connection with his brother, Dr. J. A. Munk, went into the cattle business near Wilcox, Arizona, and as his brother did not reside there, he has had the entire management of the same, until the ranch has become a very good property, giving very satisfactory incomes to each of the partners.
Aside from the cattle business the Judge has become interested in mines and is part owner in a very fair claim.

In 1886 he was elected County Judge of Cochise Co., and re-elected in 1888, serving until the end of his term. In 1893 he was appointed by President Cleveland as receiver of the United States Land Office, at Tucson, Arizona, and during his term of office he finished the duties of his official position in the most satisfactory manner. Under the administration of Gov. Hughes he was appointed a member of the Board of Regents, and during his term of office many changes were made in the policy and management of the University, resulting in marked success, and never before has the University enjoyed such prosperity and success as now. The Judge also became a member of the Civil Service Examining Board for Arizona, for the Postal and Indian Service, resulting in credit to the office. In connection with all these duties he continues to practice his chosen profession, the law, and with success, thus making his life a very busy one. He has been connected with the Masonic order for many years, and is now a Knight Templar in good standing.

about one year until the close of the war. He was on detached service at Corps headquarters, to build, and to level the ground about the officers' tents, having in his employ in this work as many as 300 negroes.

At the battle of Chapmans farm a piece of shell flew past him, but with such force that his head was turned half way around, and so suddenly that it cracked, and he had to take both hands to put his head into the right position again. It is related that when Mr. Rosenberger was but a creeping baby, his sister took him up into the third story of the mill in which they lived, and while she was sweeping the floor he crept to the door and fell down three stories, fortunately falling into a pile of shavings, and bounced like a rubber ball, but on examination he was found unhurt. Mr. Rosenberger was superintendent of planing mill at Hazleton, Pa., for about 20 years.

In 1877 he took charge of a sawing and planing factory in Philadelphia, and the following year removed to Bloomsbury, N. J., where he served with the same firm, Bowby & Larish.

In 1880 he moved to Washington, N. J., and worked in Daniel F. Beatty's large Organ works. He died at Bloomsbury, Jan. 27, 1891. He was a member of John F. Reynolds
He was also in his younger days a singing school teacher.

for many years a class-leader at Hazleton, Pa. Children:

Sept. 25, 1860. Mrd. Jennie Louisa Young, of Orange, N. J., Feb. 16, 1882. P. O., Bloomsbury, N. J. He is a barber, and has followed that craft at different places. Owing to religious scruples he could not continue in the business with open shop on Sunday, and being fully persuaded that it was his duty to close his shop on Sunday he resolved to do so, removed to Easton, Pa., but did not succeed. He then on a Saturday night took the matter to the Lord in prayer. He told the Lord that he could not make a living in Easton with his shop closed on the Sabbath day, and that he must have a position given him on the Monday following, and prayed the Lord to direct his feet for he knew not where to go. The Lord graciously heard his prayer. and on Monday morning his wife came to his barber shop with a telegram from his sister, saying, "John, come down at once, important business, Rose." He took the first train to Bloomsbury, N. J., and in the afternoon returned to Easton with the key of the Bloomsbury barber shop in his pocket, to which place he removed, and where he now conducts a successful business.

V. Christian Wismer, bn. Apr. 13, 1817. Mrd. Mary Cassel, Dec. 3, 1837. She was bn. Apr. 24, 1814. Retired farmer. Mr. Wismer is a man of venerable appearance. He and his wife have been faithful members of the River Brethren church at Lawndale, Pa., for many years. About 80 years ago he was ordained deacon, and in the faithful discharge of his religious duties it has been his chief joy to see his beloved Zion prosper in the Lord, while his patriarchal appearance, and presence in Zion is a source of inspiration to his fellow laborers in the Master's cause. In old age he is still abundant in labors for his Redeemer, and a crown awaits him beyond. "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his." Children: Susanna, Sarah, Elizabeth, Jacob, Mary, Joel, David.

Mr. Ruth lived with his grandfather, Christian Wismer, on the farm for several years; he then went to live with his uncle Jacob Wismer, who was a merchant and tailor, remaining until 1882, when he went to learn the printing trade in the office of John G. Stauffer, of Quakertown, Pa. After serving his apprenticeship, he was recommended as being competent of taking charge of an office, and accordingly was employed as foreman of a printing office, in Indianapolis, Ind., Apr. 1, 1884.

In July 1884, at the age of 18 years, he received local preacher's license, and began preaching. In the fall of this year, he resigned his position as foreman of the printing office, and began to travel as an evangelist or revivalist on the interdenominational line, laboring in any church where called. He is a member of the "Heavenly Recruit Association" church, for which denomination he has established some churches in Indiana. He was ordained, and received Elder's license in July, 1889, but by request continued as an evangelist. Up to date he has conducted revival services in thirteen states, and all through the Province of Ontario. Since 1884 he has traveled about 8,000 miles annually. In revival work he has been eminently successful. He has not attempted a revival at any place where he has continued a week or more, without some converts, and he has frequently conducted revivals where more than a hundred were converted in a few weeks. At the age of twelve, Mr. Rosenberger's father died, after which he lived part of the time with his mother until he was seventeen, then learned the plastering trade, after which he went west with his cousin Daniel Rosenberger, to Ohio, which was then considered the far West. After a few years' stay, he came east and married, and with his wife returned to Ohio, where they remained a number of years, when they again came east, and soon after purchased the property where he now resides—continuing at his trade for a few years, after which he purchased more land, and settled down to farming.

Dr. Rosenberger assisted his father on the farm, helping to clear a portion of it, and attended the district school in the winter. When 18 years of age he entered Oberlin (Ohio) College, and in 1868 commenced the study of medicine at Findlay, Ohio. He graduated from the Cleveland (Ohio) Homeopathic Hospital College in 1870, commenced the practice of medicine in Cary, Wyandotte county, O., in April of the same year, and remained there until the fall of 1872, when he moved to Leipsic, Putnam Co., O. Here he engaged in an extensive practice, having to do most of his traveling on horseback, the country being new, and roads bad. In the fall of 1877 his health failed, and being unable to endure the hardships of the practice in that new country, in the spring of 1878 he decided to move to Covington, O., where he has since maintained a good practice. In 1885 he connected himself with the German Baptist church, and was elected to the ministry in the spring of 1880. Since that time he has been serving the church in that capacity as well as his professional work would allow. Children:

VII. Uriah H. Stover, bn. in Montgomery Co., Pa. June 21, 1869. Mrd. Mary H. Hartzell, Feb. 4, 1893. When four years old his father died, leaving a widow with four children to support. At the age of 14 Uriah was compelled to leave school to assist his mother in supporting the family, and secured a position in a sash and door factory, where he spent five years of his life. Mr. Stover had a great desire to secure an education, and in the meantime applied himself to studying in the evenings and taking courses in various correspondence schools. Having secured a position in Philadelphia, he attended various night schools. In 1893 he returned to Souderton, and in the spring of 1894 began the study of law, which he is now pursuing with the expectation of being admitted to the bar in 1899.

In 1895 he was urged to accept the nomination for Justice of the Peace of the borough of Souderton against a prominent citizen of that place, and was elected by a good majority. His official conduct and success as Justice of the Peace insures a prosperous future for the young man. He is a member of the P. O. S. of A., and was elected president of Montgomery District No. 3, which constitutes a membership of 2,600. Mr. Stover performed the duties of the office so satisfactorily that he was re-elected and holds the position at the present time (1898). He is also a representative of the National Camp, a member of the I. O. O. F., Sons of Veterans, K. G. E. and Jr. O. U. A. M. P. O., Souderton, Pa. Ref. ch. No issue.

VI. Annie C. Gotwals, bn. Sept. 23, 1853. Mrd. Rev. Henry R. Hunsicker (his second wife), May 11, 1876. P. O., Coopersburg, Pa. Mr. Hunsicker was born near Trappe, Montgomery Co., Pa., Nov. 10, 1825. Spent his boyhood days on his father's farm, and had only the limited advantages of the country schools of that time. In 1835 Henry Prizer opened a boarding school in the village of Trappe. He died in 1838, and was succeeded in the school by Rev. Henry Rodenbough. This was Mr. Hunsicker's Alma Mater.

In 1848 he and his father, Bishop Abraham Hunsicker, founded "Freeland Seminary," an educational institution designed for young men and boys. He at once became the principal of the school, and three years later the proprietor. He continued as principal of this school until 1865, when he leased the school and property to A. N. Fetterolf, one of his assistants, for five years. During the time of his lease to Prof F., he sold the school property to Rev. J. H. A. Bomberger, D. D., of Philadelphia, who, in connection with other enterprising persons, obtained a charter and founded Ursinus College. In 1850 Mr. Hunsicker was ordained to the ministry of the New (Oberholtzer) Mennonite church. On account of the liberal and progressive ideas in church work, a schism took place in 1851, which resulted in establishing an independent church, known as Trinity Christians, of which Mr. Hunsicker was one of the founders, and for which he continued to preach until 1875. Mr. Hobson is of English ancestry on his paternal side, the emigrant ancestor being Francis Hobson, who came from England in 1720, and located in New Garden township, Chester Co., Pa., with his wife and family. They were of the Society of Friends, and were among the earliest settlers of that county. Mr. Hobson was a farmer. His son, Francis Hobson, came to Limerick township, Montgomery Co., in 1743, and bought a farm of 260 acres near Royers Ford, which is still known as the Hobson farm. This ancestor had a family, one of whom, Francis Hobson, inherited the Limerick farm in 1748, and resided there all his life. He was a country Justice of the Peace, and a surveyor, and many of the old surveys of the county were made by him. One of his sons, John Hobson, was the grandfather of our subject. He in his turn inherited and worked the Limerick farm, making three generations on this property. John Hobson was the father of four children: Moses, Mary, Charlotte and Francis, father of our subject, who was born Oct. 10, 1803; died Aug. 4, 1874. He inherited the farm in Limerick township, and lived there many years, subsequently removing to Reading. He was a soldier in the war of the Rebellion. He married Matilda Brinthurst, and had two children, Frank M., our subject, and Sarah, wife of Rev. Henry W. Super, D. D., ex-president of Ursinus College. William Brinthurst, father of our subject's mother, married Mary Morris, on June 4, 1789, and had two children, Elizabeth, wife of Adam Harkness; and Israel, who was born Feb. 28, 1770, and died Feb. 1807. Israel Brinthurst had a family of eight children, among whom was Wright A. Brinthurst, who was a member of the State Legislature, and became a man of considerable note. At his death he bequeathed $200,000 for the support of the destitute poor of Norristown, Pottstown and Upper Providence township. Through the wife of William Brinthurst, our subject is a descendant of Jenkin Jenkins, who was born in Wales, in 1659, and came to this country in 1729, and located in Gwynedd. Ref. ch. Children: Freeland, Mary.

subject of this sketch, was educated in the public schools of Upper Providence Twp., subsequently took a full course in and graduated from Ursinus College in 1876. He then entered the law office of Jacob V. Gotwals, at that time district attorney of Montgomery county, and was admitted to the bar on Oct. 1, 1880. He immediately opened an office in Norristown, where he soon began to build up a lucrative practice, and where he has remained ever since. He is an eloquent pleader, and has been uniformly successful in the trial of cases. He defended Antonio Fredricko, an Italian, who was tried in 1890 for the murder of a fellow countryman. The murder occurred at Conshohocken, and Fredricko was captured at San Francisco. The trial was a most thrilling one, and resulted in the absolute acquittal of the accused. Mr. Hobson received the congratulations of his colleagues for the manner in which he had conducted the defense.

In September, 1888, Mr. Hobson put on foot the movement to organize The Norristown Title, Trust and Safe Deposit Company, and solicited most of the stock. He was made its secretary, treasurer, and trust officer. These positions he has held since that time. This institution has rapidly grown in popular favor, and now ranks as one of the most flourishing financial institutions of the county. He is also founder and publisher of the Montgomery County Law Reporter, which is now in its fourteenth volume. He is a member of the Montgomery County Historical Society, and is the author of the History of Providence Township, and one of the contributors to Col. Bean's History of Montgomery County, writing much of the township work. He has always taken great interest in public movements, and in 1884, when the Centennial celebration of Montgomery county was celebrated, he was chairman of the executive committee. It was in no small degree owing to his energy that this celebration was such a success. He was editor-in-chief of a beautiful memorial volume commemorating this event.

Mr. Hobson is a leader in the Patriotic Order Sons of America and is a member of Camp 267, at Ironbridge. In August, 1893, he was elected State President at the State convention held at Chester, Pa. At the conclusion of his term, at Erie, Pa., he was made the happy recipient of a handsome cane, made from a piece of the hull of the old flagship, Lawrence. The presentation was made by Hon. J. F. Dowling.

He is a prominent member of the Valley Forge Memorial Association, and is treasurer and chairman of its executive committee. He is filling the post of secretary of Riverside cemetery, recently organized. He is one of the directors of Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa., in which he has taken a very active interest. He is now President of Collegeville school board. Mr. Hobson is a Republican, but has never sought political office. He is a member of Trinity Reformed church of Collegeville, and has been an elder for eight years. He takes an active part in church work, having served as secretary and treasurer of the Montgomery County Sunday School Association, and as president of the Schuylkill Valley Union of Christian Endeavor. He has been upon the program at two international Christian Endeavor conventions; one at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1894, and again at Boston, in 1895. He has been a delegate to the classes, synods and general synod of the Reformed church in the United States. In all these bodies he has taken a very active part. He has on several occasions argued some most important appeals in these ecclesiastical judicatories.

* Son of the Pioneer Ludwig Eschenfelder.
Mr. Ashenfelter is a descendant in direct line of Ludovic Eschenfelder, whose name appears on the Revolutionary militia rolls of Philadelphia county, and who by deed executed in eastern Montgomery county in 1775, is described as "Ludwig Eschenfelder, yeoman." This ancestor settled on Indian Creek, in Montgomery county, about 1740, and his son Ludwig, great-grandfather of the subject of this sketch, served in the war of 1812. Mr. Ashenfelter's mother was Catharine Knerr, whose grandfather came to America in the ship Richard and Mary, John Moore, Master, landing Sept. 26, 1752.

Mr. Ashenfelter graduated at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., in the class of 1865, being president of his class. In the summer of 1866 he assumed editorial charge of the National Standard published at Salem, N. J., he being at the time engaged in reading law in the office of Peter McCall, Esq., of Philadelphia. Late in the fall of that year, however, he went out upon a long sea voyage around Cape Horn, accompanying a sea-going friend, Capt. John Shours, of Camden. He landed in Valparaiso, Chili, in March, 1867, and spent nearly two years on the west coast of South America. In the fall of that year he became consular clerk at Guayaquil, in Ecuador.

He returned home in 1868, completed his legal studies, and was admitted to the bar. He practiced at Rock Island, Ill., in 1869, and part of 1870, and during that time was night editor of the Rock Island Daily Union. He went to New Mexico, in the latter part of June, 1870, and in September of that year, was made United States Attorney for the Territory, a position which he held until the early part of 1872. He has been practicing law in the Territory since that time, and from 1877 until 1884 he also published a newspaper at Silver City, N. M. In 1885 he was made prosecuting attorney for the Third Judicial District of the Territory, and held the position nearly four years, when he resigned it. In 1895 he removed with his family to Colorado Springs, Colo., where he continued the practice of his profession. In 1898 he again removed to Silver City, N. M., where he now resides. IV. Elizabeth Detweiler, died about 1842. Mrs. Rev. John Hunsicker,* May 9, 1787. He was born in Skippack Twp., Montgomery Co., Pa., in 1772; died 1847. Farmer, lived on the farm now owned by his grandson, John S. Hunsicker, in Perkiomen Twp. He was an ordained Mennonite minister for nearly forty years, and succeeded his father as Bishop, who had been in the ministry fifty-four years.

The means of obtaining an education were poor when he was young, but natural talent and a strong mind enabled him to acquire knowledge far beyond many of his time.

He was not of an aggressive spirit, but rather of a mild nature and kindly disposition, yet he broke away from some of the rigid and exacting customs peculiar to the sect to which he belonged. He was progressive, and availed himself of means for information. He was a contributing member of the Trappe Literary Society which flourished about 1840, and read many of the books of its library.

His mental characteristics are plainly traceable through his children, giving evidence in the production of professional talent, as well as character, in his grandchildren, three of whom are distinguished lawyers, three are ministers of the gospel, though of different denominations, and one occupies the distinguished position of President of Girard College in Philadelphia. Children: Joseph, Henry, Mary, Sarah, Elizabeth, Garret.

Mr. Hendricks was reared on his father's farm, and in the spring of 1851, entered Freeland Seminary (now Ursinus College), and in the fall of 1852, took charge of a public school in Milford Square, Bucks county. During the four consecutive winters that he was a teacher in the public schools, he attended Freeland Seminary during the summer months. In Feb., 1856, he was appointed to the position of assistant teacher in Freeland Seminary, and in two years he was promoted to teach the higher mathematics and was made vice-principal of the institution.

It was while engaged in these duties that at a meeting of the Christian society at Freeland (now Collegeville), held in A. D. 1860, he was, according to the usages of the church, of which he was a member, elected on trial to the office of the ministry. He at once began to attend to the duties of his new position in connection with his school work. On June 25, 1861, he was ordained to the office of minister of the gospel.

The Christian society materialized and was incorporated in the spring of 1855. The society built for itself in 1854, what was styled the "Christian Meeting House," and the same was opened in the spring of 1855 for public worship. In February, 1862, Mr. Hendricks was elected pastor of the Christian society, and was installed in April, 1862. At this time the duties of his new office occupied so much of his time that he was compelled to resign his position as teacher and vice-principal of Freeland Seminary. To give a sketch of Mr. Hendricks' life-work, is to give a history of what is now Trinity Reformed church, Collegeville, Pa., the two being closely and indissolubly inter-related. He is now in the thirty-seventh year of his pastorate. He has been actively connected with and engaged in the Sunday school during all its past history, commencing in the spring of 1856. For twenty-eight consecutive years he was superintendent. During the forty-two years of its existence he has been teaching and leading the singing. During the pastorate the church has been continually enlarged. The church building has been very materially enlarged, improved and beautified, and at present a new cut stone front is being erected. The church yard and cemetery grounds also extend to twice their original size. A very creditable church has also, during the pastorate, been founded, well organized and built up at Skippackville. Collegeville church owns and controls a fine chapel at Ironbridge, used for Sunday school and church purposes.

The original Christian society, subsequently Trinity church, was organized and continued as an independent church, until 1888, when it was received into formal fellowship with the Reformed church in the United States. In 1892, the Skippackville church was also formally made part of the same denomination. Collegeville church, as it is, is made up of Trinity church, Collegeville; Trinity church, Skippackville; and Ironbridge chapel, Rahn Station. With its three Christian Endeavor societies, its three Sunday schools, and its other auxiliary church services, it is a very influential church, and has grown to its present proportions and prominence from a very small beginning, under the pastorate of Dr. Hendricks.

Mr. Hendricks enjoys the distinction of having served the same charge longer than any other living pastor in Montgomery county, and out of nine hundred funerals at which he has been asked to officiate, he has never missed any on account of sickness, and has only missed, in a third of a century, three church services on account of any bodily sickness; and in all these years he has had but one brief pastor's vacation. The late Moses Auge wrote for the general public, of Mr. Hendricks, eight years ago, that he is "greatly beloved by his own congregation, and is in much demand outside of his own churches, especially to officiate at funerals. He is a fluent and forcible preacher, speaking entirely extempor, in a rapid, earnest and convincing manner, impressing every one with the absolute conviction of the truth of what he is saying."

Mr. Hendricks has delivered numerous addresses at Sunday school picnics, public school commencements, national Thanksgivings, and Decoration day exercises, and to the G. A. R. Posts, for which he has received words and testimonials of high appreciation. In June, 1881, the Board of Directors of Ursinus College, upon the recommendation of its faculty, conferred on Mr. Hendricks the honorary degree of Master of Arts; and in June, 1897, the same college conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. At the age of 19, Mr. Krout entered the North Wales Institute, to obtain a more thorough education than the common schools afforded. In the fall of 1862 he commenced teaching, and until 1868 taught successively in the Deep Run, Rocky Ridge, Algards, Sellersville, and Plumstead schools. In 1868 he took charge of the West Bethlehem schools, Lehigh Co., and in 1869 accepted the principalship of Coplay schools, in the same county. Here he remained from Sept. 1869, to June 1883, when he asked to be relieved to become accountant and cashier for Coplay Iron Co. This position he held from July 1883 to Oct., 1888. In the fall of 1889 he took charge of the Borough schools of Emlenton, Venango Co., Pa., where, as principal, he re-organized the school system, and inroduced a number of improvements in the public schools of that municipality. Having been offered still better inducements by the Board of Education of the Lehighton Borough schools, he became principal and supervisor of the schools of that growing town on the Lehigh, and later principal of the public school of Wyoming, Luzerne Co., Pa. He is at present engaged in teaching in the city of Philadelphia, Pa.

Through all these years of teaching there is one idea that has never been lost sight of, namely, that of self-improvement. The schooling at the academy was only the beginning of a life of study. In 1876 he appeared before the State Board of Examiners, passed the examinations, and was granted a Normal Certificate as teacher of Didactics. He found much pleasure in pursuing a course of general studies in science and language, and in 1877 Franklin and Marshall College recognized his industry as a student, and conferred upon him the honorary degree of A. M.

He has been a member of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association since 1877, and an active member of the Touvey Botanical Club of Columbia College, New York City, since Oct., 1881. Having the confidence of the people at his permanent home in Coplay, he was frequently called upon to fill positions of honor and responsibility. He was the first commissioned Justice of the Peace of the borough, and continuously held the office from 1869 to 1890. He was secretary of the town council for thirteen years, and a school director while serving the Coplay Iron Co. The Judges of the Courts frequently appointed him to serve on road juries and commissions, and there are few townships in Lehigh Co. in which he has not been called to execute these appointments.

Being a member of the Ref. ch., he took active interest in the founding of Trinity congregation at Coplay, in 1872. He served as deacon and was for many years secretary of the consistory. He was the superintendent of the Sunday school of this congregation for eighteen years.

He commenced the study of medicine with his brother, Dr. I. S. Moyer, A. M., at Quakertown, Pa., and followed a course of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania from which institution he graduated in 1872. Soon after he located in Dublin, Pa., and had a large practice which he sold in the spring of 1890. On Dec. 5, 1872, he was married to Ella E. Bush, daughter of William H. Bush, who was at that time proprietor of the Bush House, at Quakertown, Pa. Dr. Moyer was a born physician; he seemed to understand his cases almost by instinct, and was very successful in treating them. He had a large practice to the end of his life. He will long be remembered as one of the most successful physicians ever living in that community. He died after a short but severe attack of typhoid fever, on May 11, 1890, at Doylestown, Pa. He was a member of the Improved Order of Red Men, and of Doylestown Lodge, F. & A. M. Mrs. Moyer, Luth. VI. Harvey P. Moyer, bn. near Kulpsville, Pa., Oct. 17, 1859. His early education was received in the common schools of the neighborhood, including a short term at the well-known boarding school at Trappe, Pa., under the management of Prof. Rambo, the county superintendent of schools of Montgomery Co. At the age of 16 years he began teaching public school near Mainland, Pa., continuing for two years.
In the spring of 1879, he entered the Normal school at Huntingdon, Pa., where he graduated in 1880. The next two years were spent in teaching school at Stewartsville, and at Alexandria, Pa., and in taking advanced studies in Huntingdon Normal College. In the fall of 1882 he entered the Senior Preparatory class at Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, finishing this course in 1883. In the latter part of this year he was called to fill a position in the preparatory department of Mt. Morris College, Mt. Morris, Ill., teaching Latin, Greek and English literature. This position he held for three years, finishing in the meantime the regular studies of the Freshman year in college. During this period, June 19, 1884, he married Elizabeth Leslie, of Nappanee, Ind., who had been a former student of Huntingdon Normal School, of Huntingdon, Pa. In the fall of 1886 he moved with his family to Oberlin, Ohio, to enter the Sophomore class of that college.

By means of teaching, leading choir, and the most rigid economy he managed to support his family, continue his studies, and complete his college course free of debt, graduating with honors in the classical course of 1889. It had been his intention to continue his studies in the Theological Seminary, but, unable to do this satisfactorily to himself, owing to lack of funds, it was thought best at this time to seek some employment to replenish the depleted treasury. Just then an opening was found in the West, and in November, 1889, he joined his former class-mate, H. L. Hall, at Des Moines, Iowa, and engaged in selling school supplies. Success during the first year at this enterprise resulted in being admitted as an equal partner into the firm known as the Western School Supply House, Des Moines, Iowa, with which he is still connected. This company now incorporated with H. L. Hall, president, and H. P. Moyer, vice-president and treasurer, controls some valuable patents, and has been doing a flourishing business.

Mr. Moyer's college work was characterized by considerable special work involving original investigations. Several of his writings on religious subjects have received favorable comment from able critics. He has since kept up his literary interests, and is devoting considerable attention to reform movements, especially along the line of the growing movement of Christian Socialism. In the midst of a busy business life he finds time to be the active leader of his church choir, teacher of a large and enthusiastic Bible class, and secretary of the Federation of Evangelical churches in his city. His activity in literary, musical, religious, and reform work promises substantial results in the future. Cong. ch. Children:

His academic training was acquired at the Freeland Seminary, then under the management of Rev. Henry A. Hunsicker. After completing his course, and teaching for a time in the public schools, Dr. Fetterolf connected himself with the institution as professor of mathematics, and subsequently purchased Mr. Hunsicker's interest and became proprietor and principal.

He conducted the institution very successfully for five years, when the buildings and grounds were purchased for Ursinus College.

Professor Fetterolf then associated himself with Rev. Dr. Wells in the ownership and management of Andalusia Academy, in Bucks county.

After the death of Dr. Wells, in 1871, he assumed the entire charge, and continued at the head of the Academy for the next five years. In 1880 he was elected by the Board of City Trusts to fill the chair of Vice-President of Girard College. At the death of President Allen, two years later, Professor Fetterolf was chosen to succeed him. He has held the position and discharged the manifold duties ever since, with the confidence of the Board, and the approbation of the public.

The college of which Dr. Fetterolf is now President was founded by Stephen Girard, a native of France, who had amassed an immense fortune as a shipping merchant and banker in Philadelphia, where he had arrived a poor boy, and begun business in a very humble way, and who bequeathed $2,000,000 and the residue of his estate, after paying certain legacies, for the erection and support of a college for orphans. As many poor, white, male orphans who are residents of Pennsylvania, are admitted between the ages of six and ten years, as the endowment can support. They are fed, clothed, and educated, and between the ages of fourteen and eighteen may leave the college to pursue mechanical, commercial, and agricultural occupations. They are given manual as well as mental training, and are in great demand in the shops, and in the manufactories of Philadelphia, as skilled workmen, after they have graduated.

The government of Girard College demands high and rather peculiar qualifications. The position of the President is one of great responsibility, standing as he does in loco parentis to over fifteen hundred orphan boys—the representative head of the greatest individual charity on the continent.

President Fetterolf has the charm of a genial, quiet, well-balanced character, a pleasing address, an impressive presence, and that subtle faculty which wins the confidence of boys. He is the fourth president of the college. The first presided over but two hundred boys; the second saw five hundred assembled at chapel; the third witnessed the roll lengthen to eleven hundred; while Dr. Fetterolf has over fifteen hundred under his charge. It requires executive ability of the highest order to successfully direct the destinies and control the actions of so many undeveloped mental and physical organisms, and that President Fetterolf is able to accomplish this without harsh discipline, demonstrates in the strongest possible way his eminent fitness for the responsible position he occupies. His abilities have had numerous recognitions from the faculties of other colleges, the most recent of which was the conferring upon him of the degrees of A. M. and Ph. D., by Lafayette College, and by Delaware College of the title of LL. D.

In May, 1887, the Legislature of Pennsylvania passed an act authorizing and requesting the Governor to appoint a commission of five citizens of the commonwealth to "make inquiry and report, by bill or otherwise, respecting the subject of Industrial Education." Gov. Beaver placed President Fetterolf on this commission, his already extensive knowledge of the subject making the selection especially valuable and appropriate.

Dr. Fetterolf has been twice married, and has two sons. His first wife was Miss Annie Hergesheimer, daughter of George Hergesheimer, Esq., of Germantown. Children: George, Edwin.

In 1883 he married Miss Laura M. Mangam, daughter of William D. Mangam, Esq., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

VII. George Fetterolf, M. D., bn. at Collegeville, Montgomery Co., Pa., Mar. 31, 1869; was educated at his father's school at Andalusia, Bucks Co., Pa., until he was twelve years of age. In 1881 he entered the fourth form of the Protestant Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia, graduating there in 1883.
He then entered the Freshman class of the University of Pennsylvania, taking his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1887. From 1887-88 he was Demonstrator of Embryology and Botany in the University of Pennsylvania Biological School. In 1888 he entered the University Medical School and graduated there May 1, 1891. On May 2, 1891, he entered on a two years' service as House Surgeon at St. Luke's Hospital, So. Bethlehem, Pa., which he completed on May 1, 1893. He then returned to Philadelphia, and in August, 1893, he began the practice of medicine at his present address, 1317 Girard Ave. The positions he is now filling are: Physician to the Actors' Fund; Prosector to the chair of Aplliry Anatomy; clinical assistant on Otology, Philadelphia Polyclinic; Qurz. Master on General Anatomy, Medical Institute of Philadelphia. Prot. Ep. Single.

VII. Edwin Henry Fetterolf, A.B., born at Andalusia, Bucks Co., Pa., Dec. 3, 1873. He prepared for college at the Episcopal Academy of Philadelphia, graduating in 1890, at the head of his class, one of the largest in the history of the school. In September of the same year he entered the Freshman class of the Department of Arts in the University of Pennsylvania. At the end of his Sophomore year he choose the Wharton School of Finance and Economy, and graduated with his class in June, 1894. Immediately after graduation he entered the employ of Architect John H. Windrim. For three months he was stationed at Harrisburg, assisting in the erection of the new capitol building, built by Mr. Windrim.

He was acting Asst. Adj. General, and had one hundred picked men against a fort on Cemetery Hill. He surprised the fort, drove the rebels back, and held it for a short time. Col. Mulholland had promised him reinforcements if he succeeded in taking the fort, but the rebels rallied and rushed back with such force, and in such numbers, that the Colonel seeing the futility of trying to keep possession of the fort, concluded to save the lives of his men, and withheld the reinforcements. The men already sent in were lost. Henry's body was afterwards recovered, and lies buried in the Ger. Bap. burying ground in North Coventry, Chester Co., Pa.

III. Rev. John Funk, dec'd. Mrd. Ann —. She died May 5, 1797, aged 34 yrs., 3 mos. Farmer. After the death of his father, the care of the church known as the "Funkites" was in a great measure committed to his management, but it is said that he did not excel in his calling, (though he was a good man), and in consequence the church declined. His fine large farm, located east of the lower end of Evansburg, on the Skippack Creek, he inherited from his father. During the war of 1812 he took to speculating, and when the crisis came after the war, his property was swept away, and he became dependent. Tradition hands down a saying of his, to his boys, (one a merchant, and the other running the farm,) "Buy land, boys, buy land, plenty of money, they make money at Norristown." He finally moved to Berks Co., and died there. Children: Abraham, Magdalena, John, Catharine, and by a second wife, four daughters.

During the early part of his life he was engaged in the tobacco and cigar business, in which business he continued until the Lord enlightened his mind, when he gave it up, together with the habit of smoking and chewing, the Lord taking away the appetite in answer to prayer.

He was Post master at Collegeville for about nine years, after which he moved to Philadelphia. He was converted in Feb., 1850. In 1858 his health failed, and in the winter of 1860 he expected to die of an incurable disease: but while on his knees he opened the Bible on the following passage, "The Lord has afflicted thee sore, but hast not given thee over unto death. Thou shalt not die, but live and declare the works of the Lord." The next day, without any effort, he again opened the Bible and his eyes lighted on the same passage. That was his call to preach, when he thought he was to die. His physician told him he might live two or three years if he would move to the country, which he did in May, 1861, and he is yet living, but the doctor has been dead some years.
In 1864 he received license to preach at Evansburg Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, by Rev. Wm. Grey, P. E., and was ordained deacon in 1875, at the Philadelphia conference, held at Norristown, Pa., by Bish. Matthew Simpson. He has served as a supply at St. Luke's Reformed church, Trappe, and had a call to a church of that denomination, but owing to the fact that he had been broken down in health for more than fifteen years, he thought it unwise to take pastorate of any church.

The greatest work of his life occurred since 1861. The Lord who called him through the most physical weakness, has done wonders in three separate revivals in the county.

In 1879, just before the greatest work, all things considered, of his life of which the Lord made him instrumental, the Lord opened his eyes on the doctrine of entire sanctification, and a desire for it. He sought it without delay, and obtained the blessing which he enjoys to this day, only more matured. He is now leader of a Holiness meeting of the Meth. Ep. church, at 20th and Jefferson Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.

DESCENDANTS OF ABRAHAM FUNK, SON OF BISHOP HENRY FUNCK.

Il. Abraham Funk, bn. in Montgomery Co., Pa., Nov. 21, 1784; died in Springfield Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., Apr. 16, 1788, from the effects of a stroke of palsy, received on his way home from church. Mbd. Mary Landis, Jan. 19, 1758. She died Feb., 1826. After the death of his father, he became owner of the old homestead of 53 acres, and the mill at Indian Creek, Montgomery Co., which he sold in 1763 to his brother, Christian Funk, having owned it only three years.

We insert here the following interesting sketch of the life of (I.) Henry Funck, father of (II.) Abraham Funk, and founder of this mill, with a history of the same, which was written by W. H. Richardson, of Philadelphia, Pa., and published in the Miller's Review. W. H. Richardson is also a descendant of the founder of the mill.

Among the multitudes of Europeans attracted to America some two centuries ago were thousands of Palatines who swelled the population of the new world then, and enriched the stock which peopled it in all generations since. A great many of these early German settlers were Mennonites, or followers of the teachings of Menno Simons, a native of Friesland. Early in life he was a priest in the Roman church, but in 1536 he severed his connection with it, and became recognized as one of the leaders of the sect which was so bitterly and so relentlessly persecuted—indeed one writer has said that even the sufferings of the primitive Christians did not compare with the nameless horrors to which these Mennonite martyrs submitted. Among the methods by which so many of them met death calmly and unflinchingly it is recorded that some were buried alive, others were burned, some were torn on the rack, others were hung, while the most fearful tortures were applied to those from whom confession of error might be wrung, or recantation, or information about their fellows might be extorted. So many of these atrocities were perpetrated while the Netherlands were under Spanish domination, that one of the results of the intolerance was to widely disperse the Dutch Mennonites into countries in which there was a greater liberality of thought in religious matters.

For a century and a half, however, those of the refugees and their descendants who had expected to find an asylum in the Rhenish provinces, had been persecuted with varying degrees of bitterness—burning and pillaging their property being the mildest expressions of their enemies' feeling for them—and so when Penn, who needed settlers for his "elysium," presented them with an invitation to go to the new land, holding out to them the glittering prospect of religious freedom, they went, and the tide of emigration from the Fatherland swept on for many years. To-day if you should hear of millers with names sounding anything like Kuster, Hendricks, Nordyke, Yokum, Bean, Rhoods, Gotwals, Jacobs, Royer, Zimmerman, Shoemaker, Rittenhouse, Landis, Brubaker, Kulp, Weaver, Snyder, Bowman, Acker, Zug, Miller, Cassel, Wagner, Wentz—and there are many more—it is likely that those millers can trace their origin back to martyr ancestors, who chose to be of that great throng which entered the Kingdom through much tribulation.

Among the Mennonite immigrants to Pennsylvania was Henry Funck. He settled along the Indian Creek, in what is now the upper part of Montgomery county, a couple of miles from the present village of Harleysville. He came to that wilderness (he tells us that his nearest neighbor was five miles away) in the year 1719 and he gave up the wonderfully busy life he led in it in 1760, when his neighbors carried his body out of his old home, and buried it in a quiet spot beneath the trees, somewhere on the broad acres he had owned and tended and loved. A reference to what was accomplished by this great man (for so he will be considered when people commence to read and weigh history aright) will be of interest to all our miller readers for the reason that Henry Funck was a miller. He was a deep scholar; he was a preacher in the Mennonite church and for some years a bishop; he looked after a large farm; he was the author of two books, one of which was published in 1774 and ran through at least five additions, while the other one, published three years after his death, was meritorious enough to run through three editions, being reprinted in Switzerland in 1844, and again in Lancaster in 1862. He was prominent in another literary enterprise, which will be referred to later; and he was the father of a large family of children—there were ten in the flock he reared. Any one of his occupations would probably be considered a fairly good sized job for a man of this generation. To say that the world was better for Henry Funck's having lived in it is a plain way of stating a plain truth for all people, and it will not be without profit for millers to know that it was one of their craft whom history will some day delight to honor.

Time will pay the greatest tribute to Henry Funck for the work he did in connection with a publication, which has been appropriately termed the noblest specimen of American colonial bibliography, the so-called "Martyr Book," printed at the Ephrata cloister in 1748. It was a translation of Tieleman Jans van Braght's great historical book of Mennonites, published in Dordrecht, Holland, in 1660. It was compiled from many smaller publications that appeared during the previous century, the owners and authors of which were, in many instances, burned with their books by the executioner. In the van Braght book the story of the Mennonites is told, and it tells especially of their sufferings for the sake of their religion, and describes, in all the horrible details, the death of many of their martyrs. Next to their Bible the book was most widely read, as the knowledge of it gave them courage and calmness under the terrible conditions in which they lived for so many generations.

Prior to 1748 the difficulty here was that there was no complete German translation, for German was the tongue almost universally used among these American Mennonites; the original Martyr Book was in Dutch. England, which through Penn's pledge had granted them religious freedom, had gotten into trouble with France, and in 1744 war was declared. And then fearful of the result which might again confront them with the alternative of another creed or persecution, these peace-loving and non-resisting people declared, "it becomes us to strengthen ourselves for such circumstances with patience and endurance, and to make every preparation for steadfast constancy in our faith." So, in 1745, six of them—of whom Henry Funck was one—wrote to their brethren in Holland for information and assistance that would give them a German translation in which their own people and their posterity could "see the traces of those faithful witnesses who have walked in the way of truth and given up their lives for it."

It took the proverbially slow Dutchmen three years to make up their minds in the matter, and then they wrote back to America that it would be impracticable to undertake the work on account of the great expense involved, and also because a translator who could do justice to the subject could not be found. They sent along the rather quaint suggestion that it would be very wholesome for the rising generation to be required to copy in pen and ink the principal parts of the book which could be translated by the older people who were skilled in the two languages, but Henry Funck and his associates had not waited for this advice. In 1745 they concluded a very advantageous arrangement with the mystical Dunkers at Ephrata, to have the book translated and printed, and so the work which, according to the judgment of that distinguished scholar, Hon. S. W. Pennypacker, marked an epoch in the literary history of America, was undertaken.

Two men—Henry Funck was one, Dielman Kolb the other—were appointed to supervise the translation, and so devoted were they that they gave three years of their time and labor to it, inspecting each leaf as it came from the press, going over each in order to compare it with the original and see that nothing was lost. They gave their certificate that they had read every one of the 1512 folio pages carefully, that the translation (which was nearly all done by the learned Prior of the Ephrata community) was in all respects, so far as they could judge, a faithful rendering of the original. Twelve hundred copies were printed and most of them sold. Some of the sheets were still at Ephrata at the opening of the Revolution.
The Government having need of "all war material and also paper," and the members of the community having refused to give up what they had, two wagons and six soldiers were sent and they carried off the rest of the martyr books, and so in spite of the peaceful intentions of the Mennonites their books were put to a most sanguinary use, for it is not unlikely that many a British trooper stopped the bullets which were sped on their blood-thirsty mission by wads of paper containing latter-day versions of the gospel of "Peace on earth."

Henry Funk's mill still stands; it is owned and operated today by H. M. Musselman. It is, of course, somewhat changed in external appearance since the days of its distinguished founder; some years ago fire destroyed much of its old woodwork and a later owner built an additional story of frame above the substantial walls. A steam engine is a modern installation, too, to help along in times when Indian Creek is low and the forebay is simply a puddle for the frogs to bathe in. There is a pair of ancient buhr stones in the mill, and as one listens to their droning song, with its click-a-clack, click-a-clack accompaniment, his fancy easily wanders back to the days of the miller who made so good a name for himself, and who left us of this generation so goodly a heritage. One of the curiosities Mr. Musselman will show you, if you ask him, is a bundle of old deeds running back to the earliest ownership in the place, and on one of them, dated 1773, is fastened the great seal of the province. It is an unusually good impression, and the signature of Thomas Penn, one of the proprietors and the second son of the Quaker founder, is apparently as fresh as the day it was written, one hundred and sixty-five years ago.—Written by W. H. R.

After the sale of the mill (l.) Abraham Funk moved to Springfield Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., at what is now Springtown, where he purchased on the 27th day of May, 1763, a "plantation of land with a water grist mill, houses and out-houses, mill and mill-houses, and other buildings, races, dams and water rights," "containing by estimation 300 acres with an allowance of six per cent for roads, from Stephen Twining, of Wrightstown, Bucks Co., Province of Pennsylvania, for the sum of £1570 lawful money of Pennsylvania. This tract being a part of 651 acres which by a proprietary patent of the 10th day of May, 1738, was granted unto Caspar Wistar, of the city of Philadelphia, who, the 20th day of May of the same year (1738), sold 500 acres of this tract to Stephen Twining, who built for himself a dwelling and other buildings. The old homestead in which Abraham Funk lived and died was a large log mansion, built either by Twining or Funk, probably the latter, one story and a half high, with three rooms on the first floor, and several on the second floor, and stood across the road, directly opposite the present dwelling, the site of which is now covered by the mill pond.

The mill was the first in Springfield Twp., and was built by Stephen Twining in 1738. This mill was torn down and rebuilt on the same site by Abraham Funk, in 1782, being a substantial stone structure, three stories high, with three run of stone, and which stood and did service for 81 years, when it was torn down and rebuilt in 1863, by Henry S. Funk, the present owner. In addition to the grist mill, Abraham Funk also built a saw mill. He also purchased another tract of land from Catharine Greenleaf (widow), containing 96 acres, on which Springtown now stands, which, after reserving all rights, springs and tributaries, he sold (the 96 acres) to his brother, Henry Funk, Sr., late of Upper Milford Twp., Northampton (now Lehigh) Co., on the 29th day of May, 1784, for £650, and who in turn sold it to his nephew, Henry Funk, son of Abraham Funk, on the 11th day of November, 1785, for the sum of £1002 of gold and silver money. Abraham Funk also owned a property in Upper Milford Twp., Northampton Co., of 56 acres, on which were a saw mill and hemp mill erected. He also owned several other properties of smaller dimensions in Springfield Twp.

Abraham Funk, in locating his home, made a wise selection and settled in a beautiful and fertile valley, with a good and never failing supply of water from numerous springs scattered through the valley, and which latter feature was the prime motive in his locating here, there being a scarcity of water at the old mill he inherited from his father in Franconia.

From the Penn manuscripts purchased by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, we are enabled to state that the event known in history as the famous Indian walk, which took place the 19th and 20th of September, 1737, crossed this place, and the participants in that walk took their dinner on the first day's walk by a spring probably where the mill now stands, and near the abode of one Geo. Wilson, an Indian trader and squatter. Owing to the fact that Wilson the Indian trader had his abode here, and numerous arrow heads and Indian implements, pipes, battle axes, etc., having been found, attest the fact that this valley was at one time the abode also of the red man, and an Indian burying ground is known to exist on the Funk tract.

A mineral spring exists on this place which was discovered about 1844, which has been analyzed several times and found to contain great beneficial qualities.

About 200 feet back of the present dwelling a cave was discovered in the summer of 1893 by one of the workmen while plowing, one of the horses breaking through the thin crust of earth, revealing a cave of immense proportions.

Henry H. Funk, son of Hon. Henry S. Funk, and great-great-great-grandson of Bishop Henry Funck, was let into the cave by means of a rope around his body, and was the first one to enter and explore the cave. He was let down about 40 feet to the bottom of the first opening where he found a small aperture through which he crept a distance of about 5 feet into a large cavern into which no light of day penetrates. He sent for lights which were let down to him, and after wandering about for several hours, he was joined by his father; they set out to examine the cavern more thoroughly, and discovered a lake of pure crystal water, the size and depth of which has not yet been ascertained. It is supposed that the spring underneath the water-wheel of the mill, which throws up a stream of water about six inches in diameter has its source from this lake.

As to any official position occupied by Abraham Funk nothing is known. It is said, however, that during the Revolution he was impressed as teamster in which capacity he served three months during which time he was an eye witness of the battle of Brandywine, but we would rather believe that he sent his eldest son Henry, then a lad of 17, with the team.
Of the personal characteristics of Abraham Funk, but little is known. However, judging from his numerous real estate transactions from records and documents in the possession of Henry S. Funk, it is evident that he was a very shrewd business man. He was successful in accumulating a large amount of wealth. The inventory of his personal property at his death amounted to $10,320 besides owning over 500 acres of improved real estate unincumbered.

He was a man of upright character and strict integrity, and was a prominent member of the Mennonite church of Springfield, where he and wife are buried. Children: Henry, Anna, Jacob, John, Catharine, Elizabeth, Susanna, Abraham, —.

On the death of his father, Henry Funk came into possession of the old homestead tract with grist and saw mill, also the tract on which Springtown now stands, and a tract of land with saw mill and hemp mill in Upper Milford Twp., and several other tracts, aggregating over 500 acres. Of the old homestead tract he sold to his brothers, Jacob and John, over 200 acres in 1792, and three years later re-purchased a greater portion of it. He first lived in the old log mansion, but in 1796 erected a large, substantial stone dwelling on the opposite side of the road, directly in front of the old log house, which was completed about Christmas, and moved into it between Christmas and New Year of the same year.

The new dwelling was the largest, most commodious, and finest in the entire region of the country round about. It is built of limestone upon solid rock, with foundation walls 3 feet thick, with open fireplaces in every room of the house, 20 panes of glass in every window.

The exterior and interior of the house remains unchanged to this day, and is in an excellent state of preservation, and is the present home of the Hon. Henry S.
Funk.

The old log mansion in which Abraham Funk lived and died, and from which his son Henry moved into the new dwelling, was afterwards used for a blacksmith shop and wash house, until it was torn down and removed about 1830.

Henry Funk remained on the old homestead until his death, managing the farm, running the grist and saw mills, and also engaged in the coopering business.

He was a man of more than ordinary intelligence, and his high sense of honor and integrity gained for him the entire confidence of the people, as is evidenced by the fact that his advice was constantly sought for, and his services required in writing wills, deeds, and in the transaction of other business.

In politics he was a Whig, and was elected to the Pennsylvania House of Representatives in 1808 and 1809.
In religion a Mennonite, and one of the leading members of the Springfield church.

IV. Ralph Funk, son of Henry Funk, was born A. D., 1794, in Springtown, Bucks Co., Pa. While at home with his father he was occupied in the milling business. He was united in marriage with Nancy Kaufman Dec. 9, 1817. They lived on their farm near Bethlehem, in Northampton Co., Pa. Here were born to them the following nine children: Samuel, Elizabeth, William, Cyrus, Mary Ann, Barbara, Cecilia, Henry, Sarah. In the year 1834 Ralph took a trip through the central and southern part of Indiana, and the south-western, southern and central parts of Ohio, in view of a location for a future home. He started in company with Messrs. Bechtel and Barto. They traveled by stage coach, and it required twelve days' continuous journey going from Bethlehem to Indianapolis. Here the stage route ended. They then walked forty miles. Now Ralph purchased a fine riding horse, and a few days after, separating from his companions, he made the remainder of his journey alone.

Returning home after an absence of several weeks, he sold their farm, and in the autumn of 1835 again went to Wayne Co., Ohio, purchased a cultivated farm situated three miles south of Wooster, the county seat, consisting of 260 acres (on which was a flouring mill), at a cost of $7,500, after which he returned home again.
He made preparations to move with his family on the first day of April, but a deep snow having fallen, he was detained until the 18th day of April, 1836. Their youngest child was now eleven weeks old. He started with one large covered wagon (commonly called a dry land schooner), drawn by four large horses, and another wagon drawn by two horses. He with his wife and smaller children rode in a comfortable two horse carriage. They carried provisions, and putting up at the taverns on the way, cooked their own food. This being the custom, most taverns had the conveniences for this purpose.

His brother, Kaufman Funk, went with him, but soon after returned to Pa. The expense of moving was $100. George Bechtel also moved his family in company with Ralph, and bought an adjoining farm, where he spent the remainder of his life. It took them 21 days to make the journey.

Ralph then followed milling, and with the help of his sons, the farming business. There being no market in Wooster, they drew their produce to Fulton and Massillon, the trip taking two or three days. Their four youngest children were born here: Matilda, Sophia Malinda, Kaufman, Maria Isabella.

Ralph and his wife were members of the Mennonite church. While he lived in Ohio the nearest church of their persuasion was ten miles distant, where they occasionally attended services. They both had strong constitutions, good health, and led temperate, moral, honest, Christian lives, and imparted these same good qualities to their children and grandchildren; for which give God the glory.

Ralph Funk died in March, 1848, and was buried in the graveyard adjoining his farm. This farm and mill were then sold, and Nancy Funk bought a smaller farm in the same county, ten miles west of Wooster, and near the church they formerly attended. Here she, with her younger children, lived; her son William farming the place until she died, Dec. 23, 1850, and was buried in the graveyard by the church.

The farm was then sold, and the estate divided among the children. The younger children found homes with the older married ones.
V. Samuel Funk, bn. in Northampton Co., Pa., Feb. 11, 1819. Miller, and worked with his father. Mrd. Nancy, daughter of Philip and Ruth Yarnell, Apr. 20, 1842. She was then twenty years old. Children: Elmer, Ruth, Sarah Jane. In 1845 they moved to Napoleon, Henry Co., Ohio. In 1849 they returned to Wayne county, and bought a flouring mill ten miles west of Wooster. In September, 1852, the mill burned. In August, 1856, they moved into Wooster, and he was occupied as a grain merchant the remainder of his life. Samuel and his wife united with the Baptist church during the winter of 1858. He died Nov. 28, 1870, and was buried in the Wooster cemetery. Nancy died in Oct., 1898, and was buried beside her husband.

VI. Elmer Funk, bn. Mar. 27, 1843, in Wayne Co., Ohio. He had a common school education. Oct. 5, 1861, he enlisted in the army, and served his country faithfully through all the Vicksburg campaign, enduring many hardships and privations until the close of the war, when he was honorably discharged Oct. 80, 1864, and returned to Wooster, Ohio, where he is engaged as a produce dealer, and owns a comfortable home. Mrd. Rachel A. Remley. Children: Harriet, Samuel, Stewart, Sterling, Bessie, William, Georgia, Sarah, Rachel.

VII. Samuel K. Funk, bn. Aug. 19, 1872. Was killed by the R. R. cars, Jan. 7, 1889, near Ft. Wayne, Ind., and was buried in the cemetery at Wooster, Ohio.

VII. Stewart V. Funk, bn. Mar. 6, 1874.

VII. Sterling Funk, bn. Mar. 16, 1876. Served in the late war with Spain.

VII. Bessie M. Funk, bn. Sept. 8, 1878.

VII. Rachel A. Funk, bn. Nov. 28, 1889.

VI. Ruth Funk, died, aged about 5 years.

VI. Sarah Jane Funk, bn. in Napo'leon, Henry Co., Ohio, Oct. 9, 1846. Lived with her parents until Aug. 13, 1868, when she mrd. Harrison McClaren, son of James

Children:

VIII. Marie Lucille Shriner, bn. June 8, 1892.

VII. A daughter, bn. June 6, 1881; died Aug. 4, 1881.

VII. Mary Ellen McClarren, bn. Apr. 23, 1883.

V. Elizabeth Funk, bn. May 13, 1822. She was short of stature and light complexion. She lived with her parents until she was united in marriage with Matthew McClure, Nov. 10, 1843. They lived on a farm three miles south of Wooster, Ohio. In 1850 Mr. McClure was taken with the gold fever and went across the mountains with a team, to California, being on the way about three months. Not being successful in procuring gold, he took as a substitute a body full of rheumatism, and returned home by the ocean, Isthmus of Panama, and the Gulf. In 1855 they bought and moved onto a farm in Union Co., Ohio. In 1858 they sold their farm, and bought the old farm where they lived when first married. This they afterward sold, and bought a cottage home in Wooster, where they lived until Elizabeth died, Apr. 15, 1894. She was buried in the cemetery at Wooster. They celebrated their golden wedding Nov. 10, 1892. Elizabeth united with the Presbyterian church soon after marriage, and lived a quiet, consistent, Christian life, and hers was a peaceful and happy death. Matthew died in Mar., 1899. Children: James, Louisa, Margaret, Cyrus, Matthew, Francis, Frank, Burr, William, Wesley, Charles, Perry.

VI. James A. McClure, bn. in Wayne Co., Ohio, Oct. 28, 1844. Farmer. Lived at home until 1870, then went to Elk Co., Kan., and procured a farm from settlers and government, situated two miles from Longton. Mrd.
Fannie, daughter of Frank and Phoebe Flory, Apr. 30, 1872. James, with his family, returned to Wayne Co., O., in March, 1890, and is now living near Wooster. Cong. ch. Children: Hattie, Elizabeth, James, Harry, George.

VII. Hattie Louisa McClure, bn. near Longton, Kan., Feb. 18, 1873; died in infancy.

VII. Elizabeth McClure, bn. near Longton, Kan., Nov. 5, 1874. She graduated in the public schools in Wooster, Ohio, and is teaching. Baptist.

VII. James Fred McClure, bn. May 12, 1876; died 1897.

VI. Louisa McClure, bn. in Wayne Co., Ohio, July 8, 1846. She had a common school education. Mrd. Horace A. Maize, Dec. 23, 1869. The grandfather of Horace owned the farm and mill that Ralph Funk purchased when he came to Wayne Co., Ohio, and on this farm Horace and Louisa lived. Horace died Oct. 6, 1893, at the age of 48, and his parents being deceased, the farm remains in Louisa's possession during her life. Louisa is a member of the Baptist ch. Children:

Mr. Catharine, daughter of Henry B. and Mary (Wisler) Myers, in Wayne Co., O., May 4, 1850. She was bn. in Columbiana Co., O., May 4, 1831. In 1854 they moved to Elkhart Co., Ind., and bought a farm situated six miles west of Goshen, the county seat, and built a steam saw mill on it. He attended to the management of both farm and mill. About 1862 he sold this farm and mill and bought a farm four miles farther west, and gave all his attention to farming. He built a barn and large house here. He still owns this farm. Meth. Ep. Catharine died Sept.
22, 1882, and was buried in the graveyard at the Olive (formerly Shaun's) church, one mile north of their home. She died trusting in her Redeemer. A few years later William rented the farm and moved to Elkhart, where he is living at present with his daughter, Mrs. Hauenstein. William leads an honest, moral, strictly temperate, and exemplary Christian life. His family are all very much respected. Children: Emma, Mary, Cyrus, Walter, Alice, Kaufman, Nelson, Effie, Chloe.

VI. Cyrus H. Funk, bn. in Elkhart Co., Ind., May 17, 1855. Is below medium height, heavy set. Attended the country school, and the Normal a short time, then taught in the country schools, and by his own efforts took a course in dentistry. He is now following his profession in Cassopolis, Mich. Mrs. Ellen Ritter, Apr. 24, 1890. Children:

VII. William Leland Funk, bn. June 12, 1892.
VII. Cyrus Ritter Funk, bn. Aug. 29, 1898.

VI. Walter A. Funk, bn. in Elkhart Co., Ind., Dec. 18, 1857. Mrs. Mary E., daughter of Frederick Allen and Mary Anderson Harris, of South Bend, Ind., Apr. 21, 1892. He was an industrious student while yet very young, has an unusually good memory, but his progress in his studies were very much delayed by an accident: he was kicked by a horse, injuring the frontal bone of the skull, which, after some years of suffering, was trephined, and then required more than a year to recover. Mr. Funk attended the district schools of his county, and taught school in Bristol and Benton, Ind. He attended the Northern Indiana Normal School, at Valparaiso, taking a scientific course, and graduated from the law department of the Michigan University at Ann Arbor, in 1885. The same year he was admitted to the bar of St. Joseph Co., Ind., and also of the State Supreme court. Mr. Funk located in South Bend, Ind., in 1884, and while not in the University he was a student in the office of Hon. A. Anderson, until 1886, when he launched out on his own hook. From 1887 to 1889 he was deputy prosecuting attorney of his district, and in 1890 ran for the office of prosecutor on the Republican ticket, but was defeated. He was also, later, the Republican candidate for State senator, for the district comprising St. Joseph and Starke counties, but was defeated. Mr. Funk has been eminently successful, and occupies a high position as a lawyer and citizen. One child:

VII. William Harris Funk, bn. May 14, 1893.

VII. Grace Moon, bn. June 15, 1891.

VII. Lloyd Moon, bn. Feb. 15, 1893.

VI. Nelson E. Funk, bn. Mar. 19, 1866. Mrs. Susan Wilson, of Appleton, Wis., May 22, 1895. Is medium height, light complexion, constitution delicate. Was from childhood very fond of solid reading. Farm work being distasteful to him, his mind turned to inventing machinery. He left home at the age of fifteen and traveled in the interest of, first, the Mennonite Publishing Co., Elkhart, Ind., then of the Miles Medical Co. Afterwards took an interest in, and became general manager of the Garden City Stationery Co. During this time he traveled considerably through the different states in the interest of this establishment. Being a close observer, and with a good memory, he made this a great source of improvement in general knowledge. In the winter of 1892 he took a trip through the interior of the Republic of Mexico, going through Texas to El Paso, then by R. R. through Chihuahua, Zacatecas, Aguas Calientes, Guanajuato, Guadalajara, to the City of Mexico; then to Puebla, Oaxaca, and in the interest of Archaeology visited the ancient ruined city of Mitla. The R. R. terminated one hundred and fifty miles north of Mitla, this journey he made on horseback with one Indian guide. His route lay over the mountains and was infested with highway robbers, or bandits, this making it very dangerous to travel alone. He carried his camera and photographed a number of the ruins, as well as many other places of interest. He visited and went down into the silver mines to see the men at work. He traveled a few days with a missionary; this gave him an opportunity to get acquainted with the converted native Indians. After his return home he wrote some letters for publication, and delivered a few lectures on the subject. He invented a machine for automatically feeding printing presses and ruling machines. Meth. Ep. Member of the Y. M. C. A. Is an industrious, temperate man. President of Western Book & Paper Co. Res., St. Joseph, Mich.

VI. Effie M. Funk, bn. Sept. 15, 1869. Is medium height, fair complexion, dark hair; has not a healthy constitution. V. Cyrus Funk, bn. Aug. 31, 1836; died Apr. 11, 1895. Mrs. Susan D. Downey, in Clinton, Dewitt Co., Ill., Aug., 1852. She died Feb. 20, 1887. They were both buried in the cemetery at Clinton, Ill. Mrs. F., Meth. Ep. Children: William, Mary, Darby.

Cyrus left home at the age of 17, went to Wooster, Ohio, to learn the cabinet trade. This consisted in making furniture by hand. After working there three years he went to Millersburg, Ohio, and two years after to Pittsburg, Pa. At about the age of 23 he went to Louisville, Ky., and from there to Springfield, Ill., and in 1850 to Clinton, Dewitt Co., Ill., where he resided the remainder of his life. Here he owned and worked a planing mill.

In 1881 he met with a serious accident, being caught in the gearing of the mill and carried around the shaft, until his assistant could stop the machinery from running. It was thought he was killed, but he survived. The upper part of the spine was injured, and life hung in the balance for some time. Although the pain was continuous and very severe, he returned to his work, and carried on his business until about 1891, when he was obliged to cease laboring and sell the mill. His muscles gradually became paralyzed, until he was almost helpless. During the 14 years of suffering he was very patient, never complaining. He was a member of the Masonic order.

VI. Lloyd Sackett Funk, bn. Nov. 13, 1889; died May 1, 1897, aged 7 years, 5 months and 18 days. He in company with two companions went out to gather flowers. He with one of his companions sat down by a sand bank; the bank caved in and buried them; both died before they could be released.
VI. Mary Funk, bn. Feb. 13, 1857. She was educated in the public schools in Clinton, Ill., and engaged in teaching in the same town several years. Mrs. John R. Jones, Jan. 7, 1880. V. Cecilia Funk, bn. Feb. 27, 1832, in Northampton Co., Pa. She was below medium height; her black hair lay about her head in waves. She was, as we call it, "good natured." She was not quite nineteen years old when her mother died, and the home being broken up, she made her home with her married sisters, part of the time with one, then again with another, until Nov. 4, 1852, when she was united in marriage with Isaac H., son of John O. and Elizabeth Haldeman Myers, of Bucks Co., Pa. They first lived in Chester, Wayne Co., Ohio. About 1859 they moved to Seville, Medina Co. Here Mr. Myers was occupied in the grocery business, and built a pleasant home. In 1864 they sold out all their interest here, and moved to Wooster, Ohio, where he kept a grocery and drug store. He disposed of this business, and took an insurance agency in which he is now engaged. He owns a comfortable home in which they live. Cecilia had a slight stroke of paralysis in 1887, and never fully recovered from the shock. She united with the Baptist church about 1864. She died very suddenly of heart disease, Apr. 4, 1895, and was buried in the Wooster cemetery. Cecilia died Apr. 4, 1895: her brother Cyrus died Apr. 11, 1895; her nephew, Fred Funk, died Apr. 12, 1895, and her sister, Mary Ann Myers, died June 4, 1895, this making four deaths from April 4 to June 4. Children: Isadora, William, Lura.

VI. Isadora Myers, bn. Aug. 1, 1857, in Wayne Co., Ohio. She had a very delicate constitution, light complexion, and a super-abundance of slightly curling hair. Hers was a kind and affectionate nature, winning the love of all who knew her. She was a member of the Baptist church and having a musical voice led the church choir in service. She took an active part in all the services of the church and Sunday school. She was finally stricken with organic heart disease, and in her 25th year, Jan. 25, 1882, her soul took its flight to Him who gave it. Her remains were laid away in Wooster cemetery.
VI. William Clyde Myers, bn. Jan. 28, 1861. He is medium height, light complexion, has a quiet, even temperament, and is something of a musician. Local insurance agent in Wooster, Ohio. Mrs. Mary Haymaker, of Warren, Ohio, Dec., 1889. No issue.

She is slight in form, a brunette, has a great deal of hair, quiet and pleasant in her address, a graduate of the public schools in Wooster, and gives some attention to both vocal and instrumental music. Lura lives with her father, is a member of the Baptist church, sings in the choir, and is a great worker in the Sunday school. Her character is that of a true Christian.

V. Henry Funk, bn. in Northampton Co., Pa., Apr. 14, 1834, and at the age of two years, moved with his parents to Wayne Co., Ohio. In the spring of 1854, at the age of 20, he went to Clinton, Dewitt Co., Ill., and worked at the cabinet trade until October, 1855, when he moved to Farmer City, (then Mt. Pleasant,) in the same county. He enlisted in Co. I, 107th Regt., Ill. Vol. Infantry, on the 2d day of August, 1862, and served with his regiment through Kentucky, and on the raid after Gen. Morgan, through Ohio, until the autumn of 1863, when he crossed the mountains into East Tennessee, under command of Maj. Gen. Burnside, participating in that campaign and in the siege of Knoxville. In the spring of 1864 he joined the army of Gen. Sherman, at Chattanooga, and went with that army to Atlanta, Ga. After the capture of Atlanta, he for the first time succeeded in visiting his brother, Kaufman, whom he had not seen for more than ten years, although they had been in the same army more than six months. He visited with his brother two days, and was again called to duty, following Gen. Hood back to Franklin and Nashville, Tenn. After the battle of Nashville he went, under command of Maj. Gen. Schofield, via Washington, D. C., to Fort Fisher, North Carolina; from there to Fort Anderson and Wilmington, again joining the army of Gen. Sherman at Raleigh, N. C. He was honorably discharged from the army at Salisbury, N. C., on the 26th day of June, 1865, by reason of the close of the war. V. Sarah Funk, bn. Jan. 31, 1836, in Northampton Co., Pa. She was of medium height, had black hair, dark eyes, and dark complexion. Was educated in the rural schools. After her mother died she supported herself by sewing. She went to Napoleon, Henry Co., Ohio, and was there united in marriage with Charles C. Hartman. To them was born one child: Lee. The following is a copy of their obituaries.
"Died.—On the morning of the 17th of April, 1859, of typhoid fever, Mrs. Sarah Hartman, consort of Mr. C. C. Hartman, in the 24th year of her age.

Seldom has the pen been required to memorize a character around which clusters a brighter collection of the virtues sometimes permitted to adorn humanity. Seldom has an individual united in herself so many of those graces of the spirit, which are peculiarly the gift of Deity. We feel, when recurring to her who is thus stricken low in our midst, that language is powerless to do justice to our conception of the good, the beautiful, and the true, as they were personated in the various exhibitions of her life. The wife affectionate, devoted, and tender, the lady always alive to the amenities of social life; the companion, social, instructive; the friend, kind and sympathizing. When the eye which has beamed with the light of intelligence and love no longer emits its kindly rays; when the voice is hushed in the silence of death, and the grave hides the inanimate form from our view, the lineaments of character stand forth in their mental daguerreotype, clear in the sunlight of memory, and the moral beauty which encircled like a halo of glory the spirit of our friend, becomes brighter in our realization of eternity. The death of Mrs. Hartman has caused a chasm in our midst which cannot easily be filled; it is felt in our whole community, and the deepest and kindest sympathies have been called forth and tendered to the bereaved husband and child.

Communicated."

Died.—On the evening of May 11, 1859, at the residence of Daniel Yarnell, in Napoleon, Ohio, of typhoid fever, Mr. Charles C. Hartman, in the 26th year of his age. In the North West of April 20, was a notice of the death of Mrs. Sarah Hartman, of typhoid fever, and by the above announcement it will be seen that her husband has fallen a victim to the same disease, and followed his beloved wife to the tomb. An infant child, too young to realize its loss, has been left without a D. Devor, Oct. 7, 1887, in Elkhart, Ind. Sophia united with the Baptist church in her 19th year; after her marriage she went with her husband into the Presbyterian church. Joseph D. Devor was born Aug. 5, 1828, in Piqua, Ohio. He is 5 feet 10 inches, light complexion, grey eyes. In 1836, at the age of eight years, he went with his parents to Elkhart Co., Ind. In those early days there were but few public schools taught in Indiana, therefore he pursued most of his studies at home, under the instructions of his father. This habit of study he has continued all through his life; he gave much time to the study of vocal music, and for some years past has made astronomy his special study, and on clear evenings may now be seen, either tracing the constellations, or viewing the heavenly bodies with his telescope. He is occupied as Owns a home here. He is an exemplary Christian man, acknowledging God's dealings in all things. Joseph's grandfather was a soldier on the side of the Republic in the war of the Revolution.

V. Kaufman Funk, bn. Nov. 16, 1843, in Wayne Co., Ohio. Was medium height, light complexion. Attended the common schools when a child. After his mother died he had a home with his sister, Cecilia Myers, and then with his brother William, until the Rebellion broke out; he then enlisted in the 30th Ind. Infantry, in Oct., 1861, under Gen. Wood, of Ky. He with a few of his comrades organized a Bible class. Of this he writes his sister: "We read a chapter of scripture every evening before going to bed, and each one passes his opinion on it, and then we bring things to a point as near as we can; this is a very good practice, I think. The rest of the boys are beginning to find it out and come in to hear us; last evening our tent was crowded full, they all seemed to like it."

He was then an orderly in rank. They moved south into Kentucky and Tennessee, and were in the battle near Murfreesboro, Tenn., whence he writes the following:

"Head Quarters, 2d Brigade, 2d Div.

In the field, Jan. 1, 1862.

My Dear Sister:—Now that we are settled, and the excitement is over, I will try to inform you of a few affairs which I think will be of interest to you. In the first place I must say that I am thankful to God for His mercies. You have undoubtedly heard of the battle, and you are perhaps uneasy about my welfare. In reply to this I can say that I am in good health, and by this time in pretty good spirits. I was in the thickest of the battle and did not get a touch by a ball; how I ever got out in this way I cannot say, for I did not think the bullets flew far enough apart to miss a man. I am very sorry to say we had to fall back immediately after the attack was made. We were overpowered by ten times our number; one whole corps was thrown on our two brigades; but after giving back some distance, and taking a new position, we checked the enemy's column, and afterwards repulsed them. I will now try and give you an account of our proceedings since leaving Nashville, and if you will let the rest of the relatives read it, you will do me a favor, as I have not time at present to write many letters.

We left Nashville on the day after Christmas; marched south on the turnpike through a drenching rain, and having to fight the enemy all the way, made very slow progress. We reached a village about 7 P. M., and went into camp. In the night we received another very heavy shower of rain, which made the ground (with the exception of the pike) almost impassable. We started at 7 A. M. that morning in advance. We had moved but a little way when we came in sight of the enemy. Our cavalry opened fire, and had quite a skirmish. Fire was also opened from artillery, which soon dislodged the rebels who were posted on bluffs on each side of the road. Our cavalry lost two men killed and three wounded. In a short time the rain commenced coming down in torrents, but we still moved on slowly, feeling our way as we went, and every now and then having a brush with the rebels. After the rain was over there arose a dense fog so that we had to stop and wait for it to clear. Our brigade was during this time deployed in order of battle, as there were signs of the enemy's presence in force. The fog cleared in about an hour, and we received orders to advance, which we did, carefully guarding against any dodge the enemy might choose to play. We soon came in sight of them again, when they opened on us with two pieces of artillery, posted on the right of the road, on a high bluff.
Our battery was brought into position on the left of the road, also on a bluff, and opened fire. This was too much for them, so they soon pulled stakes and left. We immediately moved forward and occupied their ground. Here we came in sight of a small village—Tryune—which the rebels still held. Our battery was placed in position and commenced shelling the town, which soon made the rebels seek other quarters. We were now in good position, as the hill upon which we were stationed command ed the country for a considerable distance. We waited here a few moments and receiving no reply, moved forward, calculating to occupy the village. Our movement was as rapid as possible, and but slow at that, for the ground was so soft that it was impossible to move faster than a slow walk. When we reached the edge of the village, the enemy opened on us again, with artillery. Orders were sent immediately to advance and charge the battery, but it could not be done, as the men were entirely fagged out.
The rebels gave us a heavy fire of grape and canister, but it had no effect at all, although we were within easy range. We rested under fire and then advanced, but the enemy, seeing the game, again fled. We pursued them for about a mile and went into camp. Here we lay the next day; were then in a westerly direction from Mur-freeesboro. On the 29th we started for Murfreesboro, coming across from Tryune on a dirt road, we arrived on the Nashville and Murfreesboro turnpike about 7 P. M., and went into camp. We were too close to the enemy to have camp-fires, therefore we did as best we could without cooking. Next morning we moved forward again and took a position on the right of our line in a southerly direction from Murfreesboro. Our movement was slowly made as the advance guard were all the while contesting the enemy. We reached our position about dusk, our pickets being in sight of the others. Gen. Davis' division, which was on our left, was engaged by the enemy. There had been a rebel battery shelling his line all day long, and when we came up Gen. Kirk ordered our battery into position and to commence firing. The movement was executed with great promptness, and at the second fire the rebels picked up and left. They were then taking another position, when our battery gave them another round and disabled them entirely. Our line being by this time posted we retired, but little rest did we get, for the pickets were constantly firing on one another. In the morning the whole command was under arms before daylight, and remained so until after daylight, when part of the battery horses were taken to water. No sooner was this done than the enemy appeared in great numbers. They moved up with a front equal to a battalion in line, and seven regiments deep. Our battery opened fire with grape and canister and the infantry poured a volley of musketry, seldom excelled, but produced no visible effect on their heavy column, as they advanced on a double quick. They then poured a volley into us which made everything ring. Our men were compelled to fall back as we had but a single line; the battery could not be removed on account of the horses being killed. The rebels were now within twenty-five yards of us, the men of the battery stood until some of them were bayoneted. We fell back in the best order possible, losing many men and officers. The next position was taken in an open field, which place we again held until we could almost see the whites of their eyes. Here I heard that Gen. Kirk was wounded and his horse killed, so I went back again, and found two men carrying him. I asked whether he wanted my horse, he said he did. I dismounted and helped him to mount. By this time we were between two fires, our own and the enemy’s which was not more than ten rods from us. The General got out safely, but how I got out without a wound, I cannot say, for the balls came just like hail. The General is now in Nashville, doing well. What was left of our brigade fell back again across the open field into the edge of a wood and formed again. Here we checked the enemy for the first time, but they soon overpowered us again and drove us. By this time they had turned our battery upon us, and just made the shells ring. We fell back through the wood in very good order, the enemy still following us. When we reached the reserve of our forces we repulsed and drove the enemy back again, but not near to our old point. The brigade was again formed under Col. J. B. Dodge and took position which we held that night and the next day. Here you can see how we spent our New Year's day. There was heavy skirmishing all day on New Year, and in the evening one of the heaviest battles of the war was fought on the left of our lines. The killed in our brigade will amount to about 125. The wounded and missing will amount to about 900.

We lay on the field until the 7th of January, then moved where we now are, five miles south of Murfreesboro, on the Selbyville turnpike. It has rained most of the time since the battle, and we have had but little to eat, nevertheless, we are thankful it is no worse.

Jan. 9.—I am in good spirits this morning, owing to the brightness of the weather. I hope you are well. I know not how I can send this letter, as there is but little mail at present. Not having time to write more, I will close.

I remain your brother,

KAUFMAN.

In the year 1862 they marched through a great part of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, having frequent battles with the enemy. His brother Henry, though in the same army, did not meet him until Sept. 28, 1864, when they spent two nights together, their first meeting in eleven years, and the last time they saw each other until Kaufman was on his death bed and could not speak. Henry says, "We may well be proud of Kaufman, for his whole regiment is proud of him." Kaufman received a commission as captain, in April, 1865, and then was granted a furlough of fourteen days before taking the command. His official signature now was: K. Funk, Captain and Topographical Engineer, 2d Brigade, 1st Division, 4 A. C.

During our war the Catholics under the French invaded the Republic of Mexico, committing great depredations there, and cruelly murdered many of the army of the Republic. They anticipated conquering the inhabitants of Mexico, and then progressing into the United States with their forces, (they thought by this time our forces would have been exhausted, and would be an easy prey for them). This was an insult to our government as a Republic.

Our difficulties at home being brought to a close in the fall of 1865, our Secretary of War (Stanton), issued orders to the French government to withdraw their troops from Mexico, or he would send his forces there to drive them out, and to affirm this statement he sent an army into Texas, along the border line, there to remain in reserve until ordered to proceed farther. (Capt. K. Funk was one in the army detailed to go there.) But the French seeing this, speedily withdrew their troops, and the difficulty was then brought to a termination. In the latter part of December, 1865, Kaufman was given the commission of Colonel, and honorably discharged from the service. He returned home to spend Christmas with his friends in Wooster, Ohio.

Like many of our young soldiers who served the government, he now had no business education, therefore most of the remainder of his life he was occupied as a traveling salesman.

He united with the Baptist church Aug. 6, 1868. Mrd. Emma J. Kaufman, Feb. 24, 1870, in Wooster, Ohio. They went to Mansfield, Ohio, then again to Wooster, and finally to Toledo, Ohio.

Col. K. Funk was stricken with paralysis in a hotel at Chicago, Ill., and after a week's illness died there, Oct. 21, 1878, and was buried in the Wooster (Ohio) cemetery.

Emma J. Kaufman Funk is now living in California. Children: Ralph, Arthur.

W. Ralph B. Funk, bn. Oct. 14, 1871, in Mansfield, Ohio, is short in stature, has black hair, and large black eyes. After his father died he went to the State of Washington, and then to Los Angeles, California, where he is now engaged as clerk for a lumber firm. S.

W. Arthur K. Funk, bn. Sept. 18, 1873, in Mansfield, Ohio, has black hair, and large black eyes. After his father's death he went with his mother to California, and is now in San Francisco, employed as stenographer and type-writer for a lumber firm. S.

V. Maria Isabella Funk, bn. Aug. 8, 1846, in Wayne Co., Ohio. She is medium height, light complexion.
After her mother's death she lived with her sister, Mary Ann Myers. She attended school in the country and a short time in Napoleon, Ohio, then taught school a short time. Mrs. Samuel Moyer, Mar. 1, 1866. They had a farm in Elkhart Co., Ind.; this they sold and bought one in Cass Co., Mich., two miles from the State line between Indiana and Michigan. About the year 1881 they sold this farm and invested in real estate in Elkhart, Ind., and are now living there. Samuel Moyer's father was a minister in the Mennonite ch. Meth. Ep. Children: Alvin, Mason.

In reading this very short biographical sketch of Ralph and Nancy Kaufman Funk and their descendants, we find the number of their offspring to be as follows:

Ralph Funk's family descendants are a noble minded, worthy class of people. Their educational advantages were perhaps somewhat limited, but by their industry and good management, they applied their acquirements to good purpose. They are all temperate, law-abiding citizens, free from vicious habits, drunkenness, and immoral tendencies. While none of them may be considered wealthy, yet they all have a competency, and have a disposition to take care of themselves.

In conclusion, I will say that the writing of this family history has been to me a source of great pleasure.
I have been conscientious in my statements, and believe them to be true and reliable, so far as my own knowledge extends, together with the information kindly furnished me by the family connections and subjects of this memoir. May God's blessing rest upon all of them forever, is the prayer of the writer, in infancy, and united with the Reformed church of his native place in December, 1880. He received his preliminary education in the schools of his native place, the High school of Sellersville, and the State Normal school at West Chester, Pa. His ambition from a boy was to become a minister. And thus desiring a more thorough preparation for the study of theology, he entered upon a course of study in Ursinus College, which he completed in the summer of 1886. A call from Brownbach's charge, Chester Co., Pa., was waiting for him. He accepted the call and was ordained to the gospel ministry and installed pastor of the charge June 3, 1888. His labors were greatly blessed to the ingathering of many souls. He was called to Thornville, Ohio, to accept the pastorate of the Thornville charge, July 20, 1890. Here he still labors among a people by whom he is much beloved and esteemed. One child:

IV. Henry Funk, bn. in Bucks Co., Pa., July 11, 1804; died Nov. 21, 1845. Mrs. Susanna Schleiffer, daughter of Henry Schleiffer*, Jan. 3, 1826. She was born Feb. 26, 1804, is still living (1899). Mr. Funk inherited from his father

* Son of Jacob Schleiffer, who came from Europe when a child with his father, Abraham Schleiffer, whose wife died on the voyage across the ocean. They settled in Virginia, from whence the son Jacob came north, and mrd. Elizabeth, widow of Samuel Meyer, of Upper Milford. He purchased and settled upon a tract of land at what is known as Schleiffer's Valley, one mile south of Springtown. His children were: Abraham Schleiffer, mrd. Susanna Reesor, Jacob Schleiffer, mrd. Catharine Kaufman, Elizabeth Schleiffer, mrd. Samuel Kaufman, and Henry Schleiffer, mrd. Mary Treichler. The last named Henry Schleiffer's children were: Elizabeth Schleiffer, mrd. Jacob Baum, Susanna Schleiffer, mrd. Henry Funk, and Joseph Schleiffer, mrd. Susanna Stover.
the grist and saw mills, together with 50 acres of land and the two dwellings south and east of the mills. Soon after marriage he purchased from his mother the remaining portion of the homestead proper. He was born and always lived in the house erected by his father, and there he died. About 1830 he tore down the old log mansion that had sheltered his ancestors so many years. Still later he tore down the old buildings near the mill, and erected in close proximity, a commodious stone dwelling. In 1844 he tore down the large log barn probably built by Twining and erected on the site thereof the present large structure.

He was successful in business, and succeeded in amassing considerable wealth. His chief occupation was farming and operating his mills.

Mr. Funk was an exemplary man, an honored citizen, and was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He was a faithful member of the church of his fathers in Springfield Twp., where he lies buried. His widow still survives him, and is living with her son, Hon. Henry S. Funk, at the old homestead. She is now past 91 years, and is a remarkable woman for one of her age. Her mind and memory are yet clear, and she possesses a great fund of information relative to the ancestors and relationships much of which she received from the widow of (III.) Henry Funk with whom she lived many years. The author is indebted to her for much valuable information. Children: Mary, Enos, Elizabeth, Henry.

Mr. Funk was eleven months old when his father died. He remained on the homestead with his mother, and attended public and private schools until 18 years of age. He then left school and took charge of the property bequeathed to him by his father. He tore down the mill built by his great-grandfather in 1782, and erected upon its site one of the most complete flouring mills in the state, together with handle works and saw mill. These works were destroyed by fire in 1869, but he immediately rebuilt them, and they are, with the homestead farms, still under his personal supervision. Mr. Funk has been Justice of the Peace in his township, and Post Master in Springtown, during Garfield's administration, and again re-appointed during Harrison's administration, serving up to Jan. 1, 1884. In 1885 he established the Springtown Times, a weekly newspaper of forty-eight columns, and has since been its editor. In 1887 the Globe Mutual Live Stock Insurance Company, with headquarters in the Times Building, was incorporated, of which he has since been secretary. He is president of a local Building and Loan Association, and is interested in various other enterprises. Mr. Funk has been universally successful in business, and has always resided in the homestead built by his grandfather a century ago. He is the owner of valuable real estate and water powers, and is recognized as one of the leading men in this part of the county, and much credit is due him for the public spirit manifested by him in furthering public enterprises. He has a decided literary taste, and has in his possession a library of over 10,000 volumes.

In politics he is a staunch and active Republican, and in the campaign of 1894 he was elected to represent his district in the Legislature of Pennsylvania, by an overwhelming majority, receiving the highest vote on the Legislative ticket in the county that has been invariably Democratic. He took his seat in the House of Representatives Jan. 1, 1895, was appointed on various important committees, and served his constituents with great credit. He is a prominent member of the P. O. S. of A., has served as National vice-president at Cincinnati, O., in 1884. Member of Washington Camp No. 553, of Springtown. Also member of Quakertown Lodge 512 F. & A. M. He is also prominently identified with different other organizations, attended National and State conventions, and held many offices of trust and honor.

VI. Henry H. Funk, bn. on the old homestead at Springtown, Aug. 25, 1869. Mrsd. Minnie E. Hess, June 12, 1884. He received his early education by private tutor. He entered the Springtown Academy in June, 1885, from which he graduated June 17, 1887. He then entered the Times office, established by his father, served as apprentice and foreman until he arrived at the age of 21 (Aug.
25, 1890), when he was presented by his father, Henry S. Funk, with one-half interest of the entire printing plant of the Springtown Times. He was installed business manager and associate editor, with his father as editor-in-chief. The Times is an influential 8 page paper, and together with its extensive job printing and book-binding departments, is one of the largest business enterprises of the town. It has had a very successful career, much of which is due to the business tact, energy, and untiring perseverance of the associate editor, Henry H. Funk. He is also owner of real estate, a part of which is a large farm bequeathed to him by his great-uncle, Kaufman Funk, which originally belonged to the old Funk homestead. He is a member of Quakertown Lodge No. 512 F. & A. M.; Zinzendorf chapter No. 216 of Bethlehem R. A. M.; Past Officer of Washington Camp No. 553, P. O. S. of A. of Springtown. One child:

Jacob mrd. second wife, Susanna Fretz, daughter of Martin Fretz of Hilltown Twp., Dec. 9, 1830. She was bn.
Mar. 23, 1802; died Feb. 4, 1890, aged 87 years, 10 months and 11 days. Mason, brick-layer, and farmer. Menn. Children: Margaret, Esther, John, Sarah, Abraham, Jacob, Susan.

V. Mary Ann Funk, bn. in Hilltown Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., Oct. 5, 1821: died at the family residence, in Chicago, Ill., Jan. 25, 1900, aged 78 years, 3 months and 20 days. Mrs. Jacob Beidler, also of Bucks Co., Pa., Apr. 23, 1844. For about two years before his marriage, Mr. Beidler had resided at Springfield, Ill. In the fall of 1844, they moved from Springfield to Chicago, making the trip with teams, through an unbroken and in many places an almost impassable prairie, a distance of about one hundred and fifty miles. Her experiences in the new city of the lake, with those of her husband, would make a volume of deep and practical interest to the present generation. Through trials and self-denials, patiently and quietly she lived the life God had appointed to her, and God blessed her in it, until surrounded by the abundant comforts of this life, and a family of four sons and one daughter, who did all that love and kindness could suggest to make her last days peaceful and happy, she calmly fell asleep, and went to her rest, as we trust, in the house of many mansions, where all tears are wiped away, where there is no more pain, nor sorrow, nor death, and where every redeemed soul with the poet may sing:

"There I shall bathe my weary soul,
In seas of everlasting rest,
And not a wave of trouble roll
Across my peaceful breast."

She was in the true sense of the word a model wife and mother, a true help-meet to her husband, careful and economical housewife, a keeper at home, and manifested a rare spirit of patience, kindness, and forbearance. She was the mother of nine children. Two died in infancy; the dead body of John was found in the lake in July 1881; how he came to his death is a mystery which probably eternity alone will reveal. William died of paralysis in September, 1897, and the husband and father of the family passed away six months later, to the day. She was universally beloved and respected, and in her death we mourn her as one whom we loved and cherished as a kind mother, a beloved sister, and a dear friend.

Mr. Beidler was one of the early settlers, and also one of the pioneer lumbermen of Chicago, Ill. He grew up on his father's farm, enjoyed only limited educational advantages, learned the carpenter and cabinet making trade, and was early inured to hard work. His experiences while following his trade as a country carpenter were remarkable. In 1842 he went to Springfield, Ill., and engaged in the mercantile business. After two years he sold out, married, and in August of the same year (1844), moved to Chicago, where he resided to the time of his death. Mr. Beidler enjoyed a high degree of temporal prosperity. The Lord prospered him in all his ways. The saying of Solomon, Prov. 22:29, was, if indeed not literally, yet figuratively, fully verified in the life of Jacob Beidler. While he was diligent and energetic, and applied himself closely to his business, no one could say that he was parsimonious or avaricious. What he had came to him as from the open hand of the bountiful Giver of every good and perfect gift. He in many instances manifested a degree of benevolence and disinterested acquiescence to circumstances and fortune that was remarkable and highly commendable.

One morning he came down to his office, and, as was his custom, took up the morning paper and began to read. While thus engaged his book-keeper came into the room and informed him of the fact that his lumber mill at Muskegon, Mich., had burned away the previous night (the loss being over $16,000). The news made so slight an impression upon his mind that he only gave a brief, commonplace reply, and read on as if nothing had happened. He accumulated a large fortune, but with a truly generous impulse in his soul, he let others also share in his prosperity. Many young men were helped into business, and started in life by his aid and direction. A number of business firms were established and prospered by the means supplied by the unselfish hand of Jacob Beidler.

He also gave generously to the poor and needy in different ways, and paid thousands upon thousands of dollars to churches and other benevolent purposes. Among many other liberal donations he gave $5,000 to the maintaining of a free bed in the Presbyterian Hospital of Chicago; $9,000 to wipe out a church debt; $16,066 to the purchase of a Y. M. C. A. building on the West side, and $80,000 for the endowment of a professorship and the building of a memorial cottage, in memory of his son John Beidler, at Lake Forest University, Lake Forest, Ill. In fact Jacob Beidler indirectly laid the foundation stone that gave to the Mennonite church the church papers published at Elkhart, Ind., and the extensive publishing house now located there. To him surely belongs a share of the credit that the originators of this enterprise deserve.

Hundreds can testify to his kindness and generosity. Faithful as a friend, true to every trust, a character above reproach, outspoken in his convictions, and unflinching in his defense of the right, he lived his life, and in a good old age, like a shock of corn fully ripened for the harvest, he was gathered to his fathers. God bless his memory. He was sick about a week. Funeral services were held at the residence on Thursday, Mar. 17, 1898, and were conducted by Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage, of the Jefferson Park Presbyterian church, Chicago, assisted by Dr. Marquis, of the McCormick Theological Seminary. Remarks were also made by Dr. McClure, of Lake Forest University and Fernando Jones who had known Mr. Beidler many years.

V. John Fretz Funk, bn. in Hilltown Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., Apr. 6, 1835. He worked on the farm as soon as old enough, going to school in the winter season until he was in his nineteenth year (1854), when he commenced teaching in his native township, and taught during the winter for three successive winters. He also attended school at Freeland Seminary three months during the summer of 1855, and again in 1856. In the spring of 1857, after closing his school at Chestnut Ridge S. H., in Hilltown Twp., he went to Chicago, Ill., and engaged in the lumber business, in which he continued nine years. In the winter of 1859-60 he became a member of the Mennonite church at Line Lexington, Bucks Co., Pa. In January of 1864 he commenced the publication of the Herald of Truth and Der Herold der Wahrheit, and on the 19th of the same month was married to Salome Kratz, daughter of Jacob and Mary (Myers) Kratz of Hilltown, Bucks Co., Pa. She was born Aug. 30, 1839. On the 28th of May, 1865, he was ordained to the ministry in the Mennonite church near Gardner, Grundy Co., Ill. In April, 1867, he removed to Elkhart, Ind., and established there the business house now known as the "Mennonite Publishing Company," first under his own name, and afterwards under the firm name of John F. Funk and Brother, after having associated with himself his brother Abraham K. Funk, and continued the business under this firm name until May 14, 1875, when the Mennonite Publishing Co. was organized.
On the 6th of June, 1892, he was chosen and ordained to the office of bishop over six congregations, including Elkhart, Yellow Creek, Holdeman's, Olive, Salem, and Nappanee districts, in Elkhart Co., Ind. Children:

V. Abraham Kratz Funk, bn. in Hilltown Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., Jan. 20, 1840. His early years were spent on his father's farm. He attended school about four months usually in the winter, and a month or two during the summer. He commenced teaching in the public schools of the county, at the age of 18, under the county superintendency of Wm. H. Johnson. He attended school at Freeland Seminary, at Freeland, now Collegeville, Montgomery Co., Pa., in 1859, and the Excelsior Normal Institute, at Carversville, Bucks Co., in 1861. After spending five years in farming during the summer, and teaching in winter, he went to Chicago, Ill., in the spring of 1863, and engaged in the lumber business. After a residence of five years in Chicago, he went to Elkhart, and there entered into a co-partnership with his brother, under the firm name of John F. Funk and Brother, as publishers and booksellers. They continued the publication of the Herald of Truth and Der Herold der Wahrheit, and also issued during the continuance of this co-partnership a number of religious works, the most important of which was the great book of martyrs, in the German language, containing over 1100 quarto pages, and the complete works of Menno Simons, which was translated from the Holland and printed in English. In 1875 he became one of the principal stockholders in the Mennonite Publishing Co., which was then organized, and has since held the position of secretary and treasurer of that institution. He married Annie M. Landis, daughter of Joseph and Mary (Geil) Landis, of Greer's Corner, near Dublin, Bucks Co., Pa., Mar. 11, 1872. Menn. Children: W. Mary Maude Funk. Presby. W. Edna Josephine Funk. W. Esther Winifred Funk.

V. Jacob Silas Funk, bn. in Hilltown Twp., Bucks Co., Pa., Apr. 13, 1842. He spent his early days on his father's farm, and received, as was customary in those days, a fair, common school education. He afterwards, during the early part of 1862 and the summer of 1863, spent two terms at the Excelsior Normal Institute, at Carversville, Bucks Co., Pa. He taught in the schools of his native county, from 1862 to 1865. In the spring of 1865 he gave up that vocation and went to Chicago, Ill., and engaged in the lumber business. On the 28th of Sept., of the same year, he purchased a scholarship in the Eastman Business College of that city, and took a commercial course, attending in the evening only. After four years' residence in Chicago, he determined to engage in business for himself, and accordingly in the spring of 1869, located at Chillicothe, Mo., where he opened a lumber yard, and commenced business on his own account. On the 15th of January following (1870), he was married to Annie K. Stover, daughter of Jonas Stover, of E. Rockhill Twp., Bucks Co., Pa. He afterwards became connected with the North Western Lumber Co., who had their mills at Eau Claire, Wisconsin, and extensive yards at Hannibal, Mo.; and on the 20th of April, 1880, moved with his family from Chillicothe to Hannibal. Afterwards when the duties of his position required him to be mostly in the neighborhood where the mills of the company were located, he found it more economical and convenient to have his family in that vicinity also, and accordingly, on the 20th of July, 1885, he removed to Minneapolis, Minn. He continued with the above firm eleven years, during which time he gained with them the highest esteem and respect, both for his conscientious business integrity and his excellent qualifications for the work in which he was engaged. In the spring of 1890 he severed his relations with the N. W. Lumber Co., but the warm feeling of esteem and respect which he had won for himself during these extended business relations continued to the end of his life.

He took an active part in the various civil, social, and religious movements of the day, and was always ready and willing to assist in all enterprises of public interest, and held continuously positions of responsibility and honor. Soon after his removal to Chillicothe, in 1869, he was elected superintendent of the Sunday school of the Presbyterian church of that city, which position he held until his removal to Hannibal in 1880. He was converted and united with the Third Presbyterian church of Chicago during the time of his residence there. In 1871 or 72 he was elected elder of the First Presbyterian church of Chillicothe. He was secretary of the school board of that city, and through his influence was built the beautiful new school building, costing from $45,000 to $50,000. In 1875 he was also member of the city council. During the last three years of his residence in Chillicothe he was correspondent of the Globe Democrat, a Republican paper of St. Louis. During the summer of 1890, after severing his connection with the N. W. L. Co., he, with A. Fiero, was appointed, by the lumber manufacturers of the N. W., to inspect the system of grading employed by the leading manufacturers of the north-west, and their report was received with much favor and satisfaction. After the completion of this commission, he became connected with the T. B. Scott Lumber Co., of Merrill, Wis., and during a business trip through Illinois and Indiana, he was taken sick with a severe bilious attack, and after nearly a week of suffering in hotels, in Terre Haute, Ind., Chicago, Ill., and on the road, he reached his home in Minneapolis, Minn., on the 23d of September. The disease assumed a complicated form which resulted in blood poisoning, and after three weeks more of intense suffering, which he bore with patience, he died on the 15th of Oct., 1890, aged 48 years, 6 months and 2 days. Presby.

In early life he learned the milling trade, and worked as journeyman at Springtown. After marriage he purchased the old Landis farm in Springfield Twp., where he lived until his death. Mr. Funk’s manners were bluff, speaking at all times what he thought was right and just. He was very fond of fishing and hunting, and in his 80th year would hunt for squirrels and rabbits, and fish with the fling net along the creek for sport.

In politics he was an ardent Republican, and a strong Anti-salvery man, and while doing all in his power to bring about the success of his principles, he never asked for any position or office. He was a member of the Lutheran church of Springfield, of which he was an elder for a number of years. Children: William, Jonas, Joseph, John, Esther, David, Susanna, Tillman, Elise, Sarah.

VI. Anna Rittenhouse, bn. in Lincoln Co., Ont., May 10, 1860. Mrd. Rev. Allen M. Fretz, of Bedminster, Bucks Co., Pa., Mar. 5, 1884 (his second wife). He was born in Tinicum Twp., Bucks Co., Dec. 12, 1853, on the property known as Fretz's Mill, on the Tohickon. In 1856 his parents removed to Bedminster Twp., on the farm of his grandfather, Christian Fretz, where his (Allen's) father was born and brought up, and which he now owns, having purchased it from his father in 1894. When 16 years of age Allen was sent by his father, who believed in a more liberal education, to the Mennonite Seminary at Wadsworth, Ohio. He subsequently attended one term at the Excelsior Normal Institute at Carversville, Pa., also a teacher's term at West Chester State Normal School. He taught school eleven terms at the following places in order, viz.: Pipersville, Fretz Valley, Bedminsterville, Deep Run, and Union, working on his father's farm during the summer months. In the fall of 1882, he accepted the nomination of the Republican party as a candidate for the State Legislature; but the party being in the minority in that campaign, he was defeated with the rest of the ticket. In 1883 the Second Mennonite church at Deep Run called him to be their minister, and he was accordingly ordained by Bishop Moses Gottshall, on Oct. 13, 1883, as pastor of the same. Feeling the pressing need of an English paper in the interest of his branch of the Mennonite church, he, with the aid of Rev. N. B. Grubb, pastor of the church in Philadelphia, in 1885 began the publication of the Mennonite, which was accepted by the Eastern District as one of the periodicals of the church. He was eleven years associate editor of this publication. On Nov. 24, 1892, he was ordained to the office of bishop by Rev. W. S. Gotshall, assisted by Rev. J. S. Moyer, at Deep Run, and has the spiritual oversight as pastor and bishop of the Deep Run and Souderton churches. In February 1893 his pastoral field was enlarged by the call to the newly organized church at Souderton, Montgomery Co., Pa. P. O., Souderton, Pa. Children:

VI. William Rittenhouse, M. D., bn. in Lincoln Co., Ont., Sept. 5, 1852. Mrd. Mary, daughter of Wm. W. Moyer, of Campden, Ont., Apr. 2, 1874. Mr. Rittenhouse received a common school education, attending school in the winter months, and as soon as he was old enough worked on his father's farm in the summer. Before he was quite seventeen he obtained a certificate to teach, and on Jan. 1, 1870, took charge of his first school. For over thirteen years he labored in the school room, till, failing in health, he was compelled to seek other occupation. At the age of 22, while teaching a country school, at the modest sum of $400 a year, he was married. Three years later, he secured an appointment to a position in the Central school of St. Catharines, Ont. After four years of hard work, he was promoted to headmastership of the school; but the unceasing labor, the close confinement, and the loss of two of his children, so wore upon his health that he resigned his position in 1883, to seek more active out-door life.

During the same year he began the study of medicine, and the next year removed to Chicago, where he received his degree at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1886, and at once settled down in the same city to engage in the practice of his profession.

Dr. Rittenhouse is Vice-President and Professor of Obstetrics of the Chicago Summer School of Medicine, now called the Illinois Medical College, of which he is one of the founders. He is also President, and Professor of Obstetrics of the Jenner Medical College of Chicago. Res., 975 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill. Children:
VI. Ernest Rittenhouse, bn. May 1, 1876. Medical student (1900).

VI. Henry Rittenhouse, bn. Aug. 3, 1883; died October 23, 1883.

V. John F. Geil, bn. in Bucks Co., Pa., Mar. 30, 1831. Mrs. Sarah A. Schroeder, Apr. 5, 1860, in Livingston Co., Mich. She was bn. in Steuben Co., N. Y., Mar. 22, 1834. P. O., Williamsport, N. Dak. In early life Mr. Geil taught school for about ten years, and for twelve years was employed in making surveys for making and publishing county maps, mostly in Michigan. He later moved to Emmons Co., North Dakota, where he has been engaged for some years in farming.

In July 1889, he was appointed Deputy Clerk of the District Court, for the reason that he understood the German language. His part of the work was to do business with the Russian German people that reside in Emmons Co., N. D., and which business consisted mainly of taking final proofs and filings for land. The Russian Germans greatly appreciated the favor of having in the office at the county seat, one who could converse and do business with them in their own language, and interpret and answer in German their German letters for them, and they soon came to the conclusion to do what they could to keep Mr. Geil in office at the county seat, and they soon had an opportunity of acting upon their conclusion. In Sept. 1890, Mr. Geil was nominated by a vote of 45 to 16 by the Republican county convention as a candidate for Register of Deeds, and in November of same year was elected to that office by a majority of 140, having received all the (150) Russian German votes, although said Russian Germans were nearly all Democrats.

In January 1892, John F. Geil was appointed a Notary Public in and for Emmons, N. D., by the Governor of the State. In the same year (1892) Mr. Geil was nominated by acclamation as a candidate for Register of Deeds, for another term, by both Republican and Democratic county conventions, and at the election of November 8th of same year was elected to that office unanimously—receiving all the votes cast.

In addition to the duties performed as Register of Deeds, Mr. Geil does conveyancing, Notarial business, interpreting, and sundry clerical work. Since filling these offices his residence has been at Williamsport, the county seat. Meth. Ep. Children: Anna, Lincoln, Frederick.

VI. Anna E. Geil, bn. at Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 4, 1864, was engaged for a number of years in teaching public schools in Michigan and North Dakota, in which she was very successful. She also taught vocal and instrumental music. She was married to Rev. Charles S. Lane, Aug. 15, 1889. He was bn. in England, and his father was an Episcopal clergyman. Rev. Mr. Lane was formerly a member of the North Dakota Meth. Ep. Conference, and was stationed at Mandan, N. D. He was next assigned to Ardoch, and afterwards to Walhalla, in the Red River Valley, N. D. In 1892 he was transferred to the Wisconsin Conference and stationed at North Greenfield in that state, within the suburbs of Milwaukee. Rev. Charles S. Lane is an eloquent and effective preacher, and an energetic worker in the "vineyard of the Lord," and in Mrs. Lane he has an able assistant. One child: VII. A son.

VI. Lincoln Geil, bn. at Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 26, 1865. Mrd. Etta Miles of Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21, 1889. She was bn. in Michigan, Dec. 6, 1870. Merchant at Winchester, N. D., later conductor on street cars at Detroit, Mich. In the fall of 1891 they removed to North Dakota and took up a homestead near Williamsport. He afterwards became Deputy Clerk of the District Court of Emmans Co., N. D. Children:

V. Samuel F. Geil, b. in Bucks Co., Pa., Sept. 28, 1841. Mr. Geil received a good academic education in his native county. In 1859 he removed to Cleveland, O., where he began the study of law. After passing through the usual studies he was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the state of Ohio, Sept. 26, 1862. Having read law with Herrick and Barlow, he attended the Ohio State and Union Law College, at Cleveland, from which he graduated May 26, 1862. At the breaking out of the war in 1861, he was among the first to enter the volunteer service, and was appointed 1st Lieutenant of the 2d Regt. O. Cavalry, and remained until Dec. 11, 1861, when he resigned. In Nov. 1862 he removed to California, and took up his residence in Monterey Co., where he has been actively engaged in the practice of law. He served two terms as District Attorney of Monterey Co., and during his incumbency conducted many cases of great importance and public interest, in a highly satisfactory and successful manner. He has had a large and profitable practice for the last twenty years. He is at the present time Attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and other corporations. For the last fifteen years there has not been a case in the county in which he resides, of any importance, either civil or criminal, that he has not been engaged in. Immediately after his arrival in California, he was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the state of California and all the Federal Courts. On Feb. 2, 1866, he married Josefa Sanchez, who is a member of the Roman Catholic church. Mrs. Gell descends from an old and prominent Spanish family of the region of country in which she lives. Her grandparents on her mother's side were native Californians. Her father, Don Rafael Sanchez, was private Secretary to Governor and General Micheltorena under Mexican rule. Mr. Gell has for many years been a member of the Masonic fraternity, having served for three years as High Priest of Salinas Chapter No. 59, R. A. M., is now a Knight Templar and a Noble of the Mystic Shrine. He is also a prominent member of the order of Odd Fellows. P. O., Salinas, Cal. Children:

IV. Abraham Funk, bn. Feb. 22, 1815; died at Mauch Chunk, Pa. Not known that he had any family.

III. Catharine Funk, died 1833 or '34. Mrs. Ralph Stover in 1784. He was born about 1760; died Oct. 1811, aged 52 years. Attended the Mennonite church at Deep Run, where they are buried. Mr. Stover was for many years a Justice of the Peace in Bedminster, and served as a member of the House of Representatives in the Legislature of Pennsylvania from 1793 to 1799 inclusive, seven years in succession during George Washington's administration. He was also one of the three first directors of the poor of Bucks Co. in 1807, consisting of James Chapman, John M. Masters and Ralph Stover. Mr. Stover was a very useful citizen in the community in which he lived, adjusting legal matters between his neighbors, settling up estates, etc. He owned a 300-acre farm on the Tohickon, where the Easton road crosses that stream, now owned by Amos Kilmer and Frank Myers. Children: Abraham, Mary, Elizabeth, Ann, William.

IV. Abraham F. Stover, bn. May 10, 1788; died Feb. 26, 1854. Mrs. Rachel Fretz, daughter of John and Anna (Kratz) Fretz of Warwick Twp., Pa., about 1808. She was born Mar. 30, 1787; died in 1870, aged 83 years, less 13 days. He lived on a part of the homestead of his father in Bedminster. He was a prominent and useful citizen. In 1817 he was elected to the Pennsylvania Legislature, and re-elected in 1820. He was appointed Justice of the Peace by the Governor, and was also a surveyor. In 1833 he sold his share of the homestead and moved with his family to Fauquier Co., Va., where he purchased a farm of 135 acres with a mill, and afterwards bought an adjoining tract of 270 acres. Children: John, Ralph, Infant, Charles, Albert.

V. John Stover, died in childhood.

V. Ralph Stover, bn. Sept. 28, 1811; died Jan. 26, 1896. Mrs. Eliza Stover, daughter of Henry S. Stover of Erwinna, Pa., Oct. 4, 1838. She was born Aug. 31, 1815. P. O., Point Pleasant, Pa. His early days were spent on the farm. He attended school at Deep Run, and in 1824 at Springtown, Pa., and later at Red Hill, where he studied the higher branches. He finished his education at the Doylestown Academy, after which he returned home and assisted his parents on the farm. In 1833 the whole family removed to Thoroughfare Gap, Va., where they purchased a mill and farm. Ralph took charge of the mill, and soon built up a large and prosperous business. In 1841 he removed from Virginia to Point Pleasant, Pa., where he purchased a saw mill, flour mill, and other property, and engaged in the lumber, flour, and feed business. He was one of the prime movers and projectors of the Danboro and Point Pleasant turnpike, of which he was the president. He also advocated the building of Point Pleasant Delaware bridge, and served as treasurer of the company for many years. He took much interest in school and church affairs, doing much to improve the school, and donated the ground for the Baptist church, of which the family are members. He also donated ground from his farm for a cemetery. The tract is beautifully situated, over-looking the Delaware river and surrounding scenery. He reserved a plat for a family burying ground, in the center of which he erected a handsome granite monument, about ten feet high, as a memorial of the sleeping inhabitants within its enclosure. After a successful business career, and rearing of a good and virtuous family, he and wife retired from business.
Children: Robert, Mary, John, Rachel, Emeline, Horace, Eliza, Ella, Adelaide, Chester, Annie, Albert.

V. Charles Stover, bn. Sept. 13, 1816; died Mar. 30, 1872. Miller and farmer in Va. Unmrd. After the death of his brother Albert, he managed his store for a time. Successful in business he enjoyed the unlimited confidence and respect of the community in which he lived, so much so that at the close of the war, which left the rebel states without the protection of law and order of any kind, the whole community insisted on his acting as County Magistrate, which office he filled until reconstruction of the state government was effected under authority of Congress of U. S. It was well understood all through the war that he was a Union man, but he did not make himself obnoxious by ill-judged intrusion of his sentiments upon others in that section, where it could do no good. Thus he was left alone during the war, except that the armies of both sides encamped on his place at Thoroughfare Gap repeatedly, and left neither fence nor living thing of stock on the place. His losses in property and money, caused by the war, amounted to about $40,000.

IV. Mary Stover, bn. in Bucks Co., Pa., Dec. 15, 1787; died in New York, Nov. 27, 1855. Mrd. Christian Fretz, son of John and Anna (Kratz) Fretz, of Warwick, Pa., Apr. 14, 1806. He was born Nov. 17, 1782; died Jan. 23, 1840. Farmer and hotelkeeper, and resided at Warwick, on the old John Fretz homestead, afterwards owned and occupied by his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Farren. Children: Ralph, John, Philip, Elizabeth, Christian, Mary.

V. Ralph Stover Fretz, bn. on the homestead in Warwick Twp., Nov. 13, 1809. He sailed from the Isthmus of Panama in 1849, and landed at San Francisco, Cal., where he established a bank, and amassed a fortune of about a half million dollars, which he bequeathed to relatives, except $20,000 which he willed to the United States to liquidate the national debt, caused by the late war. He was never married, and died in California, June 6, 1867, aged 58 years.

V. John Fretz, bn. Oct. 2, 1811, also went to California, where he died unmarried June 26, 1863, at the White Sulphur Springs. He owned and operated a gold quartz mill in Calaveras Co., Cal.

V. Philip K. Fretz, bn. Sept. 14, 1813. M'd. Annie Stover, Feb. 18, 1841. He lived on a part of the John Fretz homestead in Warwick Twp. Farmer. Was also extensively engaged in contract work, and was one of the contractors to build the Horseshoe Curve over the Alleghany mountains on the Pa. R.R. He was one of the prominent men of Bucks county, and a member of the Doylestown Presbyterian church. He died on steamship "Henry Chauncy," on a voyage to California, Mar. 13, 1867. Buried in the Atlantic, off the coast of North Carolina. Children: Charles, Mary, Philip, John.

V. Rev. Ralph Stover Arndt, bn. in Pennsylvania, June 4, 1826; died in Newark, N. J., Aug. 17, 1892. Mrd. Sarah W. King, daughter of Capt. Henry King, of Camden, N. J. *When twenty years of age Ralph was converted. Feeling his call to preach the Gospel to be from the Lord, he spent some time in preparatory study at Pennington Seminary. After serving as a supply under the P. E., in April, 1849, he entered the New Jersey Conference. His first appointment was to Asbury Circuit, his own home. Upon the division of the Conference in 1857, he joined the Newark Conference, in which he retained membership until his death.

He served many important charges during his active ministry, among them First Church, at Rahway; Elizabeth Avenue Church, at Elizabeth; St. Paul’s, Franklin Street, and Eighth Avenue Churches, in Newark; Simpson Church, Jersey City, and the church at Haverstraw, N. Y. While pastor of the last named church, which he served for three years, a remarkable revival of religion occurred in which more than two hundred were converted, one half of whom were heads of families.

In 1876 he was made Presiding Elder of the Elizabeth District, in which office he served the full term of four years with general satisfaction. His last charge was at Verona, N. J., where in Oct., 1890, his health failed. In 1891 the Conference granted him a Supernumerary relation, and, with his family, he took up his residence in Newark, N. J. In social life his warm heart and genial manner always secured to him a cordial welcome. He possessed the art of saying agreeable things without a suspicion of flattery. He was a careful observer of men and things, keeping well posted upon the affairs of the world, and having rare insight in discerning the characteristics of men. His sterling piety impressed itself upon all who knew him. He possessed a happy submission to the divine will, and was profoundly grateful for present mercies, which marked the meekness of this man of God. Such a spirit could not be other than a peace-maker, and as such he frequently received the pledge that he was a child of God.

Mr. Arndt was, by the grace of God, well prepared to die. During the last year of his life he spent much of his time in carefully reading the Scriptures, observing their personal application. He often spoke in public and in private of the delight and profit he had in this exercise. Although always a man of prayer, during the last year he spent more time than formerly in the closet with the Lord. It was observed that while "reaching forth unto those things which are before," he became less and less interested in the affairs of this world, so that his hand seemed already extended "for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." The record of a life devoted to the cause of his Master, a simple daily trust in Jesus, and a steady faith in the precious promises of the word of God were assurances that in the hour of his departure it was well with his soul. He who had promised never to leave nor to forsake him was still with him while passing through the Valley of the Shadow of Death.

IV. Sarah Treichler, bn. in Bucks Co., Pa., Oct. 15, 1799; died Mar. 9, 1872. Mrs. Jacob Stover,* Mar. 9, 1820. He was born near Pipersville, Pa., July 12, 1794; died Mar. 30, 1858. Mr. Stover received a good common school education for the times. Soon after marriage he purchased a farm in the Delaware River Valley, 14 miles below Easton, Pa., and moved thereon, and was a successful farmer. He was a great friend of education, and was often heard to say that he would give his children as good an education as he possibly could. With the assistance of neighbors he built the first school house in the vicinity, on ground donated by him for school purposes. They attended the Presbyterian ch. Children: Susan, Lewis, Jonas, Owen, Catharine, Jacob, Sarah, Albert, Clara.

V. Lewis Stover, bn. Oct. 13, 1822. He assisted his father on the farm and attended a country school. Afterwards his father sent him to a most excellent boarding school at Easton, Pa., kept by the Rev. John Vanderveer, where he received his preparatory education. He then entered Princeton College, N. J., where he graduated with honors in the class of 1850. He then commenced to study law in Philadelphia under the direction of the Hon. Peter McCall, who soon became one of the Professors in the Law Department of the University of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Stover took one of the first diplomas in the Law that was issued by that institution. After being admitted to the bar of Philadelphia, he soon became a leading member, confining himself more especially to Real Estate Equity and Orphans Court practice. He opened his office opposite Independence Square, No. 522 Walnut St., a bold move for one so totally unknown in the city of Philadelphia, but close attention to his profession, fair and honorable dealing with all classes soon brought him a lucrative clientage, which enabled him to purchase the building in which he first opened his office, and much valuable property besides in the city. S.

V. Jonas Stover, bn. Apr. 18, 1825; died Nov. 24, 1826.

V. Owen Stover, bn. Oct. 27, 1827. His early youth was spent on his father's farm, and attending the common school. He afterwards attended the school of Rev. John Vanderveer, at Easton, Pa., and the Flushing Institute, Long Island, N. Y. After finishing his education, he entered the law office of John Anthon, of New York City, where he studied law and was admitted to practice and commenced a successful law business when, his health failing, he was compelled to give up his practice and return to the country, where he has since been engaged in farming on the old homestead. S.

V. Catharine Stover, bn. Dec. 11, 1830; died January 18, 1839.

V. Jacob Stover, bn. Jan. 21, 1834; died Jan. 20, 1839.

V. Sarah H. Stover, bn. Aug. 15, 1837; died August 27, 1841.

V. Albert Stover, bn. June 1, 1840. He received the usual common school education, and was afterwards sent to Easton, West Chester, and Flushing Institute, Long Island, N. Y. He then engaged in farming the homestead farm for several years, after which he purchased the Kintnersville flour and saw mills and engaged in the flour, feed, and lumber business. He was married Sept. 30, 1885, to Annie Stover, daughter of Ralph Stover, of Point Pleasant, Pa. One child:

VI. Anna May Stover, bn. May 4, 1892.

V. Clara Stover, bn. Feb. 21, 1846. During her early youth she attended the common school of the district. She afterwards attended St. Mary's Hall, a school for young ladies, at Burlington, N. J. After finishing her education she returned home, and now resides with her brother Lewis, in Philadelphia.

Dr. Treichler received a common school education at his home. Entered Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pa., in the fall of 1854, and continued his studies here for nearly three years. In the fall of 1857 he entered the Preparatory Department of Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg, Pa., and in the following fall entered the Freshman class. Joined the Philomathian, Lemmcel Societies, and the "Phi Kappa Psi" fraternity. Graduated with degree of A. B. in 1862 and received from the same college the degree of A. M. in 1865. He pursued medical studies with his father, and at the University of Pennsylvania graduating M. D. in 1865. Practiced medicine in Jonestown, Lebanon Co., Pa., 1865-9. Then moved to Honey Brook, Chester Co., Pa., where he purchased a drug store, and has since been practicing medicine in connection with the drug business.

He is a member of the Chester Co. and Pennsylvania and American Medical societies, also fellow of the American Academy of Medicine. Elder of the Presbyterian church. No issue.

II. Jacob Funk, Sr.

I. (Bish.) Henry Funck came to America and settled at the Indian Creek, in Franconia Twp., Philadelphia, now Montgomery Co., Pa., in the year 1719; he was then ordained as the minister of the Franconia Mennonite congregation. According to documents yet extant he must have had a brother who did not come to America, and whose name I was not able to ascertain. But a son by the name of Jacob Funk came, and on the 16th of May, 1734, took out a patent for one hundred and forty acres of land, and six per cent. allowed for roads, &c., granted by the Honorable the Proprietors of Pennsylvania. He was a nephew of the above named Henry Funck. This patent is recorded in the Roll's office at Philadelphia, in Patent Book A, Vol. 6, page 311, etc. This Jacob Funk, Sr., made his last will in writing, bearing date May 15, 1756, and bequeathed to his son Jacob Funk, Jr., all that tract of land mentioned above under said patent. He says: "I appoint my loving friend and cousin, Christian Funk, and my wife, Barbara Funk, as my executors." The will was probated June 14, 1756, and is registered in Book K, page 407, at Philadelphia, and a deed was given by the executors to Jacob Funk, Jr., dated April 20, 1759. The above named will of Jacob Funk, Sr., is witnessed by Christian Meyer, Samuel Meyer and Henry Funk. He had four children, viz.: two sons, Jacob Funk, Jr., and Samuel Funk, and two daughters, Barbara Funk and Maria Funk. His will reads as follows:

Will of Jacob Funk, Sen.

Know all men by these presents, That I Jacob Funk of Franconia Township in the county of Philadelphia, in the Province of Pennsylvania, Yeoman, am weakly in body but thank God of Good understanding and memory, and I do hereby make this my last Will and Testament in the manner following:—

That is to say, at first, I do recommend my Soul into the hands of allmighty God, my Creator, and my Body to the Earth to be Buried in due form at the discretion of my Guardians, or Executors. And concerning my worldly Estate I do dispose of the same as following:—

At first, it is my Will that all my just debts and funeral Expenses be duly and fully paid by my Guardians, or Executors.

Secondly. It is my Will that my dear wife Barbara, shall have our bed, together with the Appurtenances our Bedstead my best chest, my Press, with all linens, and stuffs, all my wool, a good cow, a small Iron pot, her Pan, my Large pan, my tin baking pan, Six pewter spoons, Four pewter plates my Tankard my pewter Cups, all my China, my Large Stone pot, all these my wife shall have for her own use.

Thirdly. I do give unto my dear wife Barbara, for her yearly maintainance as long as she shall continue my widow, every year ten Bushels of good clean wheat, and Six Bushels of Rye, two Bushels of Buckwheat, one quarter of an acre for Indian Corn, one quarter for Turnips. The third part of my Garden, and one Hog to weigh one hundred pounds. Sixteen pounds of flax, and Sixteen pounds of tow, all of which is to be good, and also the fourth part of all fruit, the fodering and pasturing of a Cow, to be kept as her own, and three pounds of wool, all yearly, as long as she shall remain my widow.

Fourthly,—my land whereon I now dwell, viz.:—one hundred and forty-one acres with all Buildings is hereby given over to my son Jacob Funk, for two hundred and Sixty pounds Current money of Pennsylvania so that my son Jacob Funk, may hold the Said Land and plantation for him, his heirs and inheritors, for ever. And the Said Land shall be paid for in manner and condition following, as I am yet, One hundred pounds in debt by Bond to Derick Jansen, for my Said Land, therefore, my said son Jacob Funk, Shall pay off the said One Hundred pounds Bond, After my decease and deliver the same immediately into the hands of my Guardians Clear and without any Cost, and the remaining One Hundred and Sixty pounds shall remain unpaid without any interest as long as my wife Barbara shall remain my widow, and in case she shall Marry again soon, Then it shall still remain unpaid without interest untill my Son Samuel Funk arrives to the age of Twenty one years.

Fifthly. As I have already given unto my eldest son Jacob Funk, five pounds as his prior right and Twenty five pounds more for a beginning and my daughter Barbara has received Twenty five pounds in part of her Inheritance. Therefore, my son Samuel, and my daughter Maria each of them shall also have Twenty five pounds as soon as they shall have occasion for it.

Sixthly.—It is my will that if my said widow Barbara shall happen to get married again, then she shall have the third part after all the Devices and Legacies are first paid and she shall then have no more right to the land.

Seventhly. It is my will that in case of Sickness, Falling of Crops, and misfortunes, It should happen that my said wife should not find Sufficient what is given to her out of the Land for her maintainance, Then in such case she shall have to make use of so much of the Estate as she shall have Occasion for, but then it must be charged to her and afterwards deducted out of her third whenever the Division is made.

Eighthly.—It is my will that in case my wife shall marry again, and if then she hath received her thirds, and my son Samuel then be of the age of Twenty One Years, then they shall Divide their two parts into four equal parts Amongst my four children and the one is to have as much as the other, and in case One of the youngest or both die under age, Then their parts are to be equally dividend among the Survivors of them. But if my wife shall remain my widow then no Division is to be made; not till she is dead and honestly Burried, and then the whole estate is to be dividend into equal shares and the one is to be used like the other.

Ninethly. One thing necessary. I call to mind my said wife shall have my New Bible, my Martyr Book, one of my new hymn books, One of my Golden Apples, (a hymn Book) and one of my Psalm Books, and these books she shall have as long as she lives.

Tenthly.—It is my will and I do hereby constitute and appoint my Dear Friend and Cousin Christian Funk, and my beloved wife Barbara, to be the Guardians or Executors of this my last Will and Testament, and I do hereby empower my said Guardians or Executors, Christian Funk and Barbara Funk, to Give, Sign, Seal and deliver unto my son Jacob Funk, and to his heirs and inheritors, for ever, a full Deed for my Said Land, and I do hereby revoke all Wills and Testaments by me heretofore made, and declare and acknowledge only this to be my last Will and Testament. In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and Seal May 15th in the year of Our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-six.

Signed, Sealed, and before their Guardians or Executors Declared (after this his will was ordered read) as his last Will and Testament in the presence of us the Witnesses.

JACOB FUNK. [SEAL].

CHRISTIAN MEYER,
SAMUEL MEYER,
HENRY FUNK.

The above will was proven June 14, 1756, and is recorded in Book K, No. 266, page 407, at Philadelphia, Pa.

III. Jacob Funk, Jr., bn. on the 13th day of the 3rd month, 1730, and died on the 14th day of the 3rd month, 1816, aged 86 years and 1 day, and lies buried near the door of the church in the Mennonite graveyard at Germantown. Jacob Funk was chosen a minister in the Mennonite congregation at Franconia in 1765. (See the church records of the Franconia congregation). His name also appears on the name list of American Mennonite ministers in the Mennonite archives at Amsterdam, Holland, in 1770, as a minister at the Indian Creek in America. On May 7, 1774, Jacob Funk, Jr., and Anna, his wife, of Franconia Twp., Philadelphia, now Montgomery county, conveyed to Andrew Hans their right and title in a tract of land situated in Franconia Twp., Philadelphia county, now Montgomery, which we find recorded in Book No. 9, page 290, at Norristown. On March 4, 1774, Jacob Funk, Jr., bought of Jacob Keyser a tract of land containing 125 acres, and shortly afterwards an additional tract of 35 acres, making in all 160 acres, situated in Cheltenham Twp., now Montgomery county.

According to the records of the Germantown Mennonite congregation, Jacob Funk, preacher, and Anna, his wife, connected themselves with the Mennonite church at Germantown in 1774, where he served as a minister for forty-two years. He made his last will and testament in writing, dated September 15, 1802, which was proven April 16, 1816, and is registered No. 43, Book 4, page 221, at Norristown, Montgomery county, Pennsylvania, and was witnessed by Michael Leppert, John Minnich and Jacob Knorr. He had six children, two sons, John and Samuel, and two daughters, Barbara and Mary, by his first wife, and two daughters, Anna and Elizabeth, by his second wife. His will reads as follows:

Will of Jacob Funk, Jr., the Mennonite Minister at Germantown.

Be it remembered that I, Jacob Funk, of Cheltenham Township in the county of Montgomery, Yeoman, being, through divine favour, of sound mind, and memory. Praised be the Lord for the same, and all others his manyfold mercies considering the uncertainty of this life and the fitness of Settling my worldly concerns preparatory to my final change do make and publish this my last Will and Testament in manner following, that is to say. First, I will and order that all my Just debts and funeral expenses be well and truly paid and discharged.

Item.—I do give and bequeath to my beloved Wife Anna, all the following household goods and furniture, viz—two of my beds and Bedsteads with all the Bedding thereunto belonging, my Dresser and Cupboards and as much of my Kitchen furniture as she may choose. Two Tables, at her choosing Clothe Press, one chest Six chairs and a Spinning wheel all to be at her own disposal.

Item.—I further give and devise and bequeath unto her my said wife the free use and occupation of all that part of my new house (built over the spring) from the first floor upwards with a priviledge in the cellar thereof and in the yard, for her use also one-half of my Garden, my Stove and pipe my Small wash kettle my clock and case and as many of my books as may be of use to her to hold to her during the continuance of her natural life.

Item.—I do further give unto her my said wife the clear yearly interest arising from the principal sum of Six hundred pounds Lawful Silver money of the United States of America, rate of five per cent to be paid to her yearly, in half yearly payments out of my real estate during all the term of her Natural life—the principal Sum whereof I Will and order shall remain Secured in my said real estate hereinafter devised to my two sons John and Samuel. I do also give unto her sufficient firewood for her and to be delivered to her out of my said real estate during all the term of her Natural life or so long as she shall or may Occupy the premises, during which time it is my will that the further sum of two hundred Pounds money aforesaid shall also remain secured in my said real estate at the rate aforesaid use whereof shall be considered as a compensation for the firewood, house room, and other conveniences heretofore devised to my said wife all which I give unto her in lieu and full satisfaction of her dower.

Item.—I do give and devise to my eldest son John and to his heirs and assigns a certain part of my plantation which I purchased of Jacob Keyser and Margaret his wife situate in Cheltenham Township aforesaid. Bounded and described as follows. Viz.—Beginning at a corner of John Stout's Land in a line of land belonging to Barbara Hicks thence extending by the said John Stout's land and my other tract and other land South forty-eight degrees East, two hundred perches to a corner in a line of a certain open road, thence along the middle of the said road North Forty-One degrees and fifty minutes East Seventy-two perches, to a corner, thence by a division line dividing this from the other part hereafter devised to my son Samuel the five following courses and distances viz.—North forty-eight West thirty-two perches, to a corner. South forty-one degrees, and fifty minutes West twenty-four perches and three-tenth of a perch to a corner. North Forty-Eight degrees west one hundred and thirty perches to a corner, more or less. Subject nevertheless to the payment of such proportionable part out of the same as shall be over and above his one equal sixth of the nett proceeds of my estate real and personal towards the payment of my debts and Legacies herein-after given to my four daughters and Subject likewise to a proportion of firewood to be delivered to my said wife in manner aforesaid.

Item.—I do give and bequeath to my four Daughters, Barbara Souder, Mary Kelter, Anna Kolb, and Elizabeth Kolb, each the one equal Sixth part of the nett proceeds of my estate real and personal to be paid to them respectively as the same shall become payable, part thereof within one year next after my decease and the remaining part thereof within one year next after the decease of my said wife and I do hereby further nominate and appoint my said wife and me two sons John and Samuel or the survivor of them to be the Executors or Executor of this my last Will and Testament, hereby revoking all former Wills by me made.

In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the Fifteenth day of September in the year of Our Lord A. D. one thousand eight hundred and two.

JACOB FUNK. [SEAL].

Proven April 16, 1816.
Registered in Book 4, page 221, at Norristown, Montgomery county, Pa.

The Tomb Yard mentioned in the above will is a small yard surrounded by a stone wall, inside of which is built a vault in which rests the body of General Murray, a British officer, who was killed in the battle at Germantown in 1777. At that time the British army had taken possession of Jacob Funk's farm and took all his horses and his stock and otherwise ruined much of his property, and cleaned out the place so completely that he was obliged to buy a yoke of oxen to commence farming again, and in spite of his great reverses he again prospered very substantially. No indemnity was ever paid to Jacob Funk for these depredations, probably for the reason that he never asked for it.

There is another bit of Revolutionary history attached to the history of Jacob Funk while he was the pastor of the Mennonite church at Germantown in 1777. It was from behind a stone wall which separated the Mennonite burying ground from the main street, while General Agnew, a British general, was returning from the battle just before sunset and riding down a steep hill in front of the meeting house and turning his head, looking at the silvery clouds just before sunset, that he was fired upon by a half grown boy sitting behind the said wall. The officer was mortally wounded and soon died and is buried in the lower burying ground, now Hood's cemetery, Germantown. The name of the perpetrator was carefully guarded by those who knew. Hans Boyer, a half witted fellow of that day, claimed the credit of the deed, but it is said to have not rightfully belonged to him.

VI. David K. Large, bn. in Philadelphia, Pa., Apr. 3, 1812; died July 24, 1892. Rebecca Woolison, his first wife, was born in Schuylkill Co., Pa., Dec. 28, 1809; died Dec. 14, 1838, and was buried in the Mennonite cemetery, Germantown, Pa. Catharine Clark, his second wife, was born in Carlisle, Pa., Sept. 25, 1809; died Feb. 18, 1851. The records of the Zion Lutheran Church, Philadelphia, Pa., for the years 1834 and 1839, show that, on both occasions, he was married by the Rev. Chas. P. Demmi, the then pastor of that church. Mr. Large had five children. The only one living at the time of his demise and at present, 1800, is

VII. Jesse Layton Large, who was born almost within the shadows of both Independence Hall and historic St. Peter's P. E. Church, Third and Pine streets, where, in adult life, he was baptized and confirmed by Bishop Stevens. His paternal grandfather was the Jesse Large who, at Germantown, Pa., Mar. 26, 1807, by the Rev. Heldenstein, pastor of the First Germantown Presbyterian Church, was married to Catharine Kelter, a granddaughter of Jacob Funk, Jr., the Mennonite minister. These grandparents were Mennonites, and are buried in the Germantown Mennonite cemetery. The greater part of Jesse Layton Large's life has been passed in the Far West as a successful teacher in the public schools. He is also well known as a Shakespearean scholar and reader. His life, financially, has, likewise, been crowned with eminent success, the outcome of land investments made at the right time and in the right place. Under the will of his father, he is one of the two executors and trustees of decedent's estate. The estate being small and variously bequeathed, but very little has been added to what his son already possessed. Mr. Large has been blessed with remarkably good health throughout his entire life.

VII. Catharine Large, born May 30, 1844; died June 2, 1887.

3, 1817. He was of Scotch descent, of winning, dignified personality and belonged to a ministerial line of teachers, missionaries and educators. The first thirteen years of their married life were spent in Germantown, Philadelphia. Thence they removed to West Alexander, Washington county, Pa., where they lived and died, loved and respected in life and mourned at death by the whole community in which they spent their philanthropic and hospitable lives. Those who asked help were never turned away empty, and the homeless were sheltered and fed and comforted. They lived the life of the just, and their departure from this life corresponded with their beautiful lives, and a triumphant departure it was. Verily the mourners that stood around their deathbed could exclaim with the prophet of old, "Our loved ones! Our loved ones! The chariot of Israel and the horsemen thereof!" Shining in robes immaculate, bearing the trust they kept so well, they passed beyond the crystal gate into the light ineffable. Children: William, Mary, Tacie, Elizabeth, Annie, Sarah, Caroline, Martha, Susan.

VII. William Dickey, mrd. Margaret Rogers. William Dickey, the first born of Nathaniel O'Dickey, inherited from his parents their love of knowledge, their patriotism and philanthropy. He was a warm friend of education, a teacher by nature and profession. He possessed much of the material of which heroes are made. Solid, stalwart, brave, he was a scholar in a broad sense. He studied night and day, year by year, with untiring diligence and the fruits of such study were always ripe for the benefit of those who desired to taste them. He loved truth and principle more than men, was ever ready to stand up against meanness and wrong. He was honored and revered and was first in the hearts of the people of Washington county, Pa., where his memory will long be cherished. They left no children.

VI. Mary K. Dickey, mrd. Harvey Wingett, a merchant of Washington Co., Pa. Thence they removed to Redwood Falls, Minn. Children:

VI. Daniel K. Cassel, bn. Apr. 22, 1820, in Upper Salford, Montgomery Co., Pa.; died in 1898. Mrd. Elizabeth Kolb, daughter of Rev. Jacob Kolb, of Harleysville, Pa., Feb. 16, 1845. School teacher and farmer. Menn. Res., Lower Salford Twp., until about 1867, when they moved to Norristown, and from there to Philadelphia, in the year 1869, where they are still residing (1893). In his youth he worked on his father’s farm and at the same time learned the trade of linen weaving with his father. He attended school during the winter and obtained a limited education, such as the country afforded at that time. At the age of 19 years he took charge of a school, at the solicitation of his neighbors. At the close of the term he entered a select school for two terms. Still teaching during the winter months and some times during the summer, he continued for twenty years. In later years he wrote and had printed the History of the Mennonites, in the English language, and afterwards a revised and enlarged German edition of the same. He also prepared and compiled three genealogical works. In 1844 he cast his first vote for President of the United States, and ever since voted for every Republican candidate for President. He never aspired for office, but served on the school board for four years by request of the neighbors, where he was known as a teacher. Children: Simeon, Jonas, Abel.

where they held membership. Mr. Cassel was employed on his father's farm in his younger years. He received only a limited education while young, but afterwards attended Washington Hall Boarding School, Trappe, Pa., and also Tremont Seminary, Norristown, under Rev. Samuel Aaron. He then taught under the public school system for a number of years with success. He was also the prime mover in the Delaware River and Lancaster Railroad project and was a director and took an active part in said company until his health failed, and in consequence of which he resigned. He also worked up to a considerable extent the genealogical record of the Cassel family until his health failed, and not being able any more to write, he handed all the papers and manuscripts over to his brother Daniel K. Cassel, at Germantown, Philadelphia, with the request that it be finished and printed. He was a kind father, beloved neighbor, and respected by all. Children:

Joe Edward Cassel was, upon application, admitted on the Pennsylvania Nautical School ship "Saratoga" at the age of 15 years, being among the youngest of those entered when they were mustered. The class consisted of about 107. They started May 1, 1890, on a cruise, touched Fayel May 16, 1890, left again on the 21st for Southampton, England; being prevented, on account of the gale, they ran into Plymouth on the 4th of July, and on the 8th left for Southampton. After leaving the latter port they touched at Funchal, Madeira, then left again for Philadelphia, where they arrived after 29 days sailing. They started on a second cruise from Philadelphia on the 13th of January, 1891, for Barbadoes and the West Indies, and Pensacola, Florida. They encountered a severe storm, lasting seven days, and were driven 500 miles out of their course, even above New York. On the third cruise they touched the Azores Islands, Lisbon, Portugal and Madeira. Thus he crossed the Atlantic four times and

VI. Josephine Kolb, born July 11, 1850; died July 25, 1881.

The last three branches of the Funk family are remarkably connected, and will be of interest to the descendants of those families. Therefore the following sketch is prepared, viz.:
Esther Kolb married Samuel Funk. Matthias Kolb married Ann Funk. Daniel Kolb married Elizabeth Funk. The three Kolbs were the children of one family, namely that of Dillman Kolb and Wilhelmina Rittenhouse. Dillman was a son of Martin Kolb, who came from Manheim (Pfalz) and settled in Germantown in 1707, and in 1709 married Magdalena Van Sintern and moved to Skippack and was one of the first Mennonite ministers there, and was a brother to Dillman Kolb, of Salford, who superintended and compared proofsheets of the Ephrata edition of the Martyrs Mirror, and grandfather of Andrew Ziegler, of Salford, a bishop in the Mennonite churches at Salford and Germantown.

The mother of these three Kolbs was, as above stated, Wilhelmina Rittenhouse, a first cousin to David Rittenhouse, the astronomer, and a daughter of Henry Rittenhouse and Susanna Wool, who moved to Worcester, Montgomery Co., Pa., in 1727, and gave the ground for a school house, meeting house and burying ground, now the Methatchen Mennonite meeting house, and was a son of Nicolaus or Klaas Rittenhouse, a Mennonite minister in Germantown from 1710 to 1734, a son of Willem Rittenhouse, who came from Amsterdam, Holland, and settled at Germantown in 1688, and in 1690 built the first papermill in America, and was also the first Mennonite minister and first bishop in said church in America. He had charge of the Germantown Mennonite congregation until he died in 1708.

The three Funks were the children of Jacob Funk, Jr., of Cheltenham, Montgomery Co., Pa., son of Jacob Funk, Sr., of Franconia, where Jacob Funk, Jr., resided, and was ordained to the ministry in the Franconia congregation in 1765, and in 1774 moved to Cheltenham and connected himself with the Mennonite church at Germantown, where he served as their pastor till his death in 1816.

All the children of Dillman Kolb and Wilhelmina Rittenhouse were: Esther Kolb, married Samuel Funk, April 29, 1788. Magdalena Kolb, born May 23, 1746; died June 29, 1822. Married Isaac Cassel, Aug. 13, 1801. No issue. He was a minister in the Skippack Mennonite congregation. He had issue by first marriage. Wilhelmina Kolb married Dirck Keyser. Henry Kolb married Esther Metz. Daniel Kolb, born in 1706; died in 1816. Married Elizabeth Funk, born Nov. 20, 1768; died Dec. 23, 1851. Martin Kolb, unmarried. Isaac Kolb, born ——; died in 1828; went to Maryland. Married Miss —— Kiser. Matthias Kolb, born Dec. 16, 1759; died Mar. 9, 1837. Married Ann Funk, born May 10, 1787; died May 20, 1849. The descendants of all the above named families are descendants of the Rittenhouse family, as well as the descendants of the Jacob Funk family.

I also find the following in the Pennsylvania archives: Anno Regni Tertio Georgii Regis (1729), chap. cccxii. Jacob Funk was naturalized in 1729, with a number of other Germans, under the following:

"Whereas, Divers Protestants who were subjects to the Emperor of Germany, a Prince in Amity with the Crown of Great Britain, transported themselves and estates into the Province of Pennsylvania between the years 1700 and 1718." Which would bring the arrival of Jacob Funk, Sr., into Pennsylvania prior to 1718.
DESCENDANTS OF MARTIN FUNCK.

I. Martin Funck, dec'd. Mrd. —. Of the personal history of Martin Funck, but little is known. He probably was a brother of Bishop Henry Funck, but of this we have no proof. In 1743 he bought 150 acres of land in Hatfield Twp., Montgomery Co., Pa., and lived adjoining to one Henry Funk. Farmer. Menn. Buried in Frick's burying ground.

Will of Martin Funck.

In the name of God. Amen. I Martin Funck of Hatfield township in the county of Philadelphia and province Pennsylvania, Widower, do find myself at present weak in body but (praised be God) of sound mind memory and understanding, and knowing that it is the old Covenant for all men to dye therefore I do hereby make my last will and testament in manner following, that is to say. Impm. I comend my soul unto God my Creator through the mercy of his Son Jesus Christ, Amen, and my body unto the earth to be decently buried at the direction of my Executor hereof, and concerning my worldly Estate I dispose of the same in manner following. first I give divide and bequeath unto my only son John and to his heirs forever all and singular my Estate wheresoever and whatsoever Except He is to pay unto my six daughters or their heirs the several legacies hereafter bequeathed to them, and my said son is to take full possession of my Estate the day after my burrying. Item I give and Bequeath unto my daughter Margareth and to her Heirs my brass Kittle and my deceased wifes saddle and them two articles she is to have the day after my burrying and the sum of sixty pounds lawful money of Pennsylvania. Item I give and bequeath unto each of the other my five daughters Namely Sophia Barbara Elizabeth Susanna &
Catharine unto each of them or each of their Heirs the sum of fifty pounds lawful money of Pennsylvania and the said sum of three hundred & ten pounds by me bequeathed to my six daughters as above said my son John or his Heirs Exects. & Admrs: is to pay in four equall payments without Interest unto my said six daughters vize one year after my decease one fourth part thereof unto each of them and afterwards annually one fourth part thereof to each of them so that at the expiration of four years after my decease the said six daughters Portions be fully paid by my said son John or hisen as above directed. Item and Whereas I had a servant Girl which I brought up from a Child and which my said son John now had since I gave up Housekeeping and is to have during her time mentioned by her Indenture, her name is Christina. It is my will and I hereby direct that if the said Christina my servant girl continues to be & remaine a good obedient & Industerous servant to my said son during the full Term of her servitude my said son John or hisen is then at the expiration of her Term according to Indenture if she behaves herselfe as foresaid to give and allow her over and besides her freedom dues mentioned in the Indenture a Compleat good feather bed & pillow with cases & sheeting, and I do hereby Constitute and appoint my said son John sole Executor of this my last Will and Testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my own hand & seal this 30th day of August in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty five. MARTIN FUNCK. [SEAL].

Signed sealed and delivered by the Testator as his last Will and Testament in presence of us Peter Frick Philip Martz.

Philada. September the 30th 1765 Then personally appeared Peter Frick and Philip Martz the Witnesses to the foregoing Will and on their solemn affirmation according to law did declare they saw and heard Martin Funck the Testator therein named sign seal publish and declare the same Will for and as his last Will and Testament and that at the doing thereof he was of sound mind memory & understanding to the best of their Knowledge. III. Susan Funk, died aged 17 years.

"Catherine Funk was born at Beaver Creek, Washington county, Md., the 24th day of August, 1797, and died Wednesday, Dec. 26, 1900, aged 103 years, 4 months and 2 days. Her ancestral line is noted for longevity, although none of her ancestors, so far as known, can rival her own in that respect. Her father, Samuel Funk, lived to the ripe old age of 91 years. Her mother, Maria Houser Funk, lived to be 75. Her grandfather lived to be about 86 years of age, and her grandmother was an octogenarian when she died. Very nearly half her own life was spent in the home of her childhood, and she did not come west until 1845, or 55 years ago. While still bearing her maiden name, Catherine Funk, she left her Maryland home, in company with John Bovey and family, who were moving to this vicinity, and started to make her home with her brother, Samuel Funk, who had moved west some time before, locating in Pine Creek township. She was married to Jacob Rice, who was a native of the same section as herself and his first wife, Mary Roland, having passed away three years after they had made their home in the new settlement.

"The marriage of Catherine Funk to Mr. Rice was the beginning of a busy household life of her own. Aunt Kitty, the name by which she has been familiarity known throughout the region around, had no children of her own, but she became a thoughtful and devoted mother to the children of her husband. They made their home three miles north of the village of Mt. Morris, Ill., which continued to be their abode until his death in 1870, at the age of 85. She remained on the old homestead 20 years longer, but for the last 10 years resided in Mt. Morris with her step-son, the late Hon. Isaac Rice, whose name is honored throughout this part of the county.

"Aunt Kitty often told her friends of the interesting incidents of her first trip west. On leaving her native state, this trip was made by stage as far as Wheeling, Va., thence down the Ohio and up the Mississippi and Illinois rivers as far as Peru, near Peoria; thence she traveled overland to Oregon, the county seat of Ogle county. This now beautiful and thriving city then had only a handful of people, scarcely more than 200 souls; and the widely famous college town of Mt. Morris was then a hamlet numbering perhaps 50 persons. Among the incidents of life here in that early time were the occasional rides to Chicago by ox-cart, a trip she repeatedly made; her errand being to conclude the purchases for the year. On one occasion when the oxen were turned out to grass in the evening, one of the two teams strayed away, and in the morning could not be found, far or near. They were compelled to hitch one rig behind the other, and make their journey drawn by a single team. The runaways were subsequently found to have made their way home, swimming Rock River on their return.

"At the period of Aunt Kitty's early visits, there was no danger of being lost in Chicago. The town was too small for that. Her annual visits there were for the purpose of laying in a supply of clothing for the severe western winters. Chicago was a very unattractive place in those times, the business district towards the court house being in the swamp, and the Michigan avenue lake front, over towards the present Illinois Central depot a line of sandy knolls. She remembered distinctly wandering along the Lake Michigan beach, picking up shells and pebbles.

"The fact that the home of Mrs. Rice was in and near the college town of Mt. Morris for more than half a century, presiding over the home of a prominent member of the community, gave her the personal acquaintance of many young people who afterwards came to fame and high station. Her roof always sheltered a generous hospitality. Among those who have sat at her table may be mentioned Gen. W. H. L. Wallace, Martin P. Sweet, Thomas J. Turner, E. B. Washburne, Shelby M. Cullom, Gen. John A. Rawlins and many others, some of whom were students of Rock River Seminary. Mrs. Rice was always industrious and frugal, but the needy were never denied food or care. She was almost as widely known in portions of Maryland around her old home, as in this vicinity.

"Aunt Kitty's memory of events of her early years was remarkably clear to the last. Many stirring events transpired near her home at that time. The excitement caused by the war of 1812, the burning of the national capitol, the Bladensburg race, etc., were as fresh in her memory as though of recent occurrence. She could trace the family connections of all who lived in the vicinity of her home, many of the families being represented in the older settlers of the region about Mt. Morris. She credited to her cheerfulness, her never-flagging industry and abstemious habits, the marked favor extended to her in her long life. For many years of her life she was fond of smoking, indulging moderately, but for the last fifteen years or longer she strictly refrained. She was not able to read her favorite book, the Bible, for a number of years because of the impairment of her eyesight. She was able to distinguish general form and color, but nothing more. Her hearing continued good. Like her father and grandfather before her, she was a devout member of the Mennonite faith, but since coming where there are few of that persuasion, she worshipped with other denominations with which she was most in sympathy. Although having her own views as to religious forms, etc., the spirit of the gospel was always the main thing with her.

"Aunt Kitty was the contemporary of every great event in our national history since the Revolutionary war. Her life spanned all American presidents, from Washington to McKinley. She lived during the three wars of our nation under the constitution, including the last war with Great Britain, the war with Mexico, and the great Civil war. She and her husband held to a faith that eschewed war, and excited of its followers everything in act or conduct that could aid to banish war; but they gave their active sympathy and good cheer to the soldiers who fought to preserve the union.

"Aunt Kitty's grandfather came to America about 1748, early in his married life. He came from the wine districts on the Rhine, being impelled to leave Germany on account of the conscription and his religious compunction in regard to war. On the way across the Atlantic they were nearly three months on the passage, and were near to a famine from running out of supplies. Her grandfather settled near Hagerstown, then a wilderness. The settlement there was often in peril from the Indians, the times being very alarming during the French and Indian war and during the Revolution. One season nine families lived in a barn all summer. At one time, when the Indians came, they all fled for Fredericktown, 20 miles away, leaving a dinner cooking. They never knew who got that dinner.

"Her grandfather gave her father a wild farm and her father and mother prepared it for cultivation, working together in grubbing out the undergrowth and small trees. Later her father bought the mill. At one time it was so full of grain that the gable burst. That presented a grave emergency. He called in all the neighbors, with their teams, and moved the grain to the barns of the vicinity. The condition of the mill was found too serious to remedy and it was torn down, being completely rebuilt between April and October, a large force being employed for that purpose. The millwrights were put to work in the forest to prepare the timbers and the masons in the quarries to get out the stone. They had to care for all the force at the house. Her mother was an invalid from rheumatism at this time. The only help Aunt Kitty had was a girl of eleven years. There was absolutely no domestic help to be had. She did all the work, her baking of the bread for the table consuming twenty barrels of flour during the six months. There were twenty-eight hungry men to be fed. Breakfast had to be ready at sun-rise, and the men from the quarries did not get in for their supper until sun-down. A friend who dropped in to see them during that period said he 'would not give much for Kitty when the mill was done,' thinking it a killing work; but she outlived them all.

"The farmer of that time raised quite an amount of wheat and corn, some rye and barley, and a little oats. He was also a stock raiser, keeping cattle, hogs and sheep. He grew flax for making all the linen for family use, and out of the flax and wool were prepared the fibres and the thread for the weaving of the garments for both men and women. Many beautiful white linen goods were made, but it gave the women of the household a life of incessant labor. They were never idle, not stopping from their day's work until nine o'clock in the evening. The mere spinning was only a small part of the work of keeping the men folks and women folks in clothes, providing the bedding, the table linen, etc. The grain was all cut by hand with the sickle. She had often seen twenty men in the field, going through the standing wheat and laying it in bundles. They had some wagons in those days but many more carts.

"The young people were not without their enjoyments in her day, although their life was well filled with hard labor. Most families made apple butter a prominent thing of their diet. The young people used to get together in bees, prepare the apples and make them up into the apple butter. They had no Sunday schools in those days. When they came home from church the father would gather the children together after dinner to see how much they could remember of the sermon. After they had finished that catechizing they were allowed to play, this being about the only respite of the week. She remembered her grandfather well, who died in 1804, and her grandmother, who died in 1807.

"She recalled the first coffee they ever had. Her father brought it from Fredericktown. 'Here's something they call coffee,' she heard him say. 'I don't know whether they make soup of it or cook it with meat!' was his wandering comment. An English lady who knew coffee, pronounced it good and showed them how to prepare it. She browned the coffee in the skillet, and beat it in the mortar as they did their spices. Her father tried a mouthful of it, but immediately went to the door and spit it out, having a very poor idea of it. The English woman made it into a beverage. They did not like it at first, but later learned to be fond of it. Kitty's mother always made coffee Sunday mornings, and when she was little she could always tell when Sunday came because of the coffee-making.

"The bitter feeling against the Tories of the Revolution lingered to Kitty's day, and she remembered the excitement attending the return of two of them to that vicinity. One of them was saved by a reprieve from the president, which arrived just a half hour before the time set for his execution. Another was secreted and hustled off to New York by the 'underground railway.'

"Mrs. Rice remembered experiences of going to the weekly market at Hagerstown with butter, eggs and other things, which were part of the regular duties of her childhood days. She was the youngest of the family at home, and her father and mother wanted her to care for them until they were gone. This filial duty she was very glad to fulfill to them, with all the love of a faithful daughter, placing their interests and comforts always before her own. It was not until she had buried her father that she came west to join her youngest brother, whom she survived twenty-eight years.

"Aunt Kitty knew her share of the trials and afflictions of life, but instead of yielding to them or being overcome, she was always thankful that they were no worse. Her's was a beautiful spirit, and the trait just mentioned shines through all her relations with fellow men, and in the kindly sentiments with which no one could be with her any length of time without perceiving it to be the ruling characteristic of her life. It was refreshing to receive the influence of such an association, even though it was but for a chat of a few moments."

Her funeral took place on Saturday, the 29th of December, 1900. Services were conducted by Rev. Ephraim Shellenberger, of the Mennonite church, near Freeport, and Rev. F. W. Nazarine, Mt. Morris. Her funeral was probably the largest ever held at that place. She was laid to rest in Oakwood Cemetery beside her husband.

III. Mary Funk, bn. in Washington Co., Md., Mar. 5, 1795; died at Beaver Creek, Mar. 25, 1824. Mrs. David I. Funk, son of John and Barbara Roland Funk, about 1810 or 1811. V. Jesse Funk, bn. in Fayette Co., Ohio, May 11, 1817. Mrd. Cynthia Hayns. P. O., Oskaloosa, Iowa. Jesse Funk's father dying when he was about fourteen years old, he was left a poor boy without education, never having attended school more than three months; and was thus early thrown upon his own resources for a livelihood. He began life by farming in connection with keeping a little grocery store, which he carried on until 1838, when he engaged in railroading for several years, and became much involved in debt. He again returned to farming for several years, then engaged in the lumber business in which he continued until 1850, during which time he paid most of his debts. He then became interested in the education of his family, and built a school house at his own expense. It was the first school house built in the neighborhood. A teacher was employed by the neighbors, and a minister was secured to preach for them, whose services were owned and blessed of God, by the conversion of Mr. Funk, his wife, two children, and about twenty others. Previous to 1850 his life had been mostly spent "among drunkards, gamblers, thieves, Indians, panthers, wolves, wildcats, and wild hogs; without schools, preaching, and without any moral training whatever." In 1854 he sold his little homestead for $2,800 (It is now worth so many thousand), and moved on a farm of three or four hundred acres in Stark Co., Ill., where he engaged in raising, buying, selling and shipping stock, until 1874, and then moved to Mahaska Co., Iowa, where he engaged in the same business until 1884, when he moved to Oskaloosa, Iowa, where he and wife live in retirement with a comfortable home and happy surroundings. Presby. Children: Margery, George, Adeline, Edgar, LeRoy, Emma, Lizzie, Ella, Charles, Isaac.

Isaac Funk was born in Clark Co., Ky., where the first ten years of his life was spent. Three or four of those years he was of suitable age to attend school, but probably there was no school at that time within the boy’s reach. The family removed to Fayette Co., Ohio, where sixteen years of Mr. Funk’s life were spent.
Isaac Funk's school life, all told, amounted to but parts of three winters, this from the age of ten to thirteen. Nothing is known of the character of his teacher, except that he was renowned as a very severe disciplinarian, even for that day; Mr. Funk often alluded to the frequent and fearful thrashings that he gave his pupils; all remembrance of the other qualifications of the teacher, if he had any, seem to have faded from his mind. We, who now know all about schooling, smile at the old-time methods, and yet there must have been some kind of virtue in those back woods schools, otherwise how can we explain the fact that so many boys of those days with so little schooling accomplished so much, while now so many with so much schooling accomplish so little. Then, with two or three years schooling, men built fortunes and states; now many of us with twenty-two or three years' schooling are just about able to live off the state or to squander a fortune.

In 1823 Mr. Funk started for Illinois; and in May of the following year he pitched his camp on the east side, just at the edge of what is now known as Funk's Grove. On this spot, or very near it, he lived the remainder of his life. In partnership with his older brother, Absalom, Mr. Funk began to farm a little with such rude implements as could be procured at that time in the new country. As the settlement of the country increased, the Funk brothers, Isaac and Absalom, began to buy the surplus stock of the region and drive it to such markets as they could find; first to Peoria, later to eastern markets and to Chicago.

This business of handling cattle and hogs grew to vast proportions. The brothers learned their business well; they were alert, worked very hard, dealt fairly with everybody, and thus gained a pretty complete monopoly of the stock buying business of all their region; they made money and a great deal of it. With the profits of their stock business they bought land.

About 1840 the partnership was dissolved, Isaac continuing alone, still extending his live stock operations, and still putting the profits into land. His operations in handling stock and buying land were on a very large scale.
The fertility and value of the prairie lands of central Illinois were not generally known to the first settlers, but Mr. Funk evidently discovered very early after his arrival here, the matchless fertility of the prairie land, and no doubt in the very first years of his residence here, conceived the purpose of acquiring all he could of the land in and around Funk's Grove; to accomplish this purpose he worked by day and by night. He pursued it with tremendous energy and splendid daring.

When the Illinois Central and Chicago and Alton railways were projected and partly built, he foresaw that lands would rapidly rise in value, and about that time in the short space of three or four years, he bought more than twelve thousand acres of land and went into debt to the amount of $80,000. At the time of his death he owned in McLean Co. 25,000 acres of land, 20,000 of it being in one body in and around Funk's Grove. We do not know that any other man in the United States has, by his own unaided efforts, acquired so much land equally valuable and fertile, as there is in the Funk's Grove tract, bought and all paid for in Mr. Funk's lifetime.

Mr. Funk was a powerful man physically; he was five feet ten and one-half inches in height, normal weight, two hundred pounds; stout but not obese, finely proportioned, compactly built, black hair inclined to curl, Roman nose; long, strong upper lip; wide mouth, closing firmly in handsome lines; complexion ruddy to dark, eyes dark brown, clear, penetrating and steady, but flashing with power when aroused.

In politics Mr. Funk was a whig while that party was still in existence. In 1840 he was elected to the lower house of the state legislature. While always taking an active part and having an intelligent interest in public affairs, Mr. Funk was in no sense a politician. His great business was sufficient to occupy most of his time and always required the closest attention, but he was a broad minded man and knew full well that he owed a duty to his state and the public. While in no sense a politician, he felt the keenest interest in public affairs and found time to take an active part in the management of county affairs and also in the conduct of political campaigns, state and national.
He was a member of the Republican party from the first; he was not at first an abolitionist. Mr. Funk was a law-abiding citizen, trained to respect the rights of property, and while the laws of his country recognized the right of property in slaves, Mr. Funk abided those laws. Just preceding the war time, Hon. Owen Lovejoy, candidate for congress in Mr. Funk's district, delivered a great speech in Bloomington. Mr. Funk heard it; he was converted and ever after hated slavery, and was ready to welcome any lawful means of abolishing it from the land.

He was a great friend of Abraham Lincoln, and entered into the Lincoln campaign of 1860 with all the zeal and enthusiasm of his strongly emotional nature. For the election of Lincoln he gave up his time, labor and money without stint. In 1862 he was elected to the state senate by the Republicans of his district to fill the unexpired term of Gen. Richard J. Oglesby, and was re-elected for the next term. It was during this term, in the darkest days of the war of the Rebellion, when the fate of the Union seemed to be trembling in the balance, that he made his famous speech in the senate, in favor of an appropriation for what was known as the Sanitary Commission. The opponents of the war had a majority in the senate; they were openly and persistently opposing any and every measure calculated to furnish aid and comfort to the armies of the Union. To Mr. Funk, their conduct seemed nothing less than treason to the country and government.

He was unaccustomed to speaking in public, but there came a time when, in his own words, he "could sit in his seat no longer and see men trifling with the interests of his country." It was then that he arose and hurled at the opposition that philippic of philippics, which will never be forgotten by those who heard it, and is probably remembered by more people than remember any other speech ever made in Illinois. The speech is as follows:

MR. SPEAKER: I can sit in my seat no longer and see such boys' play going on. These men are trifling with the best interests of the country. They should have asses' ears to set off their heads, or they are secessionists and traitors at heart.
I say there are secessionists and traitors at heart in this Senate. Their actions prove it. Their speeches prove it. Their gibes and laughter and cheers here nightly, when their speakers get up in this hall and denounce the war and the administration, prove it.

I can sit here no longer and not tell these traitors what I think of them. And while so telling them, I am responsible for what I say. I stand upon my own bottom. I am ready to meet any man on this floor, in any manner from a pin's point to the mouth of a cannon, upon this charge against these traitors. (Tremendous applause from the galleries.) I am an old man of sixty-five. I came to Illinois a poor boy. I have made a little something for myself and family. I pay $8,000 a year in taxes; I am willing to pay $6,000, aye $12,000; (great cheering, the old gentleman bringing down his fist upon his desk with a blow that would knock down a bullock, and causing the inkstand to bound a half dozen inches into the air), aye, I am willing to pay my whole fortune, and then give my life to save my country from these traitors that are seeking to destroy it. (Tremendous cheers and applause, which the speaker could not subdue.)

Mr. Speaker, you must please excuse me. I could not sit longer in my seat and calmly listen to these traitors. My heart that feels for my poor country would not let me. My heart that cries out for the lives of our brave volunteers in the field, that these traitors at home are destroying by thousands, would not let me. My heart that bleeds for the widows and orphans at home, would not let me. Yes, these villains and traitors and secessionists in this Senate (striking his clenched fist on the desk with a blow that made the house ring again), are killing my neighbors' boys, now fighting in the field, I dare to tell this to these traitors, to their faces, and that I am responsible for what I say to one and all of them. (Cheers.) Let them come on, right here. I am sixty-five years old, and I have made up my mind to risk my life right here, on this floor, for my country.

These men sneered at Col. Mack a day or two ago. He is a little man, but I am a large man. I am ready to meet any of them in place of Col. Mack. I am large enough for them, and I hold myself ready for them now, and at any time. (Cheers from the galleries.)
Mr. Speaker, these traitors on this floor should be provided with hempel collars. They deserve them. They deserve them. They deserve hanging, I say, (Raising his voice and violently striking the desk.) The country would be better off to swing them up. I go for hanging them and I dare tell them so right here to their traitors' faces. Traitors should be hung. It would be the salvation of the country to hang them. For that reason I would rejoice at it. (Tremendous cheering.)

Mr. Speaker, I beg pardon of the gentlemen in the Senate who are not traitors, but true, loyal men, for what I have said. I only intend it and mean it for secessionists at heart. They are here, in this Senate. I see them joke, and smirk, and grin at a true Union man, but I defy them. I stand here ready for them and dare them to come on. (Great cheering.) What man with the heart of a patriot could stand this treason any longer. (Cheers.) I denounce these men and their aiders and abettors as rank traitors and secessionists. Hell itself could not spew out a more traitorous crew than some of these men who disgrace this legislature, this state and this country. For myself, I protest and denounce their treasonable acts. I have voted against their measures. I will do so to the end. I will denounce them as long as God gives me breath, and I am ready to meet the traitors themselves here or anywhere, and fight them to the death. (Prolonged cheers and shouts.)

I said I paid three thousand dollars a year taxes. I do not say it to brag of it. It is my duty; yes, Mr. Speaker, my privilege to do it. But some of the traitors here, who are working night and day to get their miserable little bills and claims through the legislature to take money out of the pockets of the people, are talking about high taxes. They are hypocrites as well as traitors. I heard some of them talking about high taxes in this way, who do not pay five dollars to support the government. I denounce them as hypocrites as well as traitors. (Cheers.) The reason they pretend to be afraid of high taxes is that they do not want to vote money for the relief of the soldiers. They want also to embarrass the government and stop the war. They want to aid the secessionists to conquer our boys in the field. They care about taxes! They are picayune men anyhow. They pay no taxes at all, and never did, and never hope to, unless they can manage to plunder the government. (Cheers.) This is an excuse for traitors.

Mr. Speaker, excuse me! I feel for my country in this hour of danger. I feel for her from the tip of my toes to the end of my hair. That is the reason I speak as I do. I cannot help it. I am bound to tell these men to their teeth what they are, and what the people, the true loyal people, think of them.

Mr. Speaker, I have had my say. I am no speaker. This is the only speech I have made, and I do not know that it deserves to be called a speech. I could not sit still any longer and see these scoundrels and traitors work out their selfish schemes to destroy the Union. They have my sentiments. Let them one and all make the most of them. I am ready to back up all I say, and repeat it, to meet these traitors in any manner they may choose, from a pin's point to the mouth of a cannon."

The effect of this speech in the army and among the friends of the Union throughout the whole North can scarcely be measured, coming as it did from the full heart of a plain man, spontaneously. It aroused a sympathetic echo in hundreds of thousands of breasts that were pained as his was for his country, in the fearful trials through which she was passing.

The remains of this remarkable man lie buried in Funk's Grove Cemetery, remote from the traveled ways and thronged towns, beside the still running stream and in the heart of the same magnificent forest, which captivated his eye when, as a young, strong man, he came this way in search of home and fortune. By his side lie the remains of his beloved and faithful wife, whose death occurred only about four hours later than his. Mr. Funk left a large family: they and their descendants have for the most part, kept their residences in McLean county. They are all engaged in agricultural pursuits. The immense land holdings of Isaac Funk still remain in possession of the family. Several of the sons have taken considerable part in politics and other public business. They are all republicans. Children: George, Adam, Jacob, Duncan, Lafayette, Francis, Benjamin, Absalom, Isaac, Sarah.

Children: Sarah, Nancy, Adam, John, Thomas, Delilah, Mary, Infant, Absalom. On the 11th day of March, 1825, Mr. and Mrs. Funk moved into their new home, a log cabin, 12 x 14, with only one side of the roof covered. A blanket served the purpose of a door. There was no chimney, and no floor but the ground. Into this humble dwelling they brought an ox cart load of household furniture. He sold his wedding hat for a sow and ten pigs, and split rails for his neighbors for twenty-five cents per hundred. In 1830, when the land first came into market, he entered his first claim for 160 acres, and had by this time laid up $1,400 with which he bought his first quarter section, paying $200, and loaned $800 to some of his neighbors with which to buy their homes. The little log cabin finally gave place to a brick dwelling, then quite a mansion for this new country. His few acres multiplied to thousands and his estate at his death was valued at more than six hundred thousand dollars ($600,000) which amount having left no will, was divided equally among his seven children. For his success in business he gave God the praise. A devout Christian, he was a liberal giver to all church benevolences. From an early day until his death it was his custom to give two hundred dollars ($200) annually to the Chinese mission, and every one of his family was made a life member of the Missionary Society.

V. Sarah Jane Funk, bn. in McLean Co., Ill., Aug. 22, 1828. Mrd. Rev. John A. Brittenham. He was born in Ross Co., Ohio, and came to Illinois in 1840. P. O., Monticello, Ill. He was licensed to exhort in 1840, by Rev. Elijah Carrington, P. E. of Jacksonville District, Ill., and in 1842 he was licensed to preach by Rev. Peter Cartwright, P. E. of Jacksonville District. He joined the conference about the same time and began to travel in the northern part of the state which constituted his first appointment. The circuit included several hundred miles in the rounds of travel, and his stopping place was at Pontiac, the largest town in the circuit. He was next sent to Castinville for two years, and to the following places in order, viz: Monticello, Mount Pleasant Circuit, Clinton Circuit, Waynesville Circuit, Randolph Grove Circuit and again to Monticello. After two years he took the superannuated relation and only preached occasionally and during revival work. He was a good and faithful preacher and always had a good attendance at his services. He was a great favorite with the young men of his circuits, and they were regular attendants.

After preaching some 16 years he engaged in business in order better to secure a home and competence for his family. He was quite successful in business for a time, then reverses came, and he saw his error. He resumed preaching for a short time before his death. He did not have the advantages that young people have now, but he had a good common school education for the times.

After he began to preach he was a great student, and devoted most of his time to study. As a pastor and servant of Christ he was successful, and many were added to the churches under his ministry. Meth. Ep. Children:

THE FUNCK FAMILY OF LANCASTER CO., PA.

From the history of Lancaster County, Pa., we learn that the Funcks were among the Mennonites who emigrated to this country from Switzerland and the Palatinate in 1709. They were among those who settled in Lancaster County. In this book is a map showing a grant of land made by Henry Funck and John Funck and the Herr's occupy a prominent place. Under "Mennonites" in Encyclopedia is given the time that Lancaster County was settled by the Mennonites. It was understood that four Funcks emigrated from Switzerland to Holland, forced to leave on account of their religious belief. Two of these brothers settled near Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, and the other two are said to have settled in Lancaster County. From an old Bible in possession of Christian Herr of Lancaster, the Bible being more than 150 years old, we gather the following:—

Rudolph Funck was married to Catharine Kreible, about the year 1776. Children: Maria, Henry, Magdalena, Catharine, Elizabeth.

It is not known to the writer, from which of the pioneers, Henry or John Funck, that Rudolph Funck descends. There are probably one or two missing links between the pioneer ancestor and Rudolph.

From records and other information it has been learned that the children of Henry Funck, were viz., Henry, John, Martin, Jacob, Samuel, Barbara, wife of Michael Meyer, Mary, wife of Jacob Nutt and Frena, wife of Joseph Musser. The children of John Funck so far as known were Christian, John, Jacob and others.

There is recorded in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, the will of Henry Funck, dated 1736. It is written in German.

There is also recorded in Philadelphia, the will of Henry Funck, of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, made in 1795 and probated in 1799. This may have been a son of one of the pioneers. His children were, Catharine, Maderira, Sophia Elliott, Sarah Musser, Jacob Funck, and Elizabeth Branham.
After settling in Lancaster County for a time, later some of the family, evidently the pioneer, John, drifted to Virginia, but it is not known that any of this family now reside there. In all probability they removed west after about the year 1742.

Of wills of Funcks found recorded in the valley counties of Virginia are the following, viz.: Will of Adam Funck, Shenandoah County, dated March 10, 1778, probated April 30, 1778. His wife was Magdalene, and his children, John, Adam, Abraham, Barbara, Catharine, Mary, Dorothy, Elizabeth. Executor, Henry Frank and William Kulp.

Will of Jacob Funck, Winchester County, Virginia, probated 1746, wife, Frances. Children: Jacob, John, Elizabeth, Frances, Mary and Barbara. He refers to a cousin John, Jr., who was one of his executors.

The following extracts of deeds are from Orange Co., Va.

Henry Willis \to\ Indenture dated July, 1736. Between Henry Willis, of the one part Jacob Funck and Jacob Funck of the other part, conveying 2,030 acres of land lying on the north side of the North Branch of the Shenandoah River, commonly called "Stony Lick," in Orange Co., Virginia. Recorded 1735.

Jacob Funck \to\ Indenture dated Feb., 1734. Between Jacob Funck, of the one part John Funck and John Funck of Lancaster Co., Pennsylvania, of the other part, conveying 180 acres, part of the above 2,030 acres. Recorded May, 1737.

At Lancaster, Pa., the following Indentures are recorded which may throw some light on the family history.

John Funck \to\ Indenture dated September 14, 1739. Between John Funck of Orange County, Henry Haines in the colony of Virginia, yeomen of the one part and Henry Haines the younger, of the County of Lancaster, Province of Pennsylvania, of the other part. Consideration, £75 for 101 acres in Strasburg Twp.

*Granddaughter of Christian Kauffman, who emigrated from Germany in 1717, and was one of the early settlers in Manor Township, Lancaster Co., Pa., (then Conestoga Twp., Chester Co.,) where he took up land under grant from the Penns in what was known as the "Proprietor's Manor of Conestoga." He died Mar. 11, 1790. His wife was Barbara Baer, who died Jan. 12, 1801. Their children were Christian, Isaac, Benjamin, Elizabeth, Barbara and Anna.

*Isaac Kauffman, born in Manor Township in 1762, and died there Jan. 24, 1826. He married Catharine Baugman, about 1796. She died July 9, 1888. Their children were, Christian, Isaac, Maria, Barbara, John, Catharine, Benjamin, Anna, Andrew L., Elizabeth, Susan and Martha, wife of John Funk.
ings. When about 14 years of age he learned the weaving trade. In 1833 he moved to Ohio and settled near Clifton on the Little Miami River, in Green Co., in a little hut, that has since been destroyed. While there he was engaged in the meat business and general merchandise, also farming. He afterwards moved to Clifton, Green Co., where he kept a hotel. As there were no railroads at that time and a great deal of teaming from various parts of the state to Cincinnati, many of the teamsters spent the night at Clifton. About 1847 he removed to Springfield, Ohio, where he kept a hotel known as the Pennsylvania House, a large hostelery which accommodated many of the teamsters who stopped for the night on their way from Cleveland to Cincinnati. In 1849 he moved farther up town in Springfield and for some time conducted a hotel but latterly went into business. By investing in real estate in connection with his business he accumulated about $200,000, half of which or more he lost by going security, before he died. He was a very kind hearted man and it was hard for him to refuse a person who wished an accommodation. He was a man of remarkable strength. He would frequently pick up a barrel of flour and hold it at arm’s length above his head. He has been seen to lift a barrel of vinegar weighing between four and five hundred pounds and carry it quite a long distance. He was in belief a Universalist, and his first wife was a Lutheran.

IV. Martha Ann Funk, bn. Nov. 27, 1831; died August 14, 1833.

IV. Barbara Elizabeth Funk, bn. at Mt. Pleasant, Manor Twp., Lancaster Co., Pa., Oct. 22, 1833. Mrd. George Smith Steinberger, of Champaigne Co., Ohio, Mar. 11, 1856. P. O., Tremont City, Ohio. Farmer. The first five years of their married life were spent in the country at “Mad River Valley,” Mad River Twp., Champaigne Co., Ohio; then after nearly ten years’ residence in Springfield, Ohio, they returned to the country and engaged in farming, which they have followed ever since. Their house is now on the east side of Mad River Valley, about five miles north of Springfield on the Urbana Pike.

“Lizzie” was a babe when her parents came in wagons over the mountains to Ohio, and settled on a farm near Clifton, Green Co., thence removed to the village of Clifton, and later to Springfield in the adjoining county of Clark. Old Predestinarian Baptists. Children: David, Mary, infant, John, George, Jacob.

V. David Orrin Steinberger, bn. in Champaigne Co., Ohio, Mar. 25, 1857. P. O., Tremont City, Ohio.

Mr. Steinberger is a remarkable artistic genius. He has done much excellent work in the line of illustrating for the Youth's Companion, Farm and Fireside, Frank Leslie's Weekly, Harper's Weekly and other periodicals. Some of his illustrations would do credit to a Dore. Among his works of art which have attracted much attention is the Snyder bust which has been highly praised and reflects great credit upon his talent and ability as an artist. "The Accolade" a large picture which was presented to every subscriber of $1.00 to the million dollar relief fund of the Red Cross Society and Cuban relief committee, represents Columbia, the allegorical figures of the United States, bestowing the Accolade on wounded Cuba. This work of art through the generous efforts of the Funk & Wagnall's Publishing Company, cleared something over $5,000 for the Red Cross relief committee during the Spanish-American war.

Another work named the "Beach Beauty," a life sized bust of a beautiful woman, has attracted a great deal of attention, but perhaps the best proof of the artist's power was displayed in a statuette of Christ. The dark common clay was transformed into a figure of simple majesty. Its presence was a benediction,—it filled the observer with sweetly solemn thoughts.

Mr. Steinberger's work reflects great credit upon his talents and ability as an artist of strong convictions and great and powerful imagination and artistic feeling, and he is in a fair way to be recognized among the noted and honored sculptors of America and the art world.

He is also a capital prose writer and a poet of no mean attainments.

He was a bright, promising young man well beloved by all who knew him.

V. Jacob Edward Steinberger, bn. Feb. 17, 1878; died Nov. 27, 1880.

Mr. Funk was educated at private schools and Wittenburg College, Springfield, O. He was first employed by his father as book-keeper for the firm of John Funk & Co. He soon bought out the company's stock and he and his father together conducted the dry goods store under the firm name of John Funk & Son. Three years later his father sold out to him, who added a grocery store, and continued the business until he crossed the Rocky mountains in 1862, returning in 1864. He camped at Helena, Montana, and mined for gold, and also conducted a notion store in that mining town. When he returned home, he and his father engaged in a Baking Powder Manufactory for a time. He then entered the real estate business and also raised blooded horses until 1888, when he became a contractor, building street railroads, paving streets, building houses, etc., in which he continued until his death which occurred Aug. 16, 1898. He was an honest, upright man, highly esteemed. Luth.

V. Pearl Funk, bn. July 31, 1876.

V. Helen Ruth Funk. V. Henry Jefferson Funk, Jr.

V. Frank M. Deaver, dec'd. He was attending college at the time of his death. He was a devoted Christian boy. Luth.

V. Charles C. Deaver, dec'd.

Isaac K. Funk was graduated at Wittenberg College, Springfield, O., D. D., in 1860, and in 1861 entered upon active work in the Lutheran ministry near Moreshill, in Indiana, subsequently holding pastoral charge at Carey, O., and of the St. Matthews English Lutheran Church, Brooklyn, N. Y. Among those who entered the church during his ministry in Brooklyn is the now well known Lutheran, Charles A. Scheiren, ex-mayor of that city.

After resigning his Brooklyn charge in 1872, which position he had held for seven years, he traveled in Europe, Egypt and Palestine. About this time he became the associate of Daniel Schindler, D. D., in the editorial management of the Christian Radical, which was published in Pittsburg, Pa., and afterwards removed to New York City. In October, 1876, he founded The Homiletic Review (then called The Metropolitan Pulpit), and was its editor-in-chief. The great publishing firm, of which he is the president, is now known by the well-known name of Funk & Wagnalls Company.

A. W. Wagnalls first began as a clerk in the publishing house, but in 1877 he became a partner, and the firm was known as I. K. Funk & Co., and later as Funk & Wagnalls, and in 1891 as the Funk & Wagnalls Company, and has become one of the leading publishing houses of the world, with branches in Canada and in England.

Mr. Wagnalls had been a lawyer previously in Atchinson, Kansas. Both he and Dr. Funk were born in Ohio, and hence are both representatives of Western go-ahead-attiveness, and they were both graduates of the same college, that of Wittenberg, in Springfield, O. In 1877 the business was carried on in a small way in a room where they simply had desk room at 21 Barclay St., on the third floor. They remained in that room until they crowded out all other tenants—then added an adjoining room, and when that was full they had to rent a regular store at 10-12 Dey St., where they occupied three floors; continued at that place seven years, and had their force and stock in three different buildings, and then, to secure larger quarters, they moved to 18 and 20 Astor Place; still later to 80 Lafayette Place, where the business now occupies seven large floors. Almost from the start they were heavy publishers of books as well as of periodicals.

About the year 1880 they began the publication of cheap, paper-covered standard books, which had a great run. One of the first heavy works they undertook was the re-publication of Spurgeon's "Treasury of David" (having gained permission from the author). This standard work on the Psalms has had an immense sale. Over 900 different works now bear the imprint of "Funk & Wagnalls" as publishers. For the last eight or ten years they have issued, on an average, about 500,000 volumes a year! And still the books come pouring out from their fruitful presses; all of the press work and binding and nearly all the type setting being done in other buildings. Among these volumes are such standard books as Knight's History of England, Young's Analytical Concordance. The Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious knowledge, The Hoyt-Ward Encyclopedia of Practical Quotations, Meyer's Commentary, complete in 11 vols.; Butler's Bible Works, Parker's Bible, complete in 25 vols.; The Homiletic Commentary, 30 vols., etc., etc. The crowning work published by this firm is the now world famous book: The Funk & Wagnalls Standard Dictionary of the English Language, the production of which costing over $960,000, and having had engaged upon it 247 editors. Dr. Funk was the editor-in-chief of this monumental work, having originated the plans and superintended the editorial collaboration throughout, producing a book that has commanded the admiration of the English speaking world.

Among the authors whose books are printed by this firm are Dr. Philip Schaff, Dr. Charles F. Deems, Edward Everett Hale, Edgar Fawcett, Julian Hawthorne, Howard Crosby, Bishop Vincent, Joseph Parker, Frances E. Willard, Benson J. Lossing, "Josiah Allen's Wife," Joaquin Miller, Joseph Cook, T. De Witt Talmage, Lyman Abbott, Dr. James M. Ludlow, Rev. Dr. Banks, and others.

The Voice was started in 1884—first as a campaign paper, of the Prohibition Party, on a trial of eight weeks. Dr. Funk, editor-in-chief. The publishers yielded to a growing demand for its continuance. As a permanent periodical it began its career January 2, 1885, with 6,000 subscribers. The paper reached a weekly circulation of over 120,000.

Dr. Funk is distinguished for his great energy—he is a steam-engine and does not seem to tire, no matter how hard he works. He is never at a loss as to argument in controversy, nor for resourceful expedients in pushing business enterprises. Indeed that is his great power. He does originate plans and in the commercial world, this power is worth more than almost any other quality.

As an editor his instinct for news is of the highest order. His ideal of a paper is ever far beyond realization—not because it is utopian (for such it is not) but because of the difficulty of organizing a staff of competent, practical editors, having business partners commensurate with his energy and breadth of ideas. In 1896 the degree of LL. D. was conferred on him by his Alma Mater.

IV. Helen Gertrude Scott, bn. July 1, 1897.
V. Wilfred John Funk, bn. Mar. 20, 1883.

Christian C. Funk was a well known contractor of Springfield, Ohio, whose business engagements were met with the utmost promptness and whose work was executed in a thoroughly reliable manner. He was eminently successful in the labor to which his facility in the use of edged tools inclined him, and for which he was naturally adapted. He also manifested excellent judgment in the investments he made, and was numbered among the capitalists of Springfield, O., where he resided. His reputation extended far beyond the limits of his own city, as he was also interested in some of the booming towns of the south.

In 1885 Mr. Funk erected on West High St., Springfield, O., a substantial brick residence, which is of fine architectural design and construction, elegantly finished and richly furnished throughout. In political belief Mr. Funk was a Prohibitionist. His social and benevolent qualities found a certain outlet through his membership in Ephraim Lodge, No. 146, I. O. O. F. He was a stockholder and director in the Springfield Coffin Co., and was thus thoroughly identified with the business interests of Springfield. He possessed to a large degree those principles which are so essential to success, and by careful attention to the details of his work, punctuality and accuracy in application, made for himself a name which will be long remembered. As a meteor flashing across the sky leaves behind a path of soft and creamy white, so the deeds of such a man remain after he has gone into the great unknown.

Mrs. Funk is also a native of Ohio, and was principally reared and educated in Springfield. She possesses many virtues and looks carefully to the ways of her household, making her home the center of attraction for her family. Luth. Children: Blanche, Martha.

VI. James M. Funk, bn. Dec. 18, 1872; died December 27, 1875.

IV. Martha Anna Funk, bn. in Springfield, Clark Co., Ohio, July 18, 1849; died May 28, 1900. Mrsd. Dr. Brown Frank Brownfield, Aug. 15, 1865. Address, 82 Franklin St., Springfield, O.

Dr. B. F. Brownfield was a surgeon and physician in the army from the beginning to the end of the Civil war. Towards the close of the war he had charge of the "Jackson, Michigan Hospital." He was then a member of the 22nd Regiment, V.R.C. He died Apr. 24, 1878, at Smithfield, Fayette Co., Pa. He had for months been suffering from that fatal disease, consumption, but during his long and painful illness, he never murmured nor complained; and when at last he fell asleep it was in the abiding faith, that through the merits of our Lord Jesus Christ, he should "enter into that house, not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." His remains were carried to the Baptist Church of Smithfield, Pa., and the Rev. R. Morgan of Connellsville, by the doctor's request, preached the funeral sermon. From the church the funeral procession proceeded to the Baptist burying-ground where all that was mortal of Dr. Brownfield was deposited in the earth, with the usual and impressive ceremonies of the Masonic and I. O. O. F. orders to both of which the Doctor belonged. The funeral was largely attended, it being estimated that not less than one thousand persons were present. Children: Charles, Ardoth.

V. Charles Percival Brownfield, bn. June 4, 1866, died May 27, 1885. Was killed by the cars at Danville, Ill.

IV. Benjamin Franklin Funk, bn. in Springfield, Clark county, Ohio, Jan. 21, 1850. Mrsd. Cynthia E. Layton, of Springfield, Ohio. She was bn. at Donnelsville, Clark county, Ohio, Jan. 6, 1853. Daughter of Arthur and Rhoda Lowman-Layton.

Benjamin F. Funk went to the public school until he was 14 years old and at 16 entered the Preparatory Department of Wittenburg College, graduating from that college in 1872.

In 1872 he went into the grocery business in Xenia, Ohio. In 1873 he sold his business in Xenia and went into the dry goods business with his father at Springfield, O.

In 1874 he sold the dry goods business and went into the shoe business with G. T. Ingersoll under the firm name of Ingersoll and Funk, Springfield, Ohio. In 1875 he went into the grocery business in Springfield. In 1876 he went to the Theological Seminary at Wittenburg College for three months.

In January, 1877, he again started in the grocery business with J. A. Funk under the firm name of B. F. Funk & Co. The retail business merged into the wholesale grocery business in 1882.

In 1889 he sold the grocery business to Steele, Hopkins & Meredith, and in December of the same year went to New York with Funk & Wagnalls Co., and in 1890 became business manager of Funk and Wagnalls' Standard Dictionary. In 1892 he was elected president of the National Prohibition Park Co., and in 1893 assisted in the organization of the "Prohibition Park Building, Loan and Savings Association." He became Treasurer of the Association, which position is still held by him. In 1897 he gave up his position with Funk & Wagnalls Co. to take the superintendency of the Prohibition Park Co., which position he still retains. Res. West New Brighton, N. Y. Luth. Children: John, Alverda, Walter, Merton, Charles and Chester.

V. John Arthur Funk, M. D., bn. June 7, 1873. He entered Columbia College in 1891; graduated from the University of New York in 1896, and in 1900 graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, N Y.

V. Alverda Olive Funk, bn. Dec. 3 1874; died Mar. 16, 1887.

V. Walter Audley Funk, bn. Aug. 14, 1876. He is now (1900) attending college at the University of Colorado.

V. Charles Earle Funk, bn. Apr. 4, 1881. He is attending the University of New York.

V. Chester Carlyle Funk, bn. Apr. 21, 1884; died Aug. 9, 1885.

DESCENDANTS OF PETER FUNK.

I. Peter Funk, b. in Germany, —: died in Jessamine Co., Kentucky. Mrs. Barbara Bash, presumably in Germany. Emigrated to America and settled in Jessamine county, Ky., during the early settlement of that state. He is thought to have been a man of very moderate means, and the old homestead seems to be lost sight of. Children: John, Peter, Michael, Jacob, James, Henry, Margaret, Elizabeth, Catherine, Mary.

II. John Funk, b. in Germany, January 3, 1796; died in Jessamine Co., Ky., Mar. 3, 1861. Mrs. Nancy Rice, Oct. 11, 1922. She was b. in Jessamine Co., Ky., Feb. 2, 1800; died there Nov. 24, 1866. She was a daughter of Rev. John Rice, a "New Light" preacher, to which faith she always held. John Funk assisted his father, who was in moderate circumstances, in rearing his family of children, and he also by industry and frugality acquired quite a fortune; presenting each of his seven children with a farm of 100 acres, valued at $100.00 per acre. Children: Peter, Andrew, Elizabeth, Morton, Jonathan, Mary, Jacob, Lucy, Henry.

DESCENDANTS OF FREDERICK FUNK OF VIRGINIA.

I. Frederick Funk, bn. —. Probably died in Virginia. Emigrated to America, Sept. 29, 1733. Left Europe on account of religious persecution. During the voyage across the ocean a son was born to them named Adam, who was seven weeks old when he landed. The mother died at the birth of Adam. On landing, Frederick left his infant son Adam, in the care of friends in Philadelphia, while he went away to look for business or a place to settle, but was never heard of afterwards. It is possible that he emigrated to Virginia, where he may have lived until his death. Besides his son Adam, it is probable that he had a son Frederick, who being older, he probably took with him to Virginia.

II. Frederick Funk, mrd. Catharine Kulp, from Bucks (or Berks) Co., Pa. Lived in Loudoun Co., Virginia, not far from Strasburg. It is said he went to Chillicothe, O., in 1811, whither his wife and son Michael, followed in 1812.

The children of Frederick II. were: Conrad, George, Frederick, Jacob, Michael and five daughters; all of the daughters were married and settled in and about Circleville, Ohio.

III. Conrad Funk, bn. in Loudoun Co., Va., died in Williamsport, Pickaway Co., Ohio. Saddler by trade.

III. George Funk, bn. in Loudoun Co., Va. Lived with his family in Chillicothe, O. Cooper. It was said he could make a cask nearly as high as his head and spring out of it without touching it. They were a family of very large, strong people. Children: IV. Conrad, IV. Reese, IV. John, IV. George.

The children all lived about Circleville, O., and afterwards settled in the neighborhood of Wooster, Ohio.

III. Frederick Funk, bn. in Loudoun Co., Va. Mrd. —. He came to Chillicothe, Ohio, before the rest of the family. His brother, George, came with him.
Children: Sarah, George, Margaret, Catharine, Frederick, James, Jacob, Elizabeth, Cynthia, William.

IV. Sarah Funk mrd. John Richhart. They lived in Kosciusko, Co., Ind. Sarah was the largest woman known at that time. She was six feet and one inch in her stocking feet. She was a weaver, and could weave ten yards of twilled jeans in a day. She was a spare woman but muscular and strong and weighed 200 lbs. Children:

V. Druscilla. V. George. V. Elizabeth and Cynthia Ann. (Twins.)

V. William. V. Peter. V. Sarepta. V. Eliza. P. O. of all, Milford, Ind.

V. Elizabeth Richhart, mrd. — Sulsor; mrd. second husband, — Duett; mrd. third husband, —. She is a minister in the United Brethren Church.

V. Orange Richhart, is a minister in the M. E. church.

IV. James Funk, bn. in Loudoun Co., Va., Sept. 8, 1820. At an early age he came, with his parents and the rest of the family, to Pickaway County, Ohio. From there they moved to Kosciusko County, Ind., about the year 1842. The country was then a wilderness and the settlers were few. They lived within two miles of an Indian village and were on very friendly terms with them. Mrs. Funk related that she often enjoyed a visit with the Indian Squaws, just as much as with the best friends of her own class.

In October, 1842, James was married to Charlotte Archer. She was born in Pickaway Co., O., in 1815, and died at Elkhart, Ind., Dec. 6, 1892. Six years after their marriage the family moved to Elkhart County, and settled near the town of Elkhart, which was then a mere village. In this vicinity they spent the remainder of their lives. During his latter years James became interested in religion, and both he and his wife united with the M. E. church. When a new church was built he manifested much earnestness and zeal in the work, and purchased a bell for it, which however proving too small, he gave it to the school in the vicinity and secured a larger one for the church. He lived at this place forty-three years, and died on the 27th of Dec. 1891, his companion following him just about a year later. Children:

VI. Richard H. Funk, bn. 1871.

VI. Fred W. Funk, bn. 1878; died 1881.

VI. Charles A. Funk, bn. 1883.

VI. Claude L. Funk, bn. 1888.

Anna Maria Funk, bn. Dec. 15, 1859; died March 21, 1874.
Jacob Funk, was bn. in Loudoun Co., Va., in 1822. The family moved from Virginia, to Pickaway Co., Ohio, when Jacob was quite young. From Ohio they moved to Kosciusko Co., Ind., about the year 1842. About the year 1848 they removed to Elkhart county. He was married to Mary E. Carlton on May 31, 1863. They lived near Bristol, Ind. Farmer and Vet. Surgeon. He traveled a great deal through the county in his business pursuits and possessed considerable knowledge, derived almost altogether from observation and conversation. He was taken with a stroke of paralysis, on the street car, on his way from Goshen to Elkhart and died on the 25th of

IV. William Funk, lives near Lagrange, Ind. He was a soldier in the war of the rebellion of 1861-1865.

III. Jacob Funk, born in Loudoun Co., Va. He was married three times. Of his children we have no further information than that most of them are living in and about Circleville and New Holland, Pickaway Co., O. He was a farmer and lived at one time in Kentucky.

III. Michael Funk, bn. in Loudoun Co., Va. Mbd. Lizzie Simpson. Came with his mother or grandmother to Chillicothe, O., 1812. Lived and died in New Holland, Pickaway Co., O. He was a very old man, nearly 100 years old, when he died. This family were in physical development a very large, strong, vigorous people. Children: IV. Thomas. IV. Israel. IV. Austin. IV. Alexander. IV. Beckey. IV. Ellen. IV. Martha. IV. Catharine. IV. Elizabeth. One of the daughters married a railroader and went with her husband to England. Another daughter was engaged in baking in a Dutch oven, when her dress caught fire. Her father jumped from a two story building 40 rods away, ran to her and rolled her in the sand to quench the flames, but she was so severely burned that she died.
DESCENDANTS OF MARTIN FUNK.

Of the ancestors of this branch of the Funk Family, and their arrival in this country, nothing definite could be learned. Tradition tells about two brothers who came from Europe to America and upon their arrival here became separated, and were never able to hear from each other again. One of these brothers was the father of Martin Funk, Sr.

II. Martin Funk, Sr., was born in 1755, and as is supposed, lived in Stark Co., Ohio, where he died in 1839, at the age of 83 yrs., 10 m. and 22 d. He was a member of the Mennonite church. Of his children we find the descendants of one only, Jacob.

III. Jacob Funk, son of II. Martin Funk, was born Oct. 28, 1785. Lived in Stark Co., O. Saw-miller. Ger. Bap. Mrd. Mary Bowers, Mar. 20, 1809, in Bedford county, as shown by the marriage certificate, which was given by Thomas Logan, J. P., who also performed the ceremony. The certificate was signed by said Thomas Logan, the contracting parties, Martin Funk, the father of Jacob, and Jacob Bowers, father of the bride, and several others. As there is no Bedford county in the state of Ohio, it is altogether probable that the marriage took place in Bedford Co., Pa., and that both the Funk and Bowers families resided in that county and state, and afterwards moved to Stark Co., Ohio. First wife, Mary Bowers, died; leaving two sons: Jacob and Martin. Jacob mrd. as his second wife, Mary Palmer. She died and Jacob mrd. his third wife — Bossler. He died in Kosciusko Co., Ind., June 6, 1853, aged 67 yrs., 7 m. and 10 d. Children: Jacob, Martin, Polly, Elizabeth, John, Susanna, George, Henry, Betty, Rebecca, Joseph, Isaac, David, Teny and Samuel.

IV. Jacob B. Funk, bn. Aug. 2, 1811, in Stark county, O. He is said to have been the first white child born in

VI. Russell L. Snode, bn. Nov. 8, 1892.

IV. Elizabeth Funk, bn. Sept. 22, 1818. Mrd. Benjamin Bringoff. Lived near Galveston, Ind. Farmer. Elizabeth died, Jan. 31, 1853, aged 34 yrs., 4 m. and 9 d. The husband, Benjamin, died Feb. 28, 1853, aged 38 yrs. 4 d. One child:

V. Mary Bringoff, died Oct. 27, 1853, aged 1 yr., 11 m. and 11 d.

IV. John Funk, dec'd., bn. April 7, 1820. Lived at State Line, Warren Co., Ind., where he married Mary —.

V. Mahala and Sarah Heldenbrand both died young.

V. Eliza Heldenbrand, mrd. Henry Karns. They lived at Packerton, Ind. Removed to Sumner Co., Kans. where Mrs. Karns died. The family afterwards moved back to their former neighborhood in Indiana. Children:

V. Mary Heldenbrand, died 1878. S.

V. Henry Heldenbrand, resides in California. S.

VI. Sherman Heldenbrand. VI. Percy Heldenbrand, (twin to Sherman), died young. VI. A daughter.

VI. Jacob Funk and others. Jacob is a minister in the Con. Ger. Bap. denomination.

V. Christopher Funk, mrd. —. Farmer. One child:

IV. David Funk, was born Mar. 3, 1836; died Mar. 12, 1862, aged 26 yrs., and 9 d. S.

IV. Teny Funk, bn. Mar. 8, 1838. Died of typhoid fever, June 14, 1853, aged 15 yrs., 3 m. and 6 d.

VALEDICTION.

DEAR FRIENDS: As we reach the close of this volume, and ere we lay down our pen, we wish to add a few parting words. In the preparation of this work we are greatly indebted to many of the friends for favors in furnishing much information, and otherwise aiding the work.

Among the more prominent of these are Mrs. Sue Latshaw, of Spring City, Pa.; D. K. Cassel, who has since gone to his eternal reward, and others already mentioned in the preface of this work, and last but not least, Miss Martha Funk, of Elkhart, Ind., to whom much credit is due for valuable services rendered in spending much time in aiding in the revising of the work, looking it over carefully, correcting names and gathering additional matter from friends and relatives.

To our pioneer ancestors, whose names and deeds are written in this book, we owe a debt of gratitude, for their unflinching courage in the performance of duty, and devotion to God. Nearly two centuries ago, deprived of the blessings of religious liberty to worship God in a manner acceptable to themselves in the "fatherland," they fled across the ocean to the shores of our own beloved America, then a vast wilderness. Here they carved out their homes, subdued the land, and lived modest unassuming lives, as humble tillers of the soil. In their new homes they remembered the God of their fathers, and from their humble firesides went up grateful songs of praise to the God of every blessing, while from the family altars ascended thanksgivings from truly grateful hearts in recognition of God's bountiful mercies and kindly leadings. Here they erected their shrines and altars, and worshiped unmolested the God of all the earth. Within these templed walls erected in the long ago, their voices were heard in the preached word, in testimony, in hearty soul inspiring songs of praise, and faithful to the last, these servants of God heard the higher summons and their voices hushed in the silence of death, they went up to their crowns of glory and are now waiting for you and me. Blessed be their memory.

Dear reader, let us take counsel of the fathers. Consider the motives that led them to leave their beloved homes in the far-off fatherland, to brave the storms and perils of the ocean for a wilderness home on these shores, that it was not simply to better their conditions in temporal affairs of this life, but as followers of Jesus, the Salvation of their souls, and freedom from religious oppression for themselves and their offspring were the paramount motives.

Mark their unselfish devotion to duty amid the persecutions in the old world and the trials and privations of pioneer life in this new world that made it possible for us to enjoy the freedom, blessings and comforts of the greatest country God ever gave to man. May we ever bless their memory for their simple, childlike, unyielding faith in God, and the world's Redeemer. They laid deep and firm the foundations of their faith in the Crucified One. They fought well the battles of life, and lived in peace with all mankind. And thus they have passed on to their rewards. May their self-denying, Godly lives and examples rest with benediction power upon us, while we bide our time, and follow in their footsteps, preserving unsullied the family name.

Dear reader, are you a follower of Jesus? If not, let me remind you of the saintly, godly ancestors whose forms have so long slept in their quiet graves; of the suf-ferring for the faith; their victory in death; their crowning in the Father's House, whence they await the homecoming of the faithful loved ones. Let me point you to the Savior they loved, and to the God they served. Let me entreat you to do likewise.

Oh, come surrender to the King of Kings,
The Sovereign Lord of all,
Before whose throne the fathers fall,
"And crown Him Lord of all."

Come join the pilgrim band, Whose eyes are upward turned,
Behold the hills the fathers gained,
And boldly forward go.

Come, the fathers bid you come,
And Jesus stands with outstretched hands
And pleads, poor dying one,
Here's food, shelter, rest and Home, Oh come.

V. Aldine Silliman Kieffer, bn. at Miami, Saline Co., Mo., Aug. 1, 1840. Mrs. Elizabeth Josephine Hammon (not Silliman) Nov. 16, 1865. His father died when he was nearly seven years old, leaving five children to be cared for in some way. His grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Funk, having died some months previous, his grandfather wrote his daughter, Mary, to come back to the parental roof and bring her children; that he would furnish them a home. This offer was gladly accepted and in a few months all were safely housed at Mountain Valley, now the historic Singer's Glen, Rockingham Co., Va. It was here at the tender age of nine years, that he was placed in his grandfather Funk's printing office and initiated into the mysteries of ink and type, of which he soon became fond, as his subsequent years have proven. His advantages for securing an education were meagre, as the world would say. A few months' schooling in an old Virginia log school house were all he received in a public way but his grandfather had been a great schoolmaster in his day, and as the boy, Aldine, had to spend his days and nights in the same room with his grandfather, he had some blessed opportunities to improve his mind, especially as he had access to a well-stored library for that day, and was led, not forced to study works of history, volumes of poetry, legendary lore and the Bible.

At the age of fifteen he began to write verses and to compose music. Many of these puerile efforts were published before he became sixteen years of age.

In the year 1858 Joseph Funk and Sons began the publication of the Southern Musical Advocate with which he became associated as co-editor and contributor. This journal continued to be published until 1860, when Aldine S. Kieffer cast his lot as a volunteer in the Confederate States, so-called, and followed the fortunes of that war until its close, having participated in all the battles from July 21, 1861, until May 12, 1864, when he was made a prisoner of war and sent to Fort Delaware. Here he managed to secure a tutor, Mr. Adams, a graduate of the University of Virginia, under whom he took lessons in Latin, Algebra and Geometry, paying his tuition fees in tobacco.

On May 12, 1865, he arrived at his mother's home and began to look about for something to do to make a living. His grandfather's printing office was a mess of pt and a mass of ruins. He set about to revive and rejuvenate the old office, which, by the aid of his uncles, he succeeded in doing, and the publication of the Advocate was resumed.

In the latter part of the year 1865, he began his life work, viz: writing hymns, music, and editing music books.

The first book with which he associated was, The Christian Harp, of which over one hundred and twenty-five thousand copies were sold. Then followed "School Day Singer," "Glad Hosannas," "Song Crowned King" and later, "The Temple Star," on which his fame if any, chiefly rests. His volume of poems entitled, "Hours of Fancy, has received many flattering notices, whilst his songs, "My Mountain Home," "Grave on the Green Hillside," "The City of Light" and "Pray for the Wanderer" are favorites everywhere. Res., Dayton, Va. Children:

W. Cambysees Hammon Kieffer, d. in infancy.

W. Luther Aldine Kieffer, bn. Jan. 21, 1878; d. March 30, 1890. Luther was a young man of much promise, gifted by nature with bright parts, devotedly affectionate to his parents and brothers, obliging, open-hearted, and kind to all. He suffered much: bore his suffering with heroic patience, and died with Christian resignation. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. He died with great faith in his Redeemer.

W. Alozzo Spurgeon Kieffer, bn. Aug. 2, 1885. The following is an appropriate poem from Pro. Kieffer's popular "Hours of Fancy:"

OUR FIRESIDE.
The labor of the day is done;—
   Wife lays her knitting by;
And shutting up my books, I turn
   To meet her gentle eye;
And then we look on our two boys
   That sweetly lie asleep—
Two here on earth—and one in heaven
The white-robed angels keep.
The youngest—SHELLY, six months old,
   So like the one that's dead—
And WILLIE, three years old in March,
   Lies in his little bed;
And CAMMIE he has gone to rest
   Where there is no more night,
His Guardian Angel took him home
   Four years ago—not quite.
Wife leans her head upon my arm,
    She thinks of him, I know;
Her thoughts are busy with that land
    Where we, some day, may go.
I think of those who lie asleep,— Whose hearts are sinless yet—
Oh Christ! I tremble when I think
How hearts are oft beset!
I wonder where their little feet
    May have to walk some day?
If rough n with stones, beset with thorns,
    Or smooth and sweet the way?
I wonder what their little hands
    May find life's toil to be;
If doing good, or working ill?
    Oh God! I trust to thee.
I wonder what their little lips
    May speak in years to come,
If comely speech, with wisdom spiced,
    Or stammering, crazed with rum?
I know that one has gone to rest—
    Safe, happy, free from sin;
Thy garden walks are sweet, O Lord, Lead Thou these others in!
Wife, from her reverie awakes—
    And looking up, I say,
Your knitting, love—the books I prize,
    Will soon be laid away.
Has Christ wrought out for us a robe,
    From spot and blemish free,
That we, and ours, may wear at last?
    Oh God! we trust in thee.

Mrd. Elizabeth Gigeley; she was bn. March 29, 1762; d.
May 28, 1825. *Children:
II. Michael Funk, Jr., bn. near Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 6, 1796. Mrd. Rebecca Yocum, March 19, 1822, at Mexico, Juniata Co., Pa. Soon after marriage he moved west and located at Congress, Wayne Co., O., where all of his children were born. While here he engaged in farm-ning and mercantile business. In May, 1844, he moved west and located at Warsaw, Ind., where he engaged in the business of operating a general store of merchandise, such as could be provided in those days. The autumn of the same year he built and personally conducted the first hotel or tavern of any pretensions erected in Warsaw: a two-story frame structure of some twelve or fifteen rooms; continuing therein, until his death, which occurred May 4, 1846. His son, Joseph A. Funk and the late ex-judge of the Supreme Court of Indiana, The Hon. James S. Frazer, dec'd, settling up the estate.
Children:
Salome Swihart, Aug. 25, 1858. He first arrived at Warsaw, Ind., October, 1843, accompanied by his father, who being impressed with the beautiful landscape of the country, consisting of forest and lakes, concluded to loca-cate here. After purchasing some desirable lots suitably located for hotel business and dwellings, they returned to the old home in Wayne Co., O., and the following spring, in May, 1844, with some ten or twelve old-time covered wagons with three other families as emigrants

*As we have the record of but the third son, Michael, the records
west, arrived at Warsaw, being twenty-three days on the journey over-land; via the Black Swamp and White Pigeon, Mich. He taught the first school in Warsaw, in 1844, and was county school examiner from 1846 to 1858. He was elected Auditor of Kosciusko county in 1854 and re-elected in 1858, his second term expiring in 1862. He was one of the charter members of Kosciusko Lodge, No. 62, I. O. O. F., instituted Jan. 9, 1849, and of Hackelman Encampment, No. 37, I. O. O. F., instituted Jan. 16, 1854. Salome Lodge, No. 27, degree of Rebecca, I. O. O. F., of Warsaw, is named in honor of his wife. He was elected Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ind. I. O. O. F., Nov., 1866, and Representative to the Grand Lodge of the United States, and served as such representative at the sessions held at Baltimore, Md., in 1868, and San Francisco, Cal., in 1869. He was a member of the M. E. Church at Warsaw for over fifty years, and superintendent of the Sabbath School of said church for about the same number of years up to the time of his death.

VI. Enos D. Trymbly, head of the large furniture house at Tenth and Market streets, Philadelphia, and one of the best known business men in the city, d. March 6th, 1900. He was born in Bucks Co., Pa., in 1835, was educated in the county schools and went to Philadelphia. After trying various occupations he finally opened a small furniture store on Second street. In three years the business had increased to such proportions that Mr. Trymbly was forced to open a large store at 139 N. Second street. In 1877 Mr. Trymbly took a partner and rented a store at 1217 Market street, under the firm name of Trymbly, Rehn & Co. The partnership lasted ten years and was successful. In 1887 Mr. Trymbly added the stores, 1219 and 1221, to his establishment, and re-opened under the name of Trymbly, Hunt & Co. This partnership dissolved three years ago, when Mr. Trymbly fitted up his magnificent stores at Tenth and Market streets.
The death of James Y. Heckler, of Hatfield, Pa., on March 22, 1901, at the residence of his son, Charles, in Philadelphia, removes a local antiquarian, of Montgomery Co., who, according to his measure of ability and his educational advantages has accomplished much in the way of authorship. His early training was obtained in the ordinary schools and on the farm. He had historical tastes however, and literary ambition, and he devoted himself, in the intervals of teaching country schools, to prose and rhyme. He was the author of a "History of Skippack" and a "History of Lower Salford." At the time of his death he was engaged on a history of Franconia, and he had been in Norristown within a few weeks collecting data for it.

VI. Stephen D. Large, d. May 13, 1901. He was for many years a prominent desk manufacturer, and died at his home, 243 Pine street, Philadelphia, after a brief illness, in his 78th year. Mr. Large was in business for more than forty years at 117 Walnut street, retiring about fifteen years ago. He is said to have been a lineal descendant of the colonial settlers of that name, who were granted a patent by King Charles for a tract of land along the Delaware river, extending from Philadelphia. to Bristol. The family was also among the original settlers of Germantown. The battle of Germantown, it is said, was fought over his father's farm, where many interesting relics of that event have since been found.
