THE

Robert Campbell Genealogy

A RECORD OF THE DESCENDANTS

OF

OF

County Tyrone, Ulster, Ireland.

INTRODUCTION.

This Genealogy of the Robert Campbell family is not intended for a literary production. Nor does it aim to indulge, to any extent, in biographies of the individuals named; otherwise the book would have been larger than a dictionary and would have cost as much. It is a simple annotation of genealogical and principal historical facts; a following up of the dispersion of this family, and a following back to its early history in which all are equally interested.

The aim has been, through an original method, to enable any one with ease, to thread his way through this labyrinth of names. The plan is as follows:—At the head of each section is the name of an individual whose descendants are enumerated beneath. In parenthesis after the head name, is given the immediate ancestor of the subject,—father or mother: a reference will carry the reader back to the section where this parent's name appears at the head, with the brothers and sisters and the original subject beneath. In many cases, names of children have against them a reference, sending the reader forward to sections where the same appear as parents, their children's names, in turn, being ranged beneath. In other cases all this, and even further generations, are worked out without forming separate sections. It is important to notice that the section reference at the head usually carries backward to parentage; and that at the side of any name beneath the head usually carries forward to descendants. The small raised number after a given name indicates the numerical generation to which each individual belongs. Blank space may be used by each reader to record additional facts or yet future events.

Abbreviations employed are as follows:

b.—born.
bapt.—baptized .
ch—child or children.
d.—died.
int.—interred.
l.—lives or lived.
m.—married.
umm.—unmarried.

Further introductory matter will be found under the first ancestor. The compiler acknowledges his obligations to the little pamphlet of the late Mr. Henry F. Douglas, "Robert Campbell and his Descendants;" to information imparted by his son, Dr. Chas. H. J. Douglas; to important records left by his own father, the Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, D. D.; and to the assistance of many individuals who have answered his inquiries.

Finally, it is the earnest hope of the compiler that the strong religious element which seems always to have prevailed in this family may ever be so prized by its members as to constitute its chief title to distinction.

NOTE—As this book goes to press without sufficient orders to meet the expense of the very limited edition, it is hoped that it will be seen that the price charged,—much less than that for many genealogies,—is not unreasonable. The author's work has been a labor of love.
SECTION I.

Charles' Campbell.

1. Charles Campbell, § 2.

The facts concerning this ancestor, and his son of the same name, are very uncertain. Dr. Charles H. J. Douglas of this family, who has made a careful study of the Campbell Genealogy, and whose father before him did the same, thinks that there is no evidence supplying us with either these or any other names back of Robert Campbell. The author's memory however is to the effect that at one time his own father, Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, obtained the names of two ancestors immediately preceding Robert, and that each of them was Charles. He has however no documentary evidence to support this theory, and simply gives it for what it is worth. It is hoped that in time we may be able to trace a number of generations back of Robert, and thus to carry the family across from Ireland to Scotland, where no doubt it originated.

Mrs. Alice Warren Anderson, of this family, writes, Nov. 3, 1903, that the Campbells of this book are direct descendants of the Duke of Argyll, whose name was John Campbell, and that her impression is that the ancestral town is Campbelltown, County Nairn, Scotland.

Mrs. Caroline Snelling, of this family, writes, Mar. 7, 1901, referring to "our ancestry" as follows: "They were the most celebrated and important clan in Scotland, and have acted a very grand part in the history of Scotland. Their title is Duke of Argyle. The Marquis of Argyle led the armies of Scotland in its wars with England, and was regent of Scotland during the minority of King James. But he was put to death, with many others of the Campbells, by Charles II., upon whose head the crown had been placed by the Marquis of Argyle. There is no doubt but we are entitled to large estates as well as title in Scotland.'

Mrs. Snelling refers to Sir Walter Scott's "'Tales of my Grandfather'" for evidence of the nobility of the Campbell family.

The family name, Campbell, is thought by some to be Italian in origin,—Campobello, (for which we have analogy in the Scotch Portobello,)—meaning beautiful field: it would thus be parallel with the English family name Fairfield, the French Beauchamp, and the German Schoenfeldt, all meaning the same. But the late Duke of Argyll, a Campbell of the Campbells, (b. 1823,) declared that the name was purely Scottish in origin, its original spelling being Cambel, (which suggests the proper pronunciation,) and the meaning being "'crooked mouth;"" this makes it like Cameron, meaning "'crooked nose;"" similar also is Cruikshank; all these names probably originated in derisive epithets flung back and forth until they stuck fast.
first alone being married before their coming to America. Robert Campbell's first wife was Janet, of whom the first five children were born; the last, Robert, was the son of the second wife, who died April 19, 1747, aged 76.

"The New Englander" of August, 1860, says: "A single Presbyterian Church was formed, the only one in New England, in 1723, composed in considerable part of emigrants from the north of Ireland who had settled in Voluntown. The pastor of the church was Rev. Samuel Dorrance, who continued there for many years."

SECTION XV.

LIEUT. JAMES Campbell. (John, Robert) § II. b. Voluntown, Conn., July 5, 1724; m. Dinah McMain; d. 1812. The fact that his uncle, Rev. Robert Campbell, married McMain, suggests a possible relationship between these two women.

1. Allen Campbell. § 16.
2. Daniel Campbell. b. 1751; unm.; d. 1775.
3. Esther Campbell. § 19.
4. John Campbell. b. 1754; unm.; d. 1775.

4. Rowena Campbell. b. 1787; m. Dr. Daniel Campbell. § 26.
6. Harvey Campbell, M.D § 17. b. 1792; m. Sarah and Eliza Cook; d. 1877.
7. Ezra Kinne Campbell. b. 1795; m. Maria Cook, their sister; had Calvin Francis, Lucius, and Elizabeth who m. Wm. F. Tyler. Calvin, who d. 1904, had Sarah Elizabeth, who m. Ambrose G. Kenyon, 1882, no ch., 1. Westerly, R. I.
8. Daniel Lee Campbell. b. 1798; m. Gallup.
9. Bonaparte Campbell. b. 1801; m. Susan Browne, and Mrs. Maria Cook Campbell, widow of Ezra Campbell, his brother. These three Cook sisters were daughters of Capt. Thaddeus Cook, and aunts of the late William Prentiss Cook of Brooklyn, N. Y.
10. Alpha Rockwell Campbell. b. 1803; m. Clarissa Cook; l. Jewett City, Conn. A granddaughter is Mrs. Chas. E. Prior, 39 No. Beacon St., Hartford, Conn., who has a son.

Note: The above record presents the remarkable case of three Campbell brothers marrying three Cook sisters, yet so as to form but two households. Harvey Campbell married Sarah Cook; and, when she died, he married her sister Eliza. Ezra Kinne Campbell married their sister Maria Cook, and, when he died, his brother Bonaparte Campbell married the widow. Alpha R. also married a Cook.

Note: Since sending the above to press the following facts have been received: Alpha R. Campbell had eight children, as follows.

1. Charles Clark Campbell. b. 1823; m. Potter.

2. Rowena Campbell. b. 1824.

3. Clarissa Campbell. b. 1826, d. 1826.

4. Orson Campbell. b. 1827; had large family, most of them still living.

5. Frances Jane Campbell. b. 1829, the only one still living; m. Daniel W. Bliven. (This unusual name also appears in Baker Section.)

7. Lucinda Campbell. b. 1834.

Note: The above Charles Clark Campbell was one of three Campbell cousins who married three Potter sisters.

Rev. Robert ⁴ Campbell was born in Ireland, April 23, 1709; he married, April 13, 1727, Mary McMain; other women of this name are mentioned in this Genealogy as marrying into the family; by this wife he had all his children; he married second, Mrs. Hannah Spaulding, March 29, 1764; his first wife died, July 29, 1763, in the 55th year of her age. Hannah Spaulding was born Nov. 6, 1712. These facts are recorded, apparently in his own handwriting, in the old pocket Bible of Rev. Robert ¹ Campbell, published 1698, which, in 1908, is in the possession of Mrs. John Newland of Stillwater, N. Y.
The above Robert Campbell was converted Aug. 3, 1741, under the preaching of Davenport. He was called to the pastorate of the Congregational Church of Christ in Canaan, Litchfield Co., Conn., Jan. 13, 1761. He accepted the call April 20 following. He was ordained and installed, Oct. 20, 1761, and thus become the first pastor of this church.

This church was called "Christ's Church in Canaan," and, later, after its removal with its pastor, "The First Congregational Church of Stillwater." In April, 1762, the church held a fast to know their duty about removing to Stillwater, Saratoga Co., N. Y., which place was designated as desirable for settlement by a committee sent out to investigate. The greater part of the members removed with their pastor.

June 29, 1752, the Church of Christ in Canaan was organized by the Rev. John Palmer of the Church of Christ in Scotland, 84 persons being recorded as signing the articles of faith and covenant. But the first reception of new members is recorded as occurring July 5, 1752, and this consisted of Zebulon Stevens and wife, and George Palmer. As the first two of these names are 7th and 8th in the list, it would appear as if the church originally consisted of six members.

The old Canaan church record declares that on Sept. 12, 1760, Robert Campbell was received into membership from the Congregational Church of Christ in Plainfield; as Plainfield is in the eastern part of the state, near Voluntown, it would appear as if Robert had been living there or near there. The following Jan. 13, 1761, came his call into the work of the ministry. At his ordination and installation, Oct. 20, 1761, Rev. Joseph Marshall, of Canterbury, Conn., preached from Matthew xxiv. 45, 46. He and Rev. Elihu Marsh of New Fairfield, Deacon Bingham and Ebenezer Andrews laid on hands. Mr. Marshall gave the charge, and Mr. Marsh the right hand of fellowship.

The difficulties which determined the church and its pastor upon emigrating to Stillwater, N. Y., are said to have been those of the "Half-way Covenant." Light is thrown upon the situation by the following extract from the record of the Canaan Church: "April ye 30, 1753. At a church meeting legally warned to consider and act concerning a Memorial, Voted that Brother Amos Pierce and Brother Uriah Stevens shall be agents to prefer our Memorial to ye General Assembly to be held at Hartford, May next, by themselves or by their agency, praying for ease and rest from the exaction of certain laws respecting religious affairs mentioned in said Memorial." The General Assembly was the Legislature. The removal of the church to Stillwater, Saratoga Co., N. Y., on the Hudson River, was accomplished in 1762.

The church in Stillwater came to be known as "the yellow meeting house," its building being erected two miles west of the present village, in order to satisfy a part of the membership living toward Round Lake. It is said that some of the timbers were actually brought from the old home in Canaan; and though the original building has been supplanted by the present edifice, it is believed that some of the original Canaan timbers were worked into the new building and are still there. President Fillmore married Abigail Power in Stillwater, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1826.

There was a tradition that each generation of descendants from Robert Campbell would provide a minister. There are several ministerial descendants, as this book shows.

John Patrick, writing in 1855, said that Rev. Robert Campbell "was a small slender man, dark complexion, black eyes, with a benign and benevolent countenance. . . . His oldest son Robert officiated in his pulpit when he was unable to attend constantly, and succeeded him when he died."

Rev. Robert Campbell was known in Stillwater as "Priest Campbell" and has been so called ever since. His old pocket Bible is of great interest, not only because of its peculiar typography, but because of the family records there made, chiefly, as is believed, by his own hand. He has written an extensive account of his conversion, which is in existence, but too long for recording on these pages. A poem of Rev. Robert Campbell is however herewith printed.

Rev. Robert Campbell's Poem.

In Ireland, 1709, my being did commence;
In 1714 I was removed thence;
In 1724 my beloved father died,
Making all his property o'er
That my wants might be supplied.
America's wild and distant land
Was doomed to be the scene
Where I must learn that I did stand
A Hell and Heaven between.
To Hell exposed, to Heaven drawn,
I wandered many a way;
My load of guilt was heavy grown,
But Christ wiped all away.
And now I stand a messenger
And monument of grace,
To point the sin sick stranger
To Heaven's happy place.

It is related of Robert* Campbell that at one time, when the Stillwater Church had become much reduced, so that it consisted of only four male members and a few females, he was advised to lay down the ministry. "No," he replied, "though I should be reduced to the necessity of preaching to the bare walls and vacant seats I would still sound the trumpet of the gospel; for I trust I took not up the work of myself, neither can I lay it down of myself." There came a change for the better, and large numbers were added to the church.

John" Patrick says in 1855: "I remember standing beside his deathbed. He notified his children to come and bring their children. He was bolstered up with pillows and, like the patriarchs, he took each of his children by the hand and talked to them individually, gave them his advice and blessing. Next his grandchildren received his blessing; then offered up a few words of prayer. My parents and others often have referred to this scene as very solemn. It was his last labor. Being exhausted, his voice failed, that it could not be heard. His lips however were seen to move, and his youngest son, Solomon' Campbell, placing his ear near by, heard him in prayer uttering the petition, 'that the blessing of God might rest upon his children's children to the third and fourth generation,' and soon after departed in peace.'

On July 21, 1905, Rev. Frederic Campbell, the author, visited Stillwater, and went out two miles to 'the yellow meeting house,' where Robert Campbell preached, and where worship is still carried on, though the organization is extinct. In the adjoining cemetery, overgrown with weeds and wild rosebushes, he found the graves of several whose names appear in this book, including that of Robert Campbell, its headstone in a good state of preservation, and reading, under a crude angel head and wings, exactly thus:

Sacred to the Memory of the Rev, Robert Campbell. Who departed this life, Eeb. 19, 1789. In the 80 year of his age
Was the first settled Minis ter in Still Water.
According to old notebook of Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, 1857, "there used to be a row of elms around the yard of the old yellow meeting house, each named after a church member; the only one left was named after Mrs. Wm. Seymour, (Sarah;) she outlived all the others." From this church "have grown the three Presbyterian Churches of Stillwater, and the churches of our order in Mechanicville and Schaghticoke."

For additional facts, see § 3, and § 61.

It is of interest to note that Rev. Robert Campbell is ancestor to all whose names follow in this Genealogy, the children of the other members of his father's family having been disposed of in the preceding pages.

Mary Campbell. (Robert, Robert.) § 35. b Aug. 19, 1734; m. David Kennedy, Jan. 1759; d. probably 1761.

   e. Esther Kennedy. b. 1807; m. Hollister; no children survived.

Note: Robert Kennedy had a brother Hugh, born in 1762, who is said to have removed to Chautauqua, N. Y. Mrs. Lydia Welch says that Robert and Hugh were half brothers; as they were both Kennedys, their father must have been identical, but their mothers different; hence the children of David Kennedy’s second wife do not belong in this Genealogy, since their mother was not a Campbell. For information, however, it may be said that, besides Hugh, these were Mary Kennedy, b. 1764; John Kennedy, b. 1767; Rebecca Kennedy, b. 1769, who m. Slade, and l. Kelloggsville, N. Y.; and Rachel, b. 1772.

The knotty problem as to whether it was Sarah Campbell or Mary Campbell who married Kennedy is fully solved in favor of Mary as above. The Stillwater Church Record gives a statement of the death of "Sarah, wife of Wm. Frisbe, June the 22 day, 1772, in the 27th year of her age." This agrees with the record found in Rev. Robert Campbell's pocket Bible, which says: "My daughter Sarah departed this life June the 22: 1772 in the 27 year of her age." It could not therefore have been Sarah and must have been Mary, who married Kennedy; for Hugh Kennedy, half brother of Robert Kennedy, was born in 1762 of a second wife; but as Sarah did not die till 1772, it could not have been she that married Kennedy and died after Robert's birth. Moreover, the Voluntown Church Record distinctly gives the marriage of Mary Campbell to David Kennedy, Jan. 10, 1759, as above.

The old note-book of Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, 1857, says: "The Kennedys are mostly professors of religion; live about nine miles on the road to Schenectady. Guernsey K. his son. Hugh K. was brother of Robert and went into Chautauqua County. Roscius K. is brother of Guernsey and lives on the old homestead; well off. Methodist. Guernsey Kennedy in same place as Roscius." Evidently Guernsey and Garnsey are the same individual. This old note-book of Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, from which items are taken here and there, was evidently used for memoranda during a visit to Stillwater in 1857.

5. William\textsuperscript{7} Patrick. b. 1818; d. 1818.

6. Charlotte D.\textsuperscript{7} Patrick. b. 1820.

Note: John\textsuperscript{6} Patrick, was born in Stillwater, N. Y. In 1855, while resident with his daughter Elizabeth\textsuperscript{7} Schlosser, at Hastings-on-Hudson, he wrote an historical account of the family; the document,—unless it be a copy of the same,—is in the possession of the author of this volume. The first four children named above were baptised in Stillwater, Aug. 6, 1815.

In the above mentioned document, John\textsuperscript{6} Patrick says of his father, William Patrick: "He held the office of deacon, the first ever set apart over the church in Stillwater, until the day of his death, which was more than forty years. He was a decided patriot in the Revolutionary War. He was, with others appointed a committee of safety in 1777, when Burgoyne, with the British army, with Tories and Indians, were forcing their way from Canada down the North River, driving the inhabitants before them. Most of the women and children were conveyed to Connecticut and other places, to be out of the way of the tomahawk and scalping knife. Most of the men who had courage stayed. My father, after securing a safe retreat for his family, remained behind. His house, after placing it in a state of defence, was used by the remaining inhabitants as a refuge from the Tories and Indians who were prowling through the woods. He staid there until the British army advanced within three miles of his house, where the first battle was fought. Burgoyne was repulsed and had to fall back. There were several battles on his retreat before he surrendered his 10,000 men. In many of the engagements the inhabitants shouldered their muskets and went to the battlefield, and when the battle was over for the day, returned to my father's house for safety for the night. My father was in some of these temporary engagements and at the surrender of Burgoyne, but was never an enlisted soldier. Here he continued to reside in the same house about half a century, and here he died. Here I not only was born myself, but all my children in the same old revolutionary house. There I staid from the Revolution till the War of 1812, in which I was engaged as a Quartermaster of a Regiment stationed in the City of New York in 1814."

$100,000.

At the present writing, December, 1908, an estate valued at $100,000 is awaiting distribution among members of the Patrick family, and, that it may be administered by the Court, it is necessary to learn the whereabouts of the living descendants of John Patrick; some write the name John W. Patrick. Any one possessing the desired information, or any facts that may furnish a clue to it, will kindly address the author of this book.

8. Minor Campbell. 1780-1865. § 77.
13. Lucy Campbell. 1791-1883. m. Teeple. § 117.

Note: Robert Campbell was received into membership in the Canaan Church of Christ, of which his father the next year become pastor, from the church in Plainfield, Conn., Sept. 12, 1760. In 1762 the church and its pastor removed to Stillwater, Saratoga Co., N. Y. On May 30, 1766, Robert Campbell was received into Stillwater Church and signed the covenant. July 16, 1767, he was voted made 'probationer for a deacon and officiate in that office." June 1, 1772, the Stillwater Church "gave Robert Campbell a call as probationer to labor in the work of the ministry with our pastor, Robert Campbell." August 26, 1789, six months after his father's death, Robert Campbell was called "to settle in the work of the ministry over this church and congregation." He is recorded as being ordained to the ministry in 1790, and the same church records speak of him as "pastor;" he is also frequently recorded as administering the sacraments. It is plain therefore that he was a full minister of the gospel, though this has been disputed.

August 15, 1798, Rev. Robert Campbell asked dismissal from pastoral charge, the church agreeing with the pastor to "part in peace." As the called Council did not meet, nothing was done. August 28, 1800, the church again concurred in the request. September 15, 1800, the church gave a letter of recommendation and good standing to Rev. Robert Campbell, he having been, according to Congregational usage, a member of it, as well as its pastor. January 9, 1801, he withdrew from fellowship with the church and read reasons for it; he refused to acknowledge its jurisdiction, and said that, if all who deserved church discipline should receive it, there would not be enough left to exercise the discipline. April 14, 1801, the Stillwater Church withdrew from Rev. Robert Campbell for "contempt and neglect of the church." His name now disappears from the church records for ten years, as does also that of his brother Solomon; it was in this year that they emigrated to Steuben Co., N.Y.

In 1811, however, Rev. Robert Campbell rode horseback all the way through the wilderness to be reconciled to the old church; tradition has it that on this journey he contracted disease from which he died; but if so it must been lingering disease, since he lived five years longer. He must have made this journey in the dead of winter, for, it was on January 22, 1811, that he "personally appeared before the church and confessed to the church his wickedness and hard feelings toward them, and the justness of the censure that the church had laid on him, and gave such evidence of his penitence and reformation that the church felt in duty bound to forgive him and restore him to the fellowship of the said church, and gave him a letter of recommendation to improve his gifts where Providence may call him in any regular Church of Christ." So reads the Stillwater Church Record. At the same time a letter was given his wife Esther. At the same time also, Rev. Robert Campbell presented a letter from his brother Solomon, asking that he might be forgiven and restored; and his request was granted. September 8, 1816, it was recorded that "the sacrament was administered by Rev. D. C. Lansing and Rev. Robert Campbell." Thus we have abundant evidence of the completeness of the reconciliation.

Before we follow this ancestor to Steuben Co., let us take a final look at the old Stillwater Church, of which both his father and he were pastors. The Record says that March 18, 1818, a Presbyterian Church was organized in the Village of Stillwater, that is, two miles east, and, from that date till 1833, the two churches united in the support of the gospel. In 1811 the old church is recorded as giving letters of dismissal to the new Presbyterian Church. A second Presbyterian Church was also organized, which became very small, and existed hardly more than in name; this has since become extinct, and, in 1907 its little property was disposed of by the Presbytery of Troy. In 1887, William Patrick Seymour was the last surviving member of the old Stillwater Church, and that year he joined the Broadway Tabernacle, N. Y. City and thus the organization of Canaan and Stillwater became extinct. The "yellow meeting house," in which it worshipped, however, still remains in a good state of preservation, and serves as a preaching station; while by its side sleep the dead, including its first pastor, whose voices used to be heard within its walls in praise of Almighty God. It is clear from the above that the Presbyterian Church of Stillwater is not identical with the church of which the two Robert Campbells were Pastors; for a time it stood yoked with it in Christian work, yet distinct in organization; as the old church has expired, the Presbyterian Church may properly be regarded as in an important sense its successor; but the two should never be confused. Some lasting monument to the old church, its first two pastors, and its faithful membership, ought to be erected at Stillwater, either at the "yellow meeting house," or else at the Presbyterian Church in the village, where it would receive larger attention.

THE TOWN OF CAMPBELL, AND ITS SETTLEMENT.

The first white inhabitant of Steuben County, N. Y., was Samuel Harris, son of the founder of Harrisburg, Pa., an Indian trader, who established himself at Painted Post not long previous to 1787. The county was organized in 1796; it is in area one of the largest in the state. The town of Campbell was organized out of the town of Painted Post in 1831. Its first settlers were Robert Campbell, his brother Solomon, and Solomon's son Archie. These came in 1801. Whether the dissensions in the Stillwater Church determined the going and the date thereof, is not certain; but they occurred at the same time. An attempt to organize a Presbyterian Church in Campbell, in 1811, failed. Rev. Moses Hunter, of this book, was one of the prominent early missionaries visiting the region. Rev. Robert Campbell does not appear to have done any stated preaching after settling in Campbell. He is said to have held slaves and to have sold rum, neither of which would have produced great scandal in those days. In 1812 a second attempt to organize failed, as also an attempt to erect a house of worship. In 1831 organization was finally effected, seven members constituting the roll; one of these was Hannah Campbell, wife of Minor Campbell, and mother to Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, D.D. The date of organization was February 16. The first Sunday School was organized in 1824 by Benjamin Stevens and Elvira Campbell, afterward Elvira Cobb, of this book. The first church building was erected in 1833, on what is now a part of Hope Cemetery, near the former residence of Rev. Robert Campbell, at a cost of $850 with donations. This house is now used by the Methodists, have previously been moved to the village and there occupied by the Presbyterians. In 1868, the present house of worship was dedicated, Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, D.D., preaching the sermon, and Rev. Frederic Campbell, then a lad, being present. The present parsonage was built in 1864, and has since been twice improved and enlarged. For many years the Presbyterian Church of Campbell has been a flourishing village church and a beacon light within a wide territory.

Campbell, N. Y., sometimes called Campbelltown, is situated about 300 miles west of New York City, on the main line of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western R. R., and on the Rochester branch of the Erie R. R., eight miles from its junction with the main line at Painted Post. It is on the Conhocton River, at an elevation of about 1,000 feet above the sea, and in a beautiful country of broad and fertile valleys and noble and lofty hills. When the Campbells moved into it it was a dense wilderness. The town was named after the Campbells who settled it, and includes not only the village, but the entire township of that name, including East Campbell Post Office. While some of the family, very few in number, live in the village, not one of them bears the name Campbell; but many sleep in Hope Cemetery, awaiting the resurrection.

WAS THIS OUR ROBERT?

The name Robert Campbell is a common one in this family; but it is also found in other families, and the query is raised whether the following statement refers to our Rev. Robert Campbell, of Stillwater and Campbell, N. Y. The writer of it, in 1892, refers it to him, but some statements are a little difficult to reconcile with known facts. According to Editor M. D. Raymond, Tarrytown, N. Y., there was organized a church in Sherburne, N. Y., by Rev. Robert Campbell; he is said, (Dawson's Historical Magazine, July, 1868.) to have been "one of the signers to a memorial to the General Assembly of Connecticut, asking for relief from the oppressive laws concerning ecclesiastical matters, date of 1777. It appears that he was then pastor of an Independent Congregational Church in New Milford, where he was located from 1772 to 1784; that he was originally from Canaan, Conn., where he had been 'raised up to preach;' and that from 1792 to 1800 he was at Stillwater, N. Y.; that in 1793 he was appointed chairman of a committee to look after the organizing of new presbyteries; that, Jan. 14, 1794, he recommended the forming of one at Albany, and another with headquarters at Whistertown, N. Y."

Note: If Robert Campbell served the New Milford Church as here stated, it must have been previously to his ordination, which the records show to have been in 1790.

Rev. Robert Campbell was a stout man, but not tall.

NOTE: The business of Minor Campbell was chiefly lumbering and farming. In the former he was very successful. He used to run rafts down the Conhocton, Chemung and Susquehanna Rivers to Baltimore. For many years a church member. He had business reverses, but improved conditions followed, and he bought a farm of fifty acres.

Hannah Leming, wife of Minor Campbell, was daughter of David Leming, who was born in England, and married Hannah Wilbur in Connecticut; the other children were Samuel, a saddler; Phila Thea, who married Case; and Abigail, who remained unmarried. Hannah Leming was born in Farmington, Conn., and became a tailoress; among others she worked in the family of S. J. Mills. "She has seen Obookiah," writes her son Samuel M. Campbell, a statement which to the author was long a riddle, until he discovered that Obookiah was a celebrated converted Sandwich Islander who attracted much attention in coming to this country for Christian education. She came to New York State at about sixteen years of age. Taught school. She had many distant relatives among the "Friends" in Farmington, Conn., some of whom bore the names Smith, Ramsdell, and McComber.

REV. SAMUEL MINOR Campbell, D.D. (Minor
§ 77. b. June 1, 1823, at Campbell, Steuben Co., N. Y.;
m. 1845, Sophia Louisa Burton, Prattsburg, Steuben
Co., N. Y.; m. 2d, Mrs. Mary B. Lawrence Judson, Prattsburg N. Y.; d. Nov. 17, 1892, at Minneapolis, Minn; int., Campbell, N. Y.

1. Harriet Electa Campbell. b. Painted Post,
N. Y., July 1, 1846; unm.; d. July 12, 1873, Rochester, N. Y.; int. Campbell, N. Y. A young lady of extraordinary qualities of mind and heart, and possessed of rare musical ability.

Note: Samuel Minor Campbell was born in a double log house, on the west bank of the Conhocton River, standing 20 rods back of the highway, some three miles below the present village of Campbell. As a boy, he used to mount the blue chest in the kitchen and preach to his sisters on the Lord's Prayer. Very early attended school and Sunday School at a log school house near the end of the lane which led from the highway to his home. Said to have learned to read before three years old. Lived four years in that house. Second residence was also on west bank of Conhocton River, the house a superior one for that day and region. The highway passed in front, then the river, beyond which was Culp's Hill, named from an Indian Chief buried on it. In 1834, March 20, the great tornado swept across the country; forests were levelled, the roof was carried off, all windows broken, the door panels shattered, but no one hurt. In 1835, sent to school to his father's cousin, Rev. Moses Hunter, at Almond, Alleghany Co., N. Y., and began Latin and Algebra. He records a determination to serve God a year or so later. In 1838, he went to his brother Franklin, at Black Rock, near Buffalo; worked in stores in and near Buffalo for five months. Then spent 13 months in Gates' store and post office at Mud Creek, now Savona, four miles from Campbell. He joined the church at 17. October, 1842, he began teaching at Town Line school, between Addison and Cameron; in 1843 he began study for the ministry under Rev. L. Hamilton of Campbell; the same year he entered Franklin Academy, Prattsburg, N. Y., teaching in Campbell the winters before and after. In 1844 he gave the salutatory oration in Prattsburg, on the same platform with the afterward distinguished pastor of Old South Church, Boston, J. M. Manning, of Greenwood, Steuben Co.

Samuel Minor Campbell married, Sept. 18, 1845, Sophia Louisa Burton, the ceremony being performed by Rev. B. C. Smith, at Prattsburg, Steuben Co., N. Y. He taught school at Painted Post, Steuben Co., where his first child was born. Entered Auburn Theological Seminary in 1846; graduated 1849. His pastorates were as follows: Alder Creek and Remsen, Oneida Co., N. Y., 1849; Congregational Church, Paris Hill, Oneida Co., N. Y., 1850-57; Presbyterian Church, Dansville, Livingston Co., N. Y., 1857-8; Westminster Presbyterian Church, Utica, N. Y., 1858-1866; Central Presbyterian Church, Rochester N. Y., 1866-1881; First Presbyterian Church, Minneapolis, Minn., 1881-89; Presbyterian Church, Astoria, Oregon, 1889-90; other brief pastorates following in Montecito, Cal., and Fort Dodge, Ia., where his health finally failed.

Rev. Samuel Minor Campbell received the honorary degrees of A.M. and D.D. from Hamilton College. He published "Across the Desert," a life of Moses, in 1872; "The Story of Creation," 1877. He was a delegate to the first Pan-Presbyterian Council, in Edinburgh, Scotland, 1877. Travelled to Europe, Egypt and the Holy Land in 1872, and with his two younger sons in Europe in 1877. He built the home, now No. 14 Atkinson St., Rochester, N. Y., and occupied it from 1868 to 1881. He planted the elm tree in front of it in 1876, having raised it from a sprout which he found growing on the premises from seed, and named it "Centennial Elm;" at present writing this tree is as tall as the tower of the dwelling. He died in Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 17, 1892; the funeral was held Sunday, Nov. 20, in the First Presbyterian Church, which had been built during his ministry; the burial took place at Campbell, N. Y., Nov. 23. Dr. Campbell was regarded as a man of exceptionally bright intellect, warm sympathies and superior powers as a public speaker; his genial disposition attached to him hosts of friends, and contributed greatly to the marked success of his life-work.

Sophia Louisa Campbell, first wife of Rev. Samuel M. Campbell, mother of all his children, was born in Clayville, town of Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y., May 21, 1826; her parents were Deacon Gilbert E. Burton and Fanny E. Hopkins, his wife, both pious people. Gilbert E. Burton's father was Salisbury Burton. His sister married a Van Tine and had children. There were also other sisters. On his mother's side Sophia Louisa Burton Campbell's ancestry is of the Hopkins line, the same family as that from which President Mark Hopkins sprang, and tracing back with large certainty to Stephen Hopkins of the Mayflower. Sophia Louisa Burton Campbell had two brothers, Edward S and Marshall G. Burton, and one sister Electa Ann, who married George W. Preston, of Corning, N. Y. The first and eldest of these, at the age of 86, is in 1909, still living and in excellent health. Sophia Louisa Burton died in Dr. A. B. Smith's Hygienic Institute, Geneva, N. Y., April 11, 1877. She was a woman of devout spirit and mild and lovable disposition, faithful to her home and family, and useful in her husband's churches. Her early life was mostly spent in Prattsburg, Steuben Co., N. Y., where numerous relatives of the Hopkins line still live.
Edward S. Burton, 1909, aged 86.
Survivor of Commodore Biddle's U. S. Expedition to Japan, 1846.

4. Harry S.\textsuperscript{8} Teeple. b. 1868; m. Minnie Freeborn;
l. 1904, Wellsville, N. Y.; druggist; no ch.
1904.
SECTION CXXII.

Ruth⁷ Teeple. (Lucy⁶) § 117.

b. 1832; m. 1871, Dr. L. Sutherland, (as his second wife,) of Campbell, N. Y.; l 1904, Galesburg, Ill. Dr. Sutherland was born, 1818, and died, 1884. Ruth⁷ Teeple taught school many years before her marriage, in Centerville, Cooper's, and chiefly Campbell, N. Y. After many years' residence in Galesburg, Ill., she returned to Campbell, N. Y., in 1906, to make a new home with her niece, Sarah⁵ Bancroft, with whom she had made a home in Galesburg. Stricken with paralysis, she died Oct. 17, 1906, and was laid beside her in Hope Cemetery, Oct. 20. She was a model woman of exceptionally tranquil Christian spirit. She had no children.

Note: The son of the above Dr. L. Sutherland by his former marriage is George R. Sutherland, banker, of Campbell, N. Y., and 49 Wall St., New York City, who by marriage is related to the Campbells not only as the stepson of Mrs. Ruth⁷ Teeple Sutherland, but also as having for his first wife Louisa Campbell Judson, named for the first wife of Rev. Samuel M.⁷ Campbell, and whose mother became second wife of the same.
SECTION CXXIII.

Daniel\(^5\) Campbell. (Robert\(^4\)) § 35.
b. July 29, 1743; m. Betsy Coe; settled near Manlius, or Marcellus, N. Y. The cemetery in Marcellus was, in 1908, vainly searched for traces, by the compiler of this Genealogy.

2. Ebenezer\(^6\) Campbell.
3. Silas\(^6\) Campbell.
4. Sylvia\(^6\) Campbell.
5. Rebekah\(^6\) Campbell. Bapt. June 30, 1771; d. Nov. 6, 1771. There were one or more other daughters.

Note: Another Daniel,\(^5\) infant brother to the above, was b. Mar. 12, 1733, and d. Sept. 11, 1733.
SECTION CXXIV.

Sarah Campbell. (Robert)§ 35.

1. Lewis Frisby.

Note: The Stillwater Church Record says: "June the 22 day 1772 then Sarah wife of William Frisbe, departed this life in the 27th year of her age." This agrees with the statement in the handwriting of her father in the old pocket Bible that his daughter Sarah died on that date. This should settle the matter that it was Sarah, and not Mary who married Frisby, and that Mary was the one who married Kennedy. This Sarah died too late to make Robert and Hugh Kennedy half-brothers, that is, born of different mothers, as Mrs. Welch says they were: hence Sarah was not the wife of Kennedy, but of Frisby. See Section 51.
SECTION CXXV.

Solomon\textsuperscript{5} Campbell. (Robert.\textsuperscript{1}) § 35.

b. June 13, 1749; m. 1771, Sarah Andruss; d. 1823. He was called "Captain Sol," and served in the Revolutionary War. He was excluded from the Stillwater Church for intemperance, Sept. 5, 1801; the same year he removed with his brother Robert\textsuperscript{6} and his son Archibald,\textsuperscript{6} to Steuben Co., N. Y., and settled the town of Campbell; in 1811 he sent back to Stillwater, by the hand of his brother Robert,\textsuperscript{5} a written acknowledgment of fault and request for pardon and restoration to church standing, which were granted him. These things are recorded in the Stillwater Church Record. § 61.

1. Sarah\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1772-1775.
2. Mary\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1775-1778.
3. Archibald\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1777-1825. § 126.
4. Solomon\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1779-1854. § 135
5. Elizabeth\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1781- § 136.
6. John\textsuperscript{5} Campbell. 1785- § 137.
7. Lydia\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1788-1810. § 138.
8. Rebecca\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1790-1796.
9. Tertullus\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1792-1848. § 139.
10. Daniel\textsuperscript{6} Campbell. 1797- No ch.

Note: Painted Post Lodge of Free Masons, No. 203, was organized, 1808, with Solomon\textsuperscript{5} Campbell as Junior Warden; Frederick Stewart, Senior Deacon; and Solomon Campell, Senior Steward. A preceding Lodge was formed in 1806 under letter of Dispensation addressed to Frederick Stewart, Robert Campbell, Arch Campbell, Solomon Campbell, Sr., and others. Solomon and Archibald Campbell were not buried in "Hope Cemetery," near Campbell Village, but in the lower Cemetery, where theirs are the only marked graves, and, so far as known, they are the only Campbells there. Miss Louisa Campbell believes this due to the fact that they were prominent Masons, and that, at this time, Freemasonry was under a cloud in Western New York.
SECTION CXXVI.

Col. Archibald⁶ Campbell. (Solomon⁵) § 125:
b. Long Island, Feb. 28, 1777; m. Sarah Pierceall, of Fishkill, 1797; d. Mar 14, 1825. A colonel of the state militia, and served as captain in the War of 1812, being stationed at Sackett's Harbor, N. Y.

INDEX.

Note: The following index refers chiefly to those whose names are placed at the heads of sections, and the figures refer not to the pages but to the sections. In seeking a particular name, if it do not appear in this index, then the name of a near ancestor does, such as father or grandfather, and through that the name sought can be found in the same section. For example, any one seeking the record of Fletcher^8 Campbell, would find it in the section headed by his grandfather, Robert^6 Campbell. The names of the men married by the women are also included in this index.
