ANCESTRAL STUDY OF FOUR FAMILIES Dedicated

My Children
ACKNOWLEDGMENT

It is to a manuscript entitled “THE ROBERTS FAMILY,” sent me by Mrs. Claude Roberts, of Beaumont, that I am indebted for most of the information leading up to and extending through the life of Elisha Roberts. This manuscript she received from John H. Roberts of Arcadia, Texas; the author of said manuscript and the only living grandson of Elisha Roberts.

Various members of each of the four families under consideration (though too numerous to mention severally) have given helpful and valuable assistance. To them I wish to express my thanks and appreciation of their kindness and cooperation. Among these are a few to whom I feel especially indebted, namely; Mrs. James Lane Taylor, of San Antonio; Mrs. John Christopher Buford, of Sulphur Springs; Mrs. George Arthur Gary, of Los Angeles; and my son Summerfield G. Roberts who has given me help and constant encouragement in the preparation and completion of this book.

The standard also outlines the performance criteria that the product must meet during and after production. This ensures that the product meets the intended specifications and can be reliably used by the intended users.
FOREWORD

The following assortment of facts, family tradition, genealogy, and the compilation of all available information, was undertaken solely for my children that they might be able to trace the four lines of their grandparents, namely; Roberts, Griffith, Cartwright, and Simpson, to the end that they might know to whom they are related; always with the hope that in so doing they might derive some pleasure, encouragement, or inspiration from reviewing the lives of some of their ancestors.

No claim is made for absolute accuracy, and no attempt has been made to follow the different branches of the family; rather just the particular line relating to my children; consequently the following outline is incomplete, and doubtless of no particular interest to the family as a whole. Nevertheless, it is my hope that to such relatives as are interested in family relationships, it may prove a source of some degree of assistance or satisfaction.

THE ROBERTS FAMILY

and their relation to the

Thomas, Tucker, Sublett, Edwards, and other families.
"THE ROBERTS," were unquestionably one of the oldest and most eminent families in Scotland and England. From Robert of Strowan, is derived the surname "ROBERTS," and "ROBERTSON," both meaning the son of Robert.

The above coat of arms was granted an honorable addition in 1437, consisting of a man lying in chains, a hand holding a royal crown, and the motto: "VIRTUTIS GLORIA MERCES," meaning GLORY THE REWARD OF BRAVERY.

The reason for such grant is said to be that Robert of Strowan (also spelled Struan) arrested one of the murderers of King James I of Scotland, for which service his lands were made a barony, and the above addition granted to his arms.

—"American Heraldry"
More than one coat of arms has been granted the ROBERTS FAMILY. The one above, in the opinion of some, belongs more particularly to this branch of the family.
The Roberts Family

By John Roberts

The Roberts Family in Old England was well born and well connected.

Thomas Roberts

Thomas Roberts, of Hawshurst County, Kent, had a daughter Rose, who married Richard Randolph of Little Haughton, and was the father of the Henry Randolph, born 1623, who came to Virginia in 1642 and was Clerk of Henrico County from 1660 until his death in 1673.

John Roberts

There seems to have been a relationship between the Peytons and the Roberts, for in 1749 Elizabeth Gronous of St. Clement, Middlesex County, England, drew up her will and from that document she is shown to have had a cousin, Anne Roberts, and a cousin, Sir John Peyton, Baronet, who was related to Major Robert Peyton of Virginia.

All of these families in 1616 were represented in Virginia.

Elias Roberts

A Mr. Elias Roberts was indeed a shareholder in the London Company, which promoted transportation of the colonists to Virginia.

John Roberts

John Roberts, a planter of standing in Virginia in 1638, was one of four persons whose names were affixed to a petition from the “Planters of Virginia,” to the “Lords of the Privy Council.” Tobacco was the chief crop of these early planters and the four signers of the petition represented all the planters of Virginia, according to the statement made in the document.
Francis Roberts

Francis Roberts is located in North Hampton County in 1666, at which time he paid "two tithes."

Hugh Roberts

Hugh Roberts was a soldier in Middlesex County, 1676.

Morgan Roberts

One Morgan Roberts was one of the Seventeenth Century emigrants who settled in what is later Isle of Wight County but then bore the picturesque Indian name of Warrosquoique. The tract was located about three miles up Pagan Point Creek, and contained some 2000 acres. The Leweses were in the Company also.

Elisha Roberts

Elisha Roberts was born in 1775 on the Holston River in the section that was then the settlement of the Watauga Association, but later was included in North Carolina and finally in Tennessee. His parents were among the pioneers who had made the arduous journey into the wilderness from Virginia, probably in 1768-9, or a few years later, as it is an historical fact that the vanguard of Western Civilization moved on to the conquest of the land, about that time.

Archibald Henderson in his valuable book on the "Conquest of the Old Southwest," states:

"During the winter of 1768-9, there was a great rush of settlers of Virginia into the valley of the Holston. A party from Augusta County, led by men who had been delighted with the country viewed seven years before when they were serving under Colonel William Byrd against the Cherokees, found that this region, a wilderness on their outward passage in 1768, was dotted with cabins on every spot where grazing was good, upon their return the following year (1769). This settled region extended from the Green River to the branches of the Holston.

"Tremendous hardships and dangers were suffered by these hardy and adventurous settlers for many years. Massacres by the Indians were frequent. In July 1774, settlers on the Holston River were attacked by an Indian Chief, named Logan, and many families were murdered.

"At the home of one Roberts, whose family was cut off, Logan left a war club to which was attached a note which explained that the cause of the massacre was the killing of the Chief's "kin" on Yellow Creek, by the white men."
This is one of the historic incidents of early frontier life, and definitely connects the Roberts family with the Holston River settlements. The spot where this attack occurred was on the Holston River about twelve miles from the present town of Bristol, in Virginia. It will be recalled that in 1770 by the terms of a treaty between Virginia and North Carolina, the Holston River from its intersection with the North Carolina and Virginia line and down its course was the temporary southern boundary of Virginia, until this line should be determined by survey. The Virginia pioneers therefore, in their first adventure to the banks of the Holston, remained, many of them on the land claimed by their native commonwealth. As has been stated, the pioneers came largely from those parts of Virginia included in the then great Western Counties of Augusta, Culpepper, and Orange. The family of Elisha Roberts is definitely connected with this region by the testimony of Abner Roberts, of Kentucky, in 1832, that he was living in Culpepper, Virginia, at the outbreak of the Revolutionary war in 1776. He was born in 1742 in Orange County, and is presumed to have been a brother of (William) the father of Elisha Roberts.

1The home of the Roberts family lay in that part of Orange County that was cut off for Culpepper, and their later history for a few years is connected with the latter County.

Until 1748 Culpepper was a part of the old County of Orange, in Virginia, and there the Roberts are early found located. The Gill family, into which Elisha Roberts married, was also identified with the early events of Orange County. Among the Militia forces in 1742 in that County, were

LT. BENJAMIN ROBERTS  CAPTAIN JAMES GILL  ENSIGN JOHN ROBERTS

Benjamin Roberts

In St. Mark’s Parish, Benjamin Roberts became a Justice, and in 1776 was one of the 16 Justices of Culpepper County, who signed a protest against the Stamp Act. He was a church warden also.

John Roberts, Jr.

In 1749 John Roberts, Jr., was a witness in St. Mark’s Parish.
William Roberts

William Roberts of Culpepper was in the forces that marched against the French and Indians in 1752. Comrades in arms were the Virginia Slaighters, Lightfoots, Yances, Russells, and others.

See pp. 8, 11, 28.

Benjamin Roberts

Benjamin Roberts died in 1782, and in his will were sons named:

Benjamin and Joseph, and three daughters:—

Hannah who m. Daniel Field
Mary who m. Dulaney
Anne who m. — Field

Henry Field, Jr., of this family—according to his will in 1782—owned a “large lot of land in Kentucky.” Benjamin and Joseph Roberts, sons of the elder Benjamin, had removed to Augusta County. Joseph bought part of the estate of James Lister in 1762.

James Roberts

In 1766 James Roberts of Augusta County, was the appraiser of the estate of Alexander Boyd. In 1757 James Roberts had been a member of “Captain Wagoner’s Company of Regulars,” for defense of the colony. George Roberts, was a witness in 1767.

See p. 27.

John Roberts

In 1761 John Roberts and his wife, Margaret (Black) Roberts, daughter of Samuel and Rebecca Black, sold 325 acres of land on a branch of Smith’s Creek called Yeager’s Branch, to one Robert Williams. As early as 1752 a Nicholas Roberts was living in Augusta.

Benjamin Roberts

Benjamin Roberts of Augusta, drew up his will in March, 1817, and mentioned (that) his son John, and a granddaughter, Patsey (Gill) Roberts, were living in far away Louisiana, in Washington Parish.

Many miles of land had been traversed, many stirring scenes witnessed, much heroic pioneer work done by Elisha’s branch of the family before the day of his own settlement in the far South. Born on the Holston River in 1775, Elisha had seen the Watauga settlements become the County of Washington in North Carolina, from 1777 to 1784.
As a lad of nine years, he had heard the heated discussions, and witnessed the decisive actions of the pioneers when they proclaimed their independence and erected the "State of Franklin," in 1784, a form of government that lasted until 1788, when the settlers again came under the jurisdiction of North Carolina as Washington County.

In 1790 the land bore the dignified title of "Territory of United States South of the Ohio River," and was governed by a territorial governor and three Judges, and in 1796 was admitted into the Union.

Though cognizant of this development in Tennessee, the Roberts family had not continued citizens of Tennessee, through all these changing years. In 1775, the year of Elisha's birth the attention of the settlers along the Holston in Tennessee, was attracted to the fact that interesting movements were on foot in the Virginia wilderness, still farther to the West.

Judge Richard Henderson of Granville County, North Carolina, a native of Hanover County, Virginia, where he was born in 1735; but a resident of North Carolina since 1745—bought from the Cherokee Indians for 12,000 pounds in goods—all lands lying between the Cumberland and Kentucky Rivers, a tract that embraced nearly all of what is now Kentucky and bit into the northern part of Tennessee.

Henderson named his holdings Transylvania, and sent Daniel Boone to blaze the trail from the Holston to the Kentucky River, which the latter reached in April of that year. Henderson's diary of his adventures on joining Boone later, is one of the treasures of colonial history. While Virginia settlers were interested in the efforts of their fellow Virginian, neither their government nor that of North Carolina was favorably impressed with Henderson's attempts. Indeed they considered them fraught with grave danger to the Colonial Government, violently denied his right to the land, and opposed his colonization plans.

In 1779 they compromised with Henderson by each granting him two-hundred-thousand acres, and appointing him commissioner to extend the line of Virginia and North Carolina through Powell's valley. In 1779 Henderson opened up a land office at French Lick, now Nashville, for the sale of his lands, having attracted so much attention by his controversies with the opposing Colonies, that it brought hordes of settlers to Kentucky as soon as the Revolutionary War was won.
Meanwhile Virginia, which claimed land far into the wilderness to the West of her settled territory had established Fincastle County, embracing Henderson’s claim and all the rest of what is now Kentucky. In 1777, this County was divided into three parts, losing the name of Fincastle and becoming Washington, Montgomery, and Kentucky. The South fork of the Holston River was one of the boundary lines of Washington County, and it may be noted that this took in the land of the 1768 Watauga settlement; the home of the early Roberts. Consequently, it is not surprising to find James Roberts deputy sheriff of the new County in 1777, and William Roberts Road Commissioner. This Roberts was the James Roberts of Augusta County and William was his son, and the father of Elisha Roberts.

William Roberts

Eleven children were born in the family of William Roberts: Elisha, George, John, Thomas, Absolum, Abner, James, Isaac, Charles, and two daughters, one of whom was Milly. These names may be found on the records of Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina; the three sections where the family spread out in the closing years of the century (18). Some were evidently brothers of the elder William, or cousins; others were his immediate family. James Roberts, son of William, became a Methodist preacher. In 1788 William Roberts had taken up 200 acres of land in Granville County, North Carolina, the home of Judge Henderson of Transylvania fame. He lived in the Epping forest district, and with him was his brother, Isaac. In 1790 Abner was living in St. Mary’s district, North Carolina, while Absolum was in the Richmond District, Caswell County, with Thomas. The Gill family was also represented in this State, and a Mr. Gill was a member of the Assembly in 1732.

Isaac Roberts

An Isaac Roberts became very prominent in Davidson County, Tennessee, from 1790. He was first mayor in 1790, a Lieutenant Colonel the following year, and Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant of the County in 1792. Whether he was the Isaac Roberts of Granville County, Kentucky (bro. of Wm.), removed into the old home region of Tennessee or some other more distant relative has not been established. Abner Roberts (bro. of Wm.) lived to be 90 years of age, and something may be learned of him from his own statements made in 1832 on his application for pension as a Revolutionary soldier.
Abner Roberts

He was born in Orange County, Virginia in 1742 and enlisted in the Revolutionary forces in 1776, in the militia of Culpepper County, under Captain Holmes and Lieutenant Mark Thomas, with Colonel Clapham of Loudoun County, commanding the regiment. Abner Roberts was living in Culpepper County at the time of his enlistment as shown by his own words: “I entered the service as a private for six months in the militia of Culpepper County, where I then lived.” His story of his service as told by himself, is interesting to the family of our subject:

“We passed through Fauquier and Loudoun Counties in Virginia, crossed the Potomac at Noland Ferry, then through Maryland and through Little York, in Pennsylvania, and then on to the headquarters then at the White Horse, near Germantown in the state of Pennsylvania. During my stay at that place, I very frequently served on detached parties on scout, and under different officers. I was one of the party detached to surprise and take the enemy’s picket guard stationed at the fork or crossing between Germantown and Philadelphia. The guards escaped before we reached the house. We then went on to join the main army and were pursued by the enemy as far as Germantown where they ceased pursuit. A battle was fought while I was in the service. I was not in it, being detached on a scouting expedition at the time.———When the term of service of the Culpepper militia had expired, we were prevailed upon to continue longer as a battle was expected. It was said to be Washington's request. We accordingly remained in service until near Christmas. The enlistment had begun in May. The winter set in very hard before I left the army and a deep snow fell. I think I got my discharge from Colonel Crawford. I got home the day before Christmas, or the day after Christmas, having served at least seven months.”

In 1832 Abner Roberts was living in Spencer County, Kentucky, and according to his own statement was 90 years old.

Other Virginia soldiers of the name of Roberts who later settled in Kentucky, were Mourning Roberts and Namon or Naaman Roberts. The former was born in 1758 and enlisted in 1777 in the Fourteenth Virginia in Albemarle County, under Colonel Charles Lewis and Abram Buford and Captain John Marks. His enlistment period was for three years, but he was discharged at the end of three months because of illness. He was later a resident of Pittsylvania County, Virginia. In 1832 he lived in Rockcastle County, Kentucky.

NAMON ROBERTS

Namon or Naaman Roberts was born in Pittsylvania County, Virginia. He was a volunteer in his home county militia under Captain Thomas Black. His regiment marched to Guilford House, in North Carolina, and in this battle fought on that ground, he lost his right eye in the explosion of a cannon ball which struck a rock in front of him. After the close of his term of enlistment and discharge, he enlisted again and was at the siege of Yorktown, where he witnessed the surrender of Cornwallis. He marched as guard to a company of prisoners to Maryland, and he was discharged at Noland's Ferry on the Potomac River. In later years he moved to Rockingham County, North Carolina, there married, and thence moved to Madison county, Kentucky, where he was living in 1812. Ten years later he moved to Gerard County in the same state.

It is possible that he was related to William Roberts, who also removed from Virginia to North Carolina.

WILLIAM ROBERTS

William was born in Halifax County, Virginia, on June 18, 1762, according to the family bible records.

He ran away to join the army but was brought home by his father because of his tender years. When the war had been in progress for two years more and he was 16 years of age, he had an opportunity to go as a substitute for a drafted soldier. His father then seeing that he "was determined to go," offered no objections, and he was at last a soldier. He was with Washington at Valley Forge all through the winter of 1778 and remained with the forces at Washington for some time. He took part in the battle of Monmouth and other engagements. His discharge came in 1779 but he was drafted in 1781 and served with the Virginia militia under General Muhlenburg, at Cabin Point. This "tour" lasted until April, 1781, when he was discharged. In August he volunteered under the call for forces to attack Lord Cornwallis, and was with the army that marched in pursuit of the latter to Yorktown. He remained through the siege, engagements, and surrender that followed. He personally knew Generals Washington, Lafayette, Muhlenburg, and Scott. After the war he moved to Orange, and then to Caswell County, North Carolina. In his petition for pension he named Pleasant Roberts, a Revolutionary soldier from Amelia County, Virginia, as a witness.

In 1774, a Captain Roberts served in the militia in Fincastle County. He had a company of thirty-eight men.

The Roberts family is thus shown to have been well supplied with the red blood of courage that breeds pioneers and soldiers. The love and the experience of adventure into new lands was not ended with the generation that was going down the hill of life early in the Nineteenth Century, having passed through some of the most vital and gripping episodes of our Nation’s history. The generation then in early maturity, had worlds of its own to conquer, and conquer it it did.

*William Roberts

William Roberts (of Augusta County) with his grown sons Elisha, Absolum and Charles, with their families, together with members of his own household was settled in Louisiana in 1810. Elisha in Washington Parish, and Absolum, William and Charles in the adjoining Parish of St. Tammany. All were slave owners and presumably planters. William, who was the patriarch of the group, and his wife were well along in years, with an adult son and two little girls, doubtless grandchildren, in their household. They owned four slaves.

Absolum was married, had a family of four sons and three daughters and owned three slaves. Charles had a wife, four sons and two slaves. This completed the Tammany Parish group.

*Elisha, in Washington Parish had greater wealth in slaves of whom he owned seventeen. His family at that time (1820) consisted of his wife, two sons, and four daughters. Shortly after this date, on visiting Texas in search of a runaway slave, Elisha was attracted by a very beautiful and fertile spot just across the border of Louisiana, on which he later built his home. He started on his long journey of emigration across Southern Louisiana to Texas in January, 1823, and was joined at Natchitoches, Louisiana, by Alexander Horton, who later became Colonel Horton, aide-de-camp to General Sam Houston. Elisha Roberts bought out a squatter located on the site he had noticed and selected, located a tract of land in his own “headright,” built his home and dug the brick spring, which later became noted in this section. He also built in 1825 a cotton gin, one of four in the district at the time; the others being owned by Cartwright, Sprole and Williams. Philip Sublett located on adjoining land and married one of Mr. Roberts' daughters.

These "headrights," were located on Ayish Bayou, later San Augustine County. In 1827 war broke out between the Fredonian and Mexican Governments. The settlers from the United States desired to remain neutral, but the Fredonians issued a decree requiring all inhabitants to join them, or forfeit their lands and improvements and backed up this demand with a show of military force. In this emergency the American settlers crossed the Sabine River to safety in Louisiana. Alexander Horton, Elisha Roberts' fellow traveler, attacked a band of Fredonians with his force of Cherokee Indians and a few white men, and drove them off the land in San Augustine County.

*Elisha Roberts, in 1831 was elected Alcalde, upon the organization of the municipality of Shelbyville, formerly called Nashville, and located close to the southwestern border of Louisiana. This office was a high honor, as its incumbent had absolute authority under the Governor at San Antonio, and could summon a jury and issue writs to his sheriff for the execution of the law.

The municipality of San Augustine to the south of Shelbyville, was laid off in the fall of 1834, and was one of the first towns in Texas laid off after a purely American plan, and not according to Spanish law. It was located in the State of Coahuila. Elisha Roberts was one of a committee of fifteen appointed at a mass meeting of the citizens to select a site for this town. They chose the East bank of the Ayish Bayou near the old mission, and laid off 640 acres. Three years later, in 1837, the University of San Augustine was incorporated by a legislative act of the Texas Republic, and Elisha Roberts was first of the twelve trustees. This University flourished for about five or six years.

Throughout his life in Texas, Elisha Roberts occupied a place of prominence in the affairs of the community. One of his descendants describes him as "... a practical surveyor." "He always took an active part in the upbuilding of schools and everything else that was calculated to advance the settlement and development of the country. He commanded the confidence and esteem of his fellow citizens."
He died in 1845, the year that Texas was admitted to the Union. Family records give the children of Elisha and Patsey Gill Roberts as the following: Anna b. Jan. 14, 1800
Elizabeth b. Dec. 3, 1803
Esther Jane b. Feb. 27, 1806
Matilda F. b. June 12, 1808
William C. b. Feb. 26, 1811
Noel Gill b. Nov. 19, 1813
Mahala Lee b. Nov. 3, 1816
Felix Grundy b. Aug. 23, 1818
Margaret b. Jan. 13, 1822

Before Elisha’s death on October 4, 1845, (1844) he had been joined by his younger brother Isaac, who arrived in Texas between 1836 and 1840.

ISAAC ROBERTS, was born in Tennessee in 1794, but removed with the family group to Louisiana, was married, and there six of his children were born. These were:

Thomas b. 1821
Washington b. 1825
Abner b. 1827
Isaac b. 1830
Cornelius b. 1833
Elisha b. 1836
Elizabeth b. 1840—in Texas

The mother of the family was a Georgian, born in 1796. Thomas B., the eldest son, became a school teacher Washington, was a physician Abner, was a farmer, and Isaac, was a man of some little means Martha (Patsey) Roberts, died December 20, 1845. p. 33

FELIX GRUNDY ROBERTS, youngest son of Elisha Roberts, was raised in San Augustine County, Texas, after his removal there when he was six years of age. In later years he moved to Washington County, Texas. He married Elizabeth Keyser Layton, who was born in Kentucky in 1825, of parents who were both native Kentuckians, children of pioneer forebears.

WILLIAM C. ROBERTS was born in Matagorda county in 1862. He is a son of Columbus W. Roberts, deceased (also a native of the same county) whose father, Ransome Roberts located in Matagorda county on coming to Texas, located on Caney Creek, where he established himself as a farmer and stock raiser and raised a family of ten children, three of whom survive and live at different points in Texas. He was a native of Georgia. Columbus W. Roberts, father of the subject of this notice, married Miss Molly Harris, a daughter of Parson Harris, a widely known clergyman of the M. E. Church South, and like his father, located on Caney Creek. Here he reared a family of six children, of whom Wm. C. Roberts, is the oldest. These are well settled in life in various parts of the State and are useful and honored citizens of the communities in which they reside. Mr. Roberts is a contractor in Alvin, where he also conducts a livery business. He married Miss Sallie O'Conner in Houston, February 1st, 1888, and has one child, a daughter named Flora. JOHN S. ROBERTS
Signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence

A soldier in General Jackson's Army — Won Fame for Bravery — Settled at Natchitoches, Louisiana — Deputy Sheriff — Comes to Texas — Romantic Marriage — Moved to Nacogdoches — Secures the Old Fort — Took Part in The Fredonia Rebellion — Delegate to the Convention at Old Washington, March 1, 1836—Recruits Men for the Army — Death and Burial at Nacogdoches.

"John S. Roberts' name is indelibly associated with the early history of Nacogdoches where he resided from about 1826 until his death. He was born in Virginia in 1795. Here he was reared and educated by pious Christian parents. He joined General Jackson's army in 1814 and participated in the battle of New Orleans, January 8, 1815. He was in the thickest of this historical battle and conducted himself in such brave manner that he was mentioned by Cardinal Moyne in his "New Orleans," published in France in 1840. After the war with Great Britain had come to an end, Mr. Roberts made his way to the old French fort of Natchitoches, Louisiana. After living there a few years he became deputy sheriff of Natchitoches Parish. While holding this office a local feud broke out in Texas near the present town of Milam, in Sabine county. During the feud several men lost their lives. Among them was Robert Colyer. He was a man of great wealth and brought with him to Texas, in 1825, a large number of slaves. His wife, who survived him, was placed in a very embarrassing position. She was a stranger in a strange land, without friends, and with a large number of slaves to manage and direct. At this critical moment John S. Roberts learned of her plight and he hastened to offer his sympathy and assistance. He very soon solicited her hand in marriage, was accepted and soon thereafter Mrs. Colyer became Mrs. Roberts. As soon as they could arrange their affairs they moved to San Augustine and from there they soon moved to Nacogdoches where they spent the residue of their lives.

There follows an account of his romantic marriage as told by Col. Alexander Horton to Rev. Dr. George C. Crocket, of San Augustine, and the author (Sam Houston Dixon) states on page 251 that:

"I have reproduced these reminiscences of Col. Horton, and the statement of Dr. Crocket, because they throw some light on the period of early Texas history in Eastern Texas in which Mr. Roberts took a prominent part.”

... “When Roberts county was created from Bexar county in 1876 it was named in honor of John S. Roberts.”

“Men Who Made Texas Free,” by Sam Houston Dixon, p. 249

ISAAC ROBERTS

“South of him in the edge of the pine woods was the house of Isaac Roberts, a cousin of Elisha Roberts, who came here at an early date. Here he raised a family, one of whom, Isaac Jackson Roberts, attained distinction throughout East Texas as a physician and surgeon.”

“Two Centuries in East Texas,” p. 125

In an article by Vivian Richardson, appearing in The Dallas Morning News, of Sunday, August 9, 1931 is found a sketch of Isaac Jackson Roberts, as told her by Captain T. E. Blount:

ISAAC JACKSON ROBERTS

Captain Blount tells of the calm Dr. Isaac Jackson Roberts, in the early days the most distinguished physician and surgeon in Eastern Texas. His cool nerve guided the pioneers out of many a ticklish fiasco, and when he went to New Orleans he was always asked to perform delicate operations for students under the tutelage of Dr. Stone, the eminent Southern surgeon of the New Orleans Medical College. Roberts had refused the presidency of this college. When Captain Blount asked him why, he replied: “Man, my education is just log cabin logic. If I went in there lecturing those boys would laugh at me.”

Like Houston, Dr. Roberts, came from Tennessee, and at his death was buried on the Roberts homestead place near town, where each of the family lies in a grave marked by the same type of headstone. It was Dr. Roberts who saved the life of a rash colored man who set fire to the first University of Texas building (it was established at San Augustine) in a moment of anger at the white folks. Although it was the touchy reconstruction period, they had refused to allow the negroes to use the university building as a meeting place. “I believe I got sort of mad,” Captain Blount smiled. “I think I was one of the mob—we were pretty easily riled then. The guards had the offender in a small house and wouldn’t give him up. We went after him. Suddenly a dignified figure climbed upon a box where we could see him, and Dr. Roberts’ clear voice ordered calmly, ‘Boys! Go on home and behave yourselves!’ There was a moment of dangerous silence. Some one laughed. Then we looked at each other sheepishly and turned around and went home and behaved ourselves.”

Birth
September 14, 1793
in Tennessee

Parents
Not established; grandfather was William Roberts

Occupation: Planter, Slave-owner

Place of residence: Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas

Married: Elizabeth Bickham, Date: January 3, 1816; b. October 16, 1794

Children: Washington b. 1825
Thomas B. b. 1820-21
Mary b. 1823 (this name supplied by Terie C.)
Abner b. 1827
Isaac b. 1829
Cornelius b. 1832
Elisha b. 1836
Elizabeth b. 1840

On page 17, Isaac Roberts is placed by John H. Roberts, as the son of William, and brother of Elisha Roberts; however the descendants of Isaac (1793) think otherwise. Terie Bickham Cartwright, (Mrs. R. L. Cartwright of Waco) whose mother was the above Mary Roberts, and whose grandfather was Isaac (1793), states:

“Isaac Roberts, grandson of William, and nephew of Elisha, emigrated from Tennessee to Louisiana. Later moved to Texas and Elizabeth was born there in 1840. Mary Roberts my mother, married John Bickham a second cousin. Elizabeth Bickham, my grandmother, was a daughter of Captain Abner Bickham of the Revolutionary War. There seem to have been earlier marriages between the Roberts and the Bickham families. Uncle Elisha, the Alcalde, was the uncle of my grandfather Isaac Roberts.”

Isaac Roberts, was a soldier of the war of 1812, and fought in the battle of New Orleans.

Isaac Roberts, 1793, had a stepfather named Wood, who lived in Tennessee.

The relationship of Isaac Roberts, of Davidson county, Tennessee, to Isaac Roberts, b 1793, has not been determined.

See p. 8.

Lena Cartwright Preston writes:

“Perhaps you would be interested in the story of how and why, our great-grandfather Isaac Roberts, came to Texas. His wife had been bedridden for several months, finally the doctors told great-grandfather that she would never be well if she stayed in Louisiana. Immediately the family began preparations to move to Texas. When they were ready to leave, springs were swung from the top of a covered wagon, then fastened to the sides of the wagon with ropes to make them as stationary as possible; a mattress was placed on the springs, and great-grandmother was put in her improvised bed and brought to San Augustine. A caravan of relatives and friends came with them a day’s journey. That night they camped by the wayside; next morning they all had prayers together, then the relatives and friends returned to their homes, and great-grandfather with his family and slaves traveled on to San Augustine. Great-grandmother lived to be eighty-four years old.”

“From earliest times the Roberts family have always been pushing toward the frontier. Of Scotch-English stock, it was founded in America by a pioneer settler of the Virginia Colony who was killed by the Indians while engaged in digging ginseng roots, for fever patients.”

Information regarding James Roberts is meager. No mention is made in available manuscript of his having taken part in the Revolutionary war; but since he was a member of Company of Regulars, for defense of the Colonies in 1757, there is reason to believe that he did so; that is, if living or not too old for military service.

In 1757—He was member of Captain Waggoner’s Company of Regulars, for defense of the Colonies.

In 1766—Appraiser for the estate of Alexander Boyd.

In 1777—Deputy Sheriff, of the new county of Washington, formerly Fincastle.

His son William, became the father of Elisha Roberts

His son Abner, b. 1742, Revolutionary soldier. Lived to be 90. See p. 9.

His son Isaac, no information, except “with his brother William” in Granville County, North Carolina.

William Roberts, was among those pioneers who journeyed into the wilderness from Virginia in 1768-69 and settled in Watauga, on the Holston River, Tennessee (later North Carolina); he journeyed on to Kentucky; and in his declining years pioneered southward to Louisiana, and was established there about 1810. With him were his wife, three small sons, and other members of his family. The children of William Roberts are found in the record of three states: Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina.
NOTE—The fact has not been established that the above William Roberts, the father of Elisha, is the same “William Roberts of Culpepper who marched against the French and Indians in 1752,” (p. 6) but, as this section of Virginia was his birthplace and the home of the early Roberts, it seems reasonable to think they were one and the same; especially so since William was still living in Virginia at the time, and since Abner presumably the brother of William, was also born in Orange County in the part cut off for Culpepper, and enlisted in the Culpepper Militia for service in the Revolutionary war (p. 9) William’s exact birth date is not determined, but if about 1730-35, he would have been from 17 to 22 years of age at time of French and Indian war; also making him an old man of 85 to 90 when known to be living in Louisiana, and age which would justify the title of “patriarch.”

The Old Alcalde

A Letter, Written In 1896, From O. M. Roberts, Explains How The Sobriquet Was Bestowed on Him

THAT the title "Old Alcalde" was bestowed upon O. M. Roberts as a term of endearment was explained in a letter which the beloved Governor himself wrote to the Marble Falls Standard, and which was published in that paper in 1896.

Today when Texas honors the memory of a man who was revered as a citizen as well as a public official, his version of the origin of his sobriquet is interesting. His letter follows:

"To the Editor: Your question, why I have been called the Old Alcalde will be answered.

"It has been sometimes supposed that I held the office of Alcalde in Mexican times in Texas, which was then the most known judicial officer in the country. I did not come to Texas until 1841, in time of the Republic, when there was no officer called by that title. There was then living in four miles of San Augustine, where I settled, a Mr. Elisha Roberts, a prominent farmer, who had been in Mexican times Alcalde of the Municipality of Alyah, corresponding in territory to what is now San Augustine County. Upon getting acquainted with him, he told me that he was a relative of my father, whom he knew in Kentucky, where my father had lived at one time. That is as near as I came to being an Alcalde in fact. The way in which I got the title was this: John Hemphill was made Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in time of the Republic of Texas in 1842, and continued to hold that office in the Stata until 1858, a period of eighteen years, when he was succeeded by Chief Justice Royal T. Wheeler, who held the office until 1884, when I was elected Chief Justice, having been Associate Justice of that court for five years before entering the Confederate States Army. In 1852, I was twice made Chief Justice from the first of '74 to the last part of '75, when I was elected Governor of Texas. During the long time that John Hemphill was Chief Justice, the old lawyers would sometimes speak of him as the Old Alcalde, as a designation indicating him to be the highest judicial officer of the State, the Spanish words 'Alcalde' meaning 'the Judge,' and Mexican times the Alcalde of a Municipality was the most commonly known judicial officer.

"After I became Chief Justice, having a gray head of hair, the lawyers sometimes spoke of me as the Old Alcalde, as they had of Chief Justice Hemphill, and when I was nominated for Governor in 1878, it was said that the people were going to take the Old Alcalde from the bench and make him Governor. The newspapers then for the first time caught on to it, and spread it all over the State. Since that time I have been known as the Old Alcalde. It was, while I was Governor, a great convenience to the editors of the papers, by contracting the title to simply 'O A,' and those of them that sought to object to or depreciate me would use the small letters 'o a.' Though as to the sobriquet or nickname itself, there was no disrespect attached to it, but on the contrary, it was generally regarded as an honorary appellation, the same as when I was called 'Old Grey' by the soldiers in the Confederate States Army. The disposition is very common among the mass of the people to confer a nickname of some sort upon a public man, when there is anything pertaining to him that suggests it. It is the same disposition that causes many parents to give their minor children nicknames, that sometimes attach to them through life. Generally, it is more likely to be prompted by sentiments of favor or partiality to the one to whom it is permanently attached by common use, than the contrary, as sometimes, though seldom, it is the case. Respectfully yours, etc.,

"O. M. ROBERTS."

Occupation: Pioneer, Planter, Soldier War 1812

Various places of residence: Watauga settlement, Holston River, Tennessee, Kentucky, Louisiana, Texas.

William Roberts

Married: Martha Gill (Patsey) Date: about 1800

Children:
- Anne b. Jan. 14, 1800

Elisha Roberts, the great-grandfather of Matthew C. Roberts, was born on the Holston River, at what was then known as Watauga Settlement.

In 1811—according to "Indian Wars and Pioneers of Texas," Elisha removed from Barren County, Kentucky, to Washington Parish, Louisiana, and

In 1812—he served in the War of 1812-14, with Great Britain.

In 1823—he removed to Texas and located a tract of land in his own "headright," on Ayish Bayou, afterward San Augustine County.

In 1825—he built a cotton gin; one of four in the district, the others belonging to Cartwright, Sprole, and Williams.

In 1831—he was elected Alcalde.

In 1832—he was one of committee of fifteen to locate site for city of San Augustine.

In 1837—the University of San Augustine was incorporated by a legislative act of the Texas Republic, and Elisha was one of twelve trustees.
Elisha, like his father William Roberts, was endued with the bold and daring spirit of the Pioneer, braving dangers and bitter hardships little realized and all but forgotten, by the generation of today.

Amid the perplexities and demands of a too complex civilization it is perhaps well to remember and to emulate, the simplicity and sterling qualities of those of our forefathers who through their frugality, struggles, and sacrifices, carved out for us, an easier life than they knew; and thus remembering we may be more understanding and appreciative of that stern man of destiny—the early pioneer.

Elisha Roberts’ death occurred in 1844, as shown by his will.

ANNUAL REPORT of the AMERICAN HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION for the year 1919.

Among these papers is a letter from B. W. Edwards, dated Nacogdoches, Texas, July 21, 1826, to Stephen F. Austin, page 1380, Vol. II, Part 2 in which he complains of conditions, deals with their cause, and denounces James Gaines as a trouble-maker, and asks for co-operation and help.

Elisha Roberts is mentioned.

Excerpts from same:

“...What so much adds to this confusion, is the abuse of justice and the continual outrage upon the rights and liberties of the Americans by the civil authorities of this place, aided and supported by the celebrated James Gaines and his followers, who seem determined to put down every man, who will not bow in adoration to him, and who has independence to be a freeman.” . . . “I have strong reason to believe that there have been some forgeries of papers here, and there exists too much evidence of the fact, that letters have been broken open, directed to my brother before he read them.” . . . “Order after order has been transmitted here, containing censure of Haden Edwards, without any inquiry into the truth or falsehood of the accusations, presumed to be made against him; and no list of charges furnished him even, to give him an opportunity of self defence.” . . . “If the government can divest Haden Edwards of half his grant, they can divest him of the whole in the same manner; and if they can, in violation of the constitution, confiscate or declare a forfeiture of his property, they can in like manner divest every other Empresario of his rights: and what security can any American feel, should this be the case, in the tenure he may hold under them, or even the government itself?”

“We have just heard that he has decreed the expulsion of Judge Williams, and Mr. Elisha Roberts, two of the most wealthy, intelligent, industrious, and useful men of the whole Province, etc. . . .”

Dear sir I (am) with Respect your sincere Friend
Elisha Roberts

Only thirty-five miles from Nacogdoches is the town of San Augustine. From the time of his advent into Texas Houston was as well-known and as much at home in San Augustine as he was in Nacogdoches. There he had many old friends of former days—Elisha Roberts, Philip Sublett, John Cartwright, Dr. Joseph Rowe, George Teal, Stephen William Blount, and a score of others. While on business in San Augustine he usually made his home with Elisha Roberts, for part of the time the alcalde of the town, and the most popular inn-keeper in East Texas. The old Roberts Tavern sheltered many of the noted men of Texas—Bowie, Crockett, Travis, Stephen F. Austin, Houston, and it was from the broad gallery in front, that Mr. Roberts held his alcalde court in 1831. Just a “step down the road,” stood the house of Philip Sublett, son-in-law of Roberts. Sublett’s house was Houston’s second home whenever he chose to stay there, for he and Philip Sublett had been cronies as young men in Tennessee. But these buildings have passed away; probably the only house now standing at San Augustine in which Houston was a familiar guest is the old William Blount house. This is a beautiful building even today. It still stands as in the early days, on the corner of Columbia and Ayish streets. It is a one-story house, finely proportioned and beautifully ornamented. The porch supported by small Corinthian columns, is the most interesting architectural feature of the house as seen from the outside. Colonel Stephen William Blount, its builder, was a delegate to the Convention of March 1836, a signer of the Declaration of Independence of Texas, and a signer of the constitution...

Further information concerning Elisha Roberts may possibly be had from the following sources:

Dear Mrs. Roberts:

We are mailing you under separate cover the copy of the quarterly for which you wrote.

I checked through the table of contents and index of the quarterly. I find Elisha Roberts mentioned frequently in the "Diary of Adolphus Sterne," which has been appearing for the last five volumes. Mr. Roberts is also mentioned in the "Life of A. Horton," which appeared in Vol. 14, Number 4. I failed to find any letters. However they might appear in some article or reminiscence and I failed to find them from the title.

Coral H. Tullis, Corresponding Secretary.

Copy—letter from State Historical Association
I had read and heard so many fine descriptions of Texas, its pleasant streams, beautiful prairies, mild climate, and extensive herds of buffalo, wild horses, and cattle, that it was with no small degree of enthusiasm I set foot for the first time, on its territory. I cast my eyes back for a moment on the United States; then turned to the “Fairyland,” with high hopes and anticipations.

The Sabine has two or three miles of good land on each side, heavily timbered; but it is too much subject to inundation to be cultivated. After we passed the river bottom, we came to gentle swells of red clayed soil covered with oak, hickory, etc., called Oak Openings. Sometimes we passed a small prairie; and occasionally a log house and a small field. Thus we passed ten miles; and here our fellow traveler having arrived at the end of his journey, left us. He had traveled a hundred miles with us; was an intelligent man well acquainted with the country, and we became too much interested in him, not to feel serious regret at parting. This is one of the disagreeable things in traveling;—we form acquaintances only to leave them.

We now found cotton fields as well as corn; more extensive plantations and better homes. We passed two race-courses by the road side and stopped for the night at a very decent looking double log house, having a wide portico in front and a wide avenue through the center. Here we found good accommodations. The house contained three or four rooms and had about the same number of glass windows in it. We had for supper venison, sweet potatoes, corn bread, coffee, butter and milk. Back of the house I observed a small orchard of apple trees,—the only ones I found in all Texas. The trees looked thrifty, and had just begun to bear fruit. In front, near the road was a fine spring of good clear soft water as I ever saw; but it was hardly cold enough for a northern man. Here were extensive fields of cotton and corn. This planter had a cotton gin and press. The cotton was sent by land to Natchitoches, to be transported thence to New Orleans by water.

Six miles from this, we came to an entirely new village called San Augustine, near a stream called the Ayish Bayou. About two years ago it was laid out, and now it contained two large taverns, three stores, a Court House, and ten or a dozen dwelling houses. There is a good school kept here, to which scholars are sent from some distance.

Second Edition published 1836, p. 149
A regular land law has been enacted, and various offices have been established for the sale of all vacant land in the province. A person desirous of purchasing public land, goes to the land office in the district where the land is situated, files a petition for sale, and obtains an order for a survey. This land is laid off into what is called labors of one hundred and seventy-seven acres each, and an individual may purchase as many labors as he pleases,—up to two hundred and seventy-five, which is about equal to 50,000 English acres. The minimum price is fixed at ten dollars per labor, the purchaser paying the expense of surveying in addition. One third of the purchase money is payable at time of sale; the remainder in two equal annual installments; and the new settlers are exempt from payment of taxes for the term of ten years.

But Texas has some evils, which will be deemed greater or less according to the particular section of the country the emigrant may happen to come from. But still they ought in fairness, to be stated that all may judge for themselves. In the first place there are three kind of venomous snakes: the great rattlesnake, the moccasin snake, and the prairie rattlesnake. The large rattlesnake is not very plenty, and is seldom seen far out in the open prairie.—A gentleman who had lived in the country ten years told me he had killed only two in the time. The moccasin snake deemed as poisonous as the rattlesnake, seems to be more plenty, but they are not found except in or near wet marshy land. A gentleman told me he had a small marsh near his house which seemed to be a haunt for them, and occasionally he found some near it and in his door yard. He set half a dozen servants to cut down the weeds, and dig a ditch to drain off the water, and in one day they killed forty-three moccasin snakes; and he pleasantly added it was not a very good snake day either. Perhaps this will be set down as another “snake story,” but my authority is Mr. Elisha Roberts, living on the main road five miles (east) of San Augustine, a very respectable man as I was informed. The prairie snake is a small one about a foot in length, similar to that of Illinois. I saw only one in all my wandering through the country. There are other snakes not venomous, such as the coach-whip snake, the large black snake which is here called the “chicken snake,” because it sometimes robs hens nests; the glass snake which if you strike it will break in a number of places, and some others. Then there is the tarantular—a large spider, and the stinging lizard, a species of the scorpion of a reddish color and about two inches long. The bite of the tarantular and the stinging lizard is in pain and affect, similar to the sting of the bee. There is a weed here which is a certain cure for the bite of all these venomous reptiles.”

EXCERPT FROM A BEAUMONT PAPER

In honor of Texas hundredth anniversary, these four descendants of illustrious pioneers are selected for the woman’s page art section in an edition of the paper designed to commemorate the founders of the state. The article starting in the columns at the left tells of the heroic forebears of the four Beaumonters.

Vivian Roberts, daughter of Mrs. C. C. Roberts, is the descendant of Elisha Roberts; Hallie Holman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Holman, of Macajah Autry; Mrs. Maude Gerald Richardson, of Benjamin Anderson; and Miss Ida Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Muller, of Humphry Jackson.

Simple facts found among the records of Beaumont families tell of dramatic episodes in Texas history and the factual statements are eloquent declaration of the character and personality of the men who founded the state. The patterns of life cut out for themselves have lasted a hundred years. While the number of descendants of distinguished pioneers in Beaumont precludes the possibility of a complete record, four have been selected as representatives of the fine types who laid the cornerstone of an empire.

Of the four pioneers cited, Elisha Roberts, Humphry Jackson, Benjamin Anderson, and Micajah Autry who came to Texas before 1836, none came for the same reason. Various circumstances were responsible for their emigration. One came looking for a runaway slave, a second contrariwise, a grave idealist, disapproved of slavery in the other states; another a romanticist, was lured by the phantom of adventure; and yet another a provident father sought a fortune for his family. Whether they found what they separately sought may not be known, but it is certain that they held and realized the universal belief that “there is not so fair a portion of the earth’s surface warmed by the sun.”

Excerpts from records collected by Rev. George Crocket of Nacogdoches for his “Two Centuries of Texas History,” tell the whys and wherefores of Elisha Roberts’ coming to Texas and of his exploits and accomplishments, as follows:

Elisha Roberts came to Texas about 1824 (3). It is said he was first led to the state in 1821, in following a runaway slave whose wife had been taken into Texas by another owner, and who ran away in order to visit her. Roberts remarked a very beautiful and fertile spot of ground and thought he would like to own it. He brought the slave back but next year he ran away again and when Roberts went after him, he found a “squatter,” settled on his chosen piece of ground. He hesitated no longer, but bought him out and located a league of land in his own headright on the spot, and built his home there. He dug out the noted brick spring, which is well known in this county, (San Augustine) and moved in it January 1824 (3).

Was Made Alcalde

He was made alcalde in 1831 and held court in his own house, there being no town at the time. A. Horton was sheriff and they administered the law in primitive but effective fashion. They used as much of the Spanish law as they knew, having no code to go by, and when their knowledge of it failed, they went according to the principles of the American law. The alcalde was absolute authority, but he could summon a jury of 12 men to assist him in his determinations. Colonel Horton commenting on this procedure remarks that the law was administered as well then as it was under the state law, and there was not half as much grumbling.

Elisha Roberts, was one of a committee of 15 appointed at a mass meeting of the citizens in 1833 to locate a town so there might be a central place to hold court, as it was inconvenient to hold it in the homes of the alcaldes. They selected the east bank of the Ayish bayou at the old mission crossing and designated Thomas S. McFarland to lay it off. McFarland bought 640 acres east of the bayou and north of King's highway, laid off the town and sold the lots. As far as I can find it was the first town in Texas to be laid off after a purely American plan and not according to the Spanish law. The town was laid off in the fall of 1833 and established by act of the state of Coahuila and Texas, as the municipality of San Augustine, in April 1834.

On June 5, 1837, the University of Texas was incorporated by an act of congress of the republic and the name of Elisha Roberts, appears first on the list of 12 trustees. This institution flourished about five or six years under charge of the Rev. M. A. Hontrose, a Presbyterian minister from Edinburg, Scotland. Its curriculum was about equal to a good average college now, except that owing to its position in a new republic still fighting for existence, it included subjects not usually found in a college curriculum, such as navigation, fortifications, etc. Elisha Roberts was born in 1775—and died in 1844.”

END OF ARTICLE

Copied from a Beaumont paper, 1936
"Men like Elisha Roberts and John Cartwright brought their slaves with them as early as 1824, and their cotton fields were usually worked by slave labor. The great plantations were made nearly self-sustaining by means of this labor; slaves being trained as artisans and mechanics to supply the various needs of the farm.

"The slave population continued to increase, and by 1856 the negroes in the county numbered 1,382 and in 1858 there were 1,630 reported."

......... The people are completely in ferment, and what will be the consequences I am unable to say. But this much I will venture to predict. Anull arbitary power, and tranquility will be restored. It is said that James Gains has threatened to emancipate all Elisha Roberts' negroes (about 30 in number). These are only reports, I know not as to the truth of it, but it has its effect in aiding to the general confusion and exciting the suspicions of credulous man.

The people are willing and anxious to obey the law properly administered. But it is mortifying to the feeling of an American to stoop to arbitary sway. I attribute none of our present difficulties to any person but James Gaines and his understrappers.

I hope sir that you will have the goodness to inquire into our condition minutely; and make such statements to the proper authority or take such other measures as you may deem expedient to restore tranquility, and afford us that protection of person, property, and civil rights, which the Mexican Nation has promised to the strangers who come and settle in her territories.

OLD TIME LETTER TELLS FACTS OF TEXAS HISTORY

Austin, Texas
Dec. 17th, 1930

The State Library has received a photostatic copy of a letter from Sam'l T. Allen, to his brother Caleb J. Allen of New London, Conn., dated May 18th, 1836. It is the gift of Harry P. Lawther, of Dallas, made through George E. Shelly; a member of the Texas Library and Historical Commission.

The letter tells the story of the fall of the Alamo; the massacre at Goliad; and the "brilliant victory," at San Jacinto. The writer was born at Mt. Pleasant, Conn., July 19th, 1809. In 1835 he married Matilda Connell, a widow, the daughter of Elisha Roberts of San Augustine. He was a delegate from the municipality of Viesca, to the consultation at San Felipe in Nov. 1835. He served in the Ranging Corps from July 20th, to Oct. 20th, 1836.

In October 1838, with fifteen others, he was killed by Indians at Battle Creek, Navarro County, about two miles west of Lawson. There were twenty-one in the party, five of whom escaped; Gen'l Walter E. Lane being one of the number. A monument marks the spot where the men were killed.

Judge Stephen H. Allen, of Topeka, Kansas, and Stephen Allen of Taylor, Texas, were grandsons of Sam T. Allen and Matilda Roberts.

FELIX G. ROBERTS
(Elisha, William, James)

Is a son of Elisha and Patsey (Gill) Roberts, the former of whom was born on the Holston River in East Tennessee in 1775 and the latter in Bedford County, Va., some time near 1780. Both went to Kentucky after attaining their majority and there met and in 1800 were married. In 1801 Elisha Roberts visited Texas, then a dependency of the Spanish Crown, making his way as far as the Trinity river. Returning to Kentucky he settled in Barren County, where he lived until 1811, when he moved to Washington Parish, La. There he resided until 1822, when becoming again smitten with the "Texas fever," he came out and took a second look at the country and this time decided to settle in it. He prospected in the vicinity of Ayish bayou, in the eastern part of the State, and, having purchased what was known as an improvement from William Elam, about four miles from San Augustine, moved and settled there in 1823. As time passed he bought other "improvements," as they were offered for sale, and finally, when the lands came into market under the Mexican colonization laws, located a headright and established a considerable plantation, for that day, four hundred acres being put under cultivation. His house fronting on the public highway coming into Texas, was frequented by many overland travelers, and was known far and wide. He died there October 4, 1844, and his widow in December, 1845. He never performed any military service in Texas, but was a soldier in the war of 1812-14, between the United States and Great Britain; held some minor civil offices while residing in Louisiana and served for a number of years as Alcalde under the Mexican government after coming to Texas.

Nine children, six daughters and three sons, were born to him and his beloved wife, viz: Annie, who married Bryan Daugherty and settled on Mill Creek, in Austin County, this State, where she died and her descendants now live; Elizabeth, who married William D. Smith, settled in Sabine County, and died in the town of San Augustine; Easter J., who married Philip A. Sublett, and lived in San Augustine until the time of her death; Matilda F., who was three times married, (her second husband, Sam T. Allen, was murdered by Indians in the famous "Surveyors' Fight," in Navarro County); William G., who died at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, when a young man; Noel G., who settled six miles from San Augustine, where he died; Mahala L., who married a Mr. Sharp and after his death, a Mr. Hall, and died in Houston County; Felix G., the subject of this memoir, and Margaret S., who married Alexander S. McDonald, of Huntsville, and died in Houston of cholera.
Felix Grundy Roberts, the youngest but one and now the only survivor of the above family, was born in Washington Parish, La., August 23, 1818. He was just five years old when his parents moved to Texas; remembers riding behind an elder sister on horseback when the family crossed the Sabine, and many other incidents of the journey. He was chiefly reared at San Augustine. Attended school in Kentucky and completed his education at the University, at Lexington, in that State, where he took a full law course, graduating in the class of 1842, of which the late Judge Thomas J. Devine was also a member.

While at Lexington, Mr. Roberts met and married Miss Elizabeth K. Layton, a native of Kentucky, the marriage occurring August 2, 1842. Returning to Texas he abandoned the idea of practicing law and devoted his attention to his plantation, near San Augustine, until 1859, when he moved to Washington County, where he had purchased a farm, and there lived engaged in agricultural pursuits, until his recent removal to Navasota, in Grimes County, where he now resides.

August 5, 1894, Mr. Roberts lost his wife, after a happy married life of fifty-two years. They raised to maturity four sons: John Harrison, Patrick Henry, Charles Morgan, and Jefferson Davis, all of whom are married and either planters or stockmen. Mr. Roberts has resided in Texas for seventy-two years and has never seriously thought of leaving the State but once, that being in 1849, when he went to California. After a residence of more than a year there, during which he endured many hardships, he returned to Texas, fully satisfied to make his home here for the rest of his days. He was personally acquainted with Ellis P. Bean (who stopped at his father’s house near San Augustine), Gen. Piedras, Col. Almonte, Gen. Sam Houston, Thomas J. Rusk, J. Pinkney Henderson, David S. Kauffman, William B. Ochiltree, and many other men who figure prominently on the pages of Texas history.

Mr. Roberts has passed through many changing scenes and trying vicissitudes, through all of which he moved as a brave and true-hearted gentleman and from which he emerged with untarnished honor.

He lived to see Texas transformed from a well-nigh uninhabited wilderness, to a well-settled and prosperous State of the Union and now, in his old age, enjoys the confidence and esteem of all who knew him.

Noel Gill Roberts, second son of Elisha and Patsey Gill Roberts, was born in Green county, Kentucky. His parents had taken up residence in Louisiana about the year 1810. His mother, presumably, was staying with relatives in Kentucky at the time of his birth, while his father was engaged in the service of his country in the war of 1812-1814.

He came to Texas with his parents when about ten years of age, and became a wealthy planter and slave-owner prior to the Civil War; cultivating about 2,000 acres of land.

He was a typical Southerner of that day; a gentleman and aristocrat. Autocratic, rather than democratic. Intellectual type; a reader and student owning the largest library in that part of the State. Among his other traits were simplicity and methodical living; conforming to a fixed daily routine including the custom of riding horse-back over his plantation to overlook and direct its management; also a carriage drive to town twice weekly for the mail, and the payment of social calls. On these visits to town he invariably wore a stove-pipe hat, and carried a gold-headed cane.

Melissa Roberts was the daughter of Noel Gill Roberts, and his wife, Maria Thomas, which fact of course makes her the sister of Benjamin Thomas Roberts, and the aunt of Matthew C. Roberts.

Married Joe H. B. Griffith, son of Michael Berry Griffith, and his wife Lydia R. Crabb, and brother to John S. Griffith.

Melissa (Roberts) Griffith died December, 1880.

After the death of Melissa Roberts, Joe Griffith was married again and lived in Van Alstyne, Texas.

The children of Llewellyn B. Griffith of Palmer, Texas (son of Melissa) are double second cousins to the children of Matthew C. Roberts, they being second cousins through the Roberts blood, and second cousins through the Griffith blood.

Extract of letter written by Lew B. Griffith to Emmie Roberts, upon the death of her husband, M. C. Roberts:

“As a boy, Matthew was a prince. I lived with his mother two years after the death of my mother. I was just a spoiled child seven years old, but Matthew was always my friend; never did he speak an unkind word to me; but always took my part when any trouble arose. I never remember of seeing him mad; never heard of any boy fights; do not remember of his parents ever having to punish him in any way. He has always been a high-type character.”

Benjamin Thomas Roberts was educated in the private schools of San Augustine, and San Augustine University.

As a youth he experienced the "westward urge," so noticeable among many of his ancestors. The lure of the West carried him to California some time during the "gold-rush," and there he remained for several years, living in camp as a gold-seeker. On his return to Texas, he drove a herd of cattle from San Augustine county to the western part of Kaufman county near Crandall and there established himself in ranching and cattle-raising.

At the first call to arms for enrollment in the Confederate army, he left Kaufman county and returned to San Augustine, where he enlisted with the first company leaving for service. He was a lieutenant in the 3rd-Texas Regiment, Colonel Mallory commanding. Other officers in this company were: Major Stone, Capt. P. B. Word, Lieut. Col. J. S. Boggess and Lieutenants: Thomas Swope and William Sanford Holman. Ben T. Roberts was in active service during entire duration of the war, participating in a number of battles; and was wounded slightly twice.

In 1869 he took up his residence at his plantation seven miles east of San Augustine, and on January 10th, 1869, was married to Anne Wigglesworth Cartwright, by the Rev. Davis.

In the year 1870, he moved into the town of San Augustine where he continued to live until his death in 1887. His home there is one of the most interesting types of architecture remaining in that part of the country; combining as it does the simplicity, dignity, and beauty of the old Colonial. The Dallas News of Sunday, August 9, 1831, has this to say of it: "Hidden among shady trees, the old Ben Roberts residence gleams white, its broad boards lending a dignity the photograph cannot show. At the door one steps in under a golden five-pointed Star."

Ben T. Roberts was greatly interested in the political affairs of his day, and was a public spirited man in every way. In later years his business consisted chiefly in conducting large farming operations and looking after this interest in Texas lands, which necessitated traveling each year for a month or more, over portions of Texas, usually on horse-back.

1Mentioned in "Two Centuries in East Texas," p. 113; Roberts Family Bible.

"On the corner of Market and Congress Streets, Judge E. W. Cullen built a one story house in the Greek-Colonial style, the west gable forming a porch supported by massive Doric columns. Like the Henderson house, the garret of this was finished for a ballroom extending the entire length of the house. After Judge Cullen left, it was owned by James M. Ardry, and after the war, by Benjamin T. Roberts."

"Two Centuries in East Texas," p. 113.

"Before building of the Capitol in Texas, at San Augustine in 1833 the old Kellog home in the east edge of town was used for a temporary Capitol, and a Texas Star was placed on the front gable of the old home. About two years ago the place was repaired, and the carpenters placed the identical old Star over the front door of the old place, not changing the wood or metal used in the original Star."

Matthew C. Roberts comes of a long line of sturdy ancestry, in¬ cluding emigrants, pioneers and soldiers. As a family they were re¬ presented in the French and Indian, the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, and the Civil War; and in more recent years the Spanish-American, and the Great World War. As emigrants and pioneers—they crossed the ocean, blazing a trail through the wilderness of Vir¬ ginia, pressing on to Tennessee, Louisiana, and Texas, leaving the im¬ print of their personality and making history as they went. It has been said "Only the brave explore; only the daring emigrate." With such a heritage it is to be expected that the qualities of simplicity, strength of character, perseverance and devotion to an ideal, would be outstanding in the sons of succeeding generations. All of these qualities were found in him.

Matthew C. Roberts was educated in San Augustine, Texas, where he studied under the Rev. George L. Crocket and George C. Greer, and later at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee, where he won first place in a class of 100 students. Within a short time of graduation, after cap and gown were won, he was called home by the death of his father, and assumed the responsibility of the family—a youth of seventeen.
In the year 1888 he moved with his mother and her family to Terrell. Here he opened up an office and went into the Insurance and Real Estate business at the age of 18, with the advice and assistance of his uncle, Matthew Cartwright.

On Dec. 23, 1890, he was married to Emmie Griffith, daughter of Gen'l. John Summerfield Griffith and his wife, Emily Simpson, at the Griffith family residence on Ewing Avenue, Dallas, Texas. Subsequent to his marriage he began the study of law, while continuing to carry on his own active business and the management of his mother's affairs. Securing his license to practice law, he became associated as a partner with Allie Dashiel and Charles Crumbaugh; however he remained in the firm for only a few years.

He became mayor of Terrell, and a new water-work system was installed during his administration. He was public spirited and stood ready to help in all civic affairs. He had an unusual capacity for mastering details, and was an indefatigable worker in all of his undertakings.

In 1919 he moved with his family to Dallas, buying the Oldham residence at the corner of Beverly and Lakeside Drive; living there until the fall of 1921 when he returned to Terrell to take over the presidency of the First National Bank. He was with that institution for seven or eight years, after which time he resigned; Mr. S. J. Bass becoming President. Meanwhile he and his son, Summerfield, had become interested in the Powell oil field, so that now his interests lay in oil operations as well as farming.

From reading and travel (he was twice abroad) he acquired an international viewpoint. Indeed, few men possessed the broadness of vision distinguishing Matthew Roberts, and many beautiful things could be said commemorating his life. Intellectually, he towered above the average; morally, he was above reproach; and spiritually he possessed many rare qualities of heart.

The following quotation is I think, applicable:

"The man who takes upon himself the responsibilities of manhood, when still in the days of his youth; who bends his every effort and energy toward the accomplishment of those things which chance or inclination has placed before him, and finally triumphs over all, is far above the average individual."

The following few jokes were told so often by Matthew Roberts, that through a feeling of sentiment I wish to hand them on to his grandchildren. They have the merit of being true, that is, having really happened when he was a small boy in San Augustine. The characters were all known to him, which fact no doubt added to his appreciation and enjoyment of same.

One is about his brother Ben, (then a little fellow) and concerns precocious’business insight. His father wishing to instill a love of reading in his young son, and with the desire to encourage him to do so said:

Mr. R.—“Ben, here is a book, I'll give you 50 cents to read it.”

Ben—(Taking book and after careful examination handed it back saying): “It’s worth a dollar to read that book.”

A boy named Johnny S——for some reason once spent the night in the Roberts’ home. On coming downstairs next morning Mrs. Roberts said to him: “Good morning, Johnny,” he answered; “Why, didn’t I stay here last night?”

Two queer characters—one named Adam, and the other Dick, got into an argument which waxed hotter and hotter until

Said Dick: “Adam, you know I could kill you and they wouldn’t do a thing to me, I’se a idiot.”

Replied Adam: “Ding your soul, so could I, I’se a natural born fool myself.”

A country wedding took place near San Augustine and a crowd of town young people attended—minus invitation. They over-ran the place, and demanded “turkey,” and “more turkey,” until the host becoming exasperated shouted from the kitchen door: “Turkey’s out, more’s here than’s invited anyhow.”
Johnny S——— was sent to town with a drove of turkeys. His mother instructed him to ask $1.00 for the goblers and 75 cents for the hens; but if unable to get that much, to take 75 cents for the goblers and 50 cents for the hens. While on his way to town a prospective buyer stopped him and asked the price of his turkeys, to which inquiry he rejoined: "Well, Ma said to ask a dollar for the goblers and 75 cents for the hens, but if I couldn't get it, to take 75 cents for the goblers and 50 cents for the hens."

Old Adam S——— one day thrashed one of his children, and the child cried longer than pleased him, so

Said Adam: "Hey, what you thinkin' bout, huh?"

Child: "I ain't thinkin' 'bout nothin', Pap."

Adam: "Yes you is thinkin' 'bout somethin', you'se thinkin' 'Ding old Adam's soul,' and I'se guyin' ter whoop yer agin fer it."
Extract from letter to M. C. Roberts, from Stephen W. Blount:

Let me here recall an incident of 1863. In the certificate by X. B. DeBray, Spanish translator of the Land Office to the Old Spanish deed and translation thereof being correct,—I recall that this officer was a Confederate Brig. Gen'l in the Civil War in 1863, and was in command of a regiment of Cavalry camped during the winter about one mile West of San Augustine on the Center Road. During this time they had a big military review of about 1,000 Cavalry in the Rankin or Berry field near town. The General and his staff on this occasion, were each accompanied by a young lady, and your mother was the young lady accompanying Gen'l. DeBray. I was there as a nine year old, looking on with other hundreds at the splendid review. My sister, Mrs. Homes, accompanied the General's Chief of Staff, Captain Bloggs.

I would very much enjoy seeing your uncles Lon and Matthew, and talking over Auld Lang Syne.

Very truly,

S. W. Blount

Att. at Law
Nacogdoches, Texas

San Augustine, Texas
4-5-1921

Mrs. Matthew Roberts:

No doubt you deem me a very prompt individual in replying to your inquiries. In fact I am ashamed of myself for not replying sooner, but I tried to find out something of the family history to write, but failed, and what little I do write you is from my own knowledge.

Ben T. Roberts was one of the most intimate, and best friends I ever had. We went to school together; served together in the Civil War; and I was one of his waiters at his marriage, etc.

Quoting from your letter you say: “I have heard Mrs. Roberts speak of her cousin Maggie, whose sister married in Italy,” etc. No doubt this person Maggie, was a half-sister of Ben T. Roberts and an only child by a second marriage. Her mother was a Bate, and one of her mother’s sisters married an Italian by the name of Bartinalli, and lived at Rome. After the death of Maggie’s mother her aunt carried her to Italy, but she became dissatisfied and came back, and died in this country.

Any information I can give you will be cheerfully done, if requested.

Best regards to all,

V. D. HERBSTER,

Friends of Lieutenant Summerville Roberts in Terrell will doubtless be interested in the letters given below which recently passed between the force commander and the commander of the United States naval aviation forces in Ireland in reference to his service.

Soon after the signing of the armistice, Lieut. Roberts was detached from service at United States naval headquarters in European service and assigned to the duty mentioned in which he has been engaged for the past several months, his work carrying him to all the naval stations in Scotland and Ireland.

U. S. Naval Aviation Forces, Foreign Service U. S. Naval Air Stations, Ireland, Dublin, Ireland, June 17, 1919—From Commanding Officer to Force Commander.

1. The commanding officer takes pleasure in inviting the attention of the force commander to the excellent work of Lieutenant S. G. Roberts, F. C. U. S. Navy, during the past three months, in connection with the demobilization of the United States air stations in Ireland, especially in connection with the auction sales of all buildings and material belonging to the United States navy in Ireland.

2. As head of the supply department, Lieutenant Roberts has had most difficult and trying duties, requiring both a keen business mind and a well balanced judgment.

3. The disposal of the equipment belonging to the United States navy here in Ireland has been a big undertaking, especially by means of public auction sales. This brought us into contact with every type of business man in the British Isles. The successful consummation of the demobilization and the auction sales is due in a large measure to the untiring, faithful, keen and intelligent performance of duty of Lieutenant Roberts.

Summersfield D. Roberts
Summerfield G. Roberts of Dallas manages to engage both in the oil business and in farming. In the producing end of the oil business, he is president of the Strebor Oil Company and of the Hanover Oil Company. His farm interests are in Kaufman and Rockwall Counties.

After concluding his formal education, which included getting his A.B. degree from the University of Texas and his M.B.A. from Harvard University, Mr. Roberts began his business career with the Hanover National Bank of New York. He resigned from the New York bank in 1917 to enter the United States Navy as a lieutenant. After the war was over, he engaged in selling commercial paper in New York and Texas, and in 1922 organized a banking investment business in Dallas. It was in 1927 that Mr. Roberts entered the oil business. He has been in that business ever since.

Clubs and organizations which number Mr. Roberts among their membership include the Harvard Club of New York City, the Army and Navy Club of Washington, D.C., the Dallas Country Club, the Brook Hollow Country Club, the Dallas Athletic Club, the Idlewild Club, the Sons of the Texas Revolution, and the Dallas Petroleum Club. SUMMERFIELD G. ROBERTS' ANNIE LEE II

The craft is a forty-six-foot vessel with a twelve-foot beam and four-foot draft powered by twin, 120-horsepower heavy-duty Kermath motors and it has a cruising speed of fifteen miles per hour. The gasoline capacity is 400 gallons and the boat carried 200 gallons of fresh water. Compact and neatly arranged, the Annie Lee II has sleeping accommodations on spring beds for six persons, an electric cooking and bake oven, shower bath, radio, two large iceboxes and practically all the conveniences of a modern home.

One of the most interesting features to Mr. Roberts' guests is the Norwegian harpoon gun mounted on the bow of the boat. Last year the Dallas sportsman experienced an exceedingly rare thrill when he harpooned a 1,500-pound giant ray, which pulled the craft for five hours.

Mostly Mr. Roberts takes his guests on fishing excursions into the waters near Galveston, but occasionally makes coastwise trips, frequently going to Freeport and other Texas coast points. He has navigated from the Island City to New Orleans.

Those who have partaken of his hospitality agree there's no vacation quite like this even if the press of time necessitates a restricted length excursion.

Matthew Roberts, Jr., was graduated at the age of sixteen from T.M.C., a local military school. Thereafter he attended V.M.I., Lexington, Va.; the Texas University; and S. M. U., Dallas, Texas.

His initial venture in business was the buying and selling of cotton. He later moved to Corsicana for approximately one and one-half years, his work there being in connection with oil interests. Afterward, he bought and sold oil leases independently, and for various oil companies. Subsequently he engaged in the Insurance business in Terrell; at the same time acquiring some farms, becoming interested in experimental as well as commercial farming—which avocation is apparently inherent in the Roberts blood, having been the main pursuit in the male line, for the past five generations. At present he is engaged in farming, and manager of his father's estate; also interested with his brother Summerfield, in investments and oil operations.

Regarding his more personal life, Matthew is of a literary turn of mind;—a man of ideals, and outstanding personality. He is also a sportsman, fisherman, huntsman, and golf enthusiast; and maturity finds him in possession of those qualities synonymous with success.

Note—Two months prior to the birth of Matthew C. Roberts, Jr., his maternal grandfather, Brig. General John Summerfield Griffith, departed this life. This was the occasion for his grandmother, S. Emily Griffith coming to live with the family. Upon his birth she at once took him under her guidance and care, which proved so wise and tender that her authority was never questioned. Their mutual devotion was beautiful, and remarkable.

Original in possession of Vintie G. Roberts.

"John James Giddings, one of the five charter members of the San Antonio Odd Fellows Lodge, No. II, founded in 1849, and whose portrait will be presented to the lodge for its new building dedicated December 28, was a man whose life was filled with incidents typical of the stormy times of his day in this part of the country and throughout the newly opened West.

"Born in Susquehanna County, near Herrick, Pennsylvania, in 1821, and brought up in quiet country surroundings, John Giddings was one of four brothers whose work later was to lie in the perilous service of the government in the battle-marked Republic of Texas, and in the first attempts to open up to the people of this region the country west and north into the lower districts of Arizona. Following the career of his elder brother, Giles, who in 1835 came to Texas as a surveyor, and, becoming a member of the Texas army, was mortally wounded in the battle of San Jacinto, John Giddings determined to try his fortunes with the new republic, and in 1845 with his brother, George, entered the service of the Prince of Nassau as a civil engineer in the development of a German colony then being established in the heart of Southern Texas.

"His work lay in surveying and apportioning the lands then over-run by the Indians who resisted the white advance fiercely, and in the early life of John Giddings and his brother were crowded adventures and perils of a nature to overcome any but the bravest and most resolute. Cut off from any immediate aid with his own little party he resisted successfully the attacks of the roving tribes, and the colonization of Southern Texas, is a monument forever to his courage and perseverance. He was a man of splendid bearing, strong and resourceful. In spite of the hardships of his life in the field, he yet retained an inherited genius for organization and management and at the height of his career as an engineer, he had under his charge in the execution of his various contracts, over 70,000 men. At one time an offer of $75,000 was made him for his professional service in promoting work to cover the summer months of 1847.

In 1848 John Giddings brought to Texas as his wife, Margaret Matilda Sloan, of Bethany, Pa., and during thirteen years of a happy married life, they resided in this city. During this time he followed his profession in San Antonio and the surrounding districts and the public records of Bexar county testify his sterling work in the planning and construction of the city. Both John Giddings and his brother acquired large land and corporate interests throughout this district, the land on which the new Odd Fellows buildings stand, being at one time his property.

He was interested in the building of the Port Lavaca Railroad and many other enterprises, but no definite record of his, remains, as his papers after his death were either lost or destroyed.

In the latter years of his residence in this city, John Giddings operated an overland mail route from New Orleans into Arizona, to where the city of Tucson, is now located. It was in the inspection of this mail route, near Stein's Pass, Arizona, that John Giddings was killed during a raid of the Apache Indians, in 1861.

Five children of the union of Margaret Sloan and John Giddings are now living and are all residents of Texas: James S. Giddings of Brenham, George A. Giddings of Bracketville, W. G. Giddings and John J. Giddings of Ennis, and Mrs. Annie Giddings Brown, wife of J. M. Brown of San Antonio.

Copy in part—of Indian raid:

In 1861, when the North and the South were at war, the California owners of the stage line ordered the equipment sent to California. Jim Giddings rode on the last west-bound stage. He was said to have had in his possession approximately $30,000 of the stage coach company's money. All went well until Stein's Pass was reached. Suddenly the Indians who had been lying in wait, surrounded the vehicle. For two days according to reports which reached Tucson, the seven men in the coach fought more than 100 Indians, led by white brigands. What arms they had is not known, but with the coach for breastworks, they beat off the Indians who were armed with rifles, bows and arrows and lances, and their white leaders who were armed with carbines. For two days they fought without food or water, but finally all were killed.

A 15,000-pound block of granite marks the spot where John James Giddings fell, killed by Indians; and is a historical monument to his memory. The details of his last fight are carved upon this monument.

Educated: Terrell and A. and M. College, College Station, Texas.

Unmarried.

Occupation: Real Estate.

To Felix in his twenty-fifth year life seemed a great adventure, with the future full of promise; for he had all the high hopes and aspirations natural to his age and personality. He was cut off in the flower of youth, departing this life in the late summer of 1900.

CASTLE HALL, TERRELL LODGE NO. 5 K. OF P.

Brethren: It is with deep sadness, that we are called to mourn the loss of our much loved brother, Felix M. Roberts. Not a member of this lodge but knew him to be a tried, true, and worthy Pythian.

He loved the order and the work of the Lodge, and we all loved him, but with sad hearts we must bow in submission to the will of the Supreme Chancellor of the universe, who doeth all things well.

We must lament his untimely taking away, for indeed this brotherhood would so much have liked to have been allowed to minister to his wants during his last moments, for then we could have been more and better prepared to suffer his loss. His going was without warning to him or to us, and we realize that this is one of the causes of the deep suffering of his dear ones. It seemeth hard that our anguish must be so deep, but we must remember that our wisdom is not sufficient to allow us to complain. Therefore we seek comfort in the knowledge that time will heal all our wounds.

Resolved, That this lodge tender sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family.

Respectfully submitted,

ADMIRERS of Gen. Sam Houston's Monument may well wonder how the portrayal so thoroughly captures the spirit of Texas independence. A complete understanding is possible when you know something of the famous artist who painted the canvas, Texas-born Seymour Thomas.

A childhood steeped in the lore of the Texas Revolution was the background which gave impetus to the strokes of the artist's brush as he painted the heroic commander of the Texas Army, depicting him as Houston, the Texas Declaration of Independence.

The hero of San Jacinto, as depicted by Thomas, catches the spirit of the Texas hero.

Houston was Thomas' childhood hero and I, as a personal friend of the artist for more than 20 years, suspect that the general has remained so to this day.

Young Thomas started drawing at the age of 6 or 7 and, when he was 16, exhibited one of his paintings at the Cotton Centennial in New Orleans. His next work was a portrait of Oran M. Roberts, governor of Texas from 1879 to 1883.

At 17, the young artist went to New York to study there, and two years later went to Paris. Enrolled at the Academie Julian, he soon attracted the attention of an eminent French portrait painter, Benjamin Constant, who took the youth under his wing.

Then followed a few years of scraping to "get by" until, in 1892, his first painting was accepted by the Paris Salon. The work, "Victime Innocente," created a sensation in art circles over half of Europe and even in America. On the strength of it, he was admitted into the Royal Academy of London, which accepted his "Portrait of Grace Bigelow."

That honor brought him recognition in the American "Who's Who"—at the age of 24. "Victime Innocente," a battle scene showing a mortally wounded young "sister of charity," supported by an older nun, while a military doctor renders aid. A wounded soldier gravely watches.

"Victime Innocente" set the young American artist's foot solidly on the first rung of the ladder of fame. The painting brought many commissions and enabled him to marry Miss Helen Haskell, a member of a prominent San Francisco family and a fellow art student in Paris.

During their Parisian days, she had served as one of his volunteer models, and she continued this throughout her entire married life as shown by the numerous paintings he made of her.

All Europe, and especially France, was most generous to the young Texas artist. The French Salon accepted Thomas' paintings for 20 years in succession, a rare achievement. The salon bestowed upon him all the honors, medals and diplomas at its disposal, including three highly prized "gold medals."

The year 1892, which had seen the young artist start upward, also was the year the Sam Houston painting was born.

"It was started," Thomas wrote me sometime ago, "in a spirit of youthful enthusiasm for the hero of Texas whose exploits had been related to me since early childhood."

Shortly after its completion the portrait was sent to America and exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair of 1893. In 1904, while occupying a place of honor at the French Salon, Parisians referred to the masterpiece as "Le Formidable Curson." At the close of the exhibition the painting went back to Thomas' Paris studio, where it remained for the next 16 years.

Shortly after World War I, the artist returned to America to continue his work. In 1920, when Seymour Thomas and his wife moved to California, they to the city which was named after the hero of San Jacinto. The painting was officially accepted by Mayor A. J. Amerman and the City Council on January 17, 1921.

Although Mr. Thomas planned to retire several times, especially after the death of his wife in 1942, both he and his friends have refused to let him do so. Today, at the age of 82, the famed artist remains active and his past six months, completed several projects.
Thomas Family

Benjamin Thomas

Benjamin Thomas pioneered to Texas about 1820 or '21. His wife was Mary Turner, and their family consisted of the following children:

- Polly Ann m. unmarried
- Garey m.
- Theresa m. George Bloomfield
- Wiley m. Julia Smith
- Jackson m. Constance Keyser
- Margaret m. Elias K. Davis
- Theophilus m. Susan Winn
- Shadrach D. m. Polly Brown
- Iredel D. m. Penelope Edwards
- Maria m. Noel Gill Roberts

"Another family which came to this section about that time was that of Benjamin Thomas. The family tradition is that he was descended from one of three brothers who came to this country late in the eighteenth century. Benjamin Thomas and Elijah Price, who had married his kinswoman, went to Alabama, and after a short stay Mr. Thomas came to Texas. The year of his arrival is uncertain, but it would probably be about 1821. He settled on the place about six miles west of town which he afterwards occupied until his death. Three of his sons, Shadrach D., Iredel D. and Theophilus, and two daughters, Mrs. E. K. Davis and Mrs. Noel G. Roberts, left numerous descendants, and the family connection is now, perhaps, the largest in the country." (great-grandfather of M. C. Roberts).

"Two Centuries in East Texas," pp. 83-84

Shadrach D. Thomas

"The first Sheriff succeeding S. S. Davis was Shadrach D. Thomas, son of the old pioneer Benjamin Thomas. Mr. Thomas became Sheriff in 1847 and was reelected except for one term for ten years. He was a tall angular man, of undoubted courage, but peaceable and quiet in his demeanor, and seldom carried firearms of any kind in the discharge of his duties. It is said that, on two occasions he arrested desperate men who had defied the law, without the aid of arms and paroled them upon their honor to appear in court, and that their word of parole was strictly observed."

"Two Centuries in East Texas," p. 214
STEPHEN SEYMOUR THOMAS.

Mr. Thomas, who is better known to the circle of friends as "Tom," was born in the United States. He has been a student of the art world of Europe as soon as he was old enough to leave home. He is a portrait painter, and has employed for his brushes.
IREDEL D. THOMAS

I. D. THOMAS, the son of Benjamin Thomas and the brother of Maria Thomas, came to Texas a few years later than his father, arriving about the year 1825. He was born in North Carolina in 1805 and named for Governor Iredel of that state.

"He became one of the greatest merchants of his day and time. His store covered half a block and he was one of the first men to have an idea of a department store. He had a storeroom with the dry goods and notions; one for shoes and hats; one for hardware; one for groceries; and had his own drug store. A planter could come to town and get everything he needed from him, and it was not uncommon for them to buy two to three thousand dollars' worth at the time. He was a planter as well as a merchant and owned three plantations and 150 negroes, and had his own gin and grist mill."

"Two Centuries in East Texas," p. 218

SEYMOUR THOMAS

(James Edward, Iredel, Benjamin)

SEYMOUR THOMAS, is the son of James Edward Thomas and his wife, Mary Blount, and was born in San Augustine where he was reared. He studied art abroad and has become one of the world's famous portrait painters. He makes his home in Paris, France, where he won distinguished honors. He painted the portrait of Sam Houston, which now hangs in the Library in Houston, Texas; which portrays him on horseback, with hand upraised in command.

"Mr. Thomas, who is better known to the stellar as "Toma," was born in San Augustine, August 20, 1868. Now at 37 years of age, he is a knight of the Legion of Honor, recognized in the art world of Europe as one of the most talented of living portrait painters, and finds employment for his brush at princely prices. In the picture shown above, the portrait represents Mrs. J. C. O'Conner, of Paris, France, formerly of Dallas, Texas."

Copy from the DALLAS NEWS, October 1, 1905.

Seymour Thomas painted "Innocent Victim," which was exhibited at the St. Louis World Fair.
Benjamin Thomas was the maternal great-grandfather of Matthew C. Roberts.

Maria (Thomas) Roberts was the grandmother of M. C. R.
Benjamin Thomas Roberts was his father.

Matthew C. Roberts is second cousin to Seymore Thomas, as seen by table below.

Benjamin Thomas Roberts and James Edward Thomas were first cousins (being the sons of Iredel and Maria Thomas who were brother and sister); therefore their respective children are second cousins.

In "Heroes of San Jacinto," there is mentioned another Benjamin Thomas. What the relationship between the two Benjamin Thomas' is, I am unable to state. Perhaps it is that of nephew and uncle; at any rate the younger Benjamin who was born in 1806 was about the same age of Iredel Thomas, the son of the elder Benjamin.

"Benjamin Thomas, born in South Carolina in 1806. Emigrated to Texas in 1823 and settled in Ayish bayou, present San Augustine.

Service record: No. 1515 shows that Mr. Thomas served in Captain Kimbre's company from March 16 to June 16, 1836, but on Jan. 17, 1839 he was married at Nacogdoches to Martha Engledow, of that place. Thomas later moved to San Augustine, and died there in 1891. He was a member of the Texas Veterans Association."

RELATION OF THE TUCKER FAMILY TO THE ROBERTS FAMILY

was married first, to Maria Roberts, and after her death to Elizabeth Roberts; both daughters of Noel G. Roberts, and sisters of Benjamin T. Roberts. The children therefore of Dr. Tucker and Benjamin T. Roberts, are first cousins.

Dr. Tucker and his family were early residents of San Augustine, and the next door neighbors of B. T. Roberts. The children of the respective families were like brothers.

Francis Hal Tucker, Jr.,
the son of Dr. F. H. Tucker and his wife Elizabeth Roberts, was born and raised in San Augustine. He moved to Nacogdoches and is a prominent and respected citizen there. He is Vice-President of the Commercial State Bank, the largest bank in that city, and the oldest bank in Nacogdoches County.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

Dated—May 8, 1844
Filed—Dec. 30, 1844

Elisha Roberts

Recorded in Vol. 1., page 554, Book of Wills, San Augustine County, Texas.

THE REPUBLIC OF TEXAS
SAN AUGUSTINE COUNTY

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS: That I, Elisha Roberts, of the County and Republic aforesaid, being advanced in age and drawing near the close of life and being desirous of appointing the manner in which my Estate shall be disbursed after my death, do freely, unrestrained and solemnly declare the following written declaration, to be my last Will and Testament to wit:

First of all, I consign my soul to the disposition of a Merciful Providence.

2nd. It is my will and desire that William D. Smith, Philip A.
Sublett, Noel G. Roberts, and Felix G. Roberts, shall act as my Executors, and see that my will as hereinafter expressed shall be executed according to the letter and spirit thereof.

3rd. It is my will and my desire that all of my just debts and liabilities shall be paid and discharged out of such portion of my Estate as my paid Executors, or a majority of them, shall think best for the interest of all the legatees hereinafter named.

4th. It is my will and my desire in case Martha, my wife, shall survive and outlive me, that my said Executors or a majority of them shall make such provision for her out of my estate as shall be satisfactory to her, provided the amount so set apart for her shall not exceed the amount to which she is entitled by law.

5th. Whereas, Easter Jane Sublett, Margaret McDonald, Noel
G. Roberts, and Felix G. Roberts have already secured from me to-wit: Easter Sublett two hundred dollars in cash, Margaret Mc-Donald one small negro girl, Noel G. Roberts one small negro boy and one hundred and twenty-four acres of land worth seven dollars and fifty cents per acre, and Felix G. Roberts, one small negro girl, one thousand dollars in cash and one hundred twenty-four acres of land worth seven dollars and a half per acre, over and above what I have advanced to the rest of my children hereinafter named. It is therefore my will and desire, that before there is any division of my estate or property whatever, that each one of my children who have not received the same number of slaves as Margaret, Noel, and Felix, shall have one as near the same value as can be had, as those received as aforesaid, by the said Margaret, Noel, and Felix. And it is my further will and desire that all my children before any other division of my property is made than such as is already mentioned, shall draw a sufficient portion of personal property or slaves as they may think proper, at a fair cash valuation as shall be equal to the aforesaid Thousand Dollars already advanced to my son Felix, the said Easter Jane accounting to the estate for the said Two Hundred Dollars advanced to her as aforesaid, and as to the aforesaid land already advanced to Noel and Felix, it is my will and desire that they shall account to the Estate in the general distribution of my lands as hereinafter expressed.

6th. It is my will and desire that all the slaves of which I may be possessed at my death, except such as may be withdrawn by some of my children to make their portion equal to those to whom I have already made the aforesaid advances, and except such as may be set apart by my said Executors as aforesaid for my wife, shall be divided into lots or parcels as nearly equal in value as possible, and that all of my children to wit: Ann Doughtery, Elizabeth Smith, Easter Jane Sublett, Matilda Allen, Noel G. Roberts, Mahala Sharp, Felix G. Roberts, and Margaret McDonald, shall cast lots in a manner to be prescribed by my said Executors or a majority of them, for first, second, and third choice and so on—of said lots or parcels of slaves, which lots or parcels of slaves shall be so arranged by my said Executors or a majority of them, so as to make as equal a distribution of my negroes according to their value among my children, as named in this Will, as can conveniently be done without exposing any of said negroes to public sale.

7th. It is my will and desire that all the lands of which I may be the owner at my death, except such as may be set apart by my Executors for my wife as aforesaid, and except such as hereinafter definitely disposed of, shall be divided into small tracts or parcels, and each tract or parcel after being so divided, valued according to its cash value, and that all of my children herein named shall draw lots for the same, so as to cause as equal a distribution of the same according to value, as can be conveniently made without any of the same for public sale. Noel and Felix accounting to the estate in the distribution of lands for those which they have already received as aforesaid.

8th. It is my will and desire that Matilda Allen shall have five hundred acres of land where she now lives, to be run off as my said Executors or a majority of them shall think proper, and to be valued as though there were no improvements upon the same, and for the value of which she is to account in the general distribution of my lands as aforesaid.

9th. It is my will and desire, that all the perishable property of which I may be possessed at my death, except such as may be set apart as aforesaid by my Executors for my wife, and except such as may be withdrawn by some of my children to make their portions equal to those to whom I have already made the aforesaid advances, shall be equally divided among all of my children herein named in such manner as my said Executors, or a majority of them, shall think less expensive and most to the interest of all of my children.

10th. It is my will and desire that Mahala Sharp shall have as much of the land whereon she now lives as she may think proper to take, to be run off in a square or oblong, provided she accounts to the Estate in the general distribution of my lands as aforesaid for the same at one dollar per acre.

11th. It is my will and desire that any advancement whether in money or property which I may hereafter make previous to my death to any of my children, shall after my death be by them accounted for in the general distribution of my whole estate, in the same kind of property (or money as the case may be) which I may so advance.

12. Whereas, I consider that I have already given equal portions of property to all of my children herein named, except the distinction already mentioned in regard to Easter, Margaret, Noel, and Felix. It is therefore my will and desire that there is no other difference made in the general distribution of my whole estate among my children, than what is herein expressly made.

13th. It is my will and desire that this my last Will and Testament, shall be sealed up and deposited in the office of the Probate Court of San Augustine county, and that it shall there remain so sealed up until after my death.

14th. In case any of my children herein named should die before myself, it is my will and desire, that the property herein provided for them descend to their children or heirs as the case may be.

The words "worth seven dollars and a half per acre," and the words "shall draw lots for the same," were interlined before the signing thereof.

Given under my hand and seal in the presence of Asher Mitchell, William C. Edwards, and Henry W. Sublett, all of whom are subscribing witnesses at my special request this 8th day of May, 1844.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF SAN AUGUSTINE

Before me, F. H. Dixon, Clerk of the County Court in and for said County, personally appeared Wm. C. Roberts, to me well known and acknowledged that he signed, sealed, and delivered the foregoing Deed for the consideration and premises therein stated.

To certify which witness my hand and seal of the County Court at San Augustine, Texas, Sept. 6th, 1866,

T. H. Dixon, C. C. C., Sa. C.
Know all Men by These Present

That I, M. C. Roberts, Sr., of the County of Kaufman, and State of Texas, being in good health, and of sound and disposing mind and memory, do make and publish this my last Will and Testament, hereby revoking any and all other Wills heretofore made by me.

First

I direct that all my just debts shall be paid out of my Estate by my Executors to be hereinafter appointed. These debts to be paid as soon as possible consistent with the good judgment of my Executors and the interest of my Estate.

Second

I give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Emmie G. Roberts, our home at 606 Griffith Avenue, Terrell, Texas, where we now reside, and all the household and kitchen furniture and furnishings of every kind all Silver-ware, Diamonds, and Jewelry, Automobiles and everything appertaining to our home. No further provision is made under this Will for my beloved wife, since she has a separate Estate and interest in our Community Estate, ample for her financial needs and she desires that my Estate be given to our children.

Third

I give, devise, and bequeath all the rest and residue of the Estate, both real and personal, separate or Community Estate, I may own or be interested in at the time of my death to Emmie G. Roberts my wife, Summerfield G. Roberts, Matthew C. Roberts, Jr., and my daughter Emily R. Cartwright as Trustees, for the benefit of my five beloved children, viz: Summerfield G. Roberts, Emily R. Cartwright, Annie Ruth Rash, Matthew C. Roberts, Jr., and Ione R. Patton, and I hereby will and direct that none of my said Estate, or the increase, income, or proceeds thereof or therefrom, nor the equitable title therein, shall, while the corpus or legal title thereof, or thereto, is so held in trust, ever to be subject to or in any manner subjected to any indebtedness judgments, judicial process, claim, bill, attachment, garnishment, execution, receivership, charge, levy, seizure, or any incumbrance whatsoever, of or against said property during said Trust: nor be in any manner affected by any transfer, assignment, conveyance, sale, incumbrance, account, omission, or mishap, voluntary or involuntary, anticipatory, or otherwise; and none of my said children shall have the right or power to transfer, assign, convey, sell, or incumber the same, or any part thereof, except the Trustees herein named, and only on the conditions set forth.

Fourth

(a) For a period of twenty-five years, to hold, manage, control, collect the rents and revenues therefrom, paying taxes, and keeping all property in proper repair, and insured against loss by fire, as they deem advisable, and to partition and distribute the remaining proceeds and income from said property and Estate, between my said beloved children, Summerfield G. Roberts, Emily R. Cartwright, Annie Ruth Rash, Matthew C. Roberts, Jr., and Ione R. Patton, share and share alike, that shall be in their hands as Trustees, at and before the end of each calendar year; and my said Trustees are authorized to make any reasonable advancements to any of my said children at any time during the year that they may deem advisable or necessary, not exceeding their anticipated interest in that year's income, exercising proper discretion; and any advancement made to either of them during the year, shall be charged against each of them receiving such advancement during the year, on the final settlement at the end of each calendar year. My said Trustees are requested to render at the end of each calendar year a full statement showing receipts as income for said year, from said Trust Estate and disbursements made, property sold, and reinvested according to the terms of this Will.

(b) That my said Trustees shall have power to hire a Farm Manager and to incur such other expenses as they deem necessary or advisable to properly look after; repair, and improve such farm property as in their discretion is necessary to be done; or if my Executors deem it advisable, one of my said Trustees named may act in management of the farming interest of the Trust Estate, and receive such salary therefor as my said Executors and Trustees may deem proper.

(c) That my said Trustees shall have power in their discretion to sell any farm, unimproved property, or City property belonging to the Trust Estate, and to reinvest the proceeds of any property sold in Real Estate First Mortgage Bonds or Preferred Stock, or State, County or Municipal Bonds of and in the United States of America, or otherwise as hereinafter provided, hereby giving my said Trustees authority to execute such deeds, conveyances, receipts, releases, and acquittances, as are necessary in properly carrying out this Trust to the best advantage of my said Estate; and that it shall be in the power and discretion of my Trustees, should they deem it to the best interest and welfare of the Trust Estate, to sell or improve any farm property, or unimproved lands, or City property; to sell and make conveyances to oil leases, mineral rights, oil royalties, or any other property, both real and personal of any character I may own, and to make partition of any execute Deeds of Partition, in division of any property owned by me jointly with other persons, when they deem it to the interest of the Trust Estate to do so.

(d) It being understood that proceeds of any property, real or personal, of the Trust Estate sold, shall be reinvested, at the discretion of my Trustees, in Farm land, in improved revenue-bearing business property in Terrell or Dallas, Texas, or in Real Estate First Mortgages, or Preferred Stocks and First Mortgage Bonds of Electric Power and Light Utility Companies, or State, County, or Municipal Bonds located in the United States, or in the capital stock of one or more leading Banks in Dallas, Texas, or in the Common Stocks of the leading industrial, Public Utility, or Oil Companies of the United States of America, these Companies to have large capitalization and be of the highest rating and leaders of the industry. However in no event shall any investment of funds of the Trust Estate be invested in the stock of any enterprise or stock that is purely speculative. It is my desire, and I do hereby direct, that in investing the funds of this Trust Estate, no more than $5,000.00 shall be invested in any Company or Security in accordance with this Will unless all of my Trustees and Executors concur and agree to such investment.

(e) That as early as it is deemed practical and advisable, my said Trustees, out of the properties or out of the funds of the Estate, from whatever source received, shall make up to any one or more of my said children any deficit in advancements heretofore made to them, and in making such settlement of advances, my record of advances to each as shown by Advancement Book compiled and by ledger accounts kept by me for that purpose in my files, shall be deemed as final and accepted as correct, it being my purpose and desire that each of my said children, their husbands or wives or children or legal representatives of any character, who contest the correctness of my Advancement Account with them, or see fit to contest this Will, then they thereby shall absolutely and automatically forfeit all rights to share under this Will in all of the interest in my Estate or benefits conferred on them under the provisions of this Will.

(f) Should any of my said children depart this life before the expiration of this Trust, then the payment of said rents and revenues shall continue in behalf of his or her child or children during the remainder of the Trust period, operating in like manner for their children, but should any deceased child have no children surviving then the Trust shall terminate as to that child and all the rents and revenues thereafter shall be paid to the surviving children and their heirs, as per stirpes, during the remainder of this Trust; that in case of death of either of my said heirs or heiress under this Will, leaving a child or children, then my Trustees in their own discretion shall pay over to said child or children, or for them, to such persons they deem best to be appointed as Guardian for the welfare, upkeep, and education of such child or children, the income to which such child or children are entitled under this Will, to the end and purposes that such child or children shall receive the benefits of this Trust, for their care and education, in case their surviving parent might marry again, and fail to expend the revenue to which the child or children are entitled for their education; child or children, which excludes adopted child or children.

(g) At the end of such Trust period, my Trustees are directed to deliver, pay over, and convey all of the property remaining in Trust, to my five beloved children; viz: Summerfield G. Roberts, Emily R. Cartwright, Annie Ruth Rash, Matthew C. Roberts, Jr., and Ione R. Patton, share and share alike; and in the event that one or more of my said children shall depart this life before the termination of this Trust without child or children then my surviving children shall receive all said Trust Estate, share and share alike; but in the event that any of my children shall die before the termination of this Trust, and leave child or children,—then such child or children shall take that portion of said Trust Estate that their parent would be entitled to if living; that is to say that my children and grandchildren shall take as per stirpes giving my said Trustees full power to divide, partition, and settle my Estate at the termination of this Trust.

(h) My said Trustees are to have and to exercise all powers and rights consistent with the foregoing whether above mentioned or not, which said Trustees could exercise if they were the owners in fee simple of both the legal and equitable title in such Trust Estate; and no Bond shall be required of them or either of them as said Trustees, and should any one of said Trustees fail to qualify then the other three shall have power to act in all things, and should a vacancy occur by death, resignation, or otherwise, then, the three Trustees remaining shall have full power and authority to act in all things; that should there be only two Trustees left, vacancies having been caused by death, resignation, or otherwise, then in that event, it is my Will and I so direct that the First National Bank of Dallas, Texas, shall act as Trustee of my said Estate, jointly with the surviving and remaining Trustees heretofore appointed; that should there be for any reason only one of the original Trustees left to act as Trustee of my said Estate, then the remaining living Trustee and the said First National Bank of Dallas, Texas, shall act as Trustee during the remaining period of this Trust; and in case of death or resignation of all the original Trustees, then the First National Bank, of Dallas, Texas, shall act as sole Trustee for the remaining period of the Trust.

(i) That at the end of ten years of the term of this Trust that in case my Trustees herein named may deem it to the best interest and welfare of the Beneficiaries under this Will and Trust to do so, to pay over to each Beneficiary the sum of Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars, out of the Trust Estate, from funds derived by sale of any of the property of the Trust Estate, in their hands sufficient for distribution, this provision shall not be considered mandatory, but wholly in the discretion of my Trustees in this regard.

(j) I can foresee no want of full accord and final unity of opinion and action of my Trustees in carrying out this Trust under the terms of this Will, but that such possibility may be forestalled, I desire that in case of disagreement between my Trustees, that approval of any action in question by three out of four where there are remaining four Trustees acting, or two out of three, where there may remain three Trustees acting, shall govern in the conduct of affairs of the Trust Estate, and execution of the powers and duties of my said Trustees; but in event there should remain only two Trustees, they of course shall act in full accord.

(k) The immoluments and fees of my said Executors and Trustees to recompense them for their time and service in carrying out the terms of this will and Trust, they shall receive the following fees, to-wit; Five, (5) per cent of all rents and revenue received; five per cent in all expenditures made in the repair, preservation, and upkeep of the Estate; five per cent on all sales of Real Estate of whatsoever character; one (1) percent on all investment made of funds of the Estate made under the provisions of this Will.

(l) My said Executors and Trustees shall pay Thirty and no-00 ($30.00) Dollars per month to my sister, Annie R. Hinton, during her lifetime, and shall reconvey to her the one-half interest to which I have title in the property occupied by her in Grandview Addition in El Paso, Texas, which title I now hold in Trust for her, subject to a debt of about One Thousand ($1000.00) Dollars, to be assumed by her or her heirs, in such reconveyance of title; and deliver over to her the 1078 Share Certificate Stock in Oakwood Realty Company, which I hold in Trust for her upon payment by her or her account on my ledger, or on her account with me to be found in my files.

FIFTH

I hereby nominate and appoint the said Emmie G. Roberts, my wife, Summerfield G. Roberts, Matthew C. Roberts, Jr., and Emily R. Cartwright Executors of this my last Will and Testament, and direct that my Estate be administered by them under the Trust above mentioned, and that no Bond be required of them, either as Trustees or Executors, and that no other action shall be had in the County Court, in the settlement of my Estate, than to probate and record this Will, and to return an inventory and appraisement of my Estate and a list of Claims.

SIXTH

If for any reason Summerfield G. Roberts, Matthew C. Roberts, Jr., Emily R. Cartwright, or Emmie G. Roberts, shall fail or refuse to qualify as Executors of this Will, then the other three may act and exercise all the powers of Executors of my Will and Estate; and if for any reason, the number of my Executors may be reduced to two, then in that event, I appoint the First National Bank of Dallas, Texas, as joint Executor with the remaining two Executors, who shall have full authority to exercise all powers of my Executors and Trustees under this my Will; and if for any reason only one of the original Executors are left to carry out the terms of this Will, then I nominate and appoint the First National Bank of Dallas, Texas, joint Executor and Trustee with the surviving original Trustee and Executor to have all the powers vested in the four Executors and Trustees originally named. In the event of the death, or resignation, or failure to qualify of all of the original four Executors and Trustees, I direct the First National Bank of Dallas, Texas, shall be appointed sole Trustee and Executor for benefit of my beneficiaries under this my last Will and Testament and have all authority and necessary powers to administer this my last Will and Testament.

The Coat of Arms borne by the GRIFFITH FAMILY is that borne by Sir Henry Griffith, of Burton Agnes, County York, who was created a baronet in 1627.
Griffith

“The history of the Griffiths of Wales forms an exciting review of the feudal splendor of Griffith, Prince of Wales, but that history is too voluminous for quotations here. Their descendants in Maryland—as will be seen—fought as valiantly for American independence, as did their sires in Wales.”

“Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties,” p. 347.

“The author has endeavored to bring from out of the past the remembrance of those whose blood flows in his veins, not with any vain-glorious idea of showing a long line of noble ancestors, but with the intent of knowing to whom he is related, and showing the interlacing and weaving in of the Griffith family, with the families of other names.

“The surname of the family, ‘Griffith,’ is said to be derived from the Welsh word Gryffydd, usually given as a baptismal or Christian name, signifying ‘Great Faith.’ And from the preamble of the Wills of some of the principal members of the family, faith in the future seems to have been a distinguishing characteristic.

“Some of the family were men of more than ordinary ability, engaged in public affairs, and several of them were soldiers of the Revolution.” - - “The records of the Parishes of St. Ann, St. Margaret Westminster, All Hallows, St. James and Queen Caroline, where the names of some of them are enrolled, show that they led useful lives, and were interested not only in temporal but also spiritual affairs.”

“Griffith Genealogy,” pp. 5-6-7, Introduction by R. R. Griffith.

GRIFFITH FAMILY AND ARMS

Gave Many Soldiers To Their Country—Letters From Readers Giving and Asking Information

By Emily Emerson Lantz

Arms—Gu. on fesse dancette ar. between six lions ramp, or, three martlets ss.

There is a current saying in Maryland that the Griffith Family contributed more soldiers to the War of the American Revolution than any other family in the State, and no one familiar with the records of the Griffith family, would question that statement. Like the Father of their Country they were indeed first in war, and like him, they equally welcomed piping times of peace and a return to the agricultural life whose plowshares they had dropped to grasp the sword.

A beautiful monument of Carrara marble, erected not long since at Laytonsville, Montgomery County, Md., by Mr. Romulus Griffith, 1529 McCulloch street, commemorates services rendered during the Revolutionary struggle by that gentleman’s ancestors. As Mr. Griffith’s wife was also his relative, the monument is in fact, a memorial to the ancestors of both. It is a shaft over ten feet in height, of classic simplicity, the only ornamentation being beautifully chiseled swords, 30 inches in length, which are in relief on two sides of the obelisk. The inscriptions on the monument are:

HENRY GRIFFITH OF ORLANDO

Born February 14, 1720
Died September 28, 1794
Member of the Lower House of the Colonial Assembly for Anne Arundel County, 1772-75
Member of the Convention of Maryland that Assembled July 26, 1775, at Annapolis, Md., and Formed the Association of the Freemen of Maryland.

MAJOR PHILEMON GRIFFITH OF H.

Born August 29, 1756
Died April 29, 1838
Captain of Rifles at Fort Washington; taken prisoner November 16, 1776, commissioned Major December 10, 1776.

CAPTAIN SAMUEL GRIFFITH OF H.

Born May 7, 1752
Died May 12, 1833
Commissioned Captain Third Maryland Regulars, Continental Army, December 10, 1776.

Mr. Romulus R. Griffith erected the monument as a memorial to his own great-great-grandfather, Henry Griffith of Orlando, who was also the great-grandfather of his wife, Mrs. Alverda Griffith; and to Major Philemon Griffith and Capt. Samuel Griffith, her two grandfathers. The relationship between Mrs. Alverda Griffith, deceased, and her husband was unique. Mr. Griffith was descended from Hon. Henry Griffith by his first wife, Elizabeth Dorsey, and Mrs. Griffith whose maiden name was the same as her name after marriage, was descended from Hon. Henry Griffith by his second wife, Ruth Hammond. Mr. Griffith was one of those who sailed in 1849 for California. He went by the ship Jane Parker, commanded by Captain Jordan, which was the second vessel to sail from Baltimore in January, 1849. The young seeker after gold was made deputy sheriff of Santa Cruz County, California, before he was 20 years old. Those were the early days of the vigilance committee of San Francisco, and Mr. Griffith, though not one of the committee, saw the first four men hanged by that organization, in its determination to preserve law and order.

Mr. Griffith’s brother, Mr. William Griffith, was twice President of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, in Baltimore; and his wife, Mrs. Alverda Griffith, was one of the charter members of the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The history of the Griffith family in Maryland shows a long and honorable record of service to country and State, unsullied by a single blot upon the escutcheon. Some of the family were men of more than ordinary ability, engaged in public affairs to the credit of their name. They wielded swords of steel with no-faltering hand in the cause of national freedom; and the sword of the spirit with equal earnestness. Many names are honorably associated with military service, and an equal number are recorded as having entered holy orders. Many gallant fighters held the office of vestryman, or warden in the parishes where they resided, while Rev. Alfred Griffith, son of Captain Samuel Griffith, was chaplain of the senate of Maryland.

The surname of the family is said to be derived from the Welsh word Gryffydd, usually given as a baptismal or Christian name, signifying “great faith.” The annals of the family tend to show that the lives associated with the name, were governed by a simple confidence in Divine Providence that manifested itself in heroic, but unostentatious performance of the duty nearest to hand, leaving future results to a higher power, with full faith that all things work together for the ultimate good.

Concerning the military men, Captain Samuel Griffith was attached to the command of General Lafayette, and fought with him at the battles of Germantown and Brandywine. Captain Griffith’s company of 90 men, formed at one time part of the command selected to storm a “chevaux de frise” erected by the enemy. They were driven back with terrible disaster, his command of 90 men being reduced to 16 able to answer roll call. When Lafayette visited Annapolis in 1825, his old companion in arms was among those who assembled to greet him, and the two old men were so carried back to the scenes of their young manhood, that they rushed into each others arms and wept like children.

Another brave soldier was Major Greenberry Griffith, who commanded the Alexandria Artillery in the War of 1812. His wife, Prudence Jones, was the daughter of Charles Jones, of Ireland, who raised a brigade and fought in the American cause. Major Griffith fought at the battle of White House, Va., under Commodore Porter. When the British effected a landing at that place he commanded a battery of artillery. During the engagement a cannon ball from one of the English gun-boats struck the ground just in front of where he was standing, tearing away the earth from beneath him, and making a deep excavation into which he fell. His men rushed forward believing him to have been killed, but he arose quickly and exclaiming “I'm all right boys; give it to them again!”—renewed the fight. With such an example his men fought with great bravery until their ammunition was gone and they were forced to retire.

The Hon. Howard Griffith, of Montgomery County, was the worthy son of Major Greenberry Griffith and his fair wife “Mistress Prue.” Prominent in local politics, the Hon. Howard Griffith was from 1852 to 1856, one of the commissioners of his county. He was a member of the State Legislature in 1860-61, the majority of whose members were arrested by order of the Federal authorities during the called session of the Legislature at Frederick city. He escaped arrest by having been home on a visit, where he wisely returned when he heard of the fate of his fellow-members. He was chosen to the House of Delegates in 1876, and returned to the session of 1878. He was married in 1847 to Miss Sarah Chiswell, and their children were: (a) Charles G. (b) William T. (c) Georgia and (d) Julia.

The HON. HENRY GRIFFITH, son of Orlando and Katherine Howard Griffith, some of whose deeds were recorded on the monument at Laytonsville, married first: Elizabeth Dorsey, and second Ruth Hammond. He was tobacco inspector in Queen Caroline’s Parish, Anne Arundel county, and one of the commissioners at the formation of Montgomery county. He was a vestryman and qualified as Registrar of Queen Caroline Parish; also a commissioner of Peace, and one of the committee of Observation appointed at a meeting of the inhabitants of Frederick county (1775) to carry the resolves of the American Congress and Provincial Convention, into execution. He was also one of the Justices of Montgomery county who formed the County Court at the first organization of the State Government in 1777. His other notable deeds are recorded upon the monument.

Colonel Philemon Griffith, son of Henry and Ruth Hammond Griffith, entered the Continental Army in 1776 as a volunteer Lieutenant in Captain Price's Rifle Company. He was quartered first in the Jerseys, next in Boston and finally ordered to Long Island. He was Captain of the Third Company of Rifles of Colonel Rawlings' regiment at Fort Washington, and was taken prisoner with other officers and men, at the reduction of that post by the British troops in 1776. He was promoted to be a major in the same year and was given in 1777 in exchange for prisoners. The rank of Colonel, was conferred on him subsequent to the Revolution, by the Governor of Maryland.

The daughters of the house of Griffith appear, not unnaturally, to have attracted as lovers, men equally fearless on the field of battle, as their fathers and brothers. Ann Griffith, youngest daughter of Joshua and Ann Griffith, married Captain Edward Spurrer, of the Continental Army whose term of service was seven years. Captain Spurrer was also a member of the Society of the Cincinnati, of Maryland. Ann's eldest sister, Rachel Griffith, married in 1752, John Sprigg Belt, Captain of the Fourth Company, First Regiment of the Maryland Line. His term of service was seven years, and he too was a member of the Society of the Cincinnati of Maryland.

Henry Griffith of Montgomery County, son of Henry and Mary Griffith, married Lucretia Ober, a descendant of Dr. Samuel Tenney, who joined the Continental Army the day of the battle of Bunker Hill in the capacity of surgeon, and served as a Representative in Congress from 1800 to 1807.

Sarah Ann Griffith, daughter of Israel and Sarah Ann Griffith, married Joseph H. Ruddach, who was First Lieutenant of the Chesapeake Riflemen, Company F of the Mexican War.
The late Capt. Festus Griffith was born in Montgomery County in 1838, but came to Baltimore in his early manhood and was associated with the firm of T. W. and G. Hopkins until the outbreak of the Civil War, when he went to Harpers Ferry, Va., and joined Gen'l James R. Herbert's company of Confederate troops. He was immediately transferred by Stonewall Jackson to Leesburg, Va., to assist in drilling and disciplining the companies of the Eighth Virginia Infantry, commanded by Col. Eppa Hunton. Just before the battle of Manassas, Mr. Griffith was elected Second Lieutenant of Company H of that command, engaging in the battle of Manassas, the battle of Ball's Bluff, the siege of Yorktown, the battle of Williamsburg, and at Seven Pines, and in the Seven Days Fight around Richmond, being promoted to Captaincy while at Yorktown. In the second battle of Manassas he was wounded. After the war Captain Griffith went to Texas where he remained four years, and was active in public affairs. Later he returned to Maryland where he engaged in agricultural pursuits. His wife was Miss Avolina Riggs, daughter of Elisha Riggs of Montgomery county.

Capt. Festus Griffith had three brothers, also of Montgomery county, who served with distinction in the Confederate Army. They were: Captain Thomas Griffith, Lieutenant Frank Griffith, and David Griffith who served in the ranks. They were all members of Company A., First Maryland Cavalry. The father of these four warrior sons, was Thomas Griffith of Montgomery county.

Ridgely Brown, son of Amos and Sarah Ridgely (Griffith) Brown, was Lieutenant Colonel commanding the First Maryland Cavalry, Confederate States of America, Army of Northern Virginia, and was killed June 1, 1864, near Ashland, Va., in a skirmish with Sheridan's Cavalry.

Lieut. Charles Griffith, born Dec. 16, 1758, son of Henry and Ruth (Hammond) Griffith, had an interesting and checkered career. He was Second Lieutenant of the Seventh Company, Third Battalion of Regulars, Continental Army of March 27, 1777. He was captured by the British during the War of the Revolution, but was released in an exchange of prisoners. Lieutenant Griffith then embraced the life of a sailor, was captured by Algerian pirates and sold as a slave to the Turks, from whom he made his escape and returned to the United States. He was absent from home for so many years, that he had been given up for dead, and his father had died meanwhile, in that belief. Lieutenant Griffith's own death was most peculiar. After escaping the hands of so many enemies, he died from the effects of a fall from an upper window, through which he walked in a fit of somnambulism, to which affliction he was subject. (Charles, p. 187.)

Joshua Griffith, of Anne Arundel County, son of Orlando and Katherine Howard Griffith, married Ann Hall, in 1758.

William Griffith, born in Anne Arundel County in 1697, was the youngest son of William and Sarah (Maccubbin) Griffith. He married prior to 1720, a lady with the charming name of Comfort Duvall, daughter of John and Elizabeth Jones Duvall, of Anne Arundel. William Griffith removed to Frederick County, Maryland, near the Catoctin Mountains. He was appointed by Gov. Samuel Ogle, commissioner of Peace for Frederick County, in 1748. A bit of county record is interesting: "The first regular session of the County Court convened March 21, 1749, with Daniel Duleney, Chief Justice and the following justices of the peace: Henry Monday, John Rawlings, Thomas Beatty, Joseph Chaplin, Nathaniel Wickham, Jr., William Griffith, Thomas Prather, Thomas Cressp, and George Gordon. The Thomas Cressp, here mentioned, is probably Colonel Thomas Cressp, or Cressop, the original patentee of Skipton-On-Cravan, an estate of some 476 acres lying along the Antietam, near Hagerstown, much of which is now in the possession of Mr. George Frederick Ziegler, of Greencastle, Pa., who still calls one of the farms on the estate, Cressp, after the original owner.

William Griffith was one of a committee of three in charge of letting the contract for the building of the courthouse at Frederick in 1750. This building remained until the building of the second one in 1785.

A descendant of the Griffith family, Mary A. Stewart, married Judge Chapman J. Stuart, one of the most distinguished men of Virginia. Judge Stuart was selected in 1861, to attend the Convention at Richmond from the district composed of the counties of Doddridge, Harrison, Ritchie, and Wood. He was a member of the Convention that framed the State Constitution in 1862, and was elected Judge of the Fourth West Virginia Judicial Circuit in 1863. He was a member of the Legislature twice, and was in the service of the Federal Government during the Civil War, as Lieutenant-Colonel of the Fourteenth West Virginia Infantry.

Louis Phillippe Griffith, of New York, son of Howard Jr., and Ruth Griffith, married Matilda Rader, and is President of the Association of the Descendants of the Defenders of Baltimore in the War of 1812 and 1814.

Mr. Frederick Griffith Tilton, a nephew of Mr. Romulus R. Griffith Jr., 1529 McCulloch street, has the distinction of being the first male child born of American parentage at Calcutta, East India. His father, Mr. Frederick Augustus Tilton, was a merchant of Calcutta. The latter died at sea in 1866 near the coast of Arabia, and was buried in the Indian Ocean.

Mr. Harry Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Andrews, of Cincinnati, was born in 1849, and was United States Consul at Hankow, China. Mr. Edward William Andrews, younger brother of Mr. Harry Andrews, was president of the State Bank of Olympia, Washington.

Among other distinguished men of the family, were COLONEL CHARLES GREENBERRY GRIFFITH, youngest son of Orlando and Katherine Howard Griffith, who was Colonel of the First Battalion Flying Camp, 1776, Continental Army. He was one of the committee of Observation appointed at a meeting of the inhabitants of Frederick County, January 24, 1775, to carry the resolves of the American Congress, and the Provincial Convention into execution. Also Joshua Warfield Riggs, Confederate States Army of the Maryland Line and Mosby’s Partisan Rangers; Hon. Howard Griffith, of Beelsville, Md.; Col. James M. Holmes; Capt. Richard Crabb; Hon. David Griffith, Confederate States Army, and Judge of the Orphans’ Court of Montgomery County; JOHN SUMMERFIELD GRIFFITH, who was born in Montgomery County in 1829 and removed to Oak Cliff, Dallas, Texas, where in 1861 he was Lieutenant Colonel (Rockwall in 1861) commanding the Sixth Texas Cavalry Confederate States Army; Col. Lyde Griffith, of Montgomery County, and Captain Thomas Griffith.

Among clergymen descended from Orlando and Katherine Howard Griffith, have been REV. WALTER GRIFFITH of Montgomery County and Neville, Ohio; Rev. Alfred Griffith of Alexandria, Va., not be some frequentist or von Mises definition of randomness. The concept of randomness is often discussed in terms of probability and statistical properties. If a sequence of events is random, then it should exhibit certain statistical properties, such as independence and uniform distribution. However, the definition of randomness is not always straightforward, and there are different approaches to its study. Some definitions of randomness are based on the idea of unpredictability, while others focus on the lack of patterns or regularities in the sequence of events. In the context of computer science and information theory, randomness is often studied in terms of its computational complexity and its role in various algorithms and applications. The concept of randomness is also used to describe the behavior of systems, such as physical systems, that are influenced by random forces. In this context, randomness can be seen as a fundamental property of the system, rather than a property of the events themselves. Overall, the study of randomness is a complex and multidisciplinary field, with applications in a wide range of areas, from physics and biology to computer science and economics.
who was admitted to the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at its session in 1806, and remained a member of it until his death—a period of more than 65 years. The Coat of Arms borne by the Griffith family is that borne by Sir Henry Griffith, of Burton Agnes, County York, who was created a baronet in 1627. The latter's daughter and eventual heiress was Frances, who married Sir Matthew Boynton, of Boynton and Barnston, baronet.

The Griffith family in Maryland is descended from WILLIAM GRIFFITH of London, who came to the United States about 1675 and settled as a planter on the Severn River, in Anne Arundel County, Province of Maryland. He married Sarah Maccubbin, and their children were: (1) Orlando, (2) Sophie, (3) Charles, (4) William.

Such names as Judge Brice, John Goldsborough occur, and others of the Goldsborough family. There are also the Worthingtons, the Snowdons, the Crowells, Wrights, Wylies, Whites, Wheats, Riggs, Howards, Ridgelys, McKims, Halls, Warfields, and others.

Virginia Revolutionary soldiers:

David Griffith, Regimental Surgeon State Line for three years. Virginia County Records.

Information given by Annie Lee W. Roberts.
William Griffith came to Maryland in 1675.

William Griffith took for his wife a daughter of another distinguished house in Scotland. She was Sarah Mackubin, daughter of John Mackubin, who came from the Lowlands, and claimed descent from the McAlpines, of the Highlands who go back to Kenneth II, the first King of Scotland. The issue of that marriage were Orlando, Captain Charles, William and Sophia who married Benjamin Duval, youngest son of Mareen the Huguenot.

Orlando Griffith followed the tide of western settlers to Huntington. His homestead was later transferred to the Whites; it borders on Snowdon’s “Summer Hill,” lately owned by Major Powell, of Annapolis Junction.

Orlando Griffith married at thirty, Katherine, only daughter of Captain John Howard by Katherine, widow of Henry Ridgely, and daughter of Colonel Nicholas Greenberry. She inherited “Howard’s Luck,” at Huntington. Orlando Griffith became in 1728, a member of the vestry of Queen Caroline Parish, occupying pew No. 8 with Captain John Howard and Nicholas Dorsey, his neighbor. “Griffith’s Adventure,” was his survey. It was upon a draft of the Patapsco; upon this he placed his sons Joshua, Benjamin, Orlando, and Charles Greenberry Griffith.

Hon. Henry Griffith, eldest son and executor of Orlando, took up lands in both Howard and Montgomery; he was Tobacco Inspector, Commissioner in the formation of Montgomery, Register of Queen Caroline Parish, Commissioner of Peace, Member of the Colonial Assembly from Frederick County, upon the Committee of Observation for Frederick County, member of the Convention which formed the Association of “Freemen of Maryland,” and one of the Justices in the organization of Montgomery County, in 1777.

He married first, Elizabeth Dorsey (of Edward and Sarah Todd), and had issue, Sarah, m. Rezin Todd; Rachel, m. Samuel Welsh; Ruth, Amos Riggs, and Colonel Henry Griffith; who was one of the Committee of Observation for Frederick County, to carry out the Resolves of the Provincial Convention. He (Colonel Henry) resided upon “Hammond’s Great Branch” near Laurel, and married first, Sarah Warfield (of John and Rachel (Dorsey) Warfield, of Warfield’s Range; issue, Henry, Allen, Nicholas, Elizabeth, Henrietta Griffith; Colonel Henry married second, Sarah Davis (of Thomas) and had Thomas Griffith, who held the old homestead, which has only recently passed from the family. Colonel Henry Griffith’s descendants by Sarah Warfield located upon “Griffith’s Range,” in the neighborhood of Unity and Laytonville, and they still hold their greatly improved estates.

Hon. Henry Griffith married second, Ruth Hammond, daughter of John and Ann (Dorsey) Hammond, and became joint executor of John Hammond’s estate. Their issue were Captain Samuel Griffith, John Hammond Griffith, Colonel Philemon Griffith, Lieutenant Charles Griffith, Joshua Griffith, and several daughters.

From the home of Hon. Henry Griffith, who later located on the road leading from Unity to Damascus, went to, and returned from the Revolution three colonel’s, one captain, one lieutenant, one ensign, and one “high private.”

The old dilapidated roadside house of Captain Samuel Griffith, who took his first wife, Rachel, from “Warfield Range,” may still be seen, deserted. Near by is the home of one of their descendants who sent four more sons to a later war.

Captain Samuel Griffith and his brother, Colonel Philemon Griffith, were both in the disastrous campaign of the North. At Germantown, or Brandywine, with General LaFayette, Captain Samuel led a company of ninety men in storming a “Chevaux de Frieze” and came out with sixteen. When LaFayette was given an ovation in Annapolis in 1825 these old heroes met, embraced, and shed tears.

Captain Griffith was twice married; first to Rachel Warfield (of John), and second to Ruth Berry (of Richard and Sarah Dorsey); many of his descendants are scattered in every State; one daughter, Ruth, remained to guard the old home. The writer stood within that old unpretentious roadside homestead when many of its descendants were then at the front; still later, she too, had gone: its lights were out; its old hero sleeping near by, had heard not the war-cry, for he and his brothers had answered their last call.

Pictures of both Captain Samuel and his brother, Colonel Philemon, are to be seen at Messrs. Gustavus Warfield's and Alfred Matthew's, at Glenwood; both exhibit striking features, which show the sterling characters of these old heroes we now love to honor.

Greenberry Griffith (of Orlando) inherited "Ward's Care," and "Howard's Luck;" he married Ruth Riggs, his neighbor, of "Riggs Hills;" he was warden and vestryman of Queen Caroline Parish, and upon the Committee of Observation for Frederick County in 1775. His son, Hezekiah m. Catherine Warfield (of Axel); their son, John Riggs Griffith m. Sarah Tracy, whose daughter, Rebecca m. William Davis, parents of Eldred Griffith Davis, Collector of Taxes, Washington, D. C., and his sisters, Mrs. Dickinson and Mrs. Clark.

Sarah Griffith (of Orlando) m. Colonel Nicholas Dorsey: Lucretia m. Caleb Davis.

Joshua Griffith was Deputy Surveyor in 1759 and Tobacco Inspector at Elk Ridge Landing; by his wife, Ann Hall, their son was Dennis Griffith. He was a lieutenant in the Continental Army, and surveyed the State of Maryland in 1794; he published a map of the State which is still extant. He was also a vestryman in Queen Caroline Parish and a delegate to the Episcopal Convention; he married, Elizabeth, daughter of Greenberry and Lucy (Stringer) Ridgely. Their son Stephen, was in the United States Army.

Rachel Griffith m. Henry Gassaway, son of Brice John.

Elizabeth Greenberry Griffith m. Reverend Ethan Allen.

Rachel Griffith (of Joshua) m. John Spring Belt, Captain of Fourth Company, First Regiment Maryland Line; he was member of the Society of the Cincinnati.

Benjamin Griffith (of Orlando) was Tobacco Inspector in Queen Caroline Parish in 1762, during which time he was Church Warden. After 1772 he removed to the neighborhood of Poplar Springs, Maryland. He married Mary Riggs, daughter of John and Mary Davis. Their daughter Ann m. Aquilla Dorsey: Mary m. Richard Stringer.

Colonel Charles Greenberry Griffith, youngest son of Orlando, was Colonel of First Baltimore Flying Camp, 1776. He married Sarah Ridgely, daughter of Colonel Henry and Elizabeth (Warfield Ridgely. Their daughter, Elizabeth m. General Jeremiah Crabb, of Fourth Battalion in Continental Army, Brigadier-General of Militia 1794, Representative in Congress in 1795-96.

Captain Charles Griffith (of William) of South River, left a record of his family in which he recorded the births and deaths of his “daughters.” He lived on the north side of South River within six miles of Annapolis. He outlived his two wives over thirty-eight years, dying in his seventy-eight year, and was recorded as Captain Charles Griffith. He married first, Mrs. Mary Mercer (nee Wolden), and had William, Charles, and Mary Griffith. He married again in 1727 Catherine Baldwin, daughter of John Baldwin, and Hester (Larkin) Nicholson, his wife.

The issue of his first wife were:

William Griffith m. Priscilla Ridgely and lived near the head of the Severn in 1752; Charles Griffith, Jr. m. Ann Davidge (of Robert and Rachel (Warfield) Davidge, and lived near Stoner’s Mill, Anne Arundel County. He inherited “Griffith’s Island,” on the Severn. His daughter, Eleanor Griffith m. Vachel Warfield, son of Samuel, and lived at Crown Point, now Portland, Anne Arundel County; issue, Vachel, Jr., m. Achsah Marriott; William m. Sarah Jane Merryman; Henrietta m. Joshua Marriott.

Sarah Griffith (of Charles, Jr.) m. John Boone, son of Captain John.

Mary Griffith (of Captain Charles and Mary) m. Joseph White, who bought of Mrs. Henry Ridgely a portion of “Wincopin Neck.”

John Griffith (of Captain Charles and Catherine Baldwin) m. widow of Benjamin William, who later became the wife of Thomas Rutland.

John Griffith’s estate was on the Severn.

Sarah Griffith’s (of Captain Charles and Catherine) m. Azel Warfield, son of Alexander and Dinah Davidge.

Catherine Griffith m. Colonel Nicholas Worthington.

William Griffith, youngest son of William and Sarah Mackubin, removed to the Catoctin Mountains and became Commissioner and Justice of Frederick County.

He married Comfort Duval, daughter of Captain John and Elizabeth (Jones) Duval, of Anne Arundel, and granddaughter of Mareen Duval.

Mr. R. R. Griffith
Baltimore, Md.

Dear Sir:

When I met you in the city of Baltimore some three or four weeks ago, I chanced to mention one or two incidents in connection with the history of your relative and my Paternal Grandfather, Captain Samuel Griffith, formerly of Montgomery County, State of Maryland. You were aware that he was an active participant in the War of '76. I have often heard him relate, when I was a boy, incidents connected with his army life. He was attached to the corps, or command of Gen'l LaFayette, and was with him at the battles of Germantown and Brandywine, in one of which, he was wounded—do not remember which—or the order of precedence,—of course the last one fought was the one in which he was wounded. Have heard him relate that his company of 90 men, formed part of the command selected to storm a "Chevaux d'frise," erected by the enemy, they were driven back by terrible disaster, his company of 90 men being reduced to 16, able to answer to Roll Call. This wonderful reduction in number showed the desperate character of the assault made upon the works of the enemy.

Have often heard him express his admiration of the character of LaFayette. When LaFayette visited the United States in 1825, I was a school boy at St. Johns College, Annapolis. The State Legislature being in session, the Govr. of the State invited LaFayette to visit the old city rendered historic by its having been at one time, the seat of the "Continental Congress;"—which was accepted. My father, the Rev. Alfred Griffith, was at that time Chaplain of the Senate, knowing his father's regard for the old Commander, he sent for him to come to Annapolis to again greet his old companion in Arms. Although but a small boy, some twelve years of age, the grand Pageant of the reception still rises fresh in my memory. The carpeted walks leading to the Capitol, from the base of the Hill to the old and stately building crowning its summit; on either side of the avenue leading to the grand colonnaded entrance stood beautiful children—principally girls, clad in white and crowned with flowers, whilst in their hands they carried bouquets and baskets of flowers. And, as the old Hero, supported on the one hand by his son, and staff; on the other by the Governor and State officials, advanced up the improvised isle, the children broke into one grand Chorus, of "Hail to the Chief," strewing the whole pathway with Flowers, under the old Colonnade. Fronting the doorway stood on one side the Members of the House of Representatives, on the other side, the State Senators. Having attained the floor of the Portico, the General was introduced to the members of both Houses.
After a formal reception, the members resumed their positions, whilst prominent citizens pressed forward, to be presented by the Governor, and then my Grand Father, the Governor on his presentation recalling to the General's mind, the battles in which he had fought, in a moment the two old men, as if carried back to the scenes of their young manhood, rushed into each other's arms and wept, like two children. This scene, whilst it affected all who witnessed it, made an impression on my young mind, which can never be erased. In after years I mentioned it to my Grand Father, and reference to it always excited strong emotion in him."

DR. GRIFFITH'S LONG LIFE CLOSED

CAME TO TEXAS NINE DAYS AFTER THE BATTLE OF SAN JACINTO—HEARD WEBSTER SPEAK, AND SAW LAFAYETTE

Terrell, Kaufman County, Dec. 21.—Another one of the old Texas Pioneers is gone. Dr. L. E. Griffith died here this morning at half past two o'clock. He was born at Clarksburg, Md., Jan. 9, 1813. Was a fellow student of David S. Kaufman, at Dickson college, Pennsylvania, where he graduated. He then studied medicine at the University of Maryland and was made an M. D. in 1833.

He arrived in Texas in 1836, nine days after the battle of San Jacinto was fought, and since that time up to a few years ago has taken an active part in all public affairs of the state.

He was United States surgeon at San Antonio in 1846, and has resided in Red River, Sabine, Nacogdoches, and Kaufman counties. He was physician and warm personal friend of Sam Houston and was intimately associated with Rusk, Henderson, Ochiltree, Three-Legged Willie, and others.

He had a remarkable memory, possessed rare literary attainments and his accurate relation of personal reminiscences of these pioneers and others prominent in Texas history often afforded entertainment and instruction to his hearers. He had been a regular subscriber to The News for a quarter of a century, and in this, his 84th year, had it read to him daily, and remembered accurately all reports of home and foreign affairs.

He also witnessed some great national events. He heard Daniel Webster delivered one of his famous speeches in New York City and witnessed the public demonstration given Gen'l LaFayette at Annapolis in 1825, the following of which is his own description:

"When LaFayette visited the United States in 1825, I was a school boy at St. John's College, Annapolis. The state legislature being in session, the Governor of the state invited LaFayette ... etc."

 NOTE: The following is from a newspaper article by Alf Morris.

From scrapbook of Janie Belle Griffith Nicholson.

"L. E. Griffith, Jr., was one of nature's noblemen. His character was a peculiar combination of strength, power, and gentleness. He was in love with nature, life, and everything beautiful, and his every motive and ambition was prompted by a genuine love of his fellow man. While a man of large affairs, he was never too busy to interest himself in the hopes and plans of those less fortunately situated, and that makes his loss to the community so poignant. Perhaps it is a better thought that the temple of his life was completed; that the workmanship was masterly; and that the completed edifice is a tower of love, and a beacon of affection."

Drue Edward Nicholson, 16, Star Scout of Terrell, used his knowledge of first aid when his sister, Nadine, 4, was injured by a fall through a window. Attending physicians, who took thirteen stitches in the child's head, credited Drue with saving her life when, according to Scout rules, he quieted her, held a bandage to the wound, but not being able to compress it because of broken glass in it, and seeking medical aid before attempting to get in touch with his parents who were away from home. Drue did not leave his little patient, but called physicians. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Nicholson of Terrell.—Dallas News, Sunday, Nov. 5, 1933.

He has just been made a Life Member of Boy Scouts—1938.

Note: Excerpts from a newspaper article in possession of Janie Belle (Griffith) Nicholson, a granddaughter of Major J. S. Grinnan, written by T. B. Griffith.

“Although Texas claimed Major Grinnan, he was a Virginian by birth; born near the historic town of Culpepper, Jan. 2, 1883. He was the son of William S. Grinnan and Mary Elizabeth Welch. His father was married twice, the first time to Miss Shephard, a niece of President Madison, to which union were born two sons, James and Shephard, and one daughter, Frances. To his second wife, Mary Elizabeth, were born eight sons and one daughter, Mary E. Grinnan Nelson, of Culpepper, Va., being the sole remaining representative of the family. Three of Major Grinnan’s brothers gave their lives a willing sacrifice for the South and her rights.

“In 1860, even before the Confederacy was organized, James S. Grinnan, as a private soldier joined the Culpepper minute men; a company in which his grandfather served with distinction in the Revolutionary war, and was with his fearless commander, Stonewall Jackson, at Harper’s Ferry. He also served under J. E. B. Stuart. After Stuart’s death, he was appointed by the Secretary of the Confederacy, Colonel Crump, receiving the endorsement of the Confederate congress to a position in the secret service; it being his duty to keep open communication between Lee’s army and the Trans-Mississippi department; acting as messenger, financial and confidential agent in touch and communication with the army and cabinet of the Confederacy. In the discharge of these duties he made thirteen trips across the Mississippi river and back, making twenty-six trips in all, carrying money and dispatches from Mr. Davis’ headquarters. He also made two trips through Texas and Mexico.

“At the time of the surrender he was on his way to Mexico, but went to New York and sailed for Europe where he remained eight months.
His keen business foresight early after hostilities opened, caused him to remove the earnings of his young manhood from the dangers and uncertainties of his surroundings, to the Bank of England, and it was primarily for this—that he might watch developments in the first days of reconstruction. On his trips through Texas, with an eye which looked ahead, he foresaw the great possibilities of the Lone Star State, and on his return from Europe he located in Tyler, Texas, and went into business with his brother, Welch Grinnan. In 1868 he moved to Jeff-ferson, Texas, going into business with Mr. Wayland. In 1872 he moved to Galveston, Texas, engaged in the banking and cotton commission business; the firm being known as Grinnan and Duval. In 1878 he moved to Terrell, where he has since resided.

“A great advocate of free education, he was foremost in the organization of the Terrell public school, and was president of the first board.
It was perhaps through his individual efforts more than to any other, that Terrell secured the location of the North Texas Hospital for the Insane, serving on the board of directors of that institution through the Ireland, Ross, Culberson, and Sayers’ administrations. . . . His zeal and enthusiasm and intelligent public effort, has done more for the advancement of this community than perhaps any other citizen.
Always liberal and generous, responding promptly to every public need, the result of his efforts in behalf of Terrell, stand out as a fitting monument to a man whose life has left its impress upon the community in which he lived and moved. He was a man known throughout the state, respected and revered as he was at home . . .

“To Major Grinnan and Belzora Ham, whom he married in Tyler, Texas, in 1868 were born nine children: Libbie (Mrs. L. E. Griffiths, Jr.) who died in 1899; James S. Grinnan, Jr., Lucile (Mrs. W. Id.
Lyon); Frederick Ham, who died in 1904; Helen Benners, who died in 1904; Belle Shortridge, Louis Porter, and Kate Nadine.”

On board St. boate Cuba

Inclination would prompt us my dear Cousin to call and see you as we pass, but its probable we may not have it in our power — My husband (your brother Michael) My four children and myself are on our way to St. Louis. We left Mothers yesterday week — all was well. Berry accompanied us as far as Frederick. O, it was a bitter parting with my relatives and your relatives, but on that head I must be silent or I shall not be able to write.

We came in opposition to all your Friends, Cousin Alfred, Israel, and every member of the family bitterly opposed Mr. Griffith in the attempt — but convinced it was better for his children, would push on in fact Maryland is nearly (exhausted?) a man may struggle all his life and be no better off at the end, than when he commenced, as for Montgomery we could do nothing on earth there. Whether we can do better in Missouri, I know not but so it is we are resolved on making the trial.

Our little boat is heavily loaded consequently we travel slowly — We have only nine in family, only three of us old enough to take care of the others. Our eldest son, Crabb has been ill on board with the croupe, we shall stop a day or two at Louisville untill our baggage arrives, and recruit ourselves.

Cousin Phil sold his farme and was determined on accompany us, but on hearing of * * * then threw up the bargain and gave up for this season. I could not persuade my Sister to go on, believing it to be a hazardous undertaking. Thought I would try it myself first. My sister, Matilda Lackland with her Husband, Niece and two sons went on a year since, they advise us strongly to come on. I think Jefferson will be on ere many years with his family. I saw Hitty Matthews and children at Mothers the day before we started. Mr. Griffith went to see Sally I — adieu for the present, my children require constant attention. My respects to Mr. Cleneay and all the family, you must receive this as its intended pure good will, and of course make allowances for the jostling of the boat, affectionately

Your friend and relation,
Lydia R. Griffith

NOTE: The paper on which this letter was written, was folded so as to form an envelope. It was addressed to Mrs. Mary Cleneay, Point Pleasant, Ohio, and postmarked Cincinnati.

His parents immigrated from Maryland to Missouri in 1834, when he was nine years of age. After a stay of five years they proceeded on to Texas and there located in the town of San Augustine.

Like many of his forebears he was imbued with the spirit of the pioneer in great measure. When the gold-rush of 1849 was on, he hastened to the fields of California; however, before reaching his objective, many hardships were endured by him and his party, they being twice lost in the Rockies and forced for a time to subsist on snake and mule meat. In this and subsequent adventures, he was subjected to such experiences as try the hearts of men and prove their mettle. Arriving at his destination, he not only prospected for gold, but also opened up a general merchandise store which he operated to considerable advantage.

On his return to Texas he entered the mercantile business at Farmersville; and later in Terrell. He also did a large cattle business.

Captain Jeremiah Crabb Griffith, was a veteran of the Mexican war; also served in the Civil War, and was mustered out as Captain. He was a man of rugged nature—fearless and courageous.

His death occurred in his eighty-seventh year; leaving a wife, two sons, and two daughters. Grace (Price) Griffith, was born Sept. 4, 1946, and died April 20, 1926.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN J. C. AND JOHN S. GRIFFITH
note—of an amusing incident:
Capt. J. Crabb Griffith had for neighbor Frank Griffith, a cousin. Both were inveterate jokers, there being a continuous cross-fire of pranks between them. Captain Frank was a collector of cactus, considered an authority on such matters, and proud of it. With this in mind Captain Crabb proceeded to kill an opossum, take it home and “plant” it in his garden. With the stage thus properly set he hastened to his cousin and said, “Frank, come over to my place and have a look at a new cactus I’ve found; I’ve never seen anything like it, and I want your opinion of it.” So they went to inspect this find. Captain Frank examined it most carefully, stated that it was indeed a rare variety, and identified it by name. This was, of course, just what he was waiting for, so said Captain Crabb: “Yes, you’re right, Frank, it is indeed a rare cactus and it has the most amazing root that I ever saw,” and with that he caught hold of the “cactus,” gave a pull and up came the opossum!

The story goes that the Captain retreated, covered with confusion.

GEN'L JOHN SUMMERFIELD GRIFFITH, and SARAH EMILY SIMPSON, his wife
John Summerfield Griffith, the son of Michael Berry Griffith and his wife, Lydia Ridgely Crabb, was born: June 17, 1829, in Montgomery County, Maryland. Died: Aug. 6, 1901, Terrell, Texas. Married: Sarah Emily Simpson. Date—Dec. 18, 1850, at Nacogdoches, Texas.

John Summerfield Griffith was descended from a long line of illustrious ancestors, the first of whom to emigrate to this country was William Griffith, of London, England, who settled on the Severn River in Anne Arundel County, Maryland, in 1675. The Colonial records bear witness that these early Griffiths led useful and active lives.

William’s son, Orlando, was a Vestryman; the Hon. Henry Griffith (son of Orlando) was a member of the Colonial Assembly in 1773-4-5. Captain Samuel, (son of Henry) figured in the war of the American Revolution in the battles of Germantown and Brandywine. The son of Samuel, was Michael Berry Griffith, who in turn was the father of John Summerfield Griffith.

The parents of John Summerfield removed to Missouri in 1834. Five years later when he was a lad of ten, they moved on to Texas, and settled in San Augustine in the year 1839. It was after his marriage to Sarah Emily Simpson, of Nacogdoches, that he moved to Dallas, to Rockwall, and later to Terrell. He pioneered in the raising of cotton, and the planting of Irish potatoes in this part of the state.

He served as Representative in the 10th, and 15th, Legislatures, and was called “Watch Dog” of the Public Treasury; and became chairman of the committee on Military Affairs.

He served on Board of Directors of Hospital for the Insane located at Terrell, during the administration of Dr. D. R. Wallace, of Waco, Texas. At an earlier date, he engaged in the mercantile business with his brother, J. C. Griffith; and later operated extensively in farming and cattle raising.
It might be said that he amassed three fortunes during his life-time. Having lost everything as result of the Civil War, he engineered the sale of bois d'arc seed (for hedges and wind-breaks) in the East; netting enough profit in one year to lay the foundation of a second fortune. Later, during the depression of 1893 when the boom in Dallas real estate collapsed, he stood to lose everything; but again he was able to recoup his fortunes. These experiences in the business life of Gen'l Griffith are revealing, and should stand as an inspiration to succeeding generations, pointing—as they do—to the truth, that courage and ability, given effort and perseverance, make the opportunity which leads to success.

Sarah Emily Simpson, wife of John Summerfield Griffith, was a daughter of John Jordan Simpson and his wife, Jane Mercer Brooks. born: Nov. 28, 1832 died: Dec. 31, 1913.

War Record

At outbreak of the Civil War, he entered service as Capt., under Colonel Warren B. Stone.
He was promoted to Lieut. Col., commanding the 6th Texas Cavalry, C.S.A.
He was appointed Brig. General State Troops, by Gov. Murrah.
He reported for duty to General Ben McCulloch.
He marched to the relief of General Cooper.
He attacked General Washburn, near Oakland on the Charleston road, and turned him back, thus enabling Gen'l Van Dorn to save all his stores and reach Granada. His brigade at this engagement consisted of: the Legion; the 3rd and 6th Cavalry; and McNutt's small battery of guns.
At the battle of Chustenahlah, his horse was shot from under him, and a bullet pierced his hat. He commanded a brigade at the Holly Springs Raid.
The following quotations are from "Ross' Texas Brigade," Published by Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky., 1881.

"By his consummate address on the hardly-contested field of Oakland, and as the central figure of the Holly Springs campaign, he gave ample evidence that he possesses, in a pre-eminent degree, those lofty, necessary qualities that can only fit a man for command in battle. General Griffith was more than a dashing cavalryman, for his analytical mind penetrated far beyond the immediate shock of battle, and took in the salient features of the campaign as a whole. It was he who conceived that master stroke of policy, and was the most efficient agent of its execution—‘the Holly Springs Raid.’ He saved the army of Pemberton, indubitably, by the movement; and, consequently, delayed the fall of Vicksburg, by many months. On the field of Oakland, he performed for the army, duties of scarce less vital importance."

[It was at Holly Springs that Gen’l Grant is thought to have escaped capture by minutes, as presumably he escaped through rear of house while Col. Griffith’s men were being refused entrance from the front. No mention is made of this incident in following quotation as its truth was never verified; only believed:]

"Colonel Griffith sent guards, to arrest all officers, domiciled in houses, and the house occupied by Mrs. Grant, at which were several of the General’s staff. Griffith detailed ten men in the special charge of Col. Boggess, as a guarantee that the ladies would be treated with deference and respect. But a few minutes had elapsed when a messenger from Boggess announced to Col. Griffith that three ladies denied him entrance to the house. Griffith repaired to the scene immediately, when Col. Boggess exclaimed: ‘I cannot execute your orders without the exercise of violence to the ladies.’ Mrs. Grant stepping forward said: ‘And you, sir, make war upon women, do you?’ ‘On the contrary, madam,’ replied the knightly Griffith, ‘we leave that to our enemies.’ But the ladies continued to ‘hold the fort,’ so Griffith addressing the soldiers said: ‘Men, offer no rudeness to the ladies, but if they will not allow you to pass through the gate, tear off a picket from the fence and flank them; if you are denied admittance at the door, go around and find ingress at the window. You must search the house for concealed prisoners, but do not touch the hem of the garment of one of these ladies.’ The men commenced tearing off pickets to the right and left of the gate when Mrs. Grant relented and politely invited them to enter, at the same time protesting that there were no men in the house. One officer was found in the house.”

“Colonel Griffith, as elsewhere stated, commanded the Texas Brigade in this, perhaps most remarkable campaign of the war, and was second to no officer in the corps in contributing to its unparallel success.”

“General Griffith is no less a gentleman of letters and culture, than of action on the field, and he would grace any civil position in the state, that he would consent to occupy, with profit to the people and honor to the office. His friend, the author, looks forward to his civil preferment with happy anticipation; knowing full well that Texas has no truer son upon whom she could confer her honors in part com-ensation for the arduous service that he rendered her on distant fields, which made the name of Texan glorious.”

LETTER

That the service of General Griffith was of the highest order during his military activity, is attested by the following letter from General W. H. Jackson, upon the retirement of General Griffith from the Confederate Army:

“Headquarters First Cavalry Corps,
Springhill, Tenn., May 8, 1863.

Lieut.-Colonel J. S. Griffith:
Colonel,—Permit me to offer the testimonial of my high appreciation of you as a gallant, competent, and meritorious officer of unexceptional moral character. It affords me great pleasure to refer to the valuable service rendered by your command at Oakland, Mississippi, in repulsing, and routing, a superior force of the enemy, advancing upon Granada, and thereby saving our retreating army; also the gallant and signal service of yourself, while we were together, and commanding separate brigades, on the raid to Holly Springs and West Tennessee. Please accept the assurances of my highest consideration, and with many regrets that your continued ill-health compels you to leave the corps, and a wish that you may soon regain your health sufficiently to enter the service again.

I remain, very respectfully,
W. H. JACKSON.
Brigadier-General Commanding
Cavalry Corps.”

JOHN SUMMERFIELD GRIFFITH

“In that galaxy of brilliant stars whose effulgence yet lights the memory of the long struggle between the North and the South, none shines brighter or with a steadier glow, than that consecrated to the name and fame of John Summerfield Griffith. Where gallant soldiers contended for the plaudits of fame and when individual heroism was the daily rule, it would seem invidious to make distinctions. But all the honors that are due to this gifted son of Texas may well be accorded to him—with disparagement to none.” His personality represented a man of unselfish characteristics, of patriotic impulses, and a brave commander and a sagacious military counselor. He lacked, it is true, the strength of body to endure the prolonged hardships of war, and he resigned his commission at the moment of his greatest success and brightest plans, and the courage, and audacity for their execution. He was the central figure in many of the leading activities of the war, and gave to the South a service that none of her sons could excel in patriotism and gallantry.

Gen. John Summerfield Griffith was born in Montgomery County, Maryland, on June 17th, 1829, and is a son of Michael B. Griffith, and a grandson of Captain Samuel Griffith of the Revolutionary army, and is a lineal descendant of Llewellyn ap Griffith of Wales. Michael B. Griffith devoted himself to mercantile pursuits for the most part, but misfortune pursued him and he was reduced greatly from affluence to almost indigency by the time he reached Texas. He left Maryland in 1834, stopped in Jefferson City, Missouri; thence to Portland, Missouri, and at both these points his funds were steadily dissipated. When he reached Texas in 1839 he possessed only a thousand dollars. He settled in San Augustine, and there the three sons and three daughters of the family grew up. Mr. Griffith married Miss Lydia Crabb, a daughter of Elizabeth and Jeremiah Crabb. She was a lady of rare attainments and dominating her were those qualities needed for the rearing of a family in adversity on the frontier. Her culture and accomplishments were not mere outward show, but were a part of herself, and were stamped indelibly upon her children. Her hopeful view of things under dark and foreboding conditions, was a strong factor in surmounting the many obstacles the family encountered in those lean years, and to her many excellent qualities General Griffith attributes whatever success in life he has achieved.

John Summerfield Griffith received his education chiefly in the home of his parents, and he entered life with a knowledge of the English branches equal to an ordinary school education of today. In 1850, he became a clerk in San Augustine, and the next year he engaged in business for himself at that place, borrowed capital making possible the adventure. He prospered—to state the matter briefly—and in 1859 he moved to Kaufman county, there established himself in merchandise at Rockwall, and identified himself with the livestock industry as well. He continued in active business until the opening of the war in 1861, when he sprang to the defense of the Confederacy, becoming Captain of Company B. of the Sixth Texas Cavalry, commanded by Colonel Warren B. Stone. His company was raised at Rockwall and was tendered to Colonel Greer of the Third Texas Cavalry but was declined, although the Colonel offered to bear the expenses of the company for three months, on condition of acceptance. Upon the organization of the Sixth Regiment, Colonel Griffith’s company was accepted, and he was elected Lieutenant-Colonel of the organization. The first real engagement occurred with Federal Indians at Chustenahalah, where Colonel Griffith was in command of the battalion of his regiment. Colonel McIntosh placed the Sixth on the right of the line and ordered its commander to await further orders, but seeing the opportune moment for striking the enemy, he moved his troops against the enemy without orders, charged over a deep gulch, and was the first man to engage the Indians in a hand-to-hand encounter with pistol and sabre. Three times this charge was repeated by Colonel Griffith before the stubborn enemy fled the field, and an inventory of his own casualties showed the Colonel to have received a blow on the head from an Indian’s gun, a horse shot under him, a tuft of beard shot from his chin, and his clothing perforated with minie balls.

With the battles of Oak Hills and Elkhorn, the Texas troops formed a part of the army ordered to Corinth where the Confederate forces were in need of reinforcements, and Colonel Griffith’s genius soon made itself felt against General Grant, then pressing hard toward Vicksburg. The Texans were dismounted in Arkansas and their horses sent back to Texas; a move that proved unpopular with the troops, and it was decided to remount them while operating about Holly Springs. Information to that effect reached the men and subsequently caused a serious situation in the army. The delay in the arrival of the horses aggravated the men and at Lumpkin, Mississippi, they showed a mutinous disposition when ordered to march, by shouting “Horses, Horses,” without offering to move. Colonel Griffith took in the situation and addressed his Texans, appealing to their patriotism, their honor and their sense of duty, until every man—save one—yielded, and the ugly situation cleared up as if by magic.

The transfer of the main army to the East, gave Colonel Griffith greater opportunity to display his ability. He studied the location and disposition of Grant’s forces and conceived a plan of campaign against the enemy’s rear which met with the endorsement of his co-ordinate officers and resulted in the Holly Springs campaign, with the capture of its garrison and immense stores and supplies. This success not only refurnished the Confederate troops, but it disarranged the plans of General Grant, and thereby relieved Vicksburg from immediate sack. This campaign was undertaken under the direction of General Van Dorn and was made with the approval of General Pemberton. The service rendered by Colonel Griffith proved so arduous that his naturally delicate physique threatened a breakdown and a few weeks later he felt impelled to resign his command and return home. Upon his return to Texas, Colonel Griffith, as a brevet Brigadier, was elected a member of the Tenth Legislature, where he became chairman of the committee on military affairs. On March 1, 1864, he was appointed Brigadier-General of State troops by Governor Murrah, for District No. 2, which embraced practically all of the counties along the Brazos and Trinity Rivers, and east to Van Zandt county. In the discharge of his duties in that capacity he elicited the commendation of the Governor of the Eleventh Legislature, and he continued in command of the District until the end of the war.

In 1876 General Griffith was elected a member of the Fifteenth Legislature, and he aided in putting the new State Constitution into operation. He was made chairman of the committee of public printing where he earned the reputation of a tireless worker, and where he proved to be a veritable “watch-dog” of the treasury. Several laws bear the impress of his legislative hand, among them being the statute making drunkenness in office a misdemeanor, and which might be regarded as a pioneer effort toward prohibition in Texas.

In 1873 General Griffith came to Terrell and was here engaged in the mercantile business for a time. He was a large stock raiser before the war, and in later years he identified himself once more with that industry, but he was retired from active business many years before his death, which took place August 6, 1891.
In his citizenship General Griffith showed forth a personality that towered high and which had few superiors. His address was pleasing, his mind was active, acute and penetrating, and his judgment was clear and unerring. He was a man inclined to deeds of impulse, but seldom did rashness characterize his moods, and he was always just. His restless energy and his indomitable will urged him on continually, and from his very nature he could not have occupied a humble station in life, in spite of the fact that humility characterized his personality. In business he proved himself a very Napoleon of finance, both before and after the war, for he made a modest fortune each period. No matter what the enterprise, he threw his whole soul into the work, as he did when at Holly Springs and Oakland he matched his wits and courage with General Grant, and when he died, a man of achievement and worthy of emulation was laid to rest.

ARTEZIA LODGE NO. 406 A. F. & A. M.

Again has the Grim Reaper invaded our ranks, and once more has his all-devouring scythe cut down and taken from us a most valued member. Our beloved brother, General John S. Griffith, assisted in organizing and was a charter member of Artesia Lodge No. 406, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, and the love which he ever felt for Masonry, the zeal which he always manifested in his faith and fidelity to its precepts, and the exemplification of true Masonic manhood which was furnished to mankind in his daily life and character, have all been most potent factors in preserving for our fraternity the confidence and esteem of the entire community.

No institution can survive unless its adherents include just such men as was our lamented brother; men who, when duty calls, can lay aside the vestments of self and don the hallowed garments of fraternal love and charity; men who, in the midst of temporal vexations, successes or disappointments, can keep alive the sacred germs which first were planted in their natures when they bowed at the altar of Freemasonry. Such a man was he, and we can truly say of him that during the more than twenty-seven years that he was a member of this lodge, and a citizen of this community, that his life and character were such that all masons may now say: "He lived to bless mankind." And last but not least; in the coming years it will be a sacred thought to his immediate family, that he shed radiance in the home where he lived, and bequeathed to his loved ones that most priceless heritage,—a spotless and untarnished name.

May each and every mason realize that these offices which we pay to those who are taken from us are useful as lessons to the living; may we treasure in the archives of our memories his noble life and conduct; may we emulate his example; may we, like him, be prepared to say when the moment comes: "We are ready to prosecute our journey without dread or comprehension, to that distant country, from whose bourne no traveler returns."

We join with the entire community in lamenting the death of this noble man, and we grieve with his loved ones in this sad hour of their bereavement.

Resolved: That the members of the fraternity wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days; that the lodge room be draped in mourning; that a copy of this tribute be spread on the minutes of our lodge; a copy be furnished the family of the deceased, and a copy tendered the city papers for publication.

Robert L. Warren
A. J. Childress
F. S. White Committee.

I, T. L. Stanfield, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original tribute, touching the sense of Artesia Lodge No. 406 of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, adopted at a stated meeting of said Lodge, held at its Hall in the City of Terrell on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1901 A. L. 5901 as the same as appears on the records of our said Lodge.

Given under our hand and seal of our said Lodge this 10th day of August A. D. 1901, A. L. 5901.

T. L. Stanfield
Secretary.

August 10th, 1901
Terrell, Texas

Mrs. John S. Griffith
City,
Dear Madam:

As Secretary of Artesia Lodge No. 406 A. F. & A. M., I beg to hand you the enclosed tribute, adopted by our said Lodge, touching the life and death of your beloved husband; and doing so I beg to assure you that this is but a very meager expression of the real sentiment of his brothers of this Mystic Order.

As an individual member, whose heart is still bowed with a similar grief on account of a newly made grave in the same cemetery, I beg to extend to you my heartfelt sympathy. I know the sorrow that causes the unbidden tear to come welling up when no one is near, when we remember the last scenes connected with that life, which are so dear; the last fond words uttered; and how we had to see the form so dear to us laid away from sight forever.

Oh, such a sad, sad hour; and yet no relief but that consciousness of the fact, that they left good and pure lives as a legacy and consolation to us, to go with us through our remaining days. Again I ask you to accept my heartfelt sympathy with that of our entire membership.

Very truly,

T. L. Stanfield
Secretary.

"Mr. M. C. Roberts
Terrell, Texas
Dear Sir:

I have just received a letter from my brother-in-law, Mr. J. K. P. Jamison of Clarksville, Texas, telling me of the very pleasant time he had at the late reunion at Terrell. He said it was his good fortune to be your guest on that occasion, and much to his delight, he learned that Mrs. Roberts is a daughter of the late Col. Griffith of the 6th Texas Cavalry. This interested me very much as I was brought into a rather intimate relation with Col. G. I served as a 'courier' under him while he was in command of Ross' Brigade, and while I was a 'private,' and he a Colonel, his treatment of me was more like that of a father for a son, (I was not quite 18 yrs. old) than that of a distinguished officer toward an ordinary private. While Col. G. was a gallant and distinguished officer, I can testify that he was a man who appreciated the self-denial, bravery, and patriotism of the private soldier in the highest degree. The soldiers under him admired and loved him. They were ever ready to follow where he led. I was very much attached to him, and I regret that I never had the opportunity of seeing him since the War.

I write this, believing that it will be a consolation to Mrs. Roberts to know that her gallant father is still held in pleasant memory by one who saw him tried, and knew him well as a man, and a soldier.

Very respectfully yours,
T. T. C. Anderson
C. F. Whitfields 1st Texas Legion.

In an AUTOGRAPH ALBUM belonging to Mrs. Robert L. Cartwright, (Terie Bickham, granddaughter of Isaac Roberts) is found the following:

"To Miss Bickham:

Thirty years ago, (but yesterday it seems) I stood in the old Uncle Isaac Roberts homestead and heard your mother and father plight their vows, and of all who gathered there that happy night,—but two or three remain; gone, gone to that undiscovered country where rest the good, where endless mental suffering disturb the wicked. You too, though young and joyous, must sometime pass hence. May your walk through life be strewn with flowers, with thorns and thistles enough only, to make you feel the need of and accept our Savior and God; and with trials and tribulations enough only, to ever feel your need of Him, and so keep you steadfast and perfect and fit you for heaven, is the prayer of your well wisher,

John S. Griffith."
In The Dallas News, August 9, 1931, Vivian Richardson writes of Captain T. E. Blount’s reminiscences:

Captain Blount is an old man now, and a modest one, but when he does talk, history finds its tongue.

A LITTLE MANAGING

“Listen,” he said, “I’ll tell you a romance. General John Summerfield Griffith told it to me.” We listened... and heard the story of the incredible wooing of Miss X.

It took place over in the East Texas red hills which snuggle against the Louisiana border. There was a young man whom we shall call Bill (it wasn’t his name)—and every time Bill, in his best bib and tucker, went over to call on the beautiful Miss X he found his suit hampered by a young man named—let us say for convenience—John. Now John (although that wasn’t his name) was a prosperous young man, and at length the town was gratified to learn that Miss X had consented to be his bride. But before they could be married, it was necessary for John to return to New York on business. It was a long arduous journey; one went down the river to New Orleans and embarked there for New York, and if John chaffed at this delay of the nuptials, Miss X rejoiced that at least she could now have magnificent materials for her trousseau. John could purchase them for her in New Orleans on the way home. And at length he set out, a long list of furbelows in his pocket. Bill, the rejected suitor, bided his time until young John was out of sight over the hill, when he dropped in at the X home and exchanged the time of day with the old folks.

In a few days Bill saddled a fresh horse and opined he’d ride over toward Red River and see the bright lights. Before his return news trickled into town by the old grapevine system of a terrible tragedy on Red River. A boat—the very boat John had taken, it seemed—had caught fire up the river and burned to cinders in midstream. All on board had been lost save one “coonjiner,” who could swim. A report appeared in the newspaper.

Strangely enough, perhaps because they believed in the old maxim that bad news travels fast, no one doubted the story. No one saw in it the fertile imagination of one Bill; no one knows to this day what art he employed to get the fiction started; indeed perhaps Bill has been erroneously accused. Perhaps he merely took advantage of a too eager reporter in a day when news was difficult to authenticate. Perhaps—but whatever the explanation, Bill returned home knowing the story false—and kept his knowledge to himself. As for the beautiful Miss X—well, she grieved and she grieved. She grieved for a couple of weeks and then she up and married Bill. And one bright morning six weeks later John came riding home, a trousseau for a lost bride.
in the saddlebags behind him. He stopped in a grocery (saloon) and men stared as at a ghost. He learned of sad storied demise, and of the wedding of Miss X. With his own eyes he read the false account in the dated newspaper. He put on his hat and walked out the door. As he reached the board sidewalk Bill was coming down the street. The two men walked to within twenty feet of one another.

“Howdy, said Bill, “I bin lookin’ for you.” The hand is quicker than the eye. There were two spurts of fire. There was the frightened neigh of a horse at a hitching post. There was John plunged on his face in the red dust that wasn’t as red as the blood that was spilling down his shirt front.

Without a backward glance Bill turned on his heel and went home and gathered up his bride and lit out for West Texas. They were never seen again in East Texas.

W. C. Griffith lived in Terrell for ten or twelve years following his marriage. Moved to Dallas in 1888-9. After a residence there of several years he returned to Terrell. He had large farming interests and in the latter years of his life, concerned himself mainly in their operation.

The following short sketch written by his daughter, Lydia Griffith Best, sets forth lovingly and vividly his personality:

"When one thinks of William Crabb Griffith, one thinks of character. He was a successful business man, and a fund of information to his family. He was a well-read man, being conversant with the best in literature of the past and present. Dickens was his favorite author, and each winter he re-read the entire collection.

"William Griffith was one of those rare souls filled with ideals, and what is still more, lived up to those ideals. One near him once heard him say: 'I would rather cut off my right arm than to do a thing that is wrong.' He adhered to the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, and his very honesty and sincerity often made him appear brusque, when that quality was far removed from his real nature.

"He was an ardent prohibitionist, never touching a drop of liquor nor allowing it to be served in his home, having joined a society when a young boy and taking the oath of total abstinence.

"Should his life be measured by great heroic deeds, its stature would not be what the world calls great; but when measured by the Great Eternal Judge, it would stand like a mountain peak, lighting the way to loftier atmosphere; a beautiful example to those who follow him."

Georgia M. Charlton, the wife of W. C. Griffith, was b. Oct. 2, 1861. She is the daughter of Judge George P. Charlton of Alabama, and his wife Mary Guynne Nunn.

Judge Wm. Charlton, of Dallas, Texas, who married Anna Raguet, was their son.

As a young man, Gus Griffith was distinguished by a joyous nature, and happy and fun-loving disposition. A TREATISE ON THERMAL MECHANICS

The present work is concerned with the fundamental principles of thermal mechanics, including the analysis of energy transfers and the behavior of systems under varying thermal conditions. It covers the laws of thermodynamics, the study of heat transfer, and the application of these principles to practical engineering problems.

The book is divided into several parts, each focusing on a specific aspect of thermal mechanics. Part I introduces the basic concepts and mathematical tools required for the study of thermodynamics. Part II delves into the laws of thermodynamics and their applications, while Part III examines the transfer of heat and its implications in various engineering contexts.

Appendices provide additional mathematical and physical insights, and the book concludes with a comprehensive bibliography for further reading.

All data and information are presented with the highest accuracy, and the text is supported by numerous examples and practical case studies to illustrate the application of the theoretical concepts.

DUVAL

The land records of Anne Arundel and Prince George Counties show that the Huguenot planter (Mareen Duval) and merchant, held a vast estate, and left his widow and third wife so attractive as to become the third wife of Colonel Henry Ridgely, later the wife of Rev. Mr. Henderson, the commissary of the Church of England. He (Mareen Duval) was ancestor of John P. Duval, a member of the Virginia Legislature. Captain John Duval, who held another large estate, married Elizabeth Jones, daughter of William Jones, Sr., of Anne Arundel County. She added considerably to his estate. Their daughter, Elizabeth Duval, became the wife of Benjamin Warfield, the youngest son of Richard, the immigrant. Her wedding gift was 780 acres of ‘Jugg Ox,’ in the forks of the Patuxent. Her sister Comfort, became Mrs. William Griffith, of Frederick County. Eleanor Duval (of Mareen) became Mrs. John Roberts, of Virginia. Benjamin Duval, of the Huguenot, married Sophia Griffith, in 1713, daughter of William and Sarah (Maccubin) Griffith.

The last wife and widow of the Huguenot was Miss Mary Stanton. Before 1700 she became the wife of Colonel Henry Ridgely, the immigrant.

This Virginia descendant of John Baldwin, the hero of 1622, became a Quaker convert of the South River settlement. His will of 1684, named his wife, Elizabeth; daughter, Margaret, wife of Thomas Crutchley, the Annapolis attorney; his daughter, Lydia, widow of Thomas Watkins, and mother of Thomas Watkins, Jr.; his daughter Ruth, wife of Captain Philip Howard; his son John, heir and executor. The testator also names his grandchildren, viz: Hannah Howard, Lydia Crutchley (sister of Ruth Warfield), and Thomas Watkins, Jr.

John Baldwin, the son, married Hester, widow of Nicholas Nicholson and daughter of John Baldwin. Their sons were Thomas and John. Catherine, wife of Captain Charles Griffith, was the only daughter. . . The Baldwin family of Anne Arundel, suppose that their progenitor Edward Baldwin, descended from one of the sons of James Baldwin, the testator of 1727. . . The will of Robert Tyler sheds further light on this family. It reads “My tract ‘Borough,’ to go afterward to grandson John Baldwin; to grandson Tyler Baldwin; to grandson Thomas Baldwin; to grandson James Baldwin—sons of Mary Baldwin. . .”

Christopher Columbus Baldwin married Miss Roman, of Hagerstown. . . Summerfield Baldwin—Fannie Cugle. Issue, William and Summerfield Baldwin. . .

“Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties,” p. 159.
The youngest son of Richard and Elinor (Browne) Warfield, was Benjamin, who joined his brother, Richard, in surveying "Wincopin Neck," in the forks of Savage and Middle River, immediately at Savage Factory. This was willed to his daughter, Elizabeth Ridgely, by both himself and his brother Richard.

Benjamin's inheritance in "Warfield Range" was never occupied by him. He surveyed "Benjamin's Discovery," in Anne Arundel.

He married Elizabeth Duval, daughter of Captain John and Elizabeth (Jones) Duval. Her marriage dower was a tract of 780 acres, known as "lugg Ox," in the forks of the Patuxent. This adjoined his own survey. One son Joshua and a daughter Elizabeth, were their issue. Benjamin Warfield died in early manhood, in 1717, leaving his children minors. His widow married John Gaither, the second, who administered.

Joshua, of Benjamin, held the homestead... etc.

See "Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties," p. 90.

Mrs. Elizabeth (Warfield) Ridgely survived her husband some twenty years, and in her will of 1760, named the same sons and daughters, transferring her estate to them. Her daughters thus named were: Ann, wife of Hon. Brice Thomas Beal Worthington; Elizabeth, wife of Colonel Thomas Dorsey; Sarah, wife of Colonel Greenberry Griffith, and Catherine, wife of Captain Philemon Dorsey. Upon her estate of "Wincopin Neck" stands today the regenerated Guilford, famous for granite.

Maccubin

John Maccubin, of the Lowlands of Scotland, known in the Highlands as McAlpines, claiming descent from Kenneth II, who having united the Scots and Picts into one government, became the first King of Scotland, came to the Severn with the Howards, and married Susan, daughter of Samuel Howard. He took up "Timber Rock" and left by his first wife, John, Samuel, and Elizabeth Maccubin, all named by Samuel Howard in 1703.

John Maccubin married again, Elinor, and died in 1686, leaving a will in which he named his wife, Elinor, executrix, and sons Samuel, William, Zachariah and Moses inheritors of his tract, "Wardrope." His son John to inherit the homestead, "Bramton," after the death or marriage of his widow. She became the second wife of John Howard, without issue.

Zachariah Maccubin, her son, married Susannah Nicholson, daughter of Nicholas and Hester Larkin. The former was the son of Sir John Nicholson, of Scotland, and the latter (said to be the first child born in Anne Arundel), was the daughter of John Larkin, from whose family, also, came the wives of Colonel Edward Dorsey, Judge Samuel Chase, and John Townley Chase . . .

Mrs. Elinor Maccubin, widow of John, was, as I believe, of the family of Dr. Charles Carroll, and James Carroll, of "All Hallows" Parish; both of whom were witnesses to her will, in 1711. Her daughter, Sarah Maccubin, became the wife of William Griffith, and the mother of Orlando and Capt. Charles Griffith, of Anne Arundel.

"Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties," p. 177
“Our Early Settlers” notes the arrival of Philip Howard in 1669, and his demand for fifty acres for transporting himself. In 1659, a grant was made to “Philip Howard, orphan,” under the title of “Howard’s Stone.” This was on the north side of the Severn adjoining Edward Lloyd. Philip Howard bought lands also from Cornelius Howard, on the south side of the Severn. He brought also from Robert Proctor.

He was one of Her Majesty’s Justices in 1694, and during that same year, was a commissioner in laying off the town of Annapolis. He married Ruth Baldwin, daughter of John Baldwin, and Elizabeth his wife. She was a sister of John Baldwin, who married Hester (Larkin) Nicholson, and also a sister of Mrs. Thomas Crutchley of Annapolis. She was the aunt of Anne Baldwin, wife of Judge Samuel Chase and Hester, wife of Judge Jeremiah Townley Chase.

Captain Philip and Ruth Howard had one daughter, Hannah, who married her cousin, Charles Hammond. In his will, of 1701, Captain Howard named his grandsons, Charles and Philip Hammond, sons of his daughter, Hannah. Mrs. Ruth Howard was made executrix.

The Rent Rolls record: “Ruth Howard, relict of Captain Philip Howard, enters a tract of land called ‘Green Spring,’ purchased by said Howard from Robert Proctor. She also claims ‘Maiden,’ and ‘Howard and Potters Range,’—conveyed from Cornelius Howard to said Philip, also a tract called ‘The Marsh.’ She further claims that Cornelius Howard, Sr., left a portion of ‘Howard and Porter’s Range’ to Mary Howard, spinster, and she conveyed it to Cornelius Howard, Jr., who conveyed it to her husband, Philip Howard.” All these claims stand as demanded.

From Hannah Howard, only daughter of Philip and Ruth (Baldwin) Howard, descended a long line of Hammonds, the largest landholders in both Howard and Anne Arundel Counties.

Belvedere and Stemmer House were estates of the Howard family.
Excerpts from "Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties" (J. D. Warfield) 1915, p. 178.

John Hammond, author of "Leah and Rachel," was in Maryland during the Severn Contest, in 1655. From him several quotations have already been made.

The next immigrant in Anne Arundel County was John Hammond, of the Severn. His estate joined the Howards, and he was a brother-in-law of them, having married Mary Howard, and not Mary Dorsey, as the will of Samuel Howard shows. (This is Major-General John Hammond.)

In 1689 he was a member of the Provincial Court of Anne Arundel, and one of the "Quorum." In 1692, he was elected a delegate to the Lower House, with Colonel Henry Ridgely, and Hon. John Dorsey. Still later, he was appointed by the royal administration, with whom he was in favor, Judge of High Court of Admiralty.

A concise history of his career is recorded in the annals of St. Anne's Church, as an obituary notice. He was one of the vestry at the time of his death, and was an ardent member of the Church of England. He gave, in 1695, a deed for a church site upon "Severn Heights" to his friends, members of Westminster Parish. The only consideration was "the love he bore his neighbors." He acquired a large estate in both the city of Annapolis, and upon the Severn. He was a witness and executor of his brother-in-law, Cornelius Howard, and was considered a leading man in the county.

It has been written that his English progenitors were men of eminence in both medicine and politics.

St. Anne's records upon his death in 1707, read: "Hon. John Hammond, Esq., Major-General of the Western Shore of Maryland, one of Her Majesty's most honorable Council and Judge of the High Court of Admiralty in the Province of Maryland, was buried the 29th of November." In St. Anne's grounds his tombstone now rests. Long after all vestiges of his old homestead upon the Severn had disappeared, this memorial was found and removed to the church grounds of his devotion. St. Anne Church has also a well-preserved Bible, purchased by the vestry from a legacy of £10 left by him to the church.

General Hammond's will reads: "I leave my home plantation to my wife, Mary. My eldest son Thomas, my plantation called 'Mt. Airy Neck.' To son John, the plantation where he lives, a part of 'Swan Neck'; to son William, the other part. Son Charles Flushing, 'Deer Creek Point,' 'Rich Neck,' and Hammond's Forest. To my first three sons, my houses and lots in Annapolis. My four sons to be executors."

General Hammond was one of the commissioners, in 1694, to lay out lots and organize the town of Annapolis. All of these commissioners saw the coming capital each took up several lots in the town.

(Sons of Major-General John Hammond)

(1) Thomas Hammond was a neighbor of his uncle, Captain Cornelius Howard. He married Mary Heath, daughter of Thomas, whose will distinctly shows that her daughter, Mary Hammond, was the wife of Cornelius Howard, Jr. Helen, her other daughter, became the second wife of John Worthington, the rich merchant. She bore him a long line of distinguished sons and daughters.

(2) John Hammond, Jr., was executor of his uncle, Samuel Howard, under the title of "cousin,"—clearly shown to mean "nephew." He married Ann Greenberry, youngest daughter of Colonel Nicholas. She bore him two daughters, Comfort and Rachel, and two sons, Thomas John, and Nicholas.

(3) Colonel William Hammond left his inheritance on "Swan's Neck" and became the Baltimore merchant. His store was one of Henry Dorsey Gough's row, near Light Street, on Baltimore. He had a distillery at Elks Ridge and a forge mill at "Hockley," near the relay. He was a member of the vestry of St. Paul's Church, Baltimore. His wife was Elizabeth Ravin. Their daughter, Mary Hammond, married Colonel John Dorsey, another Baltimore merchant, and member of St. Paul's vestry.

Colonel William Hammond died at forty, and lies buried at "Hammond's Ferry." Mordecai and William Hammond, were sons.

(4) Charles Hammond, next son of General John, took up his residence near Gambrill's Station. It was evidently the same site, if not the present house, of Major Philip Hammond, now owned by Mr. George A. Kirby.

Charles Hammond married his first cousin, Hannah Howard, daughter of Philip and Ruth (Baldwin) Howard. They left a long and wealthy line, viz: Colonel Charles, the treasurer; Philip, the big merchant; Nathaniel, the planter; Rezin, bachelor; John, the big planter of Elks Ridge; the two daughters, Hamutel and Ruth Hammond. His will of 1713 was witnessed by his neighbors, John, Richard, Alexander and Ruth Warfield, all of the neighborhood of Millersville.

Colonel Charles Hammond was State Treasurer. Having married Mrs. Rachel (Stimpson) Greenberry, widow of Colonel Charles, they resided at "White Hall." ... "Madam Rachel Hammond, the worthy consort of Colonel Charles Hammond," records the MARYLAND GAZETTE, "died last Saturday night, February 25, 1769."

Colonel Charles Hammond's death was also recorded thus: "On Saturday night September 3rd, 1772, died Hon. Charles Hammond, Esq., president of the Council and treasurer of the Western Shore."
Adjoining Doughoregan Manor is Burleigh. Not more than two or three families in Maryland before the Revolution had greater wealth or owned more land than the Hammonds whose holdings covered a large part of what now constitutes Anne Arundel, Howard and Frederick counties and who also had vast acreages on the Eastern Shore. They were powerful numerically, leaders in social life and influential in politics. No important event of the early days of Maryland and Virginia took place without the participation of a Hammond.

Essentially they were a race of builders, these men whose far-off ancestor helped to place William the Conqueror on the throne of England and whose kinsmen in Britain included bishops and abbots, soldiers and statesmen, two officers who accompanied Sir Walter Raleigh on his gold-hunting expedition to Guinea and whose family name is to be found on a list of twelve gentlemen to whom James I granted a charter to found a colony in Virginia.

(Burleigh was built by Col. Rezin Hammond).

A museum piece of pre-Revolutionary building is the Hammond house at Annapolis, full of years, dignity and serenity. Most famous of all the seventeen Colonial houses in the mittened city on the Severn River, it is known today as the Hammond-Harwood house and stands in the fullness of its centuries as it stood two hundred years ago in the glow of youth.

Note—In “Griffith Genealogy,” p. 6, is the following: Henry Griffith, b. Feb. 14, 1720, son of Orlando and Katherine, m. 2d, June 4, 1751, by Rev. James Macgill, of Queen Caroline’s Parish, Anne Arundel Co., Maryland, Ruth Hammond, dau, of John Hammond and Ann———; and had issue ... etc."

From “Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties,” p. 345, (the name of John Hammond’s wife is given as Ann Dorsey; which supplies unknown name).

Major Charles Hammond died Nov. 13, 1713, leaving a will dated Nov. 6, 1713; proved at Annapolis, Md.

John Hammond died 1753, leaving a will dated Oct. 2, 1753; proved at Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12, 1753; Ann, widow of John, died 1786, leaving a will dated Dec. 1, 1779; proved Annapolis, Md., July 1, 1786.

DORSEY

On pages 56-7-8, of the “Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties,” by J. D. Warfield, 1905, is found:

... Colonel Edward Dorsey, son and heir of Edward Dorsey, the immigrant, held this tract of ‘Dorsey’ during life. It was sold by his widow, Margaret, the wife of John Israel, in 1706, to Wm. Bladen, of Annapolis. The following record is taken from Our Early Settlers. A list of our early arrivals up to 1680.

“Robert Bullen demands lands for bringing over a number of passengers, amongst whom was Edward Dorsey, in 1661.”

The same record adds, “August 25th, 1664, patented to him, John and Joshua Dorsey, a plantation called ‘Hockley-in-the-Hole,’ four hundred acres.”

In 1683, this land was surveyed for John Dorsey, and found to contain 843 acres. 400 acres first surveyed being old rents remaining new, whole now in the possession of Caleb Dorsey.

Such is the record of ‘Hockley,’ upon our Rent Rolls, at Annapolis ...

Edward Dorsey in 1679 and 1685, was recorded one of the Justices of Anne Arundel. His name was written both Darcy and Dorsey.

From 1680 to 1705, Major Dorsey was in every movement looking to the development of the colony. From 1694 to 1696 he was Judge of the High Court of Chancery, during which time he was commissioned to hold the Great Seal. In 1694, he was a member of the House of Burgesses from Anne Arundel, and from 1697 to his death in 1705, was a member from Baltimore County (now Howard). He was one of the subscribers and treasurer of the fund for building St. Anne’s Church, and a free school for the province also received his aid. He signed the protestant address from Baltimore County to the King’s most Gracious Majestie, upon the succession of King William III—an appeal in behalf of Charles Lord Baron, of Baltimore, whose proprietary government had been wrested from the family through the influence of Coode ...

Major Edward Dorsey married, first, Sarah Wyatt, daughter of Nicholas Wyatt, the pioneer surveyor of the Severn, who had come up from Virginia with his wife, Damaria, and her daughter, Mary, afterward the wife of Major John Welsh ...

In 1694, Major Edward Dorsey was upon a committee with Major John Hammond, Hon. John Dorsey, Captain Philip Howard, Major Nicholas Greenberry and John Bennett, to lay out town lots and a town common for “the town of Proctor,” or Annapolis.

At the time of his death he was living on “Major’s Choice,” now Howard County.

The second wife was Margaret Larkin, daughter of John Larkin. He left five minors by her. She afterward became Mrs. John Israel, and as executrix sold "Dorsey," and houses in Annapolis, lately owned by Colonel Edward Dorsey, her late husband.

Colonel Dorsey's will, of 1705, recorded in Baltimore City and in Annapolis, reads: "To my son Lacon, Francis and Edward, my lands on the north side of the Patapsco River. (These were deeded to him by John and Thomas Larkin, 1702). To beloved wife, Margaret, my personal estate. To my daughter, Ann, a lot of negroes. To Joshua, 'Barnes Folly.' To Samuel, 'Major's Choice.' To Nicholas, 'Long Reach,' at Elk Ridge. To Benjamin, 'Long Reach.' To son John, all the remaining part of 'Long Reach' and a lot of silver spoons, to be delivered at the age of sixteen. All the remaining portion of my estate to my wife and executrix.—Edward Dorsey." [Seal]

NOTE—Edward Dorsey, is styled both Colonel and Major. On page 345, "Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties," is the following:

Before 1700 Colonel Edward Dorsey removed from Annapolis to "Major's Choice" west of Waterloo, and north of the old brick church, but continued to sit in the House of Burgesses as a delegate from Baltimore County. He was then married to Margaret Larkin, who inherited from her father, John Larkin, a large estate upon the north side of the Patapsco. Her children were Lacon (Larkin), Charles, Francis, Edward and Ann Dorsey, who married her neighbor, John Hammond (of Charles).

Colonel Dorsey's sons by Sarah Wyatt were located near him, upon "Long Reach" and "Major's Choice." Edward Dorsey, Jr., youngest son by Margaret Larkin, a minor when his father's will was probated in 1705, inherited the Colonel's riding horse "Sparke," his best gun, largest silver tankard, his tobacco box, his seal gold ring and one seal-skin trunk, marked "E. D." The other sons inherited with Edward, their mother's lands across the Patapsco. Edward located at Dayton, and bought lands of Thomas Reynolds, known as "Thomas Lot," to which he added "Dorsey's Addition." His will named his wife Phoebe executrix, aided by Michael Dorsey. The tradition is that she was a Todd, a relative of Michael's wife, Ruth Todd. In 1769 she was Phoebe Williams, and with her son Lacon, deeded her late husband's estate to John Worthington Warfield . . .

Ann Dorsey (of Colonel Edward Dorsey) THE WIDOW OF JOHN HAMMOND, named her daughters, Hannah, wife of John Welsh, and Ann, wife of Francis Davis. Both of these left many Welsh and Davis descendants in upper Howard. From Hannah Welsh descends Governor Warfield and the author of this history. Her sister Hamutel Welsh heired her portion of the homestead, "Major's Choice." She died in the stone house, now a part of Brookeville Academy. Her daughter Caroline—Captain Elisha Riggs, and was the mother of Colonel John Hammond Riggs, from whom descended two distinguished physicians, Dr. Augustus and Dr. Artemus Riggs; one of Cooksville, Howard County; the other of Brookeville, Montgomery County.

John Dorsey (of Colonel Edward) p. 397, "Anne Arundel and Howard Counties."

Adjoining "Patuxent John Dorsey" on the east, and by many of his descendants taken for him, was seated as early as 1708, another large surveyor.

He invariably signed himself "John Dorsey (of Edward)—son of Colonel Edward, the surveyor of "Long Reach." At sixteen years of age he married Honor Elder, heir of John Elder, a large landholder upon the Patapsco, near Sykesville. Upon "Long Reach" was also located John Dorsey's brothers, Benjamin and Nicholas. A later survey of this tract is now known as "Chew's Resolution." It extended to, and joined Patuxent, John Dorsey's estate. These two John Dorsey's even then had overreached Hon. John's surveys. Their combined tracts covered about one-third of Howard County. Nor did they stop in Howard, but reached out to Frederick, Carroll, and Baltimore Counties, and left descendants in almost every family in the State.

"John Dorsey (of Edward)" married in 1708. He was member of Queen Caroline Parish in 1728, and in its vestry. He took up "Dorsey's Grove" in upper Howard, 1080 acres, extending from Glenelg to Glenwood. By deed of partition in 1735, this was divided among his four daughters, Hannah Barnes, Sarah Howard, Ruth Lawrence and Susannah Lawrence. With his brother Joshua, he took up "Brother's Partnership," in the neighborhood of Dayton. Upon this he put his son, Michael.

Michael Dorsey's wife, Ruth Todd, inherited from Lancelot Todd, her father, an adjoining tract, "Altogether." There was located Lancelot Dorsey, of Michael, and Ruth, the heir of his grandfather, Lancelot Todd. He was sheriff, and like many other sheriffs, his estate was sold at Sheriff Sale to his son, Darius Dorsey, whose mother was Sarah Warfield (of Philip, his neighbor) . . . Michael and Ruth (Todd) Dorsey, had daughters enough to occupy a whole pew in the parish church. They were Elizabeth, wife of Captain Joseph Burgess; Sarah, wife of Richard Berry; Ruth, wife of Ely Dorsey (of Edward and Sarah Todd), her cousin; Honor Warfield, wife of Rezin, Honor Elder and Sarah Berry. All receiving negroes and money . . . Three of his sons, Vachel, Nathan, and Edward were located upon his wife’s inheritance and his own investments along the Patapsco. Vachel and Edward rivaled him in their continued surveys. Edward, who has been entirely lost sight of by his descendents, or at least mistaken for another, was the most noted of all. He will be found at St. James Church.

the 250 acres of land, or more, situated in Rockwall Coun¬ owed by me at the time of my death. I also give to her, Georgie Charlton Griffith one third of all money, notes that I have, own or be entitled to at the time of my death.

(3) I give, will and bequest to my beloved children, to-wit: Lydia Griffith Best, William Charlton Griffith, John Summerfield Griffith, Guynne Griffith Wimberly, Frederick Maxwell Griffith two thirds of all money, notes, accounts I may have, own or be entitled to at the time of my death in equal shares, share and share alike.

(4) I give, will and bequest in trust to William Charlton Griffith as trustee 197 acres of land out of the Spillers survey, and 23 3/4 acres out of the Stephenson Survey, known as the John Barrett Farm, situ¬ ated in Rockwall County, Texas; 1611 acres out of the F. Baugess survey in Rockwall County, Texas, deeded to W. C. Griffith by A. B.
Griffith and Emmie G. Roberts in the partition of John S. Griffith's estate, deed dated May 1, 1903; 430 acres out of the F. Baugess survey in Rockwall County, Texas, being the same land conveyed by A. B.
Griffith on July 27, 1912, to W. C. Griffith, also 220 acres out of the W. E. Sullivan Survey, deeded by J. S. Griffith to W. C. Griffith, deed recorded in Vol. 70, pages 51 and 52, Deed Records of Kaufman County, Texas, for a period of 30 years the said William Charlton Griffith, as such trustee, shall have the exclusive management, control over the said tracts of land mentioned in this paragraph for a period of 30 years after my death. Title thereto shall, after my death, vest in the said William Charlton Griffith, in trust, and as trustee for 30 years after the date of my death, subject to the limitations and directions herein stated, to-wit: The said William Charlton Griffith, as trustee, shall not have the right to mortgage, sell or in any manner dispose of the said tracts of land mentioned in this paragraph, but as such trustee he shall take good care of said property, rent the same for the best rents available. Out of the rents and revenues derived therefrom, he shall keep all taxes paid and keep said tracts of land well improved from year to year, doing any and everything as in his judgment is necessary to be done in the protection of said property and all improve¬ ments thereon. There shall also be paid, each year, out of the rents and revenues derived therefrom, a fair, reasonable and just compensa¬ tion to William Charlton Griffith, for his services therein rendered. At the end of each year, the said William Charlton Griffith, as such trustee, during the period of 30 years after the date of my death, shall render a true and accurate account in writing unto my beloved wife Georgie Charlton Griffith, Lydia Griffith Best, John Summerfield Griffith, Frederick Maxwell Griffith and Guynne Griffith Wimberly showing an itemized statement of all receipts and disbursements received and paid out of said tracts of land during the preceding twelve months.
Out of the net rents and revenues, thus shown to be collected, the said William Charlton Griffith, shall each year, during the 30 years after my death, as such trustee pay to my beloved wife, Georgie Charlton

297
Griffith, one third, Lydia Griffith Best two fifteenths, William Charlton Griffith two fifteenths, John Summerfield Griffith two fifteenths, Frederick Maxwell Griffith two fifteenths, and Guynne Griffith Wimberly two fifteenths of the net revenues received each year. However, should my wife or any of my children above named die within 30 years after my death, then in that event his or her portion of the net rents and revenues herein directed to be paid, shall revert, vest and be paid by said trustee to those of my children or wife who shall survive me in equal portions, unless such deceased beneficiary shall leave descendants, then his or her portion of the rents and revenues shall be paid to such child or children of such deceased beneficiary, herein named in equal shares, such descendants receiving and being entitled to that portion of the rents their parent would be entitled to, if alive. To carry out the terms of this trust and to take care of such contingency in the event of the death of any of said beneficiaries, should any of the descendants be minors, I hereby direct and appoint William Charlton Griffith guardian of the estate of such minor descendants, during the term of their minority, fully authorizing him as such guardian to expend their portion of such rents and revenues as in his judgment will be for the best interest and welfare of such minors, without having to account to any one in the discharge of his duties as such guardian.

Immediately after the expiration of 30 years from the date of my death, the tracts of land herein bequested to William Charlton Griffith, as Trustee, or to the substitute trustee, shall pass to and vest in the following proportions, to-wit: To my wife Georgie Charlton Griffith, if alive, five fifteenths, Lydia Griffith Best if alive two fifteenths, Frederick Maxwell Griffith, if alive two fifteenths, John Summerfield Griffith, if alive two fifteenths, William Charlton Griffith if alive, two fifteenths and Guynne Griffith Wimberly, if alive, two fifteenths. However should my wife Georgie Charlton Griffith, or any of my children die within the period of 30 years after the date of my death, then in that event the respective portions of the land herein directed to pass to the respective beneficiaries herein named shall pass to and vest in the descendants of such deceased beneficiary. That is, such descendants, of any deceased child, of mine, herein named, would be entitled to receive the portion their parent would be entitled to receive if alive. If there be no such descendants at the expiration of said 30 years, then such portion, that such deceased child of mine would be entitled to receive, had he or she lived, shall revert to and vest in my said children and their descendants then living at the expiration of said 30 years.

(5) I give, will and bequeast unto William Charlton Griffith as trustee and in trust for a period of 30 years after the date of my death 161 acres out of the D. Harris Survey, Kaufman County, Texas, known as the Taggart farm. This tract of land is willed to William Charlton Griffith in trust and on condition that during said period of time he shall have the exclusive management and control thereof, renting and collecting all rents and revenues, paying taxes and keeping up the improvements out of the rents and revenues derived therefrom and each year during the term of said trust, he shall render a true and accurate statement showing all rents and revenues derived from said tract of land and all expenses paid, including a reasonable compensation to himself in the execution of such trust, and shall at the same time pay out of the net revenues each year one sixth to Frederick Maxwell Griffith, one sixth to Lydia Griffith Best, and one sixth to Guynne Griffith Wimberly and three sixths to William Charlton Griffith. If either Frederick Maxwell Griffith, Lydia Griffith Best, Guynne Griffith Wimberly or William Charlton Griffith shall die within the 30 years after the date of my death, then I direct that the deceased's portion of the rents and revenues herein directed to be paid to the descendants of such deceased parent. And if there be no descendants of such deceased parent surviving their respective portion of yearly revenues shall be paid to my children then living, and the descendants of any of my deceased children, if any there be, such descendants being entitled to receive the portion his or her parent would be entitled to if living. If either William Charlton Griffith, Frederick Maxwell Griffith, Lydia Griffith Best, or Guynne Griffith Wimberly be living at the expiration of 30 years from the date of my death, then the said 161 acres of land shall vest and descend as follows: Three sixths to William Charlton Griffith, one sixth to Frederick Maxwell Griffith, one sixth to Lydia Griffith Best and one sixth to Guynne Griffith Wimberly. In the event either of them shall die within the 30 years, and leave descendants who are living at the expiration of 30 years, then such descendants of such deceased parent would be entitled to have, receive and title thereto vest, in and to that portion of said tract of land that their parent would be entitled to have and receive had such parent lived until the expiration of said 30 years, but should such child not have any descendants at the expiration of 30 years surviving on that date, then such portion of the land herein devised to such deceased shall revert back and vest in and to my children and their descendants then living, at the expiration of said 30 years and be partitioned among them according to the laws of descent and distribution. In making this bequest to the children herein named, I have not mentioned John Summerfield Griffith, because I have heretofore given him 100 acres out of the D. Harris Survey. To offset that gift I have made the bequests as contained in this paragraph so as to make a more equal bequest to my other children.

(6) At any time the duties of trustee shall become burdensome to the said William Charlton Griffith, and he shall elect to longer act as trustee, or in anticipation of his death before the termination of the trust, then in that event I hereby will and direct that William Charlton Griffith shall appoint in writing a substitute trustee who shall be clothed with all the rights, powers, authority and subject to same limitations herein delegated to and vested in said William Charlton Griffith.

(7) I give, will and bequeath all of the residue of my estate both real and personal, which I may die seized and possessed of, or be entitled to, which has not been disposed of under the above and foregoing paragraphs of this will, one third to my beloved wife, Georgie Charlton Griffith, and the remaining two-thirds thereto to my five children herein named, share and share alike.

(8) In addition to the powers herein granted unto William Charlton Griffith, as trustee, I here nominate and appoint him as executor of this my last will, directing no bond shall be required of him and that the Probate Court, nor any other court shall have anything to do with my estate, save and except the probating of this will, appoint appraisers and recording their return. I further will and direct that no bond shall be required of William Charlton Griffith as trustee of that portion of my estate willed unto him, in trust. This will consists of five pages, from number one to number five, and each page numbered in the hand writing of Thos. R. Bond.

In Witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this 24 day of June, A. D. 1925, in the presence of R. C. Goodman and T. B. Griffith, who attested the same as witnesses at my request.

THE CARTWRIGHT FAMILY

Holman, Wigglesworth, Rodes and Crawford families.
Cartwright

The CARTWRIGHT FAMILY, is an exceedingly ancient one, and "The Bulletin" of the California State Society of the Sons of the Revolution has given considerable space to these early Cartwrights in their publication. The following notice appears on page 12 of the September 1931 issue relating thereto: "These data are compiled from unpublished records of deeds, wills, and marriages found in the States of Maryland and Virginia, by Mrs. H. R. Carpenter, genealogist." I have copied freely from this data.

Beginning on page 347, following the early Cartwrights, is a brief summary of a particular branch. For this outline there are Bible records, funeral notices, and other stated references for over two hundred years, dating from John, 1725-1780, to the present time.

The pages 353-4-7 and 399 are copies of the work of Amanda Holman (Cartwright) Taylor, as are also pages 438-9 and 441 under HOLMAN FAMILY. Other members of the family supplying Cartwright data are: Eugenia Polk Cartwright (Mrs. J. I. Cartwright) of Terrell, and Lena Lane Cartwright (Mrs. Lem K. Preston) of Waco, Texas.
The old CARTWRIGHT ARMS was granted in the fifteenth year of the reign of James I. Records show that ten coats of arms have been granted at different times.
THE ORIGIN OF THIS SURNAMES PROPERLY COMES UNDER THE NAME OF WRIGHT—the source which gave so many families their cognomen. The Anglo-Saxon word “wyrhte” signified in the broadest sense a workman, but more specifically an artificer in hard materials. The name “smith” was given to a worker in metals and “wright” was the trade name applied to one who worked in wood materials. Consequently, the name “wright” came to be used in conjunction with a carpenter, and smith was called blacksmith—the “black” coming from the smoke and soot from the smith’s furnace.

From the trade name “wyrhte” we get many variations of names to which “wright” is usually a suffix. Such names as Cartwright, a maker of carts or wagons; Boatwright, Shipwright, Shoewright, Glasswright and dozens of others are well known in America as well as in Great Britain and various countries in Europe.

The accompanying coat of arms is accredited to Thomas Cartwright, of Newark, N. J., where he was living in the year 1862. He was descended from the Cartwrights of County Northampton, England. The arms are blazoned: “Argent, on a fess nae, two Catherine wheels of the first. Crest, a lion’s head argent charged on the neck with a Catherine wheel sable.”

In this coat armor the “Catherine wheel” is the symbol of the Wright’s trade, although the wheel itself was originally used as an instrument of torture.

"Peter Cartwright (Matthew) at time of his father's death in 1688-9 was about two years of age, proving that Sarah, his mother, was a young widow."

Peter Cartwright (Matthew) fourth and youngest son of Matthew Cartwright, emigrant, "was born in St. Mary's County, Maryland, 1687 (deposition made in year 1737 gives age at 50 years). He married Judith Slye, daughter of Robert and Priscilla Slye (authority of will dated and proved 1698 in which Robert Slye refers to his daughter Judith, and wills her land in Charles County which was left him by his father. Tract known as ‘Norwood’.

In 1713 John Slye (brother of Judith) sells to Peter Cartwright a tract of land known as ‘Lapworth’ in consideration of 9 pounds sterling and 1500 lbs. of tobacco. Tract situate in Charles County and adjoining ‘Norwood.’ Also reference of Matthew, son of Peter Cartwright: “to my mother . . . Judith Slye, wife of Peter Cartwright.”

"Matthew not mentioned in his father’s will, but probably the oldest son.”

Note—No record of marriage or death of Judith. She was evidently wife of Peter before 1713, the year he buys ‘Lapworth’ of his brother-in-law, John Slye.

"Inventory of the estate of Peter Cartwright was dated Oct. 12, 1751. The Executors were Hester (Ester) and Thomas Cartwright. It is a complete record of the settlement of the estate. Mention is made of 847 pounds of tobacco received from Matthew Cartwright (This is the son not mentioned in the will.)

“It is evident that the older children, Matthew, Robert, Thomas, and perhaps some of the girls, are children of his first wife, Judith Slye. Robert is evidently the son of Judith; both her father and grandfather were named Robert.”

REV. PETER CARTWRIGHT, was the only living child of his mother Christiana Garvin Cartwright, at the time of her death. She died at the home of her daughter-in-law, Sophia Wilcox, widow of John.

CARTWRIGHT NOTES:

"A statement was made by Rev. Peter Cartwright, (applicant of pension for his father, Peter, Sr.) that two of his father’s brothers fell at the battle of Brandywine. Although it seems probable that Matthew of Amherst Co., was one of the uncles, it was not proven. Recently an Amherst County Order Book has come to light through the efforts of Mrs. J. C. Pollard, of Richmond, Va. In this book on p. 509, dated June 3, 1782, a notice is found which proves without doubt that Matthew, whose enlistment was found in Amherst County, Va., died during the Revolution, and probably fell in battle according to family tradition. Margaret, his wife, must have died about 1732.

See this volume, p. 332.
An autobiography of Rev. Peter Cartwright, (who was Circuit Rider for a certain district) is in possession of the family of Matthew Cartwright, of Terrell, Texas.

Jackson was a consistent church-goer all his life, even before he contributed so much of his influence and means to the establishment of the Hermitage church; and an amusing episode, and one typical of the times, took place in October, 1818, when the Reverend Peter Cartright, the famous backwood preacher, was holding services in a Methodist church in Nashville, preaching on the text: "What shall it profit a person if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Parson Cartright, who was a sort of pioneer Billy Sunday, had hardly more than announced his text than General Jackson entered the church and stood a moment in the aisle looking for a seat. The resident minister, seated behind the Reverend Cartright, pulled at his coattails and said in a stage whisper: "General Jackson has come in!" This interruption aroused the indignation of the fiery parson and he retorted in a voice loud enough to be heard by all: "Who is General Jackson? If he don't get his soul converted, God will damn him as quick as he will a Guinea nigger!" General Jackson, so it is told, joined in the mirth aroused by this spirited retort (a near blasphemy in those days of Jackson's transcendent popularity), and the preaching proceeded without further untoward incident. But the pastor of the church was fearful that the General might have been offended by the outspoken clergyman, and he set out nearly the next morning to make an apology for the incident. It happened, however, that General Jackson met Mr. Cartright on the street face to face that morning and, reaching out his hand, said: "Mr. Cartright, you are a man after my own heart. I am very much surprised at Mr. Mac (the local pastor) to think he would suppose that I would be offended at you. No sir, I told him that I highly approved of your independence that a minister of Jesus Christ ought to love everybody and fear no mortal man. I told him that if I had a few thousand such fearless, independent officers as you were, and a well drilled army, I could take old England."

This episode comes down to us in Parson Cartright's own memoirs, and it may be that it has gained something in the telling. It does not, however, appear out of character for either of them. Mr. Cartright was the kind of man who would not hesitate to say what he thought, in the pulpit or out; and Jackson was an admirer of spunk wherever he found it.
MISCELLANEOUS CARTWRIGHT RECORDS

Matthew Cartwright, the emigrant, married Sarah—. Edward Farr, one of the witnesses of Matthew's will, may have married Sarah, the widow. Sarah Farr is one of the appraisers of Thomas Cartwright's estate in 1711-12, and settled the estate of Joanna Cartwright in 1714. Thomas and Joanna were children of Matthew and Sarah Cartwright. In 1730 Edmond Farr made his will naming three young children: son Clement, 15 years of age, and two daughters. Edmond is without doubt the son of Edward, owner of the plantation, "Boston."

Edmond names Peter Cartwright as "nearest of kin," at that time the only living son of the emigrant Matthew. Peter was probably his step-brother.

Peter Cartwright, at the time of his father's death in 1688-9, was about two years of age, proving that his mother, Sarah, was a young widow.

Authority of Mrs. E. E. Check.
Data submitted as inference.

Peter Cartwright, son of Matthew the emigrant, married Esther Slye in St. Charles County, Md., in 1725. This record was contributed by Mrs. E. E. Check of San Francisco. Authority of St. Charles Co., Md., marriage records.

Christiana Garvin, was probably born in Pennsylvania around 1750, (this date approximately from 1830 census of Illinois, at which time she was living with her son Peter. Census records: "one female between 80 and 90.")

She married Peter, Sr., in 1787. She was said to have two sons by the name of Wilcox, and the Rev. Peter in one of his publications refers to half brothers. She died in Cadwell County, Ky., in 1838, at the home of her daughter-in-law, Sophia Wilcox, widow of John. Peter, Sr., died in the same county in 1809. He is called "old Mr. Cartwright" and was probably born around 1748.

The parentage of Peter Sr., not determined, but supposed to be Matthew (d) who d. in 1772 and had removed to Fairfax Co., Va.

ROBERT LEWIS TO AUSTIN
Schooner May of Orleans, Red Fish Bar
April 11th 1825

Col. Austin, D Sir,

If my acquaintance are sufficient, I beg leave to introduce to your acquaintance, Mr. Jesse Cartwright, from near Woodville, Misspi a planter of his respectibility. He wishes to become a settler in your colony, you will no doubt be pleased with him on acquaintance,—we have had a tedious trip from N. Orleans four weeks yesterday since we left there, we have 36 passengers. I have upwards of $3000 in goods some (Grocerie)s for this country, and goods for the Spanish Market, I am anxious to get them to your town as soon as possible, I should like to have waggons enough to take them all at one trip, in weight I have about 7500 or 8000 lbs. If you could send to waggons to Meet Me at the ware house I would take it as a particular favor,—The schooner draws upward of seven feet water she has to be lightened, it will be from 6 to 10 days before we can get to Docr. Hunters, then my good will (be ta)ken (to) . . . (imme)diately . . . I should like to know by the return of Mr. Cartwright, if I could depend on the waggons, if I can, I will send an express on My arrival at Docr. Hunters to let them know now what day to meet me at the warehouse.

Robert Lewis (Rubric)

On page 1102, "The Austin Papers," Vol. II, Part 2, is given a letter from R. M. Cartwright to Stephen F. Austin; and on page 1103 is a letter to Robert M. Cartwright from Humphrey Jackson.

(Humphrey Jackson is the great-grandfather of Vivian Roberts, of Beaumont, Texas).
John Cartwright (i) married Judith Aascom—widow of Charles III, 1772, St. Mary’s County. Ref.: “Chancery Papers,” No. 1. This John was born 1746, son of William and Dorothy Keech Cartwright.

John Cartwright (Matthew) m. Sarah Burroughs. He died in 1708. Authority of will of Sarah Burroughs Carter, dated 1733 proved Aug. 3, 1757, in which she mentions “my three loving children ‘Mary, Matthew and Elizabeth.’” Again: “to my loving sonne Matthew Cartwright; Elizabeth Edwards (wife of John Edwards and Mary Cartwright (daughter) Executrix.”

Matthew Cartwright (c) (John-Matthew) married Elizabeth—and she became the wife after 1751 (date of Matthew’s death) of John Horrell, or Howell.

In the will of John Burroughs he refers to gift to “daughter Margaret Cartwright”—will dated 1715. It was assumed that she was the wife of John Cartwright (Matthew-Matthew) as the witness of said will was John Cartwright.

On same page as the above is the following: “Thomas Cartwright who died in 1711 or ’12—no will found, only an inventory—was brother of John 1st, and son of Matthew the emigrant. He may have married Margaret Burroughs and the signer of John Burroughs’ will may have been John Cartwright, grandson of said Burroughs. Tho., as was of the proper generation to have married Margaret Burroughs. Given as inference.”

My dear Mrs. Roberts:-
I have sent you the last complete set of "Bulletins" that I have on the Cartwright family.

It is my opinion that your line is very closely connected with Rev. Peter's line. Peter looks very much like Matthew who married Amanda Holman.

These data were obtained from deeds, wills, and the few scattering birth records that could be found in Md., N. C. and Va. The John line (who m. Sarah Miller) was quite complete from Md., into N. C. where he died, some of the children's births were found in Md. Although your relatives seem to wish to tie this line into Robert's of Va., I know that it is not the same family. If you will write to J. Cartwright of Nashville, Tenn., care of War Department, you will see that he has a great deal on this line.

There are two sources from which your John came; he was either the son of John, son of Matthew and Susannah or he was descended from Matthew, son of the first Peter. The second guess is not likely.

Robert of Va., was the son of William of Va. Dr. Pallette, g.t. grandson of Rev. Peter believes that he is descended from, Matthew 1st, Peter 2nd., Matthew 3rd., Peter Sr., who married Christiana Garvin, and his son Rev. Peter.

We are most unfortunate in being unable to find the descendants of John, minor son of Matthew and Susannah, or Matthew, son of Peter and Judith Slye.

If you have any data shall be very glad to hear from you.

With kindest wishes, I am Sincerely,
E. F. J. Tafe,
Assistant Genealogist.

P. S.
Line of Robert given by Mr. J. A. Cartwright:
1. Robert Cartwright, b. about 1640, Lower Norfolk Co., Va., m. Ann Shipp
2. Their son William, m. Mary Keeling
3. Their son Robert, m. Pembroke Hunter

Mr. Cartwright says that to his knowledge this line is not connected with Rev. Peter's.

Just where John 1725-1780, ties in with the earlier Cartwrights' has not been determined; but his eldest son is named Peter, which would indicate a close relationship to perhaps Peter 1st. In the will of Peter 1st he fails to mention his son Matthew (who d. 1772); it is conceivable, therefore, that he might fail to mention a son John, whose birth date coincides with that of some of his other children. His son Robert is b. 1722; his son Thomas, is b. 1723.

In Dec. 1931 "Bulletin" on page 10 is this item: "Thomas Cartwright, son of Peter 1st, or brother of John late of Frederick Co., Md. March 16, 1762; on a note paid by order of court." From this it seems clear that Peter 1st had sons Thomas and John; and if this is correct the line may then be complete, for there are Bible records, etc., from John, the planter of Frederick County to the present time.

If correct the line would be like this:

Dear Mrs. Tafe:

I wish to thank you for your kindness in sending me the copies of your "Bulletin." I have read them with great interest, and quite agree with you that there is no connection between the Matthew Cartwright line of Maryland, and the Cartwrights of Lower Norfolk and Princess Anne County, Va., unless it is that John Cartwright, father of Matthew, was the common ancestor.

I have heard it stated that the father of Thomas Cartwright, Sr., who first appears in the records of Lower Norfolk, about 1650, was a son of John, who settled in James City, Va., in 1623. I have never been able to find verification of this however, as the records of Williamsburg, the County seat of James City, unfortunately have been destroyed. There was such a person as John of James City Co., for his name appears as a witness on the will of John Rolfe.

The first Thomas was married twice. His second wife was Alice, who was tried for witchcraft and acquitted. Thomas, Jr., in a petition to the court refers to her as "my mother-in-law," evidently meaning step-mother. Thomas Jr., got into trouble in Lower Norfolk and left the County. This is brought in a petition of his father to the court asking to be released of a heavy bond which he was forced to put up as security for his son's good conduct. The first wife of Thomas Jr., was named Mary. We think she was a daughter of John Salmons (or Sammons) who preferred the witchcraft charge against Alice Cartwright. He had a daughter of that name, and the whole affair bears the earmarks of a neighborhood and family quarrel. A later deed executed by Thomas Jr., does not carry the wife's signature. She was probably dead. Thomas Jr., evidently left Virginia and went to Pasquotank County, N. C., for his will is probated in that county in 1704. He married the second time, a widow Trueblood. In her will she mentions Trueblood children.

The sons of Thomas junior were William, John, Thomas, Robert, and Job. Robert remained in Virginia and returned there for he purchased land on the eastern shore of Elizabeth River, in the same locality where Thomas senior had patented land. Robert married Ann Shipp, daughter of Francis Shipp, son of William Shipp. His sons were William, Thomas, and John. William married Mary Keeling, daughter of Thomas Keeling and a descendant of Ensign Thomas Keeling. Their only son was Robert, who emigrated to Tennessee via North Carolina. Robert's first wife was Ann, daughter of Robert Huggins, and his second and third wives were sisters, Mary and Pembroke Hunter, daughters of Capt. John Hunter and Jacomine (Johnson) Hunter.

I am descended from Jacob Cartwright, son of Robert and Pen-broke. Pembroke Hunter had a distinguished ancestry. Her lines included those of Johnson, Langley, Thelaball and Mason.

I trust that what I have given you will be of use in connection with the Matthew Cartwright descendants. I shall be glad to be of further help if I can.

In case you know anything of the first John, or if you can put me in touch with anybody who does, I would certainly appreciate it.

Yours very truly,

J. A. CARTWRIGHT.

In accordance with the above letter:

John 1602, settled in James County, Virginia, about 1623.

His son Thomas, m. 1st, unknown
m. 2nd, Alice
(Thomas first appeared on record about 1650).

His son Thomas, Jr., m. 1st, Mary Salmons. (Preferred witchcraft charges against Alice).
   m. 2nd, widow Trueblood
Children: William, Thomas, John, Robert, and Job.

His son Robert, m. Ann Shipp
Children: William, Thomas, and John.

His son William, m. Mary Keeling
Children: Robert, b. 1722, who emigrated to Tennessee.

His son Robert, m. 1st, Ann Huggins
m. 2nd, Mary Hunter
m. 3rd, Pembroke Hunter

Note—We find again conflicting records. Alexander Cartwright in a letter to Robert L. Cartwright of Waco, states that the sons of Thomas, Jr., are Matthew, Peter, and John. They could be the sons of his first wife, Mary Salmons, however, and the ones mentioned in outline above the sons of the second wife, the widow Trueblood.

There are however three other sons of this marriage whose names, and date of birth, are not given in the family record, viz: Robert, David, and Jessie Cartwright. Jesse (or Jessie) the youngest member of the family, went to Texas.

The third wife of Robert Cartwright—Penny or Pembroke Hunter, is believed to have been a sister of his second wife, Mary Hunter.

It appears that from the three marriage of Robert Cartwright, seventeen children were born. As to the offspring of the first and second marriages, nothing is known except the tragic death of John Hunter, who was killed by Indians in 1780. The other children—one son and four daughters, probably married and remained in Virginia.

Loaned for copy by: Mrs. James I. Cartwright, of Terrell; original data supplied by Mrs. Lem Preston.

NOTE: According to James A. Cartwright, Robert 1722, is the son of William, not John. (See letter p. 338.)
If John 1725-1780 is a descendant of John 1602 who came from Northumberland, England, and sailed for America on the ship Adventure, he cannot also be descendant of Matthew, emigrant, who came to America from the Province of Zealand. They are evidently two separate and distinct lines, for Matthew, emigrant, was born in the Province of Zealand eleven years after John 1602, was settled in Virginia.

Mrs. Ella F. J. Tafe gives her opinion that John 1602, could not be of the Matthew-Peter line, and James A. Cartwright is in agreement, saying there is no connection between the Matthew Cartwright line of Maryland and the Cartwrights of Lower Norfolk unless it is that John Cartwright, father of Matthew, was the common ancestor.

If John 1725-1780 does belong to the Virginia Cartwrights, it is likely that it would be as a descendant of one of the sons of Robert who married Ann Shipp, or of Thomas Cartwright, Jr., who was the grandson of John 1602. Thomas Cartwright, Jr., married first Mary Salmons and they removed to St. Mary’s County, Maryland, in 1676, and their sons, according to Alexander Cartwright’s letter to Robert L. Cartwright, were: Matthew, Peter, and John. (Perhaps the names enumerated in “an outline p. 339” as the sons of Thomas Cartwright, Jr., namely, William, Thomas, John, Robert, and Job, were the sons of his second wife).

Again: Robert L. Cartwright states on p. 355 that Matthew 1754-1812, was the son of one of three brothers, Matthew, Peter and John, who emigrated to America from England and settled in Norfolk, Virginia, about 1700. In such case it would seem to be fact, that John 1725-1780 does not tie in with either Matthew-Peter line, or John 1602, of James City; but to unknown ancestors in the old country.
Interesting Story of
ROBERT CARTWRIGHT—VALIANT PIONEER

As published in the Nashville Banner of August 8th, 1914.

Author: I have been told that the data for this paper was compiled by the wife and son of Judge Andrew Cartwright, of Nashville, Tenn., and descendants.

One of the most interesting points along the proposed route of the Tennessee and Kentucky Interurban, is the grave of Robert Cartwright, one of Tennessee's earliest pioneers. The graveyard is situated on a high hill about ten miles from the city of Nashville on the Dickerson Road. On the same hill are the traces of the foundations which mark the site of his permanent dwelling on this land which he entered, and which is still in the family's possession.

Robert Cartwright, was one of the first settlers at Wautauga, and took a leading hand in governmental affairs, and all movements that pertained to the interest of the settlers. He had a large family of children, and many of his descendants are residing in Nashville and vicinity, at the present time.

The Cartwright Family itself is exceedingly ancient. It dates back in England to the Norman conquest, and records show ten Coats of Arms granted at various times. The family in America, dates back to 1623, when John Cartwright removed from England to James City County, Virginia, where he established a vast estate.

The Coat of Arms is described as follows: "Erm, afess between three fireballs sa., crest- a wolf's head erased, or pierced through the neck with a spear arg. Motto: "Defend the Fold.'"

Robert Cartwright was born in the year 1722, in Princess Anne County, Virginia. Records state that he was a man of education and prominence. He occupied positions of civil authority that were only granted to the landed gentry prior to the Revolution. In 1745 he was married to Anne, daughter of Robert Hugins. She lived one year after her marriage. In 1750, he married Mary, daughter of John Hunter. She died in 1764. He then married Pembroke Hunter, supposed to be a sister of his second wife, although there are not available records by which this can be established. In 1763, he removed to Currituck County, North Carolina, and to do this he obtained a pass signed by the vestrymen of this county, stating that he had an inclination of travel, "is well off in land and negroes, is an honorable man, behaving himself as he ought to." Later he secured another pass, and moved into Orange County. There he became acquainted with the Hendersons, Harts, and Boones, from whom he learned of the vast possibilities of the land beyond the mountains. He then joined the Alamance emigration, without a pass, for the Wautauga Settlement.

SIGNS COMPACT

While at Wautauga he was one of the number to sign a compact of government drawn up in opposition to the British. This document antedated the Declaration of Independence by several years, and the
The government established under it was the first act set up in this country openly opposed to the power of the Crown. Later he signed a pact of the same nature, providing for the maintenance of law and order in the Cumberland Settlements.

He evidently remained at Wautauga several years, for he was present at the 4th of July celebration in 1777—which lasted for two weeks. Many Indian Chiefs were entertained. Land was bought from them, and treaties signed. However, these were the same Indians who later were armed by the British to make war on the settlers. In 1779 he joined the party led by Col. John Donalson, which set out by river from Fort Patrick Henry, for the Robertson settlement at the French Lick; now Nashville. The journey occupied about three months during which they endured untold hardships. The winter of 1779 is considered the coldest in the history of this section. The Cumberland river froze solid for miles. The shoals hindered travel, and the rapids were continually overturning the smaller boats, spilling their occupants, together with the goods, into the river. On both banks they were pursued by hostile Indians, who had orders from their employers (the British) to exterminate this band. A case of smallpox broke out in the party, and the boat on which it developed was immediately abandoned. The savages thinking they had gained a prize, pounced upon it eagerly, but the awful epidemic fastened itself upon them and ravaged their ranks fearfully. Terror-stricken, the Indians scattered, and the settlers were not molested by them for some time.

Mr. Cartwright’s elder children were probably left in Virginia. He brought with him John Hunter, Jacob, Thomas, Elizabeth, and Penny. David and Jessie were born here. The family occupied a large boat to themselves. They brought with them a few slaves, and such utensils and implements as were absolutely necessary. He had a brass cannon which was used repeatedly in defense of the boat, and later, of the Fort. It was exploded during the Lafayette Celebration here. His camp kettle is now in the possession of the Tennessee Historical Society.

The adventurous trip finally closed with the party arriving at Nashville. Some were in favor of going farther, but Mr. Cartwright is reported to have said, “I am content to abide here,” which conveyed the sentiment of all the women. So deep in the wilderness, beset by wild beasts and wilder men, they “sang the songs of Zion.”

Cabins, surrounded by a palisade, were constructed on the Bluffs, and the forest was cleared for the cultivation of corn; however, the Indians interfered with the cultivation of the fields, and drove away all the game, so that a famine ensued.

ATTACKED BY INDIANS

Once while attempting to work the fields in which is now known as Clover Bottom, a small party—among whom were Mr. Cartwright and his seventeen-year-old son, John Hunter—was attacked by Indians. All escaped but John, who was murdered and scalped. His father, as history states, "being an elderly man, perhaps 55," was given the only horse in the party. He was compelled to fly for his life with the piteous cries of his young son ringing in his ears. This young man was one of the first martyrs in the cause of civilization in Tennessee, but no memorial has ever been placed to his name.

The famine finally became so grave, that all who had horses went up to Harrodsburg, Kentucky. On leaving Wautauga Mr. Cartwright brought with him a number of apple trees. These he planted here, but on going to Harrodsburg he took them with him. After remaining there several years, he returned, bringing the apple trees. In spite of their many plantings and replantings, they continued to thrive and some of them are still alive.

Once, to meet a necessity, he devised a mill to grind the settler's corn. He used the novel but practical idea of inserting cow-horns in the rim of the wheel. The mill stood on what is known as Page's branch. Mr. Cartwright obtained a large tract of land here. At the time of his death he owned 6,000 acres.

His quaint tombstone is still standing, bearing in crude letters the dates of his birth and death, and the epitaph: "A wit's a feather, a Chief's a rod; but an honest man is the noblest work of God." He did valiant service for his country in fighting Indians, and in opening up this vast wonderful country west of the Alleghenies to civilization. Those early settlers who braved the dangers beyond the frontier, gave this country at the close of the Revolution, the Mississippi River for a western boundary.

Robert Cartwright established here one of the most populous families of the South. Some of his descendants have achieved great distinction. Many have joined the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution on his record, but his grave today is practically unknown, and no mark of tribute or respect, has ever been shown it.

John (1602) was witness to will of John Rolfe, of James City Co., Va., March 10, 1621.

John was the son of Abraham Cartwright of Aynhoo, Northamptonshire, England. He came to America in the ship Adventure, and was the first white man to explore the James River, Virginia.

Note: Perhaps William Cartwright instead of Abraham.

SKETCH OF ROBERT CARTWRIGHT

Robert Cartwright was 58 years old when he came to the Cumberland. From papers found in the Historical Collection at Nashville, it appears that he was a Sheriff's Deputy in Princess Anne County, Va., in the year 1758. He was evidently a man having considerable capacity for business, and must have had various and important transactions to engage his attention. There is a formal appointment of Robert Cartwright and others, as Guardian of the Public Peace, on the western shore of Princess Anne County, in 1760.

As an officer under his Majesty, it appears that he in several instances complied with the requirements of that Act of the British Parliament which caused such a commotion in the Colonies, and became one of the measures which produced the war of the Revolution. We allude to the Stamp Act.

The curious may be interested and amused by an examination of one of the old documents left by Mr. Cartwright, such as a Proclamation against an “outlying slave named Joe, doing mischief in the reign of our sovereign Lord, King George III.,” concluding, “God Save the King!”

The following order contains some information relating to local matters in Davidson County: “By order of the court Robert Cartwright is appointed to oversee the clearing out so far as White’s Creek, to Manaker’s station, the road as lately laid out by Heden Wells and Company; and that those living at Daniel Fraziers, Samuel Watkins, William Means, and William Coon’s and all within said bounds, work there under said direction of said Cartwright, in clearing out said road.

The above extracts taken from a sketch by Putman, (former President of the Tennessee Historical Society) are found in documents among the archives of the Tennessee Historical Society at Nashville. He was born in Princess Anne County, Va., in the year 1722. About the year 1763-4, he removed to Currituck County, North Carolina, and subsequently came with John Donaldson’s party to the French Salt Lick, on the Cumberland, arriving there April 24, 1780.

Robert Cartwright died in 1809, and was buried on the old homestead on Dry Creek near Goodlettsville, Davidson County.

Upon his tombstone is this epitaph:

“A wit’s a feather, a chief a rod,
An honest man, the noblest work of God.”

“His son James Cartwright, b. Feb. 14, 1770, lived and died in or near Gallatin, Tenn.; and was the grandfather of James Cartwright Warner, and Mrs. McLaughlin, and Mrs. Hord.”

“Mrs. Cunningham of Nashville, a descendant of Robert Cartwright, lives at the old Robert homestead. She says that Roberts’ father was William, and that John 1602, was the son of William of Annahoo, not Abraham.”

Thomas Cartwright, transported to Norfolk, Va., in 1652, when he was granted 300 acres of land in the East bank of the Eliza River.

John was transported to Norfolk, Va., in 1664, when he was granted 100 acres of land adjoining that of Thomas. John and Thomas were evidently sons of John of James City Co., Va. John sold his land in 1665 to John Salmon, and in 1770 Thomas Jr., quit claimed to John Salmon his interest in the property (possibly 300 acres).

On June 17, 1673, Michael and Anne Tertree sold to Thomas Jr., 100 acres of land on the Eliza River, and on June 18 (the next day) Thomas Jr., and Mary, his wife, quit claimed the right to Richard Williams. In 1676 Thomas and Mary were transported to St. Mary's Co., Md. Their sons were: Matthew, Peter, and John.

Does this information refer to John 1725-1780? He would have been about 50 to 52 years of age during the Revolution.

JOHN CARTWRIGHT emigrated to San Augustine, (then an unknown wilderness) in 1819. In that year the U. S. reluctantly agreed that the Sabine River should be the Western Boundary line of the Louisiana Purchase, and gave to Spain all claim to Texas. Family tradition is that John Cartwright represented the U. S. in taking possession of Texas, in order to strengthen whatever right it might have to claim the Rio Grande River instead of the Sabine, as a boundary line of the Louisiana Purchase, and the soldiers from Ft. Jessup frequently crossed the River to the defense of him and his home, against the Indians or Mexicans, after removing their uniforms, pretending to be on a hunt. By these precautions they kept down international complications.

John Cartwright’s settlement is conceded to be the earliest permanent settlement of American white men in Texas. John Cartwright owned the first cotton gin in Texas, built about 1823. He helped build the first Methodist church, built about 1823 in Sabine County.

He was a keen, brave, far-sighted man, and owned much land in Texas.

COPY OF MEMORANDA MADE BY R. L. CARTWRIGHT, after visiting the old John Cartwright homestead, 6 miles east of San Augustine, Texas, in company with H. W. Sublett, April 28th, 1909.

H. W. Sublett is a well educated and intelligent man, the youngest son of Col. P. A. Sublett, an officer of note in the Texas Army of 1836. H. W. Sublett says that John Cartwright was living at his old Apologoches homestead when his father, P. A. Sublett, his grandfather, Elisha Roberts, and Colonel Horton settled at their old homesteads near by in 1824. P. A. Sublett, bought the improvements of Mr. Firth, and Elisha Roberts bought the improvements of one Mr. Neil. These two improvements constitute the Sublett and Roberts (Brick Spring) homesteads. The Sublett and Roberts homestead tracts both call for the beginning at John Cartwright's corner.

M. Cartwright, my grandfather, came to Texas from Lebanon, Tenn., when he was 14 years of age, so say my father and uncles, and brought out the negroes and cleared the John Cartwright old field and built a cabin, and later, perhaps a year, the whole family removed to Texas.

M. Cartwright was born in 1807, to this add 14 and we have 1821, the year the old place was settled, agreeable to this tradition. John Broocks says that Col. Horton told him that the old place was settled by John Cartwright in 1819. Texas at that time was claimed by the U. S. as part of the Louisiana Purchase, but in that year the U. S. gave up her claim to Texas to Spain, and Sabine River was established as the boundary between the U. S. and Spain by treaty, Florida being acquired at the same time.

The above are the circumstances surrounding the settlement above described, one of the oldest, if not the oldest, permanent settlements in Texas, in fact in all the territory West of the Louisiana Purchase. This settlement bears the impress of a high degree of prosperity. The store connected with it was moved to San Augustine in about 1831, when that town and platted, and was run there under the firm name of John Cartwright and Son, the son being Matthew Cartwright, who afterward became a very large land owner in Texas, evidenced by State and County land records &c.

John Cartwright was the son of Matthew Cartwright (1754-1812) my great-great-grandfather of Lebanon, Tenn., whose home near that town was a large and beautiful one. He (M. C.) was a son of one of three brothers, Matthew, John, and Peter, who came to America from England, and settled at Norfolk, Va., about 1700.

The collection covers all periods of Texas history, from the earliest days of the Spanish missionaries in the province of Tejas, through the colonial era, to the present. SERIES II, No. 9

Austin, Texas, March—It was not long after Texas won her independence from Mexico that thriving businesses of various kinds were established in the new republic. One of the earliest and most extensive of these, and one which projected itself not only through the lifetime of the founders, but through succeeding generations, was the mercantile house of Cartwright.

Matthew Cartwright was born in Wilson County, Tenn., November 11, 1807. He came to Texas with his parents in 1825, settling on a farm four miles east of the present site of San Augustine. In October, 1836, he was married to a neighbor girl, Amanda Holman. Some time before his marriage he and his father entered the merchandising business together, he later buying out his father’s interest and continuing operation in his own name until 1847. He had marked success in his business venture, and accumulated large properties. From 1847 to 1860, he became a real estate dealer, locating, buying and selling large and small tracts of promising Texas land. He was lenient with regard to terms, and not infrequently gave outright to widows the titles of lands their deceased husbands had failed to pay out. In 1865, he again entered the merchandising field with his sons, A. P. Cartwright and Leonidas Cartwright, continuing until his death April 2, 1870.

Records of the Cartwright business are among the family archives collection of the University of Texas Library, and the correspondence of this firm is valuable in reflecting the economic conditions of early Texas. One of these documents is an agreement between Matthew Cartwright and his father, John Cartwright, on the occasion of their renewing their partnership after a lapse of some time:

“Free State of Coahula & Texas
“Municipality of San Augustin

“An agreement made and entered into this March the 15th, eighteen hundred and thirty five; Be it known that John Cartwright and Matthew Cartwright of aforesaid municipality and State have this day agreed to put in an equal capital of thirty five hundred dollars each, and renew the firm of M. Cartwright & Company for the term of one year for the purpose of carrying on a mercantile house in the town of San Augustin and any other speculation that may be agreed on by the parties. Conditions as follows: Matthew Cartwright agrees to take charge of the business of said firm and attend to it in every capacity...
according to its intrust, with diligence and industry; in consideration of which, John Cartwright agrees to pay him five hundred dollars at the expiration of said term—the goods and merchandise remaining on hand belonging to M. Cartwright & Co. are put in to the new firm at six hundred dollars. The firm agrees to receive of John Cartwright lot No. 147 and corner half of No. 145 in the town of San Augustine, at two hundred and fifty dollars as part of his stock. Either party failing to furnish his part of stock to go into operation with said firm agrees to procure it on his credit by said party paying the amount at any time to the firm with fifteen per cent interest from the time of procuring said amount.

"It is agreed that the firm shall take the holdings on lot No. 145 and pay for them and all improvements that may be made on them.

"Either of the parties shall have merchandise or goods for special use and consumption at a discount of twenty five per cent on the regular retail price.

"M. Cartwright agrees to discount out of the amount to be paid him by J. Cartwright for the time that said J. Cartwright may have to attend to said business in M. Carwright’s absence.

"The conditions of the foregoing contract being complied with, the said John Cartwright and M. Cartwright shall be equally interested in all property and effects belonging to said firm of M. Cartwright & Co.

"Equity and Justice our motto: Agreed to by the parties day and date before written.

(Signed) Jno. Cartwright
M. Cartwright

"By the consent of parties the before mentioned firm of M. Cartwright & Co. is continued until the 15th day of March 1837—said M. Cartwright takes charge on the same terms.

Concerning the original John Cartwright, there is little information on hand. Concerning his son Matthew, however, it is known that he was born in Wilson County, Tennessee, Nov. 11, 1807, and came here when a boy with slaves. He started a mercantile business and traded with the Indians; also opened up a farm and worked his slaves thereon. The farm was three miles east of the present site of San Augustine, and there he continued in farming and merchandising until 1833 or 1834. A short time after Matthew came, his father and family also came. Three miles west of San Augustine at the time lived the family of Isaac Holman, who had come from Lincoln County, Tennessee, about 1833. Matthew Cartwright was married in 1836 to Amanda Holman, and of their family of children two are still living (1914).

Matthew Cartwright after his marriage became a merchant in San Augustine with his father as a partner; later was in business by himself until 1847, and then up to the time of the war was engaged in locating and dealing in Texas land, for which work he rode horseback through all the settled portions of the state. He had one horse on which he rode over 20,000 miles. He was a man of great liberality and justice in all his relations, and again and again granted extension to the families of settlers who were unable to meet the strict terms of agreement concerning their land purchases.

After the war, he resumed merchandising, but soon turned the business over to his two sons. His death occurred April 2, 1870. His wife survived him twenty-four years, dying at San Augustine in her seventy-seventh year.

Matthew Cartwright was one of the outstanding business men of the town and amassed a great fortune, which he left to his descendants. * * * Contrary to the policy of Mr. Thomas, he owned very few slaves, just enough to attend to the work at his home and cultivate a few acres of land. The basis of his fortune was land. Under the early colonization laws each immigrant who brought his family with him was given a certificate for a league and labor of land, and single men received certificates for smaller amounts. Mr. Cartwright bought these certificates, proved them up before the Board of Land Commissioners, and received patents for land when he had located it. He was almost, if not quite, the only man in East Texas to appraise rightly the value of the lands in the great northwest of Texas, and located many of his certificates on the fertile prairies of that region, which, when their values increased as the country settled up, proved a source of immense wealth.
Although best known as a buyer, Matthew Cartwright was also a seller of land, but whereas he bought land in large tracts he sold in smaller ones, in order to aid the man of small capital who wished to make a home in Texas. He helped these small farmers in every way possible. He took notes for unpaid amounts on lands and aided his debtors when they had misfortune, aiding them until they were again on their feet. In many cases he gave deeds to lands before the purchase price was all paid, when the husband had died and left a balance due on his land. His attitude toward the poor and toward those who only needed a little help to become prosperous endeared him to everyone, and few citizens of his time were as universally beloved. He, like his father, was a man of large stature with a heart that responded to his physique.

And of his father, John Cartwright:

The father of Matthew Cartwright, John Cartwright, it is believed migrated from Virginia to Tennessee. He was a true frontiersman, a man of robust physique, large in stature, and large in heart and mind. He lived in Wilson County, near Lebanon, until 1825, when he removed with his family to Texas. He established a store in San Augustine, Texas, which he conducted successfully with the aid of his oldest son. He was not only a successful business man and merchant, but was prominent as a buyer and seller of lands. He became a large land owner, believing thoroughly in the value of landed property, and his faith has been justified, and in fact was justified in his time. He died in 1841, at about 54 years of age.
MATTHEW CARTWRIGHT
San Augustine

From “Indian Wars and Pioneers of Texas.”

It is a source of real pleasure to the author to preserve in this volume, containing as it does, so many memorials of honored Texans who have passed away, his estimate of the services and worth of Matthew Cartwright, whose memory is revered by thousands of the older people of the State who knew and esteemed him. Texas never had a more upright or useful citizen.

He was born in Wilson County, Tenn., November 11th, 1807, and removed to Texas with his parents in 1825. They settled on a farm four miles east of the present site of San Augustine, and there he grew to manhood and engaged in farming and merchandising until 1833 or 1834.

In 1835 Col. Isaac Holman, with his family, moved from Lincoln County, Tenn., and settled three miles northwest of San Augustine. His family consisted of himself, his wife, five sons, and five daughters. During the year Mathtew Cartwright became a frequent visitor at the Holman home, and on the 18th day of October, 1836, he and Miss Amanda Holman were united in marriage and settled in San Augustine. She was a faithful helpmeet and assisted in building up their fortunes and in raising an intelligent family, all of whom (except A. P. Cartwright, who died in 1873) are still living and are useful and respected citizens of Texas.

After his marriage, Mr. Cartwright embarked in merchandising at San Augustine in co-partnership with his father, later bought his father’s interest and thereafter conducted the business in his own name until about the year 1847, meeting with marked success and accumulating large property. From 1847 to 1860 he was actively engaged in locating and dealing in Texas lands, riding horseback through the State, looking out good locations, and selling in small tracts to actual settlers on most favorable terms—frequently granting extensions covering a score of years to enable purchasers to secure their homes, and in many instances of death before completion of payment would make title to widow or children without further consideration. Thus he assisted in building up many happy homes and in settling the country with worthy and prosperous people, a man’s character for industry and integrity having great weight with him in contracting sales.

In the fall of 1865 he once more engaged in merchandising, taking into the business his sons, A. P. and Leonidas Cartwright, in order to afford them business training. His landed interests in about three years began to demand all his attention, but the mercantile business was continued by his sons until 1870. April 2nd of that year his long and useful career was closed by death. Besides his many friends, he left his wife, four sons and two daughters to mourn his loss.

Mrs. Amanda Cartwright survived her husband twenty-four years, dying at San Augustine in her seventy-seventh year. After the death of her husband she resided at the old family homestead, with her son Leonidas, who acted as her business manager until the time of her death. Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright were beloved by all who knew them, and numbered among their friends all of the old settlers in San Augustine and adjoining counties.

The following copy of lease signed by M. Cartwright, is supposedly the first oil lease made in Texas. Original in possession of James I. Cartwright, Terrell.

COPY OF OIL LEASE, 1866

This agreement made and entered into at San Augustine, Texas, this 12th day of August, A. D. 1866, by and between M. Cartwright of the first part and B. T. Karanaugh of the second part, Witnesseth,

That the party of the first part, for the consideration hereinafter expressed, leases and doth hereby lease to the said party of the second part, the privilege of Mining for Petroleum or rock oil, on a certain tract of land in Jefferson County, Texas, known as follows: The South half of headright survey of James W. Bullock, containing 2214 acres (less 400 acres deeded to A. Houston). The said lease is given under the following terms and conditions. The said Karanaugh is to go upon the land and prospect for oil. If he finds prospects sufficiently encouraging to justify boreing he is to continue to enjoy the privilege until it is determined whether there is oil to be found there or not. If it is found in sufficient quantities to justify working the lease is to continue for twenty years with the privilege of using all necessary timber and material for carrying on the oil business; if no oil is found then this lease expires and is thereafter to be null and void. Should oil be found and the well worked The said Cartwright is to receive one tenth part of the oil produced he furnishing the barrels for his portion, to be delivered at the well. The said Karanaugh is to proceed without delay to explore the land and if satisfactory prospects are found he is to commence boreing as soon as it is in his power to do so and to prosecute the boreing until oil is found, or if it is known that it cannot be found, (the work to be so conducted as to determine within two months whether this lease is to be continued or not).

In testimony whereof the parties have hereunto subscribed their names this date written above.

Dear Mr. Roberts:

I am sending you herewith a copy of the Matthew Cartwright letter which we discussed recently. It turns out that it is a long letter of three pages rather than three letters as I had remembered it. I think you will be interested to see that it is from W. M. Simpson.

If you can secure any additional material of this sort for our archives, we shall be most appreciative. Peter's and Mercer's colonies are pet subjects of mine, and I am hoping that there are in existence other letters as rich in information on these subjects as the one I am enclosing.

Please remember that we are hoping to see you at our quarterly meeting Saturday November 20, at the Dallas Athletic Club at 12:15.

Sincerely yours,

the Collony, I saw no man that said his was introduced by any Person, If we would get Land then at all, we must get it Soon, for all the good Lands will be Taken by Preemption in less than 12 months, I had the opinion of Ochiltree and Rusk on the subject, and they give it is their oppinion that that Part of the contract which ( ) claims that was of an older date than the Contract is unconstitutional and and (sic) laying a Side the constitutionality of the contract that Gen, Murcer and his Associates have entirely failed to comply with their contract with the President, and the Contract pointedly says that a failure on the part of Charles Fenton Murcer, to comply with any part of the Contract Shall amt to a forfeiture of the whole.—The Con¬ tract Says,—that Gen, Murcer, Shall introduce and Settle i. e., 150 familys, by the 11th Day of May/45—that he shall introduce and Settle in good Comfortable Log cabbins on their own Lands set a part to them, 150 familys by the 1th Day of May 1845—in this part of his Contract he has Entirely failed, I traveled through the Collony in July last and Did not See 10 familys that Said that they were intro¬ duced by Gen, Murcer, or any one Els, That they have gone there with their own Accord, and Certain it is that not one out of 10, of the familys that are there, are on vacant land, and none of them on lands set a part to them, for there is not as yet a Survey made by the authoritys in Murcers Collony therefore, if there was the 150 familys, they are not living on their own land; and consequently have not the improvements as required in the Contract, but on the Contrary, there was not on the first Day of May last more than 75 familys and of those 75, 9 out of ten are Squatters on other Peoples Land, by casting your Eye upon the map; you will See that there was 6 or 700 surveys made and recorded in the very heart of that Collony; previous to the date of the Contract and the People have Setteled upon them; and are willing to buy of the owners, and they are willing to average land at $1.00 pr acre, and they have not settled on those Lands without Knowing, they have at a very Early day after the date of the Contract; furnished with a complete map of all "The surveys made in the Collony by Majr Pillary then agent for the Collony,—

But Gen, Murcer, has not only forfeited his contract on the grounds already mentioned, but he has failed in every requirement of the Con¬ tract, up to this time. Besides he has failed to comply with a Law Passed By the Congress of 44 Requiring him to complete the Survey of his collony by a certain date, at a forfeiture of this contract, The Survey of his Collony is not yet closed, nor nothing doing toward it nor is there a Single Survey made.

It is the opinion of all the States-men and Jurists, with whom I have conversed that the Contract is an Nulity, and that Surveys might be made there with perfect Propriety. and those gentlemen whose opinion might be most relyed on, are the first to participate, in the locating of those Lands. I shall be off for a few days, and shall make a quantity of Surveys the fieldnotes of which I shall have to Dispose of, when I come in I shall be certain to call on you, for by that time you (will) be convinced of the Propriety of Locating in that Section, The vacant Lands there is worth four times the quantity of vacant Lands any place that I know, and I can Put my finger at any time upon Every foot of vacant Land in the limits of this country, and I would much prefer Land in that Section to any other that is at this time vacant, it is not that I am limited, for I could Survey any where in this Country, Those who furnish me their Certificates before I go out, I shall feel under obligation to Survey first if you will send me your certificates, I will pledge my self to get you as good locations as can be had, or send me the number and quantity of your certificates in a letter, and I will serve you faithfully. I will wait with you until next fall, or I will take notes on good men or a good man ( ) if you write Do it immediately or I will not get it before I go out Respectfully your obt Servant; Etc, Etc, Etc, W. Some schemes for generating a relatively simple, non-iterative approach to a solution. The key feature is the use of a recursive process where each step is based on the output of the previous step. This contrasts with the iterative approach, which requires multiple steps to refine the solution. The advantage of the recursive method is its simplicity and ease of implementation, although it may not always achieve the same level of accuracy as the iterative method. Nevertheless, in many practical applications, the recursive approach provides a satisfactory solution with a reduced computational burden.

"It is an unusual distinction of a Texas family to have been represented through five successive generations in the State, but that distinction belongs to the Cartwrights. John Cartwright, the pioneer, settled at what is now San Augustine, in the year 1819, two years before Stephen Austin planted the first permanent American colony, and seventeen years before Texas gained her independence from Mexico. In the family of John Cartwright, the well known planter and land owner at San Augustine, are two children who represent the fifth generation of the family. There are several collateral branches of the Cartwright family in different sections of Texas, but the descent of the one now under consideration is through the original settler John Cartwright, Columbus Cartwright, to John Matthew Cartwright and the last named's children.

"John Matthew Cartwright was born at San Augustine in 1862. Reared in his native locality, with the exception of a few years spent in Central Texas, he always had his home there. At the present time he is the owner of a fine farm of two hundred acres adjoining San Augustine on the south. This is an historic place, having been in the possession of the Cartwright family since the earliest days of settlement, and some of the land has been in cultivation for nearly a hundred years. Mr. Cartwright still raises splendid crops of cotton and..."
corn, and from his experience one may conclude that the fertility of Texas soil in San Augustine county, cannot be easily exhausted. Some twenty-five or thirty acres of the Cartwright farm are devoted to pecan culture, and that pecan orchard is one of the most valuable assets of the farm. Mr. Cartwright is also owner of other valuable farm property in the country.

"John Matthew Cartwright, married Miss Emmie Massey, a daughter of C. B. and Eliza (Jones) Massey, of Rusk, Texas, pioneers of this commonwealth."

"Texas and Texans," p. 1769.

Home of
JOSEPH WARREN
Seventeen miles from Columbia, Mississippi, Great-Grandfather of ANNIE LEE WARREN ROBERTS
Joseph Warren, one of Marion County’s earliest slave owners, who had acquired great wealth, built himself a home which reflects honor on the architect of that day. The history connected with this house is a splendid reflection of the aristocratic ante-bellum days. Small tracts of land were bought or entered from the United States government different times from pioneer settlers and added to this plantation which numbered between 1,500 and 2,000 acres of land in 1859 when S. A. Foxworth fell heir to it from his father’s estate.

The site of this stately home is on an elevation midway between two streams whose attractiveness is enhanced by the growth of magnolia, iron wood, flowering bay, wild currant, may-haw, wild azaleas, yellow jasmine, woodbine, and smaller shrubs that grow near by. The main structure as it was originally built, a Colonial two-story, the floor plan of each being the same with two side galleries supported by massive columns and enclosed with balusters, extending the width of the house. In the rear are two partially enclosed galleries about 12 feet by 20 feet from which the staircase extends. Under these stairs is a large closet, the original key of which is now in possession of one of the heirs. On the front veranda open four heavy doors and eight windows. There are Venetian blinds to all outside doors and windows, brass knobs, and trimmings for doors.

"Leonidas Cartwright, received the greater part of his education in his native town, also attending the military institute of Bastrop, Texas. On the 25th of May, 1861, he enlisted at San Augustine in Company E. of the Third Texas Cavalry, Capt. Short commanding the company, and Col. Greer, the regiment. He was mustered in at Dallas and formed part of the regiment in which W. P. Lane was Lieutenant Colonel, and George Chilton was Major. The regiment was attached to General McIntosh’s brigade, and later to the brigade commanded by General McCulloch. Early in the year of 1862 the regiment took part in the battles of Elkhorn and Oak Hills, and was then transferred to the eastern department, where it was under command of General Price. It was now reorganized and dismounted, and was soon made a part of Ross' Brigade which comprised the Third, Sixth, Ninth, and First Texas Regiment of the Lone Star troops. Under this new order the regiment took part in the battles of Shiloh, Iuka, and in the Holly Springs raid, in which Van Dorn captured General Grant's supplies, and twenty-five hundred of his troops...

"At this juncture the army was ordered to fall back and join forces with General Johnson's army, in the attempt which he was going to make to relieve Pemberton at Vicksburg. The army remained in the vicinity of Vicksburg, until the fall of the besieged city and then fought Sherman's army until the latter retired to Jackson, Miss., after which the Confederate forces wintered in the state. In the spring of 1864 the command went to the aid of Gen. Johnson, who was defending Atlanta, and took part in the campaign of one hundred days which resulted in the fall of the city.

La combustion of a fuel involves a complex series of chemical reactions. These reactions can be broken down into several stages, each with its own set of conditions and characteristics. The initial stage is the ignition of the fuel. This occurs when the temperature of the fuel reaches the ignition point, which is determined by the fuel's properties and the environment. Once the fuel is ignited, it begins to react with oxygen, leading to the release of heat and light.

The next stage is the propagation of the flame. As the reaction continues, the heat generated propagates through the fuel, causing more fuel to ignite. This process is self-sustaining and continues until the fuel is consumed or the supply of oxygen is depleted.

As the reaction progresses, the temperature of the combustion products increases, leading to the formation of more reactive species. These species can undergo further reactions, resulting in the formation of new compounds, such as carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxides. These compounds are toxic and contribute to pollution and environmental degradation.

The final stage is the cooling of the combustion products. As the reaction comes to an end, the temperature of the products decreases, and the system returns to its pre-reaction state. This cooling process can be significant, as the heat released during combustion must be dissipated through the surroundings.

Understanding the mechanism of combustion is crucial for the design and operation of engines and other combustion devices. It also has implications for the development of cleaner and more efficient energy technologies.

The supreme achievement of his family.

MATTHEW CARTWRIGHT
(Matthew, John, Matthew, John)

Matthew Cartwright, the youngest son of Matthew Cartwright and his wife, Amanda Holman, was Born: Aug. 11, 1855, at San Augustine, Texas.
Died: Nov. 11, 1925, at Terrell, Texas.
Educated: at the Huntington School, Shelbyville, Texas; the Looney School, at Gilmer; and the Cumberland University, at Lebanon, Tenn., graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Science.

Matthew Cartwright was married at the age of twenty-one, to Mary Cynthia Davenport and moved to Terrell, where his family of ten children were reared. He was an exemplary father, giving his children the best education obtainable, and by precept and example fitting them mentally and morally to take their place in the world, rounding them out with a sane viewpoint of life, and moulding them into worthy members of their noted family, with its splendid and distinguished heritage.

"His main activities in his successful business life were, cattle raising, ranching and development of real estate and large farming interests throughout the state... For many years he was President of the First National Bank of Terrell, and during his incumbency as such, the bank grew to become one of the strong institutions of the County. * * * He served as Mayor; and as member of the State Democratic Executive Committee during the Chairmanship of Hon. Webb Finley; and as member of the board of managers for the North Texas Hospital for the Insane, receiving appointment from Gov. Ross." His business sagacity is evidenced by the fact that he retained and added to the fortune which came into his possession through the efforts of his father, who in the early days bought Texas lands until he owned more land at the time of his death (with few exceptions) than any man in East Texas.

Matthew Cartwright was an outstanding man, but there is little that can be added to the eulogy of his daughter, Amanda H. C. Taylor, who on the preceding page states that he is "The supreme achievement of his family."

Mary Cynthia Davenport, was the daughter of Dr. Thomas Biser Davenport and his wife, Eugenia Lavinia Polk, of Chattanooga, Tenn.
Born: July 18, 1856, at Leona, Texas.

Eugenia Lavinia Polk, is a lineal descendant of James K. Polk.

INVENTORY of the Estate of Peter Cartwright was dated Oct. 12, 1751. The Executors were Hester (Ester) and Thomas Cartwright. It is a complete report of the settlement of the estate. Mention is made of 847 pounds of tobacco received from MATTHEW CARTWRIGHT (this is the son who is not mentioned in the will). He mentions ten children but names nine. It is evident that the older children ROBERT and THOMAS, and perhaps some of the girls are children of the first wife, JUDITH SLYE.

Extracts from Inventory are from the Administrators' Accounts 1738 to 1759, Charles County, Md.

I. LAST WILL OF MATTHEW CARTWRIGHT, DECEASED.

The State of Texas )
County of Kaufman )

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That I, Matthew Cartwright, of the County of Kaufman, and the State of Texas, being of sound mind and memory, do make and establish this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all wills by me at any time heretofore made.

FIRST: I direct that all of my just debts shall be paid out of my estate, by my executors named, hereinafter, as soon after my decease as conveniently may be done.

SECOND: Having already prior to this date made certain advancements to each of my children as shown in book kept in my safe for that purpose and designated on cover as "M. Cartwright's Account with Children", I direct that my executors after having an appraisal made of all my property, both real and personal outside of Kaufman Co., not herein specifically reserved, in Item Three (3), shall pay to each one of my children then living or those having living issue such sums as may be required to put them on equal footing, considering advancements heretofore made, said sums are to be paid in money or property not herein specifically reserved as may be most convenient and for the best interest of my estate, at a time to be determined by my executors. As there will not be sufficient amount of this property to put all my children on an equal footing—certain of them having had much larger advancements than other—those who have had advancements in excess of what this additional advance will amount to, shall not participate in this distribution, but shall await the final distribution of my estate, in which all differences shall be adjusted under the terms of this WILL, their respective advancements being considered.

THREE: It is my will and I hereby direct that all of my Real Estate, Personal and Mixed Property, of whatsoever kind situated in Kaufman County, shall go to my beloved wife, Mary C. Cartwright, to be used and disposed of as she may see proper, save and except the lands known as my Cottonwood Ranch and Farm to be held in trust by her for our said Children, though to be operated and controlled by her in conjunction with my other executors during her natural life; she to receive and dispose of all revenues derived therefrom in administering to her wants or in making advances to any of our children, that in the opinion of my executors may be necessary; but none of said Kaufman County lands shall be sold or alienated and at her death they are to be divided equally among our children then living and those having living issue, less advances that I or she may heretofore have made to any of them.

FOUR: Should any of my said children die without issue or any deceased child be without living issue at the time of the partition of either the property provided for in Item Two (2), lying without Kaufman County, or in Item Three (3), lying within Kaufman County, as herein-above provided; the advancements theretofore made to them from my estate, shall be in full satisfaction of any claim or claims their surviving wives or husbands may have as heirs to my said estate, and only those living, or having living issue shall participate in the two partitions provided for in Items Two (2), and Item Three (3), unless however, it be the will of my wife and executors to make further provision for them.

FIVE: It is my will and I direct that the acceptance by my wife of the devisees made to her in Item Three, (3), shall be a waiver by her of her one-third life and all other interest in my estate, together with whatever rights she may have by way of community interests in any property owned or held by us at the time of my death; in other words, accepting hereunder, she waives and releases all and every interest, community and other-wise in our property and estates except those herein specifically devised to her; thereby leaving me free to dispose of all our interest and estates. It is my wish and special direction that my Executors make no investments of any kind whatsoever in stocks of any corporation or company, but in the event it should be advisable to invest any surplus money not needed in the operation of any farm or ranch, it is my wish that it be invested in good Texas Lands or Vendor’s Lien Notes.

SIXTH: It is my desire that in the distribution as provided for in Items Two, (2) and Three (3), that same shall by all means, if possible, be divided without any Court Proceedings and that my said Executors and Children shall adopt such methods of distribution as to them may seem just and proper, as it can unquestionably be more economically and fairly divided by the legatees of this will themselves, if moved by a spirit of fairness and justice to each other than by any court proceedings.

SEVENTH: I hereby nominate and appoint my wife, Mary C.
Cartwright, and my sons Holman Cartwright, Matthew Cartwright, Jr., Bourke Cartwright, and my nephew and son-in-law, J. I. Cartwright, Executors of this my last will, and direct that no bond or security shall be required of them as executors; and on the death of either of them or the inability or failure of either of them to act as executors, then the four remaining to select the fifth and that no bond or security be required of him as such executor, and after his having become such executor, should there be death, failure or inability of any one or two of said executors to act, then the remaining executors shall fill the vacancy so that there will be five provisions of this will.

EIGHTH: It is my will that no other action shall be had in the Probate Court in the administration of my estate, than to prove and record this will and return an inventory and appraisement of my estate, and a list of claims. INTERLINED AT LINE FIVE IN ITEM TWO BEFORE SIGNING.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this the 15th day of May, A.D., 1923, in the presence of Junius Roberson and Geo. L. Gray, who attest the same at my request.

Matthew Cartwright

The above instrument was now here subscribed by Matthew Cartwright, the Testator, in our presence; and we at his request signed our names hereto as attesting witnesses.

TO MY EXECUTORS:

By way of further elucidation of item two (2) in this will to show the purpose and intent as to distribution after appraisement is made of the property therein referred to, will say, as an illustration that suppose two of my children had advancements say of $150,000.00 each, the other seven amounts ranging from $100,000.00 to $120,000.00 each, and that the appraised value of this property should be $200,000.00, which would not be enough to bring the other seven up to these. Then I would want this $200,000.00 distributed among these seven in such amounts that taken together with the respective advances heretofore made to each of them would make the total advancements the same to each of them.

LETTER from CAPT. WILLIAM KIMBRO regarding Presentation of Flag, by ladies of San Augustine

War of Texas Independence.

From Scrap Book, in possession of Leonidas Ingram, copy made by Mrs. James I. Cartwright.

The flag was made and presented by ladies mentioned in letter Capt. R. B. Irvine:-

Sir, the standard presented to us the San Augustine Volunteers, by the ladies of that place, reached us at the Angelena, and with feelings of enthusiasm found equal to our most sanguine expectations; and may dishonor blot out our recollection and our arms dwindle by our sides, ere we prove unworthy to defend so noble a pledge of female patriotism.

You will please have the goodness to extend our gratitude to the donors of the emblem of our country. The above is dedicated to Mrs. Hotchkiss, Mrs. Parks, Misses Amanda and America Holman.

THE SIMPSON FAMILY

McKaughan, Mercer, Brooks, Thomas, Buford, Nelson, Raguet, Griffith and Edwards families.
The data at my disposal regarding the Simpson Family, is meager. They are one of the old families of the state, and according to my mother are of gentle blood. The maternal branch of the family includes the names of Brooks, McKaughan, Mercer, Boyd, and others. Through Jane Mercer Brooks the line is traced to Alexander Boyd, of Ireland. It is here given in a limited and sketchy way, and from my own particular branch of the family. It is interesting to note that James Roberts of Virginia, was appraiser of the estate of Alexander Boyd.

Another distinguished ancestor, (or relative) is General Hugh Mercer, a General of the Revolution. He is presumably the father of Jane Mercer, but I cannot state it as a fact. As near as I can recall my mother stated to me: “that her mother Jane Mercer Brooks, was named for her grandmother Jane Mercer, whose father was General Mercer of Revolutionary fame.” Assuming the above relationship to be correct:

General Mercer’s daughter Jane, married Archibald McKaughan, Jr., they in the course of time had a granddaughter Jane Mercer Brooks, she married John J. Simpson, and their daughter, Sarah Emily Simpson, was my mother.

John Jordan Simpson was closely related to Ulysses Simpson Grant. The exact relationship was told me by my mother but lacking interest at the time, this information made slight impression and held but vaguely in my mind; nevertheless, I distinctly remember that she spoke of the relationship as close.

In funeral notice of Victor Jefferson Simpson, this relationship to Grant was mentioned in local newspaper. (see page 480).

At beginning of the Civil War the two families became estranged, and all family affiliation ceased.

John J. Simpson was also related to Jefferson Davis in about same degree, however I have no knowledge of the families being personally acquainted. Two of the sons of J. J. Simpson were named Jefferson, though this does not necessarily denote relationship.

The father of John J. Simpson was William Simpson, beyond which point I am not certain. My authority for stating that William was the father of John J., is an application blank for membership in the "Daughters of the Republic of Texas," found among the papers of my mother (filled out but apparently not sent in) in which she states that "William Simpson was my grandfather."

Emigrant William Simpson 1732-1816, left a will dated May 29, 1810, and proved 1816, in which he names his son John and William Neely, as Executors.

Undoubtedly it will require a genealogist to place John J., in his correct niche on the family tree, but to my mind it seems probable that our William (father of John J.,) was the son of William 1732-1816, namely William, Jr., (mentioned as serving in the Revolution with his father from Buck's Co., Pa.) p. 461 and Table p. 467.
The name of Simpson is of ancient Anglo-Saxon origin, and means "son of Sim," Sim being a nickname for the baptismal name of Simon. It is found in ancient English and early American records and the various forms of Symmeson, Symnson, Symeson, Symson, Simson, Simpsone, Simson, Sompson, and Simpson and others, of which the last spelling is that most generally used in America today.

Families of this name were resident at early dates in the English Counties of York, Buckingham, Hertford, Cumberland, Durham, Kent, Surrey, Middlesex, Derby and Lincoln, as well as in the city and vicinity of London and in the Scottish Counties of Ayr and Linlithgow. They appear to have been for the most part, of the British landed gentry and yeomanry.

Among the earliest definite records of the name in England is that of Johannes (John) Symson or Symmeson, of Yorkshire, in 1379, who is believed to have been the ancestor of numerous families of the name in England.

Of the Yorkshire, England, family of the name, Richard Symson, who was the son of John Symson, of County Cumberland, settled at Edston, York, about the beginning of the sixteenth century, if not before. He married Margaret Jeamson or Jameson, by whom he had issue of two sons, Roger and James, of whom the younger married Isabel Wytham and was the father by her of Richard, Robert, and Dorothy.

The elder son, Roger Symson, married Dorothy, daughter of Leonard Wyldon, and had issue by her of Richard, Robert, William, John, Roger, James, and numerous daughters. Of the sons, Richard left issue by his wife, Margaret Witham, of Roger, William, Richard, Leonard, Henry, Dorothy, and Margaret. Of these Roger married a Miss Gregory and was the father of Roger and Thomas; while William married the widow Mason, and left at least one son, named William.
Robert Symson or Simpson, second son of Roger Symson, of Yorkshire, and his wife, Dorothy Wyldon, first married Joane Kellem, by whom he was the father of a son named Henry, and later married Elizabeth Wyvill, who gave him further issue of Roger, William, Richard, Thomas, George, John, and several daughters.

Another branch of the family in Yorkshire was that represented about the beginning of the sixteenth century by Thomas Sim(p)son, of Wipley, in that county. This Thomas married Agnes Atkinson, by whom he was the father of William, Thomas, and James. Of these, Thomas died in 1553, leaving issue by his wife, Rosamond Skagffe, of a son named Thomas, who married a Miss Warde, and was the father by her of another Thomas, who married Jane Hardestye in 1603 and had issue by her of Peter and John. Of these, the first married Jane Barf in 1624 and left issue by her of at least one son, named William, who was the father by his wife, Jane Farnhill, of William, John, Thomas, Sarah, and Mary.

Richard Simpson, of Leeds, County Cork, about the middle of the sixteenth century, had a son named Richard, who was the father of William, Anthony, Thomas, George, Elizabeth, and Frances. Of these, Anthony married Jane Wilson and died in 1628, leaving issue by her of two children, John and Mary.

The County Kent, England, branch of the family was represented in the early sixteenth century by Nicholas Symson, who left issue by his wife, Mary Roke, of John, Nicholas, Roger, Mary, and Joan. Of these, John was the father of Nicholas and John, of whom the former had a son named John; while Nicholas (the second of that name in Kent) married Dorothy Barrow and had a son named Nicholas, who was probably the father of two sons, John and Richard, of whom the latter had at least one son, named John Simpson.

One Simpson, of Yorkshire, in the latter part of the sixteenth century, was the father of a son named Hugh, who made his home in County Cumberland and was the father of another Hugh, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Lancelot Rolfe, and had issue by her of Lancelot, John, Joseph, and several others.

The Hertfordshire line was represented in the latter sixteenth century by Giles Simpson, formerly of London, who left issue by his wife, Christian Ferne, of John and Jeremy, of whom the former married Sarah Goodridge and had at least one son, named John.
The Scottish line of the family is said to have been descended from the Fraser clan, but the exact connection is not in evidence. Many of the Scottish lines went into Ireland prior to the seventeenth century, and the descendants of some of these Scotch-Irish families came to America in the eighteenth century.

Of the Scottish family, the Reverend Andrew Simpson was married in the early sixteenth century to Violet Adamson and had issue by her of the Reverend Patrick, Archibald, Alexander, Richard, and William, of whom the first married Ellis Stewart. This family has numerous descendants in various parts of the world.

One of the first of the name to emigrate to America was John Simpson, of Watertown, Mass., who came from England about 1634 and brought with him his wife Susanna. His children were Sarah, Hannah, John, Jonathan, and Elizabeth.

John, elder son of the immigrant John, made his home at Charlestown, in the same colony, and was the father by his wife Abigail Smith whom he married in 1665, of John, Joseph, Benjamin, Jonathan, Abigail, Susannah, and Deborah, as well as others.

Jonathan, younger son of the immigrant John, also made his home at Charlestown and had issue by his wife Wayte or Wait Clap, whom he married in 1673, of Jonathan, Watt, and several others, who died in infancy.

Sometime before the year 1640 one Henry Simpson came from England to York, Me., and was the father there of a son, also named Henry, who had five children, Henry, Daniel, Joseph, Abigail, and Jabez, by a wife whose name is not known.

Of the sons of the second Henry, Henry had a son of the same name; Daniel left issue by his wife Frances of Samuel, Henry, Abigail, Hannah, Joseph, Daniel, Jonathan, Mary, and Jeremiah; Joseph had a son named Joseph; and Jabez probably left no issue.

John Simpson, who is said to have been a soldier in the service of Cromwell, came from England to New York shortly after the year 1662 and later made his home in that portion of Maryland which became Franklin County, Pa. John had several daughters and sons, some of whom made their homes in Virginia. The names of all of these are not on record, but it is known that he had a son named Thomas, who was the father of John Simpson, who accompanied George Washington in 1753 on a journey of remonstrance to the French at the forks of the Ohio River. This John is said to have had seven brothers, and several sisters.

Sometime before 1680 one Savil or Sevill Sim(p)son was living at Boston, Mass., where he left issue of Jane, Savil, Samuel, and Elizabeth. This family removed to Framingham, Mass., before 1700.

Others of the name who emigrated to New England in the seventeenth century, but left few records of themselves and their families were Francis Sim(p)son, a Quaker, of Salem and Marblehead, Mass., in 1648; Peter Sim(p)son, of Milford, Conn., in 1654; Alexander Sim(p)son, a Scotchman, at Boston in 1659; and Thomas Sim(p)son, of Salisbury, Mass., in 1664, who had a daughter named Mary.

The first of the name in the South were William Simpson, of New Norfork County, Va., between 1635 and 1637; James Simpson, of Virginia, in 1636; Robert Simpson, of James City County, Va., as early as 1637; John Simpson, of Virginia, in 1639, who may have been the same as the John who was living in Gloucester County, Va., in 1652; Patrick Simpson, of Virginia, in 1639; Thomas Simpson, of Lower Norfork County, Va., between 1642 and 1653, who may have been identical with that Thomas who was living in Westmoreland County, Va., in 1654; Richard Simpson, of James City County, Va., in 1643; Edward Simpson, of Warwick and Northumberland Counties, Va., about 1654.

The brothers, John and Thomas Sim(p)son, son of John Simpson of Scotland and Ireland, came to America and settled at Paxtang, in Chester County, Pa. Of these Thomas left issue of Samuel, Joseph, William, Rebecca, John, Mary, Jean, Thomas and Michael.

One John Simpson, possibly the other of the above mentioned immigrant brothers, settled first on Long Island and later in Passaic Valley, N. J. His children included two sons, Alexander and John.

Many other members of the family came to America in the Scotch-Irish emigration of the eighteenth century, among the first being Andrew Simpson, who married Elizabeth Patton or Patten and came to America about 1725. He settled first at Boston and later at Deerfield and Nottingham, N. H. Andrew and Elizabeth were the parents of Thomas, Andrew, Robert, Patton or Patten, and Josiah. By a second wife, the widow Brown, he had further issue of William and Abigail. Some historians also credit the immigrant Andrew with four children, Nancy, John, Joseph, and Betsey, but these are not certain.

Sometime before 1733 Peter Simpson came from London, England, to Portsmouth, N. H., and in that year he married Sarah Daley, but the names of their progeny are not in evidence.

William Simpson came from County Clare, Ireland, to Brunswick,
Me., in 1735 and left issue there by his wife Agnes, of Jane, William, Robert, Lewis, Josiah, and others.

Another William Simpson, who settled at Greenland, N. H., in the early eighteenth century and left issue by his wife, Mary Haynes, of two sons, Joseph and George.

Alexander Simpson, who came from Ireland to Windham, N. H., about 1735, married Janet Templeton, of Ballywilly. His children were William (died young), Agnes, William, Janet, Sarah, John, Alexander, and Samuel.

John Simpson, of Buck’s County, Pa., before 1744, was the father by his wife Mary of a son named John, and possibly of others. In the latter part of his life the elder John removed to North Carolina, and thence to Georgia.

About 1768 James Simpson emigrated from Ireland to Delaware.
He served in the Revolution, and in 1799 married Margaret Conier, or Conner, by whom he was the father of John, William, Margaret, Elizabeth, James, Mary, Sarah, and Robert.

Characterized in general by energy, power of will, integrity, and fortitude, the Simpson’s have been prominent in many fields of en¬ deavor, some lines inclining to the active and adventurous, and others preferring intellectual pursuits.

Among those of the name who fought as officers in the War of the Revolution were Ensign Andrew Simpson (place of residence un¬ known), Surgeon John Simpson, of Connecticut; Captain John Simp¬ son, of Pennsylvania; Captain Michael Simpson, of Pennsylvania; Lieutenant Robert Simpson of New Hampshire.

John, William, Andrew, Jonathan, Henry, Joseph, Thomas, Alex¬ ander, George, James, Robert, and Samuel are some of the Christian names favored by the family for its male progeny.

A few of the many members of the family who have attained dis¬ tinction in various parts of the world in comparatively recent times are:
Sampson Simpson (1780-1857) of Connecticut, American philanthropist.
Sir George Simpson (1796-1860), of Scotland, traveler.
Sir James Young Simpson (1811-1884), of Ohio, American Methodist bishop and educator.
Edward Simpson (1824-1888), of New York, American naval officer.
William Alexander Simpson (b. 1836), of Tennessee, American lawyer, scientist, and author.
Robert Tennent Simpson (b. 1837), of Alabama, lawyer and jurist.
Cyrus M. Simpson (b. 1844), of Indiana, lawyer and statesman.
Charles Torrey Simpson (b. 1846), of Illinois, zoologist, scientist, and author.
Samuel Simpson (b. 1868), of Michigan, educator, clergyman, lecturer, and author.

One of the most ancient and best known of the several coats of arms of the Simpson family is described in heraldic terms as follows (Burke, Encyclopaedia of Heraldry, 1844):

Arms: "Per bend nebulee or and sable, a lion rampant counterchanged."

Crest: "Out of a mural coronet argent, a demi lion rampant guardant per pale or sable, holding in the dexter paw a sword erect proper."

Simpson

"Ann Simpson (widow), emigrated to America with two sons:

William, 1732-1816, m. Nancy Hines.

John, 1738-1804, m. Hannah Roberts November 25, 1762, and had a son John.

Matthew Hines, (b. in Ireland 1718, d. Dec. 23, 1804) married a widow, Ann Simpson. She died Dec. 1, 1790, aged 80 years.

From the history of the Hines family we find, that Ann Simpson whom he married was a widow, and came from Ireland with her two sons: William and John. We do not know the date of her marriage to Matthew Hines; it can only be fixed approximately by the birth of her children. Her son William Hines was born 1749, and is said to be her third son by Hines."

WILLIAM SIMPSON
Emigrant, 1732-1816

"William Simpson, emigrant and Revolutionary soldier. Fought in the battle of Trenton.

"Unfortunately we do not have any record of the family of William Simpson. Possibly Mr. Warren Ely, a genealogist by profession who lives at Doylestown, Pa., the County Seat of Buck's County, may have the data you need."

Very sincerely,

Gertrude MacKinney

GRANT-DAVIS

Cousins

Bandcroft's literary associates find Ulysses Simpson Grant and Jefferson Davis second cousins.

New light on the Simpson family of Pennsylvania.

For "The News," copyrighted.

Many good people, well read, and interested in genealogies of great men, do not know that General Ulysses S. Grant and Jefferson Davis were relatives, having a common ancestor in the third generation back. This was a matter of common report in some parts of the western army during the Civil War, and after the war many soldiers spoke of it. Since then the question of kinship between the conqueror and the conquered, has lapsed into nothing more than family history; interesting to those however who trace out great consequences, in general history from the lives and acts of individuals. I had always regarded the rumor of the Grant-Davis relationship as a mere fiction, or a passing fancy, until a few weeks ago I had occasion to turn the leaves of some old family records, which by mere accident showed me some definite statements. Yet no claim will be made in this article concerning the idea expressed in the caption, consequently there will be nothing to prove, or disprove.

A few unpretentious extracts, well vouched for, will enable any one either partially or impartially, to draw his own conclusions. Without hesitation or apology I will try first fairly to trace the three preceding generations of Gen'l Grant. A book entitled "Ancestry of General Grant," by Edward Chauncy Marshall, published in 1869, is the authentic family history according to Col. Frederick Dent Grant, now commissioner of police of New York City. From this, and other books and documents in my possession, it appears that Gen. Grant's mother was Miss Hannah Simpson, daughter of John Simpson and granddaughter of William Simpson, of Buck's County, Pennsylvania.

An extract from a private letter written by Gen. Grant's father, Jessie Root Grant, is sufficient testimony to the high character and inherent merit of the Simpsons and to their origin. The date of the letter has not been transmitted. The part referred to is taken from page 65, of the "Ancestry of General Grant," and is as follows:

"Miss Hannah Simpson, was the second daughter and third child of John Simpson, and was born and brought up in Montgomery Co., Penn., twenty miles from Philadelphia. Mr. Simpson was a highly respectable farmer. None of the family connections were aspirants for fame or political notoriety, but were more solicitous as to their standing, in regard to integrity, veracity, and independence. The family had moved to Ohio a few years previous, and settled in Clermont C."

Another letter from the same source to the New York Ledger says: "At the time of our marriage, June 4, 1821, Mrs. Grant was an unpretending girl; handsome, but not vain. She had previously joined the Methodist Church, and I can truthfully say it has never had a more devoted or consistent member. Her steadiness and strength of character, have been the stay of the family through life. She was always careful and most watchful over her children, but never austere, nor opposed to their free participation in innocent amusement."

The influence and inherited traits of Gen’l Grant’s mother upon his character, have been told so many times that they need no repetition here. It only remains to show the innumerable family ties of the Simpsons, and Davises, in ancestral composition, as a chemist might say.

"The Life of John Davis," is the log book by which every real Pennsylvania Davis swears. The manuscript, for it was prepared from old documents in possession of various branches of the family covering a period of nearly 200 years. The collection and arrangement of these documents for print, consumed odd moments for a number of years, and the work was done and published for private circulation in 1886, by Gen’l W. W. H. Davis, now living at Doylestown, Pa.

Gen’l Davis was an officer in the Mexican War; Brig. Gen’l in the Union Army, of the Civil War; later Gov. of New Mexico; and United States Commissioner to the 1878 Paris Exposition. His military, civil, and literary records, constitute him an authority on the subjects here discussed.

On page 30 of the "Life of John Davis," are these statements:
John Davis married Ann Simpson, daughter of William Simpson, on June 21, 1783.

William Simpson was a soldier of the Revolution. We have no record of his service and cannot say where, nor how long, he served in the Continental Army. Born in 1732, he is supposed to have emigrated from the north of Ireland, between 1740 and 1750, and settled in Buckingham township, Bucks Co. Pa. He made application to purchase land (100 acres of land) Jan. 15, 1767, and the deed was executed by John Penn, May 23, 1767. He married Nancy Hines, of New Britain, and was the father of two sons and two daughters, John and Matthew, and Ann and Mary. Matthew removed to near Zanesville, Ohio, in 1810, John lived and died in the county; Ann married John Davis. William Simpson died in 1816, aged 84 years. Gen'l Grant's mother was descendant of the Bucks County Simpsons.

The difference between Montgomery County—in Jessie Root Grant's letter—and Bucks County, in Gen'l W. W. H. Davis statement, is very slight. Montgomery County was part of Philadelphia until 1784. Both join the present city of Philadelphia on the West and North, and the entire territory where the early Davises and Simpsons lived, is within a radius of about 40 miles from the present public buildings in Philadelphia.

Thus, General Grant's great-grandfather was William Simpson, who was the father of John Simpson, who was the father of Mrs. Grant. The Roots, also married with the Grants in Ohio, and the present and preceding generation of Roots, claim a first cousinship with the Ohio Davises. In answer to a letter of inquiry on these points Gen. Davis has written:

Doylestown, Pa.
July 30, 1895.

My good cousin:

Yours at hand and contents noted. Do I know anything about John Simpson? My father's mother was Ann Simpson of Buckingham township, this county, a daughter of William, who was a Revolutionary soldier, and he had a son John. I have often heard my father say that Gen'l Grant was a cousin of his. Grant was also related to the Houghs of this county, who are our relatives. You came from the same ancestry. Judge Root did not belong to this bailiwick. Regarding the conversation I had with Jefferson Davis while he was Secretary of War, I know nothing more than I have told you. Our talk was informal. He thought we were cousins.

Goodbye,

W. W. H. Davis

During Jefferson Davis' last illness, he was prevailed upon to dictate a short statement of his ancestry, and though very feeble he made a short dictation. His first statement was:

"Three brothers came from Wales in the early part of the Eighteenth Century. They settled at Philadelphia." Then, he meagerly traced his lineage back through Samuel Davis, his father.

The life of Jefferson Davis has been ably written by his wife, Mrs. Varina J. Davis. The history of the Philadelphia Davises can be read by any one sufficiently interested. The names of David Davis, and of the innumerable lawyers, physicians, and literary men, are easily traced. Through John Davis it appears William Simpson, was the great-grandfather of Jefferson Davis as well as of General Grant, making these men direct second cousins.

John Davis (who married Ann Simpson) crossed the Delaware
twice with Washington, took care of LaFayette when he was wounded, and for some weeks entertained James Monroe, after he was President.

The Grant and Davis characters are similar; the blood of the Simpsons, and of many other good people, coursed and courses, through the veins of each. There are about 500 descendants in the United States at the present time, who are about equally related to both General Grant, and Jefferson Davis. Though there may have been some error in tracing the exact relationship of these two great men, a few observations on the similarity of their characters, may not be out of place. The writer of this was too young even to see the last battle of the Civil War, and never met either of these men personally; but it appears that he is related to both, hence laying aside further grandfatherism, a fair comparison will be attempted:

The curtain has been drawn between this generation, and the time in which Gen’l Grant and Jefferson Davis lived and fought. The one was a soldier-statesman; the other a statesman-soldier. Both came from a common parentage in Great Britain. For four generations their mutual ancestors lived under American influence almost in the same localities; progressing westward and southward. Their forefathers were fellow Colonial subjects of Great Britain; then close comrades in Washington’s army; also the War of 1812; and the . . . . in the Mexican War. When General Grant was conquering the Spaniards in the ancient Aztec country, Jefferson Davis was instituting successful plans for the conduct of the War Department in the new territories; afterward becoming Secretary of War.

Both came from obscurity; but for generations the same stress of genius in national affairs flowed through the ancestral veins of both until divided in twain, by the political conditions of the country; the two branches formed mighty cataracts, which dashed against each other, until the stain of slavery was washed out. Those intimately acquainted with them, pronounce them gentle and good in their home life and personal deportment. It is a matter of record that the Army officers who guarded Davis while he was imprisoned at Fort Monroe, were entirely surprised at his personality. Their preconceived notions of his disposition were completely reversed. Instead of the “fire-eater,” they found a calm, gentle man, of the greatest fortitude in the face of the greatest calamity that ever befell an American citizen. This statement is well attested. When this was discovered, Horace Greeley, foremost of Davis’ former foes, signed the bond for his release.

When Davis died in 1889, The New York Sun said: “A great soul has passed.”

Through all the public careers of each, was shown tenacity, firmness, and resolution even to stubbornness. Grant never repented the merciless slaughter of Union soldiers in the great battles; Davis never asked forgiveness for what he had done. They both looked upon the great losses as a national calamity, from which a national blessing was to come to the black man; to commerce, to all concerned; bringing happiness to all. One sleeps in almost the extreme south.

—Washington Davis

Excerpts from will of William 1732-1816, of American Revolution (next page) furnished by Bertha N. Gary.

NOTE: The above children in Grants' table, are those mentioned in the will of William, 1732-1816. However William Jr., is not placed in this table. And yet he is supposedly mentioned in his father's will as Executor, and is recorded elsewhere (p. 461) as serving in the Revolution with his father.

Hannah Simpson, (granddaughter) is likewise not named in William's will, (information not verified) but since she is the daughter of John, her brothers were necessarily; Andrew, William, John, and Thomas (p. 467). There is much conflicting information regarding the elder Simpsons, which confusion is due probably to the numerous Williams and Johns. On page 468 is example of conflicting data:

This would make John J., and Hannah Simpson, first cousins; Grant and Emily Simpson, second cousins.

Just where John J. Simpson ties in with this line, is so far conjectural; however we know definitely that if this is Grant’s line, we do tie in with it.

In the will of William Simpson 1732-1816, dated May 29, 1810, proved 1816, he names his son John and William Neely, as Executors. In this will he gives his son “John, the plantation whereon I now live in Buckingham;” his son Matthew “plantation whereon I live,” mentions his daughter Ann (wife of John Davis); “Andrew, John, William, and Thomas, sons of my son John;” “George, Robert, and James, sons of my son Matthew;” daughter Mary Simpson and her daughter Emily Simpson; “residue to be equally divided between all.”
"The history of William Simpson, 1732-1816, whom you say married Nancy Hines, is not so clearly followed out as that of his brother John; and it is entirely possible that he married Nancy Hines, a daughter of his mother's second husband.

John Simpson, the son of the widow Ann Simpson, was born in the north of Ireland in 1738; emigrated to America, and died in Horsham, Montgomery county, Pa., in 1804. He married Hannah Roberts, Nov. 25, 1762. Their son John Simpson married Rebecca Weir, and was the grandfather of General Grant."

Note: The table of W. W. H. Davis on preceding page is in error, if above information is correct. Davis' table names William Simpson, 1732 as great-grandfather of Grant, while this table names John Simpson, 1738, as great-grandfather, and leaves out William 1732-1816 altogether as an ancestor, and making him great-great uncle to Grant.

JOHN JORDAN SIMPSON
(William)

John J. Simpson, the son of William Simpson, was born about the year 1791. In "Texas and Texans" I find his birth date given as 1788.

Little, or nothing is known by my surviving branch of the family, of William Simpson, the father of John J.

"John J. Simpson came to Texas from Kentucky, his native state; where he was born in 1788, and he died in Nacogdoches county, June 14, 1855. He spent his life as a planter, and he was always a large slave-holder." "Mr. Simpson was a man of plain but liberal education, and he came to Texas (to Nacogdoches) about 1829 entering heartily into the hardships incident to the pioneer days in the history of the Republic. There, life was marked by all the stress and strain of existence in a new and wild country; and many a night did the wife and mother spend sleeping in the brush, to keep herself from the Indians while her husband was out with the others, defending the community against the marauding red-skins. He became a large landholder in his vicinity, and was a man of importance in the community. A member of the Methodist Church, he was a man of the highest integrity and staunchest religious convictions, and he reared his family in this faith."

"Texas and Texans," p. 1692 (Under John S. Griffith)

John J. Simpson was married to Jane Mercer Brooks, about the year 1816. She was the daughter of John D. Brooks and Rebecca McKaughan. They came to Texas not earlier than 1818, and not later than 1825.

All but two children were born in Texas when it was under the sovereignty of Mexico; and a Republic.

Their children were:

Mary Brooks 1817-1902 m. T. Y. Buford, m. 2nd—
Capt. W. R. Buford
William Mercer 18 m. Letitia Buford
John J. Jr. 18 m. (d. aged 21)
Jane Caroline 1825-1863 m. Albert Aldrich Nelson
Victor Jefferson 1829-1892 m. Harriet Arnold, m. 2nd—
Nannie Gilkerson
Frances Augusta 1831-1897 m. Col. Conde Raguet
Sarah Emily 1833-1913 m. Gen. J. S. Griffith
Florence Rosalie 1835-1877 m. Capt. Augustus D. Edwards
Augustus Irion 1839-1904 m. Emma Kyle
Isaac Jefferson youngest son m.
Upon the arrival of John Simpson in Texas, he first settled in San Augustine where presumably his sons William and John J. Jr., were born. About the year 1828, he purchased a tract of land seven miles east of Nacogdoches and on this site built his new home; which he called Oak Forest. Here most of his children were born.

The first Hotel erected in Nacogdoches was built by John Simpson. It was a three story Colonial frame building, the third story of which was used for dancing during the young-ladyhood of his five daughters. This Hotel served as home for the family at such time as they desired to be in town; and it was from this home, and this ball room, that Sarah Emily Simpson was married. In fact, all of the daughters of John Simpson were married from this same room. The house is no longer standing (having been destroyed by fire), but in appearance I’ve been told, was similar to the Frost Thorne home. p. 536.

Both John and Jane Simpson inherited from their respective parents considerable wealth, and each had been carefully reared. Their early days of pioneering in Texas were difficult, but they appeared to give small heed to such incidents. I think that it can be truthfully said that they represented within themselves, the best culture and refinement of their day; and after the first few years of struggle, their home became the rendezvous for such men as Thomas J. Rusk, Wm. B. Ochiltree, James Reilly (minister to U. S.), General Sam Houston, Adolphus Sterne, Colonel Frost Thorne, Colonel Henry Raguet, John S. Roberts, John Durst, and other notables.

During the war for Texas Independence, John J. Simpson held some post by appointment of the government, which had to do with furnishing men with equipment; and with furnishing supplies for carrying on the war.

For a time he was stationed in the “Old Stone Fort.”

Authority—Emily (Simpson) Griffith, his daughter.
In a brief historical sketch, Blake writes: "The stone house, as it was called in the early records, has a history more intriguing and more romantic than any other building in Texas. Over its walls have flown eight flags,—the royal flag of Spain, the flag of the Magee-Guiterrez expedition of 1812, that of Dr. James Long's Republic of 1819, the flag of the Republic of Fredonia of 1826, the Mexican flag, the Lone Star flag of the Texas Republic, the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy, and the Stars and Stripes."

It served as Church, Saloon, School, Court. Razed in 1902, structure rebuilt to exact dimensions, and with original materials.

From article by Robert M. Hayes, in The Dallas News of March 14, 1937.
Mary Ann Simpson, who married—Mayfield, and had sons: Joseph, and William Simpson Mayfield, was the sister of John J. Simpson.

Joseph Mayfield lives in San Antonio. (not substantiated)

FUNERAL NOTICE.

The friends and acquaintances, of the late

are respectfully invited to attend his funeral, from his late residence, seven miles East of Nacogdoches, this (Thursday) evening at 5 o'clock.

Nacogdoches, June 14th, 1856.
SOME VERY INTERESTING FACTS ARE GIVEN ABOUT THE LIFE OF UNCLE NED SIMPSON OF NACOGDOCHES.

Nacogdoches, Texas, Dec. 20.—Uncle Ned Simpson, colored, or "Uncle Ned," is familiarly known to everyone at Nacogdoches and over East Texas generally.

He was born in Kentucky in 1810, and when a child emigrated to Texas with his master, Colonel John J. Simpson, settling at San Augustine. In 1828, he moved to Nacogdoches and has lived here ever since. At that time Texas belonged to Mexico and the revolution was still in the future. He took part in all the stirring scenes of that period and was personally acquainted with Ellis P. Bean, Stephen Austin, James Bowie, David Crockett, and other notables of that time. Colonel Simpson established a hotel at Nacogdoches and Ned acted as waiter, looked after the horses and attended bar. He remembers Haden Edwards and his brother, Colonel Benjamin Edwards, well, and has heard the former tell all about the causes that led to the Texas rebellion as well as those that caused its downfall.

In 1838, Uncle Ned participated in the general stampede from Nacogdoches to the Sabine river on the rumored approach of General Santa Anna's army. In the panic, the carriage of a wealthy lady, Mrs. Englewood, broke down and was deserted by its occupants. Ned lighted the carriage, took therewith $500 in gold and carried it to the Sabine, where he safely delivered it to its owner.

In 1846, while at Natchitoches, La., after a load of freight he was employed as a wagoner by General Jack Taylor, who was then preparing to march to Mexico.

He was afterwards impressed into the service and followed the columns of General Taylor till the war closed by the capture of the city of Mexico. In the fight at Buena Vista he was severely wounded. Uncle Ned is loved and respected by all who know him.

"Uncle Ned," the one-time slave, and later the servant of John J. Simpson, is pictured above. Loyalty and honesty, were outstanding qualities, as the above narrative shows.
WILLIAM MERCER SIMPSON
(John J, William)

William M. Simpson, the eldest son of John J. Simpson and his wife, Jane Mercer Brooks, was Born: San Augustine Date unknown.

Educated: At Nacogdoches, and graduated from the College of New Jersey.

Died: At San Augustine, Texas. Interred on Simpson plantation.

Married: Letitia Buford.

The childhood of William Simpson was spent on the John J. Simpson plantation where his father settled in 1828, after first locating in San Augustine when he emigrated to Texas. He was given the name of William for his grandfather, William Simpson, and Mercer was the family name of his great-grandmother, Jane Mercer. Family tradition has it that William and his two younger brothers, John J. Jr., and Victor, were often kept hidden throughout the day in a deep ravine, when necessary to protect them from the Mexicans who threatened to kill all boy babies.

This information from Frances Funchess, of Beaumont, Texas.

William was given a college education, as were all the sons of Jane and John Simpson. He attended an Eastern college for four years, where he graduated—(presumably Princeton, then called the College of New Jersey).

He was married to Letitia Buford, the widow of Tom Buford. There was no issue from this marriage. His wife had a son; Thomas R. Buford, by a former marriage. This step-son inherited the bulk of William M. Simpson's estate. The will of Wm. M. Simpson is interesting, see p. 560.

In "Texas and Texans" I find: "William Simpson, was a boatman and Captain; who did a considerable trading in lands, and died in San Augustine." page 1692 (under J. S. Griffith).

The following information given me by J. Buford Harrison:

"William Simpson was with Sam Houston, and was in the battle of San Jacinto."
JOHN J. SIMPSON, JR.
(John J., William, )

John J. Simpson, Jr., was the second son of John J. Simpson and his wife, Jane Mercer Brooks.

Born: Date unknown.

John Jr., was sent to an eastern college to complete his education. The rigorous climate of New Jersey proved too severe for his constitution, and in the fourth year of his stay, contracted an illness from which he did not recover.

He is said to have been an intelligent and singularly gifted young man. Considered an outstanding member of his family.

Died: In Nacogdoches. Unmarried.

LIEUTENANT VICTOR JEFFERSON SIMPSON
(John J., William, )

Victor Simpson (Vick), was the third son of John J. Simpson and his wife, Jane Mercer Brooks.

Ida b. 1868
Augustus Irion b. 1870
A. Dumas b. 1882
Gladys b. 1886

Victor Simpson was raised on the plantation where he was born. It lay a few miles East of Nacogdoches on the Kings Highway. When a child Victor and his two older brothers; William Mercer and John J. Jr., on occasion were hidden in ravines and other places of concealment, from marauding Indians and Mexicans.

After his marriage he built his home on a plantation adjacent to that of his father, John J., and nearer to Nacogdoches. Of this home my childhood recollections are vivid. It stood at the edge of a forest nestling among a group of tall and stately pines; making a scene of rural beauty and comfort. The interior was equally fascinating, and was filled with lovely old things, one of which seemed to stand out from all the rest. This was a round-top dining table, once belonging to my grandmother, (his mother), having a revolving center, (called lazy-daisy) designed to hold dishes of food and to be turned as desired.

Served as Lieutenant until 1864, in Civil War.
A Veteran Gone.
Nacogdoches, Tex., Jan. 21.—Mr. Victor J. Simpson died Thursday at his home six miles east of this place. He was about 60 years old and had lived in this county almost from infancy. He was of a prominent old-time family, descended from the Simpsons that Gen. Grant descended from. He has relatives of note in Texas, Dallas, and other places. His burial was delayed until Saturday to give time for distant relatives to reach the funeral.

The following article is a copy of newspaper clipping loaned by Ida Simpson Roach, of Coleman, Texas. R. B. Blake is the author. Paper dated June 3, 1937.

Buford Family Traced Lineage to Feudal Days of France, England.—Thomas Y. Buford, in Texas Revolt.

Thomas Young Buford was born in Chester District, South Carolina, August 5, 1814. At the age of ten years his father, Miles Buford and his mother, Catherine Young of Union District, South Carolina, moved to Fayette County, Tennessee.

Miles and Catherine Young Buford afterward came to Louisiana and in all probably came on to Nacogdoches during the Mexican regime, since Thomas Young Buford reached here on June 2, 1835 and also two brothers and two sisters of T. Y. Buford, Christopher Young Buford and William Ragsdale Buford, Letitia Buford and Susan H. Buford.

Just prior to the Texas Revolution Thos. Y., caught the land fever and did considerable buying and selling of land around Nacogdoches. With the outbreak of the revolution, he enlisted in Calvary Company 1, 2nd Texas Volunteer Regiment, in which company he participated in the battle of San Jacinto. After his discharge, he returned to Nacogdoches and was married Dec. 23, 1816, to Miss Mary B. Simpson, daughter of John J. and Jane Simpson, a well to do and prominent family of early Nacogdoches, and who were the founders of the "Planter Hotel," across Main Street, north of the courthouse.

Following his marriage, Mr. Buford engaged in farming, probably in the Oak Ridge community, though probably not on an extensive scale, as his estate shows he owned only one slave, a man, two horses and one yoke of oxen for work animals, with one stock horse, together with some hogs and cattle.

Buford died August 23, 1839, leaving two baby girls; one a year and nine months of age, Mary T. Buford, and one nine months old named Susan Jane. Mary B. afterwards married a younger brother of Thomas Y. Buford, William Ragsdale, and reared her two little girls to womanhood; Mary T., becoming the wife of Robert G. Edwards; and Susan Jane marrying William Thomas; neither of whom remained in Nacogdoches county, and we have been unable to trace their descendants.

Two donation warrants for 640 acres each were issued to Thomas Y. Buford estate, one for military service in the revolution, and the other for participation in the battle of San Jacinto. There was also granted to his estate a headright league, indicating his marriage before the Declaration of Independence, though no record of a former marriage has been preserved. The donation warrants were located in Van Zandt county, and the league in the old Red River county.

The Buford family may be traced back to feudal days in France, and England, and has many distinguished connections in this country. Another branch of the family also came to Texas in the early days and Miss Aliza Buford, second cousin of Thomas Y., married Judge W. W. Wingfield; their daughter, Mary E. Wingfield became the wife of R. W. Hall; and Miss Mary B. Hall married J. J. Hayter, in Oct. 1878.

William Clark Buford, of Henderson, Texas, who was Judge of the fourth judicial district at the time of his death in 1916, was also a descendant of this same branch of the family.

Miss Susan H. Buford, sister of Thomas Y., became the wife of Moses L. Patton.

The Buford monument erected by the State of Texas, was placed in Oak Grove cemetery by the Centennial Commission.

FRANCES AUGUSTA SIMPSON

Nacogdoches was the home of Fanny and Conde Raguet. Anna, their eldest daughter, was named for Anna Raguet, the sister of Conde, whose romance with Gen’l Sam Houston is told in an article by Vivian Richardson, published in The Dallas News of Oct. 12, 1830. See p. 533.

Colonel Conde Raguet lost his life under tragic circumstances. He and his sister, Mary, were drowned in the Mississippi (or Ohio) River, while enroute to New York City where he had intended buying goods for his mercantile establishment, at the same time visiting another sister who lived there. A boat loaded with kerosene collided with the boat on which they had set sail, resulting in the burning and sinking of same, with all lives lost, excepting that of the Captain. Conde Raguet was last seen in the water, where he was holding to his sister and clinging to a raft of some sort, and struggling unsuccessfully to save their lives.

It is interesting to recall the thrill of a by-gone day on the advent of the large-wheel bicycle, in the rural town of Terrell. Henry Raguet and his cousin, Gus Griffith, returning from college at the same time—introduced this bicycle to their native heath. Many are the pranks these two boys perpetrated; for they were full of fun, frolic, and the joy of youth. It brings a smile to the lips and a warmth to the heart, to remember the love and loyalty unfailingly expressed by these two inseparable friends.

Henry Raguet's span of life was brief. He passed on in his twenty-ninth year.

James Michael Raguet was born in France, and was a member of Napoleon's staff. After the downfall of Napoleon, he with his two brothers, Paul and Claudius, embarked for America. Claudius was drowned on the way over. James and Paul reached Virginia, but Paul was there killed by Indians. James Raguet then removed to Buck's County, Pa., and was married there to Ann Wynkoop, 1755-1815.

Colonel Henry Raguet was the son of Ann Wynkoop and James Raguet.

As a young man Henry Raguet removed to Ohio, and engaged in the mercantile business in Cincinnati. In 1831 he sold this business and emigrated to New Orleans, La., reaching there by horseback and steamboat. In New Orleans he accidentally made the acquaintance of Gen'l Sam Houston and John Durst. They spoke in glowing terms of Coahuila and Texas, in the Republic of Mexico, and invited him to join their party. This he did and traveled with them along the Red River and to the present site of Nacogdoches. From there they went on to the home of John Durst, on the Angelina River. Soon he decided to locate in Nacogdoches, and in 1832 opened up a mercantile business there. “He was the first merchant in Texas to sell goods by the American yard of 36 inches, instead of the Mexican yard of 33 inches.”

“His three sons (Conde, Henry W., and Charles M.) rendered distinguished service to the South during the Civil War. They enlisted at Nacogdoches at the beginning of the war as privates, in Gen'l Tom Green's brigade, and took part in the expedition to New Mexico under Gen'l Sibley.”
1 Conde Raguet was elected Captain; later made Major; and became Colonel of Cavalry.

2 Henry W. Raguet was promoted to First Lieutenant; to Captain; and then Major of Infantry and Cavalry, and was known as a dashing and gallant soldier. He was killed in the battle of Glorietta, N. M., March 6, 1862.

"Henry W. Raguet was the first fiscal agent of the Republic of Texas, serving under President Sam Houston. He drove alone through the new republic, and collected tax money in an open wagon, which he handled without a guard."

3 Major Charles M. Raguet was first a private in Teel's battery; promoted to First Lieutenant commanding Teel's battery in all engagements in New Mexico campaign. Served in Louisiana; promoted to Major of the First Virginia Cavalry, Lee's army, but the surrender came before he reached this post. He took part in both battles of Galveston.

He served as an enlisted man, corporal and sergeant, up to May 23, 1900, at which time he was promoted to the rank of first lieutenant and battalion adjutant. He served in that rank until April 19, 1910, when he was promoted to his present rank of Captain, and assigned as quartermaster of the Third Regiment of the Texas National Guard."

Dallas News—of Oct. 12, 1930, has an article by Vivian Richardson, entitled "Houston Was a Texas Miles Standish." Excerpts from this article is especially interesting, to that branch of the family related to Anna Raguet:

"In Nacogdoches Sam Houston hung out his lawyer's shingle. John Durst lived in a mansion in the settlement. And at the crossroads General Raguet, with his years of experience as a merchant, and banker in Cincinnati, set up a general merchandise store, and sometimes accompanied his friend Houston on his trips to see the Indians.

Almost two years went by. And General Raguet sent for his family from Philadelphia. They came to a handsome home, with as many conveniences as the day and the place afforded, and soon met the General's two warm friends; Houston and Durst...

And Anna Raguet was beautiful. Exclusive schools of Philadelphia, had molded that poise and modulated the voice. Thirty years before Lucy Holcomb reigned in Marshall and captured New Orleans. Ann Raguet was queen of Nacogdoches. Houston himself at one time said, that of all the members in his cabinet, but one was not in love with her.

And she was a linguist.

Houston halted in the parlor doorway. The broad beaver hat came off with a flourish. He asked Miss Anna to teach him Spanish. And presently was in love with her. He wrote her letters. And poetry. It was not good poetry. Nevertheless, Sam Houston wrote it...

And then on Sept. 1, 1835, Stephen F. Austin arrived home from two years imprisonment in Mexico.

"War," Austin said, "is our only recourse."

And Sam Houston issued the call to arms...

General Henry Raguet and his wife gave a dinner for their friend, the night before Sam Houston left Nacogdoches for consultation at Washington on the Brazos. The guest of honor sat in the doorway, his back to the opening, and talked with Anna Raguet, as she was sitting opposite watched the shadows play in and out of the lilac bushes as the moon crept higher above the trees outside.

The girl cried out "Hush," she cautioned, peering into the darkness. Then, "I was mistaken, I thought I saw some one moving among the lilac bushes—a man."

"I see no one. The night has unnerved you Miss Anna. But remember we leave Nacogdoches in sane hands. Your father as you know does not go to Washington. To him I have entrusted the care of the Indians."

So they talked. Miss Anna spoke of her grandfather Raguet, who also went out to fight for liberty—but that was in '76, and of his sword, still cherished in the family.
And as he spoke death lurked in the lilac bushes. The Mexican crept nearer, nearer, his eyes glinting, weapon raised.

And then he was sprawling on the floor of the veranda, with the knife ten feet away. Miss Anna had jumped forward, thrown herself at that sinister upraised arm, and there was a hub-bub as they collared the Mexican. He was imprisoned for a time and released. He was an imbecile.

On the eve of the battle of San Jacinto, Sam Houston sent a note to Henry Raguet.— After the battle Houston, true to his promise gathered a huge bunch of laurel, and sent it by special messenger to the girl who had taught him Spanish, and pinned on his armor. The yellowed and frayed note which accompanied the laurel, may still be read in the home of J. R. Irion, Anna Raguet's son, in Dallas:

"To Miss Anna Raguet. Nacogdoches, Texas:

These are the laurels I send you from the battlefield of San Jacinto.

Thine, Sam Houston."

(After the battle of San Jacinto, Anna Raguet was sent to Philadelphia and returned near Christmas. Sam Houston then wrote his first letter to her):

Columbia, Texas, 1st Jany., 1837

My Excellent friend:

I have learned that you have reached home in charming health and spirits. I am rejoiced to learn it and avail myself of a moment to say a "Happy New Year." This is part in return for placing on my armor when we parted. In a few days I will again set out for the army and rumour be true, I will again wear it. If so I hope the spell will still last, and if I am not mistaken, you shall have more laurels. (Note: With the next sentence the writing is finer, showing that Houston stopped here to sharpen his quill pen). If I win them, you shall have them, for I dare only wear the civic wreath. I hope you will at least enjoy peace, security and happiness if the tocsin of war is again sounded on our borders. I did intend to forward you a few stanzas for criticism, but as it would be taking a liberty with the brain of a friend, I feel some hesitancy in doing so. I may yet send them previous to my departure to the army.

If the enemy is not about to advance, I will return to the seat of Government which will be Groce's retreat until the first of May. I pray you be so kind as to salute your father and mother—kiss the little girls, and cuff Carlos for me. Will you write to me often; if you do not, 'I will not die 'appie. (This was a slang expression of the time). My friend, adieu,

Sam Houston.

Miss Anna W. Raguet

P. S.—My health is restored and spirits fair."
—Between the lines he wrote it is easy to infer that Miss Anna replied fitfully and at long intervals. For Houston was a man in his forties, and Anna Raguet was but seventeen when she received the laurels from San Jacinto, and though no normal feminine being could have failed to respond to the warmth and sincerity of that gesture, she was not in love with him.

From his letters we see that he was but one of many courtiers. In his cabinet was a young doctor named Irion—R. A. Irion. A modest likable chap, and Houston’s personal physician and friend. Irion became Texas’ first Secretary of State. And when he was riding Nacogdoches way, he would often carry notes to Miss Anna Raguet from Sam Houston. He seemed to be riding that way often.

It must have been another case of “Why don’t you speak for yourself, John?” Old General Raguet saw what was happening, even if Houston did not, but as he favored neither his very good friend, Mr. Houston, nor this young doctor for a son-in-law, he immediately prepared to pack Anna off to Philadelphia, where she would again meet the estimable and wealthy Pennsylvanian he had chosen to hold his daughter’s heart and hand. But tut: that was nothing in love’s way. Anna and R. A. Irion eloped in 1840.

And when their first child was born Sam Houston sent it a gold piece. And continued to write to both of them.

And bequeathed them the hickory sword stick, and to General Raguet, the portrait by Wright."

“Incredible as it may seem, the son of Anna Raguet Irion, the woman to whom Sam Houston wrote poetry, and Dr. Irion, Texas’ first Secretary of State for whom Irion county is named; still lives in Dallas.

Houston’s letters to his father and to his mother have been cherished for years in the family, and now these priceless mementoes of a faded romance and of a period in history that will never fade, have been sold to the University of Texas, where they will be preserved in its library for all Texas and Texans.”
“At Nacogdoches Houston made many strong and true friendships. One of the most lasting of these attachments was with Colonel Henry Raguet, a Philadelphian of Swiss-French descent, who had emigrated to Nacogdoches with his family. Henry Raguet was an intelligent, well-educated man, a merchant, a large land owner, and a substantial citizen. His was the finest house in town, and he always entertained generously. In this home Houston met the seventeen-year-old daughter, Anna, the pride and joy of her father’s heart. This young girl was possessed of a brilliant mind that had been well trained in the best schools of Philadelphia. She was a linguist of ability, being mistress of five languages. When Houston first met her, he had already realized that to be a successful lawyer in Texas a man must know the Spanish language, and he had been seeking a good teacher of that language. Anna undertook the task of tutoring him in this tongue. That he became proficient in Spanish idioms one may well doubt, but the fact stands clear that he learned to adore his young teacher, and for several years he was an ardent suitor for her hand.”

SARAH EMILY SIMPSON
Mrs. John S. Griffith

GEN. JOHN SUMMERFIELD GRIFFITH
Sarah Emily Simpson (Em), was the fourth daughter of John J. Simpson and his wife, Jane Mercer Brooks.

Born: Nov. 28, 1833, at Oak Forest, near Nacogdoches
Died: Dec. 31, 1913, at Fort Worth, Texas
Married: John Summerfield Griffith Date: Dec. 8, 1851
Children: John Summerfield Griffith, Jr. d. aged 5 years
          Emily Griffith d. aged 2 years
          William Crabb Griffith
          Augustus Bascom Griffith
          Emily Griffith (Emmie)
          Frances Ruth Griffith d. aged 6 months

The Simpson-Clark Hotel in Nacogdoches was built by John Simpson, and served as town house for his family when not on their plantation. From the third story of this building Emily Simpson and John S. Griffith were married. They remained in East Texas for some years subsequent to their marriage; then moved to Dallas for a period of approximately three years, after which time they moved to Rockwall, and it was here that they were living at outbreak of the Civil War. J. S. Griffith volunteered for service and was soon ordered to the front.

Left alone Emily Griffith faced many dangers as real and trying as those experienced on field of battle. With her home situated in a wild section of the country; with few and scattered neighbors; with all able white men away in the service; with only Negroes left as protectors; there could exist small sense of security—rather a constant state of anxiety and fear. Under these conditions she learned to shoot a rifle as well as any frontiers-man, and kept one ever ready and near at hand.

It devolved upon her to supervise the planting and the harvesting of the crops; she also attended to and assisted in the spinning of flax and cotton from which she wove the material to clothe her household (including the slaves), and after it was woven she cut the cloth and made it into garments. Beside these never-ending tasks she had the care and responsibility of her two small sons; Will and Gus. Later, "carpet-baggers," and "bush-whackers," renegade men from the North added their bit to trials and hardships already severe. (There was a very thrilling experience with some "bush-whackers.")
Following readjustment after the close of the war, the family decided to move to Terrell, which they did in the fall of 1873. Here J. S. Griffith and his brother, Crabb Griffith, became partners in a mercantile business for a few years. Their home was built on Griffith Avenue on the lot now owned by Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Noble, which homestead then extended north to State Street; east to Francis Street (though line not parallel to it); and west to J. C. Griffith’s property. The house, a one and one-half story frame cottage (painted white with green blinds) had five rooms on ground floor and four above. The Griffith families acquiring property and building homes on this street were: Captain Frank Griffith, Captain J. C. Griffith, Dr. L. E. Griffith and John Summerfield Griffith. Here the family of Summerfield and Emily Griffith remained for about fifteen years, then in the year 1889 they again moved to Dallas. After four years they returned to Terrell and built a new home on Griffith Ave., which was later used by their son William C. Griffith. This house has now been demolished, and W. C. Griffith built his new home on the old site, about the year 1922.

Emily (Simpson) Griffith was an interesting and exceptional woman in every sense of the word. Unwilling to grow old and useless, as did so many of her generation when past the meridian of life; she continued young in spirit and active in mind and body. No words of mine can adequately portray the qualities and characteristics of this truly great and good woman, suffice it to say; that she was a pattern of industry, thrift, and common sense, and an example of faith and courage to her family.

NOTE—An amusing incident once happened to my father, of which my mother liked to tell. She thought it illustrated his resourcefulness in a domestic emergency:

One afternoon in Rockwall as my father sat upon his front porch, a stranger riding past reined in his horse and called “Hello!” My father (as was customary in those days) answered with “Light, my friend, come in and have some supper.” The man hesitated and said: “No thanks, guess I’d better not; the boys are down town expecting me.” My father said hospitably: “That’s alright, get the boys and all of you come to supper.” So off the visitor went to bring the boys, and in a few minutes here they came, a whole company of soldiers passing through; so many “boys” the small house could not accommodate them so they spread themselves upon the porch and lawn. My mother was aghast and a little exasperated, so she said: “Well Summer, you get yourself into this muddle, and you’ll just have to get yourself out of it!” And he did. One negro was put to slicing meat and nothing else; another to making bread and nothing else; another to making coffee and so on; then, others were put to cooking and keeping the fires going, and in a short time all was ready and the men were served two or three kinds of meat, potatoes, plenty of bread and black coffee.

A Pioneer Woman, Whose Strong Personality Made Her A Power For Good In Her Circle of Influence

Mrs. Griffith was born near the old historic town of Nacogdoches, Texas, in 1833, and therefore was 80 years of age, celebrating her natal day only a few weeks ago. She was the wife of General John S. Griffith, widely known all over the state as a soldier and man of large substantial affairs, prominent in public matters.

Mrs. Griffith was one of the pioneer women of the state, the type to which all owe so much. Possessed of strong personality, of commanding presence, and endowed with qualities that drew irresistibly friends from all classes; her circle of influence was a wide one, and her position she used both wisely and well. Endowed with a mind of unusual power, she stamped her impression on the movements of her time that were for the betterment of society. In spite of her advancing years, she never lost interest in events around her and with them kept constantly in touch.

Mrs. Griffith was united in marriage to General Griffith in 1850 and moved to Rockwall county in 1860. Ten years later they moved to Dallas, and in 1873 to Terrell, residing here ever since. General Griffith died some years ago.

Captain Augustus D. Edwards was the son of Augustus Edwards and his wife, Patsey Roberts (daughter of William Roberts).

Augustus D. Edwards volunteered for service in the Confederate Army at outbreak of the Civil War. He entered service, and became Captain. During his absence at the front, his wife, like other women of her day, rose with an indomitable spirit to meet all exigences which arose. Her home was burned; so she planned, financed, and superintended the building of a four or five room cottage in which she was living with her small daughter Emma, when Captain Edwards returned from the war.

The Edwards home in Terrell was located on Griffith and Pacific Avenue, and extended through to First Street. The old home place has been demolished, but the property remains in the family, and their son, Summerfield, has erected his home thereon.

An oil portrait, and a miniature of Rose Simpson remain in the family, to reveal the beauty of the original.

Gertrude Edwards

Few have had the interesting and outstanding life of Gertrude Edwards. Her father, Capt. Edwards, died during her last year at college leaving a second wife (Kate Hunt Knight), two daughters and one son. Shortly afterward she entered the Boston Conservatory of Music where she studied voice for approximately five years; then followed instruction abroad, where she remained for several years studying in London, and in Paris, France. She made her debut in Paris, singing in Opera there at the Paris Opera House.

After her marriage to Mr. Adams, they made their home in London, England, in a beautifully appointed and exclusively located house facing Regent Park. While living in England, she was presented at Court, and her niece, Gertrude Edwards of Terrell, was also extended this honor.

In 1915, Harry Adams lost his life on the ill fated Lusitania. His son William, who accompanied him, survived, after a harrowing experience. Since then Gertrude Adams has spent the greater part of her time in the United States. She owns a summer home in the Berkshire Hills, and spends her winters in New York with her son; by James Truslow Adams, published by the Literary Guild, 1930, New York, states in its Prologue:

“The Adams Family”

“In America there is one family, and only one, that generation after generation has consistently and without interruption made contributions of the highest order to our history and civilization. After four generations of simple but public-spirited yeomen, following the primal immigration from England, a something, we know not what, occurred in the blood or brain of the line and lifted it to a high plane, from which it has never descended. The family story is an inspiring tale and a fascinating problem. That a farmer’s son should become President is happily, no strange phenomenon in the Great democracy but it is strange indeed, that his descendants for five generations, by public service in the highest of offices or by intellectual contributions, should remain leaders of the nation which their ancestor so conspicuously helped to found.”
Summerfield Griffith Edwards
(Rosalie, John J., William)
Summerfield Edwards is the youngest child of Rosalie Simpson and her husband, Captain A. D. Edwards, and was

He then located in Jefferson, Texas, which is in the heart of the lumber mill district, for a short time; then returned with his family to Terrell and went into the lumber business for himself under the firm name of "Elliott-Edwards Lumber Company," which partnership was later dissolved, and became the "Edwards Lumber Company."
S. G. Edwards has been Chairman of the Public School Board, for approximately twenty years; and is one of Terrell's substantial and prominent citizens.
Ione Nicolds, was the daughter of Richard and Sarah Nicolds, of Marshall, Mo. She was in London, England, during which time she was presented at Court; a wonderful experience for any girl. She spent one season in Switzerland; and visited Paris, and other points on the Continent.

After her marriage General Williams was stationed in Panama; Atlanta, Ga., and Washington, D. C., where they entertained officially the dignitaries and foreign notables, as well as those high in Navy, Army, and official circles in the United States.

It is my wish that my two junior sons, Augustus I. and Isaac J. shall be kept at school until they have attained a good education, provided their health will permit of it, and that my said Executors take charge of their education, and that the expenses incident thereto be paid out of the proceeds arising out of the farming on my homestead farm, or out of the hire of some of the Negroes, which I have left for the management of said farm.

WILL
Sarah Emily Simpson Griffith

COUNTY OF KAUFMAN

Know All Men By These Presents! That I Sarah Emily Griffith of Terrell, Kaufman County, Texas, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, but realizing the frailty and uncertainty of life, and being insouciant of directing what disposition shall be made of my property at my death, do make and publish this my last will and testament, hereby revoking any and all wills by me at any time heretofore made,

First:
I give and bequeath to each of my grand-children, save and except Lydia Griffith and Emily Sawyer, daughter of my son A. B. Griffith, and Summerfield Griffith and Charlton Griffith, the sum of One Thousand Dollars, which I designate as a bridal present, it being understood that this amount shall be paid to each grand-child, out of my estate at his or her marriage, and if any grandchild is not married at the age of 25 years, then said sum shall nevertheless be paid to said grandchild, whether married or not, on reaching the age of 25 years.

In the event one of my grandchildren shall die before marriage, or before reaching the age of 25 years (which God forbid), then I direct that the portion intended for such grandchild by the foregoing terms of my will, shall be divided equally between the brothers and sisters of such grandchild, or any one or more of the brothers and sisters of such grandchild who may be more unfortunate, in a financial way, than the others, such condition to be determined by my executors, or a majority of them, hereinafter named and their decision shall be final.

In excepting Lydia Griffith, Emily Sawyer, Summerfield Griffith and Charlton Griffith from the other grandchildren, as above stated, I do so because said four grandchildren have already received from me the sum of One Thousand Dollars each, prior to the execution of this will.

Second:
I give and bequeath to Matilda McDaniel of Sulphur Springs, Texas, the sum of $50.00 per year, as a Christmas present, during the remainder of her life, the same to be paid to her by my executors on or about the 25th day of December each year.

Third:
I give and bequeath to my beloved daughter Emmie Roberts all my jewelry and furniture and other personal effects in her home, belonging to me, and in making this special bequest to her I do so on account of the thoughtful love and affection shown me by her at all times, and for the further reason that she may feel that I have never been a burden to her husband, and I desire that my other children may understand the motive that prompts me to make this special bequest.

Fourth:
I give and bequeath the sum of Twenty-five ($25.00) Dollars per year to the John S. Griffith Chapter Daughters of the Confederacy of Terrell, Texas, as long as the Chapter goes by that name said sum to be paid by my executors at such time during the year as they may see fit.

Fifth:
I give and bequeath to my beloved grandson Matthew Roberts, Jr. Six Thousand Dollars in stock of the American National Bank of Terrell, Texas said stock to be delivered to him when he reaches the age of 25 years, but it is my will and desire that he shall have and use the dividends upon said bank stock from and after the time he reaches the age of 21 years.

Sixth:
I give and bequeath to my beloved daughter Emmie Roberts, subject to the conditions hereinafter mentioned, the west half of Lot 3 in Block 63, City of Fort Worth and the house and lot situated thereon at 514 West Second Street in the City of Fort Worth, Tarrant County, Texas.

Seventh:
It is my will and desire, and I hereby direct that my beloved niece Fannie A. Templeton, of Fort Worth, Texas, shall have the option of purchasing the house and lot at 514 West Second Street, the same being the west half of lot No. 3 in Block 63 of the City of Fort Worth, at a fair and reasonable valuation and that she be allowed as long a time as she may wish in which to pay for said property; provided she pays the interest on said purchase price monthly, or as near monthly as possible. In the event the said Fannie A. Templeton shall not desire to exercise her option of purchasing said property, then she shall have the right to lease or rent the same as long as she may desire to do so by payment of $100.00 per month to my daughter Emmie Roberts. In the event that the said Fannie A. Templeton shall purchase said property then I give and bequeath the proceeds of said purchase to my daughter Emmie Roberts as her own separate property.

Eighth:
All the rest and residue of my estate of every kind and character which shall remain after the payment of the special bequests and legacies hereinbefore mentioned, I direct shall be divided into fourteen equal parts which I dispose of as follows:
I give and bequeath to my beloved son W. C. Griffith and his five children six of said equal parts or portions of said residue of my estate. In the event of the death of any of his children, without issue, then the portion of said child or children shall pass and descend to the said W. C. Griffith.
I give and bequeath to my beloved son A. B. Griffith and his daughter Emily two of said equal parts or portions of said residue of my estate. In the event of the death of the said Emily Sawyer, without children of her blood, then the portion of said granddaughter Emily Sawyer shall pass and descend to her father.

I give and bequeath to my beloved daughter Emmie Roberts and her five children six equal parts or portions of said residue of my estate. In the event of the death of any of her children, without issue, then the portion of said child or children shall pass and descend to the said mother the said Emmie Roberts.

Ninth: I nominate and appoint W. C. Griffith and A. B. Griffith, my two sons, and Emmie Roberts, my daughter, and M. C. Roberts, my son-in-law, executors of this my will and direct that no security be required of them as such executors. In case of the death of any one or more of my executors then those remaining shall act.

Tenth: It is my will and desire that no action be had in the County Court in the administration of my estate, other than to prove and record this my will and return and inventory and appraisement of my property and list of claims.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand this the 8th day of July A. D. 1913 in the presence of the witnesses whose names appear below, who attest the same at my request.

Sarah Emily Griffith.

STATE OF ARKANSAS
COUNTY OF SCOTT

SWORN STATEMENT

I, Joab Brooks, a citizen of Scott County, Arkansas, aged 79 years, being one of the claimants of the estate of Alexander Boyd, deceased (late of Belfast, Ireland) do solemnly swear that I am the only living son of Rebecca Brooks, deceased, whose maiden name was Rebecca McKaughan and a daughter of Archibald McKaughan, Jr. That my grandfather the aforesaid Archibald McKaughan, Jr., was the son of my great-grandfather whose name was also Archibald McKaughan, who intermarried with Rebecca Boyd, a daughter of Alexander Boyd, deceased.

I got all information from my great-grandmother Rebecca Boyd, with whom I was personally and intimately acquainted for ten or twelve years before her death which took place in Jackson County, Tennessee; I think about the year 1816. I was about twenty years of age at the time. She often told me that she was an heiress of the said Alexander Boyd, who died in Ireland. She also gave me the following information: That she married Archibald McKaughan, near Belfast, Ireland, contrary to her father's will; that she and her husband remained in that country (in and around Belfast) for some fourteen years after their marriage and until their eldest son was about twelve years old, about which time a difficulty arose between her husband and her father, which led to she and her husband coming to America.

I learned from my great grandmother, Rebecca Boyd, that her father was the owner of a manor house near Belfast, Ireland, which she said was noted for its grandeur, and often termed the "glass house," on account of part of the walls being solid mirror (at least this is the way I understood it from her statements.)

My great-grandmother, Rebecca Boyd and her husband, landed at New York, when they came to the United States. I do not know how long they remained in New York. They moved from New York to the state of Pennsylvania where they remained a great many years, and there Archibald McKaughan, Jr., (who was my grandfather—intermarried with Jane Mercer, of whom my mother was born in the year 1775.

My mother moved from Pennsylvania to what is now East Tennessee, it being a Territory at the time, and at which mentioned place my mother was married to my father, John D. Brooks, in 1775. My mother died November 8th, 1812, in Jackson County, Tennessee.

Her children are:

Joab Brooks
Jane Mercer Brooks
Sarah Blocker Brooks
Rebecca Demax Brooks

Mary Hudson Brooks
Winnifred Chaple Brooks
Catherine Harris Brooks
Archibald Harper Brooks
This is all that I can now recall concerning my relationship to the family of Alexander Boyd.

Given under my hand in Scott County, Arkansas, this 8th day of October, 1874.

Signed

Joab Brooks

Sworn to, and subscribed to before me, Louis L. Hymen, County Clerk of Scott County, and ex officio Clerk of Circuit Court, this 8th day of October, 1874.

County Clerk, and Ex officio Clerk of Circuit Court of Scott County.

Waldron, Scott County, Ark.

December 24th, 1873

Dear Sir:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of yours written at Sulphur Springs, Hopkins County, Texas, and proceed to answer all questions propounded so far as I can.

1st: Alexander Boyd, who lived at or near Belfast, Ireland, was in possession of the estate as far as I know, and I know nothing of his death.

My great-grandfather, Archibald McKaughan married Rebecca Boyd, daughter of said Alexander Boyd, she being his only heir; and when her eldest son Archibald McKaughan Jr., was twelve years old and Hugh, the second son being four years old, they set sail for America, and suppose they landed in United States at New York, and from thence proceeded to the State of Pennsylvania where they had two daughters born; Margaret and Rebecca. There my grandfather Archibald McKaughan Jr., married Jane Mercer, and there my mother was born in 1775. From thence the relatives emigrated to Holston River, East Tennessee where my mother, Rebecca McKaughan married John D. Brooks (my father) in 1793, and I, the first child was born in 1795.

My mother's aunt, Margaret McKaughan, married Joseph Birdwell, in East Tennessee about the year 1793, and her sister Rebecca, married Roger Browning about the same time, and their brother Hugh, married a woman by the name of Ingram, when he was old.

My great-grandmother Rebecca Boyd, died on, or about the year 1816, (about 100 years old) in Jackson County, Tennessee. Any other or further information desired, address me. The family Bible I expect, is in the possession of the Birdwell family who resided in Jackson County, Tennessee, the last I knew of them.

Give my respects to my friends and relatives, and accept a due portion for yourself.

Yours respectfully,

Joab Brooks

Remember the Alamo

Congressional Texas in Van of Old-Time Democracy Fight

Just four days before a Mexican horde butchered 183 defenders of the Alamo on Mar. 6, 1836, a handful of Texans had met in a blacksmith shop in Washington-on-the-Brazos near Houston to sign a declaration of independence from Mexico. Last week, thousands of Texans, including Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, went to that same town to celebrate the 103rd anniversary of the historic date. A high light of the occasion was when T. B. Griffith, president of the Descendants of Signers of the [Texas] Declaration of Independence, placed a wreath on the statue of George Childress, its author.

From News Week, March 13, 1939
This old and honorable family has the distinction of claiming as its remotest ancestor, Rhys ap Tom o'r Gwar, a prince of South Wales in 1477.

Another account of the origin of the family is that it is descended from Llywelyn, the last King of Wales. It is a sad affair that Griffith descendants in America of the Welsh Princess Catherine, daughter of Lord Rhys, were barred from the vast wealth that fell to the British crown because of "the missing Rhys" to prove their right to the fortune.

One of the Griffith founders of the family in America was William of Cardigan, Wales, who settled here in 1724. The Griffith family of Griffith in Pennsylvania has always been prominent. Thomas Griffith was Keeper of the Great Seal of Pennsylvania and was living in Philadelphia in 1715. He was a provincial councilor, judge of the supreme court and mayor of Philadelphia. William Griffith was one of the founders of the Pennsylvania Hospital.

Virginia furnished a number of Griffith "officers in the Revolution. The coat of arms illustrated above was borne by William Griffith, the immigrant to New York, mentioned in this sketch. The motto "Virtue Ennobles All" is a beautiful sentiment, magnificently fulfilled by the house of Griffith.
