INTRODUCTION.

This book, like many another, is a growth from small beginnings.
In 1870 the compiler, a boy of fifteen years, read a little pamphlet on the genealogy of the Doanes and Osborns, written in 1836 by his great grandfather Israel Doane (86). The interest in the subject of our history, thus awakened in the compiler's mind, found its earliest expression in his first genealogical letter, dated Oct. 5, 1878. What was at first the indulgence of a taste for genealogical research, and begun only to gratify an earnest desire to know something of his ancestors, their nativity, branchings and history, grew into a work of large proportions; and as the researches brought to light much that was deemed interesting and worthy of preservation, a book embodying the genealogy of all branches of the family seemed a necessity and the present volume is the outgrowth, after more than twenty years of patient labor.

Several attempts, with greater or less degree of success, have been made to collect and compile the records of the Doane family in America, and in this connection several individuals in particular should have more than a passing notice.

Beginning about the year 1880, the late John A. Doane of Atlanta, Ga., spent much thought, time and money in compiling a manuscript record of his ancestors. He died before completing the work, and the result of his researches, kindly placed at our disposal by his family, is incorporated into this book.

About the same time Alfred J. Doane (526), of Jersey City, became interested in the subject of the family history, and the account we have given of Israel Doane (235) and his descendants is the result of his extensive correspondence and persistent research among original records of Bucks and Chester counties, Pa.

Beginning with its issue of June 9, 1885, the Doylestown Democrat of Doylestown, Pa., published a series of papers on the genealogy of the Pennsylvania branch of the family written by the late Dr. Buckman of Philadelphia. On Dr. Buckman's death a year or two later, his genealogical papers passed into the possession of Mr. Alfred J. Doane, by whose courtesy they are herein reproduced, almost verbatim, in our history of the descendants of Daniel Doane (14) the Friend, of Cape Cod and Pennsylvania.
INTRODUCTION.

For the data of the descendants of Timothy Doane (168) and of Nathaniel Doane (169) the reader is indebted to Col. O. J. Hodge of Cleveland, Ohio, and for the genealogy of the descendants of Capt. Edward Doane (117) we are indebted to George W. Scott (534), who has compiled the records of his maternal ancestors.

We are fortunate indeed in having our notes on the English Family from the pen of Mrs. Sarah Cash of Delamere, Cheshire, England, a writer well known to the genealogical magazines of her county. Mrs. Cash's home is within the limits of the ancient Delamere Forest, of which for many hundreds of years the Dones were Chief Foresters, and during the past two years she has contributed, to Cheshire Notes and Queries, a series of highly interesting articles on the Dones of Utkinton.

Beyond this special mention there are many other helpers whose invaluable and continued assistance is hereby acknowledged, and it is impossible to let this book go forth on its little mission, without expressing my gratitude to those friends who have not only furnished their records, portraits, etc., but have contributed, unsolicited, of their means, to ease the burden of the preparation of this book—one of the many ways in which the harvest of their generous lives will be reaped by others.

The following pages do not purport to be a full genealogy of the Doanes, but rather a record of a part of this numerous family. The genealogy of several branches is traced only to a very limited extent. It has been impossible to reach all its members, and of those reached several have preferred to withhold their data, while many others have been unable to furnish much if any information.

The compiler has the names, and records more or less complete, of hundreds of descendants not assigned to proper place in this book, as well as numerous hints and clews to valuable data, and has already entered upon the work of compiling a second book, purposing, with proper cooperation, to exhaust all possible sources of information.

In the gathering together of thousands of dates and names it is not surprising if mistakes occur, especially when even members of the same family disagree as to data. An effort has been made in this book to preserve accuracy; and however incomplete and open to correction and criticism this record may be, the reader can be fairly confident that it contains the solution of most of the puzzling problems in the genealogy of the several branches, and it is believed that any descendant wherever found can easily trace his or her line back to Dea. John Doane by the data herein furnished.

The work of preparing the present volume has been a perplexing one and has brought the compiler more trials than any other member of the family can well imagine, yet withal it has been a "labor of love," and if the book contains something of interest to the sons and daughters of Dea. John Doane, it will bring its reward; and the satisfaction that comes from being the means of saving, from a too common fate, a portion of the old records of an honored race, will be at least part payment for the sacrifice involved.

For the sake of uniformity we have retained throughout our tracings of the descendants of Dea. John Doane the original form of the name—Doane. Many inquiries have been made as to the change in the spelling of the name from Doane to Doan in several branches of the family, particularly in the South and West. I can only state that Dea. John Doane, his sons, and it is believed every member of the early generations on Cape Cod, invariably signed public documents with the final e in their name, and therefore we claim that these Doans are and of right ought to be Doanes.

Dea. John Doane left his numerous descendants as legacy the escutcheon of an honest name. For two hundred and seventeen years his ashes have mingled with mother earth in an unmarked grave in the old Town Cove burial-ground at Eastham, Mass. It is to be regretted that no stone designates the spot, but it is hoped that family pride and the abundant prosperity of his descendants, will erect ere long a fitting memorial stone, that future generations may know where their Pilgrim ancestor lies buried.

Any person who may discover any error in this genealogy, will confer a favor on the compiler by immediately notifying him thereof. Your corrections and additions are invited. The compiler’s present address is not that of a permanent residence, and on any failure to reach him thus, address, 21 Hillside Ave., Malden, Mass.

A limited number of extra copies of this volume have been printed, and may be secured while they last. For a short time the price will remain unchanged but a little later it will be raised to the regular rate for such works.

Alfred A. Doane.

NOTES UPON THE DONE FAMILY OF CHESHIRE, ENGLAND.

BY SARAH CASH.

The old Hall of Utkinton, situated among the leafy green lanes of the picturesque little hamlet of Utkinton, one mile north of Tarporley, has long been known as the home of the Dones.

ANCIENT SEAT OF THE DONE.

In the Church of Tarporley are several fine monuments of the Done family and it is interesting to note that Ormerod, in his History of Cheshire, gives considerable space to this particular family and locality. Pennant also, in the quaint old book, A Journey to Chester, not only gives the vicinity and geographical position of Utkinton and Tarporley, but furthermore states after what manner the ancient mastership of the Forest of Delamere had been conveyed to the (ix)
Dones, who, according to ancient writings, had been accorded the name of the Earl of Chester's Foresters and who possessed a power little short of the Earl's Barons themselves; exercising through their sergeants a jurisdiction over fifty parishes. It would seem, therefore, that during a long lapse of years, say from 1200 to the seventeenth century, a "Done," one or another of them, had not failed to make a prominent figure either in a political, moral or social sense relative to the annals of his County.

It is supposed that the earliest settlement of the Dones at Utkinton was in King John's reign, 1199-1216, as in old histories at a very early period is given a marriage between a Done and a Kingsley, formerly spelt Kyngslie or Chingslie, and where, as appeared, the ancient manor of that name had just passed from a Saxon ownership; and an interesting fact given in the Doomsday survey is, that this is one of the few instances of an estate having been continued by a Saxon proprietor,—as by Ormerod,—"Dunning tenet de comite Chingeslie."

The office of Forestership or Rangers of the Forest, by any noblemen holding such post, the same is held, figuratively speaking, by the "tenure of a horn," which particular horn in this case had been held by the Dones through transcending generations, the same having been conveyed at the marriage of Johanna, fourth daughter of Richard de Kyngslie to Henry Done, son of Richard Done of Utkinton.

This horn the grand forester wore at his side,
Whene'er his liege lord chose a hunting to ride:
By Sir Ralph and his heirs for a century blown,
It passed from their lips to the mouth of a Done.

This singular heirloom, with the attachment of a broad silken braid evidently hand made and by which it was suspended from the person of the wearer, in color a soft greenish hue skillfully mingled with a gold thread, is still in excellent preservation. The horn is black, and that of a foreign animal, hooped with three hoops of gold, and considerably curved; it is fourteen inches in length, five inches between the extremities of the curve, three quarters of an inch in diameter in the narrowest part, and one and three quarters at its greatest breadth. This horn must have been frequently worn by the reigning lord of Done when in exercise of his office or upon any more formal or state occasion when leading to the hunts, as it is pretty generally known that English Kings from time to time visited the noted forest of Delamere for the purpose of hunting, King James the first, himself, having been a guest at Utkinton in 1617.

The ancient orthography of the name Done is not very clear. It is supposed to be derived from Dun or Dune, meaning a stronghold or hill fortress, but for ages it has been pronounced with the o long. It is exceedingly difficult to decipher the name in old manuscripts and in parish registers, the same frequently appearing as Donne, Dourn, Downe, etc., and it being readily imagined that the Dones dating back over so long a period, that their first and earliest residence had occupied the very spot upon which now stands the present Hall and might very well, owing to the nature of the times and surroundings, be said to resemble a stronghold or, as so said, a hill or fortress. Mention has been made in old records of the neighborhood, of the "dungeons" of Utkinton or the dungeons of the forest, and there is a field of some acres lying on the borders of the present forest and distant some three quarters of a mile from the old Hall, which still goes by the name of the "dungeons." This is singular to note as in times gone by certain due inflictions for punishment against depredators on forest laws must necessarily have been brought before the Dones as Master Foresters; and it is known that certain feuds would sometimes occur between men of a similar social standing. An account is given in the Duttons of Dutton, an ancient manor of the Forest, of Sir Piers Dutton who had killed deer in the Kings Forest and with fifty of his servants had prevented Sir John Done's servants from bringing in a stag that was straying from the forest.

It seems that the privileges vested in the rôle of "Master of the Forestership" were extensive and somewhat curious; amongst them were claimed by the Master, all swarms of bees, the right shoulder of all deer, and who had also power of beheading any thief taken in the act.

Many items of interest concerning the ancient Dones are found in the primitive records of past history, the Recognizance Rolls, referring often to details of trade which might to some extent be carried on by barter and exchange, a sort of tributary commerce which appeared suiting well those times and conditions of men. Here for instance is an entry dated June 3, 1334, to Richard Done, Forester of Mara, a warrant for the delivery of oats to certain persons. Again in 1337, Demise to Richard Done, Forester of Delamere for the fisheries within the said Forest for six years at 13.4 yearly; and in 1351 Warrant for pardon for Richard Done then in Forest of Mara, Hugh de Frodesham, John le Cler, Robt. Hellden and other under-forest men for the death of one Robt. Coswyn slain by them in execution of their office.

Again is entry of a Margaret, daughter of John Done of Utkinton, 1397. A simple entry enough, yet associated with the ancient patri-mony of the "old hall," the mind naturally falls back on pathetic sentiment and adds to it the alleged tale of the silken attire said to be still hanging upon a row of ancient pegs in the haunted room, into which now no one ever goes. The tale may be true or it may not, yet the same has been handed down from a long past date; it is however said by the older inhabitants of the district, that the "ghost" was "laid" by a catholic priest some years ago and made to take the form of a black bird, and that fact accounts for the number of blackbirds yet seen about the place. In 1411 is entry again of a John Done of Utkinton, who had a lease of the profits issuing from the forfeiture of swine and goats. On Aug'1 6th, 1415, of a John Done, son of John Done, Jr., grantee of letters of protection on his going abroad in the retinue of the King, which is a noteworthy fact to remark, as King Richard had selected one of his faithful bodyguard from this family whose names are John de Leygh del Boothes, Thom Cholmondeley, Ralph Dudden, Adam Bostoke and "John Done;" and upon occasion the King having landed at Milford Haven, he is described as "havynge with him these seaven valiant and gentle esquires of the countie of Cheshire." Again, is noted from the same source, the John Done slain at Blore Heath; and memorable indeed! was that hand to hand fight, where brother, brother met and where neighbor against neighbor in close conflict fought, till many notable men of valor lay dead upon the field, and—as portrayed by Drayton's pathetic verse—

"There Dutton, Dutton kills,
A Done, doth kill a Done."

A suit of armour still hangs from the upper walls of Tarporley Church, which in all probability is the same worn by John Done when he fell at Blore Heath. It is said that a few years ago there was a small monumental tablet recording this,—but owing to alterations in the Church, this interesting memento is supposed to have been removed or destroyed.

Frequent intermarriages of the Dones with other great families in Cheshire took place as a natural consequence to their relative associations and possessions. This family is allied to one of the notably oldest families of the county, the Venables of Utkinton, a race spoken of as "a race of warriors." It would be from these men probably that the Dones got their inherited powers and dominion to rule; and were there no other fact, the Arms of Done as given by Ormerod, are sufficient proof as to the connection between the immediate and superior Lords of Utkinton, being the baronial coat of Venables varied with a bend, the difference adopted by the acknowledged younger branches of the family in the house of Kinderton their barony, and by a further addition of "three arrows" in allusion to their office of Hereditary Chief Foresters, which in the first place was got by the aforesaid marriage of a Done with a Kingsley.

The Arms of Done are thus described in Burke's General Armoury:

Same Arms.

Edmondson in his Complete Work of Heraldry, vol. 11, 1780, gives the Doane family as springing from Ireland and gives the Arms as a Unicorn salient ar. on a field azure, crusulyor. Sir Bernard Burke copies the Doane shield from Edmondson, in his General Armoury, 3rd edition, 1850, but omits it from all later editions.

The reproduction on the opposite page is from a photograph found in several branches of the American family and is the Doane Arms described by Edmondson.

The first and chief residence of the Done family appears to have been at the old hall of Utkinton, yet of the first earliest mansion it is thought that not a vestige probably now remains, unless indeed it be some of the ponderous foundation stones, covered with moss and overshadowed by a rank vegetation of tall grass, nettles and other verdure, showing partly a grated iron bound window inevitably suggestive of the gloomy portals of a prison, sometimes mentioned in Pleas of the Forest, and of a whispered note among older inhabitants of the district of a said-to-be "blank" in the Done Pedigree, or of some oft-told and weird tale of a "missing heir;" for it so happens in the County of Cheshire, that if an old hall or an ancient manor have not a ghost story, it must needs have something of a like nature; either blood stains that cannot be washed off, or some locked up mystery wholly unfathomable to the mind that feeds on it. Still, at the same time, Ormerod in this family's pedigree does make mention of a Done, whose personality cannot be traced, as no certain entry of his death or burial had been found.

With regard to the family of Done, as well as the Dones of Utkinton there were Dones of "Dudden" and Dones of "Flaxyards." Dudden is a small hamlet two miles from Utkinton and in the direction of Tarvin, where is a fine old Church in which parish registers are entries of the Dones of Dudden as well as a tablet in the church to the same. Of the old hall of Dudden, their former residence, one interesting old gable yet remains. Of Flaxyards, the house now turned into a farm-house, still carries with it an imposing formality with its many windowed front, its dark-toned brick and stone facings. In a quaintly worded journal, where the author seems to have visited various points of interest in the neighborhood, he alludes as follows to Flaxyards and the Dones: "Near to Tarporley, we see indeed, the ruins of a house, yet with no decay of the name or the owners thereof, the ancient seat of the Dones, between whom and the Dones of Utkinton I have heard was no little emulation until it pleased God, the heirs male of Utkinton failing were glad to knit with the Dones of Flaxyards, that so the union by marriage might make one greater name, as now in the person of the worthy Knight Sir John Done of Utkinton, a gentleman replete in many excellencies of nature, wit and ingenuity."

The portrait reproduction of Sir John and Lady Done has been photographed from an ancient painting now hanging in Marple Hall, near Stockport. There is a similar portrait of Sir John Done at Arderne Hall, the property of the Earl of Haddington. The picture is well preserved, though dark in tone, and the figure appears to have been depicted as wearing the Bugle Horn.

This Sir John Done, born 1576 and died Apr. 13, 1629, was knighted by King James I in 1617. He married Dorothy, eldest daughter of Thomas Wilbraham of Woodhey, Esq., and with his youthful bride went to reside for some time, according to the desire of his father-in-law, in the house of the celebrated John Bruen of Stapleford, in order to be schooled in the principles and habits of Puritanism. They imbibed Presbyterian tenets, and on the troubles of the 17th century the family adopted the cause of Parliament. Tradition still speaks of the hospitalities of Utkinton Hall during the occupancy of this Sir John Done, the last possessor of the ancient line. His lady, Dorothy Done, was possessed of such amiability of temper and excellency of character that when a Cheshire man would express excellency in the fair sex, he will say: "As fair as Lady Done," or "There's a Lady Done for you," both of which are well known proverbs to this day in Cheshire. The year following the death of Sir John Done the direct male line of his family terminated in his son. The forestership then became the property of the eldest daughter, Miss Jane Done, on whose death in 1662, it passed to the Crewes in right of Mary, second daughter of Sir John Done; and on the termination of this line, it passed in 1715, to the grandson of Eleanor, youngest daughter of Sir John Done, thence to John Arderne, Esq.

A number of the old pictures with the Bugle Horn and other family relics, had been left at the old Hall of Utkinton until the year 1629, when in default of male heirs the estate passed by female heiresses to the Crewes and Ardernes. A considerable number of the pictures had been removed to Harden hall near to Stockport, some of them family portraits, and one especially interesting from an historic point of view, being that of Mrs. Jane Lane, said to be a Done. This lady had distinguished herself in history by having assisted the escape of Charles II. after the battle of Worcester. The figure is represented as concealing the crown covered by a black veil and on the scroll the words, Sic jura tare sub umbra.

These pictures were afterward removed to the town house of the Ardernes, a fine old timber and plaster house, situated on the Underbank, Stockport.
On the side of the forest, north of Utkinton, are frequent evidences of consecutive narrow lanes, mostly tending from a point on the Forest, known as the "Old Pale," a sort of enclosure where deer were kept. These lanes are narrow and come more under the term "jetty," an obsolete Cheshire word not much used now, signifying a lane too narrow for a vehicle, but with high sheltering banks or hedges clothed with verdure, the hawthorn, honeysuckle and bramble. The lanes all tend in the direction of Utkinton, making as it were the Old Hall a focus for the same, showing that in those days Utkinton Hall with the demesne thereof was a center of considerable importance. The main door of entrance to Utkinton Hall seems to have been always from the north side and is approached by a gateway similar in character to the blocked-up one as shown in the drawing.

This gateway is upon the east side, following which are the remains of the Moat and an old Malting house. With the moat is connected a sad tale, telling of how a little girl, the daughter of a Done, had fallen into the water while gathering primroses and was drowned.

The high wall enclosing the gardens is of old brick with stone facings, stone balls surmounting the gateways, which with the walls are lichen stained and bear the soft grey tints common to all old buildings. The broad oak door opens direct into the spacious entrance hall measuring some thirty to forty feet square and in height is somewhat low in proportion to the surface area. The floor is of smooth laid Yorkshire flag, while from the center springs a huge pillar of oak, measuring in girth some nine feet, and, extending through two upper floors, has given rise to the term roof-tree, which same tree had probably in the neighboring forest ranked as a monarch among his kind.

Against the side walls of the ancient apartment are some fine pieces of old oak furniture highly carved and dark with age; one a high backed settee, another a heavily carved baresse or cupboard, holding ware of an old date, while upon side tables are capacious punch bowls of fine old china, showing that Utkinton, in the days gone by, had held cordial disposition to a generous hospitality. Upon one of the walls of the apartment there hang two life-size portraits painted upon wood; one is of a man, who from his dress and appurtenances represents one of the so called "running footmen," no doubt one of those included in the category of what was called a quarter knights fee as given in Time of Richard II, viz.—when a Richard Done, in 1311, held post over ther Forest of Mara, there was given him a horseman with eight footmen under him, to keep the forest then valued at £10.10.3. The term "running footman" has been handed down from a long past period. The service seemed to be to act as swift runners, and it was in this capacity that they were attached to the households of great families. A tale has been handed down by this man, that having been deputed by his master to carry what was thought to be a missive of importance to the London coach, which in the old coaching days passed through Tarporley at a certain hour of the day or night, he failed to do this, and fearing it is supposed the certain anger of his master he stabbed himself.

These portraits were brought from the residence of the Flaxyard Dones, and had been cut from panels. The deep rich tones of color in them have been retained in a wonderful manner. In the highest or roof story of Utkinton Hall, called the turrets, lies in the partial light under the great oak beams, a heterogeneous mixture of all manner of interesting objects: spinning wheels out of use, broken oak chairs and tables, bundles of thatching, string and stout yard brooms with the etcetera of every day farm life.

From the chief landing opens out the door leading into what is yet called the "King's chamber." This would be the room occupied by James I, when he visited Utkinton in 1617. The broad seated windows overlook the quaintly flagged terrace below, where doubtless, in the days gone by, had walked many a gay cavalier or courtly gentleman in ruffles and fine lace, or perchance, one hard and stern of countenance booted, spurred and ready for action, as it is pretty well known that at the time of the Commonwealth the hall had been rorted and pressed and divested of many of its valuables. The plate is still said to be buried in some part of the hall gardens, and there are the remains of the subteraneous passage said to come out at Ash hill. Cannon balls have, from time to time, been dug up in the vicinity, and upon the other side the lane opposite the hall, is a spacious walled-in enclosure, supposed to have been formerly used for games or practice with the firelock.

Inside the halls gardens, still lie in places, the crumbling and fallen plaster; fragments of stone carving; the fluted urn fallen from its high pedestal; the stone head, which, face upwards to the sun, seems grinning discordance on the scene around—"So passeth the glory of this world!"

The Done Monuments, still to be seen in Tarporley Church, are very striking examples of the fine arts. Sculptured in marble they retain in a great degree their purity and whiteness, while in the evident care and truthfulness of execution they show excellent workmanship and artistic skill. The foremost and recumbent figure is that of Mrs. Mary Crewe (a Done), wife of John Crewe, Esq., who was afterwards Sir John Crewe and resided at Utkinton Hall.

The other figure is that of Miss Jane Done, a lady of widely philanthropic views, and whose charitable bequests are still of note in Tarporley.

The wording of the front of the monument reads as follows:

Near this place lies the body of Jane Done, eldest daughter of John Done of Utkinton in this County Palatine of Chester, Knight, and one of the co-heirs of John Done his son, Esquire. She was baptised Nov. 14, 1600. And in virgin state and great reputation lived remarkably eminent for parts and prudence, affability and generosity, charity and piety. Besides her daily alms-giving and good deeds, she gave twenty pounds charged upon certain lands in Tarporley to be yearly paid to the School adjacent forever, and two hundred pounds now charged upon lands in Tattenhall for the binding poor children in Tarporley and Utkinton apprentices. She was a most tender lover of her no less affectionate sister Mary Crewe, upon whom, and her heirs, she settled her proportion of ye estate. And from whom she never parted till the day of her death, May 2, 1622.
The second foremost tablet of the monument reads as follows:

Here by her dear Sister Jane Done, lieth the body of Mary Crewe, second daughter of Sir John Done, and another of the co-heirs of John Done Esquire and wife, and relict of John Crewe Esquire second son of Sir Randle Crewe of Crewe in this county. She was born at Utkinton, July 12, 1604, married at Stockport Church, Dec. 1, 1636 and had four children, viz.: a daughter born at Harden, Oct. 3, 1637, and buried at the chapel at Stockport belonging to Ralph Arden, of Harden, Esquire who married Elinor, youngest daughter of Sir John Done and one of the co-heirs of John Done her brother. Mary, born at Utkinton Dec. 23, 1639, bur. at Richmond in Surrey, May 12, 1645. John, born at Utkinton, bapt. in this church Nov. 31, 1641, who married Mary, ye daughter of Tho Wagstaff, of Tackbrook, in ye county of Warwick, Esqr. with Mary was interred in a vault in Tackbrook, amongst her dear relations June 10, 1696. Elizabeth, born at Westminister and married to Devereaux Knightly, of Fansley in the county of Northampton, Esqr., by whom she had Mary, born at Fansley and baptised July 9, 1673, who died at Utkinton, Aug. 10, 1674, was buried by her aunt and grandmother near ye place of this monument.

It may be of interest to note a rough abstract of the Done Pedigree as given by Ormerod, showing the reigning heir and to whom married.

In the reign of King John, 1199, Richard Done.

In the reign of Henry III, Henry Done; married Joan, fourth daughter of Richard de Kyngslie.

In the 44th year of Henry III, Richard Donne; married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Hugh Venables.

In the 44th year of Edward III, Richard Donne; married Anne, daughter of William de Clotten.

In the 13th year of Henry VI, John Downe; married Anne, daughter of Richard de Heaton.

In the 38th year of Henry VI, Sir John Done, slain at Blore Heath; married Cicely, daughter of Sir John Troutbeck.

In the 20th year of Henry VII, Sir John Done; married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas de Wever.

In the 8th year of Henry VIII, Richard Done; married Joan, daughter of Sir Peter Gerard.

In the 4th year of Elizabeth, Sir John Donne, aged 15, buried at Tarporley, 1561; settled his estates on Ralph Done of Flaxxyards.

In the reign of James I, Sir John Done, Knight; buried at Tarporley, 1629. Was knighted by James I, at Utkinton, 1617; married Dorothy, daughter of Thomas Wilbraham of Woodhey.

Of the account handed down of the King's visit to Utkinton, much is said of Sir John Done’s “well pleasing service to his majesty, while taking his pleasure in his Forest of Delamere, when this gentleman being chief Forester & Keeper had ordered so wisely and contentfully His Highness’ sports, that he honored him with knighthood and graced his house of Utkinton with his royal presence, making him Sir John Done of Utkinton of which the County speaks much of brave knights, his ancestors.”

The medallion wallpiece of Sir John Done in Tarporley Church, represents him in the costume of the reign of King James I, his left hand resting upon the hilt of his sword,—and with the Done motto, Omnia Mei Dona Dei.
DEACON JOHN DOANE

AND

HIS DESCENDANTS.

1 JOHN\textsuperscript{1} DOANE came over from England and settled in Plymouth. He was the founder of the Doane family in America. Nothing is yet known of his history in England, but the same is true also of the greater number of the Pilgrims who repaired to these New England shores before the middle of the seventeenth century. A record was kept of those emigrants who on leaving England took the oath of loyalty to the English Crown and promised conformity to the Established Church. As a large number desired to avoid this enforced allegiance and to settle in the land of their adoption, free to follow their own religious inclinations, they took no legal departure but sailed away with more or less secrecy and were therefore not enrolled in the official records of the government.

Of John Doane’s early life, of his parentage, the place of his nativity, the family name of his wife, the name of the vessel on which he came nothing whatever has yet been discovered. From the fact that he was one of the principal men in the affairs of the Plymouth Colony, we infer, however, that he was heir to a good birthright, that in some broad field education and friction had developed a manhood and strength of character that inspired the confidence of his Plymouth associates.

John Doane was the first of the name in America and was the progenitor of a numerous posterity. Savage’s Genealogical Dictionary of New England, Vol. ii, p. 55, gives a John Done, aged 16, who embarked at London on the Truelove in Sept., 1635; also a Henry Doane of Watertown 1643, and a Richard Doane of Rhode Island in 1672. It has been suggested that John of the Truelove was the son of John Doane of Plymouth. In 1706, John Doane, Jr., of Plymouth was about seventy-one years old, according to his own testimony in his will, and therefore was born about 1635, the year the True-love sailed from London.

The year of John Doane's arrival in the Plymouth Colony can be only approximately determined. The Rev. Enoch Pratt, in his History of Eastham, published in 1844, states that he came over in one of the "three first ships," but his authority is not given. It is now certain however that he did not come in the Mayflower, Fortune or Ann, the first three ships to arrive at Plymouth. His name does not appear in the list of Plymouth settlers in 1627, when the lands of the Colony were divided among the members of the community. In the notice of his daughter Abigail's death found on page 21 of this book, it is stated that he "came to Plymouth with his wife in 1630." This notice, printed in a Boston newspaper in 1735, is tolerably good evidence as to the time of his arrival in the Plymouth Colony. Mr. Nahum Mitchell, author of the History of Bridgewater, Mass., in a letter dated Jan. 26, 1849, says: "Mr. John Doane came over to New England about 1629, when history informs us that thirty-five of the Leyden Company, with their families, arrived at Plymouth. He no doubt was one of these and a member of Mr. Robinson's church."

While it is not definitely known from what part of the United Kingdom originally came the founder of the Doane family in America, there is a tradition that he was from "Wales, west of England." This tradition and the statement in Ormerod's history, that the last Sir John Done of the Cheshire family, during the troubles of the seventeenth century, adopted the cause of parliament and imbied Presbyterian tenets, lead us to believe that our American ancestor descended from the ancient Dones of Cheshire. The Cheshire family very early spread out into Shropshire and other counties and possibly into Wales, while the name is found on the registers of several of the parish churches of London as early as 1590.

John Doane was a prominent man in Plymouth as soon as his arrival there about 1630. He was one of the few who bore the title of "Mr." The Pilgrims were very careful to give no titles where they were not due. The late Amos Otis, genealogist of Early Barnstable Families, says:

In the Plymouth Colony the Governor, deputy governor, the magistrates and assistants, the ministers of the church, school-masters, officers in the militia, men of great wealth or connected with the gentry or nobility were entitled to be called Mister and their wives Mistress; this rule was rigidly enforced in earlier Colonial times, and in all lists of names it was almost the universal custom to commence with those who stood highest in rank and to follow that order to the end.

John Doane must have been known to the Pilgrims previous to his coming to Plymouth. There are strong suggestions that he was in partnership with Mr. John Atwood who was of London until 1635. The Doane family are found in London at this period and in former generations there were not a few John Dones. He was a strong man. His associates and the offices he was bidden to undertake by the Governor, the Court and by the suffrages of his towns-men, show him to have been a man of superior quality. A larger knowledge of his ancestry and of his previous career will confirm, we have no doubt, this estimate we make of him. This knowledge will be a source of delight and inspiration to his numerous descendents.

The following verbatim et literatim extracts are from the several volumes of the Records of the Colony of New Plymouth in New England, edited by Nathaniel B. Shurtleff, M.D. and printed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 1855. These extracts comprise all references of importance to John Doane found in the Colony records. The notes are information and explanations drawn from various sources, some of which sources are noted. In many cases we suppose there are reasons for debate, but this has not been entered upon. The purpose of these extracts and notes is to show the career in Plymouth of Deacon John Doane, not to show a man above his fellows, but a strong man among strong men.

[Apr. 8, 1633] Whereas Walter Harris had bound himself by indenture to serve Mr. John Atwood of Lond. under the comand of Mr. John Done of New Plymouth for the space of five yeares, the said John Done hath sold all right, title & claime to the said service unto Henry Howland, by consent of the said Walter for & in consideration of fourteen pounds starling to be paid at three severall paymtns.

Note. Walter Harris, according to Hottens List of Original Emigrants [p. 149], came in the William and James, and embarked March 6, 1631, for New England. He was a young man, an apprentice of Mr. John Atwood, then of London: and his services were sold by Mr. Atwood for a period of five years. This lease of Harris' service was transferred by John Done in April, 1633 to Henry Howland for £14 sterling.

[Oct. 28, 1633] At this Court John Done presented an inventory of the goods and chattels of Martha Harding deceased, who in behalf of her son was allowed the administracon of the said Martha. —Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 18.

Note. The widow Martha Harding was taxed in Plymouth in 1632, and was living there in March, 1633. It has been suggested that she was a sister of Mr. John Doane. Martha Harding's inventory was presented Oct. 28, 1633. It states that she died without will, leaving a son in the custody of Mr. John Done, in behalf of whom Mr. Done is allowed to administer. Her estate amounted to £20. 18s. 6d. Her debts to £33. 9s. 1d. John Done charges her estate with £9. 9s. 1d money lent to, or paid out for Martha Harding. Phoebe Harding married John Brown, Jr., of Duxbury, Mar. 26, 1634. Winnifred Harding married Thomas Whitten in 1639. John Harding was probably the "Capt. Harding" sent to treat with the Narragansetts in 1645. In 1652, Joseph Harding of Eastham was presented to the Grand Enquest, "for carrying an Indian's gun into the smith's to bee mended in his uncle's name." Would John Doane have paid out over nine pounds for the widow Harding, if she was not a relative? Unless a relative, would Martha Harding have left a son to the custody of John Doane when she evidently had other children in Plymouth grown to manhood and womanhood?

[Nov. 11, 1633] It was ordered that whereas Peter Browne died without will, leaving divers children by divers wives, his estate amounting to an hundred pounds or thereabouts it is ordered that Mary his wife who is allowed the administracion of the said Peter, forwith pay downe fifteen pounds for the use of Mary Browne, daughter of the said Peter, to Mr. Joh Done of Plymouth aforesaid vth whom the said Court have placed the said Mary for nine yeeares; at the end whereof the said John is to make good the said fifteen pounds to her or her heires, if in case she die.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 18.

pired the said John Doane hath deliverd wth the consent of the said Mary Browne, and by order of the Court, unto John Browne of Dux-borrow two cowes, two cowes at xiiith and forty shillings in swyne and wheate and is by the Court discharged of the said xvith, and the said John Browne is to keep the said two cowes and their encrease for their milk wth the rest of the stock as aforesd untill the said Mary shall be married or thought fitt to marry, whereunto the said Mary

Note. Peter Browne came in the Maydower in 1620. He deceased before Oct. 10, 1633. His last wife was Mary who administered upon his estate.
The daughter Mary who for eleven years was under the guardianship of John Done, in 1644 chose her uncle John Browne of Duxbury as her guardian. The daughter Priscilla was under the guardianship of Wm. Gilson and likewise chose her uncle John Browne, in 1644, as her guardian.—Vide

Note. Godbert Godbertson, who was from Leyden, came to Plymouth in 1623. He contracted marriage with Sarah, a sister of Isaac Allerton, was in full communion, says Winslow, with the purposes of this English company in Holland and New England. He died in 1633. The estate in 1633 was appraised by Mr. John Done and Mr. Stephen Hopkins. It is possible that Sarah the wife of Godbertson had been the widow of John Vincent and of Degory Priest and that her daughters Mary and Sarah, who became the wives of John Coombs and Phineas Pratt, were daughters of Degory Priest. It would appear that the estate of Godbert Godbertson and wife Sarah was much involved. The same date on which John Done was appointed an appraiser of the personal effects of the family in possession of Phineas Pratt, he—John Done—bought of John Coombs house and land adjoining the homestead of Godbertson. The estate of Godbertson may have largely belonged to his wife Sarah and possibly it was really the remnants of the estate of Degory Priest. It is a debated question whether John Coombs and Phineas Pratt married daughters of Degory Priest. They certainly were the daughters of Sarah, the wife of Godbert Godbertson. The families were all highly connected, but have afforded several genealogical puzzles.

[January 2, 1633–34] At this Court Mr. John Done being formerly chosen to the office of a deacon in the Church at the request of the Church & himselfe was freed from the office of an Assistant in the Comon Weale.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 23.

Note. John Doane preferred to be a Deacon in the Church rather than an Assistant to the Governor in the affairs of the Colony. His position would suggest that he deemed the offices inconsistent one with the other. The question of the day was "separation" and "independence;" hence we can slightly appreciate his course of thought in deciding. Nevertheless, Mr. Doane, henceforth, was frequently summoned to act upon committees for the welfare of the community.

Note. The Plymouth policy of separating Church and State was this year illustrated in the case of John Doane, who, having been elected and ordained deacon, was for that reason voluntarily discharged as one of the Governor's Council.—Goodwin's Pilgrim Republic, p. 376.

Note. In 1633 a fever carried off Thomas Blossom and Richard Masterson of the late comers. They were deacons of the church at Plymouth. Their offices were filled by Wm. Paddy and John Doane, also recent comers.

Goodwin's Pilgrim Republic, p. 378.

[July 5, 1635] At ye same Court it was agreed to be needfull to build a mille: and these 4 whose names are under written were by ye Courte appoynted to collecte ye money for the building of ye same, as also to agree with workmen and order other all things for ye dispatch thereof.

Captaine Standish    John Done &
Mr. William Collier   John Winslow.

NOTE. Stephen Deane, who came in the Fortune in 1621, was a miller. In 1632, he desired "to sett up a water-worke to beat corn." In this he was en. couraged. He deceased in Sept., 1634. In July. 1635, John Doane was one of a committee to build a mill. The project of a public mill was futile, for in March, 1636, John Jenny was given liberty to build the mill which was operated by him and his son for more than forty years.

[Mar. 1, 1635-36] It was ordered that Mr. John Done, John Jenny, Manasseh Kempton, Josnath Pratt, John Winslow, Edw. Bangs & Stephen Tracy be added to the Gov'r & Assistants for the ceasing of men for the publick charge of this first present year. —Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 38.

[Oct. 4, 1636] The ordnance of the colony & corporation being read, divers were fownd worthy the reforming, others the rejecting & others fitt to be instituted & made. It was therefore ordered and agreed that four for the town of Plymouth, two for Scituate and two for Duxburrow, shall as Comitees for the whole be added to the Gov'r & Assistants to rectifie & prepr such as should be thought most convenient, that if approved they may be put in force the next Generall Court. It was ordered that Mr. William Brewster, Mr. Ralph Smith, Mr. John Done & John Jenny for the Town of Plymouth: Jonathan Brewster & Chris[topher] Wadsworth for Duxborrough & James Culworth & Anthony Annable for Situate should be (added) to the Gov'r & Assistants as Committees for the whole body of this Comon weale should meete together the 15th of November at Plymouth above menconed and there to p' use all the lawes orders & consti-tucons of the plantacons in this Government, so that those that are still fitting (might) be established, those that hath made (un)ecessary might be rejected & others that are wanting might be prep'rd that so the nex(t) Court they might be established.

Now being assembled according to the said (order) and having read the Combinacon made at (Cape) Cod the 11th Novb 1620 in the yeare of (the) raigne of our late Sov. L. King James of Engl ff (ando) Irel. the eighteenth & of Scotland the fifty (fourth) as our letters Patents confirmed by (the) honorable Councell his sd Matie established & (granted) the 13th of January 1629 in the feste yeare of the reign of our Sov. Lord King Charles. And finding that as freeborne subjects of the State of Engl. we hither came indrewid with all & singular the priviledges belong to such, in the first place we thinke good that it be establish(ed) for an act. That according to the —— & due priviledge of the subject aforesaid no imposicon law or ordinance be made or imposed upon us by ourselves (or others at) present or to come but such as shall be made (or) imposed by consent according to the free liberties (of the) State & Kingdom of Engl. & no otherwise.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. ii, p. 6.

Note. In 1636, Elder Brewster, Pastor Smith and Deacons Doane and Jenney of Plymouth, Jonathan Brewster and Christopher Wadsworth of Duxbury, James Cadworth and Anthony Annable of Scituate were joined to the Governor and Council for the preparation of a regular system of laws. They began with the declaration of the Mayflower Compact, &c. Until now, 1636, there was no law establishing the offices of Governor, Councillors or Constables. By general consent, for fifteen years, they were chosen annually.—Goodwin's Pilgrim Republic, p. 401.

Note. They assembled according to the Order and having read the combination made at Cape Cod the 11th of Nov., 1620, on board of the Mayflower, they performed the important work for which they were appointed. This was the first revision of the laws of the Colony; and to be appointed one of the Committee for this work was a mark of distinction showing that Deacon Doane was respected for his wisdom and integrity.—Pratt's Hist. of Eastham, p. 16.

[March 14, 1635–36] That widow Billington have the marsh against her owne grownd & what is too much for her is for Mr. Done.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 40.

At this Court an action of slander was tried between John Done, plaintiff & Helin Billington defendant wherein the defendt was cast in five pounds standing to the plaintiff and adjudged to be sett in the stocks and whipt.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 42.

Note. Billington's name seemed for a time to be one of ill-omen. His widow succeeded to his farm at Plain Dealing (two miles North of Plymouth Rock), and for her cattle, was, in 1636, authorized by the Court to mow the adjacent grass; but “what is too much for her” was to go to Deacon John Doane. A controversy ensued, doubtless as to this “too much,” and the deacon charging the dame with slander sued for £10 damages. The Court gave the complainant nothing; but evidently finding slander very flagrant sentenced the defendant to a fine of £5, to sit in the stocks and to be publickly whipped.—Goodwin’s Pilgrim Republic, p. 343.

Note. Nov. 25, 1633, Mr. Thomas Prence and Mr. John Doane were appraisers upon the estate of Francis Eaton. The last wife of Francis Eaton was Christian Penn, who afterwards became the wife of Francis Billington.

[Dec. 30, 1636] Whereas the now dwelling howse with all & singular the outhousing, lands & enclosures in the use & occupacon of John Done of Plymouth, neere unto Playne Dealing, were in p’tner-ship between the said John Done & John Atwood, late of London, Gent.: Now know ye that upon accounts between the said Joh, & John, the said John Atwood for & in consideracon of three score pounds, hath bought out the said John Done, his heires & assignes so that it remayneth wholly to the said John Atwood & his heires ever.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 47.

Note. John Atwood died abt. 1644. He came over from London about 1635, and at once assumed a prominent place in the affairs of Plymouth. He was an Assistant to the Governor in 1638 and was Deputy for Plymouth from 1641 to his death. He was treasurer of the Colony in 1641. He resided near the “Rock” in a house which he purchased of Governor Prence. His widow Ann removed to Boston. She deceased June 1, 1654. Wm. Crowe was a nephew and Robert and Mary Lee were kinsmen. Both Mr. and Mrs. Atwood left wills. John Atwood was prominent and wealthy. At times he was called John Wood. His Plymouth estate was sold to Benjamin Vermayes who married Mercy, dau. of Gov. Bradford. The scales of widow Ann Atwood were declared by the General Court to be “standard.” In 1641, Mr. Atwood was the agent of James Sherley of London. Mr. Sherley was ever actively promoting the interests of the people of Plymouth. In 1624 he made a gift to Plymouth and also in 1638.

Note. Several are the instances where the names of John Atwood and John Doane are associated. They had dealings with each other more than two years before the coming of John Atwood from London about 1635, and it may be that their partnership reached farther than the joint ownership of a houselot in Plymouth. Perhaps Mr. Doane was a partner in business in London with John Atwood. Mr. John Doane and Mr. John Atwood were partners in a dwelling house and enclosures near unto Playne Dealing in Plymouth previous to Dec. 30, 1636, not long after Mr. Atwood’s arrival from London. These references which seemingly unite them are strong suggestions not only of partnership in Plymouth, but likewise before either of them ventured to the Plymouth Colony. In 1636, Mr. Atwood purchased the portion of Mr. Doane by the payment of three score pounds. They had further dealings with each other, and June 2, 1639, John Doane promised at the Court of Assistants to pay John Atwood the sum of £3.17s. sterling within a year and Mr. Atwood promised to forbear until that time.

[Mar. 7, 1636-7] Concerning the trade of beaver, corne & beads, &c. with the Indians, it is agreed by the consent of the Court, that they that now have yt shall hold yt untill the next Court the beginning of June; and then further conference to be had for the managinage thereof, that such further course may be taken therein as shalbe thought fitt. And in the meanse season Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Atwood, Mr. Done & Jonathan Brewster shalbe added to the Gouv'y and Assistants to advise upon such p'positions and wayes so as the said trade may be still continued to the benefit of the Collony.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 54.

Note. Thomas Butler removed from Duxbury to Sandwich in 1640, and returned to Duxbury before 1657. He may have been of Lynn before 1637. Just why Mr. Doane was surety for him is not known. He may have been one of his workmen.

[Oct. 2, 1637] Seaven acrees of land are graunted to William Hodgkinson upon the north side of Winslows Walk towards the Cedar Swamp where Mr. Atwood & Mr. Done have lands.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 66.

[Oct. 2, 1637] Ten acres graunted to Mr. John Done in the same place (Playne Dealing) northward from Winslowes Walk toward the Cedar Swamp to belong to his house at Plymouthe & to be therewth all used and not sold from it.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 65.

Note. Deacon John Doane had frequent grants of land from Court, which must have been because of his many services in behalf of the Colony. He was continually rendering services as Deputy from Plymouth or Eastham and serving on Committees where interests were at stake and on the Grand Jury. His original grant at Eastham was because he was one of the "Purchasers" or "Old Comers," but his various grants at Jones River, now Kingston, at Rehoboth, to the north of Taunton, etc. etc., were undoubtedly because of his many public services.

Note. "Playne Dealing," where some of the land of John Doane was situated, was at "Seaside" in northern part of the present Plymouth. Winslows "Walk" (obsolete word for pasture) was in this vicinity also, near High Cliff. "Doane's Field," mentioned in many records, is that tract embraced largely by the Plymouth Cemetery Association.

[Sept. 14, 1637] Mathew Osborne by his indenture beareing date
the third day of May in the xiii year of his Maj:es now raigne &e. hath bound himself apprentice to John Read of Waymouth, for the terme of six yeares next after the date of the said indenture wth divers other covenants on both pts to performed contained & expressed in the said indenture. Now the said John Read for and in consideracon of the sume of eight pounds to him in hand payd by John Done of New Plymouth hath with and by the consent of the sd Mathew Osborne put him over to the said John Done, to serve all the residue of his tyme according to the sd indenture.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 65.

Note. Matthew Osborne was probably a son of John Osborne of Weymouth. He deceased in 1641 at Weymouth. His age was not stated, but he was probably a man grown as many of the “indentured” men, indentured themselves to men of means who had employment, for the purpose of pay ing their passage across the ocean or of working out some indebtedness caused by misfortune or loss in business.

[June 4, 1639] Mr. John Done is allowed to draw wine until the next Court.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 127.

[June 2, 1640] Also we p’sent Mr. Done for selling wine contrary to order made by Court. It was mistaken by the grand inquest and so he was discharged by the Court the 3rd Septembr 1640, and appoynted by the Court to be thus rased out.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. i, p. 156.

[Jan. 7, 1644-5] Whereas Mr. John Done is lycensed to draw wyne in Plymouth, and that James Cole is likewise lycensed to keepe the ordinary there wth is very inconvenyent to many persons, the Court hath therefore lycensed the said James Cole from this day foward to draw wyne if he shall agree wth Mr. Done to take off those wynes hee now hath in his hands. Agreement was after made betwixt them.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. ii, pp. 79, 80.

[Sept. 7, 1641] Mr. John Done, Mr. Willm Paddy & Nathaniell Sowther are appoynted by the Court to view James Luxfords bookes and to certifye the Court what they find there in.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. ii, p. 24.

Note. James Luxford ran an unsavory course during his years in New England. He was of Cambridge and of Duxbury. He may or may not have deceased when the committee “viewed” the “books.”

[Mar. 3, 1644-45] It is ordered that Mr. Miles Standish, Mr. John Done & John Dunhame shall take the accounts of Mr. Thomas Prencce for his treasurership of its receipts and payments and certefye the Court thereof.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. ii, p. 82.
NOTE. Governor Prence served the Plymouth Colony in many capacities. In his removal to Eastham it was his wish to retire as much as possible from public service. The above auditorship may have been an annual affair, but appears to have been the closing of his service as treasurer.

NOTE. Rev. Ralph Smith came to New England in 1628. In 1629 he settled in Plymouth where he was pastor until 1636. From 1631 to 1634 Rev. Roger Williams was his assistant. Mr. Smith resigned in 1636, but continued to reside in Plymouth until 1642 when he removed to Manchester to be the minister of the church there. He died in Boston in 1661. When he removed from Plymouth, John Doane as agent for the church at Plymouth gave him six score pounds for his house, buildings and garden plot together with six acres in the "Newfield," and every other right he may have in Plymouth. This home of the pastor was soon deeded by Deacon John Doane to Rev. John Reynor, who served as minister at Plymouth eighteen years. Rev. Mr. Reynor began his pastorate about 1636 and removed to Dover, N. H., in 1644 where he died in 1669.

NOTE. In the list of one hundred and forty-seven in all between the ages of 16 and 60 years, able to bear arms in Aug., 1643, are the following who have the honorable prefix of "Mr." attached to their names. There were others resident in Plymouth who at this time were not able to bear arms.

William Hanbury
John Atwood
John Done
William Paddy

[Sept. 27, 1642] Mr. Prence, Mr. Done, Mr. Paddy, Mr. Jenny and Joshua Pratt are appointed to lay forth all the lands above granted.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. ii, p. 48.

About this time there was a desire on the part of many in Plymouth to take up new lands. The new charter had given three parcels of land into the hands of the "Old Comers," and these people were on the lookout, for land which could be more profitably cultivated. Nauset or Eastham was one of the three tracts reserved to the "Purchasers," on the transfer of the Warwick Patent to the Colonists in 1641. Affairs at Plymouth had not been prospering as formerly. There was not sufficient upland. There was without doubt a slight division in the Church, which made those persons of similar minds and ambitions to think of removal to Nauset.

In 1644 the movement towards the new settlement at Nauset began, but the final removal was in 1645. The leaders in the enterprise were Ex Governor Thomas Prence, Deacon John Doane, Nicholas Snow, Josiah Cooke, Richard Higgins, John Smalley (Small) and Edward Bangs.
The fortunes at Plymouth were even at a lower ebb after this emigration. Strong men in Plymouth had already deceased, such as Brewster, Atwood, Hopkins and Jenny and now the removal of other strong leaders brought double discouragement to the hearts of the Pilgrims. Bradford and Howland still remained, but they were aged. Bradford, in his wonderful history says: "Thus was this poor church left like an ancient mother grown old and forsaken of her children (though not in their affections), until she had made many rich became herself poor."

[Feb. 19, 1645] Memorand.—That Mr. John Done doth acknowledg that for and in consideration of the sum of ten pounds sterl. to be payd by Mr. William Hanbury of Plymouth with in the space of one whole yeare now next ensuing hath freely and absolutely bargained and sold unto the said Willm Hanbury all that his dwelling house and garden places, barne and buildings in and upon the same with all the fruit trees now growing thereon scituate in Plymouth aforesaid with all and singular th app'nts thereunto belonging and all his Right title and Interest of and unto the said pr'miss and every part and p'cell thereof with the fences about the same. To have and hold the said House and garden places, barne & buildings with all the fruit trees and all and singular the apprtences thereunto belonging unto the said Willm. Hanbury his heirs and Assignes forever to the onely pper use and behoofe of him the said Willm. Hanbury his heires and Assignes forever.

The corne now groweing in the garden is excepted with some half a doosen of smale fruite trees with the said Willm. Hanbury shall give the said John Done at the fall or spring.—Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. xi, p. 136.

The value of the homestead of John Doane at Plymouth does not betray affluence. On removing to Nauet he sold his homestead for £10. Perhaps his business ventures in common with others had not been successful. This was doubtless a large reason for his fresh adventure at Nauet when he was fifty-five years old. But rich or poor his wisdom and counsel were ever sought and respected.

The territory of Nauet, purchased of the Indians, for which they paid "moose skins, Indian boats, wampum and little knives," embraced the greater part of the present town of Orleans, Eastham and Wellfleet. The deed from the Indians confirmatory of the purchase, was given Nov. 9, 1666. Nauet is an Indian name, and was applied by the Aborigines to a particular locality in the present town.
of Eastham. Our forefathers gave the name to the whole purchase, and so it was called until 1651, when the Court at Plymouth promulgated an order that henceforth Nauset should be called Eastham.

Deacon Doane settled on the north of Town Cove. The early records do not show the amount of land laid out to him at the time of the settlement. The History of Eastham says: "He took possession of about two hundred acres, and his house stood near the water." At various times after he became a resident of Eastham he had land granted him by the Court as well as by the town. It is claimed that stone posts bearing his initials, and marking the boundaries of his large farm were standing as late as 1844.

In Eastham town affairs John Doane was an important man. He was appointed by the Court June 1, 1663, to solemnize marriages and to administer oaths to witnesses. He was a deacon of the First Church there and served the town as selectman for many years. In 1649, 1650, 1651, 1653 and 1659 he was a Deputy to the Colony Court for Eastham as he had been in 1642 and 1643 for the town of Plymouth.

On Dec. 2, 1681, John Doane conveyed by deed, in which he is styled "Gent., Tayler," his Eastham homestead to his daughter Abigail as appears by the following extract from Ply. Col. Rec. Vol. 5 of Deeds, p. 89:

"To all people to whom these presents shall come. Greeting. KNOW ye that I, John Doane, Gent. Tayler of the Towne of Eastham in the Jurisdiction of New Plymouth in New England in America, for divers considerations, mee thereunto mouuing, and especially for that love and naturall affection, which I bear to my daughter Abigaill Doane; hath freely, fully and absolutely given, granted infeoffed and confirmed; and by these presents, doth give, grant, enfeoffe and confirm unto my said daughter Abigaill Doane of the Towne and Jurisdiction aforesaid; to her and her heires, executors, administrators and assignes, forever, my dwelling house with all the upland and meddow about the said house; The land being by estimation twelve acres, more or less, and two acres of meddow, be it more or lesse, in a place comonly called the acres, or the Comon Cove in the boate meddow; The said house land and meddow is situated and being in the Towne shipp of Eastham; with all and singular the appurtenances to the said given p'mises, or any yte or p'sell of them forever" etc.

In his will dated May 18, 1678, Mr. Doane declares his age "eighty-eight years or thereabouts." If his own statement is correct he was born not far from 1590. He died Feb. 21, 1685, aged about ninety-five years. His inventory taken by his neighbors
Joseph Snow and Joshua Bangs, says "aged about 100 years." His wife's name appears as Abigail. They were undoubtedly interred in the old cemetery at Eastham, the first burial ground of the town.

On Sept. 10, 1869, a Doane Family memorial meeting was held at Eastham to witness the erection of a granite post on the site of Deacon John Doane's house. This site is on the eastern side of the town, perhaps three hundred yards from the waters of Nauset Bay extending to the south, about one-half mile from the Atlantic shore and two and one-half miles from Barnstable Bay on the west. The old cellar now overgrown with wild grass is in a field of about fifteen acres, owned by Mr. Benjamin Higgins. The stone, a rough block of granite, was erected by the Hon. John Doane of Orleans (291) on which occasion an historical address was delivered by Heman Doane, Esq. (319) followed by the singing of an original hymn.

The following is a copy of all documents in the settlement of John Doane's estate found in the Registry of Probate at Barnstable, Mass.

THE WILL OF DEACON JOHN DOANE.

SECOND GENERATION.

2 LYDIA\(^2\) DOANE (John\(^1\)) was born probably before her parents came to Plymouth. She married Sept. 11, 1645, Samuel Hicks who came over to Plymouth with his mother, younger brother and sisters, in the Ann, in 1623. His father, Robert Hicks, came over in the Fortune, in 1621, and was one of the foremost of the Pilgrim fathers. Samuel Hicks seems to have been a man of standing. He was in Plymouth in 1639, when he bought his father's house, out-houses and garden-plot, with two cows, and lands on the north and south sides of the town. He was admitted a freeman Mar. 1, 1641-2 and contributed one-sixteenth part of the money to build a barque of forty or fifty tons, costing £200. He was among the first who went to Nauset, or Eastham, after the settlement commenced. He was a constable there in 1646, and represented the town in the Colony Court in 1647, and again in 1649 with his father-in-law Deacon John Doane. He returned to Plymouth, where two of their children were born, and was a constable in that town in 1654. He was sometime an inhabitant of Barnstable. Mr. Otis says, he was admitted an inhabitant there Oct. 3, 1662, but had then resided in the town several years.

In 1661, there was "a difference" between Samuel Hicks and his mother, about the will of his father Robert and it was agreed that Samuel should pay his mother ten pounds, and leave "the winescot bedstead and the table in the hall to remain in the house as now it stands," the house to revert to Samuel at his mother's decease.

He removed to Dartmouth where his father had been interested in some landed estate. In 1666 an Indian named "Daniell" was examined before the court for striking Samuel Hicks, of Acushna or Dartmouth "so that he languisheth and hath been in danger of death." The Indian confessed that he "struck or punched Hicks with an axe or the haft of it," but claimed that Hicks first struck him. After a hearing Daniell was fined four pounds and four shillings for bill of charges, and forty shillings for loss of Hicks time, and ten shillings to John Haward for going to Plymouth as a witness.

On June 5, 1667, Samuel Hicks was one of the selectmen and a Receiver of Excise for Dartmouth. He was in the list of freemen there in 1670, and a deputy to the Colony Court. No record appears of the deaths of Samuel and Lydia Hicks. They had at least seven children, two of whom, Dorcas born Feb. 14, 1652 and Margaret born Mar. 9, 1654, were born in Plymouth. Davis says, there was a son Samuel born in 1651 and Austin's Dictionary of Rhode Island Families gives a son Thomas, a carpenter of Dartmouth, Mass., and Portsmouth, R. I., who married Mary, daughter of John and Dorothy Albro. Margaret Hicks' will, dated July 8, 1655, bequeaths to her son Samuel and his family as follows:

I give unto my son Samuell hickes five pounds; Item I give unto my daughter in law Lydia hickes thirty shillings. Item I give unto my son Samuell's children ten shillings apiece; there being seven of them; all the above said legacies my will is shall bee payed by that which is owing to mee from my above said son Samuel hickes which debt is ten pounds Really and truly owing to mee from my said son; the above said legacies being what I can doe for him and his; hee haveing alreddy Received a large portion of that which god hath given mee; not onely in lands but alsoe in goods and chattles which was not onely my husbands and son Ephraims estate formerly but alsoe given to mee by will att my son Ephraims death.

3 ABIGAIL\(^2\) DOANE (John\(^1\)) was born at Plymouth, Jan. 13, 1631–2 and died at Norwich, Conn., Jan. 23, 1734–5. She married, in 1690, Samuel, born in England about 1620, second son of Rev. John Lothrop.*

She went with her father's family in 1645 from Plymouth to Nauset, or Eastham, where she lived about forty-five years. From entries in Eastham town records, it is inferred that she was, to some extent, engaged in business. Her name appears several times on Eastham records as the owner of horses.

May 6, 1672, sold and delivered according to a Court Order by Abigail Doane, to an Indian called Moses, one bay horse, ear marked two slits, a star in the forehead, a little white streak over the left nostril, burn marked E on the near buttock.—Eastham town record.

* Rev. John Lothrop was the minister at Edgerton, Kent, England, but removed to London in 1624 and was pastor of a Congregational church. The Archbishop caused the arrest of himself and forty-three members of the church Apr. 29, 1632, and most of them were imprisoned for two years for the simple offence of practising the teachings of the New Testament. His first wife died while he was in prison. He, and some others, were released on condition of leaving the country, and came to New England.

He arrived with his family Sept. 18, 1631, and soon after organized a church at Scituate—"so many of us as had been in the covenant before" are his words. A few years later he removed, with the principal part of the church, to found the town and church at Barnstable.—Pope's Pioneers of Massachusetts.
Samuel Lothrop was married, first, by his father, at Barnstable Nov. 28, 1644, to Miss Elizabeth Scudder, of whose death there is no record. He was a house carpenter by trade, combining with it extensive farming operations. In 1648 he went to New London, then called Pequot, where he built the "Second Church" and held positions of responsibility and honor. In 1649 the General Court organized a local court at Pequot and Samuel Lothrop was one of the judges. In 1668 he removed to Norwich, where he is recorded as "Constable" and "Townsman," and where he died Feb. 29, 1700, leaving the widow Abigail who survived him many years.

On the one hundredth anniversary of her birth, an audience of her neighbors and church people assembled in her rooms at Norwich, where a sermon was preached by her pastor, the Rev. Benjamin Lord. At this time, it is claimed, she retained to a remarkable degree the intelligence and vivacity of her earlier years.

She was buried in the old Town Burial Ground near the Congregational church in Norwich, a stone with the following inscription marking her grave:

Here Lyes Interred ye Remains of Mrs. Abigail Lothrop ye Relict of Mr. Samuel Lothrop Of Norwich Born At Plymouth Ano 1631 & Lived in Norwich 43 Years And Dyed January 23rd Ano 1734 In ye 104th Year Of Her Age.

Caulkins' History of New London gives the following notice of her death, copied from the New England Weekly Journal:

Mrs. Abigail Lothrop died at Norwich, Jan. 23, 1735, in her 104th year. Her father John Doane and his wife came to Plymouth in 1630, and there she was born the next year. She lived single till she was sixty years old and then married Mr. John (Samuel) Lothrop of Norwich, who lived ten years and then died.

4 JOHN2 DOANE, Jr. (John1) was born probably at Plymouth about 1635 and died at Eastham, Mar. 15, 1708, aged about 73 years. He married, first, Apr. 30, 1662, Hannah, daughter of Edward Bangs, who came over to Plymouth in the Ann in July, 1623. She was born at Plymouth, about 1644, and was living at Eastham in 1677, then being named in her father's will. Married, second, Jan. 14, 1694, Rebecca Pettee, whom he outlived.

Mr. Doane went with his father's family from Plymouth to Nauset, or Eastham, in 1645. He was a man of prominence in Eastham, and for many years was in the public service. He was a selectman almost every year from 1678 to 1700. He often served as a juror, and was the constable of Eastham in 1661 and 1693. In 1701 and 1702 he was one of the Negative Men. In 1664 he was appointed one of the Receivers of Excise for Eastham. In 1668 he was of the Grand Inquest and in 1669 he was a Justice of the Select Court. He represented his town in the Colony Court in 1684 and 1685, and in the General Court at Boston in 1693, 1694 and 1702. He was a large landholder and was quite extensively engaged in farming. It is understood that his homestead was near that of his father. Mr. Doane was of the same religious faith as his father, and a member of the First Church of Eastham. He doubtless was buried in the old Town Cove burial ground.

5 DANIEL\textsuperscript{2} DOANE (John\textsuperscript{1}) was born probably at Plymouth, about 1636, and died at Eastham, Dec. 20, 1712, in the seventy-sixth year of his age. He was twice married. Nothing is known of his first wife. The marriage is not recorded on Eastham records. She doubtless was the mother of all the children, except the daughter Hepzibah. His second wife, whom he married after July 28, 1682, was Hepzibah Crisp, widow of George Crisp,\textsuperscript{*} and daughter of Daniel and Mary Cole of Eastham. She was many years his junior, and survived him.

Mr. Doane went from Plymouth to Eastham with his father's family, in 1645. He settled in that part of Eastham now known as East Orleans, near where Mr. Joseph Taylor now resides. He was a prominent man in the affairs of the town and church. He was a selectman each year from 1691 to 1696; a juryman in 1677, 1686, 1687, 1689; a surveyor of highways in 1667, 1673, 1699, 1700, 1704. He was a deacon of the First church for many years, probably succeeding his father Dea. John Doane. He was an extensive landholder, the Eastham records showing many grants to him, nearly all of which were within the limits of the present town of Orleans. One of his children, evidently the eldest, was accidentally drowned in a well at Eastham, and an investigating jury was impanelled Sept. 22, 1667. Dea. Daniel Doane was buried in the old Town Cove burial ground where a small slatestone still legible marks his grave, and bears this inscription:

Here Lyes ye Body of Deacon Daniel Doane Dec\textsuperscript{b} Dec\textsuperscript{c} ye 20\textsuperscript{th} 1712
In The 76 Year
Of His Age.

\textsuperscript{*}George Crisp was a resident of Eastham, that part called Pochey, now East Orleans, and was a constable there in 1650; a grand juror in 1672 and 1678. His first wife, Mary, d. Feb. 29, 1676, and he m. 2nd, May 24, 1677, Hepzibah, dau. of Daniel and Mary Cole and had: 1. Mary, b. Dec. 9, 1678; m. Dec. 1, 1700, Samuel Gold of Topsfield. 2. Mercy, b. Oct. 15, 1681; m. George Williamson. George Crisp d. July 28, 1682. His will, dated June 8, 1682, names wife Hepzibah executrix, and directs that "my Brother Israel Cole, and my friend and neighbour Goodman daniell done, be helpful to my wife as overseers."

There is no list of Daniel Doane's children on the Eastham records, but the following one, made up from his will and other sources, is correct except perhaps as to the order of their births.

Children of first marriage:

12 Joseph, 3 b. ——; drowned in well, Sept., 1667.
13 Israel, 3 b. about 1672.
14 Daniel, 3 b. ——.
15 Nathaniel, 3 b. ——. m. Jan. 8, 1690, George Shaw of Eastham; d. at Eastham, May 2, 1720, s. of Jonathan Shaw. His will dated Feb. 28, 1718-19, was proved May 21, 1720.

Rebecca, 3 b. ——; m. Benjamin, 2 s. of William 1 Myrick of Eastham.

Child of second marriage:

Hepzibah, 3 b. ——; unm. Non compos mentis.

6 Ephraim 2 Doane (John 1) was born probably at Plymouth before the removal of the family to Eastham in 1645, and died at Eastham in 1700. He married first, Feb. 15, 1667, Mercy Knowles, the daughter of Richard and Ruth (Bower) Knowles. Married, second, after 1692, Mary Snow, who was born at Barnstable, Dec. 11, 1647, and died at Eastham in 1703, widow of John Snow (Nicholas), and the daughter of John and Ann (Walden) Smalley.

Ephraim Doane does not appear to have been prominent either in town or church affairs. Only a little of his life can be gleaned from the public records.

On March 3, 1662–3, he and three others were fined twenty-five shillings each, for trading of liquor with the Indians, and he and Thomas Ridman were fined fifty shillings each, for permitting the Indians to have liquor in their boats, "it appearing that one of the Indians was drunk thereby." Oct. 29, 1669, he was before the court for "horribly slandering and belying his neighbours" at Eastham and was fined "the sume of twenty shillings for telling two lyes about the same." June 6, 1678, he was again before the court to answer to the complaint of "Jawannum, late wife of James Pequin of Billingsgate, as suspected by her and Nicholas, to have been an occasion of the violent death of the said Pequin, her husband."

He settled within the limits of Eastham. He took the oath of fidelity before Mr. Freeman in 1670, and was admitted a freeman June 5, 1684. His name appears in Truro June 17, 1690, and is in a list of the legal inhabitants of Eastham in 1695. He was a surveyor of highways in Eastham in 1691 and again in 1692. He made his will Dec. 17, 1699, and desires his wife's children, by her former husband, John Snow, of whom there were nine, to share equally with his own children, after the decease of his wife Mary.

The will of Ephraim Doane, proved Apr. 19, 1700.

In ye Name of God Amen, ye seventh day of December in ye year of ye Lord one thousand six hundred ninety and nine, I Ephraim Doane of ye Town of Eastham in ye County of Barnstable in ye province of ye Massachusetts Bay in N. THIRD GENERATION.

7 JOHN DOANE (John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., May 29, 1664, and died at his home near Long Wharf, Boston, Nov. 22, 1755. He married first, June 30, 1686, Melitabel Scudder. Married second, before 1696, Hannah Hobart, who was born at Hingham, Mass., Oct. 4., 1666, and died at Billingsgate, or Wellfleet, Sept. 4, 1731 (gravestone, First burial ground, Wellfleet), the daughter of Capt. Joshua* and Eleanor (Ibrook) Hobart of Hingham. Married third, at Hull, Mass., July 20, 1732, Jane Baxter, widow of Paul Baxter, and the daughter of Lieut. Gershom Collier of Hull. She survived him and married, third, Capt. Atherton Haugh,† the son of Samuel Haugh, goldsmith, of Boston. She was the widow Haugh in

*Capt. Joshua Hobart (Edmund) s. of Edmund and Margaret (Dewey) Hobart, and brother of Rev. Peter Hobart, was born at Hingham, Eng., in 1614; came to New England with his parents in 1633, and to Hingham, Mass., in 1635. He m., at Cambridge, Mass., Mar., 1638, Ellen or Eleanor, dau. of Richard Ibrook. She died in Hingham, July 25, 1700. He died there, July 28, 1682. He was a man of marked ability and especially prominent in the local affairs of Hingham. A freeman Sept. 3, 1634; a selectman many years; a deputy to General Court, 1643, and at different times for twenty-four years. Speaker of the House of Deputies, 1674; a member of the Ancient and Hon. Artillery Co., 1641; Capt. of a military Co. in King Phillip's War. They had thirteen children, the youngest, Hannah, b. Oct. 4, 1660; m. John Doane.—History of Hingham.

in 1794 and was living in 1796, when she sold house and land on the corner of School St., Boston, to her son-in-law David Stoddard Greenough.

John Doane settled, first, in Wellfleet, then Billingsgate, on a portion of his father's estate. Pratt's History of Eastham says he was there before 1700, and that he held a distinguished rank in the town. An old document of 1727 mentions him as "a principal Inhabitant of this Precinct." As early as 1696, he and his wife Hannah were living in Boston in Ward 7, when in a deed he is styled "Distiller," and where on Mar. 5th of that year, his son Joshua was born. After the death of his wife in 1731 he removed to Hull, where he was an important man in town and church affairs, and seems to have lived there from about 1732 to 1742. He then removed to Boston where he owned a large estate, and resided there until his death.

From the Suffolk Registry of Deeds we note the following:
Mar. 3, 1694, John Doane of Eastham purchased of the heirs of 17, 1717, John Doane of Eastham bought of Wigglesworth Sweetzer for £260 a brick and wooden house with land and wharf on Butler's Row. From 1727 to 1729, he bought lands and houses on School St. from the heirs of Samuel Haugh, goldsmith. Apr. 3, 1738, John Doane of Hull bought of John Marshall for £2,750 land and wharf fronting on Mackeral Lane (Kilby St.). Aug. 6, 1741, John Doane of Hull, for £1,200, bought from heirs of James Gooch lands near King St. (State St.).

John Doane was commissioned a Justice of Peace for Barnstable Co. June 5, 1713, and was in commission there until his removal to Hull. In 1736, he was a Special Justice of the Court of Common Pleas for Barnstable Co. and, on Mar. 9, 1737-8, he was commissioned a Justice of Peace for Suffolk Co.

He and his wife Hannah were the leaders of the fifteen or twenty church members living in the North Precinct, who strongly opposed the ordination and settlement of Rev. Samuel Osborn as pastor of the First Church of Eastham in 1718. In the church troubles at Billingsgate in 1727, they were stanch supporters of their minister, Rev. Josiah Oakes.

The Boston Evening Post, for Monday, Dec. 1, 1755, has the fol-loving notice of Mr. Doane's death:

"Boston, Nov. 27, 1755.

Last Saturday died in the 92nd. Year of his Age and Yesterday was very decently interred, John Doane Esq.; who had been many Years in the Commission of the Peace for the Counties of Barnstable and Suffolk. He was a Gentleman of great Capacity and known Integrity, a tender Husband, affectionate Father, and faithful Friend; and notwithstanding his great Age he retained his Usefulness, Reason and Understanding to the last."

Beside the Boston estate, John Doane’s possessions at Scituate inventoried £1250. 19. 8. His will, written by his own hand, five days before his death, and proved Dec. 24, 1755, is as follows:

viii Ann, 4 b. in Boston, Sept. 8, 1744; m. Elisha Doane (103).

8 REBECCA 3 DOANE (John, 2 John 1) was born at Eastham,
Mass., May 12, 1668, and died at Canterbury, Conn., Dec. 19, 1758. She married, Jan. 20, 1685, Elisha Paine, who was born at Eastham and died at Canterbury, Feb. 7, 1736, the son of Thomas and Mary (Snow) Paine. His mother was the daughter of Nicholas Snow, who came over in the Ann, and a granddaughter of Stephen Hopkins, of the Mayflower. After marriage Elisha and Rebecca Paine settled first at Eastham, but were in Barnstable in 1689. They returned to Eastham and resided there until about 1703, when they removed to that part of Plainfield, now Canterbury, Conn., where he purchased a tract of five hundred acres of wild land. Here he took an active part in all public affairs. He was one of the founders of the church in that town in 1711.

The history of their children, from Paine Family Records, Vol. 2, is as follows:

Children:

i Abigail, b. at Eastham, Jan. 5, 1686; m. Josiah Cleveland. They united with the first church in 1713. They afterwards became Separatists. He died before 1765, leaving money to that church.

ii Abraham, b. at Barnstable, 1691; m. at Canterbury, Dec. 19, 1718, Ruth Adams. They united with the Canterbury church in 1739. Removed to Amenia, N. Y., about 1748.

iii Elisha, b. at Eastham, Dec. 29, 1693. From childhood he was of an inquiring mind, and showed a great fondness for study. Choosing the profession of a lawyer he prepared himself for practice, and became one of the best of his time in Conn. In 1769 he was King's Attorney, and a Justice of Peace for Windham Co. From his youth deeply interested in religious subjects, Elisha Paine received an internal call to preach the gospel in July, 1742. Presenting himself in Dec., 1742, before some ministers for examination, he was recommended to the committee of the association for a license to preach, but the committee failing to meet, Mr. Paine at once began his labors as an itinerant preacher, and threw the great weight of his influence with the New Lights or Separatists, and became the foremost of the leaders of that movement in Conn. "Earnest and devoted in piety, bold and determined in measures, zealous and impassioned in address, he was the herald who summoned to the new standard those who had already revolted from, or who were disaffected in the ranks of the standing order." In Feb., 1743, he was arrested for preaching without a license and, refusing to give bonds, was committed to the "dirtiest prison," he says, "he ever saw and was compelled to beg a broom to sweep a place to walk in." After his release, May 13, he went on several preaching tours, and the summer of 1744 visited his relatives at Eastham, and other towns on his native Cape Cod. From a letter* to his wife, dated at Chatham it would appear that his labors there were attended with the greatest success. Returning to Conn. he was again arrested, but his conduct was such that his persecutors became alarmed, and in a few days he was again released. After many years' labor as an itinerant in Conn., Mr. Paine became the leader of a church at Bridgehampton, Long Island, where he was settled May, 1752, and where he died Aug. 26, 1775, having preached to his beloved flock fifteen days before his death. He married in Canterbury, Nov. 24, 1720, Mary Johnson and had ten children.

iv Mary,* b. at Eastham, Feb. 1, 1695; m. Apr. 5, 1722, Robert Freeman, a man of great piety, and moved to Pomfret, Conn., where he died Sept. 25, 1765. She m., 2nd, it is understood, Dea. Waldo of Norwich, Conn.

v Solomon,* b. at Eastham, May 16, 1698. He was converted in 1721 and united with the First Church in Canterbury. In 1741 he became deeply interested and was a leader in the Chatham July 3, 1744.

*Dear wife and children:

I long to see you, and would write oftner but opportunity fails. I am purposing every day to come home but dare not leave the Lord's harvest, lest the wild beasts should devour, and the wild heares should root up what the Lord seems to be doing here with the greatest power that ever I saw here or I think anywhere. The Lord is doing wonders in this sandy land but as Christ triumphs Satan rages. The Lord hath hitherto sustained me and delivered me from the rage of the adversary O pray for me and the cause of dear Jesus. The pine woods in Harwich ring hallelujahs and hosannas even from babies; I never heard the like before; from little ones from six years old and upwards saying "Hallelujah &c" "Hallelujah &c" God is bringing them in from the hedges. Our relations, the most of them, stand at a distance. Cousin Ebenezer Paine and his family seem exceedingly opposite except one daughter and her husband. I hope are made to know Christ. Uncle Doane and his family seem to be created anew except his wife. The world is full of lies and falsehood is the covering wherewith opposers cover themselves. The Devil hath some very faithful servants in the country that went from this place that write the most awful letters that were ever writ; and as false as strange. But the Lord reigns and the saints shout aloud for joy. The christians what few were alive are much quickened and many added to their number since I came down. But the most wonderful shower began on the 28th of June. A Colony fast I preached from Ez. 14. 3 and Rev. 2. 21. After service we sang a hymn. I felt the spirit of the Lord come upon me. I rose up and exhorted and persuaded them to come to Christ; and immediately there was a screeching and groaning all over the multitude and hath since ever been very powerful. Some whole families, I hope, have received Christ and others continually crying out against their own hearts. I hope the Lord will carry on his work in his way and by his own means. If it be his will to keep me here longer let it not grieve your heart nor alienate your affection from me, for it doth not mine from you and the children. The Lord keeps you all near my heart. And I hope you will not cease to pray for me, for I am in the midst of wolves and dragons; but God is above them all. So let us rest. Amen.

Elisha Paine.
great religious movement in Windham Co. Upon the organization of the Separate church in Canterbury, he accepted the call to become the pastor, and was ordained Sept. 10, 1746. He was a "faithful pastor" and was held in high esteem by all the Separate preachers of his day. He was equally as determined and unyielding as his older brother Elisha, but not so able a preacher. He published A Short View of the Constitution of the Church of Christ and the Difference between it and the Church Established in Conn.

His 1st wife whom he married May 2, 1720, was Sarah Carver. She d. Aug. 9, 1731, and his 2nd wife, whom he m. May 31, 1732, was Priscilla Fitch. She d. May 6, 1782. "After twelve days sickness he fell asleep in the Lord, Oct. 25, 1754," and was buried in Canterbury, where a stone with inscription marks his grave.

vi Dorcas,⁴ b. at Eastham, Feb. 20, 1699; m. at Canterbury, Aug. 27, 1723, David Adams. She d. there Mar. 3, 1745-6.

viii Rebecca,⁴ b. ———; m. Edward Cleveland, Apr. 17, 1717.

ix Hannah,⁴ b. ———; m. ——— Watts.

x John,⁴ b. at Canterbury, July, 1707. He united with the First Church in Canterbury, 1731. He became a Separatist and was ordained, Aug. 3, 1745, pastor of the Separate church in that part of Rehoboth now Seekonk, R. I. Rev. John Greenwood, who was then pastor of the First Church, strongly opposed the ordination, and sent a letter to the ordination council, which was pointedly answered by Mr. Elisha Paine, Aug.10, 1748. Rev. John Paine was a member of the council convened at Harwich, Cape Cod, in 1749, to ordain Joshua Nickerson pastor of the Separate church there, and gave the right hand of fellowship. He was a rigid disciplinarian, and before long many of his members refused to allow him to enter their houses "to administer." In consequence a council was convened at Rehoboth May 8, 1751, which declared, "that John Paine, pastor, has fulfilled his pastoral charge over this church, and has shut all their doors against his administration in their houses, so that he is dismissed from his relation to them, and we give him the right hand of fellowship as a faithful minister of Christ, and to minister wherever God shall call him." He m. Sarah Church of Canterbury, Feb. 12, 1730.

9 ISAAC² DOANE (John, John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., June 2, 1670 and died there Dec. 29, 1755. He married at Eastham, Dec. 2, 1700, Margaret Wood (or Atwood). He settled within the limits of Eastham. He was a fence viewer in his town in 1701, 1714–15 and in 1731–2; a surveyor in 1714–15, and grand juryman in 1722. He was buried in the burial ground near Herring Pond, where stones with inscriptions still mark his grave.

v  Isaiah, b. Jan. 15, 1708 and d. abt. 1742. He was a mariner and resided in Boston. His father, "Isaac Doane, yeoman, of Eastham," was appointed adm. on estate of "Isaiah Doane late of Boston decd.," Sept. 14, 1742. His estate inventoried £923. 16. 6.

vi  Margaret, b. Mar. 6, 1710-11 and d. at Wellfleet, abt. 1805; m., Jan. 2, 1734-5, Thomas Holbrook, and settled in Wellfleet. On Mar. 12, 1760, the wid. Margaret was appointed guardian of their three minor children, John, Abial and Isaiah. After the death of her husband she removed to Gorham, Me., and was on tax list there in 1777, when she bought a farm in the south part of the town from John Burnell, and is named in the deed as "of Wellfleet." She was in Gorham in 1793. An old lady, whose grandparents were neighbors of Mrs. Holbrook in Gorham, says that Margaret was held to be a witch. Her witchwork, however, seemed to consist only in tangling the warp in her neighbors' looms. Ch. from Eastham records: 1. Margaret, b. Dec. 1, 1735. 2. Jerusha Doane, b. Jan. 18, 1737. 3. Thomas, b. Jan. 30, 1739-40. 4. Isaiah Doane, b. May 23, 1742; m. Anna ———; was in Brookfield, Mass., in 1797, in Windsor, Mass., in 1824 and in Peru, Mass., in 1826. 5. Abial (dau.), b. May 10, 1745. 6. Edward Cheever, Feb. 18, 1773, Lucy Doane of Eastham, and removed to Gorham, Me. His wid. Lucy bought land, buildings and share in grist mill near W. Gorham in 1786, and m. 2nd, Jan. 22, 1789, James Rolfe.

vi Ann, b. Oct. 17, 1715; m.— Cole.

10 SAMUEL DOANE (John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Mar. 21, 1673 and died there Aug. 15, 1756 (gravestones Herring Pond burial ground). He married Dec. 3, 1696, Martha Hamblen, born at Barnstable, Mass., Feb. 16, 1672–3, the daughter of John and Sarah (Bearse) Hamblen (James). She was bequeathed one pound in her brother John’s will in 1734. Mr. Doane lived in Eastham. He was admitted townsman Mar. 11, 1701–2, and served as constable in 1712–13, 1713–14; a tything man in 1723; fence viewer 1731–2; a selectman in 1731, 1733, and as jurymen in 1711–12, 1718, 1721 and 1730.

His will, dated Apr. 9, 1756, names his sons Samuel, Solomon, Simeon and daughters Sarah Dyer, Dinah Cook, Martha Savage, Keturah Dyer and grandchildren Dorcas Linnel, Experience Brown, children of his daughter Dorcas Smith. Son Samuel executor. Amount of inventory £324–11–1.

Children, first six from Eastham records:

iii Dinah, b. Dec. 30, 1700; m. Oct. 22, 1722, Thomas Cook; lived in Durham, Conn.

23 v Solomon, b. Nov. 8, 1705.
24 vi Simeon, b. Dec. 1, 1708.
Martha, m. Thomas Savage; lived in Wallingford, Conn.
Keturah, m. Jonathan Dyer; lived in Falmouth, Casco Bay, Me.

11 DAVID DOANE (John, John) was born probably at Eastham, Mass., about 1674 and died there Nov. 18, 1748. Evidently he was the youngest of his father's family. His birth is not recorded on Eastham records, but he is named with the other children in his father's will. He married Sept. 30, 1701, Dorothy Horton, and in his will in 1738 names his wife Sarah. Dorothy was a sister of Samuel Horton, who was in Eastham before 1700, and who appears as a witness to David Doane's will.

Mr. Doane succeeded to his father's homestead, which is still pointed out near the site of the house of Dea. John Doane. He is on Eastham records as a jurymen in 1708-9, 1713, 1714-15, 1719-20, 1728, 1730 and as a constable in 1711-12.

Beside his occupation of farming it is understood that he was a physician. In his will he calls himself yeoman, while his inventory and gravestone inscription style him doctor. It is not presumed that he held a college diploma. In his day, common sense and good judgment carried greater merit than college titles or conferred honors. That he had some knowledge of medicine, however, and an extensive and lucrative practice in Eastham is evident.

He was buried in the old Town Cove burial ground, near the fence by the public road and a small slatestone with the following inscription still marks his grave:

Here Lies Buried
Y e Body of Docr
David Doane
who Died No|r y e 18th 1748
In the 74th Year
of His Age.

A division of David Doane's estate was ordered Mar. 18, 1750-1 and Ebenezer Higgins was appointed by the court to represent, in the division, the sons Joshua and Nathan, "they being out of the Province and so cant attend."

Will of Dr. David Doane proved Mar. 7, 1748-9.

In the Name of God Amen, the twenty fifth Day of January Anno Domini one thousand Seven Hundred thirty eight. I David Doane of Eastham In the County of Barnstable yeoman Being Sensible of my Frailty & Mortality I being yet of Disposing mind and memory Blessed be God for the same, Do therfore now make this my Last Will and Testament in Manner and form following, first of all I Recom'd my Soul to God that Gave it and my Body to the Earth to be Decently Buried, and as touching the worldly Estate God hath in his Providence Given me I Dispose and Bequeath the same as hereafter expressed after my Just Debts and Funeral Charges Paid.

Imprimis: I give to my Loving wife Sarah Doane the use and Improvement of one third Part of all my Estate both Real and Personal for her to use and Improve for her Support During the time she shall continue to be my widdow.

I give and bequeath all my Real estate to my Seven sons Namely Jonathan Doane, John Doane, Nathan Doane, Eleazer Doane, Joshua Doane, David Doane & Enoc Doane to them their heirs and Assigns forever in Equal Proportion alike two thirds thereof next after my Decence and the other third next after my wife seases to have the Improvement thereof as above Exprest.

I give to my Daughter Hannah Higgins ten Shillings out of my Personal Estate. I give to my grandsons David Atwood & Samuel Atwood forty Pounds each out of my Personal Estate to be Paid to them as they shall arrive at Eighteen years of Age.

I give to my Granddaughters Keziah Atwood and Jerusha Atwood twenty Pounds each to be Paid out of my Personal Estate to be Paid to them as they shall arrive at eighteen years of Age.

I Give to my Daughter Keziah Dunkard ten shillings to be paid out of my Personal Estate. I give to my Granddaughters Mary Bacon and Bethia Bacon forty pounds each to be paid out of my Personal estate as they arrive to 18 years of age. I give to my Daughter Abgail Collins eighty Pounds to be Paid out of my Personal estate. I give to my Daughter Rachel Higgins eighty Pounds, to be Paid out of my Personal Estate. I give to my son David Doane forty Pounds to be Paid out of my Personal Estate. Lastly I constitute and appoint my two sons Namely Jonathan Doane and John Doane my whole and Sole executors to this my Last will & Testament. In Witness to all which I Do the Day and year above written Hereunto set my hand and Seal.

David Doane.

12 JOSEPH$^3$ DOANE (Daniel,$^2$ John,$^1$) was born at Eastham, Mass., June 27, 1669 and died there July 27, 1757. He married, first, Jan. 8, 1690, Mary Godfrey, born June 2, 1672, and died at Eastham, Jan. 22, 1725, the daughter of George Godfrey of Eastham. Married, second, Feb. 29, 1727-8, Desire Berry. She was many years younger than her husband. Joseph Doane was a man of more than ordinary ability. He was long prominent in town, church and judicial affairs exhibiting rare judgment, great aptitude for public business and impartiality in the discharge of his official duties.

He was a selectman of Eastham in 1700 and was re-elected until 1705. He was town treasurer in 1703 and re-elected in 1704 and 1705. He was a representative to the General Court at Boston in 1702, 1727 and 1728. In 1729 he was chosen successor of Dea. John Paine as town clerk of Eastham which office he held till 1743. In 1749 he was commissioned a Justice of the Peace for Barnstable County and was in commission until his death. In this position he was very popular. His attainments gave him a wide field of labor and secured him a large amount of legal business. There were but few Justices in his time that surpassed him in a knowledge of the duties of the office, or in the preparation of legal papers. During his long term of office he solemnized many marriages in his own town as well as in the towns adjoining. In Harwich, where he was highly esteemed, he married sixty-six couples between the years 1710 and 1755. As one of His Majestys Justices" he rendered great service to the Colonial Government in securing for trial the survivors of the crew of the noted pirate ship Whiddah, and her tenders, wrecked on the eastern coast of Eastham, now Wellfleet in April, 1717. The Whiddah and her consorts were wrecked in the night, and the following morning Mr. Doane was informed that seven of the pirates, who had escaped from the wrecks, were on their way to Rhode Island. Without delay he started in pursuit, with the deputy sheriff. The pirates were soon overtaken, arrested, examined and orders given for their committal. Soon after Mr. Doane received information that another one of the pirates, who had escaped from the wreck the same night, was preparing to leave. He immediately caused his arrest and upon examination ordered his committal also. When these men were on trial at Boston in October following, Mr. Doane was in attendance as a witness at the command of Governor Shute and was absent from his home ten days. On Apr. 10, 1712, he was appointed, by Governor Dudley, Captain of the Foot Company of Indians, living within the several towns of Harwich, Eastham, Manomoit, Billingsgate and Truro, belonging to the regiment of militia within the county of Barnstable whereof "John Otis, Esq., is Col." How long he was captain of this company does not appear, nor does it appear that he held any other commission as a military officer. In 1722 he was appointed a Special Justice of the Court of Common Pleas for Barnstable county.

In his religious views Joseph Doane was a strict Calvinist. He early became a member of the First Church of Eastham, now the Congregational church of Orleans, of which his father and grandfather were prominent members, and about 1717 became its deacon, probably succeeding his father Dea. Daniel Doane. This office he held until his death. He was one of the number who took an active part in the movement in 1738, to eject the Rev. Samuel Osborn from the pastorate of that church for what was considered heretical sentiments, and which resulted in the dismissal of the learned and liberal minister from the pastoral office which he had held for twenty years.

Mr. Doane's first wife was the daughter of George Godfrey of Eastham. In childhood she became a member of the family of Mr. Thomas Calley, and continued with them until her marriage, receiving all the attention that foster parents could give. When Mr. Calley became aged and infirm, Mrs. Doane and husband gave him their kind attention and as a token of his appreciation of their kindness and for their promise "to keep and provide for him during life," he gave them all his estate by deed, June 27, 1697-8.

Mr. Doane resided in that part of the ancient Eastham, now called Orleans, about one eighth of a mile easterly from the Congregational church, on the north side of the road, near or on the spot where stands the house occupied by the late Freeman Mayo. His farm consisted of many acres on the same side of the road. Some portion of it had been in the possession of Thomas Calley and other portions in the possession of his father Dea. Daniel Doane, who lived a short distance easterly on the same road. He was a large landholder in early life, but had disposed of much of his property when he made his will Mar. 5, 1754. He owned a good estate at his death which he divided among his legal representatives. Late in life he made a large purchase of land, of William Gray, in the south part of Harwich. Much of this land yet remains in the possession of his descendants.

At his death he left a manuscript journal, which was copied by a step-son of his daughter Rebecca. Neither the original nor the copy is now known to be extant. The copyist says in his diary under date of May 26, 1760, that "it had fine expressions, meditations and verses."

Joseph Doane died at Orleans, and was buried there beside his wife Mary, in the old cemetery near the church, where a stone with this inscription marks his grave:

Here's Inter'd the Body of

May 4, 1760, dau. of Dea. Chillingworth Foster. Mr. Freeman was a selectman; Judge of Court of Common Pleas; a senator for twenty years; was highly esteemed for his excellent qualities of heart and mind.

13 Israel,³ DOANE (Daniel,² John¹) was born probably at Eastham, Mass., about 1672. He married first, about 1700, Ruth Freeman who was born about 1680, and died June 7, 1728, the daughter of Lieut. Edmund and Sarah (Mayo) Freeman.* Married second, Apr.

* Edmund² Freeman came from London in ship Abigail in 1635 and two years later settled in Sandwich, Mass. He was an Assistant in 1640 and several years thereafter. He d. in 1683 in 82 yrs., and his wife Elizabeth in 1672 a. 76. John² Freeman, b. in England, 1622; m. Feb. 14, 1649, Mercy, dau. of Gov. Thomas Prence, and settled in the Orleans part of Eastham. He was made freeman June 5, 1651; he was a deputy to Colony Court in 1653 and many years thereafter. In 1657, he was an assistant to the Governor and 19, 1729, widow Mercy Sparrow who was born Apr. 19, 1685, the widow of Richard\(^3\) Sparrow (Jonathan,\(^2\) Richard\(^1\)) and daughter of James\(^3\) and Sarah (Lewis) Cobb and granddaughter of Henry\(^1\) Cobb, the immigrant. Israel Doane was admitted townsmen of Eastham, Mar.
17, 1701-2 and served as surveyor in 1704, 1705-6, 1724-5 and 1734-5; a constable in 1709-10; a selectman in 1719-20, 1725-6 and a jury-man in 1731-2. The probate records at Barnstable show nothing of his estate and the time of his death does not appear. The names Edmund and Prence or Prince, found among his descendants in the Nova Scotia, Saybrook, Conn., and Putnam Co., N. Y., branches of the family, are derived from Lieut. Edmund Freeman of Eastham and his mother, Mercy Prence, the daughter of Gov. Thomas Prence.

           pointed to settle his estate Jan. 28, 1740.
35  vi  EDMUND,\(^4\) b. Apr. 20, 1718.

14  DANIEL\(^3\) DOANE (Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born doubtless at Eastham, Mass., but there is no record of his birth. He died at Newtown, Bucks Co., Pa., Sept. 1, 1743. He was twice married, but of his wives little or nothing is known. His first wife was Mehetabel. It is supposed that she was the daughter of William Twining, who had a daughter Mehetabel and who also removed from Cape Cod to Bucks Co. before 1700. His second wife was Mary and it is thought that she was the daughter of James Yates, from whom he purchased his farm in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Doane was of a self-reliant, independent, inquiring mind, and was led to study the teachings of the Friends who were then creating a sensation by their new doctrine. Charmed by their teachings reflected yearly till the union of the Colonies in 1692. Was one of the first selectmen of Eastham, and many years a deacon of the church. Was captain of the militia and in 1685 was appointed Major. Edmund\(^2\) Freeman, b. June, 1657; m. Sarah Mayo, b. Dec. 19, 1669, dau. of Capt. Samuel\(^1\) Mayo (Rev. John\(^1\)). Their 12th child was Ruth\(^4\) Freeman, b.
1680; m. Israel Doane.
he united with the Meeting at Sandwich, about forty miles from his father's home, the oldest Meeting in America. The precise date of his joining the Friends is not known, but in 1696 he applied for and received from the Sandwich Meeting the following certificate of removal for himself and wife:

"At a meeting of Friends at Sandwich in New England ye 17th of 3rd mo. 1696. We here are to signify to all whom it may concern that our friend Daniel Doane and his wife Mehitable, that as far as we know their lives and conversations hath been as becometh ye truth, and as for his testimonial that he hath borne amongst us for ye blessed truth, we have great unity with it as witness our hands. Wm. Allen, Israel Gaunt, Matthew Jones, John Ewing, John Jennings, James Stewart and Abiah Jenkins."

After an overland journey of nearly seven hundred miles Mr. Doane arrived in the Friends' colony in Pennsylvania with his wife and four small children, the youngest about two years old. In course of time, date unknown, he presented his credentials at the Meeting in Middle-town, Bucks Co., and was duly accepted in membership.

He settled in, or adjacent to the village of Newtown where he followed carpentering and farming, and prospered to an extent that gave him a competence in his declining years. On Apr. 4, 1702, he purchased of James Yates for seventy pounds sterling seventy-eight acres of land situated south of the present Newtown borough, and east of the Newtown creek. On Jan. 2, 1713, he bought twenty-two acres adjoining the former purchase.

Although Daniel began well in Bucks Co. and was at first, it is thought, a religious teacher among Friends, only a few years after his arrival in Pennsylvania his investigating spirit led him to study the stars and the influence of the planets upon one another. But reports "that Daniel Doane should meddle in predicting astrologie" brought him into conflict with his Meeting, which lasted almost continually until he was disowned in 1711. He had a way of assuming the defensive which involved the frequent sending of committees to parley with him; but Daniel, strong in his sense of the right of private judgment and of free toleration as to opinions, treated all charges and committees with "unseemly expressions" and "contemptuous flouts." From time to time, however, he would send in written apologies and other papers, one of which was as follows:

"In as much as many by their consulting the figures of conceptions, and with revolutions and perfections, presume to tell what is contingent to bear upon earth, either weal or woe, while they themselves are ye bitter source, and are shut up, under ye eexit of ye animated spirit and become fools to ye wisdom of Egypt; and inasmuch as it has much amused the minds of many concerning me because I have done some things of that nature as to prediction, and some have been inquisitus to see ye aphorisms and schemes by which I did work them and though I did never show it unto any, yet I do say ingeniously and without mental reservation, that I never was inclined, much less to study, any magick art or southing divination or negromantic trick."

At length tired of Daniel and his doings, the Middletown Meeting, after many expressions of sorrow "that he is so wayward" and prayers "that he may be brought back to ye truth" disowns "the said Daniel Doane to be one of us," and "we being clear of him, his wickedness lies upon his own head."

He was bequeathed "one pound in money" in his father's will dated Sept. 18, 1712. This small allowance may have been on account of his having joined the Friends, but it is more probable that the son received his share of the father's property before the removal to Pennsylvania.

Daniel Doane was the first of the Doane family to migrate from Cape Cod. He was the first and only one of the early generations to forsake the church of his fathers. He was the founder of the largest and in some respects the most important branch of the family.

His death is thus recorded on the records of the Middletown Meeting: "Daniel Doan Senior deceased ye first day of ye ninth (or eighth) mo. Anno. 1743 and on ye third day of ye week."

His will, dated Oct. 4, 1731, was probated Dec. 31, 1743. The following is an extract:

To my beloved children, Daniel Doan, Eliezer Doan, Elijah Doan, Joseph Doan, Israel Doan, Lydia Stradling, Rebecca Randall and George Randall, (my son-in-law) husband of my daughter, Elizabeth (deceased) 5 shillings each. To my dear and loving wife, Mary Doan, the remaining all and singular, my whole estate, both real and personal, for ye maintaining, educating and bringing up of my children, born of my said wife, Mary Doan, namely, Samuel, Mary, Thomas, Sarah and Ebenezer Doan.

15 NATHANIEL² DOANE (Daniel, John) was born ——— and died at Harwich, Mass., in 1758. He married Mary ———. Mr. Doane resided on his father’s place in Eastham, for some years, but about 1744 removed to Harwich, and settled on the place formerly occupied by William Gray. He was constable and surveyor at Eastham, and a man of some prominence in both towns. He was one of the founders of the church in the South Parish in 1747, and its first deacon. His wife Mary survived him several years. She left a will which was never presented for probate. The Eastham records do not give a list of his children, but we have their names from the will of the son Elijah.
Children:

Elijah,⁴ b. about 1711; d. Oct. 12, 1753; m. at Eastham, Sept. 30, 1736, Susanna Lewis; no children.

Abigail,⁴ b. ———; m. Oct. 8, 1735, Ellisha Snow; settled in Harwich.

Hannah,⁴ b. ———.

16 HEZEKIAH³ DOANE (Ephraim,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., in Aug., 1672, and died in that part of Eastham, now Wellfleet early in 1752. He married, first, Hannah, ——— of whom we have no further information. Married second, about 1717, Mary (Smith) Freeman, widow of Thomas Freeman of Harwich. She died after 1742. Married third, in 1744, Mrs. Sarah Knowles of Eastham. Hezekiah Doane appears as a surveyor of highways in Eastham in 1691 and 1692. He early resided in what is now Provincetown, where he was engaged in the whale fishery. He attended church at Truro where some of his children were baptized. On May 15, 1705, he and Samuel Treat, Jr., were admitted inhabitants of Pamet, now Truro, and on Nov. 1, 1711, when a church was organized there with Rev. John Avery as pastor, Hezekiah Doane was chosen deacon and ruling elder. He was appointed a Justice of the Peace in 1710 and held the office many years, his name appearing as a Justice on old documents as late as 1736, at which time he was residing in Provincetown. Dr. Breed attended him in his last sickness. His widow Sarah was appointed administratrix June 23, 1752, but died before the estate was settled and Benjamin Higgins was appointed to her place. He had a large family but their births are not recorded on public records. The first four and last three of the following list, are known to have been his children while the others are credited to him on good evidence.
Children:

41 Nehemiah, 1 b. Dec. 16, 1692.
Mary, 1 b. Aug. 31, 1694.

42 Ephraim, 1 b. at Provincetown, Apr. 1, 1696.

May 5, 1765, the 4th child of Rev. Jeremiah and Hannah (Loring) Cushing and gt.-gr.-son of Matthew Cushing, who with wife Nazareth Pitcher arrived at Boston, Aug. 10, 1638, and was the ancestor of the New England Cushings, famous as the "family of Judges." Ezekiel Cushing first settled at Provincetown and became prominent in town affairs; was treasurer in 1728 and thereafter till his removal to Falmouth, Casco Bay, Me., about 1740. At Falmouth he lived in as much style as any person in the town, had a fine residence on the Point at Cape Elizabeth which still bears the name of "Cushing’s Point." He had an extensive business both in the West India trade and in the fisheries; was Colonel of the regt., the highest military office in the district of Me., and from 1760 to 1764, was one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas. He kept slaves, and is said to have given one to each of his children as a part of their marriage portion. He married 2nd, Apr. 1, 1746, Mary Parker, wid. of Jacob Parker of Boston and dau. of Dominicus Jordan of Spurwink, Me., who had four children by her first marriage. His first seven children are on record at Provincetown, the others were b. probably at Cape Elizabeth. Ch.: 1. Loring, b. Aug. 10, 1721; d. in Army, Oct. 9, 1778; m., 1750, Mary Parker. 2. 17 THOMAS DOANE (Ephraim, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Sept. 4, 1674, and died at Chatham, Mass., May 8, 1756. He married Feb. 28, 1700–1, Patience Mulford, born at Eastham, Aug. 17, 1674 and died at Chatham, Feb. 8, 1744, the daughter of Thomas and Hannah Mulford. Mr. Doane was a blacksmith by trade, but early in life was engaged in the whale fisheries. He removed his family to Chatham about 1713, where he was a prominent citizen. He was a landholder both in Chatham and in Harwich. He appears on Chatham records as the town treasurer in 1721; a selectman in 1725, 1726, 1727; a deputy to the General Court in 1736–7. In 1723 one of the four schools of Chatham was at Thomas Doane’s house. In 1721 he and Thomas Atkins were sent to Boston to get the town’s share of the Provincial bills, and were ordered to “bring them to Chatham any way possible, either by land or by sea.” Both he and his wife were buried in the old Chatham burial ground. Their grave stones are still standing. His will was presented for probate Sept. 21, 1756. Amount of inventory £892–5–5.

EBENEZER\textsuperscript{3} DOANE (Ephraim,\textsuperscript{2} John\textsuperscript{1}) was born at Eastham, Mass., April, 1676. He married Lydia ——, but we have no record of the marriage. He was engaged in the fisheries at Province-town, Mass., and resided in Truro, where his children were baptized by Rev. John Avery. He was a selectman in Truro in 1711 and the same year appears there as the owner of cattle. June 14, 1714, Ebenezer Doane was appointed by the General Court "to be the first collector and receiver of a rate or duty of fourpence per week weekly from every sojourner on the province lands at Cape Cod," said rate to be "towards the support of a learned orthodox minister of good conversation, to dispense the word of God among them, at sixty pounds per year maintenance." In 1717 a grant of one hundred and fifty pounds was made towards building a Meetinghouse at Province-town, the money to be expended under the direction of Ebenezer Doane and two others.

FOURTH GENERATION.

19 JOHN⁴ DOANE (John,³ John,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass. He died about 1723. He married in Boston, June 23, 1714, by Dr. Cotton Mather, Abiah Callender, daughter of Rev. Ellis Callender.* She was born in Boston, June 22, 1690, and is named, with her sisters, in her father's will Dec. 10, 1725. She united with the First Baptist church of Boston Sept. 1, 1723, during her brother's ministry, from which she was expelled in 1743 "for contempt of the church." This probably means that she refused to answer their summons to appear before the church to receive discipline.

Mr. Doane was a mariner and resided in Boston. His widow, Abiah, was "admitted administrator on estate of John Doane, Jr., late of Boston, mariner, deceased," in 1723; but the only document in the settlement of the estate, that has been preserved, is the Bond of Administration, dated Aug. 12, 1723. On Apr. 25, 1735, the widow sold for £700 her house and lands in the northerly end of Boston, bounded southerly by the Cove or Dock.

Children, from Boston records:

20 JOHN DOANE (John, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Mar. 17, 1733-4 and died about 1801. He married, first (published, Boston, Mar. 27, 1754), Lucy Davenport, who was born in Boston, Mass., Nov. 17, 1733 and died at Cohasset, Mass., Jan., 1788, daughter of James Davenport of Boston. Married, second, before June 14, 1790, Rebecca ----- Mr. Doane was a goldsmith and lived in Boston and in Cohasset. At the time of the Great Boston Fire of Mar. 20, 1760, he was located on Mackerel Lane (Kilby St.) and lost personal property to the amount of £32.5.4 while the heirs of John Doane, Esq., his father, whose property lay largely in that vicinity sustained a loss of £1100.

Mr. Doane seems to have been unfortunate in business. On July 21, 1801, his son, Capt. John Doane of Scituate, was appointed administrator on estate of his father John Doane, watchmaker, of Boston. The estate consisted of one undivided twelfth part of a house on School St. which was sold by order of the court for $630, to pay claims of creditors, one of whom was David Stoddard Greenough.*

A small balance of about $250 was by order of the court July 26, 1802, divided to Lucy Damon, wife of Josiah, Fanny Stevens widow of Benjamin, John Doane, Nancy Hayden wife of Daniel, Jane Bourne decd., late wife of Thomas; children of said deceased or their legal representatives.

* Estate of John Doane decd. to David S. Greenough Dr.

To a legacy due me in right of my Wife, formerly Ann Doane given her by the will of her Father, to be paid her by the said John Doane decd. as per sd. Will £26.13.4.

Children:

51 John, b. Nov. 6, 1765.

Jane, b. ———; d. at Cohasset, Mass., June 9, 1789; m. Oct. 16, 1786, by Rev. John Brown, Thomas Bourne, b. at Cohasset, Nov. 5, 1767, s. of Thomas and Susanna (Beal) Bourne of Cohasset. He was a "Physician." He m. 2nd, Apr. 30, 1790, Betsey, dau. of Job Tower.

Nancy, b. ———; m. at Scituate, Nov. 24, 1783, Daniel Hayden.

Rev. John Brown graduated at Harvard College in 1741 and received a united call to the pastorate of the church at Cohasset, where he was ordained Sept. 2, 1747, and where he preached until the last Sabbath of his life. A warm friend to the interests of his country, he zealously advocated its civil and religious freedom. He served one campaign as chaplain to a Colonial regiment in Nova Scotia, and for his service was granted a tract of land in that Province near what is now the town of Liverpool. Mr. Brown is described as a man of more than ordinary talent, of a stately person with a voice loud and smooth. He thought for himself, uttered his opinions with fearless freedom and preached, with great acceptance, to his charge at Cohasset for forty-four years. He enjoyed social intercourse and terms of intimacy with his brother-in-law Col. Elisha Doane of Boston (103) and the following extracts from his diary show how a good minister and a shrewd business man recuperated in the early days of the Republic.

June 1st 1781 Borrowed one junk Bottle of Rum of Mr. Samuel Bates.
July 1781 one Ditto.
Aug. 6, 1781 Began on Mr. Doane's Rum.
Oct. 29, 1781 Great rejoicing at my house with Col. Doane, son and others at news of the Reduction of Cornwallis.

Rev. John Brown was buried in the Cohasset cemetery beside his first wife, Jane. Gravestones with inscriptions are still standing.

22 SAMUEL⁴ DOANE (Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., Oct. 30, 1697 and died there Aug. 25, 1778. He married, first, at Eastham, June 7, 1720, widow Thankful Robbins. Married, second, at Eastham, Apr. 30, 1771, by Rev. Edward Cheever, Elizabeth Snow, who survived him and died Apr. 3, 1780. Mr. Doane settled within the limits of the present town of Eastham, and served as assessor in 1731; selectman in 1735–6. His will, dated May 18, 1772, was proved Sept. 4, 1778. It names wife, Elizabeth; Joseph Ward, Benjamin Ward, George Ward, Lydia Ward and Zil- lah Ward, heirs of his daughter Zillah; daughter Thankful Maker; son, Samuel Doane, Jr. Son Samuel executor. Amount of inventory £695.9s.

Children, from Eastham records:

23 SOLOMON⁴ DOANE (Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., Nov. 8, 1705 and died there in Dec., 1789. He married Aug. 3, 1727, Alice Higgins and settled in Eastham, on a part of the original Deacon John Doane farm. He owned a very large tract of land on the north side of the harbor, in that part of Eastham locally known as "Nauset," a portion of which farm has passed through successive generations to his great great-granddaughter, Mrs. Eliza (Doane) Robbins, who now occupies the site of Solomon Doane's house. Mr. Doane was a man of some prominence in the affairs of his town, and held town offices. He made his will Mar. 5, 1786, mentions sons Solomon, Joseph, Joshua and Noah; daughters Betty Cole and Dorcas Doane; a granddaughter, wife of Josiah Linkhorner and minors Samuel Dill Doane, Elijah Doane, Nehemiah Doane, Mehetabel Doane, Alice Doane and Lydia Doane.

Children, from Eastham records:

i Solomon, b. Jan. 5, 1730; was named executor of his father's will.

53 ii Noah, b. July 4, 1732.

iii Sarah, b. Jan. 23, 1733; d. May 30, 1761; m. 1st, Nov. 14, 1754, Andrew Walker, b. June 29, 1728, s. of Wm. and Ann (Young) Walker; he m. 2nd, 1763, Dorcas Paine. He was a cooper in Eastham. 26 JOHN⁴ DOANE (David,³ John,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., May 3, 1708. He married, first, at Eastham, Jan. 20, 1729–30, Mary Brown, who died at Eastham, June 22, 1772, aged 67 years. Married second, Nov. 19, 1772, Priscilla Atwood. His will, dated Sept. 2, 1787, was probated Jan. 16, 1788. Witnesses were Elijah Knowles, Nath¹ Doane and Theophilus Knowles. He bequeathed to sons Elkanah and David; to wife Priscilla; to daughters Rachel Packard, Mary Doane and Anna Atwood. Son David executor. A division of his estate was made Mar. 25, 1788, and John Doane of Eastham was ordered to appear in behalf of Rachel Packard, "who is out of county." Amount of real estate £223.3⁸; of personal estate £144.14.4.

Children, from Eastham records:

i Elkanah,⁵ b. Aug. 7, 1731; d. abt. 1802; m. Aug. 17, 1749, Jerusha Cole. Widow Jerusha was appointed adms. Sept. 14, 1802. Elisha Mayo, James Mayo and Zenas Doane (115) were the appraisers. Amt. of inv. £519.

iv Mary,⁵ b. June 27, 1737; was unmarried Sept. 2, 1787.

vi Daniel,⁵ b. Dec. 11, 1740.

27 ELEAZER⁴ DOANE (David,³ John,² John¹) was born probably at Eastham, Mass. His birth is not recorded on Eastham records, but he is named in his father's will. He died at Carlton Village, Shelburne Co., Nova Scotia, before Sept. 24, 1787. He married at Eastham, Jan. 27, 1732, Hannah⁴ Mayo, daughter of Nathaniel³ and Mary (Brown) Mayo (John,² Rev. John¹).

Mr. Doane removed from Cape Cod to Mansfield, Conn., probably sometime between 1735 and 1743. His wife Hannah united by letter with the First Congregational church of Mansfield, Mar. 2, 1746. In 1758, Eleazer Doane of Mansfield was appointed "Armourer in the 1st Regt. raised in the Connecticut Colony for this campaign at an allowance of £6 per month."

In 1760, he appears as one of the grantees at Falmouth on the Avon river, near Windsor, Nova Scotia. On June 23, 1760, at a meeting of the proprietors there, he was chosen one of a committee to value land on west side of the Pisequid River, and on July 10th of the same year he was chosen one of a committee to survey lands. No further trace of him is found on Falmouth records.

In 1785, Eleazer Doane with sons Asa and Nathan and thirteen others, purchased four thousand seven hundred acres of Crown lands near the old Loyalist town of Shelburne, N. S., "said land lying and being on the western side of Port Roseway, between that port and Cape Negro." Here he lived in what is now Carlton Village. "He was buried there in an old field with a rough stone to mark his grave." On Sept. 24, 1787, his widow Hannah and son Asa deeded to Gideon White of Shelburne forty-five acres of their farm, situated on Shelburne Harbor in what was then called the "Settlement," and known as "Number Two."

Children, from Mansfield, Conn., records:

2. Duncan, b. at Eastham, Oct. 16, 1734.

3. Mary, b. at Eastham, Feb. 22, 1735.

67. Asa, b. June 16, 1743; bapt. at First Church, Mansfield, July 10, 1743.

5. Sarah, b. July 19, 1746; bapt. at First Church, July 29, 1746.

6. Hannah, b. July 19, 1746; bapt. at First Church, July 29, 1746.

8. Nathan, b. Apr. 6, 1751; bapt. at First Church, May 12, 1751.

9. Edith, b. May 3, 1756; bapt. at First Church, May 11, 1756; m. Edward Bray of Cape Cod, where they resided.

28. David Doane (David, John, John) was born, probably, at Eastham, Mass., though his birth is not recorded on the town records. He is named with the other children in his father's will, March, 1738. His wife's name appears on the records of Hardwick, Mass., as Lydia. Nothing more is known of her.

On Mar. 6, 1753, Mr. Doane bought for £133.6.8 one-half of Lot 30, in the westerly part of Hardwick. He removed from Cape Cod, and, it is understood, was for a few years a merchant in Boston.
His store was burned, after which he settled on his place in Hardwick. On June 20, 1761, he purchased one-half acre, with orchard and fence near the meeting-house in Hardwick.

He was a sergeant in Capt. Samuel Robinson’s Co. from Hardwick in the Crown Point expedition, between Mar. and Dec., 1755. He was a member of the Separate church of Hardwick, his name being signed to the covenant. This church was organized about 1750, but so many of its members removed in 1761 to Bennington, Vt., that the church as an organized body, together with its covenant and records, was transferred to that town, where it formed a union with small representations of two or three similar churches. Mr. Doane was one of those who removed to Bennington and was one of the fifty-seven members of the Bennington Separate church, on its organization, Dec. 3, 1762. His name is on the list of those who signed the covenant there on that day.

Oct. 22, 1761, he sold a tract of one hundred acres in the northerly part of Hardwick, and on Nov. 16, 1762, his one-half acre there, near the meeting-house, was sold by sheriff sale to satisfy the claims of two creditors, John and Thomas Stevenson, merchants of Boston. In these transactions he is styled “Trader.”

Mr. Doane probably removed from Bennington. His name does not appear among the names of those who, in 1784, agreed to be taxed to pay the minister.

Where he spent his last days we have not clearly ascertained, but it is claimed by some of his descendants that he died at his son David’s in Granville, N. Y. No complete list of his children has been found.

The first four of the following list are from the Hardwick town records, and the others are credited to him on good evidence.

Children:

69 David,5 b. at Hardwick, Aug. 9, 1752.
Bethiah,5 b. at Hardwick, June 28, 1754.
Nathan,5 b. at Hardwick, Aug. 15, 1756.

was married by his father, Joseph Doane, Esq. (12), Sept. 23, 1725, to Deborah4 Paddock of Chatham, Mass., born about 1705, the daughter of Robert3 and Martha (Hall) Paddock, granddaughter of Zachariah2 and Deborah (Sears) Paddock, and great-granddaughter of Robert1 Paddock and wife Mary. Joseph Doane was a mariner and lived in Eastham. He was in the expedition against Louisbourg in 1745, but returned in broken health and died as above noted. After his death, his widow and children removed to Middletown, Conn., where he had bought land as early as Nov. 26, 1742, “on the east side of the Connecticut river.” The widow, Deborah Doane, bought land there Jan. 24, 1747, and again in March following, adjoining, as the deal says, “where she now lives.” In the Easthampton, Conn., Society records her name appears as receiving money for the use of her house for Divine service on the Lord’s day. She died of small-pox Aug. 27, 1752, and lies buried at Easthampton on the farm, owned in 1874 by Mr. C. A. Strong, at which date the grave was marked by a stone with inscription. Her estate, valued at £525, was settled by her eldest son Joseph, who had letter granted Oct. 25, 1752.

31 Elisha Doane (Joseph, Daniel, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Feb. 3, 1705-6 and died, of fever, at Harwich, Mass., Aug. 1, 1765, aged 61, "much lamented." He married Mar. 14, 1733-4, Elizabeth Sparrow of Eastham, who died Dec. 30, 1793. They lived some years in Eastham. About 1743 he removed to the South Precinct of Harwich, where he resided till his death. He was a very prominent man in the parish and town of Harwich. He was one of the petitioners for the incorporation of the South Precinct into the old town of Harwich and was the town clerk till his death. He was Parish Assessor the same years. In 1751 he was chosen selectman and reelected each year till 1757. His place of residence in Harwich was near the house of the late Capt. Nathaniel Doane. He was buried in the old cemetery at Harwich.

Children, from Eastham records:

34 ELNATHAN4 DOANE (Israel, 3 Daniel, 2 John1) was born in the Orleans part of Eastham, Mass., April 9, 1709. He married at Eastham, Feb. 25, 1737, Martha Paddock. His name appears on Eastham records as holding a minor town office as late as Mar. 10, 1752. They removed from the Cape and settled in the vicinity of what is now Oceansburg, in Putnam Co., N. Y. He and his son Elnathan were tenants of a large farm there on Lot No. 6, in Phillips
Patent in 1778 and the homestead which is still in possession of his descendants was the north part of Lot 11, on the Oblong.

Children, first two from Eastham records:

3. Elnathan, b. abt. 1747.

35 EDMUND⁴ DOANE (Israel, Daniel, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Apr. 20, 1718 and died at Barrington, Nova Scotia, Nov. 20, 1806. He was married at Eastham, Nov. 10, 1749, by his uncle, Joseph Doane, Esq. (12), to Elizabeth Paine, widow of William Paine and of William Myrick, and daughter of Rev. Samuel and Jedidah (Smith) Osborn. She was born, probably, at Sandwich, Mass., where she was baptized at the First Congregational church in 1715 (see Osborn Family) and died at Barrington, May 24, 1798.

In the autumn of 1761, Edmund Doane with his wife and seven children sailed from Orleans, Mass., for the Cape Sable District. They embarked at what was then known as "Nathaniel Mayo’s Landing," which was a landing, or cove, a little south of the present Congregational church at East Orleans. Being driven off their course by unfavorable winds they arrived at Liverpool, where they spent the winter. The following spring they returned to the Cape Sable District, and were among the earliest settlers of the township of Barrington.

The first people of English descent to fix their abodes at the head of coves and harbors, around the shores of southwestern Nova Scotia, were fishermen mostly from Cape Cod and Nantucket, in Massachusetts. They were not refugees for loyalty's sake, but simply "[hard liners]" and net men, who had found out by their fearless cruises in "pink stern" craft, that fish abounded in those waters. The first steps towards an English settlement there were taken immediately after the removal of the French in 1756. The Proclamation of the Nova Scotia Colonial Governor, inviting settlers from New England and elsewhere to occupy the vacated lands, followed immediately, and as early as 1757 Governor Lawrence writes of having received "application from a number of Substantial persons in New England, for lands to settle at or near Cape Sable." A first company, for some reason or other, failed to make a settlement, but in 1761–1762 a large number, representing the best families of Cape Cod and Nantucket, removed to the Cape Sable District and formed a settlement at what is now the town of Barrington. They were, for the most part, a lot of intelligent and, so far as the times allowed, educated men. The handwriting of Benjamin Folger, John Coffin, John Porter, Archelaus Smith and others, as the public records show, proves them to have been men of more than ordinary schooling, and anything but illiterate. These settlers were cut off from regular intercourse with their kinsmen over the Bay, and often with one another for weeks in the winter time. They had force of character, however, to cope with difficulties and to improve their hard conditions.

Edmund Doane was of that number of "Substantial persons" from Cape Cod, and doubtless was the first settler of the Doane name in Nova Scotia. Before his removal to Nova Scotia he lived in Eastham, that part set off in 1797 as Orleans. On Eastham records he is recorded as a juryman in 1750 and 1760. There are still in existence one or two of Edmund Doane's old account books, giving evidence that, during his first years in Barrington, he kept a store, the transactions ranging from 1762 to 1767—a general store, such as would be required by the circumstances of the beginning of a new settlement. The chief articles of trade were rum, flour by the pound, salt by the hogshead, molasses, sugar, medicine, dry goods, hardware, etc.

It is understood that he received his supplies from his brother-in-law, John Homer, a merchant of Boston, shipping him in return the alewives, herring and other fish found in Nova Scotia waters.

Tiring of the hard conditions of his life in the new settlement, and perhaps meeting with business reverses, Edmund Doane, on Oct. 17, 1776, sold his property at Barrington to his brother-in-law, John Homer, for £132.6.53 intending to return with his family to New England; but, on petition of a large number of the townspeople, a grant was made of town land, at Johnson's Point, to his wife Elizabeth, in consideration of her valuable medical services.

On this grant they settled and spent their remaining days. In the petition she is described as being "destitute of accommodation of land to set a house upon."

Mrs. Elizabeth Doane was a woman of considerable education, of more than ordinary personal attractions and natural ability. Having a good knowledge of medicine, and being skilled in the use of roots and herbs, she was the only nurse and doctor to all the sick of all the township. Her services were much sought after and appreciated. When advanced in years or when making long trips, she was carried in a basket suspended from a pole across the shoulders of two men. She returned several times to New England to visit her relatives and friends. In 1763 she was one of three passengers who came up from Barrington on the sloop Sherburn, Capt. Jonathan Clarke, arriving in Boston, July 28. Again, in Sept., 1767, she came over to Boston on the sloop Dove, Capt. Joseph Chapman.

The old pestle, with which she pounded her roots and herbs, is still in use and in possession of her great-granddaughter, as well as Edmund's old Family Bible, on the fly leaf of which is written: "Edmund Doane, his book, bought in New England whilst he lived there." They were buried in the old burial ground at Barrington Head.

x Abigail, b. 1743, 4, 12; d. at Doylestown, 1812; m. ———Scott.

37 ELEAZER DoANE (Daniel, Daniel, John) was born on Cape Cod, Mass., 1691-2, 12, 21 and died at Wrightstown, Pa., in 1757. He married, first, about 1715, Susanna ———. Married second, 1731, 3, 21, Rebecca Davis. Mr. Doane went with his parents from Cape Cod to Pennsylvania in 1696. On 1st of 5th mo., 1729, he produced a certificate of removal from Middletown Meeting to that at Buckingham and, after 1734, he was an active member of the Wrightstown Meeting, his name often appearing on the business committees. Being prosperous in business, he became the owner of several tracts of land, one of which was four acres with a tavern in Plumstead, and two hundred and fourteen acres on the Tohickon Creek, purchased of the Proprietaries John, Richard and Thomas Penn. His will, dated Sept. 17, 1757, was probated Oct. 24, 1757. To his son John's children he gave the farm on the Tohickon Creek, on condition that they support and care for their father during his natural life. To his son David £100. To daughter Rebecca, £120, and to Benjamin the plantation of one hundred and fifty acres, which he bought of the widow Hillborn. The son Eleazer is named as deceased and Benjamin, David and Rebecca, are named as children of wife Rebecca.

Children of first marriage:

   ii  Eleazer, b. 1719, 3, 12; m. Elizabeth ———. His will, probated Mar. 31, 1757, names children Jonathan, Susanna, Rachel, Ruth.
   iii  Ephraim, b. 1721, 7, 10; d. 1780, 7, 4; m. (license dated July 25, 1769) Susanna Griscomb, dau. of Samuel B., and Rebecca (James) Griscomb of Philadelphia (Tobias, Andrew). He was a master mariner, and resided in Philadelphia. At his death he owned a well-furnished brick house in Phila., and a plantation at New Castle in Delaware, valued at £400. A letter of adm. on his estate was granted wid., Susanna, fourteen days later. She married a second time, as in her account returned to court in 1785, she calls herself "Susanna Davis, late Susanna Doane." iv  Elizabeth, b. 1724, 5, 26.

Children of second marriage:

v  David, b. ———.
   vii  Rebecca, b. ———; m., 1760, 9, 10, James Dillon, s. of John Dillon.

38 ELIJAH DOANE (Daniel, Daniel, John) was born on Cape Cod, Mass., 1694, 4, 3 and died in Philadelphia, Pa., 1736, 9, 21. He married Catherine ———. He was the youngest of the family when his parents removed to Pennsylvania, in 1696. The minutes of the Buckingham Monthly Meeting show that on the 4th of 11 mo. 1725, his acknowledgement of error in marrying out of unity with Friends was accepted. He continued in membership with
THE DOANE FAMILY.

Friends to the end of his days. His death was announced in the Philadelphia Gazette implying that he died quite suddenly while in that city. Widow Catherine appointed administratrix on estate, 1736, 9, 25.

Children, from records of Wrightstown Monthly Meeting:

3. Rebecca, b. 1723, 6, 12.
4. Joanna, b. 1725, 3, 8.
5. Titus, b. 1727, 3, 29.
6. Catherine, b. 1729, 11, 3.

39 JOSEPH IV DOANE (Daniel, Daniel, John) was born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1697, 2, 23 and died, probably at Cane Creek, N. C. He married, in Friends Meeting, Middletown, Pa., 1726, 10, 14, Mary Carter, who died between 1740 and 1744, the daughter of John and Grace Carter, and settled in Wrightstown, and in membership with the Meeting of that village. In his youth Joseph Doane acquired great strength and power of endurance, and a knowledge of the country about Newtown. These qualifications attracted the notice of the Proprietaries Richard and Thomas Penn, who, while concluding upon the completion of Gov. Wm. Penn's treaty with the Indians for lands included in a three days' walk, employed several persons to perform a trial walk under the supervision of the Sheriff of Bucks Co. In April, 1735, James Steele wrote to the Sheriff that "on the return of Joseph Doan" he with two others "who can travel well" should be immediately sent on foot and two others on horseback to carry provisions, etc. They started on this preliminary walk Apr. 22, 1735, and were employed nine days. It appears that Joseph Doan did not hold out one of the best, as he was not employed in the final walk Sept. 19 or 20, 1737. Mr. Doane learned the carpenter's trade probably in his father's shop.

After the death of his wife he took a certificate of removal for himself and children from Wrightstown to the Buckingham Meeting, which bears date 1744, 11, 7. The family circle being broken, his children in the homes and under the care of his relatives, Mr. Doan in 1747, 2 mo. requested certificate of membership to visit his father's people on Cape Cod. A committee was appointed to make the usual inquiries, the report was favorable and the certificate was granted. In the following May, the certificate was returned to the Buckingham Meeting endorsed by the Meeting at Sandwich, Mass., testifying to his good deportment, kindliness of feeling, etc. while there. At the Meeting, 1750, 10 mo., Joseph Doan, "unmarried," requests certificate "to Friends wherever his lot may be cast," and the next account of him is on the organization of the Meeting at Cane Creek, North Carolina 1751, 10, 7, when his credentials from Buckingham were read and accepted. After three years he revisited his children and other relatives in Pennsylvania, and brought certificate from Cane Creek which was accepted at Buckingham 1754, 8, 5. On 2nd of mo. following, he applied for return of certificate which was granted with the usual endorsement. We know nothing further of Joseph Doan, but without doubt his bones lie in the Friends' burial-ground in or near Cane Creek, North Carolina.

Children, from Society records at Wrightstown:

ii Mary, b. Sept. 6, 1728; d. Mar. 1, 1743.
94 iii John, b. Nov. 30, 1731.
95 iv Ebenezer, b. July 5, 1733.
v Martha, b. Sept. 1, 1735; probably m. John Fagandus Feb. 3, 1761.
vi Mehitable, b. Nov. 10, 1738; probably m. Samuel Kirk, Mar., 1767.

40 ISRAEL DOANE (Daniel, Daniel, John) was born near Newtown, Pa., 1699, 3, 20 and died at Plumstead, Pa., about 1797. He married out of unity with Friends about 1724, Esther, whose family name probably was Dillon. For this offence he was made a subject of "dealing" and was disowned by the Middletown Monthly Meeting, 1729, 10, 2 after the usual committee of enquiry had reported that "the distance into the country where he lived was so great it was difficult to see him." While we have no evidence that he was restored to membership with them, there is proof that he ever maintained his fealty to Friends and attended their meetings for worship at Plumstead, and that his children were recognized and treated as members. He was a carpenter. Immediately after marriage, he settled in a remote part of Plumstead on lands of the Indians, the first or second white settler in that township. In 1782, he was taxed in Plumstead for 122 acres, 2 horses, 3 cows and 4 sheep. After the death of his wife, he sold his real estate and converted his possessions into money. His will dated Dec. 25, 1787, and probated in 1797, indicates approximately the time of his death. In it he names his eldest son Joseph; youngest son Mahlon; three grandsons Abraham, Israel and Thomas Doan, sons of his son Israel, deceased; four granddaughters Mary, Rachel, Leah and Elizabeth, daughters of his son Israel, deceased; daughters, Elizabeth Lewis, Mary Wharton, Rachel Liepper, and grandson Samuel Doane, "eldest son of my son Elijah, deceased." Nehemiah Doane was a mariner and resided in Boston. His widow, Jane, was appointed to settle his estate Nov. 17, 1730.

Child:

i Jane, b. in Boston, Mass., Feb. 9, 1724; m. at Truro, Mass., Sept. 7, 1743, Abner, son of Thomas and Thankful Paine.

42 EPHRAIM DOANE (Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was born at Provincetown, Mass., Apr. 1, 1696. He was married at Truro, Mass., Mar. 5, 1717, by Rev. John Avery, to Mary Atkins, who died at Middletown, Conn., Dec. 23, 1751. He resided some years in Truro but was in Provincetown in 1732, where he was engaged in the fisheries. About 1738 he removed his family to Middletown. He and his wife Mary were admitted to the church at Middletown on recommendation of the church at Provincetown, Jan. 6, 1739. His first purchase of land at Middletown was on June 18, 1739. He is on record in Connecticut as a "mariner" and part owner of one or more small vessels. He was joint owner with Thomas Goodwin, George Phillips and Ebenezer Sage of the sloop Diamond. In the fall of 1745 they chartered this vessel to Maj. Jabez Hamlin as a transport to carry Connecticut troops to Louisbourg. She sailed in November of that year and soon after arrived. She was detained in the service until Feb. 3, 1746, when she sailed from Louisbourg for New London, but foundered at sea on the home trip.

In May, 1751, Ephraim Doane presented a memorial to the Assembly of Connecticut, showing these facts and setting forth that his two sons were among those lost in the vessel; that the sons were his great dependence in his advanced years, and that by their loss, and loss of his vessel, he was brought under pitiable circumstances. Whereupon the Assembly passed a resolution granting him a gratuity of £150 old tenor bills.

His wife, Mary, was buried in the old burial ground on the bank of the river at Middletown; gravestone.

Children, from Provincetown records:

100 ii NEHEMIAH, b. Oct. 13, 1719.
iii Betsey, b. Sept. 1, 1724.
iv Joshua, b. June 1, 1727; lost with his brother in sloop Diamond.
v Mary, b. July 24, 1729.

101 vi Elisha, b. Mar. 22, 1730.

43 ELISHA DOANE (Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was born, probably, at Provincetown, Mass. His birth is not recorded on town records; but, if the figures on his gravestone are correct, he was born about 1699. He died at Wellfleet, Mass., Dec. 7, 1759. “Elisha Doane of Cape Cod and Hannah Cole of Eastham were married at Cape Cod the 26th of February, 1718–19, by John Avery, pastor of the church at Truro.”

They settled in that part of Eastham, now called Wellfleet, where he was extensively engaged in the whale fisheries, and in which business he was quite successful. On the organization of the Congregational church there in 1730, he was chosen one of its deacons and continued in the office till his death. On Feb. 20, 1744–5, he was commissioned Captain of the 4th Co. 7th Mass. Regt. in the Louisbourg expedition, a regiment made up from Barnstable county under command of Col. Shubael Gorham. Captain Doane was one of the first who started for Cape Breton, and it is understood that his company saw severe service at Louisbourg and participated in the attacks on the “Island Battery.” After the capitulation, he remained at Louisbourg on garrison duty, and it is possible that he had his family with him.

It is claimed that his daughter, Ruth, died at Cape Breton, aged fifteen years, and his son Elisha, Jr., was there as an ensign in his father’s company. On June 24, 1746, Captain Doane set forth in a petition to the General Court of Massachusetts that his company was one of the first that went down upon the expedition, that their wages were but £5 per month, that they “lost all benefit of plunder by the capitulation” and praying therefore that the court would grant to his company their arms, swords, etc. It is reported in the History of Eastham that the Doane hero at Louisbourg underwent much suffering by captivity after the fall of the fortress, and the facts stated are largely true, but all the honor, service and hardship are ascribed to Capt. Elisha’s father, Hezekiah Doane, Sen., who in 1745 was 73 years old, in fact, too far advanced in life for any military service.
On Jan. 31, 1747, French and Indian troops from Bay Verte and Chignecto, between five and six hundred strong, arrived at Grand Pré on the Basin of Minas, and in a blinding snowstorm at 2 A.M. attacked the detachment of Mass. troops quartered there under command of Lt. Col. Noble. The surprise was a complete one and among those captured by the enemy and held as prisoners of war was our Capt. Elisha, who was taken first to Bay Verte, thence to Quebec, arriving there June 17, 1747. It is understood that he suffered "all but death" at the hands and mercy of the French.

While at Quebec he became surety for the redemption money of Rachel Quackinbush who had been stolen by the Indians, and purchased by the French.

There is no doubt whatever as to the identity of the Captain Doane who figured at Louisburg and who was one of the victims of French hostility at Grand Pré. He was none other than Capt. Elisha, son of Hezekiah of Wellfleet.

His name appears in an account, endorsed March 8, 1747–8, of money paid to Minas prisoners from Canada. Only a little can be learned of the career of Capt. or Col. Elisha Doane, but what has come down to us shows him to have been a man of great courage, daring, shrewdness and enterprise. He was well known in Barnstable County where he was a man of prominence and influence, and where he was esteemed for his intelligence, judgment, coolness and discretion in his public and private life. The church mourned him and lamented his death. I think it was he who was called "King Doane" by the people, and doubtless the appellation was deservedly given. His sword, with his name engraved upon it, is still in possession of his descendants.

His will, dated May 26, 1758, and proved Mar. 4, 1760, is on record at Barnstable. It was witnessed by his pastor Rev. Isaiah Lewis, Edward Bacon and David Gorham. His sons Elisha and Joseph were the executors. He shows the man in his disposition of his property.

He died Dec. 7, 1759, and lies buried with his wife and other members of the family, in the Duck Creek burial ground, at Wellfleet. His widow died at Wellfleet, Feb. 25, 1786, at the extreme age of ninety-five years.

The following is inscribed on his gravestone:

Elisha Doane Esq. died December 7, 1759 ætatis suae 60; sustained the office of a deacon near 30 years from the first gathering of the church, and after several military commissions — A Dom 1758 received a Lieutenant Colonel's commission in the army for the reduction of Canada.

Pray think of me as you pass by,
As you are now so once was I.
But now I lie dissolved to dust,
In hopes to rise among the just.

The will of Col. Elisha Doane.

In The Name of God Amen, I Elisha Doane of Eastham, in the County of Barnstable, Esq. being of Sound and Disposing mind and memory (blessed be God for the same) Do this twenty-sixth day of May in the thirty-first year of His Majesties Reign and in the year of our Lord One Thousand Seven hundred and fifty-eight, do make and publish this my Last Will and Testament, that is to say:

44 HEZEKIAH DOANE (Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was baptized at Truro, Mass., Mar. 30, 1712. He married at Truro, Oct. 7, 1731, Thankful Bickford. At that time he was a resident of Provincetown. We have no further trace of them; they probably removed from the Cape.

Child:

105 i Elisha, b. ——.

45 JOSEPH DOANE (Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was baptized at Truro, Mass., Aug. 13, 1721. He married Mary, daughter of Judah and Mary (Hamilton) Mayo (Thomas Mayo, Nathaniel, Rev. John), of Chatham. They lived in Chatham. He died, and his widow married a Mr. Freeman. On Dec. 2, 1761, Thomas Hamilton was appointed guardian of Hezekiah and Mary, the two surviving children.

Children, from Chatham records:

i Mary, b. Nov. 3, 1745; d. June 6, 1748.

ii Hezekiah, b. Sept. 1, 1747.

iii Mary, b. Mar. 4, 1750.

46 THOMAS DOANE (Thomas, Ephraim, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., about 1702, and died at Chatham, Mass., about 1747. He married at Plymouth, Mass., May 20, 1729, Sarah, daughter of Jonathan Barnes. She died of smallpox at Chatham in 1766. Mr. Doane went with his father's family from Eastham to Chatham in 1713. He was the schoolmaster at Chatham in 1734. His widow and Paul Sears were appointed to settle his estate, May 13, 1747. The court made an allowance of money to the widow and the balance of the estate was divided among the creditors.

Children:

107 Nehemiah, b. Feb. 15, 1730.
108 Thomas, b. Mar. —, 1737.

Reuben, b. ——; d. unm. abt. 1758 or 9; a mariner. Sarah Doane and Reuben Doane appointed to settle his estate, Jan. 3, 1759. A small balance was divided among Sarah Doane, mother; Nehemiah and Thomas Doane, brothers; Elizabeth Doane and Mary Eldredge, sisters.

Mary, b. ——; m. May 30, 1758, Hezekiah Eldredge of Chatham.

109 Elizabeth, b. Apr. 18, 1744.

47 Reuben Doane (Thomas, Ephraim, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Mar. 1, 1705–6, and died before 1742. He married Sarah Haugh, who was born in Boston, Mass., Oct. 15, 1718, the daughter of Samuel Haugh, goldsmith, of Boston. They lived in Chatham. John Doane, Esq. (7), of Wellfleet and Boston, was appointed her guardian May 7, 1722.

Children:

Hannah, b. 1732; m. Lot Hall of Yarmouth, Mass. (Daniel, Joseph, John, John). Ch.: 1. Daniel, b. at Yarmouth, Oct. 14, 1754. He was a Lieut. of the privateer Arnold, and was frozen to death with many others off Cape Cod, Dec. 26, 1778. 2. Lot, b. at Yarmouth, Apr. 2, 1757; d. at Westminster, Vt., May 17, 1809; m. in Boston, Feb. 13, 1786, Mary Homer. He studied law with Shearjashub Bourne of Barnstable; removed to Vermont in 1782; represented Westminster in the General Assembly five years; was presidential elector in 1792; a fellow of Middlebury Coll. for eight years; a Judge of the Supreme Court of the state from 1794 to 1801.

Reuben, b. 1734. Daniel Hall of Yarmouth was appointed guardian to Reuben and Hannah Doane, Feb. 11, 1742. He died leaving no children.

48 Benjamin Doane (Thomas, Ephraim, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Dec. 26, 1710. He married Nov. 7, 1734, Mary Freeman who was born Nov. 24, 1714, the daughter of Nathaniel Freeman of Harwich. They settled in Chatham. After his death the widow married Oct. 5, 1751, Joshua Atkins of Chatham.

Children:

Freeman, b. abt. 1736; d. Oct. 3, 1753, ae. 18 years.
THE DOANE FAMILY.

Patience, b. ——; m. Apr. 12, 1761, Moses Rider.

Abigail, b. ——; m. Apr. 27, 1753, Seth Harding.

Benjamin, b. ——; d. unm. Joshua Atkins of Chatham was appointed his guardian July 6, 1756. He was in French War against Canada; a private, on muster roll, under Capt. Samuel Knowles, Col. Thomas Doty's Regt.; service from May 1 to Nov. 30, reported discharged, year not given, endorsed 1758. He left his property to his sisters and step-brother.

49 Ebenezer Doane (Ebenezer, Ephraim, John) was born at Truro, Mass., Aug. 22, 1706 and was baptized there by Rev. John Avery, Sept. 13, 1713. He married Elizabeth Skillings, who was born Apr. 25, 1713, the daughter of Samuel and Aroda (Haley) Skillings (John, Thomas) of Kittery, and Falmouth, Me. Mr. Doane went to Falmouth perhaps as early as the spring of 1739, when seven or eight families, among whom were the principal inhabitants, removed from Provincetown to Casco Bay. He was probably a seafaring man. They settled at Long Creek, Cape Elizabeth. After the death of her husband, of which we have no record, Mrs. Doane went to live with her daughter, Joanna Berry, at Buckfield, where she died very aged. But little can be learned of Ebenezer Doane. The probate records were burned in the Portland fire. I copy the history of this family from the Maine Genealogical Recorder. The births of their children are not recorded on the town or church records of Cape Elizabeth, but the following list is made up from reliable sources.

Children:

Levi, b. ——. He was a corporal in Capt. Samuel Dunn's Co., Col. Phinney's Regt., from May 8 to July 11, 1775; also sergeant in Capt. Tobias Fernald's Co., Col. FIFTH GENERATION.

50 ELISHA⁵ DOANE (John,⁴ John,³ John,² John¹) was born in Boston, Mass., Nov. 27, 1721 and died in London, England, about 1771. He married Miss Mary Eldredge, the daughter of a planter of Barbados, W. I. Mr. Doane was the youngest son of John and Abiah (Callender) Doane and was a child of two years on the death of his father. He entered the Royal Navy, and doubtless was the "Mr. Doane" who was mate of the man-of-war Guernsey, Capt. Millbank, in Gibraltar harbor in Dec., 1759, and who "had lost the thumb and two fingers of his left hand." Elisha Doane was promoted to a Pursership, and served under Admiral Lord Rodney, probably on the Admiral's own ship. After marriage they settled in London.

Child:

112 i JOSEPH PROUD,⁶ b. in London about 1771.

Extract from letter, dated May 20, 1879, from Mr. Charles Doane of London, grandson of Elisha⁵ Doane.

My grandfather came from one of the North American Colonies, I do not know which. His name was, I think, Elisha Doane. He entered the Royal Navy and served as Purser under Lord Rodney, but whether in the Admiral's own ship I do not know. Elisha Doane was, I believe, a messmate of Admiral Lord Barham who was, I have heard, a Lient., in the same ship. They were promoted together to a Lientenancy and to a Pursership. The reason why I say I believe and I think, arises from the fact that my grandfather, Elisha Doane, died while my father was yet a child, or at any rate a very little boy and therefore he (my father) could tell us very little. Elisha Doane married a Miss Mary Eldredge daught. of a planter in Barbados. The estate of Eldredge is now of considerable importance in Barbados as I learn from the late Governor Sir James Walker, a friend of ours. My father, Joseph Proud Doane, was the only son of Elisha Doane R. N. and Mary Eldredge his wife. He was christened Proud after his godfather a Capt. Proud of the Royal Navy, but he disliked the name and was known only as Joseph Doane. My father died in 1833 aged 62; this and assuming that Elisha Doane was about 60 when he died, will enable you to come very near to the time when Elisha Doane entered the navy from the Colonies. Elisha Doane of the R. N., had powerful friends and my father as a young man was appointed Auditor of the Corporation of Bedford Level which gave him official chambers in the Temple, the entrance to which was in Fairfield Court, now pulled down. My father later in life formed a connection with the Public Press.

Richard Doane, the eldest of us, was a Barrister and while studying for the Bar was the friend, pupil and sometime secretary to the great Juris Consult Jeremy Bentham. Jeremy Bentham in his will left my brother Richard all his books on English Law and Richard Doane edited that portion of the posthumous edition of Bentham's works which related to English Law. Joseph Doane followed in his father's footsteps, and I in 1828 was entered a student in the Royal Academy of Arts. But brother Joseph and myself, sole survivors, each in the possession of a competent fortune, use such talents as we may possess only in the solace of unlimited leisure. Bishop Doane, the Bishop of Albany, U. S., was over here last summer to attend the Lambeth Synod and took a keen interest with us in endeavoring to trace the origin of the family here and he told me, that his father, the Bishop of New Jersey, had the same feeling. Edmondson in his Book of Heraldry, gives the Doanes as springing from Ireland and gives the Arms as a Unicorn salient on a field azure, crucily or, and these are the Arms which my brother and myself bear, having three generations free from trade and so entitled to Coat Armour. Sir Bernard Burk in his book on Armoury has copied the Doane shield from Edmondson. I never knew, or met or heard of any family by the name of Doane in this country except my own. There are plenty of Dones, they are from Cheshire. Both the Heralds College in London, and the Dublin College have been searched in vain. The latter says we are the O'Donanes of Connaght, but this is all nonsense. There is no doubt of our affinity with the American Doanes but their name is legion.

5 DOANE (John,4 John,3 John,2 John1) was born at Scituate, Mass., Nov. 6, 1765, and died there Jan. 21, 1805. He married Dec. 22, 1784, Lucy Studley Litchfield, born Apr. 20, 1761, and died at Scituate, Feb. 12, 1839, the daughter of Josiah4 and Abigail (Studley) Litchfield. Mr. Doane was a mariner and farmer, and lived in Scituate. The records style him "Captain." Widow Lucy was appointed to settle his estate, May 21, 1805. Inventory amounted to $4279.60. He was buried in Groveland cemetery, North Scituate (gravestone).

Children, from Scituate records:

ii JOSHUA,6 b. July 20, 1793.

52 SAMUEL⁵ DOANE (Samuel,⁴ Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., June 7, 1722, and died there Mar. 14, 1797 (gravestone, Herring Pond burial ground). He married Jan. 10, 1744, Dorcas Cole. They lived in Eastham, where he was deacon of the Second church. He was a private in Capt. Samuel Knowles Co., Crown Point expedition, from Apr. 2 to Dec. 5, probably 1756. His son-in-law, James Mayo, was appointed to settle his estate Dec. 31, 1795. A division of estate was made May 29, 1796 to widow Dorcas; heirs of Joel Doane; heirs of Martha Mayo; heirs of Mercy Myrick.

Children, from Eastham records:

ii Mercy,⁶ b. Nov. 12, 1749; m. Isaac Myrick of Eastham, Feb. 9, 1769.

114 iv Joel,⁶ b. Feb. 17, 1754.

53 NOAH⁵ DOANE (Solomon,⁴ Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., July 4, 1732 and died at Petersham, Mass., Apr. 1, 1820. He was buried beside his wife in the old cemetery at Dana. He married Bethia ——. We have no record of the marriage, but she died at Dana, Apr. 16, 1812, aged about 86 years.

Noah Doane succeeded to his father's farm, and lived in his father's house, in the north part of the present town of Eastham. On Mar. 22, 1797, he sold the Eastham place to his son Zenas, and, taking his household effects and his live stock, together with his youngest son Edward and wife Sarah, removed from the Cape into Worcester county where, on the 19th of April following, he bought of Silas Johnson, for $1533, a farm of one hundred acres with one story wooden house and barn, in that part of Petersham set off in 1801 as the town of Dana. Here the two families occupied the same house, the son sailing each year from about the middle of Sept. to the middle of March on voyages to the West Indies or to the West of Africa. On Mar. 16, 1808, Noah Doane deeded the Dana farm to his son Edward who, Apr. 15, 1816, sold out and bought a farm of one hundred and seventy acres in the south part of the present town of Petersham.

Noah Doane was a large man fully six feet tall, and of remarkable vitality. When eighty-seven years old he used to spring from the ground into his saddle and gallop his horse off to Hardwick to visit his daughter Priscilla.

Children, first four from Eastham records:

Priscilla,⁶ b. Dec. 7, 1762; m. at Eastham, by Rev. Edward Cheever, Jan. 1, 1788, to Simeon Knowles, Jr.; lived in Hardwick.
Lot,⁶ b. May 22, 1765.
Thankful,⁶ b. ———.
Bangs,⁶ b. abt. 1769.
Bethia,⁶ b. ———; m. at Eastham, by Rev. Edward Cheever, May 3, 1794, to Thomas Hopkins Covel of Wellsfleet; lived in Dana. He enlisted in War of 1812, and it is supposed was killed at battle of Greenbush, N. Y., leaving the widow with three children, one of whom was a son, Ephraim. She is described as a "tall, black-eyed woman who had seen much trouble."

54 NEHEMIAH⁵ DOANE (Solomon,⁴ Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., Mar. 17, 1737. He married the widow Lydia Dill, daughter of Benjamin Higgins (Eastham marriage intentions, Jan. 25, 1766). He was a soldier in Col. Thomas Winslow's regiment against the French in Nova Scotia in 1758. He was also in the Revolutionary War. His name appears in a descriptive list of men dated Jan. 11, 1781, as matross in Capt. John Sluman's Co., 3rd Artillery Regt., age, 41; stature, 5 ft., 10 in.; complexion, fair; engaged for town of Eastham, Mar. 12, 1777; discharged Mar. 2, 1780. In 1779, he petitioned the General Court of Mass., and obtained the passage of a Resolve on June 24th of that year, that the Board of War supply his family with provisions to the amount of £3 and that the town of Eastham be accountable for the same. He is not mentioned in his father's will dated May 5, 1786. He probably died before Mar. 3, 1790, as on that date his father was appointed guardian of his six minor children.

Children, first four from Eastham records:

1. Nehemiah, b. July 17, 1767; d.
2. Elijah, b. May 17, 1772; d. young.
   Alice, b. ; m. 1st, Dec. 3, 1801, by Rev. Philander Shaw.
   Benjamin Knowles; m., 2nd, Edward Knowles, bro. of Benjamin.

Nehemiah, b. at Eastham, Jan. 21, 1785.

55 Joseph Doane (Solomon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Apr. 21, 1739, and died at Ellington, Conn., in Feb., 1831. He married at Eastham, by Rev. Joseph Crocker, Oct. 13, 1767, Susannah Cole. He served as private with his brother Nehemiah Doane (54) and his cousin John Doane (57) in war against the French in Nova Scotia, under Capt. Samuel Knowles in Col. Thomas Doty's Regt. from Apr. 22 to July 19, 1758 or 1759. He moved from Cape Cod to Mansfield, Conn., where their son Joel was baptized at the Second church Aug. 22, 1784 and their son Zenas on Oct. 28, 1777. On Feb. 10, 1796, he purchased of Heman Baker, Jr., for £250, a farm in Tolland, Conn., and removed to that town. He was a mariner and followed the sea about forty years.

Children, first two from Eastham records:

120 Isaac, b. Aug. 6, 1768.
121 Joseph, b. July 4, 1771.
122 David, b. abt. 1774.
123 Ebenezer, b. June 1777.
124 Joel, b. abt. 1780.

Zenas, b. ——; bapt. at 2nd church, Mansfield, Oct. 28, 1787; d. æ. 16 or 17.

Anna, b. ——; died young.

56 JOSHUA DOANE (Solomon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Jan. 6, 1744–5 and died probably at Royalston, Mass. He married Dec. 29, 1768, Ruth Rich of Truro, Mass., who died at Royalston, Oct. 5, 1840. They settled in Eastham near his father and on a portion of his father's farm. The house built there by Joshua Doane is still standing, and for many years was owned and occupied by Capt. Russell Doane (318). In 1799, Joshua and Ruth sold their Eastham property and removed to Royalston where, on July 10th, he purchased of John Shepardson, a farm of 97 acres in the west part of the town on the county road leading from Richmond to Athol. He held no town office in Royalston and the records do not show the time of his death.

Children, from Eastham records:

i Mary, b. Aug. 20, 1771; d. at Eastham, Feb. 5, 1856; æ. 84 yrs.; unm.
ii Alice, b. Aug. 20, 1771; d. Aug. 29, 1771.
iii Sarah, b. Nov. 16, 1772.
iv Joshua, b. June 6, 1774.

vii Joshua, b. Dec. 18, 1780.
viii Isaiah, b. Nov. 16, 1782.
ix David, b. Aug. 16, 1784; d. Nov. 20, 1784.
x Ebenezer, b. Aug. 16, 1784; d. Nov. 20, 1784.

57 JOHN DOANE (Simeon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., about 1738 or 1739. The town records give his name in the list of his father's children, but not the date of his birth. He died at Eastham, Apr. 19, 1800 in the 62nd year of his age, and was buried in Herring Pond burial-ground near the old church where he had worshipped (gravestones). He married about 1761 Betsey Snow who died Oct. 22, 1819 (gravestone, Herring Pond burial-ground).

John Doane was a private in the war against the French in 1758, under Capt. Samuel Knowles, in Col. Thomas Doty's Regt.; also private, Capt. Jabez Snow's Co., Col. John Thomas Regt., at Annapolis Royal, from Mar. 27 to Nov. 1, 1759; also same Co. from Nov. 2, 1759 to June 23, 1760. He lived in the present town of Eastham, on the north side of the harbor.

The house he built and occupied was sold, first, to his brother Isaiah Doane (60), then to his son Heman Doane (129), and from him it passed to Heman Doane, Jr. (919), and was standing until a few years ago when it was torn down. Mrs. Betsey Doane used to say that she could stand in her doorway and see the house of each of her four sons.

Mr. Doane was a deacon of the church in the middle parish during Rev. Mr. Cheever's ministry. Their house of worship, erected about 1819, stood near Herring Pond.

Children, from Eastham records:

128 i Timothy, b. May 13, 1762.
129 ii Heman, b. Mar. 15, 1764.
iii Sarah, b. June 18, 1767.
iv Betty, b. Mar. 21, 1769; m. Feb. 11, 1793, Abijah, b. May 24, 1761, s. of John and Lydia (Cook) Mayo (John, James, John, Rev. John).

v Abigail, b. Mar. 21, 1771.
130 vi John, b. Apr. 19, 1777.
131 vii Simeon, b. July 31, 1780.

58 BENJAMIN DOANE (Simeon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., about 1737 or 8 and died at North Brookfield, Mass., Jan. 3, 1824 "ae. 86 yrs." His name appears on Eastham records in the list of his father's children, but the date of birth is not given. He is named in his father's will, dated Apr. 24, 1784. He married, first, Ruth ——, who died Aug. 16, 1778 "in the 39th year of her age" (gravestone, Herring Pond burial-ground). Married second, Apr. 27, 1779, widow Hannah Cobb (Harwich town record) who died Mar. 18, 1838, aged 90 yrs. (gravestone, old burying-ground, Brewster, Mass.). By her first marriage she had, at least, one daughter, Adelia Cobb. About 1791, Benjamin Doane moved from the Cape to the North Parish of Brookfield, where he bought a farm of Bryant Foster. The bell on the new church there was tolled for the first time, at his funeral. After his death, his widow, Hannah, returned to the Cape to live with a married daughter.

Children, first two from Eastham records:

ii William, b. Apr. 2, 1764; d. at Eastham, June 13, 1765.
133 iii Joseph, b. at Eastham, Dec. 27, 1767.

59 Ephraim Doane (Simeon, Samuel, John, John†) was born at Eastham, Mass., about 1741 and died at Ellisburg, Jefferson Co., N. Y., about 1819. He married at Eastham, by Rev. Edward Cheever, Apr. 16, 1778, Lucia (or Lucy) Doane, whose parentage we have not traced. In May, 1792, he moved to Hardwick, Mass., and purchased a farm of ninety acres for £200. On Jan. 7, 1800, he sold his farm in the "north-westerly part of Hardwick," and removed to Bakersfield, Vt., where his nephew Benjamin Doane, Jr. (135), had already settled. From there they removed to Ellisburg, N. Y., where they died at the home of their son Isaiah.

Children:

136 Samuel, b. ———.
John, b. ———; d. in Eaton Co., Mich.; m. Nancy Crane.
137 Isaiah, b. Oct. 5, 1794.

61 ELISHA DOANE (Jonathan, Dr. David, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Nov. 24, 1724, and died at Spencer, Mass., about 1810. He married, first, Mary ——, who died at Spencer, after Oct. 5, 1795. Married, second (published at Brookfield, Nov. 27, 1800), widow Martha Allen (in one or two documents her name appears as Aling) of Brookfield, who died at Spencer, Nov. 10, 1837, aged 88 yrs. Elisha Doane was commissioned captain of 6th (2nd Eastham) Co., 2nd Barnstable Regt. of Mass. militia, Apr. 20, 1776. His commission was in the possession of his descendants until within late years. His widow Martha drew a pension for his Revolutionary service. He was named one of the executors of his father's will, probated Feb. 8, 1780, but declined to act as such—"As I live remote and my business is such, that I resign acting as executor."

He was a blacksmith and probably learned the trade in his father's shop at Eastham; but, becoming more or less involved in debt to Col. Elisha Doane of Wellfleet (103), his Eastham place was sold Apr. 19, 1769. They moved from the Cape and settled in Brookfield.
He bought one hundred and thirty-five acres of land there, from Ebenezer Harrington, Nov. 6, 1779, and is then styled "gentleman, of Brookfield." His widow Martha spent her last days at the home of his grandson Cheney Doane (325). His will, dated Oct. 23, 1804, was proved Oct. 23, 1810. He names wife Martha; daughter Martha Doane; sons Amos, Oliver, Elisha and Nathan; daughter Lucy
Flagg to whom he gave "one silver table spoon."

Children of first marriage:

142 Oliver, 6 b. at Eastham, abt. 1754.
143 Amos, 6 b. at Eastham, abt. 1758.
144 Nathan, 6 b. ———.
145 Elisha, 6 b. at Eastham, Jan. 7, 1770.
   Martha, 6 b. ———.
   Lucy, 6 b. ———; m. Samuel Flagg.

62 JESSE 5 DOANE (Jonathan, 4 Dr. David, 3 John, 2 John 1) was born at Eastham, Mass., Feb. 2, 1735. He married Hannah Knowles, born at Eastham, Oct. 26, 1733 and died there July 26, 1776, the eldest daughter of Col. Willard and Bethia (Atwood) Knowles (gravestone, Herring Pond burial-ground). Her father was a prominent citizen of Eastham and her sister Temperance was the wife of on a portion of his father's farm near his brother Sylvanus Doane (64). We find no settlement of his estate on probate records at Barnstable, and the time of his decease does not appear. No record

66 DAVID Doane (John, David, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Dec. 11, 1740, and died at Brookfield, Mass., May 19, 1812. He was married at Eastham, Aug. 31, 1764, by Rev. Edward Cheever, to Hannah Knowles, who died of paralysis at Brookfield, June 26, 1829, aged 90 years (gravestones, old cemetery, N. Brookfield). He was a private in Capt. Samuel Knowles' Co., Col. Thomas Doty's Regt., for the reduction of Canada, from May 2 to
Nov. 30, 1758. He sold his property in Eastham in 1794, and moved to Waldoboro, Me. They removed from Maine to the North parish of Brookfield, where, on Apr. 8, 1798, they united with the Congregational church by letter from the church at Eastham. The farm he occupied in North Brookfield is now known as the Charles Parkman place. He was called "Captain." His will, probated in 1812, bequeaths to wife Hannah; daughters Anna Mayo, Mercy Smith, Mary Doane, Hannah Doane, Priscilla Barnard and Sarah Matthews; grandchildren David, Asa and Isaac Doane, Parnall Brown and Susannah Doane.

Some of the children were as follows:

154 William,\(^6\)
Nathan,\(^6\)
Samuel,\(^6\)
Maria,\(^6\)

*At an early period in life he entered one of the Provincial corps and served at Montreal at the time the gallant Gen. Wolfe obtained the conquest of Quebec. He enjoyed through life an uncommon share of health, seldom experiencing the least sickness, and maintaining his faculties to the last. He came to this country several years previous to the American Revolution, and remembered well of having travelled from Roseway to Annapolis, round the shores, when a house was not to be seen for several miles. He lived under four different sovereigns of the house of Brunswick.—Acadian Recorder, Aug., 1830.
DAVID\textsuperscript{5} DOANE (David,\textsuperscript{4} David,\textsuperscript{3} John,\textsuperscript{2} John\textsuperscript{1}) was born at Hardwick, Mass., Aug. 9, 1752 and died at Granville, N. JOHN\textsuperscript{5} DOANE (David,\textsuperscript{4} David,\textsuperscript{3} John,\textsuperscript{2} John\textsuperscript{1}) was born about 1760 and died at Richland, Oswego Co., N. Y., Jan. 9, 1831

\textsuperscript{*} Extract from Mrs. Sarah Barnes' letter: My father was apprenticed to learn a trade, and at the age of seventeen or eighteen, he went on one or two whaling voyages to the west of Greenland. When the War of Independence broke out he joined the army and was a commissary. After peace was declared, a farm was set off to him, I think, at Tinmouth, Vt., valued at $8000, as payment for his services and which he afterwards sold, receiving therefor Continental money. This so depreciated on his hands that it took $250 to buy a two-year-old steer. Left nearly penniless, but with health, ambition and courage he resolved still to live and prosper. He married at the age of 27, took a farm in Shaftsbury, Vt., for one or two years, then bought a farm in Granville, N. Y., cleared it, built a log house and moved into it. After doing so much, he found his title was defective, and had to pay for the farm a second time; but, with courage unabated, he pursued his way till he became comparatively wealthy and independent. My mother's father was a Dr. Fuller, who came from Norwich, Conn., to Vt. My mother was born in Norwich, and was four years of age when her parents came to Bennington, Vt. My mother's family name was Smith. Several of the family used to visit us, among whom were Uncle Ephraim Smith and several of his children. They all were quite wealthy. Grandfather Fuller was a surgeon in the army. My mother was a young lady of eighteen or nineteen at the time of the Battle of Bennington. Besides her father, I think she had one or two brothers in the army. The Bennington church was used for a hospital and some of the wounded and prisoners were quartered in Grandfather Fuller's house, and it was after the wounded and prisoners were removed, the church cleaned and notice given that divine service would be held, that my mother went to church and met my father for the first time. She had seen a brother and sister of his before. The only brother of my father that I ever saw was Uncle John Doane. He lived at White Creek, N. Y. He used to visit us quite often with his sons John and Hiram, but none of them since my father's death.
(gravestones, Pulaski). He married Sylvina Wheeler, who died in Sept., 1844. He probably resided for a time at White Creek, N. Y., and later at Litchfield, N. Y., and in Oswego Co. It is claimed that he was a Revolutionary soldier; that "he was in an old prison ship in New York for eighteen months." In a list of those confined in the British Prison Ship Jersey, off Long Island, is the name John Doan.

73 NATHANIEL5 DOANE (Joseph,4 Joseph,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., Mar. 23, 1730. He married July 6, 1763, Sarah Parmeley. She survived him and married, second, Oct. 23, 1774, by Rev. Benjamin Boardman, Chauncey Bulkley. Nathaniel Doane went with his mother from Eastham to Middletown, Conn., about 1747, and located in that part now called Chatham. He was a mariner, and was lost at sea. His vessel foundered on a voyage from New London to the West Indies. There was a severe storm shortly after he left port. A returning vessel picked up a pail having Nathaniel Doane’s name on the bottom. His widow Sarah was appointed to settle his estate June 3, 1771. A distribution of the estate was made Feb. 25, 1776, to daughter Sarah and sons Nathaniel, Asaph and Ruppell.

Children:

167 i Nathaniel,6 b. at Middle Haddam, Conn., Apr. 21, 1765.

74 SETH5 DOANE (Joseph,4 Joseph,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., June 9, 1733 and died at Middle Haddam, Conn., Oct. 18, 1802. He married Feb. 23, 1758, by Rev. Benjamin Bowers, Mercy Parker, who died May 9, 1802. Both were buried in cemetery at Middle Haddam Landing. Mr. Doane lived in that part of Middletown, now Chatham. He was a mariner and it is reported that he and his son Seth, Jr., were taken prisoners by the British from a merchant vessel in 1776, the father at the time being mate of the vessel on which he was captured. They were released in 1777 and the younger Seth died soon after at his father’s, from sickness contracted while a prisoner and due to his captivity. He and his fellow prisoners were told that their last meal before their release should be a good one. Savory soup was set before them, and they all partook except one who did not like onions, with which the soup was flavored, and who returned comparatively well. Of those who ate, all died, either on their way home or soon after their arrival, from the effects of poison mixed with their food. On Mar. 9, 1778, Seth Doane, Sen., was on a committee to provide clothes for the Continental soldiers. He appears as master of a privateer. He is said to have been zealous in the Point Judith engagement.

Children:

i Seth,6 b. Oct. 26, 1758; d. at Middle Haddam in 1777, after his release from captivity by the British.

* Extract from letter of Joseph Chapman to his brother-in-law Stephen Ulter, dated Salem, O., Aug. 12, 1816:

I address you to inform you of our relatives in this country. My wife does not enjoy a very good state of health this summer, although she keeps about and does her work. As for myself, I am well as to bodily health though not able to walk without crutches, having but little use of my hands and feet. Brother R. Doane and wife are not very well, though much better than he was last spring. His wife is much better than she was when Mr. Post was here. We heard of the death of our aged father Doane by way of a letter from Mr. Abram Towner to Mr. Beaumont, likewise of the death of brother John Doane. I wish you to write by the first opportunity, and let me know what their disease was, and whether they felt resigned to the will of God. Happy and thrice happy are the dead who die in the Lord. I let out my farm yearly as I am not able to do any labor myself. I find team and farming utensils and have half of everything that is raised on the farm. The fruit was so cut off last spring that I do not expect to make any cider this season. Lyman Doane lives with me yet, but I expect he will go home in the fall. Tell Edmund I wish he would send on one of his boys, to take care of me in my decrepit state. We want to see you all very much, but it is not likely we ever shall unless you come to this country. I hope yet we shall see some of our friends here. Guy Doane was here last winter and tarried with us about three weeks, then went down to Cincinnati. He wrote to me about a month after, but we have not heard from him since. I wish you to inform me concerning the times, and the situations of our relatives and whether any of them talk of coming to this country or not. There has been for a year past a great revival of religion, but chiefly among the Free Will Baptists, or as some term them New Lights.

82 JAMES 5 DOANE (Prince, 4 Israel, 3 Daniel, 2 John!) was born in Saybrook, Conn., about 1736, and died at West Springfield, Mass., May 18, 1818, aged 82 years. He married at Springfield, May 1, 1766, Martha Huxley who died there Aug. 5, 1787 in her 44th year.

Mr. Doane was a private, from Saybrook, with his brother Israel, under Capt. Peleg Redfield in French and Indian war, campaign of 1759. On Feb. 25, 1767, he joined with ten others at Northampton, Mass., in a petition to the General Court of Massachusetts, in which is set forth that "we or the most of us have for several years past been engaged in lumbering on the Connecticut river," etc. He was a farmer and lived in Springfield, that part set off in 1774 as West Springfield.

Children, from Springfield records:

i Phere, 6 b. Oct. 18 (or Nov. 7), 1766; m. June 1, 1803, John Foster.

83 ELKANAH\(^5\) DOANE (Prince,\(^4\) Israel,\(^3\) Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born about 1737 or 1738 at Saybrook, Conn., after the removal of his parents there from Cape Cod, and died at Saybrook, Apr. 13, 1802. He married Jan. 3, 1759, Hannah Farman of Saybrook. Mr. Doane was a farmer and lived in that part of Saybrook, now Westbrook. His widow, Hannah, was appointed to settle his estate July 6, 1802, and a distribution of the estate was made to widow Hannah; to Eunice Jones, Hannah Corbett, Ruth Clark; to Joel, Josiah, Elkanah and Onis Doane.

85 ELNATHAN\(^5\) DOANE (Elnathan,\(^4\) Israel,\(^3\) Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born about 1747 and died in Putnam Co., N. Y., Aug. 3, 1806.
He married, first, Phoebe Griffin who died Jan. 10, 1788, aged 32 years. Married, second, Deborah Penny. With his father, he was a tenant in Putnam Co., in 1778, of a large farm in Lot No. 6 in Phillips Patent on the Oblong, which farm, enlarged by subsequent purchases to a very fine estate, is still in possession of members of the family.

Children:

i Zenas,6 b. ——; d. unm.; lived east of Brewster, near his brother Demas and from them the locality is known as Doanesburg.

86 ISRAEL5 DOANE (Edmund,4 Israel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., Dec. 20, 1750 and died at Argyle, Nova Scotia, Feb. 1, 1844. He married at Barrington, N. S., Dec. 17, 1772, Desire Nickerson who died of asthma, at Argyle, Mar. 28, 1835, the daughter of Daniel Nickerson.

Mr. Doane went with his father's family from Cape Cod to Nova Scotia in 1761. After his marriage he settled first at Barrington Head, near the schoolhouse on the hill, formerly known as "Uncle Ned's Hill." A field down by the cove near there is still known as "Uncle Israel's Field." Possibly they went from there to Barrington Passage, but in June, 1781, they moved from Barrington to Little River where, on Mar. 1, 1787, he with his wife's father Daniel Nickerson, John Heater (from Liverpool, N. S.), Nathan Kinney and Joshua Trefry, purchased a tract of twelve hundred and fifty

* Judge Azor B. Crane, b. May 25, 1801; d. Oct. 14, 1861. He was, during his whole life, one of the principal citizens of Putnam Co. In 1845, he was appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. He was the first County Judge and Surrogate elected under the new constitution in 1817. In private life Judge Crane was a man of great benevolence and kindly feeling, which made him popular among all classes of people, and the poor and afflicted found in him a ready and efficient friend. In public affairs he was noted for his integrity and good business capacity, and his opinions and discussions were always received with a respect they most justly deserved. Ch.: 1. Benjamin Doane, b. acres of Crown Lands. At Little River, his house stood on what was the home lot of the late Thomas Smith, Jr. Until a few years ago an old cellar and a large branching apple-tree, said to have grown from seed planted by wife Desire, marked the site of his house.

On Mar. 5, 1792, he sold his property at Little River to John and David Pinkney for sixty pounds, and removed to Roberts Island, Argyle township, where he purchased and occupied all the land below the brook, running near the house of Reuben Goodwin. Having a good education for the times, Mr. Doane taught school at Tusket Lakes, in the house of Maj. Samuel Andrews and on Roberts Island, where a few years ago could be seen a few old logs marking the site of his schoolhouse. As a teacher, it is said that he was somewhat lax in government, but always his heavy stamp upon the floor was a well understood signal for a reign of law and order. In February, 1836, he wrote a brief and interesting account of his ancestors, which a few years later his daughter, Drusilla, printed in a little pamphlet of eight pages. Mr. Doane was a christian man and doubtless was a member of the Argyle Baptist church. The late Mr. Benjamin Roberts, who was one of his pupils, remembered that he often led the village prayer meetings. It is understood that the Rev. Enoch Towner while visiting at their home baptized his wife Desire in the harbor only a few rods from their door. They died at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Susannah Kenney. She was afflicted with asthma for sixteen years. Both were buried in unmarked graves in the old burial-ground near the Argyle Baptist church. Her father, Daniel Nickerson, was born on Cape Cod about 1720, moved to Liverpool, N. S., in 1764 and lived there many years. He was at Little River, Argyle township, in 1787, but on Jan. 5, 1792, Daniel Nickerson and wife "Nabby" sold their property at Little River and removed to Litchfield, Me., settling at the "Plains" on the Toothacre farm, where he died June 18, 1801, aged 80 years, 9 mos., leaving several sons of whom were John and Hugh Nickerson of Argyle. (See History of Litchfield and an account of its Centennial Celebration 1895.)

87 SAMUEL OSBORN DOANE (Edmund, Israel, Daniel, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., June 7, 1752 and died at Barrington, Nova Scotia, Feb. 21, 1824. He married at Barrington, Apr. 9, 1774, Sarah Harding, born at Eastham, Dec. 23, 1756 and died at Barrington, May 24, 1843, the daughter of Theodore and Martha (Sears) Harding and sister of Rev. Theodore Seth Harding, one of the well known Baptist Fathers of the Maritime Provinces. Her father was one of the grantees at Barrington from Eastham, and in the division of the grant received Lot No. 31.

Samuel O. Doane was nine years old when his parents moved from Massachusetts to Nova Scotia. He was a man of recognized character and ability in the new settlement of Barrington. For many years he was both Proprietor's and Town Clerk, and many of the early records are in his beautiful handwriting. He was a Justice of the Peace and served as schoolmaster, solemnizer of marriages in all parts of the township and conductor of public religious services in the absence of any regularly qualified minister. Although a man evidently not seeking prominence, yet probably there was no other of his townsmen, who so effectually served them and who, to so great an extent, influenced a succeeding generation. A notice of his death in the Acadian Recorder of Halifax says: "Mr. Doane came to Barrington early in life from the United States; he lived long and respected and descended into the vale of death with the exhilarating hope of rising again safe from diseases and decline."

Children, from Barrington records:

i  Samuel Osborn,6 b. Jan. 29, 1775; d. at Barrington, Aug. 28, 1856; m. Thursday, Dec. 22, 1796, Susanna Barlow, b. at Phillips Patent, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Feb. 4, 1775; d. at Barrington, Nov. 14, 1858, the dau. of George and Sarah Barlow; no children.

vii Abigail Osborn,6 b. March 19, 1790; d. June 7, 1833; m. Jan. 28, 1817, by Samuel O. Doane, Esq., to Seth Coffin, b. at Barrington, Oct. 22, 1791, s. of Seth and Anna (Barlow) Coffin; no ch. He m. 2nd, Dec. 11, 1834, Caroline, dau. of Edmund Doane (88).

88 Edmund⁵ Doane (Edmund⁴ Israel,³ Daniel,³ John¹) was born at Eastham, Mass., Sept. 14, 1759 and died at Barrington Head in Jan., 1847. He married, at Barrington, Tamsin Hamilton, the daughter of Samuel and Miriam (Kenney) Hamilton who removed from Chatham, Mass., to Barrington with the first settlers. Mr. Doane resided at Barrington Head. The births of their children are not recorded on the town records, but the following list is correct, except perhaps in the order of arrangement.

Children, all born at Barrington:

ii Miriam,⁶ b. ———; m. at Barrington, by Rev. Thomas Crowell, Dec. 29, 1834, Zaccheus Churchill of Yarmouth (his 2nd wife), b. Feb. 23, 1786, s. of Ephraim and Asenath (Hibbard) Churchill; a government surveyor.

iii Tamsin,⁶ b. ———; d. July, 1870 or 1871; m. Josiah Payne Doane (206) (his 2nd wife).

207 iv Edmund,⁶ b. Apr. 10, 1797.
208 v William Myrick,⁶ b. June 1, 1800.
209 vi Lendal,⁶ b. about 1802.
210 vii Prince,⁶ b. May, 1804.

89 DANIEL⁵ DOANE (Daniel⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Middletown, Bucks Co., Pa., 1721, 6, 8 and died in the Northern Liberties now included within the limits of Philadelphia, Pa., in 1760. He appears to have abandoned his fealty to the Society of Friends, as on June 2, 1756, he was married at Christ's Church in Philadelphia, to Sarah Dyer of Northampton, Bucks Co. He was a carpenter and after his marriage resided in Northampton, but subsequently removed to the Northern Liberties. In the fall of 1760, he was attacked with a severe illness of which he died shortly after. He made his will Nov. 7, 1760, and devised his small estate to his wife Sarah, wherewith to support their three children. On Sept. 24, 1764, the widow married John Dorland, and the children were taken by their uncle Edward Dyer of Northampton. For some reason their youngest child, named in the will as Thomas, was always known as Daniel, but it is probable that the mother changed his name while he was an infant, in honor of his deceased father.

Children:

i Deborah⁶ b. 1757; m. Thomas Dungan.
ii Mary⁶ b. 1758; d. unm.
212 iii Daniel⁶ (or Thomas) b. at Northern Liberties, 1760, 4, 13.

90 JOHN⁵ DOANE (Daniel⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Middletown, Bucks Co., Pa., 1734, 7, 1 and died in Chester Co., Pa., 1821, 3, 21. He married, about 1763, Phoebe DeMoney, who was born 1740, 3, 15 and died in Chester Co., 1825, 4, 15. They settled first on the borders of Bucks and Montgomery counties where they lived several years. During the years of the French and Indian wars, they penetrated the wilderness and fixed their abode in the wilds of the Susquehanna River. Here they experienced all the hardships of frontier life and met with many troubles and disasters in consequence of the hostility of the Indians, and many traditions* of their

* The family traditions relate that John was taken prisoner by the Indians on three different occasions. On one of these his wife heard the shouts of the Indians indicating their capture of a prisoner. Opening the door she saw her husband in the hands of the savages at the clearing in which he was at work on the opposite side of the stream. Comprehending the situation she immediately closed the door, crept out through a back window and with the children made her way through the woods toward the neighboring settlements. When night came on, she took shelter in a Friends Meeting house, and sufferings at the hands of the natives have been handed down to their descendants. During the exciting times of the Revolution they returned to the regions of civilization and again settled in Montgomery Co., but the spirit of adventure was uppermost and after a few years they resumed their former life in Lycoming Co. About 1816, they placed their business affairs in other hands and went on a visit to their daughter Rachel at Penn's Park, and later to their son Henry in Chester Co. It is claimed that John doffed his Quaker coat and saw service with the Pennsylvaniana troops in the French and Indian War, and that he was present and assisted in the burial of General Braddock, in July, 1755.

Children:

i Ann, b. 1764, 5, 8; m. —— Moore; settled abt. 13 miles from

ii Mary, b. 1765, 12, 7; d. unm.

213 iii Daniel, b. 1768, 1, 5, in Montgomery Co., Pa.

iv Sarah, b. 1770, 6, 12.

214 v Henry, b. 1772, 12, 26, at Larry's Creek, Pa.

vi Rachel, b. 1775, 10, 26; m. —— Kline, who was a gentleman of the old school, hospitable and courteous to all who visited his home. They purchased a farm in Penn's Valley, Berks Co., Pa., where he died in young manhood. Soon after marriage they attached themselves to the German Reformed Church, but her inherited sentiments kept her to the plainness of speech and dress peculiar to the Friends. Her husband left, by his will, all of the property to her in her right absolutely and by this inheritance she was enabled to enjoy her literary and personal tastes in reading, music, embroidery and other works of art. She collected, at a cost of several hundred dollars, quite a library of religious works.
She married, 2nd, John Housel who survived her. Ch., of Istm.: Amos, Samuel, William, Charles, Phoebe, Miriam, Ellen.

vii John, b. 1777, 11, 30.

91 JOHN DOAN (Eleazer, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1716–17, 1, 11 and died in Haycock township, before morning on the 31st of 3rd mo., 1780, her son Amos was born. Another time while Phoebe was in the woods, her dog startled a bear and drove him to a tree, in the branches of which he took shelter. She called to a man, who was driving a team near by, to come and help, who told her to keep the bear in the tree till his return. As the man with the team receded, the bear scrambled down the tree. As it neared the ground she stabbed him twice in the heart with her pocket knife, from the effects of which he died without attempting an attack upon her. The knife is still kept in reverential memory by one of her grandsons.
Bucks Co., about 1788. He married 1739, 12, 13, Hannah Wilson. Mr. Doane settled on the farm on the Tohickon Creek in Haycock township that was the property of his father, and where five of their children were born. He appears to have become helpless or incapacitated for business in his latter days, as his father's will bequeaths the Tohickon Creek farm to John's children, on condition that they support the said John during his lifetime. The exact time of his death has not been ascertained, but in 1788 a petition was filed in court, signed by Eleazer, Hannah, Sarah and Nathan Doane, and Aaron Maulsbury asking for a division of fifty acres, the farm of their father John Doan late of Haycock township, intestate. By order of the court the property was sold and the son, Eleazer, became the purchaser.

Children:

216 i  ELEAZER, b. 1742, 12, 10.
   ii  HANNAH.
   iii  SARAH.
   iv  NATHAN, b. ; m. at Swede's church, Phila., 1794, 2, 17, Rachel Evans. This marriage being out of unity with Friends rendered him a subject for "dealing," and he was disowned by them about the close of the same year.
   v  SUSANNA, b. ; m. —- Maulsbury, and had a son Aaron.

92 BENJAMIN DOANE (Eleazer, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born at Upper Makefield, Pa., about 1734 and died there 1809, 2, 28 (buried in Friends cemetery, Wrightstown). He married 1758, 11, 22, Jemima Kinsey, who was born 1728, 8, 27, and died at Upper Makefield, 1804, 3, 29 (buried in Friends cemetery, Wrightstown), the widow of Jonathan Kinsey and daughter of Zebulon and Elizabeth (Buckman) Heston of Wrightstown. She had been a widow two or three years when she married Mr. Doane, and by her first marriage had two children: Mary Kinsey who married Eleazer Doane (216) and Jonathan Kinsey who married Sarah Tomlinson. Benjamin Doane was a prosperous farmer, and became the owner and occupant of the Doane homestead at Upper Makefield. They were members of Friends Society at Wrightstown.

Children:

93 Titus Doane (Elijah, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born near Wrightstown, Pa., 1727, 3, 29, and died probably at Crowland, Ontario, Canada. He married, but his wife’s name is unknown to the writer. He was a farmer, near the Delaware river in New Jersey, between Trenton and New Hope, but sold his farm in 1793 and removed to Ontario with his family of seven sons and one daughter, his son Elijah’s wife and two small children. They settled in Crowland, since known as Doan’s Ridge, about twelve miles southwest of Niagara Falls, one of the most fertile regions of the country, where the sons became known as “The Seven Brothers of Crowland.”

Children:

94 John Doane (Joseph, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born at Middletown, Pa., 1731, 11, 30 and died at Cane Creek, N. C., 1811, 3, 6. He married, first, sometime between 1752, 11, 6 and 1753, 2, 3, Hannah Davis. Married, second, at the Cane Creek Meeting, 1756, 12, 4, Ruth Dixon. Married third, 1768, 1 mo., Elizabeth Stewart, who was born 1739, 1, 19, and died 1816, 3, 31 (buried at Cane Creek), the widow of Alexander Stewart and daughter of John and Abigail Pike of Frederick Co., Va. On the death of his mother between 1740 and 1744, Mr. Doane appears to have been placed under the care of some relatives or friends. At the age of twenty-one years he took a certificate dated 1752, 11, 6, from the Buckingham Meeting which was read and he accepted in membership at the Cane Creek meeting, 1753, 2, 3. There is proof that between the time of obtaining his certificate and producing it at Cane Creek he was married to his first wife.

Children of first marriage, all born at Cane Creek:

Hannah, b. ———.
Thomas, b. ———; lived in E. Tenn.

Children of second marriage:

218 Joseph, b. 1759, 10, 23.
Jacob, b. ———; was disowned, for bearing arms, by the Cane Creek Meeting 1781, 6, 2, but restored to membership, 1792, 6, 2.

Children of third marriage:

Ephraim, b. 1768, 10, 26; m. 1st, at Cane Creek Meeting, 1794, 4, 17, Sarah Stout, d. 1797, 12, 30, dau. of Charles and Mary Stout; m. 2nd, at Cane Creek, Hannah, dau. of Benjamin and Deborah Hinshaw.

219 Ebenezer, b. 1768, 10, 26 (twin with Ephraim).
220 Jonathan, b. 1773, 4, 7.
Ruth, b. 1774, 4, 21; m. Isaac Marshall.
Margaret, b. 1777, 10, 15; m. Abraham Marshall.
Elizabeth, b. 1777, 10, 15.
Mary, b. 1779, 11, 21.
Jesse, b. 1782, 3, 10.

95 EBENEZER DOANE (Joseph, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born at Wrightstown, Bucks Co., Pa., 1733, 7, 5 and died near Toronto, Canada, 1818, 11, 21. He married about 1754 or 1755, Anna Savilla Sloy, who was born in Hanover, Germany, 1732, 12, 13 and died in Bucks Co., Pa., 1803, 10, 15. After the death of his mother Ebenezer Doane with the other children appears to have been apprenticed, or otherwise placed for care among their relatives.
His wife, who was born in Germany, embarked in 1744 for America with her parents Henry and Catherine Sloy. The parents died on the voyage. In consequence of this marriage Ebenezer was disowned by the Society of Friends to which he belonged. In 1777, however, he applied to the Buckingham Society to accept his children who were yet under age, under the care of the Meeting. Jonathan being over twenty-one made the same request for himself and both were granted. All of these children, except Jonathan, removed to Canada. Ebenezer remained till 1808 when, in the seventy-fifth year of his age, he joined the children in Canada* and there in the family of one of his sons, living on Yonge street about thirty miles north of Toronto, he died.

The location of Ebenezer’s residence in Bucks County is somewhat accurately settled by the statement of his son Joseph, that a part of Washington’s army was encamped on a farm adjacent to his father’s, for a day and night prior to crossing the Delaware river which encampment it is understood was near the mouth of Knowles Creek, below the present village of Brownsburg.

Children:

221 i JONATHAN,6 b. 1755–6, 5, 30.

*This extract from Mrs. Emily McArthur’s letter gives a more precise statement of the migration to Canada:

“Ebenezer Doan was firm in the faith and practice of the Friends, of which sect he was a member, and before leaving Pennsylvania obtained the usual certificate of removal dated at the Meeting in Buckingham on 4th of 4th mo., 1808, which was presented and accepted at the Yonge Street Meeting on the 14th of 7th mo., 1808. Similar certificates were read on behalf of William, Joseph, Ebenezer and wife with their three children, also for Mahlon and wife Rebecca and their six children; also for his daughter Mary Doan, all of which certificates were approved and the applicants accepted in membership. Having made a selection of land for themselves, Ebenezer together with his son William and daughter Mary, both of whom were single, formed a joint household and so remained until after the death of Ebenezer. Ebenezer and his family took up 400 contiguous acres on Yonge St., and in a few years the wilderness had been transformed into a garden and a farm.”
JOSEPH DOANE (Israel, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born in Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa., between 1726 and 1730 and died in Ontario, Canada, aged about 92 years. He married, about 1750, Hester Vickers who died in Ontario.

Joseph Doane was the father of five of the "Doane Brothers," celebrated in the Revolutionary history of Bucks Co., and any account of his life necessarily involves something of the history of his sons, whose exploits have been the theme of so many newspaper articles and historical references during the past one hundred years. His vocation was that of a carpenter, which occupation he followed the greater part of his active life, and was prosperous to an extent that he became the owner of two farms and was a speculator in lands. They raised a family of six sons and three daughters, all of sturdy, strong and extraordinarily well developed physiques. As children they acquired the reputation of being the most honest, just and kindly disposed of any of their companions; their sense of justice and right was so firmly developed, that they would not even partake of the fallen fruit of a neighbor's orchard, without first obtaining leave of the owner. Well trained as they were in the tenets of the Society of Friends to which they gave their faith, they were Loyalists during the War of the Revolution, not merely from a sense of duty to their King but from a sense of duty to themselves and their religion. This faith in the doctrines of their church led them to the opinion that attempts to change government by force, necessarily must be accompanied by acts of violence and bloodshed, in violation of the laws of God, and that which could not be acquired without force was not worth the cost of getting. This principle made them loyal to the Crown while it was in power, and was the ground of their neutrality during the troublous times of the Revolutionary war. They were known as Friends, loyal to the Crown in their sentiments though neutral in action, and for a time were left at rest and peace as much as were the general body of the Friends of the county.

The conduct of Joseph and his sons was consistent with their principles, and commanded the respect of their neighbors until the independence of the Colonies had been well assured by the successes of the army after 1776, when the war became one for entire independence, between which and 1783 when the preliminary treaty of peace was made in February, the assumed government assumed to all the powers of an established one, and some changes of laws were made not so liberal toward the neutral Friends as those of the former government.
Of these changes, the exactions for military service and the fines for non-compliance fell most heavily upon those who conscientiously looked upon war as the worst of all evils. Members of the Society of Friends refused to train in the militia musters, or to pay the penalties imposed, leaving the officers to collect the exactions by process of law, to which these non-resisting people made no more forcible objections than remonstrance and the pressure of moral suasion. It was not the amount of those penalties that gave them so much grief, as the fact of their being compelled to support a system of violence and bloodshed that was at variance with their sense of duty to their Creator. Joseph, and his sons who had grown to be over eighteen years of age, became in the new order of things subject to these exactions which they by omission refused to pay, and had their property seized and sold by the collectors.

Whatever Joseph may have done to render himself subject to the direct action of the law is not clear but, on November 11, 1777, he was fined fifty dollars by the Bucks County Court at Newtown for "misdemeanor." With the reputation for uprightness and integrity that still clings to the memory of Joseph Doane through his neighbors and the descendants of those who knew him, we can imagine no act of his that could make him subject to the penal law, except such as might be connected with his omission to pay the military taxes which was often construed to be a form of misdemeanor.

Hence the strong sense of justice in himself and his children would be greatly outraged by such a public act of disgrace, and he would by omission refuse to comply with any order of the court, an action in which it is reasonable to suppose he would be supported by all of his children. Whatever he did in this matter of the penalty we have no means of determining, but it is concluded that Joseph omitted to comply with the order of the court and left its commands to be enforced by process of law. It is not unreasonable to suppose that these exactions brought to the minds of Joseph's sons such a sense of wrong and oppression, as to break down the results of their early training, and prompt them to enter upon those acts of reprisal for which they became extensively known and ultimately published as outlaws.

Certain it is that, from about the time of the enforcement of this penalty, they ceased their habits of industry and entered upon a course of listless roving, that ended in misfortune and trouble to them all.
Much has been published from time to time through local newspapers, and works of fiction as to their being Tories and enemies of the country, but no official record or testimony has yet been produced to show that they or any of them ever took up arms against the country, or carried intelligence to the enemy respecting the disposition or movements of the American army; nor is it in any way shown, other than by their neutral attitude of non-resistance, that they ever gave aid and comfort to the mother country, and no act of theirs has ever been shown that presented an appearance of being other than reprisals for the recovery of property that had by the forms of law in their estimation been unjustly taken from them. Whatever others may have done in the way of plundering and in so doing left the burden of the act upon the Doans that seems to melt away under the scrutiny of close investigation.

Whatever may have subsequently transpired with respect to Joseph, the records are entirely silent until after the robbery of the Treasury at Newtown on the night of Oct. 22, 1781.

A complicity with this affair is charged upon him by Jesse Vickers, who, under a promise of pardon from sentence of death, turned state's evidence and gave information as to the persons participating in that robbery. Much allowance should be made for a statement where one person seeks to save his own life by throwing guilt upon another. His brother Solomon Vickers, who made confession at the same time, was convicted of perjury. The statements of these two convicts induce the inference that Joseph Doan, Sen., was residing on his farm in Plumstead at the time of the commission of the robbery of the Treasury, and knew nothing of the affair until some time after, and that his complicity consisted in harboring his sons, Aaron and Moses, his nephew Abraham and his kinsmen the two Vickers boys, shortly after the robbery; that he borrowed a small sum of money from his son Moses and advised them to leave the place, as the robbery of the Treasury had made a great disturbance. This occurred shortly after the robbery in 1781, the confessions were made Aug. 7, 1782 and on the 25th of Sept., 1783, Joseph, who had gone to seek his son Mahlon, was arrested and placed in the jail at Bedford, Pa. On the confession of the Vickers boys, he was denounced as a participator in the robbery after the fact, also of harboring and comforting his own sons, and a reward was offered for his arrest.

The procedure at that time, in cases where parties were charged with offences and had not been arrested, was for the sheriff to proclaim the fact by public outcry at the Court-house door, and command the alleged offender to appear before the Court at that or the next term, in default of which he was proclaimed an outlaw and liable to be attainted as a traitor. It is reasonable to suppose that Joseph on his farm in Plumstead, or as a carpenter in places even more remote, and feeling entirely innocent of any wrongdoing, did not hear of the proclamation against him from the Court-house steps twenty miles distant.

It is a well settled tradition among the descendants of his friends in Plumstead that, for several months during the summer of 1783, he was erecting buildings in Northampton Co.; that, on returning to his home early in September he found his property confiscated, his home desolate, his family destitute, his sons fugitives and himself an outlaw; that, learning of the place where his son Mahlon was abiding, he journeyed thither and was arrested and confined in the jail at Bedford, as before stated. His arrest was made Sept. 25, 1783, by one Joseph Wilson, and his son Mahlon was arrested on the 29th by one John Sallamon and lodged in the same prison with his father.

The Archives of the State show that on Oct. 9, 1783, the Supreme Executive Council directed the Sheriff of Bedford County to convey the said prisoners under an armed guard to the jail at Lancaster. The transfer however appears not to have been accomplished, as tradition relates that they escaped from the prison, and that before leaving they released all the prisoners save one, who was guilty of robbing a woman.

It also appears from the Colonial records that, later in 1783, Joseph Doan, Sen., was again arrested and lodged in prison at Newtown, and at the March term of Court the next year, he was tried and convicted of the heinous crime of harboring and comforting his own children, who at a later date were charged with having participated in the robbery of the Public Treasury at Newtown. For his offence he was sentenced to be burned in the hand and to suffer six months imprisonment. Joseph, however, survived his sentence and afterwards lived in Plumstead in comparative poverty. The late Nathan Preston, a resident of that town from infancy, remembered and described Joseph Doan as a hale and venerable old man, an habitual attendant on the Meetings of Friends, that he was poor and made a scanty living by erecting post and rail fences for the farmers. The latest account of him in Bucks Co. is had from the minutes of the Meeting at Buckingham of date 1799,9,2, when Hester Doan and her husband, Joseph, applied for a certificate to remove to Canada, where their sons Aaron and Joseph were then living. The certificate was granted and a contribution was made by their sympathizing friends. Later accounts show that Joseph and his wife arrived safe in Canada, where they sojourned with their children many years, dying at the home of their son Joseph, Jr.

Whatever may have been the offences of Joseph Doan and his sons prior to the treaty of recognition of American Independence, by the British Government, those offences were all condoned and immunity from any consequence thereof provided and agreed upon by the two contracting parties, both in the preliminary treaty of Nov. 30, 1782, and by ratification of the same, done by the American Congress Sept. 3, 1783. The following is a copy of so much of the treaty as pertains to the subject:

There shall be no future confiscations made, nor any prosecutions commenced against any person or persons for or by reason of the part which he or they may have taken in the present war, and that no person shall on that account suffer any future loss or damage either in person, liberty or property, and that those who may be in confinement on such charges at the time of the ratification of the Treaty in America, shall be immediately set at liberty, and the prosecutions so commenced discontinued.

And yet, eight days after the ratification of this Treaty by the American Congress in Philadelphia, the Supreme Executive Council of Pennsylvania, assembled within sound of the voices that confirmed the Treaty, sent forth their edict that despoiled Joseph Doan of his home, and turned his family upon the charities of the world, and still later seared him with the hot brand of Felony, and incarcerated him in a filthy prison for offences charged as committed during the war, and for which the nation in accepting the terms of its Independence contracted to grant him amnesty and entire immunity on account thereof.

97 ELIJAH\textsuperscript{5} DOANE (Israel,\textsuperscript{4} Daniel,\textsuperscript{3} Daniel,\textsuperscript{2} John\textsuperscript{1}) was born, probably, in Plumstead, Pa.; but, as in the case of his brothers and sisters, there is no public record of his birth. He married Sarah Groves. Of Mr. Doane's early life we know nothing except that the will of his father, made in 1787, names a grandson Samuel, son of his son Elijah, deceased. From various sources, particularly from his descendants, it is learned that Mr. Doane settled near Trenton, N. J., and from them we have the names of the eight children.

Children:

98 ISRAEL\textsuperscript{5} DOANE (Israel,\textsuperscript{4} Daniel,\textsuperscript{3} Daniel,\textsuperscript{2} John\textsuperscript{1}) was born in Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa. In early manhood he married Rachel Vickers, the daughter of Abraham and Mary (France) Vickers, and probably a sister of Hester Vickers who married his brother Joseph Doane, thus increasing the interest between the two brothers, and strengthening the ties between the Doane and Vickers families. Like his brother Joseph, Mr. Doane was a Friend by birth, antecedents and education, and, like him, he met with the difficulties that arose from adherence to the faith of his fathers and the sect of which he was a consistent member and with whose doctrines and principles he lived in unity. Israel Doane did not possess the strong, vigorous, athletic constitution of most of the Doanes, consequently he was less prominent than his brother. After his marriage he was a tenant of his father's house and was in use of his father's farm. It is believed that the death of his mother occurred about 1780, and that after this event Israel took charge of the farm, and that his father made his home with him. The Plumstead tax-list for 1781 shows that the father was taxed for lands only, while the son was rated as householder and taxed for farm stock. Israel, the father, was then eighty-three years old and doubtless had retired from business and active life. Israel and Rachel were the parents of Abraham Doane, another of the famous band of "Doane Brothers" of the Revolutionary War. With his cousins, sons of his uncle Joseph Doane (96), Abraham was involved in the political troubles of the times and in consequence of this association Israel himself became a victim of the circumstances of his son. Like his brother Joseph, he was charged with harboring and aiding his son and nephews, after the robbery of the Newtown treasury, on the night of Oct. 22, 1781. We have no record of his arrest but infer that it occurred at his home in Plumstead. He was placed in the jail at Newtown and in the beginning of August, 1782, was tried and sentenced to six months imprisonment, for the offence of harboring and sheltering his own son and others whilst they were under the ban of the law. In the month of February, 1783, after expiration of his sentence, he petitioned the Supreme Executive Council for his release, as follows:

The humble Petition of Israel Doan of the County of Bucks — Sheweth.
That your Petitioner a languishing prisoner in Newtown Gaol, has been confined ever since the beginning of August last, and his family being in a suffering condition, none but women and children at home capable of providing for them. There has been much sickness in his family since his confinement, one of his daughters being subject to very bad Fits from her infancy and himself often unwell in his confinement being a weakly person, and pretty much in years, and almost twenty miles from home and being in low circumstances and very difficult for his family to support him.
Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that you would take his distressed condition into your consideration, and release him from confinement, and forgive him the fine which the court has sentenced him to pay, as he is not able to pay it.
And your petitioner shall ever pray

Israel Doan

When sentence was passed upon me I understood that my imprisonment was to be but 6 months, but now the Gaoler says it is six months more, which I find myself unable to go through being often unwell.

Indorsed 1783 Feb. 26

This petition was brought before the Supreme Executive Council Feb. 26, 1783, and after consideration, dismissed. No further efforts were made in Israel's behalf, and doubtless he died in prison. His father, who was then a widower and eighty-four years old, sold his farm in the latter part of that year and went to live with his daughter Rachel Liepper who resided near by. Israel's wife Rachel, survived him many years. Her name appears on a petition for the pardon of her son Abraham and nephew Levi, Aug. 13, 1788. She died about 1821, at the home of her daughter Rachel Burgess who then resided at Fallsington. Into whose care the children passed is not known, but from their becoming widely scattered it is inferred that Israel and Thomas were put to trades, and that the girls worked in the families of the neighbors.

99 MAHLON5 DOANE (Israel,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born probably at Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa., and died at Jericho Hill, Bucks Co., 1831, 8, 9, aged about 91 years (buried in Friends cemetery, Wrightstown). He married sometime between 1761 and 1768, Ruth Groves, who died at Jericho Hill, 1831, 1, 21, aged about 81 years (buried in Friends cemetery, Wrightstown). In 1761, Mr. Doane purchased a tract of two hundred acres of land in Upper Makefield, later known as Jericho Hill. He was a farmer and resided at Jericho Hill all his life and was an honest, peaceable man, a good neighbor and respected citizen. It is thought that his wife was a sister of Sarah Groves who married his brother Elijah Doane (97). His personal estate inventoried at $2,931.62.

102 JOSEPH DOANE (Elisha, Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was born in that part of Eastham, now Wellfleet, Mass., about 1720 and died at Chatham, Mass., in 1778. He married Apr. 12, 1739, Dorcas Eldredge, born at Eastham, Mar. 15, 1720–21 (twin with her sister Mary), daughter of Elisha and Dorcas (Mulford) Eldredge. Joseph Doane settled in Chatham, where his father owned an estate. Both in Eastham and in Chatham he was engaged in the whale fisheries, and in the latter town for many years prior to 1765 he "kept a Public House of Entertainment which hath been of great benefit to the Fisheries." He was a prominent man in Chatham; a selectman for many years after 1768; a Justice of the Peace and a Representative to the General Court. He was an ardent patriot and, when the Revolution came on, he was foremost in that town to prepare for the conflict. He was long prominent in military affairs in the lower part of Cape Cod, and for several years was Colonel of the 2nd Regiment of militia.

after the surrender of that stronghold in 1745.* He was a prominent man in Wellfleet and in Barnstable County; a Justice of the Peace; a Colonel of militia; Precinct treasurer from 1760 to 1762; district clerk and treasurer from 1763 to 1773; a Representative to the General Court from 1766 to 1768, 1781 and 1782; a selectman from 1763 to 1771. He was a Massachusetts Senator for a number of years, and it was said commanded more respect, and exerted greater influence in that body than any other member. He was largely engaged in the whale fishery in his early life, but later was occupied in other affairs and spent the most of his time in Boston. He accumulated a large fortune, estimated at £100,000. In Dwight’s Travels it is said: “Col. Doane of Wellfleet, and Thomas Boyleston of Boston were estimated by their fellow citizens the two richest men in the Province of Mass. Bay.”

At Wellfleet he lived in as much style as the situation and times could afford. He was famous for his hospitality and entertained freely. There was no tavern in the town and when any stranger of standing and respectability visited the place, he was at once invited to become the guest of Colonel Doane, and the family papers contain many amusing accounts of the length of time which some of the guests found pleasurable, but with which the family were quite content. Among his wedding presents to his wife was a coach, the first one ever seen in Wellfleet. It could be used there but little, however, on account of the poor roads, which were hardly up to that class of carriages. The latter part of his life Colonel Doane resided chiefly in Boston, where he was engaged in commerce, and where he had a handsome house and delighted in receiving and entertaining his friends. He was a man of great charm of manner, it was said, but of strong character and the strictest integrity. His remains were placed in the Doane Tomb, No. 12, under Kings Chapel, corner of

I am informed by Capt. Doane that your Honor Requires from me something in writing Relating to his Son having an Ensign Commission in his Company, all I know of the affair Capt. Doan’s Company is the largest in this Regiment and I always understood until of Late that his Son had an Ensign Commission before he came away from N. England, but as I understand it Gouvernour Sherley was here when Capt. Doan came from N. England and at Capt. Doan’s arrival here Gouvernour Sherley left this place by reason of which and Capt. Doan’s sickness I understand there was no Commission granted. Notwithstanding he hath acted in that Capacity ever since and I think ought to be intitled to the wages of a commission from your Honor If you think proper.

Tremont and School streets, Boston. His first wife, Hope, was buried in the Duck Creek burial-ground at Wellfleet. She was a "gentle woman, universally respected, whose death was lamented by all, especially by the poor, to whom she was a great friend."

His widow, Ann, married second, May 11, 1784, David Stoddard Greenough, born July 31, 1752, son of Thomas and Sarah (Stoddard) Greenough, of Boston. After the War of Independence they moved to Jamaica Plain, then a suburb of Boston. The house in which they lived is still occupied by their descendants, and is one of the few surviving historic landmarks of that period. It was built in 1760 by Commodore Loring, then the chief of the British forces in Massachusetts, and during the siege of Boston was occupied by General Greene as his headquarters. The only child of David Stoddard and Ann Doane Greenough was David Stoddard Greenough, Jr., born in 1787, who married Maria Foster Doane, daughter of Elisha and Jane (Cutler) Doane of Cohasset, Mass. (242).

104 HEZEKIAH5 DOANE (Elisha,4 Hezekiah,3 Ephraim,2 John) was born in that part of Eastham, now Wellfleet, about 1730 and died there Mar. 28, 1808, aged 78 years. He married first, Oct. 25, 1750, Elizabeth5 Crowell, who died at Wellfleet, Mass., July 2, 1799, aged 74 years, the dau. of Paul4 Crowell of Chatham, Mass. (John,3 John,2 John1). Married second, Nov. 28, 1799, Sarah Cahoon who died, at Wellfleet, June 16, 1854, aged 87 years. Mr. Doane was a wealthy citizen of Wellfleet; a deacon of the church; a man of wide influence and occupied important positions within the gift of his townsmen. He was a Representative to the General Court three years; a selectman five years and town clerk four years. He was largely engaged in the whale fishery, and before the Revolutionary War owned sixteen sail of vessels. According to the History of Eastham, he belonged to a crew called the "Seed Corn Gang of Whalers;" the others were his brother Col. Elisha Doane (103), Joseph Higgins and Capt. Winslow Lewis. These men generally were of the same crew, and were the most expert whalesmen of the town.

Hezekiah Doane's name appears in a list of men returned by Winslow Lewis, chairman of selectmen and committee of Wellfleet, Sept. 8, 1778, as drafted to serve in the Continental Army for the town of Wellfleet, and who paid fines in lieu of service; said Doane reported as the father of Paul Doane.

He was buried in the Duck Creek burial-ground at Wellfleet, where a stone with this inscription marks his grave:

WILL OF HEZEKIAH DOANE.

In the name of God Amen. The 9th day of Oct. 1797 I, Hezekiah Doane of Wellfleet in the County of Barnstable, being of advanced age but of perfect mind and memory, do make and ordain this my last Will and Testament. That is to say principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it, and my body I recommend to the earth to be buried in decent manner at the discretion of my Executor hereinafter named in good hope of a joyful resurrection through the merits of my Savior Jesus Christ. And as to my worldly estate wherewith it has pleased God to bless me in this life, I give devise and dispose of as follows:

Imprimis. I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Elizabeth the improvement of all my real and personal estate during her natural life, after all my just debts and Funeral charges have been paid. Then I give and bequeath to my grandson Hezekiah Jr. son to my late son Hezekiah Doane one quarter of a full share out of my estate after the decease of my wife Elizabeth, Real and Personal. I give and bequeath to my grandson Henry Doane, son to my late son Henry Doane one quarter of a full share of my Real and Personal estate after the decease of my wife. Howbeit if so be that either of my grandsons Hezekiah or Henry should die without issue, lawfully forgotten, then that part or share they or either of them was to have, shall be divided between my two sons Joseph Doane and Elisha Doane.

Item. I give to the children of my daughter Elizabeth Harding, deceased, one half of a full share to be divided and distributed among them after the decease of my wife. Then I give to my son-in-law, Solomon Harding, sixteen dollars and sixty-four cents, to be paid after the decease of my wife. Then I give devise and bequeath to my two surviving sons Joseph Doane and Elisha Doane their heirs and assigns forever as tenants in common, and not as joint tenants, to be equally divided between them the residue and remainder of my estate both Real and Personal after the decease of my wife. Finally, I do constitute and appoint my son Elisha Doane sole executor to this my last will and testament, disallowing all others and ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last will and testament. Signed, Sealed and Published, Pronounced and declared by the Testator to be his last will and Testament.

In presence of us.

JOHN THACHER.

105 Elisha Doane (Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) The date and place of his birth are unknown. He probably was lost at sea about 1784. He married first, Dec. 27, 1764, Ruth Doane, who was born at Wellfleet, Mass., Mar. 25, 1748, the daughter of Col. Joseph and Dorecas (Eldredge) Doane (102) of Wellfleet and Chatham, Mass. Married second, Nov. 28, 1775, Hannah Green, who was born Aug. 26, 1754, the daughter of Rev. Joseph and Hannah (Lewis) Green of Barnstable, Mass. Her mother Hannah Lewis was the daughter of Rev. Isaiah Lewis (John, James, George) of Wellfleet, and after the death of Mr. Green, in 1768, she married, second, Ezekiel Holbrook of Wellfleet. Elisha Doane was a mariner and was called "Captain." He lived in Wellfleet and in Cambridge, Mass. His widow, Hannah Doane of Cambridge, was appointed to settle his small estate early in 1784. They owned a small building in Wellfleet standing on the land of Elisha Bickford, appraised by Ezekiel Holbrook, Jeremiah Bickford and Capt. Lewis Hamblen.

108 THOMAS DOANE (Thomas, Thomas, Ephraim, John) was born at Chatham, Mass., Mar., 1737 and died at Barrington, Nova Scotia, May 3, 1783 (gravestone, old burial-ground, Barrington Head). He married first, at Chatham, Oct. 4, 1759, Letitia Eldredge, who died at Barrington, July 26, 1766, aged 30 years (gravestone, old burial-ground, Barrington Head). Married second, at Eastham, Mar. 17, 1768, Elizabeth Lewis, who died at Barrington, Dec. 4, 1816 (buried on Sheroes Island), widow of Solomon Lewis of Eastham and daughter of William and Elizabeth (Osborn) Myrick.

On his father's death in 1747, Thomas Doane was one of five minor orphan children, who, with their mother, Sarah, came under the protection of their grandfather, Thomas Doane, 1st, one of the wealthiest citizens of Chatham. The generosity, both by deed and devise, with which the old gentleman discharged this responsibility, gave some dissatisfaction to other members of the family, leading ultimately to a contest (unsuccessful) of his will.

At an early age young Thomas began to follow the cod-fishing, then the chief source of wealth of his native place, and in which industry Chatham led all the New England towns. The La Have, Quireau, and other banks lying off the coast of Nova Scotia, were then, as now, valuable and favorite places for fishing; and from Canscan to Cape Sable, into dozens of safe snug harbors the little Yankee crafts were accustomed to run for shelter from the storm, or to cure their fish. At the same time it behooved them to keep a good anchor-watch and look out for night attacks from the French and Indians.

So at least it was with the vessel in which our present subject, when a lad of fifteen, found himself, as she lay at anchor one night in Barrington Harbor—called Le Passage by the French—near Cape Sable. Wakened by a curious sound, he discovered a party of Indians in canoes preparing to attack. Armed with a fish-gaff, and giving a yell to wake his companions, he rushed to the stern and succeeded in hooking one Indian under the chin. The others paddled off in the darkness, and before the men could get from their bunks to the lad's assistance, his "catch" wriggled off the hook into the water and disappeared. Not so fortunate had been the fate of several other vessels in the same place, their bones long afterwards washing out of the western flat of Barrington Harbor, giving the only clew to their mysterious disappearance.

The hostility existing between the Acadian French and the New England colonists made the latter willing recruits to the militia regiments which played such an important part in the "Half Century of Conflict" which ended in the loss to France of her North American dominions. Accordingly, it is not surprising to find Thomas Doane, before he was of age, enlisting—and later, re-enlisting—in Capt. Peter West's Co., on an expedition to Nova Scotia against the French. In 1756, Captain Preble destroyed the French settlements around Barrington and carried away the "habitants;" and New Englanders, mostly from Cape Cod, rapidly moved in and occupied their lands, the township of Barringtontown (which includes the famous Fort de la Tour) being laid out among eighty-four heads of families, one of whom was Thomas Doane. It would be interesting to know how many of these original proprietors actually assisted in the removal of the French from that neighborhood.

"October 4, 1759, the Marriage Covenant was solemnized betwixt Thomas Doane and Lettice Eldridge, both of Chatham, before the Rev'd. Mr. Stephen Emery, Minister of the Gospel, at Chatham" (Chat. Town Rec.). In 1764, he removed with his wife to Barrington, N. S., and built his house on an island which had been the home of a Frenchman named Chereau. It is still known as Sheroes Island. His wife, Lettice, having died in 1766, Thomas Doane married in 1768, at Eastham, Mass., the widow Elizabeth Lewis (born Myrick). [Eastham Book of Marriage Intentions: "Thomas Doane of Barrington and wid. Elizabeth Lewis of Eastham, Feb. 22, 1768." Eastham Book of Marriages: Thomas Doane a resident of Chatham and Elizabeth Lewis of Eastham were married by Rev. Joseph Crocker, March 17, 1768."] This lady's mother was Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Samuel Osborn (an account of whom will be found in its appropriate place in this book), and was at this time, by her third marriage, the wife of Edmund Doane (35), also one of the Barrington grantees.

About this time came on the troubles between England and her American colonies, which culminated in the Revolution. The Barrington settlers, offspring, as they were, of Massachusetts—bone of her bone, and flesh of her flesh—naturally sided with their fathers and brothers in the Old Colony against the English. Those who could, returned and fought for liberty. For example, the minister at Barrington, Rev. Samuel Wood (an ancestor of the contributor of this sketch) joined the Continental Army as chaplain, was taken prisoner, and died in New York on the prison-ship Asia. Others, who had all their living invested in the new settlement, remained to protect their property and families in this isolated place, and were preyed upon both by the British and undiscriminating American privateers. Among such sufferers was Thomas Doane, whose word and work during this trying period were looked to and depended upon and appreciated by the harassed community, and whose hard losing struggle came to an end by his death at the age of forty-six, on May 3, 1783. On the day of his funeral, the friends assembled at the grave in the old Meeting House burying-ground at Barrington Head, saw the fleet of transports, with disbanded soldiers and refugees from New York, pass the mouth of the harbor on the way to settle Shelburne.

109 Elizabeth5 Doane (Thomas,4 Thomas,3 Ephraim,2 John1) was born at Chatham, Mass., Apr. 18, 1744 and died at Dennis, Mass., June 10, 1833. She married Jan. 7, 1768, Israel Nickerson, who was born in Yarmouth, Mass., Sept. 2, 1741 and died Feb. 3, 1791, the son of Israel and Hannah (Small) Nickerson. They resided in that part of Yarmouth now called Dennis, where he was one of the leading citizens. He was a master mariner. She was a member of the Congregational church at Dennis, and very much respected by all the townspeople.

Edward Doane was in Captain Skillings Co., against the Indians and was a soldier in the French and in the Revolutionary wars. He was a private in Capt. John Libbie's Co., Col. Jedediah Preble's Regt., from Apr. 8 to Nov. 18, probably, 1758; wages £1.16s per month. His name appears on a Billeting Roll, sworn to at Boston, Feb. 12, 1759 and rendered by Josiah Smith of Weston, for billeting men coming from service in 1758, Captain Libbie's Co. He was a private in Captain George Berry's Co., from Apr. 1 to July 16, 1759; also private in Capt. Jonathan Carver's Co., at Crown Point, from July 8 to Dec. 10, 1761. He was a private in Capt. David Strout's (seacoast) Co., July 15 to Dec. 31, 1775, at Cape Elizabeth and Scarborough; also in Capt. Benjamin Hooper's (seacoast) Co., Jan. 29 to Nov. 24, 1776, stationed at Falmouth.

We find no record at Cape Elizabeth, of his family, but the following were some of his children:

Children:

SIXTH GENERATION.

Joseph Proud Doane was christened Proud after his godfather, a Captain Proud of the Royal Navy, but disliking the name he was known only as Joseph Doane. Through the influence of his father's friends, he obtained the position of Auditor of the corporation of Bedford Level, which gave him official rooms in the Temple. Later in life he was connected with the public press.

They lived at New Inn Buildings, Strand, London, near to St. Clement's church, where the children were christened. His widow lived there many years after his death, and had a pew in that church, but later removed to 23 Keppel street, Russell Square, London, where she died. She was buried with her sons in Broughton cemetery. Fine oil portraits of Joseph Doane, of his wife and of his sons Richard, Charles and Joseph, are in possession of the family at the Keppel street home.

Children, all born in London:

i RICHARD, 7 b. July 17, 1805; christened Aug. 25, at St. Clement's church; d. in London, Feb. 8, 1848, unm.; buried in Broughton cemetery. He was a Barrister and while studying for the Bar, was the pupil, secretary and friend of Jeremy Bentham. In his will Jeremy Bentham left Richard Doane his books on English Law, and Doane edited a portion of the posthumous edition of Bentham's works. In his correspondence with O'Connell, Lord Brougham and others, Bentham makes complimentary mention of Richard Doane.

ii JOSEPH, 7 b. Oct. 10, 1806; christened Nov. 21, at St. Clement's church; d. July 11, 1885; unm.; buried in Broughton cemetery.

iv CHARLES, 7 b. Dec. 4, 1809; christened Jan. 5, 1810, at St. Clement's church; d. Mar. 2, 1891; unm.; buried in Broughton cemetery. In 1828 he was entered a student at the Royal Academy of Arts.

117 Edward⁶ Doane (Noah,⁵ Solomon,⁴ Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born on Cape Cod, Dec. 25, 1770 and died at Monterey, township of Orange, New York, July 14, 1845. He married at Wellfleet, Mass., Jan. 17, 1797, Sarah Brown, born at Wellfleet, July 6, 1773 and died at Monterey, Mar. 28, 1860. Mr. Doane was a mariner, and for many years followed the sea, in command of merchant vessels, sailing to all the principal ports of the world. In March, 1797, he moved, with his father, from the Cape to a farm in that part of Petersham, set off in 1801, as the town of Dana. His family increasing, and his father being well advanced in years, Captain Doane retired from the sea, and, on Mar. 16, 1808, bought his father’s farm at Dana. On Apr. 15, 1816, he sold out and bought a dairy and stock farm of one hundred and seventy acres, about three quarters of a mile south of the middle of the town of Petersham. After his sons had grown to manhood, and left home, he sold his Petersham farm, and bought a small place near the middle of the town. About June 1, 1838, he again sold out, and with his wife went to live with their son Rufus in Monterey, N. Y. They lived in Dana nineteen years, nine months and twenty-three days, and in Petersham twenty-one years, and three months. He died of a cancer on the left side of his face. They were buried in the Monterey cemetery. He was industrious and persevering; as a father, severe in the discipline of his children, and in Dana and Petersham he was regarded as a man firm in principles of right and justice in all business transactions. His wife Sarah was a notable helpmeet and housewife, careful and tidy in the extreme, anxious and watchful over the welfare of her children, hurrying from one duty to another from early morning till late at night. The children were taught habits of strict order and industry, each member helping to earn the family living as far as capable almost from childhood.

270 i Seth Brown,⁷ b. Feb. 8, 1798.

118 SAMUEL DILL,6 DOANE (Nehemiah,5 Solomon,4 Samuel,3 John,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., June 27, 1774 and died and was buried at sea about the first of the year 1809, on a voyage to or from the West Indies. He married at Eastham, by Rev. Philander Shaw, July 7, 1797, Sarah Lombard, who died at Dana, Mass., in Aug., 1867. After 1780, and during his minority he was under the guardianship of his grandfather, Solomon Doane (23). After his death his widow married, second, John Pike, a native of Hardwick, Mass., and removed with her children from the Cape to Dana, probably that part then known as "Storrsville." There were two children by the second marriage. She was buried in the George W. Doane lot at Dana.

Children, first four from Eastham records:

276 i Leonard,7 b. Nov. 6, 1798.

For more than forty years he was foreman and otherwise connected with the manufacturing establishment of William Chase & Sons, Providence, R. I. He was a student at Harvard University, but did not graduate on account of illness. He never lost his interest, however, in literary pursuits and scientific investigations. A man of intelligence and good judgment, his opinions were ever sought by his fellow-citizens. He held offices of honor and trust, but always refused them when he could conveniently do so. A beautiful monument marks his grave and those of other members of his family, in the cemetery at N. Providence. Ch., all b. in Providence: 1. Sarah Augusta, b. May 24, 1826; m. 122 DAVID6 DOANE (Joseph,5 Solomon,4 Samuel,3 John,2 John1) was born in Connecticut after the removal of his parents from Cape Cod, and died at Shawangunk, New York, July, 1857. He married, about 1815, Jane Dunn, born at New Paltz, N. Y., about 1793 and died at Shawangunk, Dec., 1850.

On reaching young manhood Mr. Doane went to Farmington, Conn., where he learned the trade of saddle- and harness-making.
From there, he went to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., thence to Old Paltz, on the Hudson, where he started a general store. Soon after marriage he purchased a large farm in Orange Co., N. Y., and ever after lived as a gentleman farmer.

Children:

284 i Alexander, b. ———.
   iii Almira, b. ———; m. William R. Weed.

285 iv William Coles, b. at Shawangunk, July 17, 1826.

EBENEZER

DOANE (Joseph,^5 Solomon,^4 Samuel,^3 John,^2 John^3) was born in Connecticut in June, 1777 and died in Tolland, Conn., May 10, 1860. He married first, about 1805, Chloe Chapman, who died July 12, 1812. Married second, Dec. 9, 1813, Eunice (or Eunecia) Tuttle, born Sept. 13, 1783 and died Oct. 3, 1847, the daughter of Samuel and Bethia (Miles) Tuttle. In her father's will she is called Eunice. They lived in Tolland.

i Emeline, b. at Tolland, Dec., 1806.
ii Juliana, b. at Tolland, Jan. 27, 1808; m. Orlin Church Dorman, Sept. 21, 1826 and d. Mar. 28, 1867. They lived in Ellington. Ch.: 1. Orlando P., b. Feb. 3, 1828. After an academic education he went into a dry goods store in Hartford. There he obtained a thorough business training, and after five years went to New York where he was a partner in the firm of Lee, Case & Co. and Wm. H. Lee & Co., having charge of the foreign business of the house. Retiring from that business he organized the Gilbert Manufacturing Co., incorporated in 1881, and of which he has since been president. Mr. Dorman has never engaged in public life, but has devoted much of his time, and a generous share of his wealth to the cause of charity and education. A Senior Warden of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and of the Church of the Holy Spirit he has been active in the field of church work, and especially interested in the charities promoted by those church organizations. He married, in 1850, Delia Ann Taylor of Hartford, and has Harry H., and Anna Belle. 2. Ebenezer, b. Jan. 2, 1830. 3. Emma, b. Nov. 2, 1831; m. Sidney G. Sargent of Boston. 4. Julia, b. Nov. 26, 1833; m. Prof. A. G. Wilkinson of Washington, D. C. 5. Rialdo, b. Sept. 27, 1835. When about five years old he met with an accident which resulted in the breaking of his left leg, but the slight lameness which was noticeable all his life was caused by the straining of this limb in jumping, while still weak from an attack of measles. At the age of sixteen he was sent to the Suffield Academy where he remained nearly two years. He then entered the employ of a dry goods firm in Hartford where he remained but a short time before going to New York. There he entered the real estate business. During the war of the Rebellion he was interested with Jocelyn & Co., Brokers, and had a seat on the Stock Exchange. Dec. 23, 1864, he married Emily Eliza daughter of Wm. H. and Eliza (Saltmarsh) Overton of Athens, Pa. He took his bride to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he lived until 1883. In 1877, he sold his seat in Wall St., and gave his attention to the Jasepora Ware Co. in which he had a controlling interest. In 1883, he sold this business and went to Chicago, where he was engaged in real estate until he died May 23, 1894, survived by his wife and three daughters, Daisy Julianna, Anna Orline, and Leta Hartley. The death of his son, Rialdo Latimer, at the age of 18 mos. nearly unsettled his reason, and never again was he the bright, talented and lovable man he always had been. In character, he was one whose genial humor and cultured manners won for him the love and respect of all whom he chose to charm. His friends were legion, and he possessed the rare quality of keeping those whom he won. 6. Orlin, b. May 16, 1844.

143 AMOS DOANE (Elisha,5 Jonathan,4 Dr. David,3 John,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., about 1758 and died at Hampden, Penobscot Co., Me., June 22, 1842. He married, first (published at Brookfield, Mass., May 18, 1782), Mary Myrick of Eastham. Married, second, Abigail Libby. Mr. Doane went from Cape Cod to Maine about 1788. In early life he was a mariner, but in later days was a farmer. He was a Revolutionary soldier and drew a pension for his military service.*

In Hampden the 23rd of June (1842) Amos Doane in the 85th year of his age. A soldier of the Revolution at the call of his country, he with a number of others from Eastham, Mass., entered the service under Captain (afterwards Colonel) Webb, and joined the American Army commanded by Gates called to arrest the progress of General Burgoyne on the Hudson and was in that hard fought battle of Sept. 19, 1776, in which the British lost 500 men and the Americans, 320. On the 7th of Oct., the two armies met, and on the 16th he had the pleasure to see Burgoyne surrender to General Gates.

* July 7, 1835, Amos Doane of Hampden, Me., applied for state bounty and certified that he was 77 years old and had resided in Hampden 47 years, previous to which he was an inhabitant of Eastham. His application for pension, in 1815, was as follows:

"I, Amos Doane of Hampden in the County of Penobscot, yeoman, aged 60 do hereby testify and say that on or about the month of Apr., 1777, I enlisted into the Revolutionary war in Capt. Geo. Webb's Co., and Colonel Shepard's Regt., and Glover's brig., Mass. line for the term of 9 mos. We joined our Regt., at Peckskill and went to Albany and Fort Edward. I was at the capture of Burgoyne. We went into winter quarters at Valley Forge where I was regularly discharged on or about the 10th day of Jan., 1778. Immediately after this I enlisted again for 9 mos. in the same Co. and Regt. I continued about 3 mos. at Valley Forge, sick of a fever and the smallpox. Then we marched to Providence, R. I., at which place I received a regular discharge sometime in Oct., according to the best of my recollection. In the month of Apr., 1779, I shipped on board an armed vessel in the service of the government for 1 year at $8 per mo. I think the name of the vessel was either the Eagle or the Resolution, Capt. Elijah Paine, Com. We captured 3 British ships, 1 brig and 1 schooner. I was regularly discharged at Boston. I have lost my discharges."

Geo. Webb of Holden, Mass., testified being old and infirm, but according to his best recollection Amos Doane enlisted in his Co. and served under him 9 mos. as a good soldier.
He served under Washington on the Hudson and in New Jersey. At the close of the war he came to the then wilderness of Penobscot and took up a lot of land in its original state near Hampden Corners, where he lived until the day of his death. In 1788, he experienced religion, under the labors of Rev. Joshua Hall, and joined the Methodist church of which he has been a worthy member. He was a kind neighbor and a good citizen and died, as he had lived, in full expectation of a blessed immortality beyond the grave. — Obituary.

Before going to Cleveland, Mr. Doane had commanded a vessel on salt water. On one of his trips, perhaps the last one, he brought with him from Cuba, a deaf and dumb negro boy, who at the time seemed to be a burden to those with whom he was living. He was commonly called "Um" and went with Mr. Doane to Ohio where he lived in the Doane family many years until his death. Mr. Doane was elected a Justice of the Peace while a resident of Euclid, and in 1810, became one of the Associate Judges of the county. The name Doane was often wrongly pronounced among the early settlers in and about Cleveland, and Mr. Doane thought to obtain a more correct and general pronunciation of the name by omitting the last letter, making it Doan. Two of his sons, Seth and Timothy, adopted the same method of spelling, while his other son John, kept to the old way. Thus it is that the descendants of the brothers Seth and Timothy write their name Doan while those of John add an e, after the original manner. (See letter of Timothy Doane Crocker in Annals of the Early Settlers' Association, Cleveland, 1881, No. 2, p. 69.)

He was a carpenter and builder. At an early day he took quite a tract of land in payment for building a barn for Governor Hutchinson. Dodge street now extends through a portion of this land. The land greatly increased in value, a part of which is still held by Mr. Dodge's descendants. Mr. Dodge took high rank as an intelligent man and a good citizen. June 15, 1849, he made his will leaving his property to his two children, Gen. Henry H. and George C. Dodge. Ch.: 1. Henry H., b. Aug. 17, 1810; d. Jan. 1, 1889; m. 169 NATHANIEL6 DOANE (Seth,5 Joseph,4 Joseph,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born in Middle Haddam, Conn., June 1, 1762 and died in Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 29, 1815. He married Sarah Adams, who was born 1771 and died Mar. 4, 1853. His will, dated Nov. 7, 1815, was probated Mar., 1816. His sons, Seth and Job Doane, were the executors. He first went to Cleveland in 1796. He moved his family there from Chatham, Conn., in 1798, and built a home on Superior street immediately opposite Bank street, but his family were so afflicted with fever and ague, that he moved eastward and settled in what was afterward known as Euclid township, now a part of Cleveland. The immediate locality in which he lived was called "Doane's Corners" for full eighty years thereafter, and the stream of water near by running through Wade Park took the name of "Doane's Creek," and is still so called. He built and kept a hotel on the northwest corner of Euclid avenue and Fairmount street, and on the southwest corner he built a small store. He built a blacksmith shop and a saleratus factory, because they were needed. He was postmaster and a Justice of the Peace for many years, and religious services were held by him in his own house. On the organization of the first military company in Cleveland in 1804, he was elected "First Lieutenant" and the following year was chosen "Captain." He was town clerk for some years, and in 1809 became one of the Associate Judges of Cuyahoga County. The Doanes of Cleveland were a very influential people, all of them well educated. Nathaniel Doane's daughter Delia taught the first school in Euclid.

* I well remember my grandmother, Hester Doane, as a grand christian woman. She spent her last years under my father's roof. Grandfather Doane owned a quarry in Marmas, then a part of Middletown and a farm of over two hundred acres. He built a new and large house, which is still standing and was "well to do" for those days. My father, Diodate Spencer, returned from Michigan and bought land, and married Mr. Doane's only daughter. Mr. Doane's children being married, and fearing they would leave him, they all settled on going out into Pennsylvania, some 300 miles distant, which they did in the winter of 1836-7. Uncle Joseph C. Doane drove the ox teams, carrying their families and possessions on sleds. I was born in Springfield, Pa., Mar. 26, 1837. My grandfather named me after himself Roswell Doane Spencer, and gave me a "mooley cow," the arrivals of which came to me at his death. He was a Methodist as were all his children. He contributed the land in Leona on which the Methodist church now stands.—From Mr. Roswell D. Spencer's letter. farmer with whom he spent five years. At 19 he tried sea life and went coasting in the sloop Peacock. One day while "tending gib sheets" in Long Island Sound, he lost overboard his first watch. Tiring of the sea he returned to Connecticut, and worked in the Maromas and Haddam Neck quarries. Later he went to Michigan where land was cheap and bought a tract near Ypsilanti; but, in 1835, he returned to Connecticut, married and with his father-in-law, Roswell Doane, and brothers-in-law Isaac Phineas and Joseph Chapman Doane, he moved to Leona, Pa., in the winter of 1837.
The work of clearing new land was too laborious, and brought on an illness which unfitted him for work for several years. Returning to E. Haddam, he established a mercantile business and continued there 18 years. In 1863 he sold his property in Connecticut and went to Pennsylvania, where he lived as a farmer and storekeeper. Ch.: 1. Ros-

In Dec., 1850, he went with his brother, Isaac S., on a voyage to Hong Kong, China, and other ports. From this time he followed the sea, and rapidly rose to the command of some of the finest ships then afloat. In the days of the gold fever in California when speed was desirable, he made the passage from Boston to San Francisco in 76 days, the quickest passage then on record. He afterward sold his interest in sailing ships, and entered the employ of the U. P. S. S. Co., in command of several of their steamships, taking out two of them from New York to San Francisco via Cape Horn, and one, the America, via Cape of Good Hope, which ship he continued to command between San Francisco, China and Japan, until she was destroyed by fire in the harbor of Yokohama. His health becoming impaired, Capt. Doane then went to St. Augustine, Fla. They left no children.

200 ISRAEL, DOANE (Israel, Edmund, Israel, Daniel, John) was born at Barrington, N. S., June 7, 1775 and died at Little River, Argyle township, N. S., June 20, 1866 (buried on the hill at Arcadia). He married, first, at Barrington, Mar. 30, 1797, Mehetabel Kenney, who was born at Barrington, June 26, 1778 and died after a lingering illness at Little River, May 8, 1847 (gravestone on the Hill at Arcadia), the daughter of Isaac and Sarah (Godfrey) Kenney, and granddaughter of Heman and Mercy (Nickerson) Kenney of Chatham, Mass., and Barrington. Married, second, about ——, Mary (Gavel) Raynard of Tusket Lakes, widow of William Raynard and daughter of John Gavel.

Mr. Doane went with his father's family from Barrington to Little River in June, 1781, thence to Roberts Island, Argyle township, in 1792. After his marriage he settled on a portion of his father's place, since called "Doane's Point," on Roberts Island, where seven of his nine children were born. Selling his Argyle property to Major McKinnon they removed to Little River where, on Mar. 4, 1816, "Israel Doane, yeoman, of Argyle for £250 bought of John and Hannah Kinney all and whole of the one certain lot of land situated in Argyle, on East side of Little River bounded on N. by lands of Stephen Larkin, E. by Burnett's Line, and W. by said River containing by estimation 170 acres, together with the dwelling house, barn and all the salt marsh adjoining said lot."

In company with the Pinkneys, George Owen and perhaps others, Mr. Doane built, at Little River, several small vessels for the West India trade, but with little or no financial success. In 1808, they owned the schooner John, 32 tons; in 1818, the brigantine Speculator, 110 tons; in 1846, the brigantine Evelina, 110 tons, which vessel, while lying at anchor in Argyle Harbor, was driven ashore in a September gale and became a total loss.

His first wife was the daughter of Isaac Kenney who was a merchant and vessel owner at North East Point, on Cape Sable Island, and her mother, Sarah Godfrey, was the daughter of Gideon Godfrey, a native of Cape Cod, and one of the first settlers of Liverpool, N. S. His second wife was the daughter of John Gavel, a Dutch Loyalist, who went from New York to Shelburne, N. S., in 1783, thence to Tusket Lakes in 1784 or 1785. She outlived her husband and spent her last years at the home of Smith Lent, on her father's old homestead at Tusket Lakes, where she was born. Sabine's Loyalists says: "John Gavel of New York at the peace accompanied by his family of six persons, went from New York to Shelburne, where the Crown granted him one town lot."

Mr. Doane and his first wife, Mehetabel, were baptized by Rev. Enoch Towner, and were members of the Argyle Baptist church. After their removal to Little River he united by letter Mar. 5, 1819, with the Yarmouth First Baptist church of which Rev. Harris Harding was then pastor, but transferred his membership to the South Yarmouth church at Central Chebogue on its organization in Apr. 1853. His wife was a member of the First church from Jan. 11 1828, till her death in 1847. His was a strongly religious nature. He loved his God, his Bible, his church. His seven daughters and only son were members of Baptist churches.

202 SUSANNAH6 DOANE (Israel,5 Edmund,4 Israel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Little River, Argyle township, N. S., May 5, 1782 and died on Roberts Island, N. S., June 15, 1877 (buried old burial-ground near Baptist church). She married at Barrington, by her uncle, Samuel O. Doane, Justice of the Peace (87), Dec. 17, 1801, her cousin, Prince Doane Kenney, who was born at Barrington, Jan. 13, 1780 and died suddenly on Roberts Island on the morning of Nov. 27, 1863 (buried old burial-ground near Baptist church), the son of Heman and Ruth (Doane) Kenney, and grandson of Edmund Doane (35). They settled first in Barrington, that part known as "Doctors Cove," where all their children were born, and where the two oldest died and were buried. In Apr., 1826, they moved to Roberts Island and settled on a portion of her father's farm. They lived with her father's family until Jan., 1827, when they moved into their new house, which stood in the field a little south of the house now occupied by their son, James M. Kenney. He was interested in the building of several small vessels. For many years he was master of craft in the West India and coasting trade. It is claimed that he was the first captain to sail a vessel from the port of Barrington, to the West Indies. His old account books give evidence that he kept a store of West India and other supplies and was in trade, to some extent, with his neighbors at Barrington.

His wife was a member of the Argyle Baptist church. She was immersed, when well advanced in years, in the harbor off Doane's Point, by Rev. A. W. Barss. She was deeply interested in the history of her family and would talk for hours, of the recollections of her childhood.

Children, all born at Barrington:

i  WILLIAM,7 b. Sept. 4, 1802; d. Dec. 29, 1814.
iii  PRINCE DOANE,7 b. Mar. 18, 1807; d. at Woodstock, N. B., July 8, 1886; m. at Argyle, N. S., Didamia Spinney. He was a seaman in early life, and was master of small coasting-vessels, carrying several loads of coal from Cape Breton to New York. When nine years old, he went on a fishing voyage with his father off Cape Sable. When eleven years old, he was cook, on a fishing voyage off Labrador, on a vessel owned by, and in charge of his father. In Oct., 1826, he sailed from Halifax for Quebec, with a cargo of sugar and was wrecked on the coast of Anticosti, and he and his crew were seven days without food. In 1833, in carrying out the anchor of his vessel, "to heave her off," he was dragged over the stern of the boat and carried to the bottom of the sea with the anchor, which struck in such a manner that he cleared himself, and, by means of the cable climbed to the surface and back into his boat. In the latter part of his life, he lived in Woodstock, N. B., near some of his relatives.

iv Flavilla,7 b. Apr. 1, 1810; m. Warren Goodwin.

v Reuben Cahoon,7 b. July 30, 1812. "He went away to sea when eighteen years of age. For years after leaving he wrote regularly to his relatives, then a few years passed without any word from him. Later, a Capt. Coffin of Barrington, who was on a whaling voyage, wrote from some port on the Pacific coast, that Reuben had been on board of his vessel and stayed over night; that he was an officer of a whaling ship, and then talked of returning home to Argyle. That was the last trace of Reuben."

thorough in every department and sympathetic with his pupils in all their troubles fancied and real, earnest in his efforts for the rapid advancement of those under his charge,—he was an ideal teacher and started many a young man on the road to success and fortune. After many years of service as a teacher he was appointed to the office of Government Inspector of Schools for Shelburne Co., and later to the same position for the new inspectorial district comprising the counties of Shelburne and Yarmouth.

204 HERVEY \textsuperscript{6} DOANE (Samuel O., \textsuperscript{5} Edmund, \textsuperscript{4} Israel, \textsuperscript{3} Daniel, \textsuperscript{2} John) was born at Barrington, N. S., Feb. 15, 1779, and was lost at sea Dec. 4, 1799. He possessed fine natural abilities. Specimens of his penmanship, drawings and composition have been preserved. It was his purpose on attaining his majority, to enter the school in Boston conducted by his uncle William Payne; but, a little more than two months before he reached his twenty-first birthday he was lost with his schooner The Barrington, on passage from Shelburne to Barrington. The vessel was sighted off the mouth of Barrington Harbor, driving before a heavy snowstorm and doubtless she foundered in the gale. After Hervey Doane's death several pieces of his composition were sent to Mr. Payne in Boston, and in response the following lines were written by Eloise Richards Payne, the talented sister of the author of "Home, Sweet Home:"

And hast thou seen what strikes the fancy here?
Again these speaking pages well explore,
Then drop with me the heart dissolving tear
The dear, dear youth that wrote them, is no more.

Could Genius, Virtue, Harmony and Truth
Secure their residence from early fate?
Thou must have died, O much lamented youth!
But life with thee had borne a longer date.

Farewell! no more thy graceful form we see;
The powers of genius all inactive lie,
'Tis thus the wisest and the best shall be,
But works like thine, O Hervey, never die.

205 PRINCE \textsuperscript{6} DOANE (Samuel O., \textsuperscript{5} Edmund, \textsuperscript{4} Israel, \textsuperscript{3} Daniel, \textsuperscript{2} John) was born at Barrington, N. 212 Daniel^6 Doane (or Thomas) (Daniel,\(^5\) Daniel,\(^4\)Daniel,\(^3\) Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born in the Northern Liberties, now Philadelphia, Pa., 1760, 4, 13 and died in Muskingum Co., Ohio, 1829, 7, 17. He married, about 1791, Mary Plumley, who died in Muskingum Co., 1862, 7, 2 in the 93rd year of her age. Mr. Doane's father died in Nov., 1760, and his mother remarrying, the three children were placed under the care of their uncle, Edward Dyer of Northampton, Pa. After his marriage to Mary Plumley, Mr. Doane settled first in Northampton, where they lived a few years, and where their first three children were born. About 1797 they moved into Byberry township, Philadelphia Co., Pa., where their other children were born. In 1817 they removed to Jefferson Co., Ohio, and thence in 1820 to Muskingum Co., where they purchased a farm on which they spent their remaining years.

Doane, at Young Hickory, O., the 105th anniversary of her birth, and is doubtless the oldest living descendant of Dea. John Doane. She has lived in three centuries, under the administration of every President of the United States and cast her first vote when over one hundred years old at a school election. About 1817, she moved with her parents from Pennsylvania to Jefferson Co., O. Here she became engaged to James King of Pennsylvania, but upon the death of her father she told her betrothed that she would not marry during the lifetime of her mother. She and her mother removed to Meigs township, O., shortly after, where the mother died. In 1862, the long separated lovers again met, and were married after a betrothal of forty years, the bride lacking only a few days of being 66 years old.

He married, at Larrys Creek, Lycoming Co., Pa., Rebecca Fincher, the daughter of Eli and Rachel (Moffett) Fincher. In early manhood Mr. Doane went to Larrys Creek and built a sawmill. This mill he afterwards sold, and started for the West in company with one Solomon Cutler. It is said that on the way Solomon stole Daniel's money and left him penniless on the road.
From one of the sons we learn that Mr. Doane migrated Westward in the fall of 1814, and settled at Harrison's Landing on the Ohio river, but later removed to Vevay, Ind. It is claimed by the descendants, that Mr. Doane and two of his sons were soldiers in the War of 1812. The oldest son, Josiah, was drafted. The second, Jonathan, being too young to be drafted, volunteered and, being somewhat athletic, was accepted. Josiah becoming sick, and unable to remain in service, the father offered himself and was accepted as his substitute.

215 AMOS LEE\(^6\) DOANE (John,\(^5\) Daniel,\(^4\) Daniel,\(^3\) Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born in the Munsey Settlement, near Larrys Creek, Pa., 1780, 3, 31 and died at Larrys Creek 1857, 11, 8. He married first, 1802, 11, 2, Martha Staats, who died at Larrys Creek after a protracted illness, the daughter of Peter Staats. Married second, 1814, 3, 24, Catherine Valentine, who was born 1793, 2, 2 and died at Larrys Creek 1872, 4, 4, the daughter of Henry and Anna Mary (Peterman) Valentine. Mr. Doane was born in the Quaker meeting-house of the Munsey Settlement, where his mother had taken refuge, after her flight from the Indians who that morning had captured her husband at their home in Larrys Creek, near the present town of Williamsport, Pa. He settled first in Williamsport where he lived about fifteen years, working at his trade of blacksmithing, after which he removed to Larrys Creek. A few years after his second marriage he became unsettled in business and removed to a country place about midway between Dummertown and Jersey Shore, villages farther up the Susquehanna river. From there he removed to Dummertown and again to Salem in Clinton Co., thence to Nittany Valley and finally in 1844 to Larrys Creek, where he died. He was buried there near his home, and, until a few years ago, his grave was reverently shown to his kindred, by his aged daughters, who spoke in endearing terms of their father, and exhibited with admiration samples of his handicraft which, for beauty of workmanship, are hardly equalled by the mechanical shops of the present day.

Children, of first marriage, born at Williamsport:

i Rachel,\(^7\) b. 1803, 9, 15; d. 1810.

iii Peter Staats,\(^7\) b. 1809, 9, 13; d. 1824, 9, 1.

iv Abraham Hooper,\(^7\) b. 1811, 10, 25; d. in Florida war.

vi John,\(^7\) b. 1816, 10, 29; d. unm.

vii Joseph,\(^7\) b. 1818, 10, 2; d. of sunstroke at siege of Vicksburg; m., 1st, Sarah, dau. of Noah Rauk of Larrys Creek; m., 2nd, Emeline Gregory.

viii William Valentine,\(^7\) b. 1820, 10, 18; d. 1823, 4, 4.

ix Sarah Catherine,\(^7\) b. 1822, 9, 14; d. 1823, 4, 13.

x Abigail Elizabeth,\(^7\) b. 1824, 4, 6; m. 1845, 9, 4, Elijah Salliday, of Lycoming Co.

216 ELEAZER 6 DOANE (John, 5 Eleazer, 4 Daniel, 3 Daniel, 2 John 1) was born at Haycock township, Bucks Co., Pa., 1742, 12, 10 and died at Plumstead, Pa., in 1811. He married, about 1769, Mary Kinsey, who was born 1752, 12, 8 and died at Plumstead, 1837, 9, aged 84 years 11 months, the daughter of Jonathan and Jemima (Heston) Kinsey, of Buckingham. Both he and his wife were members of the Society of Friends at Buckingham, but to avoid the publicity of marriage before the Meeting they were married privately. For this they were called to account by the Elders and, after making respectful acknowledgments, were restored to membership at the Meeting held 5 mo. 1771. Mr. Doane settled first in Haycock township, where he lived until 1788, when he purchased the property known as the old Price Tavern in Plumstead, to which he removed and kept an Inn until his death. In Apr., 1811, Mary and Jonathan Doane, widow and son of Eleazer Doane, deceased, applied for and obtained an order of court to sell the Inn and forty acres of land, and under this order the farm and tavern at Plumstead were sold to Philip Nice. By reason of assertions in the confessions of Jesse and Solomon Vickers, Eleazer Doane was brought under the ban of suspicion, and charged with complicity with the Doane brothers in their raids upon tax collectors. He was indicted and tried Mar. 3, 1784 for inciting his kinsman, Moses Doane (227) to rob Nicholas Grover, and for receiving and harboring him and George Sinclair after the said robbery was committed, but the evidence not being sufficient to satisfy the jury, he was acquitted.

218 Joseph6 Doane (John,5 Joseph,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John) was born at Cane Creek, N. C., 1759, 10, 23 and died at Wilmington, Ohio, 1838, 5, 28. He married at Cane Creek, 1780, 11, 5, Jemima Vestal who was born 1762, 5, 8 and died at Wilmington, 1832, 7, 23, the daughter of John and Elizabeth Vestal. Becoming dissatisfied with the institution of slavery in the South, Mr. Doane*

*Copy of letter of Joseph Doane of N. Carolina to his brother-in-law, John Vestal. The letter was folded, sealed in the old style and addressed to "John Vestal, Ross Co., North West Territory, Scioto River, mouth of Salt Creek."

This 6th Day of Nov., 1801.

Respected Brother:

I take this opportunity to inform thee that we are in middling state of health at present only Jonathan and he has been sick about one week, and we are in hopes that these may find you all well. I have not much to write unto thee that is of interest. I received thy letter. It was some satisfaction to hear that you were mostly well. But thee signifies that thee is not settled, and signifies that the country is so difficult and that thee can not advise us to come or where to come to. I still am in the notion of going to those parts. If I was easily discouraged by the accounts that I have had from there I might have been entirely out of the notion, for I have heard that the bottom-land has become very dry and hard, breaks up very cloudly and that your cows die by great numbers and I have heard that thee has a notion of coming back. I could hardly give credit to it but thee gives me such a short account in thy letter I don't know what to think of it. But Robert Carter informs me that thee likes the Miami country pretty well. But by the account thee sent we did not know whether thee liked sold his southern plantation and moved his family to Clinton Co., Ohio, arriving 1804, 11, 4. There he purchased two hundred and thirty-eight acres of land on Todd’s Fork, at one dollar and a half per acre, and built the first brick house in the county. He donated the lands for the public buildings of Wilmington in 1810, and by his energetic spirit of enterprise, developed the resources of the new country, and increased the prosperity of himself and family, until its members were recognized as the leading spirits of Clinton county.

He was a county commissioner from 1810 to 1818; he donated the two lots upon which the schoolhouse at Wilmington was built and employed the first teacher, Isaac Garretson. He was one of the committee employed to build the first Court House and, in 1836, two years before his death, he is on record as security for the man building the new Court House and jail. The old Wilmington records speak of Mr. Doane as “a man of genial presence who enjoyed life.” Both he and his wife were members of the Society of Friends all their lives, and their first ten children are recorded on the register of the Cane Creek Monthly Meeting.

it or not. I expected that thee would have sent me a full account of it. I have heard that thee has missed many good bargains in land waiting for me. But I want thee to suit thyself and not wait for me for I don’t know when I shall come, for I have not sold as yet and I don’t know whether I can sell or not, for there is a great narration of the proprietor coming in for his land which would discourage some from buying. But I am not scared yet and don’t think there is any danger. I want thee to settle thyself where thee thinks it will be a good settlement so I may have a good place to come to. For let thee settle where thee will in those parts I shall come to thee before I purchase and likely we may be neighbors again. Robert Carter told me that there was a tract of land on the Little Miami of about thirteen hundred acres, good land and well watered, lies well, and that thee thinks if I would come out and join thee we could buy it, but not let us bid too high at first for $2000 is a great sum. So no more about that. Our crop of corn is very light. Our wheat is good. Flax is very short, for we have had a dry summer. Our creek mills are almost stopped, so that some of us have been obliged to go to the river mills. I have had theague and John, William and Jesse have had it middling bad, but we have all got well. So no more at present, only we remember our love to you all and would be glad if thee would write to us by every opportunity to inform me of the account that I have signified to thee.

Joseph Doan

219 Ebenezer6 Doane (John,5 Joseph,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Cane Creek, Chatham Co., N. C., 1768, 10, 26 and died in Mooresville, Morgan Co., Ind. (buried in Friends cemetery near Mooresville). He married, first, Elizabeth Stout, who died at Cane Creek, 1808, 6, 9, the daughter of Peter and Hannah Stout and settled, within the knowledge of the Cane Creek Meeting, where the births of his first eight children are recorded. Soon after the death of his wife, he moved his family to Mooresville, and there married a second time.

220 Jonathan6 Doane (John,5 Joseph,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Cane Creek, N. C., 1773, 4, 7 and died at White Lick, Ind., 1847, 3, 21. He married at Cane Creek, in 1792, Rachel Williams, who was born 1771, 4, 20 and died at White Lick, 1854, 7, 9. This marriage being out of unity with Friends, he was disowned by the Cane Creek Meeting 1793, 10, 5, but restored to membership, 1794, 5, 3. They lived successively in Greene, Sevier and Blount counties, Tenn. In the autumn of 1815 they removed to Paoli, Orange Co., Ind., and in 1820, to White Lick, Ind. A principal cause of his removal from the South was his hatred of human slavery, a sentiment which has been fully shared by all his descendants. He and his wife were both buried in the Friends cemetery at White Lick.

Children:

221 Jonathan 6 Doane (Ebenezer, 5 Joseph, 4 Daniel, 3 Daniel, 2 John 1) was born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1756, 5, 30 and died in New York, 1818, 11, 11. He married first, at the Buckingham Monthly Meeting of Friends, 1778, 4, 15, Mary, the daughter of Timothy Beans of Tincicum, Bucks Co. In the marriage record he is noted as of Solebury. He married, second, in New York city, Mary Higgins, who died at Burlington, N. J., Mar. 7, 1858, aged 84 years.

Mr. Doane was a man of mark in his day, as a master builder and contractor, and did business in Trenton, N. J., Geneva, N. Y., and in New York city. He died leaving the homestead unfinished, and most of his hard-earned livelihood in an unsecured debt, which was never realized. He is described as a man of singular perseverance and high principle, commanding and handsome in appearance, most loving and devoted in all his home relations.

Children, of first marriage:

224 JOHN6 DOANE (Ebenezer,5 Joseph,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1768, 10, 3 and died near Ontario, Canada, 1852, 11, 8. He married 1794, 10, 15, Elizabeth Stockdale, the daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Smith) Stockdale. He and his brother Ebenezer (226) learned the carpenter's trade, serving an apprenticeship of seven years each, with their oldest brother Jonathan (221). They all were skilful workmen. John Doane became a master builder and carried on an extensive business in Bucks county.

From John Doane's granddaughter:

"I well remember my grandfather. He distinctly remembered the battle of Trenton, Dec. 26, 1776. He also remembered the excitements attendant upon the news of the battle of Princeton and Germantown. He remembered seeing Washington's army encamped for a day and night upon the farm adjacent to that upon which his parents were living. At a proper age he was placed as an apprentice to learn the trade of a carpenter with his eldest brother, Jonathan, the same who became the father of the late Bishop George W. Doane of New Jersey. This trade then included the skill of a joiner or as it is now termed cabinet maker. He often spoke of having assisted in the erection of buildings in Philadelphia as well as in the country. He subsequently purchased a farm on the Delaware River in Bucks Co., where he carried on farming in addition to carpentering. I remember hearing him speak of having to cross the Delaware to New Jersey with his hearse to attend some funerals. He married 1794, 10, 15, Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth (Smith) Stockdale, by whom there were four children born in Bucks Co., one of whom, Sarah, died there. He with his family removed in 1807 to Canada, travelling across the country in canvas-covered wagons. They were about six weeks on the journey, and arrived at their destination June 1, 1807. There they purchased a tract of 200 acres known as Lot 94 on Yonge street, King township, York Co., for which they paid $8 per acre. It is situated about 28 miles north of Toronto. At an early date they exhibited their fealty to the Society of Friends, as shown by this extract from records of the Meeting at Yonge street, June 18, 1807. "John Doan with Elizabeth his wife and three minor children, presented their certificates from the Meeting of Friends at Buckingham, Pa., bearing date 6th of 4th mo. 1807, which was read and accepted.

"I well remember my grandfather's description of the first dwelling they occupied in Canada. It was what was known as shed roof, covered with split basswood logs. When their effects were placed in order so as to save all the space possible there was only one square yard of floor unoccupied. In 1807, the Friends in that locality built a frame meeting-house. The members gave material and subscribed $16, and John Doan was appointed general supervisor. The first Lombardy poplar tree, now so numerous in this region, was a branch cut from a tree in Bucks Co. and used as a cane by John Doan in his journey to Canada. He planted it there on Yonge St., and to the surprise of everyone it budded and grew to a large tree. To that cane Canada is indebted for all her Lombardy poplars, so greatly admired. At the first township meeting of King, Mar. 6, 1809, John Doan was elected Pound Keeper. In a return of the inhabitants of the county, Mar. 28, 1809, there were thirty-three heads of families. Five of them were Doans, consisting of John Doan and his three brothers, William, Mahlon, Ebenezer and their father, Ebenezer, who was son of Joseph and Mary of Wrightstown, Pa., he who was celebrated in the 'walking purchase' of Bucks Co. During the war of 1812 John Doan adhered strictly to the Quaker principle of peace. At that time produce rose to an extravagant price, so that it was almost out of reach of the poor. I have been told by the early settlers, that John Doan was never known to sell a bushel of grain or produce of any kind at the high prices occasioned by war, but always at the price-rate before the war commenced. One incident relating to the subject, and in which he was an actor, is here related. An English officer hearing that Mr. Doan had a quantity of flour in store came to him and said, 'Mr. Doan, I hear you have a large quantity of flour for sale, if so, I will purchase all you have at the highest market price.' The reply was, 'has thee got the money to pay for it?' 'Why certainly, or I would not have the face to make you the offer.' 'Well,' rejoined Mr. Doan, 'if thee has got the money to pay for it, thee may go somewhere else to buy, I keep my flour to sell to them who cannot afford to pay the war prices.'
"Two of John Doan's sons took an active part in the McKenzie Rebellion of 1838. We have, in our possession, boxes, rings and other trinkets made by them with pocket-knives from pieces of stove wood, during their imprisonment. These we show with considerable pride, as pieces of workmanship done by members of our family in a confinement arising from a fruitless struggle for individual rights in the cause of liberty."

He married first at Savannah, Ga., 1795, 7, 1, Sabra Frey, who died in Savannah, 1796, 7, 11, the daughter of John Newton and Catherine Frey of Savannah. Married second, in Bucks Co., Elizabeth Paxson, who was born at Solebury, Pa., 1783, 10, 10, and died in Canada, 1874, 2, 19, the daughter of Abraham and Elizabeth (Brown) Paxson of Solebury. Mr. Doane learned the carpenter's trade with his brother Jonathan (221) and in young manhood did business in Savannah. After the death of his wife he returned to Bucks county and in May, 1808, in company with his father, brothers and sister moved from Bucks Co. to Canada, carrying all their effects in a four-horse wagon. After a toilsome journey of six weeks they reached their destination, and settled on Lot 96, about twenty-two miles North of Toronto. In 1818, 5th mo. he removed to Gwillimgbury and settled on Lot 13 where they resided until his death.

227 MOSES⁶ DOANE (Joseph,⁵ Israel,⁴ Daniel,² Daniel,² John¹) was born at Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa., about 1752, and was shot and instantly killed, by Robert Gibson, at Halsey’s tavern in Plumstead, Sept. 1, 1783. He married Rachel Tomlinson, who was born 1759, 5, 20, the daughter of Joseph and Margaret (Cook) Tomlinson. He was probably the eldest of the children of Joseph and Hester (Vickers) Doane. He with his brothers Joseph (228), Aaron (229), Levi (230) and Mahlon (231), and their cousin Abraham Doane (234) son of their uncle Israel, formed that band known in the Revolution- ary history of Bucks Co. as the “Tory Doans.” A leader by nature, and probably possessing greater natural abilities than any of the others, Moses was the master spirit of them all, and always appeared as the captain of the band. He was engaged in several of the acts of reprisal, prominent and first among which was the raid on the night of Oct. 22, 1781, upon the county treasury at Newtown* of which John Hart was the custodian. Jesse Vickers in his confession says that Moses Doane was present at the robbery of the treasury, and also names him as having been connected with many of the irregularities that occurred about that time. On the 30th of June, 1783, Moses is named in the proclamation offering a reward for the arrest of persons charged with robbing collectors during the preceding month. He is again named in the proclamation of July 26, 1783, when an hundred pounds specie is again offered for the arrest of these offenders.

*The robbery of the county treasury by the Doans and their confederates, in the fall of 1781, was one of the exciting events of the day. John Hart, then treasurer, lived in the house that lately belonged to Abram Bond in the lower part of the village (Newtown).

On the occasion of Moses' death it appears that he, with Abraham and Levi Doane with others of the party, forced by hunger from their cave on the Tohickon, ventured to the cabin of a confederate named Halsey, at Gallows Run in Plumstead. The family needing some flour, sent a boy to the mill near by, who innocently informed the miller that the Doanes were at the cabin. The miller went to a vendue near by and informed the people of the presence of the Doanes at Halsey's. About fourteen volunteered under the lead of Colonel Hart and Major Kennedy for their capture. They surrounded the cabin. Hart, Kennedy and Grier were selected to enter and, upon approaching it, saw the Doanes through the chinks in the logs, eating at a table, with their guns standing near. Hart opened the door and commanded them to surrender, when the Doanes seized their arms and Early in the evening Moses Doan rode through the Town to see if the situation was favorable, and about ten o'clock the house of the treasurer was surrounded and Mr. Hart made prisoner. While sentinels kept watch outside and over the treasurer, others of the gang ransacked the house. Then obtaining the keys of the treasurer's office, and one of them putting on Mr. Hart's hat, and carrying his lighted lantern as was the treasurer's wont, the robbers went to the office where they stole all the public money to be found. They got in all £735,17,19½ in specie and £1307 in paper. That night they divided the spoils at the Wrightstown schoolhouse: — Davis' History of Bucks County.

The Doans of Bucks Co., near Doylestown, were also the terror of their day. They were quite as famous in that section of country and about the Philadelphia lines as any hero of the Revolution. Their father was a man of good estate, and he and his children of good reputation. When the war came on they proposed to remain neutral, but because of their non-attendance on militia drafts and refusing to pay fines, they had their property sold occasionally and themselves harassed. They got inflamed with their neighbors and Revolutionary rulers and as they found themselves subjected to legal imposts and penalties, five brothers of them set out to live in highways and hedges and wage a predatory and retaliatory war upon their persecutors. They were men of fine figures and address, elegant horsemen, great runners and leapers and excellent at stratagem and escapes. They delighted to injure public property, but did no injury to the weak, the poor or the peaceful. They were in league with the British while in Philadelphia and acted as occasional spies. They became of so much importance as to have £300 apiece set on their heads. They went generally on horseback, sometimes separate, sometimes together with accomplices. Once with twenty-five mounted men they robbed John Hart, the treasurer of Bucks Co., of all the public money. Some of them were occasionally apprehended but as often broke jail. — Watson's Annals of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania in the Olden Time.
fired. One of the bullets knocked a splinter from Grier's gun, which struck Kennedy in the back giving him a mortal wound. Hart seized Moses Doane, threw him down and bound him, when Robert Gibson rushing into the cabin shot Doane in the breast, killing him instantly. It is said that Gibson was not voluntarily one of the party, but was suspected of being implicated with the Doanes in their illgotten gains, and it is supposed he shot Moses to close his mouth against the utterance of testimony against himself.

During the melee Abraham and Levi Doane escaped through a window at the back of the cabin. The wife of Halsey was at that side, and Abraham fearing that in his effort to get away he would be discovered and fired upon, ran up to the frightened woman, caught hold of her clothing, placed himself in front of her and raised her on his back. With this strange shield over his person, he started on a run to reach his horse. He effected his purpose in safety, although within range of the rifles of Hart's party, who were prevented from firing for fear of injuring the woman.

The body of Moses was carried to the Hart tavern and thrown down on the kitchen floor. In the morning it was sent to his grandfather Israel Doane (40) in Plumstead, who buried it in a secluded spot on his farm, where the mound and small stones marking his grave were still visible only a few years ago. That was a sorrowful funeral. It is related that Moses' little dog came running forward and looked down into the grave after the coffin had been lowered, whining most piteously as if holding a last farewell with his master.

228 JOSEPH DOANE (Joseph, Israel, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born at Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa., 1752, 4, 1 and died at Walpole, Haldimand Co., Ontario, Canada, in 1844. He married his cousin Mary Doane, daughter of his uncle Israel (98) about 1780. She was born probably at Plumstead, 1766, 7, 27 and died at her daughter Mary Waggoner's in Walpole about 1850. She had become blind through cancer on her face, though the immediate cause of her death was a fall over a chair. Joseph Doane acquired an education above that of the average young man of his time, and taught the school of his neighborhood. He was one of the band of "Tory Doans" and his name appears in the Proclamation of Sept. 13, 1783. In Day's Historical Collections of Pennsylvania it is stated that Squire Shaw was attacked, robbed and brutally treated by the Doanes. For this offence the neighbors organized and the raiding party were pursued and overtaken near the Skippack Creek in Montgomery Co., where a skirmish took place, in which Joseph, the school-master, was shot through the cheek, captured* and lodged in jail in Newtown, the county seat. From Shallus Tables of Chronological Events, published in 1819, we learn that on the 30th of March, 1784, Joseph was arraigned for trial before the court at Newtown, convicted and sentenced to be hanged. Pending the execution of the sentence, he made his escape from prison and found refuge in New Jersey where, under an assumed name, he again taught school.

The Federal government had offered a reward for him, or any of his brothers dead or alive, and while in a neighboring tavern one evening Joseph heard a man say that he would shoot any of the Doanes on sight for the sake of the reward. Doane's school bills were quietly settled and preparations soon made for removal to Canada. Before leaving the country, however, he made a farewell visit to his old home in Bucks Co., and while there was recognized by a neighbor who seized and threw him to the ground. At a disadvantage during the tussle Joseph managed to draw a penknife from his pocket, which by aid of his teeth he opened and with it wounded his adversary in the neck, inflicting a wound which permanently affected the man's speech. Regaining his footing Joseph, like the good Samaritan, bound up his assailant's wound with his handkerchief, advised him to seek help at the nearest house, and then proceeded on his way to Canada. On arriving in Canada, about 1790, he settled first in Humberstone township, Co. of Welland, and lived on the Lake Shore near Fort Erie. Here he resumed his teaching in which he prospered and acquired an excellent reputation among his

* To the Honorable His Excellency the President and other Members of the Supreme Executive Council of the State of Pennsylvania:
The Petition of the Subscribers, inhabitants of Bucks Co., humbly sheweth That your honorable board was pleased to issue your Proclamation of June 30, 1783, offering a reward of £100 for each and every of the persons convicted of robbing the collectors of Public Taxes in this State. After the date of which Proclamation your petitioners did apprehend and secure Joseph Doan, Junr. who now stands convicted of the fore mentioned crime. We therefore petition that it might please your Honors to grant us an order on the State Treasurer for obtaining the promised reward or to notify us in what other way we may obtain it. And your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray.

We do order and appoint Col. Robert Robinson, Amos Thomas and Josias Ferguson to receive and divide to each person their equal share of said reward.

patrons. About 1815, he removed to the township of Walpole about forty miles distant from Humberstone, where he purchased a farm of two hundred acres, said to lie "in as pretty a section as can be found in all Canada." In early life in Canada he was known as an outspoken man, with an inveterate hatred of all Americans, who as a people, he said, had oppressed and persecuted him and his kindred. When the American Army landed at Fort Erie in the War of 1812, Joseph was pointed out as a man inimical to the American interests, and, though not in arms, was seized, made a prisoner of war and sent to Greenbush, N. Y., where they kept him confined for eighteen months, and where through exposure and hunger he suffered all but death.

In 1823 Joseph Doane returned on a visit to his relatives in Bucks Co., and it is said with the purpose of obtaining the value of his father's confiscated farms. No such suit was ever instituted, but it is understood that he brought suit for a small sum through Squire Shaw,* whose father he had formerly robbed, against an old Quaker neighbor. The meeting between the plaintiff and defendant was an amusing one. The conversation on both sides was in the plain language of Friends, nevertheless they abused each other most roundly, the one, alleging his authority from government to blow the other's brains out, or take him dead or alive, and the other, claiming his money so long unjustly delayed.

Extract from Mr. J. S. Kratz' letter:

"Of the father Doane, I do not know anything save that he lived in Plumstead adjoining lands to my grandfather's, and though of Quaker descent, he

* Extract from letter from Mr. Walter Shanley of Montreal:

"In Day's Historical Collections of Penna., mention is made of Refugee Joseph Doans appearing before Squire Shaw as a 'poor, degraded broken down old man.' The fact is Joseph Doan was at that time the owner of a good farm of 200 acres, the work of his own hands, and his whole career in Canada was one of industry, honest hard work and thrift. He brought up a family of seven children, worthy and respectable, and even when over eighty years of age when his farm was divided between his two sons Joseph and Abraham, he would still work. It seems that beside being a schoolmaster, his son Abraham says, that for years in New Jersey and afterwards in Humberstone his father was by trade a carpenter and cooper. Till nearly ninety years of age he worked at his trades in a shop of his own and apparently from sheer love of toil. He was no 'scoundrel' as Mr. Day chooses to call him and in no sense was he 'degraded' or 'broken down,' but full of courage and vitality to the last, and, by all accounts gathered from those who knew him, of a singularly independent and fearless character. It is quite likely that he faced Squire Shaw, and the old Quaker neighbors with whom he had the suit, with the fearlessness of a man who knew he had right on his side. Joseph Doan, the 'Refugee,' was a man of strong feeling, great independence of character and possessed of moral and physical courage, and during his more than fifty years of life in Canada, was a respected citizen in a God-fearing community."
was of a rather hasty and passionate disposition. Yet on the whole a very good neighbor. Of the sons Moses, Levi, Aaron, Joseph and Mahlon, and the daughter Polly, all were born on the old homestead. I have often heard my old grandfather say that they were the smartest and finest family of boys raised in that neighborhood, and continued so, till the troublous times of the Revolution broke out, and even after this until their father, like many others, was despoiled of his goods by men calling themselves Whigs. When this oppression became unbearable the boys, now active able men, began to retaliate by severely whipping Colonel Robinson, Captain Shaw and others, and thus rendered themselves obnoxious to the Whig party generally. From this period matters grew worse on both sides until the Doans were practically outlawed. Moses was surprised and caught on the banks of the To- hlickon I think, by Colonel Hart, who had him down. While being tied one Gibson came up and shot him dead under Hart's arm. He was then thrown across a horse and brought to Plumsteadville amidst great rejoicings at the capture of the leader of the gang. Abram and Levi were arrested, tried, convicted and executed. Their bodies were buried in the woods of the Plumstead Quaker Meeting house. It was currently reported that both of them to show their activity jumped over a six feet pump in the jail yard, with their weights on. I now come to Joseph who is the only one I ever saw, a portly, good looking, active, intelligent man of seventy-two years, straight as an Indian, very nearly six feet high and had travelled on foot all the way from Canada to Plumstead, a distance of over four hundred miles. I saw him at different times place his hand on the top rail of an ordinary fence and spring over it like a man of twenty. About his arrest, I will give his own version as nearly as I can remember. It took place in Montgomery Co., somewhere on the banks of the Skippack Creek, where they had a rendezvous in which they were suddenly surprised and obliged to take to their horses sans cérémonie. Unfortunately for Joseph, his own horse, in the confusion, was taken for another, and he was obliged to mount an inferior one that could not run well. In the flight they scattered through a corn-field, the corn at the time being in full tassel, the pursuers meantime firing upon them. Joseph was hit by one of these shots which grazed his chin, shattered his lower jaw to some extent and knocked away some of his teeth. In jumping the fence his horse stumbled and himself was thrown to the ground, in consequence of which he was obliged to surrender. The rest escaped. He was then taken to Newtown jail, tried, convicted and sentenced to death. Joseph in his narrative further says: 'Sometimes after this my wife paid me a visit bringing an anger, rope, file and case knife in her clothes, which I carefully concealed. With the file I converted the knife into a saw and with it sawed off my irons, then bored off the lock and got into the yard, where I attached a heavy stone to the end of the rope, and threw it over the wall and by this means I scaled the wall and was free. How glorious I felt, and with what a vim I started off on a run when the first thing I knew I was tumbling headlong into a quarry, falling head foremost a distance of twenty feet upon the rocks at the bottom. I had seen this quarry daily from my prison window, but in the joyous enthusiasm of again being free I had forgotten
it. As soon as I was able I crawled out as well as I could, and by great effort got to the house of one Vandergrift, roused him from bed and induced him to secrete me until the pursuit was over. A large straw stack in the barnyard furnished the needed asylum. We pulled a batten out of the side, and I worked a convenient opening on the inside so that before morning I was safely housed by putting the batten back into the hole. Vandergrift fed me at night, and I spent between two and three weeks in this seclusion, and when I felt well enough I left my straw house, and went by night into one of the upper counties of New Jersey, where I raised a school in order to get a little money. I boarded at the village tavern where I felt comparatively safe until one day on opening the door to enter the bar room I saw Colonel Robinson sitting there, fortunately for me, with his back toward the door. I quietly closed the door, stepped back and went another way. My equanimity was disturbed and I felt that this was no place for me. I now plead indisposition, closed my school, collected what money I could, and made my way into Canada. My brother Aaron had preceded me and we have lived there ever since.' Joseph was well informed in political and other matters, a good conversationalist and a strong advocate of the Canadian government. He and my father sat up one whole night discussing the relative merits of the two forms of government. Joseph also visited the old farm and many of the places that had formerly been known to him, expressing great pleasure at the changes and improvements that had been made. He also visited Captain Shaw in Doylestown, the man who had been so cruelly whipped, and they talked over their old reminiscences of the Revolution, and Joseph remarked with pleasure of the urbanity and courtesy of the old captain."

According to the confession of the Vickers boys, he was concerned in the robbery of the Bucks county treasury at Newtown,\textsuperscript{*} in the raid upon collectors Barton of Buckingham, Keith of Makefield and others. In consequence of participation in those robberies, he came under the Proclamation of Sept. 13, 1783, and was arrested in Baltimore Co., Md. about the middle of Aug., 1784, and conveyed by his captors, Joseph McClennan and Amos Ogden, to the jail in Philadelphia. Being identified by Capt. This petition was supplemented by a second one in November of the next year as follows:

To His Excellency the President & the Hon'ble the Supreme Executive Council of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:
The Petition of Aaron Doane a languishing Prisoner in the Jail of the City and County of Philadelphia,
Most humbly sheweth,
That your Petitioner unfortunately fell under the Suspicion of this Hon'ble Board as being an Accomplice in the Robbery of the Treasurer of Bucks Co., in the year 1781 or thereabouts, for which supposed Crime he was called on by Proclamation of this Honorable Board to surrender himself a prisoner and undergo his Trial for the same. That not being well advised he neglected to do so whereby he became outlaw'd or attainted & with several others was afterwards apprehended & brought before the Hon'ble the Supreme Court and asked what he had to say why Judgment of Death should not pass upon him; that having unadvisedly suffered his Time prescribed to expire without a surrender of his person, his Innocence of the Fact stood him in no stead and not being able to deny that he was the person prescribed under his Name Judgment of Death was accordingly passed on him & he has now remained in Jail under a heavy Load of Irons upwards of fifteen months. Your Petitioner most solemnly declares his Innocence of the said Fact & his utter Ignorance of the Time manner and Persons who committed the said Robbery except from Information he has had since his Confinement, and for the Truth of this Declaration he appeals to the confession of Robert Johnson Steel one of the Persons who was actually Guilty & has been pardoned, who declared before his Honor the Chief Justice & is now ready to repeat it before this Honorable Board, that your Petitioner was not a party nor privy to sd Robbery.

Your Petitioner threfore, most humbly prays that this Hon'ble Board will be pleased to take his Case into their Consideration & extend their Clemency to him, in as much as so long & grievous an Imprisonment may justly be deemed a sufficient Attonement for his Negligence, or Contempt of the Laws of his Country, for which he most heartily begs Pardon.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.

Aaron Doan.

Philad'a Jail, Nov. 8, 1785.

On the 17th of May, 1787, the Supreme Executive Council ordered in the case of Aaron Doan that he be pardoned on condition that he transport himself across the seas, not to return to the United States. On the 28th of the same month he petitioned the Council for a short time before going away, in which to collect certain debts, "subject to the penalty of death if found in any of the United States after the expiration of said given time." He chose Canada for his place of exile and settled in the township of Humberstone. In Canada he was a member of the Methodist church, was a good neighbor, a genial friend and bore a good reputation for honesty and integrity. During the invasion of Canada by the Americans in the War of 1812, he was drafted and served in the British army.

* Levi, son of exile Aaron, is no more. The bright old man was seized with paralysis, exactly one month from the day on which he gave such intelligent answers to my series of questions. After the attack he lived, speechless but apparently sensible to all that was going on around him, for a week and then "went out," his age being stated as exactly 35 years 8 mos. and 17 days. He was buried within the boundaries of the land which his father Aaron had "taken up" nearly a century ago. The old man belonged to the Methodist church and his funeral services were conducted after the manner thereof. He had lived a life of good repute as his father, Aaron, before him had done. The latter owned a fine property of four hundred acres in his homestead, and on a part of it lived the son who has just died.—Walter Shanley, Montreal, Dec. 20, 1884.
230 LEVI⁶ DOANE (Joseph,⁵ Israel,⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa., and was hanged at Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 24, 1788. His history was closely identified with that of his cousin, Abraham Doane (234) hence some of the facts in the career of both are here related. They were first cousins, nearly of the same age, and finally ended their lives at the same time, and under the same circumstances. Levi Doane's name appears with that of his cousin Abraham and others in the Proclamation dated Saturday, July 26, 1783, and in which a reward of £100 specie is offered for the capture of each or any one of them. In June, 1784, Abraham Doane (234) and two or three of his accomplices were arrested and lodged in a jail in Washington Co., Pa., while on their way to Detroit. He probably escaped from that prison but finally, in 1788, was arrested with his cousin Levi in Chester Co., and conveyed to Philadelphia. They were in the Philadelphia jail in June, 1788, awaiting sentence of death under the outlawry. On the 7th of that month they petitioned Benjamin Franklin, President of the Executive Council, asking that the mercy of the laws of the country may be extended to them, and that the "outlawry so far as it relates to punishing us with death may be rescinded." They acknowledged they had aided the British and committed various offences, but plead their "youth and inexperience" and the "artful persuasion of designing men," in extenuation. In a subsequent petition dated July 14, 1788, they say they were induced by artful enemies of the Commonwealth to commit various crimes at an early age, neither of them being seventeen years old, but declare they were not "directly or indirectly concerned in the felony and burglary wherewith we are charged, and for which this process (outlawry) was had against us." The petitions of the unfortunate men themselves, not having met the success desired, the friends of the family in Bucks Co. interposed their influence to save their lives.

On the 13th of Aug., 1788, the mothers and sisters of the condemned men petitioned the council for pardon, but they say, if they cannot do this they desire that length of time be granted "to prepare for death and to complete, if possible, the important work of salvation." This petition bears the signatures of Hester Doane, mother of Levi; Rachel Doane, mother of Abraham; Rachel Doane, sister of Abraham, and Mary Doane, sister of Levi. This petition was supported by another, signed by over one hundred persons who ask that the lives of the two men "may be spared and the punishment of death remitted or altered to that of hard labor or banishment." To this petition are signed, among others, the names of Edward Fox, father of the late Judge Fox of Doylestown; Robert Morris the financier of the Revolution and William White, first Episcopal Bishop of New Jersey. Two days afterward the mothers presented another petition accompanied by one from their two condemned sons asking for pardon, or an extension of time to prepare for death. Another and similar petition was presented the 9th of Aug. The 6th of Sept., Joseph Doane the father of Levi, and uncle of Abraham, petitions the council in behalf of his son and nephew, and asks that their lives be spared. These repeated applications must have made some impression on the Executive Council, for soon afterward a petition, numerously signed by inhabitants of Bucks Co., was presented to council asking that the law be allowed to take its course, and protesting against the pardon of the criminals. It was laid before the council and read on the 17th of Sept., 1788. All efforts to save Abraham and Levi Doane from death were unavailing and on Sept. 24, 1788, they were publicly hanged on the common in the city of Philadelphia. It is said that the father of Levi went to the city and carried the two bodies in a cart to Plumstead. The Society of Friends in that village, after deliberating awhile, refused to grant permission for the interment in their graveyard, consequently they were buried in the edge of the woods nearly opposite the Plumstead Meeting-house.

An old lady, who once lived on the Doane farm, remembers that Levi's mother was in the habit of visiting his grave, over which with Bible in hand she would read and weep for hours at a time.

When Abraham and Levi were hanged in Philadelphia, it was commonly said of them, with special reference to Abraham, "they have hanged the smartest two men in Pennsylvania."*
The following account of the arrest and execution of Levi and Abraham Doane is from the Autobiography of Charles Biddle:

In the month of Sept., 1788, Levi and Abraham Doan, two young men from Bucks Co., were taken prisoners and brought before the Supreme Court then sitting in Philadelphia. Being outlawed it was only necessary to identify them to sentence them to death. As they were well known in Bucks Co., this was done and they received their sentence. The case of these young men was exceedingly hard. When very young, their fathers were very ill treated by some violent committee men in the county, on account of their attachment to the British Government. These lads were threatened if they did not voluntarily enter into the American army they should be pressed. In consequence of this they went off and joined the British. It was said they afterwards committed depredations in the neighborhood of where they were born, and it is probably true. If the treatment of their parents did not justify them, it certainly was some excuse for their conduct. At the conclusion of the Peace they returned to their county, as they said, to see their friends and relations; but one of them, it was generally thought, came back on account of a very handsome girl he was fond of before he went to the British, and his cousin would not leave him. They were concealed a considerable time by their friends; it at length, however, became known that they were in the county, when several who were, or conceived themselves, injured by them, endeavored to have them apprehended; but as they were stout, active, resolute men and went always well armed, those who were in pursuit of them were afraid openly to attack them. Probably there hardly lived a more active man than the younger, Abraham. If he were seen by persons on horseback in pursuit of him, and he on foot, he would run like a deer, and no fence could stop him for a moment. He went over any fence without putting a hand on it. They were both tall, handsome men. A considerable time after their return into the State they were taken by surprise in Chester Co., by some men who were out hunting, who, from their appearance in the woods, and from their endeavors to conceal themselves, suspected them of having bad intentions, and insisted on their going before a magistrate. They made no resistance, hoping, as they were not known, they would be immediately dismissed; in this, however, they were mistaken. They were carried before Colonel Hannum who committed them to jail. Had they not attempted to conceal themselves, they would not have been apprehended, for they told a very plausible story of their being New Jersey men on the way westward to take up land.

Had they applied to Thomas Ross, Esq., a gentleman of the Bar, who then lived at Chester (and was present when they were brought before Colonel up to the mark, there was a general smile among the bystanders at his venturing to compete with their famous friend. He, however, very leisurely took off his hat and coat, tied a handkerchief around his waist, and at a single spring cleared the ground several feet beyond his competitor. Never were a set of men more astonished than the spectators who witnessed this feat, and the man who had been thus signaliy outdone was so amazed that he exclaimed: 'By G—! you must either be the devil or a Doan.' The stranger immediately left the party who, upon enquiry, proved to be none other than Abraham Doane.'
Hannum), within a day or two of their commitment he would have had them liberated, but owing to some mistake they did not apply in time, and they were detained until, some people coming to Chester from Bucks Co., they were known. As there was no reward offered for apprehending them [Mr. Bid-dle is mistaken in this as Levi and Abraham were mentioned in the Proclamation of Outlawry], the people who took them were in no way anxious about their being kept in prison. Mr. Ross, who was their counsel when they were brought to the Court, has since told me that he lamented they had not applied in time to him, for he knew the family had been hardly used. He was born near where these young men were, and knew them well before they went off, but did not recollect them when they were brought before Colonel Han-num. After they were condemned, and the time was fixed for their execution, the father of Abraham, several female relations and friends, and some influential gentlemen, waited on the Council to solicit a pardon for them, or, if that could not be obtained, a reprieve. The latter was readily granted. Hear-ing much of these men, and wishing to communicate intelligence which I knew would give great pleasure to these unfortunate men and their friends, I went to jail to inform them that the Council had granted a reprieve for one month. I wished also to prepare them for the worst that might happen. When I went into the room, they were surrounded by their relatives and friends, among whom were several females, two of them very handsome girls who had lived with them in the woods. It was to no purpose I told them that the prisoners were only reprieved for a month, and that it was probable they would not be pardoned. When they found they were reprieved they gave way to the most extravagant joy; they all concluded that through the Intercession of friends, they should be pardoned. This, I told them, they must not expect, although I had little doubt myself but that a pardon would be granted. I always thought it wrong to grant a reprieve for any length of time, without granting a pardon; it is like putting a man to death in cold blood. Before the month expired the Legislature met, when they petitioned for pardon, and if that could not be obtained a trial by jury. The Legislature were inclined to pass a bill in their favor, and appointed a committee, consisting of Mr. Lewis, Mr. Fitzsimons and Mr. Rittenhouse, to confer with the Supreme Executive Council on the subject of their pardon. This I believe was what proved fatal to these young men. Several of the members of the Council thought the Legislature had no business to interfere, as the power of pardoning, by the Consti-tution, was given to the Council. They refused to pardon or extend the time fixed for their execution. It was in vain the members of the Legislature and the minority in the Council urged the peculiar situation of these unfortunate men; the majority were jealous of the inter-ference of the Legislature, and it was carried by a very small majority, that they should suffer. Going to the Council the day afterwards, I met them going in a cart to the gallows, followed by their relations and friends. It was a very affecting sight. They died with great firmness.

231 MAHLON⁶ DOANE (Joseph,⁵ Israel,⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa. By the confession of Jesse Vickers, Aug. 9, 1782, he also is charged with complicity in the robbery of the Bucks County treasury, Oct. 22, 1781, and in the robberies of certain collectors of taxes and military fines. Accordingly his name appears in the Proclamations of June 30, and July 26, 1783. By reason of these notices and the rewards offered for his apprehension, he fled to western Pennsylvania, where he was captured by one John Solomon Miller and lodged in the Bedford County jail, on Saturday, Sept. 27, 1783. With the aid of confederates Mahlon Doane soon escaped from that prison, but before leaving released all the prisoners except one, who had been guilty of robbing a woman. "Mahlon was a thin visaged, slender man, not more than five feet eight inches in height. He was the smallest of the brothers, but though lacking in size and brute strength, he was wily and active. He was a hard man to capture, and a harder captive to hold. He was recognized by his long, coal-black hair, and a peculiar habit he had of looking down, but more positively by a blemish in one eye, and a scar beneath it."—History of the Doane Outlaws.

What became of Mahlon after his escape is a matter of mere conjecture. There is a tradition that in freeing himself of his irons, he mutilated his feet and shortly after died in the woods from loss of blood. Another tradition is, that he drowned himself in the Chesapeake to escape further persecutions. His nephew, Levi Doane, son of "Exile Aaron" (229) of Canada, about 1880 said of his uncle Mahlon: "He escaped from prison and went on board a ship at New York on which were four hundred Loyalists. I believe they sailed for England. We never heard any more of Mahlon."

232 JONATHAN^6^ DOANE (Elijah,^5^ Israel,^4^ Daniel,^3^ Daniel,^2^ John^1^) was born 1765, 8, 16. He married Jane Thompson, who was born 1764, 12, 24, the daughter of John Thompson. In 1789 they removed from Pennsylvania or New Jersey to Canada and settled first at Sugar Loaf, in the Niagara district, where they resided about twenty years. In 1810 they removed to the township of Yarmouth, County of Elgin. Being one of the first settlers there and a man of energy and influence, he was known in old age as "The Patriarch of Yarmouth."

234 Abraham Doane (Israel, Israel, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born probably at Plumstead, Bucks Co., Pa. He was hanged in Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 24, 1788. For some facts of his career see the notice of his cousin Levi Doane (230).

235 Israel Doane (Israel, Israel, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1770, 4, 6 and died at Caln, Chester Co., Pa., 1848, 1, 18. He married Leah Pennington, who was born about 1767 and died at Caln, 1845, 1, 1, aged 77 years, the daughter of William and Mary Pennington. She was his first cousin on the maternal side. Of Mr. Doane’s youth very little is known, but it is understood that he lived for a time, after the death of his father, with an uncle named Samuel Kester. Before reaching the age of twenty he married and settled in Chester county, and lived in the townships of East Caln and Brandywine, now West Brandywine. At one time he owned a farm in East Caln, and later one in Brandywine which he sold to his son Israel. When more than fifty years old, he walked all the distance to and from Canada, on a visit to relatives who, it is understood, lived nearly opposite the town of Erie, Pa. About 1806 he and his wife united with the Friends Meeting at Caln. Mr. Doane was a man of fine personal appearance, of great physical activity, keen in repartee and very conscientious in all his dealings with his fellow men. He was blind during several of the last years of his life. He was a weaver by trade, and a farmer.

She married Nov. 20, 1782, James Barbour, who died at Bridport, Oct. 22, 1839, aged 79 years, 10 mos. (gravestone, Bridport). The same year of their marriage they settled in Bridport, where they were among the first settlers. It is said that they made the first Thanksgiving dinner in Bridport, to which all the townspeople, consisting of six families, were invited. They both were of stanch old stock,\textsuperscript{*} both were christians and leading members of the Congregational church.

Children, all born at Bridport:

i Ira,\textsuperscript{7} b. Sept. 30, 1783; d. in Mich., Dec. 20, 1867. He married three, and perhaps four, times. He m. 1st, Jan. 1, 1807, Praxana Boyington; m. 2nd, Feb. 6, 1814, Esther Cobb. He left Vt. when a young man; lived in Central N. Y. many years, but later followed his children to Michigan.

\textsuperscript{*}They were christians of fine old Puritan ancestry, and consequently very staid and sober. On one occasion a lawyer of Shoreham reported that he saw Mr. Barbour and his wife out in the yard, "pulling hair with all their might, and that the old man had a butcher's knife in his hand." The church concluded that for so grave an offence, they should be called to an account. Accordingly they were arraigned before a meeting of the dignitaries, when the testimony developed the fact, it was the hair of a butchered hog they were pulling.

Mr. Doane received private instruction under the Rev. Mr. Shute and graduated at Harvard College in 1774. On Apr. 10, 1776, he, with a boat's crew, captured off Cohasset, Mass., the British ship Industry, with her valuable cargo, which was recorded as a very gallant act. After the close of the Revolutionary war he moved to Boston and purchased, in 1783, for £2400 the Faneuil-Phillips house where he lived several years. On account of the death of a favorite child on the grounds of the mansion, he changed his residence in Boston, retaining the family home in Wellfleet and purchasing a country house in Medford, Mass. In 1787, he was one of the gentlemen volunteers in the Shay Rebellion. Inheriting a large fortune he lived elegantly in accordance with it; entertained lavishly and was prominent in society and all social matters. He was very benevolent, his property and personal services were never denied to those who needed them, and his sympathies were without calculation.

ISAIAH DOANE, SEN.

(From an oil painting.)
his benevolence had a large scope, and it is recorded that he "was greatly respected and beloved." In 1798, yellow fever appeared in Boston, and Mr. Doane in fulfilling his duties on the Board of Health, contracted the disease, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. Travel and sea voyages, later, failed to restore his strength, and finally returning to his Boston home he died as above noted.

On his tomb in King's Chapel is inscribed:

He was a tender husband
An affectionate Father
A kind Master
And the Poor Man's friend.

Isaiah Doane inherited a large property near what is now Kilby street, in Boston. Doane street, leading out of Kilby street, was undoubtedly named for him in 1806, though John Doane, Esq. (7), owned and occupied nearly all the land in that vicinity as early as 1740.

ELISHA6 DOANE (Elisha,5 Elisha,4 Hezekiah,3 Ephraim,2 John1) was born at Wellfleet, Mass., Mar. 5, 1762 and died at Cohasset, Mass., July 4, 1832. He married first, June 24, 1783, by his brother-in-law Rev. Samuel Parker, Jane Cutler, who was born Apr. 28, 1765 and died at Cohasset, Mass., Mar. 2, 1828, the youngest daughter of John and Mary (Clark) Cutler of Boston, and sister of Ann Cutler wife of Rev. Samuel Parker, rector of Trinity church, Boston, and, later, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts. Married second, July 4, 1825, Elizabeth Cushing who died at Lynn, Mass., June 17, 1841, aged 69 years (buried in tomb 166, Old Granary burying-ground, Boston), the daughter of Hon. Charles and Elizabeth (Sumner) Cushing.

Mr. Doane graduated at Harvard College in 1781. About 1786, he purchased property from his father and half-brother John Doane (243), in Cohasset, Mass., and settled in that town where his wealth, culture and energy had a lasting effect upon the community. He dwelt in a house there on the corner of the present Sohier and Main streets, where now a little cupola covers the old cellar.
Although a very active, stirring man, interested in everything transpiring in town, state and nation, Mr. Doane never held any public office except that of a Justice of the Peace. He erected a grist and flour mill, a rope walk and salt works, engaged in domestic and foreign commerce for some years, but finally relinquished his vessels and confined his attention to his farm and salt works.

Children, from Cohasset records:

474 i Elisha,7 b. Apr. 11, 1784.
ii John Cutler,7 b. Jan. 14, 1786; d. of fever June, 1806, at St. Vincent, W. I., while there as supercargo on his father's vessel; unm.

Aug. 6, 1830, s. of David Stoddard and Ann (Doane) Greenough, and gr. s. of John Doane, Esq. (7). He graduated at Harvard Coll. in 1805; was Lieut. Col., of Boston Independent Cadets and a Counsellor at Law, She m. 2nd, Dec. 13, 1836, Gen. Wm. H. Sumner of Boston.

243 JOHN6 DOANE (Elisha,5 Elisha,4 Hezekiah,3 Ephraim,2 John1) was born at Wellfleet, Mass., Apr. 12, 1773, and died at Roxbury, Mass., Apr. 9, 1795 (buried in Doane tomb, King's Chapel). He married in Boston, May 6, 1794, by Rev. Samuel Stillman, Persis6 Crafts, who was baptized at the New Brick Church, Boston, Oct. 25, 1772 and died in Boston, June 20, 1849, aged 77 years, the daughter of William6 and Persis (Bridge) Crafts (Thomas,4 Ephraim,3 John,2 Lieut. Griffin1). She married second, Jan. 14, 1801, Robert Homes, a brass finisher, who died in Boston, June 18, 1804, aged 36 years, the son of William Jr., and Elizabeth (Whitwell) Homes, leaving children: Wm. Crafts, Esther B., Henry and Caroline Crafts. Inheriting a fortune, Mr. Doane bought a farm and built a house in Roxbury but had lived there only a short time when he died. No children. (See Crafts Genealogy.)

244 HENRY6 DOANE (Hezekiah,5 Elisha,4 Hezekiah,3 Ephraim,2 John1) was born at Wellfleet, Mass., Feb. 2, 1761. He married and had, at least, one son, but we have not found a record of the marriage, and have not ascertained the name of his wife. He is named in his father's will, dated Oct. 9, 1795, as "my late son Henry Doane." The History of Eastham says, he died in the Revolutionary war. From the war records in the Massachusetts State Archives we have the following:

"Henry Doane, private, Capt. Joseph Smith's detachment of Wellfleet militia, which marched to Falmouth Sept. 10, 1778, by order of Brig. Joseph Otis, on an alarm; service 2 days; reported 52 miles travel allowed; roll endorsed, 'Col. Freeman's regt.'"

Child:

477 i HENRY, b. ———.

245 JOSEPH⁶ DOANE (Hezekiah⁵, Elisha⁴, Hezekiah³, Ephraim², John¹) was born at Wellfleet, Mass., July 20, 1764 and died there early in 1808. He married Nancy Beals, who died in Wellfleet, Apr. 5, 1805, "in the 43rd year of her age" (gravestone, Duck Creek burial-ground). James Townsend was appointed to settle Joseph Doane's estate Apr. 12, 1808.

Children, first one from Wellfleet records:

HANNAH,⁷ b. June 1, 1787.

HOPE,⁷ b. about 1790; d. Apr. 1, 1798, æ. 8 years (gravestone: Duck Creek burial-ground).

246 ELISHA⁶ DOANE (Hezekiah⁵, Elisha⁴, Hezekiah³, Ephraim², John¹) was born at Wellfleet, Mass., June 26, 1768 and died at Yarmouth, Mass., Oct. 5, 1848. He married Susan Bassett, and settled in Yarmouth, where he engaged in trade and accumulated a fortune. He was a prominent citizen of his adopted town, president of the first temperance society, Justice of the Peace; town treasurer; a member of the first Board of County Commissioners; a Representative to the General Court several years and a member of the Massachusetts Constitutional Convention of 1820. He united with the Congregational church of Yarmouth in 1814, and for more than thirty years was a blameless and most efficient member. He was full of good works, his almsdeeds done in secret were numerous and the christian gentleman was apparent in all the intercourse of life. (See The Excellency of the Righteous, a discourse occasioned by the death of the Hon. Elisha Doane, by Phineas Fish, 1848.)

Children, born at Yarmouth:

478 i SUSAN,⁷ b. July 10, 1820.

ii JOHN BEAR,⁷ b. ———; d. at Yarmouth, Sept. 11, 1837; a young man of excellent character and great promise. He was a Representative to the General Court for three years from 1828, and was actively identified with all the public business of his town. Of him it was written: "He was an honor to human nature, the staff of his father's days, and so full of promise, that all who knew him must have felt the wish that his days might be prolonged to the utmost limit of human life."

479 iii Elizabeth, b. May 5, 1812.

247 Elisha DOANE (Elisha, Hezekiah, Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was born on Cape Cod, it is claimed in the town of Barnstable, Sept. 22, 1765 and died at Hampden, Me., Mar. 2, 1846 (gravestone, Hampden). He married first, at Cambridge, Mass., Apr. 3 (or 4) 1788, Eunice Hunnewell, who was born Feb. 19 (baptized at First church, Cambridge, Mar. 3), 1765 and died at Orrington, Me., Aug. 9, 1807, the daughter of Richard and Eunice (Thompson) Hunnewell of Cambridge. Married second, at Orrington, Oct. 9, 1808, Rachel Brown, who died at Hampden, May 31, 18—, aged 73 years, 11 months. Mr. Doane's father was lost at sea about 1783 or 4, at which time the family lived in Cambridge. On Apr. 8, 1784, John Foxcroft of Cambridge was appointed guardian to the boy, Elisha, then a minor "above fourteen years of age." He was a housewright by trade, and lived first in Cambridge, then in Sudbury, Mass., removing to Orrington in Nov., 1796. After his second marriage he lived in Hampden. His old Bible, containing family records, is in possession of his granddaughter.

Children, of first marriage, from family Bible:

248 Hezekiah DOANE (Elisha, Hezekiah, Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was in Cambridge, Mass., in 1784, and was the ward of Josiah Lewis of Barnstable, Mass., in 1785. He married Elizabeth Green, and lived in the town of Barnstable, where he was a farmer and shipwright. His will, dated Mar. 18, 1834, and proved "the second Tuesday of Aug.," of that year bequeaths to wife Elizabeth, son Elisha, and daughter Elizabeth. His real estate was appraised at $2,715, besides one house on Nantucket Island, value unknown.

252 NEHEMIAH 6 DOANE (Thomas, 5 Thomas, 4 Thomas, 3 Ephraim, 2 John) was born at Barrington, N. S., Mar. 24, 1776 and died there Feb. 22, 1851. He was married at Barrington, Jan. 10, 1799, by Samuel O. Doane, Esq., to Nancy Kenney, who was born at Barrington, Oct. 14, 1780 and died there Aug. 6, 1864, the daughter of Isaac and Sarah (Godfrey) Kenney. Nehemiah Doane was a child of seven years when, at his father's open grave, he saw, on May 3, 1783, the British transports pass the headlands of Barrington harbor with the refugee settlers of Shelburne. After his father's death he lived, during his minority, with his half-brother, Capt. John Lewis, on Cape Sable Island where, at the age of twenty-three, he married. Removing thence to the mainland he built several small vessels in which he engaged in trading along the coast from Labrador to Boston. When in Boston, he was accustomed to visit his "Uncle Payne" (father of the author of "Home, Sweet Home"), whom with his talented family he held in great affection and esteem. The war of 1812–15 interrupted his trading ventures and left him in business straits, which, however, he gradually overcame and resumed vessel building. In 1827 he built and launched the schooner Ocean, in which his sons Thomas and Isaac made two voyages from Halifax to the West Indies, and in February, 1828, started upon a third. The night following their leaving Halifax witnessed one of the severest storms in the history of the Atlantic, and vessel or crew was never seen or heard of again. From the financial loss thus involved Mr. Doane never fully recovered.

Besides holding the captaincy of the local militia company, Mr. Doane served many years as overseer of the poor and of the highways. A dead shot with the rifle, he held an unsurpassed reputation as an enthusiastic and mighty hunter. A man of wide reading and superiorly educated himself, the winter night-schools which he conducted set many a young man on the road to future success. But it was in the religious life of his time in Barrington that he performed his most important part.

The first Barrington settlers were mostly Congregationalists and Quakers. One of their number, the Rev. Theodore Harding, assisted by Rev. Thomas Crandell, organized a Baptist church, but it was left without a pastor by Mr. Harding's removal to Wolfville, N. S. Henry Alline, a travelling "New Light" preacher, brought a wave of religious revival to Barrington, which was renewed by a visit from the eloquent Rev. Harris Harding, of Yarmouth, N. S., who added numbers to the Baptist flock, among them Thomas Crowell, a brother-in-law of Mr Doane. The Rev. Peter Martin brought into the church Nehemiah Doane and his wife; and Thomas Crowell was ordained and installed as pastor. After a time Arminian doctrines were introduced by the Revs. Asa McGray and Jacob Norton, of Maine, and a period of bitter theological dispute intervened between the old Calvinists and the new "Free Willers," such as only undiluted Puritans can wage, which ended in the reorganization of the church, against the opposition of the pastor and others, as the "Free Will Baptist Church." But to the credit of the people, showing that, in the midst of their schisms, brotherly love was strong within them, they retained their old beloved pastor, and Mr. Doane, as rigid a Calvinist as the minister himself, was chosen deacon. This office he held till his death.

At his funeral, which the whole countryside attended, the preacher, in summing up the character of Nehemiah Doane, said: "Every man was his neighbor. His life was a service to those around him, and the wandering outcast and beggar he never turned empty away."

270 SETH BROWN⁷ DOANE (Edward,⁶ Noah,⁵ Solomon,⁴ Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born at Dana, Mass., Feb. 8, 1798 and died at Independence, Kansas, Feb., 1876. He married first, at Lowell, Mass., Oct. 5, 1823, Meloria Lucretia Johnson, who was

His father being a stern old sea captain, Mr. Doane was brought up under strict obedience to a command. While a boy he showed considerable skill in the use of tools, and his father allowed him to become a mechanic. He persevered in this line until he became a builder and architect in Boston. His early years were full of thrilling experiences. Prompted by a spirit of wild adventure and discovery, he journeyed to Florida, intent upon reaching the Spanish Fort at New Orleans. Failing to make connections between the eastern and western Florida coast, by stage line, he struck out boldly and unattended, without protection of any kind. To escape the attacks of wild beasts, which abounded in that section, he snatched his hours of sleep and rest in the tops of trees. Losing his way at one time, he wandered through the forests and was without food for four days until, hearing the click of a woodman's axe, he discovered his whereabouts. After consultation with himself, he decided to return to the home of his birth. The first four years after his marriage he spent in Lowell and Boston, Mass., and in Albany and Buffalo, N. Y., following the business of an architect and builder. Still burning with a spirit for western adventure, in 1834 he took his family consisting of wife and four children, to what was then called Fort Dearborn, now Chicago, Ill. This was then only an Indian trading fort, but with the grit of a true frontiersman he went to work and out of the forest primeval secured logs with which he built one, among the first dwelling houses in Chicago. Becoming more favorably impressed with his surroundings, he lay claim to a quarter section of government land, which is now in the heart of Chicago. Soon a settlement developed and the city by the lakes began to grow. For the next four or five years at the Fort and at Bachelors Grove, a small settlement some sixteen miles distant, he continued the work of a mechanic. Tiring of the surroundings and losing faith in the future of his adopted home, in 1839 he sold his developments and claim, but his wife, prompted by something more than human instinct, refused to sign away her right, and thus the title stands today. From here he moved his family to Canton, Ill., and subsequently a few miles distant to Utica, a small town on the Illinois river. A few years later he bought two hundred and forty acres of choice timber land in Orion township, to which he moved his family, now increased to nine children. Surrounding himself with workshops here in the forest, he became the master mechanic of central Illinois, and built for himself an elegant home patterned after Eastern styles of architecture. Surrounded by the conveniences of the time, he reared his large family. After the death of his wife, the spirit of adventure returning, Mr. Doane in company with his son, Seth A., migrated to Fort Scott and invested in a tract of land, on the then wilds of southeastern Kansas. There he married a second time.

In Feb., 1876, while on a trip to Independence, Kan., he contracted a severe cold, developing into pneumonia, of which he died. He was buried in Independence. Such is the life sketch of a true-born pilgrim, a fearless pioneer, a kind husband and father and an honored citizen.

H., Dec. 31, 1885, the daughter of John and Sarah (Chase) Carleton. When a young man Mr. Doane spent some time in Alabama. He was in business in Lowell from about 1826 to 1839. On Oct. 6, 1829, he purchased for $1,700 eighty acres of land in the town of Westford adjoining Lowell, and pew No. 18 on the lower floor of the Westford Old Meeting house." Acting on the advice of his physician he removed, in 1839, to the hemlock woods of Delaware Co., N. Y., and settled on a farm in Middletown. After his death his widow lived in Lowell and in Lawrence, Mass., and finally in Milford, N. H., where she died. Mr. Doane was a leading man in all public affairs of the townships in which he lived. While in Alabama, he was elected sheriff of the county and was very popular with the people. While in Lowell, he was a deacon of the Worthen street Baptist church. In Middletown he donated land and built a school-house, where he established regular religious ser-VICES, and reserved land for a church building.

272a ASA7 DOANE (Edward, Noah, Solomon, Samuel, John, John1) was born at Dana, Mass., Mar. 28, 1805 and died at Monterey, Steuben Co., N. Y., Jan. 23, 1892. He married first, at Lowell, Mass., in 1827, Sylvia Hyde, who was born at Pelham, Mass., June 18, 1804 and died of palsy at Monterey, Jan. 3, 1874, the daughter of James and Margaret Hyde, and a sister of Sarah Hyde, who married his brother, Rufus Doane. Married second, in 1874, Mrs. Elizabeth Swarthout, a widow, of Watkins, N. Y. By her first marriage she had a daughter, Ida Swarthout.

At the age of twenty-one, Mr. Doane went to Brighton, Mass., and worked as a butcher, thence to Lowell, Mass., and worked in a woollen mill. Sometime after marriage, he moved from Lowell to Petersham, Mass., and bought a farm of forty-six acres about one and one-half miles south of the village. In Sept., 1837, he sold his Petersham property, and removed to Monterey and settled on a farm of ninety-six acres, which his brother Rufus had purchased for him in the north part of the town, since called "Doane’s Hill." With his wife he returned to Petersham on a visit in 1883, after an absence of forty-six years.

Children of first marriage, first three born at Petersham, the others at Monterey:

495b i Samson, b. Aug. 18, 1829.
ii Rebecca E., b. Jan. 8, 1834; d. in Chicago, Ill., abt. 1879; m. George Brown of Boston, Mass., who d. at Pike’s Peak, Col. She studied at Starkey Seminary, and taught school in N. Y.; graduated at medical college and was in partnership in drug business with her uncle Dr. John B. Doane (274) in Chicago.
iii Sarah B., b. Feb. 27, 1837; d. in N. Topeka, Kan., Mar. 15, 1898; m. ——— Eldredge of Broome Co., N. Y.; d. at Centralia, Ill. Ch.: 1. Elmer; is in business in Topeka. 2. John B. Doane.

v Julia Ann, b. ———; d. in infancy.

273 RUFUS7 DOANE (Edward6 Noah5 Solomon4 Samuel3 John2 John1) was born at Dana, Mass., Feb. 10, 1807 and died at Monterey, N. Y., Feb. 10, 1878 (gravestone, Monterey). He married Oct. 13, 1836, Sarah Hyde, who was born at Pelham, Mass., Apr. 18, 1812 and died at Monterey, Jan. 15, 1894 (gravestone, Monterey) the daughter of James and Margaret Hyde, and a sister of Sylvia Hyde, who married his brother Asa Doane (272a). Mr. Doane was in charge of the poor farm at Petersham for some years, later was in the meat business in Lowell, Mass. In 1835 he went to Illinois and bought some prairie land, but soon returned to Monterey, then Mead's Creek, where he purchased fifty acres of land three quarters of a mile west of the village. He then went to Massachusetts and married as above noted. They returned to Monterey and began housekeeping in a log house. In Sept., 1837, they were joined there by his brother Edward and family, and in June, 1838, by his father and mother. In 1839 he bought one hundred acres of timber land adjoining his farm. He kept stock, raised grain, was in the lumber and shingle business and accumulated a fortune. His health failing, he sold his farm in 1853 and bought a house and seventeen acres on the outskirts of Monterey, which they occupied ten years. Later he sold this place and bought a house and lot of one acre nearer the village. His wife joined the Baptist church when a young woman. He united with the Baptist church at Monterey about 1845. They gave liberally of their means to the support of that church. He willed his house and lot to the Baptist society for a parsonage to be theirs on the death of his wife. She in turn willed one thousand dollars to the society for a permanent fund, the interest of which to be applied to the pastor's salary. At the age of thirteen Mr. Doane contracted a fever which settled in his arm between the elbow and shoulder, in consequence of which his arm ever after was partially helpless. He died of cancer which began to develop one and a half years before his death. No children.

274 JOHN B.⁷ DOANE (Edward,⁶ Noah,⁵ Solomon,⁴ Samuel,³ John,² John¹) was born at Dana, Mass., Aug. 1, 1813 and died at Hinsdale, Du Page Co., Ill., Jan. 29, 1900. He married, first, at Milwaukee, Wis., —. Married second, in Chicago, Ill., June 6, 1874, Sarah Pritchard, who was born at Booneville, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1845, the daughter of William and Mary (Williams) Pritchard, who were natives of Wales, Great Britain.

Mr. Doane left home when about eighteen years old, went to Boston and shipped as a sailor on a merchant vessel bound for France. He worked his way up until he was captain in the merchant marine, at the age of twenty-two. He later went to Galena, Ill., worked in the lead mines a number of years and speculated to some extent, buying pork and farm produce from the settlers of the then Territory of Iowa, and shipping them East. From there he went to Wisconsin and bought a farm four miles west of Milwaukee. He sold his Milwaukee property, went to Davenport, Iowa, and engaged in a mercantile business for a while, then graduated from two medical colleges—Eclectic and Allopathic—and for many years was a successful practitioner of medicine in Chicago, where he accumulated considerable property. He sold out in Chicago and bought a large tract of land in the northwestern part of Indiana, where he helped to build up a small village and was at the head of various business enterprises. This property he sold about 1881 or 2, and purchased a home for his old age at Hinsdale, seventeen miles west of Chicago. Mr. Doane was a man of versatile genius, of great energy, of business enterprise and of the strictest integrity. He was a curious investigator in realms of nature and philosophy and for many years was a member of a literary society in Chicago, where his memory is one of the choicest among the older prominent men. His widow resides at Hinsdale.

Children, of first marriage:

i Truman P.,⁸ b. ——; m. Cleo Bell Hall; lived for a time in N. Y. city; is now in Chicago.
ii Edward,⁸ b. ——; d. æ. abt. 8 years.
iii Clementina,⁸ b. ——; d. in childhood.

Children, of second marriage:

iv Ella,⁸ b. in Chicago, Dec. 28, 1875; d. Feb. 28, 1876.
v Alice Edna,⁸ b. at Davis, Stark Co., Ind., Jan. 19, 1881; d. at Hinsdale, 1898.

When a young man, Mr Doane shipped as a sailor on a whaling ship, bound for the North Pacific Ocean, on a three years' voyage. On arrival at the Sandwich Islands he, with some others of the crew, ran away from the vessel into the interior of one of the islands to escape the brutal treatment of their captain, but in three days they were discovered, taken back to the ship and severely whipped with a cat-o'-nine-tails. After two years in the North Pacific they returned home, when the captain was heavily fined for his brutal usage of the crew. He then married and went to Delaware Co., N. Y., to engage in farming and the lumbering business with his brother Zenas (271). After the death of his brother, in 1844, he returned to Lowell.

Children:

i Rosella Anverette,6 b. at Middletown, N. Y., Apr. 19, 1842; d. at Lowell, Oct. 8, 1849.

ii George Edward,6 b. at Middletown, Oct. 30, 1843; m. at Lowell, Dec. 30, 1885, Sarah Augusta Wing, b. at Lowell, Nov. 22, 1847, dau. of Alphens Giles and Sarah (Carr) Wing; res. in Effingham.

iii Julia Anverita,6 b. at Middletown, May 2, 1845; d. at Effingham, Sept. 23, 1846.

276 LEONARD7 DOANE (Samuel,6 Nehemiah,5 Solomon,4 Samuel,3 John,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., Nov. 6, 1798 and died at Dana, Mass., Aug. 14, 1868. He married July 20, 1819, Harriet White, who was born at Dana, Sept. 6, 1801 and died there Oct. 4, 1890, the daughter of Stephen and Abigail (Hudson) White.

Leonard Doane was a member of the family of John Pike, his stepfather, who, fleeing the persecutions of the British sailors, left the seacoast and settled inland in that portion of S. Petersham, now a part of Dana. The influence of his early life led him to become a seaman, and his first voyage was on a fishing vessel to the Banks. After that he was a sailor to South Atlantic and West India ports, to England and France, and advanced until he became "skipper of a coaster."
He always had a fondness for the sea, and in later life loved to recall the exciting and dangerous adventures of earlier days.

In those days, conveyance by coach between Boston and Dana, was irregular and uncertain, so that Mr. Doane frequently made the journey on foot, thus saving time and money. On one occasion coming into port too late for the Dana coach, he set out for Dana on foot. Though ill with the measles he reached home, but so tedious were the hardships endured on the way, he never afterward repeated the journey.

After leaving the sea, he engaged in business with his step-father, Mr. Goodyear and others, when in an attempt to place rubber upon cloth, he lost the property he had acquired by hard work and frugality. The enterprise led him to New York, Providence and other cities, but he finally settled in Dana, and for many years manufactured palm-leaf hats. He was a man of visions, and as in business he saw possibilities above discouragements, so in public affairs he saw through clouds of darkness the brightness of grand results. He was a Prohibitionist and worked for the enforcement of the State Prohibitory Law. He was not aggressive, believing rather in moral suasion than in force, and opposed the liquor traffic, not the men. His genial nature, quaint humor, and evident purity of motive, disarmed enmity and won friends even of those whose business he helped to destroy. At one time a young hotel-keeper was prosecuted for illegal liquor selling. The evidence against him was conclusive, but in view of his having a wife and little children to support it was suggested that two well-known temperance men of the town should go to Worcester and vouch for the young man's future behavior. Mr. Doane was one of the men chosen. He hardly liked the mission, but from kindness of heart did not refuse, and later events proved he never regretted his humanity.

He was a reader, and a thinker, and a leader if need be, an Abolitionist, a member of the Free Soil party and a lifelong Republican rejoicing in the freedom of the slave. As a Free Soiler he represented his town in the Legislature in 1851. That was a year of great excitement. The slave Simms fled to Boston and was returned to his former owner under the Fugitive Slave Law. While he was confined in Boston and awaiting trial, ropes were fastened around the Court House to hold back the excited crowds, and from the steps Wendell Phillips harangued the people, greatly impressing Mr. Doane with abolition sentiments.
A true son of Pilgrim sires, with broad views, a persistent and determined though gentle spirit, he made his work for the public good, permanent and enduring, and for himself, a reputation for steadfastness and integrity. In religion he was a Universalist. He believed in the Bible as a divine revelation, in Jesus Christ as a divine manifestation, in repentance and regeneration and that God’s mercy reaches beyond the grave.

Children, born in Dana:

496 ii George Wood,8 b. June 20, 1827.

277 SAMUEL7 DOANE (Samuel,6 Nehemiah,5 Solomon,4 Samuel,3 John,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., June 22, 1809 and died at Whately, Mass., Aug. 20, 1886. He married Mar. 17, 1831, Miranda Crafts, who was born at Whately, Oct. 15, 1799 and died there Dec. 2, 1884, the daughter of Reuben7 and Henrietta (Graves) Crafts (Reuben,6 Benoni,5 John,4 Thomas,3 John,2 Lieut. Griffin1). Mr. Doane was a manufacturer of pocketbooks, and lived in Whately (see Crafts Genealogy).

Mr. Doane is a member of the Oregon Conference of the M. E. Church, and resides in the city of Portland. He was converted in 1836, licensed to preach in 1845, and entered Boston Theological Seminary, then located at Concord, N. H., from which he graduated. Immediately after marriage they went to Oregon where he had been appointed by the missionary board to take charge of the Oregon Institute, now the Willamette University. They went via the Isthmus. While in Panama Dr. Doane preached the first Methodist sermon ever heard in that part of the world, to a large crowd of argonauts who were on their way to the Golden Gate. After making the trip from Astoria to Portland in an open boat which took eleven days, they arrived in Portland on Dec. 31, 1849. Dr. Doane has served on the most important charges in his Conference, including several terms as Presiding Elder. In 1876 he was a delegate to the General Conference of his church in Baltimore, Md. He is the author of a small volume entitled Infant Baptism Briefly Considered. In 1899, Dr. and Mrs. Doane celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their home in University Park, Portland.

285 WILLIAM COLES DOANE (David, Joseph, Solomon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Shavangunk, Ulster Co., N. Y., July 17, 1826. He married at Union, Broome Co., N. Y., July 12, 1848, Mary E. Keeler, the daughter of Lewis W. and Mary (Rogers) Keeler. Mr. Doane has resided in Williamsport, Pa., Washington, D. C., Union, Syracuse, Binghamton, and Elmira, N. Y., his present place of residence. He studied medicine with Dr. Houghton of Orange Co., N. Y., graduated from a medical school at Castleton, Vt., in June 1847, and, in September of that year, commenced the practice of medicine in Union.

In 1855 he was nominated and, after a hotly contested canvass, was elected clerk of Broome Co. The first Republican organization of that county was effected by Dr. Doane in Sept., 1855.

When Mr. Lincoln was President Dr. Doane accepted a place as Examiner in the United States Patent Office, and during the war was always ready to do any service that the country demanded of him. In 1862, at the request of President Lincoln, he went into the State of New York to hold war meetings and enlist men for the army. He spoke almost every day from June till November, during which time the enlistments at his meetings were so numerous, that Hon. E. D. Morgan, Governor of the State, publicly acknowledged his services, and took occasion to say: "His work has been of inestimable value to the country, for which he is justly entitled to the gratitude of all patriotic and loyal citizens."

After the death of President Lincoln, Dr. Doane refused to submit to the Johnson policy, resigned his place in the Patent Office and went to Williamsport, Pa., where he soon obtained a large practice.

At the request of various Republican committees Dr. Doane has frequently left his practice, at a great sacrifice, and has thrown himself with all his might into almost every campaign since 1856. He has spoken with great favor in almost every northern state of the Union, and his well known abilities as a Republican orator have been greatly appreciated by the party he represents.

291 JOHN7 DOANE (Timothy,6 John,5 Simeon,4 Samuel,3 John,2 John1) was born at Eastham, Mass., May 28, 1791 and died at Orleans, Mass., Mar. 3, 1881. He married Nov. 13, 1820, Polly Eldredge, who was born July 28, 1796 and died Jan. 3, 1875, the daughter of Barnabas and Zipporah Eldredge.

Hon. John Doane was educated at Sandwich Academy and at Bridgewater, Mass. He studied law with John Reed, and was admitted to the bar in Barnstable, about 1818, and practised for more than half a century. He was a Representative to the Legislature and in 1830 was first elected State Senator, in which office he served three terms with dignity and ability. He was at one time a member of the Governor's council. In 1850 and again in 1853 he was elected county commissioner. He lived to a ripe old age in the enjoyment of a rare social position, respected by all who knew him. Upon the town in which he lived, and upon the public whose interests he sought to serve, he made a lasting impression as an honest and sound counselor, who in all his professional career advised settlements, compromises and concessions instead of litigations in the courts. He was familiarly known all over the Cape as "Squire Doane." He was a friend to young men seeking to obtain an education. He was one of the earliest, if not the first, to engage in arboriculture in this country, and planted many acres of old lands to pines and oaks. (See Obituary in Barnstable Patriot of Apr. 5, 1881.)

318  RUSSELL? DOANE (Myrick, Isaiah, Simeon, Samuel, John, John) was born in Eastham, Mass., Nov. 29, 1801 and died in Brooklyn (Williamsburgh), N. Y., Oct. 26, 1877. He married at Eastham in 1831, by Rev. Philander Shaw, Martha Crosby, who was born at Brewster, Mass, Nov. 20, 1805 and died at Brooklyn, Mar. 3, 1882, the daughter of Thomas and Patty (Rogers) Crosby, and a sister of Caroline Crosby, who married Noah Doane (267).

Captain Russell Doane who died at his residence 22 Meserole street, last evening (Oct. 26, 1877) from the bursting of an internal abscess and hemorrhage resulting therefrom, was one of the old citizens of Williamsburgh.
He was a native of Massachusetts, of Pilgrim ancestry, being a lineal descendant of Dea. John Doane, who came to this country early, and who in company with Gov. Thomas Prince and five others was delegated by the Plymouth Colony to found the town of Eastham on Cape Cod.

The subject of this notice was born in Eastham in 1801 and following the bent of his inclination and the tendency of the locality in which he lived, adopted a seafaring life, and at the age of eleven years embarked on his first voyage. From this time forth he steadily followed the sea, rising through successive grades to that of Captain, which he attained during his twenty-sixth year and kept throughout the remainder of his business life. His longest service was with the late firm of Dunham & Dimond, ship owners of New York, in whose employ he sailed for many years and by whom he was held in the highest estimation. In the year 1851 he moved his family to Williamsburgh, building a house at what was known as No. 10 Meserole street, now No. 20. Here and in the adjoining house built later he has resided since, with the exception of a short time spent on a farm in New Jersey, which he purchased with the idea of retiring from the sea, but which he soon gave up to follow the old and to him more seductive calling. Latterly he has been incapacitated from active exercise by reason of his age and ailments, and has frequently expressed a conviction that his end was near. He leaves a widow and one son, Dr. Charles R. Doane, well known in this district.—Newspaper.

Child:

506 i Charles Russell, b. at Eastham, Aug. 30, 1840.

319 Heman Doane (Heman, Isaiah, Simeon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Nov. 25, 1808 and died there Mar. 24, 1891. Unmarried. Mr. Doane was a well known resident of the Cape, and was an intelligent, patriotic citizen. He served his town as clerk and treasurer from 1849 till his death. He was the author of several historical papers and wrote a number of metrical compositions, a few of which have been published, and which express a degree of poetic fancy and facility of expression.

Until a few years ago an old pear tree was standing on the Governor Prince farm at Eastham, said to have been planted there by the Governor himself. To this tree the following lines were addressed by Mr. Heman Doane:

"Two hundred years have on the wings of time Passed with their joys and woes since thou, old Tree,
Put forth thy first leaves in this foreign clime,
Transplanted from the soil beyond the sea.
Whence did our pious Pilgrim Fathers come
To found an empire in this Western land,
Where they and theirs might find a peaceful home,
A safe retreat from persecution's hand.
That exiled band long since have passed away,
And still, old Tree! thou standest in the place
Where Prince's hand did plant thee in his day,
An undesigned memorial of his race
And time of those our honored fathers, when They came from Plymouth o'er and settled here—
Doane, Higgins, Snow and other worthy men, Whose names their sons remember to revere.
Full many a summer's breeze and wintry blast
Through those majestic boughs have waved and sighed,
While centuries with their burdens by have passed
And generations have been born and died.
And many a sister tree has had its birth,
Performed its labors and fulfilled its day,
And mighty Kings and Kingdoms of the earth
Have lived and flourished, died and passed away.
There didst thou stand in times of bloody strife,
The youthful days of Boston's famous tree,
And where our patriot fathers sold their lives
To buy their Country's glorious liberty.
Old time has thinned thy boughs, Old Pilgrim Tree!
And bowed thee with the weight of many years;
Yet, 'mid the frosts of age, thy bloom we see
And yearly still thy mellow fruit appears.
Venerable emblem of our sires of yore!
Like them thou hast performed life's labors well,
And when like them thy days are passed and o'er,
These lines may help thy lengthened stories tell."

THE OLD SOUTH MEETING HOUSE.

A Reminiscence of the old Congregational Meeting-house in Eastham, Mass.
Erected in 1719. Demolished in 1827.

By Heman Doane.

The Old South Meeting-house, time-worn and gray,
That stood fronting east by the "King's highway
That goeth to Billingsgate"—so runs the phrase
In the quaint old records of olden days.

Five score and nine years that old house stood,
And saw many days of both evil and good;
Reared by the fathers, who long gathered there,
To keep Sabbath time in praise and in prayer.

I remember it well—its outside look;
I remember its inside, too, "like a book;"
The broad aisle from doorway to pulpit that led,
With its eight-square sounding board overhead.

The side aisles running with the walls parallel,
And the great box-pews, that were always filled well;
With free seats in front, for old women and men—
They had no church aristocracy then—

Where sat the old fathers and mothers so near
The pulpit that they the better might hear;
While in their snug sanctum the grave deacons sat
Beneath the high pulpit, on this side and that.

Look up, now, and see that long rowed choir,
That "sounded and sang," with voices raised higher Than many church singers ventured to go,
Who sing only tunes that are set pretty low.
They sang the loved tunes of those ancient days,
That swelled both the voice and the heart with praise,
And they made the walls of the old church ring
Without the aid of pipe, reed or string.

That gallery see, filled with sober young men!
They did not go to church for frolic then—
Their hats in the spokes of the rails in a row,
And all is in order, above and below.

Youth, manhood and age sit reverently there,
Or stand with bowed heads in time of prayer:
The upturned seats, too, were worshippers then
And clattered applause at every "Amen."

Alas! what changes have since come o'er Church, priest and people we see no more!
Oh! sad is the thought—but, as mortals, we know
Mutation is written on all things below.

All gone! that old Congregational band,
Save here and there one, to the Spirit Land;
And their mouldering forms are sleeping near Where the old church stood so many a year.

When I pass their low graves, methinks they seem
To rise from their beds in my noon-time dream,
And I see them again sitting orderly there,
In that ancient house of praise and prayer.

O blessed old days, ye shall ne'er be forgot!
The memories that cling to that hallowed spot
Shall be green like David's, whereof he told
When he said, "I remember the days of old."

I have seen splendid temples with lofty, proud steeple,
With soft-cushioned seats filled with fashion-clad people;
But none on the tablet of memory will stay
Like that old gray church by the "King's Highway."

326 ELISHA7 DOANE (Elisha,6 Elisha,5 Jonathan,4 Dr. David,3 John,2 John1) was born at Brookfield, Mass., June 28, 1795 and died at Boca, Cal., Dec. 18, 1871. He married at Lyme, O., Jan. 15, 1822, Chloe Miller, who was born at Lee, N. Y., Oct. 3, 1803 and died Dec. 25, 1897, the daughter of Don Miller, of Huron Co., Ohio.

In 1801 Mr. Doane went with his parents from Brookfield to Calais, Vt., thence in 1811 to Cayuga Co., N. Y. He was the eldest son of a large family of children, and his father being in moderate circumstances Elisha's advantages for education were limited. His desire for knowledge, however, prompted him to hard study when not engaged in manual labor for his father, so that, at the age of eighteen, he had acquired in all the common branches a good education, and in mathematics was hardly excelled. He early acquired the profession of surveying and civil engineering in which he was very proficient. This proved to be of great advantage to his neighbors, as well as to himself, in after life, in what was then considered the far West. He also learned the trade of stone cutting. He served in the War of 1812, was at the burning of Buffalo, and was also in the Black Hawk war. In 1818 he moved to Ohio, and settled in Sherman, Huron Co., where he became acquainted with the family of General Sherman.

He took the contract for, and built two locks in the Ohio Canal, eighteen miles from Cleveland. In 1829 he moved to Michigan and was one of the first settlers of Kalamazoo Co. He located a farm on the Prairie Road near the city of Schoolcraft. In farming he was very successful, raising an abundance of grain and vegetables of all kinds, which were generally given to aid destitute immigrants seeking homes in that wild and unsettled country. Here he built saw mills and manufactured lumber, on what was known as the Indian Reservation in the town of Brady. He also cut the first set of burrs for grinding grain that was ever used in the county. In 1843 he moved to St. Joseph Co. and located in what is now the city of Mendon. Here he erected two saw mills, the largest and most substantial in the state. He also engaged in making potash, put up carding works, and had a very extensive store of dry goods and groceries. His love of a pioneer life took him to California in 1850. He returned the same year via Central America. An account of his travels and observations was published in the New York Tribune in Jan., 1851. He returned to California the same year and engaged in the lumber business in San Jose redwoods. In 1854 his family joined him in California, after which he retired from business, living most of the time in El Dorado, Placer and Nevada counties. His ability and opportunities would have made him one of the moneyed men of the country, had not his generous nature enabled him to feel and practise the truth that “it is more blessed to give than to receive.” Whatever his own necessities might be he never oppressed his creditors, and the needy were never sent uncared for, or unblessed from his door.

Children, first four born in Lyme, O., the others in Brady, Mich.:

EZKIEL 7 DOANE (Obadiah, 6 Sylvanus, 5 Jonathan, 4 David, 3 John, 2 John 1) was born at Eastham, Mass., Jan. 24, 1813 and died there of cancer, Dec. 6, 1890. He married at East Boston, Mass., June 4, 1835, by Rev. E. T. Taylor (Father Taylor), Rachel A., daughter of Dawson and Rachel (Doane) Lincoln and granddaughter of Sylvanus Doane (64). She was born at Hampden, Me., Mar. 5, 1817 and died at Eastham, July 20, 1881.
Captain Doane began his sea life on a fishing vessel at the age of eleven, but his enterprising spirit prompted him to longer voyages. He soon found himself under southern skies in the coasting trade, and, by the time he was nineteen years old, we find him mate of the ship Merchant, on the other side of the Atlantic. When he became twenty-one years old, he was Captain Doane, master of his vessel, in foreign ports. Returning home he took charge of the brig Agnes in the southern trade, and was master of the brig Wave, for several years in the same trade. At the time of the Mexican war Captain Doane was in charge of the brig Chattahoochee, running the blockade with stores and ammunition for the American forces. Immediately after the close of the war he visited Mexican ports in the carrying trade, and was the first of his countrymen to hoist the American flag in a Mexican port after cessation of hostilities. He returned home, and bought the old Governor Prince farm in Eastham, but after two years of land life, he sold out to Moses Eaton, bought the brig Vande and returned to the southern trade. Always on the watch for new enterprises, Captain Doane spied the drift towards the Pacific and the year '49 found him on his way to California in the ship Canonicus. He went into the mines. In about two years he made up his mind to return home. He travelled from the Pacific to the gulf in an ox team. On arriving home he again purchased the old Governor Prince farm, and there resided the remainder of his life. His farm was the largest in his neighborhood. He was captain of a ferryboat for some time at East Boston, and had charge of a vessel carrying granite for the building of Fort Sumpter. Captain Doane was remarkable all through his life for more than ordinary health, vigor, enterprise and industry, and, but for the cancer that troubled him two or three years and finally ended his days, his life would probably have covered a good round century.

Children, first four born at East Boston, the others at Eastham:

1 Obadiah Elisha, b. Mar. 21, 1836, and d. at Eastham, Feb. 14, 1893; m. Mar. 13, 1861, Melissa Helen Doane, dau. of Isaiah Doane (320). Wid. res. in Beverly, Mass. Ch.: 1. When a young man Mr. Doane took up his residence in Nova Scotia and, on the shores of St. Mary's Bay, built ships of the larger class for the ship-owners of St. John.
DESCENDANTS OF DEA. JOHN DOANE. 319

The funeral of the late Isaac W. Doane, yesterday, was largely attended by the old residents, among whom were noticed a great many of the Masonic fraternity. An impressive service was held at St. Mary's church, the Rev. W. O. Raymond officiating, after which the remains were viewed by the congregation who took a farewell look at the old familiar face. The cortege then proceeded to the Episcopal Burying Ground where the remains were interred in the lot beside those of his wife who had preceded him forty-four years. The pall bearers were John Wishart, Charles McLaughlin, R. D. McArthur, Capt. Pritchard, ex-mayor Thomas M. Reed and R. H. B. Tennant, Worshipful Master of St. John Lodge, F. and A. M., of which the deceased had been a member since 1815, at which time he was W. M. Mr. Doane was a resident of this city for the past forty-five years. He possessed a wonderfully retentive memory, and it was a great pleasure to many to listen to his recital of the incidents which had occurred in the past seventy years.—St. John Sun, Aug. 31, 1885.

345 GILBERT GRISWOLD DOANE (John,6 Levi,5 David,4 David,3 John,2 John1) was born at Pawlet, Vt., Sept. 12, 1815 and He married at Mexico, N. Y., in 1845, Lucy, daughter of Franklin P. and Samantha (Manley) Gilbert, who was born at Dresden, N. Y. in 1827 and died at Owosso, Jan. 26, 1899. Mr. Doane lived in Pawlet until 1832, when he went with his parents to Pulaski, N. Y., Having a good education and possessing good natural abilities, his there engaged in teaching, which occupation he pursued with marked success for a number of years. He then assumed the management, editorially and otherwise, of the Pulaski Courier; but, after two years in this position, he entered into partnership with his brother Charles A., in the manufacture of paper. Their mill and everything pertaining to their business were destroyed by fire, and the brother dying soon afterward, Mr. Doane found himself struggling against adverse circumstances, to settle the business of the firm. In the spring of 1848 he, like thousands of others, turned his face towards the great Northwest, and with his family settled in what was then a promising western town, but which is now the city of Chicago. In 1849, after one year's residence, in Chicago, he removed to Michigan and settled about three miles west of the town of Owosso, to which place his wife's father had removed a few months before. The first few years of his life in Michigan were spent in teaching, but subsequently his entire time and energies were devoted to the making of a home for himself and family in the then almost unbroken wilderness of Michigan. Mr. Doane embraced christianity and became a member of the Congregational church before leaving Vermont. His youngest daughter, though a great favorite, he freely gave to the great cause of foreign missions. In politics he was formerly a Whig and subsequently a Republican. He held various township offices, and was clerk at the headquarters of General Thomas in 1864, '65. As a man he was strictly honest and upright, public spirited and especially alive to everything pertaining to the cause of education. He was a pure minded, refined christian gentleman.

His widow survived him thirteen years, the last six of which she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Perkins. She was a christian from early life, and united with the First Congregational church of Owosso in 1873. Though possessed of a frail body, and thereby shut out from active church or social life, her interest in local and public affairs was second to none. She had a more than ordinarily active mind, and her rich store of many and varied facts was always being called upon by children, grandchildren and friends. She was a great lover of the beautiful, and the care and cultivation of her flowers and plants became an ardent passion. She had collected a large number of curiosities, stamps and coins and her stamp album was the envy of many young collectors. She was deeply interested in the success of this genealogy, and I am indebted to her for much information of the Pawlet branch of the family.

Children, all but first two born at Owosso:

i  Evora I., 8 b. at Pulaski, May 26, 1846; m., 1871, Dr. J. Perkins; res. Owosso.

ii Liola A., 8 b. at Fulton, N. Y., Apr. 20, 1848; m. 1st, in 1872, Roger Bunting; m. 2nd, in 1878, James Carson of Owosso, who died.

iii Etta C., 8 b. Apr. 20, 1851; m., in 1882, Rev. Henry Marden of Marash, Turkey. She is a widow and a missionary of the American Board at Constantinople, Turkey.

v Kittie S., 8 b. 1858; d. at Owosso, 1860.

vi Mary A., 8 b. 1861; d. at Owosso, 1863.

346 GEORGE PITTS DOANE (Josiah, 6 Levi, 5 David, 4 David, 3 John, 2 John 1) was born at Pulaski, N. Y., Sept. 29, 1828 and died there Dec. 17, 1889. He married first, at Pulaski, in 1858, Harriet Weed, who died in 1869. Married second, at Mexico, N. Y., Jan. 4, 1871, Margaret Lloyd, the daughter of David and Margaret (Thomas) Lloyd. Mr. Doane lived at Pulaski, where he was proprietor of an omnibus line, and a constable and police officer for twenty-one years. He enlisted Sept. 1, 1864, in the 184th Regt., N. Y. Vols.; was discharged June 29, 1865. Was a member of the J. B. Butler Post, G. A. R., of Pulaski.

of Medicine in 1896. Is now (1901) a physician at Fulton, N. Y.

iv  George Lloyd, b. Sept. 11, 1873; d. Feb. 21, 1874.

347 DUANE DECATUR DOANE (Josiah, Levi, David, John, John) was born at Pulaski, N. Y., in 1835 (?) and died there in Mar., 1855. He married at Pulaski, Aug. 1, 1853, Elizabeth Stevens who was born at Sandy Creek, N. Y., June 6, 1832, the daughter of Elisha and Lucinda (Titus) Stevens. She married, second, about 1857, and is now (Jan., 1898) living at Omaha, Neb.

Child:

i Duane G., b. at Pulaski, Feb. 20, 1855; m. at Baldwinsville, Sept. 13, 1876, Nettie Powell, b. at Baldwinsville, Sept. 23, 1856, dau. of Frederick and Lodema (Taber) Powell. In early life he worked on his step-father's farm at Cold Springs, N. Y., and attended the Academy at Baldwinsville. After about eight years on his own farm at Phoenix, N. Y., he went into the boot and shoe business at Baldwinsville. Two years later he sold this business and went to Omaha, where he engaged in real estate and insurance.

348 NATHANIEL SMITH DOANE (Nathaniel, Nathaniel, Joseph, Joseph, Daniel, John) was born at Middle Haddam, Conn., Nov. 9, 1797 and died there Sept. 22, 1874 (gravestone, Middle Haddam Landing). He married Jan. 8, 1863 (Chatham, Conn., town records) Hannah Smith who died Jan. 27, 1879 (gravestone, Middle Haddam Landing) the daughter of Ebenezer Smith.

349 ENOCH GOODRICH DOANE (Nathaniel, Nathaniel, Joseph, Joseph, Daniel, John) was born at Middle Haddam, Conn., Dec. 6, 1799 and died at Chicago, Ill. He married at Madison, Ind., May 21, 1834, Charlotte Jeanette Bradbury, who was born at Ellenby Square, N. Y., Oct. 6, 1811 and died at Chicago. Her father was a physician. Mr. Doane was in the wholesale and retail grocery business for many years in Madison. With his family he removed, in 1857, to Greensburgh, Ind., where he was engaged in general merchandise. About 1875 he retired from business, and removed to Chicago, where both he and his wife died and were buried.
Children, born at Madison:

i Emily Bradbury,⁸ b. ——; d. at Kankakee, Ill., Sept., 1898; buried in Chicago.

ii Nathaniel,⁸ b. ——; d. in childhood.

In 1862 he joined the 7th Regt., Ind. Vols., and served some time, as drummer, in Virginia. He is now (1900) a clothing salesman in Chicago.

350 SETH⁷ DOANE (Timothy,⁶ Seth,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Joseph,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Chatham, Conn., May 11, 1785 and died at Cleveland, O., Jan. 14, 1846. He married first, Jan. 7, 1808, Lucy Clark, who was born Dec. 25, 1788 and died Apr. 3, 1828, the daughter of David Clark. Married second, in 1832, Joanna Wickham, who was born Nov. 26, 1799 and died Feb. 28, 1853. Mr. Doane went from Connecticut to Cleveland, with his uncle Nathaniel, in 1798. While on their way, at Mentor, Ohio, the whole family, consisting of nine persons, were taken ill and tradition tells that the boy Seth performed an heroic part in caring for the other members of the family.

Children, born at Cleveland:

508 i David Clark,⁸ b. Dec. 1, 1808.

511 x Norton, b. Nov. 6, 1831.

In 1801 Mr. Doane went with his father's family to Cleveland, where he lived all of his life. His home was at East Cleveland. He was an honest, upright citizen; was a Republican from the organization of the party, though never actively interested in political affairs. He maintained his faculties to the last, and was one of the most active old men of his county; never used tobacco in any form, nor indulged in ardent spirits. His second sight came to him, and for a number of years before his death, he read his newspaper without the aid of spectacles. The Cleveland Voice of Jan. 16, 1881, published an interesting biographical sketch of Mr. Doane. (See John Doane's account of Doane Family, in Annals of the Early Settlers Association, Cleveland, No. 6, p. 51 and No. 7, p. 58.)

Children, of second marriage:

i  Mary Taylor, b. Nov. 20, 1823; m. Oct. 17, 1871, George P. Smith, widower; d. Sept. 8, 1882; no children.

353 Job Doane (Nathaniel, Seth, Joseph, Joseph, Daniel, John) was born at Chatham, Conn., June 10, 1789 and died in Cleveland, O., Sept. 30, 1834. He married Jan. 1, 1816, Harriet Woodruff, who was born Aug. 31, 1797 and died at the home of her son, W. H. Doane, in Cleveland, Mar. 14, 1884 (buried in Lake View cemetery, Cleveland), the daughter of Nathaniel and Isabel Woodruff, of Morristown, N. J., and later of Cleveland, whither they had removed in 1814. Mr. Doane is said to have been a most estimable man and a worthy citizen of East Cleveland where they resided. After his death his widow married Mr. Cornelius Coakley. She was one of the original members of the Euclid Avenue Congregational church, and a woman of remarkable Christian character.

Children:

i Nathaniel Adams, b. Mar. 30, 1817; d. at Sacramento, Cal., in 1873.

vi William Halsey, b. July 3, 1828; d. at Henderson, N. C., May 3, 1890 (buried in Cleveland); m. July 31, 1861, Elizabeth Jane Hennel, b. Jan. 6, 1833. He was a manufacturer and a philanthropist and lived in Cleveland. He attended the public schools, the Shaw Academy, and spent one year in a law office. At the age of twenty-one he, with others, started for the gold fields of California, and after a journey of nine months reached San Francisco without a dollar in his possession. For a time, he worked with a shovel on the streets of that city, to earn enough money to take him to the mines and in a few months he joined a party bound for the Feather river. There he became a miner, but after ten years' labor, he returned in 1860 to Cleveland poorer than when he set out eleven years before. In 1866 he became a member of the firm of Harkness & Doane of Cleveland which supplied crude petroleum to the refiners. With this connection his rise in the business world was instantaneous, and he became a wealthy man. He bought out Mr. Harkness and pursued the business with success until 1873. Mr. Doane was not a great man in political power or business success, but great, because his soul was filled with love for God and man. He was great, because of the strong religious instinct that dominated his character. Unlike most men he did not attribute his success to his own talents, but deemed its fruit a gift from God, which he only held in trust. He built the People's Tabernacle and brought to Cleveland numbers of the prominent moral workers of the day—Moody and Sankey, Francis Murphy and others. He contributed most of the funds for the erection of Music Hall in Cleveland, and literally broke down his health in temperance and reform work. No children.

viii Edward W., b. May 30, 1833.

354 JOB PARKER DOANE (Job, Seth, Joseph, Joseph, Daniel, John) was born at Chatham, Conn., Mar. 5, 1799. He married, first, Henrietta Dix. Married, second, Laura A. Presby. He was in business in St. Louis, Mo. Was prominent in the Episcopal church.

THE DOANE FAMILY.

x  James E.,⁸ b. ——.

355 ISAAC PHINEAS⁷ DOANE (Roswell,⁶ Phineas,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Joseph,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Haddam, Conn., May 15, 1812 and died at Leona, Pa., Sept. 5, 1888 (buried in Leona). He married at Middletown, Conn., Mar. 16, 1836, by Rev. John C. Green of the M. E. church, Rebecca Hubbard, who was born at Middletown, May 1, 1813 and died at Leona, June 1, 1895 (buried in Leona), the daughter of Ansel and Rebecca Hubbard.

In the winter of 1837 Mr. Doane moved with his father’s family from Connecticut to the wilds of Springfield, now Leona, Pa., where they settled and cleared a tract of land, which is now the home of some of his children. He was a man of character, and prominent in the affairs of the M. E. church.

Children, first one born at Middletown, the others at Leona:

i  Langdon H.,⁸ b. Jan. 27, 1837.
ii  Jane C.,⁸ b. Apr. 13, 1839; m. A. S. Hooker.

ix  Martha E.,⁸ b. Feb. 12, 1855.

356 JOSEPH CHAPMAN⁷ DOANE (Roswell,⁶ Phineas,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Joseph,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Maromas, Conn., Mar. 8, 1814 and died June 25, 1900, at Fair Haven, Conn. He married first, at Maromas, Mar. 27, 1836, Nancy Maria Scranton, who died at Clinton, Conn., Mar. 3, 1852. He married second, Sept. 12, 1852, Philona Lewis of Madison, Conn., who died Nov. 1, 1898.

Joseph C. Doane led a happy life during his young boyhood, growing up under conditions that other boys might well have envied. His father was a christian man, and disciplined his children in a happy manner, while the gentle sympathetic mother led and encouraged them in all right ways. They lived on a bank of the Connecticut river, and Joseph was familiar with all its windings and wooded banks near his home. Here he learned to row and swim, and to skate in winter, and as an athlete he was without an equal among the boys of his acquaintance. These sports, together with his school life, continued until Joseph reached the age of twelve years. His father, who possessed fine business qualities, owned and successfully operated extensive stone quarries, and in the rugged life of the quarry Joseph developed a good constitution, and became a tall, muscular, well-formed man, capable of extreme endurance and hardship.

In the winter of 1837 Joseph, his brother Isaac, and sister Martha Spencer, together with their father and mother, and two infants in arms, emigrated to Pennsylvania. The journey of three hundred miles was accomplished by the aid of five yoke of oxen attached to two sleds, Joseph acting as driver. The entire journey lasted nearly a month. They settled in the wild regions of Springfield, now Leona, where they cleared a tract of land, which is now the home of Isaac's children. Here, in a sparsely settled country, Joseph spent the first eight years of his married life. He had bought a farm and begun some improvements when, on account of his wife's poor health, he sold out and returned to Connecticut, bringing their four children, and covering the distance this time, with a span of good horses. They settled in North Madison, where he engaged in burning and transporting charcoal to New Haven. It was a lucrative business. Later he sold out, and bought a twenty-five acre farm on Long Hill, where he lived forty years. Here the wife and mother died. She was a handsome woman, of good family connections, a devoted Christian, a wise mother and faithful wife. Left alone with six young children, Mr. Doane in the fall of 1852 married again and the new mother came not only to care for the children but to bring financial aid to the father. While in Leona Mr. Doane, with his father and brother, was instrumental in organizing a Methodist church, of which he was a member, and a superintendent of its Sunday school. Later he identified himself with the Methodist church of Clinton, of which he was a valued member. He was a student of the Bible, his small library contained commentaries, histories of the church, biographies, etc., and for over forty years he had daily family prayers in his home. The precepts and example of this good father left their impress on the character of the children, every one of whom has been identified with some church and look back with pride to their great uncle Phineas Doane (172) who was a circuit preacher of early Methodism.

Children:

370 VALENTINE7 DOANE (Nathaniel,6 Elisha,5 Elisha,4 Joseph,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Harwich, Mass., July 20, 1804 and died there Aug. 5, 1896. He married first, Jan. 5, 1829, Lydia Nickerson, who died Mar. 22, 1880, the daughter of Enos and Polly Nickerson. Married second, Jan. 26, 1881, Mrs. Charlotte E. Long, the daughter of Rev. Joseph R. and Hepsebeth Munsell. At the age of fourteen Mr. Doane began the life of a sailor, and at twenty-one became master mariner, which position he held many years. In 1828 he was appointed a captain of State militia. He was a director of the Harwich and Dennis Insurance Co., fifteen years; president of the Harwich Marine Insurance Co., during its existence; a director of the County Insurance Co. thirty years, and twenty-five years a director of the National Bank of Yarmouth, being seldom absent from their weekly meetings. Few men have been more conspicuous in business affairs and the building up of Harwich, than Captain Doane. He retired from the sea in 1844, engaged in trade, and the next year began the fishery business as owner and outfitter. In 1847 he, with others, organized a company and built the first wharf in town, known as Marshbank Wharf. He was one of the originators of the Pilgrim Church organization at Harwich and an honored, useful and respected citizen of the community.

Mr. Doane is manager and agent of a tow boat company in Boston, with office at 105 Commercial St. He was a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and largely interested in the ownership of seagoing vessels and tow boats. Of the line of tow boats under his management, the Nathaniel P. Doane is one of the largest operating in Boston Harbor. Mr. Doane is also well known in Masonic circles, being a prominent member of the order. Child: 1. Nathaniel Jennings, b. at Somerville, Mass., Jan. 19, 1871; m. Feb. 19, 1891, Blanche H., dau. of Joel P. and Mary J. Derse of Augusta, Me.

vi MARY PAINE,8 b. Oct. 18, 1848; m. Feb. 23, 1869, Isaac Burgess of Dennis. Ch.: 1. Lottie May, b. at Harwich, Nov. 19, 1869. 2. Mary Temperance, b. at Harwich, May 9, 1874.

372 NATHANIEL7 DOANE (Nathaniel,6 Elisha,5 Elisha,4 Joseph,3 Daniel,3 John1) was born at the old homestead at Harwich, Mass., Feb. 1, 1816 and died there May 28, 1895 (buried in Harwichport cemetery). He married, in 1862, Mrs. Zilpha D. Harding, who was born at Newburg; Me., Apr. 17, 1830, the widow of Joshua Harding of Chatham, Mass., and daughter of Nathan and Polly J. Doane (269) of Newburg, Me. Mr. Doane received a public school education, and at the age of fourteen years went on fishing trips with his father. He later became master of a vesssl and engaged in the coasting trade during the summer seasons, and taught school in winter for some twelve years. In him schools and educational matters found a stanch friend; generations of pupils and scores of teachers came under his wise counsel and cheering encouragement during the more than quarter century he served his town on the school board. He was a Representative in the Legislature in 1851, 1852 and 1853. In 1858, was elected Republican Representative from his district, which embraced the towns of Dennis, Harwich, Yarmouth and Chatham. In 1860, he was defeated of a re-election by the late Obed Nickerson, by only one vote. He was a stanch Republican but never put party above principle and patriotism. He held the office of commissioner to qualify civil officers; was a Justice of the Peace fifty years, and a trustee of the Cape Cod Five Cent Savings Bank. At one time Mr. Doane was interested in the tow boat business in Boston, and owned the boat Camilla. He retired from the sea in 1860 and engaged in farming and in the culture of cranberries. He was prominent in educational and religious work and united with the Congregational church at Harwich Center in 1836. In 1855, he was chief among the organizers of the Pilgrim church at Harwichport, which was dedicated on his thirty-ninth birthday anniversary, and of which he was a faithful and honored member until his death. He was clerk and treasurer of his parish sixteen years; superintendent of Sunday school thirty years, and a deacon from the organization of the church until his death. His life was beautiful in its simplicity and purity, a shining example of an upright christian character, consecrated to all that was lofty in motive and beneficial to the highest principles, and is best illustrated by a favorite passage of scripture engraved on his tombstone: "I have kept thy precepts and thy testimonies: for all my ways are before thee."

Children, born at Harwich:

iii Jennie B., b. ———; m. Wm. E. Grinnell of Searsport, Me. Ch.: Wm. E., Flint, Martha Zilpha.
373 ABIATHAR DOANE (Nathaniel, Elisha, Elisha, Joseph, Daniel, John) was born at Harwich, Mass., Aug. 16, 1820. He married first, May 23, 1845, Abigail Sears, who died July 20, 1855, the daughter of Edward and Abigail Sears. Married second, May 3, 1856, widow Mercy C. Rogers, who died in New York city, Oct. 10, 1862, the daughter of David Eldredge of Chatham, Mass. Married third, Apr. 10, 1863, Josephine Higgins, the daughter of Paul Higgins of Orleans, Mass. Mr. Doane began his sea life when only fifteen years of age, and the year he attained his majority he had the command of a vessel bound for South America, whence he carried a load of passengers to Kingston, Jamaica. After the first voyage he owned more or less interest in the vessels he commanded, and for more than twenty-five years he sailed on foreign voyages without accident, never during that time calling on the underwriters for damages. He was at Galveston, Texas, when the Confederates hauled down the stars and stripes, and those on his vessel heard the captain's loyal prophecy, "That flag will have its resurrection." He assisted in the War of the Rebellion, and among other commissions entrusted to him was the transportation of the gun "Swamp Angel," which, with the load of stores for the government forces, he carried from New York to South Carolina. In 1847, Capt. Doane purchased his present homestead in Harwich, and in 1856 retired from the sea. Before he left the sea he commenced the culture of cranberries and eventually ranked among the successful growers of Cape Cod. He was long interested in the affairs of the town and commonwealth. He has served in arbitrations, and was elected to the Legislature in 1866 and reelected in 1867. He attends the Congregational church. His energy and caution, that made him a successful captain on the sea, are his leading traits.—From Deyo's History of Barnstable County.

382 GUY WILLIAM 7 DOANE (William, Prince, Prince, Israel, Daniel, John) was born in New Milford, Conn., Aug. 7, 1788, and died at Circleville, O., Feb. 4, 1862. He married Feb. 14, 1821, Charlotte Thrall, who died at Omaha, Neb., June 23, 1878.
Mr. Doane entered the Sophomore class, Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., under the venerable Dr. Nott, where he graduated with second honors in 1813 and received the college gold medal. After graduation he studied law at Schenectady and at the Litchfield, Conn., Law School. In 1815 he went to the then small town of Cincinnati, O., and entered the law office of Judge Este where he found the practice of law insufficiently remunerative to assure means of support, and removed to Chillicothe, O., and there engaged as private tutor in the family of Governor Worthington. From there he went in 1816 to Circleville, O., and entered upon the practice of his profession, taking an active interest in the political controversies of Pickaway Co., and aiding in establishing the Olive Branch, the first newspaper published in his county, of which he became editor and proprietor in 1817 and 1818. He served in the Legislature of Ohio in 1826 and 1827. Mr.
Doane continued the practice of law with marked success until 1844, when he became disabled by the loss of his remaining eye, the other having been injured by an accident when fourteen years of age. He was stricken with paralysis of the optic nerve while engaged in addressing the jury on an important trial and from which stroke he never recovered sight although treated by some of the best surgeons in the country. However, he continued his interest in business and was in the habit of regularly attending the sessions of court long after he became obliged to give up his own practice. Mr. Doane possessed a high appreciation of his profession, a conscientious regard of the duties imposed by the relation of attorney to client, and little apparent regard for the pecuniary profit derived therefrom. After the loss of his eyesight, his interest in all affairs of a public nature and in the political history of his country seemed to increase. He was gratified by the daily attendance of his wife, who kept him thoroughly advised of all current news, by a course of systematic reading at certain hours each day. The bond of sympathy between them was very great, and her loving service continued until his death. He was independent and outspoken; his tastes would have led him into literary pursuits, had circumstances permitted. A few years after his death, his widow went to Omaha, Neb., and lived with their son George W. the remainder of her life. To them were born ten children, of whom but five reached maturity.

384 WILLIAM SMITH DOANE (Prince, Prince, Prince, Israel, Daniel, John) was born at New Milford, Conn., Mar. 22, 1780 and died at Rome, Athens Co., O., Nov. 10, 1875. He married in Berkshire Co., Mass., Feb. 14, 1802, Miss Almira Catline. Elder Jedediah Gray performed the ceremony, and was paid one dollar for his services, which fee was immediately spent for gin, in aid of "a general good time" in which the preacher joined with all the company. When William Smith Doane was two years old, his father moved his family from Connecticut to Great Barrington, Berkshire Co., Mass., where he died about 1806. Soon after the death of their father, the sons, William Smith and Argillons, set out in a two-horse wagon for Ohio, then a far Western state, and after a long, tedious journey of six weeks over hills and through wilderness arrived at Marietta, Washington Co., in Nov., 1806. From Marietta this little band of pioneers proceeded up "Duck Creek" some twelve miles north, and settled on what was then called "Congress Land." From there about 1819, Mr. Doane removed his family into the township of Rome. He was an industrious farmer and a good citizen.

S. His mother, Lydia Bartlett, born Oct. 10, 1779, was descended from Robert Bartlett of the Ann and from Richard Warren and Edward Doty of the Mayflower company. After marriage, Simeon B. and Olive Kinney settled on his father's homestead at Little River, where their two eldest children were born. About 1832, he moved with his family from Little River to St. John, N. B., from which port he sailed in command of large vessels for many years, his wife often accompanying him on foreign voyages. About 1850, Captain Kinney sailed from St. John for San Francisco, his family removing soon after to Charlestown, Mass., and one year after their mother's death the children joined their father in California.

"Capt. Simeon B. Kinney, one of the early pioneers of California died at his residence on Post street this city, on Sunday morning, June 7th in the 67th year of his age. Capt. Kinney was widely and favorably known as one of the oldest and ablest shipmasters of this coast. He was born at Yarmouth, N. S., in the year 1808, and arrived at this port in command of the bark Duke of Wellington, from St. John, N. B., in 1850, from which time to the present his name has been identified with the merchant marine of San Francisco, he having been almost constantly and very successfully engaged in coasting and in the China and East India trade from this port. In addition to an unusually large number of old and warm friends, to whom he was endeared by years of association, he leaves to mourn their loss, six sons and daughters, more than twenty grandchildren and a number of great grandchildren, all of them residents of this coast and nearly all of these three generations of descendants present to comfort the last hours of one who, during a long and active struggle with the cares and trials of this life, never once failed in his duty as a man, and who died with a christian's resignation and with a full and well founded hope of a christian's life hereafter."—Obituary, San Francisco paper.

406 ISRAEL7 DOANE (Israel,6 Israel,5 Edmund,4 Israel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Little River, Argyle township, N.S., May 11, 1819 and died at the home of his son Nehemiah, Chegoggin, N. S., Saturday evening, Dec. 16, 1899 (buried on the Hill, at Arcadia). He married first at Argyle, Aug. 10, 1841, by Rev. James Lent, Louisa Kenney, who was born at Doctors Cove, Barrington Passage, N. S., May 19, 1823, and died at Little River, June 3, 1860 (buried on the Hill, at Arcadia), the youngest daughter of Capt. Prince and Susanna (Doane) Kenney and granddaughter of Israel Doane (86). Married, second, at Brooklyn, N. S., May 9, 1863, by Rev. David Oram, Wealthy Hall who died at Little River, June 14, 1888, the daughter of William and Jane (Weston) Hall of Beaver River. Mr. Doane settled on the "northern one half" of his father's homestead at Little River, which half contained about eighty-five acres of upland and thirteen acres of salt and dyke marsh, for which he paid £100. In 1849 they moved from Little River to Pinkneys Point, on Chebogue Harbor, but returned in 1854. On Apr. 12, 1858, they removed to the Kinney farm on the Chebogue River but returned to Little River, Apr. 12, 1859, where soon after Mrs. Doane died. Her funeral was held at the old Meeting House on the Hill, Rev. Anthony Martell officiating. Mr. Doane was a christian man and a member of Baptist churches nearly half a century. In early manhood he sat under the preaching of "Father" Harris Harding and on Apr. 20, 1856, he and his wife Louisa were baptized, in the river near the mill-dam, by Rev. A. Martell and united with the South Yarmouth Church at Central Chebogue. He was of a strongly independent spirit, living his own ideas of life, but ever seeking to keep a heart void of offence toward God and man. Requiescat in pace.

419 GEORGE BARLOW⁷ DOANE (Prince,⁶ Samuel O.,⁵ Edmund,⁴ Israel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Barrington, N. S., June 23, 1812 and was lost at sea in 1837. He married at Barrington, Mar. 12, 1835 (Acadian Recorder says Apr. 12), by Rev. William Webb, Esther Collin who was born at Barrington, Nov. 19, 1812, the daughter of Thomas and Margaret (Homer) Collin, granddaughter of Peter and Esther (Doane) Collin, and great-granddaughter of Thomas Doane (108). They lived in Halifax. Mr. Doane was a shipmaster. He was in command of the brigantine Good Intent, owned by George P. Lawrence of Halifax and, in Jan. or Feb., 1837, when on a voyage from Hamburg to Dublin, was washed overboard from the deck of his vessel and drowned. After his death the widow returned to Barrington and married James, son of James Cox.
Child, born at Halifax:

i  George Barlow,⁸ b. Apr. 10, 1837; d. at Somerville, Mass., Apr. 29, 1899 (buried, Mountain cemetery, Yarmouth, N. S.); m. 1st, at Richibucto, N. B., Sept. 4, 1860, Elizabeth M. Wood, d. Mar. 25, 1870 (gravestone, Mountain cemetery, Yarmouth), dau. of Thomas W. Wood of Richibucto; m. 2nd, at Yarmouth, Oct. 5, 1876, Isabella M. Davison, dau. of Capt. John Davison of London, Eng. Mr. Doane received a good common school education at Barrington under the teaching of Mr. A. C. Avard Doane, s. of James Doane (203), and others. In 1850, he went to Yarmouth and entered the employ of W. H. Townsend. He subsequently went one voyage to sea, but meeting with an accident by which his shoulder and hip were dislocated, he returned to Yarmouth, and there formed a partnership with Messrs. Dennis & Gray and carried on an extensive dry goods business under the firm name of Dennis, Doane & Gray. Some years later they went into the shipping business, and at one time they owned and managed thirteen large ships. The firm of Dennis & Doane, shipowners, became widely known. Meeting with reverses they closed their business in Yarmouth, and in 1881, Mr. Doane went to Lyons, Kan., where for nine years he was proprietor of a flour mill. In 1890, he returned to Boston and engaged in business as a broker in scrap iron. During Mr. Doane’s residence in Yarmouth, he was exceedingly popular, and held many responsible positions. He was vice president of the Exchange Bank, a director of the Atlantic Insurance Co., and president of the Western Counties Railway. Ch., of 1st m., born at Yarmouth: 1. Geo. Alexander, b. June 2, 1861; d. Oct. 29, 1867. 2. Morris Ashley, b. Aug. 18, 1862; m. at St. John, N. B., Oct. 21, 1896, Grace, dau. of Daniel J. Seeley of St. John; is a bookkeeper in Chicago, Ill. 3. 421 SAMUEL OSBORN DOANE (Prince, Samuel O., Edmund, Israel, Daniel, John) was born at Barrington, N. S., Dec. 17, 1816 and died at Plainfield, N. J., May 2, 1891. He married July 16, 1840, Sarah Bagot, who was born in Birmingham, Eng., and died at Plainfield, Apr. 17, 1894, the daughter of Joseph and Matilda Bagot. Mr. Doane was a carpenter and builder and lived in Plainfield.

Children:

v Prince Hervey,⁸ b. Mar. 20, 1851; d. May 10, 1852.

vii Charles Edward,⁸ b. Jan. 2, 1856; m. Laura Burnett. Ch.: 1. Gertrude Elizabeth, b. 1891; d. 1892. 2. Irene, b. 1892. 3. Burnett Osborn, b. _____.

422 James Mann⁷ Doane (Josiah P.,⁶ Samuel O.,⁵ Edmund,⁴ Israel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Barrington, N. S., Oct. 12, 1811 and died there Feb. 26, 1886. He married Aug. 27, 1839, Lydia Ann Larkin, who was born at Pubnico, N. S., Nov. 15, 1819, the daughter of David and Lydia (Cook) Larkin and granddaughter of Capt. Ephraim and Louisa (Ring) Cook, who went from Kingston, Mass., to Yarmouth, N. S., in 1762. Mr. Doane was named for the Rev. James Mann, a Methodist minister on the Barrington circuit at the time of his birth. In his younger days Mr. Doane was active in the public affairs of his township. He possessed a well informed mind and a retentive memory. He attended the Methodist church, and was an upright, exemplary christian man. His death was an exceedingly happy one. The end came suddenly but he was prepared to go and passed away singing hymns and repeating the promises of God. They resided at Barrington Head.

Children, first nine from Barrington records:

i Sophia Morrissey,⁸ b. June 29, 1840; m. at Barrington, Jan. 13, 1863, Reuben S. Thomas of Blanche, N. S.

xi John R.,8 b. June 10, 1864; m. at Everett, Mass., Sept. 11, 1895, Lizzie A. Paddock of Malone, N. Y.

423 Warren Smith7 Doane (Josiah,6 Samuel O.,5 Edmund,4 Israel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born at Barrington, N. S., June 16, 1815 and died there Jan. 31, 1893. He married in Aug., 1840, Sarah Wilson Homer, who was born at Barrington, Sept. 30, 1816 and died there Dec. 10, 1889, the daughter of Joseph and Mary (Wilson) Homer. An attack of fever in 1871 left her an invalid, and for seventeen years she was confined to her bed. She was converted and united with the Methodist church at Barrington about 1839, and during all the years of her affliction, her sufferings were borne with the most perfect resignation, patience and cheerfulness. Mr. Doane spent several years of his early manhood upon the sea, in charge of vessels. It was during this time that an accident occurred to which he often referred with gratitude to an overruling Providence. On a voyage to the West Indies he sighted a small boat upon the ocean, and found to his surprise and joy, that it contained his brother Seth C. and other persons belonging to Barrington, who had been shipwrecked and whose lives were in all probability preserved by this unexpected meeting. No man did more to build up Barrington than Warren Doane. He was "diligent in business," persevering, prompt and reliable. He built fifty-seven vessels in his shipyard at Barrington Head, and as a ship-builder, was the means of giving employment to a large number of men. He was a promoter and director of the Barrington Marine Insurance Co., a promoter and managing director of the Barrington Woollen Mill, was interested in lumbering, and for many years carried on a large grocery business. For forty-one years he was a consistent member of the Methodist church, and was deeply interested in all matters pertaining to its prosperity. His hand was ever open to the necessities of the church and the poor. It is said that he was never heard to speak ill of any person, and in a prayer written by himself and found among his papers he asks God to enable him at all times to discern between the good and the evil, to keep him from slander, evil speaking and covetousness.

Children, born at Barrington:

S., but after being shipwrecked and floating on the ocean in a half starved condition for seven months in his dismasted ship, he gave up the sea and entered the employ of the Standard Oil Co., at New York. In Jan., 1899, he was in the Klondike.

viii FLORENCE MARIA, b. Oct 26, 1858; d. at Barrington, Feb. 10, 1896; unm.

424 ARTHUR WELLESLEY DOANE (Joshua, Samuel O., Edmund, Israel, Daniel, John) was born at Barrington, N. S., July 25, 1828 and died there Dec. 4, 1899. He married June 28, 1852, Elizabeth Whidden Sargent, who was born Feb. 20, 1830, the daughter of Winthrop and Mary Jane (Allison) Sargent. Soon after their marriage, they sailed with a number of other passengers in the brigantine Sebim for the gold fields of Australia. Their vessel was dismayed on the passage out near the Cape of Good Hope, but reached Cape Town where she was repaired, and in due time arrived at Melbourne. They spent some years at the gold diggings at Ballarat, but finally returned and settled down in Barrington. He was a member of the Methodist church at Barrington and highly esteemed in the community.
Children, first born at Ballarat, the others at Barrington:

MATTHEW RICHEY⁷ DOANE (Edmund C.,⁶ Edmund,⁵ Edmund,⁴ Israel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Barrington, N. S., June 20, 1832 and was lost with his vessel and all on board on passage from P. E. Island to a port in the United States. He married, perhaps in Australia, Mary McGuire, who was born in England and died at the Massachusetts General Hospital, from the effects of a surgical operation, Aug. 5, 1887 (buried in Forest Dale cemetery, Malden, Mass.). Mr. Doane served three years on board the U. S. ship Levant. He became a master mariner, and sailed vessels from U. S. ports for several years. He sailed out of Halifax, N. S., in command of the brigantine Ariel, owned by Salter & Twining of Halifax and Warren Doane (423) of Barrington. After his death his widow went to Charlottetown, P. E. Island, where she kept a small store, thence to Cape Breton, where she married, second, Batholomew Musgrave, a widower of North Sydney. She went to Massachusetts about 1886, and kept house with her two youngest children, at Maplewood.

Children:

i Matthew Richey,⁸ b. ——.
ii George Walter,⁸ b. ——; served some time on a British war vessel.
iii Mary Etta,⁸ b. ——; is a nurse in Lawrence, Mass.

THOMAS KENDRICK SMITH⁷ DOANE (Edmund C.,⁶ Edmund,⁵ Edmund,⁴ Israel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Barrington, N. S., Sept. 13, 1841. He married first, Sept. 11, 1862, Eleanor T. Churchill, who died Oct. 22, 1891, the daughter of James and Elizabeth (Byrne) Churchill of Yarmouth, N. S. Married second, Oct.
18, 1892, Lucy L. Bent, the daughter of William and Hannah (Cain) Bent. Soon after the death of his father, at Barrington, Mr. Doane went to Yarmouth and lived with his aunt Miriam Churchill. At the age of eighteen years he went to sea, sailing from Yarmouth in the West India trade, first as a common seaman, then as mate. He went to Halifax, N. S., and sailed as mate with his brother, Matthew, in the brigantine Ariel, afterwards as master of the brigantine B. L. George, which vessel he lost on the Island of St. Croix, W. I. He then returned to Yarmouth and for fourteen years was master of the brigantine Arthur, owned by Aaron Goudey & Co. Mr. Doane is now a farmer at Lakeside, Yarmouth Co., N. S.

Children, of first marriage:

ii George Henry, b. Jan. 11, 1865; m. Elizabeth Foster of Brooklyn, N. Y.
iii Miriam Churchill, b. Apr. 28, 1866.
iv Harriet Guest, b. Apr. 6, 1868; m. at Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 12, 1892, Arthur S., s. of George and Adelia Everett.

429 Howard Payne Doane (Benjamin, Edmund, Israel, Daniel, John) was born at Barrington, N. S., Oct. 3, 1854 and died at Newark, N. J., Sunday, Nov. 27, 1898. He married at Grand Pré, N. S., by Rev. Thomas Rogers, June 23, 1881, Mrs. Sadie Allison, daughter of John and Matilda (Brown) Simson, of Lower Horton, N. S. Howard Payne Doane was a clerk for some years in the firm of A. F. Stoneman & Co., at Yarmouth, N. S. About the year 1876 he entered the Nova Scotia Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist church as a probationer and was admitted to full membership in 1881. After serving his first appointment at Country Harbor he spent three years at the educational institutions at Sackville, N.B. During his ministerial work in the Nova Scotia Conference he was stationed at Dartmouth, Granville Ferry, Middle Musquodoboit, Country Harbor and Onslow. In 1888 he entered Drew Theological Seminary at Madison, N. J., and while there was a successful pastor of the Whippany church. Finishing his theological course he was admitted to the Newark Conference and stationed at the South Market St. church. After a very successful pastorate he was transferred to the Cross St. church, Paterson, and had just begun to endear himself to the people when consumption began to make such inroads on his constitution as to compel his relinquishing active work. He then spent two winters at Asheville, N. C., preaching in summer at Newark. He next took charge of the church at Wadena, Minn., but ill health obliged him to abandon his life work altogether. In the vain hope that another change of climate might prove beneficial he went to Albuquerque, N. M., but soon returned to Newark only in time to "set his house in order."

I quote the following from Dr. Charles F. Netsilesh's obituary notice in the Wesleyan, of Halifax, Dec. 14, 1898:

"This servant of Christ, while always genial and courteous, did not make rapid friendships. Those who were fortunate enough to be admitted to the 'inner circle' knew that with him, it was 'once a friend always a friend.'

Brother Doane was conservative, yet progressive; cautious, yet not cautious; strongly orthodox, yet tolerant; highly spiritual, yet not fanatical. Unyielding where principle was concerned. A well-poised character, a ripened life. The strongest feature of his life work was his unswerving faith in, and undying devotion to the 'submerged tenth.' No one save God knows the souls led to Christ through his well-mingled socio-spiritual methods. It is no meaningless tribute to his character, to say he was better known and better loved by the so called 'driftwood' of society in Newark than, perhaps, any other man, and many of the Roman Catholic clergy and laity held brother Doane in the highest esteem."

Children:

i Olive Amelia, b. at Onslow, N. S., Mar. 9, 1884.
ii Ralph Harrington, b. at Middle Musquodoboit, N. S., Oct. 7, 1886.

430 WILLIAM⁷ DOANE (Daniel,⁶ Daniel,⁵ Daniel,⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Byberry, Philadelphia Co., Pa., 1799, 4, 20, died at Troy, Athens Co., O., 1883, 11, 21 and was buried in the Friends burial-ground at Decatur. He married Jan. 24, 1828, Asenath Hampton of Blue Rock, Muskingum Co., O. He went with his parents from Bucks Co., Pa., to Jefferson Co., O., in 1820 and from there in 1824 to Meigs township, Muskingum Co.

After his marriage he settled first in Bristol township, Morgan Co., but removed to Meigs township in Jan., 1836, and in October of the same year to Chesterfield. In May, 1839, they removed to Troy, Athens Co., where the family home has been for many years.

Mr. Doane's opinions on moral and political questions were singularly in advance of his time. Always intensely interested in public affairs and yet never scrambling for office, he became a leader of public opinion in his neighborhood whose motives could not be impugned.
The principles of human freedom and the perfect equality of all men before the law, which underlay the American revolution, and were embodied in the Declaration of Independence, early entered his soul, and in after years seemed to possess his entire being. He espoused the modern antislavery cause at its beginning. He opened his door, in the town of Chesterfield, in the winter of 1838, to the first abolition leductor that appeared. An antislavery society was organized in his house. He became its first president, and a delegate to the first county convention held in M'Connelsville. He afterward became the first president of the antislavery society organized in Decatur, Washington Co. He was one of three in his own township who voted for James G. Birney, for President in 1844, and one of a small but increasing number who voted for freedom at each presidential election till 1856, when the majority there were with him. For thirteen years prior to the enactment of the Fugitive Slave Law he assisted runaway slaves as opportunity offered. He was several times threatened with violence because of his outspoken opposition to slavery, and perhaps would have been mobbed but for his coolness and courage. Mr. Doane served an apprenticeship to the coach-making business in Humesville, Pa., but spent only a few years afterwards in a shop. He had a taste for farm life, and especially for the cultivation of fruit. He had a vigorous frame and, with the exception of a partial paralysis which in his later years rendered him almost helpless, enjoyed good health most of his life. He had a very cheerful disposition and his company in consequence was sought by old and young. Though brought up among the Friends, he did not become a member of the society till about the year 1827.

433 WILLIAM⁷ DOANE (Joseph,⁶ John,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John) was born at Cane Creek, N. C., 1789, 3, 13 and died at Wilmington, Ohio, about 1863. He married Elizabeth Eachus, a native of Virginia. Mr. Doane went from North Carolina to Ohio with his parents about 1804. They lived in Wilmington.

Children:

i Maria,⁸ b. ——; m. —— Marshall.

ii Joseph,⁸ b. ——.

iii Robert E.,⁸ b. at Wilmington, O.; m., about 1869, Maria McMillan. He studied law and grad. at the Cincinnati Law School in 1860, and has been substantially engaged in the practice of law ever since. He was editor of the Wilmington Watchman in 1859-60. Appointed Prosecuting Attorney for Clinton Co. in 1862. He has a legal residence in Wilmington, but spends the most of his time in Washington, D. C., where he is the General Counsel for the Washington National Building and Loan Association, and has legal business in the Departments. He is a Republican and was elected Garfield Presidential Elector for the 3rd Congressional District of Ohio in 1880; elected to Congress from 10th District of Ohio in 1890. As a speaker he has participated under the direction of the State and National Committees since 1879. Ch.: Albert W., Frank L.

434 JOSEPH⁷ DOANE (Joseph,⁶ John,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John) was born at Cane Creek, Chatham Co., N. C., 1792 (or 1794), 5, 25 and died at Wilmington, O., 1861, 3, 1. He married 1818, 6, 18, Eliza Carpenter who was born 1802, 2, 18 and died at Wilmington, 1873, 3, 3, the daughter of Jacob and Phoebe (Wing) Carpenter. Joseph Doane went, on horseback, with his parents when about twelve years old from North Carolina to Ohio, passing through the old Flower Gap in the mountains, their wagon-train meeting with no disaster in the journey to the new country just then opened to immigration. Mr. Doane was a surveyor and bridge builder, a lifelong student and teacher. He was converted when seventeen years of age, under Nathan Hunt's ministry, and was an esteemed Friend, Elder and Minister for many years. He organized the first Friends Sunday School in the West and was much employed by his society, being sent a delegate to Baltimore at the time of the "Separation." He and his wife, Eliza, were chosen to be the first superintendent and matron of Earlham College, then known as Friends Boarding School. He was sent West to inspect the Cherokee country at the time of their removal beyond the Mississippi. Mr. Doane was noted for his excellent penmanship, and was the scribe of the settlement, writing all the early marriage certificates. He is said to have been a man of peculiarly pleasing address, and was a lifelong champion of the young people. Eliza Carpenter, his wife, was probably more esteemed as an Elder than her husband—so calm, serene and clear was her judgment. She had a remarkable memory and a well stored mind. She could repeat verbatim whole chapters and even whole books. Her children and grandchildren sat at her feet and listened by the hour, while her knitting-needles kept time and tune to her poems. She was also a busy painstaking housewife, spinning with her own hands the fine white linen in her clothes presses, fragrant with the thyme and the rose from her old-fashioned garden.

Children:

i Phebe, b. 1821, 5, 6; d. 1901, 4, 4; m., 1839, 5, 22, Alfred Timberlake. She was an esteemed teacher and elder in the society of Friends, loved for "the practical exemplification of christian virtues" and her genial hospitality. Her familiarity with the Bible was remarkable. She took a full Chautauqua course and received her diploma when seventy years old. Ch.: Mary B., m. Frank Moore. Caroline. Eliza D., b. 1843, 5, 9; m. Daniel, John) was born in Blount Co., Tenn., 1795, 5, 31 and died at Westfield, Ind., 1860, 12, 11. He married, 1825, 12, 21, Eunice Hadley who died at Westfield, 1880, 3, 1, the daughter of Jeremiah and Ruth Hadley. The same year of their marriage, they moved from the South and settled in the forests near Mooresville, Ind., where they lived thirty-two years. In 1857, they removed to Westfield, Ind., where they spent their remaining days. They were remarkable for their integrity and the conscientious rectitude of their lives. They spent liberally of their time and means in the way of hospitality, and in the interests of the church and the cause of education. They were stanch Abolitionists in the days when it tried men's souls to be such, and the oppressed and needy of whatever race or color ever found with them that best of all aid, help to help themselves. The stone over their graves bears the motto so forcibly exemplified in the lesson of their lives, "Do the duty that lieth nearest thee."

438 JOSEPH? DOANE (Jonathan,\(^6\) John,\(^5\) Joseph,\(^4\) Daniel,\(^3\) Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born in Sevier Co., Tenn., 1801, 7, 7 and died at Independence, Iowa, 1890, 11, 6. He married first, about 1822, Miss Sarah Paschal, who died in the spring of 1829. Married, second, widow Rachel Hobson, daughter of John Reynolds, formerly of North Carolina. She died in 1876. Joseph Doane moved with his parents, when a lad, to Blount Co., near Marysville, Tenn., and from there to Orange Co., Ind., in 1816. He removed to Morgan Co., Ind., in 1830 and to Iowa in the spring of 1856, thence to Hardin Co., Iowa, in the autumn of the same year. His son Isaiah thus writes, Aug. 22, 1901: “My father was a farmer by occupation, hard-working, honest and poor. Had only such rudimental education as the log school-house of the pioneer days afforded. He was a pronounced Abolitionist of the Garrison, Phillips and Birney type.”

Children, of first marriage:

i Isaiah,\(^5\) b. at Paoli, Orange Co., Ind., 1823, 8, 21; m. Apr. 28, 1853, near Monrovia, Ind., wid. Lydia Kimberlain, who was b. Apr. 12, 1816, dau. of David and Hannah McKee. Mr. Doane moved with his parents to Morgan Co., Ind., in fall of 1830, thence to Richland, Iowa, in autumn of 1834. In spring of 1856 he removed to Homer, la., thence to Webster City in 1864. In 1863 Mr. Doane was appointed County Judge of Hamilton Co., la., and served in all six and one half years. He has served his county as auditor, recorder and supervisor. In 1875 he was a candidate of the “Liberal Democracy” for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, but was defeated by Republican majority. In 1882 he was the nominee of the National Greenback party for Congress. In 1879 and 1880 he was mayor of Webster City. He became a member of the K. of L. in 1882 and has ever since been a zealous advocate of its aims and objects. He spent several years as a school-teacher and at one time was editor of a newspaper. Mr. Doane writes: "I have worried through a large amount of hard work and managed to remain poor. The terminal 'e' in my name is an innovation of my own, the family for two generations having written it without the 'e'—thus, Doan. When a lad I was possessed of large and sensitive auricular organs, which enabled me to hear what the sapient seniors of the household were saying, even when they did not perhaps accord me credit for intelligence enough to comprehend their meaning. It was in this manner that I learned incidentally that the family name Doan was formerly written Doane, but that one 'uncle Thomas Doan' of Green Co., Tenn., who was a brother of my grandfather, and a writer of some local note, had astutely detected the superfluity or utter uselessness of the terminal e and had taken the responsibility to eliminate it from his autograph. This was a pointer which I never forgot and I was for years chafing under the consciousness that I was a Doane without an e. Hence, when in 1854 I left the ancestral home in Indiana to take up my abode among the herd of young men in Iowa, it occurred to me that now was my opportunity to reassert my real name, accordingly I never wrote my signature without an emphatic e annexed, and to my surprise my brothers and sisters followed my example. I am sorry to observe that my esteemed cousin Abel is still worrying along without the long tabooed e. This recalls an anecdote in my personal experience while I yet sailed under the bald Doan. When in attendance at the State University, Bloomington, Ind., some of the classmates who called the roll at chapel services uniformly called out Do—aa, making two syllables and placing a most emphatic accent upon the second; and a refusal to respond to such a perversion of my good name cost me the record of 'absent' for one whole week of punctual attendance."

439 George Washington Doane (Jonathan,⁶ Ebenezer,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Daniel,³ Daniel,² John¹) was born at Trenton, N. J.,
May 27, 1799 and died at Burlington, N. J., Apr. 17, 1859. He married in Boston, Mass., in 1829, Eliza Greene (Callahan) Perkins, the widow of James Perkins of Boston. He was graduated at Union College in 1818 and entered the General Theological Seminary with the class of 1824. He left the Seminary in 1821 to receive Deacon's orders on Apr. 19th of that year and served as an assistant to Bishop Hobart then rector of Trinity parish, New York city. He was admitted to the priesthood Aug. 6, 1823, and assisted the Rev. George Upfold, in founding St. Luke's church, New York; was professor of rhetoric and oratory in Trinity, then Washington College, in 1824-28, and was assistant to the Rev. William Crosewell in editing the Episcopal Watchman during the same years. He was assistant to the Rev. Dr. Gardner, rector of Trinity church, Boston, 1828-30, and rector of the parish 1830-32. He was elected second Bishop of the diocese of New Jersey and was consecrated in St. Paul's chapel, New York city, Oct. 31, 1832, by Bishops White, Onderdonk and Meade. He founded St. Mary's Hall at Burlington, the first effort in America "to educate the Church's girls in the Church's way." He subsequently founded a school for boys, which became Burlington College. He incurred certain financial obligations in providing buildings for those institutions, which led to his being obliged to assign his property for the benefit of his creditors and in 1851 to submit to a presentment for trial, but the presentment was unanimously dismissed, the Diocesan Convention having vindicated him before the trial was held. He was rector of St. Mary's church at Burlington from the time of assuming the office of Bishop up to the time of his death, and President of Burlington College, 1846-59. He helped to frame the first constitution of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the church and was the first American Bishop to preach in the Established Church to an English congregation at the consecration of the Parish church of Leeds, England, in 1841. Bishop Doane received the degree of S. T. D. from Union, Trinity and Columbia Colleges in 1833, and that of LL.D. from St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., in 1841. He published Songs by the Way, a volume of poems, in 1824, and many fugitive poems including The Wedded Flags, Softly Now the Light of Day and Thou art the Way, found in many collections of hymns.

College, Philadelphia, Pa., in 1850, but soon discovered that his bent was for the ministry and not medicine. After a course in theology he was ordained a deacon and attached to Grace Church, Newark, N. J. His active and investigating mind was yet unsatisfied however, and in 1855 he embraced Catholicity and was received into the church by Bishop Bayley. He then became a candidate for Holy Orders and after studying at St. Sulpice, Paris, and at the Colleige Pio, Rome, he was ordained at St. Patrick’s Cathedral, Newark, N. J., in 1857, and in that parish commenced his priestly career. During Bishop Bayley’s administration Father Doane became the Bishop’s secretary and was made rector of the parish and chancellor of the diocese. On the accession of Bishop Bayley to the Archiepiscopate of Baltimore, Bishop Corrigan appointed Father Doane Vicar-General of the diocese in 1873. In Mar., 1880, he was made a Domestic Prelate. Monsignor Doane became administrator of the diocese upon Bishop Corrigan’s elevation to the Archiepiscopate and his transfer to New York as coadjutor to Cardinal McCloskey. In 1890, Monsignor Doane paid a visit to Rome and upon this occasion His Holiness Leo XIII made him a Prothonotary Apostolic, which not only gave him the right to wear the purple, but with the consent of the Bishop of the diocese, the pectoral cross and mitre. While Monsignor Doane has been active in fostering the institutions of the church, especially those of a charitable nature, he has also taken great interest in the affairs of his country, and was chaplain during the Civil war, receiving his baptism of fire at the first battle of Bull Run. He has also taken great interest in the improvement of Newark. To him as much as to any other man is due the erection by the government of the public building for the use of the Post-office department on Broad St., and which will long remain as a memorial to his activity and for which government employees in this city are thankful. A new Court House and City Hall which he has been constantly urging are to be built in Newark. His agitation in favor of a new building for the police of the second precinct has also been crowned with success. In a word, the Monsignor is always to be found fighting in the cause of humanity.

442 ANNA SEVILLA DOANE (John, Ebenezer, Joseph, Daniel, Daniel, John) was born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1806, 1, 26 and died at Sharon, Ontario, Canada, 1894, 6, 4. She married, 1827, 4, 8, Benjamin Dunham, who was born at Sharon, 1809, 8, 22 and died there 1883, 12, 4, the son of William and Mary (Willson) Dunham, of Dutchess Co., N. Y., and Sharon. When Mrs. Dunham was one year old, her parents went from Pennsylvania to Ontario and settled on a farm on Yonge Street, twelve miles west of Newmarket, thence in 1818, they removed to Sharon. Mrs. Dunham knew what it was to undergo the hardships of a pioneer life, but lived to see the then wilderness converted into well tilled farms. Although in common with the early settlers her education was somewhat limited, she developed a talent for poetical composition, of which she wrote a great deal, and of no inferior order.

one by one the old residents of this section [aurora] are passing away, and the time will soon arrive when there will not be one left. another was added to the long list of departed last tuesday evening in the person of mr. charles doane whose death occurred somewhat suddenly. the old gentleman had been quite ill for the past two or three months, but was able to be out until about three weeks ago when he had a severe attack, since which time he has been confined to his bed. the deceased gentleman was born on lot no. 94 yonge street, in what was known then as the settlement of the society of friends, on nov. 6, 1808. his parents were from bucks co., pa., and settled in canada in 1807, subsequently moving to sharon in 1818. at the age of 18 he learned the trade of shoemaking supplementary to the farming experience he had acquired, and entered into partnership with his cousin mr. elias doane, as merchant and afterwards with hugh d. wilson. about the year 1850 he removed to this place [aurora] then called machell's corners, and was appointed postmaster, which position he held thirty-two years or until 1882. at the time of his removal here toronto was but an insignificant town containing but few wholesale houses. on account of this mr. doane was in the habit of visiting new york once a year to purchase goods for his store, in connection with the post-office. he had an intimate knowledge of the different events which had marked canadian history during the present century. He was one of the few men who had heard the sound of cannon which preceded the capitulation of York in 1812. He took an important part in the Rebellion of 1837 for which he spent five months in prison in Toronto. He was, for many years, an active participant in municipal affairs and when this place was incorporated as a village in 1863 he was elected its first Reeve which position he held also in 1867 and 1868. He was the promoter of the Aurora Cemetery Company, and since the incorporation of that company he has annually been elected its president. For many years he had been an earnest advocate of the temperance cause, and a trustee of the Methodist church of which church he had been a consistent member for a number of years. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon at the Aurora cemetery.

The following extract is from a notice of Mr. Doan's death in the Newmarket Era:

It is our painful duty this week to record the death of Abraham Doan, who died Dec. 20, 1892, at the great age of 90 yrs., 1 mo., 11 days, and was one of the oldest pioneers in the township. He was born in Bucks Co., Pa., Nov. 9, 1802 and was the eldest son of the late Ebenezer and Elizabeth Doan, who emigrated to Canada in June, 1808. Their journey here was accomplished with great labor and inconvenience. They came in wagons with canvas stretched over for covering. They travelled by Bethlehem and over the Alleghany mountains and halted many times by the way to cook their meals and camp at night, where wood and water were convenient. They were one month making the journey from Bucks Co. to Yonge street, where Ebenezer Doan bought and settled on the farm now owned by Mr. Charles Webb. About the year 1820 Ebenezer Doan moved from Yonge street to a farm about one mile north of Sharon where the subject of this sketch lived until his death. In politics Mr. Doan was a stanch Liberal, and never missed polling his vote from the time he was twenty-one years old up to a few years before his death. The funeral was largely attended, the Rev. G. McKay of the Queensville Presbyterian church officiating, and the remains were interred in Queensville cemetery.

446 ELIAS7 DOANE (Ebenezer,6 Ebenezer,5 Joseph,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1805, 5, 6. He married in 1829, Waite Wilson and resided in or near Sharon, Ontario, Canada.

Moses  Doane  was  the  only  child  of  the  outlaw  Moses  and  Rachel  (Tomlinson)  Doane,  and  was  nearly  three  years  old  when  his  father  was  killed  in  Halsey's  tavern.  He  lived  with  his  uncle,  Samuel  Tomlinson,  who  gave  him  a  trade,  a  horse  and  a  promise  that  "he  would  do  well  by  him."  The  uncle  died,  without  a  will,  leaving  his  promise  unfulfilled.  After  his  marriage  Mr.  Doane  settled,  first,  in  Falls  township  where  he  purchased  a  farm  for  twenty-five  hundred  dollars.  Yielding  to  the  persuasion  of  his  uncle,  Joseph  Doane  the  refugee  (228),  he  migrated  to  Canada  sometime  after  1823.  He  lived  in  Canada  only  about  one  year  when  he  returned  and  settled  in  Wheatland.

454 JOEL6 DOANE (Jonathan,6 Elijah,5 Israel,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born 1808, 5, 10 and lived for a number of years at Yarmouth, Ontario, Canada. He married Fanny (Minard) Doane, widow of his brother Joshua Gillam Doane (455). Joel Doane was one of the leaders in the McKenzie Rebellion of 1837-38. He escaped into the United States, and finally settled in California.

455 JOSHUA GILLAM7 DOANE (Jonathan,6 Elijah,5 Israel,4 Daniel,3 Daniel,2 John1) was born 1811, 11, 7 and was hanged at London, Ontario, Can., Feb. 6, 1837. He married Fanny Minard. She married second his brother Joel Doane (454). Mr. Doane was one of the leaders from Yarmouth, Ontario, in the McKenzie Rebellion. With his brother, Joel, he fled into the state of New York, where he raised a band of desperate characters and invaded Canada. He was defeated, captured, tried for treason and executed. I quote the following from Frank Hunt's letter in the Toronto Globe of Sept. 6, 1890.

The Friends of South Yarmouth had bitter experiences during the régime of the Family Compact, and some of the first settlers departed so far from the faith of their fathers as to declare their intention to fight if need be for responsible government, and a son of Jonathan Doan sacrificed his life for liberal principles. And no wonder. The petty officials who did the dirty work for the Family Compact took special delight in annoying the inoffensive Quakers who they supposed would quietly submit, but they found they were mistaken. The Friends were warned out to drill contrary to all precedent and the laws of the realm, and when they would not respond their houses were pillaged by the petty officials who levied tribute, and proceeded to help themselves to the most useful property at hand.

From Mr. Haight I learned where rested the remains of Joshua G. Doan, the young patriot, and his friend the American Perley who were executed in London in 1837 for espousing the cause of Wm. Lyon McKenzie and the people of Canada. Doan's wife and child were permitted to see him for a few minutes before his execution, and when the time was up, they had to be torn away from him, and dragged out of the cell. It was a most heartrending scene. He died like a brave man and with his dying breath he prayed that the power of the Family Compact might be broken, and good government given to the people. His prayer was answered, and his remains had hardly returned to mother earth before the Family Compact was only a thing of the past. Israel Doane went to London twice after the execution and requested that he be given the remains of his brother and Perley, to be buried in the Friends burying-ground at Sparta, but his request was not granted. The third time he was more successful, and brought their bodies to the meeting-house where a large concourse of people were assembled. They were frantic with grief, and Doan's brothers walked up and down in front of the meeting-house refusing to be comforted. We visited the Friends cemetery near by, and, as I viewed the neglected graves, covered with long grass, their locality known to but few, I wondered how long it would be before the people of Canada, who enjoy the blessing of responsible government, would do their duty to the memories of the men who dared oppose the tyranny of the Family Compact, and were brave enough to give up their lives for the sake of liberal principles.

Yes, I knew Josh Doan, said Mr. Haight, and he was a splendid sample of a man. He was fearless to a fault, and being possessed of a large sinewy frame, few men in the township cared to dispute his prowess. He was openhearted and always willing to do anyone a good turn. Josh Doan was a manly fellow, and there was great sorrow at his death.

Several young men from Yarmouth were apprehended and taken to London, but all were liberated except Doan, and many more escaped to the States. They have passed to their rewards, and even those who were their bitter opponents during those troublous times, admitted before the grave closed over them, that the cause they contended for was a righteous one, and that these colonies received responsible government more quickly through what was considered the rash acts of the patriots, than they would have if everybody had quietly submitted to the state of affairs that existed, and calmly waited for tyrannical officials to give up their power and become more liberal in their views.

456 THOMAS7 DOANE (Israel,6 Israel,5 Israel,4 Daniel,3 Daniel, John) was born in Chester Co., Pa., 1791, 11, 25 and died at Brandywine, Chester Co., 1876, 3, 5. He married, 1819, 8, 19, Esther Hayes who also died in 1876 (both were buried at Caln Meeting House). Mr. Doane bought a farm in West Brandywine on which they lived for more than fifty years. He was a prominent member of the Society of Friends, zealous for the truth and for the maintenance of primitive Quakerism. He was an Abolitionist in slavery days and always an ardent patriot. He possessed a fine mind, was familiar with the English classics, had memorized much of the best poetry and was preeminent in logical discussion. Mrs. Doane was a woman of remarkable acumen and great force of character.

Children:

461 EDWARD TOPPING DOANE (John, Elisha, Ephraim, Hezekiah, Ephraim, John) was born at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, May 30, 1820 and died at Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, May 15, 1890. He married first, May 13, 1854, Sarah W. Wilbur, who died at Honolulu, Feb. 16, 1862. Married second, Apr. 13, 1865, Clara Hale Strong, who was born at East Mendon, N. Y., Oct. 4, 1841, the daughter of Rev. Ephraim and Julia Hills (Barnard) Strong. Mr. Doane graduated at Illinois College, Jacksonville, Ill., in 1848, and at Union Theological Seminary in 1854; was ordained to the ministry in New York city, Feb. 26, 1854 and embarked at Boston, on June 4th of the same year, a missionary of the A. B. C. F. M. for Micronesia, arriving at Ponape, the principal island of the group, Feb. 6, 1855. Here for thirty-three years he was in charge of the mission station. Circumstances made it necessary for him to be transferred to the Marshall Islands and to Japan, but the people of Ponape had his heart and to them he returned, and for them endured and suffered with unwearied gentleness, courage and cheering success. With his associates the mission work was prosecuted most successfully, schools and churches were established and the gospel was disseminated throughout the whole group of Islands. In 1887, on the arrival of the Spanish forces to occupy the islands, an effort was made to oust the Protestant mission and supplant it by one of the Roman Catholic church. The mission property was invaded, its prints used as if they were common property, the natives were intimidated in the practice of the faith the missionaries had brought them, and opposition was shown on every hand. For a remonstrance against these things Mr. Doane was arrested. The arrest was most unexpected. While at work fifteen miles from Oua, the principal mission station, he was suddenly confronted by a lieutenant and a file of soldiers, seized, and put in the hold of a ship and sent as a prisoner to Manila, two thousand miles away. Within one week after his departure, exasperated by the exactions and indignities put upon them by the Spanish, the natives, being without Mr. Doane's influence to restrain them, rushed upon the fort. The priests and women fled to the ships but the governor and every soul of his command were massacred as they attempted to make the beach. Through the efforts of Julius Voigt, United States consul at Manila, Mr. Doane was liberated and returned with apologies to his station. His influence throughout the islands was increased by what had transpired. Though his health declined, he clung to his beloved work till the spring of 1890, when he was conveyed by the Morning Star to Honolulu, where in two weeks he breathed his last at the home of Rev. Dr. Hyde. The eve before he died, too weak to utter many words, he said to Dr. Lowell Smith, "I am trusting in Jesus." For thirty-three years, with two or three brief intervals this devoted missionary, hidden away in the depths of the Pacific, gave his life in patient service to the uplifting of those degraded islanders. He found them unclad savages, sullen and hostile. Through the labors of his associates and himself he left thousands of them living in sweet christian homes, devout worshippers in the house of God. The Rev. Luther H. Gulick, one of the early company of missionaries on Ponape, writes:

"Mr. Doane was one of the choice spirits of the missionary world. I was on Ponape when he first arrived there in 1855 and soon learned to love and admire him. He was disinterestedly attached to the missionary work and his hopefulness was very marked. His many domestic afflictions only served to make him the more spiritual and hopeful. He was in many respects a model missionary—cheerful, manly and sensible."

In 1860, Mr. Doane prepared a Primer and Hymn Book of forty-four pages for the use of Marshall Islanders, and in 1863 appeared a small book of Hymns. He also translated a portion of the New Testament into the Ponapean tongue.

472 ISAIAH Doane (Isaiah, Elisha, Elijah, Hezekiah, John) was born in Boston, Mass., July 12, 1785 and died in New Orleans, La., May 6, 1839. He married first, in 1815, Maria Dunton, who died in 1822, the daughter of William Dunton of Philadelphia, Pa. Married, second, Caroline L. Underwood of St. Marys, Ga., who was born in June, 1808 and died in New Orleans, La., Feb. 13, 1890. Mr. Doane early developed a great love for the sea, and as a young man made several East India voyages and while still a young man became a shipmaster. He was commissioned by President Jefferson, Feb. 23, 1809, to rank from June 18, 1808, a Captain, in the 4th Regiment U. S. Infantry, but disliking the service he resigned after one or two years. When the War of 1812 broke out he entered at once into privateering. He was a prisoner for a short time in British hands, but was released and became 1st Lient. of the privateer schooner Scourge, fifteen guns, and shortly after became her commander.

His cruising ground was the English Channel and the North Sea. He captured many prizes of value, among others two armed brigs, with which he had a severe engagement, having one on each side, but compelling both to strike their colors. He caused the release of over one hundred American seamen by exchange for his captors, and was known as a daring and intrepid commander. Many of his prizes he sent to Drontheim, Norway, where in Jan., 1814, he was blockaded and forced to remain several months. In 1826, he was appointed Captain of the U. S. Revenue Schooner Marion, stationed at St. Marys, Ga., and took up his residence there. While in service he captured a large slaver, filled with slaves, and brought her into port. One of the slaves—a boy—could never be induced to leave Captain Doane and remained with him till his death. In 1829, Captain Doane resigned from the service and moved to New Orleans, where he resided till his death. In New Orleans he was made Treasurer of the second Municipality and occupied a prominent position, taking great interest in all public matters. The papers of the time speak of his death as a great public loss.

Child, of second marriage:

473 George Bartlett7 Doane (Isaiah,6 Elisha,5 Elisha,4 Hezekiah,3 Ephraim,2 John1) was born in Boston, Mass., Dec. 4, 1792 and died there Apr. 13, 1842. He was a man of integrity, kindness and skill in his profession. In 1808, at the age of fifteen, he was admitted into Harvard University. In 1812 he was graduated, a reputable scholar, in a class that reflected honor on its Alma Mater.

In the autumn of 1812 he entered upon the study of medicine and never lost an opportunity to do good, serving at the bedside of the sick. He never flinched from duty while the cry of suffering was heard. Night after night did he keep vigil at the bedside of the poor who had submitted to painful and perilous surgical operations. His pupillage was filled with self-denial and continued painful toil.
So decided had been his character as a faithful medical student and an upright man, that one of the best educated physicians of his time, a regimental surgeon to the militia detachment at South Boston during an early period in the war of 1812, selected and recommended Mr. Doane for a commission as an assistant surgeon. At the close of the year 1814, while yet in his pupilage, he received his commission as assistant surgeon in the U. S. Navy, and in the spring of 1815 he was ordered to repair to New York and report himself to Commodore Jones, who sent him on board the Macedonia bound for the Mediterranean. On July 2, 1815, he arrived at Gibraltar where he was appointed acting surgeon of the Constellation until her arrival at Port Mahon. This was the naval station for the American fleet, where a hospital was founded to which Dr. M. Reynolds had been appointed chief surgeon and Dr. Doane assistant surgeon. For several months Dr. Doane had entire charge of the establishment and thus writes in his journal:

"I have been here more than three months entirely alone, the only responsible person here and burdened with everything—attending personally to every article of provision, medicine, clothing; purchasing and expending; paying all bills; examining all accounts; and at the expiration of every month making a settlement of everything, and having also by night and by day the constant care of the sick, to prescribe and give all the medicine with my own hand. Yet, from habitual method there is no confusion, no irregularity. This is a situation which calls forth and holds in exercise all the energies of my mind. I have also become engaged in quite an extensive practice among the poor, and as I attend them gratis between thirty and forty children are brought to me daily. They express much gratitude, and it is impossible to attend on the poor and sick without feeling for them the sincerest compassion. Here the poor never beg except of God, and of Him for patience only."

When Commodore Decatur of Cape de Gatt had crippled and conquered the Algerine fleet, Dr. Doane was ordered on board the Meeshanda, the flagship of the enemy, to take charge of the wounded. Here his sympathies were well tried. The barbarous custom of inflicting corporal punishment upon criminals by the mutilation of their limbs, had awakened among the Algerines a horror of surgical operations, as badges of disgrace. These brave warriors preferred death to dishonor. Dr. Doane had much to encounter from this prejudice and with the zeal of an apostle he besought their patient endurance of the necessary treatment, and succeeded in disabusing their minds of their unnatural prejudices. When his kindness and skill had won them back to the love of life, their gratitude was unbounded. They besought him to accompany them to Algiers where they promised him a life of ease which, to the Algerian mind, was the sumnum bonum of existence.

In 1819 Dr. Doane returned to Boston, resigned his commission, and the following year submitted to an examination for a degree as Doctor of Medicine, after which he turned his attention to a miscellaneous practice in Boston, his native town, and soon gained the confidence of the people. His well known good character had secured him the respect and good wishes of several among the eminent physicians of the town, and he was recommended to his neighbors and fellow citizens as a skilful practitioner of medicine and surgery. On the 12th of Feb., 1821, he was unanimously elected physician to the Boston Asylum for Indigent Boys, and in Feb., 1827, he was chosen one of the consulting surgeons to the Massachusetts General Hospital. Such were the delicacy of his manners and devotion to his cases that he early acquired a large obstetrical practice, and practice among children. More than three thousand cases of midwifery are recorded on his books, between 1820 and his death in 1842.

Dr. Doane never married. His philanthropy, therefore, was more diffusive than otherwise it might have been. His sisters shared largely in their brother's affections, and participated freely in the fruits of his prosperity. The poor, particularly the sick poor, found in him a friend. His time, his labor and his money were freely employed in the effort to alleviate the condition of suffering humanity. His benevolence knew no limit in the effort to aid rising merit, in its onward struggle. So general had been his kindness to all within his reach, that he was universally hailed as a benefactor and philanthropist by his contemporaries. His generous labors literally wore and broke him down. He visited patients on the very day preceding the night of his death. It is supposed that an affection of the heart, aggravated by unremitting professional toil, caused his sudden death. In a paroxysm of dyspnea he had but just time to alarm a beloved sister, in whose arms he quietly breathed out his life. Medical aid had been summoned but in vain.

After his death Dr. Shattuck of Boston wrote a brief biographical sketch of Dr. Doane which was printed in the New England Quarterly Medical Journal. This was reprinted in a small pamphlet for the family and friends, and a steel portrait (from Badger's painting), also an engraving of his monument in Mt. Auburn cemetery, were inserted. Dr. Doane's library and surgical instruments were donated to the Boston Society for Medical Improvement.

474 ELISHA\(^7\) DOANE (Elisha,\(^6\) Elisha,\(^5\) Elisha,\(^4\) Hezekiah,\(^3\) Ephraim,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born in Boston, Mass., Apr. 4 (or Apr. 11), 1784; baptized Apr. 18, 1784, at Trinity church, by Rev. Samuel Parker, and died at Cohasset, Mass., Jan. 7 (or June 7) 1825. He married Dec. 20, 1807, Mary Bailey, of Scituate, Mass., who died at Cohasset, Apr. 30, 1811, aged 23 years. They resided at Cohasset.

Children, from Cohasset records:

i  LOUISA,\(^8\) b. abt. 1808; d. Sept. 9, 1811, æ. 3 yrs.

ii MARY,\(^8\) b. Apr. 30, 1810; m. Aug. 11, 1829, Dr. Sylvanus Brown.

475 HENRY\(^7\) DOANE (Elisha,\(^6\) Elisha,\(^5\) Elisha,\(^4\) Hezekiah,\(^3\) Ephraim,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born Apr. 1, 1787; baptized Apr. 25, 1787, at Trinity church, Boston, and died at Guilford, N. H., Nov. 5, 1870. He married at Cohasset, Mass., Aug. 23, 1813, Mary Nichols, who died at Cohasset, Sept. 18, 1859, aged 71 years, the daughter of Lot Nichols.

Children, from Cohasset records:

i  HENRY,\(^8\) b. May 18, 1814; d. at Cohasset, Dec. 7, 1874; unm.

ii WILLIAM,\(^8\) b. Mar. 7, 1816; d. at Cohasset, Mar. 12, 1888; m. Catherine Collins who d. at Lynn, Mass., Oct. 8, 1895. In early life he went to Boston and learned the mason's trade, at which he worked for several years accumulating quite a fortune. Success proved too much for him and in a short time his fortune was lost in wild speculation. He then secured the position of yard-master at the Boston station of the New York and New England R. R., but finally returned to Cohasset, where, it is said, he was the most eccentric individual of the South Shore. Ch.: Clara Jane, m. Edward Perras. Mary Frances, m. iii JANE CUTLER,\(^8\) b. Sept. 22, 1818; m. Albert White.

476 JAMES CUTLER\(^7\) DOANE (Elisha,\(^6\) Elisha,\(^5\) Elisha,\(^4\) Hezekiah,\(^3\) Ephraim,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born at Cohasset, Mass., Spet. 9, 1788 and died there Sept. 19, 1878. He married, in 1809, Susannah Wendell Hewes, who died at Cohasset, in Aug., 1879, aged 86 years, the daughter of Solomon Hewes of Boston. The following appreciative notice of Mr. Doane was written by his friend Solomon Lincoln, Sr., of Hingham:

"The Hon. James C. Doane, a venerable gentleman and prominent citizen of Cohasset, died in that town on Thursday last. He was ninety years and ten days old at the time of his decease. Mr. Doane was a gentleman of marked character and of eminent qualifications for public service, which were duly appreciated by his fellow citizens, and frequently conspicuous in various offices. In early life he was employed several years in the dry goods store of MacKay and Prince, Boston. Two years more were spent in the retail dry goods business in Boston, in company with his brother, Samuel, upon whose death, in 1817, Mr. Doane removed to his native town of Cohasset which was his place of residence for the remainder of his life. From 1817 to 1854 he was actively engaged in the fishing, coasting and freighting business.

An enumeration of the various offices which Mr. Doane filled, will give some idea of the extent of his services to the public. Omitting any notice of several minor offices, he was a member of the boards of selectmen, assessors, overseers of the poor, and school committee of Cohasset for many years, in all of which his services were laborious and valuable.

He was a member of the State convention of 1820–21 to revise the constitution, and also of the convention of 1853 for the same purpose. Beside other civil offices he was a commissioner for Norfolk Co., from 1844 to 1857, a representative from Cohasset to the General Court for five years and a member of the Senate for Norfolk Co., for 1848 and 1849. The best evidence of the estimation in which he was held by the people may be found in his frequent reflection to offices. Mr. Doane was for many years well known in Cohasset and vicinity. As a gentleman and citizen he was highly esteemed, as a friend and neighbor he was faithful and true. He was distinguished for his public spirit and zeal for the promotion of the interests of his native town. He had many warm friends whose attachment was not weakened but rather increased with age. It is a pleasure to look back upon an acquaintance with him for more than half a century, and to reflect upon the recollection of his many virtues, civic, social and domestic."

Children, all born at Cohasset:

i. James Cutler, b. Feb. 10, 1810; d. at Cohasset, Sunday, May 22, 1898; m. Flora Montgomery Gillis. He left home when about fourteen years old, and was at school in Maine until he entered the hardware store of William Greenough & Co., at 39 South Market street, Boston. Here he remained until he was twenty-one when he went into the wholesale hardware business for himself in Philadelphia, keeping in touch with his relatives at Cohasset by yearly visits to the salt waters of Massachusetts Bay. He remained in Philadelphia until 1852, when he went West and engaged in the coal-mining and shipping business. A short time before his father's death he returned to Cohasset, where he spent his remaining years on the old homestead. Ch.: 1. Mary Jane, 2. Catherine, 3. Elizabeth, 4. Susannah, 5.       and, in 1857, was a Representative from Worcester, in the Mass. Legislature. He afterwards settled in Milwaukee, and was several years U. S. District Attorney for that state.
      In 1872, having removed to Massachusetts, he represented his native town in the State Legislature and was twice re-elected. In 1872 he was chosen delegate from Massachusetts to the National Republican Convention held in Philadelphia, which nominated General Grant for the Presidency.
      He was elected State Senator for the Cape District in 1877, 1878 and 1879. He served three years as President of the Massachusetts Senate with marked ability and popularity.
      Retiring from public life, he resided in Haverhill and devoted himself to literary pursuits.

(No. 487.)

CAPT. BENJAMIN DOANE.

(From an oil painting by Julian Scott.)
1813 and was lost at sea in Aug., 1862, with his vessel the Promenade, on voyage from Halifax to the West Indies. He married first, Feb. 2, 1840, by Rev. Wm. Burton, Jane Doane, who was born at Argyle, N. S., Mar. 29, 1814 and died at Barrington, Apr. 6, 1851 (gravestone, Brass Hill cemetery, Barrington), the daughter of Israel Doane (200) of Little River, Yarmouth Co., N. S. Married, second, Sarah Cahoon of Canso, who survived him and lived at Canso. Mr. Doane was a master mariner for many years and was in command of schooner Ranger, brigantine Ambassador and other vessels.

Child, of first marriage:

i  Caroline Jane, b. ———; m. Asa Ellsworth, s. of Asa and Eliza Ann (Doane) McGraw, and gr. son of Nehemiah Doane (252).

Child, of second marriage:

ii  Calista Anna Lakeman, b. ———; d. at Plymouth, N. S., Nov., 1886, m. George Huriburt, s. of John and Ruth Hannah (Crocker) Huriburt. Ch.: 1. Florence, 2. Annie.

487 Benjamin Doane (Nehemiah, Thomas, Thomas, Ephraim, John) was born at Barrington, N. S., Sept. 7, 1823. He married at Barrington, Mar. 18, 1852, Maria R. Knowles, who died in Brooklyn, N. Y., July 23, 1864 (buried in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn) the daughter of John and Lydia Ann (Doane) Knowles and granddaughter of Prince Doane (205). At the age of fourteen Mr. Doane began following the sea, shipping as cook of a coasting schooner. On his first voyage, as the vessel was beating up Halifax Harbor, cannons were booming from the citadel and men-of-war, and the city and shipping were decorated with bunting in honor of the coronation of Queen Victoria. Until he was twenty-one years of age, he sailed out of Halifax, serving before the mast, principally in the West India trade.

In the year 1845, weary of the hardships of these voyages and following the promptings of an adventurous spirit, he went as boat-steerer of the whaleship Athol, of St. John, N. B., commanded by Capt. James Doane Coffin, of Barrington, on a whaling voyage to the South Seas. After three years of stirring adventures he left the Athol in Sydney, N. S. W. to receive surgical treatment for a knife-wound in the hand, suffered nearly six months before in the Sea of Okhotsk, while engaged in cutting-in a whale. Gold had not then been discovered in Australia; so, his hand having healed, he made his way home in merchant ships.
In the intervals between "cuts" on the Athol, Mr. Doane had studied navigation and arithmetic under the captain's tuition, and on his return soon obtained a captain's berth. His first voyage as master was in the brig Ambassador, of Shelburne, N. S., lumber-laden, from Port Medway to Barbadoes. The morning after leaving port (Dec. 12, 1851), in a living gale of wind, while the brig with her deckload was covered thick with ice from stem to stern, a schooner in a sinking condition and flying signals of distress was fallen in with. She proved to be the Arrival, Capt. Tappen and five men, bound from Cascumpeque, P. E. I., to Newburyport, Mass., and owned by the U. S. Consular agent at Charlottetown. The rescue of the men was accomplished; a remarkable feature of it being that two of them, by Captain Doane's direction, climbed to the end of the schooner's mainboom, and he laid the brig so close under her stern that they stepped off the boom into the brig's main rigging.

Soon after his marriage, in 1852, Capt. Doane removed to New York, adopted American citizenship, and thereafter sailed continuously from that port till his retirement from the sea in 1889. On the outbreak of the Civil war he volunteered in the Union Navy and received an ensign's commission, but was never called into actual service. For over twenty years he commanded steamships in the employ of Wm. P. Clyde & Co., his last ship being the Cherokee, the first of the magnificent new fleet of that line, plying between New York, Charleston and Jacksonville.

That as a young man the subject of this sketch possessed remarkable physical powers, all his old shipmates attest. "To go from one yardarm to the next, he would climb the leach of the topsail," vouches one who sailed with him for years. "He could hang on by his eyelids"—"he could tie himself in a knot," are the comprehensive hyperboles of others. Of the brave deeds gallantly performed with which his life was crowded, we can only mention here—the saving of two little children from drowning in Halifax Harbor; saving his captain's life in a mutiny in the South Pacific; preventing the murder in the Japan Islands of a man whom he cordially hated; the rescue at sea above narrated; putting down single-handed a desperate mutiny at night on the barque Theresa in New York lower bay. Of these, this brief statement is the only record, while many others equally to his credit remain untold, in which he evinced the same unflinching fortitude of spirit and resourcefulness in danger, with which he was so plentifully endued. Nor was he merely a man of action. He has lifelong extended his acquaintance with English literature and has a fine appreciation of its beauties. The finest of the “Percy Ballads,” “Marmion,” much of “Childe Harold,” “The Corsair,” and his especial favorite, “Falconer’s Shipwreck,” he has known by heart for fifty years.

Indulgent of the shortcomings of others, rigorously exacting of himself, something of his character may be judged by the precepts which he set himself to observe: “Never do yourself what you would condemn in others.” “Do the duty that lies nearest even if you thereby let the ‘main chance’ go.” “If I would lie for you,” he said on an important occasion to his shipowners, “how could you be sure that others might not induce me to lie against you?” Endowed with unusual strength of constitution and vitality, Captain Doane “obeying still in age the law in youth obeyed,” retains at 79 a great measure of his bodily vigor and undiminished mental activity.

491 LUCY ANN\(^8\) DOANE(Seth B.,\(^7\) Edward,\(^6\) Noah,\(^5\) Solomon,\(^4\) Samuel,\(^3\) John,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born at Lowell, Mass., May 8, 1827 and died at Glasford, Ill., Dec. 20, 1898. She married Dec. 11, 1845, Shaderick L. Scott, who was born in Montgomery Co., Ky., Dec. 11, 1822 and died at Glasford, Mar. 21, 1901, the son of William L. Scott, a native of Scotland. When a young girl she moved with her parents from Lowell to Buffalo, N. Y. and from there to Fulton Co., Ill. Her remarkable memory, which she retained to the last, enabled her to portray that memorable trip made through the Erie Canal and to picture Chicago as it was in the early 30's. She began her married life in a small log cabin in the wilderness near Glasford, Peoria Co., Ill. It was the typical dwelling of the early settlers. A wide old-fashioned fire-place occupied one end of the kitchen. Above this were swung the pots and kettles, while the red hot embers were utilized to bake the johnny cake. Her first table consisted of a barrel with a board across the top. An apple tree planted by her, in a spot where the brush had been cleared away, is still standing and (435) bearing fruit. Thus, in the wooded Illinois valley, she and her husband began the battle of life, but by the help of her willing hands and Yankee pluck, the humble home was finally transformed into a residence of comfort and abundance. In her earlier years she was a frequenter of the house of God, but later in life her home duties and failing health deprived her of that privilege. Notwithstanding these cares her sunny disposition soon dispelled every cloud which came to darken her home, and when it was her lot to sacrifice conveniences and enjoyments, she did it with the consolation that all things earthly must soon have an end. She died as she had lived, full of hope for a blessed immortality.

Children, born at Glasford, Ill.:

i  JOHN, 9 b. Aug. 15, 1847; m. Apr. 21, 1870, Lucinda Maple, b. Apr. 10, 1851. He lives near Glasford, on one of the finest farms in central Illinois. Is one of the most successful farmers and stock raisers of that section. Has several children.

ii  MARThA, 9 b. Sept. 1, 1848; m. Aug. 26, 1874, John Haller, b. Dec. 27, 1845. For a number of years he was a successful school-teacher of Timber Township, but is now (1900) a gauger in the Internal Revenue Service and res. in Peoria, Ill.

492  SARAH E. 8 DOANE(Seth B., 7 Edward, 6 Noah, 5 Solomon, 4 Samuel, 3 John, 2 John 1) was born at Lowell, Mass., Apr. 19, 1829. She married Aug. 5, 1847, Allen A. Fahenstock, who was born Feb. 28, 1828. When a child her parents removed to Albany, N. Y., and from there to Buffalo via the Erie Canal, thence to Chicago. From Chicago they removed to Fulton Co., Ill. She received her education in the log schoolhouse of the period, by the old-time pioneer schoolmisters. Mr. Fahenstock is a cooper by trade. He owned and operated a cooper shop until the breaking out of the Civil war when he entered the army. He went out as captain of a company, but returned bearing the rank of colonel of the 86th Regt., Ill. Vol. They have lived all their married life in Peoria Co., and at present are residing in Glasford, where he has large mercantile interests.

Children, born in Peoria Co., Ill.:

ii Mary, \(^9\) b. Nov. 12, 1850; m. John Cole.

iii Charles E., \(^9\) b. at Lancaster, Ill., July 29, 1852; m. Feb. 28, 1873, Amanda A. Triggs; at the age of fifteen years he took charge of a general merchandise store, together with a grain and stock business for his father in Glasford, where he remained until he became of age, at which time he went into business there for himself. In 1886, he removed to Sciota, Ill., and engaged in a general merchandise, grain, coal and implement business and has been very successful. He is a thorough up-to-date business man having also considerable political influence. While at Glasford he served as postmaster under President Grant, and is now (1900) postmaster of Sciota. They have several children.

iv Alphonso A., \(^9\) b. Mar. 21, 1855; m. ———, Hattie Thompson. At an early age he entered his father's store, worked his way up and is now the manager of a large business in Glasford. He takes great pride in, and bestows much attention upon some of the finest horses in that section.

v Ivorine, \(^9\) b. Sept. 9, 1857; d. July 13, 1858.

vi Frank L., \(^9\) b. at Lancaster, May 5, 1859; m. Jan. 7, 1881, Sarah M. Bandy, b. Sept. 24, 1855; took a course at a business college, and for a number of years was operator of a coal mine. For the past few years he has assisted his father in the management of a grain elevator, lumber yard and general store at Glasford. He is an ardent sportsman and keeps a small kennel of hunting dogs. He owns a fine orchard containing many varieties of apples, peaches, plums, strawberries, etc., the growth of which he makes a specialty. They have seven children.

vii John A., \(^9\) b. at Lancaster, Aug. 26, 1861; m. ———, 1879, Emma Hootman. At an early age he showed a decided artistic talent, and during school years devoted much time to drawing and sketching. In 1878 he became a photographer, but since marriage has been in the undertaking business in Glasford, where he is highly respected for his business integrity. Several children.

494 SETH A.\(^8\) DOANE (Seth B., \(^7\) Edward, \(^6\) Noah, \(^5\) Solomon, \(^4\) Samuel, John, John) was born in Chicago, Ill., Feb. 1, 1834. He married, in 1863, Nancy Ann Crossen. His boyhood was spent in typical pioneer life among the Indians, and he early developed a brave and self-reliant spirit. He united with the family in protecting themselves against the wiles and tomahawks of the savage Indians. His surroundings were such as to deprive him of the advantages of an early education. In the year 1853 his parents emigrated to Canton, Ill., where Seth, then a youth of eighteen years, "caught the gold fever," and impelled by a spirit of adventure, left home and friends and started for the Pacific coast in search of gold. He started out from Kingston, Ill., in Feb., 1854, taking boat to St. Louis, where he was joined by his brother Leander, and brother-in-law, Matthew Wells. Together they continued the journey by boat up the Missouri river to St. Joseph, then the eastern terminus for traders getting ready to cross the "Great American Desert." Here he most generously shared his hard earned savings with his brother Leander, who had just recovered from the "Asiatic cholera." Leaving St. Joseph on Apr. 25, 1854, alone, and with only two dollars in money, he set out to make the trip overland, a distance of twenty-five hundred miles and requiring five months' travel. With characteristic energy he worked his way by driving a team of eight oxen attached to a freight wagon, and after months of continued hardship he arrived, on August 13th of the same year, at Shasta, Cal., having one dollar and fifty cents left. He had spent fifty cents during the journey and that to buy a veil with which to protect his eyes from the sand. Here the boy of nineteen years with bucket, pick, shovel and gunny sack, went up the gulch far beyond the claims of others to dig out his fortune. For three years young Doane battled with the miners "rocker" making from six to twelve dollars per day, but during that time the novelty and romance of the life fled, and Seth fled also. For some years after this he led the life of a ranchman. Later he went to San Francisco and in Nov., 1862, boarded the Golden Era, a combined sail and steamboat, and embarked for New York via the Isthmus of Panama. The vessel narrowly escaped destruction in the Pacific while near the tropic of Cancer, but arrived at New York after a voyage of twenty-four days. From there he returned to the home of his parents near Canton, Ill., where he bought a tract of land, with his earnings in the gold fields, and engaged in farming. He remained on this farm five years; then, seeking a milder climate, he journeyed by "Prairie Schooner Route" to the unbroken plains of school-teacher and farmer at Monterey.

496 GEORGE WOOD8 DOANE (Leonard,7 Samuel,6 Nehemiah,5 Solomon,4 Samuel,3 John,2 John1) was born at Dana, Mass., June 20, 1827 and died there Jan. 20, 1899. He was married at Pepperell, Mass., Aug. 26, 1846, by Rev. David Andrews, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of William and Mary (Blood) Shattuck of Pepperell. She was born at Pepperell, Apr. 21, 1828. George Wood Doane was a beloved and much indulged only son; social, sanguine, ardent; in his youth he loved the gayeties of life, and was known far and near.
His absolute freedom from alcoholism and contempt of every degree of drunkenness, led him early to join what was known as the Washingtonian Temperance movement, and doubtless kept him from many temptations open to young men of his day. As he matured he developed an innate integrity, which in middle and later life made him a man of strictest honesty. It was said of him, by one to whom he owed a sum of money, "I had as soon have his word as his note;"
and the result justified the trust. In business, he followed his father and for many years was a worker and dealer in palm-leaf. When he lived in Winchester, N. H., however, from '51 to '57, a part of the time he was a successful agent for a firm manufacturing patent medicines, with Southern New Hampshire and Eastern Massachusetts, as his territory. Returning to Dana, he was a manufacturer of and dealer in palm-leaf goods, until the Cuban ten-year war cut off the source of his supplies. He then became a farmer and carpenter, having a natural mechanical gift and being skilled in the use of tools. In religion he followed his wife; nominally, at first, a Universalist, he gradually adopted the standpoint of the Congregational church, and although never a communicant, for many years he gave the church at Dana his support and was a regular attendant on its services to the time of his death. In politics he followed his father, a Free Soiler, a Republican, and first, last and always a temperance voter. He was not, however, a public man. In town and county affairs he used his influence and cast his vote for what he deemed progress, but neither sought nor held public office. He was too independent in his opinions to be a leader among men, yet he was often influenced in forming his opinions by those whose judgment he respected. Although he relied with confidence on his own judgment, he was rather humble minded than egotistic. He bore misfortune with patience and with an outlook of hope, and carried into the chill of age the warm enthusiasm of youth. This disposition was especially manifested when, in 1888, his house and household goods were destroyed by fire. He built a substantial house on the site of the old building on Pottanpanque Farm, and though his losses and subsequent expenses were considerable he never repined. Of this house, his son-in-law Edward Gilmore was architect, his son Charles was builder and he himself and son Albert worked in its construction. At the town-meeting following the fire, a rebate of his taxes for the year was voted by the town. This act he received with a special sense of gratitude, as also he did the celebration of his golden wedding given by his children in 1896, a social function attended by a large company of townspeople who brought substantial evidence of their esteem for him and his wife. Mr. Doane, like his father, was broad and liberal minded, had a large view of affairs, great charity for the faults and respect for the views of others even while differing from them. Kind, generous and free to help others even at the expense of his own interests, cheerful and helpful, appreciative of kindness, enterprising, energetic and honest in business, he taught his children to be thorough in their work and faithful to trusts. His nature was susceptible and responsive to noble influences and thus his thought and life strengthened with his years. Although his last two or three years were enfeebled by disease, it truly may be said of him "his last days were his best days."

500 THOMAS DOANE (John, Timothy, John, Simeon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Orleans, Mass., Sept. 20, 1821 and died at West Townsend, Vt., during a visit to that place, Oct. 22, 1897. He was buried in Orleans. He married first, Nov. 5, 1850, Sophia Dennison Clark, who died Dec. 1, 1868. Married second, Nov. 19, 1870, Louisa Amelia Barber, born at Brattleboro, Vt., Apr. 13, 1828, daughter of Anson and Louisa (Potter) Barber. Mr. Doane attended the Orleans Academy until he was nineteen years old, and then spent five terms at the English Academy at Andover, Mass.

Leaving this school he entered the office of Samuel Felton, one of the most noted civil engineers of his time in the country and a leading citizen of Charlestown, Mass. After three years in Mr. Felton's office, he was placed in charge of a division of the Vermont Central Railroad and later was for two years resident engineer of the Cheshire Railroad, at Walpole, N. H. In Dec., 1849, he returned to Charlestown and, in company with his brother, John Doane, Jr., opened an office at 21 City Square, under the firm name of T. & J. Doane, Jr., for the general practice of civil engineering and surveying, an office which was maintained until his death. The firm also maintained for many years, ending in 1870, a Boston office; first at 4

Cornhill Court and later in Barrister’s Hall, Court Square. Mr. Doane had at one time or another been connected with all the railroads running out of Boston, but particularly with the Boston and Maine. In 1863 he was appointed chief engineer of the Hoosac Tunnel and located the line of the tunnel, built the dam in the Deerfield River to furnish water power, and in this work introduced nitro-glycerine and electric blasting for the first time in this country. He also introduced compressed air and invented the machinery for it, and had a large share in inventing the pneumatic drills used there. On the opening of the tunnel in 1875 he ran the first engine, the “N. C. Munson” through it. In 1869 he went to Nebraska and built two hundred and forty miles of railroad on the extension of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, and located and named nearly all the towns on the extension. Completing his work in Nebraska in 1873 he returned to Charlestown and soon afterward was reappointed consulting engineer of the Hoosac Tunnel, and had charge of the reconstruction of the Troy and Greenfield Railway and of the tunnel. He finished his duties in this direction in 1877 and two years later was appointed consulting and acting chief engineer of the Northern Pacific Railroad, for one year. During that time he located the Pend d’Oreille division across the Columbia Plains, in Washington Territory, and parts of the Missouri Division in Dakota.

Mr. Doane was employed at one time as consulting engineer of the West End Street Railway, Boston, and in the winter of 1887–8, in company with other officials of the railway visited a number of Western cities for the purpose of examining cable systems.

A large part of the engineering for the city of Charlestown was done by Mr. Doane previous to that city becoming a part of Boston in 1874.

For more than twenty years and until the time of his death, Mr. Doane was an active member of the Boston Society of Civil Engineers. He was elected President shortly after its reorganization in 1874 and was nine times re-elected to that position. He became a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers in 1882. From 1869 to 1873, while a resident of Nebraska, he was instrumental in founding “Doane College,” situated at Crete, on the “Big Blue” River twenty miles west of Lincoln, and one of the leading educational institutions of that state. Offers by the railroad company of six hundred acres of choice land adjoining the town site, and of fifty lots in the town of Crete by the Eastern Land Association were made on condition that other valuable property be secured. Through Mr. Doane's influence, and his own liberal contributions, these conditions were fulfilled, and in appreciation of his efforts, of his generous aid, his active participation in every good enterprise, religious, educational, patriotic, but more especially because of his character as a man, the corporate body wrote his name into the articles of incorporation and the institution came to be called Doane College. Events have justified the incorporators in bestowing this name. From the first, Mr. Doane was a constant and liberal giver, an invaluable adviser and colaborer. The college contains four substantial brick buildings, a spacious campus, well-equipped laboratories and dormitories for both sexes. It maintains classical and scientific collegiate courses, a military department and a conservatory of music. Mr. Doane rarely failed to attend the commencement exercises, making yearly a trip to Nebraska for this purpose. He was one of the trustees at the time of his death. He prospered financially, and by his will the bulk of his estate will eventually go to Doane College as an endowment. Doane College is his monument and to this seat of classic study he gave thought, labor and money, making many sacrifices for its welfare in which his family shared.

Mr. Doane possessed a strongly religious spirit, and he early associated with the church, being for many years a member and a senior deacon of the old Winthrop Congregational church of Charlestown. He was the first president of the Charlestown branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, and was a member of the Congregational Club of Boston. He was a director of the Associated Charities of Boston, and president of its Charlestown branch. He was a vice-president of the Hunt Asylum for Destitute Children. He was a member of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, and of the American College and Educational Society, and was for more than thirty years a Justice of the Peace.

Mr. Doane resided for many years at No. 8 Pearl Street, in one of the oldest houses in Charlestown. It was at one time owned by Oliver Holden, the composer of the famous hymn "Coronation," who lived there for years and died in one of the upper rooms. The house was the last piece of property in the vicinity that was kept in the original state. It was never painted or refitted while Mr. Doane occupied it, he preferring to keep it in its original condition on account of the historical connections.

For many years Mr. Doane's figure going to and from his office was a familiar one on the streets of Charlestown. He was a man of fine appearance, and had a manner that attracted even strangers to him. Although seventy-six years of age it could only be told by his white hair and beard. He was tall, broad shouldered and as erect in his carriage as a trained soldier.

501 JOHN WESLEY DOANE (Joel, Uriah, Benjamin, Samuel, John, John) was born at Thompson, Conn., Mar. 23, 1828 and died of heart trouble in his apartments at the Holland House, New York city, Mar. 23, 1901 (buried in Thompson). He married Nov. 11, 1855, Julia Ann Moulton, who died at Thompson, Jan., 1902. Mr. Doane began "at the foot of the ladder" in business. He took what little money his family could give him, and went to Chicago about 1854 or 5, and embarked in the grocery business. He got ships and finally dealt only in ship loads, entire cargoes, and owned whole sections of Chicago. He prospered exceedingly and became one of the very wealthy men of the country, and one of the great forces in trade principally in the West. The fire of 1871 destroyed all his property and on borrowed capital he began business anew, soon turning his attention to the importing of coffee, teas and spices. He was at the head of the firm of J. W. Doane & Co., with offices at Chicago, New York, London and Rio Janeiro. His wealth has been estimated as high as ten millions of dollars. He was a director in the Pullman Car Co., in the New York and New England
R. R., the Ontario and Western R. R., and in several smaller lines, and was government director of the Union Pacific R. R., under President Cleveland. In politics Mr. Doane was a Democrat, and once was the nominee of that party for Congress from the First District of Illinois. The last two years of his life he lived in New York city, owning a beautiful summer home at Thompson.

505 CHARLES N. DOANE (Owell, Samuel, Ephraim, Sim- enon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Rockingham, Vt., July 31, 1842. He married at Kellogg, la., Apr. 26, 1870, Mary F., daughter of Amasa S. and Nancy (Marks) Dean.

Mr. Doane went with his father’s family from Vermont to Bristol, Kendall Co., Ill., in Oct., 1856. In Sept., 1861, he enlisted in Co. E, 36th Regt. Ill. Vol. Inf., and was badly wounded at Stone River. He suffers from that mark of duty to this day. After the war he lived for a time in Louisville, Ken., in 1867, 1868 in Chicago, and since the fall of 1868 in Kellogg, la. He has held the offices of township trustee of Kellogg, assessor, school director, secretary of school board, county supervisor, superintendent of county poor-farm, road supervisor, county bridge commissioner, soldiers’ relief commissioner and has served two terms in the lower house of representatives of Iowa. He is a carpenter, bridge builder and farmer.

Children, born at Richland, la.:

i Albert M., b. Apr. 5, 1871.
506 CHARLES RUSSELL DOANE (Russell, Myrick, Isaiah, Simeon, Samuel, John, John) was born at Eastham, Mass., Aug. 30, 1840 and died in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 9, 1884. He married Feb. 16, 1865, Mary Matilda, born in Spottswood, N. J., June 26, 1840, the daughter of Richard and Rebecca Mount.

Doctor Doane went to Brooklyn, N. Y., with his parents when eleven years old. They located in the Eastern District of Brooklyn, called Williamsburg. Leaving school when he was sixteen he soon found congenial employment in a doctor's office. While there he first conceived the idea of studying medicine, and prevailed upon his father to allow him to attend the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York. After attending one term, however, he discontinued his studies and went with his parents to Spottswood, where his father had purchased a farm.

On the outbreak of the Rebellion in 1861, he was one of the first to offer his services to the government, and served in North Carolina during the first years of the war, as second lieutenant, first lieutenant and captain, respectively, of the New York Marine Artillery. He resigned from this department in June, 1863, and accepted the commission of first lieutenant in Battery D, 4th Artillery, of New Jersey; which position he held until the resignation of Captain Woodbury, when he became captain of the Battery, and was mustered in as such at Chapin's Farm in front of Richmond in Oct., 1864. He saw active service at the front and made a war record of which any man might be proud. He was a brave soldier, acquitting himself with distinguished honor on several occasions. In Foster's History of New Jersey and the Rebellion, honorable mention is made of Lieutenant Doane's bravery at Bermuda Hundred in these words:

"Lieut. Doane in command of the four guns left in the action of Sunday, now opened fire, upon which the entire force of the artillery directed their shots at one point, Lieut. Morris firing at nearly right angles with the other batteries. Under cover of this cannonade, the Second Division of the Tenth Corps charged the rebel ranks and captured thirteen hundred prisoners and several battle-flags. A Rebel battery was observed trying to get into position in the front, but the storm of shot and shell struck down the men and horses and completely disabled their guns. Lieut. Doane seeing so many of his men go down before the fire of the sharp-shooters posted in trees, threw off his coat and hat, seized a sponge-staff and performed the duties of Number One, until the firing ceased; awakening the confidence and admiration of all who witnessed the deed."
(No. 506.)

DR. CHARLES RUSSELL DOANE.
After the close of the war Doctor Doane returned home and devoted the next five years to inventing and manufacturing several labor-saving machines. In the meantime his leisure moments were spent in studying medicine, and in a few years he was again able to enter the College of Physicians and Surgeons, from which he graduated with honors in 1872, being the valedictorian of his class. He immediately began practice in the Eastern District of Brooklyn.

In 1881, he was appointed a member of the Board of Education of Brooklyn, and the following year was elected Vice President of that body and reelected in 1883. He was an enthusiastic member, served on several important committees of the board and was chairman of the school committee in his own district.

Doctor Doane was a member of the Masonic Order. He was twice elected Master of Marsh Lodge F. and A. M. and for ten successive years represented that body in the Grand Lodge. He was also a charter member of the Standard Council of the Legion of Honor.

He was an active member of Harry Lee Post G. A. R. of Brooklyn, and as a Grand Army man was always exceedingly popular with the "Boys in Blue." The Doane Post No. 499 of Brooklyn was named in his honor.

Doctor Doane was a tireless and painstaking worker. Whatever he undertook was done to the best of his ability. He rose early, retired late and was never idle. For several years he was editor of the Commercial Reporter, and from its pages many a rare gem, of which he was the author, may be culled. He was a versatile writer, always interesting whether writing in a serious or comic vein, prose or poetry. He was a man of sincere purpose and high aims, conscientious and faithful in the discharge of every duty. He never tried to conceal a purpose in flattery, or utter a thought with malevolent intention. He was always independent and aggressive, outspoken in conversation and had the courage of his convictions. Doctor Doane was a man of fine physique, of striking personal appearance and did not, until almost at the last, betray outwardly the ravages of the insidious disease that ended his life. He was buried with military and masonic honors in Cypress Hill Cemetery.

Children, last three born in Brooklyn:

1. Alice Freeman, b. at Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 30, 1865; d. in Brooklyn, Mar. 29, 1886.

He lived on his father's farm till eighteen years old, then attended the High School at Rome, Pa., for two terms and taught school three winters. In Apr., 1877, he went to Belvedere, Ill., and worked on a farm till the following Nov., when he entered Valentine Bros. Telegraph School at Janesville, Wis. In May, 1878, he went on the line of the G. B. W. and St. P. R. R. as sub-operator, and on Mar. 4, 1879, was given the position of agent and operator at Ogdensburg West. After three years in this position he resigned and moved to Arnott, Wis., and engaged in general merchandise with his brother, Ralph Doane, as partner. In Dec., 1889, he bought out his brother's interests and has since managed the business. In Nov., 1892, he was appointed agent and operator of the G. B. W. and St. P. R. R. and U. S. express agent, at Arnott. He was appointed postmaster at Arnott in June, 1888 and reappointed in 1893, and has served as town clerk since 1896. Ch.: 1. 509 Seth Doane (Timothy, Seth, Joseph, Daniel, John) was born at Weymouth, O., Mar. 4, 1820 and died at Kenosha, Wis., May 22, 1892. He married first, in Cleveland, O., Nov. 24, 1842, Frances Burton, who died at Southport, Wis., in 1852, the daughter of Dr. E. Burton. Married second, May 31, 1860, Mary Murray, a native of New York, and of Scotch descent.

In 1843, Mr. Doane moved from Ohio to Southport, Wis., and opened a small store. About 1861 he removed to Kenosha, where he was one of the first settlers and became prominently identified with commercial interests. In 1889, he was the oldest merchant in Kenosha, and was widely and favorably known throughout the county. He was an antislavery man, and cast his first Presidential vote for John P. Hale.

He took preparatory studies at the educational institution at Gambier, O., and in June, 1895, became an alumnus of the theological department at Kenyon College. On July 3, 1895, he was ordained to the diaconate in St. Paul's church, E. Cleveland, by the Rt. Rev. Wm. A. Leonard, Bishop of Ohio, and immediately took charge of St. Paul's church at Belpre, and of Trinity church at Lyme. In both of these parishes a successful work was accomplished under Mr. Doane's ministry. On June 28, 1896, he was advanced to Priest's Orders in Trinity cathedral, Cleveland, by Bishop Leonard. In Sept., 1899, he accepted a call to the church of the Good Shepherd in Cleveland, and in the following May was appointed Priest in charge of St. Andrew's Mission in that city. Ch.: 1. 511 NORTON DOANE\(^8\) (Timothy,\(^7\) Timothy,\(^6\) Seth,\(^5\) Joseph,\(^4\) Joseph,\(^3\) Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born Nov. 6, 1831. He married, Mar. 15, 1855, Lucy Ann Sawtell, who was born July 25, 1832, and died Mar. 9, 1863. He resides at E. Cleveland where he has been town clerk for many years.

Children:

512 GEORGE WILLIAM\(^8\) DOANE (Guy William,\(^7\) William,\(^6\) Prince,\(^5\) Prince,\(^4\) Israel,\(^3\) Daniel,\(^2\) John\(^1\)) was born at Circleville, O., Dec. 16, 1824. He married at Keokuk, Ia., Oct. 25, 1859, Emily R. Greenhow. Mr. Doane graduated at Marietta College in 1845, studied law in his father's office in Circleville, and was admitted to the Bar in 1848 at Columbus, O. He entered upon the practice of law at Circleville in partnership with his father, but the new and more inviting fields of the far West were then opening up by the passage of the Kansas and Nebraska bill by Congress in 1854, and in Apr., 1857, he left the home of his birth for Nebraska. In August following he was elected District Attorney of the Third Judicial District of the Territory and was re-elected in 1859. In 1859 and 1860, he served in the Legislature, having been elected a member of the Territorial Council. In 1864, he became a resident of Omaha, having first located in Burt Co., and afterwards in Washington Co. In 1865, he was elected prosecuting attorney of Douglas Co. and served for the statutory term of two years. In 1867, he served in the last session of the territorial legislature, having been elected a member of the council from the county of Douglas. In 1880, he was elected to the state senate and, in the session of the legislature which followed, took a leading part in the formulation and adoption of a law for the regulation of rates by railroads within the state. In 1877, he was elected one of the judges of the district court of the Fourth Judicial District and, having served one full term, was in 1891 reelected by a largely increased majority. In 1892, he resigned his seat on the Bench to make the canvass for Congress, having been nominated as the Democratic candidate for that position. The district, however, being largely Republican, he was defeated by a small majority. After this he resumed the practice of his profession in Omaha, in which he is still engaged.

Mr. Doane, as a lawyer, is energetic and successful; persistent, and indefatigable in attention to his clients' interests; an able and intelligent conductor before either court or jury, ranking among the foremost of the Bar in the state. As a citizen, Mr. Doane is one of the best which any community can furnish—honest, honorable, just, liberal and unblemished character, always on the side of good morals and of private and public rectitude. Of their seven children the following survive.

Children:

i Cora Alexine, b. Aug. 12, 1860; m. at Omaha, Sept. 29, 1886, Charles B. Keller.
iii William Greenhow, b. Sept. 13, 1865; grad. Yale College 1887.

iv Fred Woodbridge, b. Feb. 11, 1871; m. Sept. 15, 1891, Nellie B. Bridges, b. at Hawley, dau. of Benjamin and Octavia (Moore) Bridges.

515 BENJAMIN STANWOOD DOANE (Daniel, Daniel, Israel, Edmund, Israel, Daniel, John) was born at Yarmouth, N. S., Apr. 3, 1837 and died of typhoid fever at East Boston, Mass., Sept. 9, 1884. He was married at Yarmouth, by Rev. Henry Angell, Dec. 29, 1862, to Elizabeth J. Foote, born at Yarmouth, Dec. 9, 1842, the daughter of Richard W. and Eliza (Porter) Foote, granddaughter of Samuel and Anna (Williams) Foote, and great-granddaughter of Capt. Zachariah Foote of Beverly, or Salem, Mass., and Yarmouth, N. S.

Mr. Doane began a seafaring life on small fishing and coasting vessels, when only fourteen years old. In Sept., 1866, he moved his family to Boston, and for a time was first officer with Capt. Harvey Doane (531) of the steamship Commerce. Later he was in command of steamships Alhambra and Oriental, plying between Boston, Halifax and other ports of the Provinces. The former ship he lost off Cape Sable in a dense fog about 1871 or 2, and the latter was sunk in Boston harbor. After the loss of these vessels he spent about four years in Nova Scotia, but finally returned to East Boston, where he was employed at the time of his death, by the Boston Tow Boat Co.

Mr. Doane is proprietor of a printing business at 54 Montgomery St., Jersey City, N. J. He learned the printer's trade at Coatesville, Pa., and spent several years in the West and South before locating in Jersey City. He is a prominent member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of the Masonic Order and of the Knights of Pythias. He was Grand Patriarch of the Encampment branch of the I. O. O. F. in New Jersey in 1891, and has served as its state representative in the Sovereign Grand Lodge since 1897. He has always taken great interest in the genealogy of our family, and is one of the faithful few to whom the compiler is deeply indebted for valuable information. Many years ago he made personal research in public records of Chester and Bucks counties bringing to light much new and valuable data in regard to his family, and on the death of Dr. Buckman he received by bequest the entire collection of Buckman papers on the genealogy and history of the Pennsylvania Doanes.

528 HEZEKIAH8 DOANE (Hezekiah,7 Joseph,6 Joseph,5 Elisha,4 Hezekiah,3 Ephraim,2 John1) was born at Chatham, Mass., Dec., 20, 1822 (private records say 1823) and died at Portland, Me., Feb. 21, 1884. He married first, at Chatham, June 1, 1844, Eme-line Snow, the daughter of Sparrow Snow of Chatham. Married second, in 1856, widow Margaret (Pasbach) Mumson. She was confined to her bed nearly two years after his death, and died at Portland, Dec. 11, 1885. By her first marriage, she had one daughter, Annie Mumson, who assumed the name of Doane. Mr. Doane began a seafaring life as a cabin boy when only eleven years old, and worked his way up until he became master of some of the finest ships sailing out of Boston and New York. He was in the East India trade. He sailed round the world three times and followed the sea until about 1878, when he secured employment as janitor of the Post Office building at Portland. They settled in Portland in Mar., 1861.

Children, of first marriage, from Chatham records:

i  LINDAL H.,9 b. Oct. 3, 1845; dec'd.

ii  CHARLES H.,9 b. Nov. 9, 1848; dec'd.

iii  SAMUEL R.,9 b. Nov. 22, 1851; d. Apr. 22, 1871.

Children, of second marriage:

iv  EDWARD DWINNELL,8 b. at Baltimore, Md., Jan. 30, 1857; m. 1st, Valeria Irene, dau. of Mial and Rachel (Storer) Lowell, of Hiram, Me., who d. Sept. 12, 1884; m. 2nd, Etta F. Emerson of Alton, N. H. He was at first a farmer in Hiram, but is now engaged in general merchandise at Alton.

v Almena Louisa, b. at Portland, Apr. 15, 1863; a dressmaker in Portland.

vi Charles Lendall, b. at Portland, Apr. 26, 1865; m. Nellie Mason of Bethel, Me. After leaving school he was a bookkeeper; was fireman for six years on Maine Central R. R.; is now (1897) manager of a café at Alton, N. H. Ch.: 1. Henry Justus, b. Oct. 30, 1895.

When Mr. Doane was nine years old his father was lost at sea, and four months later his mother died, leaving him to the care of an uncle. During boyhood he attended district school, but like most Cape Cod boys became fired with an ambition to go to sea, and when little more than ten years old his uncle shipped him off, as cook, on Capt. Freeman's fishing vessel along the eastern coast. He, however, having little love for that work "skipped" from the vessel while in port and went to Newburyport where he got aboard a boat bound for Boston. On arriving at Boston next morning he unexpectedly met an older brother, a sea captain, bound for his home in Chatham, who took the little would-be sailor along with him. He was, however, bound to become a sailor and from time to time got off on sea voyages with some of the old Cape Cod captains who admired the boy's grit. At seventeen he was second officer with Captain Kendrick in the barque Roderick Dhu and other vessels. Later he was first officer with Capt. Theophilus Snow in the King Otho, on a trading voyage up the Mediterranean. This vessel was named in honor of the King of Italy and while in an Italian port, the king accepted the captain's invitation and was entertained on board. He was also first officer of the brig Level, which carried the first cargo of ice to San Salvador. On his marriage he resolved to leave the sea, having twice circumnavigated the globe and having spent some time also in Iceland and Greenland.

Mr. Doane moved to Dorchester, Mass., and learned the carpenter and builder's trade. He built the first seashore house at Bar Harbor, where for seven years he was employed by several New York millionaires in the erection of their beautiful summer residences. He did a large amount of work for J. Montgomery Sears at Bar Harbor, Waterville, N. H., and elsewhere. He resided in Holbrook, Mass., for fifteen years and erected many buildings in Brockton and surrounding towns and cities.

Mr. Doane enlisted in Co. C, 32d Mass. Regt., in Jan., 1862, the company going from Dorchester, Mass., to Fort Warren for garrison duty. When General Banks was driven from Shenandoah Valley, this company was ordered to the front and one of their first engagements was at Antietam Bridge. A part of the time Mr. Doane was on detached duty and connected with the general supply train. Being one of the oldest men, he was ordered to attend the wounded of his company in most of the engagements in which they participated. While retreating from Richmond to Harrison's Landing, he suffered much from carbuncles on his hands which the army surgeon had lanced. From that time his right arm became so stiff he could barely move his elbow, which in time became nearly useless. He was a member of the Holbrook Post, G. A. R., and of the Fletcher Webster Post of Brockton.

531 Harvey Doane (Harvey, Nehemiah, Thomas, Thomas, Ephraim, John) was born at Barrington, N. S., Dec. 6, 1826 and died there Aug. 23, 1901 (buried in Forest Hills cemetery). He married Oct. 30, 1854, Sarah Wilson Cunningham, who was born at Barrington, Sept. 11, 1830, the daughter of William Cunningham. His opportunities in his native town for school education were very limited, but with an energy characteristic of the man, he educated himself, in a large measure, for his calling as a mariner and business man, and won his certificates as master of both sail and steam ships. He became one of the ablest and best known sea-captains of the Maritime Provinces. Starting on a seafaring life when a mere boy of eleven, he rapidly rose to the position of master before he was twenty-one years old, and while yet a very young man was in command of the following named vessels in foreign trade: ship, Entered Apprentice; brigs, Nugget, Josephine, Royal Arch and Knight; ships, Rose, Pilgrim, Premier, and perhaps others. Captain Doane was the better and more widely known, however, as the commander of steamships plying between Boston and ports of the Maritime Provinces and between ports along the south coast of Nova Scotia. From about January, 1867 to 1869, he was in charge of steamers Commerce, Empress, Island City and others of the New England Steam Ship Company, sailing between Boston, Halifax and Charlottetown. From 1870 to 1881 he was in command of steamers M. A. Starr and Edgar Stuart of the Fishwick line, between Halifax, Yarmouth and intermediate ports, and from 1881 to 1884 he was captain of the New Brunswick, Cleopatra and perhaps other boats of the International Steam Ship Company. During several of the last years of his life he was employed in different capacities from time to time, by the Yarmouth Steam Ship Company, of which company he was a director and a large shareholder. He was marine superintendent of the lines, a position for which his practical knowledge and long experience peculiarly fitted him, and on the death of the Hon. L. E. Baker he was offered the presidency of the company, but declined the position owing to his advancing years. In 1886, he and Mr. Baker purchased the steamer City of St. John, for the South Shore route, but on the arrival from Glasgow, Scotland, of the company's new steel steamer, Yarmouth, the South Shore line was amalgamated with the Boston line and Captain Doane was placed in charge of the new ship, and when, in 1890, the company decided to build a larger and faster boat for the Boston route, he was sent to Glasgow to superintend the building of the Boston. He brought out the new boat to Yarmouth in Dec., 1890, and then, after a service covering nearly half a century, retired from the sea, taking the company's agency at Barrington. In Barrington, the place of his birth and his home, Captain Doane was always a citizen of public spirit. In politics he was a Liberal and on several occasions was offered a nomination for a seat in the Provincial Legislature, but never could be induced to accept a nomination. In 1865, he was appointed captain of a company in the Nova Scotia militia and held the office until the company disbanded, and in 1889 he was appointed by the government a commissioner of schools, and served in the office until his death. He joined Zetland Lodge of Free Masons at Liverpool, N. S., in 1855 and ever afterward continued in good standing in the order, being a prominent member of Philadelphia Lodge at Barrington. He and his family attended the Presbyterian church. As is implied by the responsible positions he occupied, Capt. Harvey Doane was a man of sound judgment, of more than average business ability, of wide experience and of a remarkable record as a shipmaster. He encountered many dangers incident to a mariner's life and passed through many thrilling experiences, but during all those years on the seas, he never lost a man, never had a serious accident and never cost the underwriters one dollar of expense.

"Square built, hearty and strong With an odor of ocean about him," he won his popularity by his kindly, courteous manner, the confidence and esteem of the travelling public by his marked skill and mature judgment. The pioneer in steamboating along the rugged south coast of Nova Scotia, thoroughly conversant with every detail of steam navigation, he never made a blunder and his gallant ships under his skilful guidance safely carried over the billows, through fog and storm, the hundreds of lives weekly committed to his care.

532 COURTLAND⁸ DOANE (Daniel,⁷ William,⁶ Edward,⁵ Ebenezer,⁴ Ebenezer,⁴ Ephraim,² John¹) was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, Apr. 4, 1832 and died Feb. 21, 1892 (buried in Alexandria, Madison Co., O.). He married first, Mar. 24, 1853, Margaretta Bader, who was born in Preble Co., O., Apr. 19, 1835 and died at Roseville, Ill., May 1, 1881 (buried in Baders, Schuyler Co., Ill.), the daughter of Jeremiah and Sarah Bader. Married, second, Louisa Champness, who survived him and lived at Anderson, Ind. Mr. Doane was an engineer in steam saw-mills. He enlisted in 1862, in Co. G, 75th Ind. Inf., and served until the close of the war.

533 LEWIS$^9$ SCOTT (Lucy Ann$^8$ Doane, Seth B.,$^7$ Edward,$^6$ Noah,$^5$ Solomon,$^4$ Samuel,$^3$ John,$^2$ John$^1$) was born at Glasford, Ill., Nov. 28, 1856. He married July, 1888, May Hartman. After a course of studies at the State Normal School, Normal, Ill., Mr. Scott went, in 1877, to Bourbon Co., Kan., where he spent two years farming in summers and teaching in winters in the town of Marmaton. He then entered the Kansas Normal College and completed the scientific course. Leaving college he accepted for one year the principalship of the East Fort school after which he was principal of the Marysville school at Marshall. The next five years he was principal of the Axtel schools in the same county, where he established a school library of five hundred volumes. Up to this time he had taken no part in politics other than exercising his right of suffrage as a patriotic American citizen. Upon a canvass of the prominent educators of the county, Mr. Scott was decided upon as the man best fitted by education and experience to make a campaign, on the Democratic ticket, for county superintendent of schools. Believing that politics should have no place in the selection of a man for this position, he made the race on an Independent ticket, and was elected in 1888 by a large majority. He served two years and was re-elected, the schools having greatly improved under his wise and skilful management. At the close of his second term of service he retired from educational work and settled on his fine farm near Marysville. Three of their seven children survive. Six orphan children have found a home beneath their hospitable roof. While Mr. Scott is not a member of any church, he has taken the Bible for his guide and conscientiously endeavors to follow its teachings, and in his busy and peaceful life he and his estimable wife live to do good to their fellowmen.

534 GEORGE WASHINGTON$^9$ SCOTT (Lucy Ann$^8$ Doane, Seth B.,$^7$ Edward,$^6$ Noah,$^5$ Solomon,$^4$ Samuel,$^3$ John,$^2$ John$^1$) was born in Glasford, Ill., Jan. 20, 1863. He married at Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 31, 1885, Margaret McAvoy. Mr. Scott was the ninth child of Shadrach L. and Lucy Ann (Doane) Scott, and has the unique distinction of having named himself before his numerous relatives could hit upon a name satisfactory to all. Having chosen the name George Washington, he early learned to admire and imitate the Father of his Country in love of truth and right, home and country. At six years of age he entered school where he listened with delight to the recital by the older pupils of the stories of George Washington and his hatchet, Washington at Valley Forge and particularly to stories of the Indians. So deep an impression was made upon his young mind by those lessons of history that, in the summer of 1874, at the age of eleven years, he set off for the West to “fight Indians.” A telegram intercepted the runaway and he returned home, where the love of his mother and kind counsel of his father soon developed in him higher aspirations. At twelve years of age he earned his first money, one dollar, by cutting corn, and at fourteen years he earned one dollar and fifty cents per day in the harvest fields. At seventeen years a desire for a better education induced his father to give him whatever money he earned and after a short time he was enabled to enter the Kansas Normal School at Fort Scott and take a course of studies. Leaving school he returned to Illinois and engaged in agricultural pursuits. In the latter part of 1885, Mr. Scott was married and started West upon a wedding trip.
At Garden City they saw the destruction of thousands of cattle that had fallen before a blizzard which had swept the plains with terrific force a few days previous. Here they made a short stop at a “shack” or half-way house, where the “bill of fare” consisted of roast antelope, corn bread and black coffee, and here too they beheld with wonder that weird and startling illusion—a mirage. They continued as far as Scott City, some fifty miles distant, where they lived a short time, but later made a settlement in Greeley Co., Kan., their home being in a dug-out, or sod house, common in that section of the country. Here the drought in summer and blizzards in winter blighted their hopes, and here amid the wild, strange scenes of western life their first child, Ralph, was born. After two years of hardship endured in a life on the prairie, Mr. Scott removed with his wife and son to the village of Tribune, Kan., and entered for a time with much success into the real estate and loan business, which at that time was “booming.” Later, closing his business, he returned to Illinois and settled on a farm in Glasford. Mr. Scott has travelled much in the West, made the ascent of Pike’s Peak, visited Niagara Falls and the Battle Fields of the South; attended the World's Fair, etc., while attending to his various business interests. For the past ten years he has been a successful teacher of public schools, his schools having been awarded the highest honors and first prizes, and also the annual scholarships offered by the Board of Supervisors to the best scholars in the common schools, which scholarship entitles the possessor to free tuition in the Bradley Polytechnic Institute. In politics Mr. Scott is a Democrat. He has two sons, Ralph and Harry.

535 MINERVA9 PARKER (Amanda M.8 Doane, Seth B.,7 Edward,6 Noah,5 Solomon,4 Samuel,3 John,2 John1) was born at Chicago, Ill., May 14, 1861. She married at Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22, 1891, Rev. William I. Nichols, a prominent Unitarian clergyman, now of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Nichols began her education in the Illinois Normal Primary School, continued it in the Convent School at Dubuque, la., and in Chicago. She chose architecture as her field of work and her selection of this profession was not the result of accident, but rather a matter of inheritance from her maternal grandfather, Seth B. Doane (270), a well known ship designer and architect. She received her art education at the Philadelphia School of Design for Women, and after graduation spent some years in an architect's office in order to learn the practical details of the profession. From the outset of her career she made the building of homes a specialty, and many beautiful houses in Philadelphia and elsewhere testify to her taste and skill as an architect. Not only has she designed these houses, but in almost every case has superintended their erection. Of her work a building contractor once said, "she is the most particular and knowing person to work for, I ever struck. She knows every brick and just where it should go, there's no such thing as cheating her I tell you, for she knows not only her own business, but mine too." Beside houses, Mrs. Nichols has built several factories in Philadelphia, the Woman's Club House in Wilmington, Del., and the Woman's Club House in Philadelphia, which was erected at a cost of $40,000, and is one of the ornamental features of the city, attracting much attention to the first woman architect in the country. Mrs. Nichols enjoys the distinction of being selected as designer of the Queen Isabella Pavilion in connection with the World's Fair, at Chicago. In her husband's parish, her work is steadfast and unremitting, and in the woman's club she is the leading spirit. They have

He married Aug. 10, 1848, Margaret L. Dezendurf, who was born June 14, 1826 and died at Rahway, N. J., June 13, 1895. She married second, Nov. 24, 1887, Joel LaForge, a widower. After a few years in his father's business, Mr. Doane went to New York city, about 1846, and was in the employ of his uncle, David Lester, for five or six years. After this time, on account of poor health, he moved to Atlanta, Ga., where he became a leading merchant. In 1857 he sold out and removed to Wisconsin.

Brown University in 1836, studied at Newton Theological Seminary, and was a Baptist clergyman. A great sufferer from asthma for over forty years, he left the ministry and joined his brothers in business at Mystic, Conn. Later he moved to Cincinnati and engaged in the manufacture of harness- and horse-collar machinery.

Children, born at Mystic, Conn.:

iv Emma Treat, 10 b. Aug. 29, 1863; m. Oct. 9, 1884, Charles Edgar McFarland. He is president and treasurer of the Standard Coffin Co., of Cincinnati, where they reside. Ch.: 1. Marion Gertrude, b. in Cincinnati, Jan. 6, 1887; d. there Dec. 20, 1889. 2. Randall, b. in Cincinnati Aug. 13, 1890.

538  William Howard 9 Doane (Joseph Howes, 8 John, 7 Joseph, 6 Joseph, 5 Elisha, 4 Hezekiah, 3 Ephraim, 2 John 1) was born at Preston, Conn., Feb. 3, 1832. He married Nov. 2, 1857, Frances Mary Treat, who was born at Preston, Apr. 15, 1832, the daughter of James Stanton and Frances (Witter) Treat.

After attending the village school and graduating from Woodstock Academy in 1848, he entered upon his business career in the counting-room of Doane & Treat, Cotton Manufacturers, at Norwich, Conn. About three years later he took charge of the books and finances of J. A. Fay & Co., whose main office was then in Norwich, and his superior business ability was so manifest and so practically recognized by his employers that, in 1856, he was sent to Chicago to superintend the western branch of their business. In 1860 he became a partner in the concern and, on the death of Mr. Fay, in 1861, he became the manager of its general interests, with offices at Cincinnati, where he has since resided. The growth and extension of this business concern, whose shops were located on Front and Johns streets, Cincinnati, in 1852, are recognized as having been extensive factors in the development of that city, and through the period of his long residence there Mr. Doane has been everywhere hailed as one of Cincinnati's most prominent manufacturers and business men, as well as the builder and successful manager of the largest concern of its kind in this country, of which he was the active head until he retired from the business on its recent consolidation with another enterprise. During these years Mr. Doane's genius for inventing had manifested itself, and he had originated many new pieces of machinery and made numerous improvements on machinery already in use, which made him as valuable to the company in its mechanical department as in its business offices. The machinery he has invented and manufactured is everywhere in use, and the name of W. H. Doane, inventor and manufacturer, is known in every American and European manufacturing center. His long experience in this business has afforded great opportunities for study, and it may be said there is no higher authority than he on the state of the art in this line. He has contributed, perhaps, more than any other one man to the success of the wood-working machinery industry, a fact recognized by honors at home and abroad. A distinction, which is rarely given to a citizen of a foreign nation, was conferred upon him in 1889, when, at the Paris Exposition, he met the manufacturers of Europe on their own ground and, in competition with the leading manufacturers of his class of the world combined, carried off the "Grand Prix," and was himself decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor, by the government of France. He is a director in many enterprises and a fellow of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Society of Mining Engineers, American Geographical Society, American Society for the Advancement of Science, American Archaeological Society, a Chevalier in the Legion of Honor, France, etc.

It truly takes a man of strong mind and great force of character to lead successfully two lives at the same time. With large business interests on his mind, it seems remarkable that Mr. Doane should have attained great eminence in music, but he is well and popularly known throughout America and Europe as an excellent composer of music, especially Sunday-school music. He had high and noble aspirations, and the work that he has accomplished, in his avocation of writing Sunday-school music, has been of far greater benefit to mankind than he ever could have accomplished by giving himself up entirely to business. The musical genius that was in him would not be stilled, although frowned upon by his father, who always objected to "musical desires" and insisted that a "musical man" was not good for anything, yet the boy's genius asserted itself at every stage in his career and made him prominent in musical circles while still young in years. When very young he would be placed in a chair to sing songs for visitors, such as "Sweet land of rest for Thee I sigh," "Praise ye the Lord," "Before Jehovah's awful Throne" and "Where now are the Hebrew Children?" At six years of age he attended his first country singing school. Being too small to sit with the singers, he took a seat in the corner and listened while they learned the "Fa-sol-la" of those primitive days. An older brother and sister being among the favored ones, in due time the singing master came to the Doane family mansion to stay all night; with violin in hand he proceeded to try their voices. After the older ones had concluded their trial exercises, little Willie stepped up to the master and said "try me." In the kindness of his heart the teacher did so. After the effort, he said with surprise, "why, this little fellow has it perfect." And so this "little fellow" was placed among the alto singers, though he could but just read. He progressed rapidly, and at twelve years of age he played the flute in the village choir. A little later he was the owner of a violin, a present from his Uncle Treat, afterwards his father-in-law. At thirteen the growing lad was ready for the big double bass fiddle, which he used in the same village choir. At fourteen years on going to the academy at Woodstock, he was appointed leader of the academy choir and during his whole course of instruction led the singing. At sixteen he rented an old-fashioned seraphine which he afterwards bought and played upon in the church. In the years of 1848-9, he led the choir of the Baptist church in Voluntown, Conn. About this time he began to study music under the best teachers of the day. During these years of patient study he taught many singing schools, having at one time as many as seven, one for each evening in the week. In 1852-3-4, he was conductor of the Norwich Harmonic Society and conducted many musical conventions in various localities. In 1848 he wrote his first piece of music, entitled "The Grave beneath the Willow" and dedicated it to his school friend and playmate Miss Fannie M.

Treat. A pretty little romance ended when Miss Treat became Mrs. W. Howard Doane. Early in his career, Mr. Doane wrote songs and glees and was by taste and ambition directing his mind to classical compositions. At this time a remarkable religious experience led him to consecrate his talent to Sunday-school music. He had been repeatedly asked to write "hymn-tunes" but like many other musicians had an aversion thereto. At length, in 1862, he was taken sick with heart disease and by his physician's direction went to Plainfield, Conn., for his health, remaining several months. When returning home, apparently improved in health, he had a very severe relapse and came near dying on the cars. With his wife he left the train at Lockport, N. Y. While there the conviction of his duty to write sacred melodies pressed upon him and viewing his physical condition, and considering his neglected duty, he solemnly vowed to the Lord, that, if spared, time and talents should be devoted to His service in this work. From that day he began to mend and was soon entirely recovered. The vow then made has been sacredly kept. He is always making music. From the songs of birds and the floating strains that fall upon the ear, he catches inspiration. Upon the cars or in the boat, he thinks out melodies. Mountain roads, stage coaches, carriages,—all become for him a study. A large number of special songs have been written for notable gatherings and some of his most popular pieces have been born upon the wing. While crossing the White Mountains (from Glen to Crawford House) on top of a stage-coach, he composed "The Old, Old Story," and on that same evening it was sung, for the first time, in the parlors of the Crawford House, by H. Thane Miller and others of the party. "At the Joppa Gate" was written in 1890, soon after passing through that celebrated gate at Jerusalem. "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" was written on the train between Philadelphia and New York, and first sung that evening in the parlors of the St. Denis Hotel. In 1867, while attending the American Institute Fair in New York city, "More like Jesus" was written for W. C. Van Meter, then of the world-renowned Howard Mission, later of Rome, Italy, who came to see him in order to obtain an original tune for the coming anniversary (a few days hence) of his mission. Mr. Doane did not have any hymns and so told him. Just then a boy entered the room bearing a letter addressed to W. H. Doane. Upon opening it he found the hymn, "More like Jesus," and the following note:

Mr. Doane: I feel impressed to send you this hymn; may God bless it! Fanny Crosby.
The tune, as it is now sung all over the world, was quickly composed and first used at the Howard Mission Anniversary. On the first opportunity Mr. Doane went to see the writer of the hymn. He found her in an upper story in a tenement house. She was poor and blind. As he announced his name she said, "I thought you would come." On learning her condition he handed her a twenty dollar note and when she heard the amount she exclaimed, "Oh! that is too much! My rent is just due, and this more than pays it! The Lord sent it!" This was his first introduction to Fanny Crosby. She has since written many, many hymns for W. Howard Doane; among them are "Pass Me Not," "Rescue the Perishing," "Draw Me Nearer," "Every Day and Every Hour," "Tell it with Joy," "A Few More Weary Marchings," "The Prodigal Child" and scores of others which are endeared to Christian hearts all over this and other lands, some of which have been translated into more than twenty different languages. The peculiar charm of his music is its devotional character. He never publishes a tune which does not move his own heart. His idea of music for church and Sunday-school is to praise God and approach him in prayer, not merely to display vocal culture. His first book Sabbath School Gems appeared in 1862, followed by Little Sunbeams in 1864 and in 1867 came that notable book Silver Spray, which has had the phenomenal sale of over 300,000 copies. A little later he and Rev. Robert Lowry were associated as joint editors of the following works, which were issued in quick succession: Pure Gold, Royal Diadem, Temple Anthems, Tidal Wave, Brightest and Best, Welcome Tidings, Glad Hosannas, Fountain of Song, Glad Refrain, Joyful Lays, Bright Array, etc. Mr. Doane edited Songs of Devotion and The Baptist Hymnal, which have been generally adopted by the churches of the Baptist denomination. His later books are: Sunny Side Songs, Songs of the Kingdom, Notes of Gladness, etc. Since 1868, his name has been associated as author with many musical works and a considerable amount of song and ballad music. He fairly popularized the Christmas Cantata, by the issue of one called Santa Claus; and his other contributions of this class, St. Nicholas' Visit, Night of Glory, Immanuel, Frost Queen and Santa Claus, Santa Claus and the Fairies, The Wise Men of the East and many others have found great favor. The circulation of books bearing his name has been world-wide and the copies sold are counted by millions. In 1875, Dennison University bestowed upon Mr. Doane the degree of Doctor of Music. His study or music-room is an unique feature of his beautiful home "Sunny Side" on Mt. Auburn, in Cincinnati, which home is as complete in all respects as taste, culture, research and money can make it. In the transom over the entrance to the study is wrought in ground glass in musical characters, the opening strains of Home, Sweet Home. On the ceiling inside are frescoed bits of celebrated musical composition, beautifully and artistically arranged. Fine paintings, mostly of musical subjects, adorn the walls and here is enshrined his wonderful collection of antique musical instruments, representing nearly every country on the globe, among which are seen instruments from Herculaneum, Grecian lyres, Shepherd pipes from near Jerusalem, Abyssinian drums, Tom-toms, Rams' Horns and about everything that has added to music since its birth in the creation, besides pianos, harps and other modern instruments. Here is also a grand pipe organ run by water motor and over it, in fresco are four measures from the Hallelujah chorus. The library is one of the finest of its kind in America containing vellum MSS. dating from the eighth century, facsimiles of the original score of Handel's Messiah and original MSS. and autographs of nearly all the old masters and modern composers. It is here in his home, amidst such surroundings, when relieved from business cares in the evening that most of his music has been written; yet he is never without a little note book in which to jot down, wherever he may be, the impressions that come to him.

At the close of the Paris Exposition, Mr. Doane and his family spent two years in a tour of Europe, Africa and Asia Minor, visiting first Spain, thence to the historic places of Italy. Leaving Italy, the land of the Pharaohs was visited and the mysterious Nile was ascended as far as the first cataract. From Egypt they passed through the Suez Canal to Palestine, across the Lebanon Mountains, to Damascus, thence to Beyrout in Syria and from there to Smyrna, Athens and Constantinople. The Bosphorus and Black Sea were sailed through, Russia, Finland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, Holland, Austria and the British Isles were visited ere the wanderers returned home, laden with new instruments of music to add to the immense collection at Sunny Side.

While at school at Woodstock, Mr. Doane went regularly every Sunday two miles to the Baptist church, the church of his mother's faith. In the spring of 1847, a revival was held by pastor Elder J. Payne, and the little walk of four miles after the day's recitations to and from the place of meeting was cheerfully done by this young man. At one of these meetings he was converted and immediately commenced an active part in religious work. Two fellow students, a Baptist and a Presbyterian, with himself formed an active co-partnership and held meetings in the Academy during which time some fifty or sixty were led to Christ. Four years later he was baptized and received by the Rev. Frederick Dennison into the fellowship of the Central Baptist church at Norwich. He is now an active member of the Mt. Auburn Baptist Church in Cincinnati. The secret of his success is, every minute well employed. Busy every day he is busier every Sunday. Bethesda Mission, which he superintends and largely supports, claims the early morning hours, then church at 11 a.m. and at 3 p.m. to the Church Sunday-school, of which he has been superintendent for more than thirty years. He is very fond of children with whom he is a great favorite, and it is worth an effort of a long journey to hear him lead them in singing. He is known as a most liberal man and his benefactions have been neither few nor stinted. Prominent among them is Doane Library Hall, given to Dennison University in 1878. With the late John Church, he donated the large pipe organ in the Y. M. C. A. Hall in Cincinnati, it being called Silver Spray Organ, as it was purchased with some of the revenue from that singing book. In 1894 he gave the $40,000 Academy Hall to Dennison University, which has been named Doane Academy in his honor. None but his intimate friends know of the hundreds of gifts given each year to the poor, and all of the income from his music and much from his business are devoted to Christian work. He is an active worker and generous supporter of the Y. M. C. A., and gives his support to every measure for the general good. He owns a cottage upon spacious grounds at Watch Hill, R. I., where he spends the summer months each year, and entertains distinguished guests.

DOCTOR JOHN DONE

AND

HIS DESCENDANTS.

1 DR. JOHN¹ DONE was born in England but the date and exact place of his birth are unknown. He married at Snow Hill, Worcester Co., Md., Sarah Martin, the daughter of Robert and Sarah (Downes) Martin from Galloway, Scotland. Only a very little is now known of Doctor Done, but it is claimed that he was a surgeon in the British Navy, that he came to Maryland from the West India Islands and settled at Snow Hill where he died.

Children:

William,² b. ——; d. without issue.
Mary,² b. ——; m., 1778, John Denwood; no ch.

2 JOHN² DONE (Dr. John¹) was born in 1748 and died at Annapolis, Md., in Oct., 1831, in the 84th year of his age. He married, first, Sarah, the daughter of John Rigley. Married, second, Sarah, the daughter of Capt. William Waters. Married, third, Patience Bayly, the daughter of Esme and Sarah (Polk) Bayly, all of Somerset Co., Md. Mr. Done was the father of eighteen children, several of whom died in infancy or early childhood. He studied law and settled in the practice of his profession at Princess Ann, Somerset Co. On Feb. 8, 1779, he was appointed Judge of the General Court of Maryland. In 1806, he became Associate Judge, and afterwards Chief Judge of the County Court. He was made Judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland, Dec. 14, 1812, which office he resigned after a severe domestic affliction, and retired to his farm "Nestegg" near Princess Ann. Subsequently he was elected Clerk of the Court for Somerset County, but finally removed to Annapolis, where he died as above noted. For many years he was a prominent Mason, being one of the charter members of the Grand Lodge of Maryland. Judge Done was a man of strong character, an upright and impartial Judge, of stern and unbending integrity, yet of most kindly nature, devoted to family and friends.

Children:

Elizabeth, b. ———; m. John H. B. Morton. Ch.: 1. Elizabeth, m., 1st, Lt. Edmond Jenkins; m., 2nd, Samuel C. Gale and had: Morton, Harry E., George Littleton, m. Etta Buchanan, Elizabeth, m. Andrew Onderdonk; all of Baltimore, Md.

3 William, b. ———.

3 William Done (John, Dr. John) married Charlotte Haynie, the daughter of Ezekiel Haynie, a surgeon in the Revolutionary Army. He was a merchant in Princess Ann and was greatly respected and beloved for his sterling character and many amiable qualities. He was endowed by nature with great personal beauty and winning manners, and found a congenial spirit in his wife, whose cultured mind and lovable disposition made her an ornament to the society of the Eastern Shore. "Olney," their hospitable home near Princess Ann, was the scene of many social gatherings, frequented by men prominent in the politics, art and literature of the day. He served a term in the State Legislature, and died at Annapolis, aged about thirty-four years.

Children:

Henrietta, b. ———; m. Alfred H. Jones of Princess Ann. Ch.: 1. Henrietta Haynie, m. Dr. Wm. Stewart of Princess Ann and had: Margaret, m. Charles W. Fitzgerald. Ellen, m. Henry Todd of Louisiana. Mary, m. Edward Fitzgerald. James Robertson, William Done, Rachel Done, Walter Jones, Charlotte Haynie. 2. Matthias, was a cadet at West Point Military Academy and d. in 1863; unm. 3. Walter Gale, d. unm. in Nov., 1888, at Philadelphia, Pa., where for many years he had been secretary to the Admiral in charge of the Naval Station. Punctual in the performance of every obligation of duty or affection, gentle and ever most just and considerate of others, responsive to every noble appeal to the heart or understanding, he was a young man of great promise, beloved by all who knew him.

4 John Haynie, b. 1817. William Hampden, b. — — — ; d unm., at Oroville, Butte Co., Cal., in 1867. He grew to manhood in Princess Ann, but becoming infected with the gold fever, in 1849, he sailed for California.

4 John Haynie Done (William, John, Dr. John) was born in 1817 and died near Chicago, Ill., July 25, 1855 (buried in cemetery of Presbyterian church, Princess Ann). He married, in 1842, Rachel A. Kerr, the daughter of John Leeds and Sarah Holliday (Chamberlain) Kerr of Easton, Md. Mr. Done graduated at Jefferson College, Cannonsburg, Pa., and became a civil engineer. He was employed in locating the line of the Baltimore and Ohio R. R., then being constructed between Baltimore and Wheeling. That work being temporarily suspended, he returned to his home in Princess Ann and, studying law, was admitted to the Bar. He first settled in Snow Hill, Worcester Co., Md., but later moved to Princess Ann, where he soon took a leading position in his profession. He served two terms in the Legislature and was active in furthering the two great works of Internal Improvement, the Baltimore and Ohio R. R., and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, then under construction, and the completion of which meant so much in the development of the resources of the state. In 1853 he was tendered the position of Master of Transportation of the B. and O. R. R., an office then synonymous with that of General Superintendent. Accepting this position, he moved his family to Baltimore and entered upon the duties of the office. Such was his energy and peculiar talent for the work, that without previous experience he soon reorganized the entire Road, infused his spirit into every department and, in two years, more than doubled its earnings. At this period the Illinois Central R. R. was just completing its line through the State of Illinois and emigration was pouring in from Europe and the Eastern States. Recognizing Mr. Done's great abilities for the work, the Directors of that company urged him to take charge of their property as General Superintendent with a salary of $10,000, which was then considered very large. Removing his family to Chicago in the winter of 1854–5, he there began a career as Railway Manager that easily placed him at the head of that brilliant coterie of men whose energy, courage and fertility of resources conquered the wilderness and founded an empire upon the treeless plains. In the midst of a toil of a well spent life and while planning still greater developments he met with an accident on his own road near Chicago and was carried to his home where he lived only a few hours. Thus death cut short a life devoted to good works and stilled a heart "full of all blessed conditions." He was deeply religious from his early youth; an elder in the Presbyterian church and prominent in every movement for the relief of suffering and distress.

Children:

i  JOHN HAYNIE, b. 1843; d. Mar., 1863, at Princeton, N. J., while a member of the Junior Class of Princeton College. He was a most promising young man, beloved by all who knew him for his amiable disposition and manly accomplishments.

ii  JOSIAH BAYLY, b. 1844; d. at Yokohama, Japan, Nov. 2, 1872; m., at Yokohama, Carrie Baker, dau. of John and Abbie (Colgate) Baker of New York. He studied at Princeton Coll., grad. at the Medical school of the University of New York; served two years in Bellevue Hospital and at the expiration of his term established himself as a physician in New York city. Having contracted pneumonia, he was advised to seek a milder climate and accordingly sailed for China in 1866, as a surgeon in the employ of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. He subsequently settled in Yokohama. Dr. Done was a skilful physician, a man of brilliant and well-stored mind, impatient of shams and keenly appreciating the true and good. Of most pleasing address and courtly manner, he possessed to a marked degree, the faculty of winning and retaining the respect and affection of all who knew him; no ch.

iii  LEEDS KERR, b. ———; d. in infancy.

iv  WILLIAM LEEDS, b. Aug. 26, 1848; m. Apr. 27, 1892, Cora A. Paddack, dau. of Benjamin F. and Mary (McMillan) Paddack of Wyoming, O. In 1877 he moved to Birmingham, Ala., where he is president of the Muscogee Coal Company, controlling extensive business interests. He has furnished the records and portraits of his ancestors for this book. In conformity to the method of the majority of our family, he has changed the spelling of his name to Doane. Ch.: 1. BETSEY DOANE married Aug. 11, 1760, John Rich, born at Truro, Mass., Feb. 20, 1732 and died there Apr. 19, 1806. She died Nov. 24, 1816, aged 75 years (gravestone, N. Truro).

KEZIAH DOANE and Isaac Fay were married at Hardwick, Mass., Nov. 22, 1764. Possibly she was a daughter of David Doane (28).

JOSHUA DOANE was married at New Bedford, Mass., Sept. 2, 1767, to Eunice Allen (town record). He was a "mariner" and lived in New Bedford, that part set off in 1812 as Fairhaven, where they owned a house and barn, about twenty acres of land and "half a pew in the meetinghouse." It is claimed that he was a cooper by trade and that he was a schoolmaster in Fairhaven. Their daughter, Elizabeth Doane, "single woman of New Bedford," was appointed to settle the estate of Eunice Doane, widow, deceased, and the estate of Joshua Doane, mariner, deceased, May 7, 1793. On October first of the same year she was appointed guardian to her brothers, Clermont and Joshua.

Children, from New Bedford records:

i Elizabeth, b. Oct. 26, 1767; m. Elegate Hitch, who was in charge, under government, of Fort Phænix, at Fairhaven.

ii Eunice, b. June 24, 1776; m. Feb. 19, 1809, Obed Hathaway of Fairhaven. Their dau. Lydia m. Billings Cook.

iii Clermont, b. Feb. 18, 1782. In 1805 his name appears in records as Clermont John, and ever afterwards he was known only as John. He was a cooper, and lived on Nantucket Island and in New Bedford. His dau. Eliza m., in 1830, Eliphalet, s. of Isaac Cushman of Middleboro, and had two children. His dau. Emily m. James Barney.

iv Joshua, b. Nov. 15, 1785; d. at New Bedford abt. 1847; m. May 2, 1813, Hope Howland who d. May 15, 1876, ae. abt. 79 yrs. He was a tanner and carrier and owned quite an extensive plant on South Second street, in New Bedford. They had ten children several of whom died in infancy or childhood. The others were: James Madison, m. Harriet S. Tobey and d. abt. 1868. William H., m. Jan. 24, 1847, Charlotte C. Rapp; was captain of the Vineyard Sound and Hen and Chickens lightships for over forty years. George E. F.,
THE DOANE FAMILY.

JOSHUA DOANE and Anna Clarke were married in New York, July 17, 1773.

On July 26, 1777, Heman Doane was commissioned commander of the brigantine Sturdy Beggar (privateer), owned by Mungo McKay and Thomas Adams of Boston, and on Sept. 8th of that year "Heman Doane of Boston, mariner, now bound to sea," made his will, which was presented to Suffolk Probate Court by his widow, Joanna Doane, Apr. 15, 1783. The brigantine Sturdy Beggar, Heman Doane, commander, John Dealey, 1st lieut., Wm. Moars, 2nd lieut., James Smith, master, mounting fourteen carriage and a like number of swivel-guns, provisioned with eighty barrels of beef and pork, eight tons of bread and flour, carrying 1500 pounds of powder and manned by a crew of ninety men, was commissioned July 26, 1777, and foundered at sea, with all on board, in 1778.

JONATHAN DOANE and Phœbe Horton were married by Rev. Benjamin Bowers of the Second church of Middle Haddam, Conn., Dec. 6, 1779. One of their children was Fanny Doane, born Mar. 31, 1782; died May 4, 1824; married Sept. 1, 1802, Gardner Child, born June 6, 1781 and died Dec. 2, 1832, son of James, Jr., and Hannah (Kelley) Child.

JANE DOANE of Middletown, Conn., married Jan. 15, 1781, Amos Galpin Baldwin, born 1755, a Judge in Litchfield, Conn.

LEVI DOANE of Dartmouth, Mass., was married Feb. 16, 1780, to Persis Spooner, born Feb. 23, 1763, daughter of Benjamin and Mary (Black) Spooner, of Dartmouth.

LEVI DOANE of Boston was commissioned commander of the armed sloop Fox (privateer) Nov. 16, 1780, said sloop owned by John Adams and Samuel Greenough of Boston. On Apr. 20, 1781, Captain Doane of the sloop Fox, reported to the Boston selectmen that small-pox had been on his vessel since he left Martinique, whereupon the vessel was ordered into quarantine at Rainsford Island. On Jan. 15, 1783, "Levy Done," mariner, was one of two bondsmen for Peter Green of Boston.

ASA DOANE, born at Brookfield, Mass., about 1782; died Dec. 21, 1864; married, first, Lucy, daughter of Amos Adams of Brookfield. Married, second, at Springfield, Mass., May 12, 1858, by Rev. Mark Trafton, Lorinda (Carey) Gallop of Springfield, who died Mar. 5, 1872. The record of his second marriage gives Brookfield as his birthplace, his age 76, and his father as William Doane. Possibly he was a son of Capt. William Doane of Brookfield and Ware (134) by a first marriage, but of this we have no evidence.
Children, of first marriage:

Louisa, b. abt. 1804; d. at Charlton, Mass., Sept. 5, 1852.
Amos, b. abt. 1805; d. at Charlton, July 29, 1844 (bur. in S. Brookfield). Ch.: Roxanna, Lyman, George W.

Late Immigrants.

JOHN DOANE was born at Stone, Staffordshire, Eng., in 1811, and died at his residence Greenwood Cottage, Hamilton, Bermuda. He married at the residence of Thomas Pitt, in Hamilton, Sarah Hariot Sutcliffe Atwood, who was born at Hamilton in 1820 and died there at Greenwood Cottage, Jan. 5, 1889. Both were buried in his tomb, in the yard of St. John's church, Pembroke, Bermuda. She was highly educated and a well informed woman. Her father, Benjamin Atwood, was an educated man and "the personification of a down east Yankee." Her grandfather, Commodore Goddard Atwood, owned Atwood Island, one of the Bahamas and operated his fleet of vessels during the Revolutionary war against the British, American and French commerce. He died somewhere on the Island of New Providence. After his death his widow, Love Watkins, returned to Bermuda to live with her son Benjamin.

When a young man Mr. Doane came from England to Bermuda, where he met and married his wife. He told his children that he could trace his line of ancestors to the time of the Danes in England. He always wrote his name Doane, but stated that his ancestors spelled it without an "a."

Children:

THOMAS DONE. The following is copied from Journals of New York Provincial Congress, vol. i, 1775-6-7, pp. 949, 950: [May 31, 1777]. The petition of Thomas Done, to wit:

"To the Honorable The Council of Safety of the State of New York.

The petition of Thomas Done humbly sheweth: That in January in the year 1775, your petitioner enlisted in the Massachusetts Bay levies, which marched to the relief of our troops before Quebec; and entered into Capt. Lamb's company of artillery, then commanded by Capt. Lieut. Wool; that while your petitioner belonged to the said company (to wit) on the first day of May, as he was on duty at a two-gun battery near Charles River, he was wounded by the bursting of one of our own caisson, and thereby totally lost his sight, besides being otherwise greatly injured; that on the 6th of May your petitioner was taken prisoner and remained in captivity until last fall, when he was with the other prisoners sent by Genl. Carlton to Elizabeth Town; that your petitioner soon after applied to the Honorable John Hancock, President of the Congress, for relief, who directed your petitioner to repair to where he first entered into the service of these States; that accordingly your petitioner went to Alfred in the Massachusetts Bay State, where the committee refused to make any provision for him, insisting that your petitioner ought to be provided for by that State in whose immediate service he was at the time he received his wounds.

"Your petitioner therefore humbly begs leave to lay his case before this Honorable House, praying that they will grant him such relief as they in their wisdom shall see fit. And your petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray,

"THOMAS DONE."

Kingstone, May 30, 1777. The examination of Thomas Done:

Says he was born at Sheffield, in Yorkshire in that part of Great Britain called England; that he was a pressed man on board the Chatham, a 50 gun ship belonging to the British navy, and ran away from her at the Island of Antigua; from whence by different conveyances he arrived in the Massachusetts Bay State, soon after the death of General Montgomerie, where he enlisted two or three days after his arrival in the Massachusetts Bay troops for three months' service and proceeded with them to Quebec, and continued in that service until those troops were discharged; and thereupon he enlisted in the Continental company of artillery commanded by Capt. Lamb, in which service he lost his sight as mentioned in his petition." Resolved, that this State will for the present make some provision for the said Thomas Done, a Continental maimed soldier, agreeably to Continental regulations for that purpose. And Ordered, that he be committed to the care of the Secretaries until further order; that they or one of them disburse some money for his aid and support, and charge this State with the same.

WILLIAM BADGER DOANE (son of Wm. and Sarai (Badger) Done, grandson of Wm. and Anna Done, all of Shrewsbury, Co. Shropshire, Eng.) was born at Shrewsbury, Nov. 1, 1862. He married Martha Riley and resides in East Boston, Mass. He went to sea when seventeen years old and made fifty voyages on S. S. Kansas, between Liverpool and Boston.

REV. SAMUEL OSBORN AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

1 SAMUEL OSBORN was born probably about 1685. Accounts of his birthplace and place of education are conflicting. The Rev.
James Freeman, who made a little investigation as to his life, says, "he was born in Ireland and educated in the University of Dublin." Israel Doane, Sen., who died at Argyle, N. S., in 1844 aged 84 years, says in his printed pamphlet, probably on authority of his mother's statements, that his grandfather Samuel Osborn "was born of Irish parents in Scotland and was educated at Glasgow, and at the age of twenty-two years came over to America, landing in Boston in New England." From a pamphlet, printed in 1723, entitled A Church of Christ Vindicated: A Short and Plain Relation of Some Transaction in the South Church at Eastham, we learn that Mr. Osborn "came over to America in the latter end of October, 1707, bringing Letters of Commendation from Ireland subscribed by the Rev. Robert Rainey, Pastor of a Church in the Lordship of Newry, in the County of Down." The earliest public record of Mr. Osborn, that we have found, is recorded at Edgartown, Mass., and is that of his marriage on Jan. 1, 1710, by the Rev. Jonathan Dunham, to Jedidah Smith, daughter of Benjamin and Jedidah (Mayhew) Smith, granddaughter of Thomas and Jane (Paine) Mayhew and great-granddaughter of Thomas Mayhew, grantee and governor of Marthas Vineyard and adjacent islands.

On May 9, 1712, the Sandwich people agreed to give Samuel Osborn, the "schoolmaster at Edgartown," £60 per year for three years if he would serve them that time and give instruction in Greek. There is no record that he accepted the offer, but he probably taught for a time in Sandwich as the following year he and his wife Jedidah united with the Congregational church in that town. The record of their admission to the church styles him "Rev. Mr. Osborn." In 1713 he was engaged to teach in Harwich and while there he and his wife witnessed the will of Kenelm Winslow which bears date Jan. 17, 1712-13. In the Harwich records his name appears as "Asbon." He perhaps was a schoolmaster at Sandwich after this date, as the Rev. Benjamin Holm, an eminent minister of the Friends who visited Sandwich in 1715, recounts in his journal "a dispute with one Samuel Osborn, a school master." Mr. Osborn appears next in Plymouth where he was teaching in November, 1717, when he received a call to the church at Eastham to succeed the "learned, pious and faithful pastor," Rev. Samuel Treat. Soon after the death of Mr. Treat efforts were made by the Eastham church to secure the settlement of a minister. They sent and invited first the Rev. Mr. Hubbard but failing of him they invited Mr. Osborn "who was in the school at Plymouth and frequently had preached for the Reverend Mr. Little" and "occasionally in many other places." Mr. Osborn gave up his school in order to supply the Eastham pulpit as a candidate, and entered upon his work there about the beginning of November, 1717. About the first of April, 1718, the church sent to the ministers of the county, then met at Barnstable, for their advice respecting his settlement and their advice was as follows:

We, the Subscribers say, That tho' we have a due Value for and cordial Respect to the said Mr. Osborn, and wish him well, and know not but that he might be Serviceable; yet on sundry Considerations, we cannot think it advisable to encourage as to his Settlement; especially at present, and particularly, having had Advice of some Scandal that said Osborn lies under, which we cannot understand was ever yet cleared up, which until it be to our Satisfaction, were there nothing else, we cannot but look upon it a sufficient Bar in our way against giving our Consent or Advice for his said settlement.

Jonathan Russel.

Note. This was a scandalous report then brought to the ministers, which the Rev. Mr. Cotton never heard of before. However, he said he would enquire into the truth of it and as he found so would he signify it to each of his brethren and to the Eastham church. Accordingly some time after he wrote the following letter to their church agent:

Mr. Paine:
I have your Letter by Mr. Doane and have endeavored to communicate it to the Ministers between Us and You; and have desired them to give answer, if they see cause. For my own part I do not give Credit to the late Reflection, which (I suppose) was very untruly and unduly cast on Mr. Osborn. But yet I count it my Duty that it is, and hath been upon good Grounds, the Practice of the Candidates for the Ministry, to offer themselves to the Examen of the Presbytery in their several Associations, in order to the Discovery and Approbation of their Ministerial capacity and Qualifications, that so they may be recommended to that great work of our Glorious Lord. Now I do not know that any Minister of this Association, has ever tasted of Mr. Osborn's Capacity and Gifts for that sacred service: So that it is not to be wondered at, or thought hard of, that they are not so hasty in their Approbation of him, as yourselves were. I hope I do sincerely desire the Glory of God, the Peace and Edification of your Church and People and Mr. Osborn's and his Family's best good; and wish you may all be directed to take those steps, and walk in that way, which may attain those Ends. Amen. I am Sir,

Sandwich,
May 8th, 1718.

Sometime after this Mr. Cotton sent for Mr. Osborn to go to Sandwich to preach before the ministers, which accordingly he did; and before he returned, one of the ministers before whom he had preached, gave him ten theological questions to answer extempore, as follows:

(1) How came we to be involved in Adam's guilt, seeing we never chose him for our Head?
(2) How is God Unchangable seeing that it was in Time that He became a Creator, Preserver, &c.?
(3) Why was Man's Punishment that he was sentenced to, Eternal?
(4) How can God accept Satisfaction by a Surety, seeing the Threatening is positive?
(5) Why was it needful that Jesus Christ the Mediator should be both God and Man?
(6) What is the matter of a Sinner's Justification?
(7) On what Account was Christ's active obedience necessary?
(8) What influence has Faith to our Justification?
(9) If we are justified by Christ's Righteousness, what need of our Obedience to the Law?
(10) If Christ has suffered the Penalty of the Law, why does God threaten his People for their sins!

After about seven months' trial and experience of Mr. Osborn's gifts and qualifications for the work of the ministry and having perversed his "Letters of Commendation" from such as are "Sober and Religious" in Ireland, and having received a full account of his conduct and conversation since his arrival into the country in 1707, the Eastham church proceeded to give him "a full Call to the Office," and on May 19, 1718, unanimously chose him for their pastor, the town as unanimously concurring with them in that choice.

Mr. Osborn having accepted this call, the church appointed Sept. 17, 1718, for the day of his ordination, and in due time sent out letters to all the churches of the county and to the church at Plymouth. The pastors of Yarmouth and Truro being abroad at the time, the churches of Plymouth, Sandwich, Falmouth and Barnstable convened. The "memorable Mr. Cotton" gave the Charge, the Rev. Mr. Little gave the Right Hand of Fellowship and the Rev. Mr. Metcalf assisted in Laying on of Hands.

On ordination day morning Justice John Doane of Billingsgate (Wellfleet) came before the churches convened and delivered in the following paper, signed by three male and fourteen female members of the church, residing in Billingsgate under the ministry of Rev. Josiah Oakes:

We whose Names are hereunto subscribed, Members of the Church at Eastham, having not concord with any of the Acts either of Church or Town relating to Mr. Osborn's Settlement in the Ministry there; nor indeed have had any Notification about any of their Meetings about their Affairs: Also looking on him not qualified for the Work of the Ministry according to what hath been signified to our Church by the Reverend Elders at an Association Meeting of theirs at Barnstable, April 9, 1718, do therefore publicly declare our dissent from his Settlement among us, and disclaim any Relation to him as our Pastor.

This paper was somewhat surprising to the church and to the ordination council. A long controversy ensued. It continued till well into 1723 and into which were drawn the Rev. Josiah Oakes of Billingsgate, Rev. John Avery of Truro, Rev. Nathaniel Stone of Harwich and Rev. Joseph Lord of Chatham. Several church meetings were called and three or four ecclesiastical councils were convened, one at the house of John Doane, Esq., at Billingsgate, Nov. 8, 1720, one at Eastham, Oct. 24, 1722 and another at the same place on May 8, 1723. Mrs. Hannah (Hobart) Doane, wife of John Doane, Esq., and one of the leaders in the Billingsgate faction against Mr. Osborn, was "admonished" by the church for "irregular withdrawing communion" and finally was excommunicated from the church, because of her "ungodly carriage," "railings," etc.

Despite the efforts of his opponents Mr. Osborn continued in the pastorate at Eastham for more than twenty years. He began his labors there in the old meeting-house which stood near the old Town Cove burial-ground, but in 1719, on the division of the church and the completion of the new meeting-house, he removed and became the pastor of the branch at S. Eastham, it then representing the parent church. Here he continued many years, actively engaged in his work and in the esteem and confidence of the brethren, until trouble arose between him and his parishioners respecting doctrinal points, a trouble which finally ended in his formal dismissal by the church after a full trial, Nov. 20, 1738. His accusers brought nothing to prove any immoral conduct, but they thought as did the "venerable council," convened June 28, 1738, that his "unguarded expressions" concerning "God and his moral perfections as also concerning election, redemption and other like tenets of the holy faith," were enough to disqualify him from holding the pastoral office. The leaders in this trial for heresy were men of prominence in Eastham. Two of them, Dea. Joseph Doane and Nathaniel Freeman, Esq., were men of intelligence and large influence, and it is safe to say that after having listened to so radical an exponent of all the sharp points of Calvinism as the Rev. Samuel Treat, they did not fail to discover the gradual changing of the views of their finely educated minister and his decided leaning towards Pelagianism. The dismissal from the church brought Mr. Osborn and his family under somewhat trying circumstances, as appears by the following from his own writing:

And so by means of that Antinomian Council, I in an advanced Age, and my poor Family, were turn'd adrift to shift how we best could; nor could I help myself or Family, by disposing of my House and little Land I was possess'd of, amongst them; it appear'd to me, that by Means of their Council, their Prejudices were so strong, that they count'd they did God good Service, in doing me all the Mischief that lay in their Power: They used their utmost Endavors to prevent my having a hearing; and in the mean Time hastened the Settlement of a young Man, who, in my Opinion, ought rather to have been sent to School, than suffer'd to go into the Pulpit to teach others.

I had something of an Estate amongst that People, with whom I preached above twenty years, but I took upon it as lost; for tho' their Council advis'd them to give me an equivilant for what I was possessed of amongst them, but that Antinomian Council having studd their Result, with so many injurious Insinuations, it appear'd to me, that the poor deceived People were so prejudiced they would buy nothing of me, looking upon me to be as hateful and dispicable a Man as their Council had describ'd me in their Result.

After his dismissal from the church Mr. Osborn continued for a time to preach to his adherents in his own house at Eastham, though subject to much persecution. I quote from his The Case and Complaint:

I being excluded the Pulpit, preached in my own House, to the Party who still adhered to me and refused to swallow the Antinomian Errors. After some time four of us were complain'd of to the Grand Jury. The Court at Barnstable accepted the Presentment and we were summoned to appear;
which we did. I pleaded in open Court, that I could not in Conscience join with the People who had in my Opinion forsaken the Truth, and had embraced the Errors of that Antinomian Council: I pleaded that under the Gospel, all Places were alike Holy, and the Worship accepted, whether performed in the House, in the Fields, or by the River Side. I pleaded, that I could not be convinced that it was contrary to Law for me to preach in my own House to my own People over whom the Holy Ghost had made me an Overseer. But the Court was very stern and rough, and urged our pleading Guilty or not Guilty. I then told the Court (my Heart being almost broke with malicious Treatment from Antinomians who could not sin) that if it was a Breach of Law, my preaching in my own House to my own People, then I was Guilty. A Majority of the Justices determined that we should pay our fines; James Otis, Esq. expressing himself thus, viz. That the Law knew of no such Assemblies as mine was. Having paid our Fines and other Charges we returned home: And tho' I continued to preach in my House to my own People as before, yet the Court never sent for me again upon any such Account.

In 1743, Mr. Osborn was in Boston and about that time went into York county (Maine) with a view to settlement in the pastorate at Brunswick. On arrival there, however, to his "great Surprise" a letter was put into his hands subscribed by Benjamin Colman, Thomas Prence, William Cooper and Joshua Gee, ministers at Boston, wherein they tell the church at Brunswick "That they understood that the faces of some of them were set upon" Mr. Osborn, "and that they would not have them fix upon a Man who refused to subscribe to the Confession of Faith, denied original Sin, the Doctrine of Grace, the Doctrine of the Trinity and Justification by Faith alone."

It is understood that Mr. Osborn returned to his former vocation of school-teaching and that he spent his last days in Boston. It is probable that for a few years after 1761 he was a resident of Barrington, N. S., to which place his daughter Elizabeth Doane and other relatives had removed. In the list of the original proprietors of that township, the name Samuel Osborn appears as grantee of Lot 69, as also in the census of 1770, but whether this Samuel Osborn was the ejected minister of Eastham cannot now be positively determined. We have no record of Mr. Osborn's death nor of the death of his first wife, Jedidah. His grandson Israel Doane, Sen., states that he died in Boston about the year 1774. His second wife to whom he was published in Boston, Oct. 19, 1743, and with whom he was living at Nantucket in 1746, was Mrs. Experience Hopkins, widow of Elisha Hopkins a merchant of Chatham.

Mr. Osborn is described as a man of "wisdom and virtue," contributing much to the temporal as well as to the spiritual wants of his people, "by introducing new improvements in agriculture and by setting them the example of economy and industry." From him, it is claimed, his parishioners learned to prepare Cape Cod peat for fuel.

His little book, The Case and Complaint of Mr. Samuel Osborn, Late of Eastham, a pamphlet of 29 pages, was printed in Boston in 1743. A copy has been preserved in the Boston Public Library.

Children, of Rev. Samuel and Jedidah (Smith) Osborn:

2 John, b. abt. 1713 (bapt. at Sandwich, Mass., 1714).

Mary, 2 bapt. at Harwich, 1718; d. young.

Abigail, 2 date and place of birth unknown; d. in Boston, Mass., May 20, 1761; m. at Eastham, Mass., Sept. 28, 1749, John Homer, b. on Cape Cod, Sept. 28, 1724; d. at Barrington, N. S., Apr. 29, 1739, s. of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Crowell) Homer of Yarmouth, Mass.; he m. 2nd, July 2, 1772, Hannah Carnes, d. at Barrington, Mar. 10, 1786. John Homer was a merchant and shipowner in Boston, owning a number of large vessels at one time in company with his brother Benjamin. He was one of the "Sons of Liberty," an association of patriotic gentlemen, formed in Boston, abt. 1768. In July, 1775, he removed with his family from Boston to Barrington, where he purchased the property of his brother-in-law Edmund Doane (see p. 76), carried on a general store and kept a tavern at Barrington Head. He became a magistrate and filled various town offices. The first records of births, marriages and deaths of Barrington are in his handwriting. By his first marriage there were eight children, of whom Abigail, b. at Boston, Aug. 21, 1753, Mary, Francis and two others d. in infancy. The remaining three were: John, b. in Boston, June 30, 1755; d. at Mirimachi, N. B., May 4, 1812; unm.; Joseph, b. in Boston, Mar. 19, 1757, and d. at Barrington; m. at Barrington, Mar., 1779, Mary Atwood, who long survived him and d. at the age of 95 yrs. He was a prominent and useful man in the community—a Justice of the Peace, collector of customs, etc. Samuel, b. in Boston, Jan. 15, 1759; m. at Barrington, Sarah, dau. of Capt. David Smith. They had five children, one of whom was burned to death when about seven years of age, after which the family removed to Portland, Me.

? Samuel. Perhaps no such child. Israel Doane, Sen., of Argyle, N. S., in his list of his grandfather Osborn’s children, gives two sons, John and Samuel, and adds: “They both settled in Connecticut. John was a skillful doctor, and Samuel I believe was a school teacher.”

2 JOHN Osborn (Rev. Samuel) was born about 1713 (baptized at Sandwich, Mass., 1714) and died at Middletown, Conn., May 31, 1753, aged about 40 years. He married Ann, daughter of Thomas and Patience (Mulford) Doane of Chatham, Mass. (see page 59), who was born about 1715 and died Apr. 16, 1791, aged 76 years (gravestone, Town Hill Burying Yard, E. Haddam, Conn.). She married second, May 27, 1756, Thomas Smith who was born at E. Haddam, Mar. 20, 1710 and died Dec. 23, 1797 (gravestone, Town Hill Burying Yard), the son of Matthew and Sarah (Mack) Smith. By this marriage there was one son, Samuel Smith, who was born Dec. 1, 1757.

John Osborn studied for the ministry at his father’s desire, but his trial sermon delivered in the presence of the ministers of Barnstable county was adjudged unorthodox, though well prepared. He then began the study of medicine, as his tastes were in that direction. He graduated at Harvard College, it is understood, in 1735 and about 1739 settled in Middletown, where he shared the practice of medicine with Dr. John Arnold. Thacher's Medical Biography pronounces him “a very respectable physician.” He was also a man of fine scholastic attainments. While in college he was distinguished for mathematical investigation and for his Latin verse, and after his graduation he was offered a tutorship in Harvard college, but declined the honor. It is said that he ranked higher as a scholar than most of the literary men of his day. Two or three of his poetical effusions gained for him some celebrity as a poet. Before his grad-nation he wrote an elegaic epistle on the death of his sister, which, says Freeman's History of Cape Cod, "has been preserved in the Boston Mirror." While in his father's house at Eastham and in the midst of companions accustomed to a seafaring life, he wrote his Whaling Song which can be found in Barber's Historical Collections of Connecticut and in Ricketson's History of New Bedford, Massachusetts. Besides these compositions, Doctor Osborn wrote a few religious stanzas while on his death bed, expressing his resignation to death and anticipations of Heaven. His elegy was written on the death of his sister Mary, and was addressed to an older sister living at Plymouth. It was written in the spring, and he began by describing the great beauty of the season, and then addresses his bereaved sister as follows:

But Sister, all the sweets that grace
The Spring, and blooming nature's face,
The chirping birds,
Nor lowing herds,
The woody hills,
Nor murmuring rills,
The Sylvan shades,
Nor flowering meads,
To me their former joys dispense,
Tho' all their pleasures court my sense
But melancholy damps my mind;
I lonely walk the field
With inward sorrow filled,
And sigh to every breathing wind.
I mourn our tender Sister's death
In various plaintive sounds,
While hills above, and vales beneath
Their faltering note rebounds.
Perhaps when in the pains of death,
She gasp'd her latest breath,
You saw our pensive friends around,
With tears bedew the ground;
Our loving father stand,
And press her trembling hand,
And gently cry, my child adieu
We all must follow you.

In 1753, Dr. Osborn was stricken with fever, and soon after wrote to his sister, Sarah Morton, at Plymouth, the following account of himself and family: "We are all in usual plight, except myself. I am confined chiefly to the house; am weak, lame and uneasy and never expect to be hearty and strong again. I have lingered almost two years a life not worth having and how much longer it will last I cannot tell. We have six children, the eldest fourteen years old the last November, the youngest two years last January; the eldest a daughter, the next a son, and so on to the end of the chapter."

The life which he thought "not worth having" lasted only a short time after he wrote the letter. He was buried in what is now the River Side burial-ground, where a monument marks his grave.

Children, from Middletown records:

i Mary, b. at Chatham, Mass., Nov. 16, 1738.
ii John, b. at Middletown, Mar. 17, 1741.
iii Jedidah, b. Jan. 16, 1742-3; m. Dec. 22, 1763, Amasa Brainard, s. of Joshua and Mehetabel (Church) Brainard (see Brainard Genealogy, p. 48).
iv Chevers, b. Aug. 17, 1745.

3 Elizabeth Osborn (Rev. Samuel) was born probably at Sandwich, Mass., where she was baptized in 1715 and died at Barrington, N. S., May 24, 1798. She married first, at Eastham, Mass., by Rev. Benjamin Webb, Jan. 23, 1733-4, Capt. William Myrick, who was born at Harwich, that part now Brewster, and was lost at sea in 1742, the son of Nathaniel and Alice (Freeman) Myrick, grandson of Wm. and Abigail (Hopkins) Myrick and great-grandson of Wm. Myrick, or Merrick. She married second (as second wife), Jan. 14, 1744-5, Wm. Paine, who was born at Eastham, June 6, 1695 and died at Louisbourg, Cape Breton, in Aug. or Sept., 1746, the son of Dea. John and Bennett (Freeman) Paine, and grandson of Thomas Paine.

She married third, at Eastham, by Joseph Doane, Esq., Nov. 10, 1749, Edmund Doane of Eastham and Barrington, N. S. (see page 75). Capt. Wm. Myrick had his home in Boston at the time of his death. The estate of "Wm. Myrick, mariner, lately deceased," was administered upon by his widow, Elizabeth, Dec. 28, 1742; the Inventory, in which he is styled "Capt.," was taken Mar. 3, 1742-3. Account was rendered Sept. 27, 1744. She was allowed for the "necessary implements of household for the maintenance of the Accountant and 3 children, the youngest born 3 months after the death of the Dec'd;" for "power of Attorney, &c., sent to No. Carolina;" for money "paid Josiah Griggs, a note under the dec'd. hand;" for "House rent due at my husband's death."

Her second husband, Wm. Paine, was a business man and a prominent citizen of Eastham. He was Representative in the Provincial Legislature many years, beginning in 1731, and was one of His Majesty's Justices, from 1738. He was commissioned by Governor Shirley, Nov. 4, 1745, Lieutenant of Capt. Elisha Doane's Co., Col. Shubael Gorham's Regt., in the expedition to Louisbourg, where he died as above stated. His first wife, to whom he was published Sept. 2, 1727, was Sarah Bacon, who died Jan. 16, 1743-4 (gravestone, Orleans cemetery), the daughter of Nathaniel Bacon of Barnstable.

Children, of William and Elizabeth (Osborn) Myrick:

Gideon, was a goldsmith by trade; went to sea, fell overboard in the night and was drowned.

Child, of William and Elizabeth (Osborn) Paine:

6 William, b. at Eastham, 1746.

4 John Osborn (Dr. John, Rev. Samuel) was born at Middletown, Conn., Mar. 17, 1741 and died there in 1825 (gravestone, Mortimer cemetery). He studied medicine with Dr. Norman Morrison of Hartford and began the practice of his profession in Middletown in 1767. A man of extensive reading and for a time possessed the best medical library in the state. Was one of the founders of the State Medical Society, and gave instruction in medicine to students. He was an eminent practitioner and lived in Middletown all his life. He married and had four sons who all were literary men.

Children:

John Cheevers, b. ———; d. at St. Thomas, W. I., in 1819 (another account says on the island of St. Croix, Mar. 5, 1819), (gravestone in yard old Trinity Church, N. Y. city); m., in 1816, his father's cousin Lucy Taylor Paine, b. 1781; d. in Brooklyn, N. Y., 1865, dau. of Wm. and Sarah (Isaacs) Paine. He received a medical education under his father, and began practice in Newbern, N. C., in 1787 and continued there twenty years. Removed to N. Y. city where he had a large practice; was Professor in the medical faculty of Columbia Coll., and later in the College of Physicians and Surgeons. A man of greater science and eminence in his profession, than either his father or his grandfather, and possessed a very fine taste for poetry, belles-lettres and painting. They had two boys who died in infancy.

Samuel White,⁴ b. ———; was a physician of respectable standing, first in Brooklyn, then in N. Y. city. His son, Dr. John Osborn, b. in New York, Dec., 1819, grad. from Columbia Coll., in 1836, and from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1839, and for forty years was a well known physician in N. Y. city, where he died at his residence, 259 W. 34th St., Nov. 24, 1882, and who also had a son a member of the medical profession.

William Franklin,⁴ b. ———.

5 WILLIAM III Myrick (Elizabeth² Osborn, Rev. Samuel¹) was born Oct. 26, 1734 and died at Orleans, Mass., June 12, 1795. He married first, by Rev. Edward Cheever, Mar. 25, 1756, Phoebe Smith, who died Feb. 15, 1766. Married second, by Rev. Joseph Crocker, Apr. 7, 1767, Hannah Paine. He was a glazier by trade and lived in Orleans, a little west from the present R. R. station.

Children, of first marriage:

i William,⁴ b. Apr. 1, 1757; d. at Orleans, Aug. 11, 1839; he was at the surrender of Burgoyne, Oct. 17, 1777, and in the camp at Valley Forge, when his term of enlistment expired. He m. and left children.

ii Samuel,⁴ b. May 12, 1759; he was taken prisoner while in the naval service of his country and died in prison ship, near New York, in 1781.

iii Joseph,⁴ b. June 28, 1761; d. at sea Jan., 1795; m. Mary Freeman; no ch.

iv Elizabeth,⁴ b. Apr. 1, 1763; m. Elkanah Cole.

Children, of second marriage:

Osborn Myrick, many years pastor of the Congregational church at Provincetown, Mass., and later at Middletown, Vt. William Myrick was a man of character, and doubtless inherited something of the Osborn talent. By an accident at sea he lost his left hand, and later his arm by amputation. He became a school-teacher in Orleans. I subjoin a copy of his letter* written to Samuel Osborn Doane, his father’s half-brother at Barrington, N.S. The young man whose death he refers to in his letter, was Hervey Doane, an account of whom is found on page 210.

6 William Paine (Elizabeth Osborn, Rev. Samuel) was born at Eastham, Mass., in 1746, and died in New York city, Friday, Mar. 7, 1812, in the 67th year of his age. He married first, by Rev. Timothy Hilliard, Nov. 14, 1775, Lucy Taylor of Barnstable, Mass., who died a short time after marriage. Married second, in 1780, Miss Sarah Isaacs, who died in Boston, Mass., Thursday, June 18, 1807 (buried in Sturgiss tomb, Boston). The following biographical sketch, by Josiah Paine, is copied from vol. ii, Paine Family Record:

"William Paine, or Payne was born in 1746, the year in which his

* Boston, Apr. 14, 1800.

Dear Sir:

By Capt. Barrows, bound to Nova Scotia, who promised to forward a letter, I gladly embrace the opportunity to write to you, wishing these may find you and your family in perfect health. Capt. Barrows has informed me of a breach in your family which very much concerns me to hear of. I had the pleasing idea that your son would make a man of extraordinary talents; having as I thought the most lively genius that ever I knew. Alas! How are our expectations cut off. I find, by experience that we ought not to place our minds on any earthly object. Since I saw you I myself have had many severe trials, more than I can now recount. Suffice it to say that in March, 1790, being on a passage from Boston to Gibraltar, by an accident on board, ten days before our arrival to that place, I had the misfortune to lose my left hand by loading a cannon. On our arrival I was carried immediately to the hospital, where I had to undergo a most severe and painful operation of having my arm cut off. No pen can describe my then situation—being left in a very low and dangerous situation, without one friend or countryman, and without money. But it pleased God to restore me to a measure of health after a confinement of three months. After that I got a passage home to my friends. My mother and the rest of my family are all well. My uncle Payne and his family are all well. I expect he will write if he knows this opportunity. Since my return home I have been employed by Mr. Eben Parsons—and I should be very glad to have a letter—I can forward letters to my uncle if you please to send them to me. So, being in haste, I beg leave to subscribe myself.

Yours, etc.,

WM. MYRICK.

To

MR. OSBORN DOANE,
Barrington, Nova Scotia.
father died in the Colonial service at Louisbourg, Cape Breton. After the marriage of his mother to Edmund Doane (see page 75) he was placed in the family of Rev. Joseph Crocker, pastor of the Second Congregational church in Eastham, where he continued during his minority. Mr. Crocker was a most excellent man, and his amiable ward derived great advantages from being a member of the family. Mr. Crocker was a well educated clergyman, having graduated from Harvard College, and Mr. Paine found him a great helper in matters of education. Mr. Paine always spoke of him highly. Not many years after leaving his 'venerable and beloved master' at Eastham, he went to Boston and at length, deciding to become a physician, he began the study of medicine under Dr. Joseph Warren, the distinguished patriot who afterwards fell on Bunker Hill in the memorable battle June 17, 1775. But the trouble with the mother country coming on, his resources were disturbed and studies interrupted. School teaching suggesting itself as a means of support, he opened an 'English Grammar School' in Boston, in 1774, 'which had lately been kept by Mr. Ward,' and assured those who should 'favor him with the important task of educating their children,' he would exert his 'utmost endeavors by a constant and careful attention to their interests to merit their approbation and deserve their encouragement.' Beside 'English Grammar, Reading, Writing and Arithmetic,' he proposed to teach the 'Rudiments of Latin.' The occupation of the town by the British troops in 1775, was detrimental to his school and it was discontinued. Accepting the position of tutor in the Perkins family, of which James and Thomas H., eminent merchants, were members, he went with the family to Barnstable and, after the evacuation of the besieged town, he returned and again opened his school. The duties of a teacher in those days were arduous, and he seems to have found very little spare time to devote to private affairs. He was obliged, he says in a letter to his kind uncle Thomas Paine of Eastham, dated at Boston, Oct. 31, 1776, to be in his school 'from the first entrance of light till nine in the evening, and the leisure half-days'—Thursday and Saturday—of each week to 'wait on such as do not attend the school,' meaning undoubtedly those he was privately instructing. For a while after this date but little is known of him. For a short period, it is understood, he was in some business of a mercantile character at New London, Conn., and that while there, he became acquainted with Miss Isaacs, who soon became his wife.

"In 1783, he became a resident of Easthampton, L. I., and engaged in his vocation as teacher. In 1784, he took charge of the Clinton Academy just then erected mainly through the efforts of Dr. Buell and himself. His connection with this institution was not severed until after 1790. In 1791, the year his famous son, John Howard, was born, he was a teacher of French, English Grammar, Writing, Arithmetic, etc., at No. 4 Great Dock street, New York city. In 1793, he was residing at No. 5 Dye street and teaching on Little Queen street. His school in 1794 and 1795 was at 23 Cedar street, and in 1796 at 29 Ann street. In 1797 and 1798 it was on Ferry street. In 1799, he was invited by some leading and influential men in Boston to open a school in that place, and thither he removed that year and opened the Academy on Berry, afterwards Channing street. It was well attended and soon became a noted school. Among the pupils, who in after life became prominent, was the late John Gorham Palfrey, the historian. John Howard Paine, the teacher's son, was also a pupil in the school, giving attention to elocution, a branch his father was very successful in teaching. Mr. Paine closed his school on Berry street about 1809 and returned to New York, where he again engaged in teaching. In 1811, he was teaching on Common street near Grand street in that city. On the afternoon of Monday, Mar. 3, 1812, while engaged in his schoolroom, he fell to the floor from a paralytic shock, was carried to his home where he remained unconscious until Friday, Mar. 7th, when he passed away in the 67th year of his age. He was interred in the city, but now all trace of the precise spot is lost.

"In person Mr. Paine was of medium height. He never was a strong man. Early in life his health was impaired, and for beneficial results he made a voyage to the West Indies. Later in life his health was quite delicate, and at one period he thought that he was consumptively inclined, but by an abstinence of seven years from all animal food, he recovered and was able to give the last years of his life to teaching. His son, Thatcher Taylor, assisted him in teaching, and was present it is understood, when he fell in the schoolroom. Mr. Paine was a Congregationalist and was a member of the South church in Eastham, of which Mr. Crocker was pastor. The year in which he changed the spelling of his name to Payne is not known. In a letter to his uncle in 1776, it is written Paine. For his first wife he married Miss Lucy Taylor of Barnstable, Mass., by Rev. Timothy Hilliard, Nov. 14, 1775. Her death occurred not long after marriage. For his second wife he married Miss Sarah Isaacs in 1780. She was the daughter of Mr. Aaron Isaacs, a respected citizen of Easthampton, R. I., and a woman remarkable for her beauty and many excellent traits of character. She died at Boston, Thursday, June 18, 1807, of consumption, after a long and distressing illness, aged 49 years. Her remains were deposited in the Sturgiss tomb in that city. She appears to have assisted her husband in teaching. One of her pupils had 'pleasant remembrances of her as a very pretty lady, very neat and dainty about her dress,' teaching reading, spelling and sewing. She also remembered 'Master Paine to whose school she went after leaving Mrs. Paine's school.'

Mr. Paine was a beautiful penman. Many of his letters are still extant. They are pieces of good composition and show a lovable spirit. I subjoin one* written to his half-brother Samuel Osborn

My Dear Brother:

This will show you that I am still living—and I have the satisfaction to add—in good health. I am indebted to Mr. Spears for this opportunity to write, and for the great pleasure of hearing from you, and from our parents. You have regained your health—I am very glad to hear it. May you long be continued a blessing to your family. Your family, I am told, is going to be extended in the marriage of your son. He must be young at this time, but I presume that it is a suitable connection which he is about to form, and as such must be agreeable. Most ardently I wish to see you all. I always retain a little hope of it, which serves but to increase the wish. Never was a son more affectionately attached to a surviving parent than I have been, even from my infancy to the present time. And when I have known ours, in arduous situations, in difficulty, in danger and in the most distressing exigences, my soul has shared them, and the power of giving them relief would have been to me the most superlative delight. I have often wished that I had been permitted to go with you into that country. I have never yet forgotten my sensations when I saw the family passing the window (where I stood attending family prayers) on their way to embark at the landing by Mr. Nathaniel Mayo’s. Providence overruled my wishes—undoubtedly for the best—and I am certain that my mother used her best discretion in leaving me with that good clergyman whose memory I revere. It pleased God to put me very early under the discipline of adversity, by which I ought undoubtedly to have profited much better than I have. I have never been fortunate as we understand the word; but constantly the reverse. I have, however, been happy in my family, which is healthy—and our children particularly promising. Our eldest son, a little past thirteen, is now in a store—does the business of a clerk and is equal to it. I have missed of two opportunities for writing you last winter, which I did intend to have improved, but I have so many avocations as leads me to frequent omissions of this sort. I must beg you present my most dutiful and affectionate remembrance to our parents—our mother in particular. Assure her of my most devout and fervent wishes for her welfare and happiness. You see our sister Doane sometimes. It is long since I have heard anything particular from her. Pray assure her of my kind remembrance and my wishes for her prosperity; it would give me much satisfaction to get a letter from her. Give my love to your family and accept the same from ours, and believe me with kind regard

Your affectionate brother,

WM. PAYNE.

Mr. S. Osbn Doane.

I do not clearly recollect, but I think I must have mentioned before, that our youngest daughter now about 31 years old, is named for our mother, and we call her Eliza. Our next is a son about eight months old—he is the third boy and we have five girls.
Doane at Barrington, N. S. The "sister Doane" referred to therein was their half-sister Elizabeth Myrick, then the wife of Thomas Doane of Barrington (see pages 144, 145).
