PREFACE.

This compilation from original documents, and family history has been made with the hope that at some future day, it may be of service to the inquiring minds of coming generations.

For the original idea, the general plan, and valuable assistance, the author is indebted to Mr. Frederick Schober, member of the Historical and Genealogical Societies of Pennsylvania.

The author desires to thank members of the different branches of the family who so kindly and willingly furnished information of their several lines.
NOTICE.

Numbers on the right of name indicate generation.

Numbers on the left of name number in succession.

A star on the left of a number in succession indicates detailed information further on.
GENEALOGY.

MACALLISTER:—That is, son of Allister a branch of the famous and warlike clan, MacDonald, whose chief was Lord of the Isles:—(Hebridean Isles).

This clan were always Stuartmen—and loyal to their king until the final overthrow in 1745. It was their boast that they were always given the right on the field of battle.

At the battle of Culloden these MacDonalds were placed on the left wing, and not a man would draw a sword that day. In defense of their conduct an officer of division said: “We, of the clan MacDonalds, thought it ominous we had not this day the right hand in battle, as formerly and as we enjoyed when the event proved successful. As at Gladsmuir and Falkirk, and which our clan maintained we had enjoyed in all our battles and struggles in behalf of our royal family, since the battle of Bannockburn, on which glorious day Robert, the Bruce, bestowed this honor upon Augus MacDonald, Lord of the Isles, as a reward for his never-to-be-forgot fidelity to that brave prince, in protecting him for above nine months in his country of Rachlin, Isla and, Uist. This right, I say, we have enjoyed ever since, unless when yielded by us out of favor upon particular occasions, as was done by the Laird of MacLean at the battle of Harlan; but our sweet-natured prince was prevailed on by L. and his faction to assign this honor to another on this fatal day; which right, we judge, they will not refuse to yield us back again on the next fighting day.”

The badge borne on their helmets was a “froach gonn,” or “common heath,” and their battle cry, “Froach eilan,” the “Heathy isle.”—(Scottish Gael or Celtic Manners, Logan.)

Allaster MacDonald, the progenitor of the MacAllasters, flourished in about A.D., 1263, and became “Chief” of a new clan, then known as “clan Allaster”—this Allaster was succeeded by a worthy son, “Allaster MacAllaster,” who upon the death of his father became the “Chief,” and headed and led a powerful clan that flourished in Scotland from that time until the downfall of “Prince Charles” in 1745.

Their possessions and homes were in and about Knapsdale in Cantire, Scotland.
The first Allaster was the son of Angus Mor, (i.e. Angus, the Great), who in about 1258 to 1274, was "Lord of the Isles." He had descended from Somerled Thane (Baron) of Argyle and First "Lord of the Isles," whom a son of Magnus III., Barford, King of Norway. It may be added also that the said Allester maternally descended from Isabella, a sister of King Robert, the Bruce.

In the preface to an edition of "Burke's British Peerage," Burke says in substance, that the two best family names in Great Britain are the Plantagenets and the MacDonalds, and that there are descendants of the latter family in America who can well claim to be of as noble descent as any in Great Britain. The MacAllisters having descended from the MacDonalds, as good, or as "blue" blood flows in their veins as flows in the veins of any people on the face of the earth. None surpass them as to nobility of ancestry, and for bravery and military history the MacDonalds, and their descendants, the Mac-Allisters, the MacIntyres and MacQueens are not equalled by any other family of which historians give an account.

As to the matter of the MacAllester crest the alleged "Old Student of Heraldic bearings," quoted in a recent issue of the New York Herald, was in error when he contended that the crest claimed was the crest of Charles MacAllester, of Loup, Esquire.

Authorities will show that the motto on Loup's crest is "Fortiter," and that in the hand is an upright dirk, instead of cross, crosset fetichel as in the original MacAllester crest proper. The arm, hand, cross, crosset fetichel and motto "Per Mare per Terras" in the MacAllister crest is the same as the original crest and motto of the first Lords (MacDonalds), of the Isles, which goes to confirm and prove the origin of the MacAllisters. The present MacAllaster of Glen Barr (Scot.) carries the original motto "Per Mare per Terras" as does also Keith MacDonald MacAllister, Esquire, of Inistrynich who by the way, always wears the MacAllister tartan. The foregoing notes on the origin of the McAllisters are from a recent research made for the late Ward McAllister, of New York City.

The name McAllister has assumed many changes in spelling since the formation of the new clan by Allaster MacDonald in 1263. The emigrant and founder of the Pennsylvania branch of the family originally spelled his name McAlister, but since his arrival, its orthography has been changed according to the ideas of his descendants to McAllister, McAlister, Mc-Alastar, McAlester, McAllestar, McAllistair, McAllistar, McAlester, McAllestar, MacAllister, and MacAllister. The Germans of Pennsylvania spelled it McCollister, as they pronounced it.

Of Archibald McAllister, the emigrant and founder of this branch of the family, very little is known, except that about 1730 he owned a large tract of land in the Cumberland Valley, and was a strict Presbyterian.

He was one of the organizers of the First Presbyterian Church, at Carlisle, Pa.

From whence he came in Scotland is not known. The first mention of an Archibald McAllister, in the colony, is found in the minutes of the Colonial Board of Property, when on the “12 month, 7da, 1723,” Stephen Cornelius applies for a warrant to have surveyed a “small vacancy of Land on Red Clay Creek” and “desires to make over his right, to this land to Archibald McAllister, who is a Smith, and dwells upon it.”

Red Clay Creek was in New Castle County, Pa., now in the State of Delaware. It runs parallel with the Brandywine, empties into White Clay Creek, and thence to the Delaware River. It has been found impossible to identify this Archibald McAllister, with the Archibald who settled in Cumberland County, Pa.

The grant to Archibald McAllister in Cumberland County, Pa., originally contained between eight and nine hundred acres.

He built a grist-mill, the second one west of the Susquehanna. The foundations are still standing.

The water on the tract, McAllister’s Run, not furnishing sufficient power, he was forced to carry the water in troughs for a quarter of a mile.

The size of the mill was about twelve by fourteen feet, and it did most of the grinding for the surrounding country. Family tradition has it that one of the farmers from Newville, Pa., seven miles distant, said, on going to have a bag of grain ground; “that if there was not too many ahead, he might get home the next day.”

He also built a smith-shop; the original log one has long been superseded by a more modern frame structure.

The dwelling house was built of logs, a story and a half high, with a huge fire-place running its whole width. This house, part of which is standing to-day, is in a natural hollow, and has one end against a ledge of lime-stone rocks, which completely hide the lower story. Entrance to the loft can be made from these rocks. After a hundred and sixty-six years of constant usage, it is in a fairly good state of preservation.

The farm lays three miles west of Carlisle, Pa., on the turnpike, and is owned by James McAllister Ralston, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., a great-grandson of Archibald McAllister.

The Turnpike Company received from the original owner a small piece of land on this farm for the purpose of building a Toll-House. This exempted forever the McAllister heirs from payment of tolls.

The known descendants of the emigrant numbered 847 in 1898. In the male line all have marked Scottish features, with sandy hair and bright complexions, reproduced to the sixth and seventh generations. A most striking and peculiar trait is the family resemblance in all branches noticeable in the foreheads, and the eyes which are always blue.

"In 1749 West Pennsboro Township, Cumberland County, paid 28.£., 8s., 9d., tax. Archibald McAllister, Collector."

Last will and testament of Archibald McAllister, of West Pennsboro Township, Cumberland County, Pa.

In the name of God, amen, I, Archibald McCallister, of the Township of West Pennsboro, and County of Cumberland, being very sick and weak in body, but of a perfect mind and memory, praise to God, do make this to be my last will and testament and first of all I recommend my soul to ye hands of God who gave it, and my body to be buried in ye earth in a Christian and decent manner at ye discretion of my executor. As to what worldly goods it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life, I give and dispose of in ye following manner, viz: I order and it is my will that all my just debts and funeral charges be paid. I give and bequeath to my dearly and well-beloved wife, Jean, ye one-half of all my personal estate, with all my household furniture except what is hereafter mentioned which together with what my son, Andrew, is to do for her, is in full of her dower. I give and bequeath to my son, John, ye books called ye whole works of Flavel and all my wearing apparel. I give and bequeath to my sons, Richard, James and Archibald, my daughters, Mary and Jean, to each of them one book called Flavel's whole works. I give and bequeath to my son Andrew, ye assorted books, which I have in ye house, also my black coalt to enable him to buy ye assorted books. I give and bequeath to my grand-daughter, Mary Mc-Knight, my big pott. I give to my grand-daughters, Mary Elizabeth and Jean, children of my son, Daniel, to each of them one sheep. I give to my grandson Archibald, son of my son James, my gun. All ye residue and remainder of my estate, real and personal, I give and bequeath to my son, Andrew, to him, his heirs and assigns forever together with one feather bed which lies in ye back room, but I order and it is my will that my son, Andrew, pay out of his share all my debts and funeral charges. I also order my grand-daughter, Mary McCallister, above mentioned, to have my chist, and I do hereby constitute and appoint my son, Andrew, my whole and sole executor of this, my last will and testament hereby revoking and disannulling all former wills and testaments by me made ratifying and confirming this to be my last will and testament in witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal ye 7th September, 1768.

N. B.—Ye word book called ye apparel Mary forever was all interlined before signing.

Signed, sealed, published and declared in ye presence of us.

RICHARD McALLISTER, 2, (Archibald, 1.), born 1725, d.—September 7, 1795. Went to York County, Pa., in 1764, bought a large tract of land called "Diggles' Choice," (original deeds for this tract in possession of James H. McAllister, 5, Fort Hunter, Pa.), on which he founded the town of McAllister, now Hanover, Pa., where he started a general store, afterwards combined with an Inn. The building was a two-story log-house, which is standing today. A short time before his death, he had the original log-house cased with brick, and it is a very substantial and imposing house, situated at the corner of Baltimore and Middle Streets, Hanover, Pa. His license for a public house is supposed to have been the first one in Hanover. He was a man of eminence and distinction, made Lieutenant of the County of York, by the Council of Philadelphia, June 14, 1777, had large jurisdiction, and became wealthy in the iron and mercantile business.

In 1764 the town of Hanover was founded, being laid out in the wilderness by Richard McAllister, 2. The people of the neighborhood laughed at "McAllister's Folly," and one old lady jeeringly called the new town "Hickory town" from the trees that covered the site. The town, however, grew a thriving town of twenty-five hundred souls, instead of a dense hickory forest. Being located in "Diggles' Choice" it was long doubtful to which Province it would be assigned, hence fugitives from justice made it a harbor and "Rogues' Resort" became its familiar appellation. Several robbers broke into McAllister's store, he arrested them and took them to York. The sheriff refused to receive them, saying: "You of Hanover wish to be independent, therefore punish your villains yourselves." McAllister took him at his word, and thereafter was judge and jury, among the rough settlers of "Rogue's Resort."—(History of York county).

During the latter part of 1775, the men of York county were enrolled into militia companies, and these companies were consolidated into five battalions, to form a regiment of Minute Men. Of this regiment Richard McAllister, 2 was chosen Colonel, July 28, 1775, as also Colonel of the York Co. Associates the same year. He was a member of the General Committee of Safety, March 30, 1776, and a member of the Committee of York Co. to the Provincial Conference, held in "Carpenters' Hall," Philadelphia, June 18, 1775.

In 1776 his regiment was sent to join General Washington's Army, and fought gallantly on Long Island, and was brigaded with General Nathaniel Greene's division. At Fort Washington, Nov. 6, 1776, McCarter's company of the regiment lost heavily, McCarter being mortally wounded.

Returns of Col. McAllister's battalion, at Perth Amboy, Oct. 8, 1776, and at Trenton, N. J., Dec. 1, 1776, may be found in Pennsylvania Archives.

Justice of the Peace, 1771-74-94.

President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, Nov. 18, 1780.

President Justice of Quarter Sessions, Nov. 18, 1780.

Justice of Orphans' Court the same year.

Censor, Oct. 20, 1783.

Councillor, Oct. 26, 1784.

Member of the Board of Property, July 20, 1785, and Feb. 13, 1786.

He was a man of commanding stature, six feet, three inches tall, of powerful build, and noted in his neighborhood for his great strength and agility. It is a family legend that all his teeth were doubles.

He married, Feb. 23, 1748, Mary Dill, daughter of Capt. Matthew Dill, Sr., and Ann Crain, of Dillsburg, Pa., and had issue:

"Also her only daughter, a child of 6 months of age, June, 1796, died of water in the head, seventh child of Col. Richard McAllister, Founder and Proprietor of the town of Hanover, and wife of John McAllister, of Frederick county, Va."

"Although it is vanity in the living, to erect monuments to the dead, let this be so, as this is in memory of one of the best of women."

14—ARCHIBALD McALLISTER, 3), (Richard, 2, Archibald, 1)—b. April 17, 1756; d. 1831, at Fort Hunter, Pa. The first record found of him is as a Captain of a Company in Colonel Hartley's Sixth Regiment of the Pennsylvania Line. He fought at Germantown and Monmouth. In the latter battle, though but 21 years of age, for gallantry, Gen. Washington, on the field presented him with a pair of silver mounted pistols, one of which is now the property of James H. McAllister, 5, of Fort Hunter, Pa. He resigned his commission Nov. 19, 1777, and was married to Margaret Hays, April 1778. — (See Paxtang and Derry church records.)

He lived on a farm of 253 acres in Londonderry township, Lancaster county, now Dauphin. This farm came to him through his wife. (See Will of Hugh Hays appendix.) It is now owned by Martin L. Hershey, and is situated about three miles east of Derry church. The original limestone dwelling house is still standing.

In May 6, 1785, he removed to the farm of 150 acres, at Fort Hunter, on the Susquehanna river, six miles above Harrisburg, Pa., which he bought from a Mr. Chambers.

He had at that time no occupation but that of gentleman farmer, and coming out of the army, paid in Continental money, worth at that time, sixteen cents on the dollar in the North and twelve cents in the South, he had to cast about for some way to make an income on which to raise an increasing family, so, in connection with the farm, he started an inn. Numerous specimens of this Continental money were framed and hung in the old library at Fort Hunter.

In the time of Archibald McAllister, Fort Hunter, as a farm, was very differently conducted than at the present time. Dotted all over it were houses erected for laboring men, and no one who asked Archie for work was refused. He employed all the boys and men in the vicinity, and the place became the centre of all the business done in the neighborhood.

He planted large orchards of peaches and apples, and vineyards of the finest varieties of grapes. The latter he made into wine, and having his own still, manufactured quantities of whiskey, peach brandy, and apple-jack. Most of these wines and liquors he sent to Philadelphia by team. Among some old papers in the possession of James H. McAllister, is a letter from Stephen Girard thanking Archibald for some very fine potatoes, sent him from Fort Hunter by his son. Another old paper is a recipe for making "cider royal," a famous drink at that time, specially invented by Archie.

All the wine manufactured was bottled, and put in the old stone ice-house, that stood on the hill near the mansion, the foundations of which are still standing. The ice-house, originally was of stone with a frame top, the lower compartment being filled with ice. The upper part was filled with shelves, on which were racks for holding the bottles with inverted necks.

In a letter from George Washington McAllister, of Savannah, Ga., to his father, Archibald, he mentions some whiskey sent to him from home, and some sent to Mr. McLeod, of Georgia. He says, in effect, "that his good friend McLeod, who is as temperate as he is sincere, says 'it is no sin to get drunk on the good old stuff from Fort Hunter,'" and that McLeod was so choice of his "that he will not try it until he sees mine out," and further adds, "that the brandy decanter is universally rejected now." (Letter from George Washington McAllister, to Archibald McAllister, dated Grahamville, S. C., August, 1821.

Archibald would not allow a snake to be molested on his premises, and in consequence, the servants and others were in constant terror from the immense black reptiles, sunning themselves on the arbors in the vineyard. A family legend says that he could stroke and fondle these snakes, and that they recognized the "master," and would not harm him. Some of the slaves declared that at Archibald's funeral, "the snakes followed to the graveyard, and wept as the body was lowered in the grave." This graveyard stands in the centre of the Fort Hunter farm, and contains four generations of the family.

He built a saw-mill and remodeled the old grist-mill, built in 1730. This saw-mill was the only one within a radius of forty miles, and furnished all the lumber for the Fort Hunter house, built in 1814, on the foundations of the English block house, called "Hunter's Fort," that stood there during the Revolution. The first mention of this site as a fort, was in 1755, when the commissioners thought that a company of fifty men, under the command of Captain Reed, was sufficient to guard the frontier. (Frontier Forts, published by the State of Pennsylvania, 1896). The house which cost ten thousand dollars, a large sum in those days, was built of stone taken from the mountain land on the farm, and has been worth its money value many times. Without doubt it is to-day one of the finest old houses in this section of the country. The marble in the mantels came from Italy, one costing five hundred dollars, and the winding staircase was the first known in Central Pennsylvania. To-day it is in a perfect state of preservation, with the exception of a few alterations in the general arrangement.

The old tavern house, called "The Practical Farmer," changed by a wag in the neighborhood to "The Prodigal Farmer," was the older house. It was there in 1785 when Archibald McAllister bought the place, and was an old house at that time. It is supposed to have been built about the same time as the Hunter mill, in 1730, or prior to that time, and has been remodelled so many times that it is difficult to trace the original. Three generations of the McAllister family were born here.

In an old letter dated McAlister's Practical Farmer, 6mo., 24th, 1812, the writer says, in consequence of a rainy day he will remain "with the proprietor of his place who has entertained him very much with the history of his farming and his improvements."

Archibald McAlister, had a large and well-selected library, one room in Fort Hunter house was set apart for this purpose, with shelves reaching to the ceiling—among these books was "one of the few copies of the Bible printed in the reign of Henry VIII, that escaped the flames, as appears by the following note: "This testament was translated by Wm. Tyndall, who suffered martyrdom in Brabant in 1535, and this testament was burned in London in 1539 by Cuthbert Tonstall, Bishop of London; printed in MDXXXV ye 26 year of Henry ye 8th and finished ye fourth day of October." This Bible was bequeathed to the oldest son, George Washington McAllister, who took it with him to his home in Georgia, together with a valuable collection of General Washington's letters to his father, Archibald McAllister. "His whole library including this Bible, was destroyed during Sherman's march to the sea."

He married first, April 9, 1778, Margaret Hays, (b. April 24, 1761; d. Jan. 10, 1779, buried at Derry church), daughter of Hugh Hays, of Derry, (see Appendix for will), and had issue:

He married second, Sept. 14, 1780, Elizabeth Carson, (b. Feb. 25, 1763; d. 1822), daughter of John Carson, Sr., (b. March 5, 1711), and his wife Elizabeth (Wood) Gillespie, and had issue:

*—23.—GEORGE WASHINGTON McALLISTER, 4, b. Dec. 21, 1781, at five o'clock in the afternoon. d. 1850.

*—25.—AMELIA MARY McALLISTER, 4, b. Aug. 31, 1786, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

*—26.—MATILDA WILLIS McALLISTER, 4, b. Aug. 26, 1788, at nine o'clock in the forenoon. d. 1856.

*—27.—JOHN CARSON McALLISTER, 4, b. Sept. 21, 1790, at four o'clock in the afternoon. d. 1866.

*—28.—RICHARD McALLISTER, 4, b. Sept. 20, 1792, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. d. 1822.

He married the third time, Mrs. Sarah Bella Dunlop, widow of Andrew Dunlop, of Chambersburg, Pa. (eldest daughter of Catharine and James Chambers, who was Colonel of the First Regiment of the Pennsylvania Line), and survived her husband several years. On his death, she left Fort Hunter, and went to reside at Ludlow's station, now Cincinnati, Ohio, where she died.

Archibald McAllister, 3, died in 1831 and was buried at Fort Hunter.

27—JOHN CARSON McALLISTER, 5, (Archibald, Richard, 2, Archibald, 1) b. 1790; d. 1866, was born at Fort Hunter, and lived there until his death. Was a man of decided and energetic character, six feet three and a half inches tall, very active and powerful, and a splendid horseman. First Captain of the Dauphin County Cavalry and with his troop acted as an escort to Governor Schulze, when he met General Lafayette at Morrisville, Pa., Monday, Sept. 27, 1824, on his visit to the United States. Supervisor of the Pennsylvania Canal for eighteen years, and Superintendent of the Wiconisco Canal and Gettysburg Railroad. Was Flour Inspector under a part of Governor Francis Rawn Shunk's term, and was a member of the Citizen's Committee of Safety, in Harrisburg, during the riots of the "Buckshot War," 1839.

In 1812, when the seat of government was removed from Lancaster to Harrisburg, Gov. Francis R. Shunk, then a clerk in the Surveyor General's office, was detailed to accompany the public records of that department during their removal. The books and papers were taken to Harrisburg by a six-horse team, driven by the "late Captain John C. McAllister, of Fort Hunter," and Mr. Shunk rode "all the way from Lancaster to Harrisburg on the off horse, and thus made his entrance into the new Capitol of the State, of which he was afterwards to become the Governor, and one of her best loved and most honored citizens." This was the first meeting of John C. McAllister and Mr. Shunk, and was the beginning of a warm friendship that lasted during their lives. (MSS. record of Shunk family).

He married, Oct. 27, 1812, Francis Harris Hanna (b. 1791, d. 1867), daughter of General John Andre Hanna, of Flemington, New Jersey, and his wife, Mary Reed Harris, and had issue:

*—29—ARCHIBALD McALLISTER, 5, b. 1813; d. 1883.

33—JAMES HARRIS McALLISTER, 5, b. 1821, at Fort Hunter, Pa. When quite young he went to Jonestown, Lebanon County, Pa., where he started in the lumber business; "Captain of the First Company of the Eleventh Battalion of the Militia, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in the First Brigade of the Sixth Division, composed of the Militia of the Counties of Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks and Schuylkill." Commission dated, August 3rd, 1842. Signed by Governor David R. Porter. Returned to Fort Hunter and farmed for his father, then went as manager to a furnace near Hollidaysburg in Blair County, Pa., called "Soap Fat," now a summer resort called Point View. Continuously elected Justice of the Peace for twenty-five years (an office held by four generations of McAllisters from Col. Richard McAllister in 1771, to the present day, 1898). Clerk in the Auditor General's Department, Harrisburg, Pa., under Auditors John A. Lemon, Wilson A. Norris, Thomas McCamant, David McMurtrie Gregg and Amos H. Mylin. During 1861-62 he was clerk to the Commissary at Cairo, Ills., and Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo.

He married Amanda Catharine Lantz, (b. Dec. 10, 1825, d. Dec., 1881), of Jonestown, Lebanon County, Pa., and had issue:

James McAllister, 2nd, (Archibald, 1st) Prior to 1774
James McAllister, 2nd, lived in Lurgan, township, Cumberland County, Pa. (now Adams County), and owned a farm and grist mill which he sold before leaving for Virginia. See Deed, Appendix. “Lived at Martinsburg, Berkley County, Va., and was in the mercantile business. Sold out and bought a property in a small town called Springfield, Hampshire County, Va., within a few miles of Frankfort, that State. He was a very handsome old gentleman, independent and had plenty of colored servants.” From letter of Daniel McKnight, dated Feb. 20, 1857, to his brother, Ormsby McKnight, given to O. O. Page, Esq., of Allegheny, Pa., by Mr. Mitchell, of East Orange, N. J. James McAllister went to Virginia from Pennsylvania in 1777. At a court held in Frederick County, that State, March 8, 1780, deposed that in the year 1763 he was a Lieutenant in a Pennsylvania regiment, in which capacity he served during the French war, that he had never received any land for the same, and that this is the first time of making thereof, and produced his commission given under the hand of Lieut. Gov. James Hamilton, Esq. During the year 1743, in Pennsylvania, James McAllister took out a license to trade with the Indians. At a court held in Frederick County, Va., Feb. 5, 1788, James McAllister and his son, John, were permitted to erect a house 12 by 26 feet for the purpose of a Nail manufactory. Some time prior to 1790 he was elected Sheriff of Berkley County, now West Virginia. He was twice married, first to Mary McConnell, and second to Sally Vance, (No attempt has been made to determine the issue of the first and second marriages. The descendants are given without regard to this), and had issue:

161—ARCHIBALD McALLISTER, 3, (James, 2, Archi­bald, 1,) The supposition is that he enlisted during the Rev­olution in a Maryland Regiment and was commissioned an "Ensign in the First Maryland, Dec. 10, 1776, and Second Lieutenant, April 17, 1777, First Lieutenant, May 27, 1778. By act of Sept. 24, 1779, it was "Resolved that Congress justly esteems the military caution so happily combined with daring activity by Lieutenants McCallister and Rudolph in leading on the forlorn hope in the attack on the enemy's works at Paulus Hook, and that the Brevet of Captain be given them. Retired April 1, 1781. (Heitman's Register.) In his certificate of membership in the Society of the Cincinnati, he is given the rank of Captain. This certificate now in possession of Mrs. Thomas K. Cartmel, of Winchester, Va., his great niece, was willed with other property to his sister, Ann McAllister Glass, wife of Rev. Jos. Glass, and has been handed down in direct line to its present owner. (See Appendix for copy.) After the War he bought a large rice plantation near Charleston, North Carolina, and was in partnership with Roger Moore, whose widow he afterwards married. 398—Joshua Elder White, 4, b. May 4, 1775; d. of yellow fever at Savannah, Ga., Aug. 25, 1820. For twenty years a resident of Savannah, during which time he acquired high reputation as a skillful, active and benevolent physician. His enlarged philanthropy frequently impelled him beyond the ordinary duties of his profession to soothe affliction and relieve the sufferings of humanity. He had an active, vigorous discriminating mind, an extensive and varied intelligence. He valued knowledge beyond every acquisition and sought it with the intensity and zeal which marked his character. He wrote with facility and energy, and more than once wielded his pen in behalf of prostrate innocence.

"In this city numerous instances of his humanity and benevolence could be adduced which shed lustre on his name. As a citizen, he was zealous in support of his country, and prompt in devoting his talents to the promotion of the public good. His accomplishments as a gentleman rendered him an agreeable companion, his virtue gave him many friends.

"He wrote 'Letters on England,' and was selected to deliver the oration on Washington, at Waynesboro Court House, Georgia, May 10, 1801. (Savannah Daily Republican and Savannah Daily Georgian, 1820.)

During the year 1820, while the city of Savannah was devastated by fire and a prey to yellow fever, he was about to start North in his own carriage to solicit aid, when he was stricken by the fever and died. He married Amelia Fox (b. Aug. 1, 1787), daughter of Benjamin and Mary Fox, of Berzelia, Columbia County, Ga., and had issue:

Went with his father to California, in 1850, and became one of the partners in the law firm of "McAllister & Sons," in San Francisco. Came East to New York City, in 1852, where he practiced his profession, and resided until his death. His home "was an unpretentious house in Thirty-Sixth street, simply furnished but in exquisite taste; he is well known as a writer; well born and enjoying most heartily the society of cultivated and refined people. His writings are tinged with his mode of living, but they, as well as his conversation and personal characteristics, prove him to have been a man, who would have been marked in any occupation in life to which he had turned his attention. Unusually affable and polished in his manners, he had the courage of his convictions and was fearlessly out-spoken. For this reason he created a sensation in Chicago, by criticising the manners of its best people. He caused a still greater stir, by publishing a volume, entitled "Society As I Have Found It," in which he forcibly delineated the peculiarities and shortcomings of the uppermost stratum of New York society."

23—GEORGE WASHINGTON McALLISTER, 4, (Archibald, 3, Richard, 2, Archibald, 1,) b. Dec. 2, 1781, in Londonderry township, Lancaster County, now Dauphin County, Pa., d. Mar. 18, 1850, was the eldest son of Archibald McAllister, 3, (b. 1756, d. 1831,) and his wife, Elizabeth Carson (b. 1764, d. 1822), was a student at Princeton College. When nineteen years of age, he left his father's home at Fort Hunter, Pa., taking with him his portion, and traveled by horse to Georgia, finally decided to settle near Savannah, and bought a large plantation, twenty-five miles below Savannah, called "Strathy Hall." Fort McAllister at the mouth of Ogeechee river was situated on his son Joseph L. McAllister's, 5, plantation and was named for him.

"Strathy Hall" was partially destroyed during "Sherman's march to the sea," together with a number of valuable family documents relating to the early McAllisters, and a very valuable collection of rare books. This library had been sent into the interior of Georgia for safe-keeping, but which proved to be in the direct line of Sherman’s troops and were all destroyed. The family Bible, with births and deaths of the McAllisters, was one of these books, and even more to be regretted was a Bible bound in calf and brass, in the old black letters, which was one of three extant, one in a nobleman’s family in England, one in the British Museum, and this copy, that was inherited from Archibald McAllister, 3. This Bible was much sought after and was advertised for and large amounts offered for it, but the owner preferred his book.

Col. George Washington McAllister died in 1850. His death was caused by a fall from his horse. Buried in the churchyard in Bryan County, Ga., two miles from “Strathy Hall.”

28—RICHARD McALLISTER, *, (Archibald, *, Richard, *, Archibald, *) b. Sept. 20, 1792, at Fort Hunter; d. Dec. 3, 1822, at Savannah, Ga. Was a Methodist Minister. When the Preachers of this denomination first came into his neighborhood, Archibald McAllister, *, was strongly opposed to them. Nevertheless he at length yielded so far as to allow them to establish meetings on his property (Fort Hunter), his tenants, work people and servants forming a considerable part of the congregation. His daughter, Amelia (married Sela Payne, a Methodist), and his son united with that flock, at that time so feeble and lightly esteemed. This was far from pleasing to the father, but he was not unreasonable, and gave land on his estate to build a church, and contributed a large part towards the expense. This church was known as the "Old Fishing Creek Church," on what was then, and for many years afterwards, Dauphin Circuit.

Richard and his father having had some disagreement, his father who was easily excited, told him to leave the house instantly. Richard took him at his word, packed up a few things, kissed his mother and departed. The river was frozen over, and unseen by the family he crossed on the ice and took the direct road to Baltimore, Md., where the Methodist church was strong. After his anger died away his father inquired for Richard, and his mother told what had happened. His father was struck dumb; not dreaming that what he had said in his haste would be taken literally. He loved his son, and thought with agony of his situation. It was the depth of winter, he had gone on foot, almost without funds, without letters and a small supply of clothing. He immediately ordered every horse from his stables and sent riders in every direction, but without avail.

After a hard journey Richard, *, reached Baltimore safely, and a friend communicated his whereabouts to his father, who immediately sent another son to bring him home, giving him every assurance of the utmost indulgence in his religious views.

Richard's father thought him unfitted for the ministry, by his lack of education. His two elder brothers intended for professional life were liberally educated, but Richard received only good substantial English instruction. His father was willing to send him to College, but he was impatient to begin his work, and anxious to obtain his recommendation from the Quarterly Conference, and to be admitted into the ensuing Annual Conference in April. Richard's father had refused positively to supply him with a horse and the necessary equipment for an itinerant Minister.
During a visit to Fort Hunter of Washington McAllister, (Richard’s eldest brother) of Savannah, Ga., a man of high accomplishments, finished education, of noble, honorable and elevated sentiments and bearing, Richard, who had already received a local preacher’s license, had an appointment to officiate in the church on his father’s estate. The father hearing of it, told his son Washington that it would be an excellent opportunity for him to hear and judge of his brother’s fitness for the ministry. Washington placed himself in the congregation, and Richard instead of quailing before the keen eye that was so scrutinizingly bent on him only called more fervently on his God and threw himself on His gracious aid. Opening services passed off without anything marked, and taking his text, the preacher soon began to show he was not the novice his brother had supposed. He handled his subject with skill; his ideas flowed freely, his language was correct and sufficiently copious, and after a time there began to breathe through his words a holy influence, a sacred power that touched the heart.

Washington was at first surprised, then astonished, and at length amazed, until forgetting where he was, as his hands rested on the seat before him he gradually and unconsciously rose to his feet, and thus standing upright in the midst of the congregation, he listened in breathless silence to the sermon. The service over he returned to the house, where his father was waiting to learn the issue.

“Well, Washington, what do you think of this preaching?”

“Father,” was the calm and serious reply, “if ever a man was called to preach the Gospel, Richard is, and he ought to preach, and if you will not give him a horse and saddle bags, I will.”

“O!” said the father, his resistance all gone, “if he must have a horse and saddle bags, I suppose I am the most suitable person to buy them for him.”

Richard had no more trouble. He ran a brief but bright career. Was appointed first to the city of Philadelphia, and then traveled for a short time with one of the Bishops, by whom he was appointed to Baltimore, to fill a vacancy, and thus became attached to the Baltimore Conference.

While stationed a second time at Baltimore, Jane Barry, daughter of Colonel Barry and belle of the city at that day, heard him preach and fell in love with him, which resulted in marriage, on Monday evening, Aug. 16, 1819. The same year he took yellow fever, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He filled one or two appointments afterwards, and then went South for a change of climate, and died in great peace and Christian triumph at the house of his brother in Georgia.

"Thus rose, and shone, and set, a bright particular star" in Methodism. He was not a meteor; his light was mild, gentle and constant; "a burning and a shining light" he was, and by the brightness of his example many were guided into the way of peace. As "he that winneth souls is wise," and "they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars forever and ever," so shall many in the last day, while they admire and approve his choice, bless God, that they were ever permitted to know that devoted and exemplary Minister of Christ, Richard McAllister."

The greater part of this incident is taken from an old clipping from the "National Magazine," in the scrap book of John Bowes Cox McAllister, written by Rev. Francis Hodgson, an intimate friend of Richard McAllister. The last part is quoted word for word.

Francis Hodgson was sent from England, as a young man, to learn farming of Archibald McAllister, of Fort Hunter, and while there, he became a convert to Methodism, and afterwards an eminent Preacher.

He married second, Sarah Elizabeth Bagley, a widow, of Pittsburg, Pa., who died at Atlantic City, N. J., 1883, without issue.

838—HARRIET SETON McALLISTER, 6, married Hon. George E. Harris, U. S. District Attorney for Mississippi, resides at Washington, D. C, and had issue:—

842—GEORGE McALLISTER HARRIS, 7.

843—EDWARD SETON HARRIS, 7.

He was a resident of Washington nearly thirty years, and was with his father, Richard McAllister, 6, at St. Louis, where he was during the war as General Grant's Chief Commissary in the Department of the Mississippi. In November, 1863, was appointed Acting Ensign in the navy by Admiral Porter. Honorably discharged Sept. 3, 1865. He was for a short time Colonel on the staff of Governor Geary, but resigned to go to Washington to enter his father's law office. He graduated at Georgetown University Law School in 1873, and was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court in 1883, and in the Court of Claims 1888.

In 1873, he married Mrs. Ellen Rockwell, daughter of Major Selah Hobbie, and had issue:—

844—NELLIE McALLISTER, 7. Married Reginald Foster.
845—RICHARD McALLISTER, 7. d. young.

He married second, 1885, Mary Saunders, daughter of Capt. Thomas M. Saunders, U. S. A. (No issue.)

He died of heart clot and was buried at Arlington, June 27, 1896, according to the rites of the Episcopal Church, of which he was a communicant, and Grand Army services by officers of Kit Carson Post. "He was a man universally beloved and respected, for his sense of honor and integrity were above question, and his word as good as a bond. He had an unselfish, affectionate and lovable disposition, was charitable and generous, and had an unusually large number of friends."

(Washington Star, July 8, 1896.)

841—MARY FRANCES McALLISTER, 6, married Walter Stanley Richmond, of New York, and had issue:—

846—CECELIA RICHMOND, 7.

38—JOHN BOWES COX McALLISTER, 5, b. 1828, d. 1858, at Fort Hunter, went to Captain Partridge's military academy, at the corner of Second and State streets, Harrisburg, Pa. When about twelve years of age he fell from a cherry tree and broke his thigh, which lamed him slightly for life. His father started him in the livery business in Harrisburg, but he was such a ladies' man and so devoted to their enjoyment, that it was impossible for the public to hire a team when it was wanted, and the venture necessarily ended in a pronounced failure.

In February, 1849, he went with Walker, the chief of the filibustering expedition to Nicaragua, and was one of the 375 men who entered the town of San Juan del Sur and carried off all the military stores that could be found. When the expedition became a failure, it was of course disbanded, and the survivors suffered great hardships in their efforts to reach the Pacific coast. The provisions ran out, and depending upon what the country afforded, the bill of fare was reduced to ragouts of monkey and lizards, with an occasional parrot as a luxury.

On the Pacific coast, at San Juan del Sud, he was enabled to procure a passage in the second cabin of the steamship "Uncle Sam," bound to San Francisco, and naturally got the gold fever and went to the mines, where everybody else was going.

Having saved some good suits of clothes from the expedition, he applied for work in the diggings, but was unsuccessful from the fact that he was looked upon with suspicion, being so well dressed. He eventually bought the tailings of a mine, and with the assistance of a couple of Indians commenced washing gold. He was successful and was making money, when he contracted a fever, and would have died had it not been for a fellow miner who nursed him. In the meantime his money had vanished, and he had to send home for the necessary funds to get back. This sickness was the commencement of an affection of the lungs, which finally developed into consumption, of which disease he died.

In 1852 he was appointed an aid on the staff of Governor Bigler, with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. In May, 1857, he went to Keokuk, Iowa, to buy a farm and start farming, but on arriving at his destination he found land so high in price, that he could not make a purchase. Here he was again taken sick, and spent all his cash in hotels and doctors' bills. He came home sick, and died at Fort Hunter in 1858, at the early age of thirty years, and unmarried.

He was of a genial and happy disposition, took the world as it came, and was liked by his friends and associates.

39—JOHN CARSON McALLISTER, b. at the old homestead at Fort Hunter, July 4, 1831, d. May 3, 1859. Studied medicine with Dr. Rutherford, of Harrisburg, Pa., and was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia. He started the practice of medicine at Fairview, Cumberland County, Pa., "and was liked by all, both professionally and socially."

He married Elizabeth Wilbur, of Fairview, and was married but a short time when he became an invalid, was brought to Fort Hunter, with his wife and baby, and died there in 1859. He was buried in the family grave yard on the Fort Hunter farm. He had issue:

847—JOHN CARSON McALLISTER, 6. b. Mar. 8, 1859, d. July 25, 1859, buried at Fort Hunter. (Line extinct.)

3—Colonel Richard McAllister, 2 was a delegate from York county, Pa., to the Provincial Conference held in Carpenter’s Hall, Philadelphia, Pa., June 18, 1776, to determine by vote of Colonies for war or otherwise.

In the proceedings of this conference (mentioned in the Pennsylvania Archives, second series,) we find Richard McAllister a member of the “committee appointed to ascertain the number of members of which the Convention ought to consist and to find the proportion of representatives for the city and each county, except Westmoreland, which can furnish but one.”—June 19, 1776.

From Conference proceedings:
“Resolved, That a flying camp be immediately established in the Middle Colonies; that it consist of 10,000 men. The Colony of Pennsylvania be requested to furnish of militia 6,000 men.”

Richard McAllister, 2, was appointed one of a committee “to devise ways and means for raising 4,500 men (which with 1,500 now in pay of the Province will be the quota of this Colony required by Congress) and to inquire into all matters necessary to fit them for taking the field.”

(Penn’a Archives, Vol. II, 2d series.)

Prisoners taken at Fort Washington, Nov. 16, 1776, belonging to Col. Richard McAllister’s regiment of flying camp:
First Lieutenant Joseph Morrison, commissioned Sept. 7, 1776.
Second Lieutenant William Young, commissioned Sept. 18, 1776.
Charles Wilson, a volunteer.

4—The following petition from Col. Richard McAllister for a tavern license, in 1768, reads as if it were the application for a license for the first hotel kept in Hanover, although it has been thought that Colonel McAllister kept an inn here as early as 1764.

We copy this from the York Daily:

YORK COUNTY, SS:

To the Justices of the Court of Quarter Sessions at York the last Tuesday of October, 1768.
The petition of Richard McAllister, of Heidelberg township, in the said county,

Humbly showeth,

That your petitioner is possessed of a house conveniently situated in the town of Hanover, in the said township and county, for the entertainment of travelers and others, and trusting to Your Honors' wonted goodness has provided himself with furniture and liquors suitable thereto.

Your petitioner therefore humbly prays Your Worships to recommend him to His Honor the Governor that he may obtain license to keep tavern at the place aforesaid during the ensuing year.

And your petitioner will pray, etc., etc.

RICHARD McALLISTER.

6—Plots of land owned by Col. Richard McAllister, 2, of Hanover, York county, Pa. Original drafts of these plots in possession of James Harris McAllister, 5.

Compiled from the original deeds of Hanover, York county, Pa., in the possession of James H. McAllister, 5, Fort Hunter, Pa.

Col. Richard McAllister, 2, bought of John Digges, Sr., bargained and sold to Richard McAllister, 2, but not actually conveyed to him during his lifetime, part of a tract of land called "Digges' Choice," containing in all ten thousand and some acres.

The first deed was from John Digges, Sr., with a release from Charles Carroll of Baltimore, Charles Carroll, Surgeon, of Annapolis, and Daniel Dulany, executors of the estate of James Carroll, deceased. This deed was dated Nov. 24, 1744.

John Digges, Sr., mortgaged 1,800 acres of this tract of land with other tracts and parcels to the aforesaid Charles Carroll of Baltimore, Charles Carroll, Surgeon, and Daniel Dulany.

The second deed, dated April 3, 1763, was from Edward, William and Henry Digges, sons and heirs of John Digges, Sr.

The third deed was Wilfred Neale and Eleanor Digges, his wife, executors of Edward Digges, deceased, dated April 9, 1774.

The fourth deed, dated 1779, was from Thomas Lilly, trustee of the Digges estate, to Richard McAllister.

Richard McAllister, in the original purchase, did not receive all that he was entitled to, and the fourth and last deed was given to correct the record according to the original purchase.

Two hundred and forty-one acres, at one pound per acre, afterwards purchased, made the tract 307 acres, 71 perches.

The plantation contains 240{3/4} acres, the town 67 acres; total, 307{3/4} acres, November, 1795.

(Memorandum of acres contained in town of Hanover, York county, Pa., and the plantation, copied from an old deed.)

A tract of land containing 318 acres up the Spring branch of Bald Eagle creek, adjoining lands of Griffith Gibbons in Northumberland county. Surveyed in pursuance of an order granted to William George in the Land Office, 1769.

A tract of land situate on south side of West Branch of Susquehanna, in Cumberland county [now Mifflin county, Pa.]
granted to Griffith Gibbons on application No. 248, dated 3d day of April, 1796, containing 306 acres, allowance of six acres for roads, etc.

April 3, 1769, No. 248.—Griffith Gibbons, 300 acres on the south side of Bald Eagle creek, joining and below James Sharron’s land.

Ditto, No. 1923.—James Sharron, 300 acres on the south side of Bald Eagle creek, including a large spring at the mouth of ye branch that comes out of the Niterny hills.

The above are true copies from appraiser’s book remaining in the Surveyor General’s office.

Certified for Dan'l Brodhead, Esq.

JOHN BARRON.

Mem. £75 for the two tracts on North Branch. (R. McA.)

Draft of tract of land situate on the west side of the West Branch of Susquehanna on the old Catanning path, about six or seven miles from Susquehanna, adjoining William McClelland and a survey made for Col. Perry on the waters of Two Lick creek, containing 401 acres and 70 perches, the usual allowance of six per cent. for roads. Surveyed the 21st day of May, 1786, in pursuance of a warrant dated Feb. 4th, 1786.

Per Robert Galbraith for George Woods, Esq., D. S.

Bedford County—This tract is very rich land. It is something hilly but clear of stones. The timber is chestnut, hickory and white oak, dogwood and some Spanish oak. There is a sufficiency of meadow ground on this tract although the bottoms are narrow. The streams on this tract are small but the springs are very good water, and a great number of them on the south westerly side of the tract. This land would sell for about forty pounds per hundred acres.

ROBERT GALBRAITH.

PHILADELPHIA, 3d Sept., 1790.

Received of Richard McAllister 12s 6d, New England paper money, Surveyor General’s fees on the settlement of 401 acres and 70 perches land situate on west side of the West Branch of Susquehanna, Bedford county. Surveyed on his warrant of 4th Feb., 1786.

For Francis Johnston, Esq., R. G.

JOHN KELCKE.
Surveyor General’s fees, 15s paper; Secretary’s fees, 28s paper money.

PETER BENSON, for Secretary.

Received, this 30th day of February, 1788, of Richard McAllister six pounds, in full of Surveyor’s fees of two tracts of land in Bedford county. Surveyed the 20th of May, 1786.

For George Woods.

JAMES EDIE.

Nicholas Rumble, 400 acres adjoining land granted Andrew Huston in Northumberland county.

Mary Bracher, 400 acres of land adjoining lands of Sarah McCalley on the river in said county.

William Beals, 400 acres of land this day granted Mary Bracher on river in said county.

Surveyed by Captain Wideman 1785.
In the name of God, amen. I, Richard McAllister, Esq., of the town of Hanover, in the County of York, and State of Pennsylvania, being of advanced age but of sound, disposing mind, memory and understanding, thanks be given unto Almighty God for the same, and knowing it is appointed for all men one to die, do therefore make and declare this present writing as and for my last Will and Testament; that is to say, principally and first of all, I recommend my immortal soul into the hands of Almighty God, my creator, trusting in the merits of my Blessed Saviour and Redeemer Jesus Christ, Parton and transmission of all my sins and an happy admission into those glorious regions of bliss and immortality prepared for those who love and fear him, and as for my body I recommend it to the earth from whence it came, to be decently buried at the Discretion of my Executors, hereinafter named, and as for such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me with in this world, I give, devise and dispose of the same as follows, viz: Imprimis, I will order and direct that all my just debts and funeral charges be paid off and discharged as soon as convenient after my decease by my Executors hereinafter named. Item, it is my will and I do hereby empower my executors or the survivors of them to sell and dispose by public or private sale all my lands or real estate which I have in the county of York and in Baltimore county to the best advantage, either in lots or in the whole together, with the ground rents arising from the lots sold by me in the town of Hanover aforesaid, and I do hereby empower my Executors herein named or the survivor of them to convey unto the purchaser or purchasers of my real property and the ground rents aforesaid or any part thereof by such lawful conveyance or conveyances as fully and amply to all intents and purposes as I myself might or could do where I personally present, and the money arising from the sales thereof together with my personal estate be paid, divided as herein after (Particularly.)

2d. Particularly mentioned. Item, I give, devise, bequeath unto my daughter Jean White and to her heirs all that certain house and lot of ground wherein she now lives in Georgetown, Montgomery county, and State of Maryland, with the appurtenances, to hold to her during her life time, and after her death then the same to her children and their heirs and assigns forever in equal shares. I also give and bequeath unto my son Archibald McAllister and to his heirs and assigns two of my negroes, named Cato and, his son, Jack, who being slaves during life. I also give and bequeath unto my daughter Nancy, intermarried with Patrick Hays, and to their heirs and assigns my negro girl, Poll, and my negro boy, Jonathan, who are also slaves. I also give unto my son Jesse McAllister my negro wench, Grate, and her son, Jack, both of them to serve until the said Jack arrives to the age of twenty-eight years, then the said negro wench, Grate, and her son, Jack, to be free and at liberty to act and do for themselves as other free people do; and whereas, I have heretofore given and advanced unto my children sundry sums of money and articles, I therefore further give unto my said children, to wit: I give and bequeath unto my daughter Jean White, with what she hath already received, the further sum of two hundred pounds, to be paid to her or her heirs out of my estate. I also give and bequeath unto my son Archibald McAllister, with what he hath already received, the further sum of four hundred pounds, to be paid to him or his heirs out of my estate. I also give and bequeath unto my son Matthew McAllister, with what he hath already received, the further sum of six hundred pounds, to be paid to him or his heirs out of my estate. I also give and bequeath unto my son Richard McAllister, with what he hath already received, the further sum of six hundred pounds, to be paid to him or his heirs out of my estate. I also give and bequeath unto my daughter Nancy, intermarried with Patrick Hays, with what she hath received already the further sum of four hundred pounds, to be paid to her or her heirs out of my estate. I also give and bequeath unto my daughter Elizabeth, intermarried with John McAllister, with what she hath already received, the further sum of five hundred pounds, to be paid to her or her heirs out of my estate. I also give and bequeath unto my daughter (Sally.)

3d. Salley intermarried with John Orme with what she hath already received the further sum of five hundred pounds to be paid to her or her heirs out of my estate, I also give and bequeath to my son Jesse McAllister, and to his heirs and assigns the sum of Two Thousand Five Hundred Pounds to be paid to him out of the first money arising out of my Estate in order to enable him to begin the world with before any of the aforesaid legacies are paid to his Brothers and Sisters. I also further give and bequeath unto my said son Jesse McAllister, the following articles, to wit: my new Waggon, Waggon cloth and hand screw; also his choice of four of my Waggon Horses with their harness, his choice of two of my Plows and Plow Irons and one Harrow. All the Barr Iron which I received for the use of my farm, also my Riding horse saddle and bridle, my sword and pistols also my wearing apperalls, my Desk, and Bookcase, all my Books, all my chairs in the house and Looking Glasses; also three folding tables, one small square table, one other a little larger, the last two standing in the big Chamber with all my Table Cloath, also my bed wherein I sleep, with the bedstead, bed cloaths, and furniture thereto belonging for besides the bed he already hath; also his choice of two chaf beds and bed cloaths; also one Franklin stove and two ten-plate stoves and pipes; also all my Citchen and cubbert furniture; also the one-half of all my horned cattle, the one-half of my hogs and all of my sheep; also the one-half of all the produce of my Plantation, either in the ground or otherwise; also the one-half of all my small utensils of husbandry, such as axes, hoes, madox, &c., his choice thereof; also, one pair of brass-hand Irons and one of my Grindstones, all of which said last before mentioned bequeath to hold to him the said Jesse McAllister, his heirs and assigns forever. Item it is further my Will and I do give and bequeath all the over plush Rest Residue and Remainder of my Estate, both real and personal, (after paying off the aforesaid legacies herein before mentioned) to be given, Divided, Paid and Delivered in equal share and shares alike to and amongst all my children, their heirs and assigns forever, Namely, 4th. to Jean White, Archibald McAllister, Matthew McAllister, Richard McAllister, Nancy, inter-married with Patrick Hays, Elizabeth, inter-married with John McAllister, Salley, inter-married with John Orme, and Jesse McAllister, and lastly I do nominate and appoint my two sons Archibald McAllister, Jesse McAllister, and my friend Jacob Rudisell, Esq., Executors of this my last Will and Testament hereby revoking and making null and void all other and former Will or Wills heretofore by me made Deebaring this and no other to be and contain my last Will and Testament. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this twenty-sixth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five.

Signed, sealed and published, pronounced, declared by the before named Richard McAllister to be his last Will and Testament in the presence of us who have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses in the presence of the testator and at his request.

N. B.—Before signing and sealing, in the third page in the eighteenth line the words "with one other feather bed," of his choice being also dotted out before signing. On the second page "or her heirs," on the third page the word "further" being also interlined.

GEORGE KARLS, Appraisers, Sworn before Henry Welsh, Jacob Eichelberger, Esq'r, 5th Dec'r, 1795.

Exhibited into the Register's Office at York the 7th Day of December, A. D. 1795, By Jacob Rudisell, one of Exts.

I, Jacob Barnitz, Esq., Register for the Probate of Wills, etc., in & for the County of York in the State of Pennsylvania, Do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true Copy taken from & compared with the Original remaining in the Register's Office at York.

In Testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal of said Office at York the 23d Day of December, A. D. 1795. [SEAL] J. BARNITZ, Reg'r

* Col. Richard McAllister's, 2, Silver Buttons.

A coat with silver buttons bequeathed by Col. Richard McAllister to his youngest son Jesse (See Inventory) was given by the latter to his daughter Hannah Gibbons (McAllister) Davis. The buttons have been preserved and were made into teaspoons now in possession of a daughter of Mrs. Josephine R. Nichols, of Indianapolis, Ind.

9—A muster roll of Capt. Archibald McAllister's, Company, of Col. Thos. Hartley's Regt., 1777. Taken from his orderly book:

15—Anecdotes of Archibald McAllister, of Fort Hunter, Pa.

One of the most marked characteristics of the McAllisters, both in the men and the women, as far as has been observed and noticed, is their excitable disposition, strong and passionate while it lasts, but of short duration and entirely free from any intention of malice.

An illustration of this peculiarity of temperament is related by James Harris McAllister. His grandfather, Archibald McAllister, was a gentleman farmer of the old school, priding himself on the fineness of his farm products and the purity of his stock. He owned an especially beautiful specimen of a Jersey cow, rare and valuable at that day, which had been sent from England by a friend.

His grandson, James Harris McAllister, then a boy of eight years, and his brother, Richard, and another boy, about the same age, cornered the cow on the farm, and tied a favorite hound to the animal's tail. Mad with terror, she ran down the hill, and jumped into a trench, then being excavated for the Pennsylvania Canal, (which was being built about this time, 1829), killed the dog and tore off her tail.

The old gentleman, having discovered the boys and the mischief they had perpetrated, gave a fearful yell, and vowed that as soon as he had caught them, there would be a repetition of the slaughter of the innocents. The boys, however, had made themselves painfully scarce; one to the barn, another to the mill, and James to the quiet seclusion of an applebutter kettle, all contemplating an early ascension to the realms of the blessed. After an unsuccessful still hunt for the urchins, Grandfather Archibald, returned to the house to nurse his wrath like unto Tam O'Shanter's wife and soon resumed his natural serenity.

Later in the afternoon, when the mail had arrived, James' father, John Carson McAllister, (who lived at that time in the tenant house on the Fort Hunter farm) called him to take the mail to his Grandfather, as was the custom. He washed his face, probably as a mild disguise, and started, with fear and trembling, to face the storm he had assisted in brewing, expecting, naturally, to receive a thrashing, and being determined to take it as the mildest form of punishment that would fit his crime. When he approached the august presence of his grandfather, the old gentleman had cooled off, forgotten his anger and the cow, was pleased to see the boy, called him a good lad and rewarded him with a “tip.”

This same Archibald McAllister, was a great practical joker, and loved fun, because it was fun, in any form. An Englishman, Mr. Cobbett, Member of Parliament, travelling through the States, stopped at Fort Hunter over night. He was collecting material for the publication of a book on the agricultural industries of the country. During his short visit he got entangled with Archibald in an argument as to the relative sizes of American and English fruits, the latter contending that the American product would drive the English crazy in trying to grasp the immensity of their size. To prove his assertion, orders were given to a servant to tie some green gourds, as large as a man’s head on a pear tree in the rear of the house. After supper Mr. Cobbett was invited to inspect the pears, and as it was nearly dusk, the gourds, masquerading as pears, loomed up to the best advantage, Mr. Cobbett was struck dumb with astonishment and firmly believed what he saw, when he was told to “feel them” and that “they were yet green.”
McAllister’s or McAllister’s town, the name by which the place is now known, in Susquehanna township, contains some ten or fifteen dwellings, a grist mill, two saw mills, a church and a school house.

McAllister, after whom the place is called, purchased a farm of 300 acres about the year 1785; and kept for some time a public house. Duke de la Rochefoucault Liancourt, a French traveller, on a tour to see the country, who passed up the Susquehanna in 1796, speaks of McAllister’s place. “McAllister owns about 300 acres, about 120 cultivated. Price of lands near him is $8 for woodland; $50 for cleared. The houses, all of wood, except the Inn, which stands on the Susquehanna and in the precincts of Fort Hunter, erected many years ago.

Organization of the First Presbyterian Church of Harrisburg, Pa.

In 1797 application was made to the Legislature of Penna., for permission to raise by lottery the sum of £5000 for the purpose of purchasing a lot and building a house of worship for the use of the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg, organized in 1796 of which Mr. Snowden was pastor. Accordingly on March 16, 1798, a law was passed appointing commissioners for that purpose. Among them were Archibald McAllister, Christian Kunkel, Robert Harris, Samuel Elder and others. These commissioners were required to take an oath to diligently and faithfully to perform their duties, and that at least three of them should attend at the respective drawings of each day until completed. The scheme was finished on July 7, 1798, and the lot purchased June 7, 1804.

(Rupp’s History of Dauphin County, 1846.)

Extract from the Diary of Mrs. Hannah Haines, of Philadelphia, from the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

1812, 6 mo., 23d—“Again commenced our journey  * * * it was evening when we got to McAllister’s, a house of excellent accommodation, but found that they had given up keeping tavern, but very politely requested us to alight, and after refreshing us with a nice dish of tea we retired to our chambers.

6 mo., 24th—“Rain—uncommon civility of the family; excellent library, most elegant tea set of china with fruit baskets, every piece was a different pattern of flowers and fruits of every variety fancifully arranged on a ground of the purest white. It was sent from an association of Moravians at Dresden to their Brethren settled in Bethlehem, but they considering it too expensive a luxury sold it for £40. Showed us a very ancient Bible in the English language, year 1534, also a very large carpet of their own manufactory equal to any imported I ever saw.

17—Letter addressed, Arch'd McAllister, Esq., from Geo. W. McAllister, Grahamville, South Carolina. Dated Aug. 18, 1821:

Grahamville, South Carolina, Aug. 18, 1821.

My dear Father: It is a long time since I have had the pleasure to hear from you, or from any of my friends at the North.

Perhaps it is my own fault, since I am so indolent a correspondent; it is indeed true, I have almost discontinued to write letters, and have not I verily believe, written half a dozen for the last twelve months.

We are spending the summer with our kind friends Mr. and Mrs. Longworth in the pine lands of South Carolina, and our families are at this time enjoying good health. Settlements of this description are becoming common and generally have proved to be healthy. A spot of poor pine barren ridge land is selected, in many instances, but a few miles from the plantation, for instance, we are but three from Mr. Longworth's, the settlement takes its name from the first resident, or owner of the land. There is at this place fifteen houses, all in sight of each other, and most of them families of the first respectability; this affords a charming society, and they enjoy the summer in health and harmony.

The houses in every instance, are but one story, and superficially built; and indeed were a stranger, unapprized with the circumstance to drop in at one of our dinner or supper parties, having first formed his opinion, of the wealth and appearance of the individuals within, from the exterior of the building, he would be struck dumb with astonishment.

His surprise could not but be great, to see so great a contrast, within this humble dwelling he would find everything which characterizes the well bred man and woman, everything that is common in the fashionable and gay world, would here strike his wondering eyes, and almost tempt him to believe he had been translated into some fairy land. On the 4th of July we had an oration and dinner and that night the pine land was illuminated for two miles. Indeed the pine nott fires kept up at nights from 5 to 10 around each house have a most pleasing effect and contribute not a little to health.

I have had a letter not long since from my inestimable friend F. Macleod, he is with his family at Greenville, this State, he has purchased a delightful retreat for the summer within half a mile of that place; he has spent three summers there and enjoyed uninterrupted health, he prefers it to any place he has ever seen.

Our last account from Savannah reports the place to be perfectly healthy; indeed it is time it should have respite, for one dreadful calamity has succeeded another, in such quick succession until hope had almost vanished from its inhabitants.

Poor Dr. White, Miss Orme, and Mr. Osborne, the husband of Eliza Orme, were among the first victims last summer. Dr. White has left three sons, John, Steele, and George McAllister in a very dependent situation; they are at school at Jamaica on Long Island. Mr. John Jackson resides there also.

My dear Mary and myself often talk over the pleasure we would enjoy if circumstances would once again permit us to visit our dear Parents, and friends at the North. Oh! what satisfaction it would give us, to present our dear little ones to receive your caresses and benedictions. We have great reason to be both proud and gratified for these pledges of our affections. Matilda Washington is called “a little beauty” and Joseph Longworth is called “a noble fellow,” he is unusually large, good natured and sprightly; his hair is auburn, and his eyes light blue. Mr. Longworth insists upon it he looks like our dear mother. Our daughter, Catharine, continues at Augusta; we have just had a letter from her, and informs us she has recently surmounted one of the greatest of tasks, she ever undertook, a public examination. Mr. Hopkins writes at the same time, to say Catharine had acquitted herself on the occasion with distinguished reputation, and had gained a premium. She is very much ——— in Augusta by all who know her. Mr. Hopkins finds it very difficult to correct her habit of bad spelling.

I forward ——— to ——— home ——— to the ——— of Charles Perry and Co., Phila., a quarter cask of genuine old Maderia wine, of my own importation, the celebrated house of Howard March & Co., and beg your acceptance of it as a small return for the last liquors you sent to me.
I have never had any liquors in my house so much extolled (and I think justly) as the whiskey you last sent me; it stands unrivalled at my table, and in such estimation that the Brandy decanter is universally rejected for it. My good friend MacLeod, who is as temperate, as he is sincere, says, "it is no sin to get d—k on the good old stuff from Fort Hunter."

He is so choice of his, he says he will not taste it, until he sees mine out.

My dear Mary will esteem it a great favour, if you send her, a barrel of Rye flour in the fall, and if not too much trouble, I will be thankful to you for a half barrel of shelled buck-wheat flour. Mr. & Mrs. Longworth beg to be kindly remembered to yourself & mother & the family. Mary unites with me in tenderest to yourself, and to our dear mother, and the family one & all. With esteem & affection, Your Son,

GEO. W. MCALLISTER.

Apropos: I had forgot to inform you that you had a son promoted to the rank of Col'n. You will therefore in future please address to Col'n Geo. W. McAllister, etc. & etc.

18—Commission of Archibald McAllister, 3, of Fort Hunter, Pa.—original in possession of Ida A. McAllister, Royer, Pa.

In the Name and by the Authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, THOMAS MIFFLIN, Governor of said Commonwealth, to Archibald McAllister of the County of Dauphin.

GREETING—

Know, That you said Archibald McAllister (being duly elected and returned) are hereby Commissioned Captain of the Troop of Light Dragoons attached to the First Regiment of Dauphin Co. Brigade of Militia of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. To have and to hold this Commission, exercising all the powers, and discharging all the duties thereto lawfully belonging and attached for the term of seven years.

In Testimony Whereof, I have set my Hand and caused the great seal of said state to be affixed to these Presents, at Philadelphia the Seventh Day of August in the year of our Lord One Thousand seven Hundred and ninety-six and of the Commonwealth the twenty-first.

By the Governor.

20—Anecdote of John Carson McAllister, of Fort Hunter, Pa.

John Carson McAllister, inherited his love for practical joking from his father, Archibald. Having always led an active out-door life, he became a noted athlete, and could have given pointers to the sprinters and foot ball players of the present day. Extraordinary exertion was not thought of, provided, by its expenditure, he could perpetrate a joke on the unsuspecting.

It is a well known fact that colored people will sink the ordinary superstitions, and the fear of ghosts and bogies in the excitement of a coon hunt and the slaves at Fort Hunter were no exception.

It is related of John Carson McAllister, * that sitting in the old bar-room at Fort Hunter, he overheard several darkies planning a coon-hunt, and giving explicit directions as to the route to be followed. Biding his time, he waited until they were decently out of sight, when, quick as a flash he ran by a short cut, to a tall, white, oak tree, directly in the path of the would-be coon-hunters.

As a rule, a dog with a good scent accompanies the party to tree the coon, in which event one of the number climbs the tree to shake him off, when the dogs finish the act. In the present instance John Carson played coon, and the dogs naturally stopped and began to growl and bark. The hunters were delighted, and with a “Golly! we’ve got one already,” elected one of the number to do the climbing. He slowly and surely started up, when reaching nearly to the limb on which John Carson was perched, decided instantly and was convinced that he was “barking up the wrong tree.” Naught but a bear or a catamount, could have uttered the terrible soul-rasping growl, that sounded through the forest. Losing his hold the darkey dropped on his companions and dogs, and was hurriedly picked up and they started for home at a good pace, all thought of coon having vanished.

After they had departed, the cause of the trouble, quietly slipped from the tree, took the short cut to the tavern, and on the return of the hunters, was sitting quietly where they had left him, a willing listener to the marvellous tale of the bear they had treed.

21—Letter to John Carson McAllister, *, from his brother, George Washington McAllister, *

NEW BRUNSWICK, Sep. 1, 1798.

MY DEAR BROTHER: I wish you to accept of my warmest thanks for the good care you take of my favorite dog. Adieu! I am truly your good brother, Geo’E W. McAllister.
22—Frances Harris (Hanna) McAllister, wife of John Carson McAllister, was a daughter of General John Andre Hanna, of Flemington, N. J., who was born in 1761, and was a son of Rev. John Hanna and Mary McCrea (sister of Jane McCrea, massacred by the Indians).

John Andre Hanna married Mary Reed Harris, daughter of John Harris, founder of Harrisburg, Pa., and grand-daughter of John Harris, Sr., Indian trader and first settler.

(History of Dauphin Co., Egle.)

A miniature of Gen'l John Andre Hanna is in the possession of Mrs. Julia Briggs, N. Front Street, Harrisburg, Pa., (a grand-daughter.)

Charles Carroll, and Edward, William and Henry Digges, to Richard McAllister, planter of Baltimore, for 241 acres, known as Digges Choice, dated April 23, 1763.

29. Sundry old papers and receipts.

James Harris McAllister, 5, of Fort Hunter, Pa., (1898) is the owner of a mahogany writing desk once the property of Col. Richard McAllister, 4. On the death of Col. Richard McAllister in 1795, this desk was purchased by his son, Archibald, 3, for eleven pounds. On examination a secret drawer was found which contained ten dollars. The desk is still in a good state of preservation.

He is also the possessor of the original rifle carried and used by John Harris, 2. It was given to him by his grand-mother, Mary Reed Harris Hanna, who was the daughter of John Harris, 2, and Mary Reed. Originally the rifle was the property of James Harris, 3, son of John Harris, 2, but he died unmarried, and left his estate to his sister, Mary Harris Hanna, wife of General John Andre Hanna, of Flemington, N. J., whose daughter married John Carson McAllister, 4, of Fort Hunter, Pa. Their son was James Harris McAllister, 5, the present owner of the relic, which with a cow was bequeathed to him as stated above.

Sir: From common report I expect there will be people sent to Ohio this Spring or Summer to prevent the proceedings of the French there, if such are sent, I should freely offer my service if I could get any profitable place & would willingly hope to get some favour of you if Commissions are given out by this Government I doubt not, but I could List a good number of youth, I being well acquainted in the woods & the Toils of traveling, in the manners and customs of several Nations of Indians, of which there will be reason of fear, from which acquaintance there will be Encouragement to List. The people here being quite in the mind, that persons not acquaint in the woods, & that will not be most fit for command in that war. Sir, if I could from this expect to be favoured I would get my character sent to his Honour from the best of the County, who have already offered it to me & who have much persuaded me to proceed & hope to obtain which I can only expect through your favours & remains your most obedient Humble Servant,

G. Washington, President.

At the bottom of this Certificate are lithographs of Britannia leaving the shore of the United States, the Lion fleeing with the Eagle in pursuit, and the seal with motto "Omnia Relinquit Servare Rempublicam," and on the other side the seal of the Society, motto, "Societas Cincinnatoniainstituta MDCCLXXXVII.

27—An extract from the Diary of Gen’l Nathaniel Greene. Kept during his journey North after the Revolutionary war.

At Wilmington, N. C. “We dined with Mr. McCallister [Archibald3], who formerly had the advance party at the taking of Powley’s Hook by Lieutenant Colonel Lee. He put into this place by accident from Charleston (N. C.) heard of a rich widow, boldly attacked her in the Hudibrastic style and carried her off in triumph in a few weeks. She is an agreeable lady with a very pretty fortune—a handsome reward for a bold enterprize. How many difficulties are got over if but boldly attempted, as well in the affairs of love as those of the field.”

(Life of Gen’l Greene, by his grandson, G. W. Greene.)

The Delegates of the United Colonies of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, the Counties of New-Castle, Kent, and Sussex on Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, to Abdel McAllister, Esquire

We reposing especial Trust and Confidence in your Patriotism, Valour, Conduct and Fidelity, Do by these Presents, Constitute and Appoint you to be a Second Lieutenant in a Company of Pennsylvania Troops.

Number Forty-Six

in the Army of the United Colonies raised for the defence of American Liberty, and for repelling every hostile Invasion thereof. You are therefore carefully and diligently to discharge the Duty of Second Lieutenant, by doing and performing all manner of things there unto belonging. And we do strictly charge and require all Officers and Soldiers under your Command, to be obedient to your Orders as Second Lieutenant and you are to observe and follow such Orders and Directions from Time to Time, as you shall receive from this or a future Congress of the United Colonies, or Committee of Congress, for that Purpose appointed, or Commander in Chief for the Time being of the Army of the United Colonies, or any other of War in Pursuance of the Trust reposed in you. This Commission to continue in Force until revoked by this or a future Congress.

Philadelphia, January 9th, 1776.

By Order of the Congress,

JOHN HANCOCK, President.

Attest, CHAS. THOMSON, Secy.

I do certify that Abdiel McAllister, a Second Lieut. in the Sixth Pennsylvania Battalion, in the service of the United States (of which I was the Lieut. Colonel, and commanded the same) in the month of June 1776 was taken prisoner by the British troops, or Canadians, on Lake Champlain, that he was carried prisoner to Quebec, and before he was exchanged, so far as I can recollect, an arrangement of the Army took place and I understood that he was not inserted in that arrangement.

THOMAS HARTLEY,
Philadelphia,

SEMINARY, Aug. 2nd, 1776.

Sir: It has been hinted to us by Gen'l Thompson that the only objection his Excellency has to the word hereafter being omitted in the Parole, proceeds from an apprehension that ill-natured persons in the Colonies might misconstrue it to the pre-

We do not presume to point out this Difficulty, may be obviated, therefore shall only mention, that as we are fully assured that his Excellency had no intention to throw them into a disagreeable predicament with their Countrymen, a declaration of this kind if necessary from us when we arrive in the Colonies, may fully remove it.

Your kind offers of service, and the willingness you have shown to oblige, We hope will be sufficient Apology for our troubling so often.

And your further Intercession with his Excellency in our behalf shall ever be esteemed a singular fav'r by

Sir Your most obedient & oblig'd humble Serv't

To CAPT. Foy,

May it please your Excellency.

Impressed with a just sense of your Excellency's Humanity and Benevolence and urged by the peculiarity of our present disagreeable Situation being Destitute of both friends and money we beg leave to request that your Excellency will condesend to take our case into consideration and grant us relief by permitting us to return to our respective homes on our Parole which we shall ever Deem sacred assuring your Excellency that we shall make it a point to surrender ourselves to any of his Maj'ist's Officers when and where your Excellency may think proper to direct,
Being likewise sensibly touched with the deplorable state of our men who remain at present we take the liberty to recommend them to your Excellency's consideration earnestly soliciting that some measures may be taken for their relief, and we should be certainly happy if they could possibly return to their families many of whom must be reduced to the greatest Distress.

Your Excellency's compliance will be esteemed a singular favor and ever gratefully acknowledged by your Excellency's most Ob't and humble Serv't.

Baltimore County, to wit: On the 13th of Nov. 1802 came John Hen'y Hoskins, Sarah Selman & Ann Edwards subscribing evidences to the foregoing last will and testament of Richard McAllister deceased and made oath &c., that they did see the testator sign and seal this will, that they heard him publish, pronounce and declare the same to be his last will and testament, that at the time of his so doing he was to the best of their apprehensions of sound disposing mind, memory and understanding, and that they subscribed their names as witnesses to this will in his presence at his request and in the presence of each other. Sworn before me, Register of Wills for B. County.

Wm. Buchanan, R. W. & Proth'y.
I, James Calhoun, Mayor of the City of Baltimore, do hereby certify that the signature "Wm. Buchanan, R. W. & Proth'ly" subscribed to the within last written certificate is of the own proper handwriting of William Buchanan, Esquire, who was at the time of subscribing the same Register of Wills for Baltimore County rightly and duly appointed and is by the Laws and Statutes of the State of Maryland the Officer appointed to receive proof of the due Execution of Wills and Testaments, and therefore full Faith and Credit are, and ought to be given to all acts by him ordered in such Capacity.

In testimony of the Truth whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused the Corporate Seal of the said City of Baltimore to be hereunto affixed this thirteenth day of November, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Two.

THOMAS JEFFERSON,
President of the United States of America.

To all who shall see these Presents, Greeting:

Know ye, That reposing special trust and confidence in the Patriotism, Valor, Fidelity and Abilities of Thomas G. McAllister I do appoint him a Surgeon's Mate in the Navy in the service of the United States. He is therefore carefully and diligently to discharge the Duties of a Surgeon's Mate in the Navy, by doing and performing all Manner of Things thereunto belonging. And I do strictly charge and require all Officers, Seamen and Mariners under his command to be obedient to his Orders as a Surgeon's Mate in the Navy.

And he is to observe and follow such Orders and Directions from time to time as he shall receive from me or the future President of the United States of America, or the superior Officers set over him, according to the Rules and Discipline of the Navy.

This Commission to continue in Force during the pleasure of the President of the United States for the time being.

38—Memorandum of facts, obtained from Col. Edward Anderson, 7th Georgia Cavalry, with reference to the death of Col. Joseph Longworth McAllister, Commanding the Regiment.

General Hampton's Division of Cavalry, about 6,000 strong, were ordered into action, at Trevyllian's Station about one o'clock on the morning of Saturday the 11th June, (1864). Dismounted soon after marching and countermarching until quite weary, about noon Col. Anderson met Col. McAllister, both were well and in good spirits.

A small portion of the command under Col. Anderson were soon after closely pressed, and the Colonel made prisoner, having a wound in the hip. From a private who was next to Col. McAllister, at the time of his death, Col. Anderson learned, that the party commanded by Col. McA. were surrounded in the fight by superior numbers, and called to surrender.

The answer of Col. McAllister was the discharge of his pistol, which he continued to fire until he fell. He had been slightly wounded in the arm before this, but at this time was shot twice, once in the body, and once in the throat, causing instant death, without his uttering a word. His body was buried by a detachment of his men in his uniform, about one and a half miles from Trevyllian's, between that and Louisa Court-house, four miles away, and distant from Richmond about fifty miles. The spot was marked, and is known to Major J. W. Davis, at present commanding the Regiment. His body servant Jack, and the horses, are at the recruiting camp of Young's Brigade at Minnikin's Landing, on the canal about fifteen miles from Richmond, and are being provided for and taken care of, by the Commanding officer of the Camp, at government expense. His sword and Holsters and effects are at General George W. Randolph's, at Richmond. Every field officer of the Regiment was either killed or wounded, and many of the men. In the fight with Sheridan's command, our troops were badly handled by the general officer commanding them, (name not known), after being driven back some miles on Saturday, the ground was recovered again on Sunday. The enemy numbered about 1,200 strong.

39—Letter addressed?

CAPT. ARCH’d McALISTER, near Harrisburg,
Pennsylvania.

From

JOHN McALISTER,
McAlister’s X Roads,
Montgomery Co.,
Tennessee.

Dated May 17, 1815.

McALISTER’S X Roads, Montgomery Co., Tennessee,
May 16, 1815.

DEAR SIR: I had not heard a word from, or of you—till the other day a Mr. Hulin informed me—he was at your house and that you were all well, that you had built a new house and was liveing in it &c., it give us much pleasure to hear from you, altho it was by accident.

Mrs. McAlister came along with me to this Country December last, and we expect to be here perhaps a year or longer on my way here I met with some Iron Masters in the Monongahela Country who was to have been here the 1st April in order to build a furnace. But they have not come, I wish you would send me out an Iron man, that had money to build a furnace, for I have an advantageous situation and an excellent Bank of Ore, and this Country wants Iron much, was a man that understood the business, & was enterprising & industrious—he would soon accumulate a fortune superior to your Colmans of your Country, for this Country is very profitable for Iron Works. Iron is now 16 cents per Casting 10 lbs. & Corn 25 to 33 cts Per bushel and Pork last fall at 3 to 4 per lb. I wish one of your sons understood the business I would join him in a furnace. Pray tell me what is become of Jesse & his family? Send your son Richard out here and let him see the Country, for I think every young man ought to travill and see the world a little (as it’s called) before he settles himself for Life. There is a tract of Land near me of between 3 & 4,000 Acres, it is said there is a 1,000 Acres of Bottom Land on the Cumberland River. In my opinion a great bargain may be had of it—it belongs to the Heirs of one Davis who lives near New Burn in North Carolina, there is now about ten small plantations on it, which pay a Corn rent and I believe there is a Mill seat at the Mouth of this Creek, which would answer for a Forge. I expect it might be had now for about 2 or 3 dollars per acre and it will be a fine estate some day for a family, but land is on the rise in this Country now the War is over I understand the emigration is beginning to commence to this Country rapidly from the Atlantic States.

I rented out my plantation etc., near Winchester, (Md.), for two years, and I am employed here in Diging a Run and making a Dam, & expect to have a saw mill going by Christmas next, then I expect to begin and saw the stuff, for a grist mill, I have 20 foot fall for the grist mill which I suppose will answer for an overshot Mill, the price I would take for this tract of Land is four dollars per acre, which I believe a great bargain to a man that had a family, for before 20 years hence it will be at least 10 dollars per acre. Should you meet with any Land hunters, send them to me. Pray let me hear from you, and tell us how all our friends and acquaintances are in your part of the Country—What is become of all your children. Where is Joshua Elder and how is he—his brother James who keeps store at Clarksville our County Town, is a very particular friend of mine and I think, a very worthy man. What has become of Patrick Hays and family, &c. &c. Eliza joins with me in our best wishes for your and Mrs. McAlister’s health & happiness, not forgetting your children tho’ we don’t know where they live—Whether they are all married if so or not, is Washington in your Country or is his daughter with you. With sentiments of real affection

I am dear Archy your friend etc. etc.,

JOHN McALISTER.

40—Family record of Elizabeth Jolliffe & John McAllister, her husband.

Elizabeth Jolliffe, fifth child of William & Elizabeth Jolliffe, was born at the Newville House, June 16, 1768. She was left by her father’s will property in her own right, which was to come to her when she married or became of age. When a young lady she married John McAllister a son of James McAllister of Berkley Co., Va., one of the gentleman trustees for laying out the town of Martinsburg and one of the first justices for Berkley County under the Commonwealth. For this marriage she lost her membership among Friends.

John McAllister was a highly educated, well to do, miller. He built one of the largest and best appointed brick flouring mills in Frederick Co., which was known as Greenwood Mills. He used to send his flour to Alexandria, Va., for shipment to Liverpool. The firm Jolliffe & Brown was his agent.

He was a very agreeable man and his wife a charming hostess. They entertained their friends in the lavish and hospitable manner so common among the old time Virginians and around their board were often gathered such historic characters as Light-Horse Harry Lee, General John Smith, General Singleton, Major General Horatio Gates, General Dark and other prominent leaders of the Revolutionary period. He sold his possessions in Virginia soon after the war of 1812 (about 1814 or 1815) and with his wife moved to Tennessee and settled at a place he designated as McAllister's Cross Roads, Montgomery County.

He was very eccentric, always kept his coffin ready to receive his body should he die suddenly. At the death of his wife, Elizabeth, he buried her body on the top of a high mountain overlooking the Tennessee River. This point afterwards known as Lookout Point. It overlooks the town of Chattanooga and was made historic by the battle of the clouds fought there during the late war.

Elizabeth Jolliffe was a tall, dignified lady, fond of society, witty, and quick at repartee. She was very fond of poetry and left a well selected library to her niece, Elizabeth McAllister Jolliffe.

She left no children to bear her honored name. She was devoted to her family and friends, and kept up an active correspondence with them as long as she lived.

I have in my possession several interesting letters from her pen. Her death occurred in Tennessee about the year 1818 or 1819. Her husband was a fine business man. Keeping his accounts and writing his letters in a clear, full hand. Just when he died is unknown, as there is no record.

(Copied from the "History of the Jolliffe, Neill and Janney Families of Virginia," by Wm. Jolliffe.)
Maysville, July 14th, 1851.

My very dear sister: When I received your truly kind and long looked for letter, dated November 7th, I little thought I should have this long delayed answering it, but it is a true saying that procrastination is the thief of time, from various causes I postponed writing until I felt ashamed of my neglect, however better late than never. Do not attribute it to a want of affection, for I do assure you that time nor distance can never erase from my heart that attachment that was formed between us many years since. I have kept your last letter in my Bible ever since its reception, and could not tell you how often, I have read it, and it has always given me pleasure to know that you still love and cherish me in your memory. I trust our love will not only continue through life whether that be long or short, but if we are so blest as to meet in a better world than this, we shall be reunited and spend an Eternity in each other's society, when we shall meet those dear loved ones who have gone before us. O how it ought to stimulate us to perseverance in the divine life, when we think how many of our dear friends, with whom we used to meet in the house of God, in the prayer meeting and Class-room, when the Lord deigned to manifest himself unto us, as he doeth not to the world. Well my dear sister, I am still striving to walk in the old path, that is, of Methodism. I find that it requires all the means of grace to enable me to keep in the right path. I hope I may never lose my relish for Class-meeting, notwithstanding the opposition of some of our members to this means of grace. I do not enjoy that conformity to the divine will that it is my privilege but I am striving to seek after it, altho' I come very short of my duty, yet my trust is in God, whom I have always found to be a stronghold in the time of trouble. He has been my comfort and support in the time of need when all others failed, and I know my dear Lucy can say the same with regard to yourself. God has been a husband to you, and a Father to your fatherless children, you have nothing to fear while Jesus is your friend. I was glad to hear your children were doing so well. I expected to hear that William was married but commend him for his attention to his mother. O! how I would like to see you and your family. Tell W. I used to nurse him. I expected to make a visit to the East this summer, but have given it up as usual, I have so many hindrances. Our second son Henry is still in Baltimore pursuing his medical studies, he went on last Fall to attend the lectures and his uncle Richard prevailed on him to remain until he graduated, which will be next Spring. Samuel our eldest is married and is working at coach trimming. He is a member of the Methodist church, his wife a Campbellite. They have no children, they have been married more than two years. Richard our youngest son is with us assisting his father to attend to the Wharf-boat & Salt Inspector. Josephine is in her fourteenth, quite large for her age and goes to school. Maria our youngest is also going to school to her Aunt who is teaching in Maysville, Maria Parker, I allude too. She is living in this place, how long she will remain is uncertain. She is boarding with me. Mr. Parker is engaged in business up the river their youngest son is with him. The others are doing for themselves. She desires me to remember her affectionately to you and the children. She spent last Summer in Baltimore and Harrisburg. It is about twenty-five years since I was there. I received a letter from Cousin Matilda Cox, last month, they are all in good health, she desired me to write to Cousin Amelia, I intend doing so soon. How I should like to see her once more; if not in this world if I am faithful I expect to meet her on the shore of eternal deliverance. Father died last fall of apoplexy; he retained his senses to the last and was resigned to death. He had the minister with him frequently to sing and pray. He is buried in Hanover beside grand-father. When you see Cousin Mary White, please give my love to her, tell her, I remember her perfectly, the last visit she made Father and Mother. I was very small, she gave me a string of white beads. Now my dear sister I believe I have given you all the news. I hope you will overlook the many mistakes as I write so seldom I have almost forgotten how. Will you write to me soon & I will try and be more punctual the next time. I feel very anxious to hear from you, how you are prospering temporally and spiritually, the state of your health, and tell me every thing you can think of. What kind of meetings you have. I assure you Religion is at rather a low ebb in this place. We have an excellent Preacher, Dr. Miller. He had been a practising physician formerly but gave it up and preaches the Gospel. When you write tell me if your mother is still living? Joseph Holditch is travelling through the West, as the American Bible Agent. He was in Cincinnati and Lexington also Louisville and did not pass through Maysville. He does not know we live in M, or I think he would certainly have made us a visit. I was truly disappointed. I had anticipated so much pleasure in seeing him but all things beneath the sun are uncertain, there is nothing sure but Heaven. Mr. Davis joins me in love to you and the children, and believe me as ever your sincerely affectionate sister in the bonds of Christian love, 42—Letter of Mrs. Amelia Payne, to her Cousin, Mrs. Lucy (Priestley) Orme.

WINDSOR, N. Y., Nov'r 1833. (?)

DEAR SISTER LUCY: My mind has more or less dwelt on the subject, or one of the subjects we conversed upon at Camp-meeting; relating to the witness of the second blessing (as some call it) or of Sanctification. You mentioned to me the opinion of one, with whom you conversed on the subject; who had different views from those of Wesley, Fletcher, &c., and said (if I recollect right,) that those views appeared to be more agreeable to your experience, or more encouraging. You knew what I had professed on the subject, and wished to know whether my views were the same they had been, I answer, they are. I believe it is as much our privilege to have the witness of the second blessing, as the first; and allow some may have received both at or nearly at the same time, it was not my experience. Mr. Wesley on Christian perfection says all and much more than I can say.—— But this I would say to all who are traveling the way to Canaan; do not be satisfied with anything short of loving the Lord, with all your heart, soul, mind and strength. Looking up for more and more of that grace that purifies the heart, and fills the soul with love. Oh! what has Jesus bought for me! Salvation from sin!!! from its power from its defilement!!! Yes in this world of trouble, and sorrow, we may enjoy that peace within, that is unspeakable. How is it then? Why is it, that those who profess to believe that so much may be enjoyed in this life, do not more earnestly seek it, yea press after it. The world has too much of our hearts! one has family cares that engrosses the mind, another his farm, another his merchandise, another has so much laid up in store, his whole care is to preserve it. Another, shall I say it, has affectionate friends and kind neighbors, but they are ungodly, they only converse about the things of the world and laying plans and schemes to grow rich and there company is a snare many times to a spiritually minded soul. But the root of the matter is in our own hearts, there is the evil and there must the cure begin.
I find many things in my heart contrary to what I think and know is my privilege to enjoy. With sorrow and shame I ac knowledge I do not enjoy, the witness spoken of above, as I have done, but still there is a savor of it left, and a constant desire to enjoy it with all its brightness. I feel one determined steady purpose to serve God; I love his service; I love his people, by whatever name they may be called. I do want to glorify him with all my powers. He is worthy. Yes! he is worthy of the highest praise that angels can give! let all that is within me praise his holy name.—"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." Great are the obligations Parents are under to bring up children in the fear of the Lord; early to instruct them in their duty and particularly obedience. Children watch their parents or teachers much more closely than is generally supposed; if example does not go with the precepts, it is soon noticed, and conduct assumed accordingly. We have a boy and a girl about the same age, eleven the past summer; the boy we had before we went down the river the last time, the girl has been with us only a few weeks, Sabbath days as we have no meeting to attend, we devote a part of the day to their instruction particularly, and have our own family exercises beside. Mr. Payne reads and explains a chapter for us; after which we have singing and prayer. Today his address was to the children, concerning their duty to their parents. Samuel, our boy has lost his mother a week since. She had been deranged in mind for some time, and last evening a week ago she threw herself into the river, and was drowned. Her body was found this day a week ago on a mill dam, about a mile and a half below where she had lived.
Poor Sally! sad indeed has been your fate! Many your sorrows, and great your sufferings; but I trust they are at an end, and you will see sorrow no more. She lived with us a year, before she married. She was a very industrious girl and very pious, appearing always to keep the glory of God in view. She mar ried a professor but a man of weak judgment and rather slender health. She had a good constitution and laboured hard both in the house and out of doors. They kept up the worship of God in their house, and were as constant attendants at meeting as their circumstances would admit having to cross the river. But she found things different in many respects from what she ex pected, tryals and troubles increas'd. She had none to unburrden her mind to, but fasted and prayed and worked unreasonably, and at length lost her reason. I could relate much more but it is too sad a story; never I hope shall I see or hear the like again. Sister Cox has been visited again by death in her family. Poor Elizabeth is soon called to know the sorrows of a widdowed heart. I sincerely hope this stroke may be sanctified to her soul’s good. We enjoyed many privileges while on our visit this summer. I had long desired to visit my native place and see you all again; it has been granted me, and I think I feel in some measure thankful, at the same time, I fear I did not improve my time, and opportunities to receive and do good as I ought. We were permitted to return home to this land or scene of trial. Home! did I say: I feel a check when I call it so. It is a place to stay for a season but “this world is not my home.”

Oh! land of rest when shall I see,
When will the moments come;
When I shall lay my armour by,
And dwell in peace at Home.

No tranquil joys on Earth I know,
No peaceful sheltering Dome,
This world a wilderness of woe,
This world is not my Home.

In Jesus Christ I sought for rest,
He bid me cease to roam;
And fly for succor to his breast,
And he’ll conduct me Home.

I would at once have quit the field
Where foes with fury foam;
But Oh! my passport was not sealed.
I could not yet go Home.

When by Affliction sharply tried,
I view the gaping tomb;
Altho’ I dread death’s chilling tide,
But still I sigh for Home.

Weary of wandering round & round,
This world of sin & gloom;
I long to quit the unhallowed ground,
And dwell with Christ at Home.
Dec. 8th, Sabbath. Does my dear Lucy feel today, to come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty? Have the burdens cares and temptations of the past week, caused you at any time to lose your watchfulness, and let impatience or murmurings arise in the heart, and break forth in speech? if so, come up with me; Up where? You may enquire. Up out of ourselves out of the filth and mire of this worldly care; up to Christ our living head; Let us draw near now, that we may receive strength to help, for every moment we need the watching spirit. Lord increase our faith! Save us from all sin! Help us to walk aright before those thou hast entrusted to our care. Bless our endeavours in their instruction, and save them from the evils that are in the world.

Dec. 10th. I have written this letter at different periods; what I wrote above this last date was written on two different Sabbaths. I do not approve of or make a practice of writing letters on this day; but the subjects seemed to come up in the mind, and I felt more free from temporal harassments than on a week day. You have no idea my dear sister how much my time is employed and about little things too. Mr. Payne is frequently from home—(at present time gone to Bradford County to see about the Land there) and you know a boy or girl requires much looking after and I find, much waiting upon, they go to school now, and I only have their help evening and morning. We have had quite a wintery time here, for some weeks. We found when we got home the summer here had been very wet, and people were very backward with their work. The freezing weather came on before the crops were gathered, and there are now as I have been told hundreds of bushels of potatoes frozen in the ground. Very few of the farmers have got their Apples in or their Cider made. We got our potatoes in, but there are a great many of our Apples now in the Orchards. I suppose you got your new Meeting House in use. I hope your difficulties in the Society are settled, and you are a band of love, united to serve God, and to let the world see how Christians can live. Give my affectionate love to your dear partner to your Uncles and Aunts and Br's. and Sister Abdel, I hope you all remember us in your prayers. Remember me to enquiring friends. I hope you will write me a long letter as soon as convenient, and believe me most sincerely,

A. M. PAYNE,

(AMELIA MCALLISTER PAYNE.)

I see by the papers, your Uncle Joseph Priestley is dead. He died, it is stated, on the 5th of September.

To MRS. LUCY ORME,
Dauphintown,
Dauphin County,
Penna.

(Original in possession of Dr. F. H. Orme, Atlanta, Ga.)

LEXINGTON,
June 28th, 1812.

My DEAR BROTHER:

I received yours of the 10th inst. which gave me the favorable intelligence of your safe arrival at home which was very grateful to us as not knowing of the loss of your mare we were afraid some accident had detained you on the road. The situation of Elinor is much to be lamented. Submission to divine providence is still desirable and reliance upon him is the only support of the mind in affliction; since you left this place we have witnessed the death of an old and intimate friend, Mrs. Ries. She was removed from the place where she boarded to Mr. Parber's for the benefit of the air; she intended remaining only a few days but was too ill to be removed & expired there displaying the greatest submission and patience to the divine will, trusting and relying upon God as her all sufficient portion, never was Christian fortitude more exemplified in a calm and silent manner. We wish some of you to write us at least once a month as we shall feel extremely anxious to hear from you all, but especially Elinor, whose situation makes the mind more deeply and anxiously interested. You mention your reviewing Dayton Lands and your not being able to trace the lines. Mr. Reed’s tract, consisting of 150 acres, lies between the Doct’s and mine, which is one reason of your not being able to trace them.

I am not surprized that you should take up the idea that the Doc’t was not willing that his part should not be seen, from the prejudices of Mr. R. Without you were able to trace their source it would inevitably bias your mind; it was agreed upon by all the parties concerned, that he should have the first choice, as he was sole agent in the business, and of course, he availed himself of that privilege, and fixed upon that part of the Land which had the advantage of the ferry, but my land is generally supposed to be better timbered than the Doct’s. Mr. R. was never satisfied with the arrangement, he had the Land surveyed over again with the idea that Doc’t W. had taken the advantage of him in his survey—supposing there was a balance in his favor of 30 or 40 acres, and found on the Resurvey only a few acres which did not pay for the expense. There has ever since existed prejudices in Mr. R.’s mind against Doc’t W. and I suppose they will never be extirpated.

I wish when you write again to know what the general idea was in that Country what my Land was likely to sell for,—I will write Mr. Calhoun an account of the situation of the family. I have not been able to visit Sister since our return. I expect her up this summer. My health continues upon the whole better for the journey, and by care and attention I may keep about. Margaret unites with with me in affectionate remembrance to you all; Sister Jacobs & family, Sister McIntyre, Lydia Lacy, brother James and particularly Elinor.

Tell Lacy as she is the best scribe Margaret will depend upon her writing the most frequently.

I remain with sincerest affection your Sister,

ELIZA. J. PARKER.

Mr. Archibald McAllister.

P. S.—Lucinda desires her respects to all the family, Miss Lydia Lacy, and all, but especially little Joseph.

46—John Carson, Sr.

John Carson, b. March 5, 1711, d. Feb. 9, 1765, is presumed to have been the first of his line in America, was an Indian Trader, a prominent one, and his knowledge of the Indians and of what was then the Wilderness was of use to the Government. In 1743 he established an extensive trading house on his land on the east bank of the Susquehanna (now owned by the L. N. Ott Estate, midway between Fort Hunter and Estherton, Susquehanna Township, Dauphin Co., Pa.), where he exchanged powder and lead, strand and half-thicks, vermilion, beads, seven-stoned rings, jewsharps, combs, ear-bobs, looking-glasses, needles, and numerous other things for peltry, which he disposed of in Philadelphia. He was also outfitter for many other traders in that locality, and on his books were charges against George Croghan for £240, Simon Girty, Samuel Chambers and Thomas McKee. In September, 1743, while on their way to the treaty with the Ohio Indians at Carlisle the Commissioners, Richard Peters, Benjamin Franklin and Isaac Norris, stopped at the Carson place and purchased additional presents to the amount of £238 5s 9d, for which they paid cash. (Original list of these goods in possession of Robert D. Carson, Philadelphia, Pa.) During the French and Indian War John Carson took an active part in the defense of the frontier, but was not a Captain as has been stated. In 1757 he was Commissioned by Gov. Denny to go to Fort Augusta, then the most important Fort on the Penn'a frontier, as “Provincial Agent for opening a Trade there on Behalf of this Government with our Indian Allies, in order to Supply them with Cloathing and other Necessaries.”
He married first, Ann Pyewell, of Phil'a by whom he had issue.

He married second, Mrs. Elizabeth (Wood) Gillespie, and had issue:

JOSEPH CARSON, 2. Died in infancy.

(Robert D. Carson, Esq., Phil'a, Pa.)

Mrs. Elizabeth (Wood) Gillespie, married John Carson, Sr., who was her third husband. She married, first, John Willis, and had two daughters, one named Sarah. Her second husband was James Gillespie, by whom she had one daughter, Matilda Gillespie, b. 1756, who married Alexander Berryhill.

William Carson, son of John Carson, Sr., and his first wife. Ann Pyewell, married one of the Willis girls.

47—Captain John M. Butler.

Captain John Butler, was the eleventh Captain of the City Troop of Philadelphia, (1842-47) b. 1806, d. at the town of Mier in Mexico 1847 of Malarious fever, was the son of Dr. James Mease and Sarah Butler, daughter of Major Pierce Butler, (b. in Ireland 1744, d. in Phila., Pa., 1822.) For family reasons he took the name of Butler.

He was a graduate of the University of Penna., in 1823. Elected member of the Troop in 1826. He took part in the riots that occurred in Philadelphia in 1843-44.

His remains were brought from Mexico to Philadelphia in 1848, and buried in Christ Church, the Troop performing the last sad rites to their beloved Commander.

Captain Butler married in 1827 Gabriella Manigualt Morris of Morrisiana, New York, (daughter of Lewis Morris last owner of that place) and left one child, a daughter who married Col. Julian McAllister, 5.

49—Esther Marion.

Gabriel Marion was a Huguenot, who lived near Rochelle, France, during the reign of Louis XIV, and was banished with others of his religious belief. In choosing his place of exile, his first choice was the West Indies, but being advised by a friend, that a number of Huguenots had chartered a large ship bound for the Carolinas, which was lying at anchor near the Isle of Rhee, he cast his lot with this party and on his arrival, bought a plantation on Goose Creek, near Charleston. He married before he left France, Louisa D'Aubrey and had issue:

Gabriel Marion, 2, married Charlotte Corde, and had issue:

ESTHER, 3, married second, Thomas Mitchell, a Scotch laird.
GABRIEL, 3.
ISAAC, 3.
BENJAMIN, 3.

51—Will of Hugh Hays.

In the name of God Amen,

This 24th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand Seven hundred and Seventy Seven, I Hugh Hays of the Township of London Derry in the County of Lancaster and State of Pennsylvania, being weak in body, but of sound mind, memory thanks be to God calling to mind the mortality of the body and that its appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and Testament, Viz:

First of all I recommend my Soul to God that gave it and my body to the Earth to be buried in a Christianlike and decent manner at the discretion of my Executors nothing doubting but at the resurrection and general judgment I shall by the mighty power of God receive the same again,

And as touching such worldly substance as it hath pleased God to bless me with I devise and dispose of the same in the following manner and form, Impr, I order my funeral charges and all my just debts to be discharged and paid out of the whole of my Goods and Estate

Item, I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Mary the bay Horse, called Tuck, two of the best cows and calves, the Bed in the little Room off of kitchen with all its clothes, and furniture. The ten pounds bequeathed by her late Father to purchase her a Saddle and the interest of Eight hundred pounds to be to her yearly and every year while she continues my widow, and I give her power at her decease dispose of four hundred pounds of the principal of said money as she may see fit, And I likewise give and bequeath to her little Negrow Boy called Sam her full maintenance of the Produce of the Plantation and the privilege of the Room off of the kitchen, but if she and her daughter don't agree to live together I allow a convenient house to be built for her on the plantation at the equal expenses of her and of my daughter and twelve bushel of wheat to be given her yearly and pasture for her horse and Cows through the summer and Hay for them in the Winter yearly and year, and Firewood to be cut hauled and laid at her door and sufficient quantity and in due time with all other rights and privileges already mentioned to be continued to her punctually while she continues my widow. But let it be observed that her Stock is no aftertime to exceed one Horse or Mare two Cows and two Calves, But if she may see fit to alter her State and Marry, in that case I allow she shall immediately leave the plantation and relinquish all rights to any of its issues or profits, but I allow her still even in that case, her horse two Cows two Calves the little Negrow Boy her bed and furniture the Ten pounds above mentioned and the interest of four hundred pounds to be paid to her yearly and every year during her natural life.

Item, I bequeath to my dear daughter Margaret all the residue of my personal Estate and the whole of my Real Estate to her to her heirs and assigns forever.

Item, I order that my said daughter be directed in everything by my Executors and that she be subject from time to time to their services and counsel.

Item, I order that if it pleased God that my daughter should die without issue my whole Estate be sold by my Executors and that the money arising from said sale shall after the decease of my dear widow and said Executors being satisfied for their trouble be equally divided among my Brother Patricks and my Sisters Buchanons & Morrisons Sons share and share alike.

Item, I bequeath to my brother Patrick’s Son, Hugh Hays all my wearing Apparel save only my best Hat, & great Coat which I bequeath to my dr wife I constitute and appoint my dr wife, John Kilchrist, Senr., of Paxton and Richard Cranford of Hanover the Sole and only Executors of this my last will and Testament confiding in their fidelity and prudence to order manage and dispose of my goods and estate agreeable to the directions of my said will disallowing, renouncing and revoking all others wills legacies bequests and executors by me in anywise heretofore made ordained bequeathed and appointed publishing pronouncing and declaring this and no other to be my last will and Testament 52—Jane McCrea.

Jenny McCrea, the beautiful daughter of a Scotch clergyman, of Paulus Hook, was at Fort Edward visiting her friend Mrs. MacNeil, who was a loyalist and a cousin of General Fraser. On the morning of July 27, 1777, a marauding party of Indians burst into the house, and carried away the two ladies. They were soon pursued by some American soldiers who exchanged a few shots with them. In the confusion which ensued, the party was scattered and Mrs. MacNeil was taken alone into the camp of the approaching British Army. Next day a savage of gigantic stature, a famous sachem, known as the Wyandot Panther, came into the camp with a scalp, which Mrs. MacNeil at once recognized as Jenney's from the silky black tresses, more than a yard in length. A search was made, and the body of the poor girl was found hard by a spring in the forest, pierced with three bullet wounds. How she came to her cruel death was never known. The Panther plausibly declared that she had accidentally been shot during the scuffle with the soldiers, but his veracity was open to question, and the few facts that were known left ample room for conjecture.

The popular imagination soon framed its story with a romantic completeness that thrust aside even these few facts.

Miss McCrea was betrothed to David Jones, a loyalist, who was serving as Lieutenant in Burgoyne's army.

Were all born in Ireland and came with them.
Rev. Joseph Glass married Ann McAllister, a daughter of James McAllister, and their descendants live at Winchester, Va., 1898.

55—Additional data in regard to the McAllisters.

Several genealogical works on families of Pennsylvania have stated that Captain Archibald McAllister, of Fort Hunter, Pa., had two daughters by his first marriage, and that both were married to Joshua Elder, Son of "Fighting Parson," John Elder. This statement is an error, for after careful research it has been found that Captain Archibald McAllister, had but one daughter by his first marriage, and that she died in infancy.

David McAllister, brother of Col. Richard McAllister, of Hanover, Pa., however, had a daughter Sarah, who is supposed to have married Joshua Elder, or his brother James Elder, who had a store at Clarksville, Montgomery Co., Tenn., in 1815, but authentic proof is lacking.

Mrs. Elizabeth (McDowell) Holliday, wife of Daniel McAllister, was a daughter of William and Mary McDowell. Her niece, Nancy Brownson, married Col. John Findlay, of Chambersburg, Pa., brother of Gov. William Findlay. Col. John Findlay (b. 1766; d. 1838) is presumed to have married as his second wife Jean McKnight, a daughter of Mary (McAllister) McKnight, sister of Daniel McAllister.

Thos. O'Reilly, Esq.—

DEAR SIR: After trying the tartan warehouses in town, for MacAllister tartan without success, we wrote to the manufacturer in Glasgow, and they have just sent us all they have in stock (3 5/8 yds).

Regretting our inability to procure the quantity you wished,

We remain

Yours faithfully,
