This book is a genealogical account of the known descendants of George Dixon (1754-1840). George Dixon was a Virginia frontiersman, a Revolutionary War Soldier and Spy, and later a pioneer in Warren County, Indiana. The account is written primarily from facts obtained from documentary evidence. The original sources of facts presented herein are cited throughout the book. When family tradition or other sources of facts are relied upon for information, it is clearly stated.

The importance of family records is usually not recognized until it is too late and the facts are gone forever. Many missing parts of this genealogy could have been filled in just ten years ago. The writer cannot urge too strongly that each family keep a set of records of its births, marriages, divorces, deaths, and other important facts. Each family should keep in its possession certified copies of the birth of each of its members. Often proof of an individual's age and citizenship are required for travel passports, application for certain jobs, pensions, military duties and benefits, and other activities. Occasionally errors are made in the original recording of a birth, and often the law provides that only parents can make corrections in a birth registration.

Practically every living descendant of George Dixon who was located helped in some way in the collection of materials for this book. To all these the writer is grateful for their help. Special recognition should be given to Robert Dixon and Myrtle Dixon Vickery of Covington, Indiana, for the extensive assistance they gave to the project.

This genealogy is far from complete. The writer hopes that descendants will continue to provide him with information so that a more complete record can be published in the future. Also there are undoubtedly some errors in this publication and the writer would appreciate having corrections sent to him.

This book is being published for release on July 3, 1955 on which date the Daughters of the American Revolution dedicate a marker to George Dixon. The marker is erected at the grave of George Dixon which is located in the Foster-Dixon Cemetery. This cemetery is located about one-half mile south of Foster, Indiana in Warren County, Indiana.

Female descendants of George Dixon are eligible to apply for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution. The documentary proof of lineage is attached to the D.A.R. membership of Mary Margaret Graham. Her admission number is 434385.

The inspiration for research into the Dixon family history, and the writing of this report, was given to the writer by his mother, Della Dixon Ramsey. This book is dedicated to her memory.

Introduction

The names Dixon, Dickson, Dickinson, Dick, Dickenson and other variations are different ways of expressing the name of various branches of apparently the same original Scottish clan. The origin of this family can be traced back to about 1300 A.D. in records of Scotland. One of the earliest records of the family is a grant of land in 1306 from King Robert Bruce to Thomas Dicson in the County of Lanack, Scotland. The usual form of the name in Scotland is "Dickson", in America "Dixon". The clan appellation given to the Dixon family was "Famous Dions".

Early in the seventeenth century, during the reign of James I, King of Great Britain, many Protestants from Scotland fled to the province of Ulster in Northern Ireland in order to escape religious persecution. The association of these Scots with the Irish apparently influenced them in certain ways, such as their acquisition of the Irish language. However, they clung closely to their Protestant Presbyterian faith. They soon became known in Ireland and elsewhere as "Scotch-Irish" even though there were very few intermarriages between the Scots and the Irish. Among those who settled in Northern Ireland were some members of the Dixon clan.

Many of the Scotch-Irish migrated from northern Ireland to America during the colonization period of the eighteenth century. A large settlement of Scotch-Irish was established in the western part of Virginia beyond the Blue Ridge Mountains. A history of this group is contained in Lyman Chalkley's Chronicles of the Scotch-Irish Settlement in Virginia, 1745-1800. 3 Volumes. Commonwealth Co., Roslyn, Pa. This history and other histories of early Virginia and West Virginia contain many references to members of the Dixon family. It is believed that sometime before 1750 the parents of George Dixon, and therefore the ancestors of the Dixon family in Warren County, Indiana, left their homes in Ulster County, Ireland, for American shores.

Most of the Scotch-Irish who settled in the western part of Virginia beyond the Blue Ridge Mountains entered America through New York harbor. After landing they traveled southwest through Pennsylvania and entered Virginia through the Shenandoah Valley. Palatinate German immigrants from the Rhineland had settled in the lower or northern end of the Shenandoah Valley shortly before the Scots. The Ulster Scots followed the Germans closely and settled farther up the valley. "The Valley" referred to the area between the Blue Ridge Mountains and the Allegheny Mountains. Its length is about two hundred miles and it varies in width from ten to twenty miles. In 1763 Frederick and Augusta County embraced all the Valley and in addition the vast lands beyond the Allegheny Mountains claimed by Virginia. In 1776 Botetourt County was cut from Augusta County. Then Greenbrier County was formed in 1777 from Botetourt. In 1778 Rockbridge and Rockingham were carved from Augusta County. The principal town and county seat of Augusta County has always been Staunton. A good account of the early settlement of this part of Virginia is given by F. H. Hart in The Valley of Virginia in the American Revolution. Chapel Hill, N. Car., 1942.
The Valley Frontiersmen were almost continually in conflict with the Indians from the time of the first settlement in the Valley until the close of the Revolutionary War. These frontiersmen proved to be almost as excellent woodsmen as the Indians. They were given the name "Long Knives" by Chief Cornstalk of the Shawnoe Indians, the principal tribe to oppose the pioneers' westward advance. The settlers continually pushed westward, taking land from the Indians, and the Indians in turn retaliated by acts of burning and stealing, and the massacre or capturing of white settlers. A series of expeditions were sent against the Indians of the Ohio Valley from time to time. A decisive battle was fought in 1774 at Point Pleasant (at the junction of the Kanawha and Ohio rivers) in which the Indians were defeated. However, the frontier was subject to Indian attacks all during the Revolutionary War. The British in Detroit encouraged and assisted the Ohio Valley Indians to wage war against the Americans in order to weaken the Revolutionary forces opposing the British troops along the coast lands. During the Revolutionary War the frontier Continental troops and local militia built and garrisoned several forts along the Ohio. These forts were attacked several times by Indians during the War. The American forces in the Ohio Valley not only defended their positions, but went on the offensive and scored a brilliant victory over the British in the General George Rogers Clark expedition to the Illinois Territory.

These were the major events in which George Dixon's parents moved when they settled sometime before 1754 in Augusta County, Virginia.
Chapter II

GEORGE DIXON

Virginia Frontiersman and Revolutionary War Soldier

Our account begins with the birth of George Dixon. He was born on February 17, 1754 in Augusta County, Virginia. The names of his parents are as yet unknown. In 1754 Augusta County was still very much an undeveloped and sparsely settled frontier area. George Dixon's parents were consequently among the earliest Scotch-Irish settlers of this farwestern section of Virginia. They probably came to this country from Northern Ireland sometime after 1720, and probably entered America through New York Harbor. The belief that George's parents were immigrants from Northern Ireland is based on the fact that George spoke Irish as well as English. Apparently Irish was used in his home by his parents. This fact would probably be untrue of a second generation family. The parents undoubtedly belonged to the Presbyterian Church as practically all the Scotch-Irish immigrants were members of this denomination.

The earliest facts regarding George Dixon, other than the date and place of his birth, pertain to his services as a Soldier of the American Revolutionary War. The record of his war services is cited in numerous published records and these will be given later. The most complete and important set of records regarding his services is held in the U.S. National Archives, Washington, D.C. The records there are filed under George Dixon, Revolutionary War Pension, Number S-16764. George Dixon served three tours of military duty during the War for Independence. First, a background statement for each tour of duty will be given, then a verbatim report will be presented as it appears in the pension records of George Dixon.

George Dixon's First Tour of Duty

Background Facts. When the Revolutionary War broke out, the British at Detroit inspired the Ohio Valley Indians to wage war against the Americans. The Indians had long resented and often resisted the trans-Allegheny migration of the Americans and so were ready in 1777 for revenge when the British provided them with war supplies and military leadership. The Indians started a campaign of burning, plunder, massacre, and the capture of the frontier settlers. Patrick Henry, then Governor of Virginia, ordered the western counties of Virginia to mobilize against the British-Indian threats and attacks along the Ohio River frontier. In June 1777, the Continental Army appointed General Edward Hand to take over the defense of the western frontier. His headquarters were located at Ft. Pitt (now Pittsburg, Pa.). One of the principal forts under his command was Ft. Randolph at Point Pleasant, located at the junction of the Kanawha River and the Ohio River. Capt. Matthew Arbuckle, a regular Army officer, was in charge of Ft. Randolph during most of the Revolutionary War. The Indians made several attacks upon Ft. Randolph during the War and frequently attacked and killed white settlers behind the fort in the Kanawha Valley.

First Tour of Duty. "That he (George Dixon) entered the said Service in the month of September A.D. 1777. A volunteer of the County of Greenbrier in State of Virginia (now West Virginia) in the company commanded by Captain James Armstrong. Marched from the said County of Greenbrier down the Kenhaway (Kanawha) to Point Pleasant (Ft. Randolph) on the Ohio River. Capt. (Matthew) Arbucklo commanded Said Garison at Point Pleasant. he was a regular officer of the United States Army. He this said declarant halted at the Said Garison untill the troups commanded by General Hann (Hand) would arrive. this said declarant was to join General Hann to go against the Indians on the Scioto now in the State of Ohio. While he this Said declarant lay at Point Pleasant, aforesaid Robert Gilmore a private in the company that this said declarant belonged to was kild by the Indians. The said Gilmore croscd the River Kanhanway for the purpose of hunting and was fired upon and kild by the Indians. The circumstances of Gilmore being kild exasperated and enraged the militia to such a hight. that they (one militia officier and three militia men from Rockbridge Co., Va.) fired upon and kild four friendly Indians. that had been several days in the fort. One who was King Cornstalk, a Shawnee Indian in despiite of the Commandant officier of the Garison.

"General Hann (arrived and) deeming the above named expedi¬tion (campaign against Ohio Indians) inadvisable (not enough troops) abandoned the expedition. When the said Gon'l Hann discharged his troops in the Month of November (Nov. 19, 1777) in the year Seventeen hundred Seventy Seven When this Said declarant after being Honorably discharged returned home (Greenbrior Co.)."

George Dixon's Second Tour of Duty

Background Facts. General George Rogers Clark conceived the plan of moving a military force against the British held forts in the Illinois territory. British garrisons had been established at Kaskaskia (Ill.) and Vinconnnos (Ind.). Gen, Clark placed his plans before Governor Patrick Henry of Virginia. The plans were approved and the expedition was secretly authorized on February 4, 1778. To cover the real purpose of Gen. Clark's plans, Gov. Patrick Henry announced publicly that the force was being organized to defend Kentucky from British-inspired raids by the Ohio Indians. Even Gen. Clark's officers and men did not know the real purpose of the expedition until they were on their way to the Illinois Territory. The officers and soldiers for Gen. Clark's force were all drafted from the region west of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Gen. Clark assembled his men at a place on the Ohio River near the present city of Louisville, Kentucky. Gen. Clark started down the Ohio with his force on June 4, 1778. The brilliant execution of the campaign lead to the defeat of the British at Kaskaskia and Vincennes. George Dixon was drafted to serve under Gen. Clark, but as his papers show, his company was diverted for a supply mission and he missed the Illinois campaign as his company arrived in Kentucky a few days after Gen. Clark's army had left.

Second Tour of Duty. "On a Second tour this Said declarant (George Dixon) was drafted from the militia of Said County of Greenbrier in Virginia (at Burnside's House or Station) to go to Kentucky and there to join General Clark on a expedition to the Scioto (this is what the soldiers and public were told) now in the Stato of Ohio. Drafted as aforesaid in the month of February Seventeen hundred Seventy Eight. (His brother, Peter Dixon, then age 18, was also drafted at the same time into the same company. They served together except for the express run which George made. See Peter Dixon's U.S. Pension File S-32694.) And marched in the month of March of the same year to Fort Chessell (Chiswell) in Virginia (near Wytheville, Wythe County, Virginia. Probably to guard the Chiswell lead mines from the Tories, or to get a supply of lead for Gen. Clark). In the Company Commanded by Captain John Henderson (also Lt. John Wood) under the command of Major (Andrew) Hamilton. Stationed at Fort Chissol (Chiswell) aforesaid waiting for the militia troops from the County of Bedford to arm. Waited till the(y) grow impiatinent of waiting. They determined on sending an express (supply expedition) (probably of lead) to Kentucky. When this declarant and six others of his Comrads was detailed by Said Officers to Cary said express. The undertaking and of which was considered to be very hazardous. We arrived safe at Logans Station (or Ft. Logan) on Dicks river in Kentucky (one mile east of present town of Stanford, Kentucky, in Lincoln County) and delivered Said express as directed to Colonel Logan of Kentucky. Staid at Said Station about Three weeks when the troops that this said declarant belonged to arrived from Fort Chissol (Chiswell) in Virginia, for the purpose of Joining Gen'l Clark. But Gen'l Clark having returned to Kentucky after an expedition to the Scioto in which the troops that this declarant belonged was to have participated in But arrived to late for to join Gen'l Clark aforesaid in said expedition. Was disbanded by Major Hamilton who were their Commandant in the month of June 1778 and returned home to (Greenbrier) Virginia." (Since Gen. Clark left June 4, 1778, the company to which George belonged probably arrived only a few days too late to join the Illinois expedition).

George Dixon's Third Tour of Duty

Background Facts. All during the Revolutionary War the Indians made raids against the forts and the settlers in the Trans-Allegheny regions. Occasionally strong Indian forces attacked the American forts on the Ohio River or raided the settlers far behind the forts. Both the military personnel and the civilians had to be on a constant alert for Indian parties bent upon massacre and other destruction. The Continental Army assigned Indian Spies to the area. The duty of these Spies was to watch constantly distant and remote areas of Northwest Territory for signs of Indian war parties. (Spies were classified separately from officers and enlisted men by the Army during the American Revolutionary War). The Spies were to warn both the settlers and the military posts of any pending dangers. George Dixon was assigned as a Spy for the Northwest Territory on May 1, 1779, and served in this capacity for 2 years and 6 months. Another Spy in this same area during the Revolutionary War was Daniel Boone.

Third Tour of Duty. "On the first of May Seventeen hundred Seventy nine engaged in Company Commanded by Captain Graham under the Command of Colonel Brown of Greenbrier County Virginia a Spy to Spy out and reconnoiter the inroads and incursions of the Indians on the Kenhaway, and the Country thereabout. Served from the 1st of May Seventeen hundred Seventy nine to the first of November Seventeen hundred Eight one at the rate of five Shillings per day in Continental money Were bound to find myself ammunition and other accquipage together with necessary provision".

"He was urged by Col. Graham of Greenbrier Cty to watch his family till he could return from Court. and that he said Dixon did watch accordingly and that the said Dixon discovered there were danger from Indians, and warned the family of Col. Gorham (Graham) who did not heed his the said Dixoons warning. ........ the family afors'd refused to go to the fort that was close by and was murdered by the Indians the next morning."

George reported....."a woman by the name of Butler kiled
Other reports in the original document.

The records quoted in the preceding paragraphs are taken from sworn statements made in Warren County Courts in the years 1832 and 1833. The first affidavit made by George Dixon is dated November 12, 1832, and was made in the Warren County Probate Court before Judge William Wilmeth and Clerk of the Court James A. Cunningham. This affidavit bears George Dixon's signature. A second affidavit was made by George Dixon on June 7, 1833, and was sworn to before Warren County Circuit Court, Associate Judge James Crawford presiding, and Clerk of the Court James Cunningham. A third testimony was given by Richard Shute and Samuel Garrison on May 31, 1833, before John B. King, Justice of Peace, Baltimore, Indiana. A fourth testimony was made personally by John B. King, Justice of Peace, on May 31, 1833. Finally in the pension file is a letter dated January 6, 1851, and sent from Summitville, Indiana, to Washington by George Dixon's sons and daughters, Peter Dixon, Unice Davis, Jossie Dixon, Henry Dixon, and Ollivo Stover. The letter is signed by Aaron M. Williams and Thomas Ewing, Jr.

George Dixon was granted a U.S. pension for his Revolutionary War Service which is numbered S-16764. His name was inscribed on the Indiana pension rolls on August 28, 1833, and bears number 19369. He was allotted a pension of $80.00 per annum beginning retroactively on March 4, 1831. His Indiana pension was recorded by Don Boyd, Clerk, in Book E, Volume 7, Page 109.

In all, George Dixon served three years and four months as a soldier among recognized forces of the Virginia Militia and the Continental Army. This is an unusually long term of service, as most of the soldiers of that period served short terms of three to six months. Other records of George Dixon's military service, other than those in the U.S. pension file, appear in several published materials. There is an abstract of the reports in his U.S. pension files in the Indiana State Library, Indianapolis. The following books list his name and give other information regarding George Dixon's services in the War for Independence.

(2) "George Dixon, Spy, Northwest Territory" (Cited in Old Records Division, Adj. General's Office, War Department, Washington, D.C.) Writer believes these two entries are the same George Dixon.

(3) "George Dixon, i.n.f." (Name appears on Army Register but have not received land bounty. Extensive file in War Dept.) Writer also believes this third entry refers to the same George Dixon. See following, #4, reference for evidence.

In George Dixon's pension papers, he stated he lived after the Revolutionary War in Greenbrier and Monroe Counties, (W) Virginia, before going westward. Greenbrier County during its early years included vast areas of what is now West Virginia. Therefore the Greenbrier County reference of George Dixon is not very specific in locating him geographically. Monroe County was formed in 1799 and had more limited boundaries. However, George Dixon appears not to have changed residences but was living in that part of Greenbrier County that became Monroe County in 1799. (In 1872 the same area was placed in Summers County). Now we shall return to specific facts about George Dixon in the period after the Revolutionary War.

About one year after George Dixon completed his military service, he married Veronica (Verona) Van Bibber. A license was issued to them on October 10, 1782, as cited in the Marriage Record Book No. 1A, Page 23, Greenbrier County, Lewisburg, West Virginia. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. John Alderson on Nov. 20, 1782. A record of the marriage is reported by John W. Wayland in his Virginia Valley Records, Page 157. The marriage probably took place in Rev. John Alderson's church at Alderson, West Virginia, which was located not far from the Dixon settlement on Little Wolf Creek.

Veronica Van Bibber was most likely the daughter of one of the Van Bibbers who were among the first settlers in Little Wolf Creek. In 1774 Capt. John and Chloc Van Bibber and his brother, Jacob Van Bibber, received patents for land in the area. There are many records regarding the Van Bibbers and their role in various early settlements of West Virginia. However, Veronica's exact parentage has as yet not been proven.

In 1784 a court record appears which suggests that George Dixon was at that time at Point Pleasant, (W) Virginia. The record cites an agreement signed November 20, 1784, by Andrew Lewis with George Dixon, John Van Bibber, Peter Van Bibber, Peter Van Bibber, Jr., Jacob Van Bibber, James Van Bibber, and several others to the effect that each would receive an acre lot in town if they would "continue to defend the place we are now settling." This agreement is recorded in the Circuit Court Records, Augusta County, Staunton, Virginia, Lewis & Lewis, No. 222, File No. 78. Also the agreement is cited in Chronicles of the Scotch-Irish Settlement in Virginia, 1745-1800, Vol. II, pages 175-176. It is not known whether or not George Dixon served the required time at Point Pleasant and received the acre lot.

Apparently George and Veronica returned to the Dixon settlement on Wolf Creek area of the Greenbrier River soon after 1784, if not before. George Dixon appears as the head of a family on a roll taken from the Greenbrier County Tax List for the period 1783-1786. These tax lists are published in 1790 U.S. Census, Greenbrier County, Page 109, as the original census figures for the area were destroyed. Other Dixon names appearing on the same list are Patrick Dixon, Richard Dixon, John Dickson and Joseph Dickson. Also appearing are John Van Bibber, Peter Van Bibber, Sr., and Peter Van Bibber, Jr.

A 1790 Survey shows George Dixon living on 80 acres of land on the south side of the Greenbrier River across from the present town of Talcott, West Virginia. He probably settled on the land sometime before the land was officially surveyed. The survey was made by John Byrnside and Alexander Welch, June 15, 1790. This survey is cited in Surveyor's Record Book No. 2, Page 110, Greenbrier County, Lewisburg, West Virginia. A record of the patent for the 80 acres appears in Sim's, Index to West Virginia Land Grants, 1800, Book 4, Page 377. This land is cited as adjacent to the holdings of Richard Davis. A photostatic copy of the patent can be obtained from the Auditor's Office, Charleston, West Virginia. The patent bears the signature of James Monroe, then governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, and is dated June 28, 1800. George and Veronica also acquired additional lands probably by deed, as they are cited as holding 204 acres in 1806.

George and Veronica had five children. All were born during the period when they lived across the river from Talcott, West Virginia. Peter was born in 1788, Eunice 1789, Jesse 1794, Henry 1798, and Olive in 1800. The known history of each of these children will be taken up in the following Chapter III.

On August 28, 1793 George Dixon is cited as being drawn on Greenbrier County Petit Jury. This action is cited in Court Order Book C, pages not numbered, Greenbrier County, Lewisburg, West Virginia.

On January 21, 1806, George and wife Veronica sold 204 acres of land they held on the Greenbrier River to Jeptha Massey. This transition is shown in Deed Book B, Page 123, Monroe County, Union, West Virginia. It is interesting to note that George Dixon's son, Henry, married a Mary "Polly" Massey. Proof of her parentage, however, has never been achieved.

George and Veronica apparently soon departed from the Wolf Creek area on the Greenbrier after the sale of their property. Miller, in his History of Monroe County, page 335, states, "George and Veronica Dixon lived on the Greenbrier River, but moved to Kenawha County before 1808".

Peter Dixon, Brother of George Dixon

Peter Dixon was born in Augusta County, Virginia, in 1760. He served as a soldier in the American Revolutionary forces, and from his war papers, which are on file in the National Archives, Washington, D.C., the following facts have been obtained. He was drafted as a private in February 1778 into the military service at Burnside Station, Greenbrier County, for a period of six months. His company officers were Capt. John Henderson and Lt. John Woods; his regimental commander was Major Andrew Hamilton. Peter was assigned to the same company as George Dixon, the latter on his second tour of duty. As reported in detail for George Dixon, the company marched to Chiswell Mines, Virginia, then over the mountains to Ft. Logan in Kentucky (under Major Quick), then back to Greenbrier County. Peter Dixon was discharged from this tour of duty in August 1778.

Peter Dixon states clearly in his pension papers that he served his first tour of duty with his brother, George Dixon. Thus their relationship is clearly established.

Peter Dixon's second tour of duty resulted from his joining an immigrant train under Capt. Henry Doughman going from Virginia to Kentucky. Near a place called Crab Orchard, while camped for the night, they were attacked by Indians and "six of us" were killed. The remainder of the party, including Peter Dixon, reached Logan's Station, Kentucky. Colonel Benjamin Logan, of that Station, organized a battalion to punish the Indians responsible for the massacre. Peter Dixon volunteered for the expedition in November 1780 at Whittley's Station in a company commanded by Capt. Andrew Kinkade and Lt. James Caldwell. They marched to the mouth of the Licking River on the Ohio, then to the Old Chillicothe Indian Towns, thence to the head of the Miami River. "There (we) destroyed the Indian Towns, destroyed their corn and other property." Then the expedition returned to Kentucky and was discharged by Col. Logan at Logan's Station in January 1781.
Sometime after the Revolutionary War, Peter Dixon went to Kentucky. The place of his residence there is unknown, but may have been Mt. Sterling. He migrated to Warren County, Indiana, before 1834.

On September 15, 1834, Peter Dixon, then age 74, filed for a Revolutionary War pension in Fountain County, Indiana, before Clerk of the Court, W. B. White. The application was sworn to by Robert Milford and Benedict Morris. An affidavit as to Peter Dixon’s services was filed by his brother, George Dixon, in September 1834, before John B. King, Justice of Peace, Warren County. A second affidavit was given by S. H. Garrison, also in September 1834, in Warren County. Garrison states he had known Peter Dixon for eight or ten years. A third affidavit was filed by Peter Dixon (son of George Dixon) for his uncle Peter Dixon on December 22, 1834, before John B. King, Warren County. A fourth affidavit was made by Joseph Swope, Jr., of Montgomery County, Indiana. He stated that he had known Peter Dixon (the applicant) over 30 years ago in Virginia. Also he swore that his father, Joseph Swope, Sr., had served with Peter Dixon on the Chiswell-Ft. Logan expedition (also with George Dixon). Peter Dixon’s application was reviewed by Honorable E. A. Hannegan of the House of Representatives. On December 25, 1834, a supplementary affidavit made by Peter Dixon states he also served an additional year in the Service at Van Bibber’s Station, Greenbrier County, Virginia, and that he "drew his pay and rations, for which he claims nothing".

Peter Dixon was awarded U.S. pension number S-32694 for his services as a Revolutionary War Soldier. His name was inscribed on the Indiana pension rolls, February 2, 1835, Number 29,702, for $30 per annum. It was recorded by D. Brown, Clerk, in Book E2, Volume 7, Page 120. His service is cited in Revolutionary Soldiers Buried in Indiana – A Supplement by Margaret R. Waters, 1954. See Page 29.

Peter Dixon of Greenbrier County married Barbara Null after the Revolutionary War on September 25, 1787. This marriage was performed by Rev. John Alderson and is cited in Virginia Valley Records. A record of the marriage is also cited in Greenbrier County, Marriage Book 1A, Page 23. Nothing more is known of Peter Dixon's wife or any of their descendants, if any.

The place of Peter Dixon's burial is unknown, but it is probably an unmarked grave in the Foster-Dixon Cemetery as he was still living in Mound Township, Warren County, at age 74.

The Greenbrier Dixon Clan

Current information about the Greenbrier Dixon clan, other than the date and the place of George Dixon's birth, begins in about 1776 with a set of facts known about the Dixon family settlement on Little Wolf Creek, a Greenbrier River tributary, in what was then Greenbrier County, Virginia, but what is now Monroe County, West Virginia. Among the very first settlers of this area were two Dixons. A certain Patrick Dixon was living in the area in 1774 according to a survey made in that year. The other early settler was John Dixon, who either came with Patrick or arrived soon thereafter. In a few years the settlement consisted of several Dixon members. It is known that the various members of this Dixon clan were related, but the exact relationship of most of them is as yet undetermined. George Dixon was a known member of this settlement in 1777 as he entered military service from this area.

There is a possibility that Patrick Dixon or John Dixon was the father of George Dixon. This point is discussed in a subsequent section of this chapter. George Dixon was definitely known to have had one brother by the name of Peter Dixon. Peter Dixon was born in Augusta County in 1760. He also was a member of the Greenbrier settlement in 1777. There is an assumption that Ebenezer Dixon of the Greenbrier clan was a brother or cousin of George Dixon. Known facts about Peter Dixon and Ebenezer Dixon will be given later in this book.

The names and dates of Dixons whose names appear in the early records of Greenbrier County are given in this paragraph. In Miller's History of Monroe County, pages 334-335, are the names: John Dickson 1780, Richard Dickson 1782, Patrick Dixon 1787, Richard Dickson 1787, James Dickson 1787, Joseph (Agnes) Dickson, John (Dorkys) Dixon 1795, Joseph Dixon 1795, John, Henry, Joseph, Richard and William 1797, William Dixon 1799, John and Richard Dixon 1800, Joseph Dixon 1805, and Patrick Dixon 1809. The Greenbrier County Marriage Records, located at Greenbrier, West Virginia, show the marriages of: Peter Dickson to Barbara Null, Sept. 25, 1787; Abenezer (Ebenezer) Dickson to Margaret Swohe (Swope), July 30, 1793; and Henry Dixon to Alse Wilson, Feb. 6, 1794. The three Dicksons cited in these marriage records were known by family tradition to be related to George Dixon. In 1916 there were still Dicksons living in the Greenbrier River District of Monroe-Summers County (See pages 334-335, History of Monroe County). Dixon marriages cited in J. W. Wayland's Virginia Valley Records show George Dixon and Veronica Van Bibber were married in 1782, Margaret Dickson and Charles Hines 1791, Peter Dixon and Barbara Null 1787, Mary Dixon and Alexander Wilson 1787, Nancy Dixon and Robert Tincher 1788, and Joseph Dixon and Nancy McClung 1791. What few facts are known about the Dixons cited in this paragraph will be given as this account unfolds.
Possible Ancestry of George Dixon

George Dixon's father may have been Patrick Dixon or John Dixon. These two Dixons are recorded as being the first of the Dixon family to establish themselves in the Little Wolf Creek area on the Greenbrier River. In Survey Entry Book #1, Page 30, Greenbrier (W) Virginia, there is an entry which shows that Patrick Dixon received title to 200 acres of land, of which 65 acres were surveyed for him in 1774. Also in Book #1, Page 30, there is an entry showing John Dixon received title to 200 acres on Little Wolf Creek (land adjacent to James Given and Henry Jones) because of his settlement on the land before January 1, 1778. The witnesses to the titles for both Patrick and John Dixon deeds were Samuel McDowell, James McCorkle, and William McKee. These two patents are also cited in History of Monroe County, pages 334-335.

Attempts to trace the Dixon family backward from 1774 has yielded only one bit of evidence. Patrick Dixon and wife Mary patented 200 acres of land in Augusta County the south side of the "Shenando" in a survey made by John Carr. This may have been on South River as in 1771 all tributaries of the Shenandoah were frequently called "Shenando". One researcher has suggested the land might have been located near Waynesboro, Virginia. This 1771 patent of Patrick Dixon is recorded in Patent Book 39, 1770-1771, Virginia State Library, Richmond, Virginia. Patrick and wife Mary Dixon sold this 200 acres to Hugh Donaghe on Feb. 3, 1775. The witnesses to this sale were Ralph Lofftus, William Blair, and Samuel Craig. The transaction is recorded in Deed Book 25, page 252, Augusta County, Virginia. Patrick Dixon then went to Little Wolf Creek area. Several families in the same "Shenando" area of Augusta County also went to the Little Wolf Creek area including John Wiley,
Greenbrier Acquaintances of the Dixons

The acquaintance of the Dixon family and the Swope family in Greenbrier County appears in several records. Joseph Swope, Sr., settled on 200 acres on Wolf Crook in 1774, the same year Patrick Dixon acquired land there. In 1834 Joseph Swope, Jr., testified in Warren County courts that he knew Peter Dixon (George Dixon's brother) over 30 years ago back in (W) Virginia (See Peter Dixon's U.S. Pension papers). Joseph Swope, Jr., also stated that his father, Joseph Swope, Sr., served in the Revolutionary War with Peter Dixon (also with George Dixon, as he served with Peter). The Swope family history is given on pages 494-506, in the History of Monroe County. Abenazer Dixon, possibly a brother of George Dixon, married Margaret Swope in 1793 in Greenbrier County.

George Dixon married Veronica Van Bibber. John Van Bibber and brother, Jacob, were probably the first settlers (1770) in Wolf Crook area in Greenbrier County. Many records exist of the Van Bibbers and their pioneering in West Virginia. Veronica was undoubtedly the daughter of one of the early Van Bibbers, but her exact parentage still remains unproven. In this book the Van Bibber name is cited in connection with George Dixon at several places.

In George Dixon's pension papers it states he was acquainted with Henry McDaniol and John Ray of Greenbrier and Monroe Counties. Records show Henry McDaniol left Monroe County in 1808 for Walnut Township, Gallia County, Ohio. George Dixon left Greenbrier County at the same time and went to Kanawha County, West Virginia. However, in 1830 George, his sons Peter and Henry, were living in Walnut Township, Gallia County, Ohio. Peter Dixon purchased land in Gallia County in 1829 from Alexander McDaniel, son of Henry McDaniel.

George Dixon sold his land in 1806 in Monroe County, West Virginia, to Jeptha Massey. George's son, Henry, married a Polly Massey. However, Polly's parentage is still not proven.

On January 25, 1806, just four days after George and Veronica Dixon sold their Monroe County property, their daughter, Eunice, married Jacob Davis. This marriage is recorded in Monroe County, West Virginia, Marriage Records, File No. 2, Jacket No. 638. Jesse Dixon was twelve years old when George Dixon and family "went down the Kanawha". Records show that Jesse Dixon returned to Monroe County to marry Katherine Pence on January 29, 1820. This marriage is recorded in Monroe County Marriage Records, File No. 3, Jacket 2016. This is the last record found of the George Dixon family in Monroe County. No records have been found so far in Monroe County or elsewhere of the marriage of Henry Dixon to "Polly" Mary Massey, or his sister, Olive Dixon, to Jack Stover. It is hoped that a record of these two marriages will eventually be found.

Dispersion of the Little Wolf Creek Dixon Clan

A few facts are known of the spreading of the Dixon clan from Little Wolf Creek settlement. Patrick Dixon sold his land in Monroe County and went to Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. Henry Dixon and family, and undoubtedly George Dixon too, went by the way of Mt. Sterling when they migrated from Gallia County, Ohio, to Warren County, Indiana. Such a long detour could only be explained by the Dixons' desire to visit with close family members. There are no Dixons living in the Mt. Sterling area today. A preliminary search of the records so far has revealed no information about early Dixon settlers in that area. The westward movement of George Dixon and his family will be treated in the various sections of this book.

The westward migration of two other Dixons of the Wolf Creek area is known. Ebenezer Dixon (1770-1855) and Henry Dixon (1818-1886) went to Raccoon Creek, Putnam County, Indiana. Ebenezer's residence in Greenbrier County is established by the record of his marriage to Margaret Swope in 1793, as cited in the county's Marriage Book 1A, Page 23. Henry Dixon is also cited on the same page as having married Alse Wilson in 1794. The Dixons who migrated to Warren County and those who went to Putnam County visited "back and forth" during the first two generations. The families were known to be related but knowledge of their exact relationship has been lost. George Dixon may have been a brother or cousin to Ebenezer Dixon. There are at least eight Dixons' grave markers still remaining today in the private Dixon Homestead Cemetery located near Raccoon, Indiana.

George Dixon in Kanawha County, West Virginia

George Dixon, like most American frontiersmen, felt the urge to push ever westward. George and his family left Monroe County in 1806, or soon thereafter, and went westward down the Kanawha River to Cabin Creek in Kanawha County. Veronica's family, the Van Bibbers, had previously moved there from Monroe County, and the Dixons followed them.

There are records available in Kanawha County regarding George Dixon, and these are just now being investigated. George Dixon homesteaded on Cabin Creek, and the grant of this land is cited in Sims, Index to West Virginia. Also it is recorded in Dyers, Index to West Virginia Land Grants.

Soon after the family's arrival in Kanawha County, George Dixon's son, Peter, married Lucy Long in 1808. (See Kanawha County Marriage Records, Book 1, Page 11). George's wife, Veronica, died on March 27, 1824. It is assumed that the family was still living in Kanawha County in 1824. Therefore, Veronica is probably buried some place in that County. A search will be made in an effort to locate the grave. It is logical to assume that Henry Dixon married "Polly" Massey while George and Veronica lived on Cabin Creek. However, no official record of the place and time of Henry's marriage has so far been found.

George Dixon in Gallia County, Ohio

George Dixon next followed the westward frontier by moving from Kanawha County, West Virginia, to Gallia County, Ohio. The date of his arrival there is unknown. He states in his pension papers that he lived in Gallia County after he left (W) Virginia. The 1830 U.S. Census for Walnut Township, Gallia County, shows George Dixon living there with Henry Dixon, his son. There were several other Dixon families living in Gallia County between 1820 and 1830, and for some time after that, but their identity is unknown. In 1955 no Dixons were living in Gallia County. If George Dixon did move to Gallia County before 1824, then his wife died there. A search of the cemeteries in Walnut Township of that County has revealed no graves with Dixon markers.

George Dixon knew a Robert Schute while in Gallia County. Later, in 1833, Robert Schute testified in a Court in Warren County, Indiana, that he had known George Dixon five years ago (1828) in Gallia County. Schute said he had visited in George Dixon's home and that he, George Dixon, was a "man of unquestionable truth and veracity". A Samuel Garrison also swore in 1833 in the same Court that he had known George Dixon for sixteen years. So apparently he knew George in Gallia County and also, probably, back in (W) Virginia. George also knew the McDaniel family that migrated to Gallia County from Little Wolf Creek, Monroo County, West Virginia, in 1806. George and his three sons were living in Warren County, Indiana, in 1832, so our Dixon families must have left Gallia County in 1830 or soon thereafter.

George Dixon, Warren County, Indiana, Pioneer

George Dixon made his last and longest westward move when he migrated from Gallia County, Ohio to Warren County, Indiana. The trip was made sometime between 1830 and 1832. In a previous section of this Chapter (Page 10) it relates how George Dixon filed for a Revolutionary War Pension in Warren County Courts in 1832, thus definitely establishing his residence there at that time.

On August 28, 1834, when George was 80 years old, he filed for his last homestead. It is amazing that a man of 80 years was still active and interested enough to pioneer and to homestead another portion of frontier American lands. The tract of land that George Dixon obtained from the United States is located in what is now Mound Township, Warren County. The claim for the tract was filed at Crawfordsville, Indiana, U.S. Land Office. The land homesteaded contained 109.37 acres and its location is described as the north-east quarter, Section 33, Township 20 North, Range 10 West. The official entry for the land is recorded in the Crawfordsville Land Tract Book No. 4, p. 1221. These tract books are on file in the Auditor's Office,
State Capitol, Indianapolis, Indiana. The land most likely cost George $1.25 an acre, the prevailing price at that time. George Dixon received a U.S. Land Patent, No. 22239, dated March 18, 1837, for the homesteaded land. The patent is signed by President Martin Van Buren.

For some unknown reason the following three histories of Warren County do not list George Dixon as an early settler, although they do mention other early pioneers, some of whom came much later. These references also do not mention Henry Dixon, who homesteaded in Warren County in 1832, two years before his father did.

Family stories state that George Dixon loved to whistle and he was nicknamed "Whislin" George. George was known to love to sing in either Irish or English. The records show that at age 80 George Dixon traveled five miles from his home to the voting polls at Baltimore Hill to exercise his right to vote, thus showing his firm belief in the principles of self-government of the country for which he served. On April 28, 1837, George deeded his land to his two sons, Peter and Henry. George died on February 17, 1840. After 85 years the end had come to an illustrious and sturdy frontiersman, a Revolutionary War soldier and spy, and the ever westward moving pioneer. George Dixon was buried in the private Foster-Dixon Cemetery located about one mile south of Foster, Indiana, in Warren County. His sons erected a marker at his grave which is still standing in 1955. There is an error of one year in his birth as shown on the stone.
The marker reads:

George Dixon
Feb. 27, 1840
Age 85 years

On July 3, 1955, the Quibache Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution dedicated a memorial marker to George Dixon in honor of his great services to his native country as a soldier, spy, frontiersman, and pioneer. The marker is located at the foot of his grave in the Foster-Dixon Cemetery, Warren County, Indiana. It reads:

The D.A.R. officially recognizes the Revolutionary War Services of George Dixon and the Dixon family lineage to 1955. Any direct female descendant of George Dixon is eligible to apply for membership in the D.A.R.
The documentation of the family lineage is attached to the membership of Mary Margaret Graham, whose membership number is 434385. The memorial marker for George Dixon was given by Dr. and Mrs. Glenn V. Ramsey in memory of Della Dixon Ramsey, a great-great-granddaughter of George Dixon.
Chapter III

Children of George and Veronica Dixon

George and Veronica Dixon had three sons and two daughters. The sons were Peter, Henry and Jesse. The daughters were Eunice and Olive (Ollive). All these children were born between 1788 and 1800 at the George Dixon homestead on Little Wolf Creek, Monroe County, (W) Virginia. The home site was located across the Greenbrier River from the present town of Talcott, West Virginia. The proof that these were the children of George and Veronica Dixon is given in a letter now in the U.S. Pension file of George Dixon. The letter was dated January 6, 1851, and posted at Summitville, Indiana, to the U.S. War Department. In this book this letter is referred to as the "Summitville, Indiana" letter.

The preceding chapter outlined the westward migration of George Dixon and family beginning in 1806 from Monroe County (formerly Greenbrier), to Kanawha County, (W) Virginia, thence to Gallia County, Ohio, and finally, in about 1830, to Warren County, Indiana. Only a few facts are known about the children before they arrived in Indiana. In this Chapter, the known facts about each child will be presented.

Peter Dixon

Peter Dixon was the eldest child of George and Veronica Dixon. He was born in 1788 in Monroe County, (W) Virginia. Peter was eighteen years old when his parents left Monroe County for Kanawha County, (W) Virginia. Apparently Peter went with the family as in 1808 he married Lucy Long in Kanawha County. The marriage was performed by Rev. John Lee. A record of the marriage is contained in Kanawha County Marriage Book I, page 11.

The next record of Peter Dixon is dated 1822 at which time he is living in Gallia County, Ohio. On December 12, 1822 he purchased 80 acres of land (Sec. 36, Twp. 4, Range 15), in Gallia County, Harrison Township, from David Rees for $100.00. This transfer is cited in County Deed Records, Vol. 9, p. 50. The land records also show that on June 6, 1823, Peter Dixon sold land he owned in Walnut Township, Gallia County. He sold one parcel of 80 acres to Arthur Blankenship for $65.00 and another parcel of 30 acres to Jack Sartain for $37.50. These two transactions are listed in County Deeds, Vol. 9, pages 5 and 6. On June 9, 1829 Peter Dixon purchased from Andrew B. Armstrong and his wife, Hannah, land in Walnut Township (Sec. 18, Twp. 4, Range 16) for which he paid $115.00. This purchase is recorded in County Deeds, Vol. 10, p. 537.

The June 1830 U.S. Census for Gallia County, Ohio, shows Peter Dixon living in Walnut Township. His family consisted of one girl under age 5, two boys between 5-10 years, two boys and one girl between 10-15 years, one boy and one girl between 15-20 years, and one girl between 20 and 30. No person is listed among the females in the age range for his wife and the mother of the above listed children. Peter's wife, Lucy, must have died before 1830 Census while the family lived in Walnut Township and she is probably buried somewhere in Gallia County in an unmarked grave. A search of the Walnut area cemeteries has not uncovered any grave markers bearing the Dixon name. No further record has ever been found of the eight children born to Peter and his wife Lucy.

On September 29, 1830 Peter Dixon married "Polly" Mary Haguet in Gallia County, Ohio. The marriage is cited in County Marriage Book I, p. 94.
The Naguet family was one of the original French families who settled Gallipolis, Ohio, before the Revolutionary War, when the territory was under French rule. Peter Dixon and his wife soon left Gallia County, Ohio to join the Dixon family migration to Warren County, Indiana, which took place between 1830-1832.

The earliest record of Peter Dixon's residence in Warren County is contained in an affidavit he signed on December 22, 1834, in the Warren County Courts. This affidavit was in support of the Revolutionary War pension claim of his uncle, Peter Dixon, who also was a resident of Warren County at this time. The next record of the younger Peter Dixon is in 1836 when he, his father George, and his two brothers Henry and Jesse, voted in the county election. They voted at the polls which were located at Baltimore Hill. On April 28, 1837 Peter Dixon received from his father, George Dixon, the following land: "Part of the south half of the north-east fractional quarter of Section 33, Township 20 North, Range 10 West," etc. On August 17, 1849 Peter and his wife, Mary, deeded this land to his nephew, William M. Dixon, for $300.00. This deed was recorded on June 11, 1850. After that date the place of residence and ultimate history of Peter and Mary Dixon are unknown. Peter was still living in 1851, as the "Summitville, Indiana" letter mentions him. He may have moved to the Summitville area, but no facts support this assumption. The date and place of the death of Peter and Mary Dixon is unknown. Also unknown is the place of their burial. It is not known whether Peter and Mary Dixon left any descendants.

Eunice Davis

Eunice Davis was born in 1789 at the Monroe County, Ohio, homestead.
The next record about her is in regards to her marriage. On January 25, 1806 a marriage bond was signed by Jacob Davis and Jno. H. Rollyson to bind the marriage of Jacob Davis and Eunice Dixon. This marriage bond is recorded in Monroe County, File No. 2, Jacket No. 638. Nothing more is known about Eunice until 1850. The 1850 U.S. Census for Madison County, Indiana, shows her living there in the home of Jack Reid (age 20) and his wife, Elizabeth (age 18). The last record of Eunice was the reference to her in the 1851 "Summitville, Indiana" letter to the War Department. The 1880 U.S. Census for the same county does not list Eunice Dixon Davis, nor the Reid family. Several "old timers" in Madison County in 1955 remember several Davis families that lived in the county years ago, but all trace of them has vanished.

Jesse Dixon

Jesse Dixon was born in 1794 in Monroe County, Virginia. He was twelve years old when his parents "went down the Kanawha". He apparently never forgot a Monroe County girl, or he went back to visit friends or family and fell in love. The records show on January 29, 1820 Jesse Dickeson (Dixon) and John Dickeson (Dixon) gave a marriage bond of $150 for the marriage of Jesse Dickeson and Catharine Pence of Monroe County. This marriage bond is recorded in Monroe County, File No. 3, Jacket 2016. The marriage is also cited in the History of Monroe County, p. 391, in the records of the "Pence" family. The parents of Catharine Pence were Elizabeth (Tresler) Pence (1778-1865) and Jacob Pence ( 1819). The Pence family arrived in Monroe County in 1818 and purchased the Estell place. Both the Tresler and Pence families were of German ancestry.

Nothing else is known about Jesse Dixon and wife until 1834 when Jesse voted in Warren County, Indiana, along with his father and two brothers. The last record of Jesse Dixon was the mention of his name in the 1851 "Summitville, Indiana" letter. "Old Timers" in Madison County in 1955 recall a Dixon family once lived there many years ago, but none could recall what had happened to the family.

Henry Dixon

Henry Dixon was born in 1798 at the homestead in Monroe County, (W) Virginia on Little Wolf Creek. (The date and place of his birth are established by the 1880 U.S. Census, Mound Township, Warren County, Indiana, Family 81, Original Page 30, Whole Page 152, Vol. 24. Also his grave marker gives his birth date as 1798). Henry was eight or nine years old when his family moved from Monroe County to Cabin Creek in Kanawha County, (W) Virginia.

While his parents, George and Veronica, were living on Cabin Creek, Henry Dixon married "Polly" Mary Massey (Massie, Massy). She was commonly called and known as Polly. According to the above cited 1880 U.S. Census report, the data shows Polly was born in 1798 in (W) Virginia. Her grave marker also gives 1798 as her birth. Henry and Polly Dixon were undoubtedly married sometime between 1815-1820. Efforts to locate a record of the marriage so far have failed.

Polly's parentage has not been established, but a Massey group lived on Little Wolf Creek near the Dixon Clan. It will be recalled George Dixon sold his lands to Jeptha Massey in 1806. Polly is known to have had at least one brother by the name of John ("Jim") Massey whose home was at Wheeling, West Virginia. All connections with the family have been lost.
Next occurs a large gap in the history of Henry and Polly Dixon other than the fact that they lived somewhere in (W) Virginia. During this period six children were born to them. All were born in (W) Virginia with the possible exception of the youngest, Isaac, who was probably born in Gallia County, Ohio, or Warren County, Indiana. Their children were Nancy Dixon born in 1820, William 1823, George 1825, Elsie (Also) Jane 1828, Katherine 1829 (?), and Isaac 1831.

Family tradition states that Henry and his family lived in or near Wheeling, West Virginia, for the period before they moved to Warren County, Indiana. A preliminary search of the County records in Wheeling has revealed no mention of our Dixon family. Any information concerning this period of their life is greatly needed.

The 1830 Census for Gallia County, Ohio, Walnut Township, shows Henry Dixon and family were living there at that time. Also his brother Peter Dixon and family were living in the same area, according to the census returns. Henry Dixon's family is shown in the Census as consisting of the following children: one girl under 5 years, one boy and one girl between 5 and 10, one boy between 10 and 15, and one girl 15 to 20. The number and sex of the children agrees with those of Henry's five children born before 1830, but the age range for the oldest girl is apparently wrong. The census also shows a female, age 30 to 40, which undoubtedly refers to Polly, the mother. A male between 70 and 80 years also is shown, and this is unquestionably George Dixon, father of Henry. One other male, age 40 to 50, is cited, whose identity is unknown. Since family tradition states Henry and family migrated from Wheeling to Warren County, Indiana, it may be that he had stopped enroute in Gallia County to join his brother, Peter, who lived there, and who also migrated to Indiana.

The Dixon migration to Indiana included the three brothers - Henry, Jesse and Peter. Also their father, George Dixon, and the boys' uncle, Peter Dixon, made the trip westward. It is believed that all of them moved to Indiana between 1830 and 1832. Whether the families traveled together, or separately, is not known.

Family tradition states that the Henry Dixon family went by the way of Mt. Sterling, Kentucky, and then on to Warren County, Indiana. The only reason that appears for such a long detour on route would be for the purpose of visiting close relatives. It is known that in 1806 Patrick Dixon went from Little Wolf Creek area to Montgomery County, Kentucky, of which Mt. Sterling is the county seat (See Monroe County, W. Virginia, Deed Book B, Page 96 and Deed Book B, Page 298). There is a good possibility that this Patrick Dixon may have been the father of George Dixon, or a close relative. A brief search of the Montgomery County records revealed no trace of the early Dixon family that settled there. Further investigation of the records there is warranted.

While Henry Dixon and family were at Mt. Sterling, they stopped at the home of Charles and Ruth Nickels. Henry's son, William, then just a lad, fell in love with the Nickels' daughter, Margaret Jane. When the Dixons left, young William promised Margaret Jane he would some day return and take her as his wife. This he did and the story will be told more fully in the history of William Dixon.

The Dixon family went from Mt. Sterling, Kentucky, to a point south of Crawfordsville, Indiana. Apparently they stopped for a short time at the Dixon (relatives) homestead on Raccoon Creek, near Raccoon, Indiana, Putnam County. This Dixon group had been established by Ebenezer Dixon and Henry L. Dixon, who had migrated to that location from Little Wolf Creek area.

Our Henry Dixon family, however, soon moved on to Warren County, Indiana. The Dixons of Warren County and the Dixons of Putnam County visited "back and forth" for a couple of generations. The exact relationship between the members of each group is no longer known.

Henry Dixon homesteaded land in Warren County on June 23, 1832. It consisted of 40 acres located as follows: N.E. \( \frac{3}{4} \) of the N.W. one quarter, Section 29, Township 20 North, Range 9 West. Henry Dixon received from the United States Government Patent No. 16682 on June 8, 1833 for this land. He also filed for another 40 acres which was located as follows: S.W. one quarter, S.E. quarter, Township 20 North, Range 9 West. The record of Henry Dixon's homestead is contained in the Crawfordsville District Tract Book, Vol. 9, p. 40 and p. 42. The tract books for Indiana are now in the Land Office, Auditor's Department, State Capitol, Indianapolis, Indiana. These grants to Henry Dixon are also recorded in Crawfordsville District Tract Book, Vol. 4, on p. 1139 and p. 1141. On October 29, 1834 Henry Dixon added to his land by the purchase of property from Samuel Garrison. The land purchased was the East one-half of the North-west one quarter of Section 33, Township 20 North, Range 10 West. This property had been homesteaded by Garrison on August 28, 1834, the same day that George Dixon homesteaded his land. Henry and Polly deeded their land to their son, William, on March 5, 1850. They made their home with William until they both died.

Henry and Polly Dixon were both born in 1798, and both died in 1855 within one day of each other. Henry died September 24 and his beloved wife September 25. Both are buried in the Foster-Dixon Cemetery. No record of any will made by either can be found by the Clerk of the Probate Court of Warren County.

To Henry and Polly Dixon were born three sons and three daughters. William (1823-1876) was the eldest son. A son named George (1826-1841) died just before his sixteenth birthday. The youngest son, Isaac (1831-1833) lived only two years. The three sons are buried in Foster-Dixon Cemetery with their parents. The three daughters were: Katherine (1818-1890), Nancy (1820-1896), and Elsie (Alcy) Jane (1828-1894). The history of each of these children, as far as known, will be given in subsequent chapters.

Olive Dixon

Olive (Ollive) Dixon was born in 1800 in Monroeo County, Virginia. She married Jack Stover, but no record has been found of the place or date of the marriage. The next bit of information about her comes in the 1850 U.S. Census for Madison County, Indiana. In this census survey it shows Olive, her husband Jack Stover, and six children living in Madison County. The children were Elijah 27, Gersay 16, Henry 12, Olive 9, Mary 6, Eunice 3. The close feeling she had for her one brother and two sisters is shown by the naming of her children - Henry, Olive, and Eunice. The U.S. Census shows that all the children of Jack and Olive were born in Virginia (now West Virginia). Therefore Olive and Jack apparently stayed in (W) Virginia until 1848 and then migrated to Madison County before 1850. The 1851 "Summitville, Indiana" letter shows she was living there at that time. What happened to all the children of Jack and Olive Stover is unknown, as no records have been found about them. Also the date of death of Jack and Olive and the place of their burial is unknown. The 1880 U.S. Census for Madison County lists Joseph Stover, age 25, and William Stover, age 27, both born in Indiana. In 1955 some local residents of the county could recall these two Stovers and the fact that they died as bachelors. The relationship of these two Stovers to Olive and Jack is unknown.
Chapter IV

William Hassey Dixon

William Hassey Dixon was born on November 28, 1823. He was the son of Polly and Henry Dixon, the grandson of Veronica and George Dixon. According to family tradition William was born in or near Wheeling, (W) Virginia. A search for documentary evidence of the place of his birth and the place of the Henry Dixon residence in Wheeling (Ohio County) has, as yet, been without success. Proof that William Dixon was born in (W) Virginia is found in the 1870 U.S. Census report for Hound Township, Warren County, Indiana (Family 696, Original Page 93, Whole Page 332, Volume 40). This census report shows William Dixon's birthplace as (W) Virginia. Proof of the date of his birth is given on his grave marker in Foster-Dixon Cemetery.

Nothing is known of William's early childhood in Wheeling. He appears in the 1830 Census for Gallia County, Ohio where his parents apparently were temporarily located before their trip westward to Warren County, Indiana. William's father, Henry Dixon, homesteaded in Indiana in 1832, so the family either came with the father between 1830 and 1832, or the father returned to Gallia County, Ohio to get the family. It is known, however, that the father brought the family by wagon to Indiana by way of Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. As previously stated, this long detour enroute was probably to visit close Dixon relatives in Mt. Sterling.

While at Mt. Sterling the Dixon family stayed at the home of Charles and Ruth Nickols. Young William, then just a lad, fell in love with Margaret Jane Nickols. William promised to return some day and take her as his wife. This he did in 1844. The Dixon family, after a short rest in Mt. Sterling, moved on to Raccoon Creek, Putnam County, Indiana for a short visit with the Dixon relatives who had settled there. Henry Dixon and family, however, soon moved on to Warren County, Indiana where they established their permanent home.

In 1844 William returned to the Nickols' home in Mt. Sterling and, as he had promised, he claimed Margaret as his bride. William and Margaret left by horseback for Warren County, Indiana. They apparently stopped enroute at Greencastle, as they were married there on February 29, 1844, by Rev. J. B. Birt, minister of the Methodist E.P. Church in Greencastle, Indiana. The marriage is recorded in the Putnam County Court Marriage Records, Book A, Page 63. The Court Records show that Henry Dixon had given his written consent for William's marriage, as William lacked nine months of being 21 years old. Margaret Jane Nickols apparently stated she was 18 years old and of legal age (lacked only two months). The married couple made their home for the rest of their life in Mound Township, where William helped operate the family homestead farm. Eventually William and Margaret became owners of the family homestead.

Margaret Jane Nickols was born April 23, 1826 at Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. Margaret Jane lists herself as being born in Kentucky in the 1880 U.S. Census Report, Mound Township, Warren County (Fam. 23, Orig. page 5, Whole page 130A, Vol. 37). Margaret's parents, Charles and Ruth Nickols, moved sometime after Margaret's marriage to a farm a few miles south of Crawfordsville, Indiana, probably near Ladoga. Margaret had two brothers, "Jim" and "Bud" Nickols, both of whom died in Ladoga, Indiana. "Bud's" children were Manuel Nickols and Eva (Van Cleve). Eva Van Cleve had one daughter, Fern, who married a Burkett, and they had one son, "Bobby" Burkett.
This family was last known to live in Indianapolis. Margaret had three sisters. One was named "Lizz" and she married a Hester, and a child of their's is buried in the Foster-Dixon Cemetery. All trace of this family has been lost. Another sister, Emma, married a McKeever and was last known to be living in Cincinnati. Emma McKeever had at least three sons. Margaret's third sister, Fina, married a Grieder and then moved to the State of Washington, then on to British Columbia, Canada. She was known to have had children. The Dixons of Warren County and the Nickols of Ledoga visited "back and forth" for several decades.

To William and Margaret Jane Dixon were born nine children, four girls and five boys. The daughters were Ruth, Mahalia, Eva and Margaret. The sons were George, Charles, John Henry, William and Perry. William and Margaret also cared for Henry and Polly Dixon in their last years. Polly was confined to bed for her last seven or eight years of life because of rheumatism. Both Henry and Polly lost their vision before they died.

William Dixon became a large land holder in Mound Township. Henry and Polly Dixon willed certain of their property to their only surviving son, William. This deed was made on June 11, 1850 and was recorded June 11, 1850. During the preceding year Peter and Mary Dixon transferred their land, including that which they received from George Dixon, to William on August 17, 1849. William and Margaret procured in 1849, 1855, and 1865, from his three married sisters and their spouses, the part of the original Henry and Polly Dixon lands which were conveyed to them by their parents. Consequently, because of the inherited lands and other acquired lands, William and Margaret were owners of a large number of acres in Warren County.

William and Margaret were known as a very happily married couple.
Many family stories recount their great love and devotion to one another. William Dixon was a Charter member of the Mound Masonic Lodge, No. 274, State Line, Indiana, which was formed in 1861. William died on November 25, 1876. He is buried in the Foster-Dixon Cemetery.

The Last Will of William Dixon was made on the day before his death, November 24, 1876. The will is recorded in the Warren County Record of Deeds. It read: "I, William Dixon, considering the uncertainty of this mortal life and being of sound mind and memory, do make and publish this my last will and testament in the manner and form of following: First: I give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Margaret J. Dixon, all my real and personal property during her life and then what remains at her death to be equally divided among my seven surviving children, to wit: Ruth C. Martin, Eva J. Richoy, Charles N. Dixon, John H. Dixon, William M. Dixon, Perry Dixon, and Mary J. Dixon.

I authorize and appoint my wife, Margaret J. Dixon, and Zachariah Clem my executors, and authorize and direct that they shall pay all my just debts if possible without selling any of the real estate of which I die seized. I request that my executors settle my estate without having to report to any court their proceedings in said estate.

(Signed) Wm. M. Dixon."

William died at age 53. He had been married to Margaret for 32 years. She inherited all the land which William owned and continued to live on it for the remaining 28 years of her life. Here she raised her family of seven surviving children.

Stories relate how Margaret would travel by wagon once each year to Cincinnati, Ohio, to purchase clothes, food, and other goods for the family, as well as supplies for the farm. She apparently was a very graceful and an aristocratic person. She was loved by all members of her family, other relatives, and the people of the community.

Margaret Jane died on January 4, 1904, at the age of 77 years, 8 months, 7 days. She is buried in the Foster-Dixon Cemetery with her husband.
The original log house in which the family had lived so long was completely destroyed by fire in April 1904 about three months after Margaret's death.
Among the family records which were destroyed was a very old family Bible which contained a record of the births and deaths of the Dixon family for many generations.

Nancy was the oldest child of Henry and Polly and was born on June 17, 1820 somewhere in (W) Virginia. Elsie (Alcy) Jane was born on April 7, 1828 and her birth place was also (W) Virginia. Katherine was born in 1829. Katherine was either born in (W) Virginia or Gallia County, Ohio.
