JOHN DETRICK

JOHN AND MARY SNELL

OF

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY, VIRGINIA

BY

ELIZABETH VIRGINIA SMITH

KINGSTON, PA.
Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Virginia Smith, 94, a former resident of the Singers Glen region, and author of the genealogy, "Descendants of Samuel Miller, John Detrick and John and Mary Snell", will be held at Kingston, Pa., this afternoon.

A number of nieces and nephews from Rockingham will attend the funeral. Mrs. Smith died Friday. She had many friends and relatives in her native county.

In the preface to her genealogy Mrs. Smith wrote a brief sketch of her life.

Mrs. Smith was the daughter of Henry and Mary Detrick Miller and was born near Greenmount, Sept. 5, 1862. Her husband, Issac Newton Smith, the son of a Confederate veteran, was a native of Augusta County and learned the shoemaker's trade under David Ermentrout, near Greenmount.

In 1802 Mr. Smith located on a homestead claim near Weston, Umatilla county, Oregon, where they lived after their marriage. Their only child, Mary Etta Smith, was born there in 1895. In 1898, they exchanged their homestead for another farm near Holman, Oregon. Mr. Smith operated a harvester outfit. Mrs. Smith's part of the operation was to cook for the crew of 12 men. She cooked in a wagon house which was moved from field to field.

For three years 1901-03, Mr. and Mrs. Smith operated a store and postoffice at Holman, Oregon, with Mrs. Smith in charge of the mail. She wrote that this was a little pioneer settlement and our customers, mostly cowboys and Indians, came from as far as 20 miles away.
Miss Smith was today in Bristol today.
I am the youngest daughter of Henry M. and Mary Detrick Miller and was born near Greenmount, Rockingham County, Virginia, April 5, 1862, and married Isaac Newton Smith, September 24, 1893.

He was born September 25, 1857, in Augusta County, Virginia. His father was in the Confederate Army and was one of the missing ones when the Civil War ended. His mother was left penniless, in the, then, poverty stricken and desolate Shenandoah Valley, with five small children to support, and at the age of seven years, he was bound out among strangers. At the age of eighteen, he came from Augusta County to David Ermentrout's near Greenmount where he learned the shoe-making trade.

In 1882, he went West and located a homestead claim near Weston, Umatilla County, Oregon to which place we went after our marriage. My only child, Mary Etta Smith, was born there, May 7, 1895. In 1898, we exchanged our homestead for another farm, near Holman, Oregon. During the fall we carried on the harvesting business, my part of which was to cook for the crew of twelve men, in a wagon cook house, which was moved from field to field when the wheat was cut and threshed.

The year 1899 was spent at my old home in Virginia and we then returned to Oregon. I underwent a serious operation in the Walla Walla Washington Hospital in the fall of 1900. During the years, 1901, 02 and 03, we kept a store and the post-office at Holman, Oregon and I had charge of the postoffice. This was then a little pioneer settlement and our customers, mostly cowboys and Indians, came from as far as twenty miles away.

During 1904, we lived in Adams, Oregon and having exchanged our place in that state for the Edwards farm in Lake Township, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, we removed there in November of that year.

We continued to reside on our farm in Lake Township until late in 1914, when Mr. Smith's health failed and we went to Lima, Ohio, where my brother, John F. Miller, resided; and the following year Mr. Smith's health became such that he entered the sanatorium at Gallipolis, Ohio, where he died in January 1918.

I returned to the home of my daughter in Kingston, Pa., in the fall of 1915; and since November 9, of that year have resided at the home of Mr. William Brewster, No. 252 North Sprague Avenue, Kingston, Pa., having been housekeeper there for the past twenty-eight years.

In the summer of 1930, I returned, for a visit, to my old home in Oregon; and during that trip, I visited friends and relatives in Iowa, California, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas. At Holman, where I spent over a week with Mr. and Mrs. Holman, our store building and house were gone, which was a surprise and disappointment, but most of my old neighbors were still alive, and at a party, given by my kind hosts, they gathered to see me again. Our farm house at Weston, the first home of my own, remained and there in the midst of pleasant memories, I was kindly entertained at Athena by a former neighbor, Mrs. Lillie Pittman.

I have been a member of the Church of the Brethren, (Dunkard), in which I was raised, all my life; and have never departed from their ways and customs. I have been in most of the states, have seen some of Canada, and have crossed the continent three times.

Some years ago, I began gathering the information, contained in the following pages. I have written hundred of letters of inquiry. Most of them, although not all, were kindly answered. Had all responded, the record would be more complete. I have visited the old grave-yards in Virginia, where our ancestors are buried; and have talked with the older people in Virginia and Ohio, who could give information. Many ancient records, which would have been helpful, were destroyed, when the Court House at Harrisonburg, Virginia was burned, many years ago.

To get together and arrange these family records has taken a great deal of my spare time for the past ten years and I hope some will appreciate the endeavor.

Samuel Miller, John Detrick and John Snell all lived and died in Rockingham County, Virginia. They were sturdy and substantial men, and among the early people of that region. They were my ancestors, whom I hold in grateful memory; and to their numerous descendants, scattered throughout the country, I contribute, this little genealogy, with all its shortcomings and mistakes.

This little book is now finished in the eighty-second year of my life.

Darwin's Theory of Evolution

In 1859, Charles Darwin published "On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection," which introduced his theory of evolution. Darwin's theory proposes that species evolve over time through a process of natural selection. He argued that species are not fixed and immutable, but rather, they change and adapt to their environments.

Darwin's observations and experiments led him to believe that species change over time. He observed variations within species, such as the beaks of finches on the Galapagos Islands, which he noticed were adapted to the specific types of food available in each island's environment. He also observed the process of sexual selection, where certain traits become more common in a population because they are advantageous in attracting mates.

Darwin's theory has had a profound impact on the development of biology and our understanding of the natural world. It has been refined and expanded upon by subsequent research, but the basic principles of evolution through natural selection remain a cornerstone of modern biology.

ine the audience, getting them to listen. However, it is important to remember that even after the audience is engaged, the message must still be delivered clearly and concisely. This is where practicing the speech becomes crucial. It allows the speaker to become familiar with the content and the delivery, ensuring that the message is conveyed effectively.

In addition to practicing, using visual aids such as slides or props can also help in engaging the audience. These tools can make the presentation more interactive and keep the audience's attention. However, it is important to remember that the use of visual aids should complement the speech, not replace it.

Another aspect to consider is the audience's feedback. It is essential to be open to feedback and be willing to adjust the presentation based on the audience's response. This will help in tailoring the message to better meet the audience's needs and interests.

In conclusion, engaging the audience is an essential part of delivering a successful speech. It requires a combination of effective communication skills, presentation techniques, and an understanding of the audience's needs. By following these strategies, the speaker can ensure that the message is delivered in a way that resonates with the audience and achieves the desired outcome.

any doubt left in your mind about the truth of this claim, you might want to consult your accountant. An accountant will also assure you that the 1% of your income that is not your income is not your income. This is the typical behavior of economists, who indicate that you are not as rational as you think.

As a result, your income is not your income.

You might think that your income is your income, but that is not the case. Economists remind us that your income is not your income.

Therefore, you must bear in mind that your income is not your income.

...the system's behavior, which is governed by a set of equations. The analysis of these equations reveals that the system is stable under certain conditions. However, under other conditions, the system can exhibit chaotic behavior, characterized by sensitive dependence on initial conditions. This has profound implications for the predictability of the system.

In the context of this study, we have developed a model that accurately represents the system's dynamics. The model has been validated against experimental data, and the results show a high degree of correlation. This suggests that the model can be used to make reliable predictions about the system's future behavior.

The implications of this research are significant, as it provides a new framework for understanding and predicting complex systems. This framework can be applied to a wide range of fields, including climate science, economics, and artificial intelligence, where accurate predictions are crucial for informed decision-making.

In conclusion, the study of chaotic systems is not only a fascinating area of theoretical research but also has practical applications in various domains. The insights gained from this research can help us better understand the world around us and make more informed decisions.
