According to D.S. Deweese's "Recollections and Experiences of a Lifetime", Daniel was a member of an informal group who called themselves "The Hellfired Band". This group roved from place to place and wanted to preserve the West Fork of the Little Kanawha River as a sportsman's paradise.

Since Jonathan Nichols was a supervisor charged with building a road through the West Fork area, his objectives ran counter to the purposes of the Band. Accordingly, they killed Jonathan April 8, 1843.

A citizen's posse arrested Jackson Cottrell, Daniel McCune, Joseph Parsons and Alexander Turner and took them to Charleston, where they were convicted and sentenced to eighteen years in prison in Richmond, Virginia. Jackson was pardoned after five years, but the others died in prison.

After Daniel's death, Rebecca married Jacob McElwain. There were no known children of this marriage.

They did give their consent to "Rob" and their daughter Jamima marrying. Jamima and "Rob" did marry, but "Rob" and Christina had children out of wedlock.

The traditional story also says that "Rob" lived in the same house with his wife Jamima, Christina and Sarah Smarr. This story is supported by the 1880 Gilmer Census that lists all three women in Rob's household.

Robert also had children by Sarah Smarr, a daughter of Benjamin and Anna (Norman) Smarr. Sarah was born about 1832 in what is now Gilmer County WV. Robert and Sarah were married January 9, 1889 sometime after the death of Jamima (Schoolcraft) Nicholas.
