FAIRBAIRN'S BOOK OF CRESTS" was first published in 1859, and since that date had passed through some number of Editions prior to the year 1892, when the work was very thoroughly overhauled and revised under our direction.

The book had long ago established itself as a recognised work of reference, and as an indispensable adjunct to every library; and being suitable to the needs and purposes of jewellers and engravers, it had also from its first publication been adopted and accepted as the standard work of reference for business and trade purposes. By far the larger proportion of armorial orders placed in the hands of tradesmen for execution are carried out with the assistance of "Fairbairn."

The ever-increasing number of new families and new grants of arms, and the constant immigration of families of foreign origin using crests hitherto found in no English book of reference, create from time to time the necessity of extensive additions to the entries which the text contains. The large edition which we published in 1892 having been entirely exhausted, we availed ourselves of the opportunity afforded by the necessity of reprinting the volume to again submit the work to such revision as was required to bring it up to the present date.

This, we believe, will enable the book to maintain fully its old position and reputation as the only authoritative and the most complete collection of Crests and Mottoes in use in this country, a position in which it has hitherto had no rival. The question of the right of any particular person to the crest to which a claim is made depends upon proof of descent from the original grantee. Such proof often amounts to a highly controversial discussion, and it has seemed to us that we were not called upon for the purposes of the present work to adopt any such standard; rather otherwise, because the omission of a crest in consequence of a lack of proof of pedigree would create a hindrance to the use of the book by those handicraftsmen who need to refer to its pages.
We therefore can give no guarantee of the official accuracy on the point of rightful inheritance. The existence of the original corpus of the book, which, when compiled, was never based upon the requirement of an official imprimatur for each crest, precludes therein any adoption of the official standard.

The additions to the text in the present edition have been considerable, but the overwhelming bulk of these additions has been obtained from sources not in themselves official, certainly, but purporting to be based upon information having a more or less official character. Such being the case, we can unhesitatingly assert that in the present edition the proportion of officially authorized crests is infinitely higher than in any previous edition of the work, not even excepting the edition of 1892. As to the remainder, the position is now as it was then; we have no exact knowledge, and the crests may or may not be authoritative.

THE PUBLISHERS.
THE origin of Heraldry has puzzled wiser and abler heads than mine; indeed, it would be folly to attempt, in the Preface to a Work of this character, to discuss the matter at all; but the whole subject may be said to resolve itself into the query, "Where does mere ornamentation end, and where does Heraldry 'as we know it' begin?" The generally received opinion seems to be that the Crusades were coeval with, if, indeed, they were not the cause of, the birth of Heraldry, its laws, and its emblems.

Undoubtedly Arms—i.e., the charges and field depicted upon the escutcheon—were of prior origin to crests. Consequently there are many Coats-of-Arms to which no Crest has ever been assigned, and which have no such ornament attached or belonging to them, but I have only come across one solitary Crest which possessed a legitimate existence without a corresponding and complementary Coat-of-Arms pertaining to it. This one (borne by a family of Buckworth) arose through a peculiar combination of circumstances, and has been rectified nearly a century.

The Crest is that part of the complete achievement which is placed upon and surmounts the coronet, wreath, or chapeau, which in its turn is above the mantling or lambrequin which it is supposed to attach to the helmet. Anciendly, whilst the coronets and chapeaux were reserved for the rank to which they appertained, none below the rank of the knightly families were permitted to place their Crest upon a wreath. But both these laws—and more is the pity—have long been relegated to oblivion; and at the present day, unless the Crest be specially blazoned, as upon a chapeau, or issuing from a coronet (as to the different forms of which refer to the Glossary), both of which are required to be mentioned in its Blazon, it must always be placed upon a wreath or torse. This is supposed to be a skein of coloured silk and a gold or silver cord twisted together, and at the present day is always of the principal-i.e., the first-mentioned in the Blazon—colour and metal of the Arms, of which six alternate "twists" must be visible, the metal occurring first at the dexter end (see Plate 1, No. 2). When a "fur" occurs upon the Arms instead of either metal or colour, the ground tincture of the fur should be taken.

In the next place, I wish to explain the laws governing the usage and adoption of Crests. It is not, as I have often been solemnly assured, "simply a matter of choice" and personal fad or fancy upon the part of the bearer, and the sooner it is fully understood the better it will be that His Majesty's College of Arms in Queen Victoria Street, London; Lyon Office, in the New General Register House in Edinburgh; and Ulster's Office, in the Record Tower of Dublin Castle, are absolutely the only legitimate or authoritative Offices of Arms within His Majesty's Dominions. So recently as 1804 the Law Offices of the Crown reported to H.M. King George III. that "the Heralds have the original cognizance of Pedigrees and Coat-Armour." Who, then, has the right to display Armorial Bearings? That it is a matter of the Law of the Land, in addition to conformity to Heraldic regulations, may not be generally known, but in the Warrants directing the Visitations of the various counties and districts during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, to be made in obedience to the Royal Commissions, the right is clearly laid down, and at the present day exists under as well defined limits as those which govern and regulate the Peerage. In England—for in the three countries the laws are not the same—direct legitimate male descent is required to be proved from some person to whom Armorial Bearings were recorded and allowed at the Visitations, or to whom Arms have since been granted or exemplified, and, failing such descent, it is necessary to petition for the favour of the Earl Marshal's Warrant to the Kings of Arms that a Patent of Armorial Bearings shall be issued to you, if it be so desired. In Ireland, the same qualifications are necessary to inherit Armorial Bearings; but in addition, and in Ireland only, it is within the power and authority of Ulster King of Arms, in cases where a Coat-of-Arms has been borne continuously by a family for four or more generations, but without lawful authority, according to his discretion, to confirm those Arms and their usage within specified limitations, with the addition of some mark which shall be readily recognisable as a sign of confirmation. In Scotland, the right to bear the Arms or Crest of a family is absolutely confined to the heir male only. All younger sons are required to matriculate their Arms and Crests in Lyon Court, when some mark of cadency is added, and their younger sons again in their turn must do likewise, and have a further and additional sign of cadency added to the Bearings. Though not a regulation, it appears to have been a very frequent practice upon each occasion of such matriculation to entirely alter the Crest, which accounts for the very large number of utterly different Crests in existence for the same family amongst the Scottish Ordinaries of Arms.

There is no such thing as the "prescriptive right to Arms," as to which some people talk glibly. Others of their persuasion have other little plausibilities, equally corrupt, which they bring into prominence. And it is a fairly safe plan to pursue to reject as bogus all Arms and Crests which boast no other origin than the heraldic stationer who, for a trifling fee, professes, on receipt of "name and county," to find armorial bearings for any applicant.

Mottoes in England and Ireland are not necessarily hereditary, and unless attached to, or in any way forming a part of, the Arms or Crest, may be altered, assumed, or discarded at the will of the bearer, and borne in any position in relation to his Arms or Crest that he may fancy; but in Scotland the Motto forms a part of the grant, and is unchangeable, and is also usually required to be borne upon an escroll above the Crest. A practice has lately very extensively arisen of using with a single surname two or more Crests. With a very few exceptions, it is only allowable so to do in cases where one of these be of honourable augmentation, or where one or both be governed by some special grant; and in cases where, by the assumption of one or more additional surnames, or by a change of surname, such additional Crests—usually one for each surname—have been exemplified in accordance with the terms of the Royal License.

No Lady whatsoever is allowed by the Laws of Heraldry to in any way bear or use, in her own right, either Crest or Motto; and Arms only in a special and distinctive manner.

The collection of Mottoes, with their Translations, which must of necessity form one of the features of the Book, it has been thought well to submit to the revision of the Rev. James Wood (Editor of "Nuttall's Dictionary," New Edition), though, in justice to the erudition of this gentleman and his scholarly attainments, it should be known that I have throughout insisted upon the various Mottoes being spelt in the manner and retained in the actual form in which I have understood them to be used, even at the expense of accurate and scholastic spelling. Our ancestors had their own ideas—frequently peculiar—as to the method of spelling, and he would need be a Vandal who would cause unnecessary alterations in their quaint conceptions. And in addition, in some half-dozen cases, in order to preserve some pun—no doubt atrocious—I have asked for some translation to be allowed to stand which has not always been as literal a rendering as was possible of the foreign tongue, for we of the ancient and honourable Science and Brotherhood of Armory dearly love a pun. The Key to the Plates has been done in the offices of my Publishers, and in many other matters connected with the revision and publication of this Edition of 'Fairbairn' I have experienced much kindness consideration, and assistance at their hands.

The whole of the Illustrations of the last Edition have been carefully examined. Some have been altered and some rejected, and over One Thousand New Crests have been added to those previously appearing. It has been one great anxiety that the Illustrations, however slightly they might differ, should not be quoted as correct unless they actually were so, and this will account for the large proportion of the references being mentioned as only for purposes of comparison. The Book was originally Compiled and Engraved in Scotland, by a Scotsman, and it is a well-known fact that both Scotch blazonry and blazonment are far freer and "looser" than when controlled by the "garrulous minuteness" of the English school of Arms. This matter has been ably argued out (but, methinks, to a wrong conclusion), and explained in the latest book upon the subject which has left the press (Woodward & Burnett's "Treatise of Heraldry"). One sentence will explain my views. When a Blazon can be otherwise correctly depicted in two or more separate ways (and here I am not referring to mediæval or antique styles of draughtmanship), and further, when one of those ways only is painted upon the Grant or Exemplification, why should it be open to discussion as to the possible accuracy of any other form? If one form be right, why is not any other shape or position wrong?

For example, the term which, more than any other, has given me trouble on this score is one applied to birds—to wit, "rising." My own idea is that this should be as upon Plate 88, No. 2. Plate 77, No. 5, is the other extreme, and is an accepted interpretation of the term in Scotland; but I have seen in the Offices and College of Arms authoritative paintings of every other possible position of the wings, short of their being "close," occurring in Coats-of-Arms or Crests, and blazoned simply as "rising." A little uniformity upon this and other points in the Heraldry of the Three Kingdoms might be desirable.
"Fairbairn's Book of Crests," first published in the year 1859, was originally compiled by a certain James Fairbairn, and was revised by Lawrence Butters, Seal Engraver in Ordinary to Her Majesty for Scotland. Its sale hitherto has been chiefly amongst Jewellers and Seal Engravers. Perhaps this accounts for the lamentable fact that many Crests have crept within its pages which can but be described as bogus. To have deliberately and in cold blood verified the thirty or forty thousand Crests which the Book in its previous Editions made mention of would have been a work of so many years' duration, and of so vast an expense, that it could by no possibility have ever repaid such expenditure. I have not attempted to do this, and consequently I do not pretend that this Edition is absolutely "sans peur et sans reproche," but I have detected and discarded a vast quantity that were without authority, as a moment's comparison between the two Editions will readily show.

ALPHABETICAL INDEX OF THE CRESTS OF THE
FAMILIES OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND AND THE COLONIES

Note.—The reference numbers mean, as in Aaron, plate 222, crest 3. As some assistance to engravers, and rather than leave a larger proportion than was otherwise inevitable of the crests without any reference to an illustration, the term cf. (compare) has been used, and means that the reference is given only for comparative purposes, the plate not corresponding precisely with the blazon; this term, however, being only used where the difference is but slight. It will be noticed that in the illustrations of many of the new crests the colour-lines appear in the form in which they are usually used in heraldic engraving, in order to render such illustrations perfectly correct renderings of particular crests. In cases where the same engraving would be correct if of another colour, it has been thought better to use the term "compare" (cf.) to prevent such illustrations being considered absolutely accurate.

The Lamb of God is my salvation.
The Lamb of God my Saviour.
A lamb in peace, a lion in war.
Help, O God!
Help thyself and God will help thee.
Help thyself and heaven will help thee.
Love my brother.
Love the best.
Love without fear.
Love loyalty.
Thus and perhaps better.
So it is.
For ever.
In good time.
In truth.
At the will of God.
What can't be cured must be endured.
Aim at high things.
Laid by for others.
Flying, he keeps his eye on the stars.
With wings and courage.
I am fed by birds.
Most faithful to the crown.
May you be a blessing to the generation to come.
To another, if to thee (do to another as to thyself).
Not to the injury of another.
He flies high.
I fly high.
Desire greater things.
Seek higher things.
Higher things must be aimed at.
I seek higher things.
We follow after higher things.
I cherish loftier hopes.
We must look to higher things.
They will rise higher, who aim at the highest things.
I strive higher.
For my life.
Skilful with both hands.
In friendship.
Friendship with virtue.
The league of friendship and virtue.
Love draws friendship.
Friendship constant and incorruptible.
Friendship gives honours.
Friends without guile.
Religiously faithful to your friend.
He ever loves his friends.

With wings, through the death of Christ,

I seek the sky...

By the help of Christ...

Happily, Christ being my conductor

Let us conquer with Christ as leader.

A sweet savour to Christ.

Christ is my gain.

Christ is like the pelican.

Christ will provide.

To serve Christ is true liberty.

Let Christ be the rule of life.

Reason and strength...

What God will, I will Look round you.

Quickly, not rashly.

I pursue more illustrious objects.

Brighter than the stars.

Brighter after the darkness.

More glorious from obscurity.

Hence the greater honour.

Virtue is more illustrious than preferments...

Illustrious deeds done by the right hand.

With a bright light on the right.

Industry renders illustrious.

Glory, by and by higher.

By clemency and courage.

Clemency shielded by rigour.

Clemency is power.

I hope for a heavenly crown.

Open ye heavens gate.

We sing of heavenly things.

I follow heavenly things.

By the favour of the heavens.

Having searched the heavens.

Granted by heaven.

My strength is from heaven.

Strength is from heaven.

We aim at heaven itself.

Heaven, not courage.

Change of climate does not change the mind.

Heaven, not earth.

What seek we more than heaven.

Heavenward.

Faithful heart.

Peace or war.

Love compels.

He attacks the enemy.

I think.

He who can be compelled known not how to die.

Know Myself.

Know Myself, and learn to suffer.

Worship God.

Worshipping God.

Worshipping God and the king.

Blandly but determined.

As shall please God.

As God grants...

As I was...

As I find it.

A gain, not a loss.

It is finished.

Law and equity.

We will attempt.

I am enriched by the effort.

It will be given to him who tries.

To rejoice in the Lord,
The love of our native land delights.

I escaped from the fire.

My delight.

Keep fast by the truth.

I think better and better.

From a lofty mountain.

From above.

I will enjoy heaven at last.

Heaven at last.

May perchance become obscure again.

By God and war.

God assisting.

God helping me, good fortune will follow.

When God assists there is nothing to fear.

God helping me, I will conquer.

God opposing, the lion is conquered.

I trust in God.

Practise justice, trusting in God.

Given to God.

A gift from God.

Led by God.

God my guide, Christ my light.

God for guide, fortune for companion.

God for guide, industry for companion.

Under the guidance of God, I have resolved.

God my leader, my roused my companion.

God leading, nothing hurts.

I follow, God being my guide.

By God and my sword.

By God and with labour.

For God and counry.

Faithful to God and country.

For God and my prince.

For God and the king.

I stand by God and the king.

Faithful to God and the king.

For God and virtue.

By God favouring me.

I go on increasing by the favour of God.

By the favour of God and by assiduity.

By the favour of God I shall prosper.

I go forward by the favour of God.

Being favoured by God, I overcome.

Faithful to God and the king.

Trustning in God, perpetually.

I go forward trusting in God.

Glory to God.

Thanks to God.

God inspiring me, and the king favouring me.

God assisting.

By the help of God I carry on.

I conquer by the help of God.

My hope is in God, not in my fortress.

I trust in God, not in arms.

Through God, not by chance.

I trust in God, not in arrows.

All things for God.

He makes a covenant with God.

To God, country, and friends.

Faithful to God and country.

For God, my native land, and thee.

They delight at home and do not hinder abroad.
For God, my country, and my long...
For God, my king, and my country...
I owe it to God and the king...
For God, king, and neighbour...
Trust always in God...
My hope is in God...
If God will...
Make haste...
I am exalted by depression...
Where there is good hope...
Desire not rest...
Henceforth...
I despise earthly things...
I spurn earthly things and gaze on the Sun...
He despises what the vulgar admire...
With all my heart...
Let the reward be given to the brave...
Glory be to God...
Worship God, save the king...
God and king...
God will fill the sails...
God gives what He wishes...
God gave...
God to my right hand...
God is a sure leader...
God is liberty...
God is a sun and sword to us...
God is our refuge...
God is my peace...
God is my strength...
God is over the household...
God and liberty...
God exalts the pious...
God is a very strong leader...
God is my strength...
God steers the vessel...
God hath given this season of peace...
God hath given the increase...
God will give the increase...
God has given the increase...
God blesses industry...
Let God be in our midst...
God assists...
God is my light...
God a greater pillar of support...
God sustains me...
God is my comfort...
My God my leader...
God is my helper...
God is my forteress...
God will provide for me...
God is my sun...
God is my hope and safeguard...
God for us...
God with us...

Note: The table above contains Latin phrases and their English translations. The text appears to be a list of names or terms followed by corresponding English phrases, possibly indicating religious or historical contexts.

Doce well and let them say. Do good. Do it with thy might. Dohore dente lancea siti. Domat omnis virtus. Donum ac foris. Domine, dirige nos.

Dominus provident.

Doucement, mais fermente. Do well, and doubt not. Do well, and let them say.

Diligence is the mother of fortune. Learn to suffer what must be borne. Learn to die to the world. Learn to die that you may live. Learn to suffer.

By discipline, faith, and perseverance. Learn justice. Learn justice, having been warned. Safety in decision.

By disposing, not by changing me. The more fragrance with lapse of time. He keeps fresh and green for a long time.

The beauty of the country is from God. She chants to herself divine strains.

By divine strength. I heal decisions.

The Lord will provide. To restore an ancient house. Until it fill the world. Until it fill the world.

To give and forgive. The Lord himself will do it. The Lord is my rock.
Do well, doubt not.
Do well, doubt nought.

Est pili Deum et patriam diligere

(Exhortation to Duty)

It is the duty of a pious man to love God
And his native country.

Et voluntas Dei

It is the will of God.

Et arma et virtus

Both arms and valour.

Et arte et marte

Both by art and force.

Et custos et pugnas

Both a warrior and a champion.

Et decumpta dabunt odorem

And plucked, they will give forth an odour

Et decus et pretium recti

Both the glory and reward of integrity.

Et Diesum mon appay

And my God my support.

Et dixi nunc corpili

I have said, now I begin.

Et domi et foris

Both at home and abroad.

Et tenetris lux

Light out of darkness.

Et tempitatem cognita

Think on eternity.

Et terra ad coelum

From earth to heaven.

Et terrae germine ad coelum expansa

I sprout out of the earth, I expand to heaven.

Et fide et virtute

By both faith and virtue.

Et semper...

And I hope for the end.

Et justi et crav.

Both just and true.

Et loquor et taceo

I speak and hold my tongue.

Et manu et corde

With hand and heart.

Et arte et arte

Both by strength and art.

Et mea messis crit

My harvest also will come.

Et mortua virescunt

And they become green when dead.

Et neglecta virescit

And we also have through death.

Et patrias et posteriatis

Both for forefathers and posterity.

Et servata fides perfectus amore dabitur...

Both faith preserved and perfect love will enrich.

Et si ostendi non jacto

And if I show what I am, I do not boast.

Et teneo et tenor

Both hold and hold.

Et ile weel.

Aim well.

Et vi et virtute

Both by strength and valour.

Et vitam impendere vero

To sacrifice life for truth.

By going...

I have found it.

Et suaves mey.

And follow me.

I both hold and hold.

Evertendo succumbat

It fertilizes while it overthrows.

Every bullet has its billet.

Watch those who sleep.

Go forward.

Go well.

He will exult with honour.

Hie sola sancta esse,

I am my salvation.

My exultation.

From the soul.

From arduous enterprise an unyielding name

Honour from arms.

Rest from war.

Truth out of obscurity.

From the field of victory.

Honour from sincerity.

Still higher.

My love never fails.

Though cut off, I flourish green.

To be spirited, not sluggish.

He awakes.

From concord there is hope of victory.

Out of the heart charity.

He shakes his wings then sings.

I have tried.

The examples of his ancestors.

Brave from trust.

Light is from flame.

Out of everlasting waters.

Victory by this sign.

I live from this.

From industry.

The end proves actions.

From liberty.

Profit from light.

By desert.

Fortitude and justice are invincible.

Fortitude and prudence.

Faulty fortitude is rewarded with honour.

Fortitude in adversity.

Stronger while united.

Fortune assists the daring.

Fortune assists the daring but baffles the timid.

Fortune is my companion.

Fortune and honour from above.

By fortune and labour.

May fortune favour us.

The tree is known by its fruit.

Charity hath fruit.

By the fruit, not the leaves.

It is known by the fruit.

Fruits of faith.

We conquer by flying.

Flee from all thieves.

The hour flies.

Time flies beyond recall.

Honesty

From this quarter honour, from that protection,

Hence delight.
Hence honour is derived.
Hence stronger and more illustrious.
Hence our hopes.
Hence honour and wealth.
Hence honor and safety.
Hence we shall be enlightened.
Hence comes increase.
Hence praise and honour.
Hence my salvation.
Hence fragrance and health.
Hence our origin.

Hence I arise.
Hence beams forth our hope.
(Hereforward I will seek after heavenly things.)
Perseverance.

With these I will tread down nations.
Arms to these brave men.
Glory renders honours to them.
We rely on these and are strengthened by them.

By these little things grow great.
With these we render service to the king.

This is the work of my ancestors.
This is the work of my ancestors.

Safe by this.

Hence a burden, but an honour.
With this I conquer.
This the work of virtue.
To-day, not to-morrow.

Sharpen thy battle-axe.

Hold fast.

Hominem te esse memento.
I am a man.
I seek honourable things.
How great are honourable deeds.
How illustrious are honourable deeds.
Honour.
Honour.
Honesty is the best policy.
Our antiquity stands on honour.
Honesty.
Honourably bold.
Honourably and constantly.
Things honourably got.
I live by my honour.

Here faithful and with strength.
This is the fruit of valour.
Here to-day, to-morrow the urn.
This is labour.
This is labour, this a task.
This is a broken wall.
I am nourished safe here.
Honesty is good policy

I live by what is honourable

I prefer what is honourable to what is useful

He has preferred the honourable to the useful

What is honourable for my country

The honourable is the native soil of the useful

I prefer the honourable to the useful

My honour is my guide

Honour and faith

Honesty and honesty

Honesty and truth

The reward of fidelity

The reward of virtue

Honour and love

Honour, love, and fear

Death honour.

With honour and love

By honour and arms

By honour and labour

With honour and virtue

With honour unainted I despise fortune

Honour and love

Honour, piety

My honour lives after death

Honour with the power of honouring

Honour is the reward of virtue

Honour and approved virtue

Honour follows him who shuns it

Honour, truth and justice

Honour, virtue, and probity

Honour is the reward of virtue

Honour is the reward of virtue

Honour is the price of virtue

Honour cherishes the arts

Honour to whom honour

Honour the reward of fidelity

Honour the reward of industry

Honour the attendant of virtue

Honour more glorious than life

It is the reward of virtue

Immutabilis.
Immutabilis est vera virtus.
Immobillis invicta mansa
I look at the sun with eye uninjured.
Immobile
Immutabilis innocentia
I mean well.
I mean no harm.

Salvation from the cross.
In Deo confidemus

In Deo confido

My confession is in God
In God is all my trust
In God in my self I trust
In God and myself I trust
In God and myself I trust
In God and myself I trust
In God and my hand is my trust
In God is my hope
In God is our trust
In God is our hope
All things are in God
In God is my strength
In God safety
In God we have safety
In God alone is my hope
In God alone is strength
My only salvation is in God
In God I have hoped
I hope in God
In God is hope
In God is my hope
In God is my defence
Thence the more secure
Thence hope
Defying envy, the just shall flourish

Under this sign you shall conquer.

In hoc signo vince.

In hoc signo...
In utrumque paratus
Prepared for both.

In utrumque prosequi paratus
Prepared for both and in both.

Inveniam aut faciam
I shall find a way or make one.

In veritas victoria
Victory in truth.

Invictus marne
I remain unattached.

Invictus manes
I disdain unchastity.

Invidere sperno
I disdain envy.

Invidia major
Above envy.

In vigilia sic vincis
In watchfulness thus will you conquer.

Invicta
I triumph in truth.

Invictus
In spite of fortune.

Invitis venit
In spite of fortune.

Invitum sequitur honor
Honour follows though unsought for.

Ipse amicus
He is a very friend.

Ipse fecit nos
Himself made us.

Iam leonis noli timere
Fear not the rage of the lion.
Ire in adversa
I renew my age
I rise by industry
I rise with the morning.
Irreproachable.
Irdeo tempestatem.
Irrupta copula.
I ruke while I see.
I saved the King.
I’se mak’ sick.
I show not boast.
I sorrow.
Ita.
Iterum iterumque.
It is fortified.
It is good to be blown.
Ito tu et fac similiter.
It shall flourish.
Itur ad astra.
I wait my time.
I will.
I will defend.
I will never quit.
I will not forget.
I will who will not.

To advance against things adverse
An unbroken bond
I deride the storm.
Thus.
Again and again.
Go thou and do likewise.
Our way is to the stars.

Jamais arrière.
Jamais chancelant.
Jamais sans espérance.
Jam jam.
Jam transit hycms.
J’aspire.
J’avance.
Jamais allattu.

With javelins, not with bow.
I have served well.
My cause is good.
I have good hope.
I have the key.
I love always.
I love liberty.
I love the best.
I love my God, my King, and my country.
Never cast down.

Never behind.
Never wavering.
Never without hope.
Just now.
Winter is now passing away.
I aim.
I advance.

J’ai bien servi.
J’ai bonne cause.
J’ai bonne espérance.
J’ai la cle.
J’aime à jamais.
J’aime la liberté.
J’aime la meilleure.
J’aime mon Dieu, mon Roi, et mon pays.
Jamais abattu.

I have hoped for the best.
I have told my faith in my speaker.

I Bowes.

I seek but one.
I shall never forget.
I shall not forget.
I think.
I acquire that I may distribute.
I will hold my power by my faith.
I hold firm.
I keep faith.
I turn towards the west.
I find good.
I wish for fair fight.
I wish for the right.
I live in hope.
I live in hope.
I wish to have my right.
I see.
To enjoy innocently.
Day of my life !
I confide in love.
All things are full of love.
Past labours are pleasant.
I am greatly delighted.
I am ready.
The judgment of our poor.
The judgment of the poor, or the law of the land.
Arms united to glory.
Fidelity wedded to courage.
We are strong united.
I am joined that I may be complete.
I have sworn and doubly sworn.
By right, by gift.
It is honourable to dispense justice.
Right has flourished.
I will look after my right.
To every one his right.
India subdued by the king's command.
Do what is just, fear nothing.
I will follow just things.
Just and right.
Justly and bravely.
Just and true.
Just and fair.
Let the just inhabit the earth.
Justice.
Tenacious of justice and my purpose.
Their eyes are fixed on their own interests.
Is it the sister of justice.
By justice and mercy.
Justice and fortitude are invincible.
Tenacious of justice.
Justice and truth.
Justice and valour.

The mountain is not moved, nor does the blast subsist.

Neither change nor fear,
Neither obscure nor low,
Neither to oppress nor to be oppressed,
Neither do I hesitate at trifles,
No content with quiet repose.
Neither by prayer nor bribery.
Neither to seek nor despise honor,
Neither for king nor people, but for both,
Nor doth he suffer them to be savage.
Neither by chance nor fate,
Neither despise nor fear.
Neither rashly nor slowly.

Neither rashly nor timidly.
Neither by time nor fate.
Do not seek thyself outside of thyself.
I neither fear nor despise.
Neither timid nor rashly.

Neither sad nor fearful.
Neither sad nor fearful.

Ne let your swords be the slaves of any one...
Neither by violence nor cunning.
Neither by power nor numbers.
Neither by force nor on fear.
Neither to me wishing nor flying.
Let valour not fail.
Being innocent, fear no one.

No one provokes me with impunity.

No one is born for himself.
None is happy but by the cross.
Forget me not...
Do not forget.
Neither spare nor despise...
Nothing false.
Not too much of anything.
Antiquity cannot abolish it.
Love knows no boundaries.
He is not known by Christ.
A word once uttered cannot be recalled.
Not beyond...
Do not attempt, or else accomplish.
Do not seek thyself outside of thyself.
Fear not doing what is right.
Do not cross the bridge.

OMN

All good is from above.
All good is from above.
All find delight in woods.
Every land is a native country to a brave man.
Every land is our native country.
Every land is a living man's country.
He has gained every point, who has mixed the useful with the sweet.
All that is well.
All things are good to the good.
Make everything certain.
I owe all things to God.
I trust all things to God.
I can do all things with God's help.
Everything depends on God.
The time brings all things.
It strengthens all things.
I commit all things to fortune.
All my goods are the gift of God.
All earthly things are full of confusion.
All things for the good.
I commit all things to Providence.
All things rightly.
Diligence overcomes all difficulties.
Conquests all.
Love conquers all things.
Labor overcomes everything.
Truth conquers everything.
A friend to everybody.
The best for all.
Free from all fear.
Everything prospers.
All things are subject to change.
Greater than all violence.
With the aid of God.
We must live.
Conceal what is best.
Truth is best.
To the man of honour everything best.
A star the best revelation.
The best wisdom is integrity.
Hoping for the best; I live.
To the most meritorious.
What is done opportunely is best.
To bear is best.
What is first is best.
Best is he who does best.
He becomes great by the wished-for name.
Pray and labour.
By prayer I shall behold thee.
Pray and watch.
The world being great around.
I speak with the mouth, I believe with the heart.
The East wood.
Prudence adorns the brave man.
The root is adorned with the foliage.

Peace, we suffer and hope.
Peace, we suffer, I obtain.
He who conquers suffers.
My country is dear, but my religion is dearer.

My country is dear, but liberty is dearer.

Faithful to country and religion.
Faithful to fatherland.
Hence he sustains his country.
Few things I have looked up to, and fewer looked down upon.
By little and little.
Not poor in hope.
Peace.

Beautiful peace returns.
Peace is acquired by arms.
Peace or war.
Peace or defence.
Peace, plenty.
Peace, plenty, wisdom.
Peace, plenty, valour.
Peace and love.
Peace and plenty.
Peace and liberty.
Peace and hope.
Peace the end of war.
Peace in war.
A just peace.
Peace is the best of things.
Peace is better than war.
Peace is sought by war.
Thy peace, O Lord, is my rest.
Peace be with you.
Peace and grace.
Peace and plenty.
Peace with power.
Step by step.
A true heart will make gold.
Weigh well.
As you think.
Think of good.
Think of me.
As you think.
Think firmly.
I have brought forth.
Through.
The intention is judged of by the act.
You attempt by doing it.
By the stratagems of war.

Virtue through opposition... Through dangers to honour... Through danger... By an ancient charter...

Through difficulties...

Through difficulties to heaven... Through difficulties, God helping... Famine through difficulties... Free through difficulties...

Steady in difficulties... Be steadfast in difficulties...

I rise through difficulties...

By rugged paths to the sweet joys of the cross...

By the cross to the stars... I trust through the cross...

When struck down I rise again...

Smitten down I am lifted up...

Through losses, through carnage...

Through the providence of God...

Through my God I leap over a wall...

Integrity endures...

Through the church to heaven...

Nothing is everlasting under heaven...

Nothing is enduring under the sun...

Perforated, bored...

Go on, but cautiously...

I advance upward...

Perfidia preserved me from danger...

By fire... By sword...

I would have perished, had not I persisted...

We had perished, had we not persisted...

By its opposite...

We are ruined by permitted things...

A sure love in doubtful circumstances...

By industry...

He lost his life that he might gain it...

Through precipices and torrents...

Through light and darkness my star will arise in blood...

By sea...
By rocks, by fires...
Persever and trust in God
Persever and conquer...

By persevering,
Perseverance...

By perseverance and caution...
Perseverance...

By perseverance to the wished-for end...
It will be given by perseverance...

By perseverance and care...
Perseverance...

By perseverance and labour...

By perseverance, industry, and fidelity...
Perseverance conquers all things...

By perseverance the palm...
Perseverance will obtain the palm...

Victor through perseverance...
Perseverance conquers...

It will be given to the persevering...

By various fortunes...

By right ways...
Steadfast in the right...

By strength and courage...
By courage and knowledge...

Sloth is the plague of one's country...
He aims at high things...

Courage aims at hard things...

Light from the sun...
Phobus, light in darkness...
Piously and bravely...

In pious confidence...
Pity and thrift...
Pity is the surest virtue...

By pity...
By pity and uprightness...

Stronger by pity...

by the pity of my forfathers...

For the sake of pity...
Pious though valiant...

To live piously, and love God and our country...
The pledge of love...

I will return to sea...
Be mine to please...
Let me find favour as long as I live...

Simply and sensibly...

Pleasure costs pain...

God will fill our sails...

The full moon shines...

More by thorns than the sword...

Be more watchful...

Courage...
More...

More beyond...
Break rather than bend...
Little by little...

The prize is to him that carries off the body...

To have the power without the wish is noble...

They are able who believe they can...

I shall grow in the esteem of posterity...

Fresh in the praise of posterity...

Opportunity is hid behind...

Interest after death...

Survives death...

After a man our courage is strengthened...

Our virtue flourished after death...

After clouds...

After clouds sunshine...

After clouds sunshine...

After battles rewards...

After the thorns the palm...

After darkness light...

After darkness...

After so many shipwrecks I find a port...

I run after virtue...

Virtue rather than lineages...

Rather by genius than strength...

Death rather than disgrace...

I cannot forget to learn...

To wish well...

To be good...

To deserve...

For God and my King...

For God, for the land...

For ever...

For the faith...

For the church...

For the King...

For maintaining loyalty...

For my liberty, for my country...

For my country...

For my God...

For my King...

Why not...

For three...

In order to accomplish...

Push forward...

Urge your way among the leaders...

Hardi.. trum... in safety...

The more illustrious, the nearer...

Honourable service to King and country...

The harder, the more honour...

Mindful of the prize...

The reward is honour...

Reward, courage, glory...

Reward, courage, honour...

The reward of virtue...

I strive for God.
For God and the Catholic faith.
For God and the Church.
For God, for the King, for the country, and the law.
For God, my country, and my King.
For the Church of God.
For the faith.
For my faith and country.
For our faith and country.
For our law and kings.
For liberty.
For liberty ratified by law.
For the liberty of my country.
For sport and pleasure.
For Magna Charta.
For myself and others.
A crown for a mitre.
Quickly and with advice.
Ready.
Ready for the contest.
Ready and faithful.
For the love of my country.
For my country, by the aid of God.
For my country and its liberty.
For our country and liberty.
For country and King.
For my country and religion.
For my country and virtue.
Invincible for my country.
To die for my country.
Not afraid to die for my country.
For my country often, for my King always.
My blood for my country.
For my country always.
I burn for my country.
To live and die for my country.
Quickly and cautiously.
Tenacious of purpose.
Daring by my own valour.

What is true and safe...
What I wish will be...
What he wishes, he forcibly wishes...
Whither right and glory point...
Wherever fate may call...
The more honourable the more safe...
The greater the more useful...
Where my country calls me...
Formerly we conquered with these arms...
The readier we are...
Why live to die? To die is life...
The bow which love hath given...
The more thorns, the greater fragrance...
Whither is truth fled?...
Where virtue and destiny call...
I climb where virtue leads...
Where virtue calls...
Leaves strengthen the root...
The rays illuminate all things...
The root quivers with the branches...
Wins triumphs with the sword...
I shall be snatched aloft to the stars...
A rare bird in the world...
Goodness is scarce...
Reason is sufficient for me...
By reason, not by rage...
By reason, not by force...
Reason contents me...
Brave in adversity...
It refreshes and cherishes...
Constant in difficulties...
Act rightly in difficulties...
Seek what is right...
I follow right on...
Right or difficult...
Straight at difficulties...
I trust doing rightly...
Rightly and faithfully...
Rightly and wisely...
Rightly and mildly...

Sapere aude
Sapere aude et tace.
Sapere aude, incipe.
Sapere et tacere.
Sapient dominabitur astris.
Sapienti caritas est.
Sapienti et virtut.
Sapienti tutus.
Sapit qui Deus sapit.
Sapit qui laborat.
Sapit qui reputat.
Sat amico si mihi felix.
Sat cito si sat bene.
Sat cito si sat tuto.
Satis est prostrasse leoni.
Satis imperat qui sibi est imperiosus.

Save me, Lord.
Savoir pouvoir.
Save through.
Say and do.
Scandit sublimis.
Scandit sublimis virtus.
Scientia laboris, memora.
Scienter uxor.
Scio cuir CONFito.
Scio cui credidi.
Scire sapere facere.
Sede celsissimum.
Secopis vitae Christus.
Scripta manent.
Scuto amoris divini.
Scuto amoris divina.
Secundum securus.
Secundum fidem.
Secuto magis quam gladio.
Scutum meum Jehovah.
Sea or land.
Secret et hanc.
Secum cuique.
Secundat vera fides.
Secundis dubius e rectus.
Secundum cursum.
Secura frugilitas.
Secura prudenter.
Secum amid perils.
Secume vieire mors est.
Securesque pariter.
Securis fecit securum.
Securiat.
Securum presidium.

Without fear.
Without God I cannot.
Without God nothing.
Without evil.
Without evil desire.
Without fear.
Without ever drawing back.
Without stain.
Without change, and for my right.
Without change.

Dare to be wise.
Dare to be wise, and say nothing.
Dare to be wise, begin.
Be wise, and say nothing.
The wise man shall rule over the stars.
Wise and just.
The wise man wanteth not.
He is wise who is assimous.
He is wise who is quick.
Wisely and piously.
Wise, if sincerely.
Wise to enjoy blessings.
Wisdom is the gift of God.
The house is build up by wisdom.
Wisdom and truth.
Safe by wisdom.
He is wise who is wise through God.
He who labors is wise.
He who considers is wise.
Enough for my friend, if happy for me.
Quick enough if well enough.
Quick enough if safe enough.
It is enough to have crouched to the lion.
He commands enough who has dominion over himself.

Knowledge is power.
It scales great heights.
Mindful of knowledge and labour.
I know in whom I trust.
I know whom I have believed.
To know, to be wise, and to do.
Skiilfully, quickly, surely.
Christ is the aim of my life.
By the shield of divine love.
By the shield of divine love.
With the shield of faith.
With the shield more than the sword.
Jehovah is my shield.
Under a favourable omen.
Real fidelity prophers.
Upright in prosperity and in perils.
I further, I am careful.
Frugality is secure.
What prudent people do is secure.
The better prepared, the more secure.
The axe makes secure.
The fortress is secure.
Semper eadem. Always the same.

Semper erectus. Always erect.

Semper et ubique fidelis. Always and everywhere faithful.

Semper fidelis. Always faithful.

Semper fidelis esto. Be always faithful.

Semper fidelis et audax. Always faithful and brave.

Semper fidatus. Always true.

Semper floreat. Always the same.

Semper idem. Semper idem.

Semper in tempore. Always in time.

Semper liber. Always free.

Semper melliora sporo. Always for better things I hope.

Semper oliam rogo divos. I always ask thee, O God.

Semper parere. To be obedient always.

Semper parati. Always prepared.

Semper paratus. Always ready.

Semper paratus pugnare pro patria. Always ready to fight for my country.

Semper patriae seruo praesto. Be always ready to serve your country.

Semper praecinctus. Always girt.

Semper pugnare paratus. Always ready to fight.

Semper sapit suprema. It is always supremely wise.

Semper sic. Always thus.

Semper sitiens. Always thirsty.

Semper spero meliora. I always hope for better things.

Semper sursum. Always upward.

Semper ut te digna sequare. That you may always follow those worthy of you.

Semper verus. Always true.

Semper victor. Always a conqueror.

Semper vigilans. Always watchful.

Semper vires. Always flourishing.

Semper virescens. Always flourishing.

Semper virexcect virtus. Virtue will always flourish.

Semper viridulis. Always green.

Semper virtute constans. Always constant in virtue.

Semper virtute vivo. Always live by virtue.

Semper vigilans. Always watchful.

Sempre in un modo...
To love is to deny one's self.

I grow green when buried.

Let us follow.

Follow me, it is the will of God.

By pursuing one attains.

He follows his father with unequal steps.

He follows the steps of his fathers.

Victory follows the brave.

I follow.

I, yet am not inferior.

Be always courageous.

Freedom or death.

Actions in harmony with our words.

The promise made to the ashes of my forefathers has been kept.

Faith kept with the dead.

Like serpents and dew.

Jehovah will always preserve me.

I will keep faith.

Keep faith.

Keep the yoke.

Keep the yoke under the yoke.

To observe the middle way.

To observe the duties of life.

Servant of the servants of God.

The promise made to the ashes of my forefathers has been kept.

Servant of the King.

By serving.

I govern by serving.

To serve God securely.

To serve God is to rule.

More illustrious by serving.

Servant of the servants of God.

Peace at the last.

The tradition of Ireland.

This way to the stars.

A dagger to his enemies.

The palm to him who so well merits it.

All things are thus fading.

Thus he enchains all.

So run that you may obtain.

Thus until.

If he shakes his swift wings.

Thus I keep my faith.

Thus true and strong.

Thus it was, is, and shall be.

Thus to those who love.

This is the way to the stars.

This is the way to heaven.

Thus we guard our sacred rights.

Thus formerly.

Thus more ready.

Thus great things from small.

Thus I go more honourably.

Thus supported it grows.

We did not see thee thus formerly.

Thus safe.

As on eagle's wings.

He shall flourish as the lily.

Like the green olive-tree, I rejoice in the house of God.

As the oak.

Just as we saw we reap.

Thus industry flourishes.

Thus virtue flourishes.

Thus I flourish.

So virtue flourishes.
Such is life ...
Thus to live, ye shall live
So the Fates determine
So you, not for yourselves
If God be with us, who can be against us?
If God be with us, who can be against us?
If God be with us, who can be against us?
If God is for us, who is against us?
If God wishes:
Let a friendly star be with you
Though broken, brave...
All things are scaled with the hand
There is the token of peace...
Seeking a sign in a fleec...
If I were not...
If I could...
If I can...
With silence and hope...
The rueful gown covered with leaves like metal...
Prepared when the trumpets warn...
Flame and noot...
The simple defence of truth...
Simple as boys, wise as serpents...
Sincerity...
With sincerity...
I prostrate without injuring...
Let it be done without crime...
Without God, in vain...
Nothing without God...
Without guilt...
Without end...
Faith without deceit...
Without injury...
Honour without stain...
Faith without dishonour...
He shall shine without dishonour...
Noted without dishonour...
Without stain...
Stained without stain...
Without fear...
Without the Deity nothing...
Upwards without weight...
A conqueror without blood...
Nothing without the sun...
Can stand with power...
Without fear...
When they are strong separately they are more so together...
Singly in hope...
If not by stratagem by assault...
If more is not permitted...
The fox to victory...
Peace and plenty...
If I can...
If I could...
If you will do rightly...
Be thou brave...
If there be prudence...
Be just, and fear not...
Be just and fear not...
If the trumpets sound I am ready...
Be pious first of all...
Let God be amid my studies...
Wisdom be our guide...
May your fate be thence happy...
Let praise be to God...
Liberty be mine...
Let the name be a glory...
Let there be order in all things...
Let the stone be firm...

SYN

Under the shadow of thy wings
Rest under the shade
I will rest under the shade
Success comes from God
Seek and ye shall find Harnessed I follow my ancestors
It is enough to have deserved
His own reward
Forgetful of his own interest
Faithful everywhere to his chiefs
He rests on his own strength
Following St. Peter
Follow the right
Follow me
Follow reason as your guide
Victory over self points out the king
With all one's might Let me neither fear nor wish for the last day
I am what I am
We are where we were
They are foreign
His rewards are with praise
These three are one
He strengthens himself by his own might Virtue stands by its own strength
Hear celestial things and keep silence
Virtue will conquer all things
I humble proud things
I follow higher things
Seek things above
I seek it
I follow heavenly things
My desires extend beyond the stars
I hope beyond hope
A hand stronger than the highest
I seek the highest Upon hope
Sure and loyal
I shall rise
Rise to shine
I strive to rise
A arise, the light is near After clouds, rises the sun
I arise, light is near Hearts upward
Upward and onward
I look upwards
To undertake and finish
Look up
Upheld by Providence
I bear the standards with blood
Sustain, abstain
Sustain and abstain
I keep the standard in the midst of blood
To every one his own
Give to every man his own
Giving to every man his own
Wonder at thyself

Everything gets done...
He shewed a safe road...
A safe refuge.
I will plant you safe ashore by my strength
I will render you safe by my strength.
Safe amid war...
Safe amid the waves.
Safe by a ready mind.
Safe, if brave.
It is thine.
Do thou break the chains.
It was possessed by Tyrian colonists.

Where there is love there is fidelity...
One's country is where one is well...
Where faith is there is strength.
Where have I fallen? What have I done?
Where there is liberty, there is my country
Everywhere or nowhere...
Everywhere faithful...
Everywhere prepared...
To remember your country everywhere.
Where there is land there is sky.
Further...
I look farther.
My mind carries me farther.
To advance farther.

A god, one king...
One God, one King...
One God, one King, one heart...
One God, one King, one faith...
Supported all round...
The same while I live...
Once...
One and the same faith...
One faith, one law...
A pure faith...
A barrier...

Friend to virtue alone...
Christ is my only hope.
Virtue alone is necessary.
The smallest things flourish by union...
Stronger by union...
Stronger from union...

One King, one faith, one law...
One alone...
One and the same...
Let me be one and the same...
Even to the altar...
A friend even to the altar...

Inactivity is an enemy to virtue.
Fortifications may yield to bravery.
Nothing withstands virtue and arms.
I trust to virtue, not to arms.
All things obey virtue.
Of virtue.
By the love of virtue.
The reward of my ancestors' value.
Envy is the attendant of virtue.
The glory of virtue increases.
Glory is the recompense of value.
Glory obtained by virtue.
Honour is the reward of virtue.
The record of bravery in war.
Dares are the praise of virtue.
Virtue's reward.
Honour is the reward of virtue.
A palace the reward of bravery.
A country the recompense of bravery.
Strength in virtue's strength.
The pedigrees of virtue.
A man safe and faithful.
Seen things established by unseen.
Look to the end.
Live in hope.
Power and fidelity.
Force and courage.
Vigour is arms to brave men.
By force, not by constraint.
God the strength in life.
Power over the enemy.
The force of truth is great.
Weak is the strength of man.
The life short, the glory eternal.
Fear no one in performing the duties of life.
Great heart.
Virtue is the way of life.
It guides my life.
To devote life to the truth.
By hope, custom and faith.
To be able to enjoy the former part of life.
Liberty is better than life.
Let me live to praise thee.
Let them live while they are green.
Let Greatrakes live and always flourish.
Long life to the King.
May truth flourish.
Live for God.
Live for God that you may live.
Live in hope.
Live and let live.
Live to-day.
May honesty flourish.
Long live joy.
Long live the pen.
Long life to the King.
By violence or mildness.
Live mindful of death; time flies.
I shall yet any while elate.
To conquer is to live enough.
Live to live again.
Live, that you may hereafter live.

I will make haste, that I may have rest.
Flying, I despise reptiles...
Willingly and powerfully
Nothing is hard to a willing mind.
I am willing, but not able.
The will of God.
He despises dangers.
My life is vowed.
With prayers and strenuous exertion.
Be favourable to my prayers.
Vows should be respected.
True to the end.
True faith

Who cannot bear good and evil shall obtain no great honours.

Walk in the fear of God
Ware the horn
Waste not Watch
Watch and pray
Watchful and bold
Watch the temptation
Watch well

Whatever thy hand findeth to do it with thy might.
What was may be.
Where vertu lys love never dys
Who most has served is greatest.
Who dares win?
Whyll God wyll

Will God, and I shall.
Will well,
Wil sone wil.
Wisdom above riches.
Wisdom and strength.
Wisdom's beginning is God's fear.
Wise and harmless.
With heart and hand.
Without fear.
Without God castles are nothing.
Without help from above the arrow flies.

With thy might.
With truth and diligence.

Woodnotes wild.
Work and wait.

Note.—For purposes of comparison, an asterisk is affixed to names in cases where the engraving does not precisely correspond with the blazon as given in the text. [See note at p. 1, Part I.] In cases where a crest is absolutely accurate as regards one or more families of a particular name, while it may vary slightly (in colour lines, for example) from another family of the same name, the name is not repeated with an asterisk; therefore, when it is desired to ascertain the precise blazon for various families of the same name, reference should be made to the text under the particular surname required.

ALPACA. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ANGEL. (222. 5, 8, 14)

APALAMBO, a plain ring. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ANTÉLÉPSE, an animal of the deer kind, with two straight taper horns. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ANTSÉLÉPSE, HERALDIC, a fabulous animal, with the body of a stag and the tail of a unicorn, and having a tusk at the tip of the nose, tufts down the back part of the neck, and on the tail, chest, and thighs. (222. 5, 8, 14)

APAMEE, a term applied to the hand when the palm is visible and opened. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ARCHER. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ARGENT, silver, usually represented and considered as white, and when engraved the surface is left plain. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ARM. This, and also the hand, occurs in many positions in Heraldry, particularly amongst Crests (222. 5, 8, 14). The various positions are as follows—

When two hands clasp each other they are known as conjoined. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ARMED, a term used when the horns, teeth of any beast, and the beak or claws, tusks, or talons of any bird, are in colour different from the body; it is then said to be armed of that colour. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ARMED, occasionally used to mean in armour. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ARROW. See plate 125.

ASSURED, rising out of the sea. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ASTROLABE, an instrument for taking the altitude of the sun or stars. (222. 5, 8, 14)

ATTIRE, a term used when the antlers or horns of a stag, hart, buck, or antelope are mentioned as of a different colour. (222. 5, 8, 14)

BALL, FIRE-. See GRENADE.

BAND, the fillet or bandage by which a garb, a sheaf of arrows, etc., are bound. (222. 5, 8, 14)

BANDED, when the band of a garb, etc., is of a colour different from the garb itself, it is said to be banded, and the colour described. (222. 5, 8, 14)

BANNER. See plate 176

BAR, a straight horizontal band. (222. 5, 8, 14)
BARRED, a term used when referring to the five green leaves on the outside of a full-blown rose which are the barbs. 149. 2
BARBED AND FLIGHTED, a term applied to birds when the head and feathers differ in tincture from the shaft.
BAR-GENELLE, a double bar, or two narrow bars placed near and parallel to each other. see 128. 10
BARKACLE, a water-fowl resembling a goose.
BARKULE, a diminutive of the bar—one half its width.
BARKULY, divided into several equal parts, each part being the width of a barulet.
BARKY, transversely divided into several equal parts, of two or more tinctures interchangeably disposed; the number of divisions usually specified as barry of six, eight, ten, or twelve.

BASE, the lower part.
BASILISK, a fabulous creature like the cockatrice, a bird with the head of a dragon at the end of its tail.

BAT, see 200. 3 1. 5. 9
BATTLE-AXE, see 172. 3
BATTLEMENTS, the upper works of a castle or tower see 50. 4
BEACON, a fire-beacon, used as a signal.

BEAK, the bill of a bird; in birds of prey when with the claws of another colour termed armed.
BEAKED, birds are termed beaked when the bills are of a different tincture from their bodies.

BEAR, see 34 and 35
BEARS' PAWS. See 36. 6. See under Lions' Gambes.
BEAVER, see 134. 8
BEETS and BEEBHIVES. see plate 137.
BELL, see Church-Bell and Hawk's Bell.
BELLED, a term applied to the hawk or falcon when both legs have bells upon them, 85. 5. If the word be not used in the blazon, the bird will carry only one bell, and that on the sinister leg.
BEND. See PER BEND.
BEND, one of the nine ordinaries; it occupies one-third part of the field or crest, and is drawn diagonally from the dexter chief to the sinister base.
BENDLET, a diminutive of the bend of one-half its breadth. see 60. 10; 66. 12
BEND SINISTER, IN, placed in the opposite position to bendways. The swords in 170. 170. 4, and in 195. 1 are all in bend sinister.
BENDWAYS, obliquely, or in bend.

BENDY, divided into an equal number of pieces in a slanting direction from the dexter chief to the sinister base.

BEZANT, a flat circular piece of gold, supposed to represent the gold coin of that name. See Roundel.
BEZANTEs, semee of, or strewn with bezants. See Semeé

BIBLE, see 13. 1; 71. 6; 73. 6; 97. 3.

BLACKAMOORS' HEADS. plate 182. 2. 4. 7; 191. 3. 4. 51 192. 4. 6. 7; 13
BLACKBIRD. see 106. 2
BLADED, a term used when the stalk or blade of grain is shown upon the ear, or when a tincture different from the ear or fruit; thus an ear of wheat or, bladed.
BLAZON (w), the heraldic description, in words, of a coat-of-arms or crest; (v) to heraldically describe in words. To represent in colour is to emblazon. To outline only, labelling the colours, is to trick.

BOAR. plate 40
BOARS' HEADS, coupled or erased "close" (42. 2; 43. 1), are almost without exception the only forms of the head used in Scotland and Wales, and consequently the additional and descriptive term used above is more often omitted than not.
When blazoned "crest," it is shown as in 43. 1. When a coronet takes the place of a wreath this form of head must be blazoned as upon the coronet (and not issuing from it), and shown as 42. 11. The head with the neck, as 41. 5, is supposed to be the more general form for English crests, but there is no hard and fast rule that can be observed as to this, for both forms occur; though for distinctive reasons words "and neck" are often added.

BOAT. see 147. 4
BOOK. see 138. 215
BOUQUET. See WATER BOUQUET.

BOW. See CROSS-BOW.
BOW should really be always blazoned, either as strung, unstrung, or sans strings; but in the first case this is often omitted (see 172. 12; 108. 9; 108. 9. 200. 2), though in the two latter instances the words "shooting an arrow from a bow," or "pulling an arrow to its head," are required.

BOY, naked. see 189. 6; 189. 12
BOY'S HEAD. see 182. 11
BRIDGE. The number of the arches will usually be stated. see 155. 4
BRISTLED, a term used for the hair on the neck and back of the boar, when it differs in tincture.
BROAD-ARROW differs from the pheon by having the inside of the bars plain.
BROCK. See BADGER.
BUCKLER, a term used for a shield.
BUCKLES are borne of various forms, oval, round, square, and lozenge-shaped. The position of the tongue should be stated.

BUFFALO. see 175. 5; 54. 11; 45. 10
BUGLE, a kind of ox. [The Editor believes the term with this meaning only occurs once within these volumes.] BUGLE-HORNS are usually stringed, gar-Blaunted; they are supposed to be then closed. See Tower.

Cat, generally understood to be the wild or mountain cat.

Catherine wheel.

Cockatrice, or Sacattarius, a fabulous figure composed of the upper part of a man, and the lower part of a horse, usually (though not always) represented with a bow and arrow. The latter named, however, could hardly be applied to the figure if the bow and arrow were omitted.

Chalice, a communion cup. See Cup.

Chapeau, a cap, hat, or bonnet. See Cap.

Chapel, a garland, or wreath of flowers, laurel, olive, oak, etc.

Chapel of Roses is composed of four roses only, the other part of leaves.

Civic crown, a garland of oak-leaves and acorns.

Chancery, a term applied to the law when the hand is closed. See 202.

Close, a term applied to a bird when the wings are kept close to the body (82, 2), and a helmet with the vizor down.

Clouds.

Clue. See plate 199.

Cock. See plate 90, 91.

Cock’s game.

Cockatrice, a fabulous creature, in heraldry depicted as like a wyvern, but with the head, wattles, beak, and legs of a cock.

Collared, having a collar about the neck.

Collared Gemelle, having a double collar about the neck.

Combatant, a term applied to two lions when facing each other.

Comed, when the comb or crest of a cock or cockatrice, for example, is of a colour different from the body. 90.

Comet, represented with an illuminated tail streaming from it.

Complement, in her, applied to the moon, to denote her being full.

Composite, or Company, composed of one row of small rectangular pieces, alternately of different tinctures; if there be two rows they it termed company-counter-company.

Coney, or Cony, a rabbit.

Conjoined, joined together.

Coote, a water-fowl.

Cornish chough, a species of crow or raven, black, with legs and beak red. Common in Cornwall.

Cornucopia. 13. 12: 224, 14.

Coronet. Crowns, apart from those of the different members of the Royal Family, which vary according to the degree of relationship to the Sovereign, are as follows:

1. The “Ducal coronet” of heraldry, sometimes termed a “Cimier” or crest coronet, when depicted as shown in 162, and unless stated to the contrary, has only three leaves visible. The coronet of a duke is similar in shape, but has five leaves.

2. The coronet of a Marquess. See 203.

3. The coronet of an Earl. See 182.

4. The coronet of a Viscount.

5. The coronet of a Baron. See 179.

The above illustrations show the respective coronets as when used with crests issuing therefrom and forming an unchangeable part of the crest: but when used as coronets of rank, they must not be shown without the cap belonging. [Foreign coronets are exceptions to this.]

No coronets (except in a few exceptional cases) require a wreath below them.

The following coronets are also used in heraldry.

7. Naval coronet, composed alternately of the sails and sterns of ships.

8. Eastern coronet.

11. Celestial coronet, the same as an Eastern coronet, but having each point surmounted by a star.

12. Antique coronet, usually the same as the Eastern coro.

There are other coronets in existence, but having no special names they must be minutely described.

Couchant, lying down but with the head upright (see Lodged) to distinguish from dormant.

Couped, cut clean off. 21, 11: 47, 5.

Counterchanged, an alternate changing of the colours.

Crab. 141.

Crane. 106.

Crane’s Head.

Crescent, or Crescent, a half-moon, horns turned upwards. 163.

Cressent, horns turned towards the sinister. 163.

Crescent in flames.

Crested, a term applied to the comb of a cock, or other bird, or to the head feathers of a peacock, and to the top of a pine-apple.

Crimped, relating to the hair.

Crocodile.

Cupola, dome of a building. See 157, 15.

Curling stone.

D.

Daucetie, when the teeth or incisors of a horse’s jaw are large and wide (see Indented).

Dart. See Arrow.

Decrescent, the half-moon with its horns turned towards the sinister.

Demi-Crested, a half-moon sharpened to a point.

Devouring, swallowing.

Dexter, the right; but as in heraldry the shield is supposed to be borne in front, the dexter side of the escutcheon is that on the left-hand side when looking straight at it, and similarly with crests.

Dished, a term usually applied to the eagle when in the position shown in 75. 2, which is an eagle exhibited; but 77. 5, unless blazoned “rising, as is sometimes the case, shews the claws upon the breast and the body in profile instead of affrontée, and might be described as an eagle with wings displayed.”

Dolphin. See Naïant and Hauneant.

Dominant, but occasionaly sharpened to a point.

Dominant, sleeping with the head resting upon the forepaws.

Double-queued, having two tails.

Dove.
Dovetailed.

Duck.

Duck-tailed.

Embowed, bent at the elbow.  See Arm.

Embroidered, dipped in blood; any weapon bloody, or mouths bloody with devouring prey.  174. 12, 14

Endorsed.  See Addorsed.

Enfiled, a charge is so termed when encircled by, or thrust through, anything else—e.g., a fleur-de-lis enfiled with a ducal coronet (148. 1), or a sword enfiled by a savage's head in profile couched at the neck (191. 9).

Engaileled, a term applied to a line composed of semicircular indentations.  See 8. 7; 30. 6

Ensign, a term used with crowns, coronets, and other things, when borne on or over charges; as a heart ensigned with a crown.

Entwined, generally with a snake or a cable; sometimes a sword or a staff, etc., with a branch of laurel.

Enveloped, entwined by a snake, applied to birds and animals.  77. 8

Eradicated, torn up by the roots.

Erased, forcibly torn off, leaving the separated parts jagged and uneven (see 15. 31; 17. 5). When erased of a different tincture it should be shown as 39. 7; 49. 2.

Erect, upright, or in pale. A sword, erect.  170. 2

Ermine, the.

134. 2134. 6

Ermine, white with black tufts or ermine spots.  See 19. 8

Ermines, black with white ermine spots.  See 225. 12
