FUNKHouser
Eight Generations from Isaac and Catherine (Boyer) of Shenandoah and Augusta
Counties of Virginia

Second Edition

Tumwater, Washington
MILDRED (MRS. EDWARD C.) MILEY, P. O. Box 85, Athena, Oregon 97813, sent data to make seven more pages of Hansell.

OPAL FUNKHOUSER, R. R. 2, Box 110, West Terre Haute, Indiana 47885, lives on the spot where the ancestors settled. She started early recording the personal, intimate details from conversations with her grandparents. Every letter from her brings more items to make the ancestors real people.

ARTHUR GLENN MARSHALL, 304 Wilson Avenue, Maryville, Tennessee 37801, supplied many, many pages of Shuey data, completed his own lines and contributed the marriage bond of Catherine Funkhouser and John Shuey.

MARTHA (MRS. JOHN M.) NEES, R. R. 2, Box 39, Greenup, Illinois 62428, sent many, many pages of Shuey and completed her own lines.

RUTH (MRS. MORTON) MCGAUGEY, Robinson, Kansas 66532, sent the descendants of John Gossbiner Funkhouser in Kansas.

GLADYS (MRS. LEONARD) WHEAT of Shepardsville, Indiana, supplied descendants of Hedges-Rippy, and gave valuable names and clues for further research.

KATHERINE (MRS. WILLIAM) BUSHMAN, 12 Taylor Street, Staunton, Virginia 24401 is genealogist for the Augusta County Historical Society. In her commissions at the archives of the courthouse at Staunton, she continually "keeps her eye out" for items to add.

LOUISE (MRS. DAVID) RITCHIE, Route 1, Quicksburg, Virginia 22847, is a descendant of Barbara (Funkhouser) Miller, daughter of the first Isaac Funkhouser. She has given valuable assistance with documents from Virginia.

MARY VIRGINIA (MRS. DUNCAN) THOMSON, 1115 South Brown, Terre Haute, Indiana 47803, is not of this family. Nevertheless, she copied several pages of marriages in the courthouse at Terre Haute which added much to this work. She is a member of Wabash Valley Genealogical Society at Terre Haute.

MR. FRED C. KOCH of Olympia, Washington, while not of this family, helped translate and interpret the German writing.

MR. DANIEL W. BLY of Harrisonburg, Virginia. His descent is from the immigrant John. Mr. Bly has been encouraging and helpful. He shared with me the "Fanghaus" translation in "Traditions."

Others who have helped and/or encouraged over the years: Thelma Piper, Ruth Funkhouser, Frieda Wilson, Ruth Bumgardner, Violette Buntain, Coy and Evelyn Funkhouser, Nora Wolverton, Marion Gray, Viola Starkey, Fern Boone and Gladys Crockett, many more.

This is a continuing project. I hope to make supplements, will welcome correspondence, and will answer all queries.

Introduction

These pages hold a very small segment of a huge Funkhouser Family in America. Numerous people are working on the various lines, and plans are being made to have the descendants all in one book at some future date. I have therefore brought down only the family of my great-great-great-grandparents, Isaac and Catherine (Boyer) Funkhouser who were married in 1789. The pages are purposely left unnumbered so that additions can be made at any time.

We are not able to tell the mode of travel our people used in the journeys westward. Historians have noted that many from Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky came by flatboat on the Ohio, some dropping off along the shore in Ohio to settle. Others came all the way to the Wabash and worked their way up into Indiana and Illinois. But in 1811, the Great National Road was started and thousands upon thousands trekked along its miles, pushing or pulling conveyances of any kind that would roll, stacked high with household goods and the implements to make a living from new soil. The route is paved now from Washington, D. C., to St. Louis, but at the time of the migrations, although hard surfaced, it detoured around stumps, broke down, and was never all in condition at a given time. It stretched from Cumberland, Maryland, through Wheeling, West Virginia; Zanesville, Ohio; Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Indiana; and on to Vandalia, Illinois. Into the mid 1800's a notice in a local paper might remark that no mail had come into the area that week because of the muddy condition of The Road.

The streams of humanity moved along, perhaps some in covered wagons, but many on foot, pushing a wheelbarrow or cart, maybe children out ahead or lagging behind, herding a cow or two, a herd of sheep, and sometimes even a precious flock of geese.

I am indebted to Violette (Mrs. Byron) Buntain of Clinton, Indiana, and Ruth (Mrs. Paul) Bumgardner of Indianapolis, for the following story. They share a descent from Jonathan Shirley, father of Daniel (#3-F15). Jonathan decided to join his sons in Indiana, and had son George buy land for him in Vermillion County. He started from Virginia. Eight miles short of his destination, while fording the Wabash, he slipped from the tongue of his wagon and was drowned. This was in 1862, when Jonathan was 87 years of age! Hardy people, our ancestors!

Most of them were farmers in search of land. Where one had a trade or profession, I have tried to make note of it. All of them were craftsmen - they had to be to exist in that time.
Farms had emergency blacksmith facilities, women still did spinning and weaving. The men bought powder and lead, hunted much of their meat. Payment for necessities was often made in commodities: venison, cordwood, pork, eggs, cream.

This, then, is their story, or as much as I have been able to find in five years of searching. Perhaps I should apologize for attempting to record it at this time. I could wait for more complete details and maybe never get it written. Just this much may catch the attention of someone of the "lost" families who can supply the name of the final resting place of Isaac and Catherine. Who can tell us how their children traveled, and why they settled where they did? Where are the Baylor, Cale and Gabbert descendants? The past five years have been rewarding and fun; I will never stop the search!

Please be charitable in judgment of my spelling. In taking data from old handwritten letters and family records, place names and surnames were found in many variations. Shephard, Sheppard, Shepard and Shepherd are some of the ways used on only one surname and the village named after this family.

In another case, one popular encyclopedia uses Sandford while the index on back of the map uses Sanford. People near there write it both ways, the current road map uses Sandford, and the post office uses Sand Ford which is in keeping with the first identification - a ford at that point in a creek.
But then it may have been named for a Sandford family which lives in the area.

Also note the spelling of the neighboring counties -
Settlements of Funkhouser and related families
Research has shown three early Funkhousers in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia. While descendants have said that John, Christian and Jacob were brothers, there is no proof that this is true. They are reported to have come from Switzerland with their point of debarkation probably being Philadelphia. After their long ocean voyage, they seem to have removed shortly into the Valley.

Arthur Marshall wrote, August 10, 1969: "As to origin of our Funkhouser - my great Uncle James E. Rippetoe (Rippetoe) said, 'About the time of the St. Bartholomew Day Massacre in the 16th century, both Rippetoe and Shuey families fled from France. The Rippetoeaus went to England and from England to America in the late 17th century, speaking the English language. The Shueys and Funkhousers went to Germany and from Germany to America about the same time, speaking the German language which in two generations they gave up for the English language. Both families settled in Virginia in its mountainous parts.'"

Into the late generations, descendants spoke of themselves as being "Pennsylvania Dutch." Opal Funkhouser has said her grandfather spoke of his "Dutch" ancestry through his father John #3-F14. In an even later generation, this compiler's grandmother, Nettie Jane Gibson #5-F1B52, remembered the same, and proved it with her Vinegar Pie, about which her children reminisced with enthusiastic relish.

The name is said to be found spelled Vanhouser and Fankhouser in Swiss records, and a Swiss genealogist has translated the name to mean "House of Light." Still other translations refer to Fankhaus or Fanghaus - meaning a kind of jail or "keep". This might indicate that the family came from a village named for its jail. I am indebted to Mr. Daniel Bly of Harrisonburg, Virginia, for this last translation.
Members of Godfrey Miller's family are buried in the churchyard at Jerome. We think the Stoney Creek farm is in this area.

Shenandoah County, formed in 1772, from Frederick, named Dunmor for Governor of Virginia (1771-75), in 1778 was renamed for Shenandoah River.
ISAAC FUNKHOUSER and his wife Anna lived on Stoney Creek in Shenandoah County, Virginia. He may have been a son of Jacob, one of the three early immigrant brothers. At the time Isaac wrote his will in 1796, he had already given his son Isaac possession of the Stoney Creek farm. He mentioned this, and the other children listed below. Other deeds and documents establish the relationship of these children as brothers and sisters, but there is some question that Anna may not have been the mother of the oldest son Isaac, since he married so much earlier than the other children. He may have been a son of an earlier wife of the first Isaac.

Children of the first Isaac Funkhouser:

ISAAC FUNKHOUSER was born 1760-70 (age in 1810 and 1830 censuses). He married Catherine Boyer, daughter of widow Margaret Boyer, in Shenandoah County in April 1789. It is this Isaac whose descendants are listed in the following pages.

DANIEL FUNKHOUSER born to Isaac and Anna 12 April 1774, and baptized 15 May 1774. He died between 1805 and 1812. He married Elizabeth Humreckhouser 21 March 1799, Shenandoah County.

DAVID FUNKHOUSER died in 1812. His wife was Elizabeth Pence, a daughter of Conrad, whom he married February 8, 1802, Shenandoah County. They seemed to have no children.

ANNA (MARY) FUNKHOUSER who was called Anna, a minor daughter in her father's will, but was spoken of as Mary in a document in one of her brother's estate settlements, was a ward of George Pence who lived on Stoney Creek. She married John Link.

BARBARA FUNKHOUSER married Godfrey Miller 19 December 1797, Shenandoah County, the note of consent being written in German and signed by her mother, a brother and others. The Millers bought the Stoney Creek farm from Isaac and Catherine when Isaac moved his family to Augusta County, farther up the Valley.

Land description mentions: to corner to Abraham Funkhouser. To land which Isaac Funkhouser purchased of James Bean. To Joseph Pugh's land.
Part of the will of Isaac Funkhouser written in 1796, showing his signature. The other Isaac who witnessed is not his son, but probably a cousin. The text is in German.
MARGARET BOYER, a widow, came from Grassy Valley, on or near the border of Maryland and Pennsylvania, to settle in Virginia, probably in the vicinity of Strasburg. So starts an old pencil-written history of one of her descendants.

The name of Margaret's husband is unknown. Extensive research has failed to uncover a clue to his identity. She first appears in a 1785 census as a widow with "seven white souls" in her household. She married on October 30, 1790, in Shenandoah County, Simon Harr, a minister. Her death came in the 70th year of her age, on March 7, 1819, according to records kept by Peter, her son. The ages of some of her grandchildren indicate she was probably slightly older than the seventy years. Her Boyer children known to us at this time (1972) are:

WILLIAM HENRY BOYER settled "up the Valley" in the Blue Ridge Mountains. His wife was Elizabeth, and he died in Grayson County, Virginia, in 1821.

JOHN BOYER settled "up the Valley" and one of his sons appears in Rockingham County. Descendants appear in Indiana.

PETER BOYER was born 4 April 1771, according to his own written record. A bond dated 6 April 1793, was issued in Shenandoah County for his marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth (Keller) Snap, a widow. Peter died 19 May 1845.

CATHERINE BOYER was born 1760-70 (from age in 1810 and 1830 censuses). The bond for her marriage to Isaac Funkhouser was dated 2 April 1789, Shenandoah County. It is filed in the courthouse at Woodstock with a consent note which her mother signed with her mark, her name being written for her in old German script.

ELIZABETH BOYER was married to John Moore, the Shenandoah County bond dated 2 Nov. 1792. Simon Harr signed as step-father.

MARY "POLLY" BOYER married George Shaver, the bond being dated 28 August 1802, Shenandoah County. Her brother-in-law, John Moore, was the bondsman.

The Numbering System

The earliest Funkhouser of whom we are positive for this lineage is Isaac of Shenandoah County, with wife Anna. He is Generation One: 1- F. His children are the second generation: 2- F1, 2- F2, 2- F3, etc. We are following the descent of only his oldest known son 2- F1, our Isaac who married Catherine Boyer. The children of Isaac and Catherine will be the third generation, identified by 3- F1, followed by the numeral designating their place in the order of birth into their own family. The grandchildren will be 4- F1__.

Each person's known descendants will follow directly after his or her own paragraph, before going back to pick up another of the same generation.

Since several of the families had more than nine children, offspring will be identified in sequence: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, A, B, C, D, E. E will be the fourteenth child in a family, and we do have at least one family that size!

For anyone seeking his own lineage back, one numeral will be eliminated for each generation, to find the next parent:

7- F1B5261 Charlotte Cooper, first child of 6- F1B526 Mary Inez Gibson, sixth child of 5- F1B52 Nettie Jane Hull, second child of 4- F1B5 Mary Alvira Funkhouser, fifth child of 3- F1B Isaac Funkhouser, eleventh child of 2- F1 Isaac Funkhouser, first child of
1- F Isaac of Shenandoah County
ISAAC FUNKHouser born 1760-1770, probably in what is now Shenandoah County, Virginia. The first mention of him is found on the bond for his marriage to Catherine Boyer, dated 2 April 1789.

Isaac and Catherine Funkhouser lived on the land on Stoney Creek which he had inherited from his father, already having been established on the farm at the time of his father's death. It was probably given to him at the time of his marriage. In 1808, they sold the land to Barbara and Godfrey Miller, sister and brother-in-law of Isaac, and bought land in Augusta County on the waters of the Middle River on the south side of North Mountain.

Here they raised their eleven children until they sold the land in 1825. They still maintained a household in 1830 when the census was taken. Then they disappear. Extensive research in Virginia, counties of Ohio where some of the children settled for a while, Indiana and Illinois, have turned up no further trace of Isaac and Catherine.

The children whose descendants are listed:

3- F11 CATHARINE FUNKHouser married John Shuey
3- F12 MARGARET FUNKHouser married George Hansell She was called Peggy
3- F13 DANIEL FUNKHouser married Matilda Miller
3- F14 JOHN FUNKHouser married Mary "Polly" Martin
3- F15 ELIZABETH FUNKHouser married Daniel Shirley
3- F16 MARY ANN FUNKHouser married Preston B. Cale
3- F17 LYDIA FUNKHouser married George Baylor
3- F18 SALLY FUNKHouser married Jacob Gabbert She was probably named Sarah, but her marriage bond called her Sally
3- F19 BENJAMIN FUNKHouser married Elizabeth Armstrong
3- F1A WILLIAM FUNKHouser married Sarah Grips
3- F1B ISAAC F. FUNKHouser married Hila Shew

He was raised in Illinois, graduated with full honors from Rush Medical College, and set up practice in New Goshen, Ind., in 1858. He first traveled on horseback riding out in one direction, returning and taking off in another, until his practice built up so he could open an office in New Goshen. From there he enlisted in the War, serving as surgeon of the 11th Ind. Cav. until War's end when he returned home. In 1874 he moved to Terre Haute where he and Dr. Weinstein founded Union Hospital. A child, Almont, died while his father was away at war, and is buried in Rosehill Cem., Fayette Twp. In a poem My Pictures his mother speaks of him:

"And here is a little pictured face
That is smiling down with eyes of blue -
Hush! surely I heard a pattering sound
As of baby feet; did you hear it too?
Was it only the wind? Yes; that's my boy
My gold-haired baby with restless feet
That never were tired, * * * "

His family has said that they remembered his reaching into his pocket for church financing while he was treasurer. After leaving the farm he had a bread route between Clinton, Indiana and Paris, Illinois. From 1942 to '52 he worked at Gary Screw & Bolt Co. in Gary. After retirement he was custodian at the library and some offices, spent winters in Florida where he worked at Brown's Fruit Stand. (His daughter and son-in-law). Warren and Adah eventually moved to Florida, flying home for summers with daughter Lois. He was active and Lois reports he took daily walks during a five-month visit with her just before his death.
