GABRIEL² LUDLOW (1663-1736) AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

By William Seton Gordon,
Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society.

1. Gabriel² Ludlow (son of Gabriel¹ Ludlow and his wife Martha ——, of Frome, County Somerset, England), born Nov. 2, 1663, at Castle Cary, County Somerset, England, and baptized there Dec. 1, 1663; died ——, 1736; married April 5, 1697, to Sarah Hamer (daughter of Rev. Joseph and Martha (Eddowes) Hamer), born ——, at ——; died ——, at ——.

The following is a copy of the entry in the Register of Baptisms for the Parish of Castle Cary in the County of Somerset, England (certified March 10, 1883, by Rev. A. W. Grafton, Vicar):

“Christenings in Yeare 1663
December
The first day of this Moneth Gabriell, the sonne of Gabriell Ludlow of frome and of Martha his wife, was christened.”

This entry records the baptism of Gabriel² Ludlow, who in 1694 settled in New York. His grandfather, Thomas Ludlow, was a younger brother of the Gabriel Ludlow who was Receiver of the Duchy of Lancaster during the reign of Charles I, and of Roger Ludlow who became Deputy-Governor of The Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1634, and married Mary Endicott, sister of Governor John Endicott. His father was cousin to Cromwell’s general, Sir Edmund Ludlow, who was one of King Charles I’s judges and who, at the Restoration, had to flee from England.

He was born at Castle Cary, Somerset, Nov. 2, 1663, and first set foot in New York Nov. 24, 1694. His father had died in England in 1690, and being a second son, the family estates had remained with the elder line. It is not unlikely that a younger brother, William, came with him; but of this no authentic record remains. We do not know the name of the ship in which he came, but we are told that it suffered shipwreck at Sandy Hook, whereby our ancestor lost most of his belongings. This misfortune did not prevent him, however, from taking, almost from the day of his entrance into the Colony, that social rank to which he was entitled. He at once entered upon a successful mercantile career, built and owned vessels in the coasting trade and established a place of business in Queen (now Pearl) Street. He also became an extensive land owner, and obtained a patent from King George II for a tract of 4,000 acres of land in what is now Orange County, on the west bank of the Hudson River. This was then known as the Rockland Tappan tract.
Three years after his arrival, Gabriel Ludlow married Sarah Hanmer, daughter of the Rev. Joseph Hanmer, Chaplain to His Majesty's forces in the Province of New York, and of Martha Eddowes his wife, of whose marriage we have a record at Witchurch, Shropshire, in 1663. The Hanmer descent is traced from Sir John de Hanmere, Knight, 1272, of Hanmer in the County of Flint, Wales. Sarah Hanmer was the youngest of a family of nine, consisting of two boys and seven girls. We have the names of the four daughters, Catharine, Hester, Abigail and Sarah, who, upon the death of their father in New York, petitioned the Governor in Council to be paid the balance of his salary. The Order in Council directing the sisters to be paid the balance of the salary is dated April 13, 1691, and applies "from the 6th January, 1689, unto the day of his death." Rev. Joseph and Martha (Eddowes) Hanmer had 9 (Hanmer) children, 2 sons and 7 daughters, viz.:

II. John, attorney-at-law. He married and had 4 (Hanmer) children:
   1. Laight, m. Martha Edwards, daughter of Ralph Edwards, Esq.
   2. Samuel, Rector of North Durham.
   4. Samuel.

III. Elizabeth, m. Edward Taylor, Gent.

IV. Martha, m. Rev. Wm. Jones.

V. Catharine, m. Samuel Yates, of the Temple, Esqre.

VI. Hester, m. J. Jackson, of Coventry, Gent.

VII. Abigail, m. J. Clark, of London, Gent.

VIII. Rachel, m. Captain Sey, R. N., of Bermuda.

IX. Sarah, m. Gabriel Ludlow.

Joseph Hanmer, the surgeon, came out with Governor Sloughter, in H. B. M.'s Frigate Archangel, which brought out three companies of foot and convoyed four other ships. These vessels sailed from the Isle of Wight, Dec. 1, 1690. They were driven by stormy

This is to certify that I have recently caused an examination to be made of the official Registers or Books of Record wherein have been recorded from time to time the Births, Marriages and Deaths of the Parish of Whitchurch, in the County of Shropshire, England (the said Registers being now and having been continuously since my incumbency in my possession and charge as Rector of the said Parish), and that I do find recorded there the following entries made, to the best of my belief at or about the date they respectively bear, to wit:

(Banns) 1659, Mar. Mr. Joseph Hanmer of Iscoyd, in the county of Flint and Mrs. Martha Eddow of this parish were publish-ed three severall Lord's Dayes ending 27 of March 1659.

The above are full, true and correct copies of said original entries.

STOKESAY CASTLE.

in South Shropshire, England, was the home of the Ludlows for ten generations. William the Conqueror granted the Manor of Stoke to the De Lacy's who, retaining the over-lordship, placed their vassal, the Norman knight Picot de Say, in possession, after whom the Manor was named Stoke-de-Say. About the centre of this Manorial grant, and six miles south of Stoke, stood Ludlow Castle, another ancient seat of the family, now a ruin.

The male line of the De Lacy's became extinct in 1240, and the Manor became the property of John de Verdon, who married the heiress of the De Lacy's. He died 1274, and his son conveyed the "vill de Stokesay" to Lawrence de Ludlowe, eldest son of Nicholas de Ludlowe, castellan of Ludlow Castle, who entered into possession in 1281. Lawrence built the massive embattled south tower, deepened the moat and extended the walls.

During the reign of Henry VIII, owing to the marriage of a Ludlow heiress to Sir Thomas Vernon of Haddon Hall, Derbyshire, Stokesay Castle passed with her dowry into the possession of the Vernon family. It was subsequently purchased, in 1650, by a rich London Alderman's son, who became Earl of Craven; and is now owned by Mr. J. D. Alcort.
weather to take refuge in the Bermudas, where they remained three weeks for repairs, so that it was March 19, 1691, when they at last dropped anchor in the lower Bay. Governor Slaughter appointed Joseph Hamner Post Surgeon at the Fort, formerly called Fort George, but which Gov. Slaughter renamed Fort William Henry; but the surgeon did not long survive the effects of exposure suffered on the voyage of the Archangel, and died in the Fort in April, 1691.

The marriage of Gabriel Ludlow and Sarah Hamner took place in the Church in the Fort on Easter Monday, April 5, 1697. The Rev. Mr. Seymour Smith, Chaplain to H. M.'s Forces, officiated.

Of Gabriel Ludlow's home life in New York but little information has come down to us. We know that at one time he resided in Maiden Lane, and in the Census of New York, taken in 1703, his name is entered as then residing in the East Ward, and as the master of a family consisting of husband and wife, one male child, five female children, and two negro slaves. Only one or two books have come down to us of those which he possessed. Upon the fly-leaf of an ancient book, being Vol. I of the Memoirs of Edmund Ludlow, Vevey, Switzerland, once in the possession of Thomas W. Ludlow, Esq., but once owned by Gabriel Ludlow, is found in the handwriting of the latter, the following:—

"Translated, Gabriel Ludlow, Senior, in August 1723."

The inscription over his door.

To everyone that is courageous, every soil is his native country, because of his God, our Heavenly Father.

The Epitaph.

"Stay and Behold:

Here lies Edmund Ludlow, of the English Nation and the County of Wilts, son of Sir Henry and Senator of Parliament, who was himself a member also; of eminent and noble descent, yet more noble and gifted with remarkable piety. In the 23rd year of his age he was Colonel, and soon after General of the Army; then a Subduer of Ireland. In battle courageous and lavish of life: in victory mild and courteous; Defender of his country's liberty and a most vehement opposer of arbitrary power, for the same cause was banished his country thirty two years, and worthy of a better fortune; betook himself among the Helvetians, where he enjoyed it to the 73rd year of his age; at his Death, joyfully leaving his place here, according to his desire, he is passed to the Eternal Joys.

This monument is dedicated and desired by Mrs. Elizabeth de Thomas, his most beloved consort, in perpetual memory toward her deceased husband, being active and most sorrowful as well in misfortune as in wedlock, who out of greatness of mind and efficacie of conjugal love Thereunto moved constantly followed him in exile to his decease, which was in the year 1693."

Upon the same fly-leaf is also the following:
"New York, ye 9th day of May, 1712.
As I was this evening sitting at ye street door of my house in Maiden Lane about 9 o'clock, a meteor or Starr shott along ye Hemisphere from about 25 or 30 degrees above ye South West Horizon to within about ye 20 degrees of ye North East Horizon; as it passed along, it made so great a light in ye hemisphere that made all things in ye streets appear very visable, though the night was pretty cloudy. It run this 125 or 130 degrees in about half a minute."

In the same handwriting, in another book which belonged to him, we also find the following:—

"Gabriel Ludlow, son of Gabriel Ludlow, was born Nov. 2, 1663; which was a Monday night at twelve o'clock at Castle Cary."

This book, with the original note, is now in the possession of Mr. Bradish Johnson Carroll.

There is also a note, evidently in his own handwriting, of the date of his brother's birth at "ffrome, on Sept. 2, 1666." This may be his brother William, who is named as a joint grantee in the patent of the Tappan Tract, as William Ludlow, Gentleman. From subsequent recorded deeds, we learn that William's wife was named Mary.

In 1698, family silver, papers and important documents were sent out from England to Gabriel Ludlow, but the vessel carrying them was shipwrecked. Everything was lost except a wooden chest and a casket. This subsequently was owned by Miss Arabella Ludlow, who gave it to her sister, Mrs. Anthony Carroll. A silver teapot and a dozen teaspoons bearing the family crest were recently in the possession of Mrs. S. M. Shippen, having been given to her by R. S. Bullus.

Gabriel Ludlow was a devout Churchman. He was named a Vestryman in the Royal Charter of Trinity Church, New York, granted in 1697 by King William III, and served as Vestryman from 1697 to 1704, and as Clerk of the Vestry from 1700 until his death. He contributed funds towards the erection of the first or original edifice, and in 1711 subscribed towards the building of a steeple. His son Gabriel Ludlow was a member of the vestry for twenty-seven years prior to 1769. His son Henry acted in the same capacity for twelve years, and it has been said that for no period during two centuries has his blood been unrepresented upon the vestry by his descendants.

He was also Clerk of the New York House of Assembly from 1699 to 1733, and one of the most prominent and influential merchants in the City.

Gabriel Ludlow died in 1736, and his remains rest in the family vault under the present Trinity Church.

Gabriel and Sarah (Hammer) Ludlow had 12 (Ludlow) children, 7 sons and 5 daughters, viz.:—(1) Hamner, who died young; (2) Martha, who married George Duncan; (3) Elizabeth, who died young; (4) Henry, who married Mary Corbett; (5) Sarah; (6) Gabriel, who married (1) Frances Duncan and (2) Elizabeth Crommelin; (7) John, who married Sarah Broadbury; (8) Wil-

Gabriel Ludlow was a Member of the New York Assembly from 1739 to 1745, and a vestryman of Trinity Church from 1742 to 1769. He died Dec. 12, 1773.

Children: 6 (Ludlow), 4 sons and 2 daughters; by his first wife, Frances Duncan, 2 sons, viz.:—

1. George Duncan,* b. 1734; d. Nov. 13, 1808. Councillor and one of the four Judges of the Supreme Court of the Colony of New York (1769-78); Senior Councillor and Governor of New Brunswick, Canada, and Chief Justice of the Province, 1784. He married his cousin, Frances Duncan, who was a daughter of Thomas Duncan. While in New York they resided in Pearl St. With other Royalists they were compelled to leave New York and they removed to St. John, New Brunswick. His estates at Hempstead Plains, Long Island, were confiscated. He became an extensive landowner at St. John, his principal estate being “Spring Hills,” upon the St. John River near Fredericton, N. B., where he died. Frances Duncan was the eldest of nine children. Her father resided in a large three-story residence in Pearl St. (then Queen St.), or Hanover Square. In the year 1764, this house caught fire and was burned to the ground. All the children except the youngest, Arabella, who had been sent out of the house, were in the nursery at the top of the house and their mother was with them. All perished in the flames except Frances, who leaped from an upper window and was caught by Capt. Miller, a British officer, father of Mr. Blackburn Miller. Frances was then 17 years of age and engaged to be married to George Duncan Ludlow. After her marriage her father resided in her house, but did not long survive the loss of his wife and

* The following is a copy of an old memorandum in the handwriting of Frances S. Ludlow, purporting to be copied by her from old family records:—

"Mary Duncan, daughter of Captain George Duncan, deceased, was born February 14th, 1713-14, and died 21st September, 1777-8. Her elder brothers and sisters were: Christian Duncan, born February 2nd, 1707-8; Frances Duncan [wife of Gabriel Ludlow], born October 1st, 1700; Michael Duncan, born March 23rd, 1701-2; James Duncan, born November 3rd, 1703; George Duncan, born November 6th, 1705; Thomas Duncan, born February 9th, 1710-11."

2. Gabriel George, b. April 16, 1736; m. (Marriage Bond) Book 3, p. 279), Sept. 3, 1760, Ann Ver Planck (a niece of Daniel Crommelin and sister of Gulian Ver Planck and Daniel Crommelin Ver Planck), who was born Oct. 11, 1742, and died Dec. 13, 1822, at Carleton, N. B., aged 80. She is buried beside her husband in the graveyard there. After his marriage Gabriel George Ludlow retired to his country seat, which embraced 140 acres, at Hyde Park, near Hempstead, Long Island (an estate afterwards occupied by the celebrated William Cobbett), and was closely identified with public affairs in Queens County up to 1783. He was appointed Colonel of the Militia of the County, as well as a Justice of the Peace. He was a staunch Loyalist, and in 1776 became Colonel of the Third Battalion of Brigadier-General Oliver De Lancey's Long Island Brigade of Royal Americans. His battalion was stationed during 1777 to 1783 at Brookhaven, but was disbanded in Nova Scotia after the close of the war. He was appointed a Governor of King's College (afterwards Columbia College) in 1759 and resigned this honor in 1770. He and his brother, Judge George Duncan Ludlow, were included in the Act of Attainder passed by the Legislature of the new State of New York, Oct. 22, 1779. All their property was confiscated and, upon the British evacuation of New York, with nearly all other prominent Loyalists, they were forced to leave their native country. They sailed for England, where their privations were recognized by the Crown. They were both appointed members of the King's Council for the newly created Province of New Brunswick and were given lands in Carleton and neighborhood. Here they established new homes, and in December of 1784, they sent for their families. During the sea voyage from New York, the ship containing their wives and children was wrecked off Schoodick Point on the Massachusetts coast, but ultimately all were safely landed in their new homes. Gabriel George Ludlow was a member of the City Council of St. John, New Brunswick. He was first Mayor of St. John (1785 to 1795); Judge of the Vice Admiralty Court (1787 to 1803); President of the King's Council in New Brunswick (1803 to 1808). He was also appointed by the King, Commander-in-Chief of the Province of New Brunswick, which office he held until his death. Col. Ludlow built a substantial mansion in St. John, which is still standing and is known as "The Old Government House." Here he spent the remainder of his life. He died at Carleton, N. B., Feb. 12, 1808, and was accorded a public funeral, in which the entire

VI. Gabriel Ludlow, by his second wife, Elizabeth Crommelin (daughter of Charles Crommelin, the banker of Amsterdam, Holland, by his wife Anna Sinclair*), born Nov. 5, 1715, had Children: 4 (Ludlow), 2 sons and 2 daus., viz.:

* Note on Descent of the Crommelins.

Lord Robert Stuart, Earl of Orkney (1542), was a natural son of James V. of Scotland. Robert had a daughter Mary, who married John Sinclair. Their son William Sinclair married Joanna Gordon, daughter of Gordon of Clairston, in Rossshire. They had two sons, Robert and James. Robert (called of Siba), married Beatrix, daughter of General King and had only one child, James, who died without issue. Thus ended Robert's line. His brother James (called of Kirkwall), married Anna Sinclair. They had (1) James, who died without issue, (2) William, who emigrated from Scotland when a youth and was never again heard from; (3) Robert, of whom later; and (4) Beatrix, who married John Boind and had a son James Boind.
The family of Sinclair owes its origin to William de Sancte Clair, a Norman Knight, said to be cousin of William of Normandy, and who fought for William at Hastings in 1066. His descendants penetrated into Northern Scotland and obtained many charters of land from King Robert I. The first Earl of Caithness was William Sinclair, Lord High Treasurer of Scotland. Other cadets of the house are Lord Pentland and Baron Sinclair. Anciently the landed possessions of the family extended from sea to sea and embraced the Orkney Islands, then subject to the suzerainty of the crown of Norway.

Robert Sinclair emigrated from Scotland to New York in 1672. Before leaving Scotland, he procured from the Minister and Elders of the Church at Ricena, Orkney, a certificate, written in Latin, dated Kirkwall, April 5th, 1672, to the effect that he, Robert, was born in lawful wedlock of an honest father, James Sinclair, gentleman, of Ricena whose father was William Sinclair and whose mother was Joanna Gordon and whose grandfather was John Sinclair and whose grandmother was Mary Stewart, and of Anna Sinclair, his mother; and is a man of unblemished character, held in high esteem and leaving his country solely to see the world. This certificate has been carefully preserved, and is still in existence.

Robert Sinclair married in New York, Maria Duyckinck (daughter of Gerardus Duyckinck and Mary Duyckinck), who was born March, 1659, and died 1731. The date of their marriage was August 15, 1683. Robert Sinclair died in 1704.

Children 5 (Sinclair), 2 sons and 3 daughters, viz:—
5. James, b. April 15, 1695.

Anna Sinclair was married Nov. 6, 1706, in New York, by Dominie Gaiters Du Bois to Charles Crommelin, who was the son of Daniel Crommelin, a French Huguenot, and a native of Cremcourt, Upper Saône, who had escaped from France to Amsterdam. Daniel was the son of John Crommelin, and was born in 1646. He and his son Charles were admitted Freemen of New York in 1698. Daniel died in New York, March 22, 1725, and Charles died Jan. 8, 1739, aged 60. Both are buried in Trinity Churchyard. Anna died Sept. 8, 1743, aged 52, and was buried beside her husband.

Charles Crommelin was the founder in 1720, of the Holland Trading Company which for years conducted an extensive and lucrative business between Amsterdam and New York. In this enterprise he was associated with other well-known Amsterdam bankers—Messrs. Willincs, Ten Broeck and Schemmelpennick. He also founded the great Amsterdam banking house of Crommelin & Zoon.

The children of Charles Crommelin and Anna Sinclair were:
1. Daniel, b. in New York, Nov. 11, 1707, but settled in Amsterdam. He m. —— and by her had five children:
   i. Robert Daniel.
   ii. Gulian.
   iii. Judith, who m. her cousin Samuel Ver Planck (b. 1739; d. 1820), in Amsterdam, in April, 1761.

   This family resided in Amsterdam, but Daniel d. in New York, 1768.

3. Mary, m. Gulian Ver Planck (who was b. 1698; d. 1751) Sept. 8, 1737; they had:
   i. Samuel, m. his cousin Judith. They resided in a large yellow house on the corner of Wall Street and Broadway. He was a member of the first class which graduated from King's (now Columbia) College in 1758. He became very prominent both socially and politically. He was named one of the Committee of One Hundred, May 22, 1775.

Samuel’s son, Daniel Crommelin Ver Planck, b. 1762, also resided in Wall Street. He was a member of Congress from 1802 to 1809 and Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Dutchess County until 1828. The Judge was twice married. His first wife was Elizabeth daughter of Wm. Samuel Johnson, first President of Columbia College. She was the mother of Galian Crommelin Ver Planck, b. 1786; d. 1870. She died in 1789. His second wife was Ann, only daughter of William Walton and Ann De Lancy Walton.

* Dr. Edward Greenleaf Ludlow was born in New York, when the city contained only 36,000 inhabitants. His father was a rich and prosperous merchant and shipowner, conducting branches of his extensive mercantile business in all parts of the globe; he was also President of the Mercantile Bank of New York and of other financial institutions, and desired that his son should be educated for a mercantile career. The family resided in a magnificent country estate formerly the residence of Joshua Waddington, but now called Barretto Point on the Sound.

Daniel Ludlow's extended mercantile transactions brought on financial reverses in 1812, by reason of the seizure by Napoleon I. of the free cities of Germany and the consequent embargo upon trade. At the time of his father's failure, Edward was a student at Columbia College. Without completing his college studies he went to Ogdensburg and resided in the family of David Parish, acting as a clerk of Mr. Russel, who was Mr. Parish's man of business. When the second war with Great Britain broke out, he joined Capt. Guest's Company as a lieutenant and fought in the engagement brought on when the British attacked and captured Ogdensburg. In that battle he was made prisoner, but escaped by running the Rapids in a skiff. Returning to his native city, he began the study of medicine under Dr. Alexander Stevens, and in 1825 commenced practice. He was then thirty-two years of age. Three years later, he married Mary Kennedy Lewis, daughter of Juan Lewis, who was the son of Francis Lewis, the Signer. He became one of the best known and most successful practitioners of his day, was elected a Trustee of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, as well as a Trustee of the New York Academy of Medicine, and travelled extensively in Europe. During his frequent visits to England, he was a welcome guest in the houses of Lord Lyndhurst, the Lord Chancellor, the Right Hon. John Moncrieff, Lord Advocate of Scotland, and Sir Henry Hudson, Physician-in-ordinary to the Queen. He retired from active practice in 1869 and removed to his country residence in Hawthorne Avenue, Yonkers, N. Y. Here he died July 3, 1877, in his 84th year. He was buried in the family vault in Trinity Churchyard, New York.

   b. Feb. 14, 1713-14; d. Sept. 21, 1779. This was a runaway marriage. Both families objected, but solely on account of the extreme youth of the bride. They met as she was returning from school, and were married the same evening. The bride received many handsome wedding presents, amongst others a golden bell for the toilet table. This bell she had exchanged for a large silver tankard, which still remains in the possession of the family.

He was a son of Wilhelm Willink, an eminent banker and financier of Amsterdam, Holland, who was an early friend of the American Republic and rendered service in securing its early loans. He was also one of the original patentees of the Holland Land Company. The Willinks had a summer residence in Flatbush, Long Island, N. Y. Being childless, they adopted Miss Maria P. Selleck (who by marriage became Mrs. W. K. James). After Mr. Willink's death the family removed to Norwalk, Conn. Mrs. James inherited all the property of her mother and her mother's sister (Elizabeth Ludlow), and by her will she bequeathed to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City a collection of valuable antique porcelains, furniture and costumes, some of which had been preserved in the Ludlow family for nearly two centuries (see Bulletin of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Vol. VI, No. 4, April, 1911). Mrs. James also erected at East Norwalk, Conn., in 1895 the "Ludlow Stone," a memorial to Roger Ludlow, the Founder of the first Constitution of the State and Deputy Governor of Connecticut. The two daughters of Charles Ludlow (Cornelia Ann and Elizabeth) caused to be erected the "Ludlow and Willink Hall" at St. Stephen's College, Annandale, New York State, the corner-stone of which was laid by the Rt. Rev. Samuel Roosevelt, S.T.D., on June 13, 1866, the anniversary of the birthday of the elder sister, Cornelia Ann Ludlow.

XIII. Thomas,² b. Dec. 31, 1717; m. Catharine, dau. of Charles Le Roux.*

*Note on Le Roux Family:—Pierre (or Petrus) Le Roux, of Amsterdam, was the son of a French Huguenot exile. That the family of Le Roux was of some prominence is evidenced by the fact that it received from the States General in Holland the right to bear a coat of arms (Rietschap Armorial Genealogy, vol. II, p. 622).

In 1680, Pierre emigrated to London. The records show that he became a naturalized subject of King Charles II, on March 21, 1682, and was subsequently made a member of the Goldsmiths' Company. Three years later, his wife Jane, with her children, all of whom had remained in Amsterdam after Pierre's emigration, rejoined her husband in London, and was naturalized as a subject on March 20, 1686. They had four sons and one or more daughters. We have no record of any daughters leaving London, but all four sons came to the Colony of New York. (See Agneau's French Protestant Exiles, vol. 3, p. 33). The sons were:

1. Bartholomew, of whom hereafter.
3. Andrew, the third son of Petrus, who also emigrated from London at the same time with his elder brothers Bartholomew and Pieter, married (see Records of the Reformed Dutch Church, vol. 1, p. 79, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections), the widow Cornelia Desselton on April 20, 1695. No children are recorded.

4. The fourth son of Petrus was John, styled the "Captain." He was a witness to the Will of John Mitchell, March 9, 1695 (Liber 5 of Wills, p. 85, N. Y. County). He never married.

1. Bartholomew Le Roux was b. in Amsterdam, Holland, not earlier than 1660 nor later than 1665. Like his father, he was a goldsmith. He landed in New York 1688-1689. We find that on Dec. 30, 1693, he purchased for his residence lot number 27 upon the southwest corner of Broadway and Beaver Lane (now Morris Street), a site now and for many years covered by the Stevens House. The grantors in the deed were Pieter Synkam and wife Deborah. The plot extended four rods along Broadway and to "the Strand" or shore of the river. (Liber 18, p. 268, N. Y. C.) The records of the Reformed Dutch Church of New York (see vol. 1, p. 66, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections) furnish certain facts relating to his marriage in these words: "Bartholomeus Le Roux, j.m. [young man] Van London, en Gertruyd Van Rollegem, j.d. [young woman] Van N. Yorck, beyde wonende alhier. Ingeschreven [banns published] Nov. 16, 1688. Getrouwt [married] Dec. 14, 1688." She was the daughter of Jan Joosten Van Rollegem and his Vrouw [wife] Tryntje Hans van Hardenbergh, who were married June 4, 1660. Geertryud was baptized in the Dutch Church, Feb. 22, 1668, and was the fifth child of her parents. The names and dates of baptism of their other children will be found in the Records of the Reformed Dutch Church (see vol. II, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections).

Bartholomew Le Roux was a man of substance and probity and was trusted by all. In his day a goldsmith was necessarily a banker (there being no other repositories for safe keeping of jewels and money) as well as a member of a powerful and honorable Guild. He enjoyed the confidence and friendship of Anthony Lispensard (or Lepinar as then spelt), who made Bartholomew Le Roux the executor of his will and guardian of his children (Liber 5 of Wills, p. 126, N. Y. C.). In an affidavit signed Dec. 7, 1702, at the house of John Hutchins, relative to certain addresses made to the English Governor, he styles himself "Bartholomew LeRoux, Goldsmith, New York." He died in Aug., 1713, at his residence, Broadway and Beaver Lane. His will, dated July 10, 1713, proved Aug. 28, 1713, mentions his wife Geertryd and his eldest son Charles and makes them executors and the Codicil refers to his second son John and other children unnamed. In this Will (Liber of Wills, 8, p. 226, N. Y. C.) he styles himself silversmith and provides that his widow is to have the use of all his estate to assist her in bringing up his children, and that, after the widow's decease, the estate is to be divided among the children. The witnesses to the Will are Robert Darkins, Cornelius Lodge and John Conrad Codwise. A Codicil confirms the Will. A list of his children is supplied by the Records of the Reformed Dutch Church (see vol. II, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections).

Charles Le Roux, eldest son of Bartholomeus Le Roux, married in 1715, Catharine, daughter of Dr. Gerardus Beekman. Dr. Gerardus Beekman and his wife Magdelena had four sons, Christopher, William Jacobus, Gerardus and Hendricus, as well as three daughters, Catharine, Cornelia, who married Richard Van Dam, and Marritje.

In his Will Dr. Gerardus Beekman appointed Charles Le Roux "overseer" (or testamentary guardian) of his children. (See Will of Gerardus Beekman dated 10 Nov., 1722, probated 18 Nov., 1722, Liber 9 of Wills, p. 477). The Will of Richard Van Dam, dated 14 Dec., 1734, probated 14 April, 1736, Liber 12 of Wills, p. 426, also appoints Charles Le Roux testamentary guardian of testator's children. Hendricus Beekman in his Will dated 10 June, 1727, probated 8 Sept., 1743, Liber 15 of Wills, p. 87, makes provision for "my sister Catharine Le Roux." On Oct. 18, 1722, Charles Le Roux was elected a Church Master of the Reformed Dutch Church. For a record of the children of Charles Le Roux and Catharine (Beekman) Le Roux, his wife, we again refer to the Records of the Reformed Dutch Church (see vols. II and III, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections) which supplies the following:

9. Vol. III, p. 11, Charles, bapt. 7 Mar., 1731; m. 27 April, 1765, Sarah Duryea. Their children were: (1) James, b. 1766; m. 10 April, 1798, Catharine Van Buskirk; (2) Jane, b. 1770; m. 8 June, 1799, William Roberts.

The Will of Charles Le Roux is dated 18 May, 1810, and probated 13 Nov., 1810 (Liber 49 of Wills, p. 73, N. Y. County). He bequeaths his property to his niece Sarah Frances Ogden, widow of Abraham Ogden of Newark, N. J., and her children, specially preferring her son Charles Le Roux Ogden. The Will makes Thomas Ludlow Ogden and Charles L. Ogden trustees and executors. It disposes of "the house where I now reside, situate adjoining Pine Street, being the same I purchased of Samuel J. Borrowe," it also makes a provision for "my sister Gertrude Doughty of Morris (i.e., Morris-town, N. J.), widow and her son John Doughty," also for "Sarah Ogden, my niece, widow of Abraham Ogden, formerly of Essex County, New Jersey, deceased." The will also directs the sale of 6,400 acres of testator's land in Potsdam, N. Y., "which I purchased of William Constable," and also of lands in Seneca County, N. Y., bought of John Van Dyke. One seventh part of the entire estate is bequeathed to my sister Catharine Leroux" Ludlow.
