Notes On The 1952 Edition

Only 125 copies were printed of the original 1927 edition of the Coffinberry Genealogy. Mrs. Scott distributed these to members of her immediate family. Within a year the 1927 edition was exhausted. I started searching for Coffinberry history in 1950, and it was 2 years before I found that a Coffinberry genealogy had been already printed.

Mrs. Scott has now kindly allowed me to reprint the 1927 edition. You will find many dates missing. The last two current generations of the family do not appear in most cases. The best way to get this missing information seemed to be to reprint the 1927 genealogy, and give it wider circulation.

So we have corrected some obvious errors. We have added an index. Copies have now been sent to all libraries located in towns or cities where Coffinberries have lived -- and to libraries which specialize in genealogy.

If you, the reader, are a Coffinberry descendent, or have information about the family, write to the address below. If you will bring your line down to present living persons, complete with dates of birth, marriage and death -- then we will send you gratis a copy of this 1952 reprint of the Coffinberry Genealogy.

In this way we hope to gather most of the missing dates, and much new information. Then, in 3 to 5 years, we hope to publish a completely revised Coffinberry Genealogy, which will conform to accepted genealogical style.

CHAPTER I.

GEORGE LUDWIG (LEWIS) COFFINBERRY, SR.

GEORGE LUDWIG (LEWIS) COFFINBERRY or KAUFENBAERGER as his German neighbors called him, was born in Stuttgart, Wurtemburg, Germany, early in the eighteenth century. He was married in Germany to Katrina Kimmel, who was born in Hanover about the same time that George Ludwig was born. They came to the colony of Virginia in 1750, where they made their home at Martinsburg in Berkeley County, West Virginia, where all their children were born and married. I think the original name of the family was Kaufenbaerger, first changed to Coffinberg and later, about 1790, by permission of the Legislature of Virginia, to Coffinberry, which name the descendants now bear.

George Ludwig Lewis Coffinberry Sr. was a noted German clergyman of the Baptist order, and by trade, a sickle maker. He is buried at Martinsburg, W. Va. Died at the advanced age of 108 years and his wife Katrina died at the age of 116 years.

Their children were:

The records of the old Lutheran Church at Martinsburg, Va., tell a story of our ancestors. The following is an excerpt from a letter written by Andrew Beach Coffinberry (son of Wright L. Coffinberry) on June 16, 1903:
Grand Rapids, Mich.
June 16, 1903.

Prof. H. C. Myers,
Cleveland, Ohio.
My Dear Boy:

The receipt today of your good letter, was a very pleasant surprise, and glod to hear from you, and for again being in “God’s country” with your kith and kin. Enclosed find certified copy of paper asked for and which will “take you in.”

George was in the army about one year, but the wording of the pension act, was for not less than six months actual service etc.

Two years ago & self were in Martinsburg, Berkeley Co., W. V., 24 hours and have kicked myself for not remaining 2 or 3 days—found the old church records of 1790 when the first church was organized, with list of members and name of George Lewis Coffinberg was second on list and Jacob Coffinberg third—list of names were given, at Communion and of contributors and etc. and the Coffinbergs being prominent—at one place three George C’s were at Lord’s Supper. No. 1 partook at his home, probably old or feeble. No. 2 & 3 partook at church. At one place in list of “Young people joining” was Elizabeth Little, our Grand Mother and at another was “Maria Coffinberg.”

All amounts were given in pounds, shillings and pence.

John C., a farmer, is living about ten miles out; Cousin Mate, Mrs. Richards of Gettsburg, told me she often found the name in list of teachers in Penn.

I wished very much to go with G. A. R. to San Francisco, but distance too far, and cannot be away so long from office.

Kindly remember us to all the friends and folks. We had splendid visit there in 1900. Let us hear from you occasionally.

As ever,

A. B. Coffinberry.
It has been the impression among relatives in Cleveland, Ohio, that three brothers came to this country in 1750, and that one changed his last name to Lewis. Mr. Arthur S. Coffinberry of Lakewood, Ohio, writing under date of August 5, 1927, says: "I have heard my father say that a certain Senator Lewis of West Virginia was supposed to have been a descendant.

"There are Coffinberrys in the states of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Oregon and Central Michigan which I cannot connect up with the George Lewis branch."

The following is a copy from a letter written in 1898 by Julia F. Coffinberry, daughter of Wright L. Coffinberry. The "Uncle Lathe" referred to in following letter, is Salathiel Coffinberry, son of George Coffinberry.

Pittsburgh, Pa.
Aug. 2, 1898.

My Dear Cousins

Yours of July 27 just at hand having been forwarded to us by Andrew. Becca and I left home July 5th, and have spent ten days in Washington, D. C. "doing" our nation's capital, then ten days at Gettysburgh with Mate and Este and have been here with Uncle Gale a week.

I am glad that something prompted you to let us hear from you once more. Becca and I have the little picture you speak of and if your patience will tide you over until our re-establishment in our bachelor maiden quarters in Grand Rapids we will comply with your request. We prize the picture for its association and quaint beauty, but also recognize your claim and are glad that you felt free to ask for it.

While at Gettysburg I copied something that Uncle Lathe wrote shortly before his passing away, which if you have not seen, I am sure will interest you, as it did us.

We hope you will enjoy your Yellowstone trip, and be in good trim for your year's work.

Sincerely yours,

JULIA F. COFFINBERRY.
George Kline (Little) and Elizabeth Truggat were born in Strasburg in Alsace early in the eighteenth century and were married there and came to the town of Chambersburg in the Colony of Penn. where they both died within six months after their settlement, leaving George Little two years old and Elizabeth six months old.

These children were taken to Martinsburg, Va., by their mother's sister, who reared them and where George was married to Caroline Roush, and Elizabeth to George Lewis Coffinberry.

George Ludwig Coffinberry was born in Stuttgart, Wurtemburg, Germany, early in the eighteenth century. Katrina Kimmel was born in Hanover about the same time. George Ludwig (Lewis) Coffinberry and Katrina Kimmel were married in Germany and came to the Colony of Virginia, where they made their home at Martinsburg in Berkeley Co., where all their children were born and married, and where George Ludwig died at the age of 108 and where Katrina died at the age of 116. Their children were:

Jacob Lewis—George Lewis—Mary married to George Stippe—Frances married to Frederic Stippe—Elizabeth married to James Curtis—Sally married to William McCaslen—Nancy to John Sivert—Katherine married to Henery Young.

CHAPTER II.

GEORGE LEWIS COFFINBERRY

George Lewis Coffinberry was born Feb. 10 (1760-1851) two miles from Martinsburg in Berkeley Co., West Virginia. Served as a soldier in the War of the Revolution. Enlisted from Berkeley County at the age of 16 in Captain Culbert Anderson's company. He was in service in the Carolinas under General Nathaniel Green.

Was married December 5, 1786, at Martinsburg, West Virginia. Married Miss Elizabeth (Klein) Little, who was born near Alsace Loraine about 1769. Elizabeth Little believed herself to be a descendant of royalty. She was gifted with language and from her pen came forth at command prose and poetry, and her writings, if they had been cared for and published, most certainly would have made her known as a lady of letters in the western world.

An item of interest to those of this present generation was the fact that in the days of Elizabeth Little, false teeth or plates were unknown and so she made her own teeth, by taking a cow's horn and soaking it in water until flexible, then carefully shaping it to her mouth and by filing teeth in it, made a very serviceable set of lower and upper teeth. The only fault with these kind of teeth was the fact that they wore out too soon and the same performance had to be gone through with again.

Elizabeth Little had a brother that we know of. A Mrs. Cope of Chattanooga, Tennessee, claims to be a descendant of this brother.

George Lewis Coffinberry was a lawyer and was elected to the Legislature in Virginia about 1790. His name was Kaufenbaerger, and while he was serving in that capacity he petitioned the Legislature to change his name to Coffinberry, and it was granted. That is where the name Coffinberry originated and started from.

George Lewis Coffinberry moved to Ross County, taking by his team, the first wagon road that passed through that which was the wilderness between Wheeling and Chillicothe. After two years he moved to Lancaster. He and his family were familiar with the hardships and dangers of the new country where roamed the Indians.

He published the first paper ever published in Lancaster, Ohio. It was called "The Olive Branch." He and his family soon moved to Chillicothe, Ohio, thence to Mansfield, Ohio, about 1810, where he erected and kept the first hotel called "The North American."

I quote from A. A. Graham's History of Richland County, Ohio; page 445:

Mr. C. S. Coffinberry, writing from Constantine, Michigan, under date of Feb. 17, 1873, says: The first house built in Mansfield was built by George Coffinberry in the month of August, 1809, on the site now occupied by the North American Hotel, at the southwest corner of the public square. The building was a small log cabin.

Again on page 449 of Graham's History of Richland County, Ohio, I find the following:

"The following extract is from a letter of C.S. Coffinberry of Constantine, Mich., who is a son of George Coffinberry and it is dated Feb. 17, 1873. (The first part of this letter is the same as the one above, have not copied the entire letter as it was rather lengthy and was written to end a discussion with a Mrs. Cunningham, who claimed her folks built the first cabin in Mansfield, Ohio, however, in the letter of C. S. Coffinberry, he makes the statement that George Coffinberry was his father. I here quote his exact words: "I am a son of George Coffinberry and my father built the first house in Mansfield, and at that time Mansfield was a thick and heavy forest."

Mansfield Hedges Gilkison, who is now living in Mansfield, Ohio, writes Graham in his History of Richland County, says that he was born in this cabin which George Coffinberry erected, and that log cabin was built in 1810 and was the second cabin in Mansfield; so we have a slight contradiction as to whether George Coffinberry built the first or second log cabin in Mansfield, Ohio.

In 1812, Mansfield was a little hamlet in the wilderness, situated at that time on the frontier border. There were few, if any, settlers north or west of it, Mansfield being the extreme outpost located in the midst of savage tribes.

During the War of 1812, two block houses were erected on the public square as protection against Indians. One was of round logs, the other of hewed logs. The latter standing near the center of the park. The one of round logs was probably the one built by George Coffinberry as it stood on the corner.

On page 384 of Graham's History of Richland County, Ohio, we find the following:

On Dec. 3, 1816, by order of the commissioners the two block houses standing on the square were set up at public auction. The hewed log house was sold to Alexander Curran for $56.40—the round log house to Jacob Snider for $20.

On page 377 of Graham's History we find the following:

In June of 1813 Winn Winship, George Coffinberry and Rolin Weldon were appointed appraisers of Levi Jones’ property. Levi Jones had been murdered and scalped by the Indians.

The Grand Jury, the first in the county, was composed of Isaac Pierce, foreman; George Coffinberry and twelve others.

Springfield Township was organized in 1816. Its name was suggested by Mrs. Coffinberry, one of its earliest settlers, on account of the numerous springs within its limits.

The first settlers struck the northwest corner of the township, for the reason, most likely, that in those days Indian trails were the only highways and settlements grew up along those first.

Rattlesnakes were numerous and among the most disagreeable enemies of the pioneers, frequently found in their cabins and often in their beds.

The first white death in Mansfield, Ohio, was John Cof-finberry, aged seven or eight years, son of George Coffinberry.

Elizabeth Little Coffinberry, wife of George Lewis Coffinberry, was a blonde with blue eyes. Her hair kept its golden tinge until she was quite an old lady. Her father was George Kline (Little) and her mother was Elizabeth Truggat.
They were both born in Strasburg, in Alsace, early in the eighteenth century, and were married there. They came to the town of Chambersburg in the colony of Penn, where they both died within six months after their settlement, leaving George Little, 2 years old, and Elizabeth, 6 months old.

These children were taken to Martinsburg, Va., by their mother’s sister, who reared them and where George was mar-rried to Caroline Roush, and Elizabeth to George Lewis Coffin-berry. The name of her family was originally Kline, but was later changed to Little. The word Kline means “little” in the German language.

Elizabeth Little Coffinberry always told her children that some day they would come into a great heritage through her people, but just what this was I do not know.

George Lewis Coffinberry and Elizabeth Little Coffin-berry were father and mother of fourteen children. The following names are copied from official records recorded at Washington, D. C. Revolutionary War Records V.L.M. W.
File No. 6726. Rev. War.
Steven was born in 1805. He is not recorded in the official record above as one of George Coffinberry’s children, but he was a son of George and Elizabeth. I have in my possession a copy of the names of the children of George and Elizabeth taken from the old German family Bible in Constantine, Mich., at that time in possession of Salathiel Coffinberry and among the children appears the name of Steven, born in 1805.

George Lewis Coffinberry was an elder in the Presbyterian Church in Ohio. He died in Mansfield, Ohio, at the age of 92 years. Both he and his wife are buried at Spring Mills, Ohio.

Mr. Arthur S. Coffinberry of Lakewood, Ohio, has in his possession a sabre, on the sheath of which appears the inscription:

"Capt. G. L. Coffinberry, War of 1812."

When I was a child, my grandmother, Mrs. Susan Gilkison Platt Bishop, used to relate to me an incident that took place during the War at the home of the Coffinberry’s. This was told to her when a child by her great grandmother.

One day Mrs. Coffinberry saw a company of soldiers approaching the house, and knowing they meant no good, hurriedly grabbed the children, a pitcher of milk and a loaf of bread and fled to a hollow tree that was but a short distance from the house. Here she hid with the children living in mortal terror for fear the children might cry or attract the attention of the soldiers.

The soldiers marched around the house singing, “We’ve come to kill Coffinberry—we’ve come to kill Coffinberry.” They searched the premises, and finding no one around, went to the stables and stole a very beautiful and expensive team of cream horses, and departed. Mr. Coffinberry was broken hearted over the theft of his favorite horses.

P.S.—I do not know whether the War referred to in the above narrative was the War of the Revolution or the War of 1812.

Mrs. F. Berman,
Mt. View Estate
Covina, Calif.
Madam:

I have to advise you that the papers in the Revolutionary War Pension Claim W. 6726, it appears that George Coffinberry was born Feb. 10, 1760, two miles from Martinsburg, in Berkeley Co., Virginia.

While residing near Martinsburg, Va., he enlisted in the autumn of 1780 and served six months as private in Capt. Colbert Anderson's company, Colonels Lucas or Glenn's Virginia Regiment.

He was allowed pension on his application executed Oct. 26, 1832, while a resident of Springfield Township, Richland County, Ohio. He died there July 13, 1851.

He married Dec. 5, 1785 or 1786 at Martinsburg, Virginia, Elizabeth Little. She was allowed pension on her application executed Dec. 12, 1851, while a resident of Richland County. Aged 82 years.

Respectfully,

WASHINGTON GARDNER,
Commissioner.

O.W. & N. Div.
April 20, 1896

Sir:

Replying to your request for information concerning the military record of George Coffinberry, a soldier of the Revolutionary War, you are advised that he made an application for pension on October 26, 1832, at which time he was residing in Springfield, Ohio, and seventy-two years of age, and his pension was allowed for six months' actual service as a private in the Virginia troops, Revolutionary War; a part of the time served under Capt. Culbert Anderson and Col. Lucas.

Enlisted from Berkely County, Virginia (now W. Va.).

Very respectfully,

Mw. Lockren,
Commissioner.

A RELIC OF OLDEN TIMES

We present below a poetical sketch by the late Mrs. Elizabeth Coffinberry, who died about two years ago at the very advanced age of 89 years. She formerly lived near Spring Mills, but afterwards removed to this city. The occasion of the verses was the murder of a man named Levi Jones, who was killed by some Indians lying in ambush, near what is known as the "Big Spring," just below Fourth and East Diamond Streets. The sketch, although couched in homely rhyme, is a pretty faithful picture of the trials and alarms our early pioneers were subjected to. It was first published nearly twenty years ago, but it is now believed to be entirely out of print.

ON THE FIRST SETTLEMENT OF MANSFIELD

By Elizabeth Coffinberry

When we arrived in Mansfield first
All Nature wore a frowning air—
Explore the town we scarcely durst
For howling wolves and prowling bear,
My secret fears no mortal knew,
I strove to bear my cross's blight;
Most wretched scenes of different hue,
Oft were presented to my sight.

But former cares were soon forgot,
   When sharper trails hove in sight
They all seemed scarcely worth a thought
   Compared with those which life would blight.
So much more drear when war proclaimed
   Excited them by greater fears;
My muses at destruction aimed,
Nor was I wrong—it soon drew near.

Our substance soon had taken flight,
   And left us almost destitute,
Despair and want did then unite
   Through losses of our outward goods.
But losses did no minds engage,
   When danger fast approaching nigh,
To cast us from the mortal stage,
   To unknown worlds our spirits fly.

No language could my feelings tell,
   When Levi Jones had met his fate—
By savage hands a victim fell—
   All human help arrived too late.

Two citizens went out at morn,
   There for brick-making to prepare,
Unlucky Jones at length went out,
   Their society to share.
Two hostile savages watched the man,
   Embracing chance to ambush came,
To execute their horrid plan,
   On his return they both took aim.

To escape he a mighty effort made.
   And as he ran, for mercy cried—
No friendly hand did lend him aid.
   Nor yet the barb'rous deed to chide.
Two balls at once his body reached.
To save his life great speed was made—
When help arrived he lay outstretched,
His spirit had already fled.

And from his gory head his scalp was torn
As yet the sufferer bleeding lay
And to some near concealment borne—
They could not be so very far away.
Our bosoms then with horror shook
To see him lifeless on the ground,
The mangled Jones for Wallace took,
For the savages searched all around.

'Twas thought the three shared equal fate;
What horrid tales they had to state,
Combining foes encamping there.
They then thought best to leave the dead,
For other business to unite
With hasty steps they homeward sped
In order to prepare for fight.

What dreadful news to widowed mind,
No kind protector left on earth;
What painful heart had then derived
What yet would be their future birth?
With heightened sorrow, grief and dread
Mrs. Reed fell to the ground to roll;
As each one thought her husband dead;
No language could their hearts console.

Thence to the blockhouse all repaired,
In wild confusion—loud alarm;
But Providence had interfered.
A great mistake preventing harm,
I urged my children then to pray—
That Indians soon would not shed our blood
And send our spirits far away
To cross cold Jordan's raging flood.

My little son, not six years old,
To comfort me made this reply:
"The Indians could not kill the soul,
And we have only once to die.”
Fright wrecked hearts with fears to solace.
Mistaken ideas undivised.
Up came Read with Mr. Wallace,
Yet in the twilight of the eve.

The gatal guns by them unheard
As that day’s air to southward blew,
Of all our fears knew not a word.
Nor yet from whence sharp trials grew.
What joy and sorrow mingled then
When to their wives they were restored.
But fearing as we knew not when,
Brief, sharp attacks would be on board.

Poor Jones’ corpse lay out that night
Exposed to forest beasts of prey;
Nor was it sought ’till morning light
They bore him home at early day.
Then to the tomb he was consigned
With pity, grief and heartfelt weight
His mem’ry ’pressed each thoughtful mind
Expecting soon an equal fate.

But now the painful scenes were o’er,
The Great Deliverer sent us peace.
May all—the gracious God adore
And pure religion more engage.
Within the bounderies of Mansfield,
And by each other undespised
Who truly to the scepter yield,
Where naught but savage yells were heard.

There are eleven temples raised.
We have the preaching of the word
And hear the God of Israel praised.
Might every mortal seek the Lord
By deep repentance ere too late.
To meet Christ’s bless’d reward,
In that bright, holy, happy state.

(The above poem by Elizabeth Coffinberry was clipped from a Mansfield newspaper about sixty-five years ago.)
MARY COFFINBERRY

MARY (POLLY) COFFINBERRY was born September 2, 1787. (Died 1861.) She married a Swiss by the name of Abram Bitcher. At this time the name Bitcher was pronounced Pitcher; but a generation or so later it was changed to Beecher, which descendants now bear. Mary Coffinberry married Abram Bitcher in the year 1803. He was born in 1782 and died in 1844.

... children were born of this union. They are as follows:

Elizabeth, (I am not positive, but think that the names which follow are those of the children of Mary Coffinberry), Abram, George, Burke, Gilmuth, Jane, Eliza, Sarah Lucinda).

ELIZABETH BEECHER was born October 29, 1805. Married Joseph Keasey January 15, 1824. Joseph Keasey was born in 1793. Elizabeth died 1869. Joseph lived to be 98 years of age. Joseph and Elizabeth were father and mother of fifteen children:

Amanda Alma Seth
Mary Jane Rosa Belle
Enos Elliott J. Theron J
Eden Joseph Arthur Burke
Eber B. Cynthia Julia

AMANDA KEASEY was born May 25, 1825. Married August 27, 1846 to Michia Merriman. Died October 19, 1852.

ENOS A. KEASEY, second child, was born October 15, 1826. Married November 20, 1851 to Nancy Gilkison, who was born May 16, 1830. Their children are as follows:

Frederick, Belle, Victoria, Harry, Richard, Albert, Jessie and Charles.

(1) Fredrick Keasey was born August 9, 1854. Married Lydia Musser. She was born the same day of the same year as that of her husband. They have four children: Edwin, Nolan, Hazel, Ray (deceased).

Edwin Keasey was born May 29, 1876 at Ligonier, Indiana. Married Sadie Mildred Treman, who was born May 15, 1882. No children.
Nolan Keasey

Hazel Keasey

(2) Belle Keasey was born December 19, 1858. Married O. Lewis Graffis.

(3) Victoria Keasey was born February 19, 1860. (single).

(4) Charles Keasey was born September 9, 1863. Married Mamie Hammond. They have two children, Oliver and Eveline.

(5) Harry Keasey was born January 7, 1865. Married Josie. No issue.

(6) Albert Keasey was born January 18, 1868. Was killed on the railroad while serving as brakeman.

(7) Jessie Keasey was born March 10, 1875. Married John Johnson. They had one son, who died in infancy. Johnson died a few years later and she married again, and losing that husband, married the third time, Ed Kent.

EDEN W. KEASEY, third child of Elizabeth and Joseph Keasey, was born January 12, 1828. Married Nella D. Harrington in 1862. They had six children: Joseph, Abigail Elizabeth Beecher, Carroll Colfax, Mary Higley, Dorn Eden, Dow Warren. (Eden W. Keasey died in 1905.)

(1) Joseph Keasey was born

(2) Abigail Elizabeth B. Keasey was born

Married George J. Frankel. No children.

(3) Mary Hidley Keasey was born

Married Kerr.

(4) Dow Warren

(5) Dorn Eden

EBER B. KEASEY, fourth child of Elizabeth and Joseph Keasey, was born September 20, 1829. Died April 22, 1851. Never married.

ALMA KEASEY, fifth child, was born March 3, 1831. Died July 26, 1832.

CHAPTER IV.

ANDREW COFFINBERRY

ANDREW COFFINBERRY, Esq. was born at Martinsburg, Berkeley County, Virginia. August 20, 1789, where his grandparents had settled in 1750, having emigrated from Wurttemburg and Strasburg, Germany. He removed with his father, George Coffinberry or Kaufenbaerger, as his German neighbors called him, to Ohio County, Virginia, in 1799 and from there to Chillicothe in 1806; thence to Lancaster, Ohio, in 1807. At this place he left his father and shipped for two years in the navel service, and served his time under Bainbridge and Hull, then rejoined his father, who had removed to Mansfield, Ohio, in the fall of 1808 or spring of 1809. He remained with his father during the war of 1812-13, living sometimes in a log cabin, and at others, when the settlement was menaced by hostile Indians, in one of the two blockhouses erected upon the public square of the village. At the close of the war, he read law with John M. May Esq. at Mansfield, where he continued to reside until he removed to Berrysburg in 1836.

For some years before leaving Mansfield he regularly attended the sessions of the Common Pleas and Supreme Courts in all or nearly all the counties in Northwestern Ohio, beginning with the organization of most of these counties, and continuing down to a few days before his death, which transpired at Findlay, Ohio, May 12, 1856.

We are not able to state definitely at what time he first began to attend the courts of Wood and Lucas Counties, but he was of counsel to Governor Lucas in the border controversy between the State of Ohio and Territory of Michigan, and accompanied Governor Lucas in his military expedition to the frontier, for the purpose of vindicating by the wager of battle the title of the State of Ohio to the Harbor of Toledo, in the spring of 1835.

The following sketch was clipped from a Toledo newspaper:

ANDREW COFFINBERRY—Few Toledo attorneys, in fact, few Toledo residents of today remember Count (nick name) Coffinberry, yet he was an able lawyer, an honored citizen when this city was still a growing village. From 1835 until his death in 1859, he was the wit and all around good fellow of the Toledo Bar and many of the amusing and interesting incidents are retold at the present time.

Count Coffinberry was a tall, slender and very elegant appearing gentleman. He was an exquisite dresser and spared no expense in having his wardrobe of the very best and most fashionable cut and materials. His usual costume was a blue spike-tailed coat with brass buttons, buff waistcoat and trousers, ruffled shirt and silk stockings. He had fine features and a very refined face, and was altogether a great deal of a beau. His right name was Andrew Coffinberry and he was called Count Coffinberry on account of his princely dress and deportment.
When traveling the circuit, always on horseback, he carried his wardrobe in a portmanteau in his saddlebags. Before he would get to his destination, the mud would play havoc with his fine clothes and, as one lawyer said, he would look like the devil and Tom Walker, but when he reached the end of the trip he would go to his room in the tavern, fish out another suit, and come down to the office as fresh as a daisy.

In A. A. Graham's History of Richland County, Ohio, under the list of county officers: Andrew Coffinberry is listed under Clerks of Common Pleas in 1813, and under County Recorder in 1813. The first Justice of Peace in Mansfield, Ohio, was Andrew Coffinberry. He was also one of the first school teachers in Mansfield.

He was married to Mary McClure in the year..............
To this union six children were born: George, James, Eliza, Rebecca, Sophia, Charles S.

The children of Andrew Coffinberry by his second wife, Frances Culver (descendent of Edward Colver, the Puritan, and Benjamin Burr, first settler of Hartford) were: Maria, Bun, Lodemia, Frances 1st, Helen, and Frances 2nd.

George Coffinberry, oldest child of Andrew Coffinberry, was born in 1816. Died 1842.

James M. Coffinberry, second child of Andrew Coffinberry, was born May 16, 1818 in Mansfield, Ohio. Married in January, 1841 Miss Anna Gleason of Lucas County. Children: Henery D., Mary Elizabeth and several others who died in infancy.

(1) Henry D. Coffinberry was born...................... Was a partner in the Globe Iron Works and the Cleveland Dry Dock Company, also one of the fire commissioners of the city. Served honorably through the War as an officer in the Mississippi Gun Boat Flotilla. Married a daughter of General Morgan, Miss Harriet Morgan. Two daughters were born to Henery D. and Harriet Coffinberry: Nadine and Maria D.

(A) Nadine Coffinberry was born...................... Married John E. Morley. Five children were born to this union. The family reside in Cleveland, Ohio

P.S.: James M. Coffinberry was a lawyer and judge. One evening, on April 18, 1875, while returning with his wife from Mt. Vernon, where they had gone to attend the wedding of their son to a daughter of General Morgan, and after they had crossed the railroad tracks, their carriage was struck by a freight car. They were both severely injured, he suffering the loss of a leg, his wife, though terrible bruised and mangled, was restored to comparative health. James M. died November 29, 1891.

REBECCA COFFINBERRY, fourth child of Andrew Coffinberry, was born........................... Married Cunningham Hazlett, son of Sir James Hazlett and Lady Cunningham. Sir James was banished from Ireland and fled to America. The Hazletts have recently been knighted.

SOPHIA COFFINBERRY, fifth child of Andrew Coffinberry, married John Wild Creps, brother of Joseph Creps and had three daughters, Helen, Elizabeth and Alice. Alice married T.G. Newton and have a son Arthur H. Newton, living in Dayton.

CHARLES S. COFFINBERRY, sixth child of Andrew Coffinberry, born............................... (Single).

MARIA COFFINBERRY, seventh child of Andrew Coffinberry, was born............................... (Single).

BUN COFFINBERRY, a son, was the eighth child of Andrew Coffinberry. It is believed that he died young.

LODEMIA COFFINBERRY, ninth child of Andrew Coffinberry, was born............................... Married..........................

FRANCES COFFINBERRY, tenth child, died in infancy.

HELEN COFFINBERRY, eleventh child of Andrew Coffinberry.

FRANCES COFFINBERRY, twelfth child of Andrew Coffinberry, was born............................... Married Daniel Myers in the Three children were born to this union: Henry, Nellie, Louis. (Daniel Myers traces his ancestry back to France to officers under Napoleon.)

2. Nellie Myers was born August 19, 1867. Married George Benjamin Hoyt. They have one son, Daniel Hoyt, born January 10, 1897. The family live in Cleveland, Ohio.

3. Louis Eugene Myers was born July 22, 1871. Married Frances Blanche Arter September 27, 1898. They have two sons, Frank Arter Myers and Eugene Arter Myers. Live in Cleveland, Ohio.

P. S.: Another item of interest on Andrew Coffinberry that was omitted at the beginning of the chapter:

Andrew Coffinberry was gifted with prose and poetry. He wrote a poem in several cantos and styled it “The Forest Rangers.” This work is not now in print, but Mr. Hiram R. Smith of Mansfield, had in his library a copy thereof. The scene of the poem is the border land of Ohio and Indiana. Time: over a hundred years ago. The hero: Mad Anthony Wayne. The battle: that of Fallen Timbers, and the vision of the Maumee Valley as it was when Wayne led his pioneer army, met and gave death to the dusky warriors of Mesasa, or better known in the annals of our border warfare “Turkey Foot.” He was a great warrior and chieftain, but Wayne was greater. It is of these two people, the dark, dusky warriors and Wayne’s army, and the pioneer settlers of the Northwest that Coffinberry writes, both in prose and poetry. Listen while I quote his description of the Battle of Presque Isle:

“Now roars the musket peal on peal,
The shrieking, painted warriors wheel,
And their receding columns reel,
And bite the earth beneath the steel.

“The battle cry’s horrific tones
Are mingled with their dying groans;
The legions still from ambush pour
Right onward down Miami’s shore;
Her floods are purple with the gore
Of those who fought, but fight no more.”

25
COUNT COFFINBERRY in his old days, was in public service in California, and had charge, with one of his sons, of taking of the census of that newly acquired territory, either prior to or on its admission as a state. From that service and the Pacific Coast he returned. He died somewhere in the early fifties at Findlay Ohio.

John C., James M. Gilkison, Andrew, Salathiel and James Coffinberry were among the early settlers of Ohio, while it was largely a wilderness inhabited by Indians. These men were men of influence in those days in shaping the destinies of Ohio. It is an honorable thing to be able to trace back the records of one’s descendants from the men and women who laid the foundation of our national greatness at those times when it took men and women in the highest sense of the word to meet the needs and endure the trials of those days.

CHAPTER VI.

NANCY COFFINBERRY

NANCY COFFINBERRY was born May 13, 1793. She mar­ rried Squire James M. Gilkison of Mansfield, Ohio on October 17, 1808.

(Nancy and her sister, Sarah, married brothers, James M. to Nancy and John C. to Sarah.)

James M. Gilkison was born June 1, 1788. Died 1856.

In the beginning the Gilkisons migrated from Scotland to the north of Ireland. From there two brothers came to America and landed at North Carolina. One of these brothers afterwards settled in Virginia and one in Greenup County, Kentucky. He had three sons named Jonathon, James, John.
He made a living by hunting and trapping. When the settlement grew more populated and game scarce he would move to a new district or region.

It was after one of these moves that the boys, James and John, were lost in the woods. It was solid forest for miles, the time of the year, fall. The boys took a grain sack and went into the edge of the woods to see if they could find some nuts. They were accompanied by their dog. James was eight years of age and John was ten.

Soon after reaching the woods the dog began barking at something and the boys ran to see what he had treed, but he was on the trail of some wild animal and led them far into the woods. Naturally they became bewildered and lost.
When night came it began to drizzle and remained that kind of weather all the days that they were lost.

The father looked for them the first night, the next day he got the aid of some hunters. The third day the dog came home in the night. The hunters thought that if they had seen him when he came they might have been able to send him back again, but in the morning he could not understand what they wished him to do. The father then went back to the settlement and got together a hundred men, they killed a beef, divided the meat among them and began hunting. This routine was gone through every morning until the evening of the eighth day, when the men decided it was no use to hunt any longer and so gave up the hunt.

In the meantime the little boys were traveling trying to find a way out of the forest which contained many honey locust trees. It was upon the pods of these trees that the boys lived on as they could find neither berries nor nuts. They suffered most for want of water. Although it drizzled all the time not enough water came down for them to get a taste. Not knowing any better, they tried to quench their thirst from the water on their own bodies. By so doing they thus made their thirst greater.

By this time, little James had become so weak he could not walk much and coaxed his brother to quit traveling and lie down and die, but the brother would not consent to the proposition and he helped the little brother along the best he could.

Their feet were very sore, full of thorns; their clothing damp; their throats sore and swollen.

The morning of the ninth day the sun shone for the first time since they were out. Greatly encouraged, John said: "I thought I heard nuts dropping in the night and I'm going up on the hill to see if I can find some, you stay here." But James did not wish to stay alone and cried, so they went together up the hill.

James was now so weakened that he crawled on his hands and knees, in fact, John went that way some of the time as their feet were so swollen and festered by thorne. All the time they were out they never saw a berry or a nut and the locust pods had become so sickening to them. On the top of the hill they came to a sort of an open space sodded over and a nice log for a resting place. To the right of them there appeared to be an old trail sodded here and there.

On the morning of the ninth day three Hunters (by profession) who had been in the hunt for the boys, decided that they would get some of the deer which seemed to be plentiful. One of these Hunters, John Creighton by name, came up this grassy slope in his hunt for deer and came full upon the boys,
Little James was nibbling on a locust pod. The Hunter blew his horn and then took the boys to a creek where he broke off a small piece of corn bread about the size of a walnut and soaked it in the water, then broke off half and divided it between the two boys. The coarse bread scratched their throats as it went down and the boys cried out in pain. Little James cried for more, but on account of their nearly starved condition the hunter did not dare give the children any more just at that time.

The other hunters hearing the horn came up. The blowing of the horn had been a signal previously agreed on if one of them needed help, so they loaded the boys on the horses already loaded with deer and started homeward. The boys, when found, were about forty miles from home.

The hunters, on arriving home with the boys, found that the father had gone on foot to a camp of Indians some twenty miles away, which was a dangerous undertaking, on account of the Indians being partly hostile. He did not find his boys there. They were nowhere about camp, so he turned towards home.

When Mrs. Gilkison opened the door in response to the hunters’ rap on the door with his foot, and he said: “Mrs. Gilkison, how would you like a couple of boys?” that lady promptly threw up her hands and fainted. So he not only had to unload the boys, but had to resuscitate her. As soon as she regained her senses she began to make a comfortable place for the boys. She placed a feather bed on the floor by the stove, but the hunter interfered, saying: “My good woman, you cannot do that. Put a blanket on the floor as far away from the stove as possible. Let the boys lie on that, nothing over them. I was lost once and found by Indians and I have done for your boys just as they treated me. He also told her how to feed them and cautioned her that any diversion from his directions might cause the death of one or both.

There was no place on the feet of the boys that a pin could not be placed without coming in contact with thorns. They could not get a shoe on all winter, there were yet thorns in their feet when spring came—after picking thorns all winter.

The three Gilkison boys settled in Ohio. After a while Jonathon settled in Illinois at Mt. Carmel and James later at Centreville, Michigan. James was justice of peace in Mansfield for over thirty years and resigned to move to Michigan.
Caroline Gilkison, daughter of James and Nancy, took care of her father and mother in their declining years. Her mother lost her mind and at times was quite violent. Neighbors advised the husband to take his wife to an asylum, but he never would consent to do that. He passed out of this world before his wife and he told his daughter, Caroline, that his greatest sorrow was in leaving Nancy behind. Caroline promised that she would always care for her mother and would never let her go to an asylum. James Gilkison had a little straight jacket that he used to put on his wife Nancy when she became violent. She and he were both strict church members and the church was very near their home, but he seldom attended on account of his wife's condition. She was a very beautiful singer.

The father of James M. Gilkison had four half-brothers and two sisters. Their names were Joseph, Mathew, Alick and Stephen Curren; the two sisters were Aunt Sallie Coffinberry and Mrs. Bradshaw. His wife's name was Jennie Williams. Jennie Williams Gilkison had a sister who has a daughter by the name of Mrs. Cazzard, also a daughter by the name of Mrs. Blue. Mrs. Cuzzard had a daughter by the name of Mrs. Prowty of Columbus, Ohio, and a son named Johnnie Cazzard.

A mention is made of Joseph and Mathew Curren in the Township of Springfield in Graham's History of Richland County. Page 420:

“In the spring of 1816 Mathew and Joseph Curren came and erected a cabin upon Mathew's land. (The Currens came in 1815.) This is said to have been the first cabin in the township of Springfield. Shortly after the Currens erected another cabin. They had encamped where they intended erecting the cabin and were cooking dinner by a large log out in the open air for workmen who were to erect the cabin. One of Curren's children, a little boy, attempted to walk across the log in sport, made a miss step and fell into a large kettle of boiling coffee, scalding him to such an extent that he died next day. This was the first death of a white person in the Township of Springfield.” A. A. Graham says the Currens were Irish.

Joseph Curren's children: Joseph, Miller, Mrs. Jones of Shelby, Ohio; Mrs. Burgoin, formerly of Plymouth, Ohio. There was another daughter, but do not know her name.
Aunt Sallie Coffinberry's children are: Ann Boner, Harrison Solida, Daymond and Mary Coffinberry.

NANCY COFFINBERRY GILKISON AND JAMES M. GILKISON

had thirteen children:

- George C.
- Eliza
- Maria
- Louise Lamanda
- James J.

The following names and dates, taken from an old leather Bible belonging to Nancy Coffinberry Gilkison, and now in possession of her granddaughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Stoner Niles of Mancelona, Michigan. (This refers only to the sons and daughters of Nancy and James.

GEORGE C. GILKISON was born August 26, 1810. Married Mary Keasey. His children were: Amy, Stephen, Simon B., Anny, who died about 1879. George C. Gilkison was born in Mansfield, Ohio. Died in 1882. Amy Gilkison married Mr. Filkins. They had a son named Alexander, who died recently. Stephen Gilkison was a soldier in the Civil War. Was a stone mason by trade. He had eight boys and two girls; (died in 1912).

- Schuler Salathiel
- Sharon Montgomery
- Sherman Blaine
- Jula H.

We know for certain that there were eight boys and two girls in the family of Stephen Gilkison, but I may be a little mixed on first and second names. There is a Zavallah Gilkison, who was the second son, and I think, perhaps, he was the Aurey Gilkison that appears in the above list. He married Clara Smith and they have three children. They live in Washington.

Schuler S. Gilkison married Mary......................... They had a son and a daughter. The wife and son were fatally burned. The daughter's name is Grace. Two of Stephen's sons live in Battle Creek, Michigan.

ELIZA GILKISON, second child of James and Nancy Gilkison, was born June 3, 1812. Married Samuel Platt of Mansfield, Ohio, who was a judge. Five children were born of this union: Hiram G., Thomson, Amanda, Mary Ann, William H. H. (Tip).
(1) Thomson married Ann Guigley.
(2) Hiram G. Piatt was born November 26, 1831 at Mansfield, Ohio. Married Elnora Osborn, who was born in White Pigeon, Michigan. Six children were born to this union: Lizza, Laura, Norman, Edward M. Harry Gilkison, Nettie.

Laura and Lizza died in infancy.

Norman Platt was born at Centreville, Mich. Was accidentally killed on the railroad on August 17, 1881, when about fourteen years of age.

Edward M. Platt was born August 23, 1872 at Centreville, Mich. Single.

Nettie Platt was born at Bay City, Mich. She was born September 29, 1875. Married William A. Manchester. No children. Nettie died in 1903.

Harry Gilkison Platt was born at Centreville, Mich. Married.............

Hiram G. Platt, father of the above children, was killed, in the year 1880, by a falling tree while cutting wood in the forest. Later his wife married Ephriam Ligonier.

(3) Amanda Piatt was born June 13, 1836 at Mansfield, Ohio. Married Mr. Beeman. She has a son now living in St. Louis, Mo. Amanda Piatt Beeman is now entering her ninety-first year and lives with her son, Claude V. Beeman, in St. Louis, Mo.

(4) Mary Ann Platt was born....... Married Dow Shibly, of Chicago. They have one son, Fred D. Shibly, of Colorado Springs.

(5) William H. H. Platt, (Tip everyone called him), was born May 24, 1840 at Montpelier, Ohio. Died September, 1923. He married Miss Charlotte Melissa Brown at Elkhart, Indiana, in 1868. She was born October 24, 1848 at Albion, New York. Died December 6, 1911. Three children were born of this union: Fred, Cady, Martin Dow. Fred and Cady died young.

Martin Dow Platt was born May 4, 1882, at Bay City, Mich. Married December 23, 1902, to Nina Frances Hammond, who was born January 31, 1883, at Bay City, Mich. One son was born to this union: Kenneth Hammond Platt, who was born December 28, 1903.

William H. H. Platt was married twice after the death of his first wife.
MARIA GILKISON, third child of James and Nancy Gilkison, was born May 27, 1815, at Mansfield, Ohio. Married when fifteen years of age, Isaac Harrison Platt of New Jersey, whose father and mother were John and Pheobe Williams Platt. For the benefit of the descendants of Maria and Eliza Gilkison, who married Platt brothers, I here wish to mention just a few words concerning the Platt lineage. After some research work, I am convinced that the book on the Platt Lineage, which I have in my possession, is of our Platts. One reason that makes me think thusly is that our Platts came from the Yankee States and so have all the other Platts that claim Richard Platt, who came to this country in 1638, as their ancestor. There is no record in the book I have just referred to, “The Platt Lineage,” where there is a mention of any other family of Platts other than the descendants of Richard Platt, who lived in the Yankee States up until about 1800. Richard Platt’s descendants are very numerous. On account of being one generation too late to obtain certain data that would probably connect us up to the said lineage, have not republished the Platt lineage along with the Coffinberry lineage. Hope some day to obtain this missing link. However, will just add an item or two contained in the Book on the Platts, which will be of interest.

“It is a well-known fact that our family name (Platt) is quite frequently found in various parts of England. Coats of arms have been granted to the family from the time of Edward III. in the year 1326, to the twenty-first year of Queen Elizabeth’s reign. In the records of the Heraldry Office in London, it is called “The Ancient and Honorable Family of Platt.” There are quite a few names of Platts on record that have been knighted.

Platt coat of arms granted by Edward III. in 1326 is described thus: Per Pale, Gule or Lion Passant, Armed.

MOTTO: Merit has its Reward.

Richard Platt was the first Platt to come to this country. He is the ancestor of by far the most of those who bear the name in the United States. He settled in Milford, Ct. It is thought that he was born the same year that Queen Elizabeth died and was baptized September 28, 1603, near Hertford, England. He came to this country in 1638. He had five sons and three daughters. His sons were: John, Isaac, Epenetus, 1640; Josiah, 1645; Joseph, 1649.
The sons of Joseph were: Joseph Jr., 1683.
The sons of Isaac were: Jonas, 1667; John, 1669; Joseph, 1673; Jacob, 1682. We know little of the descendants of John, Jacob and Joseph.
The sons of Epenetus were: Epenetus, 1674; Jonas, 1684; Jeremiah, 1686.
The sons of Josiah were: John, 1674; Richard, 1682 (who had a son, Richard, born in 1715); Joseph, 1693, and Josiah.

A complete record of the descendants of the grandchildren of Richard Platt will be found in G. Lewis Platt’s book on the Platt Lineage, which was issued in 1891 for private circulation. A book of about 400 pages, covering the thirty-seven branches of the Platts in the United States.

MARIA GILKISON PLATT died January 18, 1897, at South Haven, Mich. Age not quite 82 years. Maria Gilkison Platt and Isaac Harrison Platt were father and mother of nine children:

CHAPTER VII.

STEVEN COFFINBERRY

Was born in 1805, third youngest child of George and Elizabeth. We know nothing about him.

GEORGE LEWIS COFFINBERRY 2nd

Son of George Lewis Coffinberry Jr. Was born March 15, 1795. In Graham’s History of Richland County, he is mentioned twice. When a small boy a lawyer by the name of Winn Winship, came to board with his folks. This lawyer was quite a daper gentleman and wore a cue. He would send young George every day down to Mrs. Cunningham’s house with a great tin quart cup for milk with a six pence always in the cup.

He is mentioned again in reference to his brother Andrew, who was the first justice of peace of Mansfield, and the first process issued by him was against his brother George for chopping wood on Sunday.

George went to the mountains in the interests of the American Rocky Mountain Fur Company and never returned.

I believe the wife of George Lewis Coffinberry, 2nd, was Sarah Gilkison, the "Aunt Sallie" Coffinberry mentioned on pages 34 and 35.

OBITUARY

SALATHIEL CURTISS COFFINBERRY

Died at his home in Constantine, Michigan, September 20, 1889, at 5 A. M. At the time of his death he was the only survivor of a family of thirteen, he being the second youngest of the same.

His father, George L. Coffinberry, was born in Martinsburg, Va. His mother, Elizabeth Klein (Little) Coffinberry, was born near Strasburg in Alsace Lorraine, about 1769. Both were children of German parentage. His father entered the military service as a soldier in the Revolutionary War at the age of eighteen and remained there until the close of the war. His parents moved from Martinsburg to Wheeling, thence to Lancaster, Ohio, where Salathiel was born on February 26, 1809. At Mansfield, the deceased studied law with his brother, Andrew, and was admitted to practice there in 1829. After a time he moved to Canal Dover, Tuscarawas County, Ohio, where he opened an office and remained a short time. From there he returned to Mansfield, where he practiced law most of the time until he came to Michigan.

Salathiel was an officer in the War of the Patriots in Canada on the part of the Patriots, took part, with his men in battle, and with his American comrades, narrowly escaped capture by crossing to the American side and hiding when closely pressed.

Deceased came from Ohio to St. Joseph County, Michigan, in 1843, where he has resided ever since, and where he had all along been engaged in the practice of his profession until failing health compelled him to give up two or three years ago. He had long been a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, a Knight Templar, and had taken consistory degrees in Masonry up to the thirty-second. He was Grand High Priest of the Grand Chapter of Michigan, and also Grand Master of the State for many years respectively.

In the practice of his profession, almost invariable, his clients became his personal friends. He was eloquent as an advocate and was a brilliant and scholarly public speaker.

He was for many years a prominent Democrat of the state and the candidate of that party for national and state offices of high rank. He was enthusiastic in his love of the fine arts, was proficient in music, painting and poetry. Many of his productions in both prose and poetry are of a high order of merit. After attaining to years of manhood he acquired a thorough knowledge of the French and German language. His scholarly attainments, together with the great natural versatility of his mind conferred on him powers of conversation that were remarkably rare and fascinating. He had no ambition to accumulate money for money's sake, no inclination to toil in the gold mill that he might have bonds, mortgages and certificates of deposit. Immeasurably above that, he valued peace on earth, good will toward men. His impulses were amiable and tender, his generous nature quick to hear the cry of his fellow men in trouble and distress. His kind social intercourse and friendly companionship will be greatly missed, not only by members of his own family and kindred, but by a large circle of friends besides related to him by ties of blood.

There is a Masonic Lodge at Bangor, Michigan, named the Salathiel C. Coffinberry Lodge.

CHAPTER XIII.

"GRANTS PASS" COFFENBERRY

There are Coffenberrys living in Grants Pass, Oregon, who spell their name Coffenberry instead of Coffinberry. They do not know enough about their ancestry to connect up with the Coffinberrys. They do know that their ancestors came over from Germany and that their name originally was Kaufenbaerger and was changed to the name that they now bear. This tallies exactly with our ancestry and the farthest back that they have record of goes back to S. W. Coffenberry, who was born about 1815 in West Virginia. Our Kaufenbaegers that came to this country from Germany in 1750, settled in Martinsburg, West Virginia, so it is quite certain that this S. W. Coffenberry must have been the son of a brother to our ancestor, George Lewis Coffinberry.

S. W. Coffenberry was second county judge of Clatsop County for four terms beginning in 1851. Had a son, George Washington Coffenberry, and he had two sons and four daughters: George Washington 2nd, Nathan Lewis, Maria Jane, Emiline, Alvira, Sarah Jeanette.

Nathan Lewis Coffenberry was born in Pittsburgh, Carroll County, Ind. Came to Oregon in 1846. Married Sarah S. Bond. Nathan was a member of Grand Army of the Republic at Hubbard. Died at Hubbard, Ore., January 3, 1925. Four children were born to this union: George B., Franklin Pierce, who was drowned; Milton Sylvester, and Mrs. Lillian Smith.

OTHER COFFINBERRYS

There was an Isaac Coffinberry and wife living in Centreville, Mich. My aunt, Mary Jane Platt (Keasey), used to visit them so much when a girl. They were of our line of Coffinberrys, but do not know any thing about them.

56
Andrew Coffinberry and Lucia E. Pool, both of Battle Creek, Mich.

In the Alumni Catalog of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology appears the name of Milton D. Coffinberry of Seattle, Wash., who graduated in 1925.

There is a Joseph and Lulu..................living in Grand Rapids, Mich., who have four grandsons and one granddaughter: Lorna Doon 2nd.

“GILKISONS”

There is a family of Gilkisons living in Highwood, Ill., whom, I believe, are a branch of one of the two original Gilkison brothers, who were born in Scotland and came to America and settled in Virginia and Kentucky in the early days. There were two brothers who came to this country, we are descendants of one of the brothers and the family of Gilkisons living in Illinois are, perhaps, descendants of the other brother.

T. Mortimer Gilkison sends in the following data:

My great-grandfather was born in Scotland (am quite sure his name was William) and came to America as an orphan at about fifteen years of age and settled in Virginia. This, as near as I can trace, was about 1785. I am unable to tell you anything about his family except that he had one son, William, my grandfather.

My grandfather went from Virginia to Kentucky when a young man and was married twice. To his first wife was born one daughter and two sons: Malvina, Milton, Stanford L., my father.

To his second wife was born three sons and two daughters: Burgis, Albert, Rowe, Almira and Amanda. Of all the children, there is just one living. That one is Albert, whose address, I believe, is Triplett, Kentucky.

My father, Sanford L. Gilkison, was born in what was at that time a part of Flemming County, later Rowen County, some time in 1833. I have lost the date. Was married on December 31, 1860, to Rosana S. Hedges. To them five children were born: Lillian, Rousseau, Frances, William and Mortimer. The last is my name.
Rousseau lives at Bluestone, Kentucky, and William lives at Catlin, Illinois. I was married August 7, 1906, to Mary Lucile Fitt. We have had three children, the oldest, Thelma, was born November 28, 1907, died December 1, 1907. The next, Joseph Ivon, was born August 15, 1909. Thomas Mortimer was born December 29, 1914.

There are descendants of Jonathon Gilkison (brother to James and John C. Gilkison) living in Quincy, Illinois. Jana­thon settled in Missouri.

There is a Henery A. Gilkison belonging to our family tree who is living in Chicago. He is a descendant, I think, of James and Nancy, but cannot place him.

“PLATTS”

There was a Ben Platt in Mansfield, Ohio, that belonged to our family tree, He was married to either Mary Ann Littler or Sarah Jane Littler.

There was a George Platt living in Mansfield, Ohio, who was an uncle to my grandmother, Mrs. Susan Platt Bishop. It is quite probable that he was a brother of Isaac Harrison Platt and Judge Samuel Platt of Mansfield, Ohio.

There was a William Platt residing on a farm near Mans­field, Ohio, in the early days and at the time when our branch of the Platts lived in Mansfield. I think it quite probable that he was related to us as Mansfield was a very small place at that time and it was not usual that there would be families of the same name who were not in some way related.

A. A. Graham in his History of Richland County, Ohio, says:

“Among the old residents of Madison Township, was Wil­liam Platt, who resided on a farm near Mansfield, known by his name. He was born in 1803 and came to this county in 1821. The old homestead has never passed out of the family name. He died in 1850 in his 46th year. He was married to Charlotte Bell, May 1, 1835, and they had seven children, one, a son, alone survives him, near the old homestead.”
