THese

ARE MOST GRATEFULLY AND RESPECTFULLY INSCRIBED

BY

THE AUTHOR.
He beareth Sable, a Chevron Ermine, between three Crescents, Argent.

This patent was granted by William Camden, April 3, 1604, and descends to the name and family of Glover.

The above Coat of Arms, with the accompanying inscription, corresponds with those referred to on pages 14, 15 and 44. It was taken from one obtained of a London Herald by Capt. Russell Glover, and is now in the possession of John J. Glover, Esq., of Quincy.
PREFACE.

In offering these Memorials of the preceding generations of the name and family of Glover, the writer gratefully acknowledges the kind words of encouragement received from many individuals in each branch of the families contained in the work, as also the ready response to her call for ancient original documents and private records. In addition to such sources of information, an extensive correspondence has been the means of gathering in much valuable and reliable information. Letters have been addressed to every person bearing the name of Glover, not only in New England but the United States, whose records and history could not be otherwise obtained. More than one thousand letters have been sent to such persons, and to others from whom there appeared to be any chance of gleaning information. To those who have responded promptly, the most grateful acknowledgments are here tendered. In some few instances inquiries have remained unanswered; and in others, where another name was borne although of Glover descent, an indifference has been made apparent by the doubtful character of the reply. The best has been made of it, however, and if such should chance to see an error in the arrangement of their names or a discrepancy of dates, they must impute it to the deficiency of their own communications, for no expense or labor has been spared in the endeavor to obtain the correct dates and facts in every case. It is earnestly hoped that those who may discover errors or omissions, will be kind enough to make them known to the author.

There have been found to be six original progenitors or American ancestors of the name of Glover—four only of whom are here Memorialized. Of Charles Glover, of Salem and Gloucester in 1632, and subsequently of Southold, Long Island, N. Y., and of Henry Glover, who settled early in New Haven, Ct., there has been a large amount of information gathered and their descendants traced as far as practicable; but they could not be noticed in this volume, without too much increasing its size.

EXPLANATION.

In order to render the work as plain as possible and avoid elaborate numbering, as a means of designating the places of each individual member of so large a family, the plan kindly suggested by a distinguished genealogist has been adopted, and the sign of addition (➔) placed before each name designed to be noticed in the succeeding generation. This rule has been followed as far as practicable. In a few instances, however, the sign will be found placed before a name which does not appear in the next generation, on account of a deficiency in the additional facts obtained, as in the following numbers:—Nos. 67 and 68, on page 252; 171 and 177, on p. 273; 227, on p. 285; 413, on p. 306; 601, on p. 323; 731, on p. 336; 846, on p. 346; and 113, on p. 522. The numbers before which the sign was omitted, and which were intended to be again noticed and have been carried forward to their proper places in the next generation, are as follows:—No. 97, on page 255, is carried forward to p. 298; 200 and 201, p. 280, to pp. 332 and 333; 204, p. 281, to p. 333; 358, p. 300, to p. 346; 451, 452 and 453, p. 310, to p. 362; 587, p. 382, to p. 370; 600 and 602, p. 323, to pp. 370 and 371; 1040, p. 363, to p. 420; 1060, p. 364, to p. 423; 1061 and 1063, p. 365, to p. 423; 1234, p. 383, to p. 433; 1284, p. 383, to p. 433; 1294, p. 387, to p. 434; 1305 and 1306, p. 388, to p. 435; 1361 and 1364, p. 396, to p. 437. An error on page 301, No. (123), and carried forward to page 347, may be found corrected on page 582, under the head of Additions and Corrections. No. 1393, on page 398, was received too late to be carried forward to its proper place in the next generation, and is inserted among the Additions and Corrections. On page 402, No. 835, the account of the children was received too late to be inserted in the proper place, and is placed among the Additions and Corrections. On page 408, is an erroneous communication in relation to the children of No. 888, which is corrected among the Additions and Corrections. Also No. 83, of Part II., may be found noticed there.

Very few abbreviations have been used:—the letter b. for born, m. for married, d. for died, unm. for unmarried, comprising nearly all.
PART I.

GLOVERS OF ENGLAND.
HON. JOHN GLOVER AND HIS DESCENDANTS.
Glover is an ancient name in England, and from what has been gathered of its origin, is indisputably Saxon. In some of the oldest counties, as Warwickshire and Kent, it was, at a very ancient date, written Golofre — then Glove, and in the middle of the fourteenth century it was written as it now is, Glover. It has undergone no change since, excepting that some of the earliest settlers of New England occasionally wrote it with a u, instead of a v, as may be sometimes seen in the oldest documents, viz., Glouer; although there is no record of the name being spelled in that way in England at any time. It was a corruption, which soon went into disuse, and the name written Glover again, according to the English orthography, and has continued to be so written to the present day.

Families of Glover, of the Christian names of William and John, were recorded in Buckinghamshire, Berkshire and Warwickshire, about the middle of the fourteenth century. To distinguish one family from another, it became necessary to have some rule established by which to preserve to their children the remembrance of their origin and race, and the titles to their estates. The Norman nobles first used surnames in England, to avoid confusion and the extinction of family origin — and surnames were taken by some from the places from which they came, from their office or their trades — and various other circumstances induced them to adopt some surname. The Saxon race who were living at that time under the rule of the Norman kings, soon found it not only convenient, but honorable, to adopt the same rule, and surnames became universal throughout the kingdom. To perpetuate the remembrance of their estates, William of Normandy, called the Conqueror, who invaded England in 1066, caused a survey to be made of his English kingdom, and a record kept of all the estates as they then were possessed and occupied, with the titles to them, and ordered that this record should be made in a book, called the Dooms-Day Book, and preserved in the Tower of London, to enable all persons who had a desire to know to whom these estates had once belonged, and other particulars in relation to them, by examining that record book, to obtain the desired information.

Another rule or plan adopted by the Norman Conqueror, was to appoint competent persons, to whom he gave the name of Heralds or Norroys, and send them throughout his English kingdom to collect and preserve the origin and pedigrees of all English, Saxon or Norman families. These visitations were made not long before his death, in A.D. 1087, and the records of all such families as then existed, with their rank and pedigrees, were ordered to be preserved in the Tower of London, and may be seen at the present time.

These visitations were called "Heralds' Visitations," and continued to take place once in about thirty years, through all succeeding reigns, for a long period.

The office is referred to in the times of Edward I., II. and III. The Norroys, or Kings of Arms, as Burke writes, were always attended throughout their circuit by a register, a draughtsman and proper attendants.

Fuller, in his Worthies of England, written in the 15th century, gives an account of one of these Heralds' Visitations among the gentry and worthies of England, which occurred in the twelfth year of King Henry VI., as returned by the commissioners in A.D. 1433.

Titles came into use about this time, which were very convenient in designating persons and classes, as a kind of dignity granted to the most worthy and enterprising. Master was one of the earliest in use for expressing Lordship, according to the definition given by writers on the science of language. In those times it was a title of honor and regard, but in the lapse of time has become so promiscuously applied to all classes and grades of people, that it has long ceased to be a distinguishing title expressing Lordship, and other names have been and are at present used to express the same rank. It was at first Master, then modified to Mister, which was a title expressing worth, honor and probity. In the 16th and 17th centuries, the appellation or affix of Mr. to a surname expressed dignity and rank, distinguishing those to whose name it was applied, from the common classes. It was in those times very carefully used, and but few names, and those only of the distinguished class, were honored with the title. It has been stated by writers of the time of the early emigration to New England, that in a list of one hundred freemen, not more than four or five persons bore the appellation of Mr.

Knighthood was a very ancient title. Certain qualities of mind and manner, certain courses of action which distinguished persons for bravery and honorable conduct, and brought them into favorable notice with their sovereigns, were rewarded with the appellation of Knight, and such individuals became a favored class.

According to a survey made in the following counties, the name of Glover is recorded thus:

Among the worthies of the County of Berkshire — Johannis Glover, Sheriff in the 12th year of King Henry VI., A.D. 1433.

Buckinghamshire — John Glover, of Kimball.

Bedfordshire — Gentry, Johannis Glover, and John Glover, Junior.

Warwickshire — Robert Glover, of Monceter, Gentleman, martyred at Coventry Sept. 20, 1555.

Middlesex — William Glover, Sheriff in the time of Queen Elizabeth, London, Middlesex, about 1588.

Kent — Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, son of Thomas and Mildred, was born at Ashford, in this County. By the epitaph on his monument, he died not 46 years old, Anno 1588, and was buried without Cripplegate, London, St. Giles, on the south wall of the choir.

The names of John, William, Robert, Thomas, Richard and Henry, are among the earliest Christian names of Glover that have been noticed by writers. These names have been perpetuated, and have descended down like their estates, through many generations, both in Old and New England.

1423. There was a William Glover, who lived in A.D. 1423 and is noticed thus: "Feoffment of a Burgage in the town of Stratford upon Avon, in the second year of King Henry VI. (1423), being a conveyance of Land to William Glover and others."

1469. William Glover, in Wiltshire, collected fifty shillings for the Charities of that Church during the week on which falls the nativity of St. John the Baptist.

Of the John Grollers we have dates from English records as follows:

1446. Mr. John Glover, incumbent at the Rectory of Sutton, in Surrey County, as early as 1454, resigned in 1466. Records from 1416 lost, also from 1616 to 1628.

1571. John Glover, Vicar of Docking, in Wiltshire, in 1571. After the death of John Glover, Stephen Richman succeeded to the vicarage. He was Master of Arts; sometime one of the fellows of Magdalen College, and became vicar immediately after the death of John Glover, who died in 1571.

1593. John Glover, page 236, Charities from County of Kent: "Mr. John Glover, of this Parish, gave by Will, five Shillings per Annum forever for the Poor, to be paid out of his Lands to the Surveyors for the time being, towards mending the highways of this Parish, which Lands are now in possession of Matthew Parker."

1685. John Glover, at St. John's Church, Margate, County of Kent. This Church was one of three Chapels belonging to the Church of Minster, in the Island of Thanet, and very probably was begun to be built as early as the year A.D. 1050. It is situated on the open sea, at Margate, in Kent.

A Memorial to John Glover, Gentleman, who died at London in 1685, aged 56 years, born in 1629. He had a wife Susanna, whom he left a widow, according to the following inscription underneath his obit:

"Mrs. Susanna Glover, his wife, Obiciit in 1713, aged 75 years" (born, therefore, in 1638).

In the second volume of Stowe's Survey of London, not in Index, the following is found:

"John Glover, Church Warden in 1701 — buried in St. James, Checkinwell, and Anne Glover his wife, buried also in 1689."

1551-2. John Glover, a Patron, resigned Feb. 3, 1551-2, the Vicarage which is in the Deanery of Stoke. "County of Surrey," vol. i.

Robert Glover, who suffered martyrdom in September, 1555, noticed by Fuller in his Worthies, had brothers John, William and Thomas, and possessed estates in Monceter, Baxterly, and other places in the County of Warwickshire.

John and Robert were married, William died unmarried. The name of John’s wife was Agnes; the name of Robert’s, Mary. Thomas left Warwickshire, and settled in Ashford, County of Kent, according to the testimony of some — and undoubtedly it is correct. His Coat of Arms refers him back to Warwickshire. Robert, the Somerset Herald, was probably nephew to the Martyr. Robert the Martyr had several children, the names of but two of whom have been given: Hugh, whom he named, it is said, from Hugh Latimer, who was often a guest at the house of his brother John Glover; and Edward, who succeeded, in the reign of Elizabeth, to the Baxterly estate.

We find the following in “Fox’s Acts and Monuments,” at pages 814, 817 and 819:

"The persecution of Mr. Robert Glover* and his two brothers John and William Glover, in September, 1555.

"To this month pertains the memorable Martyrdom of Glover, Gentleman, in the Diocese of Litchfield and Coventry, in Warwickshire County, England.

"I must intermix with his history some mention of his brother John Glover, for whom this commission was chiefly sent down; and not for Robert, although it pleased Almighty God that John escaped, and Robert was apprehended instead. I thought therefore in one history to comprehend them both together in describing some part of their virtuous lives.

"And, first, to begin with John Glover, the Eldest brother, being a Gentleman and heir to his father in the Town of Monceter, he was endowed with fair possessions of Worldly Goods. But yet was much more enriched with God’s Heavenly Grace and inward Virtues. Which Grace of God so working in him he with his other brothers William and Robert not only received and embraced the happy light of Gods Holy Gospel, but also zealously professed and no less diligently in their living and conversation followed the same. Who though he suffered sharp temptations, yet the Lord Graciously preserved him all the While, and not only at last did rid him out of all discomfort, but also framed thereby to such mortification of Life in that his conversation was in Heaven, and being dead to this World, he in Word and meditation led a life altogether Heavenly; Abhorring in his mind all profane doings. Neither was his talk different from his life; never using any vile or vain language. The most part of his lands he distributed among his brethren, and committed the rest to the arrangements of his servants and officers, by which he might the more quietly give himself to his Godly study, as to a continual Sabbath rest.

"This was about the latter part of King Henry Eighth's Reign, and continued a great part of the time of King Edward Sixth.*

"After this, in the persecuting days of Queen Mary, As soon as the Bishop of Coventry heard of the fame of this Mr. John Glover, he wrote his letters to the Mayor and Officers to apprehend him. But it chanced otherwise by Gods Holy Providence, disposing all things after His Holy and own secret pleasure, Who seeing His old and trustworthy Servant, so many years broken with many torments; would in no wise heap too many sorrows upon one poor sheep; neither would commit him to the flames of fire, who had been already scorched with the sharp fires of inward Affliction and had sustained so many burning darts and conflicts of Satan.

"God therefore of his Divine Providence Graciously provided his brother Robert Glover, being both stronger of Body and also better furnished with the helps of Learning to answer the Adversaries (this Robert being a Master of Arts in Cambridge), should sustain that conflict.

* "Edward VI. was taken to his rest, and his sister Mary—allas, Bloody Mary—ascended the Throne as Queen of England in Anno Domini 1553. The system of persecution which she put in force was the most awful exhibition of cruelty and of cold and deliberate blood-guiltiness that the records of our race presents to us. There may have been at other times and in other lands persecution as terrible and bloody; but this continued through the whole five years of her Reign. The Loftiest in the Land were its Martyrs, and a Woman was its perpetrator."

Fox's Acts and Monuments, Editor's Preface, p. 3.
"As soon as the Mayor of Coventry had received the Bishop's Letter for the apprehending of John Glover, he sent forthwith private word to John to convey himself away, who with his brother William was not so soon departed out of his house; but yet in the sight of the Sheriff, the Searchers came and rushed in to take him according to the Bishop's Command. But when John could not be found, one of the officers, going into an Upper chamber, found Robert* there lying ill on his bed and sick of a severe disease, who was immediately brought before the Sheriff. The Sheriff would fain have dismissed him, and did what he could, saying he was not the Man for whom they were sent; yet nevertheless the Officers contending with him to have him stayed until the Bishop's coming, he was constrained to carry him away against his Will."

We shall now give some account of the history of Robert Glover. From a narration which was sent to his wife, in his own hand writing, we give extracts as follows:

"To my Entirely beloved Wife, Mary Glover.

"The peace of Conscience which passeth all understanding, the sweet consolation, comfort, strength and boldness of the Holy Ghost, be continually increased in our heart, through a fervent, earnest and steadfast faith in our most dear and only Saviour Jesus Christ. I thank you most heartily, my most loving Wife, for your letters sent to me in my imprisonment. I read them with tears more than once or twice: With tears, I say, for Joy and gladness that God had wrought in you so merciful a Work. First, an unfeigned repentance; secondly, an humble and hearty reconciliation; thirdly, a Willing submission and Obedience to the Will of God in all things, which, when I read your letters and judged them to proceed from the bottom of your heart, I could not but be thankful to God, rejoicing with tears for you; and these his great mercies poured upon you. These your letters and the hearing of your most Godly proceedings and constant doings from time to time much relieved and comforted me at all times, and shall be a goodly Testimony with you at the Great Day against many worldly and dainty Dames who set more by their own pleasure and pelf in this world than by God's Glory, little regarding the everlasting health of their own souls or

of others. My prayer shall be while in this world that God, who of his great mercy hath begun this good work in you, will finish it to the Glory of His name, and by the Mighty power and inspiration of His Holy Spirit so strengthen, establish and confirm you in all his ways, to the end that we may together show forth his praises in the World to Come to our unspeakable consolation eternally. Amen. So long as God shall lend you a continuance in this miserable World, above all things, give yourself Continually to prayer, lifting up, as St. Paul says, clean and pure hearts and hands, without anger, wrath, or doubting, forgiving, as he saith also, if you have any thing against any Man, as Christ forgiveth us.

“If I would have given place to Worldly reasons, these might have moved me. First, the foregoing of you; and the consideration of the state of my children, being yet of tender age; apt and inclinable to Virtue and Learning, and so having the more need of my assistance — being not altogether destitute of gifts to help them— possessions also above the common sort of Men. Because I was never called to be a Minister or Preacher, and because my sickness, fear of death in imprisonment before I should come to my answers to the Bishop; and so my death to be unprofitable. But these things and such like, I thank my Heavenly Father, which of his Infinite mercy inspired me with his Holy Spirit for his Son's sake, My only Saviour and Redeemer, prevailed not in me.”

The letter closes; and then follows, viz.:—“In the same fire with Robert Glover was burned Cornelius Bungy of Coventry, and William Wolsey and Robert Pigot of the Isle of Ely, about the 20th of September, 1555.”

JOHN AND WILLIAM GLOVER.

An account of John and William Glover is given in the same work as follows:

“After the Martyrdom of Robert Glover, John Glover, the eldest brother, seeing his brother apprehended for him, had little joy of his life, and would gladly have put himself in his brother’s stead if friends had not otherwise persuaded him. About the latter end of Queen Mary’s Reign there was a new search made for him. The Sheriffs with their under Officers being sent to seek John Glover, came into the house where he and his wife were. It chanced as he was in the Chamber by himself the Officers bursting into the house and searching other rooms came to the chamber door where he, holding the latch, softly with his hand, perceived and heard the Officers bustling about the door, amongst whom one of the Officers, having the string in his hand, was ready to draw and pluck at the door. In the mean time another coming whose voice he heard and knew, bade them come away, saying that they had been there before, upon which they went to search other corners of the house, where they found Agnes Glover his wife, who being taken to Litchfield and there examined before the Bishop, at length after much ado was constrained to give place to their tyranny. John Glover in the mean time, partly for care of his wife and partly from cold taken in the woods where he lay hid, had an ague, and not long after gave up his life which the cruel Papists had so long sought for. Thus by the protection of Almighty God, John Glover was delivered and defended from the hand of his persecuting enemies during all the time of his life. Now what befel him after his death, both to him and to William his brother, is not unworthy to be remembered. After he was dead and buried in the Church-yard without Priest or Clerk, Doctor Dracot, then the Chancellor, Six weeks after sent for the Parson of the Town and demanded how it chanced that he was there buried; The Parson answered that he was then sick and knew not of it. Then the Chancellor commanded the Parson to go home and to cause the body of John Glover to be taken up and to be cast over the Wall into the Highway. The Parson answered that he had been six weeks in the Earth, and so smelled that none was able to abide the stench of him. Well, said Dr. Dracot, then take this bill and pronounce him in the pulpit a damned soul, and a twelve month after (for then the flesh will be consumed) take up his bones and cast them over the Wall, that the horses and carts may tread upon them, and then I will come again and hallow that place in the Church Yard. Similar usage was practised upon the body of William, the Third brother, whom after it had pleased Almighty God about the same season to call him out of this vale of misery, the good disposed people of the Town of Wem in Shropshire where he died, brought the body into the Parish Church, intending there to have it buried, but one Bernard being the Curate of the Church, to stop the burial rode to the Bishop, to have his advise. The body in the mean time lay there two whole days and one night; when Bernard the Curate comes with the Bishop's Letter, of which we here have a copy word for word:—

"Understanding that one Glover a heretic is dead in the Parish of Wem, which Glover hath for all the time of my being in this Country been known for a rebel against our Holy Faith and Religion, a contemner of the Holy Sacrament and Ceremonies used in the Holy Church;—and hath separated himself from the Holy Communion of all good Christian men and never requested to be reconcile to Our Mother Holy Church, nor in his last days did call for his Ghostly Father, but died without all those Rites belonging to a Christian Man, I thought it good not only to command the Curate of Wem that he should not be buried with a Christian burial, but also will and command all the Parish of Wem that no man procure, help, nor speak to have him buried in Holy Ground. But do charge and command the Church Warden of Wem in special and all the Parish of the same, that they assist the said Church Curate in defending and rendering and procuring, that he be not buried either in the Church or within the limits of the Church Yard. I charge those that brought the body to this place to carry it away again, and that at their Charge as they will answer at their peril."

"At Eclish, this 6 day of September, 1555.
By your Ordinary Rudulph, Coventry and Litchfield.'

"It fell out that those who brought the corps thither were at their own charges to carry it back again. But as the body was corrupted and smelt so strongly that no man could come near it, they were forced to draw it with horses into a broomfield and there he was buried."

Something more about John Glover is gathered from the History of Warwickshire, Vol. 3, page 1054.

"Baxterly in Warwickshire.
Within this Moiety is a fair Mansion call Baxterly Hall, built in King Edward 6th's time by John Glover, then a retainer to Lord Ferrers, as may appear by the Arms and Badges carved upon the timber work (but formerly attached to the Abbots of Heresdale, as by tradition I have heard), unto Whose house did that famous asserter of the Protestant Faith, Hugh Latimer, Sometime Bishop of Worcester, resort. Whose Ghostly instructions so well grounded Robert Glover, brother to the said John, that rather than that he would recede from them he chose to lay down his life, being burnt at Coventry in the 5th or 6th of Philip and Mary, as Mr. Fox in his Catalogue of Martyrs has deduced. Which Robert had issue Hugh Glover, who inherited these Lands as Cousin and heir to his Uncle John Glover, in whose line they continued until John Glover, descendant of said Hugh Glover, by deed dated 22 July, 1704, sold the same to Thomas Strong, Esq., who by Sarah his wife, one of the daughters of Lovisagod Gregory of —— Hall in this County, Esq., hath Issue one son now living (1788), and one daughter named Lucy.”

Page 1063. "Hurley Manor, Edward Glover, of Baxterly. Maria, wife of Edward Glover of Baxterly in Warwickshire, was daughter of Thomas Willington and Alicia, who were married in 1599."

John Glover, of Barcester, in Warwickshire. A notice of John Glover occurs on page 1076 of "History of the County of Warwickshire," which reaches further back than the time of Robert the Martyr. He may have been the father of Robert.

"William Harper, Nicholas Rowley and Thomas Arblaster, of Langdon, County of Staffordshire, Esquires, were in the 10th Year of Henry Sixth of England (1432), joyntly possessed of the manor of Monceter. Thomas Harper, the last of that name, sold his share to John Glover of Baxterly, in whose line it still continues now at this writing (1788), the manor house being a part of it."

"Robert Glover, martyred in September 20, 1555, wife Mary and several children; one named Hugh, another Edward. John Glover, his brother, of Monceter, wife Agnes, children. John was the elder brother; was arrested, escaped, and died of disease in 1555.

"William, another brother, met with similar usage; he escaped to Wem in Shropshire, and died there."

Thomas, of Coventry in Warwickshire and of Ashford in Kent, may have been a brother of the above martyrs; he was father of Robert the Antiquary. The conjecture is not improbable, as after the death of Queen Mary, who was succeeded by Elizabeth, times were changed in relation to those families whom she persecuted on account of their absolving themselves from the Catholic religion. Elizabeth's reign commenced in 1558, and those families which had been so persecuted by her predecessor, were treated by her with marks of especial favor. Where estates had been confiscated by Mary, they were restored to them or their children by Elizabeth, as in the case of the Glovers of Warwickshire.

Frequent instances are on record at the present time, by which it appears that many of the name have continued to enjoy the power and patronage of their Sovereigns — both Kings and Queens — one of which may find a place here.

Among the members of the Camden Society in London, for the year 1838–9, and previous years, are mentioned Ambrose Glover, Esq., F. S. A.; John Hurlburt Glover, Esq., F. S. A., Librarian to Her Majesty Queen Victoria.*

"Lancashire Visitations. Robert Glover, Somerset Herald. In the time of Queen Elizabeth, 1567, William Flowers, Norroy. The celebrated Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, accompanied his Father-in-law Flower in his Lancashire Visitations in 1567. The Rare Manuscripts were in the hand writing of the celebrated Glover, very neatly written, and marked L. 2086."

"List of Heralds appointed in the happy days of Queen Elizabeth, as set down in Burke's General Armory: — John Cooke of Lancaster, Robert Cooke of Chester, William Flower of Chester, William Colborne of York, Ralph Langman of York, Richard Turpyn of Camden, and Robert Glover, who died in 1588. In the time of his being Herald he was employed to carry the Garter to the Emperor Maximilian, and afterwards was joined an Ambassador to the Earl of Shrewsbury to carry the Garter to Henry 4th, King of France."

Fuller, in giving an account of the distinguished writers of that time, 1588, speaks thus of him:

"Robert Glover, son to Thomas and Mildred, was born at Ashford, in Kent. He addicted himself to the study of Heraldry, and in the reward of his pains was made first a Pursuivant Port-Cullis and then Somerset Herald. When the Earl of Derby was sent into France to carry the Garter to King Henry Third of France, Mr.

* There are living at the present time in Coventry, in the County of Warwickshire, several families of the name of Glover, as shown in the Post Office Directory of 1859. The boundaries given of the County of Warwickshire may assist in directing the reader to the part of England whence many of the name originated. Warwickshire is bounded on the North-west by Staffordshire, on the Northeast by Leicestershire, on the Southeast by Oxfordshire, on the East by Northamptonshire, on the Southwest by Gloucestershire, and on the West by Worcestershire. The London and Birmingham Railway passes through it. Its chief city is Coventry.
Glover attended the Embassage, and was, as he deserved, well rewarded for his pains. He by himself began in Latin a book called the Catalogue of Honour of our English Nobility, with their Arms and Mottoes. It being the first book of the kind, he therein travelled untrodden paths, and therefore no wonder who since succeeded him found a nearer way and exceeded him in acuteness therein. Being old rather in experience than years, he died not Forty six years old, Anno 1588, and lieth buried under a comely Monument in Saint Giles, without Cripplegate, London, on the south wall of the Church Choir. Let Mr. Camden's commendation pass for his Epitaph."

Stowe, in his "Survey of London," speaks thus of him (not in index):

"The Skilful Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, a man of as good wit and great reading, so of infinite industry. He began the book called the Catalogue of Honour, in Latin (but finished by Thomas Milles, his kinsman), wherein he undertook to clear the descent of Royal Pedigrees of our Kings and Queens. He had an abundance of Rolls and Pedigrees and Ancient Writings of Heraldry, which he had gathered for his use, besides vast collections made by his own hands and travel, touching the Arms and Visitations of Twenty-four Shires, and Miscellaneous matters, all written by himself."

"Camden mentions him oft with honor, and acknowledges he had made much use of him in making out Genealogies.

"Glover also communicated to Dr. David Powell a copy of the History of Cambria, Translated by H. Lloyd.

"He was thus useful in prosecuting the knowledge of the Ancient Britons, and would have been much more had he not been taken away so early, being at his death but Forty five years old. In the Parish Church of Cripplegate, where he lies buried, is a fair monument got up to his memory, with an inscription in Latin."

The following notice from Chalmers appears to refer to this Robert Glover:

"Thomas Glover, a Herald and Heraldic Writer, was the son of Thomas Glover of Ashford, in Kent, the place of his Nativity. He was first made Portcullis pursuivant, and afterwards, in 1571, Somerset Herald.

"Queen Elizabeth permitted him to travel abroad for improvement, and in 1582 he attended Lord Willoughby, with the order of the Garter, to Frederic II. of Denmark. He waited as Clarencieux to the Earl of Derby, with that Order to the King of France.

"No one was a greater ornament to the College than this Gentleman. The Suavity of his manners was equal to his integrity and skill. He was a most excellent and very learned man, with a knowledge in his profession which has never been surpassed or exceeded, perhaps has never been paralleled. To this the best writers of his own and recent times bear testimony. He left two treatises — de Nobilitate Politica vel Civili, and a Catalogue of Honour, both of which were published after his death by his nephew Thomas Milles, the former in 1608, the latter in 1610 — both folio — to revive the name and memory of his deceased uncle and friend, whose private studies for the public good deserved a remembrance beyond the forgetfulness of time. His Answer to the Bishop of Rose's book, in which Mary Queen of Scots' claim to the Crown was asserted, was never published. He made great collections of what had been written by preceding Heralds, and left his own labors relative to Arms and Visitations of Twenty-four Counties, and miscellaneous matters belonging to this science, all written by himself. He assisted Camden in his Pedigrees for his Britannia — communicated to Dr. David Powell a copy of the History of Cambria, translated by H. Lloyd — made a collection of inscriptions upon the funeral monuments in Kent — drew up a most curious survey of Herwood Castle in Yorkshire, in 1584 — and his Catalogue of Northern Gentry, whose surnames ended in son. He died in London, says Stowe, April 14, others say 10, Anno Dom. 1588, aged only 45 years, and was buried in St. Giles Churchyard, Cripplegate. His loss was severely felt by all our lovers of English Antiquity. His Ordinary of Arms was augmented by Edmonson, who published it in his first volume of his Body of Heraldry."

"Sa, a Chevron Ermine between three Crescents arg. Crest a Cross-bow az. between two wings or.

"Another Crest on a round Chapeau, sa turned up, or two wings expanded of the first, granted in 1577."

From Burke's General Armory: "Glover, Norfolk, 1611, Romney, Kent, London. Also borne by Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, time of Elizabeth."
"Sa, Chevron Ermine between three Crescents argent. Crest an Eagle az. charged, or, with three spots of Ermines. Another Crest a dragon."

Another writer gives an account of the Somerset Herald, and gives him the Christian name of Thomas. In some places, where the name is Robert in the index, on looking at the page, as in the Gentleman’s Magazine, the article in relation to him is under the name of Thomas. There is a mystery in this synonyme of names as applied to the Somerset Herald by different writers, that has not yet been elucidated; but the accounts are correctly transcribed by the different authorities.

Hugh James Rose, D.D., Principal of Kings College, London, in his latest Heraldic Dictionary, writes thus: — Glover, Thomas. A Herald and heraldic writer, born in A.D. 1543, at Ashford in Kent. He was first made Portcullis, and afterwards, in 1571, Somerset Herald. In 1582 he attended Lord Willoughby with the Order of the Garter to Frederick of Denmark. In 1584 he waited as Clarencieux to the Earl of Derby, with that Order to the King of France. He wrote de Nobilitate vel Civili, and a Catalogue of Honour, published by his nephew, Mr. Thomas Milles; the former in 1608, the latter in 1610, fol. His answer to the Bishop of Rose's book, in which Mary Queen of Scots' claim to the Crown of England was asserted, was never published. He assisted Lord Camden in making out his Pedigrees for his Britannia, and communicated to Dr. David Powell a copy of the History of Cambria, translated by H. Lloyd. He made a collection of the Inscriptions upon the Funeral Monuments in Kent; and in A.D. 1584 he drew up a History of Herewood, with a Survey of Herewood Castle in Yorkshire. He died in 1588. His Ordinary of Arms was augmented and improved by Edmonson, who published it in his first Body of Heraldry."

The following references to Robert Glover are extracted from a work called the "Collectanæa Topographica Genealogica." They relate principally to the different families of whom Robert Glover assisted to make out pedigrees and genealogies.
In Vol. vii., pages 256 and 320. Robert Glover: an account of assistance in tracing out the family of Willoughby, and the place where his collections were preserved. “N. B. Glover’s Collections marked A contain Genealogical matter relative exclusively to the ancestors of Lord Willoughby, with a prefatory note in his handwriting, deposited in the College of Arms.”

“In a Pedigree for Sir George Shirley, drawn out in 1583, by Robert Glover, the most learned, Skilful Herald that ever lived.” Other authorities are introduced, but are said “to weigh nothing against the authority of Glover.”

On page 320, Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, is noticed as being the author of several manuscripts, which Chartres asserts are in his own handwriting, contained in a volume in the College of Arms, and marked Philpot E. I., and were derived immediately from the Monument Room in Cobham Hall, with notices of the family of Brooke.

In Vol. viii., page 299, the name of Glover may be found in a catalogue of “Whatsoever persons owning estates manorial or desmesne, messuage, or mansions, within the County of Warwickshire, in the 20 year of Queen Elizabeth’s Reign, being in the year A.D. 1577.”

TRANSLATION, BY W. S. LEACH.

"Enduring, Hoping.

"To Robert Glover, alias the Somerset Herald, celebrated as a powerful defender of the art of Heraldry and Antiquarian Truth. From a thorough examination of his old writings, a man of great honor and benignity, of a noble nature and indefatigable labor; of easy manners, living honestly and uprightly before his successors.

"This sad monument was erected by a loving Nephew, Thomas Milles, to his most beloved maternal uncle.

"This Robert was born in Ashford, in Kent; a market town, of free parents, was liberally educated and became eminently learned in many things, but was particularly well versed and skilful in Heraldry. He had only one brother, William, from Thomas and Mildred, and also five sisters. He left five surviving children by his wife Elizabeth Flowers, viz., three sons and two daughters. Robert Glover dying as he had lived, lived as if he was about to die. His life closed with death, and he departed piously and calmly united in Christ."

The following is another translation, procured from the Rev. T. Wilson:

"Abiding, Hoping.

"To Robert Glover, alias, sometimes called Somerset Herald; a most strenuous maintainer of Heraldic Knowledge and Antiquarian Lore; a man of the highest worth and benignity, on account of his excellent ability and subtle judgment, derived from a thorough reading and searching with unwearied toil of many old writings; in view of the courteousness of his manners, and in consequence of the probity of his blameless life before all; Thomas Milles, a Nephew sorrowful erects this monument of Love to his most beloved Maternal Uncle.

"This Robert was born in Ashford, a market town in Kent, of respectable parents. He was liberally educated, and died eminently skilled in many things, but remarkably well versed in Heraldry. His only brother, William, was born of Thomas and Mildred, but he had five sisters. He left only five surviving children, viz., three sons and two daughters by his wife Elizabeth Flower. Most thankful for his worth, he may have reached the 10th of April, Anno 1588, in the 45th year of his age. He has exchanged a life suddenly broken off, for a devout and tranquil death in Christ. So when he was of all the most learned, he became one of the most happy."

The translator was obliged to pass over some sentences, which were obscure, and could not be made into good English.

Thus it appears that the parents of this Robert Glover were Thomas Glover, of Ashford in the County of Kent, England, and Mildred his wife. Thus:

Robert, b. 1543, m. Elizabeth Flower, died April 10, 1588.
Joanna, m. Richard Mylles, of Ashford in Kent.
Elizabeth, m. Thomas Deedes, of Wythe.
— m. John Philpot.

T. Moule published a work on Genealogies in 1660, in which he notices Robert Glover thus:—

"Robert Glover wrote de Nobilitate Politica vel Civili, of 190 pages." (An extract therefrom in Latin, accompanied by the following remarks of the author, T. Moule.) He says, referring to the Latin extract, "It is only a portion of the original of the next article, which was compiled by Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. A man fully qualified by industry to fulfil the laborious duties of his office. He died on the 10th of April, 1588, and was buried at Cripplegate Church, where, on the south side, is a monument to his memory. His authority in Genealogy and Heraldry is much relied on by the officers of Arms at the present day.

"Thomas Milles revised this work in 1608, and in 1610 got it printed. The title-page is engraved by Renald Elstrache. At the top are the Royal Arms and supports. The lower part is occupied as a group of three figures, Honor, Nobilitas, Pax. It is inscribed, Catalogue of Honour, London, printed by William Jaggard. The Epistle is dedicated to Robert Cecil, Earl of Salisbury, and Henry Howard, Earl of Northamptonshire. It explains that his intention in publishing this work is to revive the name and memory of Robert Glover, his uncle, who had taken such uncommon pains to clear the descents and Pedigrees of our Kings and Nobility. At the death of Mr. Glover, his nephew, with the assistance of several friends, undertook to translate and reduce it to method, acknowledging, at the same time, the aid he received from the good antiquaries of that day, viz., Lord William Howard, nephew to the Earl of Northampton, Sir Robert Cotton, Robert Brooke, Clerk to the Council, William Camden, Clarencieux, and Nicholas Charles, Lancaster Herald, Michael Hennage, keeper of the Records in the Tower, Thomas Talbot and Matthew Patterson.

The Epistle contains six pages, according to J. Leslie, who speaks thus of another of Mr. Glover's manuscripts, written in Latin, but never published.

"The Title and interest of the most excellent Mary Queen of Scots. The defence to that Title, and of the right of Queen Elizabeth to the English Crown against the plea set up by Bishop Ross, and in answer to the claim of the House, was considered by Sir William Dugdale as one of Glover's best performances."

Thomas Milles, Esq., of Davington Hall, near Feversham in Kent, the translator and publisher of this work, was the son of Richard Milles, of Ashford, by Joann, the sister of Robert Glover, Somerset Herald. He appears to be a man of some consideration as well as learning, and discharged a trust reposed in him by Queen Elizabeth, on a mission in which he was sent to King Henry the Fourth of France with credit and distinction. He afterwards held the following offices as custodian of the Port of London, Keeper of the Roche Castle and Esquire to the Body of King James the First of England.

Upon the death of his uncle, Mr. Glover, it appears he first applied to George Earl of Shrewsbury, respecting the manuscripts of that industrious Herald. There is a letter extant, the copy of which is in the Gentleman's Magazine, Vol. 90, part 1st, p. 595, from Thomas Milles to that nobleman in behalf of the widow of Somerset, left with five children, offering the manuscripts to his Lordship in consideration of an annuity of one hundred pounds sterling per annum. They were afterwards published by Lord Burleigh.
A William Glover was married to Anne Gaveiard, in Rainehill, November 6, 1578, and may have been the one whose history follows. He could not have been the father of Thomas Glover of Rainehill, as Thomas himself was married only fourteen years after, in 1594, but there is evidence that he was collaterally related.

He had a Coat of Arms granted him in A.D. 1602. It is said to be the same arms which Fuller finds recorded in the Worthies of Middlesex, granted to William Glover, Sheriff, at an earlier date.

The arms granted to William Glover of London, "Arg. a Chev. Ermine betwixt three Cross Crosslets," were granted to him by Queen Elizabeth one year before his death.

William Glover was buried in London, Colman Street Ward.

A fair monument in chancel is erected to his memory.

"Here lyeth in peace the body of Sir William Glover, Knight, late Citizen and Alderman of London, who for his many good gifts both in sincere religion, Wisdom and Gravity wherewith he was very plentifully endowed and graced, was elected Sheriff of London, and served the same in 1611. He had lived in good name and fame Fifty Eight years, and very blessedly departed this life the 17 of December, 1603. Leaving two sons, Thomas and William, and five daughters, viz., Anne, married to Barne Roberts of Willesden, in the County of Middlesex, Esq.; Susan, Elizabeth, Mary and Alice, behind him to mourn the loss of so loving a Father. To whose deceased memory the Lady Anne Glover, the most Sorrowful Widow of the deceased said Sir William, lamenting his death and unrecoverable loss, at her own charge erected this monument in testification of her love and duty."

In 1612, Dame Anne Glover, the widow of Sir William Glover, late of London, gave a stock of £10 to the poor of the Parish.

In 1660, William Glover, son to Sir William Glover, gave to the Hospital in London, Two Hundred Pounds.

Thomas Glover, son of Sir William Glover and the Lady Anne his wife, was born in London, was created Knight, married Jane Roberts, daughter of Francis Roberts, Esq., of Willesden in Middlesex. He died in London, and his widow, the Lady Jane Glover, married George Purefoy, Esq., died 8 June, 1664, æ. 77 years.

William, the second son, married Elizabeth Harlakenden, daughter of Henry Harlakenden, Esq.
Anne, the eldest daughter, married Barne Roberts, son to Francis Roberts, Esq., her cousin.

Susan, the second daughter, married Thomas Philpot, Esq., Norroy Somerset Herald.

ASHTON, GLOUCESTERSHIRE, GLOVER.

Sir Thomas Glover, having purchased Franklin's estate, in Ashton Underhill, he, with Mr. Wakeman, took a fresh grant of the manor from the Crown in the reign of King James I., of England, and afterwards by deed, reserving to himself and his heirs certain manorial rights over his own lands, conveyed all other manorial rights over the residue of the manor to Mr. Wakeman; and Henry Wakeman, of Beckford, Esq., is the descendant of that Wakeman from whose son is this account derived. See Beckford.

Ashton Underhill. One part of this Parish lies in the Hundred of Tibblestone, the other in the upper divisions of Tewksbury, seven miles distant, from which it comes six miles North-East from Tewksbury and sixteen North-East from Gloucester. It was anciently a member of the Manor of Beckford (and by corruption, Aston). King Henry VIII. granted this Manor to Sir Richard Lee, who had two daughters co-heiresses, who made a division of their estates, and the Manor of Beckford, of which Aston was a part, was sold to Richard Franklyn and Edward Wakeman. Therefore, from Sir Richard Franklyn to Sir Thomas Glover, and from Edward Wakeman to Henry Wakeman, his son and heir.

Lady Jane Glover was the wife of Sir Thomas Glover, Knight, of Hayes Park, in the County of Middlesex. After the death of Sir Thomas Glover, she married the second time to George Purefoy, Esq., the eldest of Wadley in the County of Berkshire.

In the Church of Feecham, on a black grave-stone before the communion rails, is the following inscription, viz.:

"Here sleepeth the Body of Dame Jane Purefoy, who was the dau. of Francis Roberts of Willesden in the County of Middlesex, Esq., wife of Sir Thomas Glover of Hayes Park in the said County of Middlesex, Knight, and relict of George Purefoy, the eldest of Wadley, in the County of Berkshire, Esq., who exchanged this life for a better the 8 of January, 1664, aged 77 years."
Robert Glover, Hellidon, Northamptonshire.

Hellidon, in ancient records Elidon, may possibly be derived from the Saxon Holb, sleep, and sundown is at least descriptive of the situation of the village.

The Lordship contained about one thousand five hundred and ten acres. Part is old enclosure, and the open fields were enclosed by act of Parliament, in 14 George III., 1774.

Sir Thomas Wenham, of Carswell, County of Oxon, sold Hellidon in 1556, and died 22 July, 19 of Elizabeth, 1577. Sir Thomas Wenham and Ursula his wife sold this manor, in 1556, to Robert Glover of Hellidon, Yeoman, who died the year following, 1557, seized of a capital messuage and seventeen vergates and a quarter of land in Hellidon, leaving William Glover his son and heir to the inheritance, aged 20 years.

This estate has been alienated in parcels, but a considerable portion is now vested in the devisees of the late Joseph Ashley, of Ashley Ledges.

William Glover, son of William Glover, Esq., and Anne ——, was married to Elizabeth Harlakenden, the daughter and co-heir of Henry Harlakenden, Esq., had one daughter Susan Glover, who married to John Philpot, Esq., Norroy, Somerset Herald, and had one daughter, Susan Philpot.

The monumental inscription reads thus:

“Here lies the Bodye of Susan Philpot, late wife and Widow of John Philpot, Esq., Norroy, Somerset Herald, in the Chancel of this Church.

“She was the daughter and sole heir of William Glover, Esq., and Elizabeth his wife, the daughter and co-heir of Henry Harlakenden, Esq. Her daughter Susan lies buried near her.”

Sir William Glover, Manorial Estate, Ansley Manor.

Ansley belonged to the family of Culpepper. The manor passed in mortgage unto Wm. Glover, citizen and dyer in London, in the thirty fourth (1592) reign of Elizabeth, by George Wightman, who in the forty-third of Elizabeth (1601), obtained a release from Thomas Wightman, son and heir to the said George, of all his right and title therein. To which William Glover, afterwards a Knight and alderman of London, succeeded Sir Thomas Glover of Williston, Commonwealth of Middlesex, his son and heir, who with the Lady Anne, his mother, sold it in the sixth year of James (1609), unto James Wightman, of Beachman.

EPITAPH OF BARNE ROBERTS.

"Here lyeth the body of Barne Roberts, eldest son of Francis Roberts, of Williston, Esq., in the County of Middlesex, who took to wife Anne, the eldest daughter of Sir William Glover, Knight and Alderman of London, by whom he had three sons and five daughters. The said Barne Roberts dyed January 30, 1610, aged 34 years. Thereon his said Wife Anne, of her very kind and loving affection, at her own proper expense and charges, hath caused this monument to be erected, A.D. 1611."

J. Bernard Burke, in his Heraldic Dictionary of the Landed Gentry of Great Britain and Ireland, published in London in 1853, comprising, as he affirms, "a faithful and worthy record of that class of Gentlemen who, though indistinguishable by hereditary titles, possess an undeniable right, from antiquity of race, extent of property, and brilliancy of achievements, to hold foremost rank among the lesser nobility of Europe," under article Glover, gives the following names, with the figures attached to them, which refer to the description of their estates, the manner of their receiving and holding them, &c., viz.:

Glover, of Mount Glover, Co. of Cork, 3368; Anne and Robert, 596; Edmund, 31-8; Elizabeth, 501; Elizabeth and Robert, 320; Hannah, Elizabeth and William, 168; James, 447; John Jackson, 73-8; Jonathan, 1531; Mary, 1473, 1958; Mary and Philip, 1048; Mary and Samuel, 151; Miss Glover, 464; Miss and James, 261-8; Rachel, 99; Richard and Daniel, 234-8; Sibella and Samuel Corrington, 1040; Thomas Glover, 827.

Of the above names of Glover, Burke gives the lineage of James of Mount Glover, Co. of Cork, Ireland. "James Glover, Esq., of Mount Glover, eldest surviving son of the late James Glover, Esq., by Mildred his wife, daughter of Robert Freeman, Esq., of Ballingait Castle, is the representative of John Glover, Esq., who settled in Ireland in the middle of the 17th Century. Arms, Sa, a Chev-Erm. between three Cres. arg. Crest, an Eagle, displayed, arg. charged on the breast with three spots of Erminites. Motto, Nec Timeo nec sperno.”

Copy of lineage, as given by Burke:

“John Glover, the first of the family who settled in Ireland early in the 17th Century, was a near relation of Robert Glover, Esq., the famous Genealogist of the 16th century, and Somerset Herald at Arms. He was a captain in command of a large body of troops under one of the Percivals, and greatly distinguished himself by his obstinate and gallant defence of the Bath at Arms; which he succeeded in holding against the attacks of an immense body of Irish, who continued to check his small and gallant band for three days; when they were compelled to retire with much slaughter. For his remarkable bravery and success on this, as well as for other services in the local wars of the times, he obtained possession of extensive and valuable estates in the Counties of Cork and Limerick, in Ireland. He married a Miss Mills, sister of Thomas Mills, Esq., and had issue, one son and three daughters, viz.:”

“1. Edward, b. 1668; d. 24th April, 1753; married, in 1695, to Eleanor, daughter of James Barry, Esq., of Ballinvauve, and had issue four sons—1. Edward, b. 1696; d. April, 1747, a. 45 years; m. a Miss Quinn, and had issue only one daughter, who m. her first cousin, Philip Barry, of Ballinvauve. 2. James, of Fourmile Water, b. 1705; d. April, 1753, a. 48 years; m. a Miss Maunsell, and died leaving no issue. His estate devolved on his next brother. 3. Thomas Glover, of whom presently. 4. John Glover, m. a Miss Pole, of Kinsale, and d. without issue.”

Thomas Glover, the third son of Edward and Eleanor (Barry) Glover, b. in 1712, d. 22 April, 1772, a. 60 years, succeeded to the Mount Glover estate. He m. April 1, 1751, Mary, only daughter and heiress of William Martin, Esq., of Corroden, by his wife Anne Purdon, of Bally Clough Castle. Thomas Glover married, 2d, Mary, only daughter of Edward Brailing, Esq., of Dublin, widow of Chas. Maccarty, Esq., of Bathduff. By the first wife only he had issue—three sons and three daughters. The 2d, and eventually only surviving son, was James Glover, Esq., who succeeded to the estate of Mount Glover; m. Mildred, eldest daughter of Robert Freeman, Esq., of Ballindale Castle, by his wife Mildred, daughter of William Seeley, Esq., by his wife Mildred, daughter of Col. Frederick Mul- lenses, direct ancestor of Lord Vantry. By this lady Mr. James Glover had fourteen children, as follows:
1. Thomas Glover, who died in 1812, unmarried.
2. Edward, M.D., died unmarried.
3. James Glover, of Mount Glover.
6. George Freeman, who married a Miss White of Cork, and died leaving two sons, George and Robert Glover.
8. Ellen, who married William Hudson, Esq., M.D.
9. ——, died unmarried.
10. Margaret, died unmarried.
12. ——, died unmarried.

Thus we have the succession to the Mount Glover estate in a direct line — from John Glover to his only son Edward; from Edward devolving on Thomas, third son of Edward; from this last to James; then James again, the present occupant, who married in 1813 — five generations.

OF THE RICHARD GLOVERS.

"Here lyeth buryed the Bodye of Richard Glover, Citizen and Pewterer of London; who was twice master of his Company and one of the Common Council of this City, having two wives, Elizabeth and Mary — had issue by his first, three sons, and by his second wife five sons and four daughters — he deceased the 16 day of August, A.D. 1615, being aged 59 years."

This appears to be the earliest date of the Richard Golvers that has been gathered. He was born in 1556, and was twice married, 1st to Elizabeth, 2d to Mary.
Richard Glover, born in 1649, is the next date: of Waldingham, Surrey, Chelsham; married, had children; son Richard born in 1676.

The next, taken from the monumental inscriptions in the Church or Chapel at Chelsham. Richard Glover, born in 1676.

"Underneath this Stone lye buried the Bodye of Mr. Richard Glover, heretofore of Waldingham, but late of Slines in this Parish, afterwards of Sanderstead, Eldest Son to Mr. Richard Glover, heretofore of Waldingham, who also lies buried in this Parish, and which the said Richard his son departed this life 13 August, 1753, in the 77 year of his age.

Also

"The bodye of Mrs. Susanna Glover, widow of the said Richard Glover the younger, and eldest daughter of Mr. Richard Harswell, heretofore of Westerham, in the County of Kent, who departed this life the 24 of March, 1761, in the 87 year of her age.

Also

"The Bodye of Mr. John Glover, one of the sons of the said Richard and Susanna Glover, who died a Bachelor in the 54 year of his age, and was buried on the 8th of March, 1760."

Richard Glover, son of Richard of Waldingham and Chelsham, was married to Susanna Hayward, daughter of Mr. Richard Hayward of Westerham in the County of Kent, born there about 1674. She died in Chelsham the 24 of March, 1761, and was entombed at Chelsham, Surrey. Her inscription, on a monument in the Church-yard or Chapel, together with that of the elder Richard Glover, and Richard Glover his son, is given above.

Richard and Susanna Glover had children: a son John Glover, born in 1706; a son Richard, born in 1704, who settled at Waldingham. A monumental inscription at Waldingham on the floor of the Church—"Here lyeth the Bodie of Richard Glover, yeoman of this Parish, who died 19 March, 1772, aged 68 years."

On another tomb-stone, much obliterated, is a memorial of a Richard Glover, of Croydon in Surrey, who was born in A.D. 1698. The inscription reads thus:

"Here lyeth the Bodye of Mr. Richard Glover, late of Croydon in Surrey; an eminent Attorney at Law. He died 22d of January, A.D. 1766. Aged 68 years."
Richard Glover, an eminent Poet, Merchant, and Member of Parliament, was born in St. Martin's Lane, Cannon St. London, in 1712, and died there in 1785, a. 73 years. He was the son of Mr. Richard Glover, an eminent merchant of London, who was a brother of Phillips Glover, Esq., of the family of Robert Glover, the Somerset Herald, and bore the same arms.

This Richard Glover acquired a distinguished reputation as a poet. He composed an epic poem called Leonidas, and published it in 1737. In 1739 he published a poem entitled the "Progress of Commerce." In 1742 he was elected by the merchants of London to conduct an application complaining of the neglect of trade. He made a speech at the Bar of the House of Commons, on the subject, which was highly applauded. It was afterwards printed.

In 1751 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the office of Chamberlain of London. He wrote the Tragedy of Boadicea, which was performed at the Drury-Lane Theatre in London, in 1753, with good success. In 1761 he wrote another tragedy. His Medea, which was imitated from Euripides and Seneca, appeared in 1761. His rare wit and humor is thus referred to on the occasion of the Degree of LL.D. being conferred at Cambridge on Sir W. Calvert, Lord Mayor of London, who, in his address before that honorable assembly, says: "I remember a mournful example in the fate of an ingenious Author and Merchant. The Poet ruined the Merchant. Had this distinguished Genius studied the Mercantile more, and the Epic less, he might have been an Alderman, although that Right Worshipful (Bodye) Corps would perhaps have apprehended dangerous consequences from admitting so great a Wit among them."

May 21, 1737, he married Hannah Nunn, daughter of Jonathan Nunn, Esq., a lady said to possess a handsome fortune. The Manor of Passamere descended to her, being sole heir to her father. Several other estates were possessed by her as her inheritance.

The Manor of Passamere took its name from the Passamere family, who settled here in the third year of King Henry III. (1219). It was sold to Mr. Pink, and by him to Jonathan Nunn, Esq., who died in 1630, and his widow enjoyed it after him. It then descended to their daughter and sole heir, Hannah Nunn, who married Richard Glover, Esq., of London, author of Leonidas.

Richard Glover, of London, Esq., the Poet, was in possession of Downe Court Manor, in 1785. From him it descended to his son Richard, who was in possession of it in 1788 and afterwards.

The portrait of Mr. Richard Glover, merchant-poet, was engraved by Fitler, and is preserved in the Cheatham Library.

"The Parish of Waldingham was in the possession of a Mr. Richard Glover in 1809 — two farm houses and two cottages. The mansion house is now a farm house known by the name of Fickleshole, and near it is a considerable pond, which from the scarcity of water on the high grounds of Chelsham and the country thereabouts, appears to have been resorted to by the neighbors so long ago as the 16th year of King Edward II. (1323). A deed of that date in Mr. Glover's hand describes land as abutting on a highway which led to a place called Fickles-hole-water. The demesne lands called Fickleshole consist of seven hundred and two acres, as it appears by a plan and the deed above mentioned, and were of consequence enough to deserve particular attention, which Mr. Glover has caused to be done according to the papers in his hands." Co. of Surrey, Vol. ii. p. 423. Mr. Glover has in his possession a quantity of brass and Roman coins from the lower empire, which were found in this Parish about fifty years ago (1809), preserved in an earthen vessel, which had been broken by the wheel of a carriage on the highway leading from the village of Nutfield towards Ham. He is also in possession of some original papers addressed to Audsley (1809).

Richard Glover, born in 1700, wife Mary, died Dec. 20th, 1768, æ. 68 years. Mary, wife of Richard Glover, died July 14, 1775, æ. 71 years; born A.D. 1704.

Henry Glover, of Worcestershire. His name appears among a list of benefactors. "Henry Glover of this Parish (old Swinston), gave four hundred pounds, which have been laid out in lands and vested in the Governors of the Free Grammar School in Stourbridge, in trust, that out of the Rents, they do cause six boys to be instructed in English Writing and Arithmetic at the Free School for six years each; and provide them all necessary books, pens, ink and paper, and place one of the said boys out at apprentice annually with five pounds to be given as a premium." Hist. Co. Worcester, Vol. i. p. 213.

It is presumed the above Henry lived about the last of the 16th century; but there is no date to the old book from which the record was extracted. He is probably the Henry who was in Lancashire in 1572, and married there about that time.

GLOVERS OF RAINHILL PARISH, PRESCOT, LANCASHIRE, ENGLAND.

Lancashire is one of the Northern counties of England, and the town of Prescot, in that County, is one of its most extensive towns. It is bounded on the south by the River Mersey; on the west, by Walton Parish; on the north-north-west by Ormskirk Parish; and on the east, by the Parish of Warrington. Its extreme length is twelve miles, from Dalton on the south to Mumford on the north; its breadth is eight miles. It is situated in the western part of the county, about ten miles from Liverpool in the same county, and two hundred and twenty-five miles from London, by railway. It is at the present time divided into Parishes, one of which is Rainhill, the birth-place of John Glover, who in 1630 emigrated, with others under Gov. Winthrop, to New England, and became the American ancestor of numerous descendants. In 18th Edward III. William Daniell held the towns of Dutton, Rainhill and Eccleston. His possession of them was temporary, and in 12 Henry IV. they were held by Alan de Norrys, under the Baron of Holton. The Ecclestons for a long time were Lords of the Manor of Barton head, in Dutton. The family of Norrys acquired Rainhill in the time of Edward II., and held the Manors, of Dutton, Rainhill and Eccleston, under Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, who held the Duchy in the time of Henry VIII., and sold portions of it in the time of Elizabeth to Thomas Glover, Esq., father of the American emigrant. Thomas Glover conveyed these lands to his eldest son, Mr. John Glover, of Rainhill, afterwards of Dorchester and Boston—who, in 1652, by deed of gift, conveyed them to his eldest son and heir apparent, Mr. Thomas Glover, of London, merchant.

The Glovers were not early in Lancashire. The County history does not give any account of them until nearly the close of the sixteenth century.

There is a record among some old manuscripts in the Tower of London, of a William Glover who owned lands at Derby, and a Thomas Glover who owned lands at Rainhill, in Prescot, Lancashire, in the sixteenth century, but the particulars in relation to them, which were undoubtedly given there in detail, were not communicated.

These three marriages are recorded on the Parish Records, which, if faithfully communicated, appear to be the first notice of them there—viz.:

"Henry Glover was married to —— ——, 22 Dec., 1574.
"William Glover and Anne Goverard were married the 6 Nov., 1578.
"Thomas Glover and Margery Deane were married the 10 Feb., 1594."

From what county these individuals had their origin, or what line they connect with, has not been ascertained. It is confidently believed, however, that they were led to the northern counties by the religious persecution which occurred about the middle of the sixteenth century, and by which some of the families of Glover and others suffered severely.

Henry, the first above recorded, appears to have remained and settled there, some of whose descendants are still living in the same place.

Of William, the records give nothing further, and evidence seems to indicate that he settled in London, and was the William Glover, dyer and Alderman, afterwards Sir William Glover—wife Anne, who after his elevation became the Lady Anne, and distinguished herself by her benevolence.

Thomas Glover, whose marriage is given above, remained and lived in Rainhill. He purchased lands there of Thomas Lancaster, Esq., son of the Earl of that Duchy, and of Edward Eccleston, Esq., in Eccleston; also of Thomas Gerard, Esq., of William Woodfall, in Appleton, and of Lyman Garnet, Esq., and became the possessor of several estates there, all of which he conveyed, before his decease, to his eldest son John Glover. There is a link wanting in the genealogical chain, which would give a certainty to the family he connects with, as the names of the parents of Thomas Glover, of Rainhill, have never been obtained. Tradition says they originated in some of the oldest counties of England, as Kent or Warwickshire. Heralds confirm this by the armorial bearings they grant to the families of this line, and from all that has been gathered the strongest presumption, aided by tradition, evinces and determines his relationship and connection with the family of Robert, alias Thomas Glover, Somerset Herald, whose parents were from Coventry in Warwickshire, and from Ashford in Kent—either by direct descent or by collateral ties of consanguinity; and the same evidence obtains in the belief that there was a relationship or kinship existing between Robert the martyr, of 1555, and the Somerset Herald, who died in London in 1588.

There is a tradition which has come down among some branches of his descendants, from father to son through long generations, which fixes their original county to be that of Warwick, and the city of Coventry, in that County, one of their original places of abode. This tradition has been attested and confirmed by Heralds. Charles L. Cole, Esq., who was an Heraldic transcriber and writer, attested this assertion in the year 1804, to some of the descendants of Mr. John Glover, of Dorchester and Boston, whose history was well known in London, from his connection with the London Company and other institutions and societies there. This descendant, who had at that time a personal interview with Mr. Cole, and a conversation on Glover origin and Glover genealogies, was informed that a pedigree of Glover had been written out, reaching back many centuries, by a distinguished genealogist of his name and kin, in England; and that a transcript of it could be obtained by applying to the Herald's College, at London. The application has never been made.

MR. THOMAS GLOVER, FATHER OF THE EARLIEST EMIGRANT TO NEW ENGLAND.

The place of his birth cannot be given with certainty. He lived in Rainhill from the time of his marriage, and died there Dec. 13, 1619. He was married to Margery Deane, daughter of Thomas Deane, of Rainhill, Feb. 10, A.D. 1594. The following list of the children of Thomas and Margery (Margaret) Deane Glover, born in Rainhill Parish, has been copied from the records there, and arranged as in the original. Ten in number.

2. John, a Twin, bap. July 27, 1599, died the same day.
3. Elisabeth, a Twin to the above, bap. July 27, 1599, died the same day.

7. Thomas, b. 1607; m. Deborah Rigby, of Cranston.

8. William, b. 1609; m. Mary Bolton, of Rainhill, 24 Nov., 1664.

9. George, b. 1611; m. Margaret ——.

The name of Thomas Glover as a signor to this will is obliterated or destroyed by mould, so that it cannot be read without difficulty.

The portion to his son John, who was his eldest, cannot be read, but it appears from other evidence that he gave him his estates in Rainhill, Eccleston, Knawlesby, and elsewhere in Lancashire County, who afterwards conveyed them, in 1652, to his son Thomas Glover.

(4) John emigrated to N. England and settled in Dorchester in 1630.
(5) Henry also, his second son, came over about 1640, and settled in Medfield—had grants of land in Dedham as early as 1640, and died in Medfield in 1655.

(8) William Glover, son of Thomas and Margaret (Deane) Glover. There is a notice of him in 1652, in which he is styled a mercer, or dealer in silk, and in another place a merchant, and lived in Whiston, Lancashire Co., England; but no record appears of his having remained in Rainhill after his arrival at the age of manhood.

A tradition of him has reached the present generation, or some branches of it, and which is confirmed by references, that he also came to New England, and was in Dorchester at one time towards the close of the 17th century.
The precise date has not been given by those who assert the fact, but it is certain that his name appears on a document called Glover's Agreement, dated at Dorchester in 1680. It relates to a division of Newbury Farm, which belonged to the heirs of Mr. John Glover, who was his eldest brother, and it appears that William was an acting attorney on the share of one of his nephews. Information from other sources renders it certain that he was in New England at one time, and at Dorchester with his eldest brother. Tradition says that "he was the owner of lands there, and intended to settle in Boston, and that he returned to England to make arrangements for that purpose. He was requested by his brothers to gather up and get all the copies of manuscripts which related to the Glover pedigree, and in relation to their ancestral line, which it was said had been written out and were preserved by one of their own progenitors, and could be easily obtained." It was feared that those who had come to New England would lose, in their succeeding generations, a knowledge of their ancestry, which the brothers had a great desire to perpetuate. This William Glover was instructed to obtain not only the Glover pedigree as far back as it could be traced, or had been traced, that it might be perpetuated among the generations in New England, but all copies of records and documents which related in any way to the grants of lands originally laid out to Glover proprietors who had settled in Dorchester and Boston. The tradition continues that "having accomplished this mission fully and gathered up all his treasures, he embarked again for New England, but never arrived. The vessel in which he was coming, destined for Boston, was wrecked on a rock near the coast of Maine, in Portland harbor, and the passengers were all lost." How many of the crew of the ship escaped to tell the sad story, or if any, has not been ascertained, but the fate of the ship was in some way communicated to the family of Glovers who lived in Dorchester, and were looking anxiously for his arrival. The tradition closes with this remark: "The rock on which they were wrecked was named, from that time, 'Glover's Rock,' and has borne that name to this day'—meaning the time of the last narrator.

[Note.—The foregoing tradition has been transmitted down through the descending generations in the line of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester, commonly distinguished as "Nathaniel Senior," and is probably known in other branches—but has reached the sixth generation from Nathaniel to his son Thomas, and from Thomas to his sons.]
There is a Glover's Rock situated midway between Cape Small Point and Cape Elizabeth, about three leagues at sea, near the coast of Maine, midway of the entrance of Portland harbor. The date or year when it took that name has not been ascertained. It is laid down on all the charts of that part of the coast, and is represented by ship masters as being a very dangerous place and much to be avoided. Sea captains are familiar with the name of this rock. But only one historian has noticed it. Williamson, in his History of Maine, Vol. i. p. 33, gives the following account, which proves its identity, but does not give any history or dates respecting it.

"Glover's Rock. Cape Small Point, lying about two leagues south-eastwardly of New Meadows River, at its mouth, has a high ground and rocky shore. Above this Point on the north-west and below the west extreme of the Point is Lovell's ('Glover's') Rock, which is one mile west by north of Seguin Light House."

He further writes that "one mile west by north-west from Glover's Rock is Small Point Ledge." Thus it appears that the Rock on the coast of Maine, which has been above described by Williamson, was anciently called Lovell's, and subsequently changed to "Glover's" Rock, and this inference is identified with the incidents before related.

Efforts have been unceasingly made, and many letters written, to procure more information respecting the name of the ship in which Mr. William Glover sailed, the time of the wreck, and other circumstances connected with the disaster, but they have proved unavailing as to any further knowledge. It is said that the disappointment to those who were looking for the arrival of this ship was very great, and irreparable in some respects to his relatives and friends. The last notice of him in England is in 1664, at the time of his marriage at Rainhill.

(9) George Glover, another son of Thomas and Margaret (Deane) Glover, was first a schoolmaster at Liverpool. He built a house there, married Margaret ———, and had two children, Jane and Ellen. He was afterwards a tenant on Moore's Rental. Moore writes of him thus: "Mr. George Glover is a very honest man, and has a good woman for a wife. Use him and his family well whenever it may please God they shall have occasion to use you, that when they can see virtue rewarded it may encourage their honesty. His rental is worth out of lease Seven Pounds per annum, and if it be fined three times, it is worth fifty Pounds per annum, and to receive an old rent upon it One Pound. In doing this you will use his children very well. The lives at present are Jane, Ellen, and his wife Margaret. The second Rent liens at Christmas, and for other Covenants occurring to the Rents of the new Tenants I built the Gable ends of the house—cost Ten Pounds. Rent at present—five Shillings.

Edward Moore, Moore's Rental."

The Free school at Liverpool no longer exists. The building was destroyed in 1673. It was a great piece of antiquity—once a Chapel, then a Free school, at the west end whereon, next the River, stood the Statue of St. Nicholas. Moore alludes to the former schoolmaster, Mr. George Glover, and Bishop Cartwright states that after Mr. George Glover vacated, he licensed Mr. Thomas Bryant to be the schoolmaster of the Free school in Liverpool. It will be recollected that George Glover, by his father's will, was to receive but one hundred and fifty pounds.

There is a notice of him on the records of Harvard College, in Cambridge, N. E. Among the donors of cash gifts which were applied to the erection of College buildings, credit is given to Mr. George Glover, of Liverpool, Eng., of Two Pounds. Another notice, from another source, informs us that the gift was collected by Rev. Joseph Glover, of Sutton, in Surrey, who was shortly to embark for Cambridge in New England, with funds for the College lately established there. It was entrusted to his care—and although he never reached the place of his destination, having died on his passage in 1639, the property collected for Harvard College was faithfully transmitted and recorded.

1766. Power of Attorney was granted to George Glover of Poole, in the County of Dorset, England, by Mary Dawes, widow, and Mary Dawes, Jr., of Worgate in the same County, bearing date March 7, 1766, witnessed and certified by Robert Harris, Mayor of Wareham, and John Glover, Jr., of the borough of Wareham, in Dorset, England. Both the Power of Attorney and the Certificate are recorded in Boston on the Registry of Deeds for Suffolk County, Vol. 108, p. 263.

There may have been a relationship existing between the above-named Glovers and those who settled in New England, but no direct evidence has yet appeared to substantiate the belief.

The following is a copy of the Power of Attorney and Certificate alluded to.

By Ezekiel Goldthwait,
Register of Deeds for Suffolk Co.

(11) Peter Glover, of Rainhill, youngest son of Thomas and Margaret (Deane) Glover, was born 22 March, 1615; died there 26 April, 1700, in his 86th year. He married and settled in Rainhill, and had children. Several of his descendants are at the present time living there, and are the owners of estates. Peter Glover, of the seventh generation, his wife Agnes, and children, are residents there. He is a descendant in a direct line from Peter the elder.

Some of the descendants of the above emigrated to the United States about the year 1812, and settled in New Jersey, of whom an account will be given in another place, under the head of the New Jersey Glovers.

MRS. MARGARET GLOVER.

She was left a widow at the decease of her husband, Mr. Thomas Glover, of Rainhill. She was co-executor with her son John Glover to the Will of Thomas Glover, and nothing further of her appears on the Parish Records to indicate the time or place of her death. Her death is not recorded on the records at Rainhill, if they have been faithfully transcribed. But records of Kent County furnish some evidence that she married a second time to Mr. William Glover, of Mildred, in the County of Kent, and died there in 1654, aged 79 years, and that she was buried in the Church-yard of St. Mildred. The Church of St. Mildred is situated at the south-west extremity of the city, near the old Castle and River Stour. In this Church-yard is a memorial, partly obliterated, of "Mr. William Glover, Gentleman, deceased in 16—.

"Mrs. Margaret Glover, his wife, died ——, 1654, aged 79 years."

Born, therefore, in or about 1574 or 5, and would have been 19 years old at the time of her first marriage with Mr. Thomas Glover.

The will of Mr. Thomas Glover, of Rainhill, provides for another child, whom it appears he anticipated as an event not at all doubtful.

It has been suggested by some who were making searches for Glovers in England, that the Mr. Glover of Dorchester and Boston had a brother Nathaniel. If this conjecture is true, he must either have been posthumous, or, which is more probable, only a half brother, and child of his mother by her second marriage with William Glover, of Mildred, County of Kent. The name of Nathaniel has been found but once, in all previous and after searchings. The following memorial is recorded:

"Here lyes the Bodye of Mrs. Lydia Glover, widow of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, heretofore of this Parish, but late of Wood Church in the County of Kent, Gentleman, deceased. Which said Lydia died on the 21 day of January, 1764, in the 69th year of her age."
Also the bodye of Lydia Glover, Spinster, only child of the above-named Mr. Nathaniel and Lydia Glover his wife, who died on the 5 of February, 1766, in the 35 year of her age" — (born, therefore, in 1732).

This line of Nathaniel became extinct in 1766, at the decease of his only child Lydia. The time of his death has not been ascertained.

JOHN GLOVER, OF PRESCOT, ENGLAND, AND OF DORCHESTER AND BOSTON IN NEW ENGLAND.

(4) John Glover, the eldest son of Thomas and Margery (Deane) Glover, was born at Rainhill Parish, Prescot, Lancaster County, England, August 12, 1600, and died in Boston, in New England, "11, 12, 1653," in his fifty-fourth year.

By his father's will he came into possession of large estates in England, situated in Rainhill, Eccleston, Knowlesby, and other places. Being the eldest son he inherited a double portion by right of primogeniture, and was named as an executor, with his mother, to carry out the provisions of that will — although at that time (1619) he was not of full age.

He appears to have attained the age of manhood at Rainhill, living on his estates there, and was married to Anna ——, about 1625. He had three children born and baptized in that Parish, the last in 1629. Previous to that, in 1628, his name appears on the Records of the "London Company," organized at London in 1628. He was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of London, established there at a very early date, and was a Captain of that company. He was also a member of a Lodge of Freemasons, and in fellowship with them before his emigration. He was sometimes called "the Worshipful Mr. Glover."

So much has been said and written of the London Company, formed in England in 1628, its origin, its objects, present and prospective—of the early planting of New England and the worthy gentlemen who joined themselves to that Company; its whole history has been so many times brought before the historic reader in the various accounts of New England, that it may be deemed superfluous to attempt further notice of this matter, in these memorials. But as the following pages are designed to notice and give an account of one of the members of that Company who came to New England, and for the benefit of whose descendants this work has been chiefly prepared, it is hoped that a few dates and facts selected from some of the most faithful and reliable writers on that subject, and which will help to explain the condition, motives, and social position of their honored ancestor (Mr. John Glover), will be generously allowed by them.

In 1628, three years after his marriage, the name of John Glover appears on the records of the London Company, which was being organized at London for the purpose of emigrating to New England.

The gentlemen who composed this Company, which had been formed in London, and who afterwards emigrated to New England and became the first planters of the Colony there, it is recorded were strictly and devoutly religious Non-conformists. They were styled Puritans, from their strict adherence to the doctrines of religion, and from their having set themselves apart to promote a holy work—that of planting a colony for religious growth and freedom. They were all members of some church in England previous to their embarkation, and those of their company who came out under Gov. Winthrop, met together at Plymouth, a seaport town in England, and formed themselves into a church body gathered from other churches. They elected their ministers, and assembled themselves together at the New Hospital in Plymouth, the Sabbath previous to their departure for New England, and bound themselves together in Christian unity and love. A sermon was preached to them by the Rev. John White, and instructions given in relation to the future course to be pursued. The ship which was to take them to New England was at this time waiting in the Downs, to receive them and bear them to their destination.

It is recorded that the Dorchester Company came in the Mary and John, which set sail from England the 20th of March, 1629—30, commanded by Capt. Squib, and who is said to have arrived on the coast of North America the 31st day of May, 1630. The manner in which he treated his passengers, and deceived them by putting them on shore at Nantasket, when he had promised to land them at Charlestown, is too well known to require any detail here. Some of them took boats and found their way to Charlestown; and others, who remained at Nantasket, found out a way to Dorchester Neck, adjoining a place called by the Indians Mattapan, to which they gave the name of New Dorchester, and commenced a settlement about the first of June. The place was afterwards called Dorchester Plantation. The same writer says our people were settled here a month before Gov. Winthrop, and the ships that came with him, arrived.

Mr. Glover came to New England in the Mary and John. It has been questioned by some as to the ship in which he came over, probably on account of a note of Mr. Frothingham, in his History of Charlestown, by which it might appear that he arrived earlier. Frothingham, in a list of those who stayed and became inhabitants of Charlestown in the year 1629, gives the names of Increase Nowell, Esq., Mr. William Aspinwall, Mr. Richard Palsgrave, Edward Converse, William Penn, William Hudson, William Blackenbury, and Mr. John Glover. He also says that Mr. Glover removed to Dorchester, where he became a prominent man, being a Selectman and a Representative from 1637 to 1652. He also writes that Mr. Glover died in 1654, which does not agree with Dorchester Town Records. The above from Frothingham has led many to doubt of his coming over in the Mary and John with the Dorchester Company; but he was always associated with them, his interests were identified with theirs, and he served them in a public capacity until his death, although he had removed to Boston. His name stands among a list of inhabitants at the incorporation of the town of Dorchester in 1631, according to Blake's Annals. When the Church was re-organized there (in 1636, Richard Mather, Pastor), he and his wife Anna were among the first signers to the covenant. He may have remained in Charlestown until that time, but there is no evidence of it.

He brought over with him a great number of cattle, and all the provisions and implements, with men servants, to set up and carry on the tanning trade, according to the laws and regulations of the London Company requiring each member to establish some trade on his estate. He selected the business of tanning, and was the first one of the Company who carried on that trade in the Colony. He established it first at Dorchester, very probably as early as the incorporation of the town. The pits still remain to be seen on the land of one of his descendants. He afterwards established the business in Boston, and left it in his will to his second son. A very reliable writer on the early history of New England asserts the following in relation to Dorchester: "The first inhabitants of Dorchester were a godly and religious people, and many of them persons of note and figure, being distinguished by the title of Master or Mr., which but few in those days were. Their ministers were the Rev. John Maverick and the Rev. John Warham. Others of note, who came passengers in the Mary and John, were as follows:—Mr. Newbury, Mr. Rossiter, Mr. Ludlow, Mr. Glover, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Terry, Mr. Smith, Mr. Gallop, Mr. Duncan, Mr. Hull, Mr. Stoughton, Mr. Cogan, Mr. Hill, Mr. Pinney, Mr. Richards, Mr. Way, Mr. Williams, Mr. Tilley and others; Capt. Southcote, Capt. Lovell, and among them came Capt. Roger Clap," whom he describes as being a very worthy and religious gentleman.

This account may seem to conflict with Mr. Frothingham's, but the conclusion is that the above is the correct one, as all circumstances confirm it, and it is probable that Mr. Glover was one of those who took boats and went to Charlestown settlements, where were a few English families, and possibly he remained there a short time. It could have been but a short time, as he never removed his family there, or his servants or cattle, nor the goods which he brought over to establish his trade.

He was made Freeman in England before his emigration, and took the oath of allegiance, which exempted him from that ceremony after his arrival here.

The prefix of Mr. he brought with him, and he has been more generally designated by that than any other title. It was then one of honor and dignity, but has depreciated in its original significance, from its general usage. His armorial bearings were those granted to Thomas Glover, Esq., of the Body of King James I., who was son of Thomas Glover of Coventry in Warwickshire, Knighted 17th of August, 1606. "This Coat, with a star for a difference, was confirmed by William Camden, April 3d, 1604, and is a fac-simile of the arms granted to the Somerset Herald, Robert Glover, after being enlarged and improved by Edmondson, with the exception of the star."

Mr. Glover was called a godly and upright man. His religion was that of a strict Non-conformist, or Puritan, which appears to have been the ruling motive of his life, and led him to leave his English home and forego all the comforts and conveniences of an English life, to settle on the cold, uncomfortable, cheerless shore of New England.
Johnson in his History writes thus of him: — "Mr. Glover was a man strong for the truth, a plain, sincere and godly man, and of good abilities." The following lines appear in his work entitled The Wonder-working Providence, in which he notices Mr. Glover, with some others of that company who were his associates: —

"And Godly Glover his rich gifts thou gavest, Thus thou by means thy flock from spoiling savest."

His age thirty years, well settled in life with a wife and three children (the youngest but a year old), inheriting large landed estates from his father, and living in the enjoyment of a competent estate at the time this enterprise was undertaken, the inquiry naturally arises, what motive could have induced him to choose such a life of hardship and endurance?

His life, after his arrival and settlement at Dorchester, was evidently one of unceasing action and service to the Colony. During a period of nearly eighteen years his name appears not only as a public officer in Dorchester, but in other towns, among those who sat in judgment. In Salem, Charlestown, Cambridge, and at Barnstable and other places in the Plymouth Colony, he was frequently called in council in cases which required judicial decisions.

The following references to Mr. Glover are from various documents.

1631. "A Shallop of Mr. Glover's was cast away on the rocks about Nahant. Crew all saved."

1636. Mr. Glover was chosen one of the Selectmen for the town of Dorchester, and continued to fill that office until his removal to Boston about 1650. He was a Representative to the General Court at Boston from 1636 to 1652, when he was chosen an Assistant.

He was also appointed to other offices of trust and honor, as appears from the Massachusetts Colonial Records, Vol. 3d, under the following dates:

June 14, 1642.

May 28, 1647. Mr. Glover, William Parks and Mr. Duncan are appointed a committee "to see the order of Court for the advancing of Fisheries duly observed."

May, 1650. Mr. Glover and others are appointed to examine the case of Marmaduke Matthews, of Charlestown.

The Commission consisted of the following Gentlemen, viz., Mr. Simon Bradstreet, Mr. Simonds, Mr. John Glover, Capt. William Hawthorne, Mr. Eleazer Lusher, Mr. Richards, Capt. Daniel Gookin, Capt. Humphrey Atherton." They were instructed to call on the Rev. Elders in case of difficulty.

It is further stated that Mr. Matthews was formally examined by these gentlemen from Boston, and not being able to give satisfaction, he was adjudged to be fined ten pounds, providing he did not make an acknowledgment within a month for consenting to be ordained over the Church in Charlestown.

Mr. Matthews was asked to appear the 11th of June, 1650.

Report of the Commissioners on the case of Marmaduke Matthews to the General Court of Massachusetts, June 17, 1651: —

"Upon serious consideration of the charges brought against Mr. Matthews, together with the answer to them by himself given; as also upon conference with himself concerning the same; We the commissioners yet remain much unsatisfied, finding him in several particulars weak, unsafe, and unsound, and not being retracted by him, some whereof are contained in this paper, with his last deliberate answer thereto.

April 15, 1652. John Glover was one of a committee appointed with John Endicott, Thomas Dudley, Richard Bellingham, Increase Nowell, Simon Bradstreet, William Hibbins, Samuel Symonds and Robert Bridges, to examine a work written by Mr. Pynchon, said to contain pernicious sentiments. They speak thus of him: That although they loved and respected the Author, they thought a book he had written too pernicious to be published. "Signed by your unworthy Servants." [Com. Names.]

Mr. Glover's death is thus noticed in the Town Records of Dorchester, page 53:—

"Dorchester, 15 (12) 1653.—Whereas Mr. John Glover was chosen with William Sumner and William Clarke to lay out Mrs. Stoughton’s farm in Dorchester, and now the said Mr. Glover being deceased this 11th day of the 12th month, 1653; at a Town meeting the town hath chosen John Wiswall in the room of Mr. Glover, to be joined with the said William Sumner and William Clarke, for doing that work."

The evidence is conclusive that Mr. John Glover continued to be appointed to and hold offices in Dorchester after his removal to Boston, and until his death, which, according to the above, took place on Feb. 11th, 1653.

Dorchester Estate.

Mr. Glover's Dorchester homestead estate was passed by him to his fourth son, Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester, about the year 1651 or 2, and continued in his possession about five years. He died May 21, 1657, leaving a widow and three children as co-heirs to his estate of inheritance. His widow, marrying again (March 15, 1659) to Gov. Thomas Hinckley, of Barnstable, relinquished her right of dower in the estate to the children of Nathaniel Glover, and removed to Barnstable. The estate was held in trust, and rented for the benefit of the three minor children until the year 1674. At this time the eldest son of Mr. Nathaniel Glover had arrived to the age of 21 years, was married, and the estate was ordered by the General Court at Boston to be divided. It was then, in 1674, and for a short time after, owned conjointly by Nathaniel Glover, John Glover of Dorchester, and Mrs. Anna (Glover) Rawson, wife of William Rawson, of Boston, as their inheritance. Nathaniel Glover, the eldest son, being in possession of the house and a portion of the land, occupied it and lived there. He continued to carry on the tanning business, which had been set up there by his grandfather, Mr. John Glover, the original owner of the estate. He purchased the shares of his brother, John Glover, cooper, who lived in Boston, and of Mrs. Rawson, his sister, as soon as they were of age to dispose of them, and in the year 1676 became the sole owner and occupant of the Dorchester homestead. He had seven children born there, by his wife Hannah Hinckley. He continued to occupy it until 1700—twenty-four years—when his eldest son, Nathaniel Glover, Jr., was of an age to receive it. In that year the whole estate was, by deed of gift, confirmed and passed to Nathaniel Glover, Jr. The date of this deed and transfer is January, 1700.

Nathaniel Glover, Sen., at this time removed with his family to Newbury Farm, beyond the Neponset River in Dorchester, and left his Dorchester estate in the possession and occupancy of his son Nathaniel, who continued there until March, 1726, a period of twenty-six years. He continued the business of tanning on the estate, and had seven children born to him there, by his wife Rachel Marsh. In March, 1726, he went out to London as an agent for the original Proprietors of Dorchester Common and Undivided Lands, of which he had become an extensive shareholder, both by purchase and inheritance. He left his wife in possession and occupancy of the estate—his children being all minors. He died in June, 1726, in London, of smallpox, soon after his arrival there. His widow continued to occupy and possess the estate until her death, in 1752.

When her second son, Mr. Alexander Glover, arrived to the age of twenty-one years, the estate was passed to him as joint occupant, but it was not divided. Alexander continued there until his death, March 15, 1770. He had ten children born there by his wife Sarah White. He engaged in the lumber business, and discontinued the tanning, which has never been resumed by any of his successors. The pits are still to be seen on a portion of land belonging to one of his grandchildren. In 1752, on the death of his mother, the widow of Nathaniel Glover, Jr., the estate passed into the possession of her children, six in number, viz.: Mr. Nathaniel Glover, of Boston, eldest son; Mrs. Rachel Salter, of Boston; Mrs. Hannah Bass, Dorchester; Mr. Alexander Glover, Dorchester; Miss Mary Glover, Dorchester; and Mr. Pelatiah Glover, of Boston. It was owned conjointly by the above heirs but a short time. Alexander became the purchaser of the shares of the other children from time to time, but the final settlement of the estate was not until 1785. Alexander died in 1770, having been in possession of a portion of the estate from 1732 to that time, and occupying it first as co-heir, and conjointly, then sole heir for a period of thirty-eight years. He left a widow, who continued there by right of dower, and the estate was then owned conjointly by Alexander Glover, Jr., the second son, and his mother, Mrs. Sarah Glover, widow.

Alexander Glover was the sixth occupant there in a direct line from the original proprietor. By inheritance and by purchase he came in possession of a considerable portion of the estate, and remained on it until his death in 1813, a period of forty-three years. He had six children born to him there, by his wife Hannah Pope. After his death his widow continued by right of dower, and died there in September, 1825. The estate was then owned conjointly by the heirs of Alexander Glover, Jr., his eldest son Alexander, Jr., and the third of the name, being a retainer of the house and homestead, and a portion of the land as his inheritance. He continued to occupy and possess the original mansion for a time. The old house was taken down and a new one built near the spot. A house has been built since for one of his sons over the old cellar, and portions of the land remain in possession of the other sons. A considerable portion of what was the original homestead has been sold. Alexander, Jr., the last occupant and successor to the estate, was a retainer until his death in 1842, a period of forty-eight years. He had ten children born to him there, by his wife Jemima Tolman.

The last successor was the longest occupant. The estate has been divided into various divisions and subdivisions, to accommodate the heirs. Oliver Glover, Esq., of Dorchester, and James Glover, Esq., of Boston (brothers to Alexander the last successor), are now in possession of portions of it as their inheritance. Other portions of it have been sold. The above are of the seventh generation. Another portion has passed on to the sons of Alexander, third, who are still in possession and occupancy. The original bounds of the estate may be seen as given in the Deed of Gift from Mr. Nathaniel Glover, Sen., to his son Nathaniel Glover, Jr., which is inserted among the acts of Nathaniel, Sen.

It will be seen that this estate, which was first possessed by the Hon. John Glover, of Dorchester, who lived upon and occupied it about twenty-two years, and had two children born to him there, has descended down in a direct line, from father to son, to the seventh and eighth generations, and that sixty children have been born there who bore the name.
The mansion house belonging to this estate was built by Mr. Glover. It was fashioned after the English style, but with thatched roof and large open chimney. It was situated on the shore road, now Commercial Street, fronting the water.

Winthrop, in his Journal, Vol. 1, page 42, relates an incident connected with it, under date of 1636. "Mr. Glover of Dorchester, having about sixty pounds of powder in bags to dry in the end of his chimney, it took fire and some of it went up chimney; other of it filled a room and blew up the gable end. A maid which was in the room having her arms and neck naked was scorched and died soon after. A little child in the arms of another was scorched upon the face, but not killed. Two men were scorched, but not much injured: various pieces of furniture which lay in the room were scorched. The room was dark with smoke, so that those in the room could not find door or window; and when neighbors went in, none could see each other a good time for smoke. The house was thatched, but took not fire, yet many things were burned and many were found injured. Another great Providence was, that three little children being at the fire a little time before; they went out to play, although it was a very cold day, and so were preserved."

Estate and House in Boston.

It appears from the following that John Glover owned and occupied a house in Boston as early as 1644.

"Dec. 6, 1664, John Glover, of Dorchester, sold to Jonathan Oliver, of Boston, "a little plot of ground in Boston, as it is set out by Mr. Jonathan Oliver, being now within my garden fence, between my new Dwelling house and George Burden's and William Hudson's The said John Glover to make and maintain in his garden a little higher towards my house a close, well, and channel there within the ground for the convenience of Water."

Mr. William Tyng's house, "Close, Garden, great yard and little yard before the Hall window." Description of bounds — "John Glover, William Hudson, Jr., George Burden, Hugh Gunnison and the street East."—Boston Book of Possessions; History of Boston, page 786.

"John Glover's house and yard bounded by the street South East, George Burden South West, William James North West and North East.”

In the description of bounds of George Burden’s land, it is said to be bounded on the eastward by John Glover.

Gov. Winthrop says, in his Journal, under date of 1649, that Mr. Glover’s house was situated at the head of the cove in Boston.

By his will, his Boston estate passed to his second son, Habackuk Glover, who owned and occupied it until his death in 1692. It then passed to Mrs. Rebekah Smith, who was his sole heir. She was Rebekah Glover, and his only daughter, and at the time of her father’s death was the widow of Capt. Thomas Smith, of Boston, who died in 1688. She owned and occupied it until her second marriage with Capt. Thomas Clarke, in 1691, when it came in possession of her eldest son, Capt. Thomas Smith, and was confirmed to him by her will made in his favor after her second marriage. Capt. Thomas Smith died at Saco in 1742. The estate then passed to his heirs: who occupied and possessed it until about 1798, a period of fifty-six years or more, when it was sold by them to Dr. Eliakim Morse and Samuel Torrey, Esq., of Boston, who owned it conjointly for a time. In 1812 it passed to the heirs of Samuel Torrey, Esq., and in 1828 the whole estate became the property of Samuel Torrey, Jr., Esq., who is the present owner, and describes it as follows: “This estate measured fifty-six feet in front on Dock Square, and extended through to Elm Street. The mansion house was a large double house, built of brick, with a wide front door at the entrance, which opened into a hall from which two winding staircases led to the second floor. The house remained standing till about 1830, when it was destroyed by fire. Three stories have since been erected on the site, and are now occupied by Brooks, Darling, and Walker.”

It appears that the estate has passed down in the possession of succeeding generations, under the conditions expressed in Mr. Glover’s will, which will hereafter be noticed.

John Glover owned a house and land in Weymouth, and sold it to Nicholas Byram in 1647, by his power of attorney, as follows:

“5: 8: 1647. John Glover, Power of Attorney. John Brook, of Watertown, Granted to Nicholas Byram, by virtue of a Power of Attorney from John Glover, of Dorchester, all that piece of land which was formerly John Glover’s, lying in Weymouth, viz., Sixty acres of Upland adjoining to Nicholas Byram on the East and on the West part.”
"Also Two Acres of Meadow by the Waterside, and Four acres of marsh. Also four acres of Frog's Meadow in the Woods, and a Great Lott of Twenty-five Acres adjoining, by absolute Deed of Sale made the 5 day of the 8th Month in 1647."

The above was purchased by Mr. Glover in 1644, of John Goffe.

"At a County Court held at Cambridge, County of Middlesex, in 1643, on the account of John Glover, son of Rev. Joseph Glover, Deceased, and Step-son of Rev. Henry Dunster, against Henry Dunster, immediately following the death of his wife Mrs. Elizabeth Dunster, who was the Widow of said Rev. Joseph Glover, and the mother of the said Complainant" —

Present, Mr. John Glover, Dorchester and Boston.

Mr. Gookin, "

1653. Extract from first book of Court Records for Middlesex County. "In an Action of 'Foster against Stowe,' purporting to be a suit or action for the recovery of some Rents for Houses and Lands in Maidstone, County of Kent, in England, wherein Mr. John Glover, Senior, Deputy, with Hopestill Foster, bound themselves in the sum of One hundred Pounds to the Court to prosecute the appeal against Thomas Stowe."

The Last Will of Mr. John Glover, of Boston, made as followeth.

It being written that the Earth is the Lords; and the fulness thereof: the habitable world and they that dwell therein. Again I have prayed to the Jehovah, I have said, Thou art my trust, my portion in the land of the living. And again none of us liveth to himself, neither doth any die to himself, and I accordingly believing; do therefore also speak and unto God say, I am thine and Thou art mine, and pray, Oh that I and mine, the souls that Thou hast given me, if we live we may live to Thee: if we die we may die to Thee: both if we live and also if we die, we may be thine. And as for what also Thou hast given me to possess, Thou hast trusted me to dispose, that Thou wilt be pleased to be with me in disposing of it, and bless it so, in their hands to whom I give it. Amen.

And first I will all former Wills be revoked, and whereas I have by deed given to my son Thomas Glover all my lands in England, with the promise that they shall be freed of my Widows dower, and that besides I have promised to give him four hundred pounds; and have also promised to my son Nathaniel, to give him so much in good payment, as would make the lands, the which I delivered him, worth four Hundred pounds: And have also given to my son Habakuck, that one half of the new house in Boston nearest Mr. Webb's house, with half of all the other housing, half of the Yard and pits in it, and other accommodations for tanning, and promised to make it up to him four hundred pounds.
All these with all other my debts, I will to be duly paid in the first place out of my goods, debts due to me, and out of the profits of all my lands in Dorchester and Boston, saving my Widow's dower, not already expressed to be given.

And next unto these my Will is, that my two sons John and Pelatiah shall have either of them, One Hundred pounds paid unto them, out of my goods and out of the profits of my two farms on the further side of the River in Dorchester, and out of the one half of my house, yard and other housing, and tan pits not herein expressed to be given to my son Habakuck, as soon as my widows necessary maintenance out of the aforesaid estate will permit.

And further after these performed, my will is, my beloved wife relinquishing her right of dower in England, shall have all the rest of my goods, and all the profits of my two farms in Dorchester, and of my aforesaid half house, yard, housing, and tan pits in Boston, undisposed of, for and during her natural life. And further that my son Habakuck shall have the said half of my house next Goodman Hudsons, with the half of the yard and other housing and tan pits: my son Habakuck paying within one year to my son Thomas Glover ten pounds, and to my son Nathaniel Glover forty pounds: and to Harvard College at Cambridge, for and towards the maintenance of a fellow there, five pounds a year forever. And if my beloved wife can spare to give the said five pounds a year in her life-time I doubt not that she will give it. And of this my last Will I make and ordain my well beloved wife my sole Executrix, desiring my respected loving friends Mr. Richard Mather and Mr. Henry Withington, as overseers, to advise and further the performance of this my Will. Now, O; God! as for me, let me see thy face in righteousness. I shall have sufficient in the awakening of thine image.

As for my children with them which I leave behind me, Oh that thy grace and peace may be with them. And as for thy Majesty, to Thee be glory and might, both now and for the day of Eternity. Amen.

If my said sons John and Pelatiah shall have occasion to sell Mr. Newbrey's farm, my desire is, that it be sold to my son Nathaniel if he desires to buy it. Written with my own hand this Eleventh day of April, 1653.

JOHN GLOVER.

Upon further consideration of what my sons John and Peletiah have already received in their education, my Will and mind is, that after the decease of my beloved wife, they the said John and Pelatiah shall have and receive out of my two farms in Dorchester, either of them, the sum of two Hundred pounds, which sum of four Hundred pounds being first paid unto them the said John and Pelatiah, I do hereby give the reversion and inheritance of the said two farms unto my sons Habakuck, John, Nathaniell and Pelatiah, and to their heirs forever: to be equally divided amongst them in four severally. And that this is my Will I have caused this Codicil to be annexed and affixed to my Will and testament, as part thereof, and have thereunto put my hand, this twenty sixth day of the Eleventh Month, 1653. Witness hereof,

JOHN GLOVER.
The Will itself, with these words interlined, "saving my Widow's dower," with the Codicil, to both which he hath subscribed his name, was acknowledged by the said Mr. John Glover to be his last Will and testament the Twenty Sixth day of the Eleventh month, 1653, before me William Hibbins, the 9th Feb., 1653.

Mr. Habakuck Glover appeared before the Magistrates and presented the above and within written, to be the last Will and testament of his father, Mr. John Glover deceased. Mr. William Hibbins being a witness thereunto, having deposed, saying that he saw the said Mr. John Glover sign the above mentioned premises, and that when he signed it he heard him publish it as his last will and testament, and that then he was of a sound disposing mind, when he signed it; which the Magistrates approved of, present the Deputy Gov't.

A true Copy, Attest Mr. Hibbins, Recorder.

Mrs. Anna Glover appeared before the Magistrates and Recorder the 4th day of January, 1654, and deposed that this is a true Inventory of the Estate of her late husband Mr. John Glover, of Boston deceased, and promised that when she knew more she would discover it to the Recorder.

pr Edward Rawson, Recorder.

Humphrey Atherton, John Wiswall, John Smith.

On the records of Harvard College, under date of 1642, Mr. Glover and two others are credited with a "Gift of Utensils," for the use of that institution, amounting to twenty pounds.

He was one of those who allowed themselves to be assessed for the expenses and benefit of that College, and was called upon from time to time to furnish provisions and all such articles as were needed there, according to his ability.
At his decease he left them a token of his remembrance in a legacy of "five pounds a year forever, as a perpetual annuity for the aid of indigent students." It was directed to be paid out of that portion of his Boston estate which was given to his second son Habackuk Glover, after the decease of his mother.

That event occurred in 1670. At this present writing, 1866, it is two hundred and twelve years since the above annuity became due and payable to the treasurer of the College. The amount of five pounds, or in Federal money sixteen dollars and sixty-seven cents, has been paid annually by those who inherited the estate, and their successors — which sum, though it may seem small at the beginning, has amounted, in the aggregate, to three thousand five hundred and sixty-seven dollars and thirty-two cents.

Samuel Torrey, Esq., of Boston, is the last successor and present owner of Mr. Glover's Boston estate, and paid the last annuity in April, 1866.

Mr. Glover owned another estate in Dorchester. He mentions in his will his "two farms in Dorchester, out of which his widow, relinquishing her right of dower in England, was to draw the income until her death." One of these was his "Newbery farm," and the other a tract of land of one hundred and eighty acres, situated directly south of Milton Hill, and extending westward (according to the bounds described in the deed) on the flat fronting on the north-west by the brook which now bears the name of "Aunt Sarah's Brook," and south-east by the central line of the town of Milton. He laid out a farm here, and built a house and barn and other out-houses convenient for farming. It is said the house stood near where the brook reaches the road, by the house now occupied by Mr. Davis. The furniture of the house, stock and farming utensils were all owned by Mr. Glover. This farm was leased to Nicholas Wood, who came over to New England as Mr. Glover's agent, and was a tenant there at the time of Mr. G.'s death, and continued to occupy it until it was sold in 1654 by the heirs of Mr. Glover, to Robert Vose. It has descended down in the Vose line to the present time, although portions of the land have been sold, from time to time, so that the original farm is now much diminished. This estate now lies in the town of Milton. The following deed is copied from the original document:
John Glover's Heirs to Robert Vose.

John Glover made oath this 16:11:1670–71, before the Governor Richard Bellingham, Esq. and Edward Tyng, Esq., that this is a true Inventory of the Estate of his late Mother, Mrs. Anna Glover, and that when he knows more he will disclose the same.

Attest: Freegrace Bendall.

A donation of £10 is credited to Mrs. Glover on the records of Harvard College, under date of 1642, as a gift towards furnishing books for the College Library. Other instances appear of her enlarged benevolence and of her hospitality. The name of her family has not been ascertained, although diligently sought for; nor has even a clue to her origin or English life been discovered by the examination of any records found here. But through her New England life and acts, aided by tradition, she has become known to us as a woman of superior endowments, and of remarkable grace and dignity of manners, well fitting her high station. She was a church member before her emigration. Her name appears on the records of the Dorchester Church, 23:6:1636. She remained in that connection about twenty-five years, and on the 4:9:1660, was dismissed to join the old Church at Boston. She was received there 1:3:1661, and continued a member until her death. She stands at the head of the descending generations as their first American ancestress, and her Christian name has been perpetuated among them successively to the present time.

Mr. Glover's Newbury Farm.

Mr. Thomas Newbury, who came from England in the same ship with Mr. John Glover, was first in possession of this farm, by grants of land from the Proprietors of Dorchester, and by purchase from Mr. Pynchon, who removed to Springfield and became one of its first founders.

The following extracts are from the Proprietors' Records:

1634. "It is ordered that Mr. Newbury, shall have Thirty Acres for the purchase that he bought of Mr. Pynchon; the house that Mr. Pynchon built; and Forty Acres of Upland ground to the house; and Forty Acres of Marsh and Twenty acres of Neck in Brantry Neck." Mr. Newbury's one hundred acres to be laid out to him next Israel Stoughton's, six miles above his mill at Neponset River.

"Likewise it is ordered and agreed upon, that Whereas Mr. Newbury hath relinquished a former Grant of Forty-one Acres of Marsh and Twenty Acres of Upland in Squantum Neck, he is now to have all the land from his house to Mr. Wilson's Farm, in consideration thereof."

There appears to have been no deed given to Mr. Glover, but the title was confirmed to him by the heirs of Mr. Newbury, and is recorded on the records of the General Court at Boston, as follows:
1645. "Upon petition of the heirs of Mr. Thomas Newbury, viz., Henry Wolcott, Daniel Clark, Joseph Newbury, Mr. John Warham and William Gaylord, in the behalf of the three youngest daughters, that the farm bought of Mr. Pyncheon with its appurtenances, the Sixteen Acre lott, with the Barn upon it, and Forty Rods in the Little Neck, should be ratified and confirmed to Mr. John Glover."

Oct. 2, 1645. "In Answer to the Petition of the Children and Executrix and Overseers of the Last Will and Testament of Mr. Thomas Newbury, late of Dorchester, Deceased, for the confirmation of the said Farm of said Thomas Newbury to Mr. John Glover, of Dorchester, of Whom they acknowledge to have received full satisfaction, and in consideration thereof, their Petition is hereby Granted, and the farm confirmed to the said John Glover and to his heirs and Assigns forever."

This farm, containing four hundred acres, was situated in Dorchester, on the south side of the Neponset River, and was bounded on the north by the River, on the south by Mr. Wilson's farm in Braintree, on the east by the sea at low water mark, and on the west extended to near the bounds of what is now Milton, a precinct of Dorchester until 1662. In 1640 the whole farm passed into the possession of Mr. Glover, Mr. Newbury relinquishing, with the intention of removing to Connecticut River. Mr. Glover leased the farm to John Gill and Roger Billings. There were two houses upon it—one built by Mr. Newbury, and occupied as his homestead, the other built by Mr. Pyncheon. The lessees occupied these houses, and carried on the farm, paying an annual rent. Mr. Glover owned the stock and farming utensils; also the furniture of the houses. He gave it the name of "Newbury Farm." In 1649 he renewed the lease to John Gill and Roger Billings for another term of ten years. They were the occupants there at the time of Mr. Glover's death, in 1653, and continued there for some time after, the lease being renewed by his heirs.

By his last will Mr. Glover reserved the income of his Newbury Farm as the dower of his widow, who dying in 1670, the estate reverted to his four sons, and was for the next ten years owned conjointly by Mr. Habackuk Glover of Boston, Mr. John Glover of Boston, the heirs of Mr. Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester, and the Rev. Pelatiah Glover of Springfield. They continued the lease to Roger Billings, Sen., until the year 1680, at which time they had a survey made of the farm, and a plan drawn indicating the divisions and sub-divisions, according to the purport of the will and each one's right of inheritance. They entered into the following agreement at this time, bearing date with the plan.

John Richards.

Entered and Recorded on Suffolk Records of Deeds,
Nov. 19, 1680.
Oct. 8, 1681, Mr. Habackuk Glover, of Boston, sold and confirmed his one fourth part of Newbury farm to Roger Billings, as marked on the plan. Consideration one hundred and seventy pounds. Signed by Habackuk Glover and Hannah Glover.

In 1686, Mr. John Glover, of Boston, conveyed and confirmed to his "beloved Nephew, Nathaniel Glover, eldest son to his brother Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester, who died in 1657," "one twelfth part of this farm, which fell to the share of Anna Glover, now wife unto William Rawson and one of the heirs of his said brother Nathaniel, and conveyed by her to her Uncle John Glover." Signed John Glover and Elizabeth Glover. From 1686 to 1692, the farm was owned conjointly by Mr. John Glover, of Boston, in his own right one fourth; Roger Billings, in right of Habackuk, one fourth; Nathaniel Glover, Sen., eldest son of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester, deceased, in his own right of inheritance, one twelfth, and by purchase of his brother John Glover (cooper), one twelfth, and by Deed of Gift, from his uncle John Glover, of the remaining one twelfth part which accrued to his sister Mrs. Anna Rawson, as her right of inheritance, being the only daughter of Mr. Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester deceased—which last named three twelfths comprised one fourth; and the Rev. Pelatiah Glover, of Springfield, one fourth.

Rev. Pelatiah Glover dying in 1692, his share, or one fourth part, devolved on his son Pelatiah Glover, Jr., of Springfield, who sold it in 1699 to Nathaniel Glover, Sen., and William Rawson. The farm was then owned conjointly by the heirs of Roger Billings, one fourth; Nathaniel Glover, Sen., in his own right, one fourth; Mr. John Glover, of Boston, one fourth; Nathaniel Glover, Sen., and William Rawson, one fourth, in the right of Pelatiah Glover, Jr.

In 1700, they made a new division among themselves, and with Roger and Ebenezer Billings, sons to Roger Billings, Sen.

Nathaniel Glover, Sen., was a retainer of both houses, and all the out buildings, with his share of the land; he removed there and became an occupant in 1700. He remained in possession until his death, which occurred in 1723—4, about twenty-four years. At his death he left his house and homestead by Deed of Gift to his youngest son, Mr. Thomas Glover, Esq., reserving the right of dower for his widow.

Mr. Thomas Glover, of the fourth generation, owned and occupied it until his death in 1758, a period of thirty-four years, and had twelve children born to him there, by his wife Elizabeth Clough. He left it by will to his two youngest sons, William and Ebenezer. They owned it conjointly for a time, when they divided, and Ebenezer retained the homestead, comprising the houses and land which lay convenient to it. In 1798, Ebenezer Glover, successor to Thomas, took away the old house and built a new one just in the rear of the old cellar. It is still standing, having been remodelled and repaired several times. Ebenezer Glover occupied and was in possession nearly fifty years. He had three children born to him there, by his wives Sarah Wadsworth and Mary Davenport, and left it by will, in 1807, to his only son, Benjamin Wadsworth Glover, who succeeded him and occupied there until his death in 1814—a period of seven years. By his wife Mehetable Willard Baxter, he had two sons born to him there. In 1823, the homestead estate of Newbury Farm was settled on his eldest son, Horatio N. Glover, Esq., who succeeded to the occupancy, and had ten children born to him there, by his wife Martha Turpin Hovey. At his death, in 1863, he had been in possession forty years, and had made great improvements on the buildings and land. The estate is now, in 1866, held in trust by his widow and his sons Horatio N. and William B. Glover, Esqs.

Thus it appears that Mr. Glover's Newbury Farm, which was possessed by him in 1640, has passed down in a direct line of succession, through his descendants, until it has reached the eighth generation, covering a period of two hundred and twenty-six years.

Undivided Lands apportioned to Mr. Glover in the Three Divisions, Dorchester Neck, and in Dorchester New Grant.

The members of the London Joint Stock Company were entitled to a share of two hundred acres of land for every fifty pounds ventured, and additional acres under other conditions, or according to the men they employed in their business, and the number of their servants. As soon as practicable after their settlement at Dorchester, apportionments were made by the Proprietors, to each man, according to the laws of the Company.

The following apportionments were made to Mr. Glover, and recorded on the Proprietors' Records.

"March, 1636. It is ordered that Mr. Glover shall have Thirty Acres of land and Meadow beyond Neponset River, about one mile from the Mill, in Lieu of a Twenty Acre Lott which he leaves to the Plantation, in the Great lotts beyond the Fresh Marsh." "The proportion which Mr. Glover is to have in the lands on the Neck is Twenty Acres, and the same in the Cow pasture."

"26 (3) 1644. It is ordered that Mr. Glover shall have that Upland he so much desireth, being and lying to the Brook from the Upper part of the Great Plain, beyond his farm; the said John Glover giving Upland and Meadow for the same, to the Town, out of his own Propriety of the 'Three Divisions,' or out of the next land divisible or elsewhere to the full value according to the Judgment of Nathaniel Duncan, Thomas Jones, William Sumner, Hopestill Foster and William Blake."

Mr. Glover had lands apportioned to him on Dorchester Neck (now South Boston), some of which he sold (29: 6: 1644), to Nicholas Ball, as follows:

"Land in the great Neck in the further end of his lott; together with half of the Way granted and quality considered: said land lying next to the Moat of the Neck on the further end of his lott. To have and to hold to the aforesaid Nicholas Ball, and to his heirs forever. Whereby the aforesaid John Glover doth acknowledge to have had full satisfaction for the aforesaid Tract."

Dorchester New Grant, in which were comprised the Proprietors' Undivided Lands, extended from the Blue Hills southward to the Colony line which separated it from the Plymouth Colony. The lines were run parallel from North to South. The swamps were set off as the "Twenty-five Divisions;" the Upland was, when divided, called the "Twelve Divisions" of land. The Proprietors were an organized body, and received their proportions according to the stock invested and accredited to them on the Company's Records.

"In the years 1636, 1637, and 1638, the lands in 'Dorchester New Grant' were ordered to be divided, in such proportions that Mr. Glover, of Dorchester, one of the Original Proprietors, should have Thirty-Six Acres, two quarters and Twenty-five Rods out of every Division of land."

"7 (4) 1642. It was agreed that Mr. John Glover, being one of the Original Proprietors of the Town of Dorchester, should with Mr. Baker and Mr. Breck, run the line at the head of Braintry Bounds; and then run the line unto the Country for the laying out of the New Grant."
The line was accordingly run about that time, but the divisions were not made until 1667.

"At a General Town Meeting (1:1:1667), in the Town of Dorchester, It was voted that there should be Twelve Divisions laid out altogether, in the good land beyond the Blue Hills. The first lott to be nearest the Town; and so each man to have his lott successively in the Good land Lotts lying so near as may be, not above Eight Score or Two hundred Rods long. And, if it so turn out that a Plott of bad land falls in a lott, then allowance may be made by the Surveyor and those men that the Town shall appoint to go with him."

Another survey was made, commencing in the year 1714, and ending in the year 1716. Most of the original proprietors had passed away before this last was undertaken, and the allotments were made to their grandchildren or their legal representatives.

In the "Twenty-five Divisions," there was allotted and laid out to Mr. Glover, in the year 1716, 9th Division — Burnt Swamp and Iron Mine Meadow, 12 acres.

48th Division — Dead Swamp, 10 acres.
45th Division — Purgatory Swamp, 45 acres.

At the western extremity of the New Grant, where the towns of Foxboro' and Wrentham now meet, there was laid out to him one thousand acres in five hundred acre lots.

In the Twelve Divisions of Upland, there were apportioned and laid out to him two hundred acres in the 48th lot.

In the 67th lot, Twelve Divisions, three hundred acres (sold by his heirs to Nathaniel Stearns).

These two last lots of two and three hundred acres were in the South precinct of Dorchester, which was subsequently set off from Dorchester and took the name of Stoughton.

Joshua Seaver, aged Eighty-four Years, Testifieth and Saith, that when he was young he well knew Mr. John Glover, of Dorchester (otherwise called John Glover, Esq.), he being then one of the Original Proprietors of Dorchester and Boston; and also he knew him afterwards when he was one of the Magistrates of this Province, and dwelt at Boston in the house now possessed by Capt'n Thomas Smith, and that he also knew Four of the sons of the said John Glover, Esq., viz.: Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester, Habackuk Glover of Boston, and his son John Glover of Boston, and Pelatiah Glover of Springfield; and that this deponent entered into the family of the Rev'd Mr. John Eliot, of Roxbury, deceased, to dwell with him, on the same day that the aforesaid Habauck Glover was married unto Mrs. Hannah Eliot, only daughter of the aforesaid John Eliot.

And that this deponent was one of the family and in service of the said John Eliot when Rebecca Glover, daughter of the said Habackuk Glover and Hannah Eliot, was born there (in Roxbury). And that he continued to dwell in the aforesaid family until the said Rebecca Glover was married to Capt. Thomas Smith of Boston, deceased. And that Capt'n Thomas Smith and Mr. John Smith now of Boston, with their sisters, are the reputed children of the aforesaid Capt'n Thomas Smith and Rebecca Glover his Wife.

Suffolk ss. Roxbury, May 11, 1725.

Mr. Joshua Seaver personally appearing, made Oath in perpetual Memoriam to the above-written statements subscribed before us, Samuel Checkley and Samuel Sewall, Esq's.

Entered, Examined and Recorded on the Register of Deeds for Suffolk County at Boston, February 22, 1743. Ezekiel Goldthwait, Registrar of Deeds for County of Suffolk.

Deposition of Nathaniel Glover, Jr., of Dorchester, Great Grandson to Mr. John Glover of Dorchester and Boston.

The Deposition of Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester, aged about 49 years, Testifieth and saith that he very well knew Mr. Habackuk Glover, formerly of Boston, when he dwelt in the House now possessed and occupied by Mr. Thomas Smith in Boston, and that he also knew Mr. John Glover when he dwelt in Seven Stars lane, or Summer Street, in Boston; and that the said Habackuk Glover, John Glover and Pelatiah Glover, late of Springfield, Deceased, and Thomas Glover, Esq., of London, Eng.; deceased, and Nathaniel Glover, deceased, Grandfather of this deponent, were all reputed brothers, and also the Five reputed sons of Mr. John Glover, alias John Glover Esq., formerly of Dorchester and Boston. And this deponent further saith, that Mr. Thomas Smith, Mr. John Smith, Anne Kay, Elizabeth Brenton, Rebecca Gore, and Anne Jeffries, are all of them the reputed grandchildren of the aforesaid Habackuk Glover.

(Signed) Nathaniel Glover, Boston, March 25, 1725.
Nathaniel Glover, Jr., personally appeared and made Oath to the truth of the above written Statement, Instrument and Deposition subscribed by him in perpetual memoriam, before me,

Samuel Checkley.

It is thus seen that seventy years after Mr. Glover's death, his lands in the Dorchester New Grant came in possession of his descendants of the third and fourth generations as their inheritance, and were set off as far as possible by a just and equal division among themselves. At that time, a large portion of these lands had been settled on by those who had no title, and could not be dispossessed without resorting to a course of law. A very small portion of it remains in the possession of one of his descendants at the present time. That tract of two hundred acres which was situated in Stoughton, and which fell to the share of a great grandson, Thomas Glover, Esq., of Newbury Farm, Dorchester, was passed by will to his eldest sons, Thomas and James, in 1752. They divided it, each taking one hundred acres. Thomas had built a house there previous to that time, or about 1750, and occupied it until his death in 1811, a period of forty-one years. He had eleven children born to him there, by his wife Rebeckah Pope, and left the homestead to his youngest son, Mr. Elijah Glover, who owned and occupied it until his decease in 1855, forty-four years, having had ten children born to him there by his wives Martha Pope and Sarah Howe. His third son, Mr. John Clough Glover, has built a house near the original one (which is still standing), and inherits a portion of the land. He resides there at the present time. Other portions are in possession of his brothers. Thus after a period of two hundred and thirty years from the first order for apportionment, the estate has reached the seventh generation in regular and direct succession.

And here closes what has been gathered of Mr. John Glover—his ancestors, his birth, life in England, life in New England, his manorial estates, and his disposition of them. He has justly been styled by writers as one of the founders of New England, and ranks as the earliest American ancestor of more than one thousand descendants, whose lives are noticed in the pages which follow.
TOMAS GLOVER, OF LONDON.

[Second Generation.]

TOMAS GLOVER, OF LONDON, ENGLAND, AND HIS DESCENDANTS TO THE FOURTH GENERATION.

I. Thomas Glover, the eldest son of Mr. John Glover, of Rainhill, Lancashire, England, and Anna his wife, was born in Rainhill Parish, Prescot, in Lancashire, England, the 8th day of January, 1627; and died in the Parish of St. John, Hackney, London, England, the 3d day of October, 1707, æt. 80 years and 9 months. His will bears date April 18th, 1707; proved November 7th, 1707. He left a widow and three children, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

In 1630, when at the age of three years, he was brought by his parents to Dorchester, in New England, and lived there until the age of manhood, 1648. Very little information can be gathered of him from New England records. He never took the freeman's oath, and never joined any church while a resident here. In 1644, with five others from Dorchester, he joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, which had been formed early in New England, and was a branch of the parent association in London. He was at that time but seventeen years of age. He returned to England, and was married there before February, 1652, to Rebeckah —. The first day of February, 1652, he received from his father, Mr. John Glover, by Deed of Gift (see page 51), all the lands, houses, and edifices which belonged to the latter, lying in Rainhill, Eccleston and Knowlesby, and other places named in the deed, in the County of Lancashire. It appears he was on a visit to New England at that date, and returned to England immediately after, probably in the same ship with Rev. George Moxon, the first minister of Springfield, and Mr. Pynchon. He was at that time twenty-five years of age. His estates of inheritance in Lancashire had been left in trust, and were ordered to be delivered to him by Mr. John Latham, of Whiston, and Mr. William Glover, of Prescot, brother and attorney to Mr. John Glover, of Dorchester. He was to receive them immediately after his arrival at Rainhill. There is no evidence of his ever having settled on his estates at that place, or lived there after his marriage. He resided in London, was a merchant there, and probably had been established in business there ever since first going from Dorchester, in 1648 or '49. He never engaged in any business while here, being destined by his father, as his eldest son and heir apparent, to an English life.

Children of Thomas and Rebeckah (——) Glover, born in London, England:

6. Rebeckah, m. 1st, Joseph Moxon; 2d, —— Bard.
7. Elizabeth, m. 1st, Richard Chiswell; 2d, Thomas Trench.

Rebeckah had by her first husband, one son, Joseph Moxon. Her second husband, —— Bard, died before her father's will was made in 1707.

Elizabeth had by her first husband, one son, Richard Chiswell; and by her second, two daughters, Elizabeth and Rebeckah French.

Mary, wife of Joseph Thomson, had five children — two sons and three daughters.

[Third Generation.]

Grandchildren of Thomas and Rebeckah Glover, of London:

10. Richard Chiswell. Wife ——.
11. Elizabeth Trench, children of Elizabeth Glover.
12. Rebeckah Trench.
15. Francis Thomson.
17. Elizabeth Thomson.

[Fourth Generation.]

20. Richard Chiswell.

By the last Will and Testament of Mr. John Glover, bearing date April 11th, 1653 (p. 58), the estates in England which were granted to his son Thomas in February, 1652, were confirmed to him, and he was also to receive the sum of four hundred pounds in money, to be paid by his executors at his decease. And the additional sum of ten pounds was ordered to be paid to him at the decease of his mother, by his brother Habackuk, who at that time came into full possession of his father's Boston estate. He was not to share in the division of the estate called Newbury Farm, which was retained as the widow's dower, and immediately after her decease was, with all its incomes, to be divided into four equal parts and given to his four brothers.

In 1680, when Mr. Glover's Newbury Farm was surveyed and divided, Thomas Glover, Esq., of the city of London, merchant, was noticed and legally represented in Glover's Agreement. (See p. 71.)

In 1724, at the final settlement of the estate of Hon. John Glover, the name of Thomas Glover occurs again, in a compact or agreement drawn up and signed by the surviving heirs in relation to the Common and Undivided Lands lying in Dorchester New Grant, in the town of Stoughton. (See p. 76.) This transaction took place seventeen years after the decease of Thomas Glover, of London. All the other sons were also dead, and were represented by their children and grandchildren. It is not known at the present time by whom Thomas was represented. He had three daughters at the time of his death in 1707, and probably at this time, who may have appointed some person to represent them, but it is not expressed in the agreement. There are signers to that compact, however, whose names could not have been attached to it in their own right, as those of Nathaniel Rawson and Pelatiah Rawson, and who may have been appointed to act for Thomas's heirs.

In 1654, he was appointed an attorney by Judith Holland, of Dorchester, in New England, and by Henry Ashurst, creditor to her estate, to settle her affairs there. (See next page.)

He was visited in 1661 by gentlemen from Boston, who were wittnesses to a writing drawn up by his hand, appointing his brother Habackuk Glover to be his attorney in relation to lands and property in Boston and the adjacent towns; and they brought back with them to Boston this Power of Attorney, delivered it to Mr. Hab-backuk Glover, and testified to it, personally appearing on the 26th of May, 1664.

28 (6) 1669, Mr. Habackuk Glover appears to have recovered a debt of Nathaniel and Peter Duncan, and transmitted it to London for his brother Thomas Glover.

There has been preserved an original letter written by him to his brother-in-law, Gov. Thomas Hinckley, of Barnstable, in Plymouth Colony, in New England, bearing date August 2, 1684, which, with documents above named, are given in succeeding pages.
In 1689, Judge Sewall, of Boston, on going to London, made him another visit, and records it in his diary. Mr. Glover probably wrote to his friends by Judge Sewall, who immediately after his return to New England, made a visit to Gov. Hinckley; and he writes in his diary of the entertainment which he received as his guest, and the attention shown him by Madam Hinckley, whom he said read letters to him from her children — and also that the conversation turned on friends and relations whom Judge Sewall had seen and visited when lately in England.

The following is a copy of a letter from Mr. Thomas Glover, of London, England, to his brother-in-law, the Hon. Thomas Hinckley, of Barnstable, New England, dated August 2d, 1684. The top of the letter, which probably contained the address, was missing.

Sir,

I received your kind letter wherein you express yours and my Sister's respects to me. I am glad to hear from you, and rejoice to hear of the welfare of any of my relations.

We live in bad times, wherein our privileges, especially our Spiritual enjoyments, are obstructed and our lives made uncomfortable thereby.

I doubt not the same evil will at last in a great measure reach you. Were it not for fear of the loss of those enjoyments which are enjoyed in New England, very many of us should certainly retire to New England.

All comfort in our outward enjoyments are much abated by want of Spiritual Liberty. It is made a very great crime with us to hear a good minister preach Christ or Pray to God.

If it please God that I live, I may another time order something for some of my relations. Pray present mine and my wife's respects to my Sister, your Wife, whom I commit to God, and so rest your loving brother,

THOMAS GLOVER.

2d Aug. 1684.

Thomas Glover had three brothers living in New England at that time, but they all died before he did—the last in 1696. There were also the three children, heirs of his brother Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester, who were his nephews and niece.

Judge Sewall corresponded with him, as shown by the following letter from his Letter Book:

Mr. THOMAS GLOVER.

Sir, I received yours pr Mr. Clarke, with the cottons and penistons and 2 doz books, which with the bill of Exchange of 80£, amounts to 119: 9: 0, or one hundred and nineteen pounds and nine shillings. Have delivered Mr. Rawson his kerseys and crape. I thank you for your ready acceptance of my bill, of which I was informed, and of the payment by my correspondent before yours came to hand. Am grieved at the afflictions of France (that is, the afflictions by France of the Protestants), but am glad to understand it seeing it is so. Our letters that come by vessels do now pass through the hands of Councillor Randolph. We are here exercised with a very sore drought. Yesterday was observed as a public fast for that occasion. Except God make haste to help us, we shall be greatly straitened for want of grass and corn. The only son of Mrs. Holland, Widow, is to be buried this afternoon. The smallpox is in town. Only one hath died of it yet that I hear of.

Sir, your friend and Servant,

SAMUEL SEWALL.

1689, April 22. Judge Sewall visited Thomas Glover, and writes in his diary, under the above date, thus: "I went on foot to Hackney, through brick lane, about ½ a mile long, and dined with Mr. Thomas Glover, his sons Bard and Thomson, their wives, Mrs. Trench and several Grandchildren. Eat part of two lobsters that cost 3—9d apiece, 7—6 both."

This visit of Judge Sewall appears to be the last notice of him before his decease. Two notices occur after his death, in relation to the distribution of property accruing to him or his heirs, both in 1724, at the final settlement of the estate (or reversion of it) left by his brother John Glover, of Boston, merchant, and in the final settlement of the estate of his father. His estates at Rainhill may have been sold, or they may have been held in trust for some future distribution under other conditions, and so not devised — as in case his line might at some time become extinct.

Thomas Glover was in good health on the 8th day of April, 1707, as is stated in his will, had wife Rebeckah and three daughters, several grandchildren and great-grandchildren. He appointed his eldest daughter Rebeckah Bard, widow, sole Executrix. His death occurred October 3d, 1707, and his will was proved November 7th, 1707.

His wife Rebeckah survived him, and died at Hackney, in the Parish of St. John, the 13th day of May, 1711. She was buried in Trench’s vault.

This latter information is gathered from a letter received in 1862, from the present incumbent of the Church of St. John, Hackney, in London.

Thomas Glover in his will makes no allusion to the Rainhill estates, which were given him by his father, in 1652, but devises the following as owned by him, viz.:

Estates, messuages and lands lying in the Cock and Pye Fields; near the Seven Dials in the Parish of St. Giles in the Fields, in the County of Middlesex, England; a freehold estate in Bartholomew Square, in or near Old Street, in the County of Middlesex, purchased of Antony Ball and John Brown in fee simple; a copy-hold estate situate in the Parish of St. John, Hackney, by the name of Brookes Field; a messuage and house new built, in St. John, Hackney; an estate in Westham, County of Essex, consisting of houses, lands and tenements, held by lease from the Mayor of the City of London, lying in that Parish of Westham.

His donations from his personal estate amount to about three thousand pounds sterling, as expressed in his will. His legatees were his wife Rebeckah, three daughters, five grandchildren and four great-grandchildren; with gifts to his minister, Mr. Billis; Mr. Bates, his daughter Trench's chaplain; his vicar, Mr. Newcome; his nephew, Daniel Poyntell; cousins Charles Watts and Priscilla Lucas; cousin Margaret Lightman; Lydia Davis, his servant; nurse Watrous; Mrs. Ratcliffe and Mary Talbot; and to Christian Owen, his daughter Bard's maid servant, and his poor neighbors at his wife's discretion.

Thomas Glover's Will.

[Extracted from the Registry of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury.]

_In the name of God, Amen._ The Eighteenth day of April, One thousand seven hundred and seven, Thomas Glover, of the Parish of St. John, Hackney, in the County of Middlesex, being in good health of body and disposing mind and memory, for which I bless God, but not knowing when it may please God to call me out of this present World by death, I doe make this my last Will and Testament in manner and forme following:

In the first place, revokeing all former and other Wills by me yet aforemade and declareing the same void, I doe committ and commend my Soul into the Hands of God, my Saviour and my Redeemer, the Lord Jesus Christ, and my bodye to be decently buryed according to the discretion of my executrix hereafter named. As for what Worldly estate God hath blessed me with, I doe hereby give and devise the same as followeth:

_Imprimis._ I devise and bequeath and give unto my loveing and beloved Wife Rebeckah, all my messuages, lands and estate whatsoever situate, lying and being in Cock and Pye Field near the Seven Dials, in the Parish of St. Giles in the Fields, in the County of Middlesex, which I hold by three distinct leases, granted to me by Squire Neale, James Ward and others, for a term or terms of years unexpired and undetermined, together with all the rents, issues and profits thereof, To hold to her my said loveing Wife and her assigns for and during soe long only of the said terms as she shall happen to live.

Item. I doe devise, bequeath and give unto my said loveing Wife all my freehold or fee simple estates situate in Bartholomew Square, in or near Old Street, in the said County of Middlesex, and by me formerly purchased of Mr. Anthony Ball and John Browne. To have and to hold unto my said loveing Wife and to her assigns for and during her natural life only, and from and after my said Wife's decease Then I doe devise all and singular my said lands and tenements afosaid to my loveing daughter, Rebeccah Bard, Widow, her heirs, executors and administrators absolutely for ever. But in trust, however, and to the intent and purpose that the same may be sold with all convenient speed after the decease of my said loveing Wife, to the best purchaser, and the money arising from such sale to be equally divided, one third part thereof to be retained by or paid to my loveing daughter Rebeccah Bard, And one third part thereof to be paid to my loveing daughter Elizabeth Trench, And the other third part to be paid to my loveing daughter Mary Thomson.

Item. I doe devise and bequeath unto my said loveing daughter Rebeccah Bard, her heires and assigns for ever, All that my Copyhold estate situate and being in the Parish of St. John's in Hackney, and afore purchased by me of John and William Brookes, and knowne by the name of Brookes his ground, garden and field, and by whatsoever other name called or distinguished, the better to enable her to raise money to pay my legacies hereinafter given or devised (except out of this present devise one part of my said Copyhold estate, one house, or messuage, or tenement lately new built, and now in the tenure, occupation or possession of William Clarke.)

Item. As for my estate consisting in Limekilns, Wharves, houses, land and tenements, which I hold by Lease from the Mayor and City of London, scituate in the Parish of West Ham in the County of Essex, in the occupation and tenure of William Penkett and John Watkins Miller or his assigns, I doe hereby devise the same to my loveing Wife, for soe many years of the term I have as she shall happen to live, And from and after her decease Then I devise the same and all my estate, interest, and right of renewal therein and thereto to my said daughter Rebeccah Bard, her executors, administrators and assigns absolutely for ever. And whereas by a certaine Indenture, bearing date the Twentith day of December, one thousand six hundred eighty one, and made between Joseph Thomson my Son-in-law, and me the said Thomas Glover, wherein is recited or notice taken of certaine articles made upon or before the intermarriage of the said Joseph Thomson with my aforesaid daughter Mary Thomson, to the effect, That if at any time thereafter I should give anything to either of my said other two daughters, I should give the like at the same time to my said daughter Mary Thomson, it is conditional that in regard that what estate I had given or settled upon my two daughters Rebeccah and Elizabeth was of less value than what I had given to the said Joseph Thomson with his said wife Mary Thomson, That it should be lawful for me to give Six hundred pounds apiece to each of my said two daughters, reference thereto may more fully appear, Now I doe hereby devise and bequeath and give unto my said loveing daughter Rebecca Bard Five hundred and fifty pounds to be paid to her, or retained by her as my Executrix.

W. F. GOSTLING, S

His armorial bearings were those granted and confirmed in 1604 to Thomas Glover, Esq., of the body of King James I., son of Thomas Glover, of Coventry, knighted the 17th of August, 1606.

"He beareth Sable a Chevron Ermine between three Crescents Argent, By the name of Glover, and is borne by Mr. Thomas Glover, of the City of London, Merchant, and descends to the name and family of Glover. This Patent was granted by William Camden, April 3d, 1604. A true copy from Heraldry, attested by Charles L. Cole," Feb. 2, 1804. Mr. Cole also bore testimony that the above was the same Arms which was originally granted in 1577, and subsequently enlarged and improved by Edmonson, to Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, a description of which is given on page 15 of this work; and that Mr. Glover of Dorchester and his descendants were entitled to bear the same by hereditary descent. Heralds in London and from there invariably confirm this statement whenever consulted. By the writings of Edmonson and Burke, we learn that there are seventeen of the name and family of Glover who are entitled to and have been granted Coats of Arms; and by an examination of all, it appears that the one granted to Somerset Herald is the only one which corresponds with those which have been granted at different periods to this branch of New England Glovers. We have also the testimony of William Camden, a distinguished herald who was cotemporary with Robert Glover and survived him, who has confirmed the right of this branch to the same arms, by his description, and that the family was first of Coventry in Warwickshire and Ashford in Kent.

RICHARD CHISWELL.

Richard Chiswell, who was a son by her first husband of one of the daughters of Thomas Glover—or there may have been another daughter who died previously to the date of the will in 1707—was a grandson, and had a wife and one child, at the time the will was made.

Of the Chiswells in London, the following has been gathered:

Mr. Richard Chiswell, a noted bookseller of London, lies buried in St. Peter's Church-yard. He was one of the proprietors, says Stowe, "of this book" — meaning his Survey of London.

"He lies here in the North Isle of this Church, and also his father and mother, John and Margaret Chiswell, and his first wife Sarah, daughter of John King — and also five children who died young, whom he had by Mary, daughter of Richard Royston, bookseller, by whom he had three sons more, viz., John Chiswell, who died in India, Richard, and Royston. Richard Chiswell, Sen., was born in this Parish, January 4, 1639, and died here May 3d, 1711 (aged 72 years), and was a man Worthy of Great Praise, whereof his son Richard Chiswell of London, Merchant, caused a Monument to be erected, which is against the Wall of the South Isle of this Church."

Notices of Richard Chiswell are as follows:

St. Butolph, Aldergate Ward. Among a list of benefactors, "Mr. Richard Chiswell, late of this city, bookseller, besides his charity to this School in his lifetime, did at his death give Twenty-five Pounds."

Another, of the date of 1708:

"Mr. Richard Chiswell, abovesaid, besides his charity to this School in his lifetime, did at his death give Twenty-five pounds, and to the Workhouse at Bishop's Gate Street he gave Two hundred Pounds; and in January, 1708, he gave Fifty Pounds."

The above notices probably relate to the father of Richard Chiswell, merchant, who married a daughter of Thomas Glover. He must have died young, and of him little has been gathered, or of his wife. He may have been one of the five children by the first wife Sarah King, as the son Richard by the second wife survived him and erected the monument to his memory.

1717. The following notices seem to relate particularly to the Richard Chiswell, grandson of Thomas Glover, and named in his will as a legatee; also the Joseph Thomson named must be another grandson associated with him under the head of "Governors of the Royal College of St. Thomas Hospital, in Southwark, A.D. 1717: — Mr. Richard Chiswell, Esq., Mr. Joseph Thomson, Esq."

The following from Essex County History, published by the Camden Society in 1838 or 9, appears to indicate the place of his death and the name of his wife, which show he could not have been the son of Elizabeth Glover, who married Thomas Trench.

"Against the east wall of the south Isle of the church is a very handsome marble monument, on which is this inscription: 'Here-under lieth the remains of Mr. Richard Chiswell, Esq., of London, Merchant, who purchased and improved and settled his whole estate at Depden upon his posterity, and died in 1751, aged 78; and also of Mary his wife, the daughter and sole heiress of Mr. Thomas Trench of London, merchant, whereby was brought into this family the estate of Finchenfield, which they now enjoy. She died in 1726, aged forty-three years, and had by her said husband five children, whereof her two sons, William and Trench Chiswell, died at Constantinople, aged about eighteen years, and lie buried there. Also Richard Chiswell, his second son, who survived him; also his second daughter, who married Mr. Dudley Foley and Peter Mullman, merchants of London; in commemoration of which particular this monument was erected by the direction of the said Richard Chiswell, Deceased.'

"Upon the north wall there is another, having the following inscription:

"'In the adjacent corner of this Church lie Interred the remains of Mr. Dudley Foley, Ob. 1747, and likewise his Wife, Ob. 1742, who are both further mentioned in the monument of Richard Chiswell, Esq. The only two children they had lie buried at Cheaum in Surrey, one a son aged fourteen, the other a daughter aged sixteen years.'

"Upon the ground, on a black marble stone, is engraved in two graves arched with brick:

"'Mr. Richard Chiswell, Esq., Obit. A.D. 1751.
Mary, his only Wife, Obit. 1726.
Mr. Dudley Foley, Obit. 1747.
Elizabeth, his only Wife, Obit. 1742.'"

Of Joseph Moxon, another grandson of Thomas Glover, the presumption is that he was the son of Rev. George Moxon, who was the first minister of Springfield, and returned to England with Mr. Pynchon in 1652. Joseph, if he had such a son, married, in all probability, one of the daughters of Thomas Glover.
Joseph Thomson was the husband of Mary Glover, second daughter of Thomas and Rebeckah Glover of London.

Judge Sewall writes, April 18, 1689: "Go to Hampden Court, in company with Mr. Hutchinson, John Appleton and Mr. Mather. Sir Samuel Thomson, Mr. Whiting and Mr. Joseph Thomson, rode in another coach. Cost 21 Shill. and 8 pence apiece, beside money for the driver."

Hackney, the Last Residence of Thomas Glover, Esq.

The following description is from "Stowe's Survey of London":

"St. Augustine, alias St. John, on turning westward on the other side of the river Lea, is situated in the pleasant and healthful town of Hackney, where divers nobles in former times had their country seats, as one of the Earls of Northumberland, the Countess of Warwick, Lord Brooke and others.

"This Church at Hackney has been of late called by the name of St. John's at Hackney, as though it belonged to the Knight Templars of St. John at Jerusalem; certainly they had a mill there once, and some tenures in the Parish. But in an ancient record in the Tower, it is found to have been written St. Augustine de Hackney, and in the Cotton Library there is a volume about the Knight Templars, wherein mention is made of St. Augustine's at Hackney, and of the lands and rents they had there, viz., about twelve acres, quit rents, and a small mill commonly called Templars' Mill. There are, besides, many antiquities concerning this Parish of Hackney, in the time of Edward I., in the 19th of whose reign (1290) free warren was granted to Richard of Graves and Bishop of London.

"Hackney Church had, five hundred years ago, a distinct Priory and Vicarage, as appears by a record in the Tower of London, of the value of that ecclesiastical preferment."
It appears that Thomas Glover removed from London, where he was at the time of Judge Sewall's first visit, in 1686, to St. John: Hackney, and there passed the remainder of his life. One of his daughters was settled there, viz., Mrs. Elizabeth Trench, and perhaps others, probably at the time he retired from business. At the time of Judge Sewall's last visit, in 1689, he had arrived at the age of seventy-two years, and had undoubtedly sought this place as a quiet resort in which to close his life.

[Second Generation.]

HABACKUK GLOVER.

II. Habackuk Glover, the second son of Mr. John Glover and Anna his wife, was born at Rainhill Parish, Prescot, Lancashire, England, May 12, 1628, and died in Boston, in New England, in the early part of the year 1693, in his 65th year. His remains were deposited in the Granary Burying Ground.

At the age of two years he was brought by his parents to New England, and lived in Dorchester until he attained the age of manhood. At the age of twenty-two years (1650), he was admitted to join the first Church in Dorchester, Richard Mather being pastor and was admitted freeman the same year. He continued to be a member of the Church in Dorchester ten years, and on the 4 (9) 1660, was dismissed to join the first Church in Boston, Rev. John Wilson, pastor.

While an inhabitant of Dorchester, he resided at the homestead and carried on the business of tanning, which had been established there by his father. He was a man of extensive business, and became a large landholder, both by inheritance and purchase, not only in Boston, but in the adjacent towns, as Charlestown, Dorchester, Milton, and other places.

3 (4) 1653 — he was married to Hannah Eliot, and resided for a short time at the house of her father, the Rev. John Eliot. In 1654, he removed to Boston, and succeeded to the inheritance of his father's "Boston Estate," which, according to the will of Mr. Glover, was to be "one half of the new house in Boston nearest Mr. Webb's house, one half of all the other housing, half the yard and tan-pits in it, and all the other accommodations for tanning, with the sum of four hundred pounds in money." After the decease of his mother he was to come in possession of the whole or other half of the new house, with all the other half of the housing, yard and tan-pits, goods, chattels, and all the residue and remainder of the estate which was reserved as the widow's dower, under the following conditions: by paying to his brother Thomas Glover in London, England, ten pounds; to his brother Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester, forty pounds; and to Harvard College, at Cambridge, five pounds a year forever. The conditions were punctually fulfilled, as gathered by evidence on record. The annuity to Harvard College was paid regularly by him during his life, and since his decease in 1693 by his successors to that estate.

Children of Mr. Habackuk and Hannah (Eliot) Glover, born in Roxbury, at the house of Rev. John Eliot:

1. Hannah, b. 3: 5: 1654; bap. 3: 7: 1654; died in infancy.
+2. Rebeckah, b. 24: 5: 1655; bap. 29: 5: 1655;
   m. { 1st, Thomas Smith, of Boston.
   { 2d, Capt. Thomas Clarke, of Boston.

Among the public references to Habackuk Glover during his lifetime, we find the following.

He appeared before the magistrates, January 4, 1654, with Mrs. Anna Glover, his mother, and presented his father's will for probate.

Again in 1654, July 6th, his name appears in a lease of the farm in Milton, which had been assigned as a part of the widow's dower. (See Lease, p. 65.)

May 18, 1660. Robert Mousall, merchant, of Boston, sold to Habackuk Glover, of Boston, his house and land at the sea side, near Mr. Harrison's house, the "Ropemaker." Signed by Robert Mousall; witnessed by Anna Glover and John Glover.

In 1661, Habackuk was appointed attorney to his brother Thomas Glover, with full power to settle all his affairs in New England. (See p. 86.)

10 mo. 11 day, 1661. An Indenture between Habackuk Glover and Hannah his wife, and William Hudson, for a house twenty feet square from outside to outside; the house situated at the head of the Dock in Boston.

20 (1) 1662. Thomas Mousall to Habackuk Glover: A mortgage of his house and land in Charlestown, County of Middlesex; consideration, eighty pounds. Signed by Thomas Mousall, Mary Mousall, and Alexander Mousall. Witnessed by Benjamin Lothrop and Edward Burt.

July 13, 1663, Habackuk Glover makes a conditional sale of the house and land in Charlestown, conveyed to him by Thomas Mousall.
Signed by Thomas and Mary Mousall. Witnessed by Jonathan Howe, Jr., James Russell and Andrew Belcher.

Aug. 8, 1663. William Hudson, of Boston, sold to Habackuk Glover "his Brew house and the land on which it stands;" bounded by land of Habackuk Glover; consideration, twenty-five pounds.

March 22, 1665, he bought a house and land of William Hudson near the Dock in Boston. Witnessed by his brother John Glover, and John Loring.

June 11, 1666. Habackuk Glover bought land in Boston of Francis and Elizabeth Smith. Witnessed by his brother John Glover, and Richard Goulding.

Nov. 28, 1666, he discharged a mortgage to John and Mary Mousall.

March 28, 1668. Habackuk Glover purchased a house and land of James Penniman, bounded easterly and northerly on land of Nathaniel Woodward.

January 3, 1666, John Woodmansey mortgaged a piece of land in Boston, which was discharged by Habackuk Glover, June 2, 1675.

Nov. 28, 1666, he sold a piece of land in Boston to Capt. Thomas Smith, mariner.

In 1669, a transaction is recorded of him with Nathaniel and Peter Duncan, for the recovery of a debt due to his brother Thomas
Glover of London. (See p. 87.)

In 1671, Habackuk Glover and John Glover sold to Robert Bab-ceck, of Milton, two acres of land laid out to their father, John Glover, Esq., of Boston, by the Proprietors of Dorchester, on the south side of Neponset River.

March 2, 1673. A conveyance of house and land from Habackuk Glover to his beloved daughter, Rebeckah Smith, wife of Capt. Thomas Smith.

Nov. 20, 1674, he makes another conveyance of land to his son-in-law, Capt. Thomas Smith, of Boston.

March 18, he visited Newport, R. I., and while there wrote a letter, addressed to the Rev. Increase Mather, on doctrines of religion which seemed to be a subject of discussion at that time. The letter was concise and very neatly written. The original has been preserved.

Nov. 12, 1680, his name appears again in Glover's Agreement (before referred to) in behalf of himself and his brother Thomas Glover of London.

The next year after the division of Newbury Farm, Oct. 8, 1681, Habackuk Glover sold one fourth part of that farm, which was his share in its division in 1680, to Roger Billings; consideration, one hundred and seventy pounds. Signed Habackuk Glover and Hannah Glover. (See p. 73.)

Will of Mr. Habackuk Glover.

I Habackuk Glover of Boston, in New England, being under bodily weakness, but of sound, disposing mind and memory, and knowing the uncertainty of life, do make my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following—hereby revoking and making void all former Wills by me formerly made. And first, I commit my soul unto God who gave it, and my body to the Earth to be decently buried at the discretion of my Executrix hereafter named.

For my Worldly Goods and Estate, I will that these be employed and bestowed as by this my last Will expressed. Imp. I will that all my just debts and funeral expenses be well and truly paid, or ordained to be paid by my Executrix, with what convenient speed may be after my interment.

Item. I give and bequeath unto Hannah, my Well-beloved wife, the use, profits and incomes of all my moveables and personal Estate whatsoever, and of all my housing and lands situate at the Dock Head, adjoining to the housing and lands of my son-in-law Thomas Clarke, for the comfortable subsistence of my Wife during the term of her natural life.

Item. At the decease of my said Wife, I give and bequeath all my remaining moveables and personal estate whatsoever, and the rents, issues and profits of all my aforesaid Housing and Lands, unto my beloved daughter Rebeckah Clark, to her Use and benefit, for and during the full time and term of her natural life.

The reversion of all the Housing and Lands at the decease of my said daughter Rebeckah Clark, I give, devise and bequeath unto the heirs of her body, and to their heirs and assigns forever.

And of this my last Will and Testament I do make, constitute, appoint and ordain my before named Wife and Daughter to be full and whole Executors of all my Estate.

In Witness whereof, I the said Habackuk Glover have hereunto set my hand and seale, this Seventeenth day of September, One thousand Six hundred and Ninety two, in the Twenty fourth Year of the Reign of William and Mary, King and Queen of England.

Published by the Within named Habackuk Glover, in presence of Us, Benjamin Walker, Daniel Allen, Jonathan Jackson.

Jonathan Addington, Registrar.
There appears to be no account of his death, either by any record or by tradition.

His will was made the 17th day of September, 1692, being then, as he says, under bodily weakness, but of sound mind. He lived six months after that event. Letters of administration on his estate were granted to Mrs. Hannah Glover, widow and relict of Mr. Habackuk Glover, April 4, 1693, and to Mrs. Rebeckah Clarke, his only daughter. No inventory of his estate was ever rendered to the Court of Probate.

There appears to be a mortgage deed from Jonathan Pratt to Mrs. Hannah Glover, widow of Mr. Habackuk Glover, which was discharged and exonerated by Mrs. Rebeckah Clarke, only child and heir of Mr. Habackuk Glover and Hannah his wife, she personally appearing after the decease of her mother and acknowledging that she had received full satisfaction. (Boston, Feb. 25, 1708-9.)

Hannah Eliot, the wife of Mr. Habackuk Glover, was born in Roxbury, the 17th day of the seventh month, 1633, and died in Boston the 8th day of February, 1708-9, æt. 75 years. She was the daughter of the Rev. John and Hannah (Mountfort) Eliot, of Roxbury. She is noticed by those who have gathered up memorials of the life of her father, the well-known Apostle to the Indians, as being eminently devoted to religious duties in early life; as "a dutiful daughter — the only one who survived her parents — and who administered to their comfort in their declining years." She was married to Mr. Glover, 3:4:1653, and removed to Boston in 1654, it is said, although both their children were born at the house of her father in Roxbury, and baptized by him. (See depositions of Shubael and Joshua Scaver, pp. 78, 79.)

162 no. 1654, she was admitted to join the first Church in Boston.

Judge Sewall writes in his diary, under date of July 18, 1705, "I visited this day Mrs. Hannah Glover, widow, who is blind. Father and Mother Eliot were there."

Feb. 9, 1708. "The widow Hannah Glover dies, in the 76th year of her age; widow of Mr. Habackuk Glover, and daughter of Mr. John Eliot, who married here, and this daughter of his was born at Roxbury, so that this gentlewoman, tho' born in New England, passed not only sixty but seventy years, and became a Great Grand Mother in our Israel."
"Feb. 11, 1708-9. Mrs. Hannah Glover is buried in a tomb in the new burying place (the Granary). Bearers—Winthrop, Sewall, Addington, Sargeant, Fayerweather and Checkley. Very cold day."

[Third Generation.]

(2) REBECKAH GLOVER, only surviving daughter of Mr. Habackuk and Hannah (Eliot) Glover, was born in Roxbury the 25th day of the 5th month, 1655, and baptized there by her maternal grandfather, the Rev. John Eliot, 29:5:1655. She died in Boston, Nov. 10th, 1711, in her 57th year, and was buried in the Stone Chapel yard.

She was twice married; first, in 1672, at the age of about eighteen years, to Capt. Thomas Smith, of Boston, mariner, by whom she had eight children.

"May 16, 1680, Capt. Thomas Smith, with his wife Rebeckah, was admitted to join the first Church in Boston in full communion." (Rec. 1st Church.)

Three of their children had been baptized previously under the half covenant, as it was called, which was at that time admissible in the New England churches. Capt. Thomas Smith died Nov. 8th, 1688; and April 30th, 1691, she married a second time to Capt. Thomas Clarke, a wealthy merchant of Boston. By him she had one daughter, who married but left no issue.

Capt. Thomas Smith, the first husband of Rebeckah Glover, was born in England (the place not ascertained), and died in Boston, Nov. 8, 1688. He was the son of Capt. Thomas Smith, Esq., who was undoubtedly one of the Smythes of Essex County in England.

"In the parish of Blackmore, at the end of the Chancel, is the burial place of the Ancient family of Smythes of this Parish, and in which is a very old and decayed tomb erected to the memory of Thomas Smythe, Esq., who died in the year 1594; and also of Margaret his wife, and relict of Stephen Parvel. Their effigies at full length are fixed in this monument. Upon the floor are several other inscriptions upon the gravestones of different branches of the family." Capt. Thomas Smith, the husband of Rebeckah Glover, was a mariner and shipmaster, in command of his own ship, making foreign voyages. He was also a landholder to some extent in Boston and vicinity. At the time of his death he owned lands in Wenham, Bradford, and other places in Essex County in New England. By his wife he succeeded to the possession of the estate of Mr. Habackuk Glover on Dock Square, and occupied the mansion house. He was the owner, also, of several pieces of land which were conveyed to him by his father-in-law, both before and after his marriage.

Children of Capt. Thomas and Rebeckah (Glover) Smith, born and baptized in Boston:

  4. Rebeckah, bap. same day; died in infancy.
+ 5. Thomas, bap. May 19, 1678; m.
   1st, Mary Corwin, of Salem.

+ 7. Samuel, a twin, bap. July 7, 1680; d. same day.

   m.
   1st, John Gore, A.M., of Cambridge.
   2d, Nathaniel Hubbard, Esq., of Dorchester.

And by Capt. Thomas Clarke:

The following notices of Capt. Thomas Smith are taken from the diary of Judge Sewall, by the kindness of the Rev. Samuel Sewall, of Burlington, Mass. The Judge says:

"Oct 28, 1688. I visited Capt. Thomas Smith, who lies very ill."

"Nov. 8th. Capt. Thomas Smith dies at 5 o'clock in the morning."

"Nov. 10th. Capt. Thomas Smith was buried this day. I attended the funeral. Where the Corpse was set, was the room where my father Hull first led me to see the manner of the merchants and Lords of the trade, I suppose now about twelve years ago.

"The Bearers were Capt's Prout and Fayerweather, William Clarke, Foye, Savage, Legg. Mr. Peter Sargent and Benjamin Brown, Esqrs., led the Widow. He was buried in the Old Burial Place" (or Stone Chapel yard).

"22 (6) 1657, Thomas, the son of brother Thomas Clarke, was baptized by Rev. John Wilson." He afterwards became an honorable and useful member of that Church, and in his will gave to it a suitable portion of his substance as a memorial of his love and interest. He was one of the most eminent merchants of the early times of Boston, where he resided. The house where he lived is said to have been situated at the North End of Boston. A street and a square have since been named for him, near the location. He died there December 16, 1732, in his 76th year.† He was twice married; the name of his first wife

† The father of Capt. Thomas Clarke was also an eminent Boston merchant, and engaged largely in other enterprises of profit and trade.

[Fourth Generation.]

(3) ANNE SMITH, eldest daughter of Capt. Thomas and Rebecca (Glover) Smith, was born in Boston, baptized at the first Church, Dec. 2, 1677, and died at Newport, R. I., about 1740, aged 63 years.

Oct. 14, 1715, she was married by the Rev. Samuel Myles to Nathaniel Kay, Esq., of Newport, R. I., and went there to reside. The date of her death has not been obtained, but it is known that she survived her husband about six years. They had no children.

A bust portrait of Nathaniel Kay, Esq., "Collector of the King's Customs," has been preserved at Newport, and was in the family of the Brentons a few years since. An interesting account of him may be found in Updike's History of the Narragansett Church. He was born in England about 1675, and died in Newport, R. I., April 14, 1734, aged 59 years. The following inscription is engraved on a stone which covers his grave in Trinity Church yard, where his remains were deposited. It is on the left of the entrance at the gate.

"This covers the dust of Nathaniel Kay, Esq., Collector of the King's Customs at Newport, whose spirit returned to God on the 14th day of April, Anno Domini 1734, after it had tabernaecled in the flesh here 59 years. He, after an example in life of Faith and Charity, did, by his last Will at his death, found and largely endow two Charity Schools in Newport and Bristol within his Collection."

He was one of the early friends of the Church, for we find his name as one of the Vestry as soon as the year 1720. He was in Newport as early as 1713. The records of Trinity Church notice him thus: "Mr. Nathaniel Kay, Esq., Collector of the Queen's Revenue in Rhode Island, who afterwards liberally endowed a school connected with this Church, was among the signers to a petition to the Queen for the establishment of Bishops in America."

His house stood on the site now occupied by George Engs, Esq., on the hill near the head of Towne Street. It was, when built, one of the most spacious and elegant of private dwellings in the town. In his will, made a short time before his death, he bequeathed his dwelling-house, coach-house, and other valuable property to his wife Anne during her natural life; after which he gives both his lots of land to Trinity Church, at Newport, and four hundred pounds in money of the currency of New England, to build a school-house for the minister of the Church of England in Newport, Mr. Honeyman—the lots of land lying in Rhode Island. In 1740, six years after his death, the estate of Mr. Kay is said to have come into the possession of the Church; probably his wife died in that year. This estate has since been sold, and it is said that at the present time none of it remains in the hands of the Church. An account of the rents of the lands and houses left by Mr. Kay for the use of a grammar master at Newport, commencing April 1, 1765, shows the income to have amounted to 64 pounds and 5 shillings sterling.

(5) THOMAS SMITH, eldest son of Capt. Thomas and Rebeckah (Glover) Smith, was born in Boston, May 16, 1678, and died in Saco, District of Maine, Feb. 19, 1742, in his 64th year.

At the age of twenty-one years he succeeded to the estate on Dock Square, which formerly belonged to his great-grandfather, John Glover, Esq., and passed by him to his grandfather, Mr. Habackuk Glover, who left it to his only surviving child and heir, Rebeckah, the widow of Capt. Thomas Smith, Sen., who on her second marriage with Capt. Thomas Clarke, left it in trust to Peter Sargeant and Benjamin Brown, Esqrs., until her eldest son Thomas arrived at the age of manhood. His share in the estate being only one fifth, the other four-fifths were subsequently obtained from his brother John and his sisters by deeds bearing date March 13, 1707, wherein "John Smith, Merchant, of Boston, conveys to his brother Thomas Smith one fifth part of a house and land situated at the head of the Great Dock in Boston, with all its privileges and appurtenances;" and Anne Smith and Rebeckah Smith in their rights, and Nathaniel Lyndall and Elizabeth his wife in her right, also each convey to him one fifth part of the same estate. The trustees, Peter Sargeant and Benjamin Brown, Esqrs., having performed their duty in carrying out the purport and intention of the will of Capt. Thomas Smith, Sen., were discharged from their bonds, and Thomas Smith the successor assumed the payment of the perpetual annuity to Harvard College, which before had been paid by the trustees. He became a prominent man in Boston and resided there till about 1730, at which time he left and settled in Saco, Maine. He was largely engaged in the speculation of lands at the eastward, and kept a block house or store-house for the supply of the Indian tribes located in that region, and was some time known as Truck Master for the Indians at Saco and the adjacent villages. He left a large estate to his widow and surviving children.

Thomas Smith was twice married, and had, in all, thirteen children. First, May 9, 1701, he was married to Mary Corwin, of Salem, by whom he had eight children. She was the daughter of Judge Corwin by his wife Elizabeth Sheafe, and was born in Salem about 1680, at the "Old Corwin House," which is said to be still standing on the corner of Essex and North Streets. She died in Boston, July 27, 1716, aged thirty-six years, and Capt. Thomas Smith was married a second time to Sarah Oliver, of Boston, daughter of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Brattle) Oliver, Oct. 9, 1717. By her he had five children, who all died in infancy, or at a very young age. Sarah, his second wife, survived him and held her right of dower in the estate at Dock Square, and assumed the payment of the perpetual annuity to Harvard College from the income during her life. The date of her death has not been ascertained.

(8) JOHN SMITH, second son of Capt. Thomas and Rebeckah (Glover) Smith, was born in Boston, July 1, 1681, and it is supposed died there about 1737. He was a merchant in Boston, and was at one time largely engaged in land speculations at the eastward. It is stated in the Journal of his nephew, Rev. Thomas Smith of Portland, that he was at one time Proprietors' Clerk in North Yarmouth, before that town was incorporated, and largely interested in the ancient town of Falmouth, now Portland.

In 1706 he purchased Long Island* of James Russell, of Charlestown, Mass. A reference is made to this transaction in the will of his mother, Mrs. Rebeckah Clarke, of Boston.

Under date of July 13, 1717, his name is enrolled among a list

* Long Island was one of the islands in Casco Bay, near Portland, and was said to contain six hundred and fifty acres of land belonging to the town of Falmouth, in the Province of Maine, but under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts.
of petitioners to the General Court of Massachusetts for protection to the Proprietors' lands, and aid in building up the waste places made desolate by ravages of the Indians.

He was co-Executor to his mother's will, in 1711–12. In 1724 his name appears on the agreement of the heirs of John Glover, Esq. of Dorchester and Boston, as a sharer in the Common and Undivided Lands in Dorchester New Grant.

Feb. 5, 1707, he was married, by Rev. Benjamin Colman, to Martha Brenton, of Bristol, R. I., eldest daughter of Major Ebenezer Brenton, and grand-daughter of Gov. Brenton, of Rhode Island. By her he had eight children:

25. Martha, b. Dec. 7, 1708; d. Nov. 6, 1709. (Boston Rec.)
27. Martha, b. April 27, 1712; d. Jan. 29, 1714, in her 2d year.
29. Jahleel, b. Nov. 20, 1717; d. same year.
30. Sarah, b. April 9, 1719.
32. Martha, b. April 21, 1723.

As no deaths are found recorded of the last three children, it is supposed they lived to attain the age of maturity, and perhaps have descendants; but none of them have been identified or become known to us.

(9) ELIZABETH SMITH, third daughter of Capt. Thomas and Rebekah (Glover) Smith, was born in Boston, Feb. 10, 1685; baptized at the first Church there, Feb. 14, 1685, and died in Bristol, R. I. She was twice married: first, to Nathaniel Lyndall, Esq., of Salem, May 21, 1706, by whom she had two children. He was son of the Hon. Timothy and Mary (Veren) Lyndall, and was born in Salem, Nov. 4, 1679. He became a merchant, and established himself in Boston, where he resided at the time of his marriage, and died there Sept. 2, 1711, in his thirty-second year, leaving a widow and one child.

Children of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Smith) Lyndall, born in Boston:

And by Major Ebenezer Brenton, her second husband:

35. Anne, m.
1st, —— Concklin.

\textit{Will of Nathaniel Lyndall.}

Sept. 1, 1711. Nathaniel Lyndall, of Boston, Shopkeeper, being sick and weak in body, but of sound mind and memory—After providing for just debts and funeral expenses, gives his beloved wife Elizabeth Lyndall, in view of her thirds, Five hundred Pounds in Money, with all his household stuff and furniture, she paying to "my brother Thomas Smith a debt due to him of Sixty pounds and interest."

Will proved Sept. 17, 1711.

Elizabeth (Smith) Lyndall was married a second time to Ebenezer Brenton, of Newport, R. I., March 6, 1712–13, and went there to reside. She had one child by Ebenezer Brenton, and perhaps others, a daughter Anne, who married first a Concklin, who died; and on the 29th of December, 1749, she was married to Martin Howard, Esq., at the house of her father, Major Ebenezer Brenton, by the Rev. James McSparrow, D.D., Incumbent of St. Paul's Church in Narragansett. They resided, it is said, at Newport. There was issue from this marriage—two daughters, one of whom married James Center of Newport, R. I., and died soon after, and he married the other daughter. There was issue from this marriage—Mary Center, a granddaughter of Judge Howard, who married Capt. Harris, of the revenue service, and resided in the mansion house of her grandfather, situated on North Main Street. Mrs. Harris has since died.
Thus it appears that there were descendants in this line from Ebenezer and Elizabeth (Smith) Brenton, which reached three generations, in the names of Howard, Center and Harris, who were lineally descended from Habackuk Glover. Probably there were others who have not been noticed.

(10) REBECKAH SMITH, third daughter of Capt. Thomas and Rebeckah (Glover) Smith, was born in Boston, Dec. 22, 1687, was baptized on the 25th of the same month, and died after 1748. The place of her death is not known. She was twice married: first, May 12, 1713, to John Gore, A.M., by the Rev. Benjamin Colman. He died November 12, 1720, and left no children. She married, second, Nathaniel Hubbard, Esq., of Dorchester, December 5, 1725.
John Gore, the first husband of Rebeckah Smith, was the son of John and Elizabeth Gore of Roxbury, born there in 1682, and died of smallpox at sea, on his return voyage from England, Nov. 7, 1720, aged 38 years. He graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1702, was Librarian there from 1706 to 1707, and was admitted to the first Church in Cambridge, January 6, 1707.

A sermon occasioned by his death, with an appendix containing something of Mr. Gore's character, was prepared by Rev. William Cooper, of Brattle Street Church; the appendix by Rev. Benjamin Colman, pastor of the same Church. The former was entitled "A Sermon on the lamented death of that ingenious Gentleman, Mr. John Gore, A.M., of Harvard College, in Cambridge, N.E., who died of Small Pox on his return voyage from England, Nov. 7, 1720."

In the Appendix it is said:

"The death of Mr. John Gore, which occasioned it, was as lamented a death as has of late been among us. There were several of his near relations and mournful friends in the assembly to whom it was preached."

In the preface it is written: "Mr. Gore was truly an ornament to his country, to the College and to our Church. He was very much the Honor of his order among us, a glory to his Profession, the beauty of the Sea, of Sobriety, Modesty, Literature, and (in a Judgment of Charity) of sincere unaffected piety, makes up his Just character. He was fit to teach either in the school or the pulpit. He was the same abroad as at home, in his ship as well as in his house. To conclude, the last act of his life shewed his generous regard to the safety of his country; for knowing well the terror the Town is in, of the Small Pox, and having had seven of his company ill of that contagious distemper on his voyage from London, he being the only person remaining on board who had not had the distemper, when he cast anchor, and having reason hourly to expect he might be taken down with it, as indeed he was the next day, yet he would not come on shore to his own house, but chose to keep on board his ship, in so cold a season of the year and at such a distance from needed help, rather than to endanger the Town by bringing sickness into it."

The Doctor adds also an observation by Mr. Prince of the News Letter: He says, "Mr. Gore seemed to be set as a rare example for all ship commanders and sea-faring men to observe; that he excelled in Mathematics and Philosophy. A young gentleman who came over passenger with Capt. Gore, writes of him to his brother from Spectacle Island, Nov. 15, 1720, speaking in the highest terms of his dearly beloved Captain."

Will of John Gore.

In the name of God, Amen.

I John Gore of Boston, in the county of Suffolk, in his Majesty's Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, Mariner, Being bound on a voyage to Sea, and considering the uncertainty of human affairs, especially those attended with such a variety of accidents, and knowing it to be appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this to be my last Will and Testament, vizt. Principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God who gave it, and my body to the Earth or Sea to be buried in a decent Christian manner, nothing doubting that at the Resurrection I shall receive it back again by the Almighty Power of God.

And as to my Worldly Estate it hath pleased Almighty God to bless me with in this life, I give, devise and dispose in the following manner. Imprimis. I give and bequeathe to my Honored Mother Elizabeth Tucker, for her support and maintenance during her natural life, Six Pounds of Lawful money of that Province, to be paid yearly, and at her death Six Pounds to defray her funeral charges.

Item. If it shall please God to take away my life abroad and prosper my interest that goeth with me, or if the vessel I proceed in shall miscarry and the insurance I have ordered to be made shall be paid and arrive safe, I give and bequeathe to my brothers Samuel Gore and Obadiah Gore, and my sister Margaret Healy, each of them the sum of Ten Pounds, to be paid to them after the death of my Mother.

Item. I give and bequeathe to my dearly beloved wife Rebecca, All and singular my Real and Personal Estate (except the above mentioned), if she shall have no issue by me, but if she shall have issue, be it son or daughter, I give and bequeathe to such issue the sum of Two Hundred Pounds, and utterly disannul the paragraph to my brothers and sister.

I likewise constitute, make and ordain my wife Rebecca abovementioned my sole Executrix of this my last Will and Testament, if she shall have no issue by me. But if God shall give her a son or daughter by me, I desire my very good friend and brother Mr. John Jeffries will act as an Executor with my wife.

And I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all and every former Will, Testament, Legacy and bequest executed by me in any ways before named, willed, bequeathed, Ratified and confirmed, and this and no other to be my last Will and Testament. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, this 8th day of November, 1717.

John Gore, and a seal.

N. B. If my house be destroyed by fire, or any part of my Estate be destroyed by fire, or any Extraordinary Providence of God, I revoke all and every of the above Legacies. John Gore, and a seal.
Signed, Sealed, Published and Declared by the said John Gore as his last Will and Testament, in presence of us, Richard Love, Thomas Laneklin, Henry Gibbs.

The above will was made three years before his death, and was presented for probate by his widow Rebeckah Gore, in December, 1720.

Nathaniel Hubbard, Esq., the second husband of Mrs. Rebecca (Smith) Gore, was born in Boston, Oct. 13, 1680; graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1698, and died at Rehoboth, Bristol County, R. I., in 1748. He was the son of John and Anne (Leverett) Hubbard, and grandson of Rev. William Hubbard, the historian of New England. His father was an eminent merchant of Boston, and for some years a resident in Braintree, where he was the owner of extensive Iron Works, and carried on the iron business largely until the time of his death. He died in Boston, January 8th, 1709-10. His mother was Anne, daughter of Gov. John Leverett, of Mass., who died in Boston, March 16th, 1678-9. She died in 1717.

Nov. 29, 1693, Mr. Nathaniel Hubbard was chosen by the Church at Braintree to go to Dedham as delegate to assist in the ordination of Rev. Joseph Belcher. Mr. Torrey, Mr. Hubbard and Mr. Danforth laid their hands upon the head of Mr. B., and Mr. Fiske gave the Right Hand of Fellowship.

In 1708, he is said to have been a petitioner, with others of Dorchester, for liberty to dig iron ore in the Undivided Lands in Dorchester New Grant.

He was of Braintree in 1713-14, and is said to have purchased twenty-one acres of land there, situated near the Iron Works, and bounded on the highway. There was a dwelling house, also a barn and shop on this land, which, Oct. 12, 1720, he sold again to Thomas Vinton, the former owner and grantor. He was soon after in Dorchester, and makes another conveyance to Thomas Vinton, bloomer, of Braintree, of one acre and a half of land in Braintree, adjoining Monotaquod River, upon a part of which the Braintree Iron Works now stand. He removed to Dorchester about this time, took an active part in the affairs of town, and was chosen Moderator at the town meetings. He owned land in the south part of the town, now Milton. His name stands among a list of those who were liable to pay province tax in the years 1720 to 1734.
He was twice married: first, at Braintree, Aug. 25, 1707, to Mrs. Elizabeth Nelson, by Francis Malauny, Esq. They had four children, born and recorded in Braintree, as follows: Elizabeth, born Dec. 9, 1708, m. —— Munday; John, born March 28, 1709–10; Nathaniel, born Feb. 28, 1711–12, m. Hannah Wiswall, of Dorchester, in 1763; Anna, born Nov. 12, 1713. Another son was born in Dorchester and recorded on Milton town records as follows: “Leverett, the son of Nathaniel Hubbard, Esq., was born in Dorchester, Dec. 23d, 1723.” He had also a daughter Margaret, of whom no record of birth has been found. His wife dying in 1724, he was married the next year to Mrs. Rebeckah Gore, widow of John Gore, A.M., who survived him. It has not been ascertained at what time he left Dorchester. He paid taxes there in 1739, but he was at Rehoboth some time before that, and it is believed he removed there soon after his second marriage. It is said he was a man highly distinguished for his ability, learning and sound judgment. He became a prominent man in Rehoboth, owned large estates there and in Bristol, was elected Judge of Probate for the County of Bristol, and continued to serve in that honorable position until his decease in 1748. He was also elected to other important offices, which he filled with honor and distinction.

Oct. 3d, 1742. An Account of what Estate belongs to Mr. Thomas Smith, on pages 16, 17 and 18 of his Journal.

Imprimis. His Mansion House, barn, &c., upon a three acre lot of land, given him by the town of Falmouth.

* Mary Smith was the only unmarried sister living at this time.
Joining hereto under the same enclosure, is a three acre lot bought of the widow of Mr. Walton.

Another 3 acre lot bought of Mr. Dunnevan.

Another, bought of Mr. Bowman. These lie to the westward of the house.

Then to the eastward a three acre lot bought of Mr. Cob, and about an acre and a half bought of Mr. Wheeler.

Item. Joining to these, but not in the same enclosure, is a three acre lot bought of Mr. East, which extends from said Smith’s fence to the burial place, and is bounded by the fence or line that shuts in Munjoy’s neck.

Item. A three acre lot joining the ministry lot, which was given to Mr. Smith by the Town, as his three acre lot, and which lies between Mr. Wheeler’s on the East and Mr. Bramhall’s on the West.

Item. About Sixty Acres and a part of an acre on Munjoy’s Neck, as may be seen by the particular deeds on record.

Item. A third part of Peak’s Island, and a third part of House Island.

Item. A sixth part of Ammoncongan farm, bought of John Munjoy, together with a third part of salt marsh belonging to it, which lies at Capisick, before Dea* Cobb’s land and others.

Item. A sixth part of a large tract of land being formerly the half of the same Estate, but sold by Mr. Munjoy to Mr. Ingersoll, whose son-in-law, Mr. Chapman, I bought it of.

Item. My third part of the land the General Court gave to the Tyngs of Major Tyng, in a new Town called Gorham Town, and lying on Presumpscot river, as may be seen by plan on Secretary’s Books.

Memorandum. Mr. John Tyng gave my son Peter half of his share in it, which he has often promised, and will give a deed of it if desired.

Item. A sixth part of Col. Gedney’s Estate on Royal’s River in North Yarmouth, as may be seen by several conveyances on County Records.

Memorandum. I gave bond to Capt. Wear and Mr. Fellows to pay their part of the charge that should arise in trying the title of the whole, and I have done it. I expect they have given me receipt therefor on bond.

Item. Estate my Grandmother Clarke* left me by will, as may be seen by looking at the Will.

Item. My share in the remaining part of my father’s estate.

Item. My Library, watch, firelock, wearing apparel and my wife’s, and the furniture of the house.

Item. Several bonds, viz., Mr. Bayley’s, Capt. Larabee’s, Mr. Clough’s, &c.

Item. Several debts, more especially some hundreds of pounds, the parish and town owes, which was, as I could recon on September 1, 1742, about £800, besides other years not cleared, and I know nothing about. But I would not have the parish ever sued for the same, nor for the old arrears five years back, only would have the account settled that they may know that I give them something considerable, and that I never had it in view to get their money, but to do them good and save their souls.

* His grandmother Clarke was Rebeckah, daughter of Habackuk and Hannah (Eliot) Glover.

Item. My stock of Creatures, my Chaise, Saddles and bridles.

Item. My share in several tracts of land belonging to Munjoy’s estate, which are something in the dark, and therefore never purposely sought after by me.

Item. My share in my Aunt Corwin’s Estate and my aunt Thacher’s in Mr. Walley’s hands.

There is a remark on page 16 of the Journal to the import that “Parson Smith” was probably drawn to the eastern country, and acquired a taste for speculation in real estate from his kinsman John Smith, a merchant of Boston, who was largely interested in lands in North Yarmouth, before that town was incorporated, and was Clerk of the Proprietors of Lands in that place and in Falmouth. He purchased into the Munjoy estate titles and other claims of the old proprietors, which required his presence there. Mr. Smith made other purchases and speculations, which proved successful, as is stated by his biographer.

Among his cotemporaries in the ministry were Thacher, Sewall, Checkley, Prince, Webb and Chauncey, with all of whom he frequently exchanged. In the year 1725 he preached seventeen sabbaths at ancient Falmouth (Portland) before accepting a call there. He preached at Malden, Sandwich and Bellingham, and received a call to settle at the latter place, but declined. He was invited to preach in several other towns in Massachusetts and also in Maine. He lived in an easy and hospitable style, suited to his wealth, entertaining not only the clergymen of that day, but all the most distinguished gentlemen of the age who visited that city at times his guests, and were freely and generously entertained by him. Among these, he writes in his Journal, were the Governor and Lieut. Governor and other State officers, Winthrop, Hancock, and Bowdoin. Masters of vessels who arrived there from Boston and other cities, were welcomed to his house, and partook of his bounties. He enjoyed festivals and entertainments, public and private, liked to attend dinner parties when given, and gave them often himself, and always wrote and expressed himself highly gratified.

His funeral was attended by the Rev. Mr. Kellogg. A sermon was preached on the sabbath after his funeral, by Rev. Samuel Deane, his colleague and successor, a few extracts from which, it is hoped, will not be deemed superfluous.

The Church in ancient Falmouth was organized on the same day Mr. Smith was ordained its pastor. It was the first Church that was formed to the eastward of Wells. "His pastoral relation was a very happy one, and continued to the day of his decease, which was sixty-eight years and two months and a half, and brought him into the ninety-fourth year of his age. He preached in his turn until the close of the year 1784, and has assisted in the work of the sanctuary until within a year and a half of his decease, by his public prayers. His faculties continued unimpaired, and he performed the service with ability and edification. Not more than one instance is recollected of a ministry in this country so long protracted. For a long course of years he has been considered the most distinguished preacher in this part of the country.

"Though his voice was feeble, the excellency of his elocution, accompanied with a venerable and becoming gravity, rendered his performances very acceptable. Possessing in a high degree the gift and spirit of prayer, devotion could not but be excited in the breasts of the serious part of the audience,

"In sermons his composition was elegant, and his language chaste and correct. Nor was he wanting in animation and pathos in delivery. He was endowed with exquisite sensibility, a lively imagination, and with an extraordinary strength of memory, which he retained with but little abatement to the last. His house was noted for the resort of foreigners and distinguished strangers from all parts of the country, and of his clerical brethren, where they were ever generously entertained."

(13) JOHN SMITH, second son of Capt. Thomas and Mary (Corwin) Smith, was born in Boston, Feb. 2d, 1703, and died there April 6, 1768, aged 65 years. He graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1722. He never studied any profession, but established himself as a merchant in Boston, and was largely engaged in the importation of goods from France and England, and became one of the most distinguished among the early merchants of Boston.

He is thus noticed in the Journal of his brother, the Rev. Thomas Smith, of Portland, old edition, p. 37: —
Oct. 31, 1744. Brother John returned from England to York with Mr. Whitefield.

July 31, 1761. My brother came here in the Capt. Target with the Man of War that went from hence to Boston to take and carry to France the Merchants' money, viz. 22,000 Pounds Sterling. (38) PETER THACHER SMITH, second son of Rev. Thomas and Sarah (Tyng) Smith, was born in Portland, June 14, 1731, and died in Windham, Maine, Oct. 26, 1826, in his 96th year. He graduated at Harvard College, and took his first degree in 1753, at the age of twenty-two years. After leaving college he followed the occupation of school-teaching for some years—part of the time at Weymouth, Mass. He also studied divinity. In 1759 he was called to be a minister at Windham, and was ordained there in 1762. In 1790 he was dismissed from the ministry. He continued to reside in Windham, and passed the remainder of his days at that place: was appointed a magistrate, and filled several public offices in the town. His biographer writes of him thus: "He was a man of rare wit and humor, which he was never anxious to restrain; and of free and agreeable address. He was tall and portly in his person, resembling more his mother's than his father's kindred. His venerable appearance in the costume of the bygone age—his breeches, three-cornered hat and ample coat—attracted general observation as he occasionally visited the town of his birth (Portland), over the ruins of which, after it was burned by the British troops in 1775, he bitterly grieved, and which drew from him a sermon preached in the old and shattered meeting-house soon after the sad event, from the memorable words—'He beheld the city and wept over it.'"

Peter Thacher Smith was twice married. First, to Elizabeth Wendell, daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth (Hunt) Wendell, in Boston, Oct. 8, 1765, by Rev. Dr. Lowell. By her he had all his children. He was a lineal descendant of Thomas Sanders, one of the first settlers of Cape Ann, who was for many years in the service of the Provincial Navy. His parents were Thomas and Judith (Robinson) Sanders, who were married in Gloucester in 1728. Thomas Sanders was their eldest son. He was prepared for College under the instruction of the Rev. Moses Parsons, entered Harvard College, and graduated there in the class of 1748. After leaving College, he engaged in commercial pursuits, became a distinguished citizen in the town of Gloucester, and was elected to many public offices, in which he served faithfully. He was Representative from 1761 to 1771, and a Councillor until 1773. He resigned that office at the close of the year for a more quiet life. He lived seven years after his retirement from office.

He was married Oct. 20, 1758, to Lucy Jones, daughter of Phineas Jones, Esq., of Portland. They had no children. He was a merchant. His store was on the corner of Middle and Franklin Streets, where he was engaged in an extensive business, at one time with his brother John Smith, and subsequently with John Fox. It was said of him that "he was a man of fine personal appearance, dressed in good taste, in the style of his day, full bottomed wig and all, and was gentlemanly in his manners."

Dr. Dearborn died soon, and he was transferred to Dr. Nathaniel Sargent, of the same place, with whom he boarded and completed his studies. He commenced practice in Portland, and opened an apothecary shop in the same store in which his brother Thomas kept. He was never married.

(43) SARAH SMITH, the second daughter of Rev. Thomas and Sarah (Tyng) Smith, was born in Portland, Nov. 14, 1740, and died there Sept. 10, 1827, aged 87 years. In 1763 she was married to Deacon Richard Codman, of that city, and was his second wife. They had four children. He was the son of Mr. John and Mrs. Parnell Codman, of Charlestown, Mass., and was born there in 1730. In 1775, having been bred a merchant, he left his native place and settled in Portland, where he became an eminent merchant, a deacon of the Church of which Rev. Thomas Smith was pastor, and died there of dropsy, Sept. 12, 1793, aged 63 years. He was twice married: first, to Anne, daughter of Phinehas Jones, Esq., by whom he had two children, Richard and Anne. His wife Anne died the 31st of March, 1761, and he married a second time to Sarah, daughter of Rev. Thomas Smith. His father, John Codman, was a man of eminence and of wealth. The date of her death has not been communicated. In 1794 she was married to Paul Dudley Sargent, of Boston, who was born there in 1745, and died at his farm in Sullivan, in 1827, leaving a widow and several children. He was the son of Col. Epes and Catharine (Winthrop) Sargent, of Salem, who by further tracing is lineally descended from Gov. Thomas Dudley, of Roxbury, by his son Gov. Joseph Dudley, whose daughter Anne Dudley, born Aug. 27, 1784, married John Winthrop, H. C. 1700, F.R.S., who was a son of Hon. Waitstill Winthrop, of New London, Ct. She was married about 1775, to Thomas Saunders, her first cousin, who graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1772, and of whom it is stated that he expended a large fortune, and died in 1795, leaving a widow and two daughters. This account does not seem to accord with another which has been given of him, and which is as follows:
"Thomas Saunders was the son of Joseph and Elizabeth Saunders, and was born at George’s River, in Maine, June 15, 1753. His father was drowned when Thomas was four years old. He was adopted into the family of a relative, Mrs. Gibbs, by whom his expenses were paid. He graduated at Harvard College in 1772, and except occasional employment during the war of the Revolution, is believed to have spent his whole after life in teaching school. He was a teacher of the town school in Gloucester for several years; and subsequently was employed by individuals to take charge of a select school. He had been in their employment but a short time, when, in consequence of a severe and unmerited censure of his course as a teacher, he gave way to a depression of spirits, which induced such a state of mind as caused him to put an end to his existence, April 23, 1795."*

(64) HARRIET SAUNDERS, the third daughter of the Hon. Thomas and Lucy (Smith) Saunders, was born in Gloucester, Mass., April 2, 1757, and died in Boston. She was married about 1780, to Maj. Peter Doliver, of Boston, and went there to reside. They had one son and three daughters, as follows:

* It is confidently believed from evidence gathered, that the above were the parents of Mrs. Judith (Foster) Saunders, who was for many years an accomplished and successful teacher of young ladies. In the early part of the year 1803 she came to Dorchester and opened a boarding and day school for young ladies, and continued in that occupation until her death, which took place in 1842. She was buried in the ancient Cemetery in Dorchester, and has a gravestone on which her age is given as 67 years, which would make the year of her birth 1775. Her school was kept in the large house situated on the slope of Meeting-House Hill, and was the most celebrated one of the kind ever kept in Dorchester. She received and educated not only young ladies in the town, but others from all parts of the United States and the British Provinces. She was at first assisted by Miss Clementina Beach, who subsequently became her co-worker and partner, and continued with her till her death in 1842, when she closed the school, it having been in continuance about forty years. Miss Sarah Elizabeth Doliver (No. 100), a near relative, was also an assistant at one time in the school.
clerk in a store with his uncle Thomas Smith, and was present at the bombardment of the town in 1775. He afterwards removed to Salem, and became a wealthy and respectable merchant. In 1782 he was married to Elizabeth Elkins, of Salem. She was descened lineally from the distinguished Peregrine White, of Plymouth notoriety — born in Cape Cod harbor, in November, 1620, and died in Marshfield, July, 1704, aged 83 years. She attained to a great age, being 87 years old in 1849, and died not long after.

The property left by their father at his decease being insufficient for the support and education of his family, the eldest daughter, who was then twenty-five years of age, and her sister four years younger, prepared themselves, under competent teachers, and went on the stage, as it has been stated, "to obtain the means of support for themselves and their mother." They were both highly educated, and richly endowed with rare natural gifts, which were developed by the choice they made, and they soon attained excellence in the histrionic and dramatic art. Their first appearance in public was at the old Tremont Theatre, on Tremont Street, in Boston. They were eminently successful; and after continuing there for a season, visited other cities, and have performed in most of the large cities in the United States and in Europe. They have acquired a competent fortune, and have contributed largely to benevolent objects. They have always maintained an irreproachable character. A few years ago, Miss Charlotte retired from the stage, and has devoted herself to public readings whenever she appears before the public. She resides at the present time with her brother, in London. In 1862 she visited Boston, and was present at the opening of the Grand Organ, on which occasion she recited or read to an admiring audience.

There are descendants in the line of Habackuk Glover in the ninth and tenth generations, but few of them have been ascertained. His line has been perpetuated mostly through his great-grandson, the Rev. Thomas Smith. There may be some of the descendants of his grandson, John Smith; and of Howard, from Elizabeth Brenton. There may also be some of the descendants of John Smith, the brother of Parson Smith, by the name of Pemberton, but they have not been reported or reached. There are descendants of Rev. Peter Thacher Smith, of the names of Farwell and Winslow, living in Tyngsboro, Mass., and in Albion, Maine; also of the name of Anderson in Windham, and Saunders in Salem, who have not been reported. The whole number collected is one hundred and fifty-two, including the few which have been gathered of the tenth generation.
JOHN GLOVER.

JOHN GLOVER, A.M.

III. John Glover, the third son of John Glover and Anna his wife, was born at Rainhill Parish, in the town of Prescot, Lancashire, England, Oct. 11, 1629, and died in Boston, Sept. 23, 1696, in his 67th year. He was buried Sept. 25, in the Granary Burial Ground. Judge Sewall attended his funeral, and enters the following notice of it in his diary.

"1696. Sept. 23. Mr. John Glover dies." "Sept. 25. Mr. John Glover is buried; Col. Pyncheon, Col. Cook, Mr. Peter Sargeant and Mr. Oakes were there."

In 1630 he was brought to New England by his parents, and lived with them at Dorchester until he attained the age of manhood. In 1647 he entered Harvard College, and graduated there in the class of 1651. Soon after leaving College he engaged in commercial pursuits, and became a merchant of some eminence, importing goods largely from London and other cities.

He was married late in life, or at the age of about fifty years, and it is not known that he ever had any children. He was an extensive landholder, both by purchase and inheritance. By his father's will he was to receive two hundred pounds in money in addition to what had been paid for his education, and at the decease of his mother his share in Newbury Farm and other lands was one fourth part, which was disposed of by Deeds of Gift and Sale a short time before his death. He resided with his mother at the mansion house in Boston, and in 1670 was appointed to continue the administration of the Hon. John Glover's estate, in the place and by the consent of Habackuk, his elder brother, after the decease of Mrs. Anna Glover their mother. In 1671 he joined with his brother Habackuk in the sale of a tract of land which belonged to the estate of their father John Glover, Esq. of Dorchester and Boston, to Robert Babcock of Milton, of two acres in the division of land which was laid out to Mr. Glover on the south side of Neponset River. Habackuk and John Glover certified to their father's hand writing.

In 1672 he purchased an estate of Joseph Lowell, of Boston (cooper), situated as follows, viz.:

"House and land situated near the Exchange in Boston, bounded Westerly by and with a lane that runs from the head of the Great Dock to Samuel Shrimpton's house; extending from the front to the rear sixty feet or thereabouts; and on the West side thirteen feet and eighteen inches; Southerly and Easterly by land of Samuel Plummer; Northerly by land of the said Joseph Lowell to the said Plummer's house, from the front to the rear sixty feet or thereabouts; extending from the North East Corner of said Joseph Lowell's house to said Plummer's house. Jan. 6, 1672. (Signed) JOSEPH LOWELL.

Witnessed by Habackuk Glover,
John Hayward.

This estate was sold six months after, July 11, 1672, by John Glover to Thomas Skinner, in presence of Thomas Peeke, Samuel Plummer and John Williams. Acknowledged by John Glover, Aug. 20, 1672, before Edward Tyng, Assistant.

March 2, 1673, his name appears as a witness to a deed from his brother Habackuk Glover to Rebeckah Smith.

July 10, 1673, John Glover sold his house and land to Samuel Skinner, of Boston.

Nov. 20, 1674, he witnessed a deed for his brother Habackuk Glover.

He was of Boston in 1675, and sold land to William Griggs, known by the name of Hudson's land, deed bearing date April 6, 1675.

In 1677 he sold to Roger and Ebenezer Billings, of Dorchester, a piece of salt marsh and meadow which formerly belonged to John Glover, Esq., "lying in Dorchester, and containing about six acres, more or less — being a part of Mr. Glover's Newbury Farm and his inheritance, with all the Creeks and Ponds thereunto belonging; Bounded partly on a Creek called Newbury Creek, and partly by the Salt Marsh Meadow of his Brother Nathaniel Glover, late of Dorchester, Dec¹; Southerly by Sagamore Creek; Northerly by a Salt Water Creek, and partly by a meadow of William Rawson."

Dec. 4, 1679, John Glover of Boston, merchant, accepts and receives, for the consideration of fifty pounds, one sixteenth part of Newbury Farm, which belonged to his nephew John Glover (cooper), the son of his brother Nathaniel Glover, who deceased in 1657, as may more fully appear by a deed recorded among the transactions of the said John Glover, his nephew. Signed by John Glover the younger, and acknowledged Dec. 4, 1679.
May 20, 1680, the above deed of sale was made void and conveyed back to John Glover (cooper), his nephew, with all the rights and privileges and power of sale.

In 1680 he purchased a piece of salt marsh lying in Dorchester, of Katharine Smith, "relict, Widow and Executrix of the late John Smith, Quarter Master."

In 1680 his name appears in Glover's agreement as an acting attorney to and for his uncle William Glover of Prescot, in Lancaster, England, and also in his own right.

In 1684 he purchased a tract of land in Swansea, of Samuel Miles and Anne Miles.* The following is a copy of the conveyance, as recorded at the Probate Office in Plymouth, Lib. 5, fol. 294.

John Glover was married in or about 1680, to Elizabeth Franklin, of Ipswich, who survived him and was appointed Executrix of his estates in his last will. He was, at the time of his marriage, residing in Swansea, in the County of Bristol, and was a merchant there. In 1684 he bought a mansion house and several tracts of land of Joseph and Abigail Curtis, of Sudbury, in the County of Middlesex, and soon after removed there from Swansea, and was there in 1686. Dr. Stevens includes among his list of the early inhabitants of Sudbury, from 1684 to 1686, the names of "John Glover, Gent", and Elizabeth his wife." He resided in Sudbury but a short time, and appears not to have attended to any business, except the occasional buying and selling of lands. In 1690 he removed again to Boston, and lived in Summer Street until the close of his life. He was admitted to join the first Congregational Church in Boston in 1693, three years previous to his death.

My soul I resign into the hands of Jesus Christ my Saviour and Merciful Redeemer, and my body I commit unto the Earth whence it was taken, to be decently buried by the discretion of my Executrix.

And as for the Worldly Goods which the Lord hath lent me, I do give and bequeath All unto my beloved Wife, my Houses and Lands in Boston and at Swansey, or wherever else; in case I depart this life and leave her surviving, to sell and dispose of it as she shall like best, and to give it to whom she pleaseth (my debts being first paid). As also all my moveable estate and debts whatsoever of my personal Estate. And of this my last Will I do appoint my Well beloved Wife Elizabeth Glover my sole Executrix.

In Witness whereof, I have hereby set my hand and seal this Eighth day of April, In the year of Our Lord One thousand six Hundred and Ninety two (1692). John Glover, and a Scale.
This Will is to stand in force until another shall appear. Signed, sealed and published by John Glover as his last Will and Testament, in Presence of us, Jonathan Marion, Jun. Joseph Tolman, Benj" Tolman.

Examined by Jonathan Addington, Register.

Elizabeth Franklin, the wife of John Glover, was born in Boston the 3d day of the 8th month, 1638, and died there June 21, 1705 aged 67 years. She was the daughter of William and Alice (Andrews) Franklin, of Boston. Her mother was the daughter of Robert Andrews, Esq., of Ipswich, who died in Boston in 1641, and Elizabeth her only child was removed to Ipswich and cared for by her relations. Robert Andrews, after the death of his daughter Alice, entered into an agreement (of which the following is an extract) with William Franklin, the father of Elizabeth:

"As concerning the forty pounds portion of Alice, the late wife of William Franklin and daughter of said Robert Andrews, it is to be reserved for Elizabeth the daughter of said William Franklin and Alice his late wife." Dated April 2, 1641, and signed by Robert Andrews and William Franklin.

William Franklin's estate was said to be situated at or near Bendall's Dock. He died in 1644. Elizabeth was educated by her maternal uncle Thomas Andrews, who was for many years a celebrated teacher in Ipswich. He died in 1683, intestate, and Elizabeth, who was at that time Elizabeth Glover, inherited one eighth part of his estate, in common with the other nephews and niece.

"Inventory of the estate of Thomas Andrews, Teacher, who died July 10, 1683, taken by John Appleton and Nathaniel Rust, Sept. 16, 1683, and returned in Court, Sept. 25, 1683. Amount, Five hundred and fifty one pounds sixteen shillings and ten pence. Amount of debts, twenty six pounds seven Shillings and ten pence."

Certificates of heirship were presented to the Court of Probate in Salem, Essex County, by John Andrews and Sarah Cannon, children of John Andrews, brother of Thomas; by Mrs. Elizabeth Glover, daughter of his sister Alice; and by Daniel Hovey, John Hovey, Nathaniel Hovey, Joseph Hovey, Thomas Hovey, children of his sister Abigail.
Copy of Certificates, as presented.

A Certificate that John Andrews, the son of the brother of Mr. Thomas Andrews of Ipswich, Schoolmaster, Dec⁴, and Daniel Hovey the son of his sister, are the nearest relations of the said Thomas Andrews; and their desire is to have administration granted to them on his Estate.

July 13, 1683.

John Choate, about 58 y.; Joseph Goodhue, 43 y.; James Gregory, 42 years, testifieth that the above John Andrews of Salem is the reputed son of Corporal John Andrews, Dec⁴, formerly of Ipswich, who was a brother of Thomas Andrews, Schoolmaster.

Sept. 25, 1683.

Sept. 27, 1683. Certificate to the Court from Daniel Hovey, Sen., wherein he mentions that Mr. Thomas Andrews was his truly and loving and well beloved brother, and says, More than 40 years ago I did match with his loving and well beloved Sister Abigail Andrews, by whom the Lord blest me with six sons and a dafter (daughter), five of which sons are yet living; so that by these it may appear that we are nearly related to this Deceased Gentleman; but in brief he hath six nephews and two nieces as follows, viz.:

There is the son and daughter of his brother John Andrews, Dec⁴, who are John Andrews and Sarah Cannon his Sister, which are considerably debtors to his estate, as also,

Mrs. Elizabeth Glover, who is married to Mr. John Glover, formerly living at Boston, now at Swansey, who is debtor to this Estate

There is myself (Daniel Hovey, Sen.), also debtor to the Estate Thirty-five Shillings upon the paying of some things he sent me for my present use, and gave me order to take and keep them 'til he called for them.

There is Daniel Hovey and John Hovey, two of his nephews, debtor to the Estate for schooling their children, about four pounds.

There is also Thomas Hovey, Joseph Hovey and Nathaniel Hovey, three of his nephews who never had the value of one Shilling of the Estate of their uncle, that I know of.

(Signed)  Daniel Hovey, Sen.

Elizabeth, after the decease of Mr. John Glover in 1696, married a second time in a very few months (Nov. 5, 1696), to Dr. John Cleverly, of Braintree and Boston. He died in Boston, May 5, 1703. She was married a third time, July 27, 1703, to James Mosman, of Roxbury, who survived her and died in 1722. She commenced an administration on the estate of John Glover, but never finished; and the estate, after a series of years, was settled by an order from the Probate Court.

Feb. 24, 1697, John Cleverly of Boston, with Elizabeth his wife, "who is Executrix of the last Will and Testament of Mr. John Glover, late of Boston, Shopkeeper, Dec'd," sold a piece of land "lying and situate near the Meeting-house in Dorchester, containing one acre and one quarter and a half rod," to Nathaniel Glover, Sen., of Dorchester — "said land some time appertaining to the estate of John Smith, Esq., late of Dorchester, Dec'd, bounded Northerly and Easterly by land of Widow Susannah Breck; Westerly by the Highway leading from the Meeting House to Dorchester Mill, commonly called Neponset Mill; Southerly by land and orchard of Katharine Smith, Executrix of the Estate of John Smith, Esq., Dec'd, recovered by the said Elizabeth Cleverly against the estate of the said John Smith by a Judgment of Court in October, 1696." Signed by John Cleverly and Elizabeth Cleverly, in presence of Thomas Harper and Eleazer Moody.

James Mosman lived after the death of Elizabeth his wife about seventeen years, and used the income of John Glover's estates devised to his wife, until the Court appointed an administrator, Feb. 9, 1721. The remainder of the estate was then committed for settlement to Thomas Smith, Esq., of Boston, an heir at law, who finished up the administration in 1724, and the residue was distributed among the surviving heirs.

Trusting therefore in your care and fidelity, I do by these Presents commit unto you full Power to administer all and singular on the remaining Goods, Chattels, Rights and Credits of the said deceased left unadministered upon by his Executrix Elizabeth Glover aforesaid at the time of her decease, and well and faithfully to dispose of the same according to Law.

the value thereof, so far as his Goods, Chattels, Rights and Credits can extend; and to exhibit the same into the Registry of the Court of Probate for the County of Suffolk aforesaid, before the Ninth day of May next ensuing; and to render a plain and true account of your Administration, upon Oath, at or before the 9th day of February, 1722.

And I do hereby ordain and constitute and appoint you Administrator of the remaining Goods, &c., aforesaid, with the Will Annexed.

In Testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal of the said Court of Probate, holden at Boston the 9th day of Feb., 1721.

NATHANIEL GLOVER.

IV. Nathaniel Glover, the fourth son of John Glover, Esq., and Anna his wife, was born in 1630-31, died in Dorchester, May 21, 1657, and was buried in the ancient burial ground of that town. The grave-stone has gone to decay. There are but few acts of his short life to be found on record. He attained the age of manhood in Dorchester, and succeeded to the homestead at the time of his father's removal to Boston in 1652. In that year he was married to Mary Smith, of Dorchester. On the 22d of the 3d month he was admitted to the Church there, in full communion. May 3, 1654, he took the freeman's oath, and was recorded among the New England Freemen. In 1655 he was chosen one of the Selectmen of Dorchester, and again in 1656 and 1657. In 1655 he was appointed, with others, to settle the bounds between Dorchester and Dedham. He was also chosen to fill other offices in the town. By his father's will, in addition to the Dorchester homestead estate already given him, he was to receive four hundred pounds in money, and forty pounds more to be paid to him by his brother Habackuk after the death of his mother, Mrs. Anna Glover; also one fourth part of Mr. Glover's Newbury Farm, and one fourth part of the other lands reserved as the widow's dower. He left a will, which is on file, proved June 5, 1657. Inventory of his estate taken and sworn to by the underwriters, Roger Clap and William Clark, the 5th day of the 4th month, 1657:

Reversion of one fourth part of Newbury Farm after the decease of his mother. Said farm situate in Dorchester, beyond Neponset River.

Children of NATHANIEL and MARY (SMITH) GLOVER, born in Dorchester:

+1. Nathaniel, b. 30: 1: 1653; bap. 3: 2: 1653, by Rev. Richard Mather; m. Hannah Hinckley, of Barnstable.
+2. John, b. 15: 12: 1654; bap. 18: 12: 1654;
   m. 2d, Miriam Smith, of Boston.
+3. Anne, b. 1656; m. William Rawson, of Boston.

MARY SMITH, the wife of Nathaniel Glover, was born at Toxteth Park, near Liverpool, Lancashire, England, the 20th day of July, 1630, and died in Barnstable the 29th day of July, 1703, aged 73 years. She was the daughter of Quartermaster John Smith and his first wife Mary Ryder of Toxteth Park. She was twice married; first, in 1652, to Mr. Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester, who died there in May, 1657, aged 27 years. She was married, second, to the Hon.
Thomas Hinckley, of Barnstable (afterwards Governor of the Plymouth Colony for many years), March 2, 1659–60." Her parents are thus noticed in a manuscript Journal of the Rev. Mr. Prince:

"She was the only child of Mr. Quartermaster Smith, by his first wife, formerly of Lancashire in England, and afterward of Dorchester in New England. Her father had been a Quartermaster in the army of the Netherlands, her mother a gentlewoman of a creditable family and of eminent natural powers, piety and acquired accomplis-ments. Of them she was born in Lancashire in England, in 1630.
Her parents living under the ministry of the Rev. Richard Mather at Toxteth in that shire; they came up and brought her with them to Bristol, in order for New England, in April, 1635; young Nathaniel, the son of the said Mr. Mather, being carried on one side in a pannier, and this young Mrs. Mary on the other, as I have often heard her say. May 23, 1635, she, with her father and mother, the said Rev'd Richard Mather and Wife, their sons Samuel and Nathaniel, Mr. Jonathan Mitchell, then about 11 years of age, &c., set sail from Bristol. In the night, between Aug. 14 and 15, coming on the New England Coast, there arose an extreme hurricane, wherein they were in the utmost danger and wondrously delivered (see the account in the Life of Rev'd Richard Mather in the Magnalia), and on Aug. 17th arrived at Boston. Her father and others settling at Dorchester, and a new Church being gathered there, Aug. 23d, 1686, the said Mr. Richard Mather became their teacher, under whose ministry she lived, unless when sent to school at Boston, where she enjoyed Mr. Wilson's and Mr. Cotton's ministry."

Rev. Mr. Prince adds: "In ———, she married to Mr. Nathaniel Glover, a son of the Hon. John Glover, Esq., of said Dorchester, by whom she had Nathaniel and Ann. And then this husband dying, she remained a widow until when she married the Hon: Thomas Hinckley, Esq., of Barnstable, whither she removed, and had by him Mercy, Experience, John, Abigail, Thankful, Ebenezer and Reliance, who all grew up and married; and all but Ebenezer, before she died.

"At Barnstable, to the day of her death, she appeared and shone in the eyes of all as the loveliest and brightest woman for beauty, knowledge, wisdom, majesty, accomplishments and graces throughout the Colony. And there her first son Nathaniel married to Hannah, a daughter of the said Mr. Hinckley by his former wife. Her said daughter Anne married to Mr. William Rawson, a son of Mr. Secretary Rawson, Secretary of the Massachusetts Colony; her daughter Mercy to Mr. Samuel Prince, of Sandwich; Experience, to Mr. James Whipple, of Barnstable; her son John, to Mrs. Trott, of Dorchester; her daughter Abigail, to the Rev. Mr. Joseph Lord, of Dorchester, South Carolina, afterwards of Chatham, on Cape Cod; Thankful, to the Rev'd Mr. Experience Mayhew, of Martha's Vineyard; Reliance, to the Rev'd Mr. Nathaniel Stone, of Harwich; and after her death, her son Ebenezer to Mrs. Stone, of Sudbury. Mrs. Hinckley died July 29, 1703, in the 73d year of her age."

The writer visited her grave in the ancient cemetery at Barnstable, in the summer of 1856, and copied the following from her gravestone:

"Here lyeth Ye Body of Ye truly Virtuous and Praiseworthy Mrs. Mary Hinckley, wife unto Mr. Thomas Hinckley, who departed this life July 29th, 1703, in Ye 73d year of her age."

Mary Smith joined the Church at Dorchester previous to her marriage, and was subsequently dismissed from it to join the Church at Barnstable. The following is taken from the records of the Church at Dorchester: "The 22d day of the 2d month, 1660, Mrs. Mary Glover, whose maiden name was Mary Smith, and who lately married with Gov. Thomas Hinckley, about Sandwich, desired letters of dismissal to the Church there; but they were not at that time granted, It being so suddenly after her removal thither, and they not being in a capacity for the enjoyment of the ordinances, having no officers to dispense the same."

"23 (4) 1664, Was Mrs. Hinckley, who formerly was the wife of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, dismissed to join the Church at Barnstable."

Mary Smith was promised a marriage portion by her father* on her marriage with Mr. Nathaniel Glover, but, from a clause in her father's will, it appears she did not receive it until some time after. Quartermaster Smith's will, made December 30, 1676, was proved July 25, 1678. The following are extracts from it: "Wife Katharine and sons John and other children." "Whereas it is said my daughter Mary Smith hath received part of her portion, it is to be understood of my daughter Mary Pelton, who hath received about twenty pounds or more, as by my books will appear, p. 166." "Lastly, as far as my daughter Mrs. Mary Hinckley is concerned, she is paid what I promised her upon her marriage with Mr. Nathaniel Glover, as will appear by a writing under her hand and seal, bearing date 1:9:1660. Therefore I do not give her anything in this my Will."

Mrs. Mary Glover's marriage with the Hon. Thomas Hinckley was, for a time, resolutely opposed by the relatives and friends of her former husband. She being young, or at the age of twenty-nine years, at the time the grave subject was first presented for her consideration, with three children of the tender ages of three, five and six years, and possessing a competent estate and ability to rear and educate them, it seemed absurd to those who were nearly connected with her children, for her to enter into new relations with a man, however exalted his worth or elevated his position, who had a

* John Smith, Quartermaster, was thrice married: first, in England, at Toxteth Park, Lancashire, to Mary Ryder, who was the mother of Mrs. Glover. She died soon after her emigration, and he married a second time to Mary ———, of Dorchester. She died, and he married a third time to Katherine Pelton, widow, who survived him, and died in Boston, July 17, 1710, aged 90 years. He had by his second wife Mary, several sons and daughters, one of whom was John, who married Miriam (probably Deane), and died in Boston in 1676. His widow was the ancient schoolmistress of Dorchester, and is buried in the cemetery there. She has a gravestone. family of eight children, and was much her senior. To remove the children to a new home in a distant Province or Colony, could not at once be acquiesced in; and to leave them at their tender age, seemed equally inconsistent and unmotherly. Accordingly the Governor's suit was rejected, although, it seems, not entirely abandoned by the parties. The marriage was delayed for several months; but after a time the relatives became reconciled and gave their assent to it.
The following arrangements were accordingly entered into and agreed upon.

An inventory of the estate of Mrs. Mary Glover was taken at her request before her marriage with Gov. Thomas Hinckley, and presented to the Court by the "Honorable Thomas Hinckley and Mrs.
Mary Glover, he resigning all right and interest which his marriage with her may give him in her Estate."

Mrs. Mary Glover's Inventory, taken and Drafted the 18:12:1659, by Us, whose names are Underwritten, and by the request of Mrs.
Mary Glover.

Thomas Hinckley, the second husband of Mary Smith, was the son of Samuel and Sarah (——)—Hinckley, who came to New England in the ship Hercules, of Sandwich, England, which sailed about March, 1634. They brought with them four children, of whom Thomas was the second son. The family originally was from the County of Kent, in England. At a small Parish called Egerton (Tenderton), Thomas Hinckley was born in 1618, and baptized there by the Rev. John Lathrop, a few days after his birth. His parents, on their arrival in this country in 1634, settled first at Scituate, and in 1639 removed to Barnstable, where he attained the age of manhood, and soon took an active and prominent part in the affairs of the Colony. He was chosen Deputy as early as 1645; a Magistrate and Assistant for the Colony of Plymouth from 1658 to 1680; elected Governor in 1681, and continued in that office—except during the interruption caused by the appointment of Sir Edmund Andros—until the union of the Colony of New Plymouth with the Massachusetts Colony in 1692. From 1678 to 1692, a period of fourteen years, Gov. Hinckley was chosen a Commissioner in the General Board held by the two Colonies before their union. He died suddenly at Barnstable, in April, 1706, aged 86. He was twice married: first, Dec. 7, 1641, to Mary Richards, daughter of Thomas and Welthean (Loring) Richards, of Weymouth. She died June 24, 1659, and he was married a second time, March 16, 1660, to Mrs. Mary Glover, widow of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester. By his first wife, Mary Richards, he had eight children, born in Barnstable, as follows:

Mary, b. Aug. 3, 1644; m. Peter Wybourne.
Sarah, b. Nov. 4, 1646; m. Nathaniel Bacon, of Barnstable, Mar. 27, 1673.
Melatiah, b. Nov. 24, 1618; m. Josiah Crocker, of Barnstable.
Hannah, b. Feb. 14, 1652; m. Sarah Pope, of Sandwich.
Thomas, b. Dec. 5, 1654; d. unmarried, 1688; will proved same year.
Bathshua, b. May 15, 1657; m. Samuel Hall, of Dorchester.
Mehetable, b. Mar. 24, 1659; m. 1st, Samuel Worden, of Boston. 2d, William Avery, of Dedham.

Children of Thomas Hinckley and Mary (Smith) (Glover)

HINCKLEY, born in Barnstable:

Admire, b. July 28, 1660-1; d. two weeks after.
Ebenezer, b. Feb. 22, 1661-2; d. two weeks after.
Mercy, b. Jan. 1, 1662-3; m. Samuel Prince, of Sandwich.
Experience, b. Feb. 2, 1664; m. James Whipple, Esq.
John, b. June 9, 1667; m. Thankful Trott, of Dorchester.
Abigail, b. April 1, 1669; m. Rev. Joseph Lord, of Dorchester, South Carolina.
Thankful, b. August 20, 1670; m. Rev. Experience Mayhew.
Ebenezer, b. Sept. 23, 1673; m. Mary Stone, of Sudbury.
Reliance, b. Dec. 15, 1675; m. Rev. Nathaniel Stone, of Martha's Vineyard.

Gov. Hinckley was a man of large estate — an extensive landholder. He made a will dated Oct. 16, 1700, when he was 82 years old. Appoints his beloved wife Mary to be sole executrix, and in the event of her previous decease, sons John and Ebenezer to be her successors; bequeaths one half of all his estates to his wife Mary, the other half to sons John and Ebenezer, who are to succeed to the whole at her decease — including two hundred acres of land at Little Compton, R. I., granted him by the General Court for his services in the War of King Philip.

His will was signed Dec. 31, 1700, and witnessed by Jonathan Russell, James Whippo, John Jenkins and Martha Russell.
"Barnabas Lothrop, Commissioned by the Governor and Council for the County of Barnstable.

To all persons before whom these Presents shall or may come or concern—Greeting:

Know Ye—That on the 27th day of April, 1705, before me at Barnstable, the Will Within Written was proved, approved, and allowed so far as it concerns and relates to the Real Estate of said Thomas Hinckley, Dec'd, who having while he lived and at the time of his death Goods, Chattels and Credits in the aforesaid County—but by reason that Mary Hinckley, Wife of the Deceased, died before the Testator, Therefore the said Will is not allowed to be of any force for the disposing of the personal estate of the said Deceased, but Administration of all and singular of the Goods, Chattels and Rights and Credits of the said Deceased was committed to Samuel Prince of Sandwich, Son-in-Law to the Testator, as witness my hand and scale of office set this 27th day of April, 1705. Barnabas Lothrop."

There appears to be an uncertainty as to the date of his death. It is said by those who have written of him, that he died in 1706. The following is the inscription on his gravestone or tomb-tablet, which was erected to his memory in 1829, by one of his descendants*—the old gravestone having been demolished by time.

"Beneath this stone, erected A.D. 1829, are deposited the mortal remains of Thomas Hinckley, Esq., Gov. of Plymouth Colony. He died A.D. 1706, aged 86 years. History bears witness to his piety, usefulness and agency in the public transactions. The important offices he was called to fill evidence the esteem in which he was held by the people. He was successively elected an Assistant and Governor of Plymouth Colony, from 1658 to 1680, and continued to discharge that office, excepting during the interruption of Sir Edmund Andros—resumed the office of Governor in 1681, and continued until the junction of the Plymouth and Massachusetts Colonies in 1692."

His death is thus noticed in Freeman's History of Cape Cod.

"In 1706, April 25, died suddenly in Barnstable, Gov. Thomas Hinckley, at the advanced age of 86 years. A gentleman of distinguished reputation and of great energy of character, who, as we have

* Capt. Matthias Hinckley, of Barnstable, is the descendant who caused the Tablet in memory of Gov. Hinckley to be erected in 1829. He has in his possession the shattered fragments of the gravestone of Mrs. Mary (Glover) Hinckley. A letter has just been received from him stating that he is making arrangements for a monument to be erected over her grave with a suitable inscription, and to have the lot which contains the Governor's family inclosed with an iron fence.

Capt. Hinckley is a descendant of the Hon. Thomas and Mary (Glover) Hinckley, by the line of their son John Hinckley, who married Thankful Trott. seen, filled a large space in the history of the County of Barnstable, and especially in the affairs of the Plymouth Colony. In truth it may be said it was his to fill a large space in the world's history. He had stood by the cradle of the Colony in its infancy, and had been, from first to last, the associate of its great and good men, in weal or woe, and had lived, himself the chief among the surviving, to see the last chapter written in its immortal annals."

Gov. Hinckley's verses on the death of his second consort, Mrs. Mary (Glover) Hinckley, in which he enumerates her remarkable virtues and traits of character, have been preserved and are here given:

"Pity me, Oh my friends, and for me pray
To him that can supply what's taken away.
My Crown has fallen from my head, and Wo,
Wo is unto me that has sinned so,
As to provoke the Lord to shew such ire,
Which I deserve against me should burn like fire.
God righteous is in all that he hath done;
Yea, Good in lending her to me so long.
A blessing rich Forty three years and more
Had I been wise to have improved such store
Of Gifts and Grace wherewith she was endu'd,
I might in Grace have also much improv'd.
How prompt in heavenly discourse was she,
That to her own, and others good might be!
Out of her store came things both new and old,
Which she had read, or thought, or had been told.
How great my Bond to God for thankfulness
For such a Gift, for all my worthlessness.
The only Child her gracious Mother bore,
Ordained of God as a return of Prayer,
For which she with her friends employed a day
In private, and soon found it good to pray Unto the God of Nature and of Grace,
Who thus approved their seeking of His Face
In forming this fair child to shew his Praise.
Endowed with virtues in her early days,
Which grew and shined in young and riper age,
And to her Maker's Praise did much engage
All those who knew her, both of late and old,
And proved as divers Godly Wise foretold.
She by her wisdom built the house, and by Her prudent care kept all in such a way
And in such order, so as nought might be
A let or (hindrance) to worship in the family,
Or cause distraction on God's Holy day.
Yes, both at morn and even as it was need,
She did in Household Worship always lead
Her family while in her widowed state;
And in my absence, since she was my mate.
Whose good example may rebuke all those Who slight this duty and themselves expose Unto the Wrath of God which hangs o’er all Those families who on him do not call.
To rise up very early was her way;
Enter her closet strait to read and pray,
And then to call and raise her family,
And lived to see a blessing great upon
Her prayers and prudent education
Of children, such a number for the Lord
Under his Gracious Covenant and Word,
That now may say, I am through Grace divine
Thy servant, daughter, son or handmaid thine.

She highly prized a Gospel ministry,
For its support was an example high;
And while a Widow chose the Town should say
What was her part; lest self from right should stray,
And always gave more than her Rate away.
Yea, ever first would pay that pious due,
Then other debts, and on the residue
Would wisely live, and help the poor she knew.
Nor ever any want she found thereby,
And counselled her friends the like to try.
But if they would till last let that alone,
They would find nought to pay it, all would be gone.
Which some have tried and found what she said true,
And so God was not robbed of his due.
As by God’s grace she lived piously,
So by the same she lived righteously,
Chusing that she and hers might wrongs receive Than even the least to others give;
Always a pattern of Sobriety,
Meek, lowly, peaceful, prone to Charity
And freely given to Hospitality;
Behaved wisely in a perfect way
Both in the brightest and the darkest day.
She come in nothing short with count of many Of highest praise of tongue or pen of any.
Great cause we have of pious thankfulness,
For that tho’ sharpest pains did her distress,
For six weeks almost constantly that she Could take no rest, nor in the night nor day,
Yet God preserved her mind and senses clear
With exercise of Grace, that we could hear
Not the least murmuring nor impatient word,
But meek submission to her Sovereign Lord
Full of heart melting prayer and savory words
Which joy and wonderment to all affords,
Whose hearts were moved to leave your homes and see
And help her in her great extremity.
Her last words were, "Come, dear Lord Jesus, come,
And take me quickly to thy bosom dear,"
And in a few minutes had her soul's desire,
With Him whom she did love with heart entire.
Death was no terror to her nor fear,
No Ghastliness did in her face appear.
But sweet composure in her life and death,
When her dear soul she in her final breath
Resigned to him whom she beheld in faith;
Whose own she was and with him longed to be
Where she is free from sin and misery:
She entered into perfect endless rest,
And with the blest above is ever blest.

So that we have no reason to repine,
But thankfully and humbly to resign;
To his most Wise and Righteous hand therein.
Nor mourn for her, in plenitude of joy,
But for ourselves whom evils still annoy.

As a great loss to all the wisest deem,
Then sure to me and mine a loss extreme.
Now she has left, the gap is made a way
For evils to bear on us every day,
Where our iniquities deserved have Unless the Lord please, as I humbly crave,
To give repentance and remission free
Of all our sins, of mine especially.
My great defect in point of Gratitude
In prizing and improving such a good
Which as a second miracle of Grace,
After the first, who no less pious was,
And love consort, both free gifts most rare
And both in answer unto humble prayer.

As soon as I my will resigned so
To God, as to be free that he should do
As most for his own Glory He should see,
Then did their several relatives agree
To say that they had opposed our match so long
They neither dared, nor would it more prolong.
Which was so far above all expectation
As made us to admire the Dispensation.

Yet that I such wondrous works could ere forget,
Does my offences greatly aggravate:
Which has so much dishonored his name
As justly may me fill with grief and shame.
And Oh that by his grace enabling me,
I may with hate, yea, self abhorrenacy
Turn from all sin, and unto Jesus flee;
Whose meritorious and precious blood
Can cleanse from sin and reconcile to God.
Oh, may he be most highly prized by me,
And as most precious may embraced be;
May I to Him eternally be joined,
And in Him rest and satisfaction find.
By His good Spirit's mighty energy
My heart be purged from all impurity,
And filled with all grace and sanctity.
Awakened out of all my drowsy frames,
Raised up to lively heavenly views and aims,
Ever composed, humble, watchful be,
Especially upon God's Holy Day.
And when I read, hear, meditate and pray,
In holy duties never slightly be,
As if to approach the Glorious Majesty
Of God a light and trifling thing it were,
But ever look and speak to him with fear.
May bring forth much good fruit in my last days,
Living and doing more unto His praise,
Gaining much profit by Our Father's Rod,
Who can make all work out eternal good.
For all such merits great I beg the prayers
Of all who see these drops of aged tears,
That I and mine may by his mighty hand
Be kept through faith unto salvation.
And that we may neither slack or slothful be,
But follow him and that blest company,
Who through their faith and patience now possess
The full completion of the promises,
And we may fitted be at death to say,
Lord Jesus, come, and take us quick away,
To be with thee unto Eternal day.

Afflicted and distressed, but through undeserved Mercy not wholly forsaken.

T. HINCKLEY, aged 85 years.

[Third Generation.]

(1) NATHANIEL GLOVER, the eldest son of Mr. Nathaniel and Mary (Smith) Glover, was born in Dorchester, 30:1:1653, and baptized 3:2:1653, by Rev. Richard Mather. He died at Newbury farm in that town, January 6, 1723-4, aged 71 years, and was buried in the westerly part of the ancient burial yard, where his gravestone still remains, but the inscription is so much worn by time as scarcely to be deciphered. At the age of seven years, in 1660, he was placed under the guardianship of his uncle, Mr. Habackuk
Glover, of Boston, who succeeded his mother in that appointment at the time of her marriage with Gov. Hinckley and removal to Barnstable. He was placed at school in Boston, and resided in the family of his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Glover, and after her decease, in 1670, with his uncle and guardian until about the time of his own marriage. In 1672-3, at the age of twenty years, he was married to Hannah Hinckley, of Barnstable, and occupied the homestead at Dorchester a part of which was his inheritance, although, on account of his minority, the estate remained as yet undivided.

In 1674, when he had attained the age of twenty-one years, the homestead estate at Dorchester was ordered to be divided amongst the children of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, deceased. (See page 169.) Whether by the will of his father, or as the eldest son by right of primogeniture, it is not stated, but the Court ordered one half of the estate, with the house and buildings, to be settled on him as his portion, and the other half part to be shared equally between his only brother and sister, when they were of full age. He succeeded to his inheritance, and continued the business of tanning, which had been followed on the estate since the first occupation by his grandfather in 1631, and was carried on by his father until his decease in 1657, and by the lessees until the period of his succession in 1674, forty-three years from its commencement. In 1700 he resigned the business to his eldest son Nathaniel Glover, Jr., and the next year removed with his family to the Newbury farm estate, a portion of which was his by inheritance. By a deed of gift from his uncle John Glover, and by purchase from the other heirs, he soon came in possession of a considerable portion of that estate, with the houses and buildings, which he retained until his death in 1723-4.

In 1677, the second day of the eighth month, he was admitted to the Church at Dorchester;* also "Mrs. Hannah, the wife of Mr. Nathaniel Glover." In 1683 he was elected constable, and was afterwards chosen to serve as selectman, and continued in that office a few years, the last in 1715.

* "A list of those who were adults, and have personally and in public submitted themselves to the government of the Church, and have assented to the doctrines and given satisfaction to the Elders concerning their knowledge, and afterwards being proposed to the Church for their satisfaction as to their conversation and regular walking sometime before their calling forth to own the Covenant, viz., 29 (5) 1677, these persons under named were called upon in the public and owned the Covenant: Mr. Timothy Mather, Thomas Andrews, Mr. Nathaniel Glover, John Smith, and others."
Division of the Dorchester Estate by Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson.

April 28, 1674. The Honorable County Court now sitting at Boston, by their Order for the settlement of the House and lands lately belonging to the late Mr. Nathaniel Glover Dec'd, son of Mr. John Glover of Boston Dec'd, amongst the children of the above named Nathaniel Glover, viz., Nathaniel Glover, John Glover, and Anne Glover now wife unto William Rawson of Boston, did settle and divide all the said houses and lands, and apportion the one half to the said Nathaniel Glover for himself and his heirs forever, and the other half to the said William Rawson in Right of his Wife Anne, and to John Glover the second son as aforesaid, to be held by them in equal halves and by their heirs forever. Leaving only sixteen acres of Salt Marsh for themselves to divide.

And Whereas the said William Rawson hath purchased this Right of the said John Glover in said Marsh, and hath received the sum of ten shillings of the said Nathaniel Glover the eldest son, that he might take his choice of the said eight acres of said Salt Marsh lying in two nearly equal parts on a Creek running between them, and lying between the farms of the late Mr. Hawkins and Mr. Glover's Newbury Farm. The said Nathaniel Glover having chosen that eight Acres that lyeth on the Northerly side of said Creek to enjoy to him and his heirs forever. And it is agreed between them, the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, that the said William Rawson shall have and hold and keep the other eight Acres of Salt Marsh to himself and to his heirs forever, lying next to the Newbury Farm. With which division as forever to enjoy to them and to their heirs and assigns forever, and they hereby declare themselves to be fully satisfied.

28 April, 1674.

(Signed) Nathaniel Glover, William Rawson.

Acknowledged in person by the above parties, June 29, 1681.

Hannah Hinckley, the wife of Nathaniel Glover, was born in Barnstable, April 15, 1650, and died in Dorchester at Newbury farm, April 30, 1730, in her 81st year. She was buried in the ancient burial ground on the westerly side, and has a grave-stone. She was the fourth daughter of Gov. Thomas Hinckley by his first wife Mary Richards, granddaughter of Thomas and Welthean (Loring) Richards, of the early settlers of Weymouth. By the will of her maternal grandmother, made in 1679, she received five pounds as her equal and just proportion as a grandchild; and by the will of her maternal uncle, the Hon. John Richards, of Boston, she received the sum of two hundred pounds in money, and silver plate to the amount of ten pounds. From her father she received a competent portion upon her marriage with Mr. Nathaniel Glover. After her marriage and removal to Dorchester, she was admitted to join the Church there, 2 (8) 1677.

Nathaniel Glover to Ebenezer Billings — A Division.

To all Christian People to whom these Presents shall come—Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester, in His Majesty's Territory of New England, Sendeth Greeting: Know Ye, That Whereas John Glover, Esq., late of Dorchester Deceased, did by his last Will and Testament devise and bequeath unto his four sons, viz., To Habackuk Glover, John Glover, Nathaniel Glover and Pelatiah Glover, a Certain Messuage or Farm in said Dorchester, commonly called and known by the name Newbury Farm, to be equally divided to them and their Heirs: And Whereas Ebenezer Billings having purchased the Right of Habackuk Glover, and John Glover, and Nathaniel Glover in right of the Heirs of his father Mr. Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester Dec'd, and Pelatiah Glover, have by mutual consent made a Division of said Farm in Four equal parts as by a Deed of Division under their hands and Seals may appear: And Whereas Ebenezer Billings aforesaid hath purchased a fourth part of that Share belonging to the Heirs of Nathaniel Glover Dec'd, of John the son of said Nathaniel Glover Dec'd, Now Know Ye, That I the said Nathaniel Glover have by my full and free consent set and laid out unto Ebenezer Billings aforesaid, as his Fourth part of the said Division, in right of my brother John

Depositions

Of Henry Leadbetter and Elizabeth Weeks, taken at Dorchester, January 13th, 1718, in relation to the heirship of Nathaniel Glover Senior.
We Henry Leadbetter of Dorchester in New England, aged Eighty Six Years, and Elizabeth Weeks of said Dorchester, aged Eighty Five Years, do testify and say that in the year 1648 we both of us lived with Mr. John Glover of Dorchester aforesaid, who was afterwards a Magistrate, and continued with him during his life.

And we do further testify that the said Mr. John Glover, who upon the Records of the said Town of Dorchester is called "Mr. Glover," was one of the first or Original Proprietors of said Town.

And we do further testify and say, that the said Mr. John Glover left his son Nathaniel Glover in the possession of his House and Homestead in said town of Dorchester, The which House and Homestead was afterwards possessed by Nathaniel Glover Sen', now living, who was the reputed son and heir to Mr. Nathaniel Glover aforesaid deceased, and Grandson to Mr. John Glover the Original Proprietor in said Town of Dorchester.

Henry [L] Leadbetter.

The above-named Henry Leadbetter and Elizabeth Weeks personally appeared before Us the subscribers, and made oath to the truth of the above-written deposition in perpetual Memoriam.

Penn Townsend, Timothv Clarke, Justices of the Peace.

(Endorsed January 13, 1718)

Recorded with the Records of Deeds for the County of Suffolk, Lib. 38, fol. 186.

The above depositions were taken when it became necessary to determine who were the heirs of Mr. John Glover, in order to make a division of his Common and Undivided lands.

Towards the close of his life, Nathaniel Glover, Senior, was brought into an unpleasant controversy with the proprietors of Dorchester New Grant about the Common and Undivided Lands, which embarrassed and annoyed him. He was a shareholder of these lands in the right of his grandfather, and in his own right he was entitled to one half of the quantity of land as set out to Mr. Glover in every single division of the proprietor's lands, as stated in the first apportionment. It appears that in 1713 these lands were surveyed, new proprietors admitted, and a new apportionment made, which was so disproportionate to the grants made by the original proprietors, that it caused much dissatisfaction among the shareholders, and they continued to keep possession in some places according to the original apportionment. The controversy commenced in the year 1718–19, by a petition for a partition of land in the possession of Glovers, to which the petitioners claimed a right in common with them in a tract containing eight hundred and eight acres, lying in the township of Dorchester New Grant. It was brought by Ralph Pope of Dorchester, Sherebiah Butt of Boston, Samuel Butt of Canterbury, Ct., Benjamin Billings of Dorchester, and Thomas Maudsley, administrator on the estate of Samuel Rigbee, against Nathaniel Glover, Sen., and Nathaniel Glover, Jr., as a suit for partition. Judgment was rendered in the Inferior Court in favor of the petitioners, and the Glovers appealed to the Superior Court, selecting for their counsel the most able men of the time — Robert Auchmuty and R. Buckminster, Esqrs. — whose ability, superior judgment and knowledge of the English law were unsurpassed. The appellees also employed eminent counsel. The Glovers appeared and entered a Plea of Rights in their own names, and the case was committed to a jury who returned for their verdict a reversion of the former judgment of the Inferior Court, and decided that the Glovers should receive, out of the twenty-five divisions, five hundred acres instead of the two hundred which were granted at the Inferior Court, or three hundred pounds in money and costs of court. The Glovers were still dissatisfied, as were also their counsel.

The following documents, from original papers, give some account of the controversy and the issue, commencing in 1719 and terminating in 1725. Nathaniel Glover, Sen., had passed to his rest, and the case was continued by Nathaniel Glover, Jr., who was also himself a proprietor in his own right and in the right of his father. Other proprietors also, in other names, were dissatisfied with their apportionments by the new proprietors, and on being sued for partition, defended their claims, and consequently the controversy was prolonged to the period above stated.

Depositions were taken from the following persons: Henry Leadbetter and Elizabeth Weeks, January 13, 1718; and from John Blackman and John Blackman, Jr., on March 18th, 1719, after the trial and decision of the Inferior Court.

Suit for Partition.

Suffolk ss. George, by the Grace of God, of Great Britain, France and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c.

To Nathaniel Glover Sen’, Yeoman, and Nathaniel Glover, Tanner, both of Dorchester in Our said County of Suffolk, as they are Proprietors of Dorchester aforesaid, Greeting:

To Nathaniel Glover Sen’, Yeoman, and Nathaniel Glover, Tanner, both of Dorchester in Our said County of Suffolk, as they are Proprietors of Dorchester aforesaid, Greeting:
We command you, that you Appear at Our next Inferior Court of Common Pleas to be Holden at Boston within and for Our County of Suffolk aforesaid, on the First Tuesday of April next ensuing. Then and there to Answer to Ralph Pope of Dorchester aforesaid; Sherebiah Butt of Boston aforesaid; Goodman Samuel Butt of the Town of Canterbury in the County of New London in the Colony of Connecticut, Husbandman; Benjamin Billings of Dorchester aforesaid, Husbandman; and Thomas Maudsley of Dorchester aforesaid, yeoman, as he is Administrator to the Estate of Samuel Rigbee aforesaid of Dorchester, Cordwainer, Dec's. In a Plea of Partition, for that the Plaintiffs and you the Defendants, together and undivided hold and enjoy in Common, A Certain Tract or Parcel of Land Containing Eight Hundred and Seventy Eight Acres Lying in the Township of Dorchester aforesaid, being called Dorchester New Grant in the County Aforesaid.

For that Whereas, by a Meeting of the Proprietors of Dorchester aforesaid, the said Tract was heretofore divided in several Lots and Ranges: and the Twenty First and Twenty Second Lots containing part of the Sixth and all of the Seventh and part of the Eighth Range falling to the place of the Plaintiffs, as by a certain plan may appear, according to their several shares and numbers therein mentioned. And the Plaintiffs say that you ought to come to a Division with them of the said Lots, so that they may lay out their shares and Division thereof in severalty, and may be at Liberty to Improve the same.

Yet you the defendants, though often requested to make Partition of the same according to the forme of the Statute in such Cases made and Provided, Do deny and refuse to permit or suffer the same to be done, contrary to the forme of the Statutes Aforesaid.

Whereupon the Plaintiffs say they are made Worse, and have sustained Damage, as they say, Three Hundred Pounds.

Which Plea the said Ralph Pope, Sherebiah Butt, Samuel Butt, Benjamin Billings, and Thomas Maudsley, Adm's, &c., have commenced against you, to be heard and Tried at the said Court; And your Goods or Estate are attached to the Value of Three Hundred Pounds, being for Security to satisfy Judgment, which the said Ralph Pope, Sherebiah Butt, Samuel Butt, Benjamin Billings, and Thomas Maudsley (Admin'), may recover on the Aforesaid Tryal. Fail not of your Appearance at your Peril.

Witness, Penn Townsend, Esq., at Boston, the Twenty First day of March, in the Sixth year of our Reign, Anno Dom's 1719.

Glovers against Allen — Reasons for Appeal.

Nathaniel Glover, Senior, and Of Dorchester in New England, Nathaniel Glover, Junior, Appealants.

To the Honorable His Majesty's Judge of the Supreme Court of Judicature, to be holden at Boston within and for the County of Suffolk, on the first Tuesday in November, Anno Dom's 1718.
The Appealants Reasons of Appeal from the Judgment of an Inferior Court of Common Pleas, holden at Boston on the First Tuesday in October, 1718.

The Action was a Plea of Partition brought by the Appellees then Plaintiffs against the Appealants for not dividing a certain Tract or Parcel of Land containing Seven Hundred Acres, as described in the Writ, to which for Issue the said Appealants pleaded "Not Guilty." Nothing held in Common with them.

Thereupon the Cause was committed to the Jury, who find for the Plaintiffs the Partition sued for, and costs of suit and Judgment Accordingly. Which Judgment is wrong, erroneous, and ought to be reversed: for the Reasons following.

That Judgment ought to have been for the Defendants (now Appealants). The Costs of Court.

For that the Defendants upon trial disclaimed holding any part of the said Premises in Common with the Appellees. Therefore upon such disclaiming it is held to be absurd that they should be compelled to make Partition or Division before the Appellees, by Trespass of Ejectment, hath Established a Right in Common with the Now Appealants. The Title whereby the Appellees pretend to hold in Common with the Appealants is by a Vote of the Proprietors of Dorchester, dated September, 1713. At which time the said Proprietors took upon themselves to make Divisions of the Common and Undivided Lands of the Town, and stated proportions contrary to Justice, as by the Original Records of the Town upon Trial will appear.

Therefore the said Votes and Divisions should be made void and of none effect, and the Appellees' Title consequently illegal.

But admitting the Appellees have a controverted Title to a Division in the Premises; surely that matter must be first tried before they can be admitted to a Partition, because in Partition the Law presumes the Title is not disputed, but admitted by the Defendants, which Title the Appealants in this Case doth not admit.

Therefore the Appellees must by Judgment of Court establish their Title before they can bring Partition. 4thly, The said Proprietors took upon themselves to divide and distribute Lands that were by former Votes of the Town of Dorchester appropriated; and the Appealants having a particular stated interest therein, the same cannot be restrained and Lessened but by a Jury of Twelve Men. For no man's Property can by law be taken from him but by a Judicial Trial, and cannot be Voted away by a Convention of Men.

Whereupon, for all which Reasons offered upon Tryal, the Appealants doubt not but your Honors, the Gentlemen of the Jury, will see sufficient Cause to reverse the former Judgment and give your Appealants Costs of Court.

R. Auchmuty, for Appealants.

A True Copy, Examined.
Statement of Judge Auchmuty in the Case of Grovers vs. Dorchester Proprietors.

Nathaniel Glover Sen't, of Dorchester, within the County of Suffolk and in the Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, Yeoman; and Nathaniel Glover Junior, of the same Town and County aforesaid, Tanner. Being one of the Proprietors of the Undivided Lands in the Township of Dorchester aforesaid, Appealed from the Judgment of the Inferior Court begun and holden at Boston the first Tuesday of March, 1718-19, wherein the Appellant was Plaintiff and the Appellees Defendants in a Plea of a Case, viz.: Whereas, the said Proprietors in the Year of Our Lord 1636, 1637 and 1638, stated the Propriety and did order that the Lands within the Township of Dorchester aforesaid, should be divided in such proportions as follows, viz.:

That Mr. Glover of Dorchester aforesaid, Deceased, One of the Original Proprietors of the aforesaid Dorchester Lands, under whom the Plaintiffs claim as true and Lawful Heirs, Should have Thirty-Six Acres, Two Quarters and Twenty-Five Rods of Land out of every single division aforesaid.

Now the Plaintiffs in fact saith that Whereas the said Proprietors have laid out Twenty-Five Divisions of Land so called, beyond the Blew Hills in Dorchester New Grant (so called), as in Court shall fully appear, in which said Divisions the Plaintiff saith there should be laid out to him Nathaniel Glover Senior, son of Mr. Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester Deceased (in 1651), and Grandson to the Honourable John Glover, alias "Mr. Glover of Dorchester," Deceased 11 (12) 1653, the number of Thirty-Six Acres, Two Quarters and Twenty-Five Rods of Land in each Division of the aforesaid Twenty-Five Divisions of Land, which will amount to Nine Hundred and Sixteen Acres in the Right aforesaid.

Yet Notwithstanding the Proprietors aforesaid have allowed or laid out but Eight Acres in every single Division, which amounts to but Two Hundred Acres in the Twenty-Five Divisions aforesaid, and which is Seven Hundred and Sixteen Acres and One Quarter less than his due Proportion. To the damage of the said Nathaniel Glover Sen't, of (£1000) One Thousand Pounds.

At which Inferior Court Judgment was rendered for Nathaniel Glover Senior, and the Plaintiffs to recover against the Now Appellees the sum of Seventy One Pounds, Twelve Shillings in money, damage and Costs of Court.

Both Parties appeared, the which Judgment, Reasons of Appeal, and all things touching the same, being fully heard; the Case was committed to the Jury, who returned their Verdict upon Oath—1st, That they find for the Plaintiffs a Reversion of the former Judgment of the [Inferior Court.]

Also Five Hundred Acres of Land in the Twenty-Five Divisions of Land, over and above the Two Hundred Acres which he now possesses; or, as an equivalent (£300) Three Hundred Pounds in Money and Costs of Court; and that it therefore be considered that the Judgment of the Inferior Court be reversed at his Majesty's Superior Court, begun and Holden at Boston in the County of Suffolk on the first Tuesday, 1719.

ROBERT AUCHMUTY,
R. BUCKMINSTER, for Plaintiffs, vs. DORCHESTER PROPRIETORS.
Plea of Nathaniel Glover, Senior, and Nathaniel Glover, Junior, for a just Division of the Common and Undivided Lands.

We the Proprietors of the Common and Undivided Lands in Dorchester New Grant, send Greeting: Know ye, That a rule of proportion was made to Four Hundred and Eighty Proprietors on the 9th of May, One Thousansd Six Hundred and Thirty Seven, and every Inhabitant then Incumbent in that Town had each man his proportion made according to the Rule, a list whereof has been preserved to this day. And an Order made the 16th of January, 1637, that all the land within Dorchester (Common and Undivided Lands) shall be divided according to said Rule, &c. The records of which in Court will appear.

And the Law relating to said Lands stated each man’s proportion in each Division. And the law also gives the Proprietors a power to order, improve and divide said lands; But does not give a power to state a new proportion thereby to cut off the former, being orderly and regularly made as aforesaid. Yet notwithstanding some persons privately, in the year 1713, took it upon themselves to make out a List of Proprietors as they are called, with a new proportion, and thereby cut off the former stated Proprietors. And they, being so great and so numerous when come together, that they carried all before them like a flood. And they got them a Book and entered there-in the names of their new Proprietors. And for the support thereof a Warrant was obtained from Chief Justice Lynde for a Proprietors’ Meeting. And a Meeting was accordingly called. Edmund Quinsy was chosen Moderator, and Samuel Paul (as he calls himself) Proprietor’s Clerk. And now they suppose themselves to be strong and unmovable, and empowered to act for the former Proprietors. But they had no particulars inserted in their Warrant to appoint any other way for the calling of Meetings. And the Law says nothing shall be acted at a Proprietor’s Meeting but what is inserted in the Warrant of the Chief Justice. And these Proprietors met by the said Warrant and adjourned their Meeting, and no Moderator appearing, nor a new one being chosen, the Warrant was dissolved, and the whole pretend-ed Proprietors dropped with it, having nothing else to support it; and there being now no Warrant subsisting, and therefore no other Lawful Proprietors, it was thought needful and Lawful by Six of the Proprietors to go to a Justice for a Warrant for a Proprietors’ meeting, for the purpose of reviving and bringing to life the Original Proprietors who had been cut off, wronged and excluded by the aforesaid new Usurpers.

But the New Proprietors being now somewhat afraid of such a movement, they had proposed that so many of the Justices should decide the case, and that there was a Warrant subsisting, which was false. We were obliged to travel near Seventy miles to procure from Mr. Justice Chandler a Warrant according to law for a Proprietors’ Meeting, in order to recover and maintain the Ancient Rights of the Original Proprietors of the Town of Dorchester as aforesaid in 1713. And a Proprietors’ meeting of the Original and lawful Proprietors was in December, 1719, called by virtue of a Warrant from Justice Chandler, and as many as met accordingly chose Mr. Brewer Moderator, and Preserved Capen was chosen Clerk, and another way appointed to call Proprietors' Meetings for the future, agreeably to the law as we consider it.*

Deposition

Of John Blackman and John Blackman, Junior, in the case between Dorchester Proprietors and Nathaniel Glover, Senior.

Dorchester, March 18, 1719. John Blackman Senior, and John Blackman Junior, in the house of John Blackman, testifieth and saith that on the fifth day of February last past, We the deponents did hear Increase Robinson, of Taunton, in the County of Bristol say, that in the Case between Dorchester Proprietors and Nathaniel Glover, he did not fear that the Glovers would get the case if they could have justice done them, but Col. Townsend had taken a false oath and was not fit for a Jury.

* The notification for the calling of the meeting, as copied from Vol.1, page 13, of Dorchester Records, is as follows: "A Notification to the Original Proprietors of the Common and Undivided Lands within the Township of Dorchester in the County of Suffolk, to meet on the 21 December, 1719, to consider and transact affairs hereafter mentioned.

"1st, To choose a Moderator.
"2d, To choose a Clerk.
"3d, To choose a Committee to sue any person or persons illegally possessed of any lands in said Dorchester, beyond the Blew Hills, called the New Grant.
"4th, To appoint some other way for calling a meeting for the future, by virtue of a Warrant.

[December 4, 1719."

Dorchester, December 21, 1719. "At a meeting of the Original Proprietors or their legal representatives, of Dorchester, at the Meeting-House, on the aforesaid day, Legally Warned by virtue of a Warrant from Mr. John Chandler, &c. The same day Preserved Capen was chosen Clerk for the Proprietors; and Nathaniel Brewer, Timothy Tilestone, Joseph Hall, Nathaniel Glover, Junior, and Preserved Capen, were chosen to be a Committee to call meetings for the future."

The above Committee proceeded to act, and to carry out the laws and rules laid down by the Original Proprietors, as had been given and recorded at stated times since the first action and recognition of their claims by the Joint Stock Company, viz.: in 1636, 1637, 1638, meetings were held and agreements were made as to rights of propriety and modes of division. In 1651, the 1 (10), another meeting was held and apportionments made in the Three Divisions, which did not extend to Dorchester New Grant. The 1 (14) 1663–4, William Stoughton, Esq., at a meeting of the Proprietors, brought in a return list of the rights of the Proprietors under his own hand, as copied from his father's book, attested by Edward Rawson. In 1667, 1681, 1697, and 1698, the Proprietors had met, and their proceedings were on record. The Committee of 1719, above chosen, based their course of action on the transactions and agreements of their predecessors, and continued to call their meetings by virtue of a Warrant.

Controversy, which was prolonged until about six years after, will appear in the history of his eldest son, Nathaniel Glover, Jr.

(2) John Glover, second son of Nathaniel and Mary (Smith) Glover, was born in Dorchester, 15 (12) 1654, and baptized 18 (12) 1654, by Rev. Richard Mather, when three days old. He died August 26th, 1690, in his 36th year, and was buried in the ancient burial yard, on the westerly side. He has a grave-stone.

In 1660, at the age of six years, his mother was married to Gov. Thomas Hinckley and removed to Barnstable, and he was placed under the guardianship of his uncle Mr. Habackuk Glover, and went to reside with his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Glover, of Boston, where he attended school until of a suitable age to acquire a trade. In 1668, or about that time, when at the age of fourteen years, Antony Checkley, Esq., of Boston, was appointed to be his guardian in the place of his uncle Habackuk Glover. He learned the cooper's trade; but to whom he was apprenticed is not known. In all land transactions or transfers he is designated by his trade, as "John Glover, cooper," to distinguish him from his uncle John, who was "John Glover, Gentleman," or "merchant." He was twice married: first, at the age of about eighteen years, in 1672, to Mary —~, who died in Dorchester, April 30, 1687, and is buried there. It is supposed there were more children by this marriage than the one given below, but they have not been identified or become known in this branch of the family. The unfortunate circumstances which seem to be connected with the life of John Glover (cooper), from the time of his early marriage to the close of his short life; his disposal of his birthright and estate of inheritance; his protracted illness, &c., conspire to cast an obscurity around his history, which if elucidated and explained would be very interesting now to know. The tracing and following out of those children which are inserted here, have been attended with almost insurmountable difficulties, especially the one by his first marriage, and the work is still incomplete. That connected with the son by his last marriage has been almost as difficult;

* From such evidence as could be collected, it appears that Mary, the first wife of John Glover (cooper), was in some way connected with the family of Proctor. She may have been a daughter of Samuel Proctor, who made a conveyance to John Glover in 1672. When the estate was sold to Joseph Lowell, in 1675, Mary joins in the sale as an estate of inheritance. The evidence is, however, too slight and indefinite to allow of any certainty in the conclusion.
but in some lines the eighth generation has been reached. In 1688 he was married a second time, to Miriam Smith, of Boston (a daughter of John Smith), who survived him, and died in Dorchester August 23d, 1720. They had one son.

Child of John and Mary (——) Glover, born in Boston:
+12. Robert, b. 1673; married ——.

And by his second wife, Miriam Smith, born in Dorchester:
+13. John, b. May 6, 1689; bap. May 12, 1689;
   m. 1st, Hannah Capen, of Dorchester.
   m. 2d, Lydia Norcott, of Roxbury.

In 1672, at the age of eighteen years, he purchased a house and land in Boston, of Samuel Proctor (cooper). The conveyance is from Samuel Proctor and Mary his wife to John Glover (cooper), of Boston. The consideration, £150. They alienate to him as follows:
"All that my now dwelling-house and the land on which it standeth, Butted and Bounded as followeth—Northerly, on that part of the house I formerly sold to Thomas Sheepcote, and now in his possession; Southerly, on land of Richard Wood; Westerly, on land of Mrs. Oliver (widow). And also all my piece of land lying between the said housing and the land of Jonathan Balston, containing six feet in breadth, always excepting and reserving unto the said Sheepcote and his heirs and assigns for ingress and egress and regress through the said six feet as aforesaid, so far as the Southernmost part of said house extends and no farther; which is to the middle of the Chimney. To have and to hold the said Dwelling-house and land unto him the said John Glover, his heirs and assigns forever.
He and they paying to the use of the free schools in Boston the sum of Eight Shillings yearly and every year forever."

The above conveyance, although bargained for in 1672, was not signed, as it appears, until three years after.

The instrument by which the above transfer was made, was ac-nowledged in person, January 15, 1675, by Samuel Proctor and Mary Proctor.

In 1674, two years after his first marriage, the Dorchester homestead estate was settled by an order from Court (see page 169), and one fourth part was assigned to him as his share or portion. He was still a minor, and Antony Checkley, Esq., of Boston, who had been appointed his guardian, acted for him in the division with his elder brother Nathaniel Glover, and in the subsequent subdivision which was to be made between him and William Rawson, the husband of his sister Anne.

He disposed of this inheritance soon after to his brother Nathaniel; and also to William Rawson, 5 (11) 1675, of four acres of salt marsh.

March 13, 1675, John Glover (cooper) and Mary his wife sold his house and land, purchased of Samuel Proctor, of Boston (cooper), to Joseph Lowell — his wife Mary joining in the sale of the premises, as an estate of inheritance.

John and Mary Glover to Joseph Lowell.

Dec. 4, 1679, John Glover (cooper) made out a Deed of Sale, which is conditional, to his uncle Mr. John Glover, of Boston, merchant, of all his right of inheritance in Newbury farm. Extract from the deed:

To all Christian people unto whom this present Deed of Sale shall or may come. Know ye, That I John Glover, Cooper, of Boston, son of Mr. Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester, deceased, sendeth Greeting: Whereas I the said John Glover in consideration of the sum of Eighty Pounds Current Money of New England, to me in hand paid before the delivery of these Presents, by my uncle John Glover of Boston in New England, Merchant, the whereof to my full content and satisfaction I do hereby acknowledge, do acquit and discharge, &c. unto the said John Glover my Uncle, all this my estate, Right, Title and Inheritance, Interest and Proportion in a certain Farm lying in said Dorchester, commonly called and known by the name of Newberry Farm, sometime the Estate of my Grandfather the late Hon. to hold unto him my said Uncle John Glover, his heirs and assigns, &c. And I do hereby covenant and agree with my said Uncle John Glover, his heirs and assigns, &c.

In witness whereof, I the first named John Glover do set my hand and seal this 4th day of Dec. 1679. (Signed) John Glover.

Acknowledged by John Glover, jr., before Edward Tyng, Assistant.

May 20, 1680, John Glover of Boston, merchant, conveys back to his "Nephew John Glover of Boston, cooper, the one sixteenth part of Newbury Farm, together with all the other rights and titles to land which he received from his said Nephew by a deed of sale bearing date Dec. 4, 1679." Consideration, fifty pounds, paid to him by his nephew, and also "in consideration of several Deeds of Sale, Writings, Mortgages, &c., by which he received the above named real estate, he releases to his said Nephew, and makes void the Deed of Sale, and guarantees and confirms unto him all the above-named Rights so conveyed to him."

Four days after the above was confirmed, May 24, 1680, John Glover of Boston, cooper, sold his right of inheritance in Newbury farm, being one sixteenth part of said farm, to Ebenezer Billings of Dorchester. Bounds described in deed, which was signed by John Glover and Mary Glover, and acknowledged in person before Edward Everett.

Soon after the confirmation of his inheritance in Newbury farm to Ebenezer Billings, John Glover removed to Barnstable — or perhaps before, as the following notice appears on the Plymouth Colony Records, 1679, Vol. 6, p. 130: "Ye names of such as stand pronounced or approved to take their Freedom, were Samuel Sargent, John Glover, William Bradford, Jun." July 7, 1680, the name of John Glover appears in a list of witnesses in a protest made the 13th of November, 1679, in regard to the shipwreck of the sloop Anne and Elizabeth, of New York, commanded by Alexander Watts. "It is stated that he the appearer (Watts) being bound on a voyage from New York to Boston, in the government and jurisdiction of Massachusetts, and being on his course from Martha's Vineyard towards Boston, and being over night, gotten over or past the pitch of Cape Cod, intending to fetch Cape Anne for a harbor, &c., was shipwrecked and cast away on Cape Cod." Affirmed and witnessed by Alex-
Memorials and Genealogies.

John Glover was for several years an inhabitant of Barnstable. He owned a house and land there, and a cooper's shop. It is recorded on the Town Book of Records, in 1680, that in laying out a new road, it is to "pass the shop of John Glover." January 9, 1684, at a meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Barnstable, John Glover was admitted townsman. He took the oath of freeman in Barnstable, June 5, 1684. "The names of Freemen who stand propounded and approved to take their Freedom, and who took the oath of fidelity at this Court, were Samuel Sargent, John Glover, and William Bradford, Junior." Thomas Hinckley was then Governor of the Plymouth Colony. In 1688 he was again in Dorchester, and married to his second wife. In 1689 he had a son born to him there, and in 1690 he died.

Copy from the inscription on his grave-stone:

"Here lies buried ye body of John Glover, a son of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, of Dorchester. Deceased Aug. 25, 1690, aged 35 years."

Letters of administration were granted on the 21st day of August, 1693, to Timothy Thornton, on the Estate of John Glover (cooper), deceased, intestate.

The following is a copy of the order for administration:

To Timothy Thornton, of Boston, in the said County of Suffolk, Merchant, Creditor to the estate of John Glover, late of Dorchester, cooper, Deceased, Intestate, Greeting. Trusting in your care and fidelity, I do by these Presents commit unto you full Power to administer all and singular, on the Goods, Chattels, Rights and Credits of the said John Glover, and well and faithfully to dispose of the same according to Law. And also to ask, gather, levy, Recover and receive all whatsoever of the said Deceased, which to him while he lived and at his death did appertain. And also to pay all debts in which the deceased stood bound, so far as his Goods, Chattels, Rights and Credits can extend. And to make a true and perfect inventory of all and singular of Goods, Chattels, Rights and Credits of the said Deceased; and to exhibit the same into the Register's office in the above said County before the 21st day of November next ensuing, and to render a plain, true account of your Administration upon Oath, at or before the 20th day of August, A.D. 1694. And I do by these Presents ordain and constitute and appoint you Administrator of all and Singular of the Goods, Chattels, Rights, Credits, &c.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal at the said office, dated at Boston, this 21st day of August, 1693.

(Signed) William Stoughton.

Attest: Jonathan Addington.
It has not been ascertained whether Timothy Thornton ever acted on the above administration. No inventory appears on the Probate Records of Suffolk County at the time required, or subsequently to that time. It appears from the foregoing that all Mr. Glover's estate in Boston had been disposed of, and all his rights of inheritance in Dorchester and Milton, with his share of one sixteenth part of Newbury farm. Of his property in Barnstable, also, there appears to be no mention after he returned to Dorchester, which could have been only about three years before his decease.

The following inventory and account was rendered to the Probate Court in 1730, which, although forty years had elapsed, appears unmistakably to relate to the above John Glover, cooper.

Boston, April 15, 1730.

Miriam Smith, the second wife of John Glover of Boston and Barnstable, was born in Boston, and died in Dorchester, August 23, 1720. She was the fourth daughter of John and Miriam Smith, of Boston. Her father was the eldest son of Quarter-master John Smith, by his second wife Mary, and was born in Dorchester. He died in Boston, September 17, 1676, and left a widow and six children.
January 30, 1676-7, power of administration and letters were granted on the estate of John Smith, Jr., late of Dorchester, to Miriam his widow and relict — she bringing in an inventory of said estate upon oath, and giving bonds according to law. Inventory entered and recorded 18 (12) 1676, vol. 12, folio 153, Suffolk Probate Records. Taken by Richard Hall and Enoch Wiswall.

Miriam, the widow of John Smith, married a second time, about 1680, to Ellis Wood, of Dedham and Dorchester, who died in 1696.
He left a will, dated July 21, 1694, wherein he appoints his beloved wife Miriam sole executrix, and his worthy friends Elder James Blake and Samuel Clapp, overseers. Witnessed by Ralph Houghton, Nathaniel Glover and Samuel Topliff. She was distinguished for piety and other rare gifts. For the remainder of her life, after her second widowhood, she became a teacher of youth in Dorchester, and devoted herself to that employment. She was a member of the Church at Dorchester, and had her children presented for baptism, as shown by the following extracts from the Church Records:

"19:9:1682. Baptized the children of John Smith, Deceased, and Miriam, afterwards the wife of Ellis Wood, viz.: James and Mary, Anna, Miriam, Sarah and David." "10:14:1683. James and Mary, the son and daughter of John Smith, Deceased; but their mother, the Wife of Ellis Wood, being in full communion, James and Mary being adults, this same day owned the Covenant."

Mrs. Miriam (Smith) Wood, the mother of Miriam, wife of John Glover, died in Dorchester, and her death is thus recorded on the Church Records: — "Died Oct. 29, 1706, the Ancient and pious Widow Wood." She was buried in Dorchester, and has a gravestone at the Northwesterly part of the old burying yard, with the following inscription:

"In Memory of Mrs. Miriam Wood, Widow of Ellis Wood, and formerly Wife of John Smith, Deceased; died in Dorchester, Oct. 29, 1706. Aged 73 years.

A Woman well beloved of all her neighbours
From her care of small folks education,
Their number being great,
That when she died she scarcely left her Mate.
So wise, discreet was her behaviours,
That she was well esteemed by all her neighbours.
She lived in love with all, to dye
So let her rest to Eternaty."

Her age at death, as nearly as can be deciphered from the gravestone, was 73 years, which seems to confirm the conjecture that before marriage she was Miriam Deane, daughter of Stephen Deane, of Plymouth.

Thus it appears that Miriam Smith was presented for baptism by her mother about six years after the death of her father. The precise date of her marriage with John Glover has not been ascertained by any record, but the following notice appears on the records of the Dorchester Church. "20 (3) 1688. Miriam, the wife of John Glover and daughter of John Smith, Deed, owned the Covenant." Their only son, "John, the son of John Glover, was baptized May 12, 1689, not in full communion."
(3) ANNE GLOVER, only daughter of Mr. Nathaniel and Mary (Smith) Glover, was born in Dorchester in the year 1656, and died in Braintree at the Rawson homestead about 1730, aged 74 years. The place of her burial is supposed to be in the ancient cemetery at Quincy. At the age of four years, in 1660, her mother, being married to Gov. Thomas Hinckley, went to Barnstable to live, leaving her children in Boston under the care of Mrs. Anna Glover, their grandmother, and under their duly-appointed guardians, Mr. Habackuk Glover and Mr. John Gurnell, who had the care of their education. After the decease of her grandmother in 1670, she went to reside in the family of her uncle Habackuk Glover, where she remained until her marriage. In 1673, at the age of eighteen years, she was married, at the house of her uncle and guardian, to Mr. William Rawson, a wealthy merchant of Boston, of distinguished family and connections. The following is a copy of the record of her marriage, as taken from the ancient family Bible, now in the possession of one of the Rawson descendants.

"This may certify all whomsoever it may concern, that on ye 11th day of July, 1673, on a certificate I received that William Rawson and Anne Glover ye daughter of the late Mr. Nathaniel Glover had been duly and legally published, I joined them in marriage, at the house and in the presence of Mr. Habackuk Glover, his wife, Mr. Edward Rawson, father of the said William, and other friends; as witness my hand, this 31st day of July, 1673. EDWARD TYNG, Ass'd."

"27 (6) 1676, was Anne, the daughter of Mr. Nathaniel Glover, now wife unto William Rawson, dismissed unto the third Church in Boston, though not in full communion, but by her father's Covenant."

— Dorchester Church Records.

It appears from the records of the first Church in Boston, that William and Anne Rawson were received and admitted to that Church, 27 (2) 1676.

Dorcas, her negro, being a member of the Church in Dorchester, was dismissed 27 (6) 1676, to join the first Church at Boston; and 24 (4) 1677, was received and admitted to the latter Church.

The inherited estate of Anne Glover was one fourth part of the Dorchester homestead, which formerly belonged to her father, Mr. Nathaniel Glover, deceased, and which was settled on her by an order of Court in 1674, one year after her marriage; one twelfth part of Newbury farm, which formerly belonged to her grandfather,
NATHANIEL GLOVER.

John Glover, Esq., of Boston; also a share in the Common and Undivided Lands in Dorchester New Grant and elsewhere.

In 1684, William Rawson, and Anne Rawson in her own right, by deed of sale bearing date the 30th day of April, 1684, conveyed and sold to John Harwood, Esq., of Boston, "Thirty-six acres and one half and fifteen Rods of land in the Township of Dorchester in the County of Suffolk, &c., said land being in the 65th lot in the Third Division of the Cow Walk. Bounded on the North by the lot formerly owned by Edward Bullock, which is the 64th lott; on the South by the lott now owned by Thomas Millet, being the 66th lott, the Westerly end butting on the five hundred acres belonging to ———; the Easterly end butting on the other Divisions, together with all the privileges, appurtenances, &c., with any former and after Rights in any former and after divisions."* Signed by William Rawson and Anne Rawson.

In 1689, William and Anne Rawson, in consideration of two hundred pounds in money paid to them by her uncle "John Glover, of Boston, Gentleman," sold to him their dwelling house, barn, &c., as shown by the following extract from the original deed, written on parchment and signed by them.

"Dwelling house and Barn in Boston, at the Southerly End, near Capt. Samuel Sewall's house; said house containing three lower rooms, two chambers and a cellar, one wood-house and a Brewhouse, with all the land on which it standeth; likewise all the garden on the South-westerly side of the said house, and all the land at the South-Easterly End of it. Butted and bounded as follows: At the South-Easterly end on the Street to the Widow Morse's Land, on the land of Capt. Samuel Sewall; Southwesterly by the land of the Widow Morse; Northwesterly by the land of William Rawson, and North Easterly by the Street leading to the Waterside. And measures at said South Easterly side Sixty seven feet and three inches from the corner of the street aforesaid to the Widow Morse's house; thence on a straight line all along the Widow Morse's land Eighty two feet; thence to the street on a straight line is Sixty four feet and three inches or thereabouts; thence along the street (beginning three feet

William Rawson, the husband of Anne Glover, was born in Boston, May 21, 1651; was baptized "26 (3) 1651," and died in Brain-tree, September 20, 1726, in his 75th year. He was the third son of Edward and Rachael (Perne) Rawson, who came from Gillingham in Dorsetshire, England, and settled in Newbury in the Colony of Massachusetts in New England, in the year 1636 or '37. His father was a lineal descendant of Sir Edward Rawson of that County, and was born at the village of Gillingham, upon the River Stour, April 16, 1615. On his arrival at Newbury he was first made freeman in March, 1637-8, and in April of the same year was invested with the office of Public Notary and Registrar for the town of Newbury. He was elected Representative, and served the town in that capacity from 1639 to 1643. He was seven years a Deputy to the General Court at Boston, from 1643 to 1650, and held at the same time the office of Clerk of the Deputies from 1645. May 22, 1650, he was elected to the office of Secretary of the Massachusetts Colony in New England, and served in that capacity until his decease. He removed to Boston in 1650, and died there August 27th, 1693, at the age of 78 years.

The mother of William Rawson was a granddaughter of Rev. John Hooker, whose wife was Rachael Grindall, a sister of Dr. Edmund Grindall, Archbishop of Canterbury in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. His paternal grandmother was a sister of the Rev. John Wilson. Thus he was descended from two of New England's greatest divines, and collaterally connected with the distinguished Archbishop of Canterbury.
William Rawson was educated to a mercantile life, and became a prominent merchant and an importer of foreign goods. He resided with his father, at the time of his marriage, in Rawson’s lane, now Bromfield Street, Boston, where he kept a dry goods store. At the age of twenty-two years he was married to Anne Glover, and subsequently purchased a house of Mr. John Glover, of Boston, uncle to his wife. In 1689 he sold his estate in Boston to Mr. Glover of whom he purchased, and removed with his family to Dorchester, residing on a portion of Newbury farm, the inheritance of his wife. He afterwards purchased a tract of land, for a homestead estate, of the heirs of his great uncle, the Rev. John Wilson — "being a portion of the Grant made to that distinguished Divine by the General Court of the Colony."

This estate was situated in Braintree, adjoining the homestead of the Hon. Josiah Quincy, and extending to the lands of the Newbury farm estate on the north. It has passed down to the succeeding generations of his descendants until the present time. It was first settled on his son David Rawson, who left it to his son Jonathan Rawson in 1760. Jonathan Rawson, Jr., in 1782, succeeded to his father in the possession and occupation, and left it at his decease, in 1819, to his son Samuel Rawson, who resided there until his death in 1858. He died unmarried. His sisters still occupy and possess it. They are of the fifth generation from William and Anne (Glover) Rawson, and the seventh from the Hon. John Glover, of Boston, by direct descent. The Family Bible of Secretary Rawson descended to his son William, together with his portrait and other relics, all of which have been carefully preserved by his descendants. A Rawson Memorial has been gathered and published by a descendant.*

* Mr. Reuben Rawson Dodge — who is a lineal descendant of Secretary Rawson, by the line of his son, the Rev. Grindell Rawson, of Mendon, a brother of William, whose history is given above — has gathered and published the "Rawson Memorials." The work is of much interest, and contains two original portraits — one of Secretary Rawson, the other of his daughter Rebecca, whose unfortunate history he has given in detail. The following is the description of the Family Bible of Edward Rawson, his first American ancestor, as it appeared in the Worcester Daily Spy: "The Bible is in folio, but the title page and the books of Genesis and Exodus are wanting. It is of the Geneva version, translated and published by the English reformers who fled to that city during the persecution in Queen Mary’s time, and which was the favorite version of the Puritans long after the translation made by order of King James was published. Mr. George Livermore, a very competent judge, believes it to have been printed as early as 1520, or before." It contains the birth of Edward Rawson, in 1615; the date of his death, in 1693; the births of all his children, twelve in number; the marriage certificate given of Welcom Rawson, with the births of his twenty children, deaths, and other items.

May 27, 1715. Acknowledged in person by the said William and Anne Rawson, before Edmund Quincy, Just. Peace.

Received, Entered and Recorded with the Records of Deeds for the County of Suffolk, Liber 29, fol. 202. John Ballantine, Reg.

Mrs. Rawson was in Barnstable a short time before her marriage, and with her mother, in the family of Gov. Hinckley. Her name appears as a witness to a deed, from John Flecker to Jedediah Lombard, of a tract of land in that County, dated January 20, 1671, and acknowledged before Gov. Hinckley, August 17, 1672. "Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of us, Mary Hinckley, Anne Glover."

Mrs. Rawson is said to have been a lady of rare gifts and accomplishments, and inherited a portion of her mother's comeliness and grace. She had the advantages of a superior education, under the care of her grandmother, Mrs. Anna Glover, of Boston. Very interesting letters written by her in 1681–82, addressed to her mother, have been preserved among a collection of "Hinckley Papers," Vols. 1 and 2, and may be seen at the Library of the Massachusetts Historical Society, in her own hand-writing.
[Fourth Generation.]

(6) NATHANIEL GLOVER, eldest son of Nathaniel and Hannah (Hinckley) Glover, was born at the Dorchester homestead, November 10, 1676, baptized the 13th of the same month, and died in London, England, on the 13th of March, 1726, in his fiftieth year. He left a widow and six children. He is said to have been remarkable for his early piety. At the age of ten years he voluntarily gave himself to the watch and care of the Church in Dorchester, and was admitted as a member in full communion at the age of twenty years. "Since August," say the Church Records, "unto this instant, Dec. 1696, the following persons, having been proved by the pastor as to their knowledge and experience, and by the congregation as to conversation, publicly took hold on the covenant, viz., young Nathaniel Glover (jun.), Mary Glover," and others. During his minority, he was engaged in the tanning business, carried on by his father on the Glover estate. At the age of twenty-four years, Nov. 13, 1701, he was married to Rachael Marsh, of Braintree, by the Worshipful Mr. Wilson. She was the daughter of Alexander and Martha Marsh, of Braintree, and was born there 12: 2: 1673. Soon after her marriage, she was admitted to join the Church at Dorchester. The Records inform us — "Among those names of such as were examined, allowed and propounded before the Church for laying hold on the Covenant, Feb. 3, 1701-2, were Nathaniel Glover’s wife Rachael, Elizabeth and Hannah Glover." She died April 10, 1752, aged 79 years. They had seven children, all baptized at the Church with which they were in full communion.

Children of Nathaniel, Jr. and Rachael (Marsh) Glover, born at the homestead in Dorchester:

34. Rachael, b. Aug. 23, bap. Aug. 28, 1702-3; d. in her 4th year.
35. Nathaniel, b. May 16, 1704; m. Anne Simpson, of Boston.
36. Rachael, b. July 30, 1707; m. { 1st, Ebenezer Clough, of Boston; { 2d, Richard Salter, Esq. "
38. Alexander, b. Nov. 13, 1710; m. Sarah White, of Dorchester.
40. Pelaiah, b. April 2, 1716; m. Mary Cochrane, of Boston.

Nathaniel Glover, Jr., was, like his progenitors, an extensive landholder, and belonged to the class of Joint Stock and Landed Proprietors. In 1700 he came in possession of the Dorchester homestead, which had come down to him in a direct line from the Hon. John Glover, his first American ancestor. He received it from his father, Nathaniel Glover, Sen., by a deed of gift, as recorded among the acts of the latter, page 185. In addition to the homestead, he came in possession, in right of his wife Rachael, of land in Braintree, and a house and land in Boston. He also purchased several other tracts of land, and was a shareholder in the Common and Undivided Lands in Dorchester New Grant. The homestead estate contained one hundred and eighty acres. Feb. 16, 1713-14, he purchased a piece of land, adjoining his estate, of Hannah Hix, relict widow of Samuel Hix—consideration, twenty pounds—containing two and a half acres.
NATHANIEL GLOVER.

In 1715, Nathaniel Glover, Jr., at the age of thirty-five years, was chosen one of the Selectmen for the town of Dorchester, and was again chosen the two succeeding years. It has been said of him that he fulfilled the duties of that office with ability and honor, and retired from it, having the entire approbation of the inhabitants of the town. In 1715, he made a donation or gift to the Proprietors of the new Church in Summer Street, Boston, towards the building of that Church.

Being largely interested in the Common and Undivided Lands in Dorchester New Grant, he was a constant attendant on the meetings of the Proprietors. Another survey of these lands was commenced in the winter of 1714. In 1716, Nathaniel Glover, Sen., and Nathaniel Glover, Jr., were appointed, with others, a committee for examining and apportioning the lots; for making laws, calling meetings, and securing their rights from innovators. He was one of every committee, elected by the Proprietors, and sometimes acted as Proprietors’ Clerk. At a meeting of the Proprietors in Dorchester, December 21, 1719, already referred to, a Committee was chosen, who in June following reported that “they find by computation that there is land sufficient in the township of Dorchester, that never has been divided, to make one hundred and fifty divisions to every proprietor.” Therefore they proceeded to choose a Committee to lay out “to every such proprietor that can prove his right and propriety in every division of land yet undivided throughout the township of Dorchester to Plymouth bounds, the whole of his right together, or in as many parts as he sees cause; he giving into the hands of the Committee in writing the place where, and the bounds, and the number of acres he would have laid out, and the said Committee shall be obliged to lay out on the very spot to the man who first desires it in writing."

In 1718, Nathaniel Glover, Jr., quit-claimed rights in the Common and Undivided Lands in the Township of Dorchester, as follows:

To Nathaniel Glover, Sen.

To all Christian People to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting.
Know Ye, that I Nathaniel Glover, Junior, of Dorchester, Tanner, in the County of Suffolk in New England, Being one of the Proprietors of the Common and Undivided Lands in Dorchester aforesaid, Have given, granted, and by these Presents for certain reasons and considerations me thereunto moving, do freely, clearly and absolutely give, grant, quit-claim and confirm unto my Honored Father, Mr.
Nathaniel Glover, of said Dorchester, Husbandman, Six hundred and sixty eight acres of my (as yet) Common and Undivided Lands in the New Grant in the Township of Dorchester aforesaid. The said land hereby given him the said Nathaniel Glover, to be set off to him in such places as by lott it may happen to fall in the subdivision that shall hereafter be made betwixt us, when that my own Rights shall be set off to me at the division of the whole Undivided lands in the Township of said Dorchester. To have and to hold the said Six hundred and Sixty Eight Acres, to him (my father), his heirs and assigns, to his and their own and proper use forever.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this tenth day of September, 1718. (Signed) Nathaniel Glover, Jr.

In presence of us,
Thomas Glover,
Charles King.

Sept. 10, 1718. Nathaniel Glover Junior personally appeared and acknowledged the above instrument to be his free Will, Act and Deed, before me, Elijah Danforth, Just. of Peace.

June 6, 1720, at a meeting of the Proprietors, Nathaniel Brewer, Joseph Hall and Nathaniel Glover, Jr., were chosen a Committee for the purpose of laying out to every such proprietor that can prove his right and propriety, his true and proper apportionment. It was also ordered that every man should bear the charges of laying out his own land.

December 17, 1720, Nathaniel Glover, Jr., Nathaniel Brewer and Jonathan Blake were appointed a Committee, and empowered to sell land, or timber, or ore, on any part of Dorchester New Grant. Mr.
Glover was continued on the Committee until the close of their labors.
The work of surveying and apportioning these lands progressed slowly; the first and second generations, and very many of the third, had passed to their rest, with no other benefit arising from their ownership and inheritance than that derived from the anticipation that at some time in the future they or their descendants would come in possession of extensive and valuable lands, which could be by them possessed and improved as Manorial estates. That such hopes were entertained and cherished by many of the Joint Stock Company, has been settled by writers of that time who had opportunity to become acquainted with their motives and lofty aims. These hopes and visions were never realized. When apportioned and entered upon, in cases where the claimants possessed sufficient courage to occupy and become inhabitants of such a wilderness as was that sterile and uninviting region between Blue Hills on the North and the Colony line on the South, their visions vanished like "castles in the air." Very many of them were dissatisfied with their allotments, and not without reason, probably, as new proprietors had come in and taken the places of the original ones, and many were displaced and dispossessed entirely by persons who had taken up lands and settled on them without any inheritance or title. This was the case with the Glovers, much of the land allotted to them being claimed by usurpers, and could never be recovered except by a suit at law, to which they had an hereditary aversion, unless driven to it on the defensive. Nathaniel Glover, Jr., aside from his propriety, or inheritance from his father, became also a proprietor in his own right of nearly one thousand acres, very little of which was ever recovered. In the Twenty-five Divisions, now situated in Stoughton, in the allotment he received just one fourth of what was laid out originally to Mr. Glover; and one half of what was apportioned to his father. In Dead Swamp, 48th lot, he was to have two acres two quarters in every division. In 9th lot, in Burnt Swamp and Iron Mine Meadow, three acres of meadow bottom; and so in all the other divisions, wherever the names of his father and grandfather occur.

In 1722–3, Nathaniel Glover, Jr., as committee with Nathaniel Brewer and Jonathan Blake, sold a tract of land in Dorchester New Grant, called Iron Mine Meadow, or Burnt Swamp, to James Leonard, of Taunton, in the County of Bristol; witnessed by Joseph Bass and Rachael Glover.
In 1722, January 9, Nathaniel Glover, Jr., tanner, sold a tract of upland to Joshua Fairbanks, situated in Dorchester New Grant.

November 8, 1723, he sold a tract of land to William Sumner, of Milton; said tract containing one hundred and sixty-two acres, lying near Dorchester Swamp, in Stoughton.

December 3, 1723, he sold to Ralph Freeman two acres of land in every division of Dorchester New Grant.

March 3, 1724-5, he, with his wife, sold to Ebenezer Clough, of Boston, their “Messuage, Dwelling House, Shop, Barr, Yard, Gardens, and all the land belonging to them, under, about and around the premises, at the southerly end of Boston.”

June 17, 1724, he sold a tract of land in Dorchester New Grant to Eleazer Carver.

March 31, 1725, appears to be the last date in which his signature can be found in relation to the sale of any land. The following extract from an original deed of conveyance, of that date, of land belonging to the heirs of Nathaniel Glover, Sen., and in which they all join, is here given:

We Nathaniel Glover, Tanner, John Glover and Thomas Glover, Yeomen, sons of Mr. Nathaniel Glover Sen. of Dorchester Deceased, with Mary Glover, Hannah Glover and Elizabeth Glover, Spinsters, daughters of Mr. Nathaniel Glover Sen. deceased, with our Honoured Mother, widow and relict of the said Nathaniel Glover Sen. aforesaid, Quitclaim unto Oxenbridge Thacher Esq. of Milton, ten acres of Woodland belonging to our Honoured father, said land lying in the Town of Milton.

Nathaniel Glover, Jr., continued to act as Committee and in defence of his rights and the rights of the original Proprietors against the new ones, and the conflict was continued. The judgment obtained at his Majesty's Superior Court begun and holden at Boston on the first Tuesday in May, 1719, was not accepted. An appeal was made through the Governor and Assistants, to the General Court at Boston. A hearing was obtained before that body, but without success. It was proposed by the original Proprietors, who claimed under the apportionment of 1636, '37 and '38, as recorded on the Records of the Company's lands, that Nathaniel Glover, Jr., should be appointed, in case of a failure before this Court of the Colony, to proceed to England and plead their case before the King in Council. The reigning King at this time was George I., and it was finally determined by the injured claimants to lay their case before his Majesty and obtain a decision from the Courts of Great Britain. Nathaniel Glover was accordingly chosen as their agent. The following account was related to the writer by a distinguished and venerable great grandson of his, now deceased. It describes his appearance and characteristics at the final decision before the Superior Court, previous to his departure for England.

"Nathaniel Glover, Jr.," says the narrator, "was present, and received it with becoming coolness and self-control. He arose and addressed the Court, making a collected statement of the great wrong which had been done, not only to himself, in his own personal rights, but to his ancestors, and announced his intention of appealing to the Court of Great Britain, where he expressed himself fully assured of having justice granted him." It is said, also, that his personal appearance was majestic, and awed the Court, causing some of his enemies to tremble. "He was dressed in the full style of gentlemen at that time, with Coat of scarlet Broadcloth, the skirts plaited and wadded, reaching below the knee; full sleeves, with cuffs reaching below the elbow, and wristbands fringed with lace; an embroidered band lay around the top with tassels in front. The trimmings which adorned the garment were of gold and silver, wrought in fringe or lace, and spread over it. Small Clothes or breeches of buff colour, with points of Ribbon at the knee; the Vest of buff colour, fringed with lace. Buckles of Silver on the knees and on the Shoes." A powdered wig and three-cornered hat completed the dress, as it has been graphically described by the descendant alluded to.
After making all necessary arrangements for his family, and collecting the requisite documents and copies of Court proceedings, he sailed for England in the month of April, 1725. He arrived safely in England and proceeded to London, where he obtained a hearing of his case before the King in Council. He was soon attacked, however, with a fatal disease, and died before the consummation of his object. Thus closed the pursuit which had occupied his attention for seven years, and thus ended the controversy with the Dorchester Proprietors. The descendants of Glover and heirs at law were obliged to accept the apportionment of the new Proprietors, being, according to the statement, less by one thousand acres in the Twenty-Five Divisions, than had been allotted them in the original laying out, and to which they believed themselves justly entitled.

In 1727, there was another list made out by the so-called new Proprietors, allowing only the former proportion which was assigned them by the grant of 1713; being eight acres to Mr. Glover, four acres to Nathaniel Glover, Sen., and two to Nathaniel Glover, Jr., in every single division of land in the Twenty-Five Divisions, and amounting to less by several hundred acres than their shares claimed.

The plan printed on the next page represents the apportionment to the Glovers and others, according to the survey of 1713, and the decision of the new Proprietors. It relates only to the twenty-first and twenty-second lots in the Twenty-five Divisions, and shows the names of the persons owning in common, and with whom the Glovers were to divide. After the death of Nathaniel Glover, Jr., it appears no further effort was made to obtain the original claim of thirty-six acres, two quarters and twenty-five rods, out of every single Division in the Twenty-five Divisions, and there were set off to Mr. Glover two hundred acres, with one hundred and twelve to Nathaniel Glover, and fifty to Nathaniel Glover, Jr., and the land was accepted and entered upon. The portion of Mr. Glover remains to this day in the possession of a descendant; that of Nathaniel Glover was sold and became afterwards the Paul estate, but of whom purchased is not known; and it is said the portion belonging to Nathaniel Glover, Jr., was taken up and settled upon by usurpers, and never sold by his heirs, by any legal conveyance.
A List of the Lotts in the Twenty-Five Divisions of Land, so called, late in the Township of Dorchester and now in Stoughton, containing the names of the Proprietors in every Lott, and what quantity belongeth to Every Man. Proprietors' Right and propriety in a single Division, so called, and as it was laid out; and being doubled Twenty-Five times, and the place where each lot was laid out. Which List was ordered to be made at a Proprietors' Meeting, on the Eighth day of December, 1727.

James Blake, Proprietors' Clerk.

The following account of Nathaniel Glover, Jr., appeared in a Boston newspaper, under date of Dorchester, June 6th, 1726.

"This day we have the afflicting news, that on March 13th last past, died of the Small Pox, in London, Mr. Nathaniel Glover of this Town, in the 49th year of his age. He was a great grandson of the Honble John Glover, Esq., one of the first Planters of Massachusetts, and one of the Magistrates or Assistants of the Colony, chosen in 1652. This descendant of his of late fell into an unhappy Controversy with a great part of the inhabitants of the Town about the Right of the Undivided Lands; and in April of last year went over as an Agent of the Aboriginal Proprietors, to the Court of Great Britain; where he died just as he was expecting an audience of his cause before the King in Council. "Till this unhappy Contest began, he was greatly and universally respected and valued in the Town; and his adversaries will yet generally own that he was a Gentleman of a sober life, strong natural powers, great penetration, and a kind and obliging neighbour; and of such admirable command of temper, that no abuse of his enemies could either disturb him in his public argument, or move him to reflect upon them. He has left a virtuous and most sorrowful widow and six young children. May God be a Father of the Fatherless, and a Judge of the Widow in His Holy Habitation. (Psalm 68: 5.)"

Rachael Glover, his widow, survived him about twenty-six years, and died April 10, 1752. She made her will, which bears date March 19, 1749. She is buried in the ancient burial place in Dorchester, and has a gravestone.

Rachael Glover, widow, is taxed in the List of Province Taxes, for estate real, personal, and one female slave, from 1726 to 1752.

Will of Rachael Glover (Widow).

In the name of God, Amen. This Nineteenth day of March, Anno Domini One Thousand Seven Hundred and Forty-Nine, and in the Twenty-Third year of his Majesties Reign, King George the Second of Great Britain.

I Rachael Glover of Dorchester, in the County of Suffolk, in the Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, widow. Being at this present writing hereof, of a sound and disposing mind and memory, do therefore make this my Last Will and Testament in manner and form as followeth.

Imprimis. And first of all I recommend my precious Soul into the hands of God who gave it; and my Body I commit to the Dust by a decent Christian burial, in the hope of the Resurrection of the Just. And as for my Worldly Good with which God hath seen fit to bless me, I give and dispose of it in the following manner.

Imprimis. That all my just debts and funeral charges be paid first out of my estate. Secondly. I then give unto my two daughters Hannah and Mary Glover all my Wearing Apparel, and all my Household Furniture of every sort, with all the Provisions that may be in the House at the time of my decease. And to the above named Mary Glover I give my negro boy Richard. And to my Grandson Richard Salter, son to my daughter Rachael, I give One Hundred Pounds Old Tenor, or money equivalent thereunto, to be paid him by my Executors when he arrives at the age of Twenty One Years of age; but if he die before, the said sum is to be equally divided among my children.

The remaining part of my Real and Personal estate I give to my Five Children, viz.: Nathaniel Glover, Alexander Glover, Pelatiah Glover, Hannah Glover, and Mary Glover, equally to be divided among them.
And I appoint my Two eldest sons Nathaniel Glover and Alexander Glover sole Executors of this my last Will and Testament. And that this is my last Will, exclusive of all others, I have, in Testimony hereof, set my hand and seal, this 19th day of March, 1749.

RACHAEL + GLOVER, and seal.

Signed, sealed, published and declared to be my Last Will and Testament, in presence of

Joseph Bass,
Ruth Trott, \{ Witnesses.

Letters of administration, with the will annexed, were granted to the executors named in her will, but the administration was not finished. Nathaniel Glover, eldest son and senior executor, of Boston, died in 1773. Alexander Glover, the second son, also died before the execution of the will. The estate was finally settled in 1785, about thirty-three years after her death, by her eldest grandson, Alexander Glover, jun.

(7) MARY GLOVER, the eldest daughter of Nathaniel and Hannah (Hinckley) Glover, was born at the homestead in Dorchester, April 12, 1679, and baptized at the Dorchester Church 20 (2) 1679, by Rev. Josiah Flint. The date of her death has not been ascertained.

In December, 1696, her name was enrolled among those who were examined and owned the covenant, and in 1701–2 she was admitted to join the Church in full communion.

In 1723 the name of Mary Glover appears as a witness to a deed from Nathaniel Glover, senior, to Thomas and Hannah Glover.

July 17, 1724, she appeared before the magistrate and acknowledged the above deed, her father having deceased a short time before.

Mary Glover, at her father's decease in 1723–4, came in possession of one-third of the twenty-six acres of land which she, with her sisters Hannah and Elizabeth, received by a deed of gift from her father, bearing date Nov. 20, 1723.

In 1724 her name appears among a list of those who were shareholders in the Common and Undivided Lands. In 1725, May 31, her name appears on a deed confirming the sale of ten acres of woodland, in Milton, to Oxenbridge Thacher. (See page 222.)

In 1725, at the decease of her sister Elizabeth, she came in possession of one half of her share; and in 1729 the following indenture was executed between Mary Glover and her sister Hannah Glover.

Indenture between Hannah Glover and her sister Mary Glover.

This Indenture, made the Fifth of March, 1729, and in the Second Year of Our Sovereign Lord George the Second, King of Great Britain, &c., between Mary Glover of Dorchester, in the County of Suffolk and in the Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, Spinster, on the one part, and Hannah Glover of the same Dorchester, &c., on the other part.

Whereas There are Certain Pieces or Parcels of Land and Meadow in Dorchester aforesaid, now in the possession of the said Mary and Hannah Glover, holden by them in joint or equal shares, under and by virtue of a Deed from their father Mr. Nathaniel Glover senr, now Deceased, bearing date the 20th day of November, 1723, as by reference to said Deed of Gift may more fully and at large appear.

Now the said Mary and Hannah Glover have mutually agreed and consented, and also acknowledged, made and finished a Division of said Land, to the end, intent and purpose that each other of them the said Mary and Hannah Glover, their heirs and assigns, may know, have, hold, use, possess and enjoy each their proper part and proportion thereof Forever, in manner and form following.

That is to say, That the said Mary Glover, her Heirs and Assigns, shall have, hold, use, possess and enjoy that part which is called the Little Pasture or Second Division, about Twelve Acres more or less, in full for her part, Bounded North on the Way leading to Damme Meadow; West, partly on the Land of Hannah Glover and partly on

Land of Moses Billings; South on Rye Field Hill; and Easterly on the Land of said Moses Billings.

Now this Indenture Witnesseth for a further confirmation of the aforesaid Division and Partition, that the said Hannah Glover, for herself and her Heirs, Executors, Administrators and Assigns, do fully, freely and absolutely grant, release, assign, enfeofle and confirm unto the said Mary Glover, her Heirs and Assigns forever, all that before mentioned Little Pasture or Second Division as it is before described and bounded, together with all the appurtenances thereof, against the lawful claims of all persons claiming any Right, title or interest thereto or therein, from or under me the said Hannah Glover.

In witness whereof, the said Hannah Glover hath to this Indenture put her hand and seal, the day and year first above written, in presence of Us,

David Rawson,
Thomas Glover.

A duplicate was drawn the same day, conveying the remaining portion of the land to Hannah Glover, and signed by Mary Glover, in presence of David Rawson and Thomas Glover.

In 1733 Mary Glover went to reside with her sister in Boston, who was married and had removed there.

In 1737 she made a transfer of all her estate of inheritance, both real and personal, as expressed in the following deed of gift to her sister Hannah Laws.

Dorchester, February 22, 1743. Then the above named Mary Glover, Hannah Glover and Mary Glover junr appeared before me personally and acknowledged the above written Instrument to be their free Will, Act and Deed.

THOMAS TILESTON, Justice of the Peace.

The above date of Feb. 22, 1743, is the last found of Mary Glover, that can be identified with any certainty. There have been many conjectures concerning her. She had at this date attained the age of 66 years, and was residing in Boston with her sister Mrs.

* The son of Mr. Glover who died in 1657.
† In Stoughton.
Hannah Laws. From what has been gathered she seems fully to have disposed of all her property, both real and personal. It is not known that she ever married. There is a marriage entered on the Boston Records, March 1, 1743, of a Mary Glover, of Boston, with Zebulon Hastings, of Watertown, which is only a few days after the date of her acknowledgment of the above conveyanced land; but circumstances render it extremely doubtful as to its relating to the Mary Glover whose brief history has been here given. The most reasonable conjecture is, that she died unmarried, and in Boston; but the time when, or the place where, is shrouded in obscurity. Some persons have supposed that she went to England, and died there; and there is some plausibility in the suggestion, but no proof, not even by tradition. She had relations there, as cousins and others, who might have entertained her; but, with no further evidence, we must leave her in Boston.

(8) HANNAH GLOVER, the second daughter of Nathaniel and Hannah (Hinckley) Glover, was born at the homestead in Dorchester, July 26, 1681, and baptized 10 (5) 1681, at the Dorchester church. In 1701–2 she was examined and owned the covenant before the church. March 2, 1706–7, at the age of twenty-five years, she was admitted to the church in full communion. In 1723 she received from her father, by deed of gift, conjointly with her brother Thomas Glover, a portion or right which might come to him in the distribution of the estate of his uncle John Glover. (See page 187).

Nov. 20, 1723, she received a portion of Newbury farm by another deed of gift from her father.

Her name appears on the agreement of the heirs, in 1724, at the final settlement of the estate of John Glover, Esq., of Boston, who was her great grandfather. (See page 77).

In 1725, after the decease of her father, she joins in the sale of a tract of woodland in Milton to Oxenbridge Thacher, as Hannah Glover junior.

In 1729 she makes a division of land with her sister Mary Glover. Hannah Glover was married to Thomas Laws, Esq., of Marblehead, March 10, 1733, at the age of 51 years, and removed to Boston. Thomas Laws died in Boston in 1736. She lived a widow thirteen years, and died in Boston, July 1, 1749, in her 68th year, and was buried in the ancient burial yard at Dorchester.
About one year previous to her death, she made transfers of her property: the first, June 2, 1748, to her brother John Glover, of Dorchester; and June 20, 1748, to her brother Thomas Glover, of Newbury farm, Dorchester:

Hannah Laws to her brother John Glover.

(9) ELIZABETH GLOVER, the third and youngest daughter of Nathaniel and Hannah (Hinckley) Glover, was born at the homestead in Dorchester, July 26, 1683, baptized 29 (5) 1683, by Rev. John Danforth at the Dorchester church, and died in Dorchester April 11, 1725, in her 42d year, unmarried. In 1701-2 she was examined before the church and owned the covenant, and was admitted to full communion April 2, 1706.

We have a date of her in 1724, at the final settlement of the estate of John Glover, Esq., who was her great grandfather. Another Nov. 7, 1723, as a witness to a deed from her father to Hannah Glover and Thomas Glover, and also in acknowledgment of his act in 1724.

Nov. 20, 1723, she received a portion of the Newbury farm estate, by a deed of gift from her father; and the last time her name appears on any writing, is in the transaction of Glovers to Oxenbridge Thacher, of Milton, after the decease of her father, as a signer to that document, March 31, 1725. There appears to have been no settlement to her estate. Her sisters Mary and Hannah shared her property between them.

(10) JOHN GLOVER, the fourth son of Nathaniel and Hannah (Hinckley) Glover, was born at the homestead in Dorchester, Sept.
18, 1687, was baptized at the Dorchester church, 2 (8) 1687, by Rev. John Danforth, and died in Braintree (now Quincy), July 6, 1768, in his 81st year. He was twice married. First, to Susannah Ellison, of Boston, January 1, 1714, by the Rev. Peter Thacher, of Milton. She was born in Boston in 1690, and died at Dorchester in January, 1724, in her 35th year. The names of her parents have not been ascertained. At the time of her marriage she resided in the family of the Rev. Peter Thacher, of Milton, and was a cousin of his wife. She was also a near relative of the Oxenbridge family of Boston. Second, he was married Dec. 22, 1724, by Samuel Checkley, Esq., of Boston, to Mary Horton, of Milton, who survived him and died in Braintree Dec. 19, 1775, aged 71 years.

His first wife was a member of the church at Milton before her marriage. Their four eldest children were baptized there by the Rev. Peter Thacher, their father owing the covenant. In 1729, John Glover and Mary his wife were admitted to join that church in full communion, and had four more children baptized there.

John Glover was a landholder by inheritance; and by purchase, he made extensive additions to his landed estate.

We have the following dates of him on record: the first in 1724, as one of the heirs of John Glover, Esq., of Boston, to the Common and Undivided Lands (page 77); and in March, 1725, in the sale of a wood lot in Milton by the heirs of Nathaniel Glover, senior. John Glover's bond to John George and John Trail bears date March 1, 1738; witnessed by Thomas Glover and Thomas Maccarty. Oct. 5, 1739, he purchased of John George a tract of land situated in Braintree; witnessed by Thomas Glover and Rachel Hinckley. In 1741 John Glover and Mary his wife sold a tract of land to Robert Auchmuty, Esq., and others. The deed represents the land to have been in Braintree, County of Suffolk, containing thirty-four acres, and the consideration one hundred pounds. The names of the purchasers were Robert Auchmuty, Esq., of Boston; Samuel Adams and William Stoddard, Esqs., of Boston; Peter Chardon, of Boston, merchant; Samuel Watts, of Chelsea, County of Suffolk; George Leonard, of Norton, County of Bristol; Robert Hall, of Beverly, County of Essex; John Choate, of Ipswich, County of Essex; and Thomas Cheever, of Lynn, County of Essex. The land is described as adjoining land of Moses Belcher, John Glover, and William Rawson.

In 1755 Thomas Glover, of Dorchester, Gentleman, with Elizabeth his wife, appealed from the judgment of the Inferior Court, begun and holden at Boston in 1752 and '53, to the Superior Court, in the case of a lot of land belonging to Mary Clough, daughter of James Clough, and niece of said Elizabeth Glover. The said lot of land, according to an original writ in a plea of ejectment against Arthur Savage and Rachel his wife, comprised

"A Messuage in Boston aforesaid, situate Northerly upon Walker Street, there measuring one hundred and twenty one feet; Easterly upon Orange Street, there measuring seventy five feet; Southerly upon Land of John Blake, there measuring fifty feet; Easterly upon land of said Blake, there measuring thirty one feet; Southerly upon land of Rebeckah Potter, there measuring one hundred feet; Easterly on said Potter’s land, measuring three feet; and Southerly on said Potter’s land, fifteen feet; Easterly on her land, twenty one feet, and Southerly on Land of John Allen, twenty five feet; North Westerly on land of William Butler, ninety seven feet. And whereas Mary Clough, the daughter of the said James Clough, died childless, seized in her desmesne as of fee thereof, whereupon the premises descended to the said Elizabeth Glover and John Clough as co-heirs, viz.: To the said Elizabeth as sister of the said James Clough, and to the said John as the son of John Clough Deceased, the brother of the said James Clough, Dec'd; and whereas the said nephew John Clough and co-heir has since died, and his said right to the said premises descended to the said Elizabeth. And the said John Blake and William Blake unjustly entered upon the premises and disseized them thereof, and the said John Blake and William Blake unjustly hold the said Thomas and Elizabeth Glover out of them, to the damage, as they say, of one hundred pounds, Therefore the said Thomas and Elizabeth Glover, who was Elizabeth Clough, bring this suit.

Thomas Glover,
Elizabeth Glover.

Witness, Stephen Sewall, Esq., of Boston, this 17th day of April, 1755.

Judgment of the Inferior Court which led to the above appeal, was as follows:

In the case depending between Thomas Glover and Elizabeth his wife as demandants against Arthur Savage and Rachel his wife, The Jurors upon their Oaths say, that the said Mary Clough, about the 10th day of May, 1751, died seized in fee of the Messuage aforesaid and its appurtenances, without issue and intestate; and that the said Elizabeth was the sister of the said James Clough* then deceased, and the said John the son of the said John Clough Dec'd, brother of the said James; and after the said Mary, as the said demandants have alleged; and they further upon their oaths say, that the said Mary was the daughter of the said Rachel, who at the time of the death of the said Mary and before, was, and still is, the wife of the said James Clough, and that the said Arthur and Rachel in her right upon the death of the said Mary, her daughter, entered upon and into the said Messuage with its Appurtenances, drawing the same in Right of the said Rachel as Mother of the said Mary, and next of kin by force of laws.

In 1757, Elizabeth, the wife of Thomas Glover, was made a legatee to the property of her aunt Elizabeth (Beard) Wheeler, of Boston, by the following Deed of Gift:

Boston, July 1, 1758.

The above Will was presented for Probate by the Executors, viz., William Glover and Ebenezer Glover, and approved.

August 6, 1763, Elizabeth Glover, of Dorchester, widow of Thomas Glover, Esq., deceased, sold a house and land in Boston bordering on Orange street, to Joseph Jackson, of Boston. She lived a widow forty years, and was deprived of her sight for the last thirty years of her life.

Elizabeth Clough, the wife of Mr. Thomas Glover, was born in Boston, May 20, 1706; baptized at the Third Church (Old South), May 23, 1706; married at the age of sixteen years, and died at Newbury farm, in Dorchester, Jan. 10, 1798, aged 92 years, and was buried in the ancient cemetery at Quincy. She has a gravestone.

She was the daughter of Deacon John and Mary (Beard) Clough, who was an extensive landed proprietor in Boston and vicinity, and also in the Colony of Connecticut. He is said to have been of Welsh origin, and a lineal descendant of Richard Clough, of Denbigh, in the County of Flintshire in Wales, who is noticed among Fuller's Worthies as a distinguished benefactor.* He first American ancestor was John Clough, who came early to New England and settled in Watertown, where he became a Freeman in 1642. He owned a house and land there, the latter bounded South by Pond Road and East by William Paine; West by Highway and William Perry; North by Joseph Morse. He removed to Salisbury, in Essex County, and died there in 1691; left children: John, Samuel and Thomas, Sarah Morrell, Elizabeth Horne and Martha George, and wife Martha (second wife probably).

John Clough, the eldest son, removed to Charlestown; was admitted to the Church there, with wife Elizabeth, in 1652, and in 1657 was received or transferred to the First Church in Boston. He died in 1668, in Boston.

* ("Flintshire in Wales.") "Benefactors to the Public.—Richard Clough was born at Denbigh in this County, whence he went to be a chorister in the City of Chester. Some were so affected with his singing therein that they were loath he should lose himself in their employ (Church music beginning then to be discomfitured), and persuaded, yea, procured his removal to London, where he became apprenticed to and afterwards partner with Sir Thomas Gresham. He lived some years at Antwerp, and afterwards travelled as far as Jerusalem, where he was made Knight of the Sepulchre, though not owning it after his return, under Queen Elizabeth, who disdained that her subjects should accept foreign honors. He afterwards, by God's blessing, grew very rich; and there wants not those who will avouch that some thousands of Pounds were disbursed by him for the building of the Royal Exchange; such numbers that it was agreed between him and Sir Thomas Gresham that the survivor should be chief heir to both; on which account they say the Knight carried away the bulk of the estate. How much the new Church at Denbigh was beholden to his bounty, I am not yet certainly informed. But this is true, that he gave the impropriation of Kilken in Flintshire, worth a hundred pounds per annum, to the free schools in Denbigh. He died in 1600."

John Clough, junior, the father of Elizabeth, was born in 1669, and was baptized at the First Church in Boston, June 6, 1669–70, by Rev. John Davenport. He was married to Mary, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Andrews) Beard, of Boston, April 12, 1693. Jan. 31, 1696, John Clough and Mary his wife were admitted to join the Third Church in Boston. They had children: John, James, Mary and Elizabeth, who were baptized at that Church by the Rev. Samuel Willard. He was chosen a Deacon of the Third Church, and was in that office at the time of his decease.

In 1715, when the New South Church was organized, John Clough was present at the first meeting of members, signed the covenant, and entered into relations with that Church from the Third or "Old South" Church. He assisted in the building of the New South Church in Summer street (Church Green), by liberal donations, and worshipped there with his family. His pew in the new meeting house was No. 16—value, £38. In 1744 he gave a silver cup to the Church for the Communion service. It is thus acknowledged on the records of the New South Church: "August 13, 1644. At a meeting of the Church in the Meeting House, it was voted that the Deacons give the Thanks of the Church to Mr. John Clough for a Silver Cup given by him to the Church." In 1744 he owned a pew in the Hollis Street Meeting House, of which Rev. Mather Byles, Sen., was Pastor, and gave it to his daughter Elizabeth Glover. (See deed.)

John Clough owned a house and land in Boston in 1693. In 1700 he received permission of the Selectmen of Boston to erect a wooden house, twenty-six feet long and twenty-five feet wide, and nineteen feet stud, with a flat roof, on his own land, between the land of Joseph Simpson and the house of Daniel Epes, abutting on Orange Street.

In 1700 Thomas Chamberlain agrees to erect a house for Mr. John Clough, next to Mr. Atkinson's land.

In 1702 he was appointed attorney to his brother-in-law, James Beard, who was on a voyage at sea.

In 1703 he purchased land in Boston of Thomas Powell.

In 1704 he bought a negro boy, named Manuel, of Samuel Phillips, of Boston.

In 1715 he bought land of Dorecas Pollard and William Pollard.

In 1718 he bought, conjointly with Thomas Downes, two tracts of land in the townships of Windham and Ashford, in the County of Windham and Colony of Connecticut—about seven hundred acres.

In 1721 he bought land in Boston of Benjamin Sanderson.
In 1726 he bought a piece of land in Boston of Robert Sanders, of the Colony of Connecticut, goldsmith.

In 1730 he bought a house and land in Boston, at the Southerly end, of his Excellency Jonathan Belcher.

In 1736 he bought an estate, with house and garden, on Middle street, of Abigail Dilloway.

In 1737, March 23, John Clough and Thomas Childs, distillers, agreed to open or run two lines between their premises, wide enough for a street; now called Essex street.

In 1740, April 18, John Clough and Zachariah Johonnet agreed to lay out a street, each yielding seventeen feet, to run the whole length of their land, extending six hundred and seventy-four feet, to Benjamin Elliot's land.

John Clough carried on the business of felt-making and leather-dressing. His residence was on the Southerly corner of what is now Washington street, where the large book store stands. He was twice married. His first wife, Mary, died in 1736. Oct. 14, 1737, he was married to Abigail Stacy, who survived him. He died in Boston, Sept. 17, 1744, aged 75 years, and was buried in the Stone Chapel yard. He died intestate.

A few months previous to his decease, he made disposals of his estates which had not already been disposed of by deeds of gift. His house and land, and other estate on Middle street, April 2, 1744, he gave to his son James Clough, of Boston, who was married to Rachel Ruggles, and died in 1743, leaving a large estate. To his grandson John Clough, Jan., of Middletown, Conn., he gave his Negro man Manuel, which he bought of Samuel Phillips with one other Negro. Also a silver tankard marked I. C. M., two silver spoons, and other silver plate.

About one month before his decease he gave to his daughter Elizabeth Glover the following articles, by Deed of Gift:

To all People to whom this Present Deed of Gift shall come. John Clough of Boston, in the County of Suffolk and Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, Leather-dresser, Sendeth Greeting. (Signed) John Clough.

In presence of April 2, 1744.

Samuel Wheeler,
John Gofle.

The maternal grandmother of Elizabeth Clough was Mary Andrews, the third daughter of Joseph and Elizabeth Andrews, of Hingham, who was a son of Thomas Andrews, of Devonshire, England, born there about 1596, and died in Hingham Aug. 11, 1662. He had been much interested in the settlement of the Plymouth Colony, and was one of those merchants and gentlemen whom, it is said, sold their effects and accompanied their minister to Holland with the intention of emigrating to New England, and who were prevented from embarking by an order from the Council of England, and compelled to return.

In 1642, Thomas Andrews was elected High Sheriff of London, and one of the four Treasurers who were appointed by Parliament to grant receipts to contributors of money and plate.

In 1649 he was made Lord Mayor of the City of London, in the place of Abraham Reynardson, who had refused to proclaim the act of abolishing the Kingly Government. He immediately, on being inducted into office, proclaimed the act in person, as is shown by the following record: "In 1649 Sir Thomas Andrews, Lord Mayor of London, assisted by Alderman Bateman and others, publicly proclaimed the abolition of the Kingly Government under King Charles I. of England," &c. The same year he was made one of the Judges at the King’s trial,* but refusing to sign the death warrant, he was afterwards attainted.

In 1651 he is said to have been a merchant in London, and lived in Rowe Lane; also to have been Lord Mayor of the city. After his arrest, he made his escape to New England, and settled in Hingham, where he soon died.

His son Joseph was at that time an inhabitant of Hingham, having preceded his father and established himself there in 1635. He received his freedom March 3, 1635-36, and was the same year chosen Constable. Joseph Andrews was the first Town Clerk of Hingham, and was chosen to represent the town at the General Court at Boston for the years 1636, 1637 and 1638. He was married to Elizabeth —— before he came to New England. She died in Hingham in 1688. The will of Joseph Andrews was dated Sept. 27, 1679. He died Jan. 1, 1679–80, in his 83d year. The following children are named in his will: Hannah, wife of Rehoboth Gannett; Mary, wife of Thomas Beard, of Boston; Joseph, Jun.; Ephraim, who was a physician and went to New Jersey; Thomas, and wife Ruth; Hepzibah, wife of Jeffrey Manning; Elizabeth, wife of —— Eames.

* King Charles was beheaded January 30, 1649.

The above extracts confirm the lineage of Elizabeth Clough (who afterwards married Thomas Glover, of Dorchester) by a direct line of descent from Thomas Andrews of Devonshire and London, by his eldest son Joseph Andrews, whose second daughter Mary Andrews married with Thomas Beard, of Boston, and were the grandparents of Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Glover, of Dorchester. Her mother, Mary Beard, inherited a competent estate from her father Thomas Beard. She was also a legatee to the will of her brother James Beard, who died in 1707, leaving one-third of all his estate to his sister Elizabeth Beard, one-third to his sister Mary, the wife of John Clough, and the other third to two of his kinswomen, Mary Wybourne and Elizabeth Wybourne; and appoints his eldest sister Elizabeth Beard, and his brother-in-law Deacon John Clough, his Executors. Will approved and executed in 1707. Witnessed in 1702, by Thomas Salter, Mary Salter and Joseph Deane, who testified before the Probate Court that they saw James Beard sign and heard him declare it to be his last will and testament.

Will of Elizabeth Glover, Widow of Thomas.

(12) ROBERT GLOVER, eldest son of John and Mary (——) Glover, was born in Boston in 1673, and removed with his parents to Barnstable. It is said that in early life he went to sea with some of his relatives. He studied navigation, and acquired the art with so much readiness that he soon became a skilful mariner, and master of a ship. In 1694, at the age of twenty-one years, he was in command of the sloop Dragon, a privateer.* In July, 1695, Capt. Robert

* Richard Hart, one of his seamen, died in January, 1694-5. Feb. 14, of that year, Letters of Administration were granted on his estate, by William Stoughton, Esq., Commissioner, to Patrick Keen, his kinsman, as follows:

"To Patrick Keen, of Newport, on Rhode Island, kinsman of Richard Hart, Seaman, Glover, of the sloop Dragon, sailed along the Atlantic coast as far as the St. Lawrence, and at the mouth captured a French ship called the St. Joseph, containing a valuable cargo, prized at about fifteen hundred pounds sterling. He brought the prize to Boston.

In the Massachusetts Archives, Vol. 62, folio 45–48, there are notices of Capt. Robert Glover, commander of a privateer — dragged in 1696.

Robert Glover is also recorded as a citizen of Boston in 1695. He paid taxes there in 1695 and 1696. After leaving the Dragon it is supposed he sailed to England in the subsequent years, and was lost at sea in one of his return voyages, and may have been the one who by tradition was cast away on Lovell’s Rock, which afterwards and to this day has been called Glover’s Rock.

- 66. Thomas, m. Sarah Bonney, of Pembroke.
- 68. Anna, m. Charles Grimes, of Boston, Dec. 9, 1729.

The date of his death has not been ascertained. He lived in Dorchester until he attained the age of manhood, but it does not appear that he ever owned any real estate there. His name is no where enrolled on the tax lists. He was a cordwainer, and worked at his trade when not engaged in military life. His name is enrolled among those who served at Castle William, from 1710 to 1744; also among a list in

NATHANIEL GLOVER.

[Fifth Generation.]

(35) NATHANIEL GLOVER, the eldest son of Nathaniel, Jr., and Rachael (Marsh) Glover, and the fourth in succession who bore the name, was born at the Dorchester homestead, May 16, 1704, baptized at the Dorchester Church, 19 (3) 1704, by Rev. John Danforth, and died in Boston in December, 1773, in his 69th year.

In 1719, at the age of fifteen years, he was prepared and entered Harvard College at Cambridge, and at the age of nineteen graduated there in the class of 1723. He never studied any profession. Soon after leaving college he became a clerk in the store of Mr. Thomas Hancock, and applied himself to mercantile pursuits. At the age of twenty-one years he was accepted as a co-partner in the business of Mr. Hancock, and became a merchant of considerable celebrity. He continued in that occupation nearly fifty years. Mr. Thomas Hancock died in 1769, and was succeeded by his nephew Mr. John Hancock, and the business of the firm was continued without interruption until Mr. Glover resigned it and withdrew to a more quiet life.

In 1726 Mr. Nathaniel Glover became a shareholder in the Common and Undivided Lands in Dorchester, as an estate of inheritance, in right of his father Mr. Nathaniel Glover, Jr., who died in London while prosecuting the original claims of the proprietors. (See page 224.) He also purchased other rights in those lands of other proprietors.

In 1743 he purchased a tract of five hundred acres of land of John Glover and Thomas Glover, of Dorchester. (See page 237.)

In 1744 he was made a residuary legatee by the will of Mrs. Mary Cursette, and, in connection with Mr. Thomas Hancock, his partner in business, was appointed co-executor of her will. In 1747 he presented the above will for probate, and came in possession of a good estate, of which he died seized, as may be seen by his will made in 1773. The following is the will of Mrs. Cursette:

In the name of God, Amen. I Mary Cursette, now resident in Boston, in the County of Suffolk, and in the Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, Widow; Being at this present writing hereof of a sound, disposing mind and memory, do therefore make and ordain this my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following, to wit: And first of all, I commend my precious Soul into the hands of God who gave it; And my Body I commit to the dust, by a decent christian burial, in hope of the resurrection of the just. And as to my Worldly Goods God has seen fit to bless me with, I dispose in the following manner.

Imprimis. My Will is that all my just debts and funeral charges be defrayed. Item. I give unto Lydia Scott, daughter to Mr. Josiah Franklin, of Boston, Twenty-five Pounds, Old Tenor. Item. I give unto Mary Franklin, granddaughter to the said Josiah Franklin by his first Wife, Twenty-five Pounds. Item. I give Three hundred Pounds towards finishing the Church of England now building at Hebron, in the Colony of Connecticut, to be paid out of the produce of a certain tract of land lying in Canterbury in the Colony of Connecticut. It being the fourth part of William Johnson’s Outlands, of said Canterbury, Dec’d., Being the 2d Lott of said Outlands in the distribution of those Lotts. Item. I give unto Nathaniel Glover of Boston, after the above said Legacies have been paid out, All my Real and Personal Estate in the Province of Massachusetts, or in any other Province wheresoever it may be found, to him and his heirs forever. And I constitute and appoint Mr. Thomas Hancock and Mr. Nathaniel Glower of Boston, Merchants, sole executors of this my last Will and Testament, hereby revoking all other Wills by me made.

In Testimony whereof, I the said Mary Cursette have hereunto set my hand and seal, this 29th day of October, A.D. 1744, in the Eighteenth year of the Reign of His Majesty King George the 2d.

Mary Cursette* died in Boston in July, 1747. Her will was proved as follows:

Suffolk ss. By the Hon. Edward Hutchinson, Esq., Judge of Prob-ate of Wills. Whereas the within written Will being presented for Probate by Nathaniel Glover, one of the Executors of those within named (Thomas Hancock, the other Executor, at the same time ren-nouncing his Executorship), Jonathan Lowder, Nathaniel Phillips and * Mrs. Mary Cursette is stated to have been from England, and is introduced thus: "In 1740, Mrs. Mary Cursette, an English lady, travelling to Boston, was obliged to stop some days at Hebron, in the Colony of Connecticut, where seeing the Church (Episcopal) not finished, and the people suffering great persecutions, she told them to persevere in their good work and she would send them a present when she got to Boston. Soon after her arrival in Boston, Mrs. Cursette fell sick and died. In her Will she gave a legacy of three hundred pounds old tenor, then equal to one hundred pounds sterling, for their benefit." The above account is all that has been gathered of this lady. She was in some way connected with the family of Josiah Franklin, but it is not known that she was connected with Glover, or the Glover family; but certain it is that she distinguished Nathaniel Glover with her favors, and placed in him her unbounded confidence and trust. It would be gratifying to learn more of her history, and the circumstances which influenced her in the above transactions.

Benjamin Wheeler made oath that they saw Mary Cursette, the subscriber to this Instrument, sign and seal, and heard her publish the same to be her last Will and Testament, and that when she did so, she was of sound disposing mind and memory, according to these deponents' best discerning; and that they set their names as witnesses thereof, in the presence of said Testatrix.

At the age of forty-six years, Nathaniel Glover was married to Anne Simpson, of Boston, Dec. 17, 1750, by Rev. Joseph Sewall, D.D., of the Old South Church. They had seven children, four of whom died in infancy. She inherited a competent estate from her father, a portion of which was sold in 1763 to John Hancock, Esq., of Boston. The following is an extract from the conveyance:

In 1796 he was elected the first Bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts. He died on the 10th of September, 1803, aged 77 years. His mother, Elizabeth Bass, died June 21, 1751, and Capt. She was born in Dorchester, April 3, 1711, and died there Dec. 3, 1790, in her 80th year. He occupied the homestead with his mother, and at her decease succeeded to his inheritance. (See p. 54.) It has been said of him that he possessed in a remarkable degree those admirable and desirable traits of character and habits of life which distinguished his father, although not called to so public and active a life. He was a member of the Dorchester Church, and adorned his profession by a quiet, sober, and useful life. He occasionally served in town offices. May 13, 1746, his name is enrolled among a list of elderly persons qualified to serve as Grand Jurors for the County of Suffolk. In 1744 he is enrolled among those capable of bearing arms and liable to appear at alarm, "and living within the limits of the First Independent Company in the Town of Dorchester, whereof Col. In June, 1740, he was married to Mary Cochrane, daughter of Samuel Cochrane, of Boston, born there about 1718. It is supposed she died in Dorchester, but no record of her death has been found, and if buried there she has no gravestone.

He resided in Boston for several years after his marriage, and kept a school there. He inherited a portion of the Dorchester homestead conjointly with his brothers Nathaniel and Alexander.

In 1753, and previous, his name is enrolled among a list of soldiers in the “First Independent Company in the Town of Dorchester, whereof Estes Hatch, Esq., is Captain, James Foster Lieutenant, Edward Hillon Second Lieutenant, Nathaniel Langley Ensign, Thomas Pimer, Humphrey Atherton and Zebulon Pierce Sergeants, William Marion Drummer, Samuel Blake Clerk.”

In 1756, Pelatiah Glover was appointed by the town of Dorchester to “keep school for Squantum and the Farms.” He probably remained in that employment but a short time. At some time during the French and Indian war he went as sutler to the army, and it is said of him that he furnished provisions for the soldiers from his own store. After his return from the army he kept a provision store in Boston, and also opened a public house, and was at one time known as “Pelatiah Glover, Innkeeper of Boston.” After his decease, in 1770, his widow continued the business. A widow Glover died in Boston, February, 1772, no age mentioned, who may have been the widow of Pelatiah, the date of whose death has not been found in Dorchester.

In 1749 Col. William Burbeck, and Mrs. Jerusha Burbeck his wife, were admitted to Christ Church (Episcopalian) in Boston.

The following incidents in the life and character of Col. William Burbeck have been gathered from a letter, furnished by his son Gen. Henry Burbeck, and other family letters, and also from personal interviews with his descendants.

Col. William Burbeck was by trade a carver, and worked successfully in that employment for several years. There are many specimens of his genius in that art still to be seen in Boston. The carving of the Corinthian pillars in King's Chapel, and other elaborate work, were done under his direction. While employing himself at his trade, he occupied his leisure moments in reading and close study, particularly in the science of mathematics. The arts of Gunnery and Artillery next engaged his attention, and having furnished himself with a competent library, he advanced rapidly in those studies, and soon became master of every branch of them. He also devoted a portion of his time to the art of Pyrotechnics, and soon became competent to prepare fireworks, equal if not superior to any which were ever made in his time. He prepared those which were used for the celebration of the repeal of the Stamp Act in 1765, and which were considered to be equal to any ever produced. He passed many years at Castle William. In 1769 he was appointed to fill a vacancy there as second officer, or gunner, in which art he had acquired great skill and efficiency. Old Castle William was at that time garrisoned and supported by the Colony, as its chief fortress of defence. Very soon after, in the autumn of 1770, Castle William was taken possession of by Great Britain. He still remained there, and was appointed Ordinance Storekeeper.

He was uneasy under British control, and sought means to escape from their jurisdiction and honors of office as soon as possible. It required a little strategic manoeuvring to enable him to escape; but having friends to aid him, he was able to accomplish his passage to Boston without being discovered or even suspected. He selected a time when all the mechanics were at dinner, and passing down to the boat which was awaiting him, rowed himself over to Noddle's Island, now East Boston, passed thence to Chelsea, thence to Cambridge, and landed without interruption. He hired a carpenter's shop in Cambridge on the northeast side of the Common, and employed himself in preparing ammunition.

In 1774 he received an appointment, through his friend Dr. Joseph Warren, to superintend the laboratory and artillery belonging to the Colony, and to see that everything was prepared for service. He had proved himself fully competent for that office. When the conflict with Great Britain commenced, he joined the standard of the American colonies, and distinguished himself for his patriotism and ardent attachment to the cause. He had made a previous agreement, that in case the United Colonies obtained their independence, his pay should continue the same for life. The contract was fulfilled, and he received his pay during his life.

At the close of the year 1775 he was appointed to succeed Col. Gridley in the command of the Massachusetts artillery. But although skilled in military tactics, he was not fond of a military life. He declined the acceptance, and strongly recommended Gen. Knox, who was appointed. He filled the office of Lieutenant Colonel in the army while it remained at Cambridge; but when, in 1776, the army marched away to engage in active service, he remained under the contract which he had previously entered into with the colony. As an officer it is said he was highly valued by Gen. Washington, who, it has been stated, received his resignation with much disappointment and regret. After the peace of 1783, "Old Castle William" was again in possession of the State, and Col. Burbeck was reappointed to the command, and continued in that office until his decease.

In 1744, Thomas Glover, Jr., also received by deed of his grandfather, Dea. (See page 248.)

In 1748, soon after obtaining his discharge from Castle William, Thomas Glover, Jr., went to Stoughton, and made arrangements to settle there on a tract of land belonging to his father, Thomas Glover, Esq., who guaranteed to two of his sons the inheritance of the two hundred acres of land which had been assigned to "Mr. John Glover" in the Twenty-five Divisions of Land in Dorchester New Grant, as specified in a deed of quitclaim from Glovers to Thomas Glover, bearing date 1743. This land was situated in the South Precinct of Stoughton, and at the most southerly portion of it, adjoining the estates of Dr. Ralph and Lazarus Pope. He commenced building a house, which was finished about 1750. The public road was hardly passable farther than the North Precinct (now Canton), and those who intended to settle in that wilderness had to find their way by marked trees to the South Precinct (now Stoughton), where were a few families living who had commenced a settlement near the Colony line, reaching there by the old Plymouth and Taunton roads. He made his journeys on foot or on horseback, and resided alternately at Dorchester (Newbury farm), and at Stoughton, while his house was building.
In the war of the French and Indians, Thomas Glover was conscripted or drafted to serve in the expedition against the French. He procured a substitute in William Monk,* and conveyed to him forty acres of his land on the homestead farm in Stoughton as an equivalent and compensation to serve for him in that war. Subsequently Thomas Glover, Jr., by purchase added to his acres thus reduced; he bought land in the Twelve Divisions of Henry Leadbetter and Increase Leadbetter, Standfast Foster, Benjamin Lynde, Esq., and others.

Thomas Glover was married in Stoughton, Feb. 20, 1752, to Rebeckah Pope, eldest daughter of Dr. Ralph and Rebeckah (Stubbs) Pope, of Stoughton (South Precinct), by Rev. Jedediah Adams, pastor of the First Church there. She was born in that town, Dec. 29, 1730, and baptized at the North Precinct by Rev. Joseph Morse, Jan. 2, 1731, her parents being members of that Church, and she was carried thither on horseback to receive the ordinance only a few days from her birth. She removed from her father's to her new house at the time of her marriage, and died there Aug. 12, 1812, in the 82d year of her age. She was buried in the old burying ground in Stoughton, by the side of her husband, and has a gravestone.

Children of Thomas and Rebeckah (Pope) Glover, born in Stoughton:

189. Elizabeth, b. Sept. 25, 1752; m. Samuel Bird, of Sharon.
190. Rebeckah, b. May 16, 1754; d. unm. May 1, 1785, aged 28.
192. Thomas, b. Dec. 29, 1757; m. 1st, Eunice Bent, of Sudbury; 2d, Abigail Hewins, of Sharon.
193. William, b. July 17, 1759; m. Content Porter, of Stoughton.
194. Rachael, b. Jan. 15, 1761; m. 1st, Benj. Homes, Esq., Norton; 2d, Solomon Hall, Dorchester.
195. Samuel, b. Feb. 5, 1763; m. Eleanor Hawes, of Sharon.
196. Ebenezer, b. Feb. 2, 1765; m. Mary Tresscott, widow of Isaac Fenno, of Dorchester.

* William Monk returned home, having been in the battles of Louisburg and Fort William Henry, and was present at the taking of Quebec. He built a house and married, and passed his life on his homestead thus acquired.
Thomas Glover and Rebeckah his wife became members of the First Church in Stoughton, South Precinct, in 1752, and their children were all baptized there within a few days of their birth. His will bears date July 26, 1796; probated the first Tuesday in May, 1811. He gave portions of land to his sons; and to his daughters, who were all married and had received their marriage portions, he gave a balance of money as their full share in his estate, and settled the homestead on his youngest son, Elijah Glover (see p. 80). The house built in 1750 is still standing; the land is in possession of his heirs.

In the life and character of Thomas Glover the Christian graces were developed and shone with admirable lustre. Of strict integrity, of mild and amiable temperament, of sound and discretionary judgment, he was a kind husband, a tender parent, a friendly and obliging neighbor, a patriotic and law-abiding man, of whom it was once remarked by a prominent citizen and officer of the town of Stoughton, that "if all people were like Mr. Thomas Glover, there would be no need to make laws." Of the Church to which he belonged he was an exemplary and worthy member, and observed the ordinances with great veneration and strict adherence, both in public and in the family, continuing the worship of God at the family altar until nearly the close of his life, a period of almost sixty years. He was an honorable and worthy citizen and member of society, and is remembered as such by all survivors who ever knew him. In his deportment he was gentlemanly, and was possessed of a degree of manly grace and beauty.

(54) ELIJAH GLOVER, the second son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Clough) Glover, was born at Newbury farm, in Dorchester, July 20, 1725, baptized at the Church in Dorchester, Rev. John Danforth, pastor, July 25, 1725, and died in Milton at his residence on Milton Hill, July 1, 1770, aged 45 years. He was buried in Milton in the ancient burial yard, and has a gravestone. His death was caused by an internal injury received by wrestling at a match or ring, formed for that exercise, on Election day the May previous. It is said that he had carried the ring by his agility and superior strength, and while enjoying his victory received a challenge from a new champion who had come on the ground. He accepted, and triumphed, but the contest caused the rupture of a blood-vessel, which resulted in death in a few months. He made his will, appointing wife Elizabeth executor; Elijah Glover, of Pembroke, was one of the witnesses. In 1744 his name is enrolled upon the alarm list, and also at Castle William on the list of soldiers who had served there in 1747 and previous, under the command of Col. Estes Hatch.

Elijah was an extensive landholder in Dorchester and Milton. He inherited a competent estate from his father, and was an owner, conjointly with his elder brother Thomas Glover, in lands received from their grandfather, Dea. John Clough, at Ashford and Windsor, in the Colony of Connecticut. He also came in possession of valuable lands in right of his wife Abigail. His homestead estate was situated in Milton, on the Milton Hill road leading to Quincy meeting-house, nearly opposite the estates of Gov. Belcher and Gov. Hutchinson, who lived at one time on Milton Hill, and whose estates have passed to Joseph Rowe, Esq., and the Hon. Jonathan Russell. The house built by Elijah Glover has been taken down and a new one built on the same spot, and the location of his estate may be identified at the present time by two large elm trees which once adorned the premises and still remain to mark the spot.

He was twice married. First, on Dec. 21, 1751, to Abigail Kingsley, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Gulliver) Kingsley, of Milton, born there Oct. 16, 1727, and died Feb. 8, 1761, in her 35th year. Her earliest American ancestor was John Kingsley, who came from England and settled in Milton, and was married there June 25, 1669, to Susannah Daniell. By his first marriage Elijah Glover had one son. He was married, second, Jan. 1, 1762, to Elizabeth Tucker, of Milton. They had one daughter.

Only child of Elijah and Abigail (Kingsley) Glover, born in Milton:

By wife Elizabeth Tucker:

201. Susannah, b. April 21, 1765; m. Charles Pierce, of Milton.

Elizabeth Tucker, the widow of Elijah Glover, married, a second time, Nov. 2, 1776, George Clark, of Milton. He died, and she married, a third time, Deacon Moses Carey, of North Bridgewater, and died there in 1825. She had two children by George Clark. Eleanor, born in 1790, married Deacon Daniel Noyes, of Boston.

(57) WILLIAM GLOVER, the third son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Clough) Glover, was born at the Newbury farm homestead, in Dorchester, Aug. 1, 1731, and was baptized at the First Church in Quincy, Aug. 8, 1731. He died in Dorchester, March 7, 1797, in his 67th year, and was buried in Quincy, in the ancient burial yard; he has a gravestone. He inherited a portion of Newbury farm, was co-executor to his father’s will, and joint heir to his homestead estate. He also came in possession of extensive and valuable lands in right of his wife, and built a house and settled on her estate. It is still owned and occupied by his descendants. Dr. William B. Duggan is the present possessor, in right of his wife, who is a grandchild.

Oct. 15, 1772, William Glover was married to Mary Capen, daughter of John Capen, of Dorchester, born there in 1738, and died Nov. 11, 1813, aged 75 years; buried in Quincy, and has a gravestone. At the age of 16 years, in 1747, his name is enrolled among those who served at Castle William under the command of Col. Estes Hatch.

Children of William and Mary (Capen) Glover, born in Dorchester:

204. William, b. Oct. 3, 1780; m. Mary Billings, of Quincy.
205. Mary, b. Nov. 12, 1784; d. Nov. 12, 1800, aged 16 years.

(58) JAMES GLOVER, the fourth son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Clough) Glover, was born at the Newbury farm homestead, in Dorchester, June 5, 1734, baptized at the Church in Braintree, June 9, 1733–4, and died in Vinalhaven, at Fox Islands, Lincoln County, Maine, April 22, 1806, in the 72d year of his age. He resided in Dorchester until he arrived at the age of manhood. His name is enrolled among a list of officers and soldiers in Col. Estes Hatch’s first Independent Company in the town of Dorchester, dated Oct. 11, 1753, when he was at the age of twenty years. He also served at Castle William, and was discharged in 1748. In that year he went to Stoughton, and made preparations to settle on a tract of land there, belonging to his father, in the Twenty-five Divisions in Dorchester New Grant. In 1758 the portion of his inheritance was confirmed to him by his father's will. While in Stoughton, he resided at Dr. Ralph Pope's, and after the marriage of his brother Thomas Glover became an inmate of his house, making alternate excursions and visits to the Newbury farm homestead in Dorchester.

Four years after the decease of his father, in 1761, he sold his estate in Stoughton to Thomas Shepard, of the North Precinct (now Canton). He had broken up and cleared the land, and made other improvements. Date of deed, March 24, 1761. Consideration, two hundred and ten pounds. Description and location are as follows:

A certain Tract or Parcel of land lying in the Third Precinct in Stoughton, containing One hundred Acres, be the same more or less. And is the one half of a lot formerly laid out by the Dorchester Proprietors to "Mr. Glover." Butted and Bounded as follows. Beginning at a Stake and heap of Stones at a Corner in the Division line between Thomas Glover's land and the said Hundred Acres, then runs in a straight line till it comes to the corner bounds of said "Mr. Glover's" line; and is bounded Westerly partly on Judge Lynde and partly on David Thompson; then running in the line between said land and George Monks's land till it comes to the corner bounds between the said Lot and Thomas Crane's land; and is bounded Easterly partly on Thomas Crane's land and partly on Johnson Tolman's Lot, till it comes to a Stake and heap of Stones in the Division line between said land and Thomas Glover's; and is bounded Northerly on Thomas Glover, till it comes to a stake and heap of stones by the Way (road), then the Way as it is now improved is the bounds till it comes to a fence in the Division line on the Contrary side of the Way; and from thence in a straight line to the Stake first mentioned.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of us,
Thomas Glover,
William Pope.

This estate has passed down in the Shepard family, and is now (1866) in possession of Samuel Shepard Stetson, a great-grandson of Thomas Shepard.

June 2, 1762, James Glover purchased a tract of land in Framingham, of Mr. John Haven, administrator on the estate of Nathaniel Stacey. He owned a house and land there in that part of the town known by the name of "Salem End." Also he owned land in East Sudbury.

June 9, 1790, he sold his estate at Framingham and removed to Fox Islands, in Maine. He took a farm in Vinalhaven, on a lease or shares, of Eleazer Crabtree. The indenture was signed by Eleazer Crabtree and James Glover, and witnessed by Samuel Train, Jr., and Enoch Train. He subsequently purchased the estate, and resided there at his decease.

He was twice married. First, Feb. 3, 1762, to Lois Bent, of Sudbury, who was the eldest daughter of Thomas and Mary (Stone) Bent. She was born in Sudbury, Dec. 3, 1740, and died at Framingham in 1783. Her earliest American ancestor was Hopestill Bent, who came from England with his parents in the early settlement of New England, settled at Bent's Point, now in the precinct of South Boston, and was married to Elizabeth Brown, Nov. 27, 1701. Thomas their son, and father of Lois Bent, was born in Sudbury, July 27, 1706, married Mary Stone, May 28, 1733, and had eight children. James Glover married, a second time, Sept. 23, 1784, Mrs. Mary (Hill) Metcalf, widow of —— Metcalf, of Franklin, Mass. They had six children. She died at Vinalhaven, Feb. 15, 1842.

June 27, 1736, baptized at the First Church in Braintree (now Quincy), July 4, 1736, and died in Dorchester at the homestead, Dec. 26, 1807, in his 72d year. He was buried in the ancient cemetery in Quincy, and has a gravestone.

In 1758, at the age of twenty-two years, he succeeded to the possession and occupancy of the homestead of Newbury farm (see p. 74), and continued there until his decease. He was co-executor to the will of his father, with his brother William, in that year. He was an extensive landed proprietor, by inheritance and by purchase; was the owner of lands in Braintree, Dorchester and Milton, and paid taxes in those towns. His name is enrolled in the army list of those who composed the alarm men in the war of the Revolution in 1776; was among those who were called out on the 19th of April, 1775, to meet the enemy at Lexington, and was active and patriotic in his country's cause throughout the conflict. It is said, also, that he was one of the memorable Boston "Tea Party," and assisted in the removal and destruction of that article in Boston harbor in the year 1774.

Ebenezer Glover was twice married. First, in 1772, to Sarah Wadsworth, who was a daughter of Deacon Benjamin and Esther (Tucker) Wadsworth, of Milton, born there Oct. 29, 1747, and died at Newbury farm, January 8, 1783, in her 35th year. (65) ROBERT GLOVER, the eldest son of Capt. Robert Glover. The date of his birth has not been ascertained, but it is presumed he was born about 1697 or '98. He resided at one time in Boston, and was associated with the merchants of that time. He also resided for some time in the ancient Piscataqua country, near Portsmouth, N. H. He served in Queen Anne's war, under Sir William Pepperell, was in service at the taking of Cape Breton, and, as it appears, died or was killed about that time, or in 1745. He was married, and the name of his wife was Mary — whom, it seems, was a relative of the Fayerweathers of Boston, and of the Athorps. At the time of Mr. Glover's death, or soon after, she was residing on the Island of Antigua, in the British West Indies. They had one son, viz.:

235. Robert, b. in 1720; went to the Island of Antigua. Was a merchant, and, it is supposed, died there.

The following letters, written from the Island of Antigua by Mrs. Mary Glover, and her son Mr. Robert Glover, in 1745-6, to Thomas Fayerweather, Esq., of Boston, comprise nearly all that has been gathered of them:

Mrs. Mary Glover, residing at Antigua, West Indies, to Mr. Thomas Fayerweather, merchant, at Boston, N. E.

Antigua, Feb. 5, 1745-6.

Sir,—I received your favor by my sister Frances Fayerweather, and by her recommendation have taken the liberty to write to you and enclose a power of attorney, requesting the favor of you to act for me in all my affairs, which my husband Mr. Robert Glover was concerned in; and to take in to your hands a negro, and what other things he might have left in Boston or any other place. I likewise beg the favor of you to make enquiry of the officers which went against Cape Breton, and of the company at home, and if the same came over before the death of Mr. Glover. I understand that Mr. Glover left two negroes in hands of Mr. Sherborne, a native of Piscataqua, which he carried from home, besides the above mentioned negro he carried to wait on him at Cape Breton, which boy I understand was left in the hands of Samuel Baker, which if you get, please send to this Island. I have also been informed that one Mr. Price, a Tailor, was indebted to Mr. Glover a considerable sum, for Gold and Silver buttons, which I hope you inquired about; for Mr. Glover carried with him a large quantity. He also bought a horse in Cape Breton. Mr. Samuel Fayerweather was present when he paid the money for him. If you send the negro or Mr. Glover's effects, please have them insured. Your favor in this will infinitely oblige, Sir,

I am your most humble and obedient Servant,

Mary Glover.

P. S. To Mr. Thomas Fayerweather,—Your Cousin Fanny desires you to ask Mr. Samuel Fayerweather, who can inform you about the horse which Mr. Glover paid the money for while at Cape Breton. Please to dispose of it to the best advantage. Your Cousin Fanny desires you to remember her love to her Cousin Fayerweather and family, and Miss Apthorp and Cousin Allen, and likewise Miss Tyng and family, and all acquaintances who inquire for her.

Mary Glover.

From Robert Glover, of Antigua, to Mr. Thomas Fayerweather, merchant, of Boston.

Antigua, March 25, 1747-8.

Sir,—My mother received yours some time ago, acquainting her that you could not receive my father's effects without Letters of Administration, which she never thought of before, and now it is too late; But as it is left between my Mother and myself, I dont suppose but the copy of the Will will be sufficient, as I have given my mother Power to act in my behalf, and desire that you would forward it as soon as possible, for lying out of the money so long is a great detriment to us both. I hope you will excuse the trouble we give you in this affair. But hope it will be in my power in a little time to serve you more largely in the mercantile way. My Mother presents her love and service to your father and family, as doth your sincere friend and servant,

Robert Glover.

P. S. I shall be glad to have a line from you by all opportunity. If you will direct to Mr. Robert Glover, living with Mr. Michael Lovell, Merchant, in Antigua. Please to send me a copy of my father's papers by the first opportunity. There is an account of two Negroes left with Mr. Sherborne, of Piscataqua.

Robert Glover.

(66) THOMAS GLOVER, the second son of Capt. Robert Glover, was born about 1700. He settled in Pembroke, Mass., and died there in 1761, in his 61st year. Very little has been gathered of him. His name is enrolled among a list of those who served in Queen Anne's war, in 1745-6; but it appears he was absent from his home in Pembroke but a short time, and was residing there at the time of his decease in 1761.

He was married, Jan. 23, 1723, to Sarah Bonney, of Pembroke, who was the daughter of Elisha Bonney, of that place.

Children of Thomas and Sarah (Bonney) Glover, born in Pembroke:

+237. Robert, b. Nov. 2, 1726; m. { 1st, Bethiah Tubbs, Plymouth; 2d, Alice Standish, Pembroke.

238. James, b. June 15, 1728.
+240. Thomas, b. Aug. 30, 1732.
+241. George, b. in 1735; m. Mary Fisher, of Plymouth.

January 11, 1758, Thomas Glover purchased twenty-eight acres of land in Pembroke, of Thomas Little, Esq., of that place. Consideration, eleven pounds. It was bounded, according to the Plymouth Records of Deeds, "by the way leading from the Street where John Bishop dwelt, to Jonathan Crooker's; and Northerly by the land sold to John Bishop; South East by land of Robert Glover which I sold to John Cunningham."

March 2, 1761, letters of administration were granted "on the estate of Thomas Glover, late of Pembroke, deceased, to Robert Glover, his eldest son." March 31, 1761, an inventory of the estate was taken by Elisha Bonney, Joshua Weston and John Stetson, which was presented by Robert Glover, April 8, of the same year, who made oath that it was a true inventory, and that if more should appear be would make known the same. The estate was rendered insolvent. List of creditors notified—William Sever, Jacob Dingley, Elisha West, Ichabod Bonney, Isaac Tubbs, Percy Tilson, Micah Lowden, widow Desire Witherell, Robert Glover, widow Abigail Bears. Dated at Plymouth, April 5, 1762.

(69) JOHN GLOVER, Jr., eldest son of John Glover (cordwainer) and Hannah (Capen) Glover, was born in Dorchester, Oct. 17, 1715. There is no record of his baptism, his marriage or his death. It is presumed that he was brought up with his mother's relatives, who lived in Roxbury. He was made a legatee to the will of his aunt Sarah Capen, whom it is stated was "late of Roxbury, and who died unmarried."

Feb. 8, 1732, he chose John Capen, of Dorchester, to be his guardian, as appears by the following document. Mr. Capen accepted the trust.

*Know all men by these Presents, That I John Glover, a Minor, aged about 17 years, son of John Glover, Soldier, belonging to his Majesties Castle William, in the County of Suffolk and in his Majesties Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, have named, ordained and made, and do by these Presents put and constitute John Capen of Dorchester in the County of Suffolk, Cordwainer, to be my Guardian, with full power and authority for me and in my name and for my use, to ask, demand and sue for, recover and receive and take into his possession and custody, all and singular such part and portion of an estate accruing to me in Right of my Aunt Sarah Capen, late of Roxbury, Spinster, Decd, or which by any other way or means whatsoever belonging to me, and to manage, employ and improve the same for my best advantage and profit during my Minority. And to do all whatsoever may be necessary in and about the Premises as fully and effectually, to all intents and purposes, as I myself might or could do personally, and being of full age. Praying that he may be accordingly accepted in the same Trust and Power. In Testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 28th day of February, 1732, and in the Sixth year of his Majesty's Reign, Our Sovereign Lord George the 2d, King over Great Britain, &c. (Signed) John Glover, and a seal. Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of us,

Ebenezer Williams,
John Payne.

Feb. 28, 1732. The within named John Glover personally appearing before me, acknowledged this Instrument or Letter of Guardianship to be his free will, act and Deed, which I allow and approve.

Josiah Willard, Judge of Probate.

Dec. 6, 1737. John Capen, Guardian, presented the foregoing Account, and made oath that it contains a just and true account of his Guardianship to John Glover, which I allow and approve, and hereby order him to pay the Overplus to Mr. Samuel Lyon, of Roxbury, Uncle to the said John Glover.

The next date which can be found of him is also in 1737, when he was twenty-two years old. It appears he had resided in Roxbury, with his mother's relatives, and had never become an inhabitant of Dorchester. In 1739, two years later, and when he had arrived at the age of twenty-four years, he was residing in the latter place, and was thus requested to give security for his permanent residence, or depart the town:

Suffolk ss. To Samuel Blake, one of the Constables of the Town of Dorchester, Greeting. In his Majesty's name you are required to give warning unto John Glover, Junior, now residing in this Town, but is no inhabitant of this Town, that he depart out of the Town of Dorchester within the space of fourteen days, or give security for his longer continuance as the law directs. Hereof fail not, and make return of this warrant and of your doings therein unto myself or to the Selectmen as soon as convenient you may. Dated at Dorchester, in the Thirteenth year of his Majesty's Reign, on the 14th day of February, 1739. By the order of the Selectmen.

JAMES BLAKE, Town Clerk.

It is presumed he gave the required guarantee, as his name is enrolled among those who served at Castle William on the alarm list of 1744, and also of 1747, and was discharged from there in 1748. Alexander Glover received the amount due for his services, and gave the following receipt:

We the Subscribers do respectfully acknowledge to have received of Samuel Blake the full amount of Our Wages and Subsistence, money allowed us for our Service at Castle William in the time of the Alarm in the Year 1746. (Signed) ALEXANDER GLOVER, for JOHN GLOVER, Jr.

The above is the last date that has been gathered of him. At this period he was 33 years of age. No record has been found relating to his subsequent life. There is a traditional rumor or anecdote, which has been passed down among the Glovers at Dorchester, that "a John Glover was residing at Newbury farm in the time of the Revolutionary War, and that during the great excitement occasioned by the Lexington alarm in 1775, he took his gun and went out to find a place of safety in the woods, but soon returned and provided himself with a 'bag of salt,' intending to subsist on game until he could get beyond the reach of the enemy; and that afterwards he went to Rhode Island and never returned." He was at that time, if living, aged 60 years, and there seems to have been then no other John Glover to whom this story could possibly relate.

(72) WILLIAM GLOVER, the third son of John and Lydia (Norcott) Glover, was born in Dorchester, Sept. 24, 1724, baptized at the Church there, Sept. 27, 1724, and died in Brookline, April 1, 1757, in his 33d year. Letters of administration were granted "on the estate of William Glover, late of Brookline, deceased, intestate," to Jonathan Davis, April 15, 1757. Inventory taken Oct. 14, 1757, by Samuel Crafts and Jonathan Winchester, Appraisers, as follows: "Bed and bed-clothes, half Dozen chairs, a child's chair, Square Table, Chest and Joynt Stools, Household Furniture and Pictures. Whole amount, Seven Pounds Eighteen Shillings (£7 18s.)."

William Glover was married in Brookline, as certified by B. F. Baker, Town Clerk in that place, to Mary Coye, Nov. 24, 1748. She survived him, and there is reason to suppose that she was married again to Isaac Harper, Feb. 12, 1769, and nothing further is known of her.

The records of the First Congregational Church in Brookline, the Rev. Cotton Brown, pastor, furnish the following baptisms of two children of William Glover:

No other children appear there, and Mr. Baker certifies that none are to be found recorded on the Town Records of Brookline. The above children are recorded as of William and Mary Glover. No marriages or deaths are recorded previous to 1760, and until the ministry of Rev. Joseph Jackson.

July 22, 1811, the death of a Samuel Glover is recorded thus: "Samuel Glover, at Mrs. Partridges, 24 years old, felo-de-se." He was probably a son of the Samuel baptized in 1750, and grandson of William and Mary (Coye) Glover.*

(75) SAMUEL GLOVER, fourth son of John and Lydia (Norton) Glover, was born in Dorchester, July 28, 1730, baptized Aug. 2, 1730, by Rev. John Danforth, and died at or near Albany, N. Y., in 1756. He was married to Ruth Wheat, of Needham, Sept. 28, 1752. He bought a farm in Needham, and went there to live in September, 1755, at the age of 26 years. He enlisted as a volunteer in the French and Indian war, and served in the army under Capt. Kingsbury and Col. Brinley. In the return of men's names, made July 26, 1756, page 496, Army Records, we find "Samuel Glover sick at Albany." Company mustered Oct. 11, 1756, under Capt. Stebbins and Col. Ruggles; and again on page 511, "Samuel Glover sick at Albany." In an alphabetical list of men's names in Col. Timothy Ruggles's company, is "Samuel Glover, born at Dorchester, lived last at Needham; farmer; 26 yrs old; volunteer, served at Fort Edward." His name was not reported after 1756. It is supposed by some of his descendants that he was murdered by the Indians at Greenbush, near Albany.

Children of SAMUEL and RUTH (Wheat) Glover, born in Needham, Mass.

244. Thomas, b. in 1753; died in infancy.
+246. Samuel, b. April 25, 1756; m. Miriam Clarke, of Sturbridge.

Ruth Wheat, the wife of Samuel Glover, was the daughter of Moses Wheat, of Needham, was born there, and died in Belchertown, Mass. She was twice married. After the death of Samuel Glover, she married Joseph Mason, of Sturbridge. Intention dated, on Town Records, Jan. 9, 1761. They were not married until April of that year. It is not known how long after their marriage they remained in Sturbridge, but they subsequently removed to Belchertown, taking with them her only son, Samuel Glover, to reside in their family.

* Mrs. Partridge was his patron, but whether related or not, has not been ascertained. She was Elizabeth, the daughter of John Hubbard, Esq., and widow of Capt. Samuel Partridge, and had not always resided in Brookline. In her last years she went to board with the Gooch family, and died there Jan. 6, 1814, aged 86 years.
Copy of a Marriage Contract made and signed in relation to her son, previous to the marriage of Capt. Joseph Mason with Ruth Glover.

Sturbridge, March 17, 1761. Whereas Marriage is intended between Joseph Mason and Ruth Glover, both of Sturbridge, in the County of Worcester and Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, This may Certify that I Joseph Mason, Yeoman, do covenant, promise and engage to and with the said Ruth Glover, that after marriage, as she has therefore a desire to bring her son Samuel Glover, who is about five years of age, into my family until he be fourteen years of age, I therefore do grant her request, and do promise and engage if she the said Ruth will earnestly engage to do her endeavor of putting him out as soon as she can find a place to please her mind. And I therefore do promise and engage that I the said Joseph Mason will not act or do any thing to disturb or vex her the said Ruth Glover about disposing of this her said son while he is under my protection. And I do therefore promise and engage to allow him the necessaries of Life as I do one of my other Children, so long as he shall live with me while he is under fourteen. And if there be no great or heavy expenses, sickness or lameness, or any unforeseen accidents happen to make a great change while he the said Samuel Glover shall live with me, I do therefore promise that I will not expect any thing that belongs to him the said Samuel Glover, of his portion nor Estate, neither myself nor my heirs. And may the Good God enable us to live and maintain Love, peace and Unity.

Witness my hand, Joseph Mason.

Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of Ebenezer Fay, Thankful Fay.

He died of yellow fever at Philadelphia, about 1790, aged 34 years, and was buried in a place called Potter's Field. He is said to have been a gentleman of rare and ingenious powers of mind, but of too delicate an organization to allow of close or continued application; of refined and cultivated taste, united with much elegance of manners. His father died when he was at the age of seventeen years, and he was placed under the guardianship of John Hancock, Esq. He was for a time in the store with Gov. Hancock, and engaged in mercantile pursuits. At the age of twenty-one years he came in possession of a competent estate, left him by the will of his father. Subsequently he retired from that occupation, and devoted himself to literary pursuits, wrote essays and poetry, travelled, and became distinguished for his natural and acquired accomplishments. At the age of twenty-one years, in 1759, he succeeded to his father's homestead estate, and became a successful and eminent merchant. By the will of his grandmother, Mrs. Rachael Glover, he was to receive the sum of one hundred pounds, old tenor, when he had attained the age of twenty-one years, and, as it appears, he was sole heir to his father's estate. He died intestate, and his estate was administered on by John Heard, Esq. Rufus G. Amory, Esq., and James Morrell, merchant, both of Boston, became bound with the administrator for the faithful performance of said trust, as attested on the Probate Records by Perkins Nichols, Register. The body was borne from the residence of the late General, by a detachment of the 3d Artillery from Fort Trumbull, and half hour guns were fired at that Post from 12 o’clock to the time of interment. The services in the Church were performed by the Rev. Mr. Hallam, Rector, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Baury, of Massachusetts, who was one of the committee of the Cincinnati, deputed to attend the funeral.”
“At a meeting of the Society of the Cincinnati of Massachusetts, at the United States Hotel, Boston, on the 3d day of October, 1848, the melancholy tidings having been received of the decease of Gen. Burbeck, their President, which took place yesterday morning at his residence in New London, Ct., at the advanced age of nearly ninety-five years, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

“Whereas, The meritorious military services of General Burbeck during the War of the Revolution, and during a large portion of his life, are held in high estimation, while his honorable and exemplary conduct, as a citizen, has won the eminent regard and attachment of those who have enjoyed his acquaintance; gratefully acknowledging the kind and merciful Providence by which his life has been extended to the latest term allotted to mortality, and deeply deploring the loss which this Society has sustained in its cherished and honored President, and anxious to evince the respect it entertains for his virtues—

“Resolved, That Gen. Henry A. S. Dearborn, Robert G. Shaw, Thomas Jackson, Elijah Vose, Charles S. Davies, Adams Bailey, Henry K. Hancock, Rev. Alfred S. Baury, Rev. Eleazer M. P. Wells and William Perkins, be a Committee to visit New London to attend the funeral of General Burbeck to-morrow afternoon, and at the same time to communicate to his bereaved family its expression of the deep and sincere sympathy of this Society in an event which has brought grief and sorrow into his mourning household.

“Resolved, That this expression be communicated to the family of the deceased by the hands of the Secretary.

“THOMAS JACKSON, Secretary. H. A. S. DEARBORN, Chairman.”

“Much of the early part of Gen. Burbeck’s life was spent at Castle William, now Fort Independence, in Boston Harbor, his father being an officer of the Ordnance Department in the service of Great Britain. His father promptly took part with the popular cause, and entered into the service of his country at the breaking out of the War of the Revolution. He also, having just attained his majority, joined the American army; and his first commission as Lieutenant in a company of which his father had command, is dated at Cambridge, 10th of May, 1775, and is signed by Gen. Joseph Warren. This commission ranks among the earliest in the American service. He received the commission of Captain in the Regiment of Artillery of the Massachusetts line, the 11th of September, 1777, and continued in that regiment and line until the close of the war. In the toils and sufferings of the Revolution, Gen. Burbeck bore a full share. In 1775, he was with the army at Cambridge, Mass. In 1776, he was employed in the vicinity of New York, until the evacuation of the city in September; and in 1777 he joined the army in Pennsylvania under Gen. Washington; was in the battles of Brandywine and Germantown, and in the terrible deprivations and sufferings of the winter at Valley Forge. He shared the perils of the memorable retreat through New Jersey, and was present at the battle of Monmouth. He continued in active service until the close of the war in 1783; and when the army was disbanded, he returned to private life with the brevet rank of Major.

“Three years subsequently he again entered the service of his country with the rank of Captain, and was for several years actively engaged in the Indian Wars along the Western frontier under General
Anthony Wayne. His death has left Gen. Solomon Van Rensselaer the only surviving officer of Wayne’s army. Four years he held the command of Fort Mackinaw, then a solitary Post, almost entirely cut off from all communication with the civilized world.

"In the war with Great Britain, which commenced in 1812, he commanded at New York, Newport, New London and Greenbush, with the rank of Brigadier General; and, on the declaration of peace, in 1815, he retired from public service to spend the evening of his days in the tranquillity of domestic life, having spent thirty-eight years, almost incessantly, in active military service.

"Gen. Burbeck was one of the original members of the Society of Cincinnati, and was the last survivor of those whose names were first subscribed to the articles of that Association. At the time of his decease he was President of the Cincinnati of Massachusetts.

"Few men live so long as Gen. Burbeck, and to still fewer is long life so great a blessing. Blessed with a sound mind in a sound body, with an attentive and affectionate family, and the respect and confidence of his fellow citizens, his years glided calmly and happily away. A man of war from his youth, he was characterized by a soldier’s sincerity and freedom. He had a heart without malice and without guile. All who knew him, knew a man of sterling honesty and open-hearted truth, without disguise and without pretension. A shrewd observer of men and things, he uttered his opinion of them without reserve or ceremony; yet in a spirit so devoid of acrimony or unkindness, as seldom to give pain or excite displeasure. His mental faculties knew no decay, but remained, till within a short time of his death, as fresh, sprightly and active as they were in the days of his youth. With a memory remarkably retentive and minute, looking back upon a past rich in materials of uncommon interest and variety, he was an amusing and instructive companion, entirely free from the asperities and repetitions which are the usual infirmities of age. Indeed, he kept pace with the course of events, and ever lived in the present that was around him, and not after the manner of old age, in the past that had faded away. No second childhood overtook him, but at the end of his almost century of years on earth, he came to his death-bed with no sign or symptom of childishness in his mind and character. In his last sickness he expressed his firm belief in the Christian Revelation, his faith in the Redeemer, and his reliance on the mercy of God, and calmly and cheerfully obeyed the summons that called him from earthly scenes to the world of spirits, missed and mourned by many who knew and esteemed him in his walks among men."

(194) RACHAEL GLOVER, the fourth daughter of Thomas and Rebeckah (Pope) Glover, was born in Stoughton, Jan. 15, 1761, and died in Dorchester, Jan. 8, 1852, aged 91 years.

She was twice married. First, Jan. 1, 1785, at the age of twenty-four years, to Benjamin Homes, Esq., of Norton, by the Rev. Jedediah Adams, of Stoughton. He was of distinguished family and ancestry, was the second son of William and Rebeccae (Dawes) Homes, of Boston, and was born there in 1763. At the time of his marriage he was twenty-two years of age, and had already been elected to various town and county offices, and was Justice of the Peace for the County of Bristol. His father, William Homes, was born in Boston, March 9, 1717, and was married, April 24, 1790, by the Rev. Dr. Sewall, of the Old South Church, to Rebecca, the eleventh child and fifth daughter of Thomas Dawes, Esq., of Boston, and his wife Sarah. They were eminently religious and worthy members of that Church. They had fifteen children, born in Boston, and baptized there. He was by trade a goldsmith, and was employed for many years in the manufactory of gold and silver ware, jewelry, &c., and kept a store in Ann street, where Oak Hall now stands. By industrious habits and strict integrity, he acquired a competent estate, and was known by the name of the "honest silversmith." In the year 1770 he retired from business, and was succeeded by his eldest son William, who carried on the business in Boston extensively for many years. William Homes, senior, purchased a farm in Norton, Bristol county, removed there with his family, and became a prominent and active member of the Church and of the town.* He was elected to many town offices, which he filled with dignity and honor, was chosen Representative and Councillor, and served in those offices. He died in Boston, at the house of his son William, in the month of July, 1783. He left a good estate, which was administered on by his eldest son. His widow removed to Boston, and passed the remainder of her days with her son William, and died there in July or August, 1788. She was buried with her husband, in the Chapel burying yard on Tremont street.

The grandparents of Benjamin Homes were—Captain Robert Homes, who went to sea in early life, became a shipmaster, and emigrated with his father to New England in 1700; and Mary Franklin, daughter of Josiah and Abiah (Folger) Franklin, sister of Dr. Benjamin Franklin, of Boston. She was born there, Sept. 26, 1694, and died about 1730. Capt. Robert Homes was lost at sea. They had two children: William, the father of Benjamin, and Abiah, a daughter, who soon died.

The earliest American ancestor of Benjamin Homes was the Rev. William Homes, who was his great-grandfather. He was a clergyman of the Scotch Presbyterian order, of distinguished piety and talents, and was at first settled at Strabane, near Londonderry, in Ireland. He was married there to Miss Craghead, and came with his family to New England in 1700; was installed pastor of the Church in Chilmark, near Martha’s Vineyard, in 1716, and continued there until his decease in 1745.

The immediate collateral relatives of Benjamin Homes were: his sisters, Mrs. Benjamin Tappan, of Northampton; Mrs. Barnabas Webb, of Thomaston, Me., died there in 1833, aged 93 years; Elizabeth Homes, who died unmarried, in 1790, while on a visit to Boston aged 33 years; and his only brother William, who married Miss Whitwell, first, and, second, Miss Greenough, of Boston, and was the father of Henry Homes, of the recent firm of Homes & Homer, and Nathaniel B. Homes, lately deceased, unmarried.

The last named child was born about two months after the decease of his father, and bore the name of Eliakim at the request of his eldest brother, of the same name, who was, at the time of his birth, in the last stages of consumption. A family meeting was therefore called, with a few members of the Church to which Mrs. Blackman belonged, and her minister, the Rev. T. M. Harris, and the little orphan was baptized in the presence of his elder brother, who was expecting soon to pass away, being fully sensible of his condition.

there July 16, 1778; graduated at Harvard College in 1799; atten-tended the study of medicine and surgery under the instruction of Dr. John Jeffries, Sen.; and subsequently, when he had acquired a competent knowledge of the profession, commenced the practice of medicine in Chelmsford, where he was highly esteemed for his professional skill, integrity of character, and usefulness as a citizen. In 1818 he was chosen Physician and Superintendent of the McLean Asylum for the Insane, then just commencing its operations, the whole management of which he organized, and where he remained in active service seventeen years. Of his success, Dr. Luther V. Bell, twenty-four years later, speaks in these words: "The weight of responsibility and difficulty which necessarily fell upon him, must have been far greater than any of his successors in such trusts, who had the aids of his ingenuity and labors, can have experienced. Indeed, to this day, scarce any institution can be visited in the land where evidence of the operations of his mind do not present themselves on every hand, not only in details of architectural and mechanical arrangements, but in the moral regimen and internal system." "There was a moral beauty in his character, a sterling, uncompromising integrity in him, as a medical director of a public institution, and which may well serve as a model to all who may be called upon to discharge such functions." Dr. Wyman left the Asylum in 1834, on account of the failure of his health, and the remainder of his life was passed in Roxbury. During his retirement he manifested the same untiring activity and the same interest in all good works that marked his public career in previous years. In a sermon preached after his death, Dr. George Putnam used the following words in relation to him: "I cannot now, I could not in his life-time, gather any words concerning him, but words of commendation and admiring respect.
He was not one of those who are prized only after death. His chaacter was of that positive sort, so obviously and constantly ruled by high principle, that men noted it while he lived, as they only note those who are really above the level of common excellence, who live not by exponents but by principle, not to appearances but to fulfil righteousness for righteousness sake." He was appointed and served in various offices of trust and honor in the town where he lived; was a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences; and, for two years previous to his decease, was President of the Massachusetts Medical Society. He died in Roxbury, June 22, 1842, aged 64 years. He always took a lively interest in whatever related to the history and genealogy of his family, of both Blake and Glover descents, and has from time to time communicated to the writer his recollections of family incidents and relationships. Of his business relations and occupations he gave in substance the following: In early life he was placed in a bookstore kept by Gould & Blake, known as the Boston Book Store, on the corner of Spring Lane and Cornhill. In 1797, at the age of 22 years, he commenced business with his brother William Pynson Blake, and carried on the book and publishing business, under the firm of William P. & Lemuel Blake. He was subsequently connected with David West, in the same business, as West & Blake. At another time, after discontinuing the book and publishing business, he connected himself with Joseph L. Cunningham, as Auctioneers and Commission Merchants, under the firm and name of Blake & Cunningham. He read much, and was intellectually agreeable and well informed on present and past literature and histrionic lore. He prepared a few works for publication, among which was Webster's Speeches on the Constitution. Of Mr. Webster he was an ardent admirer. His last employment, and to which he devoted much of his time, was the construction of a Portable Map of the World, which was never issued, on account of the failure of the publishers into whose hands he had committed it. He was enthusiastic in view of the great good to be accomplished by it, and spent much of his time and money to render it acceptable to the public. Its failure was the cause of a bitter disappointment, occurring as it did towards the close of his life. He took a great interest in military affairs, belonged to two independent companies, and was an officer in each. He was first a member of the Independent Cadet company, and was elected Sergeant; second, was chosen Ensign, and subsequently

He was forward and energetic in procuring the statue of Washington, which now stands in the State House, and was present at the first meeting for the consideration of that subject. He is said, by all who had the honor of his acquaintance, to have been a gentleman of strict integrity, the soul of honor, with noble and generous aspirations, strong affections, and appreciated in the fullest sense the kindness of the many friends who gathered around him in the decline of life to show their high estimation of his worth.

He commenced his preparatory studies for college at Lexington Academy, where he remained one year. The instruction in that institution being interrupted and suspended, he completed his studies at Milton Academy. He entered Harvard College, passed through the regular course of study, and graduated there in the class of 1832. He commenced the study of medicine under the instruction of Dr. James Jackson (H. U. 1796), and at the end of three years received his medical diploma, and began the practice of his profession in Boston, where he was in successful practice about twelve years. He attained a high rank as a physician and surgeon, and was much esteemed by his acquaintance and professional brethren. He was distinguished for his uprightness, integrity, and faithfulness to his patients. Being in affluent pecuniary circumstances, he had great consideration for the poor. After the decease of his father, in 1847, he left Boston and his practice there, and resided at the homestead in Quincy, employing himself in taking care of his estates. About two years previous to his decease he had a slight attack of paralysis, followed by mental alienation, which continued, with occasional lucid intervals, until his death. He was never married.

JOHN JEFFERSON GLOVER, second and youngest son of Ezra and Eunice (Minot) Glover, was born in Quincy, June 13, 1828, on the estate and in the mansion house where he now resides (Nov., 1866), and which has passed down to him as an estate of inheritance from his ancestors. At an early age he attended private schools at Neponset and Quincy, and subsequently studied a preparatory course of three years at Milton Academy. In 1845, at the age of seventeen years, he entered Harvard College at Cambridge, and was graduated there, in the class of 1849. He was intended for the profession of law, but delicate health and peculiar domestic relations compelling a change from the original plan, he turned his attention to agricultural pursuits. The decease of his father before his collegiate course was completed; the disease which had attacked his only brother; the sole care and comfort of a beloved mother devolving at once on him, threw around him circumstances, which, added to the care and management of their estates, rendered it imperative on him to remain at home and relinquish the pursuit of a profession. The estate which he possesses was originally a portion of the farm called Newbury farm, formerly belonging to the Hon. John Glover, of Dorchester, his first American ancestor, and which was the portion of the fifth son, Rev. Pelatiah Glover, of Springfield, and sold by his heirs in 1699 to William Rawson and Nathaniel Glover, who divided in 1702. The half part belonging to William Rawson was sold by him in 1716, and by his eldest son Capt. William Rawson, for sums of sixty, and four hundred pounds, to Ebenezer Hinckley, youngest son of Gov. Thomas Hinckley, of Barnstable. After the decease of Mr. Hinckley in 1721, a portion of it was in possession of his widow, who married John George in 1722, and the remainder was the inheritance of his son Ebenezer and daughter Rachel Hinckley. In 1739 John George sold the widow’s dower to John Glover, the great-grandfather of the present incumbent, including the mansion house and lands belonging to it, for a homestead estate, who left it at his decease to his son Elisha Glover, who subsequently purchased the rights of the Hinckley heirs, bringing the whole estate together, and left it (the mansion house and a portion of the land), in 1811, to his son Ezra Glover, who owned and occupied it until his decease in 1847, when it passed to his heirs, viz., his widow and two sons. At the decease of Lewis Joseph, the eldest son, who died intestate, his portion passed to his mother, who deceased in 1863, leaving the youngest son sole heir, and who is the present possessor and occupant.

John Jefferson Glover has been for many years connected with the management of the Granite Bridge Corporation, and was one of the original projectors and grantees of the Quincy Railroad, of which he was a Director, and in August, 1865, was elected its President.

Benjamin Franklin Glover, son of Elijah Glover, Esq., of Camden, perished in the ill-fated schooner Levi Woodbury, on the 6th day of October last (1849). His body is deposited in the great deep, over which no monument can be erected, and over his remains the storm will beat, the sun will shine, and the waves of old ocean will roll on, leaving no traces to mark his lone grave, until the sound of the last trump, when the sea shall give up its dead. But his memory still survives, and is written on the hearts of his brethren, and, we trust, is also written on the trestle board of the Great Architect of the universe, where it will be noticed and receive ample justice in the great day of accounts."

"Resolved, That we are deeply affected by this intelligence of Brother Glover's death, and view it as a solemn admonition to us to 'be also ready.' And although he was but a short time member of our Order, yet the high estimation in which he was held for his amiable deportment and good moral character, will embalm his memory in our hearts.

Among his sons was one who went to sea, became a distinguished master mariner, and took up his abode in St. Christopher's, British West Indies. He married there a Scotch lady, Miss Malcolm, and their son Isaac Rand (born there in 1769) was the father of the above. He was sent, at a very early age, to Charlestown to be educated under the care of his grandfather; entered Harvard College, and graduated in the class of 1787, at the age of 18 years; studied medicine, and practised his profession in Boston; married there, in 1804, to Lucy Whitwell (see page 344). (1164) THOMAS GLOVER, only son of Thomas and Mary (Damon) Glover, was born at Jamaica Plain, Roxbury, Jan. 2, 1833, and died there, May 16, 1851, aged 18 years. He was the fifth who bore the name of Thomas Glover in a direct male line, from (11) Thomas and Elizabeth (Clough) Glover, by their eldest son (53) Thomas and Rebeckah (Pope) Glover, by their eldest son (192) Thomas and Eunice (Bent) Glover, and lastly by (626) Thomas and Mary (Damon) Glover; and with his decease the perpetuation of the name in that line becomes extinct. He was a remarkable boy; eminently precocious and intelligent, and endowed with many natural gifts and accomplishments. His death was caused by a fall from a pile of lumber while actively engaged in play. He was confined to his bed for six years, during which time he manifested great amiability of temper, and was an example of trust and patience. He beguiled the hours of sickness and suffering by various expedients—kept a diary, wrote poetry, embroidered, crocheted, and left, at his death, many specimens of his industry and ingenuity. He also sketched admirably from nature and from imagination, painted in water colors, and read much and profitably. He had numerous visitors and patrons, among whom was Mrs. Thomas Motley, who purchased and has preserved many relics of him. As he came near the close of life, his mind seemed to open to the enjoyment of heavenly things, and holy aspirations beckoned him on to the other world. He had the assurance of faith, by which he was cheered and guided to his celestial home, and passed quietly away.

PELATIAH GLOVER.

PELATIAH GLOVER.

V. Rev. Pelatiah Glover, the fifth son and youngest child of John Glover, Esq., and Anna his wife, was born in Dorchester, N. E., in November, 1636–7, and baptized there by Rev. Richard Mather, pastor of the Church in Dorchester. He died at Springfield, March 29, 1692, aged 55 years. He resided during his youth in Dorchester, as appears by the list of names of those who attained the age of twenty-one years previous to 1700,* and was prepared for college under the instruction of Rev. Mr. Mather. We have no means of ascertaining the date of his entrance at Harvard College but by conjecture. At the time of his father’s decease he had attained the age of seventeen years. By a codicil to his father’s will, bearing date April 11, 1653, he was to receive the sum of two hundred pounds in money in addition to what had been provided for his education, and one-fourth part of his two farms in Dorchester, which had been reserved as the widow’s dower, at the decease of his mother. His father died in 1653, and it is not probable he had entered Harvard at that date. Farmer writes of him, that he was educated at Harvard College, but did not receive a degree. Another writer says he entered Harvard College and passed through a regular course of three years, but did not graduate, without assigning any reason. The following notice of him, on the Dorchester Church Records, shows he was a student there in 1658, and at the age of twenty-one years: “26: 7: 1658. Mr. Pelatiah Glover united with the Church at Dorchester, he being then at Harvard College.” There is no record of the time he left there, but it is probable that, at that date, his course of three years was nearly completed, and that he left soon after. We learn from the College records, that about this time another year was added to the course of collegiate study, requiring four years instead of three before conferring a degree, and that seventeen students, having completed a course of three years, left Harvard and commenced the study of Divinity under private teachers. Only a few names of these are mentioned on the records, viz., William Brinsmaid, Ichabod Wiswall, &c.; but there can be little doubt that Mr. Pelatiah Glover was one of the seventeen who left at that time and commenced the study of their profession with clergymen. He studied Divinity with the Rev. Richard Mather, and it is recorded of him that he preached at Dorchester, June 15, 1659, about one year from the date when he is stated to be of Harvard College. An extract from the Church Records is as follows: "June 15, 1659, this year, was a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer in all the jurisdiction in behalf of our native country; the fears, commotions and troubles in the country and in Parliament; rents and divisions in many of the Churches, especially at Hartford (N. E.); the hand of God against us in the unseasonable wet and rain of last spring; and the face of things in regard to the rising generation. Mr. Pelatiah Glover preached in the morning from Second Chronicles 7th chapter, 14, 15, 16 verses; Mr. Mather in the afternoon, from Hosea, 6th chapter, 1st verse."

July 3, 1659, he preached at Springfield, which is noted in the records of that town as his first sermon there. June 10, 1660, there was another day of fasting and prayer at Dorchester. "Mr. Pelatiah Glover preached in the morning from Zechariah 1 chap. 3 verse; Mr. Mather in the afternoon, from Ezekiel 21 chap. 27 verse."

"9 : 4 : 1661. Mr. Pelatiah Glover was appointed by the Church at Dorchester to the settlement of the Rev. Eleazer Mather at Northampton." He preached the sermon on that occasion. "13 : 8 : 1661. Mr. Pelatiah Glover was dismissed from the Church at Dorchester to the Church in Springfield, they intending shortly to call him to office there."—(Dor. Ch. Rec.)

June 18, 1661, he was ordained at Springfield over the First Church there, as its second minister and the successor of the Rev. George Moxon.* He was furnished with a parsonage, and eighty

* Rev. George Moxon was the first minister of the Church at Springfield. He was a native of Yorkshire, England, and was graduated at the University of Cambridge. After due preparation he gave himself to the ministry. The date of his coming to New England has not been ascertained; but he was in Dorchester as early as 1636, and was admitted to the Church there under that date, soon after its gathering. On the fourth page of the first volume of the Dorchester Church Records it is said of him: "Mr. George Moxon, Mr. William Tompson, and Mr. Samuel Newman, Ministers, were admitted to join the Church this day, Augst 30, 1636." He was called to preach at Springfield, and was ordained there in the year 1637; and in that year he was made Deacon at Boston and sent as a Deputy to the General Court at Hartford, from Springfield. His house was built in 1639. He continued in the ministry at Springfield fifteen years. The date of his marriage, and his wife's name, have not been ascertained. The births of three of his children are found in the early records at Springfield, as follows: "Union Moxon, son of Rev. George Moxon, was born 12 : 16 : 1641; Samuel Moxon was born 3 : 10 : 1645; ——— Moxon was born 3 : 10 : 1647, baptized the 23 of the same month." The Christian name of the last child has been torn off pounds a year salary, which was subsequently, in 1678, increased by twenty pounds more, making it equal to one hundred pounds annually. The parsonage mansion was built for Mr. Moxon by voluntary assessment. It was 35 by 15 feet, with a porch and study in it. The roof was thatched, and the cellar walls were planked. The following extract from an historical discourse by Rev. William B. Sprague, pastor of the First Church in West Springfield, delivered there Dec. 2, 1824, gives an account of the contract and the conditions of his settlement:

"The town of Springfield purchased Mr. Moxon's estate for seventy pounds. Although it seems to have been their original purpose to appropriate it for the benefit of the ministry, it does not appear that this was expressly done until 1665. At the time of Mr. Glover's settlement, in 1661, the town voted that he should have the use of the house and land belonging to it while he continued with them in the ministry, on condition that he should leave it in as good a state as he found it. But in 1665 they voted to give the aforesaid estate to Mr. Glover, provided he should continue to be their teacher during his life, or that he should remove by mutual consent; and in case of his thus removing, or in case that after his death his wife and children should choose to leave the place, the town should then have the refusal of the property. It was during Mr. Glover's ministry, in the year 1675, that the town was scourged by the Indians. The conflagration of the town immediately ensued, and about thirty dwelling houses and thirty-five barns were destroyed. Among them was the house occupied by the Rev. Mr. Glover, together with his library, which is said to have been extensive and valuable.

"In 1677, shortly after the destruction of the town by the Indians, in which Mr. Glover's house was burned, they voted to rebuild it; but having determined that they had no right to transfer to him the property which had been appropriated to the use of the ministry forever, they voted that the building, with the land connected with it, should be improved according to the original appropriation, it being or worn out, so that it cannot be read. In 1652 Rev. Mr. Moxon resigned his charge and returned to England, in company with Mr. Pynchon and others. He never returned. The cause of his departure is not certainly known, but supposed to be on account of two of his children having been accused of witchcraft, and the unpleasant circumstances which were connected with this trouble. He died Sept. 15, 1687, aged 87 years—and, as it is said, "poor and out of the ministry." A further notice of Mr. Moxon may be found in Calamy's "Ejected Ministers." Some of his manuscript sermons are still in existence.

no longer considered as private property; but inasmuch as they had once been given to Mr. Glover, in order to recompense him the town agreed to allow him one hundred pounds in addition to his stated salary, provided he should continue to be their minister during his life. In 1681 there was an agreement between Mr. Glover and the town to refer to the General Court the question, 'whether the donation which the town had made to him, of the house and land purchased for the ministry, was legal and consistent with right.' The General Court decided that the town had no right to dispose of the property after the original appropriation; but that they were nevertheless bound to make up the loss to Mr. Glover in some other way. In 1682 they endeavored to bargain with him by an exchange of property; but the controversy was never finally settled until after his decease. In 1692 there was an agreement between the town and Mr. Pelatiah Glover, son of the deceased clergyman, to refer the matters to arbitrators, and their decision was that the town should pay to Mr. Glover the sum of three hundred and fifty pounds, and the land on that condition should revert back to its original use. This decision ended the controversy."

The following is the deed of transfer of the estate in question to Mr. Glover:

Here followeth the copy of a deed whereby certayne persons of the Town of Springfield who were appoynted by the said Town of Springfield to make an agreement with Mr. Pelatiah Glover have in the name and by the appoyntment of ye said Town made over to the said Mr. Glover those lands in Springfield which were Mr. Moxons. Pelatiah Glover.

The counterpart of these presents was subscribed and delivered to Mr. Glover in the name of the Towne of Springfield, the day and year above written, by Capt. John Pynchon, George Colton, Benjamin Cooley, Nathaniel Ely, Samuel Marshfield, Rowland Thomas and Lawrence Bliss, and recorded June 29, 1665.

per Me Elizur Holyoke, Recorder.

The foregoing is a copy of a deed recorded in Hampden Registry of Deeds, Book A, page 52. J. E. Russell, Register, Springfield, August 27, 1862 by Wells Bridge.

The same writer, Rev. Mr. Sprague, says, "He continued his labors among them until they were terminated by death, the record of which is as follows, under date of March 29, 1692: 'The Rev. Pelatiah Glover fell asleep in Jesus.'" He also adds the following: "He is represented as having been a diligent student, an energetic preacher, and a faithful pastor."

Another writer says, "Mr. Glover was an able man and of high attainments as a scholar."

All writers of his time who have noticed him, represent him as a man of distinguished talents, of great dignity and suavity of manners, united with the graces of christian accomplishments, which rendered his address that of the polished gentleman, as well as of the dignified clergyman; and also as having attained to a high degree of scholarship and literary distinction. He received students in Divinity, and prepared for the ministry many who became eminent in their time for learning and ability; among whom was the Rev. Timothy Edwards, of East Windsor, Conn. His "large and elegant library has been noticed by many of his cotemporaries as containing rare and valuable books, such as could never be replaced. It was destroyed with his house at the time the Indians ravaged and burned Springfield, in the year 1675. His house was replaced by a new and more commodious one, built of brick and fortified, at a cost of £108 15 shillings; but his library, which it is stated he valued and cherished above all his other household goods, could never be restored."

An extract from the Narrative of Indian Wars, page 111, shows the high value he placed upon his library. It appears that some time previous to the burning of his house, he had removed the treasures contained in his library to a neighboring garrison, to secure them from the dangers which were then apparent; and the extract describes the destruction and irreparable loss as follows:

"Among the ruins of said dwellings, the saddest to behold was the house of Mr. Pelatiah Glover, the minister of the town. It was furnished with a brave library, which he had newly brought back from the garrison wherein it had been for some time before secured; but as if the danger had been past and over with them, the said minister, a great student, helluo librarum, being impatient for want of his books, brought them back, to his great sorrow, fit for a bonfire to the proud insulting enemy. Of all the mischiefs done by the said enemy, the burning of the Town of Springfield did more than any other to discover the said actors to be the children of the Devil, full of all sublety and malice; there having been for above forty years a good correspondence between the English of that Town and the neighboring Indians. But in them is made good what is said in the 55th Psalm, verse 21, 'Though their words were smoother than butter, yet war was in their hearts; and though their words were softer than oil, yet were they drawn swords.'

Trumbull, the historian, in his account of the burning of the town of Springfield by the Indians, adds the following: "The Rev. Mr. Pelatiah Glover, minister of the town, had his house burned, with a large and elegant library."

A late writer, Dr. Holland, thus notices him in his History of Western Massachusetts, Volume I.: "Nine years after the discharge of the Rev. George Moson, they settled the Rev. Pelatiah Glover, a man of fine talents, high attainments and ardent piety. He lost one of the most valuable private libraries that New England then contained, which was burned with his mansion house by the Indians in 1675;" and refers to Hubbard’s account in his Indian Narratives.

Mr. Glover was often called to sit in judgment at Ecclesiastical Councils, both in Connecticut and Massachusetts; and invariably attended—his presence, it has been stated, "being indispensable among them, on account of his sound and discriminating judgment." The Church over which he presided was, according to some writers, the fourteenth in order of time, of the New England Churches. Mr. Savage, in Winthrop’s Journal, makes it the twenty-sixth, postponing its foundation until 1645. His cotemporaries in the ministry were, first, the Rev. Eleazer Mather, of Northampton, whom he assisted to ordain—a graduate of Harvard College in 1656. Between them there was a great intimacy. They were admitted to the Church on the same day, and were fellow students in Divinity. Mr. Glover survived him, and was a cotemporary with his successor, the Rev. Solomon Stoddard: also with Rev. Samuel Hooker, of Farmington, Conn.; Rev. Joseph Elliot, of Guilford; Rev. Edward Taylor, of Westfield, Mass., whom he assisted to ordain. The letters missive, calling a Council to organize the Church at Westfield, and ordain the first pastor, were dated July 1, 1679. The Council was requested to convene on the last 4th day of the 6th month, 1679, which was Aug. 27th, O. S.—the year at that time commencing with March. The Council consisted of the Rev. Solomon Stoddard, of Northampton—Mr. Strong, Ruling Elder, and Capt. Aaron Cook and Lieut. Clark, Messengers; Rev. John Russell, of Hadley, Pastor—Lieut. Smith and Mr. Younglough, Messengers; Rev. Pelatiah Glover, of Springfield, Pastor and Teaching Elder—Mr. John Holyoke, Dea. Burt and Mr. Parsons, Messengers; and one Messenger from Windsor, Ct., the pastor being detained by sickness in his family. There were present as guests, the Rev. Samuel Hooker, of Farmington, Ct., and the worshipful Major John Pyncheon, of Springfield. After the Church was organized, Mr. Taylor signified his acceptance, and the Rev. Mr. Russell offered the introductory prayer, and Mr. Glover the ordaining prayer.

Trumbull gives the following notice of Mr. Glover in the acts of the Synod of Connecticut, under date of Oct. 11, 1666: "It is ordered that all the presiding Elders who are or shall be settled in this colony at the time appointed for the meeting of this Synod, be sent to." It was also ordered by the Legislature that Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Brown, Mr. Skinner and Mr. Glover of Massachusetts should be invited to assist as members of the Synod.

From the journal of Rev. William Adams, dated Nov. 10, 1671:

"This day, at evening, I received a letter from the inhabitants of Westfield, inviting me thither to preach, with one from Major Pyncheon and another from Mr. Glover, both in their behalf."

Rev. Pelatiah Glover was married, May 20, 1660, to Hannah Cullick, daughter of Capt. John Cullick, of Boston, by his first wife; born about 1640, and died in Springfield, Dec. 20, 1689. Nothing further in relation to her mother has been ascertained, as to her origin, the time of her marriage, or the date of her death, which latter was previous to 1648. It is probable that she was a native of England, and came over after her marriage. Her father, Capt. John Cullick, was at one time a prominent man in Boston, was largely engaged in commercial pursuits, and ranked among the wealthy merchants of the place. He was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in England, a branch of which was organized in Boston, N. E., in 1637. He was also a member of the Masonic Brotherhood before coming to New England. Capt. Cullick was married to his second wife, Elizabeth Fenwick, May 20, 1648. She was the daughter of Col. George Fenwick, of Saybrook, Ct., by his wife the Lady Alice Apsley, who died and was buried in Lyme, Ct. A monument for her has been erected there. She retained her title after her union with Col. Fenwick, and it is borne on the inscription engraved on her monument, which was designed by her husband. Col. Fenwick afterwards returned to England, and died there in 1657.

Capt. Cullick was early in Boston. Farmer says he died there, Jan. 23, 1663. His will bears date 1662, and is in substance as follows: "I John Cullick of Boston being sick, &c., I give unto my son John Cullick 150 pounds Lawful Money of New England to be payed him at the age of twenty one years; unto my daughter Mary Cullick, and to my daughter Elizabeth Cullick, 150 pounds each to be payed them at the age of twenty one years or on the day of their marriage. To my wife Elizabeth Cullick, my sole Executors, the rest of my estate. My loving friends Capt. John Leverett and James Penn, both of Boston, Overseers of this my disposition of my estate by my Last Will and Testament."

An inventory of the estate, taken Feb. 10, 1662–3, by Edward Hutchinson and Thomas Brattle, mentions in the schedule a quarter part of "a vessell at sea, whereof Capt. Samuel Gallop is master." Mrs. Elizabeth Cullick, Executrix and relict widow of Capt. John Cullick, deposed 19 March, 1662–3.

There is no mention in all this of any daughter Hannah. The date of the will and his death, according to Farmer, is about one year after her marriage with Mr. Glover; which leads to the supposition that he must have been twice married, and that his daughter Hannah, as there appears to be no record of her birth here, may have been born in England. The year 1648 seems to be the first date found of him, which was the time of his marriage to Elizabeth Fenwick, of New London. He must have resided there, or at Hartford, a short time after his marriage, and the births of two of his children are found in the Hartford Town Records as follows: "John, son of Capt. John Cullick, was born May 4, 1649;" and "Elizabeth, daughter of Capt. John Cullick, was born July 15, 1652." Among the admissions to the First Church in Boston, there is recorded of him—"Capt. John Cullick and his wife were admitted this day; and two children, John and Elizabeth, were baptized 27:9: 1659."

There is nothing irreconcilable in all this, but in the will of Edward Hopkins there is found this bequest: "To the eldest child of Capt. John Cullick, by Elizabeth his first wife, who was a daughter of Col. George Fenwick." This, if true, raises an objection to the first statement or supposition that the wife of Mr. Glover was by a former wife of Capt. Cullick; but that she was his daughter and the same of whom the above items are recorded, is beyond a doubt. It is distinctly stated thus on the Boston Records by the recorder of her marriage, and no further testimony has been found in relation to it. Twelve years after her father's marriage to Elizabeth Fenwick, in 1648, as it is recorded, Hannah was married, which renders it indisputable that Elizabeth Fenwick was his second wife, and not the mother of the wife of Mr. Glover. And the presumption is also as undisputable that Mrs. Glover was a daughter by a former wife.

Children of the Rev. Pelatiah and Hannah (Cullick) Glover, born in Springfield:

+5. Mary, b. April 17, 1672; m. John Haynes, Esq., Hartford.

Rev. Mr. Glover, his wife, and all but one of his children, were buried in the ancient burial ground in Springfield, and the bodies remained there many years. In 1838, the Western Railroad, from Worcester to the State line of New York, was located to pass directly through this consecrated spot, where the founders of the town had laid out a final resting-place for themselves and their descendants; and in 1848 the remains of all who had been buried there were exhumed and removed to a new cemetery which was purchased and dedicated to the purpose. When this took place there was much interest manifested, and a deep and reverent sensation pervaded the minds of the inhabitants then living there. Many assembled to witness the solemn spectacle, and to observe the state in which the bodies might be found, as well as to show their profound reverence and veneration for their ancestors. It is stated, by persons who were present, that the form of the Rev. Pelatiah Glover remained perfect.
It had become petrified in the long time it had been buried—a period of one hundred and fifty-six years. The grave, from which it was taken, was submerged with water. His gravestone had gone entirely to decay, as well as those of all but one of his family. Yet the body was fully identified. The inscription on the headstone of his son John was imperfectly deciphered, and was as follows:

"Here lyeth y° bodye of John y° son of Mr. Pelatiah Glover, who died y° 14 of January 1664.

My Bodye sleeps—my soule hath quiet rest
In Arms of God in Christ who makes us blest;
The time draws on apace when God ye Son
To see his face shall both unite in one."

The following account, in relation to the state in which the remains of this child, not two years old when buried, were found, appeared in the Springfield Gazette: "We witnessed this afternoon the disintterment of the remains of John Glover, a son of the Rev. Pelatiah Glover, second minister of Springfield. He was buried in Jan., 1664, one hundred and eighty-four years ago. Notwithstanding the lapse of this long period, pieces of the decayed coffin, and all the larger bones of the body, with the skull and portions of the hair yet remaining upon it, were found and removed. This is the oldest grave, save one, the identity of which is known."

The spot on which the ancient burial ground was laid out is now covered with buildings of various kinds—a commodious depot and other edifices, stores, machine shops, &c., to accommodate the Western Railroad Company.

Mr. Glover was wealthy, and it is stated that his house was the seat of hospitality; that to all of his numerous friends and acquisitances he always gave a courteous and elegant reception. His house was well supplied with servants, and he was in every respect possessed of ample means and facilities for the entertainment of distinguished strangers; and the neighboring clergy, as well as those more distant and in adjoining States, have added their testimony to the freedom and grace with which they were made participants of the bounties of his hospitable mansion.
In addition to his settlement and salary which have been noticed, as also his father's bequest of two hundred pounds in money, and other distinguished privileges, in 1670-1 he came in possession of lands in Dorchester, which were still his at the time of his decease and sold by his executor, as will be further noticed. He often visited the "Bay," as it is designated, and his estates there. He was entitled to one-fourth part of Newbury farm after the decease of his mother in 1670, and his name occurs in the quadripartite partition, called Glover's agreement (described on page 71), which was made and signed by them in 1680. An orchard on a portion of that estate bears the name of "Pelatiah's Orchard."

In a lease dated Nov. 1, 1682, and signed by Rev. Pelatiah Glover, with Hannah his wife, he confirms, for two hundred pounds current money of New England, to Thomas Vose all his fourth part of the farm in Milton with a tenement thereon, known as the Newbury farm; together with one-fourth part of all his division of land in Milton which was devised to him by his father, John Glover; it being the reversion of Mrs. Anna Glover's right of dower, which at her decease in 1670-1 was divided, according to the will of her late husband, among her four sons, viz.: Mr. Habackuk Glover, Mr. Nathaniel Glover, Mr. John Glover, and Mr. Pelatiah Glover. Bounded in a deed of sale to Robert Vose from Mrs. Anna Glover and her four sons above named, and bearing date 13th July, 1654 (see page 65). Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of Habackuk Glover, and Nathaniel Glover, Sen.

Nov. 1, 1682, the same day, witnesses an obligation or bond from Thomas Vose, of Milton, to Rev. Pelatiah Glover, wherein the former "agrees to pay Mr. Pelatiah Glover, clergyman, of Springfield, four hundred pounds and restore to him the fourth part of Newbury farm, or pay to him two hundred pounds within the year."

From Probate Records for the County of Hampshire.

I Pelatiah Glover of Springfield, in the County of Hampshire and Commonwealth of Massachusetts (Clergyman), being weak in body, but blessed be God of sound mind and understanding: to the end I may settle peace among my relations after my decease, and that Righteousness may be attended with those with whom I am concerned, I do make, ordain and constitute this my last Will and Testament, in manner and form following. Imprimis—
I give my soul into the arms of a tender hearted heavenly Father, trusting only in the Merits and Redemption of Jesus Christ for life and salvation, yielding my body to a comely and decent burial according to the discretion of friends or executors. And for the outward estate with which the Lord hath graciously blessed me, I do dispose of that as followeth.

And first to my son Pelatiah Glover I give and bequeath all my Housing and lands in Springfield of what sort, nature or quality soever, both that which was Mr. Moxon's, stated me and given me by the Town of Springfield upon my settling among them as their Minister, which having done both of right belong to me, as also all other quantities or parcels of land whatsoever I am possessed of in Springfield, whether by purchase, grant from the Town or otherwise, all to be, and belong to my said son Pelatiah Glover and to his heirs forever.

As also I give to my son Pelatiah all my cattle of whatsoever kind with all the implements of husbandry and military implements whatsoever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my daughter Mary Glover seventy pounds in money, which is in the hands of Richard Burke, payable by obligation from him to my heirs and assigns which sum I now assign to my daughter Mary. Moreover I give to my daughter Mary what flax I have and the wool of my sheep and all my household stuff, excepting one piece of Plate, viz., the standing silver cup and the bed I lye on, with the furniture to it whatsoever; and likewise that bed which Crowfoot* had, and lay on, as also all my books, all which before mentioned and excepted I give unto my son Pelatiah: Only two books, viz. Mr. Shepard's Works, I give unto my daughter Mary.

My Lands in the Bay of New England I order to be sold for the payment of all just debts of my sons Samuel and Pelatiah, by such as I herein appoint and confide in for that end, viz. my brother Habackuk Glover and Mr. Peter Sargent, whom I request that office of love and service from, unless my said son Pelatiah by the help and assistance of his Uncles shall be able to redeem said land from what I now appoint it for the payment of just debts. In that case I then give said land also to my son Pelatiah, or however and whatever remainder of it is, or surplusage in money may or shall be, I give that to Pelatiah.

And for what money I have lodged in Boston, or is due to me there, after all my just debts and funeral expenses are paid, I give it between my son and daughter, I say to be equally divided between Pelatiah and Mary.

Further as to what other debts are due to me, by arrears of accounts, Rents, Rates, or any other lawful wages, I hereby give the same to my son Pelatiah, whom I hereby make and constitute my sole executor: and expect his faithful attendance in performing of this which I hereby declare to be my last Will and Testament; revoking and making void and null any former Will whatsoever by me intended. Adding further that if in law any dispute arise referring to anything herein mentioned and declared, I direct my son Pelatiah to take the advice and direction of my Overseers Mr. Habackuk Glover and Mr. Peter Sargent aforesaid, and to act thereby for the continuance of peace and love accordingly.

* Negro servant, probably.

[Third Generation.]

(1) Capt. SAMUEL GLOVER, the eldest son of Rev. Pelatiah and Hannah (Cullick) Glover, was born in Springfield, Nov. 28, 1661, died there, July 24, 1689, in his 28th year, and was buried in the ancient burial ground in that town. It appears, from what is found recorded of him, that he owned an estate and had fixed his abode in Suffield, Conn. There is no evidence that he was ever married or had children, and by his decease may be ranked among the lines which have become extinct. His father, Rev. Pelatiah Glover, was appointed administrator to his estate, which is represented to be as follows:

Mr. Pelatiah Glover, Junior, presented to the Court at Springfield September 29th, 1691, this Inventory of the Estate of his brother, Capt'n Samuel Glover deceased, and made oath, to the best of his knowledge that it is a true and just Inventory, and if more Estate do appear it shall be revealed to the Court.

And in as much as the said deceased died intestate, this Court do grant Power of Administration to the Rev'd Mr. Pelatiah Glover, his father, he giving bonds in the sum of 200 pounds for security of said Estate and to give an account of his Administration thereon.

Millington to Glover.

Know all men by these Presents, that I John Millington, of Southfield (alias Suffield), in the County of Hampshire, in the Colony of Massachusetts, New England, for and in consideration of the Sum of Twenty Six Pounds to me in hand paid by Samuel Glover of Springfield, in the County of Hampshire, in the Colony aforesaid, &c. &c. Grant and sell, &c. two parcels of Land lying and being in said Southfield, as followeth. That is to say, a parcel of land containing Forty acres, more or less, being upland and low land, and in length two hundred and forty Rods, and in breadth Twenty Nine Rods; and is bounded on the North by Timothy Hale Sen.; on the South by James Rysend, on the East by land of George Norton, and on the West by the Street called High Street. The other parcel of Land is Meadow, containing Four Acres more or less, lying upon Muddy Brooke, and is bounded by Joshua Willis Eastward, down the said Brooke; Westward up the Brooke by Major John Pyncheon, which said parcels of Land hereby sold, viz. the Forty Acres more or less, and the Four Acres of Meadow more or less, together with all the buildings, wood, timber, fences, trees, woods, waters, profits and commodities, and also all the Appurtenances thereof, &c. To Have and to Hold, &c., unto him the said Samuel Glover, &c. In witness whereof, I the said John Millington have hereunto set my hand and seal this 16th day of March, Anno Dom. 1681 or 82.

This witnesseth that the wife of the said John Millington doth hereby consent to the act and Deed of the bargain and sale of her said Husband. The—S—mark of Sarah Millington.

By the above deed, made and executed nine years previous to his decease, it appears probable that Capt. Glover had resided that portion of his time in Suffield.

(3) PELATIAH GLOVER, the third son of Rev. Pelatiah and Hannah (Cullick) Glover, was born in Springfield, Jan. 27, 1665-6, and died there, Aug. 22, 1737, in his 72d year.

He was an extensive landholder, and ranked with the wealthy landed class of his time. He was principal legatee to the will of his father, and also sole executor. He inherited with his lands the prefix of Mr., and was thus designated on records and notices of him. The first notice of him on the Probate Records is in 1691, when he presented the inventory of his deceased brother Samuel's estate. In 1692 he was called to settle the estate of his father. In 1699, Feb. 14, he sold, by the following deed, his lands in the Bay of New England to his cousins Nathaniel Glover, Sen., and William Rawson, to be possessed by them in equal halves. (See page 182.) It is copied from the original document, which is written on parchment, and is now (1866) in a good state of preservation.

To All People unto whom this present Deed of Sale shall come, Pelatiah Glover of Springfield, in the County of Hampshire within his Majesties Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, Yeoman, only surviving son and heir of Pelatiah Glover late of Springfield aforesaid, Decd, sendeth Greeting; Whereas the said Deceased Pelatiah Glover, in and by his last Will and Testament bearing date the 11th day of March, 1691, duly proved, approved and on Record in the County of Hampshire aforesaid, did devise and order in the words following, To Wit. "My Lands in the Bay of New England I order to be sold for the payment of all my just debts; of my sons Samuel Glover and Pelatiah Glover by such as I here confide in for that end, and I put my brother Habbakuk and Peter Sargeant of Boston, whom I request that office, love and service from, unless Pelatiah by the help and assistance of his Uncles shall be able to redeem said land from what I now appoint it for the payment of my just debts, and then I give said land also to Pelatiah, however or whatever remaineth of it or of surplusage I give that to Pelatiah."

And Whereas the said Habackuk Glover, brother of the said Deceased Pelatiah Glover and one of the persons entrusted by him as aforesaid to make sale of his said lands, is also deceased, and no sale of said lands by him and the said Peter Sargeant, pursuant to the power and trust to them committed, as abovementioned.

Therefore Know Ye: That I the said Pelatiah Glover, son and Heir as aforesaid of the said Deceased Pelatiah Glover, for and in consideration of the sum of Two Hundred and Thirteen Pounds and Ten Shillings current money of New England to me in hand paid, before the ensealing and delivery of these Presents, by Nathaniel Glover of Dorchester in the County of Suffolk within his Majesties Province aforesaid, Farmer; and William Rawson of Brantry, within the County and Province aforesaid, Yeoman, well and truly paid, to enable me to pay out and discharge the just debts of the said Deceased Pelatiah Glover and of my brother Samuel Glover (who is also deceased) according to the mind and will of my said father as above expressed. The receipt whereof of which sum for that end and use, so far as shall be necessary for the same and of the surplusage or remainder to my own proper use and behoof (being so given unto me as aforesaid). Therefore I the said Pelatiah Glover do hereby acknowledge myself to be therewith fully satisfied, contented and paid, and thereof and of every part thereof, do acquit, exonerate and discharge the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, each of them and each of their Heirs, Executors, and Administrators, forever by these Presents have given, granted, bargained, sold, aliened, enfeoffed, released, conveyed and confirmed; and by these Presents do fully, freely and clearly and absolutely give, grant, bargain, sell, alien, enfeoff, release, convey and confirm unto the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, their Heirs and Assigns forever. All that One fourth part of a Certain Farm called Newbury Farm, said Farm lying and being within the Township of Dorchester aforesaid, which upon the division of the said Farm between Habackuk Glover, John Glover, Nathaniel Glover and my said father Pelatiah Glover, Dec'd, sons of Mr. John Glover, formerly of Boston, Esq. Deceased, was set forth and assigned unto my father Pelatiah Glover, Dec'd. (The said farm being devised by the last Will and Testament of the said Mr. John Glover last named to his four sons before mentioned.) Be the quantity of the said fourth part of the said Farm more or less. However the same may be bounded or reputed to be bounded. Together with all and singular the Houses, Edifices, Buildings, Fences, Woods, Underwoods, Trees, Timber, Waters, Watercourses, Pastures, Meadows, Fields, Titles, Rights, members, profits, privileges, commodities, advantages, hereditaments, emoluments and appurtenances whatsoever, to his said Fourth part of the said Farm belonging to or in any wise appertaining to, or upon the same, or aught thereof, standing, growing or being or therewith used, occupied or enjoyed.

Also One Fourth part of the lands belonging to the said Farm within the Township of Milton, in the County of Suffolk aforesaid, and of all Wood, Timber, members, appertaining to or belonging to the same, and of all the Estate, Right, Title, Interest, Inheritance, Use, profits,

To Have and to Hold the said Fourth part of the aforesaid Farm, and all and singular the Premises herein before granted, bargain'd and sold, with the Rights, Members and appurtenances thereof, Unto the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, their heirs and assigns in equal halves, as aforesaid forever. The same in two equal parts to be divided to the only proper use, benefit, and behoof of the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, their heirs and assigns forever. And I the said Pelatiah Glover, for myself and my heirs, executors and administrators, do hereby covenant, grant, and agree, to and with the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, their heirs and assigns, in manner and form following, That is to say: that I the said Pelatiah Glover at and until the ensealing and delivery of these presents, am the true, sole and lawful owner of all in the lands and Premises herein and hereby granted, bargain'd, sold; and have in myself full power, good right and lawful authority, in manner as aforesaid; and that the said granted Premises are free and clear, and thereby acquitted, exonerated and discharged of, and from all and all manner of former and other gifts, grants, bargains, sales, leases, releases, Mortgages, Joyntures, Dowers, Titles of Dowers, Wills, Entails, Judgments, Executions, Titles, Troubles and encumbrances whatsoever. And further that I the said Pelatiah, my Heirs and Assigns, Executors and Administrators, shall and will warrant and defend the said Fourth part of the aforesaid Farm and all and singular the Title of the Premises herein and hereof granted, bargain'd, sold, with the appurtenances hereof, unto the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, their Heirs and Assigns forever, in equal halves as aforesaid, against the lawful claims and demands of all and every Person or Persons who should at any time or times hereafter, at the request of the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, their Heirs and Assigns, at his or their cost and charges at the law, shall and will make, pass and operate under them, such further Act or Instrument, for the better confirmation or sure making of the herein above-granted and bargain-ed Premises, and of every part thereof, unto the said Nathaniel Glover and William Rawson, their Heirs and Assigns, according to the true intent and meaning of these Presents, as by their Council Learned in the Law shall be lawfully or reasonably devised, advised or requested.

James Addington, Justice of the Peace.

Boston, February 16, 1699.

Mr. Pelatiah Glover was married Jan. 7, 1686, to Hannah Parsons, of Northampton, County of Old Hampshire; born there in 1663, and died in Springfield, April 1, 1739, aged 76 years. She was the daughter of Joseph and Mary (Bliss) Parsons, who were married in Northampton, Nov. 26, 1646. Her father, it is related, with a younger brother, Benjamin Parsons, were brought by their parents to New England at a very early age, from Torrington, a town in the northwest part of the County of Devonshire, England. (It is supposed they came with Mr. Pyncheon.) He lived first in Springfield—was witness to a deed there, in 1636, from the Indians to Mr.

Pyncheon. He removed to Northampton after 1655, and lived there until 1679, when he removed back to Springfield, where he died, Oct. 9, 1683. He was elected to serve in several town offices, which he filled with great acceptance to the inhabitants; was Cornet to the Horse Company there, and is said to have been one of the richest men in Springfield at the time of his decease. Freeman in 1669.

Her mother, Mary Bliss, was the daughter of Thomas and Margaret Bliss, and was born in England. She was brought to New England by her parents, with four of her brothers and sisters, and died in Northampton, Mass., Jan. 29, 1712.*

Children of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, born in Springfield:

+ 6. Pelatiah, b. Aug. 27, 1687; m. 1st, Mary Wright; 2d, Martha Ould; 3d, Hannah Burt (widow).
+ 7. Thomas, b. Nov. 16, 1688; d. in Wilbraham, Dec. 30, 1775, aged 87 years.
+ 8. John, b. Sept. 12, 1690; d. in Springfield, Mch 27, 1733, aged 43.
+ 9. Hannah, b. Dec. 27, 1693; m. John Ashley, of Westfield.
+11. Samuel, b. April 1, 1698; d. April 21, 1698.

In addition to his inherited estate, Pelatiah Glover was the owner of large tracts of land by purchase. In 1696 he bought of Jonathan Ashley and Sarah his wife, "of the Town of Hartford in Connecticut in New England," several tracts of land in Springfield, for £165.

* Thomas Bliss, the grandfather of Hannah Parsons, by her mother's lineage, was an early but not an original settler of New England. The time of his arrival here is not certainly known, but it appears that his first residence was at Braintree (now Quincy, in that part of the town called the "Mount," probably Merry Mount—Mount Wollaston. He is first mentioned in Connecticut in 1639 or 1640. The date of his death has not been ascertained, but it is known that he died in Hartford, Ct. He had a wife Margaret, who survived him and removed to Springfield after his decease, taking with her all her children except Thomas and Anne. They had in all ten children; five they brought over with them, and five more were born to them after their emigration. Mrs. Margaret Bliss purchased a tract of land in Springfield, as is stated by her descendants, one mile square, situated in the south part of the town, on what is now Main street, and bordering on the Connecticut River. Her descendants are numerous in that part of the town (which has become a city), and of high respectability; they have built houses, and laid out streets on the Manor Tract, one of which, leading from Main street to the river, bears her name, "Margaret street," and another "Bliss street," on which is the South Congregational Church. There are still a few of the ancient houses remaining, two or three of which look as if they might have been built by her immediate descendants. Mrs. Margaret Bliss died in Springfield, Aug. 28, 1684, and was buried there. It has been said of her that she was a lady of superior abilities, great resolution and uncommon enterprise.
In 1715 is recorded a deed from Benjamin Braman, to Pelatiah Glover, of Springfield, of several other tracts of land. He was allotted lands in Brimfield and Plainfield, in the western part of Massachusetts.

In 1717 he conveyed, by deed of gift, to his third son John Glover, "four acres of land called a Homestead, situated at the Northerly end of the Town of Springfield, Plot street, and on the East side of the Great River, as an absolute estate of inheritance." Deed dated July 3, 1717, and signed by Pelatiah Glover and Hannah Glover.

In 1724 he conveyed a tract of land to his eldest son, Pelatiah Glover, Jr.

In 1726, Dec. 24, is recorded a deed of gift from Pelatiah Glover, Sen., to his four sons, viz.: Pelatiah Glover, Jr., his eldest son; Thomas Glover, his second son; John Glover, his third son; and Samuel Glover, his fourth son, by which he conveys to them all his lands in Springfield, to be entered upon after his decease.

In 1728, Dec. 10, a deed of gift was given by Pelatiah Glover, Sen., to his son Thomas Glover—reference being made to deed bearing date Dec. 24, 1726, as above.

In 1736, one year before his death, is recorded another deed of gift to his fourth son, Samuel Glover, in which the income of this estate or tract is reserved until after the decease of himself and his wife Hannah.

Thus it will be seen that he died intestate, and that his estate and lands were mostly conveyed to his sons, from time to time, previous to his decease.

_Estate of Pelatiah Glover, 2d._

Power of Administration of All and singular of the Goods, Chattels, Rights and Credits of Pelatiah Glover, late of Springfield, in the County of Hampshire, deceased, Sen., Gent, is granted to his Two sons, viz., Pelatiah Glover and Samuel Glover, both of said Springfield, and Bond taken for their true and faithful performance of said trust, Y Mother declining said office.

Sept. 13, 1737.

Hampden, ss. Springfield, Nov. 23d, 1737. These may certify, that Messrs. John Worthington, Obadiah Cooley and Luke Hitchcock, 2d, all of Springfield, being freeholders, were appointed and sworn to make a Just and Indifferent apprizement of the Estate of Mr. Pelatiah Glover, late of Springfield, deceased, as should be presented to them by the Administrators on Said Estate.

(5) MARY GLOVER, the second and youngest daughter of Rev. Pelatiah and Hannah (Cullick) Glover, was born in Springfield, April 17, 1672, and died in Hartford, Conn., Aug. 19, 1727, in her 55th year. She and her elder brother Pelatiah were the only children who survived the venerable Springfield pastor. She was provided for in her father's will. (See pp. 465, 466.) She was married, Nov. 7, 1693, to John Haynes, Esq., of Hartford, Ct., and went there to reside. She was, we are informed, an elegant and accomplished woman, and eminently fitted, both by birth and education, to fill with dignity and grace the exalted station which she attained by marriage. Although she had four children, she has left few descendants, and those of other names.

Children of John, Esq., and Mary (Glover) Haynes, born in Hartford, Conn.:

15. Sarah, b. in 1697; d. Nov. 9, 1724, in her 27th year.
16. Jared, b. in 1699; died young.
17. Mary Glover, b. in 1703;
   1st, Elisha Lord, of Hartford;
   2d, Capt. Rosewell Saltonstall;
   3d, Thomas Clap, D.D., of New Haven.
John Haynes, Esq.,* the husband of Mrs.† Mary Glover, was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1669, and died there, Nov. 27, 1713, aged 44 years, leaving a widow (and, it is said, a son and a daughter, viz., Joseph and Mary). He was the eldest son of Rev. Joseph and Sarah (Lord) Haynes. His father was the third pastor of the first Church in Hartford, and a graduate of Harvard College in 1658; died May 24, 1679, in Hartford. His mother was Sarah Lord, daughter of Richard;‡ and Sarah Lord, and granddaughter of Thomas and Dorothy Lord, who were among the early settlers of the Connecticut Colony. John Haynes, their son, was sent to Cambridge to be educated, and graduated there in the class of 1689. He was intended for the ministry, and studied divinity with his father at Hartford. After the decease of the Rev. Pelatiah Glover at Springfield, he was called to labor with that Church, and subsequently to

* Gov. Winthrop states, in his journal, that Mr. John Haynes, a gentleman of great estate, came to New England in the Griffin, a ship of 200 tons burthen, commanded by Capt. Gallop. "May 14, 1634, The Court chose a New Governor, viz. Thomas Dudley, Esq., Mr. Ludlow Deputy, and Mr. John Haynes Assistant. The 3 mo. 6 day, 1634, a General Court was held at Newtown (Cambridge), when Mr. John Haynes was chosen Governor; R. Bellingham, Deputy Governor; Mr. Hough and Mr. Dummer, Assistants." His residence was at Cambridge.

† 34: 2: 1635. Mr. Haynes, one of our Magistrates, removed with his family to Connecticut. The first year after his removal there, it is stated, he became father of the new Colony of Connecticut.

‡ Richard Lord was born in England, about 1611, and probably married there about 1635. He came to New England with his parents and wife Sarah, and died at New London, Ct., May 17, 1662, aged 51 years. He left three children, of whom was Sarah, who married Rev. Joseph Haynes. Mrs. Sarah Haynes died Nov. 15, 1705, aged 67 years. They had three children, of whom was Judge John Haynes, the husband of Mary Glover. His sister, Sarah Haynes, married Rev. James Pierrepont. Sarah Pierrepont, daughter of Rev. James and Sarah (Haynes) Pierrepont, and niece of Judge Haynes, married the Rev. Jonathan Edwards, of Northampton, and was the mother of the Hon. Pierrepont Edwards (alias Major Sanford), born April 3, 1750, who married for his first wife Frances Ogden, the second daughter of Moses Ogden, of Elizabethtown, New Jersey, in 1679, and had several children. Among her children was Pierrepont, born in 1784, and whom it has been stated married a Deborah Glover, but of what family or lineage has not been ascertained. It is scarcely possible that she could have been a descendant of the Rev. Pelatiah Glover, yet there are slight gleams of evidence that she may have been a descendant by his grandson John Glover, although there is no direct evidence that he ever had any posterity. He died in 1733, intestate, at the age of 42 years. Pelatiah Glover, his father, settled his estate, and nothing appears on the Probate records (as will be seen) of any wife or children; still the conjecture may be right. Another informant states that Deborah Glover was the second wife of the Hon. Pierrepont Edwards, and that after the decease of his first wife, Mrs. Frances (Ogden) Edwards, who died at New Haven, July 7, 1800, he removed to Bridgeport, Conn., married in his old age his housekeeper, who was Deborah Glover, and died there April 5, 1823, aged 76 years. It is hoped the above accounts may lead to some elucidation of the origin of Deborah Glover, whom it seems married either a grandson of or a more remote relative of the Hon. John and Mary (Glover) Haynes.
fill the vacancy caused by the death of their former pastor. He preached there a short time with eminent success, but declined to settle among them as their minister. He returned to Hartford, and commenced the study of law. He is said to have maintained an honorable position in the colony, as a Lawyer, Judge Advocate, Judge of the Superior Court, and was an assistant and council for the Governor from 1708 until he died, a period of five years. His line of ancestry was highly distinguished—being the son of a minister of Wethersfield and Hartford, and grandson of the first Governor of the Colony of Connecticut, who in 1634 was Governor of Massachusetts.

[Fourth Generation.]

(6) PELATIAH GLOVER, the eldest son of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, and the third in the regular line of descent bearing the name, was born in Springfield, Aug. 27, 1687, and died there, Jan. 25, 1754, in his 67th year. He possessed a competent landed estate of inheritance, and made accessions to it by purchase.

He was, it is supposed, thrice married, as there are three marriages and intentions recorded of him—two of them in an almost incredibly short space of time. Springfield Records are as follows: "Mr. Pelatiah Glover and Mary Wright, of the Elbows* so called, were married July 4, 1735." They lived probably at or near the Elbows, as the death of Mary does not appear on the Springfield Records. He was published, according to the record of intentions, "to Martha Ould, widow, entered Dec. 14, 1748." And, third, the banns of matrimony were entered by Mr. Pelatiah Glover and the widow Hannah Burt, of Hartford, Ct., March 31, 1749, and notification posted April 1, 1749. To this last wife he was married May 1, 1749; and he lived with her five years, he dying in 1754, as will be seen by his will and other evidence. There is no record to be found of any children by any of the wives, and no proof that he ever had any. Accordingly this line appears, from all that has been gathered, to be extinct.

Dec. 3, 1740, there is recorded a quit-claim deed from Pelatiah

* Elbows.—The line marked by the Chicopee River through the town of Palmer early bestowed upon that tract the name of the Elbows. It was settled as early as 1727, and afterwards called Palmer.—Holland's "Western Massachusetts."
Glover to his brother Samuel Glover, of all his lands in Springfield and Brimfield, which said lands were given him by his honored father, Pelatiah Glover, of Springfield, gentleman, deceased. Deed executed April 4, 1740.

The name of Hannah Burt before her first marriage has not been ascertained. She appears to have been thrice married: first, to ——— Burt; second, to Pelatiah Glover, in 1749; and, third, about one year after Mr. Glover’s decease, to Noah Brooks, of Springfield, June 11, 1755. There appears to have been no other Hannah Glover at that time to whom the record of this last marriage could relate.

Will of Pelatiah Glover, 3d.

In the name of God Amen. This Twenty Fourth day of October Anno Domini One Thousand Seven Hundred and Fifty three, I Pelatiah Glover of Springfield in the County of Hampshire and in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, Yeoman, being weak of body but of sound and perfect mind and memory: Thanks be given to God. And therefore calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed unto all men once to die: I do therefore constitute, ordain and make this my Last Will and Testament. That is to say.

Principal and first of all I recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it; and my body I recommend to the Earth to be buried in a decent Christian burial at the discretion of my Executrix herein-after named.

And as to such worldly Goods and Estate with which God hath been pleased to bless me in this life, I give and bequeathe and dispose thereof in the manner following.

Imp. I give and bequeathe to Hannah my dear and well beloved wife and to her heirs and assigns forever, All my Real Estate, Lands and Tenements, Edifices and Buildings, and all Rights and Titles in Common and Undivided Lands wheresoever and whatsoever, in the Town of Springfield or elsewhere, she paying all my just debts. That any of my Lands be disposed of, for the payment of my said debts, that, then my Meadow by the Town Street, opposite to the Ferry Lane and my Lot in the Plain field next to the Great River be sold and disposed of for the payment of the same, and I do hereby order and empower my Executrix to sell and dispose of the same accordingly.

Further also my Will is, and I do hereby order that in case my said Wife or her heirs shall at any time after my decease see cause to sell my Home Lot where I now dwell, that then my brother Samuel Glover or his heirs that do or shall possess his new Home Lot where he now dwells, shall have the offer and refusal of my said Home Lot before any other person or persons.

Also I give to my said loving wife all my moveable and personal Estate, Clothing Goods, debts and chattells to dispose of, as she shall see cause.

And I do hereby constitute, ordain and appoint and make my said loving wife Hannah Glover sole Executrix of this my Last Will and Testament. And I do hereby utterly revoke and make null and void all other and former Wills, Testaments, Legacies and bequests by me heretofore made and given, and Executors before made and named.

And I do hereby ratify and confirm this and none other to be my last Will and Testament. In confirmation of all of which I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal the day and date above written. (October 24th, 1753.)

Signed, sealed, published and pronounced and declared by the said Pelatiah Glover to be his last Will and Testament, in the presence of Us the subscribers, who signed as witnesses hereto in the presence of the Testator.

Pelatiah Glover, and a Seal.

Joshua Lamb, David Wright, Cornelius Jones, Witnesses.

At a County Court of Probate holden at Northampton, within and for the County of Hampshire, on the second Tuesday of March, Anno Domini 1754, I Timothy Dwight, Esq., Judge of Probate of said Court, the foregoing Will was presented for Probate by the Executrix therein named, and Messrs. Joshua Lamb and David Wright, two of the witnesses of the same, personally appearing made oath that they saw Pelatiah Glover, the Testator, sign, seal, and heard him declare and pronounce the same to be his last Will and Testament. And that he was of sound mind and memory when he did it, and that they, together with Mr. Cornelius Jones, all signed as witnesses to the same in the said Testator's presence.

At the same time, and in as much as there have been sundry objections, by some of the Testator's surviving relatives as to the Testator's capacity at the time of Executing this Will, the Probate of the same Will has been suspended, until the Second Tuesday of October following, and opportunities given them to produce Witnesses and proof of the same; but having hitherto failed to do it, the said Will is now, at a Court of Probate holden at Northampton within and for the County of Hampshire, on the Second Tuesday of October, being the 8th day of said month, Anno Domini 1754, Timothy Dwight, Esq., Judge of said Court, Ratified, approved and confirmed as the last Will and Testament of said Deceased. pr Timothy Dwight.

Hampshire ss. Probate office, July 25, 1853. I hereby certify that the foregoing extracts from the Records of said office are truly copied.

Samuel F. Lyman, Reg. Prob.

(7) THOMAS GLOVER, the second son of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, was born in Springfield, Nov. 16, 1688, and died in Wilbraham, Dec. 30, 1775, aged 87 years. He was never married. He inherited large landed estates from his father, by deeds of gift, bearing dates Dec. 24, 1726, and Dec. 10, 1728.

In 1737, he came in possession of several tracts of land by a quit-claim from his brother Pelatiah Glover and his three sisters. John Ashley, Esq., and Hannah Ashley his wife in her right, both of Westfield; Benjamin Horton, yeoman, and Mary Horton his wife in her right; Pelatiah Glover, glazier; Samuel Glover, yeoman; and Abigail Glover, spinster, all of Springfield, in the County of Hampshire, quit claim their rights in certain parcels of land belonging to their inheritance, to their brother Thomas Glover. Date of deed, Feb. 21, 1737.

He purchased, under date of May 30, 1755, other lands in Springfield; consideration, twenty-seven pounds.

He made the following disposal of his remaining estate, under date of April 6, 1772: "Thomas Glover, of Wilbraham, in the County of Hampshire, in New England, one of the four sons of Mr. Pelatiah Glover, of Springfield," conveys to John Glover, of Wilbraham, his nephew, son of his brother Samuel Glover, for two thousand pounds, all his lands in Springfield—his home lot, with all the buildings thereon standing—and all his moveable estate, outdoor and indoor, of whatever name, nature or kind, the same to be the property of the said John Glover at his decease, with all his lands in Wilbraham and elsewhere; reserving to himself, during his natural life, the use and income of the whole of said described premises. Signed by himself; and acknowledged, in person, Nov. 3, 1773. He lived three years after this date, and his estate is known to have descended to John Glover his nephew.

(8) JOHN GLOVER, the third son of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, was born in Springfield, Sept. 12, 1690, and died there, March 27, 1733, aged 42 years. It is not known that he was ever married. He was a landholder by inheritance and by deeds of purchase.

From his father, in 1717, he received by deed of gift a home lot of four acres of land for his homestead "as an absolute estate of inheritance." It was situated on the east side of the Great River, at the northerly end of the town of Springfield, on Plot street.

In 1719 he purchased of Henry Wright the tenth part of "a saw mill which now standeth, and is at the place commonly called Sconogonuck, on the River commonly called Chicopy River." It appears that he occupied his homestead and attended to his farm and mill about fourteen years. He may have had a wife and children, but nothing further has been gathered of him, and nothing is known with certainty of any descendants.* He died intestate, and administration was committed to his father, as appears in the following record:

Power of Administration of the Goods, Chattels, Rights and Credits of all and singular of the estate of John Glover, late of Springfield, Dec. intestate, Husbandman, was granted to Mr. Pelatiah Glover of said Springfield, the father of said deceased, and bonds taken for his true performance of said trust. (Hampshire ss. Vol. 5, page 182.)

Northampton, May 8, 1733.

(9) HANNAH GLOVER, the eldest daughter of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, was born in Springfield, Dec. 27, 1693, and died in Westfield. She was married, Nov. 12, 1735, to John Ashley, son of Robert and Hannah† (Glover) Ashley, of New Haven, who removed to Springfield in 1663, and thence to Westfield. John Ashley, their son, was born in Westfield, June 27, 1669, and died there, April 17, 1759, in his 90th year. By inheritance Hannah Glover was a landholder. In 1737, after the decease of her father, she, with her husband John Ashley, Esq., both of Westfield, conveyed her rights in certain parcels of land, to her brother Thomas Glover, of Wilbraham, deed bearing date Feb. 21, 1737. It is supposed there were no children by this marriage—none having been identified.

John Ashley was twice married. First, to Mary Dewey, Sept. 8, 1692, at the age of 23 years. They had five children—viz., Lydia, John, Moses, Ebenezer and Roger. Mrs. Mary Ashley died March 1, 1735; and Nov. 12, of the same year, he married Hannah Glover for his second wife. He was an extensive landholder, and lived on the estate of his inheritance.

(10) MARY GLOVER, second daughter of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, was born in Springfield, Aug. 25, 1695, and died there, May 16, 1751, in her 56th year. She was married, Nov. 8, 1716, to Benjamin Horton. He died in Springfield, Aug. 29th, 1747. They had two children:

18. Benjamin, b. in 1718; married.
19. Mary, b. in 1720; died unmarried.

* Deborah Glover, who married Pierrepont Edwards, and to whom reference is made in a note on page 480, may have been, as is there intimated, a granddaughter of the above John Glover.

† A daughter of Henry and Helena Glover, of New Haven, Ct.; born there, May 23, 1646, and baptized May 26, 1646, by Rev. John Davenport.
(12) ABIGAIL GLOVER, the third and youngest daughter of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, was born in Springfield, July 9, 1702, and died there, Aug. 31, 1752, aged 50 years.

She was married, May 3, 1747, to Jonathan Mills, Esq., of Brookfield. He was the son of Capt. Mills, who formerly lived in Quiney, and was born there about 1702; graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1723, and died in Brookfield, in 1773, aged 71 years.

(13) SAMUEL GLOVER, the fifth son of Mr. Pelatiah and Hannah (Parsons) Glover, was born in Springfield, Dec. 16, 1706, and died there—date of death not ascertained.

He was a landholder, by inheritance and by purchase. In 1726 he received a portion of land from his father (see deed of Pelatiah Glover to his four sons on page 475); also other lands, in 1736, from his father, by deed of gift, about one year previous to his decease. In 1740, three years after the decease of Mr. Pelatiah Glover, he received by quit claim, from John Ashley and Hannah his wife (alias Hannah Glover in her right), and Benjamin Horton and Mary Horton ("the said Mary being the daughter of Mr. Pelatiah Glover, late of Springfield, Gentleman, deceased") in her right, several tracts of land in Springfield, said lands being their inheritance from the estate of their honored father the said Mr. Pelatiah Glover; also from his sister Abigail Glover, spinster, the same, and at the same time—date of deeds April 4 and April 7, 1740. In 1755, the 30th day of May, he confirmed, for twenty-seven pounds, a portion of land to his brother Thomas Glover, of Wilbraham.

In December, 1765, there appears a conveyance from Capt. Samuel Day and his wife to Samuel Glover, of Springfield; and at the same time Thomas Day and wife, of Colchester, Conn., convey to Samuel Glover a tract of land; which lands have been passed and owned principally in the male line.

He was married, Dec. 14, 1749, at the age of 43 years, to Joyce (Newcomb) Jones, widow of ——— Jones, of Springfield. She was daughter of Joseph and Joyce (Butler) Newcomb, of Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, Mass.; born there about 1712, and died in Springfield, Oct. 22, 1774. She was twice married. First to ——— Jones, of Springfield, and was residing there in 1749, after his death, and at the time of her marriage with Samuel Glover. Her father, Joseph Newcomb, was the son of Andrew and Anna (Bayze) New-comb, who were married there in 1680, and died between 1701 and 1710. Her mother, Joyce Butler, was a daughter of Capt. John Butler, of Edgartown, one of the early settlers of Dorchester, a son of Nicholas Butler, and came with his parents to New England in 1637. "Nicholas Butler came from Eastwell, in Kent, and was styled yeoman. He embarked with his wife, three children and five servants, at Sandwich (Eng.), in the Hercules, in June, 1637; joined the Church after his arrival, and was made freeman March 14, 1638–39. He had a grant of land at Dorchester Neck in 1637, and in 1647 was proprietor in the Great Lots. The brook which crosses Cottage street was named from him. His wife's name was Joyce. In 1651 he deputed his son John his attorney, and went to Martha's Vineyard, where he died, leaving children. He sold his property in Dorchester, in 1652, to William Ware. He owned land on Duncan's, now Spurr's Hill or Codman Hill." (Hist. of Dor., page 109.) From other sources it has been gathered that he was a man of high respectability and distinction, and had the prefix of Mr., which descended to his sons—viz., John, the grandfather of Mrs. Glover; and Henry, who became a teacher in Dorchester as early as 1648, and of whom it is written that he had previously received the degree of M.A. from the Cambridge University in England. He married, after his arrival here, Anne, a daughter, it is believed, of John Holman, of Dorchester, and was employed in preaching and teaching until the year 1652, at which time he returned to England and settled in the ministry—first at Yeovil, in Somersetsshire, and subsequently at Withamfrary, about five miles from Frome, where he died, April 24, 1696, aged 72 years. (See Palmer's Nonconformist Memorial, Vol. 2, p. 388.)

Children of SAMUEL and JOYCE (NEWCOMB-JONES) GLOVER:

20. Eleanor, b. Aug. 30, 1750; d. since 1800, unmarried.

(17) MARY GLOVER HAYNES, only daughter of the Hon. John and Mary (Glover) Haynes, was born in Hartford, Conn., in 1703, and died at New Haven, Sept. 23, 1769, in her 66th year.

She was thrice married, and had in all five children. May 2, 1723, she was married to Elisha Lord, son of Richard and Sarah Lord, of Hartford; born there, March 15, 1701–2; died April 15, 1725, aged 24 years. He was a lineal descendant of Thomas and Dorothy Lord, already referred to. Richard Lord, their son, was born in England in 1611, came with his parents to New England with his wife Sarah about 1635, and settled at Hartford. He died in New London, Ct., May 17, 1662. Richard Lord, son of Richard and Sarah Lord, who was born in Hartford in or about 1670, and died there, Jan. 29, 1711-12, aged 42 years, was the father of Mr. Elisha Lord, the first husband of Mary Glover Haynes. They had one son, born in Hartford:

Mrs. Mary (Glover-Haynes) Lord married a second time, April 6, 1727, Capt. Rosewell Saltonstall, with whom she lived eleven years. He was the eldest son of Gov. Gurdon Saltonstall, by Elizabeth Rosewell his second wife, and was born in New London, Conn., Jan. 19, 1701-2; graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1720; married, in 1727, and settled in Brandford, Conn., on an estate which he inherited from his maternal grandfather, William Rosewell. On the west side of this estate is the beautiful Lake Saltonstall, situated in the town of Brandford, and was doubtless named in honor of him. He is described as a man of irreproachable Christian character, amiable in all the relations of life, and was held in high estimation both in New London, his native city, and at Brandford, where he went to reside. He died at New London, Oct. 1, 1738, while there on a visit to his relatives, in his 37th year. They had four children, born in Brandford:

23. Rosewell, b. Aug. 31, 1728; grad. Yale Coll. 1751; died unm. at Brandford, Ct., Jan. 25, 1788, aged 60 years 6 mos. After leaving college he is said to have become imbecile, and a guardian was placed over him.

24. Mary, b. in 1730; m. Col. Nathan Whiting, of New Haven, Ct.; grad. Yale Coll. 1743; died in 1771.

25. Sarah, b. in 1732; m. Jonathan Fitch, of New Haven; grad. Yale Coll. 1748; became a lawyer, and settled in New Haven; died there in 1793.

26. Katharine, b. in 1734; m. Jonathan Welles, Esq., of Glastenbury, Ct.; grad. Yale Coll. 1751; studied law, and practised successfully in his native town; died there in 1792.

Gov. Gurdon Saltonstall, the father of Capt. Rosewell Saltonstall, was born at Haverhill, Mass., in 1666; H. C. 1684; and died in New London, very suddenly, of apoplexy, Sept. 20, 1724, aged about 58 years. He was buried with civil and military honors. His remains were deposited in a tomb which he had caused to be excavated in the burial yard for himself and family, and in which his second wife and her infant child had been previously laid. He was intended for a minister of the gospel, and studied divinity after leaving college. In May, 1688, he received a unanimous call to settle in New London, Ct. He accepted, and was ordained there, Nov. 19, 1691. For a time he preached successfully.

"He is said to have been an advocate of vigorous ecclesiastical authority; always striving to exalt the ministerial office, to maintain its dignity, and to enlarge the powers of ecclesiastical bodies, which gave him unbounded popularity among his clerical brethren. Such were his views of law and order, both in Church and State, and of the discipline to be employed in maintaining them, and such his regard for official dignity and privilege, that he acquired the reputation of being severe and imperious, and of seeking self aggrandizement."

Nov. 27, 1707, on the death of Gov. Winthrop, Mr. Saltonstall was elected his successor, and took the oath of office as Governor of Connecticut on Jan. 1, 1708. He was very popular as a Governor, and was successively elected to that office, and continued in it until his decease, a period of 16 years.

He was thrice married, and had in all ten children—five by his first, and five by his second wife. By his first wife, Jerusha Richards, he had no surviving male heir; by his second, Elizabeth Rosewell, he had four sons, three of whom survived him. In his will he bequeathed the Rosewell estate in Brandford to his eldest son Rosewell, who settled there; also his manor house and estate in Killingly, near Pontefract, in Yorkshire, England. To his son Nathaniel Saltonstall, his farm in Cunchencaug (Durham). To his son Gurdon, his lands at New London; to his three daughters by his first wife, his estate at Wethersfield, that was their mother's, and also provides amply for his daughter Katharine by wife Elizabeth Rosewell. He built a beautiful mansion on the borders of Lake Saltonstall, in Brandford, which, it is said, was decorated with a variety of antique ornaments, and the walls adorned with grotesque pictures, Spanish leather tapestry, &c. The tablet that surrounds his tomb is engraved with his coat of arms, and the following inscription appears on it: "Here lyeth ye body of ye Hon. Gurdon Saltonstall, Esq., Governor of Connecticut, who died Sept. 20, 1724, in the 59th year of his age." He derived his name Gurdon from his mother's family. His third wife survived him, and died in Boston, Mass. She was a daughter of William and Mary (Lawrence) Whittingham, and widow of William Clark, of Boston.

Madam Saltonstall, the widow of Capt. Rosewell Saltonstall, was married to her third husband, Thomas Clap, D.D., President of Yale College, Feb. 5, 1741. There were no children by this marriage. He was the son of Deacon Stephen Clap, of Scituate, who with his father Thomas Clapeame from England to New England in the early settlement of the Colony, previous to 1639, and settled in Scituate about 1640. President Clap was born at Scituate, June 26, 1703, and died there, Jan. 7, 1767, in his 64th year, while on a visit to his native town. He was prepared for college by Rev. Mr. Eels, of Scituate, graduated at Harvard College in 1722, and gave himself to the ministry of the gospel. In 1726 he received a unanimous call from the Church at Windham, Ct., and after preaching there to great acceptance, was ordained as their minister and teacher the same year. He continued in the ministry fourteen years, and in 1739 was elected to fill the office of President of Yale College, at New Haven, and in 1740 accepted the high trust. It is said of him that he became one of the most distinguished men of his time for talents and learning, and was an honor to the office he was called to fill, continuing in the Presidential chair until 1764, a period of twenty-four years, when he tendered his resignation, with the intention of retiring to private life. He subsequently went to visit his relatives and friends at Scituate, where he died, as already stated. His wife survived him about one year. President Stiles, his second successor, ranks him among the first men of the age for learning, and as a philosopher equalled by no person in America, "except the most learned Professor Winthrop." He was succeeded in the office of President of Yale College by the Rev. Naphthali Daggett. Other writers represent him as a Divine of distinguished merit, and highly learned in all the various branches of knowledge, particularly mathematics, astronomy, natural and moral philosophy, history, the civil and canon law; as an earnest and powerful preacher, of exemplary piety, and of remarkable industry and ingenuity. He constructed the first Orrery or Planetarium made in America. Among his published works and manuscripts are the following: "A brief History of Yale College," "A brief History and Vindication of the Doctrines established in the Churches in New England,"
"Two Sermons," and "Upon the Nature and Motions of the Meteors which are above the Atmosphere." He had prepared materials for the history of Connecticut, which collection was carried off by Gen. Tryon, in his expedition against New Haven.

His wife was a woman distinguished for her exalted worth and piety. Her funeral was attended by the Rev. Chauncy Whittlesey, pastor of the first Church in New Haven; and a discourse preached on the occasion of her death, which was printed in 1769 by Thomas and Samuel Green, together with a biographical sketch of her life.

(37) Ralph Glover, M.D., the fifth and youngest son of John and Mercy (Colton) Glover, was born in Wilbraham, Oct. 28, 1797, and resides in the City of New York. He is a retired physician. He commenced his early education under the instruction of the Rev. Ezra Witter, of the North Parish of Wilbraham, and at the close of the second term entered the academy at Monson, and a few months after left there to attend the academy at Westfield, where he continued during two terms. He then removed to the town of Suffield, in Connecticut, where he continued for one year, to attend a private school under the instruction of the Rev. Ebenezer Gay, the officiating clergyman of that town. In the spring of 1817 he commenced teaching by taking charge of a grammar school in Somerville, the shire town of Somerset County, New Jersey. He closed his engagement in Somerville after one year, returned to his native town, and in the spring of 1818 commenced the study of law, in the office of William Knight, a counsellor at law and practising attorney in that town, and continued his reading one year. Subsequently, in 1819, he went to Palmer, and prosecuted his law studies in the office and under the instruction of James Stedmans, Esq., and at the same time engaged again in teaching a grammar school in that village.
Having completed his law studies, and not finding them congenial to his taste, he suspended study for a short time, before deciding upon any other profession. In the autumn of 1822, he travelled South, and visited a brother at Natchez, Mississippi, arriving there in the winter of 1822. In the following spring he returned to Massachusetts, and having decided upon adopting the profession of medicine, he commenced his studies at Somerville, N. J., and pursued them there for a time. His first course of medical lectures was attended at the Medical College of the Western District of New York, at Fairfield. He continued his medical studies, after the course, with Joseph White, M.D., Professor of Surgery in the College, and the following winter of 1825 attended his last course of medical lectures at Jefferson College, Philadelphia, where he graduated in medicine and surgery in the spring of 1826.

He commenced the practice of his profession in the summer of 1826, at Brentsville, the shire town of Prince William County, in Virginia. An epidemic disease prevailed through that section of the county during the succeeding autumn, which afforded an opportunity to test his medical skill, and he soon found himself engaged in an extensive and very laborious practice, which proved too much for his physical abilities, and near the close of the epidemic he was himself attacked with the disease. This prostrated him for a time, and so impaired his health as to render him unable to endure the hardships of a country physician, and he was compelled to abandon the further practice of his profession in that locality.

At this crisis he received an invitation from a medical friend to join him in opening and establishing a drug store at Harper's Ferry, in Virginia. He acceded to the proposition, and they commenced business there in the spring of 1827; but not having fully recovered from the debilitating effects of his recent sickness, he found himself unable to attend to the business, and continued there but a short time. He disposed of his interest, and returned to his father's in Wilbraham, in the autumn of 1827.

In the spring of 1828, he took up his residence in the City of New York, commencing the practice of his profession there, and continued it until the year 1851, a period of twenty-three years, with only two interruptions. In the winter of 1839, after ten years of uninterrupted practice, his health requiring a change from the confinement and unremitting attention incumbent on its practical duties, he left the city on an excursion to the Southern States. He passed one month in the City of Charleston, S. C.; thence he went to Key West, Florida; thence to Havana, returning through New Orleans, visiting Texas, and returning to New York through New Orleans, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Wheeling and Baltimore. He entered again on his practice with recruited health and with renewed vigor, and continued it until the year 1849, ten years longer. In the autumn of that year he visited California, passed the winter, and returned again to New York in the spring of 1850, resuming his practice and business, and continued it until the spring of 1853. The following autumn he visited England, for the purpose of making inquiries in relation to the Glover genealogy and the English branches of the name, but was prevented from pursuing the subject as extensively as he desired, on account of a severe illness which he endured on his passage out. He however was enabled, by perseverance, to accomplish something, and to make some valuable additions to the collections of the Glover history. On arriving at Liverpool, he proceeded by railway to Chester, a distance of about eighteen miles. He there examined many old wills and ancient documents. He saw and examined the will of Mr. Thomas Glover, which has been printed on page 32; and adds his testimony to the imperfect condition in which it is now found. He describes it as being written on parchment, and much of it nearly destroyed by damp and mould. As there had been a copy taken previous, and brought here in 1848, it was unnecessary for him to obtain another, and he proceeded to London, where he procured the will of Mr. Thomas Glover, grandson of the former (see pages 90 to 95). He was compelled by illness to forego any further investigations, or to collect any more of the Glover history in London, and returned at once to New York.

In the year 1854 he disposed of his professional business in New York, and removed with his family to Wilbraham, in Massachusetts. He was warmly greeted and welcomed back to this place of his birth and boyhood, by the citizens, who conferred on him such offices of trust and honor as were in their power. He was chosen and served as Town Clerk, was commissioned a Justice of the Peace, and elected to other honorary offices in the affairs of the town during his residence there of nearly five years. In the year 1858 he returned again to New York, and is now residing there.

He was married, Feb. 9, 1830, to Amelia Evans, daughter of Dr. Joseph Evans, of New York City; born there in 1808.

He was a member of the Masonic brotherhood, and was held in high estimation by all to whom he was known. The following tribute to his memory appeared, a few days after his decease, in a Natchez paper:

Masonic Hall, Oct. 20, 1856. At a special meeting of the Free and Accepted Masons, held this day, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The Grand Architect of the Universe, in the dispensation of an all-wise Providence, has seen fit to remove our lamented friend and brother, Francis L. Glover, from his pilgrimage on earth "to that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens," and as the unfeigned affection we entertained for him demands from us an expression of our feelings on this mournful occasion; be it therefore

Resolved, That we deeply deplore the loss of our worthy member and brother Francis L. Glover, and will cherish his memory in our hearts, and revere and emulate his virtues. By his death our fraternity is deprived of a member zealous, true and faithful; society, of one who in life discharged with uprightness and fidelity his trust as a man.

Resolved, That the moral rectitude which characterized him in the several relations of life, and his unwearied performance of duties, were worthy tokens of his membership. Stricken in the prime of life, with an incurable disease, with the icy hand of death heavily pressing upon him, he bore his afflictions with christian fortitude, sustained by the high principles inculcated by the order of which he was a member.

Resolved, That we deeply deplore, and sincerely lament the affliction thus sent to the fond mother and other relatives of our late brother, and offer them our sympathy and condolence on the irreparable loss they have sustained.

Resolved, That as a testimony of regard for the memory of our late brother, we will wear the usual badge of mourning for the space of thirty days.

Resolved, That the Secretary be requested to send a copy of these resolutions to the family of the deceased.

PART II.

HENRY GLOVER AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

ELIAS, RALPH, JOSEPH AND RICHARD GLOVER.
HENRY GLOVER AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

HENRY GLOVER, the third son of Thomas and Margery (Deane) Glover (p. 32), was born at Rainhill Parish, in the town of Prescot, Lancashire, England, in 1603; baptized at the Parish Church, Feb. 15, 1603, and came to New England about 1640, as it is supposed, and settled in Dedham. He died in Medfield (a part of the original town of Dedham), in 1655. He had a wife Abigail, whom, it is supposed, came over with him, and likewise children. He was next brother to John, whose history has been given in the First Part of this work, and was three years his junior. Much less is known of his life and character—of his occupation, and other circumstances connected with his residence here, than has been obtained of his elder brother. His name does not appear as frequently on any of the public records of the Colony of New England. It has not been ascertained in what ship he came, or with what emigration he was connected; but it appears highly probable that he came with the Dedham Company. By his father's will he was to receive the sum of £150 in money; and, the mention of him in that document, and the dates of his birth and baptism, are all that have been gathered of his English life. After he came to New England, in 1642, he was admitted townsman in Dedham. He is recorded as a grantee of land from 1642 to 1652, in six different grants from the Dedham proprietors. In 1649 a company was formed for commencing a settlement at Bagashaw, now Medfield, composed of 43 persons, as stated by Mr. Mann in his Annals of Dedham, but only nineteen names are given, and some of those were men with whom Henry Glover was afterwards intimately associated in his business relations; viz., Ralph Wheelock, Thomas Wight and Robert Hinsdale. By other accounts we learn that Medfield was incorporated in 1649, and became a separate town from Dedham, and it is supposable that Mr. Glover went there to reside at that time, and that his grants of land were located in that precinct. Six years after this settlement, in 1655, the notice of his death appears on the Probate Records for Suffolk County; letters of administration being granted to Abigail Glover on the estate of her late husband Henry Glover, and she deposed Nov. 29, 1655. In Vol. 9, fol. 2, is an "Inventory of the goods of Henry Glover of Medfield, deceased the 21 of the 5 month 1655, by Thomas Wight, Robert Hinsdale and Ralph Wheelock."* Sum total, £88 05 00 0.

Of his widow Abigail nothing further has been gathered. Whether she married a second time, or died the widow of Henry Glover, is unknown. No record of any Abigail Glover has been found at that period, when, if living here, she would most probably be in some New England town—and nothing has been gathered on which to rest a supposition that she returned, after Mr. Glover’s death, to England; yet it is not unreasonable to suppose that she did return, and remain there to the close of her life. Of his children we can only gather an account of a son Henry, who had a wife Hannah. They were in Boston in 1660 to 1665, and had a son Thomas, born there in 1663; and a daughter Hannah, born in 1665. Subsequently they removed to Milton, and had several more children. His history, and that of his descendants, forms the Second Part of these Memorials.

There was a John and Mary Glover living in Boston (on the Common, as their estate has been described) in 1677, whose daughter Hannah married Aaron Beard, of Boston, and came in possession of the estate in 1677. There is much reason to suppose that the above named John Glover was another son of Henry, senior. Other names of Glover have been occasionally found on record, or by tradition, who can claim no other origin but as descendants of some other son whose name cannot now be found.

In 1756 there is a record of names of persons who served in the French War, among whom is a Solomon Glover—enlisted in the volunteer service, Sept. 24, 1755, among the Grafton troops. On page 102, Army Records, is an entry, "Solomon Glover, deceased." It is probable that he died some time about the last of January or in February of 1756, but nothing further is known of him.

* One of the appraisers of the elder Henry Glover’s estate was Ralph Wheelock. The following has been gathered of him: "Ralph Wheelock; A.B. Clare Hall, Cambridge, England, 1626; A.M. 1631; was of Dedham in New England in 1642, and was appointed by the Commissioners to settle small causes at Dedham. Also a Magistrate in 1642; and in October, 1645, he was authorized to solemnize marriages. The marriage of John Crafts, of Roxbury, and Rebecca Wheelock, was one of his first official acts."
HENRY GLOVER.

[Second Generation.]

(1) HENRY GLOVER, son of Henry and Abigail Glover, was born probably in Dedham, although no record has been found there of his birth. He died in Milton, the 6th day of April, 1714, aged 72 years, and is buried in that town.

The accounts of him are very meagre, there being no record of any baptism or marriage. He lived in Boston as early as 1660, and appears to have continued there about five years. He had a wife Hannah, by whom he had two children, born there, but the earliest period at which he came to Boston has not been ascertained. In 1673-4, Feb. 5, there is an indenture by Henry Glover, of Milton, and Hannah his wife, which conveys a piece of land in that town to David Henshaw, "the said Hannah Glover relinquishing her right of Dower and power of Thirds."

Five years later, June 27, 1679, Henry Glover, of Milton, sold to Ralph Houghton fifty acres of upland on the south side of Neponset River near Brush Hill, being half a lot formerly belonging to Major Atherton and John Henshaw.

Henry Glover was probably a member of some Church, and his wife Hannah was admitted to join the Church at Milton, Aug. 24, 1684, Rev. Peter Thacher, pastor. There has been nothing further gathered of her, excepting the date of her death. She died in Milton, Sept. 20, 1720, and is buried there, in the old burying ground. Her age at death was 79 years, and she was therefore born in 1741. The children of Henry and Hannah Glover were as follows. The two eldest are recorded in Boston, the others in Milton. They are ten in number, six of whom lived to the age of adults, and married:

2. Thomas, b. June 25, 1663; m. Susannah Bradley, Dorchester.
3. Hannah, b. in 1665; m. Thomas Evans, of Dorchester.
4. Elizabeth, b. April 24, 1667; d. in Milton, April 24, 1752, aged 85 years; unmarried.
7. Mary, b. Nov. 13, 1674; d. April 6, 1713, aged 39, unm.
8. Abigail, b. June 12, 1677; m. Thomas Ellis, of Milton.
+10. Edward, b. April 26, 1681; m. 1st, Sarah Gill;
    2d, Mary Blake, widow.

The next account gathered of him is a record of a deposition, in Prob. Rec., Vol. 37, pp. 378, 385, which is as follows:
Boston, April 26, 1692. Henry Glover, Senior, aged about Fifty years or thereabouts, testifyeth and saith, that having agreed with Capt. Roger Clap to get hay at his farm beyond the Blue Hills; this deponent did get and mow about two loads of grass sometime in August last past. And when I come with my son to take up the hay, I found it on fire, and finding Richard Thayer, Senior, there, of Brain-tree, I asked him why he burnt my hay; and Thayer owned that he had burnt the hay, and said it was his; and I told him we had great damage by having our hay burnt in stacks about three years ago; which was about four loads. And he Richard Thayer said that he burnt it, and would own it before the Court if he came there; and that if I made any more, without I agreed with him, it would be burnt as fast as I made it. Also Henry Glover, Junior, aged about twenty-one years or thereabouts, testifyeth to the above written testimony before us, J. Nyle, S. White, Jacob Nash. Jan. 26, 1691-2.''

Henry Glover died intestate, and his estate was administered on by his wife Hannah, as appears by the following from Vol. 18, p. 50, of Suffolk Probate Records: "Letters of Administration were granted to Hannah Glover and her son Edward Glover, on the estate of her late husband Henry Glover of Milton, Husbandman. Boston, May 11, 1713-14."

That is to say. It is mutually agreed upon, granted and consented to, that the said Hannah Glover, Widow, for her Dower and Thirds shall have and enjoy One Third part of the whole estate in Lands with the East end of the Dwelling House and the North end of the Barn for her use and comfortable support, for, and during the term of her natural life. Further, it is mutually granted, consented to and agreed, that the said Edward Glover, for and in consideration of his pains and tender care of, and for his aged parents for many years past, and for recompense of the same, shall have and enjoy to the use of him and his heirs and assigns forever, Seven Acres of Land lying on the West side of the Farm, over and above a single equal part or portion with other of his brethren and sisters in the remaining part of said farm lying and situated in said Milton as aforesaid.

"Letters of Administration were granted on the estate of Thomas Glover, late of Milton, to Susannah Glover, his widow and relict, Jan. 19, 1715–16."

Thomas Glover was married to Susannah Bradley, Jan. 1, 1700, by the "worshipful Mr. Bailey." She was the daughter of Nathan and Mary (Evans) Bradley, of Dorchester, who were married there, 17: 5: 1666. Susannah, their daughter, was born in Dorchester, 13: 11: 1669; admitted a member of the Church at Milton, July 21, 1717.

Susannah Glover's name appears on a tax list in Milton, as among those who paid taxes or rates; the latest date found of such payment is in 1718. April 22, 1721, she was married to Caleb Babcock, of Milton, and nothing further has been gathered of her.

She was married, Feb. 17, 1700, to Thomas Ellis, of Milton. Nothing further has been gathered of him. They had five children, born in Milton, as follows:

30. John, b. Feb. 11, 1714-15; m. Susanna ——.

He was married, second, to Mrs. Mary Blake, widow, of Milton, Oct. 24, 1741, who survived him. She was a widow a few years, and may have married again. No date of her death appears on Milton Records.

Edward Glover administered on the estate of his father, and inherited the homestead in Milton. He also owned lands by purchase. May 20, 1714, he bought a tract of woodland in Milton containing fourteen acres, of Nathaniel Glover, Senior, of Dorchester—bounded

In May, 1745, letters were granted to John and Edward Glover to administer on the estate of their late father Edward Glover, deceased, intestate, which being fully performed, they were ordered to pay to the widow Mary Glover, the second wife of Edward, Sen., her right of dower, and the brothers and sisters—Moses, Henry, Hannah and Mary—£360 10s. 05d. each; also a further sum of £184 15s. at the reversion of the dower.

The names mentioned are Robert Vose, Joshua Vose, Thomas Vose, Mary Billings, Waitstill Daith, Elizabeth Shaller, Martha Crane, Hepzibah Glover and Burah Billings.
He made a will, July 29, 1761, and appointed his wife Hepzibah executrix. The will was proved Aug. 28, 1761. The following is a copy as recorded on the Probate Records for Suffolk County:

HENRY GLOVER.

(25) HENRY GLOVER, the eldest son of Henry and Mary (Crehore) Glover, was born in Milton, June 20, 1707-8, baptized June 22, and died in Conway, Mass., in 1788, aged 80 years.

He was never married. He removed with his parents to Lebanon, Conn., was a landholder, and paid taxes there. The part of the town in which he lived was soon after set off from Lebanon, and now bears the name of Columbia. It is situated in Tolland County, Conn. Subsequently he went to Colchester, Conn., where it is stated he resided several years, and was a landholder, and a tax-payer. From Colchester he removed, in 1777, to Conway, Mass., and was a landholder there and a tax-payer from 1782 to 1788.

(26) THOMAS GLOVER, the youngest son of Henry and Mary (Crehore) Glover, was born in Lebanon, Conn., at a place called “Old Lebanon Crank,” Jan. 28, and baptized Jan. 31, 1719. He removed from Lebanon to the town of Colchester. He was a landholder and owned estates in both places. He subsequently, in 1772, removed to Conway, in Massachusetts, and died there, Oct. 1, 1782, aged 63 years. He owned an estate in Conway, and paid taxes there from 1777 to 1782.

He was married, Feb. 18, 1743, in Lebanon, Ct., to Joanna Swift, of Sandwich, daughter of Thomas and Joanna Swift; born there in 1722, and died in Conway, Dec. 22, 1800, aged 78 years.

Children of THOMAS and JOANNA (SWIFT) GLOVER, born in Lebanon, Ct.:

41. Mary, b. Nov. 18, 1744.
42. Joanna, b. Jan. 1, 1747; m. Roswell Chamberlain, Conn.
44. Marcia, b. in 1751; m. David Northup.
45. Elizabeth, b. Jan. 27, 1753; m. Caleb Beale, of Weymouth.
46. Alexander, b. March 20, 1756; m. Sarah Salisbury.

(32) EDWARD GLOVER, the eldest son of Edward and Sarah (Gill) Glover, was born in Milton, Oct. 26, baptized Nov. 1, 1719, and died there, Oct. 2, 1757, in his 38th year. In 1745 he served as Lieutenant in the Navy, and was in action at the taking of Louisburg, on June 17, 1745. He returned soon after, and in 1754, during the “French and Indian War,” he was enrolled in the army, and in 1756 was appointed Ensign. On the Army Records, Vol. 3 (1756), page 281, is the following: "A muster roll under the command of Capt. Nathaniel Blake, of Milton, Jonathan Fessenden Lieutenant, Edward Glover Ensign, enlisted the following men, viz., Ephraim Mann, Dorchester, and Edward Blake, Boston, 26 years old, glazier—John Cox, Ensign, 21 years old, Bricklayer." He was in the expedition to Fort William Henry in 1756.

He was never married, and but few incidents of his life are recorded. In 1745 he was appointed administrator on the estate of his father, Edward Glover, of Milton, deceased. He served in the Colonial War until within a few months of his decease, when his ill health compelled him to retire from the army to his home in Milton. He died at the house of his brother, John Glover, whom he appointed administrator on his estate. His writing desk, containing his papers and writings, he gave to his youngest brother, Henry Glover, who lived in West Dedham at that time. It is said his papers are still preserved in the same desk in the family of Mr. Edward Glover, a grandson of his brother Henry. Letters of administration on his estate were granted to his brother John, April 19, 1758. March 25, 1760, William Spurr, administered, De bonis non, on the estate of Edward Glover, in place of John Glover, deceased.

(33) HANNAH GLOVER, the eldest daughter of Edward and Sarah (Gill) Glover, was born in Milton, June 29, 1721, baptized July 2, and died in Marshfield, Nov. 22, 1772, in her 51st year.

She was married, in 1751, to Jeremiah Phillips, of Milton. They had three children, and perhaps others. The following are the only ones which have been identified with any certainty:

47. Joseph, b. in Milton, April 18, 1753; was a soldier in the War of the Revolution, taken prisoner of war, and died in 1775, aged 22 years.
49. Persis, b. Sept. 27, 1760; m. Robert Cushman, of Marshfield, April, 1785, and died Oct. 25, 1819, aged 59 years.

(35) JOHN GLOVER, the second son of Edward and Sarah (Gill) Glover, was born in Milton, Jan. 29, baptized Feb. 6, 1726, and died there suddenly, Oct. 17, 1759, aged 33 years. He inherited a portion of the landed estate which was the inheritance of his father Edward Glover from Henry Glover his ancestor, and resided on it.
HENRY GLOVER.

He was married, Aug. 31, 1751, to Abigail Holmes, of Milton, by whom he had four children, the last one posthumous. He was enrolled and served in the army of the French and Indian War, from 1755 to 1756–7, and returned to Milton at the close of the war. In April, 1757, he was appointed to the administration of the estate of his brother Edward Glover. He died before the administration was finished, and the court appointed William Spurr, March 25, 1760, to take his place. Also letters of administration were granted to William Spurr on the estate of John Glover, of Milton, deceased, Nov. 23, 1759.

Children of John and Abigail (Holmes) Glover, born and baptized in Milton:

51. Lemuel, b. Oct. 22, 1754; in the Revolutionary Army from 1778 to 1783; nothing known of him afterwards.
53. Abijah, b. March 7, 1759–60; died young, it is supposed.

Mrs. Abigail Glover, the widow of John Glover, was married a second time, to Benjamin Tilson, of Stoughton, in 1762, and went there to live, in that part of the town bordering on Randolph. The date of her death has not been ascertained.

(36) MOSES GLOVER, the second son of Edward and Sarah (Gill) Glover, was born in Milton, Jan. 22, 1730, baptized the 25th of the same month, and died Nov. 7, 1789, in his 60th year. He was a landholder, and by trade a cordwainer.

He was married, Oct. 5, 1754, to Jerusha Crane, daughter of Henry and Melatiah (Bent) Crane, of Milton; born there, March 25, 1733, and died in Boston, Nov. 14, 1804, at the residence of her son Nathaniel Glover, No. 4 Newbury street, aged nearly 72 years. They had five children. His name is recorded in a memorandum of James Blake, of Dorchester, as having served at Castle William from 1748 to 1753.

Children of Moses and Jerusha (Crane) Glover, born in Milton:

+54. Nathaniel, b. April 28, 1755; m. Mary Siders, of Boston.

(40) THOMAS GLOVER, the third and youngest son of Samuel and Hepzibah (Vose) Glover, was born in Milton, Dec. 2, 1745, and died there, of dropsy, in June, 1817, aged 72 years, leaving a widow and six children. He lies buried in the ancient burial yard in Milton.

His name may be found in Vol. 4, p. 170, of Army Records, under date of June 5, 1780; and also in Vol. 11, p. 199, is this record: "Thomas Glover — Milton — 13 days service — Col. Lemuel Robinson." It is said that he once lived in Colchester, Conn., and removed thence to Conway; but the Town and Church Records of Colchester afford no evidence of the fact. He owned a farm in Conway, and paid taxes there in 1772 and previous.

He was married, in 1770, to Tabitha Beale, daughter of Seth and Elizabeth Beale, of Weymouth; born there, and died in Conway (Ashfield Corner), Dec. 11, 1798, about one month after the decease of her husband, and of the same fever.

At a Probate Court holden at Deerfield, in the County of Hampshire, April 2, 1799, letters of administration were granted on the estate of Gamaliel Glover, of Ashfield Corner, Conway, intestate, deceased, to Oliver Root, of Conway, and bonds taken Dec. 4, 1799; rendered insolvent. 91. Tabitha, b. in 1790; d. Dec. 17, 1798.

Thus it appears that near the close of the year 1798, the family of Gamaliel Glover was visited by a distressing sickness, by which Mr. Glover, his wife and six of their children died within a very short space of time. The disease was thought to be typhoid fever.

March 1, 1799, letters of guardianship were granted to Alexander Glover, who was appointed guardian to Clarissa Glover, 18 years; Rhoda Glover, 13 years; Rachael Glover, 11 years; and Lucinda Glover, 9 years, minor children of Gamaliel Glover, then late of Ashfield, deceased.

Smith, through the southwestern campaign, participating in the battles of Blakely and Mobile. He was with the first brigade that entered the latter place; retaining the position of Captain while on detached duty, and also, as Assistant Adjutant General, Commissioner for administering the amnesty oath, until Nov. 11, 1865, when by order of the President of the United States he was brevetted Major, and then appointed Colonel of the regiment, for "gallant and meritorious conduct."

August 29, 1862, he was wounded in the spine, and carried from the field to the hospital, where he survived seven days.

A SUPPOSED BRANCH FROM HENRY GLOVER.

There was a John Glover living in Boston in 1659, who owned an estate on or near the Common, and continued there until after 1677, a period of 18 years. He had a wife Mary, and had four children born to him who are recorded on the Boston Records. His origin is known only by conjecture, and some slight evidence that he may have been another son of Henry and Abigail Glover whose history has been given, and to whom reference is made on page 506. The time of his death or that of his wife Mary has not been ascertained, although it is probable they died in Boston, as they made arrangements to continue there during life in the disposal of his property, as will appear by the document given below. Their children were as follows:

1. Hannah, b. April 5, 1659; probably m. Aaron Beard.
2. John, b. Feb. 1, 1660; d. April 19, 1660.
4. Nathaniel, b. Oct. 6, 1665; d. in infancy.

It will be seen that he left no male heir, and the following disposal of his estate appears on Suffolk Records, Vol. 11, p. 66, under date of April 18, 1667.

This writing testifies that we whose names are underwritten, do witnessthat we heard John Glover of Boston, Tanner, living upon the Common, say: He did freely give his housing and land that he had in Boston to his daughter Hannah Glover, which daughter is now upon marriage. Whereas the said daughter Hannah and the man that is about to marry her, to have the aforesaid house and land, as fully as their own, at the death of him the aforesaid John Glover and his wife Mary. The said Glover and his wife to have the use of the best part of the House and land they agree to give their said daughter, to their own use and occupation as long as they both do live.
Only while the aforesaid Glover lives, he gives leave to his aforesaid daughter Hannah, and her husband that is likely to be, to live in one of the rooms of the House freely and rent free, and to make use of the land as much as the aforesaid Glover shall not make use of, for their own family use. His daughter Hannah and her husband to keep all the housing in good repair during their father and mother's lives; and to keep all the fencing firm, and at the death of the aforesaid Glover and his wife, to have all the housing and land; only to pay unto Mary Glover another daughter of the aforesaid John Glover, Twenty pounds. And what moveables is left at their father and mother's death to be equally divided between the two sisters. Hannah and him that she is about to marry, to have present leave to dwell in some part of the house and to make present use of the land, and that free without any rent, as abovementioned. And this was agreed fully on, by the aforesaid Glover, and his daughter Hannah and her husband the 18th day of April, 1677.

Testified to by the following witnesses, viz.:

Henry Root,
William Hamilton,
Andrew Littlejohn,
Richard Harden.

N. B. The young man's name, that Hannah Glover is about to marry, is Aaron Beard.
No record of this marriage of Aaron Beard and Hannah Glover has yet been discovered; but the record of the birth of their eldest child has been found, and some other facts gathered in relation to him. "Thomas, the son of Aaron Beard and Hannah his wife, was born 23 September, 1681." Of Aaron Beard very little is known. He was made freeman July 22, 1674. He was at that date said to be of Pemaquid, and took the oath of fidelity in Boston. He had a brother Thomas Beard, who resided in Boston, and died there in 1693. Administration of his estate by his son John Beard, June 13, 1693; inventory taken July 8, 1693. Aaron Beard was by occupation a fisherman, and lived mostly at sea. He died in 1695. No administration of his estate appears on Boston Probate Records. Letters of guardianship were granted to John Carter, of Woburn, Middlesex County, as guardian to Thomas Beard, son of Aaron Beard, July 18, 1695, as follows (Rec., Vol. 13, p. 314):

"Know all men by these Presents that I Thomas Beard son of Aaron Beard, late of Boston within the County of Suffolk in New England, Fisherman, Deceased, being a Minor about 16 years of age, have nominated and appointed, and do hereby nominate and appoint and make choice of my master John Carter of Woburn, in the County of Middlesex in New England, aforesaid, Yeoman, to be my guardian, with full power and authority for me and in my name, to ask, demand and sue for, recover and receive, and take into his possession and custody all such parts and portions of my estate left by my said father or any other ways or means whatsoever may accrue to me on or about his premises, effectually and to all intents and purposes, as I myself might or could do, being of age. Praying that the said John Carter may be accepted and appointed in the same power and trust. Witness my hand and seal, this 18th day of July, 1695.

Thomas Beard, and a seal.

Jacob Melvin, Edward Turfrey.

Suffolk, ss. By the Hon. William Stoughton, Esq., Judge of Probate, the above named Thomas Beard personally appeared before me, and acknowledged the above letter to be his free Act and Deed, which I do hereby accept, allow and approve. William Stoughton.

Boston, July 18, 1695.

Examined by Jonathan Addington.

In 1708, thirteen years after the date of the above letter, it appears that Thomas Beard was married to Hannah———, and made sale of the Boston estate to Thomas Banister. The following is an extract from the deed of sale, which may be found in full on Suffolk Prob. Rec., Vol. 24, fol. 79.
Beard to Banister.

Thomas Beard, of Woburn, in the County of Middlesex, in New England, Husbandman, and Hannah his wife, in consideration of Twenty pounds, sells to Thomas Banister a "Messuage and tenement with all the land on which it stands and is belonging thereto, situated and being in Boston, containing Eighteen acres and one half foot in breadth in front and Eighteen acres and one half foot in the rear. One hundred and nine feet and one half foot in length, running upon a straight line from the front to the rear; and is butted and bounded by the Common at the North East; and by the land of Richard Carter at the South East, and by the land of John Cross on the North West, and by the land of the said Richard Carter on the Southwest side. Together with all the Privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging;" &c.

(Signed) Thomas Beard,

Dec. 3d, 1708.

(Hannah Beard).

We gather from the above that he lived in Woburn, was a husbandman, and had a wife Hannah, but have no further knowledge of him.
ELIAS GLOVER, who came to the United States in 1826, and settled in Paterson, New Jersey, states himself to have been descended from Peter Glover, of Prescot, Rainhill Parish, who is noticed on page 37 of these Memorials as Peter (11) the youngest son of Thomas and Margaret (Deane) Glover. The following is the account as rendered to the writer in 1861, by his grandson, Joseph Glover, of Paterson, N. J.

Elias Glover was born in St. Helens, a village about four miles from Prescot, Lancashire, England, in the year 1778. He was the son of Peter and Margaret (Fairhurst) Glover, of that village. Both his father and mother were probably born at Prescot. He had three sisters—Lucy, Alice and Nancy. His father died when he was quite young, and his mother married a second time to——Massey. He was himself married, about the year 1801, to Susannah Sharrot, the widow of Isaac Turner, of Prescot, by whom he had five children, as follows:

1. Margaret, b. Aug. 16, 1802; m. William Sanderson.
2. Mary, b. March 25, 1804; m. Joseph Fletcher, in 1820.
3. Peter, b. Oct. 8, 1806; m. Alice Owen.
4. Ellen, b. in 1808; died in infancy.
5. Maria, b. Oct. 11, 1809; m. John Finden, of Willsbourne.

Elias Glover served his apprenticeship as a machinist at Manchester, in Lancashire, England. In the year 1826 he came with his wife, son Peter, and daughter Maria, to the United States, he and his son having made an engagement with Joseph Marshall to put in the machinery of a factory, called the New York Mills, situated at Whitesboro', in the State of New York. He remained at Whitesboro' about two years, and removed thence to Paterson, N. J., and died there, Jan. 22, 1850, aged 72 years. Susannah his wife died there, Feb. 10, 1853, aged 77 years. She was born at Prescot, about the year 1776.
MARGARET GLOVER, the eldest daughter of Elias and Susannah (Sharrot) Glover, was born at Prescot, England, Aug. 16, 1802, and resided, in 1861, at Paterson, N. J.

She was married, in the year 1820, to William Sanderson, of Cheadle, Stafford Co., England. They came to the United States in the year 1832, and now reside in this country. They have had ten children, as follows:

8. Mary, b. Nov. 9, 1826.

MARY GLOVER, the second daughter of Elias and Susannah (Sharrot) Glover, was born at Prescot, Eng., March 25, 1804.

She was married, in the year 1820, to Joseph Fletcher, of Brinksway, Cheshire, at the Cheadle Church. They came to the United States in August, 1829. Her husband died soon after his arrival. They resided in Utica, N. Y., and his widow was married again, Feb. 5, 1830, to Frederick Finden, a native of Warwickshire, England. They remained in Utica until the following June, then removed to Paterson, N. J., where they resided in 1861. She had four children by her first husband, Joseph Fletcher, three of whom have died, and one is now living, viz.:

By her second husband, Frederick Finden, she has two children:

17. William Frederick, b. in Paterson, July 12, 1831.

PETER GLOVER, the only son of Elias and Susannah (Sharrot) Glover, was born in Prescot, Eng., Oct. 8, 1806, and in 1861 was residing in Aurora, Illinois.

He was married, July 14, 1823, at the Parish Church in Eccleston, Eng., to Alice Owen, daughter of Joseph and Jane Owen, of Manchester. His occupation is a machinist. He served his apprenticeship in Stockport, Cheshire, England. He accompanied his father to the United States in 1826, to assist in putting in the machinery of the New York Mills in Whitesboro', N. Y. He fulfilled his engagement, and remained there one year, and then visited Boston, Mass., where he remained eighteen months, and visited and inspected most of the manufactories in that vicinity. He then went to Paterson, to meet his parents, who had removed to that city. He remained there for four or five years, and removed with his family to the City of New York, where he resided until the year 1838. He removed thence to Paterson again, and remained until 1851, after the decease of his father, Elias Glover. Near the close of the year 1851 he removed to Susquehanna Depot, on the New York and Erie Railroad, and remained there until 1854, when he removed thence to Detroit in Michigan, and resided there until 1856. He then went to Chicago, Illinois, and remained a few months superintending the machinery for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, and when the company removed their shop to Aurora, Illinois, he removed thither, where he now resides. He has had eleven children, nine of whom are living.

Children of Peter and Alice (Owen) Glover, born in Manchester, Eng., and New York and Paterson, U. S. (Names of deceased not given.)

19. Joseph, b. in New Islington, Manchester, April 4, 1824; m.
20. Elias William, b. in Paterson, N. J., Aug. 10, 1831; m.
21. Peter, b. in New York City, Dec. 6, 1834; m.

25. David, b. in Paterson, N. J., Feb. 21, 1842.
27. Alice, b. in Paterson, N. J., Jan. 2, 1848.

(5) MARIA GLOVER, the fourth and youngest daughter of Elias and Susannah (Sharrot) Glover, was born in Portwood, in Stockport, Cheshire, England, Oct. 11, 1809, and died in Paterson, N. J., July 12, 1853.

She came to the United States in the spring of the year 1826; was married in Utica, N. Y., July 4, of that year, to John Finden, a native of Wellsbourne, in Warwickshire, England, by whom she had eleven children, five of whom were living in 1861. She removed from Utica, in the year 1829, to Paterson, and remained there until the time of her decease. Her children who survived are as follows, born in Paterson:

29. Sarah Maria, b. May 21, 1839.
32. George Ernest, b. March 10, 1851.

The above comprise all of the three generations which have been reported of Peter Glover, the youngest brother of John and Henry, numbering in all thirty-two, and with the addition of the three sisters of Elias Glover may be increased to thirty-five of that branch, most of whom have lived or are now living in the United States.
MR. RALPH GLOVER.

Mr. Ralph Glover was in New England as early as 1630, and previous to the arrival of Winthrop's fleet. In March of that year he was an inhabitant of Dorchester, and subsequently of Watertown, where he was admitted freeman Oct. 19, 1630. He owned a landed estate in Watertown, and died there before July, 1633. Very few facts have been gathered of him, either as to his English or American life. The prefix of Mr. was given to his name on the early records, which shows that he belonged to the distinguished class. He undoubtedly came from Rainhill Parish, Prescot, Lancashire, as the name of Ralph is found there on the Parish Records at a period before his appearance in New England, and has been continued down in many of the Glover families as a Christian name to later generations. Nothing appears on record here to establish definitely his relationships, ancestors or descendants. It is not certainly known whether he was or was not married; but if the former was the case, he was probably married before his emigration. His heirs, if he had any in New England, or his descendants, are as yet unknown to us. He died intestate, and administration was granted on his estate to Thomas Mayhew, of Watertown, as appears on page 120, Vol. I, of Mass. Col. Records, under date of July 13, 1633.

The following incidents have been found recorded of Mr. Ralph Glover, in the year 1630 (Col. Rec., Vol. I, pp. 78, 82, 85, 106, 121).

March 22, 1630. Three men to be whipped for stealing three piggs from Mr. Ralph Glover.

Sept. 18, 1630. An Inquisition held and taken on the body of William Bateman, who was set on shore upon a neck of land near Pullen Point, in the Bay of Massachussets, and being sick and weak was left there with one Ralph Glover, who had a shallop in that place, but they being forced to leave him there, because the wind was contrary, they, on returning home, left him with such provisions as they had, and a fire. But when they returned to their boats on Friday last, they found the said William Bateman dead about high-water mark near their boat and about a stone's cast from the place where they left him; so the jury brought in that he died by the visitation of God. The above was testified to by the following witnesses.

Ralph Glover,
Elias Maverick,
Giles Sexton,
James Brown.
Nov. 30, 1630. At a Court of Assistants holden at Boston. Present the Governor and Deputy Governor and Assistants, viz., Sir Richard Saltonstall, Mr. Ludlow, Mr. Nowell, Mr. Pyncheon, Mr. Coddington and Mr. Bradstreet. It is ordered that Thomas Moulton shall pay unto Mr. Ralph Glover forty shillings before the 8 day of December next; or else be whipped, for the wrong he did Mr. Glover in coming from Plymouth and leaving him without a Pilot.

The next notice of him is under date of June 3, 1634, when it is stated on the records of the General Court at Boston, that

Mr. Thomas Mayhew, being appointed Administrator on the estate of Mr. Ralph Glover Deceased, intestate, hath now exhibited to this Court an inventory of said estate. There is therefore this time given until the first Tuesday in August next for the Creditors of the said Ralph Glover to make their demands of such debts as are due them, or else the said extra shall be divided amongst those that shall come in, and the others shall be excluded.

There is nothing conclusive, apparently, in the foregoing notices of Mr. Ralph Glover, in relation to his family or the manner of disposal of his effects.

Ralph, Ellis and Peter Glover owned estates in Rainhill about the middle of the 18th century, and their names are mentioned in the County History of Lancashire.

In a list of burials at Rainhill Parish Church yard, Prescot, Lancashire, England, the name of Ralph Glover occurs as follows, from 1700 to 1756:

15 April, 1700. Alice daughter of Ralph Glover of Rainhill.
4 May, 1706. Agnes wife of Ralph Glover.
17 March, 1720. Ralph Glover.
8 July, 1720. Alice widow of Ralph Glover.

There are notices of a Joseph Glover, mariner, who died in Salem in 1692, and left a will on file, and who may have been a descendant—a grandson, perhaps—of Ralph, as the most diligent searches among records have failed to connect him with any other progenitor who settled in New England at so early a period, and no account of his birth or marriage has yet been discovered. Mr. Savage does not include the above Joseph in his notice of the Grovers of Essex County, of whom there appear to have been several at quite an early period. Tradition, therefore, aided by some remote circumstantial evidence, warrants us in conjecturing that he may have descended from, or was in some way collaterally related to Mr. Ralph Glover, of Rainhill, Dorchester and Watertown. He had, at the date of his will, a wife Elizabeth and an only son Edward. The will is on file at Salem, in the Probate Records for Essex Co. In it, he bequeaths his whole estate, real and personal, to his beloved wife Elizabeth Glover during her life, and afterwards the whole to go to his only son Edward Glover; and no other child is named. The will is witnessed by William Rogers and John Tyler. It was made and signed the 14th day of December, 1692. Inventory taken of the estate June 19, 1693. Amount of property, £34 3 shillings; viz.:

Household Furniture . . . . . .  22 00 0

In 1690, two years previous to the above date, the name of Joseph Glover appears among a list of soldiers who served in the expedition against Canada, in Capt. Gallop's company, who are stated to have been mustered from the old Plymouth Colony. However that may be, Joseph Glover formed one of the company in that expedition. In 1695, Elizabeth Glover, widow of Joseph, was admitted to join the First Church in Salem. Five years after that event, Elizabeth Glover was married, July 18, 1700, to Samuel Moulton, son of James Moulton, of Salem; born there, Dec. 25, 1642, and died there. Elizabeth lived to an advanced age, and was legatee to the will of her son in 1747–8. It is not known whether she died in Salem, or at Rehoboth, and the precise date has not been ascertained.

Of the only son Edward, named in the will of Joseph Glover, the facts that have been gathered show that he settled in Rehoboth in the early part of the 18th century, in that part of the town which afterwards took the name of Seekonk; that he was a landholder, was a member of the Church there, and sustained the character of an upright and honest citizen, and an eminent Christian. Cyrus Wheaton, Esq., the present Town Clerk of Rehoboth, in answer to a letter of inquiry in relation to Edward Glover, writes thus under date of Feb. 26, 1861: "I am unable to find, much to my regret, the place where Mr. Glover originated or came from, to this town. He settled in the westerly part of Rehoboth, now Seekonk, and owned a farm on the east side of the Green or Common, near the Meeting House. In 1719 he, with others, purchased the old and first erected meeting house, for the purpose of having it removed or taken down by a given time, to make way for the erection of a new one. He was an active and prominent man at that time, and had resided there previous to the year 1707. He probably came to Rehoboth at the time or soon after he attained the age of twenty-one years. According to the entries on our Town Records he was married here in the spring of 1707, and died here in the latter part of the year 1747, living here for a period of about forty years. In 1732 he was chosen one of the Selecters to seat the parish in their new three-story meeting house, and was chosen Town Treasurer and one of the Selectmen from 1730 to 1740, and served faithfully and to great acceptance to the town in those offices. He also was elected to other offices of trust and honor. His name is often mentioned among those of other distinguished men in the town on our Records, from which the following dates are copied:

Edward Glover and Dorothea Peck were married April 2, 1707.
Children of Edward Glover and his wife Dorothea:
Joseph, b. July 12, 1710.
Elizabeth, b. Jan. 2, 1711-12. (Probably second of the name.)
Dorothea, b. Oct. 18, 1715; d. April 1, 1737, aged 22 years.
Dorothea, the wife of Deacon Edward Glover, died Feb. 11, 1737-8.
Mr. Edward Glover and widow Rachel Perrin, both of Rehoboth, were married July 5, 1738.
Dea. Edward Glover died Nov. ye 9th, 1747."

Mr. Wheaton further writes that he has carefully examined the Town Records of Rehoboth under his charge and keeping, and that he has herewith rendered all the births, marriages and deaths found recorded there, relating to Edward Glover and his family. Of Joseph and Elizabeth, the son and daughter of Edward and Dorothea Glover, he does not find any mention after their births. He also says that the name of Glover has disappeared from the town, and has not been known there for the last half century.

In the last will and testament of Edward Glover it is stated that he had a mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Moulton, for whom he provides. This and other circumstances which follow in the disposal of his property, establish the fact that he had no children at that date.

Rev. James O. Barney furnishes the following extracts from the Church Records of Seekonk, anciently Rehoboth:

Edward Glover and Dorothea his wife owned the Covenant June 16, 1709. Their daughter Elizabeth was baptized the same day, and no mention is made of their other children. May 25, 1727, they were received into full communion; and Oct. 2, 1737, he is first mentioned as Deacon of the Church. The last mention of Dea. Edward Glover on the Church Records is in 1746. The monument in the cemetery says, "Dea. Edward Glover died Nov. 10, 1747, in the 65th year of his age." He gave a silver cup to the Church, bearing this inscription: "The Gift of Deacon Edward Glover, Deceased, to the First Church of Christ in Rehoboth, 1751."

Mr. Barney also adds that the most diligent search has been baffled as to the discovery of his origin, or what branch of Glover he connects with, and that it would be very gratifying to the friends of the Church there, and his successors in office, if more could be known of his previous history. It appears he acquired a competent estate, of which he makes the following disposal by Will, as found recorded on the Probate Records for Bristol County.

Will of Edward Glover, of Rehoboth.

In the name of God, Amen. The Seventh day of September, in the year of our Lord 1747. I Edward Glover of Rehoboth, in the County of Bristol and Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England, Yeoman, being weak of body, but of perfect mind and memory, Thanks be given to God; and calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed unto men once to die, do make and ordain this my Last Will and Testament. Principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God who gave it—hoping through the interest, death, merits and passion of my Saviour Jesus Christ to have full and free pardon and forgiveness of all my sins and to inherit Everlasting Life. And my body I commit to the Earth to be decently buried at the discretion of my Executor hereinafter named, nothing doubting but at the general Resurrection I shall receive the same again by the Mighty Power of God.

And as touching such worldly Estate wherof it hath pleased God to bless me with in this Life, I give, demise, and dispose of the same in manner and form following. That is to say, Imp. My Will is that all my Lawful debts and funeral charges be paid or discharged by my Executor hereafter named.

Item. I give and bequeath to my Honoured Mother Elizabeth Moulton a suitable and Honourable support during her natural Life. To be rendered to her out of my Estate by my Executor hereafter named.

Item. I give and bequeath unto the First Church of Christ in Rehoboth a Silver Cup of the same dimensions and value with one of those thereunto already belonging, to be purchased by my said Executor.

Item. I give and bequeath to my well beloved nephews, the children of Nathan Peck of Rehoboth Deceased, all my part of that Lott at Brush Plain in said Rehoboth that is in Partnership with them, to be equally divided between them; and to be to them and to their heirs and assigns forever.
Item. I give and bequeath unto my well-beloved wife Rachel Glover all my other Estate, both Real and Personal whatsoever and wheresoever to be, to her and her heirs and assigns forever, She or they, performing as above ordered, whom I make and ordain my only and sole Executor of this my last Will and Testament. And I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all former Testaments and Wills, Legacies and bequests and Executors by me in any manner of ways before this time named; and bequeath, ratify and confirm this and no other to be my last will and Testament. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

Edward Glover, and a seal.

REV. JOSEPH GLOVER.

The name of Rev. Joseph Glover, Rector of Sutton in Surrey, England, is found among a list of incumbents in the Rectory of Sutton, from 1628 to 1636. In 1636 it is stated he tendered his resignation, with the intention of embarking for New England, which resignation was accepted with "sorrow," and Henry Wyche, A.M., of Cambridge University, was appointed his successor. (Vol. 1, Hist. Co. of Surrey; English County Histories, page 487.)

In the Parish Registry is the following entry, under date of June 10, 1636. "Henry Wyche, being a non-resident and Master of Arts in the Cambridge University in England, was inducted into office by Thomas Pope, Knight, to the Rectory of Sutton, after the resignation made of the same Rectory by Joseph Glover, who was much loved by most if not all, and his departure much lamented." After his resignation, he preached some time in London, travelled and visited Lancashire and other counties, preaching and endeavoring to obtain funds for the College which had been already commenced at Cambridge in New England. But he was destined never to see the accomplishment of his desires with regard to the College, for he died on the voyage over, leaving a widow and five children to "proceed on their lonely way in grief and disappointment."

In Vol. 3, 4th series, of Mass. Historical Collections, page 343, there is the following notice of him: "Amongst the other business that Mr. Winslow had to provide, he had orders from the Church to bring over to New England some able fitt man to be their minister; and accordingly he procured a Godly and worthy man, one Mr. Glover; but it pleased God to cut him off, for when he was prepared for the voyage he fell sick and died." Other writers state that he died on the voyage, which facts seem to prove.

Another account is as follows, gathered from different writers: "In the summer of 1638, Mr. Glover, with his family, embarked in the John of London, bound for New England. He took out with him a printing press, which he intended for Harvard College in Cambridge; and Stephen Daye, a printer, who was to superintend the printing, and three men servants who were bound to work the press for him three years in order to establish the business of printing in the infant Colony." "His heart was wrapt in its progress and advancement; and during the interim of his retirement from the Rectory of Sutton, he had been untiring in his efforts to promote its growth under the influence of an educational system. He contributed unspARINGLY himself of his wealth and influence, and induced others of his friends, both in England and Holland, to become interested in so noble a cause. Mr. Glover died on the voyage, before reaching the shores of New England. His widow and five children proceeded on the voyage, and arrived in the autumn of 1638. They settled in Cambridge. Stephen Daye, the printer, whom he had engaged to superintend the printing, arrived and set up the press, which was the first printing press in America." "Mr. Glover has been justly styled by historians as the 'Father of the American Press.' The press was set up under the sanction of the Magistrates and Elders, Stephen Daye directing and superintending the whole apparatus, and employing the men whom Mr. Glover had engaged for that purpose. He had it ready for operation, and began business in the first month of 1639." The press first used by Daye became the property of Mr. Glover's heirs in 1656. It has since passed to the possession of the College.

Isaiah Thomas, in his History of Printing, writes of Mr. Glover: "Rev. Jose* Glover, a worthy and wealthy dissenting clergyman of England, may be considered the father of the American Press. He engaged with great earnestness in the settlement of New England, and in particular of the Massachusetts Colony, and attentively pursued such measures for its interest and prosperity as he judged would best promote them. He gave much to Harvard College, and solicited aid from others, both in England and Holland. In the year 1638 he procured a printing press, and engaged a printer to accompany it in

* The Christian name of Mr. Glover has been variously spelled by different writers who have noticed him. Mr. Thomas says, "At Harvard it was written Jose." In many other notices of him, by New England writers, it is written Josse, as in the Suffolk Registry of Deeds. Some writers, of later date, have so far corrupted the spelling as to write his name Jesse, which has been the occasion of great confusion. Johnson, who was cotemporary with him, wrote his name Jos' which is an abridgment of Joseph, which was truly his name. Gov. Winthrop gave him his true English name, without contraction or corruption; as in Vol. 1 of Journal, p. 212, he writes thus: "The Printing House was begun by one Daye, at the charge of Mr. Joseph Glover, who died on sea hitherward." But we are no longer in doubt and uncertainty about the spelling of his Christian name, as the English orthography decides it. On the Church Records of Sutton, in Surrey, it is written Joseph, and wherever his name occurs in English Records and in the English County Histories, it is invariably written "Joseph Glover." a ship bound to New England. Mr. Glover, with his wife and five children, embarked in the same ship, but, unfortunately, he did not live to reach the shores of New England. His widow and children arrived in the autumn of that year, and settled in Cambridge. Rev. Ezekiel Rogers and about sixty families came passengers in the same ship." "His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Glover, afterwards married the Rev. Henry Dunster, first President of Harvard College."

Mr. Thomas also writes thus: "It is not known whether Mr. Glover had been in New England previous to his embarking for this country in 1638, but I find by the Records of the County of Middlesex that he possessed a valuable real and personal estate in Massachusetts, and that he had two sons and three daughters, viz.: Roger Glover; John Glover, H. C. in 1650, was a physician and settled in Boston; Elizabeth, who married Adam Winthrop; Sarah, who married Deane Winthrop; and Priscilla, who married John Appleton."

The following notices of Mr. Glover's estate and lands in Boston and vicinity are found recorded in the Registry of Deeds for Suffolk County, Vol. 1, p. 254:

Trustees of Glover to Atkinson.

Increase Nowell, William Hibbins, Henry Dunster and George Cooke, Feoffees in trust for the estate of Josse Glover, to Theodore Atkinson of Boston, Feltmaker, viz. Of a certain house and garden in Boston, formerly possessed by Mr. Josse Glover, being bounded by and with Thomas Hawkins on the North, and on the West; and the street on the South and East. Together with three acres of Land lying in the new Field, bounded by and with John Biggs on the East and on the West; and on the Marsh on the North. 29: 7: 1645.

Vol. 1, p. 66. Glover's Feoffees to Bennett.

Recorded 6: 10: 1645, by Edward Rawson, Rec.

Mr. Glover was twice married. His first wife was Sarah Owfield, daughter of Mr. Roger Owfield, of London (citizen). They had three children, born in Sutton, viz.: Roger, Elizabeth and Sarah. The mother of Sarah Owfield was of Scottish origin, and lived in Edinburgh, Scotland. She died July 10, 1628, aged 30 years, and her husband caused a monument to be erected over her remains, with the following inscription:
Here Underlyeth interred the Corps of that virtuous and religious Gentlewoman and servant of God, Mrs. Sarah Glover, one of the daughters of Mr. Roger Owfield, Citizen of London, Late wife of Mr. Joseph Glover, Rector of Sutton in Surrey, by whom she had three children, viz. Roger, Elizabeth and Sarah. She died July 10, 1628, æ. 30 years. In memory of whom her said husband has caused this monument to be erected, May 24, A.D. 1629.

This Monument presents unto your view
A Woman Rare, on whom all Grace divine, Truth, Love, Zeal, Piety in Splendid hue
With Sacred Knowledge, did Splendidly Shine.
Since then, examples teach; learn you by this,
To mount the steps of everlasting bliss.

The three children named above, by his first wife:
+1. Roger, b. in Sutton, Eng., 1623; d. at Edenborough, Scotland.
+2. Elizabeth, m. Adam Winthrop, Esq.

The second wife of Rev. Joseph Glover was Elizabeth Harris, daughter of William Harris, of ———, England, afterwards of Boston, to whom he was married about 1630. By her he had two children, as follows:
+4. Priscilla, m. John Appleton, Esq., of Ipswich.
+5. John, d. in London, in 1668, unmarried.

Mrs. Elizabeth Glover was married, soon after her arrival at Cambridge, to Rev. Henry Dunster, and died 23: 6: 1643. She was buried in the ancient burial ground at Cambridge, and has a gravestone, much gone to decay. There were no children by this marriage. Mr. Dunster, on his marriage with Mrs. Glover, assumed the charge of her children, was subsequently appointed their guardian, and superintended their education until they were married or arrived at full age. He was also appointed one of the seoffees to the estate of their inheritance. Their mother survived but a few years after her second marriage, and Mr. Dunster married a second time Elizabeth ———, by whom he had several children. She survived him, and died in Cambridge 12: 7: 1690, aged 60 years.

Mr. Glover made his will, which is on file at the Probate office for Middlesex County, and appointed his wife Elizabeth sole executrix of his "last Will and Testament."

In 1639, it was ordered by the General Court at Boston, "that Mr. Thomas Mayhew and Mr. Flint shall set out Mrs. Glover six hundred acres of land on the west side of Concord River."
Under date of Oct. 7, 1640, it is stated that "the six hundred acres formerly granted to Mrs. Elizabeth Glover, to lyce on the West side of Sudbury River, it is now granted her on the East side of said River and without the limits of the last addition to the bounds of Sudbury, and between the said bounds and the Great Pond of Cochituate. And by these Presents she shall have Liberty to lay out the same, provided she make a return to the next General Court." The return was not made in 1640. Thomas Mayhew, Peter Noyes and Edmund Rice were appointed to lay out Mrs. Glover’s farm, and having faithfully performed the same, made the following report:

We whose names are underwritten have laid out Mrs. Glover’s farm as followeth, viz., Sudbury line is the North East Bounds; the North West bounds is the Great River that issueth out of the Great Pond at Cochituate; the South East bounds from the place where the little River runs out of the great Pond till you come to the North East end of said Pond, and so to the North West end of the Little Pond, and from thence from the North East end of the said Little Pond; and from thence to the nearest place of Sudbury line; according unto the marked trees. Witness hereunto the 7: 10: 1644. This is our return of the Court’s desire.

THOMAS MAYHEW,
EDMUND RICE.

Mrs. Glover became the wife of Rev. Henry Dunster, June 22, 1641. (Camb. Rec.), two years after the grant was made to her by the General Court; but the return was not made and the bounds settled until one year after her decease. The farm was held in trust by Mr. Dunster, guardian for her minor children and feoffee to their estate.

Edmund Rice, Esq., purchased the above described farm of her son John Glover, and it has descended in the Rice families, through many generations, to the present time.

June 18, 1645, it was ordered that Peter Noyes and Edmund Rice be a committee to lay out a farm to Mr. Dunster in the town of Sudbury; and the committee afterwards reported that they had laid out Mr. Dunster’s farm as follows: "The land lying between the Ponds, contiguous to Mrs. Glover’s farm, being the Southern bounds of this farm."

Mrs. Elizabeth Glover, in 1640, entered a petition, from which the following is an extract, at a Colony Court holden at New Plymouth (Vol. 5, p. 151, Plymouth Col. Rec.):
At a Court of Assistants held at New Plymouth, before William Bradford Esq., Governor of the Plymouth Colony, the following petition was presented and acted upon. "Whereas Mrs. Elizabeth Glover, Widow and Executrix of the last Will and Testament of Joseph Glover Deceased; constituted and appointed Mr. Timothy Hatherly her Attorney to prosecute John Combe of Plymouth, Gentleman, for a debt upon a bond of twelve pounds; now for the ending and deciding thereof, it is concluded and agreed upon, that in Consideration that the said John Combe hath, and in open Court bargained, Sold and assigned, and made over unto Thomas Prince, all his corn now planted and growing about his house at Rooky Nook; To Have and to Hold unto him the said Thomas Prince; and he hath undertaken to pay the said debt unto Mrs. Glover, and either to deliver the sixteen bushels of Wheat and Eighteen bushels of Rye at Mrs. Glover's house at Cambridge in Massachusetts Bay, at, or before the Twentieth day of August next ensuing; or else pay her ten pounds and ten Shillings Sterling. Provided however always that, if the corn be paid as afore-said, that then, Mrs. Glover shall allow the one half the charges of transportation from hence, to her house at Cambridge. Dated May 5, 1640.

[Second Generation.]

(1) ROGER GLOVER, the eldest son and child of Rev. Joseph and Sarah (Owfield) Glover, was born in Sutton, County of Surrey, in England, about 1623, and died in Scotland. As stated by many writers, "He was slain in the Wars at Edenborough in Scotland in the Kingdom of Great Britain," before 1652. At the age of about fourteen years he accompanied his parents to New England, and resided with his mother in Cambridge, both before and after her marriage with President Dunster, and was educated by him. It has not been ascertained at what date he returned to England, but it is probable he left Cambridge soon after or at the time he attained the age of twenty-one years, which would occur in 1645. He made a will, but died before any division could be made of his father's estate accruing to him and the other heirs; some of whom were minors and under guardianship. Application appears to have been made to the General Court for a division of his property in 1652, by Rev. Henry Dunster, "Guardian and Feoffee to the estate of Mr. Josse Glover."

The following is in answer to that petition, as found in Vol. 4, p. 118, of Mass. Col. Rec., under date of Oct. 26, 1652, which renders it certain that Roger Glover died previous to that date, and that he left a will:

In answer to the petition of Rev. Henry Dunster, Guardian to the children of Mr. Josse Glover and Peoffee in trust in behalf of Adam Winthrop, the son of Adam Winthrop, Esq. late of Boston Deceased, desiring a Committee may be appointed to view and examine what the estates of Roger and John Glover are, in the hands of the said Henry Dunster, Roger being slain before any division was made, and that so the Will of the said Roger may be justly performed. The Court doth grant the petitioner's request thus far that Mr. John Leverett and Mr. Joseph Hills, Esqs. shall have power to view and examine differences as is desired and make report of their return to the next County Court of Middlesex if it may be ready against the same, or else to the next Court of Middlesex after it. Oct. 26, 1652.

There has been no evidence found on any writing or document here to show that he had any children, or was ever married; but in the County History of Surrey there is an account of a Roger Glover who died and was buried at Cudham, in the County of Kent, in 1722, who may have been a grandson of Rev. Joseph Glover by his son Roger. The following is written of him in the same volume and in connection with the account of his supposed ancestors—Surrey, Vol. 2, p. 437:

Roger Glover purchased of the Norards an estate and other estates of the Greshams. He was buried at Cudham in Kent, 1722. He married Amy Hayward, who was daughter of Richard Hayward of Waldingham. She survived her husband several years, and died Dec. 10, 1750—buried at Cudham. They had children, viz.:

Roger, n. i., buried at Cudham, June 17, 1726.
John, n. i., buried at Cudham, 27 April, 1730.
William, who married Elizabeth Rowed, buried 27 July, 1741, his wife Elizabeth buried there Dec. 29, 1742.
Mary, n. i., buried at Cudham, Jan. 10, 1733.
Anne, married Mr. Thomas Bryant, Gentleman, of Reygate, at St. Stephen's Sepulchre, in London, in 1734; he was buried at Reygate, Aug. 28, 1772, and she was buried there May 28, 1771.

William Glover, who married Elizabeth Rowed, had a daughter Susannah, born at Cottleham. He died in 1776. The daughter married Henry Rowed, Esq., of Cottleham Court Lodge, and died there. She was buried at Cottleham in 1800. Henry Rowed, the husband of Susannah Glover, married a second time, and had Henry Rowed, Jr., a Lieutenant in the British Navy in 1808. He had also one daughter by his first wife Susannah Glover, viz.: Katharine Glover, residing in 1808 in Croyden in Surrey, to whom descended the manor of Cottleham Court Lodge, a description of which has been gathered from another source, and reads in substance as follows:—The De-mesne lands of the Manor of Cottleham, called the Manor House of Cottleham Court Lodge, being a good house, near the Church, and four hundred acres of land, were many years ago separated from the Manor and were purchased by Mr. Henry Rowed; from him it descended to his son Henry, who, on the 14th of May, 1765, married Susannah Glover (daughter of William Glover and Elizabeth Rowed), who was his first wife. He settled the estate on her. She died the next year, and he died about 1802, when it came to Katharine Rowed his daughter by that marriage, who was the owner in 1808.

The line of Anne, the supposed daughter of Roger Glover, and who married Mr. Thomas Bryant,* is given as follows: William, son of Mr. Thomas Bryant by his wife Anne, the daughter of Roger Glover, was born January 9, 1734-5; buried at Reygate, May 28, 1780. He was married to Charlotte Cooke, of Reygate, who died in 1769 and was buried there in the family vault, leaving one son, William Bryant, of the third generation, who was born in Reygate, and was living there in 1808.

(2) ELIZABETH GLOVER, the eldest daughter of Rev. Joseph and Sarah (Owfield) Glover, was born in Sutton, in Surrey, England, and died in Boston, N. E.; date of death not ascertained.

She was married, about 1642, to Adam Winthrop, Esq., the sixth child of Gov. John Winthrop, and eldest son and child by his third wife Margeret Tyndale, who was a daughter of Sir John Tyndale, Knight. His maternal grandparents were Sir John Tyndale and Anne Egarton, daughter of Sir Thomas Egarton, Knight. His eldest brother was Governor John Winthrop, of Connecticut, who was born in England, Feb. 12, 1606, and died in Boston, April 6, 1676, aged 70 years. Adam, who married Elizabeth Glover, was born in England, April 7, 1620, and died in Boston, April 4, 1652, aged 32 years. They had one son, born in Boston, viz.:

+6. Adam, b. in 1647; m.

The inventory of Adam Winthrop's estate was taken Sept. 4, 1652, by Edward Rawson and Thomas Luke. Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop deposed Jan. 27, 1653. There was due the estate, by bill of sale, a part of the ship Expectation and cargo, more from Mr. Turner and from Mr. Treworthy, from Mr. John Paris, and a negro. Attested by Edward Rawson, Recorder.

Oct. 19, 1652. Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop, the second wife of Adam Winthrop, Esq., late of Boston. Answer to a petition as follows: It is hereby ordered and declared that Adam Winthrop, an orphan of about five years of age, being the only child of Adam Winthrop (Sen.) and grandchild to John Winthrop, Esq., who is the true Proprietor of the Island called Governors Island. To Have and to Hold to him and his heirs forever. And that Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop, the second wife of Adam Winthrop, Esq. Deceased, shall have one full third part of the profits of said Island, during the term of her natural life. And that Mr. Dunster, Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop during her Widowhood, Mr. Edward Rawson, Capt. Thomas Clarke and Capt.
Richard Davenport are appointed Guardians over the said Adam Winthrop the orphan, to take care of his education; and also of all his estate, Real and Personal, and to be held accountable for the same unto the said Adam or his guardian whom he shall choose when he comes to the age of fourteen years. And that administration shall be granted equally of the Goods and Chattels of the late Adam Winthrop Deceased, unto Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop, Widow, and unto Adam Win-

Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop was married a second time, 3:3:1654, to the Hon. John Richards, of Boston, one of his Majesty's COUNcillors, and one of the most eminent men of his time in the colonies. He is first mentioned as belonging to Dorchester—was enrolled there as a citizen; was a member of the Artillery Company in 1644; owned lands extensively in Dorchester, Weymouth, and on the Kennebec River; was the owner of Georgetown, Maine (Island of Arrothecck), which he purchased of the Indian "Robin Hood." He was sometimes styled the "Worshipful." He was a planter, merchant and shipbuilder; was largely engaged in commercial pursuits and foreign trade, and was one of Boston's most active citizens.

(3) SARAH GLOVER, the second daughter of Rev. Joseph and Sarah (Owfield) Glover, was born in Sutton, Surrey, England.
She was married, about 1645, to Deane Winthrop, second son of Governor John Winthrop by his third wife Margaret Tyndale, and next brother of Adam who married Elizabeth Glover. He was born in England, March 16, 1623, and died at Pullen Point, March 16, 1704, aged 81 years. He owned an estate in Chelsea, and resided there at one time, at another time at Lynn, and also at Pullen Point.
They had three children, born in Boston, and perhaps more, viz.:
Mrs. Sarah (Glover) Winthrop, wife of Deane Winthrop, Esq., died, and he afterwards married Martha Mellows. (See Winthrop Genealogy.)

(4) PRISCILLA GLOVER, third and youngest daughter of Rev. Joseph Glover, and eldest by his second wife Elizabeth Harris, was born in England, and died in Ipswich, Essex County, Mass.

She was married, Oct. 14, 1651, to John Appleton, Esq., of Ipswich, and went there to reside after her marriage. The following entry respecting their marriage is found in the Massachusetts Colonial Records, Vol. 3, p. 248: “It is ordered by the Court that the Rev. Henry Dunster be empowered to marry Mr. John Appleton to Mrs. Priscilla Glover, who have been published according to law.” They had children—viz., Priscilla, who married the Rev. Joseph Capen, of Topsfield; and others, all of whom are noticed in the genealogy of the Appletons. Their son, John Appleton, married Elizabeth Rogers, and died in 1739. The descendants of this line are numerous, bearing the name of Appleton and other names by intermarriage.

(5) JOHN GLOVER, M.D., youngest son and child of Rev. Joseph and Elizabeth (Harris) Glover, was born in England, and died in London in 1668. He received his early education under the instruction of Rev. President Dunster, was prepared for College, and graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1650. He returned to England, visited Scotland, studied medicine, took his degree of Doctor of Medicine at Aberdeen in Scotland, and became a physician. Mr. Thomas writes of him that he was a physician, settled in Roxbury and was in practice there at one time; but this is considered doubtful. He may have been a physician there a short time, but there is evidence that he practised in London. In a letter written by him, while in London, to his brother-in-law John Appleton, Esq., of Ipswich, under date of London, March 5, 1655, he says: “I am now come out of Scotland, my grandmother being dead.” “My desire is that my sister, your wife, should have all that I have.” “I have taken my degrees of Doctor of Physic in Scotland.” "Direct your letter to Dr. Genndaires, Thread Needle street." He names "My father Dunster" in the letter, and signs himself "Your loving brother, J. Glover."

In the year 1656 John Glover was involved in a suit at law with his stepfather, Mr. Dunster. It is probable, but not certain, that he returned to New England while the case was pending, and may have resided in Roxbury and commenced practice there, as has been sometimes stated. Mr. Thomas writes thus of this matter, in his "History of Printing":

John Glover, after the death of his mother, brought an action or suit against Rev. President Dunster for the recovery of the estate which had belonged to his father and mother, which had been detained by Mr. Dunster, as follows, under date of April 1, 1656. "At a County Court held at Cambridge in the County of Middlesex, John Glover, Gentleman, Plaintiff, against Henry Dunster, Defendant, in an action of the case for an account of the estate, Houses and Lands, Goods and Chattels, Legacies and Gifts or other estate and of right due and belonging unto the said John Glover by the last Will and Testament of his father, the Rev. Josse Glover, Deceased, or of Elizabeth his wife, or by the last Will and Testament of William Harris, Deceased," &c.

Rev. Henry Dunster met the charge, and responded. "May 8, 1656, Henry Dunster vs. John Glover, case adjourned to August 24 next ensuing." He then filed in Court an account for diet, care and clothing, and all such other expenses as had devolved upon him in the course of the education of Mrs. Glover's five children, from the time he commenced housekeeping with their mother on her marriage with him, to the time when they or any of them were married or ceased to be members of his family. A full account has been given of the items of this bill by Mr. Thomas in the second volume of his "History of Printing."

With some of the elder children this controversy commenced as early as 1652, soon after the decease of Roger Glover.

Nov. 1, 1654, Lieutenant John Appleton petitioned the Court, and was answered as follows:

In answer to the petition of Lieut. John Appleton, It is ordered, that Capt. Atherton and Capt. Morton are hereby appointed to examine the accounts of Mr. Henry Dunster in reference to the estate of Mr. Josse Glover Deceased, or of what his wife left, or what else may concern the estate contended for by the two eldest sons Roger and John Glover of the said Josse Glover, or any other whom it may concern, making their report to the next General Court. (Vol. 4, p. 205, Mass. Col. Rec.)
Aug. 25, 1656, a writ was issued against Henry Dunster, in a suit of John Glover in right of Joseph and Elizabeth Glover, both deceased, and in relation to the will of Richard Harris; the house was attached where Richard Kildrick lived, with part of the mill on Mystic River. The following depositions were taken in relation to the matter: The testimony of Sarah Bucknam, aged 84 years, being servant to Mrs. Glover about a year and a quarter; the testimony of Jeanne the wife of Ralph Mousall, servant to Mrs. Glover; the testimony of Stephen Daye and his wife that "there is a jug tipt with Silver and a Silver Salt and a Platter," which were by Mr. Dunster brought into Court as a part of Josse Glover's estate, as also a silver bowl which he left there in Mr. Langhorne's behalf; and the testimony of Edmund Rice, aged about 62 years, that "the house where Robert Wilson (of Sudbury) now dwells, Mr. Dunster's tenant, was built by Mr. Glover."

The case was continued by adjournments until 1657. In Vol. 4, p. 305, of the Colonial Records, it is stated, under date of May 8 of that year, that "It is ordered that Capt. Gookin, Major Atherton, Major Willard and Capt. Edward Johnson are hereby authorized as a committee with full power as the General Court might do, to hear and determine all differences between Mr. Henry Dunster and Mr. Thomas Danforth in behalf of the children of Mr. Josse Glover, and that Capt. Gookin appoint time and place."

Dr. John Glover returned to London; but at what date after the suit commenced has not been satisfactorily ascertained. That he did return and die there, is certain; also that before he left New England he appointed Mr. Thomas Danforth his attorney, who was, after his decease, his administrator. He was never married, and died intestate.

From the Middlesex Court files, page 72, we learn the following, under date of Nov. 3, 1668: "Appleton against Danforth." A writ served upon Thomas Danforth, administrator of the estate of John Glover late of London, gentleman, deceased, by Capt. John Appleton and Priscilla his wife, she being heir to John Glover. 1668: 10: 5, Thomas Danforth, attorney of Dr. John Glover, deceased, states that Mrs. Priscilla Appleton was the reputed daughter of Mr. Josse Glover and Elizabeth his wife, and that Dr. John Glover was her reputed brother.

The result of this suit, which was favorable to Mrs. Appleton, may be found among the Court Records for Middlesex County.
[Third Generation.]

(6) ADAM WINTHROP, only son of Adam and Elizabeth (Glover) Winthrop, was born in Boston in 1647, graduated at Harvard College in 1668, and died in Boston in 1700. He rose to distinction in the various offices to which he was appointed. He inherited a large estate from his father; married, and had children—among whom was Adam, the third of the name and line, who married Anne Wainwright, and had Adam the fourth of the name, who graduated at Harvard College in 1724, and died in 1743; also John, who graduated at H. C. in 1732, became a distinguished professor in the College, and died in 1779, leaving descendants. Another Adam, the fifth of this name and descent, was a graduate of H. C. in 1767. Thus the succession of Adam Winthrops in this line was perpetuated to quite a late period.

Answer to Mr. Adam Winthrop's Petition.

March 30, 1683. In answer to the petition of Mr. Adam Winthrop, humbly desiring the favor of the Court, that he being Proprietor of an Island called Governor's Island, falling to him by his Ancestors, which stands charged with two bushels of Apples yearly to the General Court, that the said Rent or acknowledgment may be remitted or a sum equivalent accepted and the said Island fully discharged from the encumbrance aforesaid. The Court grant the said petitioner his request, so that he pay or cause to be paid five pounds in money forthwith by the first opportunity to our agents in England."
Richard Glover, twenty-four years of age, came from England in the Assurance, which sailed from Gravesend in 1635, and settled in Virginia. His name appears among a list of passengers who sailed for Virginia under date of July 16 of that year. They took the oath of allegiance before their embarkation, as the following certificate shows: "These Underwritten names are to be transported to Virginia and embarked in the Assurance—Isaac Bromwell and George Pewsie Masters. Examined before the Minister of the town of Gravesend of their conformity to our Religion. The men having taken the oath of Allegiance and supremacy." The names of Barnes, Brooks, Butler and Lee appear in the list with Richard Glover, and others of the old and distinguished families of Virginia. Richard was born in the year 1611, but in what part of England has not been ascertained. The Records of Lancashire do not give any account of a Richard Glover of so early a date. He was a cotemporary of Richard the poet, who was born in St. Martin's Lane, Cannon street, London, and who descended from a line of Richard Glovers of ancient date. Tradition accords to him at least three sons—one of whom went to South Carolina, where some of his descendants now live. The name is found also in North Carolina and Alabama, all of whom are traceable to the above progenitor.

Very little has been gathered of Richard the emigrant. He settled near James River, in Virginia, and was married soon after his arrival. He owned a plantation, and was ranked among the most wealthy planters of his time. He had a family of children, and has descendants still residing in that State. Others went to Kentucky and the more Southern and the Western States.

Thomas Glover, who from 1664 to 1667 resided in Jamestown, Virginia, is presumed to be a son of Richard. He was a scholar, and a writer of ability and merit. He wrote an account of Virginia, its situation, temperature and productions from personal observation, which was published in Vol. 11 of the Transactions of the Royal Geographical Society.
Two of the descendants of Richard Glover, of the names of William and Robert, were living in the eastern part of Virginia at the time of the Revolution. They were of the Whig party, and had a brother-in-law by the name of Daniel, all of whom were much persecuted for their loyalty by the tories of that day. William, the eldest, married a Miss Harrelson. After the war he removed to New River County, now known as Kanawha County, and noted for its valuable saline springs. While here he was engaged in making salt, and had an extensive business. Subsequently he removed to the Green River country in Kentucky, now known as the "Barrens."

William Glover had six sons born to him in Virginia, by his wife Harrelson, as follows, viz.:

1. Abner, b. in 1776; d. young, unmarried.

2. John, b. in 1778; m. Fanny Taylor.

3. William, b. in 1780; m. and lived many years near Glasgow, Ky., where he died.

4. Joseph, b. in 1781; m. and removed to Indiana; died there, leaving children.

5. Weir, b. in 1783; m. and removed to Indiana; died there, leaving children.

6. Harrelson, married in Kentucky, and died there many years ago, leaving children. Has one son, Joseph Harrelson Glover, now living in Newark, Knox Co., Mo., married, and has a family of children, not reported.

(2) JOHN GLOVER, the second son of William and ——— (Harrelson) Glover, was born in Virginia in the year 1778, and died in Knox Co., Mo., in the year 1857, aged 79 years.

He was married, about 1812, to Fanny Taylor, daughter of Hon. Samuel Taylor, of ———, Virginia. They had twelve children, ten of whom lived to maturity. He removed from Virginia to Kentucky, about 1825, and lived many years near Harrodsburg, Mercer County, in that State.

Children of John and Fanny (Taylor) Glover, born in Kentucky:

7. Samuel Taylor, b. in 1813; m. Mildred A. ———.

8. Mary, b. in 1816; d. in 1832, of Asiatic cholera, aged 16 years.

9. Jane, b. in 1818; m. Andrew Kyle, lives near Harrodsburg, Ky.

10. Eliza H., b. in 1819; m. ——— Moore; lives near Newark, Mo.

12. Albert D., enrolled in U. S. service as Captain 3d Missouri V. C.
13. Sarah Ann, resides in Knox County, with her widowed mother.
15. Joseph W., died in Missouri in 1846.
The other two children died in infancy, or at a very early age; names not reported.

(7) SAMUEL TAYLOR GLOVER, the eldest son of John and Fanny (Taylor) Glover, was born in the year 1813, and is now residing in St. Louis, Missouri, having a wife and six children. He is a lawyer of distinguished ability, and in the successful practice of his profession. Many of his public speeches on the great questions which agitated the people of his State from 1860 to 1863, have been printed, and evince his decided opinions as to the proper course to be taken by them during that fearful period. He has been successively a member of the Missouri Legislature as Representative and Senator from St. Louis. In July, 1860, he delivered an able and acceptable address before the citizens of St. Louis, at Turner’s Hall, on the respective qualifications and fitness of the four candidates for the office of President of the United States. In June, 1862, he was elected to address the people at the same place on the subject of Emancipation in the State of Missouri.

In the autumn of 1863 he was chosen a candidate for Senator to the Congress of the United States. His character is thus described by an able and distinguished writer in one of the St. Louis papers while speaking of his adaptation to that office: “Another Senator will have to be elected, and so far as our knowledge of the preferences of the people goes, we have heard but one name mentioned in connection with it—the name of the Hon. Samuel T. Glover, of St. Louis. Mr. Glover has been for years favorably known as one of the most distinguished lawyers of our State; devoting his time and talents exclusively to his profession, and until the breaking out of the rebellion had taken but little part in the politics of the country, further than on all fitting occasions to express in a bold and manly way his preferences for men and measures; or if, as he believed, opposed to the welfare and interests of the country, to denounce them with a firmness and independence peculiar to himself. But when the safety of the country was threatened, then and not till then did he rise to the full stature of a great man, and stand forth the Ajax Telamon of the Union party of Missouri. In all the relations of life he presents a model of manly perfection, worthy the admiration and imitation of his countrymen, and that man who could know Samuel T. Glover and fail to admire him and to love him, could not produce stronger inability to appreciate all that is noble and excellent in our nature. At this particular time, there is a peculiar fitness in the selection of Mr. Glover for the high and responsible position in connection with which his name has been mentioned. As a Union man he is as far above suspicion as light is from darkness. In all times and under all circumstances, even when it was dangerous to avow such sentiments, no man was ever at a loss to know where he stood—like a faithful sentinel upon the watch tower, he warned his countrymen of the coming danger, and no man ever found him despairing or even desponding of the ultimate results of this war. While others have quailed before the magnitude of the rebellion, or permitted themselves, from the hope of personal aggrandizement, to float along with the current of disloyalty, he has been first, last, and all the time, the firm and consistent friend of his country, and no less firm and consistent in his denunciation of traitors.

"Mr. Glover has been for years identified with the emancipation policy of Missouri, and has adhered through good and through evil report to his principles, even at a time when to be an emancipationist in Missouri was equivalent to signing his own political death warrant; in that, as in every other act of his life, he has exhibited a stern devotion to principle, which even those who disagreed with him were bound to respect and admire. This condition of things is, however, changed, and the party which, but a few years ago, were regarded as beyond the pale of political preferment, has by the agency of this rebellion been brought rapidly into public favor, and Mr. Glover stands to-day the representative man of the emancipationists in Missouri.

"Although a slave owner, and a citizen of a county heretofore the banner county of slavery in Missouri, we stand to-day the uncompro- mising advocate of emancipation, not because we are not partial to the institution of slavery—an institution under which we have been raised and nurtured—but because we look upon it as a measure absolutely necessary for the true interests of our State. The resources of our State must be developed, and he who expects those resources to be developed by the miserable remnant of negroes left in the State, must be a crazy enthusiast, whose opinions are more worthy a madman than a rational creature. We must trust to the natural influx from the free States to build up our fallen fortunes, and that hope can never be realized so long as Missouri is a slave State.

"Let us, then, in view of all the circumstances that surround us, cast aside the miserable and narrow prejudices which have heretofore controlled our actions as a people, and, anxious only for the permanent good and glory of our country, seek to repair the ruin which has desolated our great State, by elevating to the highest offices in our gift, such men as alone can raise our State to the position she deserves to hold. Such a man is Samuel Taylor Glover."

NORTH AND SOUTH CAROLINA GLOVERS.

Robert D. Glover was living in Augusta, Georgia, in 1860; owned a plantation there; writes that he was "raised about fifteen miles from Augusta, in Edgefield District, S. C.," and that his brothers and sisters still live there. He can trace no farther back than his grandfather, who was Joseph Glover, who lived and died near Williamsboro', Granville County, N. C., and who had six sons, viz.: William, John, Jacob, Daniel, Robert and David. They all moved to Edgefield, S. C., except Daniel, who retained the homestead in North Carolina and lived and died there. William, John, Jacob and Robert died in South Carolina, at Edgefield; David removed to Kentucky, and died there. There were daughters, but nothing further has been reported of them. The family record was left with Daniel at the homestead. Mr. Glover thinks it probable that his grandfather, Joseph Glover, moved from Virginia to North Carolina, but is not certain. He writes also that his father's name was Robert Glover, and is very desirous that the genealogy of their branch may be traced out.

Robert Glover, fifth son of Joseph Glover, was born in Williamsboro', Granville Co., N. C., in 1758; removed to Edgefield, S. C., where he died.

He was twice married. First, to Miss Frances Atwood, who died, leaving three children. He was married, second, to Miss Rebecca Jeter and had eight more children.

Children of Robert and Frances (Atwood) Glover, born in Edgefield, S. C.:

1. Lucy, m. James F. Adams; died.
2. Susan, m. Josiah Lanham; died.
3. Willey.

Children by second wife, Rebecca Jeter:

5. Elvira, m. James Garrett; died 10 months after.
7. Charles J., m. 1st, Susan Belcher; 2d, Martha Frazier; d. in 1853.
8. David M., m. Frances Bussey, and is still living.
10. Mary Ann Adaline.
11. William J., m. Emily Collier; lived but a short time after his marriage.

Robert Glover, Esq., died in Edgefield, S. C., July 9, 1822, aged 64 years.

It is stated, also, that William, the eldest son of Joseph Glover, and brother of the above Robert, removed to Edgefield, S. C., married and had fifteen children, who are scattered in the western country.

Mr. Glover also writes that there are two other Glover families living in Edgefield, S. C., who claim kinship, and probably are collateral relatives.

Judge Glover lives in Orangeburg District, S. C. The other family lives in Edgefield, about fifteen miles from Augusta, Ga., viz.: Wade Glover, who died early in the year 1859, and left a family.

Eli Glover, of Monticello, Ga., claims kinship with the Joseph-Robert Glover family. He died in the year 1858. His son, who is a lawyer, bears the name of Richard Glover.

There are two families living in Morgan County, Ga., who bear the name of Glover, and claim relationship with this family. They went to that county from a place in North Carolina, not far from Williamsboro'.

There are two families in Alabama of the name of Glover, viz.: Williamson, who lives in Greene Co.; and Benjamin, who lives at Ferrary Bluff, Marengo County, Alabama.
ROBERT D. GLOVER, son of Robert Glover, of Williamsboro', N. C., and Edgefield, S. C., and grandson of Joseph Glover, of Williamsboro', was born in Edgefield, S. C., May 12, 1807; lives in Augusta, Ga.; owns a plantation there. Mrs. Glover, his wife, was born Sept. 25, 1817. They have three sons, born in Augusta, Ga.:

Another account of the Glovers at the South states that William Allen Glover resides now (1861) in Mobile, Alabama. He is the son of Mr. Allen Glover, a planter, born at Cambridge, S. C., and died there in 1840, leaving eight children; had been twice married. He, Mr. Allen Glover, was son of Frederick Glover, who was a son of Benjamin Glover, of Jamestown, Virginia; a descendant of the first Richard Glover of Virginia, in 1635, and was great-grandfather to the informant, Mr. Williamson A. Glover.

The name of Glover appears in many of the Southern and Western cities, and the individuals are presumed to be descended from the Jamestown Richard Glover. But two of the name have been reported as of New England descent, among the settlers there. The following is a list of Glovers, copied from the Charleston (S. C.) Directory for 1859 to 1861:

Glover, Adam B. (Henniker & Glover), house Meeting street.
   Francis, planter, house Bull, corner Rutledge street.
   George A., saddler, Price Avenue.
   H——, widow of A. W., house King street, near Spring.
   J. C., house Cannon above Corning street.
   S. L., accountant, house 7 Rutledge street.

The Charleston Courier for May, 1861, contained a list of students at Columbia College who volunteered their services in defence of their homes, but were not accepted on account of their youth and inexperience. The name of Leslie Glover appears in that list.

Sarah Oliver was baptized at the New Brick Church in Boston, Jan. 7, 1681–2; became a member of Third Church, July 30, 1710.

P. 124. Nathaniel Hubbard, Esq., had more children than those found on Braintree Records. After his removal to Dorchester he had, by Elizabeth Nelson his first wife: Sarah, b. in Dorchester in 1715, died the same year; another Sarah, b. in 1716, d. in Rehoboth before 1748; William, b. in 1717, d. in Dorchester 1719; another William, b. in 1721, d. in Rehoboth before 1748; Margaret, b. in 1722, went to Rehoboth, was named in her father's will, probably was married soon after, but to whom is unknown.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hubbard, wife of Nathaniel Hubbard, Esq., died in Dorchester in 1724. John Bayley, at one time assistant minister at the First Church in Boston, subsequently ordained over the Church at Watertown, and died in December, 1693, aged 53. She died in Milton, Sept. 4, 1724. Her origin has not been ascertained. She was born probably in England in 1665, and was perhaps married to Mr. Bayley before coming to New England.

Pp. 236 and 272. No. 48. Elisha Glover's date of birth, from family records, is stated to be Jan. 20, 1723; his baptism is right as printed on page 272.

P. 273. No. 171. Elizabeth Glover was born Feb. 2, not Feb. 21, which has been found to be the date of her baptism.

P. 273. No. 173. Josiah Glover died August, 1782, the day of the month not known or recorded among family records. He died in New York Harbor, on board the New Jersey Prison Ship.

He was a skilful navigator and shipmaster, and passed most of his life at sea. At the time of his decease he had retired from business, having acquired a large and valuable property. He became an extensive ship builder and ship owner. The last one built by him, a ship of 900 tons burthen, had not been launched when he died, and was named in honor of him, "Russell Glover." He was never married, and must be added to the lines which are extinct.

P. 292. Ruth (Wheat-Glover) Mason died at the house of her stepson Amos Mason, of Belchertown, Mass.

P. 300. (123) Richard and Jane (Carnes) Salter had six children. The following Record was taken from the Salter Family Bible, by Mr. Daniel Greenleaf Ingraham, a grandson, and presented to the writer. His letter arrived too late to make the corrections in the proper place:

361. John, b. April 13, 1770; m. Elizabeth Rice, of Boston.
  Sarah, b. April 19, 1772; d. Aug. 31, 1772.
  Edward, b. April 15, 1776; d. Sept. 5, 1777.

The last named was never married, according to Mr. Ingraham's statement, which is undoubtedly correct, and the marriage of Richard Salter and Sarah Appleton, as given on page 301, must relate to another of the same name.

Jane Carnes, the wife of Richard Salter, was the daughter of John and Sarah —— Carnes, of Boston; was born there, May 13, 1737, and died Sept. 13, 1812, aged 75 years. Richard Salter died January 14, 1803, and not June 14.

P. 347. (359) Jane Salter died in Boston, June 5, 1834. She was at that time the widow of Joseph Ingraham, and was 71 years of age. She was the eldest daughter of Richard and Jane (Carnes) Salter, and was born in Boston, Aug. 7, 1763, as already stated. Her husband, Joseph Ingraham, was the son of Duncan and Susannah (Blake) Ingraham, who resided many years in Concord, and afterwards removed to Boston, where they died. In 1811 they were buried in the Stone Chapel yard on Tremont street, Boston, with others of the Ingraham family. Capt. Joseph Ingraham, their son, was born at Concord or in Boston, in 1762. He was a skilful navigator and shipmaster, and entered the service of the United States as Captain of the U. S. Brig Pickering. He was lost overboard at sea in the year 1800, at the age of 38 years. Capt. Joseph and Jane (Salter) Ingraham had three children, as stated on page 347. The following additional items are copyd from the Salter Family Bible, viz.:

858. Frederick William, d. April 19, 1822, aged 34 years.
859. Daniel Greenleaf, studied the profession of the law with Rufus G. Amory and Andrew Ritchie, Esqs., from 1809 to 1811.

Daniel Greenleaf, after finishing his law studies, chose the profession of teacher, and engaged in that occupation. He continued in it forty years in the City of Boston, preparing boys for college and the counting house, and retired from the business in 1852, and went to Braintree to reside, where he died, Jan. 28, 1867, aged 76 years.

About one month before his decease he kindly furnished the writer with the above items of his family, in a letter dated Dec. 22, 1866, with the request that if they were not received until too late to be inserted in the proper place, they might be added in making up additional matter. He states they were taken from the Salter Family Bible, then in his possession.
