PREFACE
In presenting this 39th volume of our Lineage Book, we record as history, and place among our treasured archives, yet another thousand names of men and women of the American Revolution who played their part in that National drama, so momentous and decisive.

These Lineage Books of our Society do not transcend their own province.

They may be commended for their exclusion of irrelevant matter, and for a condensation of what is relevant, to the utmost degree consistent with explicitness and clearness.

With their simple brief record of names, dates, deeds, they preserve in the smallest space, as in an urn full of white dust, the substance of each career.

With listed names and dates of deeds, these thousand records afford a firm chronological foothold from which to approach both the preceding and succeeding times.

Here within these pages we have an abundance of facts, on which to rest and cast a new glance of wider range into the epoch making time of the American Revolution.

Here the story of that time told in fragments through the individual participators, is distilled again in drops, which fall into that widening and deepening stream of historical truths, into which, historians, story writer, and biographer shall hereafter cast their nets, for the essential materials of their craft.

To all students of History, truth is the leading object.

Rigid conformity to the exactions of this requirement are herein met, in all facts, statistics, dates, incidents narrated.

The footlights which on the stage so accentuate the characteristics of action, would, if focussed on these players in a greater drama, illuminate the deeds of these men and women in council and in action. Ampler description of the scenes and times in which they moved, would yield the essential materials which constitute true history. We are held by the limitations of our field and the type of our publication to a few bold strokes.

We give the genealogical and biographical outline sketch for awakened interest to fill in by imagination, fancy, memory, reflection and study, the portraits that shall again have life with power. We, the descendants of Patriots, pledge ourselves "to perpetuate the memory of the spirit of the men and women who achieved American Independence."

These ancestors of ours may truly live again in us.

Again we may hear their voices of steadying caution and wisdom in our day of conflict, struggle and doubt.

Something of their indomitable courage, faith, bravery, fortitude, strength, may be ours when the battle must be waged.

Their determination to succeed, their willingness to sacrifice much and endure with patience, shall not outrun our own zeal in of talent and resources to our Country, and to equal them in quickness of response to the call of duty from whatsoever quarter it may sound.

Also No. 32442.

"See No."—indicates a reference to that number in the same volume.
"Also No."—indicates the National Number of a "Daughter" who has entered the Society on the same ancestor and whose lineage has been published in a former volume. This is done to link together widely scattered families. If the number should be 4006, it will be in the fifth volume; if 5005, in the sixth volume, etc.
"Real Daughters" are those whose fathers rendered service in the cause of Independence, and their names are printed in italics in the text and index. There are seven "Real Daughters" in this volume.
