This book started as an account of my grandparents, Oliver Shirliff & Lucy May (Peirpoint) Jones, of Monongalia County and Parkersburg, W. Va., their ancestors and descendants. Since I have known most of the descendants all my life or theirs, I have been able to provide rather full and detailed stories about them.

When the work was well along I decided to include the descendants of Lucy's brother and sisters, or "Siblings". I do not know any of them personally, and have had to gather information from various sources, by correspondence. As a result the stories vary from moderately full accounts to mere lists of names or even less, according to what I could get in the limited time available.

My data is in many places sketchy and incomplete, and there is room for much additional inquiry. However, this would be true no matter how far the inquiry were carried. Each answer found poses several new questions. Also, it is improbable that all my data is accurate. I will welcome additions and corrections, and if it seems warranted at some time in the future, will issue a supplement.

The spelling of family names has varied over the generations. A glance at Peirpoint or Smell in the index will show the extent. The use in the title and index of PEIRPOINT, which was the general usage a century ago, rather than Pierpoint or Pierpont, which are used today, or Pairpoint, which was used still earlier, is arbitrary on my part, and was chosen to distinguish the West Virginia family from the Pierpoints of New England and New York, and from the Quaker family of Pierpoints in Maryland and Virginia.

Many members of the family, and others, have supplied information, and in general these sources are acknowledged in the text, under "Sources" or "References". To single some out for special reference here would lead to invidious comparisons. Mention should be made, however, of Miss Marion Tapp, a genealogist of Morgantown, who has been most helpful in obtaining data both from the Monongalia County records and from individuals. And without the benefit of Miss Willa Brand's knowledge of the family, the section on "Siblings" could not have been undertaken.

NOTES ON ARRANGEMENT

This account is divided into four parts, plus an index and a chart. Part I, Lucy & Oliver, includes both a brief account of the Civil War period in northwestern Virginia and the formation of West Virginia, and an account of Oliver Shirtliff & Lucy May (Peirpoint) Jones' lives and family.

Part II, Ancestors, is arranged in "lines" of family names, working from top to bottom of the chart. Wives of ancestors are under their husbands' names. Thus, since Jones is highest on the chart, the Jones ancestors, working backward in point of time, are given first. These are followed by McMullen or McMillan, Fetty, Bike, etc. At the top of each page the family name or names dealt with are given. Each ancestor is numbered and the number is enclosed in ( ). Starting with (1) for each child of Lucy and Oliver, the father is double and the mother double plus one. Thus Lucy is (1x2/1) or (1), her mother is (3x2/1) or (7), her father in turn is (7x2) or (14), etc.

Part III, Descendants, takes the children of Lucy and Oliver who grew up, in the order of their birth, and gives an account of his or her life, followed by accounts of his or her spouse, children, and subsequent descendants. Direct descendants carry a superscript showing their generation, starting with 1 for Lucy and Oliver's children. Thus Jane 4 Banning Galvin (Julia 3, Charles 2, Edith 1) shows that Jane is fourth generation, a great great grandchild of Lucy and Oliver, by the line of descent given.

Part IV, Lucy's Siblings, gives similar information about Lucy's brother and sisters and their descendants, the generations being numbered in the same way as under Descendants.

The Index includes the names of all relatives by blood or marriage mentioned in the text, with the page on which they are mentioned. Descendants of Lucy and her Siblings carry generation superscripts, and ancestors numbers in parenthesis, as described above. All females are indexed under their maiden names when known. Names of persons not relatives by blood or marriage are not indexed, except in special cases.

The Chart, folded in at the back, can be folded out to be completely exposed in conjunction with any page. It shows at a glance all known and probable ancestors, Lucy and her siblings, and their children, who carry the superscript 1. There are too many in subsequent generations for a family-wide chart to be practical.
On April 27, 1865, at Morgantown, West Virginia, Oliver Shirtliff Jones, aged 29, and Lucy May Pier-point, aged 21, were married by Reverend Benjamin Ison. Both were natives and the children of natives of Monongalia County, Virginia, of which Morgantown was the county seat.

Oliver had been mustered out of the Union Army on August 15, 1864, after more than three years service in the Civil War and had returned to his father's farm. Both Oliver and Lucy had grown up in the atmosphere of tension which continually increased during the decades preceding the war, and which culminated in it. Nowhere was the tension greater than in northwestern Virginia, which was geographically and economically closer to Ohio and western Pennsylvania, and which was largely settled by Pennsylvania German and Scotch-Irish stock, but which was politically part of Virginia.

Virginia east of the mountains was historically and traditionally a land of plantations, worked by Negro slaves, and was dominated politically by the "Slave Power", although the vast majority of its white population were not slave owners. Northwestern Virginia was a land of steep mountains and narrow valleys, entirely unsuited to this type of economy, and was developing as a land of small farms, worked by the owners, and of primitive industry and mining.

Aside from the slavery and tariff questions, which were national issues, northwestern Virginia had long felt that it paid more than its share of state taxes due to slaves being assessed at a nominal value while property was assessed at full value, and got less than its share of state expenditures due to domination by the eastern section in the legislature. There had been much talk of separate statehood as the only way the section could develop.

In 1858 Abraham Lincoln, an obscure Illinois Lawyer and politician, and a member of the new and then radical Republican party, had managed to split the dominant Democratic party in a series of debates with one of the Democratic leaders, Stephen A. Douglas, by forcing him to declare himself on the slavery issue, on which northern and southern Democrats differed. Oliver Jones, then 22, is supposed to have been visiting his Campbell cousins in Paris, Illinois, and to have heard one or more of these debates. As a result of the debates, Lincoln became the Republican nominee for President in 1860, and the Democrats split and ran two tickets, headed by Douglas and Breckenridge. Lincoln, with a minority of the total vote, was elected.

When Lincoln took office on March 4, 1861, the secession of the slave states from the Union was well advanced. On December 20, 1860, in accordance with its announced intention during the campaign should Lincoln be elected, South Carolina seceded, and on February 4, 1861 six other states joined her in forming the Confederate States of America. Virginia called a Convention which met on February 13 to decide on a course of action. On April 17, by a vote of 88 to 55, this Convention adopted an Ordinance of Secession, to be voted on in the regular election on May 23. Without waiting for the result the Virginia Government joined the Confederacy on April 25.

Northwestern Virginia was by no means unanimously against this, and the vote of the 47 delegates from this region is probably representative of the sentiment there, 32 voting against secession, 11 for it, and 4 refraining from voting. In the May 23 election the vote of northwestern Virginians, which was never tabulated, was reliably estimated at 44,000 against secession, 4000 for it. A mass meeting in Clarksburg (which was the home of Stonewall Jackson, one of the leading Confederate generals) on April 22 called a Convention in Wheeling on May 13, which in turn called a General Convention there on June 11.

This Convention on June 19 passed "An Ordinance for the Reorganization of the State Government" (of Virginia), which established the Restored Government of Virginia with headquarters at Wheeling. It elected Francis Harrison Pierpoint, first cousin of Lucy's father and one of the leaders of the mass meeting and Conventions, Governor. On June 21 Governor Pierpoint petitioned Lincoln for military aid in putting down the rebellion, and four days later Lincoln, acting thru Secretary of War Cameron, in effect recognized the Restored Government by communicating with Pierpoint as Governor of Virginia. In July the Senators and Representatives of the Restored Government were admitted to Congress. Governor Pierpoint proceeded to raise troops and commission officers for them, for the Union army. Among these was Company A, 3rd Virginia Infantry, which was mustered in at Clarksburg on June 25, 1861, with Oliver S. Jones as Sergeant. Three of his brothers, William, Virgil and Daniel, enlisted in other units at about the same time.
Thru the war years northwestern Virginia, and later West Virginia, was the scene of fighting and of Confederate raids, reaching as far as Morgantown and Fairmont, and nearly to Parkersburg. Charleston and the Kanawha valley were, for a brief time in 1861, held by the Confederates.

On November 26, 1861 a Representative Convention, elected October 24 for the purpose, met at Wheeling to adopt a constitution for a new state, to be formed by the partition of northwestern Virginia from the rest of the state. This convention deliberated until February 18, 1862. A special session of the legislature of the Restored Virginia government, from May 6-18, 1862, petitioned Congress to partition the state. This petition was presented to the Senate May 29. Meanwhile, on May 22 an election was held at which the people elected Pierpoint governor of Virginia. It was not until December, 1862 that Congress acted on the partition petition, and then approved only subject to a change in the proposed Constitution providing for the gradual abolition of slavery, which was permitted under the proposed constitution as submitted to Congress. This proposed constitution, however, forbade the bringing in of more slaves, or coming in of free persons of color to live.

Another Convention met February 12, 1863 and accepted the change, which was accepted by the people in an election April 17 by a vote of 27,749 to 572. On April 20 Lincoln proclaimed the new state, and on May 28, 1863 an unopposed slate of candidates composed of an equal number of former Democrats and former Whigs was elected. The governor of the new state was Arthur I. Boreman of Parkersburg, whose wife was, by a former marriage, mother of John Bullock who later married Oliver and Lucy's oldest daughter, Florence. After installing these officers of the new state, Pierpoint moved his seat of government to Alexandria, and after the war to Richmond, remaining Governor of Virginia until 1868. His statue, placed there by West Virginia as its representative, is in Statuary Hall in the National Capitol in Washington, D. C.

On the formation of West Virginia, the Virginia troops in the Union Army became West Virginia troops, and Oliver served as Sergeant in Co. A 3rd Regiment, West Virginia Mounted Infantry. Oliver's diary for 1864 is in existence. It contains a calendar for 1862, marked to show that he fought at McDowall May 8; was at Harrisonburg June 6 when General Ashby was killed; fought at Cross Keys June 8; fought in the battle at Cedar Mountain August 9; and fought both days at the Second Battle of Bull Run August 29 and 30. The 1863 activities of his unit could doubtless be obtained thru the War Department records.

The start of 1864 found his regiment moving eastward by rail to Martinsburg, W. Va., where it stayed until late April, with the Confederates a few miles south at Winchester. It then moved to Beverly, W. Va., at the west entrance to the pass thru the mountains to Staunton, Va. There it remained until August, when it went to Wheeling, then the capital of West Virginia, to be mustered out. It saw no important action in 1864, although it sent out many scouting or reconnaissances, and the enemy was camped not far away.

Oliver was acting veterinary for his company of mounted infantry, and on Feb. 10, 1864 the recommendation of his appointment as Veterinary Surgeon was forwarded to Washington, but apparently was never acted upon. He was much interested in horses and their care and treatment, and did some buying and selling of horses for his own account. His numerous comments on the weather, such as "a fine growing shower", showed his farm background and outlook. On Monday, March 2, he "received ten barrels of apples from home and sold them for thirty dollars, paid nine dollars freight on them". After moving to Beverly he was in charge of "drawing rations" for the troops.

He enjoyed visiting with the girls, and carried on an active correspondence with a number of them, as well as with home with his sister Serilda. He also exchanged letters with his cousins John F. Campbell and Sophia Vance in Paris, Ill. When he attended church he recorded the preacher's name and the chapter and verse of his text. While he was a Methodist and usually attended that church, he sometimes went to others. He kept careful detailed accounts of his expenditures in the space provided in the back of the diary.

After being mustered out at "2 1/2 P.M." on August 13 at Wheeling, he returned home to Laurel Point and took up life as a farmer. Late in August he made an expedition of several days buying stock hogs and driving them home. In September he threshed and plowed. Entries in the diary ceased September 18, except for a few a couple of weeks later when he went on a trip for a few days.

After their marriage in 1865, Oliver and Lucy moved to Parkersburg, W. Va., where he established a general store in a residential neighborhood, at 13th and Market Streets, selling groceries, meats, yard goods and other merchandise. This store prospered and he was well-to-do, but he lost considerable money endorsing notes for friends. He also had a farm near town, with a dairy herd on it.

The family lived first in the 1300 block on Market Street, and later at 1329 Avery Street. They were Methodists, and Oliver was on the Official Board of the First Methodist Church, in which Lucy was active in women's affairs. He was also active in the Grand Army of the Republic (Union veterans of the Civil War).

Lucy and Oliver had eleven children, of whom seven grew up and married, and four died in infancy. All the children were given first and middle names having the same initial, but five of them changed their names. Fanny Florence and William Wilber dropped their first names and became Florence and Wilber, while Grace Gladys and Edith Ethel changed their middle names to Pierpont, which had become the accepted spelling by that time. Charles changed his middle name from Clarence to Carrington.

Sometime after the turn of the century, when Oliver was in his latter sixties, he gave up the store, which became Morrison's. He continued to work with a nursery, selling fruit trees, shrubs, and plants. In 1910 Oliver, who was born at Laurel Point on the west side of the Monongahela River between Morgantown and Fairmont on April 3, 1836, went to Doctor Langdon's sanitorium in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he died after about a month on October 30, 1910. After his death, Lucy, who was born August 9, 1843, lived with her daughter Florence at 1600 Avery Street until her death there in August, 1925. Both are buried in Cook Cemetery, Parkersburg, W. Va.
Children (all born at Parkersburg, W. Va.):

Charles Clarence, b. Feb. 2, 1866
Fanny Florence, b. Oct. 14, 1867
Paul Pierpoint, b. Oct. 3, 1869 (died in infancy)
William Wilber, b. Dec. 11, 1870
Grace Pierpont, b. Aug. 11, 1873
George Glen, b. Aug. 6, 1875 (died in infancy)
Edith Pierpont, b. Sept. 10, 1876
Lyle Laughlin, b. Aug. 29, 1879
Ray Russell b. Feb. 18, 1882
Mildred & Kenneth b. July 13, 1886 (both died in infancy)

WILLIAM M. JONES, (7), b. 1-4-1808 in Monongalia County, Virginia, was a farmer and blacksmith living at Laurel Point, on the west side of the Monongahela River about 5 miles above Morgantown, on the road to Fairmont. He m. 1st EDITH FETTY (see below) on 2-21-1831. She was the mother of all of his children. She d. 4-24-1859.

He m. 2nd Sabre M. Johnson on 7-21-1860. She was 45 and single, and the daughter of Hadley and Rachel (Ramsey) Johnson. When she died is unknown.

He m. 3rd, date unknown, Jane Vandervort, widow of John Vandervort and daughter of Zackquill and Dorcas (Ridgeway) Fairpoint. Two of Jane’s children, Strother and Laura, married two of William’s children, Jennie or Virginia and Josephus. Jane d. 12-3-1899, aged 69y 10m 2d. William d. 4-12-1896, aged 89y 5m 8d. Apparently he had been quite prosperous, as his will indicates that he advanced various children substantial sums, totalling over $10,000, and still had money as well as his farm and equipment. William, Edith, and Jane are buried under a common headstone in the Laurel Point Methodist Churchyard.

EDITH FETTY, (5), b. 6-14-1809 m. 2-21-1831 at Morgantown, Virginia, William M. Jones (see above). While the Marriage Bonds list her as Edy, dau. William, she was really dau. John Petty, as his will clearly indicates. The marriage Bonds shows John as Surety, and probably her father and brother (or uncle) signed in the wrong places. She was the mother of nine (or perhaps ten) children, and died at the age of 49y 10m 10d on 4-24-1859, when her youngest son was 6 years old.

Children of William M. & Edith (Fetty) Jones:

Sarah, m. A. A. Gould, who d. before 1895.

OLIVER SHIRTLIFF, (2) b. 4-3-1836, m. 4-27-1865 LUCY MAY PIERPOINT, d. 10-30-1910. (See Lucy and Oliver)

William Henry, who predeceased his father, leaving one daughter and three sons, all minors in 1895 when their grandfather’s will was written. He served as Q. M. Sergeant in Company A, First (W.) Va. Cavalry, during the Civil War.

Serilda Ann, b. 3-12-1838, m. 1-22-1865 Sylvanus Pierpoint, aged 30, son of John J. and Sarah (Smell) Pierpoint, and brother of Lucy who m. Oliver S. Jones.
Virgil S., who served as private in Company A, First (W) Va. Cavalry during the Civil War.

Daniel Webster, served as private in Company I, Fourteenth (W) Va. Cavalry during the Civil War, and d. in a Veteran's Home sometime in the 1920s.

Virginia, b. 1848, m. 3-1-1866 Strother Vandervort, aged 21, son of John and Jane (Peirpoint) Vandervort. They had children John, Charles, Wilbur, Roy, Lizzie, Etta and Jennie.

Josephus, b. 1850, m. 10-13-1871 Laura Emma Vandervort, aged 18, dau. John and Jane (Peirpoint) Vandervort. Josephus inherited his father's farm and lived on it until his death in 1922. His wife outlived him. Children:

- Harry F. m. Myrtle Brewer
- Charles O. m. Lucy Snider
- Alice m. Charles Stephens
- Maude m. Grant Lazzell
- Minnie died in infancy
- William Orren m. Etta Morris) twins
- John Byron m. Dessie Whiteman

- Lucy m. Ellery Michael
- Edith m. Russell Ridgeway
- Frank P. m. Ruth Orr
- Virgil V. m. Della Willard
- Gilbert d. single aged 21.

Benjamin A., b. 1853, m. 8-9-1874 Laura E. Weaver, aged 22, dau. George and Margaret Weaver.

(George, given in one source but not mentioned in William M. Jones' will, may have been another son, who may have died young or moved away and lost touch.)

BANJAMIN JONES (8). When William M. Jones married the second time, in 1850, Marriage Book B, p9 shows that he gave his parents' names as Benjamin and Anna, and stated that he was born in Monongalia County. Deed Book 1, p387 shows that on Sept. 11, 1798 Benjamin Jones purchased 140 acres from John Evans for $100. The Marriage Bonds show that on Dec. 30, 1815, Abigail Jones, dau. Benjamin who gave his written consent, m. David Lewellen. John Jones was Surety. On Aug. 18, 1819 Jane Jones, dau. Benjamin, m. George Smith, and on Aug. 25, 1819 Anna Jones, widow of Benjamin, m. Gawan Eddy.

Unfortunately the Census record for 1810 shows two Ben Jones families in Monongalia County, one with three sons, two of them under 10, and four daughters, one of them under 10, the other with six sons, one of them under 10, and five daughters; three of them under 10, both with both parents between 26 and 45. The 1820 Census shows but one Ben Jones family, with three sons under 10, one 10-16 and two over 16, and three daughters, one under 10, one 10-16, and one over 16. The 1800 Census for Monongalia County is not known to exist.

It seems improbable that both Bens had wives named Anna, so that there is a strong probability that William M. Jones' father died before 1819, his mother remarried, and he and his brothers and sisters were raised as Gawan Eddy's step-children. In the absence of more data further conclusions seem unwarranted.

In 1782 Census of Monongalia County, Virginia, the following Joneses appear as heads of families of the sizes given:

The 1790 Census of Virginia was burned by the British when they took Washington, D. C. in 1814. In Fayette County, Pennsylvania, immediately north of Monongalia County, two Benjamin Joneses were Revolutionary War soldiers. One was living in Ohio in 1830, and is established as a DAR ancestor.
There was one in the 1790 Census of Pennsylvania, living in Washington Township, Fayette County, with one female and no other males in the household. So far no connection between the Benjamin who was William M. Jones' father and any of these has been established.

In 1926 Charles C. Jones, who was 30 when his grandfather William M. Jones died, wrote the following:

"His (Wm. M's) father came to Virginia near Morgantown early in the last century. The family lived in Pennsylvania before that, coming from New Jersey. They originated in Wales, I suppose the trip from New Jersey to Virginia probably covered a period of 50 years".

In Montgomery's "Historical and Biographical Annals of Berks County, Pennsylvania" (1909), p354, there is an account of a Jones family which might conceivably fit the above sketchy description, but if so, there is at least a generation missing.

However, except for the Welsh origin, the description is similar to that given in Miller & Maxwell for the Pettys, and its attribution to the Jones instead might well be a trick of memory.

ANNA McMULLEN (9) or McMILLAN. According to Miller & Maxwell, "West Virginia and Its People" (1913), p565, (vol.2), William M. Jones' parents were William and Jennie (McMullen) Jones. We know the first names are wrong. According to Maude Lazzell, granddaughter of William M. Jones, his mother's name was Anna McMillan. Thus, there is a probability that her name was something like McMillan, otherwise we have no knowledge of her, except that her name was Anna and that she m. 2d Gawan Eddy.

"ANCESTRY - FETTY - BIKE"

JOHN PETTY (10) was probably born in Pennsylvania east of the mountains about 1774. He appears in the Monongalia County, Virginia Census for 1810, with two boys and three girls under 10, a girl between 10 and 16, and two women between 26 and 45, his own age group. At the 1820 Census he was over 45, with six boys, four under 10, one 10-16 and one over 16, and five girls, three under 10, one 10-16 and one over 16, and no grown women in his household. He settled on Little Indian Creek in Grant District, but later moved to what is now Clay District, where he died. His wife, of whom nothing is known except her name, was SALLY (BIKE) FETTY, (11). John's will, dated 8-31-1859 and probated in Nov. 1859, mentioned seven of the eleven children listed below, and the husband and son of an eighth, together with various grandchildren.

Children of John & Sally (Bike) Fetty (order of birth unknown, listed in order of marriage):

Phoebe, m, 12-2-1820 Edmund Campbell. She is mentioned in John's will, as is also John F. Campbell. In 1864 the Campbells were living in Paris, Ill., and Oliver Jones was corresponding with his cousins John F. Campbell and Sophia Vance there.

George. Three George Fettys were married in Monongalia County in a period of seven years, as follows:
(1) 11-21-1823 to Elizabeth Piles, dau. Zachariah Piles.
(2) 12-20-1824 to Elizabeth Smith, dau. John Smith.
(3) 3-29-1830 to Mary Kern, dau. John J. Kern.

It is not known which of these was the son George of John. He is mentioned in John's will only as father of grandchildren John and George, so he probably died before 1859. He moved to Tyler County, (W.) Va.

Mary, m, 4-11-1829 Mathew Henderson, and went to Arkansas.

Thomas G., m, 8-20-1830 by Rev. Charles McLane to Nancy Mason, dau. John Mason. Thomas is mentioned in his father's will.

EDITH (5), b, 6-14-1809, m, 2-21-1831 William M. Jones (Whom see), d, 2-24-1859. She died before her father, who left money to her husband and mentioned her son Daniel. Her name is given as Ed/ in the Marriage Bond, and as Edda in the "Cyclopedia".

Elmer, b, 5-30-1811, m, 10-7-1833 Terresa Shively, dau. Jacob Shively, d, 5-31-1838. He is mentioned in his father's will.

William L., m, 11-23-1839 by Rev. William Hawkins to Rebecca Jane Wilcox, dau.
Stephen Wilcox. He lived at the time of his death in Tyler County, W. Va.

Sally, m. 2-10-1840 Edmund Bice. In her father's will the name is spelled Boice.

Pleasy (or Pleasants) m. 5-11-1846 David Petty, and is supposed to have m. 2nd John Wilson. Her father's will mentions her children William Leonard and Ell Gee, but by which marriage is unknown.

Julia Ann, m. 4-1-1847 by Rev. James A. Hogue to David Henderson. They went to Arkansas and died there.

John Jr. No data on marriage. He lived and died in Grant District, Monongalia County, W.Va.

Also mentioned in John's will are grandchildren Louisa, Sanford Petty and Elga Petty, but whose children they were is not stated.

EARLY PETTYS

The only pre-Revolutionary reference to the name FETTY found is in the Pennsylvania Archives, Third Series, vol. 11, p. 56, where in the Chester County Rates (Tax List) for 1765 Philip and Jacob Fetty appear as "Inmates" in East Paint Hill Township. This probably means renters or hired hands, as distinguished from land owners. Both were probably married, as single men were on a separate list.
The next reference found is in the 1790 Census for Pennsylvania, where George Petty, with five males under 16 and four females, appears in the list for Hopewell, Newton, Tyborn & West Pensboro Townships, Cumberland County, and Conrod Petty, with three males under 16 and one female, appears in the list for Huntington, Menallen, Manheim & Tyrone Townships, York County. The former is now party in Perry County, and the latter is now in Adams County, and the districts where George and Conrod lived are fairly near each other and a short way north of Gettysburg.

In the 1800 Census George was in Toboyne Township, Cumberland County (now Perry County) and he had two males under 10, two 10-16, two 16-26 and one over 45, two females under 10, one 10-16, one 16-26 and one over 45. Peter Piety, aged 26-45, was in Antrim Township, Franklin County, with a wife and three daughters under 10.

In 1810 Tetrick and John Fetty were in Adams County, Pa. Tetrick was over 45, his wife was 26-45, and they had two girls and a boy under 10 and a boy 10-16. John and his wife were 26-45, with two girls under 10.

All the above counties are east of the mountains, or on their eastern slope. By 1810 the name George Fetty appears west of the mountains in Greene County in the southwestern corner of Pennsylvania, where his household of nine included two males and two females over 45, one boy under 10, one boy and one girl 10-16, and two boys 16-26. At this Census, John and Samuel appear in Monongalia County, (W.) Va., immediately south of Greene County, Pa. John, who was 26-45, had two females in this same age group, two boys and three girls under 10, and a girl between 10 and 16. Samuel and his wife were both under 26, and had a boy and a girl under 10 and a girl (obviously not a daughter) between 10 and 16.

By 1820, the following Fetty households appear in Monongalia County, all listed as engaged in agriculture:

The above is all the information about early Fettys presently possessed by the writer. It is speculated that the last listed George is the same George who was in Greene County in 1810 and in Cumberland County in 1790 and 1800, that he was the progenitor of the (West) Virginia Fettys and the father of the John who was the father of Edith who married William M. Jones.

There are many later mentions of Fettys, and a number of them are in the telephone books for Morgantown and Fairmont today, as well as elsewhere in West Virginia, Wiley's "History of Monongalia County" (1883) shows Civil War military service by Captain Marcus, David C., John P., Francis M. and Samuel Fetty.
on the east side of the Monongahela River. The age given on his grave marker indicates his birth-date to have been 4-19-1803, but since this was the date his parents signed a marriage bond and two days before they were married, and he was the second child, this seems improbable. Three of his sons, dying before 1862, are buried in the same cemetery, so it is probable he lived in this vicinity. The graves marked with the earlier dates spell the name Peirpoint, the last one spells it Pierpoint.

SARAH SMELL (7) was born in Monongalia County July 5, 1810. She was m. in Monongalia County by Rev. Asby Pool 11-20-1828 to John J. Peirpoint. The Marriage Bond gives her name as Sary, and she was known as Sally. After her husband's death in 1872 she lived with her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Brand in Morgantown. For seven years before her death 11-26-1895 she was paralyzed and in pain. She is buried in Fairview Cemetery.

John J. and Sarah (Smell) Peirpoint had nine children, as follows:

Mary Ann, b. 1829, m. James Wright (see "Lucy's Siblings")

Margaret Jane, b. 1831, m. 1st George Madera, m.
2nd in 1867 William Norval Brand. (see "Lucy's Siblings")

Calvin, d, aged 6 months.

Sylvanus Edwin, b. 3-10-1834, m. 1-22-1865 Serilda Ann Jones, sister of Oliver S. Jones. (see "Lucy's Siblings").

William H., b. 1838, d. 9-25-1839 aged 1 year and 3 months.

Jacob, b. 1842, d. in an accident in Martingsburg, (Va) Va. 4-1-1862, aged 19 years and 8 months.
He is buried under a common headstone with his father in Fairview Cemetery.

LUCY MAY (3), b. 8-9-1843, m. 4-27-1865 OLIVER S. JONES (2) (see pp. 1-5-)

Lilla A., b. 1847, m. 1-28-1872 by Rev. P. T. Conway to Nicholas Madera, marble cutter. (see "Lucy's Siblings").

Ella M., b. 12-22-1851, m. 4-16-1874 Orin Jenks. (see "Lucy's Siblings")

LARKIN PEIRPOINT (12), b. 12-25-1779, inherited half of his father's "home plantation" of 500 acres at the Forks of Cheat, about 5 miles east of Morgantown (W.) Va. on his father's death in 1796, subject to payment of $100 to his sister Ann when she reached the age of 18, and subject to a life interest by his mother if she did not marry again, which she promptly did. He m. 4-21-1803 JANE DUNN (13) (see below). In the War of 1812 he served in Captain Wilson's Company under General Harrison in the Northwest at Fort Meigs near present Toledo, Ohio, from September, 1812 until sometime in 1813. Serving with him in the same company were his brothers Zackquill and Francis, and his brothers-in-law, Thomas Dunn and Reuben Baker. Also, in the same company were four uncles of the girl his son John was to marry 15 years later, Philip and Peter Smell and Henry and William May.

  Larkin was a road surveyor in 1805 and again in 1826. He continued to farm, and his later years are obscure. As late as February 9, 1844 he signed at Morgantown the marriage bond for his dau. Sarah. It is said that the 1850 Census shows that he and Jane still were living in Monongalia County. He left no will, and his grave marker has not been found.

  JANE DUNN (13), b. 2-13-1785, dau. James and Sarah (Reed) Dunn, was m. 4-21-1803 by Rev. Robert Manley to Larkin Peirpoint, and was the mother of his 14 children, as follows:

    A daughter who died in infancy.

JOHN JACKSON (6), b. 11-16-1805 (see above).
James, b. 9-12-1807, m. (2nd?) in Tyler County, (W.) Va. in 1862, Hester Jarrett.

Sarah, b. 8-9-1809, m. 2-9-1844 Franklin Warman.

Mary, b. 9-3-1811, m. 12-12-1833 Joseph Stewart.

Larkin Jr., b. 4-25-1814.

Zackquill, b. 7-7-1816, m. Vylinda Stillwell. Ambler lists their nine children.

William, b. 6-16-1819, m. 1-14-1841 Elizabeth Wells.

Martha, b. 9-29-1821, m. 5-2-1839 Joseph Reed.

Francis, b. 3-24-1826, m. 3-17-1849 Rebecca Ann Abercrombie.

Thomas Dunn, b. 3-6-1828, m. 10-2-1852 in Tyler County, (W.) Va. Elovina Worthington.

Eugene, b. 6-4-1830.

Alfred E., b. 11-26-1831.

JOHN PEIRPOINT (24), the first of the name in transallegheny Virginia, settled at the Forks of Cheat in 1769. This is the region surrounding the confluence of the Cheat River and the Monongahela, at the border between Pennsylvania and (Jest) Virginia. Where and when he was born is discussed a little later. He was one of the very early settlers in the region, the records showing three in 1766, one in 1767, none in 1768 and five, including John Peirpoint, in 1769. An attempted settlement a few years earlier had been wiped out by the indians. One of his first acts was to build a fort, known as "Peirpoint's Fort".

In 1774 he married NANCY ANN MORGAN (25). He was in active military service 162 days under his father-in-law, Col. Zackquill Morgan, during the Revolution. On September 24, 1784 George Washington stopped at his house, where Captain Samuel Hanway, the surveyor, had his office, and stayed the night so that he could consult Zackquill Morgan, whom he sent for, as to roads west from the Potomac. Albert Gallatin, then 23 years old, was there to consult Hanway about lands he had purchased, and on which he settled, a few miles north. Gallatin gave up his bed to Washington, he sleeping on the floor. For Gallatin's own account of this incident, and the not very favorable opinion he then formed of Washington's intellectual ability and aloofness, see J. A. Stevens, "Albert Gallatin" (Houghton Mifflin, 1883), p. 23. Gallatin was later Jefferson's Secretary of the Treasury, and for half a century an important figure in National life.

The Land Commissioners for Monongalia County, which until the 1782 boundary settlement included a considerable area in present Pennsylvania as well as a number of present counties in West Virginia, met at seven places in the area. One of these was John Peirpoint's house. Their records show a number of grants to him in a number of locations, in some of which he was assignee to others. In the grant confirming his title to "400 acres to include his settlement made in 1769" his name is spelled "Pairpoint".

On Dec. 22, 1787 the Virginia Legislature passed an act appropriating certain taxes to the opening of a wagon road to the mouth of the Little Kanawha, the site of present day Parkersburg, and appointing seven commissioners, of whom John Peirpoint was one, to administer the work.

John Peirpoint was a prosperous farmer, and acquired considerable land. In 1784, when Zackquill Morgan was selling lots in newly laid-out Morgan's Town, he purchased several. He apparently died suddenly, as he was sworn in on a jury March 14, 1796, and his will was probated May 16, 1796. In it he disposed of 1574 acres in five tracts, as well as "lotts" in Morgan's Town. His personal property was appraised at £292, a considerable sum for the time and place.
NANCY ANN MORGAN (25), b. 1756, birth place unknown. m. John Peirpoint in 1774. After John's death in 1796, she soon married William Stevens, and lived until 1816.

Children:

Sarah, m. 1st 6-2-1795 by Rev. James Fleming, John Watson, by whom she had two daughters. M. 2nd 12-15-1827 John Reed.

LARKIN (12), b. 12-25-1779, m. 4-19-1803 JANE DUNN (13), had 14 children.

Zackquill, b. 4-15-1782, m. 3-30-1805 Dorcas Ridgeaway, had 14 children.

Francis, b. 4-6-1784, m. 1st 5-9-1809 Catherine Weaver, m. 2nd 4-29-1841 Isabella Stewart, d. 3-3-1849. Had 7 children, of whom one was Governor Francis Harrison Peirpoint (who changed his name to Pierpont in 1881).

Nancy Ann, b. 1787, m. 4-6-1811 Reuben Baker, d. 1816. Had 2 children.

John Jr., b. 1788, m. 1st 4-4-1810 Margaret Ann Baker, had 2 children, m. 2nd 8-10-1818 Sarah Hanway, d. 1865.

Temperance, b. 1790, m. 4-3-1810 Thomas Dunn, had 7 children, was still living in 1883.

(Note: Marriage dates, except Sarah's, were dates Marriage Bonds were signed, weddings may have been a few days later.)

Ancestry of John Peirpoint of Monongalia County, Virginia

A completely documented line of descent for the John Peirpoint who settled at the Forks of Cheat in 1769 is not presently available. When his grandson, Governor Francis Harrison Peirpoint of the Restored Government of Virginia, suddenly appeared in the national limelight in 1861, the Pierpont family in New England and the Pierpoint family in Maryland and eastern Virginia each proceeded to claim him. At least three lines of descent have been offered, viz:

1. John was descended from the New England Pierpoints, who immigrated in 1640. This was offered by the elderly New England Poet, John Pierpoint (1785-1866), maternal grandfather of John Pierpoint Morgan, in correspondence with the Governor in 1861. It was accepted by him, and a "Dear Cousin" correspondence ensued. For details see Ambler, "Governor Francis Harrison Pierpoint" (Chapel Hill, 1937). According to John C. Bayles in his "Pierpont-Avery Community", typed copy of which is in the West Virginia University Library in Morgantown, John was born of New England stock in 1724. This would make him 45 when he settled at the Forks of Cheat, 50 when he married the 18 year old daughter of a man younger than himself, and 66 when his seventh and last child was born. Other accounts give birth dates as early as 1715, and specific parentage which is demonstrably wrong.

2. John was the son of Francis and Sarah (Richardson) Pierpoint of Loudoun County, Virginia, and great grandson of the Henry Peirpoint who was in Annapolis, Maryland in 1665. This family was mostly Quaker. John is supposed to be the brother of Obediah, although there is no contemporary evidence that Obediah had a brother John, and to have been born in 1738, making him 36 at the time of his marriage. This version is presented by Ambler as "more probable" than the first one. It was accepted by the National Pierpont Association in Maryland and Virginia, and presented as fact in their booklet issued in 1938. It turns on a supposed marriage of the Henry Pierpoyn who immigrated to Virginia in 1635 and the Elizabeth Larkin who came there that same year, the occurrence of the name Larkin Pierpoint in Maryland in the 1700s, and the fact that John of Monongalia County named his oldest son Larkin. It will be demonstrated in the next paragraph that there is no known relationship between Larkin Peirpoint in Maryland and Obedian and his father Francis, and that he came by the name Larkin in a different way.

3. In Ann Arundel County, Maryland, in 1703 a John Peirpoint married Mahitabel, the widow of Otho Holland and the daughter of John Larkin, who this John Peirpoint was, or what became of him, we do not know. Only three references to him have been found. In the records of All Hallows (Episcopal) Church in Ann Arundel County, indexed manuscript copy of which is available in the Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore, John Peirpoint was baptized (as an adult, since no parents or sponsors are given) on Aug. 29, 1703. Larkin, son of Jno. and Mehetable Peirpoint, born Feb. 12, 1703 (1704 new style), was baptized March 26, 1704. In "Provincial Court Judgments", original court records in the Hall of Records in Annapolis, vol. PL (1709-10), p. 19, John Pairpoint and wife were in a lawsuit with Walter Campbell. Unfortunately the writing is indecipherable. These are all the records of this John which have been found. He was probably descended from either the Henry Perpoynt who came to Virginia in 1635 or the William Pearepoint who came to Virginia in 1643. There was a widow Mary Parepointe buried at All Hallows Jan. 4, 1698 (1699 new style).

Mahitabel appears in the records many times. She had six children by Otho Holland between 1685 and his death in 1701, the first three born in John Larkin's house, according to the All Hallows records. She bought and sold land, had lawsuits, was a witness at other people's lawsuits, was mentioned as a gossip, and even obtained a special Act of Assembly to get her rights in a land dispute. After her second marriage her name was variously spelt, most frequently Parepoint.

John Larkin, her father, was in Maryland from 1650, and was buried at All Hallows Feb. 4, 1702 (1703 new style) "aged 88 years at his death and upwards". He was an innkeeper and a large land holder, and his daughters married well. When the Courthouse burned in 1692 the Government met in his house for a period.

Larkin Peirpoint Sr., born Feb. 12, 1704, moved to Prince Georges County, Maryland, with his mother and half brother James Holland, where on July 11, 1719 they bought land. On Nov. 18, 1725 he married, at St. Barnabas (Episcopal) Church in Prince Georges County, Charity Duckett, daughter of Richard Duckett, and on Sept. 24, 1726 their son, Larkin Jr., was born. An indexed manuscript copy of the records of this church are also on file at the Maryland Historical Society. Apparently Charity died, for in 1730 Larkin and Sarah Simmons were married at St. Barnabas by Rev. James Magil, and on Aug. 3, 1732 they had a son Jonathan. What other children he may have had by each marriage is not known, but in 1755 David died and left his estate to his father Larkin.

Larkin Peirpoint Sr. appears in the Prince Georges County records several times, as a taxpayer and property holder, in succeeding years. In 1746 he obtained two original grants of land in what is now Montgomery County, but which was part of Frederick County, Maryland when it was organized as a county in 1748. He was a taxpayer in Frederick County from 1753 to 1766. In 1760 he obtained another original grant of land in what is now Washington County but was then Frederick, which he sold in 1761 to the same man to whom he had the previous year sold the adjacent land he had inherited from his son David. These various land grants were each on the frontier when granted.

Larkin Jr., born Sept. 24, 1726, appears on the frontier in Augusta County, Virginia, in 1758, as Larkin Pearpoint. Hening’s "Statutes at Large", vol. 7, pp. 181 and 134, show that the Virginia Legislature authorized payments to him of 4 shillings and 16 shillings for his service in the militia. This was at the time of the last big French-inspired Indian uprising, when the British were finally driving the French from Eastern America. It was in 1758 that the British took Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, from the French, and the following year that they took Quebec. Confirmation of the British title by the Treaty of Paris in 1763 opened the way to westward migration over the mountains.

At that time Augusta County, Virginia, which today is the area immediately around Staunton in the Shenandoah Valley, took in most of present western Virginia, most of present West Virginia, and southwestern Pennsylvania. When John Peirpoint settled at the Forks of Cheat in 1769, that area was in Augusta County, and remained so until Monongalia County was split off from it in 1776.

To the writer, the probability that the John Peirpoint (as his name is spelled in the earliest record of him west of the mountains, and as the name is still pronounced there) who settled at the Forks of Cheat was the son of Larkin Jr. is so great that no other assumption is tenable. If so, he was probably born in Augusta County about 1748-50, but neither this, nor any other, line of descent is proved.
Still another John Pierpoint appears in New Jersey briefly in 1715, but where he ties in to any of the Pierpoint families is unknown.

How the Virginia immigrants were related to the Pierpoint family in the English nobility is also not known. Younger sons of nobles in England became commoners, and whether the immigrants were direct descendants of the nobles, and, if so, how many intervening generations of commoners there were in this particular line, will probably never be known. In the present Greater London telephone book there are eighteen Pierpoints, one Pairpoint, no Pierponts, and three Pierreponts, including Lady Alice.

ANCESTRY - MORGAN

Zackquill Morgan, (50), son of Morgan and Catherine (Gerretson) Morgan, was born in what is now Berkeley County, W. Va., prior to 1737, probably in 1735. He and his brother David, according to tradition, served with the Virginia forces in Braddock's expedition in 1755 and Forbes expedition in 1758 which took Fort Duquesne (Pittsburgh) from the French. There is, however, no evidence available.

In 1761 he received from his father 1000 acres in Berkeley County which had been patented in Nov. 1735. He is supposed to have emigrated, with his brother David, to the Monongahela Valley in 1766, Zackquill stopping near what is now Morgantown and David continuing to what is now Fairmont, W. Va. If so, he was second only to Nicholas Decker, who came earlier the same year, as a permanent settler in the Morgantown area. He evidently returned part way east, as he was in Bedford County, Pennsylvania in 1771, when he sold his farm at Great Meadows on Aug. 28. He probably returned then to the Morgantown area.

Monongalia County, Va., was split off from the District of West Augusta in 1776 by an Act of the Virginia Legislature, of which Patrick Henry was the presiding officer, on Nov. 8. At that time both Virginia and Pennsylvania claimed what is now Western Pennsylvania, and the new county included a considerable area now in Pennsylvania. Zackquill was appointed County Lieutenant, and Colonel in the Militia, by the Virginia Government. In 1779 Virginia and Pennsylvania agreed to the extension of the Mason Dixon line, which had been surveyed to separate Maryland and Pennsylvania, and on a western boundary for Pennsylvania, and the jurisdiction of Monongalia County was accordingly diminished.

When the lines were surveyed in 1782 the established county seat was found to be in Pennsylvania. In May, 1783 the Virginia Legislature authorized the County Courts to meet at the house of Zackquill Morgan. At that time he was licensed to keep an "ordinary", which was a tavern or hotel. His first title to land at Morgantown was in 1781, but was probably the land he had occupied since 1772. In 1783 he had surveyed, and in 1784 sold lots in, a town which, as Morgan's Town, became the county seat.

On Sept. 25, 1784 he was summoned by George Washington, who was stopping at Peirpoint's house, about 4 miles away, where the surveyor, Captain Samuel Hanvey, had his office, and gave him information regarding three routes west from the Potomac.

He later moved to a house on Front Street in the town, and died there in 1795. He was buried within sight of Prickett's Fort and within a mile of his brother David's house (near Fairmont). An inventory of his estate was made on Dec. 6, 1795 by James Dunn, Morgan Morgan, and Richard Merrifield, and his personal property was valued at $41 19s 3d, which was small by comparison with the estates of his contemporaries. His widow bid in his estate in 1796. He married, first; NANCY PAXTON, (51), by whom he had three children:

NANCY ANN, b. 1756, m. John Peirpoint 1774

Temperance, m. James Cochran.

Catherine, m. Jacob Scott.

He married second Drusilla Springer, by whom he had 11 children, whose names are given in the Report mentioned below.

MORGAN MORGAN (100)

In 1923 the West Virginia Legislature appropriated $5000 to erect a monument to Morgan Morgan, the first settler in what is now West Virginia. Gov. Morgan, a sixth generation descendant, appointed the Col. Morgan Morgan Monument Commission, which issued a Report in 1924, limited to 900 copies, of which copy 501 is in the Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh. The report has photographs of the original land grant in 1735, signed
Lt. Gov. Wm. Gooch of the Colony of Virginia, of the Monument and of the original grave marker of Morgan and Catherine Morgan as well as other photographs. The following information comes from the Report:

Col. MORGAN MORGAN, b. Nov. 1, 1688, d. Nov. 17, 1766, was born in Wales, educated in London (probably apprenticed to a tailor there), and came with 11 others to Christiana, Delaware in 1713, where in 1714 he married CATHERINE GARRETSON, (whom see). He was a merchant tailor in New Castle, Delaware and was coroner there four successive years, 1726-1729. About 1726 he bought land in the wilderness, and started establishing himself at what is now Bunker Hill, Berkeley County, West Virginia, but which was then in Orange County, Virginia, which embraced all of present W. Va. as well as much of the western part of present Virginia. In 1734 he was a member of the County Court of Orange County. In 1735 he received from the Colony of Virginia a land grant to the lands he already occupied. The original, signed by Lt. Gov. Wm. Gooch, is still in existence.

In 1735 he also received his first military commission of Captain; in 1742 he became Major, and died Colonel. About 1740 he fostered establishment of the first church in what is now West Virginia, Morgan Chapel. In 1738 the Virginia House of Burgesses divided Orange County into three counties, Orange, Frederick and Augusta. It required 20 educated men (i.e., men who could read and write) to establish a County government, and there were not that many in Frederick County until 1743, when the first Court met in Winchester. At this Court Colonel Morgan Morgan headed the list of Justices.

Children of Morgan Morgan and Catherine (Garretson) Morgan:

2 Anne
3 David
4 Charles
5 Henry
6 Evan
7 ZACKQUILL
8 Morgan Jr.

CATHERINE GARRETSON (101), b. 6-5-1692, m. Morgan Morgan 1714, d. 5-16-1773, buried at Bunker Hill, W. Va. Nothing definite about Catherine Garretson's ancestry is known. Her father, and perhaps her grandfather, were in what is now Delaware while it was under Dutch or New York rule.

After unsuccessful attempts, the first permanent settlement in Delaware was made in 1638 by the New Sweden Company, organized in 1637 under a Charter from the King of Sweden. The first group of colonists consisted of 23 men, Swedish and Finnish, under Peter Minuit, a German of Dutch descent, who had been, from 1626 to 1631, Director General of New Amsterdam (New York), settled in 1624. Seven additional Swedish expeditions arrived in the next ten years, but between returns and deaths, the colony in 1648 had only 79 men, of whom only 28 were farmers.

In 1651 Peter Stuyvesant of New Amsterdam sent 11 ships, and 120 soldiers overland, to establish a Dutch fort there. In 1654 more Swedes arrived, and in 1655 Stuyvesant sent 7 ships and 300 soldiers, and took over New Sweden as a colony of New Amsterdam. In 1659 there were only 30 families there.

Dutch colonization between 1659 and 1663 brought the population to 700, mostly farmers, with 110 good farms. In 1664 the English took over all Dutch possessions in New York and Delaware, and except for a brief interval in 1673-4 when the Dutch retook them, held them. From 1674 to 1682 Edmond Andros was Governor for the Duke of York and governed Delaware from New York. In 1682 Delaware was transferred to William Penn, and treated as part of Pennsylvania until 1691, when it obtained a separate government, but with the Governor of Pennsylvania at its head. This arrangement continued until 1767. In 1684 the population of Delaware was 4000.

The Dutch colonists did not use family names. Gerrit was a common given name, and Gerrit's son Hendrick would be known as Hendrick Gerritse. When the English took over, these names, anglicized, became "family" names. In the early English records in Delaware, we find various spellings, including Gerritson, Garretson, Gerritz, Garritz, Gerritze, Gerritzon, and Gerritsen, all of which probably became Garretson, and the given names, Hendrick, Henry, Jacob, Marten, Poull, Paul and John.

Catherine was probably daughter of Henry, abstract of whose will appears in "Calendar of Delaware Wills, New Castle County, 1682-1800", sponsored by the Colonial Dames and published by Frederick H. Hitchcock in New York in 1911, p 25, as follows:

"Henry Garrason, Yoeman, Christiana Hundred, will made Oct. 24, 1721, probated 9-18-1721 (Old Style, November), (Book) C, (page or number) 315. Sons, John Garrason, Garritt Garrason, Henry Garrason, Peter Garrason, wife Ann, three daughters Catherine, Ann & Elizabeth; brother Powell Garrason, Executors, wife Ann, son John."

JAMES DUNN, (26), a Revolutionary soldier in Captain Stevenson's Company, Augusta County, Virginia, Militia, was in Monongalia County, Virginia, as early as 1732, according to a State Census taken there. This shows six people in his household. In 1785 he appears on the tax list there. He m. not later than 1782 SARAH REED (see below). According to one source, he came from Fauquier County, Virginia. On Dec. 6, 1795, he was one of the appraisers of Zackquill Morgan's estate. In 1799 (perhaps earlier) he built a home near where the Tyrone Methodist Protestant Church now (1940) stands, south of Whites Run. In the earliest record of an election, April 13, 1803, when voting was limited to those holding 50 acres of unimproved land, or 25 acres of land on which there was a house not less than 12 by 12 feet, he was on the voting roll in the district where the Peirpoints lived, about five miles east of Morgantown. He died between 1809 and 1815, and is buried in the Old Dunn graveyard on the road to Cheatview, Union District, Monongalia County, (West) Virginia.

SARAH REED, (27), dau. John and Mary (Hutcheson) Reed, m. James Dunn not later than 1782. After her husband's death, she m. 2nd, 3-30-1818, John Baker, who was a Revolutionary soldier. Larkin Peirpoint was Surety on the Marriage Bond. The time and place of her death, and her place of burial, have not been determined.

Children of James and Sarah (Reed) Dunn:

Mary, b. 7-10-1783, m. 1800 Owen Harker (1775-1853), d. 2-27-1871.

ANCESTRY - REED, HUTCHESON

JOHN REED, (54), b. 1735, was a private in the 4th Virginia Regiment in the Revolutionary War. He m. MARY HUTCHESON (see below), but when or where is unknown. He came to Monongalia County, Virginia about 1783 and settled near Peirpoint Church, Union District. He was on the voters' list in April, 1803 (see James Dunn for qualifications). He d. in 1819, and his will, dated June 20, 1801, was probated in the March Term in 1819. It left all his estate to his son William, subject to legacies of £10 or $33 1/3 each to son Joseph, dau. Sarah Dunn, son James, dau. Martha Vandervort, and $66 2/3 to son John Jr. Both John and Mary were buried in the old Peirpoint Cemetery in Union District, and were moved in the 1930's to Oak Grove Cemetery, Morgantown, where a government Revolutionary Marker was placed.

MARY HUTCHESON, (55), b. 1734, m. John Reed, d. 1796.
Children (Place and order of birth unknown):

Joseph ( - 1816) m. Elizabeth Chandler, had 10 children and moved to Ohio.

William (1769-1846) m. Mary Evason (1773-1848).
John Jr., m. 1805 Nancy or Ann Frum, dau. Wm. Frum.
Martha, m. Nicholas Vandervort.

SARAH (27) m. JAMES DUNN (26) (whom see).

Note: It appears improbable that the James who m. 1821 was same generation as Sarah who m. 1782, or Joseph who had 10 children before he d. 1816. Also, since John Reed's dau. Sarah m. James Dunn not later than 1782, he may have come earlier than 1788, or he and James Dunn may have come from the same place further East.

ANCESTRY - SMELL

JACOB SMELL, (14), b. 1782 in Haycock Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, first appears when he m. 3-14-1802 MARY MAY in Monongalia County, Virginia. On 8-13-1815 he was surety on the Marriage Bond of his sister-in-law, Elizabeth May, when she m. Lewis Williams, and on 12-31-1818 he was surety when his sister, Elizabeth Smell, m. Henry Shaw. He is mentioned in his father's will in 1835, when he was left the family farm. Court records show the settlement of his estate in 1848. He d. 3-7-1847, aged 65, and is buried in Fairview Cemetery, about 3 miles south of Morgantown on the east side of the Monongahela River, on Route 119.

MARY MAY, (15), dau. George May, was m. 3-14-1802 by Rev. Robert Manley to Jacob Smell. Aside from the fact that she was called Polly, all that the writer knows of her comes from Willa Brand, who has a picture of her, and who wrote on Nov. 10, 1952:

"I know just a little about her from my mother and aunts. She was a very small woman. She was very pious, and was adored by her grandchildren. Many years ago I saw the log house in which she lived. I am sure it is gone now. It was four or five miles from here (Morgantown)."

PHILIP SMELL (28) was born 4-24-1758 in Haycock Township,
Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and was christened at Trinity (German) Lutheran Church, Pleasant Valley, Springfield
Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania 5-7-1758 Johann
Philip Schmol, his parents being Michael and Margretie
Schmol and his sponsors Philip Reiser and Catherine Kilier.
Michael and Margretie had had a son b. 12-1-1756 christened Michael, but apparently he died young, as Philip had a younger brother Michael and another younger brother George. Philip and Michael served in the Haycock Township Militia during the revolution, paying fines for non-attendance at drill in 1779. In 1834, after successive liberalizations of the Federal pension laws made this type of service adequate for a pension, Philip, then aged 76, was granted 420 per year.
The text on this page is not visible due to the image quality. Please provide a readable version of the page for further analysis.
Philip appears in the tax lists in Haycock Township from 1781 to 1787, with one horse and 2 or 3 cows, but no land. He does not appear in the 1790 Census, although his father and brothers do. In the administration of his father's estate by Orphan's Court, he having died intestate, Philip as oldest son on 2-1-1796 petitioned that his father's land be awarded to his brother Michael, which was done. Philip was in Monongalia County, Virginia not later than 1802, when his son Jacob married there.

Philip's wife's name is given as Elizabeth in the Trinity Church records of the births and baptisms of son John Philip and daughter Catherine. Otherwise nothing is known of her. Philip's will shows that she survived him, made 3-16-1835 and witnessed by Evan Morgan, Thomas Cox and John J. Pierpoint, it leaves his farm to his son Jacob, provided he keeps his mother in comfort and pays within 3 years $40 to each of his three brothers. The stock and household furniture he leaves, after the death of his wife, to be divided between his daughters. He d. in March or April, 1835, his will being probated in the April Term that year. He is buried in Fairview Cemetery, about three miles south of Morgantown on the east side of the Monongahela River, on Route 119. There is no grave marker.

Children of Philip and Elizabeth ( ) Smell (order of birth unknown, all or most born in Haycock Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania):

JACOB (14) m. 3-14-1802 MARY MAY (15) (see above).

Michael, m. 3-1-1809, Catherine Ralphsnider, dau. John Ralphsnider.

Philip, b. 10-7-1783, )Only data is that they bapt. John Philip 10-26-1783) served in Capt. Wilson's Peter )Company in War of 1812, See account of Larkin Pierpoint for others serving in this company.

Catherine, b. 8-31-1785, bapt. Elizabeth Catherine 9-18-1785, m. 1st 6-20-1812 Frederick Snider; m. 2nd 9-25-1816 Jonathan Spurgeon.

Mary m. Gull.

MICHAEL SCHMIDEL, (56) was probably born in Cassel, Germany, and accompanied his father to this country as a boy, arriving in Philadelphia 9-3-1739 on the "Loyal Judith", Capt. Paynter, from Rotterdam via Deal. His first appearance in the Trinity (German) Lutheran Church, Pleasant Valley, Springfield Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania records is when he took Holy Communion on the Fifth Sunday after Trinity in 1755. He was thereafter a regular communicant in this church for many years. He m. 7-6-1755 at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, "The Blue Church", In Upper Saucon Township, Lehigh County, Pa., Maria (given elsewhere as Anna Margrethe) Kiliers. In 1772 he witnessed the will of George Emig. He appears in the tax list for Haycock Township, Bucks County, Pa. from 1779-1787 as possessing 199 acres of land, 3-4 horses and 6-8 cattle. He is in the 1790 Census as having 4 females in his household. He probably died in 1795, as his estate was being administered in Feb., 1796 (see under Philip above).

MARGRETHE KILIERS (57). Her name is given in various places as Maria, Anna Margaret, Anna Margrethe, and Margrethe. The last is how she appears in the Trinity Church record at the baptism of her children. Aside from her name and time and place of her marriage (given above under Michael) no information has been found.
Children of Michael and Margrethe (Kiliers) Schmel:

Michael, b. 12-1-1756, bapt. 1-30-1757, apparently died young.

Johann Philip, b. 4-24-1758, bapt. 5-7-1758 (see Philip Smell above)

Michael, b. about 1760, served with his brother Philip in the militia in 1776, was taxed as a single man in 1785, taxed 1786, m. Elizabeth Wireback. He appears in the 1790 Census with three females in his household. He received his father's land in 1795. His wife was one of her father's, Isaac Wireback's of Springfield Township, Bucks County, Pa., heirs in 1805. Michael sold 74 acres of the land he inherited from his father, to John Sims Jr. in 1816.

Children:

- Anna Margaret, b. 10-26-1786
- Catherine, b. 10-27-1789
- Elizabeth, b. 4-21-1791
- John Michael, b. 2-24-1795, m. Susanna, who was born 6-18-1798 and d. 9-13-1867, he d. 1-27-1867.

John George, b. 4-29-1763, bapt. 5-15-1763, paid taxes as a single man 1785-87, m. Elizabeth Biersen, dau. Philip Biersen (b. EARLY SCHMELS

The only likely progenitors of the Schmel family given in Strassburger & Hinke’s "Early German Pioneers", which covers the same records of landings in Philadelphia during the middle half of the 18th Century as Rupp’s "30,000 Names" and Pennsylvania Archives, 2nd Series, vols. 17 & 18, were:

MICHAEL SCHMOHL or SMEAL, who arrived Aug. 27, 1739 on the "Samuel", Hugh Percy, Commander, from Rotterdam via Deal.

Michael (1705-1776) was 34 on arrival. He is known to have settled in Heidelberg Township, Berks County, Pa., where he was on the first tax list in 1754, and on successive tax lists until his death in 1776. The administration of his estate shows that his only child was Elizabeth, who m. Thomas Bassler. His widow's name is there given as Magdalena, and she may have gone to Bucks County to live with her nephew, if Michael and Nicholas and John Adam were brothers, and may be the Magdalena who shows as a communicant at Trinity, and who is listed above as Michael Schmel's daughter. But if Elizabeth was Michael Schmohl's only child, he left no sons to carry on the name.

A typed volume in Berks County Historical Society, Reading, Pa., "Advertisements in German Newspapers Published in Philadelphia and Germantown, 1743-1800", shows that on June 16, 1750, the following appeared in Sowers Newspaper:

"Anna Elizabeth, widow of Lorenz Loch, from Braunholder, Zweibrucken, arrived in this country last autumn and lives at North Wales (Gwymedd, Montgomery County, Pa.) with Nicolaus Schmell. She seeks her brother, Johann Adam Schmell, from Cassel, who has been in America fourteen years".

The response, in the same paper on Nov. 1, 1750, was:

"Adam Schmell, Falckner Swamp (Montgomery County, Pa.)"

Shortly thereafter, in a comparatively small area, four families of variant spellings of Schmell appear. It seems probable that their heads were sons, minors at the immigration, of Nicholas and/or John Adam. Besides Michael in Haycock Township, Bucks County, they were:

ADAM SMEHL (Schmael, Smel, Smell, and in the 1754 tax list Schurel) of Ruscomo Manor Township, Berks County, who m. Vayte, and appears to have been father of Adam Jr., Conrad, John and Nicholas.

PETER SMEAL (Schmail, Smeall, Smeal, Shmehl, and in the 1790 Census Snaile) in Upper Saucon Township, Northampton (now Lehigh) County and later in Chestnuthill Township, Northampton (now Monroe) County. He appears once, as Peter Schmeel with wife Elizabeth, at the christening of their son John Jacob 6-26-1774, in the Trinity Church records cited above. Otherwise, known children were Jost, Yoste or Joseph, and Peter Jr.

PHILIP SMEEL, who appears but once, on the 1754 tax list for Berks County, as of "Blue Mountains on Swatarro", now Pine Grove Township, Schuylkill County. A Philip with wife Magdalena and children Michael, George and Andreas, appears considerably later, briefly, as a communicant at Trinity Church.
It may possibly be the same one, and the Magdalena listed as Michael's daughter and elsewhere mentioned as possibly widow of Michael Schmohl, might alternatively be his wife.

In tracing the Smell ancestry here given, the writer collected considerable, but by no means exhaustive, information on the above families. It has no place in this work, but may possibly be made available later, particularly if more information comes to light.

ANCESTRY-MAY

GEORGE MAY, (30). Records of Mays in Monongalia County before 1823 are as follows:

MARY (15) m. 3-14-1802 Jacob Smell.

William, m. 4-15-1807 Mary Van Gilder, dau Jacob Van Gilder. His dau. Sophia m. Nov. 3, 1848 Joseph Trickett. James May was surety.

Joannah, dau. George May, m. 9-28-1809 Michael Trickett, William May, surety. Their dau., Mary Trickett, m. 6-1-1829 Eli Moreland, (Michael Trickett, father and surety)

Elizabeth, dau. George May, m. 8-13-1815 Lewis Williams. Jacob Smell, surety on Marriage Bond.

Sophia, dau. George May (deceased) m. 3-7-1823 George Armsworthy.

William and Henry May served in Captain Wilson's Company in the War of 1812 (see Larkin Peirpoint).

Assuming that there was only one May family in Monongalia County, Virginia at that time, (which is probable but not proved), the above eight children were those of George and Ann May. It is clear that George died between 1815 and 1823. Otherwise, nothing certain is known.
According to Willa Brand, her grandmother Sally Smell Pierpoint often told her that her grandmother May came on one of the ships whose tea was dumped in the Boston Tea Party. This would indicate a New England background. There are two May Genealogies covering Mays stemming from an immigration to Massachusetts in 1640. These were published in 1878 and 1887. In this family George (and Lucy) were frequently recurring names. After the Revolution migrations westward from New England were extensive. It is quite possible that George will eventually be tied into this family, but so far this has not been done.
Charles Carrington Jones was b. 2-2-1860 at Parkersburg, W. Va., attended school there and went to Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, for one year, 1885-6, taking the scientific course. He worked for the U. S. Treasury Department in Washington, D. C. from 1888-1898, where he lived with his mother's sister, Lilla (Mrs. Nicholas) Madeira, who kept a boarding house there. During this period his sister Edith lived with him for a year while attending high school in Washington, and he then helped her financially during the year and a half she attended Vassar College. During this period also he was a bicycle enthusiast, indulging in the then-popular cross-country bicycle riding.

He resigned from the Treasury Dept. in 1898, and worked for a year for the Columbia Phonograph Company, in New York City and in Bridgeport, Conn., after which he became treasurer of the Charles A. Stickney Company, St. Paul, Minn., which was then newly formed by his brother-in-law. He remained there until the company was liquidated in 1914.

He m. 6-17-1902 at St. Paul, Minn., Jane Virtue (see below). During World War I he worked first as lumber inspector at Camp Funston, Kansas and later as Purchasing Agent for American Brake Show & Fdy. Co., Erie, Pa. It was during this period that Jane died, and three of his children lived for a winter with their Aunt Edith, in Chattanooga, Tenn., until he could establish a home for them.

In a letter written in 1951 he stated that the only time he was ever out of work was 10 days in Nov., 1918, immediately following the Armistice ending the war, when all war contracts were cancelled. He then went with the Erie Office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, where he remained until he was involuntarily retired on a pension in 1933, as a "make work" depression move by the newly-installed Roosevelt administration.

In 1922 he married Anna Booth, a school teacher in Erie, Pa. After his retirement he established himself as a tax consultant in Erie, preparing tax returns for corporations there. He lived in Erie until Anna was killed in an automobile accident in 1941, after which he lived with his son Forsyth in Santa Barbara, Calif., returning to Erie for the first three months of each year to carry on his business. His years as a tax consultant were the most prosperous of his life. He continued to return to Erie each year until 1948, when, at the age of 82, he retired. His hair remained black, his carriage erect, his face young and his mind active until he was in his 80's, and up to the last he seemed many years younger than he was. He died, after a few days illness, 3-22-1952, surrounded by his family, at Santa Barbara, Calif. His ashes are interred in Santa Barbara Cemetery, Sec. 7, Row 18, Room 3, Group "E", Santa Barbara, Calif.

JANE VIRTUE, b. 1-31-1875, at Cleveland, Minn., was dau.
George J. and Jane (Forsythe) Virtue. She graduated from Central High School, St. Paul, in 1893 and attended Normal School. She taught school at St. Paul from 1895 to 1902, when she married Charles C. Jones at 1st Presbyterian Church, St. Paul, Minn., on 6-17-1902. From then on she was busy raising her family, until her death May 11, 1918 at St. Paul, Minn. She is buried in the cemetery at Cleveland, Minn. She attended the Christian Science Church.

Children of Charles and Jane (Virtue) Jones:

Philip Pierpont Jones,  b. 4-26-1903
Francis Forsyth Jones,  b. 3-31-1905
Juliet Virtue Jones,  b. 2-21-1907

FRANCIS\(^2\) FORSYTH JONES (Charles\(^1\)), b. 3-30-1905 at St. Paul, Minn., is known as Forsyth. He graduated from Academy High School, Erie, Pa. in 1923, and in 1924 moved to Alhambra, Calif., where he lived with his Aunt Effie Virtue (Mrs. Samuel) Kennedy and attended Occidental College for a year. In 1925 he went with Southern California Edison Co., with whom he has been ever since, except for two stints in the navy. On 8-19-1927 he m. at Mount Vernon, Washington, ROMAYN GILBERT (see below). They lived in Long Beach, Calif. until 1936 when they moved to Santa Barbara, Calif.

He went in the Navy in 1942, and studied radar at Navy schools in Chicago, at the Texas A. & M., and at Treasure Island in San Francisco Bay. He went to sea as Chief Petty Officer and radar technician thru the campaign in the western Pacific. He was released in 1945, and returned to Santa Barbara. He went back in the Navy in 1950 as an instructor in radar, and received a medical discharge early in 1952. He lives at 1399 Sycamore Canyon Road, Santa Barbara, Calif.

ROMAYN GILBERT, b. 10-12-1900, was the dau. of Harris Richel and Margaret (Grimes) Gilbert. She graduated from High School at Mount Vernon, Wash., and attended Bellingham Normal. She taught for five years in the state of Washington. On 6-19-1927 she m., at a home wedding in Mount Vernon, Washington, (Francis) Forsyth Jones.

Forsyth and Romayn have no children.

JULIET\(^2\) VIRTUE JONES (Charles\(^1\)) was b. 2-21-1907 at St. Paul, Minn. She graduated from Alhambra High School, Alhambra, Calif., in 1925, having moved to Alhambra to live with her Aunt Effie Virtue (Mrs. Samuel) Kennedy in 1923. She attended Occidental College for 2 years. The following year she attended University of Washington, Seattle, Wash. one year, leaving on account of illness in her senior year. On 10-20-1932 she m., at Glendale, California, Bernard (Bing) Swanson, b. 1903 at Mitchell, S Dakota. They lived in Alhambra until 1937, when they were divorced.
She m. (2) on 7-17-1947 at Santa Maria, Calif., William R. V. Marriott, b. 8-4-1918 at Vancouver, B. C., son of W. R., and Clive (Alson) Marriott. C., for a year to prepare for Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., which she attended for 1½ years as a member of the Class of 1898. She was elected class poet. Her parents did not approve of college education for girls; and her older brother Charles paid her expenses. She m. 4-11-1898, at All Saints Unitarian Church, Washington, D. C. CHARLES ALPHEUS STICKNEY (see below). For the next thirty years, until her husband's death, she was busy as a housewife and mother. For some years thereafter she was housemother in girls' private schools, including St. Mary's (Episcopal) School in Peekskill, N. Y. and Western College, Oxford, Ohio. In the summer of 1933 she gratified a life-long desire to go abroad by joining her daughter Edith in Switzerland, where they spent the summer together. From 1937 on she lived in Monrovia and Pasadena, Calif., with visits every two or three years to her children and friends in the East.

She had diabetes from 1919 on, was one of the early users of insulin, and in 1951 was awarded a medal by Deaconess Hospital, Boston, Mass. for living longer with diabetes than her life expectancy without it at the time of diagnosis. During her last several years her sight failed badly, but she maintained her activities, interests and friendships on an undiminished scale, and was in active correspondence with over 100 friends and relatives at the time of her death. She died suddenly of a heart attack on 12-23-1951. Her ashes are buried beside her husband's, under a common headstone, in Oakland Cemetery, St. Paul, Minn.

CHARLES ALPHEUS STICKNEY, b. 10-11-1876, at St. Paul, Minn., was the son of Alpheus Beede and Kate (Hall) Stickney. He attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology, then located in Boston, Mass., for a single term. He m. 4-11-1898 Edith Pierpont Jones. From 1899 to 1914 he manufactured gasoline farm engines of his own design, on which he held many patents, in St. Paul, Minn. This business went into liquidation in 1914 because of over-extension of long-term installment credit, eventually paying off in full. From 1914 to 1916 he lived in Chicago, developing inventions.

In 1916 he moved to Chattanooga, Tenn., as partner and manager of a mailing machinery business, which was sold in 1918. In 1913 he developed the Ernest Holmes wrecking truck for the army, which was extensively used by the armed forces in World War II. From 1919 until his death he was various businesses and promotions, with periods as a designer of special machinery, and lived in many localities. As a designer of machinery he approached genius, but as a business man he was never very successful. He died in Rockford, Ill. 5-16-1928, and his ashes are buried in Oakland Cemetery, St. Paul, Minn.
