FOREWORD

I have spent a part of many years, preparing this book of genealogies of many of the pioneer settlers of this beautiful plateau of the Blue Ridge Mountains, and I earnestly hope the numerous families will become interested in their ancestry and that this will be an inspiration to the young minds, to press forward and emulate the good qualities of their ancestors.

They were human and had their weak points, but they were physically, mentally and socially equipped to absorb knowledge and grasp new ideas, in a new country. They prepared the way through the virgin forest, for you, now you are standing upon cleared ground. It would be well to pause here and get an understanding of your footing.

Maintain your level, if you do not elevate yourself and those who may follow in your footsteps. Men who deal in fine stock are very particular to know the pedigree of their animals, yet when questioned about their forefathers, they frankly admit they know little or nothing of them.

I trust that some one, in after years, will prepare a supplement to this book beginning where I close and the lineage of our families will be preserved through the coming generations. I have found much to admire about our early settlers. They came here "to-do-or-die" whether in peace or war; their wives were always ready to perform their duties; if they did not handle the spindle themselves, they directed the work and provided for their household.

I have studied the lives of these men and women who have long since passed away. I have stood before many of their portraits and meditated over their intelligent appearing foreheads, broad shoulders and erect bearing of the masculine line then the lovely ladies, their purity of character, their symmetrical forms, their complexion, I knew was as lovely as the sun-kissed petals of the perfumed rose. These pictures of purity, grace and beauty how they thrill one's heart!

Looking forward what will the pictures you will have hung on the walls reveal, since tobaccos and intoxicants are indulged in by the "sweet young things" at the close of the twentieth century?

To those who have kindly assisted in this work, I feel very grateful. While I am desirous of giving complete families in all the generations, I find it would be almost an endless task.

I have given the pioneer settlers and families and feel I have labored sufficiently.

CHAPTER I THE SHELOR FAMILY

The Shelor family is of German descent. Lawrence Shelor immigrated to America from Germany, between the years 1740 and 1750 and settled in Pennsylvania. The first iron plow made in this country was made by a Shelor, we suppose this was made by Lawrence or one of his sons. It is said to be on exhibition in the museum in Philadelphia. In a cemetery near the city of Philadelphia many Shelors are buried. A romantic story is told about this first iron plow which runs as follows: In one of the small countries of Germany where only the grape vine was cultivated, a youth fell in love with a lovely maiden and his love was reciprocated, but, it seemed, they were forever destined to live apart, as the soil had refused to produce the vine and what could the young man have to offer but want and starvation?

One day he read of the invention of the iron plow in America, that the soil could be turned and seed crops grown, so he hastened to break the news to his sweetheart and she yielded to his wishes to go to America and learn to use the plow and promised to wait for his return.

Reluctantly, she bade him goodbye and many were the long hours even months, she awaited his return, while her young associates teased and advised her to give up her watchful waiting and wed another.
Section 1

Introduction

This section introduces the key concepts and background information necessary for understanding the subsequent parts of the document. It sets the stage for the detailed analysis and discussion that follows.

1.1 Background

The historical and social context in which the primary events or phenomena occurred is discussed. This provides a framework for interpreting the data and understanding its significance.

1.2 Methodology

The methods used in the research or analysis are explained in detail. This includes the data collection techniques, analytical tools, and any other methodologies employed.

1.3 Objectives

The specific goals of the study or project are outlined. These objectives guide the direction of the research and set the expectations for what will be achieved.

Section 2

Theoretical Framework

This section provides a comprehensive overview of the theoretical concepts and models that underpin the study. It explains how these theories are relevant to the research questions and methods.

2.1 Theory A

A detailed exploration of Theory A, including its key components and implications. This section discusses how Theory A is applied in the context of the research.

2.2 Theory B

An in-depth examination of Theory B, highlighting its significance and relevance. This section illustrates how Theory B complements the broader theoretical framework.

Section 3

Empirical Analysis

This section presents the empirical findings based on the data collected and analyzed. It includes statistical tests, case studies, and other quantitative or qualitative analyses.

3.1 Data Description

A description of the data used in the study, including its sources, sample characteristics, and key variables. This section ensures transparency and reproducibility.

3.2 Results

The results of the analysis are presented, with a focus on identifying patterns, trends, and relationships. Graphs, tables, and other visual aids are used to enhance understanding.

3.3 Discussion

The implications of the findings are discussed, along with considerations for future research. This section provides context and further insights into the significance of the results.

Section 4

Conclusion

The conclusions drawn from the research are summarized, highlighting the key findings and their implications. This section also addresses any limitations and suggests areas for future investigation.

4.1 Summary

A concise summary of the main points and findings of the study. This section serves as a recapitulation of the research objectives and outcomes.

4.2 Implications

The practical and theoretical implications of the research are explored, emphasizing potential applications and contributions to the field.

4.3 Recommendations

Based on the findings and conclusions, recommendations are made for further research, policy changes, or other areas of action.
The day finally came which brought the maiden's lover back home bearing his iron plow and the young couple were married and began using the implement to the delight and amazement of others who also prospered by this invention.

We find in Dr. Callahil M. Stigleman's genealogy of the Shelor's that Lawrence Shelor left Germany, with his wife and one child, a son named Lawrence, Jr. His wife died crossing the ocean and was buried at sea.

Eventually, Lawrence Shelor married an American lady by whom he had five children, two sons and three daughters, all of whom moved to Virginia, after the Revolutionary war, except his son Lawrence by the first wife, and his second daughter, who married a Mr. Delaplane.

The two sons of Lawrence Shelor who came to Virginia with him were Daniel and Jacob—the ancestors of this great throng of humanity. They were men of sterling worth to this new country. Daniel, (called Captain Daniel Shelor, after serving as Captain of the Revolution,) was our lineal descendant. Jacob Shelor married a Miss Ryland of Mecklenburg County, Va., and went south. Years passed and the descendants of Daniel and Jacob knew nothing of each other until about 1912, C. Shelor Wright, a descendant of Jacob, on his way to his office in New York City, came by our home and spent the night.

A deed from Capt. Daniel, shows that he and his wife sold their farm in Frederick County, Md., and came to Virginia and deeds of land in Virginia show that he was a large land holder. He enlisted for service in the Revolutionary war in the County of Frederick, Md., on the 22, day of January 1777, as a Lieutenant. He saw service for awhile in New Jersey, in the forces commanded by General Thomas Johnston and Colonel James Johnston, while later serving in Maryland he received his orders from Maj. ___ Bailey. His commission was signed by the Governor of Maryland. He is buried in the Pine Creek Cemetery, at the Pine Creek church, about two and one half miles from Floyd C. H., Va.

On his tombstone is written: "Daniel Shelor born 1750, departed this life February 13th, 1847, in the ninety-seventh year of his age."
It has been handed along down the line that the Shelors and Goodsons and Banks planned when they were fighting to gain our Independence that if they could not win the victory, they would go beyond the colonies and settle, determined not to live under a King.

Capt. Daniel Shelor, built and operated the first iron furnace, in Southwest Va. The old furnace place is about seven miles southwest of Floyd C. H. There were six hundred acres of land in the boundary around the furnace. Court records in Richmond show he owned a tract of land on Little River, of a thousand acres. He flourished at the furnace. The iron, being alloyed with copper, made almost unbreakable cooking vessels. These were sent to the cities for sale, when dealers would not buy the drivers would throw the vessels far and hard, and after such a demonstration of durability, the hardware merchants would purchase them.

The war of 1812, called by old settlers, the Norfolk war, broke out and again Capt. Daniel was called upon to defend his country. Again he marched away from his loved ones and left the furnace to cool down and the beaten paths around it to grow up. Like all business, so abandoned for months, his work, when he finally returned, was difficult, business was not good, repairs were necessary, labor was higher, and in the effort to reconstruct he lost financially.

Prior to the Civil War, Robert (Bob) Toncray, came to this Shelor furnace. He had the old furnace stack built by Alfred Moore. This is still standing and likely will stand until the judgment day. (Mr. Toncray, also, had the covered bridge built across Little River, just this side of the Aunt Jane Howard farm.) There are two locust posts now at the old furnace which were planted when Mr. Toncray was there, still in a good state of preservation. The result of the second attempt to operate the furnace, ended in complete failure. Mr. Toncray lost everything he had in the business and had nothing left to pay his expenses out of the County—when even his riding horse was sold from him, he walked away.

In 1900, a Company from New York City, purchased the old furnace mines, having as their Supt. a Mr. Stevens. A great deal of money was spent developing the mines and fine ore, copper and iron were found. For several years the business was boosted and many capitalist invested their money in the enterprise, but it was not a paying proposition, so far from a railroad, and their dreams of fabulous wealth vanished. Some of the Company lost everything they possessed and one of the men in New York City, committed suicide.

So, individuals like nations, reach their peak, then fall and are unable to endure the dark side of the picture.

John Shelor, a son of Captain Daniel Shelor, who is placed as the seventh child, on my chart, born 1791 died 1877, was one of the first settlers of Meadows of Dan, Patrick County, Va. He moved there with a four horse team drawing a heavy wagon and cut the underbrush before the team to reach his new home. He built the first grist mill; erected the first store house and opened the first U. S. P. O., and the present post office still bears the name of Meadows of Dan.

The four-horse wagon was regarded as a curiosity and he used it to haul groceries and dry goods from Richmond and Lynchburg, to supply the people of the community. He was justice of the peace for many years and before the Civil War the militia mustered on his farm.

His sister, Sallie Shelor, married Thomas Scott and she was the mother of Thomas Delaplane Scott, who was baptized into the fellowship of the Missionary Baptist church of Meadows of Dan the fourth Sunday in July 1855 and was licensed to preach in 1861, at a time when any deviation from the prevailing religion of the Primitive Baptist faith, was considered by the settlers as almost a crime.

He was ordained to the full work of the ministry Saturday before the fourth Sunday in Sept., 1874, he died in March 1910, at the age of eighty-four years.

A grandson of Capt. Daniel Shelor called "Billie," who was the son of Randolph Shelor, was a Missionary Baptist Minister at Meadows of Dan, also, while his brother James called "Jimmie" taught twenty-one terms of school in that section.

Judge Pyrrhus W. Shelor, Grandson of John Shelor, now in his eighty-fourth year, lived on Meadows of Dan until the year 1900, when he moved with his family, to Beech Grove, Ind. There were no public schools in his youth and writes that he never attended school a week in his life, yet, when the free school system was introduced, he was prepared to teach one of the first schools in Patrick Co. In the year 1877, he was admitted to the Bar to practice law in the courts of Va. He served as judge of the County Court of Patrick County, Va., for ten years and was licensed to practice in the state of Ind., which license he still holds. In 1911, he was elected Justice of the Peace of Beech Grove, Ind., and conducted the first Justice's Court held in that fast growing town.

Dr. Powell Benton Reynolds, Missionary Baptist Minister, whose birthplace was Meadows of Dan, was a grandson of John Shelor, he finally became the president of the University of W. Va. (Morgantown, W. Va.,) and his brother Tillman Reynolds, who enlisted in the Civil War service in his "teens" was said to have been a brilliant boy, especially talented in oratory and drawing.

A granddaughter, of John Shelor, Mrs. Emma Webb-Pratt, whose girlhood was spent in the settlement of her forefathers craved an education but it was then against the faith of many men to educate the daughters. She is to be commended for her ambition and industry and the fact that she had thirteen children, reared nine of them and acquired a good education, while her children acquired theirs. All of them received a High School education, and several are college graduates, holding lucrative positions in our cities. Others are wide awake farmers and farmerettes. All of this Mrs. Pratt accomplished, practically alone as her husband was afflicted with rheumatism and unable to help his family, as he wished.

Several families of the younger Shelors reside at the present time, on the beautiful plateau of Meadows of Dan.

To achieve the best results:

1. Sort clothes
2. Pre-treat stains
3. Steam press
4. Use the correct detergent
5. Follow the care label instructions

Remember:

- Woven fabrics require gentle washing
- Denim should be washed inside out
- Silk and chiffon need to be hand washed

Don't:

- Use hot water on delicate fabrics
- Overload the washing machine
- Use too much detergent
- Dry clothes in direct sunlight

Tips:

- Use a gentle cycle
- Use cold water on dark colors
- Avoid using fabric softeners on sensitive skin

Mrs. Emmazetta Harmon Dillion. 1 son Harmon, Elizabeth died young.

There were five sons of the Thomas Bonaparte Shelor, Sr., family, soldiers in the Civil War. The eldest, Captain Ballard Preston Shelor drilled his men at Floyd C.H. He came from the war to recuperate from illness and died within a few days.

James Floyd, William Marion, Ishma Barnard and Thomas Goodson, Jr., also wore the grey.

I have no record of these uncles. I have one of my father, William Marion Shelor, which I give below, Dr. Stigleman and three of the Shelor boys were in Stuart's Horse Artillery. Thomas G. Was under Mosby's command.
Our grandfather, Thomas Bonaparte Shelor, Sr. was well educated. It is said that he could write beautifully by placing a pen between his toes.

THE CIVIL WAR RECORD OF WM. MARION SHELOR

On the 13th day of March 1862, I left Floyd County, Va., under the command of Capt. John Thomas, and went to Richmond, Va., where I drilled one month under Capt. Thomas and Col. Jno. Williams.

I was then assigned to Capt. John Pelham, Stuart's Horse Artillery, Kemper's Brigade, Pilkett's Division.

1st. Lieut. James Breathed, Hagerstown, Md.

Capt. Pelham was soon promoted to Major, then James Breathed was promoted to Capt. under whom I served.

1st. Lieut. Preston Johnston.
2nd. Lieut. Bill Cosgrove.

Johnston was promoted to Major of Stuart's Horse Artillery and Daniel Shanks of St. Mary's County, Md., was made Capt. At the close of the war, James Wigfall, of Texas was our Lieutenant.

There were 150 Floyd men assigned to Capt. Pelham's command, and at the close of war there were 35 living; at this date, June 9th, 1900, there are eighteen.

When we went into service from Richmond, we went to Yorktown, Va., The first fight in which I was engaged was at Harrison's Landing, the next Williamsburg, Seven Pines, Fair Oaks, Cold Harbor, Gaines' Mill, at Malvern Hill I was gunman No. 4, and I fired the first gun that opened that terrible battle. I was at Drewry's Bluff, second Manasses, Boonesboro, and Sharpsburg, Md., besides eighty skirmishes.

I was with Gen. J. E. B. Stuart in two raids in Pa. and was in the battles of Gettysburg, Winchester and Chancellorsville, I saw Gen. Jackson after he was wounded and heard him talking to Gen. Stuart as he was being borne from the field. I came home one time on an eight day furlough, which was all the time I lost from the army of the four years war.
I returned home the 14th of April 1865, I was with Gen. Early, at Waynesboro, when his army was captured and almost annihilated, five comrades, including myself got away from the Yankees and made our way to Lynchburg, Va., I went into the supply shop to work for the government when I heard of Gen. Lee's surrender.

SOLDIERS OF THE WORLD WAR

Charles Luther Shelor, born Oct. 7, 1891, left Floyd, Va., Sept. 3rd, 1918, and went to the Engineering Camp A. A. Humphres, twenty-four miles from Washington, D.C., on the old Fairfax Farm. (The old brick house had collapsed and an old tree growing in the center of the debris which would make several hundred ft. of lumber.)

"I was in Company A. 7th Regiment, I was made sergeant after being in camp two and a half months, after being given this office, I was having creosote transferred from a freight car into a vat. I was standing looking downward, when a barrel of creosote was emptied into the vat, the fumes got into my eyes and almost blinded me. I was sent to Walter Reed Hospital and remained there ten days. Lieut. Goldman and Capt. Hubbard visited me at the hospital, expressed their regret that I met with the accident and said that I would have been promoted to Lieutenant within ten days, had I not had the trouble with my eyes.

After leaving the hospital I went to Camp Lee, Va., near Richmond, where I was honorably discharged, April 1st, 1919."

Charles Luther Sherlor, Floyd, Virginia

Olie Warren Shelor and Mason Floyd Shelor, brothers of Charles Luther, were eligible for soldiers. They made good grades as mechanics under the Civil Service Examination and were drafted into the Navy Yard, Washington, D.C., by the Federal Government. They drew only $1.92 and $2.00 per day, during the war as against other labor not subject to draft, which drew $10.00 and $18.00 per day. John Daniel Shelor, the twelfth child and the youngest of the eleven boys of George and Laura Jenkins-Shelor, born Oct. 30, 1904, (died Aug. 7, 1926) was dragging sills with a tractor, across the Susquehanna River in Maryland, when the great Conowingo Electric Power Dam was being constructed, the Fordson tractor suddenly hit a stump which caused the tractor to fly upward and it fell backward catching John between the tractor and lumber killing him instantly. His neck was broken but his face was not scared

WORLD WAR RECORD OF BREWSTER E. SHELOR

Brewster E. Shelor, sixth son of George W. and Laura Jenkins-Shelor, was born near Floyd C. H. Va., April 18, 1894. He spent the first twenty-one years of his life in his parents home. At the age of twenty-one he went to western Kansas, where he learned to be an automobile mechanic, returning to Virginia autumn 1916. He was married to Elizabeth Smith, daughter of John Smith and Maggie Stigleman-Smith, April 18, 1917.

October 9, 1917, thirty-four Floyd County boys and myself were introduced into the army to serve in the World War. We were trained at Camp Lee, Va. I was in Co. C., 317 Infantry, 80th Division and was later transferred to the supply Co., to shoe horses.

The winter of 1917 and 1918 was unusually rough and we suffered many hardships, due to shortage of uniforms. The barracks were open and coats were not issued until Christmas. On May 25, 1918 preparations were made to leave camp and at 2:25, the regiment moved out on the long hike to Hopewell, Va. This was the beginning of a new era in our lives. The day was extremely hot and sultry. We were not allowed to have a drink of water, because of the intense heat it was thought water would prove fatal. However, many fell by the wayside perished to death for something to quench their thirst. Perspiration was streaming from our faces when we reached Hopewell, Va., and had it not been for the juice of one lemon I begged from a lady, I believe I could not have survived the tortures of that never-to-be-forgotten "dry march". We were served refreshments by the kind people of Hopewell, and after a short rest we marched about one mile to City Point where the regiment embarked on three small steamers— a battalion to each steamer. We moved out after dark and spent an uncomfortable night in the crowded quarters. We tied up at Lamberts Point and were transferred to the big ship U. S. S. Mongolia, which was a freight boat, remodeled as a transport to carry the
NO One has yet made a thorough study of the effects of X-ray exposure on human beings. It is known, however, that children are particularly sensitive to X-rays, and that the bones, skin, and other tissues are more vulnerable to their effects than are the muscles and internal organs. The amount of X-ray that a person can safely endure depends on the intensity of the exposure, the duration of exposure, and the type of exposure. For example, a person exposed to a high intensity of X-rays for a short period of time may experience pain and damage to the skin, while a person exposed to a lower intensity of X-rays for a longer period of time may experience bone damage and other long-term effects.

It is important to use X-rays only when absolutely necessary, and to take all possible precautions to minimize exposure. This includes using lead shields, protective clothing, and other protective measures to shield the body from unnecessary exposure. It is also important to keep the X-ray machine properly maintained and calibrated, and to follow all safety procedures to ensure the safe use of X-rays. In conclusion, the effects of X-ray exposure on human beings are complex and multifaceted, and require careful study and consideration.

boys across the sea. At 4 a.m. all were on board and at 11 a.m., May 26, the ship was towed out into Hampton Roads, where the big ship moved rapidly under her own steam. Five miles out the ship dropped anchor and waited for the darkness to protect her from the weary "U" boat. The next thirteen days were very uncomfortable due to the crowded condition and as the sea became rougher many of us suffered from sea-sickness. I was sick for three days and nights. There were fifteen transport ships in the convoy, with only the North Carolina and one small destroyer as an escort.

Life preservers had to be worn constantly and we endured indescribable hardships on this voyage. As we drew nearer the war zone the danger of submarines became greater and the torpedo destroyers were increased to eleven.

On the morning of June 8, the harbor of Brest, France, the port of debarkation, was reached. (On the afternoon of June 7th the Convoy captured a huge German tugboat loaded with food and supplies for the submarines.) Disembarkation was affected with one small ferry boat, carrying only thirty men at a time. Companies were formed and we marched to a rest camp four miles out of town, the little children of the town following us. Four days were spent here and the regiment was transferred to Calais, by rail in box cars marked: "40 men or eight horses." At Calais we joined the British forces and were under their command which was unsatisfactory to the American soldiers.

The first night here the 317th experienced their first air raid which caused much excitement. The next move was from Calais, to a small British Camp—Samer. The food was mostly hard tack and corned beef. After an hours rest from a weary day we had spent on a French Military train, supper over, we made the hardest hike we had ever experienced to Doudeauville, heavy feet and aching bodies drew up the last long hill just before midnight. We spent sometime here in the drudgery of training under the English.

On the morning of July 5, 6:15 o'clock we start again hiking about ten kilometers to Desures, a railroad center, to entrain for Doullens. Many of the soldiers went by train, arriving July 6th, but the transport was moved overland, a distance of about one hundred fifty miles. On this trip I spent six days on horse back, the first time I had ridden a horse for three years, I averaged nailing on a horse shoe for every mile traveled. The boys, most of them, were not accustomed to horse back riding and it was a tiresome journey for us.

At Doullens, the training was practically the same but knowing this time it would terminate in front line service, we felt the seriousness of the war more keenly.

We had our actual service in the trenches here. The casualities were light but it was here that a Floyd County boy, Edgar Weddle, lost his life.

On July 16th, while being instructed by an English officer in the English method of shoeing a horse, I threw a horse and it fell upon me breaking several ribs. I was confined to bed sixteen days and was unable to work for sometime. This was fortunately, the last horse shoeing I did in France.

On the morning of Aug. 22, the regiment moved South to Saint Mihiel, the American base. I was transferred from Supply Co. to Headquarters Co. 317th Infantry, promoted to first class mechanic and given charge of Col. Charles Keller's car. From now on we were in the war zone all the time until the close of the war. The car was hidden during the day and at night we drove without lights. Col. Keller used the car at headquarters most of the time.

Time and space does not permit detailed accounts of our activities, the following were five hard battles: Artois Sector, July 23 to Aug. 18, 1918, Saint Mihiel (Corps Reserve) Sept. 12, to 16, moving until Sept. 26th, Meuse Argonne Offensive, Sept. 26th to Oct. 12, 1918 and Nov. 1st to Nov.6th, 1918. Being relieved at the front, Nov. 8th, the regiment marched back to Le Claon and on Nov. 11, between Chatel Chehery, and La Claon as the regiment was leaving Col. Keller and I passed the regiment and met General Foch, the Commander-in-chief of the Allied Forces. He halted his car and informed them that the Armistice had been signed. He gave his salute and said: Eleven, "Eleven, Eleven" as he drove away.
In the next series of exercises involving the analysis of data from an experiment, we need to consider the following sequence of steps:

1. Collect the data from the experiment.
2. Organize the data in a structured format.
3. Analyze the data to identify trends or patterns.
4. Draw conclusions based on the analysis.
5. Present the findings in a report or presentation.

Each step requires careful attention to detail and a systematic approach to ensure accurate and meaningful results. It is essential to document all procedures and calculations to facilitate reproducibility and peer review.
One long ringing cheer sounded down the column as the news was passed along and at night we had a great celebration.

On the following Sunday, I visited Verdune, about 25 miles away and met the first train of Allied prisoners, released by the Germans from Metz. This was the first train to arrive from Germany after the war. The prisoners were the most pitiful sights I ever beheld of the whole war. Here I visited the cemetery where 600,000 Germans were buried, casualties of the battle of Verdune.

On Nov. 18, the regiment moved from La Claon to the 15th training area near Le Mons, a distance of 221 kilometers overland.

I drove the car 1,100 miles up and down the lines of this trip, hauling the sick and the officers. We remained at Le Mons until March 15th, 1919, when we received our S.O.S. call.

I drove one 1918, model Dodge Sedan 30,000 miles over French roads and they were almost impassable for miles, on corduroy roads on the battle fields, without the help of another mechanic and kept prepared to go at all times. I took the car ahead of the front line Infantry three times. I made the car my headquarters—even slept in it.

We sailed from Brest, France, on the U.S.S. Nansemond and landed at New Port News, June 1st, making the trip in thirteen days.

Our regiment paraded at Norfolk and Richmond and we were discharged on June 12, 1919, at Camp Lee, Va.

One day in France, I saw a Captain, who had been gassed, in a dying condition, lying by the road side on the hill 295. He waved his hand and I went to him and conveyed him to the field hospital where he died. I have his belt, gun, holster and spismatic Compass, which I brought home with me.

Note:—The following gives the records of the Dodd brothers in the World War.

SOLDIERS OF THE WORLD WAR—1914 TO 1918
Wounded and died: Kent G. Dodd, son of Callahill S. and Mary Lee Shelor-Dodd, and grandson of James F. and Louisa E. Jefferson-Shelor, born April 11, 1893, enlisted at Fincastle, Va., for service in the World War, May 25, 1818, Co. H. 6th Infantry, A. E. F. Camp Lee, Va. He was wounded Oct. 14, 1918, in battle Argonne Forest, France, when a Shrapnel shell struck him above the left knee. He was taken to the base hospital, No. 16, and the limb was amputated. The wound did not heal, the second operation was performed at which time he died, on Jan 1, 1919. He was buried amidst the poppies in France after the close of the war, by request, his body was sent to his bereaved mother and brothers, Fincastle, Va. His father who was living when he went to France, had passed on to the Great Beyond before his body was returned. He was buried in the Godwin Cemetery, in the family plot, Fincastle, Va.

Returned from Camp: Harold Aubrey Dodd, brother of Kent G. Dodd, enlisted for service in the World War, at Fincastle, Va., July 15th 1918, serving in the first enlistment. He was born in Floyd Co., Va. No. 12605, 722, Private Co. F, 4th E2R. He entrained at Camp A.A. Humphries, Va., after which the boys were taken to Camp Dix, N. J., preparatory to sailing overseas they were allowed several hours rest and enjoyed this leisure on Sour Mountain which afterwards became famous as the stately home of the noted Charles A. Lindbergh, and wife Ann Morrow-Lindbergh, and where their oldest son Charles Jr., was kidnapped and murdered and found several weeks afterwards near their home, in a path of woods, partly buried.

The soldiers were being loaded on the ship to sail across to France, at Hoboken, N. J., and before Harold's turn came to embark, news came that the Armistice had been signed Nov. 11, 1918, therefore, he with many others were turned back and he received his discharge Dec. 13, 1918. Character Excellent.

THE WORLD WAR RECORD OF WAITMAN SHELOR
Son of Franklin and Eliza Shelor and Grandson of Thomas Goodson Shelor, Sr.

I left home October 9, 1917, and arrived at Camp Lee, Va., Oct. 10th, and was assigned to Company F. 317. I remained here until Dec. 18, when I was transferred to Camp Green, N. C., to Co. F. third division, regular army. I was transferred from this company to Company C. 9th machine gun. Bn. as private 1st class.

I sailed for England on the ship Acquitania April 1, 1918, and arrived in Liverpool, England, April 9, 1918, and remained there about one week, then we went to France, where I fought in the following battles: Aisne, May 27, June 5, 1918; Champagne Marne Def. July 15, —18th 1918, where I received a citation reading as follows: "For distinguished and exceptional gallantry at Joulgonne, France, on 23rd July 1918."

I was in a small town in France, when the Armistice was signed. I left France and went to Germany in the Army of Occupation for thirty days, hiking down the Mosella and the Rhine rivers, and reached Nedeemending, Ger. and stayed there until we were ready to sail for home on the good ship, Leviathan. We sailed from Brest, France, to New York, from New York I went to Camp Dix, New Jersey, and spent a week. I was discharged Aug. 22, 1919, and arrived home Aug. 25, 1919.

He came by the request of his Uncle Richard Wells, from Ohio to Montgomery Co., Va. on Little River, which was afterward Floyd Co.

He drove a spirited horse in a buggy and stopped at the Ira Howard store and dined with the family. Betsy Irvin was sent with him as guide to the Richard Wells home and in her old age told the story of her first ride in a buggy, the first one she ever saw. When Capt. Wells reached his Uncles home he was received with open arms. They said they were getting old and had no heir, therefore they had sent for him to come to them and if he would take care of them the remainder of their lives, they would give him their estate.

He remained here and is buried in the Pine Creek cemetery with the other members of his family. He and Benjamin Dodd were two of the wealthiest men in Floyd Co., in their time.

CHAPTER V

THE GENEALOGY OF JACOB SHELOR'S FAMILY
South Carolinians and Georgians

Jacob Shelor, Sr., was a stone mason who owned many slaves and bought other slaves skilled in masonry. He constructed a huge dam near Richmond, Va., probably across the James River, and lost much of his wealth in that project. His wife, Betsy Ryland-Shelor, died of fever and left four children: Sarah Gatewood, Mary (Polly) Dudley, Thomas and Joseph. The boys remained with their father and the girls went to live with their maiden aunt, Nancy Ryland.

After this bereavement, Jacob and his two sons and Joseph Ryland moved to Upper South Carolina, where they owned a farm. The soil was exceedingly fertile and they became among the wealthiest citizens of the County, however, the emancipation of their slaves was a heavy loss to them.

Mrs. Mary Shelor-Harbin, wife of Dr. Wily Harbin, of Calhoun, Ga. and the grand daughter of Jacob Shelor, in 1913, wrote the following: "Captain Daniel Shelor, my grandfather's only brother went to Western Va., and married a _____ Wickham and reared a large family and they have posterity in Patrick and Floyd Counties. My father, Thomas Ryland Shelor, made several visits to them and his Uncle Daniel was living. Father mentioned the fine, fat cattle and hogs he owned. My Father and uncle Joseph were great believers in cotton and raised a great deal of it, but my Grandfather Jacob, never undertook any more business after he moved to South Carolina and lived with his sons to be very old."

GENEALOGY OF THE HOWARD FAMILY

SIR WILLIAM HOWARD—THE EMIGRANT

SON OF LORD HOWARD, YOUR COUNTY, ENGLAND

CHAPTER VI

The Howards or Herewards of Norfolk, England, stand at the head of the English peerage and next to the royal family. Ingulf and Matthew Paris concur in stating that Howard was living in the reign of King Edgar A.D. 957 to 973.

William Howard, who flourished in the reign of King Edward 1st and Edward II, had large possessions in Wigenhall and Norfolk A.D., 1297—1308.

The Howards are of Saxon origin. Lord William Howard was a lineal descendant of Hereward and inherited the Norfolk estates; his eldest son, John Howard, succeeded his father as Sir John Howard, Knight of Wigenhall, one of the gentlemen of the bed chamber to Edward I.
The fortunes of the Howards were improved by the marriage of Sir Robert Howard, with Lady Margaret, eldest daughter of Thomas De Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, by Elizabeth, his wife—daughter and Co-heir of Richard Fitzalan, Earl of Arundel and cousin and Co-heir of John Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk. He was succeeded by his son, Sir John Howard, Knight in 1331; this man was very able and rose to eminence under King Edward III, being made Admiral and Captain of the King's Navy, in the North.

Sir William Howard, a son of Lord Howard of York County, England, was born in the year 1732. He received a good education and the young noblemen of northern England were his associates in society. He married an estimable lady, Hannah Pealter, 1755; but his father was displeased, because he did not marry a lady of the English Nobility, so he emigrated to America about the year 1760, with his wife and three children; two of his brothers came with him.

They landed in New York City and Sir William settled near the City and purchased land and constructed a tannery and operated some kind of iron works. Later developments proved another party had an older right to this property and he lost his farm. He left the state of New York and came to Virginia and settled near the Shenandoah River and engaged in the same occupation as in N.Y. Later nearly all of his property was washed away by high water, then he moved to Montgomery County, Va., and settled near the head waters of Mill Creek, where he took up land, afterwards moving farther down the creek to a place which is now called Childress, where he spent the remainder of his life and is buried there.

Sir William Howard, was known in Virginia as Elder William Howard as he was Elder and Moderator in the Primitive Baptist church, serving three churches—Meadow Creek, Salem and Pine Creek.

Peter Howard, the second son of Elder William Howard, assisted his father in his church work and was pastor of Pine Creek church as old people remembered him.

Elder William dressed in the style of an English gentleman, but was plain and unostentatious. In his old age he had very few things brought from England except his silver knee buckles which were kept as heirlooms.

We find no record of the two brothers who came to America with Sir William Howard though we may read of Oliver Otis Howard born at Leeds Maine, American soldier in the Civil War an author; then of Leland Ossian Howard, the American Entomologist born at Rockford, Ill. Member of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and author of Insect Life.

Peter Howard, married a Miss Toats and moved to Camp Creek, Va., from Nelson County, to the farm, which is now called the Aunt Jane Howard farm, which he then owned. He and his wife planned and built the house on this farm. They owned many slaves—the two house servants were named "Squire" and "Lettie".

The Pine Creek Church has been rebuilt, it stands in the same grove but not the same foundation or exact spot where the old one stood.

Peter Howard's style of dress was similar to that of all pioneer settlers,—home woven and home-made. He wore a home-made felt hat, home knit overshoes, made from virgin wool and spun by the ladies of the household, he, also, carried an umbrella of home construction.

Mrs. Howard was a pretty blonde type and usually kept two very fine silk dresses in her wardrobe, one black and one orange color, these were worn when occasions demanded them but for every day she, too, was attired in the home spun cloth.

Peter had learned to communicate directly with his Creator and had unbounded faith, such as all men should have, in the Living God.

Once rain had not fallen for so long, the people became alarmed and at service in the small Pine Creek Church he said to his hearers that he did not know what they were going to do, the scorching heat from the sun was drying vegetation and it appeared they were on the verge of famine. He asked them to meet him on a certain day at the church and they would hold a prayer service. He advised them to pray earnestly for refreshing showers.
The day of prayer arrived, the congregation assembled, but there appeared no sign of rain. Looking outside they saw their pastor riding in the grove, umbrella in hand. Soon he walked in their presence and with all faith in Him Who Sendeth Rain and showers of blessings to those who trust the Lord. He asked if they had been praying for rain and it seemed faith was absent from all but the humble pastor. He fell upon his knees and implored the Lord to send the needed moisture to refresh the earth, and continued to pray to his souls satisfaction. After a while the assembly heard a loud peal of thunder, a cloud had appeared and the rain began to fall, it rained harder and faster until there was such a down-pour that it seemed the earth would be washed away. In his own good time the servant of God got up and walked to the door with his umbrella in his hand and when the rain had sufficiently ceased he mounted his horse and quietly rode away.

The following description of the great wedding in the home of the Rev. Peter Howard was given by an orphan girl, Betsy Irvin, who was reared in the home of the son, Ira Howard. This girl lived to be almost an octogenarian and was the nurse in her old days of Peter Howard's Great granddaughter, Sallie Cannaday, the daughter and only child of Hughes Dillard Cannaday and Linnie Shelor.

Betsy Irvin recalls these early days with much delight. She helped prepare the great feast which was cooked on the fire and in iron vessels. They cooked for two weeks before the wedding, one hundred guests were invited and one item of the menu was a large pig roasted whole, with a large red apple placed in its mouth. Betsy Howard was going to wed Thomas Banks whose Father was a Revolutionary soldier—John Banks, who married Deborah Cassell of Philadelphia, and whose beautiful daughter, Ruth, was born in Philadelphia and in after years, after they moved to Va., Ruth married George Shelor son of Capt. Daniel Shelor of The Revolution.

Thomas Banks was a favorable suitor and served in the legislature many years.

When the day of the wedding, came the bridal party, a large number of the attendants, male and female, rode horseback out to meet the bridegroom and preacher when they came in sight of the bridegroom they halted, then turned their horses and rode back to the brides home.

(My own Grandfather, Thomas Goodshon Shelor was one of the gentlemen riding in the party.)

The bride came out from a side room in frills and fur-belowls with a long train and sweeping bridal veil suspended from her lovely locks of hair.

Lord William Howard, father of Sir William and Sir Peter Howard, (American Emigrants) died during the American Revolutionary war or near its close. He bequeathed a large sum of money to his three sons in America and it was sent from England to New York City in the care of a responsible party, who was instructed to go to New York City and find the sons. When Elder William Howard, finally heard of the treasure that was sent from their father to them, he promptly dispatched his eldest son, Ezekiel Howard, to New York City to get the money. The mail service was very slow those days and it is five hundred miles from Montgomery to New York, so when at last Ezekiel arrived in the City he learned that the money had all been taken back to England as no heir or heirs could be found.

Therefore Elder William and his brothers were deprived of their heritage. Ezekiel made the trip on horse back a distance both ways of one thousand miles. He rode "Old York" the horse he rode in the Revolution and carried him through three years of the war. This horse was a noble animal and in his old age would straighten up; stand erect, champ his bit and keep time with music when it was played. His master kept him as long as he lived and when he was too old to chew, he fed him on corn meal.

Milton Howard of Wythe County, Va., had Ezekiel Howard's chapean uniform and sword in his possession the last that was known of them. He, Ezekiel; was in the battles of Brandywine, Germantown, Mammouth C.H.; and in a number of skirmishes.

While in the army he became acquainted with a young man, Robert Anderson, soldier from Botetourt Co., Va., when his father; Wm. moved to Va. Ezekiel came with him.
and afterwards visited his comrade of Botetourt Co. He met the young man's sister Rebecca Anderson, and married her.

His War Record and One Mysterious Case of His Surgery.

Dr. Thomas Henry Howard, Surgeon in the Confederate Army, received an Academic education, attending the Gannaway school at Floyd C.H. He graduated at the Jefferson Medical College in 1861, attended lectures at the University of New York and took a special course in the treatment of the ear, eye, and nose.

He entered service in the Civil War in the Spring of 1861. The citizens of Floyd Co., felt the need of his service back home and Jacob Harman, circulated a petition to have him returned to the County and sent it to the Sec. of War. He was discharged and returned home and practiced medicine for several months, feeling still a strong desire to assist in the great cause of the confederacy. He volunteered his service and went to Richmond, where he was appointed surgeon of different regiments one at a time. "I was at one time in charge of a hospital in Front Royal, Va., and once surgeon in the 14th regiment Virginia Infantry, Barton's Brigade, Pickett's Division.

My first service after volunteering, I was detailed Surgeon to form a Camp Hospital, on the Mechanicsville road, near Richmond, Va. I received many sick and wounded, but never lost one of them. The first battle I was in was at Drewry's Bluff, 15th day of May, 1862. I was in the battle of Seven Pines and Fair Oaks, May 31st, June 1st, 1862. I was in Longstreets corps, Pickett's Division, Armistead's Brigade, Gettysburg, July 1st and 2nd, —the bloodiest battle of all.

I was also at the battle of Cold Harbor, where 13,000 Federals were killed. They marched in on our breastworks at night then when Gen. Grant ordered another and the sec¬ ond charge, no man stirred. The morale of Lee's Army was never better than after this battle. The Confederate loss was only 750 men. From this battle we marched to Petersburg, Va., where I was seized with malaria and sent to a hospital in Richmond, Va., and was afterward sent to Montgomery White Sulphur Springs, as a convalescent."

After the close of the War between the States, Dr. Howard practiced his profession in his home county and, also; in the adjoining counties, the remainder of his active life. Nat¬ urally, he came across many peculiar cases of affliction, the most outstanding one was the case of Mrs. Leah Slusher, who before her marriage was Miss Leah Wood. Specnia of bone came into the cavity of her ears, at the age of 44 years, and the bones were removed with the aid of forceps, by Dr. Howard, upon an average of once in two weeks, for about four years, until he removed eleven hundred small bones; his widow; Mrs. Maud Howard, has the bones in a sealed bottle, as Dr. Howard placed them.

GENEALOGY OF THE JEFFERSON FAMILY

JOHN JEFFERSON—THE EMIGRANT

From Mt. Snowdon, Wales, 1612 A.D.

CHAPTER VII

THE JEFFERSONS

The emigrant, John Jefferson, came to America, from Mt. Snowdon, Wales, in 1612. (The estate Peter Jefferson, left to his young son, named Snowdon, for the ancestral home in Wales.)

The Jefferson Coat of Arms, originally had lions heads instead of leopards heads. The Jefferson ancestors, who fought in wars of France, distinguished himself and was granted as a special honor and privilege of using the three leopards on his shield in acknowledgement of his gallantry in some desperate battle. The bars and scroll are of silver and the rest is scarlet.

The Jefferson Slogan was "Abro libritus guo spiritus." "I go a free man wherever the wind bloweth."

Mr. Jefferson, was a member of the first General Assembly held in Jamestown, Va., in 1619. He married Mary Branch and they had one son, named Thomas, 1st. Thomas married Mary Field, and by this marriage our right is established to join the Colonial Dames Society, she was the daughter of Major Peter Field and his wife, Judith Sloane, who was the daughter of Henry Sloan, speaker of House of Burgesses, 1661 to 1668.

Henry Sloane was our mother's fifth grandfather.

Copied from the States records of the members of its Assemblies.

Assembly of July 30, 1619.

CHAPTER IV

THE EVIDENCE

WILLIAM RANDOLPH

Clerk of Henrico County, 1651. Justice of the Peace; Burgess Attorney General; Member of Council and etc.

William Randolph married Mary, daughter of Henry and Catherine Isham, of Bermuda Hundred, on James River. His father, Richard Randolph, of Maston Hall, England, Warwickshire, was half brother to Thomas Randolph, the poet.

Peter Jefferson, born in 1708, Father of the President, married Jane Randolph, Oct. 3, 1739, she was the daughter of Isham Randolph. He was born 1690 and was at sometime agent for the colony of Virginia in England. He married in 1717, Jane Rodgers of Shadwell Street, London, England. He returned to Virginia and was appointed Gen. of Va., in 1738, Col. of Goochland County, Militia, 1740. Member of House of Burgesses. He was the son of the emigrant, William Randolph.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 16, 1929. "Caught in a tangle of undergrowth and closely hemmed in by several acres of virgin forest is a monument of antiquarian interest that is both a memorial to two distinguished members of the Randolph family of Henrico County, and a reminder of the great flood of 1771. The monument stands at a point not far from the old River road on the old Turkey Island estate. Although hardly a dozen miles from Richmond, it is rarely visited, because of its isolation. An inscription of the face of the memorial reads:

In the year 1772,
This monument was raised
To the memory of the first Richard
And Jane Randolph, of Curles,
By their third son;
To whose parental affection
Industry and economy
He was indebted
For their tenderness in infancy,
A good education in youth and Ample fortune at mature age.

WILLIAM C. GREEN, Mayor of Canton and co-

CIVIL WAR TOMBSTONE: "Here lies the remains of Col. A. H. Blake, of the 8th Georgia Volunteer Infantry, who fell in battle at Fredericksburg, Va., February 15, 1864, in the defense of the Union. He was born in 1824, and was a soldier of the War of 1812. He was a member of the Confederate Congress. He died in 1870."

His remains were interred in this position, a stone marker was placed in the ground, and a fence was erected around the site. The fence was later removed, and the site was left open to the public.

The tombstone was located in the cemetery of the school, which is now part of the school grounds. The school was built in 1890 and is still in use today.
Laid in Flood Year."

The foundation of this pillar was laid in the calamitous year, 1771 when all the great rivers of this country were swept by inundations never before experienced, which changed the face of nature and left traces of their violence, that will remain for ages.

Both Turkey Island and Curles Neck, in Henrico County, below Richmond are inseparably connected with the history of the Randolphs of Virginia.

Turkey Island was the home of William Randolph, the emigrant who married Mary Isham, the daughter of Henry and Catherine Isham of Bermunda Hundred, on James River. William and Mary Randolph, were the ancestors of thousands of present day Virginians, among them the most notable were Thomas Jefferson, John Marshall and Gen. Robert E. Lee, who by virtue of their descent from William and Mary Randolph, were Virginia Cousins.

Richard Randolph, of the Curles, referred to on the old monument, was one of nine children of William and Mary Randolph, of Curles, also known as Curles Neck, from the property of William, the Father in 1698, Richard Randolph, became the owner of the Curles estate, by the will of his father, William, of Turkey Island.

The two properties adjoin each other and Curles, before it was owned by the Randolphs, and previously been the seat of Nathaniel Bacon, Jr., called the rebel. He was residing there in 1776, the year in which he became the leader of the famous "Bacon's Rebellion."

Field Jefferson, brother of Col. Peter, and Uncle of the famous Thomas, married Mary _____. They, at one time, owned the land on which Lexington, Ky., is built. The distance to the nearest grist mill was forty miles, the inconvenience and seclusion of their situation discouraged them and they moved to Mecklenburg County, Virginia, near Clarksville. His home was named Oconeechee.

The Jefferson home was considered one of the handsomest mansions in eastern Virginia. It was burned nearly a half century ago.
One of Field's sons, named George, was sent to some foreign country, as minister, and lost at sea.

Peter Field Jefferson, son of Field, married Elizabeth Allen, daughter of Samuel Allen, Gent of England, who came to America and had his home on Curles Neck, on the James River. Peter Field Jefferson and Elizabeth Allen were our mothers great-grand parents.

One of his daughters, Miss Howard Jefferson, Huids Co., Miss., married William Alexander Cabell, of Virginia.

The Allens were relatives of the ancient Clans of the MacDonalds and MacFarlanes. The MacDonald Clans badge was "Common Heath," their slogan "Gainsay who dare." The Clan founder forced his countrymen from the Norse yoke and rose to power no subject had equalled. He died in 1164, leaving three sons. The Chief of the Glencoe MacDonalds Mac-Vic-Ian-Mac-Ian was of royal descent and was with nearly all of his Clan massacred by Campbell of Glenven, in 1602.

He had remained constant in his adherence to King James and loyally took the oath to serve William of Orange, but was rewarded with an act of treachery as was ever perpetrated. (Glencoe is the traditional home of the poet Orrian.)

The clan of the MacFarlanes, the ancient Celtic Clan, descended from Duncan MacGilchrist, mentioned in 1295, brother of the Earl of Lennox. Their country was on the western shore of Loch Lomond MacGilchrist's grandson received the lands of Arrochor in 1295, but the male line failed and the lands were forfeited. Andrew MacFarlane, married a daughter of the Earl of Lennox, and succeeded in 1493.

Sir John MacFarlane, fell at Fledden and Walter was killed in 1547. Major General MacFarlane, gallantly captured Ishia in the bay of Naples in 1809. In 1824, many of the Clan settled in Aberdeenshire, under other names, The last of the Chiefs was supposed to have come to America, at the end of the eighteenth century. His home, the Arrochor, became the property of the Duke of Argyll.

The Clan of MacFarlane badge was "Cranberry," their slogan—"The Loch of the Hosts."

Samuel Allen Jefferson, my great grandfather, married Elizabeth Jefferson, daughter of John Jefferson and Elizabeth Broome-Jefferson, the latter's father was Dr. Thomas Breeme, of England and surgeon in the English army in the Revolutionary War, therefore, Dr. Thomas Broome was my mother's great-great grandfather.

One of Elizabeth Jefferson's brothers, Thomas Broome Jefferson, married Jane Green and moved to Trigg County, Kentucky, and their son, John Pinkard Jefferson, came to Virginia and married Sarah Frances Steptoe Broom, daughter of James Calloway Broome and wife Kittie Green Leftwich, niece of Gen. Green.

Edward Field Jefferson, my grandfather, came to Patrick County, Va., to teach a private school and became enamored with one of the pretty young students, Miss Malinda Ross, and married her.

There were few books and he wrote many of them with a goose quill pen. My mother had one of the arithmetics he had written.

He and his son, Samuel, left home one morning and went to another farm across Smith's river to perform some task. In the afternoon a small cloud appeared and a light shower of rain fell accompanied by thunder and lightning, which was not very alarming. They did not return home that night, Mrs. Jefferson, was not living and the two oldest daughters—Ella and Louise, on the following day prepared lunch and went to the farm across the river, thinking father and brother had spent the night with a friend, on account of high water, but they found them dead, under a tree, which lightning had struck. Our mother was sent to her people, the Jeffertsons, in Pittsylvania County, Va., to live but she was not contented away from her brother and sisters and she was sent back to stay with them with their grandfather Ross.

Mother and her Cousin Tinnie Ross were in school at the Thomasville Female Academy, Thomasville, N.C., when the Civil War broke out and were forced to leave before they graduated, on account of the great excitement prevailing over the country.

Her first lover was called forth to battle and soon died of fever. His mother took her carriage and negro driver and went to the front and conveyed the body home. When we were children we used to steal away upstairs and find a flaxen bag of old letters written by the young soldier to my mother; they told of the dark, trying hours, and of his undying love for her. In a desk we would see a picture—a daguerreotype—of the handsome lover.

Our parents used to sit side by side and read "Surrey of the Eagles Nest" and other books of the Civil War and weep over the tempestuous years of 1861 to 1865.

Only one of the Edward Field Jefferson children is living—Mrs. Mary Ann Jefferson-West, Stuart, Patrick County, Va., known for her cleverness and generosity. Those who visit her remark that she has grown old beautifully.

THE GENEALOGY OF THE BANKS FAMILY

CHAPTER VIII

The first member of the Banks family, of whom I have a record was Capt. Richard Banks, father of John Banks. John's record is given in his copy of Affidavit on file in the United States Revolutionary War Pension Bureau, Washington, D. C. This application will be found in this Banks line on other pages of this book.

John states that he went from Gloucester County, New Jersey, every time he entered service in the Revolution.

Tunstall and James Banks, were Revolutionary soldiers from Colonial Virginia and Jacob and William Banks were of the Virginia Militia, they were of the Banks ancestry and probably some of the descendants know whether they were brothers of Capt. Richard or nephews. I have no authority on this question.

As the children of John Banks, figure largely in the Shelor and Howard genealogies, his movements are followed for the benefit of his descendants. He was born in Gloucester County, New Jersey, Nov. 25, 1757. He volunteered at the age of nineteen and started on his first tour of service in the Revolution, September, 1776, a few months after the Declaration of Independence was declared. History repeats what is here stated, that father and son, old men and boys went out to fight for their freedom. Does it not, even at this late date stir one's heart to faster pulsations to thank, not only of the bravery of the older men, but of their courage and determination, to eradicate the enemy, leading the youths—their beloved sons, to face the conflict, even as Abraham of old, was about to sacrifice Isaac, as his Creator had required of him? How much we, who have lived, afterwards, have to love and respect, these forefathers, who freed us from being subjects of an earthly king, The young people of this generation should feel much pride, that even a drop of blood flows through their veins, in relation to any soldier, as a forefather, who has fought in any war; for their protection. They should strive to do well in times of peace and plenty and not only stand by the flag of our country, but preserve their own inheritance as trustworthy citizens in dealing with their fellow man, remembering always that we reap what we sow in this world and in the one to which we are sojourning.

In the Shelor genealogy, we find that John Banks married Deborah Cassell, and the line is given down their line as well as that of the Howards.

A resident of Gloucester County, New Jersey, then, we find, that after the Revolution, he moved with his family to what is now, Floyd County, Virginia; settling on the North side of the Blue Ridge Mountains. His daughter Ruth was born in Philadelphia, Penn., in 1783; therefore his wife must have been a Philadelphian, as there are Cassells in that city at the present time.

He was granted a large boundary of land on which he settled his children as they married and formed homes of their own. It is stated that many of his children were born before he came to Virginia, but it seems that all of them married Virginians.

Before giving the names of the children, mention is made here of his son, Thomas Banks, whose marriage is given in the Howard genealogy, to Elizabeth (Betsey) Howard, he was always called Maj. Thomas Banks, and was one of the early prominent men of Floyd County. He was a member of the Virginia Legislature.

He built two residences, one near his Father's home, the present residence of Jefferson P. Wood, on Little River and the other near Pizarro or Turtle Rock, which was later the home of William A. Cannaday and still later of Alfred Yeatts.

In his old age, he married Elizabeth Cannaday, daughter of James Cannaday and after her death, he married Mary Bright. He lived to be very old.

Section, New Jersey; Name John Banks, File No. W2221755, Bl. Wt. 26, 817-160.

Copy of affidavit on file in the United States Revolutionary War, Pension Bureau, Washington, D.C.

Floyd County, State of Virginia.

On the 20th day of August 1832, personally appeared in open Court, before the Justice of Peace, for said County, now sitting; John Banks, a resident of the said County of Floyd and State aforesaid, aged seventy-four years on the 25th day of November, in the year 1831, who being first duly sworn according to law, doth make the following declaration, in order to obtain the benefit of the Act of Congress, passed 7th day of June 1832; that he entered the army of the Revolution, as a soldier in the militia of the State of New Jersey and did serve separate and distinct tours of duty.

The first tour was Capt. Archibald Morfitt; and Col. Joseph Ellis, this tour was for but one month and during this month he was in a skirmish on Staten Island, having passed over from Perth Amboy and returned after the enterprise. This was in the month of September 1776.

The second tour was for one month but which from circumstances, was protracted for six weeks. It was under Capt. Joseph Lewis, Col. Hillman and Gen. Dickens, of New Jersey Militia and was in Bucks County and the State of Pennsylvania, and saw General Washington, when he passed the river at Trenton, on his retreat from the North and was during that tour he was at the taking of the Hessians.

On the 26th day of December, in the year of 1776, at Trenton. On the second of January 1777, we were at command of Trenton by the British forces and on the third day of June 1777, was at Princeton, under the command of Gen. Washington, and with the same officers, last mentioned of the militia.
The third tour was under Captain John Smith, for the period of six months in the public service. Col. Bodo Otto, was commander of the regiment. He commenced his tour on the first day of April 1777, and ended it the last of September of that year and during that time was principally occupied on the Delaware River.

The fourth tour was in the month of October of that year and was for one month, under Capt. David Paul and the said Bodo Otto, as Colonel. This service was on the Delaware river and the applicant was in many skirmishes and cannon-ages with the British.

The fifth tour was under his former Captain Archibald Morfitt and the said Bodo Otto and was for the like period of a month.

The sixth tour was under Captain Andrew Barns, in the early part of the year of 1778 and was under Bodo Otto. The same skirmishes and cannonades took place, along the Delaware River.

The seventh tour was under Captain John Cozens, for one month and on the 9th day of March, in the year of 1778, was taken prisoner by the British, and his Captain John Cozens was also, taken to the city of Philadelphia, Pa., and detained prisoners for three months in said city and declared by them to be prisoners of war and on the 17 day of June in the same year were carried, by water, prisoners to N. Y. City. The British were then about to evacuate Philadelphia and did so on the next day. On the 7th day of July, he was regularly and duly exchanged and returned to the State of New Jersey and the County of Gloucester.

On the 19th of March 1833, John Banks, personally appeared in open Court before Justice of Peace, amendment of his declaration of 20th August last year which reads verbatim to first declaration, except last paragraph. During last tour of one month the applicant served in the capacity of a sergeant, having been appointed one by his father. All of the other tours were as a private and volunteer, except the one in which he served under Capt. Lewis, and the last as a sergeant (this he was drafted or detailed for said duty) from which County he had always entered the service.
The Eighth tour was in October in the same year, under his father, Capt. Richard Banks and Col. Proctor of the Continental Artillery, who was sent to protect the salt works on the seashore of New Jersey, and was for the term of one month in Gloucester County, and State of New Jersey: All of the above tours of service were as a volunteer, except one, under Lewis and the one under his Father, Capt. Richard Banks.

John Banks relinquishes every claim to a pension or an annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agent of any state, whatsoever.

Sworn to and subscribed the day and year aforesaid.

(Signed) John Banks
William Goodson, Clerk of Floyd County.

The above is the William Goodson, who married Mary Abbie Banks, and the son of Major Thomas Goodson, of the Revolutionary fame. Court records show that William Goodson, son of the settler, sold to Byrd Smith, on Dec. 25th, 1797, four hundred acres of land, lying on West Fork of Little River, for three hundred and fifty pounds.

This William was the brother of my great grandmother, therefore he was our great uncle and their father, Major Thomas Goodson, Jr., was our great great grandfather. His father was also named Thomas and a list of both families is given on other pages.

The Goodson's were settlers of this section prior to the Revolution and in all probability, the Shelors and Bank's became acquainted with them during the war and came here after the surrender at Yorktown, Va. This following story has always been told of Major Thomas Goodson. On his return from the Revolutionary war he came by a farm this side of Roanoke City; he carried a small bundle strapped over his shoulder and a cake of stale bread with a hole in the center and a string through it and also, suspended from his shoulder; he was ragged and dirty, resembling in every way a tramp, he stopped at this farm house and asked to be allowed to spend the night in the home, he was so tired and hungry he was hardly conscious of his personal appearance; a very beautiful young lady came to the door in response to his call; this family showed much sympathy for the soldier. They gave him an abundance of food to continue his homeward journey. Upon his arrival home, after an absence of seven years, he found every pot and pan as he had left them. His door was one of those with latch string—the string was on the outside as though no one had touched it. After he came home he rested and supplied the inward and outward man and after a season returned to that home and wooed and won the fair young lady.

The letter now follows as it was written to Major Goodson from Gov. Preston. The original was one hundred and two years old the fourth of this past April, 1933.

The outside of envelope is:

Free
Major Thomas Goodson, Sen.
Simpson P. O.
Floyd County, Virginia
"Letter"
Richmond, 4th, April, 1831.

My Old and Respected Friend:

I cannot deny myself the pleasure of congratulating you on the appointment of your son, William, to the Clerkship of your new County. Before I left Montgomery, I said that the day had arrived when the people had it in their power and ought to reward him for his patriotism in the last war. Humble as you all may have considered it, there is hardly an instance in modern or ancient history which in my mind, surpasses the noble course which he pursued.

I rejoice that you have lived to see the door opened to your descendants, to reap the rewards which your services in the Revolution and then in the late war, so justly entitles them to.

The stand which your family must take in the New County, is a flattering prospect and their known integrity and love for their County will, I hope, enable them to maintain the inheritance which you will leave them, of an honest name and patriot.
You and I have arrived at the period of our lives when our principal enjoyment of life must consist in the hopes and prospects of our children, and on this account I am drawn nearer to the concerns of your new county, (altho', you know I was always a friend to it) because my son has done his duty and with all his power maintained your rights, and served the people he represented, so that while I rejoice with you and yours in the advantages and the conveniences, which have been so long withheld from you, in that quarter; I mingle my own feelings of Fatherly vanity for Ballard.

I trust that the uninterrupted friendship which has so long existed between us may be the lasting foundation on which our sons may cherish the same good will toward each other.

We shall have a branch of Court of Appeals, established at Louisburg. Our Chancery system will be improved to the decided advantage of the western part of the state and the young politicians of the West, Mr. Summers, and others begin to push the subject of Internal Improvement, until our neglected and heretofore injured part of the country, must rise in the importance to the stand which nature re-signed it should occupy.

The Legislature will not rise for eight or ten days yet, they have had already a very long session. I begin to hope and believe that the West will soon see better days and that old Montgomery and all her sons, will be on high political ground, as well as geographical. With friendship and great personal regard,

I remain,
Your Obt. Ser't,
James P. Preston.

CHAPTER X

The Old-Time Schools at Floyd C.H. Roll Call 1880-1881

An Outstanding Teacher And Preacher

Many young men, prior to the Civil War attended the Gannaway School, taught in the old Jacksonville Academy, now replaced by the New High School Building.

After the Civil War there came to Floyd C.H. a soldier of the Confederate States, who was only absent two days from roll call during the four years of battle; this gentleman was Chaplain in the army—the Rev. John Kellogg Harris. Presbyterian minister of the Floyd churches for 32 years originally from New York City, and with him came his estimable wife who united with her husband and taught, a preparatory school, for girls and boys, for 25 years on Parsonage Street, where the old Oxford Academy still stands, but the dwelling has been replaced by a modern home.

This soldier, having day after day, marched in the procession of life and death conflicting, was a man of great depth and feeling and it seemed he was better understood after his battle of life, had been fought here, or perhaps, in life, when we are moving abreast of the times, we do not pause to fully appreciate those who are so vitally interested, in our souls salvation.

The following letter written to one of his students Hughes-Dillard Cannaday—in reply to the request to officiate at Mr. Cannaday's marriage, expresses the deep feeling Rev. Harris, the Presbyterian Minister and teacher, held for his fellow man.

The Letter, Floyd, Nov. 7, 1895.

My Dear Hughes:—

Yours received, I hope your family will be one Christian family. Such families are so badly needed. Read your Bible, Pray and keep the Sabbath, Begin right.

Come to my house and stay all night on the 26th, if you can.

With love,

John K. Harris.

DILLON GENERATION

Lord John Dillon, of Cork, Ireland, had a son named John, This son became infatuated with a young lady who was not of royal blood, which so angered Lord John that he promptly disinherited his son, John, who with his young bride and little son, Henry, braved the stormy Atlantic to build a home in the New World. However, after the bitterness between father and son, which the passing of years had mellowed, a large fortune of eight million dollars was left to the American Heir of Lord Dillon. At the opening of the Civil War, the heir, Henry Dillon was prepared to go to Ireland to claim his fortune, but his beloved son, Dr. John Dillon, fell in battle which so depressed the devoted father he made no further effort to return to his land of birth for his inheritance.
HENRY DILLON GENEALOGY

Henry Dillon, born December 23, 1808, in Cork, Ireland. At the age of one year his parents emigrated to America, taking three months to make the voyage. They landed at Charleston, S.C., when they settled but, unfortunately the parents died early, leaving young Henry in free America, alone. He was apprenticed to a Mr. Bacot, who taught him the trade of masonry and plastering and etc.

It is thought he lived in Charleston until after his 21st birthday, then journeyed westward to Wheeling, W. Va., after which he came to Floyd C.H. He married at the age of 26 years to Harriet A. Helms, Dec. 18, 1884. They resided in this town until after the Civil War. Mr. Dillon, like most of those pioneer settlers, was a tireless worker and a consecrated christian gentleman. He built the Presbyterian church of which he was a member at Floyd C. H, also, erected the Lutheran church and the old Academy and in the Year 1850, he built the Court House and his own house at Floyd—the latter we know better by the name of the Jack Kirby house, now owned and occupied by Atty. Kyle M. Weeks and Mrs. Weeks. The house owned and occupied by Mrs. Maud Howard, widow of Dr. Henry Howard was also built by him.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillon moved to their farm, five miles out from town in the Kemper vicinity, where Mrs. Dillon died Thursday March 16, 1871. She was born in Patrick County, Va. (near Lover's Leap,) Sept. 14th, 1813, Mr. Dillon died at 1 o'clock A.M. Nov. 2nd 1886. There were eight children. The first born was John W. born Dec. 22, (Tuesday) 1835. He graduated in medicine from Richmond College, and joined the Confederate Army. He was killed in the battle of Mine Run, on Friday Nov. 27th 1863, and buried in that section. My Father said this death was a great blow to his neighbor. Mr. Henry Dillon (John's father) and that this devoted father went to the battle field, dug up the body and brought it back to Floyd C.H. and buried the body in the old cemetery where it still remains. He also said that John was the handsomest man he ever saw.

EARLY CANNADAYS OF VIRGINIA

This family, originally Kennedy, claims descent from the Earl of Cassillis, Scotland. REV. THOMAS KENNEDY, son of Gilbert Kennedy, and nephew of the sixth Earl of Cassill, was chaplain to General Monroe, who came to Ireland with the army in 1642. Two of his sons were Presbyterian ministers, Rev. John Kennedy, of Newton, Cunningham county, Donegai, Ireland, died after 1786, married Lilly and their children born in Ireland, emigrated to Pennsylvania, to join members of their family who had emigrated there in 1720.

He came to Virginia in 1720. "The Bower" was at Martinsburg, Va., now West Virginia. (This is taken from O'Horts Book, Irish Pedigrees, and agrees with that of the Scotch). The Scotch Kennedy's went to Ireland with the army in 1642, as above stated John Pendleton Kennedy, American statesman and novelist was born 1795 and died 1870, was no doubt the son of John and Nancy Claytor Pendleton Kennedy.

The Robert lineagee says that John Kennedy, CMG of Gultra County, Down, Ireland, stated to have been of the family of Earles of Cassillis, seated in Ireland, purchased the estate of Cultra from the Earl of Clanbrassil in 1617. He married Martha, daughter of William Stewart, of Ballylawn county and was succeeded by his son Hugh Cannaday (Kennedy) of Gultra, who married Mable Curtis.

James Cannaday (Kennedy) came to this country from England with his wife, Miss Raikes, a relative to Sir Robert Raikes, English founder of Sunday Schools. (History tells us that Sir Robert Raikes, born 1735 and died 1811, first took his bible and song book and would go among those who herded cattle and sheep and taught in the fields, then he came to America and taught the first Sunday School ever taught in America.
James Cannaday, the settler, was a Revolutionary soldier and fought under General Green. He and his wife, (she was only twelve years of age when she married) settled on Runnet Bag Creek, Franklin County, Va., in a house which still stands, opposite the Trinity Methodist Church. In this old house is a two-pronged fork tightly stuck high up above the mantle piece in the old chimney. The story is told Mrs. James Cannaday placed it there because after forks were invented to use with knives, one man used a fork to mutilate and kill his wife, therefore, the legislature passed and act forbidding the use of forks. In this way Mrs. Cannaday dispensed with the family fork.

The queer name, "Runnet Bag Creek" starts out a small stream, trickling down the Blue Ridge, along the roadside, winding its way over the rocks, through the ivy and rhododendron, receiving other streamlets rippling and sparkling and dashing, murmuring its own sweet music, which only those who love the wild rugged mountains can appreciate. At the base of the mountain it has formed a good sized creek—on and on it rushes and its power still grinds corn at an old mill built over a hundred years ago by a Mr. Treadwell. This was the Cannaday mill. The creek unites with Otter Creek in the midst of the John Treadwell Cannaday farm now owned and managed by his granddaughter, Mrs. Sallie Cannaday Ross. Together these creeks find their way to Smith's river which river forms the Philpott Dam.

In slavery time James Cannaday owned a large number of slaves and a vast estate along these creeks and from here his descendants have gone out into the world—ministers, doctors, teachers and musicians are all found in the walks of life. Corn grew and still grows on those rich bottoms as tho' it were along the Nile in Egypt. The slaves along this mountain road and on top of the mountain, in Floyd county, would take their sacks and descend the mountain and carry back bags of corn the Cannaday slaves had grown. So this is the origin of the name "Runnet Bag" creek.

THE NEED OF A FAMILY NAME

Names were given Adam and Eve when they were placed in the Garden of Eden. For thousands of years, first or given names were the only designations women and men bore.

The "Clan" name was hereditary and considered a good system. (It was also given to slaves and dependents) but this form ended when barbarian invaders overthrew the Western Empire. With the rising tide of humanity, as the ages rolled along, in order to specify family relationship, a surname was added to the baptismal or christian name, but in 1465 they were not universal. During the reign of Edward V. a law was passed to compel certain Irish outlaws to adopt surnames. "They shall take unto them a surname, either of some Town, or some color, as Black or Brown, or some Art or Science, as Smyth or Carpenter, or some office as Cooke or Butler." As late as the beginning of the nineteenth century a decree compelled Jews in Germany and Austria to add a German surname to the single name which they had used.

It is said that we, in America, have the greatest variety of family names than any other part of the world.

We, who hear old and honored names, tracing our historic families back to sturdy emigrant ancestors, from across the sea and into the dim mists of antiquity—to the Clan name and to those old warriors who wore the Coat of Arms, should, most certainly, be proud of our heritage and teach the youths of today there is glory and honor in bearing the names their warrior ancestors bore in battles of the different wars.

TOMPKINS FAMILY OF VIRGINIA

The name of Tompkins is said to mean "son of Thomas" being derived from the nickname "Tom" combined with the diminutive "kin." It is found on the ancient records in various forms—Tomkin, Tompkin, Tompkyns, Thomkyns etc.

Tompkins is the form generally accepted in America. Families of this name were found at an early date in the counties of Hereford, Sussex, York, and London and were for the most part, of the landed gentry and yeomanry of Great Britain.

Of the Virginia branches of the family little is known. Among those who fought as officers in the war of the Revolution were Captain Charles of Virginia, Ensign Henry and Ensign Robert Tompkins of Virginia.

Two members of this family who have more recently distinguished themselves in America were Daniel D. Tompkins, of New York, born 1774, died 1825. He was Gov. of New York, 1808-1817, Vice-President of the U.S. 1817-1825, and Charles H. Tompkins, of Va. military officer, born 1830, died in 1895.

Atty. William D. Tompkins, Hillsville, Va. writes: "My grandfather was Dr. Daniel Tompkins, and lived in Bedford County. His father was James Tompkins, who was a preacher and lived in Danville and Lynchburg, Va. He was building a school for girls in Lynchburg, at his death. His father's name was Samuel Tompkins planter or farmer, of Pittsylvania County.

I have heard my grandfather, Dr. Daniel Tompkins say that the Statesman, Daniel D. Tompkins, of New York was of the same branch of the Virginia Tompkins' and Dr. Christopher Tompkins, of Richmond, Va., told me that all of the Virginia Tompkins were related."
SECTION TWO CHAPTER I.

CELEBRATING THE CIVIL WAR—1861-1865.

This morning, Jan. 10, 1961, at 9 O'Clock, a shot was heard over the television, commemorating the "shot that was heard around the world" Jan. 10, 1861 at Fort Sumpter, S. C. one hundred years ago, the beginning of the war between the states or the Civil War. Great changes have taken place since then-electricity has spread itself over the land, heats dwellings, lights them and cooks your meals. Automobiles are seen at every door, sometimes you see two or three of them at one residence. "Auld Robin the Gray" is about out of the picture—not depended upon as the "beast of burden". The farms are almost covered with machinery, which is powered by gasoline. "Spare that Tree" is almost a reality. Oil and electricity have relieved the woodman.

Another century and we, like those brave and gallant men, will have passed into the "Great Beyond".

It is my prayer that our beloved country may advance and the years that lie ahead may be peaceful and prosperous.

Many hearts were broken, 1861-1865, many homes shattered, hardships followed for years. All of this will be recalled as we celebrate this year, those perilous times of death, starvation and destruction.

Bishop Mcade says: "Of a renowned and wealthy ancestry, we have no reason to be proud, for a pious one we ought to be thankful to God, for He has promised His mercy to thousands descended from such. To be descended from Lord Nelson or a George IV, a Cromwell or a Bonaparte, with all their offices and honors, while their characters were stained with crimes of the deepest dye, is not to be coveted, but to be descended from such religious and virtuous patriots as were some of those who achieved the Independence of America, is a laudable gratification".

Other sayings: Ralph Waldo Emerson: "For what avail the plow or sail or land or life if Freedom fail".

Emund Burke: "People will not look forward to posterity, who never look backward to their ancestry".

Julius Ceasar Commands a friend "to look back to your mighty ancestors".

No less a philosopher than Tacitus, himself, advises future generations to "think of your ancestry and posterity".

Plutarch assures us that: "It is, indeed, a desirable thing to be well descended, but the glory belongs to our ancestry".

Aristotle: "If there is one way better than another it is the way of nature".

STATE OF VIRGINIA
FLOYD COUNTY TO WIT

On the 20th day of August in the year 1832 personally appeared in open court before the Justice of the County Court aforesaid now sitting, Daniel Shelor, a resident of said county and state, aged almost 82 years, who being first sworn according to law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the Act of Congress passed June 7th, 1832. That he entered the service of the United States in the Militia in the County of Frederick in the State of Maryland on the 2nd of January, 1777, as a Lieutenant—that he continued in said service a few days more than three months, un¬ til about the 10th of April, when his services were suspended. He marched during this term of service into New Jersey, to a place called Baskin's Ridge about 7 miles from Morristown where Genl. Washing¬ ton was encamped. At this time the English Army lay at Brunswick.
Whilst stationed here this applicant was in a severe skirmish with the enemy at a place Quibbletown. The forces to which he belonged were commanded by Genl. Thomas Johnston and Colo. James John¬ ston. His captain was John Carmack. After finishing this tour of service he returned home and remained there until some time in the following year 1778 when as a captain he again entered into active service for another tour of three months, which was entirely spent in guarding, with the company under his command, prisoners who were lodged in Frederick Town, Maryland. During the time he was stationed here he received his orders from one Major Baily.

He hereby relinquishes any claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any state. He received his commission from the Governor of Maryland.

Sworn to and subscribed the day and year aforesaid.

(S) Daniel Shelor

We, Nathaniel Wickham residing in the County of Floyd and Wm.
Banks residing in the same place, hereby certify that we are well acquainted with Daniel Shelor who has sworn to and subscribed the above declaration that we believe him to be, as stated, about 82 years of age, that he is reputed & believed in the neighborhood where he resides to have been a soldier of the Revolution & that we concur in that opinion.

THE WILL OF LAWRENCE SHELOR, THE EMIGRANT
MADE IN 1787.

"I give and bequeath to Mary, my beloved wife, the house where I now live, with all possessions, at her death to divide her estate between my son, Jacob Shelor and my daughter, Mary Shelor, in manner & form she thinks best. 100 acres to go to Lawrence Shelor when he should apply for same; to son, Daniel, 1 shilling, to son Jacob 1 shilling to daughter Margaret, 1 shilling; to daughter Catrin, 1 shilling; and to daughter Mary, 1 shilling. Proved in Court 1795. This son, Lawrence, was the son of the wife who died at sea on their voyage to America and it is presumed that he remained in Penn. I am informed that in a cemetery near Philadelphia, there are many graves marked "Schiller," our German name.

BARNARD.

The Barnard Family, was one of the ten original owners of Nantucket Island, off the coast of Mass. which they purchased from Indians about 1642, three families of Barnards moved from Nantucket Island, to a place called New Garden, N. C. shortly before the Revolutionary War. My Father, Wm. Marion Shelor, Grandson of Isham and Sally Burch Barnard, repeatedly told me that his grandparents, Isham and Sally Barnard came from Surry Co., N. C. and settled on Dan River, where their youngest son William Barnard lived and died in Patrick Co., Va. Some of the Nantucket Barnards migrated to Guilford Co., N. C. in 1753. Records show that Isham had, at least, two brothers: Archibald and Valentine. Archibald was born in Fluvarnah Co., Va., died Oct. 15, 1855. The information of his death was given by his brother Isham, in the death register p. 27.

THEOREM

Theorem: In a triangle, the sum of the angles is always 180 degrees.

Proof:

Consider a triangle ABC. Let A, B, and C be the vertices of the triangle, and let α, β, and γ be the angles at these vertices, respectively. We need to prove that α + β + γ = 180 degrees.

By the exterior angle theorem, we know that the exterior angle at any vertex of a triangle is equal to the sum of the two non-adjacent interior angles. Therefore, we have:

β = γ + δ

where δ is the exterior angle at vertex A. Similarly, we can write:

γ = α + ε

where ε is the exterior angle at vertex B. Finally, we have:

α = β + η

where η is the exterior angle at vertex C.

Adding these equations, we get:

α + β + γ = (β + δ) + (γ + ε) + (α + η)

Simplifying, we obtain:

α + β + γ = 180 degrees

This completes the proof.
1926, B.A. degree, graduated School of Business Admr. of New York Univ. with Master of B.A. June, 1953.

One Son:

Mary (Polly) was my grandmother. William, the youngest child, was Capt. in the Civil War and never married. A broad shouldered man of fine physique, fine character, and noble spirit. Surrounded by mountains and people who were not refined or educated, he gave them employment, sympathy and advice. He accumulated a goodly fortune for those times and enjoyed the love and respect of all who knew him. In the Bible referred to above is the name of Sara A. Shelor, born Aug. 18, 1834. I am sure this is the name of my father's sister - Sarah Ann Shelor.

The above Lemina Barnard, married James Jennings. He was born April 3, 1813, died March 12, 1867-Yr. not clear, by Rev. Nathaniel Thompson. May 21, 1839. She was born May 3, 1822, died July 3, 1909. Lemina was the Grandmother of George Lafayette Carter, called the "Typhoon" from his great Accumulated wealth of Railroads, Coal Mines and real estate. Estimated to be seventy million dollars. He married Mayetta Wilkerson, one of their Mansions is in Hillsville Carroll Co., Va.

One Son: Lives in New York City.

News from the Civil War. Letter to Pioneer Henry Dillon, of Floyd C.H. written by his beloved son.

From John W. Dillon, Lieut.
Chancellorsville, Va.
May 13, 1863.

Dear Parents, Bros & Sisters:

Since the battle I wrote you a short letter letting you know by the blessing of our good Savior, I was Spared through one of the bloodiest battles of the war. Two Brigs. of our Div. are at or near Hamilton Crossing, the third and ours are left at this point, rather the third Brig. is at United States Ford, and we are left near the battle ground for the purpose to gather up the guns and accoutrement, as we have been doing so naerly ever since the battle. I don't know why we don't rejoin the other part of the Division, as all the assemblies are taken care of. I don't know whether all the sick has been moved or not. I would rather leave this place. I expect it would be the best Camp we could get at, but I would be better satisfied to be with the Army, if anything should happen, of course, our Brig. would have to do the duty, but I don't think anything will be done unless Gen. Lee crosses the river, which I think very probable. I don't know that I have any good reason for thinking so, just an opinion of mine. I suppose you all regretted to hear the death of Gen. Jackson. It is the greatest loss we ever sustained.
It will put a damper over so many of the men. The authorities never can put a man over me that I will have the same confidence as in Jackson. Edward Johnson, is put in command of our Div., reports says. Gen'l. Grimble is dead and another report says Gen'l, Ewell takes Jacksons place. I hope and trust it is not true, I would just as soon have anybody else. He is nothing but a ruffian, always swearing, I would much rather have A. P. Hill, for he is such a nice man, but we must submit to Pres. Davis and Gen'l Lee they probably know best. I don't think we ever will whip the Yankees at this place. If it had not been for Jackson and if he had not been wounded Saturday night, I have no idea we would have lost near so many men. I think he would flank those breast-works before he would have charged those three times.
I have not heard the precise loss of our army—very heavy, I am fearful.
The mail has just come and no letter for me. Why don't you write to me? Luke just got a letter dated the 6th, saying that you had heard of the fight-this letter did not say anything about you all. I suppose you are all well, but I would like so much to hear from home. I am rather inclined to be low spirited, but upon the whole I am cheerful. During the fight and for several days after I could hardly sit up—was so exhausted. I have never before since I have been in the army been so fatigued on a march as I was during the march from Corbins Neck.
Until after the fight at Chancellorsville. I am now all right for another tramp, but have no objection how long we remain in camp. I heard Gen'l Longstreet had arrived with his troop, I suppose by that, that Gen'l Lee intended making a forward movement. If it be true, I suppose we will see the 24th Regt. They missed a heavy fight by being on Blackwater. I suppose by now you know all the particulars about the fight, as you get papers daily. The letter I wrote you a few days ago gave you the list of how many we had killed in our Company. Our Company suffered more than any other Company in the regiment, twenty one killed and 12 or more wounded., not many of them very bad. I see Abe Lincoln has called 5,000,000 more men. He seems to be desperate. He is making a desperate effort to subjugate the South. I trust we may be successful in every fight with them, but after every fight it seems that peace is farther off. I don't think that fighting will ever end this war. Oh/ that peace would come. I am so tired of this war. Capt. Dobyns got a letter from Mr. Goodykoontz, saying he was a candidate. I am very fearful he will beat Mr. Merritt I will be so sorry if Mr. Merritt is beaten this time. The weather has been extremely hot for the last few days since we came to this Camp. I never saw timber put out so rapidly in my life. I would like so much for you to be here with us to see the Yankees fortifications, if they had not been flank, they never could have been driven near us, Gen'l J. E. B. Stuart commanded our corps on Sunday, he is a brave man, he was close to our Division all the time. He was under heavy fire-grape shell & bullets, but he never got hurt. He was for charging all the time during the day. I though several times during the day that we would lose the day. I heard that Roger A. Pryor was going to command our Brig. Our present Gen. Jones will be removed, so I have heard. I don't like Pryor, from accounts of him, if things be true, he is a coward and drunkard, which things don't suit a Brig. Commander. Capt. got a letter from Mr. Merritt. He is at Buinias station in charge of the remainder of our baggage. He had heard from Floyd informing him that Mr. Goodykoontz was a candidate but from the letter he had received he seemed to be in good spirits, I have hopes yet that he will be elected. How do you come on planting corn? I suppose you are through by this time. How does wheat crops look in Floyd? I reckon farmers are making every exertion to raise everything as everything they do raise will bring a good price, such as peas, beans, potatoes, onions in fact everything I could mention. Everybody ought to be at work these times, farming will pay a man to work now. Luke is acting adjutant now and I expect will be made permanently, as soon as Col. A. J. Dyerly takes command. He has been examined for Col. & recommended. Capt. B. W. Leigh has left our Regiment. He was War Volunteer Aid for Gen'l A. P. Hill, in this fight-had his horse shot while on him, he (Leigh) was not hurt, his horse died. It was the same time Hill was wounded and I heard the same time Jackson was wounded, but I don't think so. You must write soon because I am very anxious to hear from home —got no letter since I left Corbin Neck—been sometime since I heard from Floyd, I hope though everybody is well. Give my respects to all inquiring friends. I am fearful I will not get home this summer like I did-most twelve months since I was home.

All Well. Don't fail to write Goodbye
Your Affectionate son and Bro. John W. Willon.

Note: Lieut. John W. Dillon, age 27 yrs. was killed in the Battle of Mine Run, on Friday, Nov. 27, 1863. He is buried in the old Cemetery in Floyd C. H. Va.

William (Buck) Ross, first born of Daniel Ross, Jr. married Mahala Burnett, his son Thomas, m. Ellen Lemon of Franklin Co., and it is his line that follows:
Thomas' son; Thaddeus, m. Dameron Turner.

Nine Children:

1. Leroy, m. Sallie Louvenia Cannaday, (page childrens names given in Jefferson line).

2. Eva, m. first Sam Prillaman, one son, W. T. Prillaman, b. Dec. 10, 1923, m. Nina Dillon. 2nd. m. Posey Ross, Three Children:

   - Lane Ross died in early manhood.

   - Louetta died young.

   - Chester Ross, m. Irene Martin, 2 children: Ronald & Linwood.

3. Lane Ross, deceased, m. Grace France, His son is Lane Jr. Charles Ross, son of Dainel Ross, Jr. Married Louvenia Penn Foster, Dec. 13, 1838. Two of their sons, in early manhood went to California to seek their fortune. They never married and accumulated a fortune, which was inherited by relatives in Patrick & Franklin Counties. Charles Ross was a brother of my Grandmother, Melinda Ross Jefferson. I would like to give the full line of the Daniel Ross Clan to the present time but the space it would occupy forbids.

The Sons who went to California were George and Buck Ross. In giving the names of the children of Thaddeus Ross, I did not then have the names of the two deceased girls—Grace was 12 years old and Hattie died young.

SITUATION

The mission 40N-120 would be conducted in two parts. The first part would be a demonstration of the ultimate in mission capability. The second part would be a demonstration of the ultimate in mission efficiency. The two parts of the mission would be conducted simultaneously.

In the first part of the mission, the ultimate in mission capability would be demonstrated. This would involve the use of the latest in mission technology, including the latest in mission hardware and the latest in mission software. The mission would be conducted in a manner that would demonstrate the ultimate in mission capability.

In the second part of the mission, the ultimate in mission efficiency would be demonstrated. This would involve the use of the latest in mission technology, including the latest in mission hardware and the latest in mission software. The mission would be conducted in a manner that would demonstrate the ultimate in mission efficiency.

The two parts of the mission would be conducted simultaneously. This would allow for the demonstration of both the ultimate in mission capability and the ultimate in mission efficiency in a single mission. The mission would be conducted in a manner that would demonstrate the ultimate in mission capability and the ultimate in mission efficiency.

(A letter from a true American Minister’s wife & Mother.)

Dear Miss Sue:

Having worked with gathering family history information, you will have patience with me in seeming to be slow about getting the enclosed list of facts to you. Maybe you won’t want to use so much detail. Whatever will be of worth to your supplement you are welcome to use. You are to be highly commended for your efforts to preserve the “best fruits” on our family trees!

It has been a long time since I lived in Floyd. Yet, it does not seem to be as many years as it has. Memories stay fresh of people, places, and events that took place when I was growing up. I think, perhaps, my memories may be even more beautiful than the places are now that I used to know. The uncut woods, the little traveled roads with their rustic footlogs, and homes of folk that meant a lot to me as a child—my grandmother Simmons; for instance. The old mill—But the era back then was certainly different from the one we live in now. Mr. Poole’s pastorates have found us living in country, small towns, a large city, and now in a textile and furniture city of over 16,000. A city small enough for folks to know one another fairly well if everyone would stay “put” long enough to put down some roots in the churches, schools, and civic affairs. Many do, but there are many who come and go, looking for even “greener fields.”

Our three children and families live far from us now. The youngest, Marilyn, and her husband moved just a month ago to Chattanooga, Tenn. We really looked forward to seeing them very often while they lived in Greensboro, Jeff, after four years as an assistant pastor in a very large and efficient church set up, was anxious to again have a pastorate of his own. So now he is the pastor a nine year old church that is growing rapidly and is a very religious church, Jeff says. The manse is attractive, electrically heated, and they are delighted to have the first manse of their own. Before they have lived in apartments. They are expecting their first child around the 5th of March. Joe and Margie are expecting their second in May. So, the Lord willing, Henry and I shall be the happy grandparents of five grandchildren instead of the three we now have.

Being a minister’s wife has filled my life with a multitude of activities, Miss Sue. But it has been a good life with Henry. Our children, too, have been such a joy and they are all fine christian adults, on their own, and doing their part contributing things worthwhile in this, their atomic age. Of course, Henry and I keep constantly in our prayers, write often, and they are all very mindful of our welfare. But the growing up years went by so quickly! Over and over I tell the fine class of young women that I teach, “Enjoy your little children and spend as much time as you can with them, and pray, work, and live before and with them in such manner that their lives will be shaped and guided as God would have them to be.”

Miss Sue, may you and your loved ones and friends have the most enjoyable Christmas you have ever had! Good luck with your history!

Lovingly,

Mary Howard Poole

At the close of the war, he entered into partnership with his Father, Dr. Miles Glenn Conduff. (Dentistry.)

Eva Bray, Washburg, Tenn., came to Floyd Co. as Home Demostration Agent, She was and is, a pleasant addition to our County. Kent is Agent for Nation Wide Insurance Co.

Roger de 'la Feld born about 1240, descendant of Sir Hubertus, lived at Sowersby England, was head of the family that settled in Lancaster and New Kent Cos. He had a son named Thomas and other children.

William Feild born 1598 came to Va. 1621, and died. He was the first of his family to come to America. His name appears in the muster of Capt. Matthews 1624. James Feild, son of Theophilus and Alice was born in England in 1694 and died, he came to Va. in the “Swan” 1624. Not being of age and wishing to pass without formalities, he was entered as a servant. He married and lived in Henrico, Va. His children: James Field and Maj. Peterfeild and others.

The first certain ancestor of Thomas Jefferson, the President, was Thomas Jefferson who was living in Henrico Co., Va., at the time the extant records begin in 1677. The family while resident in Henrico Co. was not of the wealthiest planter class, but every reference to them in the records show they were highly respectful and of comfortable estate. One of the earliest mention of the name is in the will of Christopher Branch of “Kingsland” on the James River dated June 20, 1678, and proved Feb. 21, 1683. He makes a bequest to his Granddaughter, wife of Thomas Jefferson, Mary, and appoints Jefferson as one of the executors. Other records show that Mary was the daughter of William and Jane Branch. Jane married Abel Groves after William’s death. There was a John Jefferson in Va. In 1619, who represented Flowerdew Hundred in the first Gen. Assembly at Jamestown. July 30, 1619. He was a London Merchant, he came to Va. about 1618, on the “Bona Nova”, there were several Jeffersons who came to Va. between that time and when we are able to locate the first Ancestor of the President.
Thomas Jefferson born 1707. His will was probated Dec. 6, 1707. In 1677 he lived in Curls Neck, Va., was a farmer with little capital, but went forward on the road to fortune and a genteel station, and became a man of considerable estate, had some prowess as a hunter, became a surveyor establishing a tradition in the family. He married Mary (Martha) Branch daughter of William Branch of “kings-land” He mentioned Mary Jefferson in his will. After his death Mary, his widow married Joseph Mattox of Charles City Co. Nov. 16, 1708. Their Children were: Thomas Jefferson, married Mary Feild. Martha married Winn.

Thomas Jefferson, son of Thomas Jefferson and Mary Branch Jefferson was born 1677, and died Feb. 18, 1731. His will is dated March 15, 1725, Proved in Henrico Co., 1731. Nov. 20, 1697, he married Mary Feild, daughter of Maj. Peter Feild and Judith Soane Randolph, who was the daughter of Henry Soane, Speaker of the House of Burgesses, 1660–1661 and the widow of Henry Randolph. He received grants of land on several occasions for the importation of persons into the Colonies, one was 1,500 A. on Fine Creek. His home was referred to as Jefferson’s Landing, later as Osborne. He owned a racing mare, racing was past time for the gentry, was one of the “Gentleman Justices, before he was 30 yrs. old, for about 20 yrs. was also sheriff Henrico Co. and recompensed for extraordinary service. He was Capt. of the Melitia. There is no clue to his personality, but he must have been vigorous and there can be no question of his official standing or sense of public responsibility. He is said to have built a church in Bristol Parish, called “Jefferson’s Church,” for half a century. When Peter was 8 yrs. old, Thomas’ wife died (Mary) Aug. 15, 1715. He married again—a widower who when he died. Thomas and Mary Feild Jefferson, had 6 children. Judith born Aug. 30, 1698, married William. Thomas born Sept. 24, 1700, married . *Feild born March 6, 1702, married Mary France. *Peter, born Feb. 29, 1707, died Aug. 17, 1757. married Jane Randolph. Mary; born died (married Thos. Turpin. Martha born died.

*Our ancestor. Father of President Jefferson.

Feild Jefferson, son of Thomas Jefferson and Mary Feild, born March 6, 1702, Henrico Co., Va., died Feb. 19, 1765, in Lunenburg Co. He married first Mary Frances Robertson, supposed daughter of Rev. George Robertson, Mary was born in 1706, died Feb. 26, 1750. Field married 2nd, Mary Allen, (widow) Oct. 31, 1753. Article of Agreement on file Clerks Office, Boydton, Va. No children. He moved from Henrico Co. to Lunenburg and lived in the part which is now Mecklenburg, Va. on the Roanoke River, 10 miles from Boydton, near U. S. Route 1. and is buried there near the old home “Clifton”, which was burned years ago. His will is dated June 6, 1762. Active in church, civic and County. Served many years as vestry man of St. James Parish, was church warden, Justice of the Peace, Sheriff, Col. of the Horse Melitia of Va., a large land and slave owner. Seven children: Thomas, retarded invalid, Peterfield married Elizabeth Allen. George Robertson married Elizabeth Garland. John Robertson married Elizabeth Broome, daughter of Dr. Thomas Broome of London, Eng. Mary mar-

de la Feld—Feild.

Mary Feild, daughter of Maj. Peter Feild and Judith Soane Randolph Feild born Feb. 23, 1679, Henrico Co., Va. married Thomas Jefferson, son of Feild Jefferson and Mary Frances Robertson Five Children: Judith, Thomas, Feild, Peter, Martha. Feild was our Ancestor and Peter was father of the President.

Note: I have been able to give the genealogy of the de la Fields—Feilds and Jefferson through the kindness of my Cousin, Lulu West, who spent considerable time in research—in Counties and Clerks Offices where the Jeffersons lived. I am, indeed, grateful to her for this record of our ancestors.

Ella Virginia Jefferson, born Feb. 18, 1837, Died March 25, 1928, married, Dr. Joseph Clark, Aug. 8, 1860, (Dr. Clark was son of Jacob and Jane Stoval Clark) married by Rav. Henry Johnson and lived in

The First Four lived in Pa. where they paid Quit Rents, later they lived near Strausburg, Va. then they drifted along New River where Adam & Jacob were living in 1745. Adam, was born in Germany, in 1700, married Louisa Kathrina, They lived in the Valley of the Rhine for awhile. They came to America, 1726. Many of the South West Va. Harmans are descendants of Adam Harman. The Floyd County Harmans are descendants of his brothers. They and their sons gave invaluable service in Indian & Revolutionary warfare, and in civilizing the Western Wilderness. At the present time, their descendants are among the foremost Influential Southwest Virginians. Jacob Harman, owned a large tract of land in the rich Horseshoe Bend, of New River, below Radford, He and his son were killed by the Indians in 1757. Missionaries from Bethlehem, Pa. held services in his house and Lutheran mothers had their infants baptized, 1750. The Harmans, had rude homes and few comforts, but it is said they were strong and kind and of profound religious feeling. The first of all the settlements on the Western Waters was 1748, Mr. & Mrs. George Draper and children—John & Mary were settlers on the “Draper’s Meadows. In 1746, Adam & Jacob Harman, George Draper, & a young man, named McGary, went on a hunting and exploring trip, around the headquarters of Clinch & Big Sandy rivers, and were attacked by Shawnee Indians. The Harmans escaped but Draper and McGary were killed. Indian troubles began in 1754, and continued through the French & Indian War. The settlers West of the New River line were killed captured or driven away. The New River line held firm, due to the bold spirit and fighting power of the Harmans. In the Draper’s Meadows Massacre of 1755, Mrs. George Draper was killed and her daughter, Mary taken prisoner. Her story has often been told—how she got away from the Indians, pushing through bushes briars & rocks, following the river, without food until she came to Gunpowder Spring where she was rescued from exhaustion and starvation by Adam Harman and his two sons, and they nursed her back to strength and safety to the Dunkards Bottom Fort. In after years Adam spent much of his time among the Moravians, Winston-Salem, N. C. with his brothers... and sons. He was a Lutheran but closely tied with the Moravian. He died in New River, Va. 1767. Matthias, it appears, lived in Floyd Co., Va. and Father of that line of Harmans. Valentine was killed by Indians, while hunting with one of Adam’s sons, on Sinking Creek, 1757. His Nephew, Daniel, was standing within a foot of him when he was shot. Daniel was taken prisoner but finally made his escape. Raymond Lewis Harman, son of Stuart & Etta Harris Harman, is a descendant of the first Harman settlers. After his mother’s death he came to live with my brother Edward & myself. He was b. Nov. 23, 1917, in Bloom, Kansas, m. Beulah Mae Keith, b. May 6, 1921, m. Oct. 5, 1940. Three Children: Edward Stuart, b. May 17, 1941, Graduated Floyd Hi. 1959. now in Ferrum Jr. Col. Linda Alice, b. Aug. 7, 1943, in Floyd Hi. Patsy Mae, b. April 1, 1947, in Floyd Hi.

Goodridge Wilson, in his “Southwest Corner” of the Roanoke-Times wrote a few years ago that: “In the Indian troubles that began in 1754, and lasted throughout the French & Indian War, the settlers West of the New River Line were killed, captured or driven off but the New River Line held firm, largely due to the bold, stubborn spirit and fighting prowess of the Harmans and it was Adam Harman, who under orders of Capt. Wade, pursued a band of Cherokee Indians Across New River and killed a number of them." The first name of Capt. Wade was not given.

Kennedy or Cannaday.

This Feb. President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, received from Wexford County, Ireland, a 200 year old Silver Christening Cup and an Irish wish in poetry for life's best gifts for his young son, John Jr. He sent back to the Irish a small piece of the plank of the Inauguration platform on which he stood and took the oath of office, engraved in silver and the inscription: "With greetings and appreciation to County Wexford, Ireland. J. F. Kennedy. President of the United States of America." He recalled that his Great Grandfather, James Kennedy came to America from Ireland to East Boston to become a barrel maker. Who else but an Irishman could have the endurance the President has had? He was a Senator from Mass. and elected President of the U.S. by a small margin over Richard Nixon of Cal. He said in his campaign for the Democratic party, that the next president would be heavily burdened. A cartoon in the Roanoke-Times, showed him carrying the globe of the world on his shoulders. The Communists are striving to rule the world and sensing this fact the Democrats and Republicans are united in this one plan to keep our Country free and independent.

Let us pray for peace and keep this memory verse in mind, you young people: "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His Righteousness and all these things will be added unto you.

The Treasure, flory counter flory, (border) is born in the Arms of Scotland, and is held to be the emblem of preservation or protection. This is an ancient charge and is said to have been ACHAINS KING of SCOT, by CHARLEMAGE, in order to signify that the French LILLIES should defend the SCOTCH LION.

Parney says the double Treasure in Arms was first assumed by Robert Stuart, to testify his approval of the alliance, which he had renewed with King Charles V. of France. So this border adopted by one of the Scottish Kings to Commemorate the close alliance which existed between France and Scotland.

Early Cannadays “Kennedy” of Virginia, claim descent from the Earles of Cassillis, Scotland.

Reverend Thomas Kennedy, son of Gilbert Kennedy, and nephew of the sixth Earl of Cassill, was Chaplin to General Monroe who came to Ireland, with the Army in 1642. Two of his sons were presbyterian ministers.

Rev. John (Kennedy) Cannaday of Newton, Cunningham Co., Bonegal, Ireland, died after 1786, married Lilly and children born in Ireland emigrated to Pennsylvania to join members of the family, who had gone there in 1720.

The Bower was at Martinsburg, Va., which town is now listed in West Virginia, (This is taken from Hort’s book, “Irish Pedigrees” which agrees with that of the Scotch.) The Scotch Kennedys went to Ireland with the army in 1642.

The Robt. lineage says that John Kennedy, C. M. G. of Cultra
TYPICAL TENT VOLTAGE

A typical tent voltage system uses a generator to provide power to the tent. The generator is connected to the tent with a power cord. The power cord is then connected to a power outlet inside the tent. The power outlet is then used to power various devices such as lights, fans, and other electrical appliances.

SAFETY

It is important to follow proper safety procedures when using a generator. Always ensure that the generator is properly rated for the intended use and that it is placed in a well-ventilated area. Additionally, it is important to use proper extension cords and to avoid overloading the generator.

EMERGENCY

In case of an emergency, always have an emergency plan in place. This includes having a list of emergency contacts and identifying a safe meeting point.

MISCELLANEOUS

Miscellaneous items such as tools, food, and water should also be included in the camping kit.
