Elijah's coming and office.

CHAP. IV.

1 God's judgment on the wicked, and his blessing on the good. 5 Of Elijah's coming and office.

For, behold, the day cometh that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the Lord of hosts, that it shall leave them neither root nor branch.

And unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet, in the day that I shall do this, saith the Lord of hosts.

But remember ye the law of Moses my servant, which I commanded you, and I will remember my covenant with Levi.

Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord:

And he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and smite the earth with a curse.

See That My Grave's Kept Green

Verse 1:
When I am laid away in my grave,
When my spirit has gone to heaven above,
To Him who my soul will give,
When you are happy and gay once more,
Thinking of days that have been,
This one little wish I ask of you—
See that my grave is kept green.

Chorus:
O' the days will come to you, darling,
When no more on earth I'll be seen,
One sweet little wish, darling, grant me—
See that my grave is kept green.

Verse 2:
Though the hours of joy now are passing,
Yet how soon, alas! they will fade—
Though your glances of love are meeting my own
Fair sunlight will turn to shade.
When from the world and its hopes I go,
Leave forever this scene—
Though others are dead, ah! will you then
See that my grave's kept green?—Chorus.

Verse 3:
Will you keep me, love, in remembrance,
Though the voice of chiding is heard,
And while others may speak in censure or blame
It's breather no unkindly word?
Tell me you'll think of the past,
Think of the joys we have seen;
This one little promise keep for me—
See that my grave's kept green.—Chorus.
