EDITORIAL

If only Great-Grandmother [fill in the blank] had written down some information about her family? How often have we said these words in our search for our families’ roots? Why is it that many of our female progenitors failed to leave any records of their having existed?

Of course there are all the common excuses. “Women did not usually own property.” “Women just kept house and were not usually involved in business dealings.” It is almost as if these people only existed to bear the children of the family. They took on their husband’s names and, in most instances, lost all nominal identity to their own progenitors. This is evidenced by the number of headstones we see in cemeteries which state, “Mary Jane - wife of John Jones,” or a headstone with the husbands surname with just the given names and dates of the couple listed below, “Jones - John 1805-1864, Mary Jane 1808-1876.”

We can not help what has been done in the past. But, have we thought and planned about what will happen in the future? Have YOU made plans for what is to be done when the inevitable occurs? We are starting a crusade among family historians to encourage all of our family members, both female and male alike, to prepare at least written instructions of what we wish to appear on our headstones. A better idea is to have our headstones (exclusive of one important date) prepared ahead of time so that they convey the information WE want rather than what someone thinks is proper after the fact.

Most of us don’t like to think of these things and, as a result, we tend to put them off. Just imagine though, decades from now, our descendants looking at our headstone. What would we like them to see? We believe that it should show them that we cared enough about our family and its history to guaranty that the information we have worked so long and hard for, is preserved and available for their exploration. Think how exciting it might be one day in the distant future when a grr-grt-granddaughter is taken to a cemetery to see where her family is placed and there on one of the headstones is the statement “FAMILY HISTORY DEPOSITED IN THE VIRGINIA STATE ARCHIVES.” Just this one little phrase might be enough to spark a life-long interest in genealogy.

And, while we’re at it, how about the rest of the headstone? Remember how thrilled you were when you found one headstone that gave not only the wife’s maiden name and dates but stated who her mother and father were. These people were obviously proud of their family and wanted their descendants to know it. We are proud of our families, too, or we would not go to such lengths in our research.

So, with the start of this New Year, let us resolve that we will 1) place our research materials in a secure repository (local library or state archive), 2) make at least a written plan of what we wish to have written on our headstone — if not actually have the headstone prepared, and 3) prepare written instructions of our desires and leave them with our legal representative. If we plan for the future, then we can be assured our past is secure.

BOOK REVIEWS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The following books may be ordered from Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897. (800) 296-6687. Please include $3 postage for one book, $1 for each additional book. Sales tax: Maryland residents 5%; Michigan residents 4%.

John Bennett Boddie, Seventeenth Century Isle of Wight County, Virginia, viii, 756 pp; photos; maps; every-name index; subject index; cloth (6x9); 1938, rprt. 1994. This extensive work deals with the earliest history and inhabitants of Isle of Wight County which encompasses the present day counties of Isle of Wight, Southampton and part of Greensville. The author quotes from narratives about the earliest encounters between the colonists and the Indians of the region. From there he continues on with the settlement of the region, with chapters dealing with Puritans, Pilgrims, Cavaliers, and Quakers. This is then followed by detailed biographies (genealogies) of numerous early Isle of Wight families. Almost one-third of the volume yields abstracts of the following: Isle of Wight Book A; Will and Deed Book I, 1662-1686; Deed Book I, 1688-1704; Land Grants, 1628-1674; Land Grants, 1674-1705; and Quit Rents, 1704. Also included is a listing of “County Officers from Isle of Wight and surrounding counties.” The work is extensively footnoted with source material thoroughly documented. Having been out of print since 1980, this reprint is a welcome addition to any researcher of Southside Virginia.

Daughters of the American Revolution, Genealogical Guide - Master Index of Genealogy in the Daughters of the American Revolution Magazine, Volumes 1-84, 1892-1950, with Supplement, Volumes 85-89, 1950-1955, 169 pp; cloth (6x9); 1951, 1956, rprt. 1994. $20.00. This work has been reprinted with a new Introduction by Eric G. Grundset, Library Director of the NSDAR. In his introduction, Mr. Grundset defines the importance of this work to the genealogist. Having been in continuous publication since 1892, the DAR Magazine is the official publication of the NSDAR. It not only provides its members with the workings of the Society but has published many genealogical queries, record abstracts, and Bible transcriptions. The Guide provides a “cumulative index” of all of these publications. More than forty members of the Elizabeth Benton Chapter, of Kansas City, Missouri, compiled the entries for this work, which was originally published in 1951. Nearly 39,000 references were accumulated and indexed in the original Guide. Five years later, these same individuals produced the Supplement. Now, in this one book, the researcher can locate any genealogical entry from the first 89 volumes of the DAR Magazine. As this magazine may be found in virtually every genealogical library in the US, the Guide is a most valuable tool to the researcher.

The following monographs are reprints of Jamestown 350th Anniversary Booklets Number 4 through 8, which were originally published in 1957. These short publications provide individual glimpses of the foundations and life of the Virginia Colony during its first 70 years, and may be of immense interest to those interested in the earliest history of Virginia. They may be purchased from Clearfield Company, Inc., 200 E. Eager St., Baltimore, MD 21202. (410) 625-9004. Please include $3 postage for one book, $1 for each additional book. Sales tax: Maryland residents 5%; Michigan residents 4%.

Samuel M. Bemiss, The Three Charters of the Virginia Company of London, With Seven Related Documents; 1606-1621, ix, 128 pp; paper (6x9); 1957, rprt. 1993. $15.00. As stated in the Introduction, “The text of the three charters of the Virginia Company is taken from a contemporary copy recently discovered among the Chancery Rolls of the Public Record Office in London....” These charters and their supporting documents represent the earliest forms of the parliamentary system which have since evolved into our government in the United States. They define the limits and control given the Virginia Company during the first 15 years of the colony’s existence and list its stockholders in both England and Virginia.

Wesley Frank Craven, The Virginia Company of London, 1606-1624, 57 pp; illus.; paper (6x9); 1957, rprt. 1993. $10.00. This is not a history of the colony of Virginia per se but of that of the Virginia Company. In the words of the first paragraph, “Here the focus belongs to the adventurers in England whose hopes gave shape to the settlement at Jamestown, and whose determination brought the colony through many disappointments of its first years.” This monograph explores the many facets of the Virginia Company; its organization and Charters (see above), its membership, voyages, settlement of the colony, and ultimately its dissolution.

Charles E. Hatch, Jr., The First Seventeen Years — Virginia, 1607-1624, 118 pp; illus.; map; biblio.; paper (6x9); 1957, rprt. 1993. $15.00. This booklet is roughly divided into two sections. The first deals with the founding of the colony of Virginia by the Virginia Company and touches on the many events and difficulties occurring during the period 1607-1624. The second part contains individual vignettes of over 50 early settlements and plantations, and identifies their founders and early inhabitants.

Wilcomb E. Washburn, Virginia Under Charles I and Cromwell, 1625-1660, 64 pp; illus.; maps; biblio.; paper (6x9); 1957, rprt. 1993. $9.50. This booklet continues Virginia history where the above leaves off. This period encompasses a growth in population from 1232 to more than 30,000, and the expansion of settlements from a narrow ribbon along the James River to all of the Tidewater region. In 1625, the new King, Charles I, voided the Charter of the Virginia Company and brought the colony under his direct control. The period ends with the recall of William Berkeley by the Virginia Assembly. This time period is punctuated by upheavals in its form of government.

Thomas J. Wertenbaker, Bacon's Rebellion, 1676, 60 pp; illus.; map; biblio.; paper (6x9); 1957, rprt. 1993. $9.50. This booklet continues the story of Governor William Berkeley described above. It then examines the circumstances surrounding Bacon’s Rebellion, a major event in Virginia’s early history. Nathaniel Bacon, cousin of Berkeley, lead a group of settlers who were displeased over the Governor’s lack of concern for their safety and economic condition. This significant incident, quite often ignored, involved some 2000 of Virginia’s early settlers and may well have set the stage for rebellions in the next two centuries.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MRS. DOROTHY WILLIAMS POTTER WISHES TO ANNOUNCE the release of the Second Edition of 1820 North Carolina Census, Supplemented with Tax Lists (1993). 522 pp; intro.; map; cloth (8½ x 11); $49.75 plus $3.50 shipping. A census of more than usual merit, this book lists over 78,000 heads of household. All fifty-six counties for which census enumerations have been preserved are included. Additionally, tax lists for Wake and Franklin counties are incorporated to compensate for the lost census records of those counties. Previously published by the Genealogical Publishing Company, this new edition is a greatly expanded work. Please order from the author at 200 Sheffield Place, Nashville, TN 37215-3235.

NANCY B. SAMUELSON WISHES TO ANNOUNCE the release of The Dalton Gang Story — Lawmen to Outlaws. 183 pp; photos; copies of documents; copies of newspaper stories; 8½ x 11; $25.00 plus $3.00 shipping. CT residents add 6% sales tax. This book is the result of eight years of detailed research in Pittsylvania and Bedford counties VA, and in KY, TN, MO, KS, OK and CA, and contains genealogies of several related families. Federal and local court records, the records of the U.S. Marshal’s Service, family records and photographs, and numerous newspaper sources have been located and are revealed for the first time in this book. This is the real story of the Dalton Gang, not another collection of the myths and legends. Order from the author at Shooting Star Press, PO Box 359, Eastford, CT 06242.

ALBERT L. HARWELL, EDITOR, ANNOUNCES the publication of The Harwell Researcher, the official publication of the National Harwell Family Association. Benjamin Potter King Family Bible and Inscriptions
Transcribed by Kathryn Sawyer Hooper

Research performed by Dorothy G. Pilout, Sutherland, Virginia, January 8, 1937.

Location: The home of Mr. W. Potter Sterne, Dinwiddie Court House, Virginia.

Date: 1823, date of the marriage of Benjamin Potter King and Sally Wilkinson.

Owners: Mr. W. Potter Sterne (1937).

Historical Significance:

The following was copied from an old family Bible now belonging to Mr. W. Potter Sterne, of Dinwiddie, Virginia; and was given to him by his mother Mrs. Virginia Arabella Ettenborough (Mrs. W. M. Sterne). Mrs Virginia Arabella Sterne is the grand daughter of Benjamin Potter King and Sally Wilkinson King first mentioned in the Family Record.

This is a large leather bound book containing the Old and New Testaments together with the Apocrypha, Translated out of the original tongues, and with the former translations diligently compared and revised, by the Special Command of His Majesty King James of England with Marginal Notes and References to Which are Added An Indes — An Alphabetical Table of Scripture Weights, Measures and Coins — Embellished with Twenty Five Maps and Historical Engravings — Philadelphia — H. C. Carey and I. Lea, Chestnut St., 1822.

The front leaf is torn out of this Bible, but it evidently was the Family Bible of Benjamin Potter King and Sally Wilkinson King. (The name Wilkinson is spelt Wilkison is [sic] most every place in the family record.) They were the grand parents of Mrs. V. Arabella Sterne on her maternal side her mother was Eliza Jane King, and married William Ettenborough.

Brunswick County Migrations

Allen James, Attorney at Law
Compiled by Ray Sasser

The 1850 Rutherford Co., Tenn., census indicates that Allen James was born in 1790 in Virginia and that his wife was Ann P. James, age 43. He married first Ann C. Wilkinson, mb 7 Dec. 1819, daughter of William Wilkinson, and had two daughters: Sarah A.W. James and Mary Louisa James. 1 By 1826 he had married Ann P. Butts. Allen James of Brunswick Co., Va. conducted numerous land transactions in that county from 28 Nov. 1821 2 to 25 March 1833. 3 In a deed of 13 Nov. 1835, “Allen James & Ann P. James, formerly Butts,” are referred to for the first time as being “of Rutherford Tenn.” 4 In one earlier deed 5 reference is made to Allen James of Petersburg. Allen James was not the first of the Brunswick County Jameses to migrate to Rutherford County, Tenn., for John Pease James, whose will Allen would later be commissioned to attempt to annul (see below), had moved there in 1811. Allen James wrote his will in Brunswick County on 21 Sept. 1843, beginning with the words “I Allen James of Rutherford County Tennessee at present being in my native County of Brunswick, Virginia....” He names his wife Ann P. James, Sarah A. W. [Poynor?] and Mary Louisa Buford (his two daughters by his first marriage), his brother William James, and the unnamed children of his second marriage, the oldest of whom is not yet twenty-two years old. The will was proved in Rutherford County in April 1851 and proved in Brunswick County February 1853. 6

Know all men by these presents that I John Braswell of the County of Brunswick and State of Virginia having intermarried with Elizabeth James a legitimate daughter of John James late of the State of Tennessee and whereas the said John James having departed this life sometime since died left a will in which it appears he has left me or his said daughter Elizabeth a very Small part of his estate, having at the same time left to some others of his children large legacies compared to the one left to me or his said daughter Elizabeth which is not in accordance with his declarations made to me at Sundry times, which induces me to believe that the said John James was not in his right mind at the time of making his will and therefore incapable of making one. Now therefore I hereby make, constitute and appoint my friend Allen James of Rutherford County Tennessee my true and lawful Attorney for me and in my name to use all legal means and ways to annul the will of the said John James to sue for recover and receive for me in right of my wife Elizabeth an equal part of the Estate of the said John James and for all monies debts and other property so received by my said Attorney he is hereby authorized to grant acquaintances for the same as fully and effectually as if done by myself in person. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal this the 22 day of January 1841

Historical Tidbits

We recently received a letter from Mrs. Charles Pickett, a new subscriber from Farmville, Virginia. Mrs. Pickett noted that in Volume XI, No. 2, on page 70, there is a reference to “Nine Ells Dowless.” She writes:

An ell is an old measurement for cloth, and dowlass (dowlas) is cloth. My Webster’s Collegiate Dictionary, Fifth Edition, defines ell thus: “A measure, chiefly of cloth, now little used. It varies between the English ell of 45 inches and the old Dutch or Flemish ell of 27”.

This piqued our interest, so we investigated on our own and came up with the following definitions from The World Book Dictionary, 1981, Doubleday & Company, Inc., Chicago, Illinois.

ell - a measure of length, chiefly used in measuring cloth. In England, where it was formerly used, it was equal to 45 inches. (Figurative.) Give him an inch and he’ll take an ell. Also. el. [Old English eln (originally) length of the lower arm]

dowlas - 1 a course linen cloth much used in the 1500’s and 1600’s. 2 a cotton cloth like this.

Thus it appears that this entry in Robert Blight’s will of 1710/11 was bequeathing a specific length of coarse linen cloth.

We appreciate Mrs. Pickett calling our attention to this detail. It is the little things such as this which make the study of Southside history so interesting. We encourage all of our readers to submit short pieces which may give us all further insight into the day-to-day activities of our forebearers.

SOUTHWARK CHURCH

The above Virginia Historical Marker numbered K-229 is located in Surry County, on State Route 10, 3½ miles West of Surry Courthouse. It states “Four miles northeast are the ruins of this church, built before 1673.”
The Southside Virginian

The Southside Virginian, published since 1983, is owned by Kathryn Sawyer Hooper and Christopher M. Hooper, P. O. Box 3684, Richmond, VA 23235. It is published quarterly, with issues appearing in January, April, July, and October of each year. Subscriptions are $20.00 per year, postage included, and are on a calendar year basis, with subscribers receiving all issues for the year in which they subscribe. Back issues, where available, are $25.00 per volume (4 issues). Reprints of back issues are $40.00 per volume (4 issues). Please inform the publishers, at the above address, of any change in address.

The Southside Virginian, solicits unpublished source material of genealogical and historical significance to researchers of Southside Virginia which includes the counties of Amelia, Appomattox, Bedford, Brunswick, Buckingham, Campbell, Charlotte, Chesterfield, Cumberland, Dinwiddie, Franklin, Greensville, Halifax, Henry, Isle of Wight, Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Nansemond, Norfolk, Nottoway, Pittsylvania, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Prince George, Princess Anne, Southampton, Surry, and Sussex. Efforts are made to balance the material published so that the greatest coverage of the geographical area can be achieved. All materials submitted for publication should be well documented and be factually accurate. Every effort is made to check submitted materials for accuracy and originality, but neither the owners or staff of The Southside Virginian can assume responsibility for errors on the part of its contributors. Corrections of proven errors will appear in subsequent issues of the magazine.

All material appearing in The Southside Virginian is copyrighted in the name of The Southside Virginian. This copyright protects all original materials published, and is not intended to interfere with the copyright of any materials quoted or cited by our authors. It is understood that records in the public domain cannot be copyrighted. Transcriptions and abstracts of such records as deeds, probated wills, tax records, tombstone inscriptions, etc., can be protected in the form in which they are submitted. The form this material takes in The Southside Virginian is covered by the general copyright of the magazine. Contributors should use extreme care not to infringe on the copyright of others. Neither the owners or staff of The Southside Virginian are responsible for any infringement of copyrights by its contributors. The Virginia State Archives needs YOUR HELP. Did you know that: 1) the Virginia State Archives has a greater number of visitors each day than any other state (twice that of Texas, four times that of Massachusetts); 2) the "Archives" is not an independent entity, but a step-child of the Virginia State Library; 3) the Archives received in fiscal years 1992-93 and 1993-94 only 11% of the $20.3 million budget for the Virginia State Library & Archives; 4) only $7000 was allotted in the last budget for continued conservation and restoration of original documents; 5) there are enormous archival holdings that include county court records, solicited by the Archives from the county court clerks, that have not been inventoried, preserved or made available to the public; 6) these records continue to be inaccessible to those persons who have legitimate research interest in those holdings; 7) there are currently no plans to inventory or preserve these records, and as unprocessed records, they are slated to be stored off-site at a warehouse (These include, but are not limited to, county loose papers and original volumes, tax records, original state papers, military records, and land records).

What is being done? The Virginia Genealogical Society and Friends of the Virginia State Archives have started a campaign to separate the Archives from the Library Division so that it will no longer be short-changed when it comes to budget allocation. They have lobbied for increased funding for the Archives so that "our" records will be properly preserved and made available to those wishing access. In the legislative session just completed, they were successful in having a resolution passed "To Establish a Committee to Study the Reorganization of the State Library and Archives into Two Separate Entities."

What can YOU do? If you live in Virginia, write the Governor, your delegate and your state senator. If you live outside Virginia, write the Governor and the members of the Appropriations Committees listed below. Let them know how important it is to all of us that the preeminent Archives in the United States not be short-changed in these times of budget constraints. Let them know that once records are destroyed, they can never be recovered. Let them know what a tourist draw the Archives is to people visiting from out-of-state. Let them know that these visitors spend MONEY on books and copies of Virginia records, and stay at local hotels and eat at local restaurants. Tell them that you want not only Virginia’s, but our nation’s, heritage preserved for our children and our children’s children.

The following addresses should be used for contacting Virginia officials who will have an impact on this issue.

The Honorable George F. Allen
Governor of Virginia
State Capitol, Third Floor
Richmond, VA 23212

The Honorable Robert Ball
Delegate, Virginia Assembly
General Assembly Bldg.
PO Box 406
Richmond, VA 23202

The Honorable Hunter Andrews
Senator, Virginia General Assembly
Chairman, Senate Appropriations Committee
PO Box 396
Richmond, VA 23202

The majority of the records which we publish in each issue of The Southside Virginian, have been accessed through the Virginia State Archives. In this way the Archives serves a much wider audience than just the actual visitors. Because of this access, we are able to share the Archives with people all over the United States.

The politicians who control the purse strings of the Archives only respond to this type of issue when there is a large out-pouring of public support. Won’t YOU pick up your pen and paper right now and write the individuals listed above. With your help, we can insure that the Virginia State Archives grows and the records which have been created by our ancestors continue to be available to any who wish to take the time to explore their vast wealth of knowledge.

BOOK REVIEWS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The following books may be ordered from Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897. (800) 296-6687. Please include $3 postage for one book, $1 for each additional book. Sales tax: Maryland residents 5%; Michigan residents 4%.

William Dollarhide, Genealogy Starter Kit, v, 26 pp.; genealogy charts; paper (8½x11); 1994. $8.95. As stated in the Preface, “The object of this booklet is to reduce the process of genealogical research to its most basic elements, ...” The “Kit” begins with a concise seven point methodology of gathering essential facts for any genealogical project. Those steps, contained in the How to Start section are: interviewing family members, contacting relatives, writing for death records, following up on death records, census searching, LDS library searching, and state and county searching. A Where to Find More section provides names and addresses of specific places where information can be obtained. These locations include: vital records offices of all fifty states, the various branches of the National Archives, and the major genealogical libraries and societies in the US, arranged by region. Finally, the booklet contains reproducible copies of the Master Forms utilized by all genealogical researchers; Family Group Sheet, Pedigree Chart, and Family Data Sheet. Whether you are a novice or a practiced researcher, you will find something of value in this compact edition. For the beginner, the basic materials and know-how are provided. For the expert, a succinct list of sources provides an easy aid to research. At this price, every genealogist should have one.

Ernest Thode, Address Book for Germanic Genealogy, Fifth Edition, 174 pp; maps; paper (8½x11); 1994. $24.95. With the re-unification of East and West Germany, the author was compelled to revise his extensive work on Germanic research sources. Not only were the two countries reunited, but a common postal code system was instituted which required the re-compilation of all previous addresses. The changes in Germany were not the only problems the author had to contend with. The other countries of Eastern Europe have seen much transition and turmoil, which required extensive revision to this work. This book provides names and addresses of the following sources of materials for those searching Germanic ancestry: Genealogical, Historical, and German-Related Societies Outside Europe; Archives in America; German-American Religious Organizations; German-American and/or American Genealogical Booksellers and Importers; Foreign Offices in America; German-Language Newspapers in North America; Map Sources; Ship and Riverboat Records; National, Regional, and Specialized Archives; Municipal Archives; European Religious Archives; Genealogical and Historical Societies; European Genealogical Publishers; National and Regional Libraries; German Museums; Genealogists. Finally, the book provides copies of form letters in German (with English translations) which can be utilized to correspond with sources in Germany. Finally, a section on “Useful Phrases for Inserting in Form Letters,” is provided so that the user can personalize their correspondence. It is difficult to imagine anyone trying to perform Germanic research without the aid of this exhaustive volume.

Stuart E. Brown, Jr., Lorraine F. Myers, and Eileen M. Chappel, Pocahontas’ Descendants, A Revision, Enlargement and Extension of the List as Set Out by Wyndham Robertson in His Book Pocahontas and Her Descendants (1887), combined with two volumes of corrections and additions, 716 pp; illus.; index; cloth (6x9); 1985, 1992, 1994. $50.00

This extensive work contains the latest research from all of the leading authorities on the progeny of John Rolfe and Pocahontas, which today number in the tens of thousands. Endorsed by the Pocahontas Society, this volume updates the work performed by Wyndham Robertson, with all currently available evidence cited. Pocahontas’ descendants are traced to the present time. Various theories and supporting materials are presented and are thoroughly and impartially discussed. The conclusions reached are presented in a logical and scholarly manner, and the corrections and additions contained in the volumes of 1992 and 1994 have been appended to the base volume, which was published in 1985. The index contains well over 30,000 names. This highly controversial subject, from a genealogical standpoint, has been treated with great thoroughness, and the material is presented without bias. This is an exceptional work and should be consulted by any who seek information on the earliest of Virginia families.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

GANT(T) FAMILY NEWSLETTER. This is to announce that a new quarterly newsletter on the Gant(t) family of America, entitled “Ganttrees,” is being published. This newsletter will carry on the work begun in the book John Gant ca 1713-1783 of Virginia and North Carolina which was published last year by Clifford L. Gant (See review in Volume XI, No. 3 of this publication.) The annual subscription price is $10 and may be ordered through Ben Gantt at 12319 Perthshire, Houston, TX 77024.

DESCENDANTS OF VALENTINE HOLLINGSWORTH, Sr. SOCIETY announces that the 1994 Hollingsworth Reunion will be held July 16, 1994, at Winchester, VA. Contact: Robert S. 1994 will mark the 130th Anniversary of the Battle of Cedar Creek which was fought in Virginia’s beautiful Shenandoah Valley. On that foggy morning of October 19, 1864, Gen. Early’s troops surprised the Union forces under the command of the absent Gen. Phil Sheridan. Later that afternoon, Sheridan made his legendary ride from Winchester, regrouped his army and counterattacked. The course of history was changed that day.

The Cedar Creek Battlefield Foundation is actively seeking the descendants of Cedar Creek veterans. Plans are underway for activities during the weekend that will be of special interest to descendants. The reenactment will take place October 15-16, 1994. For more information write to PO Box 229, Middletown, VA 22645 or call (703) 869-2064. Tax deductible donations may be sent to the same address.

Vanderbilt University Press announces the release of the first-time paperback printing of Champ Ferguson, Confederate, Guerilla by Thurman Sensing. The original 1942 edition has long been a collector’s item, and the second edition, published in 1985, is now out-of-print.

When the Civil War began in 1861, the men of the Cumberland Mountains chose sides and began to fight a private war with each other. Often motivated by vengeance and vendetta, their armed bands had only irregular connections with either the Union or Confederate armies. The most infamous of these Cumberland guerillas was Champ Ferguson, whose exploits were interspersed with periods of service as a scout for Morgan's Men and as a member of "Fightin' Joe" Wheeler's cavalry. Though there is little that is admirable in Champ Ferguson's story, this fascinating account of his life adds a unique dimension to our understanding of the horrors of America's Civil War.

To the Honorable Daniel A. Wilson Judge of the Circuit Superior Court of law & Chancery of Cumberland County. Shew unto your Honor your Orators and Oratrix. William Miller and Thomas Miller and your Oratrix Virginia Miller children of William A Miller deceased and your Orators Anderson Miller and Armstead Miller, the last of whom being an infant under the age of 21 years sues by John W Haskins his next friend; That on the 26th day of September in the year 1831, a certain Dabney Miller of the County of Amelia, departed this life, seized and possessed of a considerable estate both real and personal, leaving at the time of his death issue of his marriages. that by his first marriage the said Dabney left four children. to wit 1st William A Miller, who has since departed this life intestate. leaving as his heirs at law his three children to wit your Orators William & Thomas and your Oratrix Virginia Miller — 2nd Ryland Miller — 3rd — Sally who intermarried with Clemants Crute [Cruto/Cruti?] & 4th Elizabeth who intermarried with Charles Womack. both of whom are since dead leaving three children as their heirs at law. to wit. Virginia, Judith and Nathan Martha Nathan Womack. the first of whom hath intermarried with John E. Crowder and the two last are infants of tender years. that by his second marriage the said Dabney Miller left six children. to wit 1st Dabney P. Miller. 2nd Mary B. Miller. 3rd Martha M. Miller — 4th Charlton Miller. + 5th & 6th your Orators Anderson and [Armstead Miller — that Polly Miller the second] a wife of the said Dabney Miller survived her husband and died on the 23rd April 1833. that the said Mary B. departed this life on the 10\textsuperscript{th} day of April 1833, under age, intestate and unmarried and without issue. & your Orators are advised that her real estate descended to her brothers & sisters including both the whole and half blood and her personal estate passed to her brothers and sisters of the whole blood. and as the wife of her father the said Dabney Miller deceased, which is more particularly hereinafter referred to. that the said Dabney P. Miller being then more than twenty one years of age departed this life in April 1835. having first duly published his last will and testament. which was duly proved and admitted to record by the County of Amelia. by which he devised the whole of his estate. both real and personal after the payment of his debts to his wife for her life. and at her death to his brothers and sister of the whole blood, to wit. Anderson, Charlton and Armistead & Martha Miller and their heirs forever. And the wife of the said Dabney that A. B. Walthall, the exor therein named, took upon himself the burden of the execution of said will. all which will more fully appear by reference to an office copy of the said will with the certificate of the probate thereof. herewith filed marked B and prayed to be taken as part of this Bill — that the wife of the said Dabney P. Miller has since departed this life — that the said Charlton Miller who was born on the 15\textsuperscript{th} day of February 1821 departed this life on the 25\textsuperscript{th} of April 1840 being at the time of his death more than eighteen and less than 21 years of age. and after his death a paper purporting to be his last will and testament was exhibited for probate. in the County Court of Powhatan which the said Court refused to admit to record as a will of real estate but admitted the same to record as a will of personalty — that the exor therein named having renounced. Administration with the will an=nexed was granted to Thomas Wily. all which will appear more fully by reference to an office copy of the said will with the certificate of the probate thereof herewith filed marked C. as part of this Bill —

Your Orators are advised that the will of the said Charlton Miller is not sufficient to pass the personal estate devised to him under the will of his father the said Dabney Miller deceased, but that such personal estate is controled by the latter will — that the said Martha M. Miller intermarried with Edward P. Haskins and departed this life [illegible - scratched through] \(^b\) leaving two children to wit. John D. Haskins and Martha V. Haskins. both of whom are infants of tender years. and the said Edward P. Haskins departed this life intestate on the 6th day of September 1842

Your Orators and Oratrix further represent. that after the death of the said Dabney Miller a paper purporting to be his last will and testament was exhibited for probate in the County Court of Amelia. whereupon such proceedings were had. that the said Court in obedience to the order of the Circuit Superior Court of law & Chancery of Amelia County. did on the 27th day of September 1832. admit the said paper to record as a will of personal estate. but refused to admit the same to record as a will of real estate. all which will and one of the executors therein named having refused to qualify and the other being a minor the estate was by the said County Court of Amelia committed to the hands of John Webster Sherriff of the said County as the admr with the will annexed of the said Dabney Miller deceased — as will more fully appear by

Willis Blanton have both departed this life. that the said John Webster died intestate and administration of his estate has been granted committed to Henry P. Eames [?] Sheriff of Amelia County as his Admr. according to law and the said Willis Blanton left a will of which James Blanton the son therein named as such hath qualified as the exor according to law. that both the said admr. of the said John Webster deceased and the said Exor of the s'd Willis Blanton dec'd have in their hands. money and effects of the said Dabney Miller deceased. which they ought of right to pay & deliver over to the parties entitled. that the said Willis Blanton also qualified as the guardian of your Orators Anderson & Armistead Miller and also of their brother Charlton Miller deceased and continued to act as the guardian of your Orator Anderson Miller untill he became of full age. and of your Orator Armistead Miller untill the time of his [inserted Blanton's] death. that the said Willis Blanton at the time of his death had in his hands money and effects belonging to his wards. and that his Exor the said James Blanton hath since his death failed and neglected to settle the accounts of his testator as guardian aforesaid or to pay or deliver over the effects which came into his hands belonging to the wards of his said testator. that since the death of the said Willis Blanton to wit on the 26th May 1842. the unadministered estate of the said Dabney Miller was by the County Court of Amelia committed to the hands of Austin Seay Sheriff of Amelia County who now has in his hands money and effects of the said Dabney Miller. which ought to be distributed among those entitled thereto under the will of the said Dabney Miller deceased. And the said Your Orators and Oratrix further represent, that the said Dabney Miller having departed this life intestate as to his real estate a suit was instituted in the County Court of Amelia. to which the said widow as well as all the heirs at law of the said Dabney were parties, in which such proceedings were had, that by the decree of the said County Court pronounced on the February Term 1833. it was ordered & decreed the lands of which the said Dabney Miller died seized and possessed in the said County. should be divided by Commissioners therein named who were directed to allot assign one third part thereof to the said widow, for her dower and the balance to divide into ten equal parts and to allot one part to each of the heirs named in the said [illegible word]. and afterwards to wit at the December Term of the said County Court. it was further ordered and decreed, that the said lands should be sold. by Commissioners who were appointed for that purpose in pursuance whereof the said commisioners did proceed to sell the said land with the exception of the lot allotted to the heirs of Elizabeth Womack and to make report thereof to the said Court, which report and sale was confirmed by the said Court. all which will more fully appear by reference to the several orders of Court as well as the report of the said Commissioners here with filed & prayed to be taken as part of this Bill. that a large portion of the proceeds arising from the said sale. came unto the hands of the said Willis Blanton during his life time. as the guardian of your Orators Anderson Miller and Armistead Miller and of their brother Charlton Miller deceased. and that the said Willis Blanton during his life time and the said James Blanton his Exor since his death have wholly neglected and refused to pay or deliver any part thereof to the parties entitled thereto. To the End therefore. that the said H. P. Eames Shff of Amelia and Admr of John Webster deceased. who was formerly Sheriff of Amelia and Admr with the will annexed of the said Dabney Miller decd. the said James Blanton Exor of Willis Blanton deceased. Who was Admr. de bonis non with the will annexed of the said Dabney Miller and guardian of the said Anderson, Charlton & Armistead Miller. the said Jarrett Jeter and Edward Green securities of the said Willis Blanton. the said Austin Seay formerly Sheriff of Amelia and Admr de bonis non with the will annexed of the said Dabney Miller dec'd. the said Ryland Miller. the said Clemants Crute [Cruto/Cruti ?] and Sally his wife. the said John E Crowder and Virginia his wife formerly Virginia Womack. the said Judith & Nathan Womack. the said Alexander B. In Search of James Read: Pioneer and Patriot?
by William H Reid, Jr.

Editor’s Note: This material is published not only for its genealogical and historical information but also as an example of how to organize and conduct genealogical research. Mr. Reid took what little information he had on his ancestor, formulated a hypothesis, and then set out to prove or disprove his theory.

The first I heard of James Read was when I received a family genealogical group sheet, listing James and his family, from a distant cousin in Texas. Most of the form had not been completed. James was shown to have died in 1778 in Prince Edward County, Virginia, to have been born in Scotland or Ireland, and to have had six sons. Other than the names of his sons, Moses, Samuel, Joseph, John, Robert, and James, and references to the wills of James senior and sons Samuel and John, there was little else. I knew, from talking with my relative, that I was a direct descendant of Moses, the son of James senior. My cousin had also told me that Moses and possibly some of his brothers had moved to Butler County, Kentucky and that, two generations later, after the Civil War, my part of the Read family had moved to Wise County, Texas. Somewhere between Virginia and Texas the spelling of the name for my branch of the family had changed to Reid. This had happened, according to family lore, when two Read brothers had become angry with one another and one had changed the spelling of his last name. I was surprised to find that I had an ancestor who had lived in Virginia prior to the Revolution, since I had only known about the generations who had lived in Texas, and I resolved to learn more about James and his family.

Starting with what I knew, I began my search for information by obtaining copies of the wills mentioned in the group sheet sent to me by my cousin. The officials at the Prince Edward County Clerk’s office very kindly agreed to copy the wills and probate inventories I needed. I found out later that the records I needed are also located on microfilm at the Virginia State Library in Richmond. Received in about a month, these documents confirmed the details of the genealogical group sheet.

* Prince Edward County Wills: Book 1, pp. 59, 60, 207
While waiting for the documents from the county clerk, I visited the Virginiana Room of the Fairfax County Public Library to learn more about the early days of Prince Edward County. I located a county history, some articles written about events and people in the county, and a list of cemeteries. Among the articles was one about a Scotch-Irish settlement in the vicinity of Buffalo Creek in the western part of Prince Edward County. Since I knew that James was probably Scotch-Irish, perhaps he might have had some link with this settlement. I decided to look further.

Although the Scotch-Irish settlements in the Shenandoah Valley are the best known, there were others in Virginia, in the piedmont east of the Blue Ridge. The Buffalo (also spelled Buffaloe) Settlement, established on Buffalo Creek in what was, at time of settlement, Amelia County and later became Prince Edward County, was one of these. According to Foote, this settlement, as well as another on Cub Creek in Charlotte County, was established by John Caldwell who was an elder in the Presbyterian congregation at Chestnut Level in Pennsylvania and a native of Ulster. Most of the group which made up the settlement had immigrated to Pennsylvania from Ulster in 1726. As a prelude to settlement in Virginia, the Philadelphia Synod of the Presbyterian Church, at the encouragement of Caldwell, forwarded a petition to Governor Gooch of Virginia advising him that “a considerable number of our brethren ... are mediating a settlement in the remote parts of your Government” and asking his “favor in allowing them the liberty of their consciences, and of worshipping God in a way agreeable to the principles of their Education.” Gooch granted the petition on the condition that the settlers obey the rules prescribed by the Act of Toleration “and behave themselves peaceably toward the government.” Perhaps James Read was a member of this group of Scotch-Irish pioneers and religious dissenters who had left Northern Ireland, settled initially in Pennsylvania, and eventually established a settlement in the Virginia piedmont.

In studying a list of cemeteries in Prince Edward County I found that only one cemetery had been established before James’ death. This was the Buffalo Cemetery, founded circa 1762. Perhaps this cemetery was associated with the early Scotch-Irish settlement in the county and James and some of his family were buried here. If so, and there were tombstones, there could be information on birth date and place, wife's name, etc. I decided to visit the cemetery.

Prince Edward County is located in the Virginia Southside, southwest of Richmond, one county north of the North Carolina border. Here numerous small rivers and streams intersect the gently rolling piedmont and dense forests of pine, oak, and hickory still cover the hillsides and bottomlands. The soil, which varies from a red clay in some parts to a gray, sandy mixture in others, is generally well drained. The principal commercial activities appear to be farming, logging, and small retail establishments. It was formed in 1754 from the western portion of Amelia County.

Buffalo Cemetery is adjacent to Buffalo Presbyterian Church, on a dirt road in the western part of the county. This must have been the church which served as a focal point of the early Scotch-Irish community. The area around the church is decidedly rural. If James had lived near here, he would have little difficulty in finding his way around today. Even the blacktop roads appear to be little more than hard surfaced wagon roads, barely wide enough for two cars to pass one another. The church, a large plain-looking white wooden frame building, sits on a small knoll, with a grove of large trees on one side and the cemetery on the other. Surrounding the church, grove, and cemetery is a dense forest, mostly oak and pine — no people, no cars — very quiet.

The oldest markers in the cemetery dated to the early 1800's. There was no James Read. I found later that, although the church had been founded in 1739, it had not been in its present location until after 1800.

A historical marker near the church, however, did provide the following information:

Buffalo Presbyterian Church

The information that I received from my cousin indicated that James was born in Scotland or Ireland, family lore said that we were Scotch-Irish, and James’ will and probate placed him in Prince Edward County in 1778. Was he a member of the Buffalo Presbyterian Church? It seemed likely that if he were among the earliest settlers in this Scotch-Irish community, he would have been a church member of the community church. Had he signed the “Petition for Religious Liberty” in 1776? James Read, my great-great-great-great-great grandfather, — pioneer and patriot? On the drive back from my visit to Buffalo Cemetery my goal became clear — to determine if James had been one of the early Scotch-Irish pioneers in Prince Edward County and, if so, to learn more about the Scotch-Irish and how they came to settle in the area around Buffalo Church, and, finally, to learn what I could about the "Petition for Religious Liberty" and whether James had a part in it.

Obvious sources for confirming James’ presence among the early settlers of the Buffalo Settlement would include church minutes, land deeds, processoning records, lists of tithables, wills and probates, and other court records. The Minutes of the Buffalo Presbyterian Church congregation for the period prior to 1804, which would have recorded marriages, births and deaths in the Buffalo Settlement, no longer exist. I did, however, find a list of tithables for Prince Edward County, taken in June 1755. Tithables were those males sixteen years of age or older and "all Negro, mulatto, and Indian women" who were, therefore, considered income-producing and thus liable for a poll tax or tithe. On the portion of the list titled, "From Buffalo to the County Line," Robert Read is listed and further on James and John Reed are listed together, as if in the same household. Francis Reed is the only other with the same surname listed among the residents of the county. It seems likely, then, that James and his family were living in the county by 1755, and, if the list proceeds from Buffalo (probably the creek) to the county line as indicated, their position on the list places them in the Buffalo Settlement.

A trip to the Virginia State Archives at Richmond, to research land deeds registered in Prince Edward County, turned up a number of transactions involving James’ sons. The earliest was a purchase of 350 acres by John and Samuel Read in 1761. The property descriptions for most of the transactions confirm that the brothers’ landholdings were adjacent to each other and that they lived along Spring Creek, a tributary of Buffalo Creek, which flows within one hundred yards of the present location of Buffalo Presbyterian Church. The property description for the sale of 60 acres of land in 1792 by William Scott to Joseph and Moses Read, sons of James, illustrates how the deeds indicated where one lived in relation to another (note underlining). The purchase was described as ...part of a tract of land that Benjamin Franklin now lives upon sixty acres more or less adjoining Benjamin Moore’s line, thence along his line to Joseph Read’s line, thence to Moses Read’s line, thence along his line to Joseph Read’s line, thence along his line to John Hill’s line, thence along his line to a corner upon a new line, thence along the new line to the said Moore’s line at the beginning on a branch of Spring Creek ...(underlining by this author)

Although there was no record of land purchase or sale by James Read, his 1778 will indicates that he also owned land. He left to his “Well-beloved Moses...the place I now live on, with all yee appurtances and Benefits thereto Belonging, houses(,) Orchards, Middows, Clear Land, woods with Every other Benefite thereto Belonging, also all My horses, Cows, hogs, Sheep, also Every Implement or tulls for Labour...

The property described above is most likely the same mentioned in the 1792 description of the transaction involving Joseph and Moses, by then belonging to Moses. It seems clear from the deeds, then, that James and his sons lived and owned land in the Buffalo Settlement at least by 1761. The lack of documentation for land purchase by James in the Prince Edward County records also suggests that he may have been among the earliest settlers in the community. The Buffalo Settlement was established by 1739, when this portion of the Virginia backcountry was still part of Amelia County. Record of land purchase by James may be in the early Amelia County records.

More evidence linking James and his family to the group of early Scotch-Irish settlers at Buffalo comes from the wills of John and Samuel Read who died within a month of each other in June 1763. Both wills appear to have been written by, and are witnessed by, Rich Sankey. Is this the same man who, as indicated earlier, was minister at the Buffalo Presbyterian Church around this time? Although the historical marker states that Sankey was minister in 1759-60, Bradshaw indicates that he served until sometime afterward.  I believe that Richard Sankey the minister and Rich Sankey the writer and witness to John and Samuel’s wills are the same man. It would be entirely appropriate for a minister to be at the bedside of a sick member of his congregation and to transcribe the “last will and testament” of one less literate and perhaps too ill to write. It appears likely that James Read and his family were among the early members in the Scotch-Irish community of Buffalo. Who, then, were the Scotch-Irish and how did they come to settle in the backcountry of colonial Virginia?

The founders of the Buffalo settlement were descendants of people who emigrated from the Lowlands of Scotland to the six Ulster counties of Northern Ireland in the seventeenth century. The movement to Ulster was encouraged by the English monarch, James I, who saw these protestant Lowland Scots as a tool for keeping the recently conquered native Irish Catholic population in check, a role which was similar to that assigned to the descendants of these people on the colonial American frontier. Further, as a result of the English conquest of Northern Ireland at the beginning of the century, much of the native population had been killed and large areas of the region had become sparsely populated. Responding to the prospect of lower rents made possible by these conditions, Scots, as well as some Englishmen, settled in Ulster throughout the seventeenth century. The Reverend Robert Blair, writing in 1663, provides an insight into the motivation of these people:

The parts of Scotland nearest to Ireland sent over abundance of people and cattle that filled the counties of Ulster that lay next to the sea; and albeit amongst these, Divine Providence sent over some worthy persons for birth, education and parts, yet the most part were such as either poverty, scandalous lives, or at the best, adventurous seeking of better accommodation, set forward that way...

Emigrants left Scotland, especially the areas of Strathclyde and Galloway in the southwest, for Ulster in large numbers throughout the century, although there were three distinct surges: the original Plantation by James I early in the century, after the Cromwellian rebellion in the middle of the century, and the largest under William III between 1690 and 1697. Despite this, however, Scots never constituted a majority of the population of the region. Out of a total Ulster population of 600,000 in 1715, the Scots (counted as Presbyterians) numbered only about a third, while Anglicans and Catholics each formed a third.

Also contributing to the immigration of Scots into Ulster were conditions in Scotland. Feudalism still prevailed, agricultural yields were marginal, and most of the population had no prospect for raising themselves out of abject poverty. Leyburn writes that “[T]he Scotland from which the exodus began in 1610 was one of the poorest and most backward of European countries. Poverty-stricken, generally lawless, still lingering in the Middle Ages in the seventeenth century (and even into the eighteenth), with agricultural methods hardly better than primitive, there was every reason why an ambitious Scot would look elsewhere for improvement of his lot.”

The prospect of relative prosperity in Ulster and contrasting economic distress in Scotland, then, provided an important impetus for early migration.

In the latter part of the seventeenth century, religious issues in Scotland also became an important cause of migration. At issue was control over church affairs. When the English monarch sought to impose changes in the form of worship and religious hierarchy of the Presbyterian Church, violent conflict developed in Scotland between those who supported the changes and those who did not. Northern Ireland, where there were fewer attempts to impose these changes, became a haven for the opposition as well as for moderates who were caught between the two sides.

By the beginning of the eighteenth century, despite continuing sectarian violence between the Protestant Scots and their Irish Catholic neighbors in Ulster, many Scots had improved their economic condition as a result of emigration. This, however, was not to continue. As industries, particularly linen and woolen manufacture for export, developed in Ulster and began to compete with English products, the British Parliament enacted export restrictions which crippled them. The cost of land rents also rose to a point where farmers could not subsist. Tacksmen, or middlemen, who managed the land for absentee landlords, raised the rents as steeply as possible with the death of each successive tenant, forcing many to leave the land for growing urban areas. Additionally, in 1704, the Test Act was passed, requiring the reception of Anglican sacraments as a prerequisite for holding office. This had the effect of forcing Presbyterians from office or requiring them to take oaths contrary to their beliefs. Even marriages performed by Presbyterian ministers were declared invalid, an action “which immediately reduced most of the population of Ulster to legal bastardy.”

These actions, combined with a succession of droughts in Ulster in the early eighteenth century, created the conditions which generated several waves of migration from Ulster to the American frontier.

Added to internal conditions in Ulster which encouraged emigration was the strong pull from America. Advertisements in local papers by shipping companies hoping to increase their profits from freight shipment to the colonies, as well as letters from earlier emigrants, painted a positive picture of conditions in America. An example from the Belfast Newsletter of June 3, 1766, advertising the sailing of the Hopewell from Londonderry to Nova Scotia serves as an example:

It would swell the advertisement to(o) great a length to enumerate all the blessings those people enjoy who have already removed from this county to said province, it may suffice to say, that from tenants they are become landlords, from working for others they now work for themselves, and enjoy the fruits of their own industry.

Additionally, some colonies offered inducements such as free land and tax abatement. Free land was the greatest inducement of all.

The presbyterian areas of Ulster — counties Londonderry and Antrim, the east of county Donegal and the north of county Down — provided most of the Ulster-Scots or Scotch-Irish, as they came to be called in America, who immigrated to the American colonies. A series of surges in emigration been 1717 and 1775 brought Ulster-Scots to each of the American colonies. The earliest settlements, although small in number, were in New England, where they spread to the frontiers of western Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Maine. The majority, however, established themselves in southeastern Pennsylvania and in the Cumberland Valley. From here they spread west over the Alleghenies and south to the Great Valley of Virginia and beyond to the Carolinas and Georgia. After the Revolution, Ulster-Scots also made up a significant portion of the populations of West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, and Tennessee. By 1790 the Scotch-Irish in Pennsylvania attracted the largest number of emigrants, among them those who eventually established the Buffalo settlement. Supporting this, Edmund Burke writes:

In some years more people have transported themselves in Pennsylvania than into all the other settlements together; in 1729, 6208 persons came to settle here as passengers or servants, four-fifths at least of whom were from Ireland. qq

Entering through the Delaware River ports of Philadelphia, Lewes, Wilmington, and New Castle, these emigrants were drawn by the promise of cheap land and a policy of religious toleration. In passing through the eastern counties already settled by English Quakers and those to the west being settled by the Germans, the Scotch-Irish settled on the frontier in the western part of Chester county, in Lancaster county, and in the southern part of Dauphin county in the southeastern part of the state. Later emigrants settled in the Cumberland Valley counties of Cumberland and Franklin. These frontier settlements were welcomed by William Penn because they provided a buffer between the Indians and the more settled parts of the colony.

Not all Pennsylvanians, however, welcomed the Scotch-Irish. James Logan, secretary of the colony, wrote in 1724, expressing his anger against these "bold and indigent strangers, saying as their excuse, when challenged for (land) titles, that we had solicited for colonists and they had come accordingly." He also complained that they had settled uninvited on the 15,000-acre Conestoga Manor in an "audacious and disorderly manner," claiming lands which the Penn family had reserved for themselves. Their defense was that "it was against the law of God and nature that so much land should be idle while so many Christians wanted it to labor on and to raise their bread."

By the 1730’s, however, land prices in Pennsylvania had risen considerably and cheaper land to the south in the backcountry of Virginia, the Carolinas, and Georgia began to appear more attractive. In Virginia, for example, speculators sold land in the Shenandoah Valley at the rate of £3 per one hundred acres, allowing purchasers to pay on time. This, coupled with continuing Indian raids on the Pennsylvania frontier and the prospect of warmer winters, encouraged many of those Scotch-Irish who had settled initially in Pennsylvania, as well as new arrivals from Ulster, to move southward. Those who founded the Buffalo settlement were from a group which had settled initially in southeastern Pennsylvania.

The road south for the Scotch-Irish lay along a route which was then known as the Monocacy Trace and later as the Great Wagon Road. Traveling in groups bound by ties of ethnicity, kin, and religion, the Scotch-Irish followed what was originally a series of Indian trails, beginning on the Susquehanna River, to the Monocacy River, then along the Monocacy to the Potomac River. Crossing the Potomac at the site of Williamsport, they continued along the path which extended the length of the Shenandoah Valley until it reached Roanoke Gap in the Blue Ridge mountains, establishing settlements along the way. From here many passed into the Virginia piedmont and then continued south into the Carolinas and Georgia. In the early years the road was only large enough for pack horses, but it was widened, in time, by traffic to be able to accommodate Conestoga wagons. The group of Scotch-Irish settlers which founded the Buffalo settlement must have followed this route.

Some of those who followed the Monocacy Trace to the Buffalo Settlement were among those who, on October 11, 1776, signed a petition supporting the work of the convention, assembled in Williamsburg in May 1776, which had established the Commonwealth of Virginia and drawn up a constitution. This petition indicated that the signers “heartily approve, and cheerfully (sic) submit ourselves to the form of government adopted at your last session” and urged the House of Delegates to implement the last article of the Bill of Rights.

by “rais(ing) religious as well as civil Liberty to the Zenith of Glory, and make Virginia an Asylum for free inquiry, knowledge, and the virtuous of every Denomination.” Further, they urged “That without Delay, you would pull down all Church Establishments (read the Anglican Church); abolish every Tax upon Conscience and private judgement; and leave each Individual to rise or sink according to his Merit, and the general Laws of the Land.” The petition closed by asking

“That our Honourable Legislature would blot out every vestige of British Tyranny and Bondage, and define accurately between civil and ecclesiastic authority; then leave our Lord Jesus Christ the Honour of being the sole Lawgiver and Governor in his Church; and every one in the Things of Religion to stand or fall to Him; he being in this respect the only rightful Master.”

Among the 161 signers were Richard Sankey, who may have written the document, and James Read, Robert Read, and Joseph Read. Could these be the same James and his sons Robert and Joseph who are my ancestors? The evidence, although circumstantial, is strong. I believe that they are.

Where does one go from here? There are a number of other sources, not yet explored, which may shed light on James Read and his family. These include the early Amelia County records, Prince Edward County court records, Anglican Church parish records of processioning, and the later Buffalo Presbyterian Church Minutes. Presbyterian Church records may also be helpful in placing James as a member of a church congregation before Buffalo (Chestnut Level?). County records in Pennsylvania, if he settled there before moving on to Prince Edward County, may prove useful. There may also be some record of his journey from Ulster and arrival at one of the colonial ports. When these sources are exhausted, there is always Northern Ireland.

Cemetery of St. Thomas Chapel (Episcopal)

Transcribed by Kathryn Sawyer Hooper

Researched performed by Nora A. Carter, Thaxton, Virginia, February 16, 1937

Subject: Cemetery of St. Thomas Chapel (Episcopal)

Location: In the rear of St. Thomas Chapel, .2 mile east of Bedford, Virginia on Route #460; thence 10.5 miles north on Route #122; cemetery on east side of road.

Date: 1842. Earliest date on markers.

Owners: Congregation of St. Thomas Chapel of the West Russell Parish.

Historical Significance:

Sacred to the Memory of
Rev. Nelson Sale
Born Apr. 19, 1799,
Died ........, 1859.
Rector of Heber and West Russell Parishes, who died in the consolation and faith that he preached. “Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord. From henceforth sayeth the spirit they may rest from their labors.”
(His wife is buried beside him but there is no marker.)

Frances Isabella,
Daughter of
Jno. and Isabella Wharton,
Born Jan. 31, 1835
Died Dec. 23rd. 1842.

A spiral monument marks the graves of two sisters:
“The deceased were sisters, tenderly devoted to each other; adorned with every womanly and Christian virtue and endeared by their generous and noble qualities to a wide circle of kindred and friends.”
“They were lovely and pleasant in their lives and in their death not divided.”

On one side is the inscription:
Charlotte E.
Wife of J. B. Jeter, D.D.
Born Aug. 21, 1825
Died Aug. 19, 1861.
“If we believe that Jesus died and rose again even so they also that sleep in Jesus will God bring with him”
I Thess. LV; 19

On the opposite side:
In memory of
Martha S.
Wife of Dr. Richard Sale
Born Mar. 10, 1807
Died Apr. 21, 1861
1st. Lieutenant
Hiram Burks,
Co. "G"
2nd. Va., Calvary.

Col. Jesse S. Burks,
Born Mar. 20, 1823
Died June 15, 1885.
"Until the day break and the shadows flee away."

In Memory of
Mrs. Virginia V. Hicks, who died
December 3rd. 1855
in the 31st. year of her age.

Sacred to the memory of
James H. Wilson
Born July 21, 1831,
Died Aug. 27, 1854.
"He is not dead but sleepeth."

The Burks family was very important in the country. Col. Jesse S. Burks, who lived at "Wyoming," was a Colonel in the War Between The States. Rev. Sale was a leading spirit in the establishment of the Episcopalian Church in Bedford County.
He was rector of both Heber and West Russell Parishes in their initial days.

Old Binford House
Transcribed by Christopher M. Hooper

Research performed by E. Lewis Paulette, Pamplin, Virginia, [1937]

Subject: Old Binford House

Location: 5.2 Miles west of Pamplin, Virginia on Route #601: thence .5 miles east on private road.

Date: 1799

Owners:

Description: The weatherboarding out from virgin forest pine is still in a good state of preservation, cut in even widths and very plain. The timbers of the heavy type, sills, sleepers and studding are hand hewn. The shutters have all been removed and no one living can tell anything about them. Two dormer windows, these are situated on either side of the roof and opposite each other, built gabled. The porch is one story six by fourteen feet, supported by six squat columns. No one knows whether the original front door is the same as the one used today. This door is of heart pine, six panel and heavy, it is put together with wooden pegs, no side lights or transom. Two brick chimneys, one on each end of the house, are very wide at the base and are of home made bricks from native clay. The roof is covered with shingles. To get to the cellar, a door from the outside opens into one of the rooms. The floors were once covered with wide planks, they have rotted away, and only the dirt floor remains. The first floor can be reached either from the front or back door. There are two rooms on the first floor, both of which are wainscoted with panels and chair rail around the top. Eighteen inch heart pine planks form the center a three inch plank extends around the rooms about two feet from the ceiling, the rest of the walls are plastered. Two mantels, one in each room are hand made and very plain. The stairway to the second floor is of the two flight open type. Three steps to the first landing which is about five feet long, then turns left, ten steps to the second floor. This is only a half story and contains two rooms. The stairway has a turned hand rail, balusters and square newel post.

Historical Significance:

Like many other settlers of early America, freedom of religion was the motive that prompted him to come to. [sic] Mr. Binford was born in Scotland in 1775 and when about twenty-one he came to Virginia and settled in Charles City County. Later on, in 1799 he moved to Prince Edward County, buying 100 acres of land on Vaughans Creek. He began building a home after purchasing the land from James Roper of Kentucky. When the house was completed something still lacked to make it a home, and that was a wife. In the early part of 1800 he married Susanne LeGrand. They were not contented here, for in September 1801 they sold this house to John K. Binford, and moved to a larger farm presented to them by Mrs. Binford’s father. Here at this home Mr. Joseph Binford died in 1842. There are several of Joseph Binford’s descendants living in Prince Edward County, and they have done much to shape the destiny of this county, especially along educational lines. After Mr. Nathan Penick bought this 100 acres, he evidently owned adjoining land as all records reveal trace of this land as far as the 100 acres go. Court Records in Appomattox County were destroyed by fire. Mr. Nathan Penick sold to a Mr. Wheeler, he sold to Backer Woods, and his heirs sold to J. C. Coleman in 1912. This property now contains over 200 acres.

QUERIES

Notice to subscribers. Queries may request explicit information on individuals who should be identified by place name (county or town) and by date (year only). We will attempt to print the queries as received without editing, if possible, so please keep them as concise as possible. If you wish to exchange information on a specific surname or group of people with similar names, simply begin your query with “Exchange” and follow with the family names of interest. Queries are only accepted from active subscribers at the time the query is received. Due to the increase in numbers of queries received, please limit your queries to 50 words each (not counting your name and address), and only submit one for each issue published. Queries are printed in the order in which they are received and on a space available basis. Multiple queries from the same individual may appear in separate issues. Please PRINT or TYPE your queries to make sure that the information published is accurate, and names and addresses are correct, so that you can receive the answers you wish without delay.

HOOD'S

The above Virginia Historical Marker numbered K-215 is located in Prince George County, on State Route 10, in Burrowsville. It states "Four miles north on James River. There, on January 3, 1781, Benedict Arnold, ascending the river, was fired on by cannon. On January 10, Arnold, returning, sent ashore there a force that was ambushed by George Rogers Clark. Fort Powhatan stood there in the War of 1812."
The Southside Virginian

The Southside Virginian, published since 1983, is owned by Kathryn Sawyer Hooper and Christopher M. Hooper, P. O. Box 3684, Richmond, VA 23225. EDITORIAL

In the last issue of The Southside Virginian, we wrote of an impending problem at the Archives and Records Division of The Library of Virginia, formerly the Virginia State Library and Archives. We have received letters from several of you stating that you had gotten a response to your letters which included a “Fact Sheet” from The Library disputing many of the points made by the Virginia Genealogical Society. The VGS states that the budgetary numbers and space allocations used by them were provided by The Library administration, and they are responding to the “Fact Sheet.”

As you may be aware, budget numbers can be looked at in many different ways, depending on the side of an issue you are on. We will continue to monitor the situation at The Library and will keep you informed of the progress. We do wish to thank those of you who took the time to respond to the Governor and others. Unfortunately, bureaucrats control the budgetary process, and they don’t always get the full picture. Through your letters, they can find out where your sentiments lie, and what is really important to you.

While on the subject of preserving records, we would like to suggest that you submit your well documented research in the form of articles for publication in The Southside Virginian. Many of these articles can be valuable research aids, providing clues to others. Although we cannot publish lengthy family histories, short pieces dealing with one family or locale which would be of interest to our readers will be considered. Not only will this get your research into publication, but it very well could provide contacts with other subscribers who may have additional materials to aid you in your search. These type of articles are better than queries, because they can allow you to explore some speculations and more fully develop your research approach. By all means, continue submitting your queries, but consider whether your research may have a wider audience and then try your hand at writing an article. Write to us for our guidelines for publication. We will be happy to hear from you.

BOOK REVIEWS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

Merle Mays Howser, Genealogy Anglin, Cook and Mays and Related Families, 154 pp.; genealogy charts; illus.; photos; every-name index; cloth (8 1/2 x 11); 1993. We have often written of the importance of publishing ones genealogical research, to the end that, if you do not do it, it probably will never get done. Years of research are often relegated to an old file cabinet or box because we never got around to publishing it. The author of Genealogy Anglin, ... has taken us at our word and published the fruits of her research. Mrs. Howser makes no pretense about the completeness or the accuracy of her work, but includes copies of numerous documents and a bibliography to support much of the information. She traces several of her lines to Lee County, and the Cook line to North Carolina. Many would turn up their noses at a publication such as this because of its limited scope and minimal supporting documentation. By contrast, we encourage more people to approach their research in this manner, i.e., to publish what you have as thoroughly as you can so that others may share your knowledge. As with any published work, we caution the researcher to verify all references, and not accept the printed word. Mrs. Howser is continuing her work, and we are certain that when she has more of the answers, we will see a revised edition of this book. For more information, contact the author PO Box 309, Haines, AK 99827.

Weynette Parks Haun, Surry County, Virginia Court Records, 1712-1718, Book VII, xii, 138 pp.; index; paper (8 1/2 x 11); 1993. $25.00 postpaid. NC residents and libraries add 6% sales tax. This work continues Ms. Haun’s publications of verbatim transcriptions and is the seventh in the series of early court records of Surry County. Her commendable efforts at transcribing and publishing these hard-to-read records is recognized by all who perform research in these early periods. We who must try to decipher these records can only hope that she will continue her task for many years to come. Purchase from the author at NC: Research at Home, 243 Argonne Dr., Durham, NC 27704-1423.

Weynette Parks Haun, Sussex County, Virginia Court Records, 1754-1801, Book I, 190 pp.; indices; paper (8 1/2 x 11); 1993. $30.00 postpaid. NC residents and libraries add 6% sales tax. This work continues Ms. Haun’s publications of verbatim transcriptions of early court records of Southside counties. This, the first edition on Sussex County, includes the records of the Court of Oyer & Terminer, 1754-1801 and Order Book, 1754-1756. The introduction includes a helpful listing of problem names and letters, and a section on definitions of unusual words found in the records. Three separate indices are included to aid the researcher — general full-name, female first-name, and miscellaneous. It is most gratifying that Ms. Haun is extending her work into Sussex County and we anxiously await the continuation of this series. Purchase from the author at NC: Research at Home, 243 Argonne Dr., Durham, NC 27704-1423.

Joyce Martin Murray, Logan County Kentucky — Deed abstracts 1813-1819, Abstracts of Deed Books Volumes D, E, F, G, 199 pp.; indices; paper (8½x11); 1994. $30.00 plus $3.00 postage, TX residents add 8.25% sales tax. This is the second volume of Logan County, KY, deed abstracts published by Ms. Murray (See review of the first volume in The Southside Virginian, Vol. XI No. 4). As with the first, the author has compiled three indices to aid the researcher — full-name index, place name index, and slave index. A scan of the place name index reveals references to several Southside Virginia counties including Buckingham, Chesterfield, Nottoway and Pittsylvania. Many Virginians settled in this region of Kentucky because of, as in Ms. Murray's words in the introduction, "the granting by Virginia of lands in the District set apart for Officers and Soldiers of the Virginia Continental Line of the American Revolution." This is another quality reference work by Ms. Murray and can be most helpful when your research trail takes you westward from Virginia. Order from the author at 2921 Daniel, Dallas, TX 75205.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PRINCE WILLIAM COUNTY'S VIRGINIANA COLLECTION HAS MOVED TO BULL RUN REGIONAL LIBRARY. The collection, now called the Ruth E. Hours: Mon-Thurs, 10 a.m.-9 p.m.; Fri-Sat, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.; Sun (mid-Sept to mid-Jun) 12 noon-5 p.m. RELIC is a special collection for genealogy and local history with a focus on Virginia and Prince William County. It features a variety of general research guides and indexes, including the International Genealogical Index, printed passenger lists, and US Census indexes. The collection contains histories and census schedules for all Virginia counties, and a variety of statewide source materials including Civil War regimental histories.

THE FAUQUIER HERITAGE SOCIETY LIBRARY AND ARCHIVE was opened to the public on June 4, 1994. This library located on Route 55 in Marshall, Virginia, features the vast genealogical library of 3000 plus books and the manuscript collection of noted author and historian John K. Gott. In addition, the library contains the research collection of T. Triplett Russell, a well regarded historian and co-author with Mr. Gott of several books on the history of Fauquier County. The society hopes the archive will become a repository for those seeking to preserve documents and family papers relating to the history of the county. Hours: Tue & Thur, 10 a.m.-8:30 p.m.; Wed & Sat, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.; Sun, 1 p.m.-4 p.m.; Mon & Fri, by appointment only. For more information contact the society at PO Box 548, Marshall, VA 22115. (703) 364-3440.

THE FEDERATION OF GENEALOGICAL SOCIETIES AND THE VIRGINIA GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY extend an invitation to attend "ON TO RICHMOND," the National Conference of the Federation of Genealogical Societies, in Richmond, Virginia, 12-15 October 1994. More than 50 distinguished speakers and a wide array of topics will interest everyone from the novice to the professional. There will be more than 150 lectures focusing on the records, research, and methods for research in Virginia, North Carolina, and their daughter states. The exhibit area will be filled with national and regional publishers and vendors, and computer demonstrations will allow you to view the latest in genealogical technology. Registration brochures may be obtained from "On to Richmond," Federation of Genealogical Societies, PO Box 3385, Salt Lake City, UT 84110-3385, or by calling Karen Mauer Green, National Publicity Chair, (409) 740-7988.

FOLLOW-UP

In The Southside Virginian, Vol XI No. 4, we carried a reprint of an article from the Richmond Times-Dispatch entitled "Old Family Bible Looking For Its Home," concerning the discovery of a bible from the Civil War era which had found its way back to Virginia from an unknown past in New York state. The article was an attempt to locate a descendant of Richilieu and Cornelia Coleman to which to return the bible. We received a letter from subscriber, Ms. Lottie Clymer, of Ponca City, Oklahoma who, although she could not definitely trace her lineage to these Coleman's, suggested that the bible be placed with the Amelia County Historical Society at Amelia Courthouse for the use of all researchers. We contacted Steve Clark of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, author of the original piece, to make this suggestion. Steve stated that we must have missed his follow-up article on the subject in which he stated that the bible had indeed been placed in the hands of the Amelia County Historical Society. We thanked him for his interest in seeing that another valuable artifact is preserved for the use of all researchers. We also thank Lottie Clymer for her suggestion. It appears that others had the same idea as well. We would like to suggest to our subscribers that if they locate old bibles or other items of historical significance, please attempt to place them in repositories where they will get the most exposure to interested researchers. Someone is looking for that information.

To the Hon. Daniel A. Wilson judge of the Circuit Superior Court of Law & Chancery for the County of Cumberland.

The Bill of Complaint of Melville M. Johns & Ann his wife and of James M. Johns administrator of his deceased wife Elizabeth, respectfully shows

That in the year 1847 and prior to the death of Said Elizabeth, Mrs. Nancy Ferguson late of Said County died leaving a will which with the codicils thereto have been duly proved and admitted to record in Said County Court; and John W. Wilson the executor therein named has duly qualified in the Same Court; all by which an office copy of Said Will & codicils with the order of said executor's qualification, herewith exhibited, will more fully appear.

Testatrix left a considerable estate, and by Said will & codicils it will be seen that after a few specific legacies She directs the whole of her property to be Sold & after payment of debts & providing for the maintenance of some old negroes, the whole estate (with the exception of Said Specific legacies) to be divided into 21 parts & gives Said equal parts to 21 named legatees provided should be alive at her death or if dead should have children then living; but if any should be then dead & have no children living the division to be by a less number but on the same principles; that is, to be among those who should not then have died and to some (The Specific legacies are as follows) of these shares She attached executory limitations over, upon certain named Contingencies & in the division each legatee is to account for what he had received of testatrix

The Specific legacies are as follows
To Rebecca Maxey a Sister of testatrix an old negro Woman named Lucy and a negro girl Effy.

To Albert Cox son of Said Rebeca a Colt which received upon testatrix’s death

& To Martha F. Cox daughter of Said Albert a negro girl child Named Lucy, child of Phebe.

The equal shares or 21st parts are given as follows

1.2.3. To a sister, Francis Whitworth, and to her 2 daughters Nancy S., late Hooper, now the wife of John H. Burton, and Francis late Whitworth now the wife of [blank] all of whom live in the State of Alabama — each one part.

4. To a niece Ann Jane King wife of William S. King of Prince Edward County one part.

5.6.7.8. To a Sister Rebecca Maxey, above named, and to her 3 children Elizabeth, Wife of Milton P. Atkinson, Albert Cox, afore said, and Jane Maxey all of Powhatan, each one part, with executory limitations over to the survivors in case of the death of any of these four without heirs of the body.

9.10.11.12. To Abraham Cooke, now dead, & John W. Wilson the exor entrusties, 4 parts for the benefit of a Sister Agnes Watkins of the State of North Carolina, for life, and at her death to her 3 daughters; that is one part to each of the four, providing that if She should become a widow the whole of Said four portions to be paid over to her, to be hers for life & go to her daughters aforesaid at her death — or to the children of such of them as should be dead — The Complainants are informed that said Agnes has become a Widow by the death of her husband Spencer Watkins, that Polly Ann Jones, one of her daughters died before the testatrix leaving 2 children Robert & Henry Jones that Sarah another daughter the wife of Thomas Brent is also dead [blank space], leaving 2 children Jane and Mary Brent — [blank space] The name of the 3rd daughter they do not know. All these live in North Carolina

13.14.15. To a Sister, Jane Watkins and her two youngest daughters one part each — The two daughters as Complainants are informed were named Henrietta who was the wife of William O. Hopper but who died before testatrix leaving one child Archer Hopper — & Eliza the wife of Fleming Goolsberry. These reside also in North Carolina.

16. To the Said Jane Watkins one part during the life of her daughter Franky Watkins; at the death of Said Franky to go to a niece Caroline Harris also of North Carolina — Your Orators are informed that Said Franky & Caroline both died before the testatrix but that the latter left 2 children then surviving viz: Jane & William Harris.

17.18.19.20. To four nieces, Elizabeth Agee (or Agy) who is the wife of Thomas Agee of Buckingham, Elizabeth Johns Who was the wife of the plt. James M. her admin, Ann the plt, and Henrietta Hopper of Buckingham, each one part 21 & To a nephew James Hooper Son of William Hooper of Alabama the remaining part.

Your complainants are informed & charge that the exór John W. Wilson has gone on to execute the will by paying all the debts — & providing for the support of the old negroes & by selling all the property except that specifically bequeathed which he has delivered — that he is now ready & willing to make distribution among the 21 legatees (if there are 21 entitled — Or as this Court shall direct upon the properties — But because it is not certain how many of Said

21 Out lived the testator, or if dead had children living and because he is not advised whether the children of a Ligatee who died in testatrix’s life can take, or whether, the shares now being given to the children in case of the parents’ death — or whether such legacy lapses & goes to the distribution generally as in case of intestacy, or falls off and diminishes the number of parts as if the legatee had died without children, & because it is not ascertained what the Several legatees had received of testatrix in her life and have to account for — he the exór declines to pay out except as this Court shall direct _

To the end therefore that the Said John W. Wilson as exór of Nancy Ferguson dec'd — and the several parties above named viz: Rebecca Maxey, Milton P. Atkinson & Elizabeth his wife, Albert Cox & his daughter Martha F. Cox an infant, and Jane Maxy, of Powhatan Thomas Agee & Elizabeth his wife of Buckingham Wm S. King and Ann Jane his wife of Prince Edward— & Henrietta Hooper an infant, daughter of Benjamin Hooper decd of Buckingham, &

Francis Whitworth, John H. Burton & Nancy S. his wife late Whitworth Hooper, ——— Murphy now dead and Francis his wife late Whitworth, and James Hooper Son of William Hooper — of Alabama——

Agnes Watkins — Robert Jones & Henry Jones children of Polly Ann Jones decd — Jane Brent & Mary Brent children of Sarah Brent decd — and [blank space] one of the 3 daughters of Said Agnes Watkins ——— Jane Watkins, Arthur Hopper child of Henrietta Hopper decd, Fleming Goolsberry and Eliza his wife, & Jane Harris & William Harris children of Caroline Harris decd. — of North Carolina — May be made defendants to this bill and required full answer to make thereto and Specially to State the time of the death of such of the 21 as are dead and whether they had children living at testatrix death — Also what had been received by any and all said legatees before the death of Said testatrix — that the Said exor set forth the estate that his a/c be settled if need be and that your orators and all concerned may have their just legacies decreed & general relief. May it please the Court to grant proper process to—— Boc & orplts.

In the name of God Amen. I, Robert Carr, of Virginia, and County of Nansemond, being sick and weak of body, but in perfect mind and memory, thanks to be God for it, and calling to mind the mortality of my body, and knowing it is appointed for all men to die, do make and ordain this to be my last Will and Testament. Principally and first of all, I recommend my soul into the hands of God, and my body to the ground to be buried in a Christian-like manner at the discretion of my executor; and to such worldly estate which it has pleased to blessed me with in this life, I give in the following manner and form:

First: I give to my loving son, Joshua Carr, all my lands on the South side of Nottoway River in the County of Nansemond, except the pine wood land, he allowing his mother the free use and liberty of the one half thereof together with the plantation I now live on during her natural life or widowhood, to him, the said Joshua Carr and his heirs after her death, forever. I also give my still and one third of all the liquors made on the said planation, he stilling the other part for his mother, toll free. I likewise give him two cows and calves, one feather bed and furniture, one iron pot, one pan, one pewter dish and basin, half a dozen plates, one Negro boy called Harry, after his mother's death or widowhood, to him and his heirs forever.

1 Isle of Wight/Southampton Wills and Deeds
Secondly: I give to my loving wife, Mary Carr, during her natural life or widowhood the rest of my Negroes, to wit. One Negro fellow called Sam and one called Venus, one called Pompey, one Negro wench called Kate, one called Rose; I also leave to my loving wife, Mary Carr, all my household furniture except what shall hereafter be mentioned or given to my children the use of them during her natural life or widowhood for the help and maintenance of all my daughters while they remain single.

Thirdly: I give to my loving daughter, Elizabeth, one bed and furniture, one pewter dish, one basin, six plates, two cows and calves one Negro girl called Jenny, to her and her heirs forever.

Fourthly: I give to my loving daughter, Mary, one feather bed and furniture, one pewter dish, one basin, six plates, two cows and calves and fifty pounds cash when she comes to the age of eighteen years, or a Negro girl to the value of fifty pounds if she should choose it instead of the cash to her and her heirs forever.

Fifthly: I give to my loving daughter, Martha Carr, one feather bed and furniture, one pewter dish one basin, six plates, two cows and calves, one Negro boy called Jim, to her and her heirs forever.

Sixthly: I give to my loving daughter, Lidia Carr one feather bed and furniture, one pewter dish, one Negro boy called Abram, to her and her heirs forever.

Seventhly: I give to my loving son, Titus Carr, five pounds cash, to him and his heirs forever.

Eighthly: I give to my loving son, Mathew Carr, the plantation whereon he now dwells together with half my land or near it, that lies in Hertford County, North Carolina, it being that part of my land lying on the south side of the water hole branch to the head of the northeast prong to a pine corner, then along a line of marked trees near a southwest course to a road oak standing at the fork of the roads, one to Hills bridge and the other to Washington’s and Brown’s, then running on Hill’s road, near south.

Ninthly: I give to my loving son Robert Carr, the Plantation he now dwells on and all other part of my land in Hertfofd County, also the particulars which I have already put in his possession to him and his heirs forever.
Tenthly: After my wife’s death or widowhood I give to my three sons, Robert Carr, Mathew Carr and Titus Carr, three of my Negroes, one a piece, which they may make choice, to them and their heirs forever.

And the rest of my Negroes and their increase I leve to be squarely divided among all my children then living. Likewise all the rest of my estate in any kind or quality whatsoever, land excepted, to be squarely divided among all my children then living, to them and their heirs forever.

Eleventhly: My will and desire that my pine wood land bought of Co. Jesse Brown, be sold by my three sons, Robert, Mathew Carr and Titus Carr, and the money rising thereby to be wquarely divided among them three, to them and their heirs forever. I do hereby appoint my two sons, Titus Carr and Joshua Carr, my whole and sole Executors to this my last Will, revoking and disannuling all other former Wills by me made, ratifying this and no other to be my last Will and Testament. In witness hereof, I, the said Robert Carrhave hereunto set my hand and seal the first day of May and in the year of our Lord Christ one thousand seven hundred and seventy three.

Robert Carr,

Last Will and Testament

Signed, sealed, published and declared as and for my last Will and Testament in presence of Henry Stevens, John Everitt, Wm. Curle, Josian Williams.

Pioneer's Graves of Mountain View Cemetery, Oregon City, Oregon
By Christopher M. Hooper

During a recent trip to the Northwestern states, we found ourselves in Oregon City, OR, terminus of the Oregon Trail. Having a few free moments from our hectic travel schedule, we decided to investigate the Mountain View Cemetery, which reportedly contained the graves of numerous pioneers of the Oregon Trail period. We soon discovered, several headstones in the Pioneer section included inscriptions which stated that the interred had their roots in Virginia.

Between 1841 and 1869, approximately 300,000 people left Missouri bound for Oregon. Most completed the journey to Oregon, some turned back, and at least 20,000 emigrants are buried along the trail — about ten for every mile. Locations of most of these graves are unknown and unmarked. Of the pioneers to Oregon and other western areas, many left families in Virginia.

We have previously published several articles which contained records of people who had left Virginia for other regions. Many times these may contain the clues someone needs for their research of a line which suddenly stops in Virginia and no death records are present. The following headstone inscriptions indicate that these people were born in Virginia and, because of the time period, apparently made their way west on the Oregon Trail, to establish a new life on the frontier.

A brochure at the cemetery entitled Mountain View Cemetery — A Tour of Graves of Early Pioneers, provides the following information about Col. White.

“Born in Virginia in 1819, he arrived in Oregon in 1850, and became very active in territorial, state and local politics throughout most of his later life. By 1854 he had been appointed clerk of the Territorial Legislature, and continued as chief clerk of the Oregon legislature in the 1860s and ‘70s. He opened the first hotel in Canemah and later operated Cliff House, a major hotel in Oregon City. He was appointed a Clackamas County judge in 1874, a position he held until 1890.”

A note at the bottom of the above referenced brochure states, “Researched, written and designed by Patricia Erigero, under the direction of the Oregon City Planning Department. © Copyright, City of Oregon City, 1984.”

There may be other headstones in the Mountain View Cemetery which include references to Virginia. Our inquiries at the cemetery office and the Oregon Trail Interpretive Center in Oregon City, concerning whether the inscriptions had been cataloged, were fruitless. It is our intention to further investigate this and present the results in a future issue.

A research suggestion for anyone seeking an individual or family who has disappeared from an area is to trace the migration patterns from that location during the period of time in question. You may well find the people you seek at the “End of the Trail.”

QUERIES

Notice to subscribers. Queries may request explicit information on individuals who should be identified by place name (county or town) and by date (year only). We will attempt to print the queries as received without editing, if possible, so please keep them concise. If you wish to exchange information on a specific surname or group of people with similar names, simply begin your query with "Exchange" and follow with the family names of interest. Queries are only accepted from active subscribers at the time the query is received. Due to the increase in numbers of queries received, please limit your queries to 50 words each (not counting your name and address), and only submit one for each issue published. Queries are printed in the order in which they are received and on a space available basis. Multiple queries from the same individual may appear in separate issues. Please PRINT or TYPE your queries to make sure that the information published is accurate, and names and addresses are correct, so that you can receive the answers you wish without delay.

Keep those QUERIES coming in. Did you know that your queries are much more effective in a local interest publication such as The Southside Virginian? They reach hundreds of people who, just like you, are researching families with ancestry in this area. We have received numerous letters from people who have made contact with other subscribers as a result of their queries. This section is here for your use. We just ask that you follow the few simple rules stated above, and please PRINT YOUR QUERIES very legibly so that we do not have to interpret your words.

The following court order from Mecklenburg County, NC, was submitted by subscriber Herman W. Ferguson. While researching for a book on Mecklenberg County, North Carolina records, which will be available in the near future, Mr. Ferguson came upon this record which refers to Virginia. He states:

The court at its sitting on Thursday, 11 April 1782 orders that a boy of nine or ten be returned to his nearest kin in Virginia. How Master James Fort (alias Rivers) came to be in Mecklenberg County, NC, is a detail that we may never know. My guess is that he ran away from home, that his nearest of kin has been identified, and to whom he is being returned by order of Court. The cost of this return was not inconsiderable given that he is being returned under the care of Benjamin Mayberry and probably required the use of two horses. But that the Court took the time to order his return, was solicitous of his care enroute, and did not simply order the clerk to dispatch a letter to his kin indicates a high sense of concern on the part of the Justices. And this at a time when there was no end of demands being made upon it for the relief of all sorts of problems. In the Fall of 1780, Cornwallis had compared the Mecklenbergers to a hornets nest, and was yet to pass through the state to Virginia where, wonder of wonders, Washington and the French fleet would join forces to end his depredations at Yorktown.

The minutes are in the hand of no less a person than John McKnitt Alexander — how he found time to manage his own considerable affairs and leave such a paper trail of his public work is beyond me. The solicitous phrasing of the Court Order may be his personal concern. The chances are very high against it, but it would be very nice indeed for some indefatigable Fort researcher to add this interesting detail regarding one of their clan.

The court order reads:

Ordered that Benjamin Mabury receive into his care A Certain Supp. Orphant boy of 9 or 10 Years old Named James Fort (alias Rivers) & him Safely Convey into the State of Virg. & there deliver him to his nearest of kin, so that he may receive his patrimony. & that he may endeavor to Clothe & Support s'd boy so that he don't Suffer on s'd Journey.

EDITORIAL

We’re late, and we apologize. Several factors have contributed to the lateness of this issue. We won’t go into all of the details, but the terms broken bones, tennis elbow, and computers may give you a hint. It seems like everything has collaborated to keep Issue 4 from getting to you at the usual time.

We know you anxiously await each issue, because we get letters and calls when they don’t appear on time, for whatever reason. It is most gratifying to know that you look forward to what we publish. As we have stated before, we try very hard to minimize any delays. You can be assured that we will continue to work our hardest to see that The Southside Virginian reaches you expeditiously.

That being said, we hope that you will note that it is once again RENEWAL TIME. Look at the subscription expiration date on your address label of this issue. If your subscription expired on 10/30/94 (with this Volume XII, No. 4 issue), please fill out the renewal form on the back of the insert, and return with $20 in the enclosed addressed envelope. Please note that our subscription rate will remain the same for 1995. But, with postage and printing costs continuing to climb, there is no guarantee that the rates can stay the same the following year. Why not renew now for two or three years? You will lock in the current subscription rate, and will not have to bother renewing for several years. Also, remember that gift subscriptions to your local genealogical or historical society or library are more than likely tax deductible, and will be gratefully received.

Another gift idea at this time of year is a set of back issues for all of the previous years of publication of The Southside Virginian. Information in publications such as The Southside Virginian never becomes dated due to its genealogical and historical nature. A complete set of all issues through 1994 (that’s 48 issues, over 2300 pages) sells for $345 including postage. Until March 1, 1995, we will also include a copy of our 250 page composite Table of Contents and Indexes to VOLS I through VIII. This book normally sells for $28 including postage. This combination would make a fine addition to any library either private or public.

Thank you for your previous support, we hope you continue to subscribe to the only serial publication dealing entirely with Southside Virginia. We assure you that we will continue to maintain the standards which have been established during our years of publishing The Southside Virginian.

BOOK REVIEWS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The following books may be ordered from Genealogical Publishing Co., Inc., 1001 N. Calvert St., Baltimore, MD 21202-3897. (800) 296-6687. Please include $3 postage for one book, $1 for each additional book. Sales tax: Maryland residents 5%; Michigan residents 4%.

Jackie Smith Arnold, Kinship, It's All Relative, 109 pp; illus; charts; paper (6x9); 2nd Ed., 1994. $9.95. See ordering information above. "Next of kin." We see that phrase on various forms and applications which we fill out from time to time. Are we sure that the person whose name we enter is really the legal closest relative? This book provides an extensive study of the laws and practices governing familial relationships of all kinds. This second edition of the original book published in 1990 explores the origins and types of blood kinships as well as legal kinship with respect to adoptions, foundlings, orphans, and foster relationships. There are many tables and charts included to provide the reader with a visual description of the relational architecture. Many new topics are discussed in this expanded second edition. These topics include "Names," "Wills," and "Kinship and Your Health." This is a most thorough evaluation of the subject of kinship and the legal aspects associated therewith. If you've ever wondered about the difference in relationship between a third cousin and a first cousin three-times removed, this is the book for you.

John Rowlands, et al, Welsh Family History, A Guide to Research, xii; 316 pp; map; illus; index; paper (6x9); 1994. $19.95. See ordering information above. Are you researching ancestors from Wales? Have you had any luck in that research? If the answer is no, then this book may provide you with the keys you need. According to the introduction, "the poor survival rate for many key records and the unique social, cultural, religious and linguistic characteristics which have prevailed in Wales over the centuries require a radically different attitude and approach to many aspects of research." Specialists in all areas of Welsh research were enlisted to write separate chapters dealing with their area of expertise. Twenty-three chapters are provided which will guide the researcher through such pitfalls as surnames, placenames, language, church records, estate records, etc. The compilation of the work was expertly overseen by John Rowlands, under the auspices of the Association of Family History Societies of Wales. If your trail ever leads to Wales, you should have this book on your shelf.
Thomas Jay Kemp, International Vital Records Handbook, xi; 417 pp; applications; forms; paper (8½x11); 3rd Ed., 1994. $29.95. See ordering information above. We just found the family bible of a distant relation and in it there is mention of the death date of our second great grandmother and the place of her death. We know that this occurred during the time when death certificates were recorded. Who do we write for a copy of the certificate? How much money do we send? What information do they need? These questions are all answered in the International Vital Records Handbook. Not only are the questions answered, but an application form is provided for you to fill out and send off. It could not be easier. Mr. Kemp has compiled the available information not only for all of the United States and Territories but for the countries of the world as well. As a result of the ever changing status of the world community, this up-to-date compilation is invaluable to the researcher seeking records overseas. For those seeking recorded documentation in the United States, this book is a “must have.”

The Answer of Susanah and Obedce Beasley, to the bill of Peter Beasley

To the worshipful Court of Chesterfd County in Chancery Setting. The Joint answer of Susanah and obedience Beasley, Daughters and legatees of their father Benja Beasley late of this County and To the bill of Complaint Exhibited agt [against] them and others in this Court by their brother Peter Beasley complainant. These Defts [defendants] now and at all Times hereafter saving to themselves and to Each of them, all manner of benefit of Exceptions to the said Complainants bill or any thing therein Contained. For answer thereto, or so far as these defts thinks are advised necessary for them to make answer to. They answer, and Saith, That True it is their father Benja Beasley Decd. in the Complainants bill mentioned; did make and publish his last will and Testament, bearing Date on or about the Time in the Complainants bill Setforth, and departed this life soon after without altering or Revoking the same. These Defts admits, that their mother obedience of wife of the said Testator is now Dead; and also that their brother Saml Beasley and their Two sisters, Tabitha and Betsey Beasley, all three Departed this life soon after the Death of their father; and without Ever being married. They admit, that the said Complainant Peter Beasley is their Eldest brother and heir at law to their decd. brother Saml Beasley and to their Decd. Sisters Tabitha and Betsey Beasleys; and that these Defts has reason to believe he is now Twenty one years old.

These Defts farther admit that their father did make Such gifts Devises and bequeaths in and by his said will as is Setforth in the said Complainants Bill.

But that these Defts believes that the said Compl Peter Beasley is not Intitiled to any greater, part or share of the four negroes lent by the Testator to his wife for life; and of the remainder part of the said Testators other Estate than these Defts are Each Intitiled to, for they Conceive from the will of the Testator, That is was meant; as well as Expressed by him for his negroes and personal Estate to be Equally Divided Between his surviving children, (as well Daughters as sons) in Case Either of his Sons Died under age or that that [sic] Either of his Daughters Departed this life unmarried which said will of the Testator or a Copy thereof these Defts prays may be refered to and taken as part of this their answer by this worshipful Court; wherein these Defendants Interest and Title of in and to the said Testators negroes and personal Estate will more fully appear.

These Defts, Denies that they are unwilling to Come to an Equal Division of their fathers negroes and personal Estate with the Complainant and their other Two brothers, Danl and Thomas Beasley, But on the Contrary they are willing the same be done when this Court will please to order and Direct, and that they these Defts are willing that proper persons be appointed to make such Divisions. these Defts Denies all fraud.

    The answer of Danl & Thomas Beasley, sons and legatees of Benja Beasley Dec'd by Henry Winfield their Spl Guardian appointed to defend them, to the bill of Complaint Exhibited agt them and others in this Court by their brother Peter Beasley, Complainant.

These Defendants now and at all Times hereafter, saving and reserving to themselves, and to Each of them all manner of benefits of Exceptions to the said Complainants bill or any thing therein Contained; for answer thereto, or so far as these Defendants are advised is Necessary or material for them or Either of them to answer. They answereth and Saith, That True it is their father Benja Beasley Dec'd in the Complainants bill mentioned; did make and publish his last will and Testament bearing Date on or about the Time in the Complainants bill Setforth, and Departed this life soon after without altering or Revoking the same. ———

These Defendants admits, their mother obedience of wife of the said Testator is now Dead, and also that their brother Sam'l Beasley and their Two Sisters; Tabitha and Betsey Beasley, all three Departed this life soon after the Death of their father and without Ever being married. They admit that the Complainant Peter Beasley is their Eldest brother and heir at law to thier Dec'd brother Saml Beasley and to their Dec'd sisters, Tabitha and Betsey Beasley; and that they have reason to believe he is now Twenty one years old. These Defts. farther admits, that their father, did make Such gifts, Divises and bequeaths in and by his said will as Setforth in the said Complainants Bill.

But these Defendants believes that the said Complainant Peter Beasley is not Intitled to any greater Share or part of the four negroes lent by the Testator to his wife for life and of the remainder part of the said Testators other Estate than these Defts are Each Intitled to; and which will these Defts prays may be refered to and Taken as apart of this answer, and as for the Division of the same; these Defts, does not deny Coming to; with the Complainant and their Surviving Sisters Equally, which these Defts believes was the will, meaning and Intent of the Testator; for the said four negroes lent, by the Testator to his wife for life, and [strikethrough] the remainder of his Estate to be Equally divided Between all his Surviving children (in case the sons died under age and the Daughters died unmarried) But as these Defts are under lawfull (age)

Ghost Towns

Ghost Town Gets Guardian Angel
By Henry Christner, Times Dispatch Staff Writer

Editor's Note: The following is excerpted from an article originally appearing in the Richmond Times-Dispatch Section D, Page 1, Sunday, May 8, 1994, and is printed here with permission.

On many road maps, the Palmers Store intersection at U.S. 522 and state Route 711 in Powhatan is known as Jefferson. But it's not the real Jefferson. The real Jefferson, a busy port town in the early 1800s, stood three miles to the north of this location.

For reasons that aren't completely clear, the 32-lot town that would have celebrated its bicentennial this year died out in the latter part of the 19th century. Tall grass now grows along Main Street. A brick tavern stands in ruins amid a stand of yellow poplars, elms and hackberry. The stores, shops and warehouses are gone.

Jefferson, also known as Jefferson Landing, has ceased to exist. But that doesn't mean it has been abandoned. Two years ago, the property was accepted into the Virginia Forest Stewardship Program. Administered by the state Department of Forestry, the program is based on the idea that 11 million acres of private woodlands in Virginia can be managed and protected with the total forest environment in mind.

The stewardship program helps qualifying landowners with 20 acres or more to develop a long-range plan for their forest properties with technical assistance from state agencies and, in some cases, federal cost-sharing grants. The recommendations in the plan are based on the landowner's priorities, which can include protection of wildlife, endangered species, habitat, soil and water, archaeological sites, scenic beauty, and historical resources.

In the case of Jefferson, several of these came into play.

One 63 acre tract of the 333-acre parcel owned by Richard LeHew required special attention because it was the site of the town proper. Jacqueline Hernigle, an archaeologist with the state's Department of Historic Resources, visited the property, studied county tax records, and concluded that the site should be prepared for nomination to state and national historic registers. She said vegetation should be cleared away, surface areas should be protected, and an archaeological survey should be conducted. She also recommended further research on the town’s history.

One question to be answered is whether the town was named in honor of Thomas Jefferson or perhaps his father, Peter, who bought and sold James River property. Another is the makeup of the population, which over the years included merchants, slaves, emancipated slaves and members of the prominent Michaux family.

New research also could answer the biggest question of all: What happened to this once-bustling port town? Why did Flat Rock and Powhatan Courthouse survive and Jefferson fail?

Paul B. Mitchell, a local amateur historian, said the decline came swiftly. In 1835, Jefferson had two stores, a tailor shop, two shoemakers, a saddler and harness-maker, three taverns and numerous warehouses that housed goods awaiting shipment. In that one year, 40,000 bushels of wheat and 250 hogsheads of tobacco were shipped out on the James.

But 20 years after the Civil War, Jefferson was on its way to becoming a ghost town. “Although the rapid demise of Jefferson is somewhat mysterious,” said Mitchell, “the main reasons were the deplorable economic conditions characteristic of the South during Reconstruction, and the advent of railroads.”

Today, two centuries after the town was established by the General Assembly in 1794, Jefferson and the forests around it are finding a new identity — and a new place in Virginia history.

The Jefferson tract and another owned by LeHew are among 25 forest properties that have qualified for the stewardship program in Powhatan. Statewide, 1100 owners of 175,000 acres of private forest land are enrolled. For information on Powhatan’s program, call Paul Geyer at (804) 598-4728.

For information on how to qualify for the program in other counties, call the Department of Forestry headquarters in Charlottesville at (804) 977-6555; the stewardship program coordinator is David Coffman. Information also can be obtained from regional and county foresters.

More information on Jefferson is available in Powhatan: A Bicentennial History by Richard Couture.

To the Honble William David Judge of the Circuit Superior Court of Law and Chancery for the County of Cumberland

Humbly complaining sheweth unto your Honour your Orator and Oratrixes Samuel Spencer and Judith his wife lately Judith Holcombe, Wm Bain and Eliza his wife, George Woodson, [ellegible strikethrough] Ed. M. Woodson, Blake B. Woodson, William C. Woodson, Edwin Moore & Sally his wife, Martha Ophelia Woodson (which said Eliza, George, Edwd. M., Blake B., William C., Sally & Martha Ophelia, are children of Sally Woodson formerly Taylor), now dec'd & daughter of Joseph Taylor dec'd) James Cunningham and Sally his wife, formerly Taylor, William E. Venable, Archibald Venable, and James Venable, which said Sally, William, Archibald, and James are children of Eliza and Abraham Venable both now dec'd, and Patsy Booker, (which said Judith Spencer, Sally Woodson, Eliza Venable and Patsy Booker are daughters of Joseph Taylor dec'd)

That they together with Edward Booker & Archibald Woodson exhibitith their original bill before your Honour in the court aforesaid on the 5 day of April 1832 charging among other things that Joseph Taylor formerly of the said County of Cumberland had then recently departed this life intestate, leaving an estate real & personal to which they together with Archibald Taylor & Zachariah Taylor sons of the said Joseph here entitled and praying a distribution of the estate of the said Joseph among them according to their respective rights — this sundry proceedings were had in the said cause which will be seen an account of the estate & administration of the said personal estate rendered by the said Archibald Taylor’s representative and a sale of the real estate ordered, made and a report thereof made to the court[s] — that since the proceedings aforesaid the said Plaintiff Edward Booker has departed this life leaving your Oratrix Patsy living and entitles to the portion of the estate of the said Joseph, which she & the said Edward claimed in their said original bill. And the said Edward never in any manner having disposed of their said rights portion in his life time — that the said Archibald Taylor departed this life having first duly published his last will and testament, whereby he gave the whole of his estate of every kind to his wife [blank space] Taylor — that the said [blank space] Taylor afterwards departed this life having made and published a noncupative will, which was admitted to record in the Hustings Court of the City of Richmond by which she gave her personal estate to Eliza H. her sisters Eliza Harrison (wife of Thomas Harrison now decd.) and Lucy Treat (wife of Dr. Wm. Treat) this the said Thomas Harrison & Eliza his wife and John Treat and Lucy his wife have been regularly made parties defendants to their said original bill — by the said Thomas Harrison has since departed this life, whereby one moiety of the interest of the said Archibald Taylor has survived to the said Eliza — and the said Lucy Treat has also since departed this life leaving her husband the said John Treat surviving her, and to whom your Orators and Oratrixes are advised the right to her one moiety of the said Archibald’s interest in the said personal estate survives and hopes if he think fit to qualify as her admr and also leaving the following children to wit. John, Edward, Barleigh, Mary, Littia, Lucy, Wm. Z, P. T. Treat entitled as her heirs at law to her one moiety of of the said Archibald’s interest in the said real estate of his said father the said Joseph. They further represent to your honours, that the Plaintiff Archibald B. Woodson and Albert Woodson sons of the said Sally Woodson formerly Sally Taylor have also departed this life leaving wives and children in the states of Georgia and Mississippi whose names are unknown to your Orators and Oratrixes; and also are entitled to the proportions of the said Joseph’s Estate to which the said Archibald & Albert would have been entitled if they were now living — They also say that since the [establishment?] of their original bill aforesaid the said your Oratrix Judith has intermarried with your Orator Samuel Spencer, but before her said marriage, she conveyed and transferred her interest in the estate of her said father Joseph Taylor to Helen Mary Fleshman & W H T Fleshman infants under 21 years of age who are now entitled thereto. Now in tender consideration of the promises and to the end that full and perfect justice may be rended to all concerned they have your Orators and Oratrixes humbly pray that the said John Treat, Edward Treat, Barleigh Treat, Mary Treat Littia, Lucy, Wm. Parson and Local Man of Affairs: George Gurley

Submitted by Otto Lohrenz, professor of history (emeritus), The University of Nebraska at Kearney

In 1752 the governor and Council of Virginia spurned the chance of breaking precedent by refusing to approve the appointment of a clergyman of the established Church of England to the position of justice of the peace. "Every Clergyman has enough to do," they declared, "without engaging himself in civil affairs." This aroused the clergy who, in convention in 1754, prepared and presented a petition to the governor, protesting the implied disrespect and beseeching him to reverse the order. a Their remonstrance was successful for in the next two or three decades more than a score of Anglican parsons functioned as justices of their respective counties. b A short time later the quarrel with the Mother Country and the War for Independence offered additional opportunities for clerics of the established church to enter the political arena and the freeholders elected at least twenty-eight of them to the county committees of safety. c The men of the cloth also filled other local offices and c George MacLaren Brydon writes that the voters elected 24 Anglican clergymen to the committees of safety; see Brydon, Virginia's Mother Church and the Political Conditions Under Which It Grew, 2 vols. (Richmond, 1947, Philadelphia, 1952), II, 434 n. 16. To that list should be added William Harrison, Thomas Fielde, Thomas Davis, Sr., and Thomas Davis, Jr.; see Otto Lohrenz, "The Right Reverend William Harrison of Revolutionary Virginia, First 'Lord Archbishop of America'," Historical Magazine of the Protestant Episcopal Church, 53 (1984), 30-32; Otto Lohrenz, "The Reverend Thomas Fielde, Loyalist Acting Rector of St. Andrew's Church: An Identification," Staten Island Historian, New Ser., 2 (1984), 17; Otto Lohrenz, "The Reverend Thomas Davis: President (continued... accepted public assignments associated with the Revolution. Thus Virginia’s last generation of Anglican clergymen—the incumbents who witnessed Independence and disestablishment—were widely accepted members of the office holding class.

One of these divines who qualified as a local man of affairs was George Gurley, rector of St. Luke’s parish, who acted as justice, sheriff, and Revolutionary committeeman of Southampton County. The purpose of this essay is the review and analysis of the career of Gurley as a servant of his church and state.

Parson George Gurley was a descendant of an old American family with roots in both North Carolina and Virginia. He was the eldest son of George Gurley, a planter of some note in Southampton County, Virginia, whose death in late 1770 merited a few lines in the Williamsburg gazette. In his will the elder Gurley mentioned his wife, who presumably was the mother of our subject, but did not name her; no further identification of her has been made. The father bequeathed his plantation and lands, of unspecified acreage, to his son and namesake. Included in his real estate holdings were 150 acres which he had patented in 1733. d

Young Gurley’s interest in the ministry came to light soon after the formation of St. Luke’s. Nottoway parish, which had been coterminous with Southampton County, was subdivided in 1762, the part west of Nottoway River becoming St.
Luke’s parish. e The next year the churchwardens and vestry of St. Luke’s recommended Gurley for holy orders to William Robinson, Virginia’s commisary, writing that Gurley’s “Honesty and Integrity we have sufficiently experienced as he was born and hath constantly resided among us.” Other inhabitants of the parish also certified in writing that Gurley was well known to them and that they had a “good opinion of his Moral and Religious Character and his general Behaviour.” Both letters proposed that Gurley become parson parish in Sussex County informed Robinson that he was acquainted with Gurley and most of his supporters and believed the applicant “to be such as the ... subscribing Gentlemen say he is.” From an examination Robinson found that Gurley had “a competent share of Learning,” whereupon he forwarded a recommendation on his behalf to the bishop of London. From which institution, or in what manner, Gurley obtained his education is not known. Francis Fauquier, lieutenant governor and chief executive of Virginia, was impressed with Gurley’s credentials and assured the bishop that he would present him as rector to St. Luke’s upon his return with orders.

The warm support the elite of the county gave to his clerical and parochial candidacy indicates that he was an established member of their social class. His subsequent public career confirms the judgment that the Gurleys belonged to the gentry families who dominated political affairs in Southampton. Gurley’s case contradicts the argument of Rhys Isaac who believed the rectors of Virginia were drawn from inferior social levels and continued to occupy a low social status as parsons, and supports the conclusion of Arthur P. Middleton who thought that “the parsons ... habitually move(d) in the social circles of the upper class.”

Since there was no bishop in America an ordinand had to undertake the voyage to London to obtain the blessing of the bishop of London, the nominal diocesan of the colonial Anglican Churches. The passage could be unpleasant and dangerous and the possibility of illness and disease, especially smallpox, on board ship and in England was real. On August 11, 1749 Gurley had wed Mary Willis, who has not been identified, and by 1762 he was the father of six children. To reach London, accomplish the purpose, and return to Virginia generally took about a year. For Gurley to leave his family that length of time, to accept the inherent dangers of the journey, and to interrupt his economic activities would suggest that he had a sincere and genuine interest in serving the Church of England as minister.

Apparently Gurley had no problems in crossing the ocean or in achieving his mission in London, where the bishop ordained him deacon on September 23, 1764 and priest a week later. On the latter date the bishop also licensed him to officiate in Virginia. On October 4 Gurley received the King’s Bounty, $20 sterling to help defray transportation costs. Ordination meant Gurley had established his character and orthodoxy to the satisfaction of the bishop, and had also demonstrated sufficient knowledge of the Bible, the Prayer Book, the Creeds, the Thirty-nine Articles, scriptural and church history, and Greek and Latin. After his induction into the priesthood, Gurley also took the required oaths of allegiance and canonical obedience to the king and to the Church of England.\(^j\)

In late 1764 or early 1765 Gurley returned to Virginia and began his ministry, of nearly thirty years, in St. Luke’s parish. His chief duty was to conduct Sunday services according to schedule in St. Luke’s three worship centers: Angelica Chapel, Vick’s Old Church, and O’Berry’s Church. The first Angelica Chapel dated back to 1734, but apparently a new edifice replaced it soon after 1768 when the churchwardens advertised for bids from contractors for “the building of three wooden churches” in the parish. The other two churches originated from this initiative. All three structures have long since disappeared.\(^k\) It was also Gurley’s duty to catechize the children, to administer the eucharist to the communicants three times a year, and to record all births, marriages, and deaths in the parish register. He also officiated at baptisms, marriages, and funerals for which he received perquisites. Virginia law provided that the minister annually receive 16,000 pounds of tobacco, plus the percentages for cask and shrinkage, and that he have the use of a glebe of at least two hundred acres with a suitable residence and appropriate outbuildings for agricultural production.\(^l\)

Very little of Gurley as a minister in Virginia is known. The St. Luke’s vestry book and parish register, which might have provided helpful information about his incumbency, have been lost or destroyed. No sermon, text, or reference to his preaching have survived, but the absence of recorded complaints and his long tenure permit the conclusion that his performance in and out of the pulpit was most acceptable. Gurley did not take part in the clerical relief fund for widows and orphans of clergymen, a subscription organization which functioned very successfully until the end of the Revolution. According to the gazettes many of the clerics, especially the younger ones, preached sermons at the annual convocations, and many served as trustees of the fund, but Gurley is not known to have participated. m Nor did Gurley involve himself in the controversy that gripped many of his professional colleagues in the 1770s when some of them attempted to petition the king for an American bishop. n

Gurley revealed interest and concern for the future of his church. When the Anglican Church in Virginia was disestablished in the mid-1780s the clerical and lay leaders met in convention in Richmond to organize the Protestant Episcopal Church of Virginia and to supervise its early development. Gurley was one of the thirty-six clergymen to attend the initial meeting in 1785. o Another indication of Gurley’s regard for his profession and church was his apparent encouragement of his son, Joseph Gurley, to enter the ministry. Joseph Gurley obtained holy orders from Bishop William White of Pennsylvania in 1788 and officiated first as curate to his father. In 1793 the father resigned as rector and the son succeeded him. Later he served Episcopal churches in North Carolina. p The acceptance of Joseph Gurley by the parishioners of St. Luke’s seems to be a commendation for both father and son.

o “Journals of the Conventions of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the State of Virginia, 1785-1790,” Francis L. Hawks, Contributions to the Ecclesiastical History of the United States of America, 2 vols. (New York, 1836-39), 1, 3-4, 12, 18, 26, 29. On the disestablishment of the church, see Thomas E. Buckley, Church and State in Revolutionary Virginia, 1777-1787 (Charlottesville, VA, 1977).

Another indication of Gurley’s commitment to his calling and church occurred in the early years of the Revolution when the new Virginia state legislature first suspended and then terminated clerical stipends from public sources as of December 31, 1776. Thereafter salaries had to be raised by subscription from parishioners unaccustomed to voluntary contributions, often leaving the minister with little more than the perquisites and the benefits he could derive from the glebe house and farm. One prominent clergyman considered leaving the ministry for the practice of law, because “Divinity ... will starve a Man in these times.” Another well-known minister wrote that “the Revolution ... has been fatal to the Clergy of Virginia. From a fixed salary they are reduced to depend on a precarious subscription for bread.” Fortunately Gurley was economically established and could tolerate the loss of 16,000 pounds of tobacco per annum. No doubt some donations were forthcoming, yet it can hardly be said that he carried on his ministerial duties because of material inducements. That he persisted as rector of St. Luke’s underscores his loyalty and dedication to the Anglican and Episcopal Churches of Virginia.

The Evans Graveyard

Subject: The Evans Graveyard

Location: 1.3 miles east of Curdsville, Virginia on Route #633; thence south .6 mile on private road; thence east .5 mile through field.

Off the old Dobson Bridge road; east of Curdsville, Virginia close to Willis Creek, is a very large old graveyard, which from all indications was once the property of wealth. A high broad rock wall enclose the graveyard but this has fallen in several places. There are five vaults with large marble slab tops, and eight upright tombstones, also a number of unmarked graves. This graveyard was once a part of the old Colonel William Evans estate known as “Merioneth.” “Merioneth” was said to be a duplicate of his ancestral home in Ireland. William Evans was under the command of Washington during the Revolution, and was later a Colonel in the Virginia Militia. Colonel William Evans was born in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

The old place seems to be gone and almost forgotten, no one in the community seems to know who owns the graveyard or the surrounding land. There was a dispute about the property, which has never been settled.

Following are the names and the inscriptions on the vaults:

"Rural Felicity"
Transcribed by Kathryn Sawyer Hooper

Research performed by Bettie B. Powell, McKenney, Virginia [October 21, 1937]

Subject: "Rural Felicity"

Location: 3 miles west of Hebron, Virginia on Route #460, thence 1.6 miles north on Route #625, thence 1.1 mile east on private road.

Date: About 1772

Owners:
- Willard Anderson Reames 1772
- William Wilson Reames 1836
- Andrew Wilson Reames 1856
- Willard Anderson Reames to E. W. and W. D. Allen, the present owners, 1936

Description:

This house is situated to the rear of many large trees and a hedge of boxwood on either side of the walk. This two story frame "L" residence has a gable roof, beaded weatherboarding and three Flemish Bond brick chimneys. There is one Colonial two story porch and veranda leading from the two story porch to the second porch which is one story. A railing three feet high encloses both porches and the veranda, short square post topped with balls are to the veranda railing. The front entrance is through the two story porch into a double four panel door with transom and side lights of seven by sixteen inch panes. In the large hall is a three flight stairway to the second floor. There are seven large rooms, one on each side and to the back of the hall. A closed one flight stairway is in the back room, it also has two windows which are three feet from the floor. This is the earliest built section. The second and third sections each have two windows of varying size panes.

On the entire first floor there is wainscoting, heavy six panel painted doors, common iron hinges, large outside locks and plain mantels.
It was built of the best material, hand hewn, shop nails and is in good condition [1937]. The original house is not spoiled by the addition of a back porch and wing room.

Historical Significance:

"Rural Felicity" is built in three sections. The back, which is the first section, was built in 1772, by Willard Anderson Reames, the second by William Wilson Reames, his son, and the third by Andrew Wilson Reames, a grandson. It was inherited and is now owned by his nephews Edward Wilson and William D. Allen. It has never been out of the Reames family.

Tradition is, that it was a part of the land which was a grant to Robert Bolling. Willard Anderson Reames built a house for Mr. Bolling, and in return for his labor he received the land where he settled and built "Rural Felicity."

There are two graveyards on the place. The one to the back of the house is not over thirty years old and there are no tombstones. The graveyard of the first generation is east of the house in a field, it has been abandonedd and the plot is now cultivated. In this field is said to be interred the following:

Willard Anderson Reames
Sarah Anna Reames
Andrew Wilson Reames
Anna Minerva Fowlks
Louise Anna Reames
Betsy Reames
twenty grandchildren

Old Walker Home

Subject: Site of Old Walker Home

Location: Go 5 miles northeast of Pamplin, Virginia, on Route #600, thence .6 miles west (left) on Route #627. Site is 100 yards on North (right) side of the road.

Date: 1761

Owners:
- James Walker 1761
- Mrs. James Walker 1778
- Dr. James Walker 1820
- William Hix circa 1875
- William Hix Estate 1900 to present date [1937]

Description: (Given from memory by Miss Maggie Hix, Pamplin, Virginia, R.F.D. #1, one of the present owners of the site)

True to the custom of the early settlers in building their first homes, logs were used in its construction. This home was a one-and-a-half-story building, and long hand-drawn shingles covered the roof. These shingles were about thirty inches or more in length. A square, eight by eight porch, with hand-hewn, square columns, six in number formed the one-story porch. The front door was four paneled oak, hung with common iron hinges. The windows that were used in the late 1870's may not have been the original; these were six, eight by ten panes to the sash. The walls were never ceiled. In that part built of logs, mud chinked the cracks and a coating of white covered the interior. Two rooms were on the first floor, one of which was used as a parlor and the other as a bed room. Two windows furnished the light for the parlor and only one window for the bedroom. A closed, one-flight stairway, with a door at the foot of the stairway lead to the second floor. This floor was a half-story, was never divided but remained one large room. When company came, and two rooms were needed a curtain was hung about the center, thus dividing the room. One window in each end gave light for this part of the house. These windows were very small, just one sash, containing four, six by six panes. Later on, another room was added, whether by the original owner or not, is not known. This room was a frame structure. The weatherboarding was wide and one could tell the planks were hand-planed. This room was ceiled with a wide boarded ceiling, with a ten inch base board around the room. The cellar, under the entire log part of the house, must have been used for storage. There were no fireplaces for heating the rooms, which had only dirt floors. To get into the cellar a small door entered from the outside. The floors over the rest of the house were of uneven widths, some planks being eight or ten inches wide. These were not of the tongue and grooved kind. Three mantels, one in each of the first floor rooms, were plain hand-made and high. No carving. The chimney in the log part of the house was part rock and part brick, the brick having been made from the red clay found nearby. Rock was also used in building the foundation. The chimney to the frame part was built entirely of brick.

Historical Significance:

Capt. James Walker was one of the outstanding citizens of his day, playing an important part in both the business and social life in his community. He was consulted by all of the neighbors for aid in their problems. When the Revolutionary War broke out he answered the call to arms, leaving his bride of less than a year. As an officer (the rank of Captain) he led his men into many battles and was killed in the battle of Guilford Court House, North Carolina. He had always told his brother officers, should he be killed in battle, to write a note to his wife, tie the note, (well wrapped) to the bridle of his horse, then turn his horse loose, headed towards home; it is said to have been done and in about ten days the horse arrived home. His wife, hearing a noise at the back of the house, (it being night), took a lantern to investigate. At the back door she found her husband’s horse, also found the note tied to the bridle, telling her of her husband’s fate. The Walkers had only one child, a son, who, upon reaching early manhood, studied medicine and, after finishing his course, came back home to practice his profession, winning the love and respect of all who came in contact with him. After the war was over, Capt. Richard Holland, who succeeded Capt. Walker as Captain of the Company, married the widow Walker and made his home in the old Walker home. When the Hix home was burned in 1880, the family moved into this old home [Walker Home] until their home was built.

BRANDON

The above Virginia Historical Marker numbered 218-K is located in Prince George County, on State Route 10, in Burrowsville. It states “This place, five miles northeast, has been owned by the Harrison family for two centuries. John Martin patented the land in 1617; Nathaniel Harrison bought it in 1720. The present house was built about 1770. The British General Phillips landed at Brandon, May 7, 1781. A mile farther is Upper Brandon.”
