OF MORGANTOWN, W. VA.
On the 9th day of August, 1919, at our second family reunion, I was elected family historian and was asked to prepare a history of our family, about which most of us then knew but little. At first I planned to say something about the Brand family in general and to give some account of the different branches of the family in the United States. Some material was collected with this end in view. But I soon found that writing a history of the Monongalia County branch of the family was no small task. Indeed, it may be doubted whether this book is entitled to be called a history. To those who have the patience to read it through, it may seem to be only a list of names and dates. The genealogical feature has in fact been the first consideration. Probably a better name for the undertaking would be a foundation for a history of this family.

In the preparation of this work many members of the family have lent a hand. James M. Davis has been my ablest assistant with the Barns family. Warren L. Perdew helped extensively with the Samuel Brand branch. Classified by families, others, deserving of special mention, are: in the family of George Brand, W. A. Brand and wife, T. L. Brand and wife, Margaret J. Coberly, Wm. L. Thomas, and Martha A. Wolfe; in the Barns family, Mary F. Finley, H. K. Finley, Mary Frances Potts, Julia P. Sexton, and J. O. Brown; in the Lough family, C. T. Evans, Fleeta May Huddleston, J. A. Davis, Frank Jolliffe, Anna J. Bass, Mary A. Jett, Ruth Ella White, E. H. Lough, Elizabeth Trew, Amanda J. Myers, Maude Belle Baert, M. B. Evans, Era E. Thompson, and Nora Belle Lawson; in the family of John Brand (son of John), P. G. Brand, and J. S. Brand; in the family of James Brand (son of John),

Many persons not connected with the family also rendered material assistance. E. E. Beardsley, of Hamilton, Ohio, O. P. Davis, of Okeana, Ohio, G. W. Jolliffe, of Hope, Indiana, F. W. Humerdosse, of Newbern, Iowa, Mrs. Margaret Brillhart, of Dallas, Iowa, A. M. Proctor, of Goldsboro, North Carolina, E. C. Lynn, of Donnellson, Iowa, and James Cruikshank, of Donnellson, Iowa, all helped me to locate some missing members of the family. I am indebted to Dr. J. M. Callahan, Professor of History in the University, for valuable suggestions; to F. L. Yates, for searches made in the Congressional Library; and to C. R. Myers, State Archivist, for records from the State Library.

In conclusion, I will say that this is not a literary production. Nor is it expected to be without mistakes. Being personally acquainted with only a small portion of the family, I have had to rely upon others for the larger part of the facts. While some records may be as much as two years "out of date", most of them are brought up to January 1, 1922.

INTRODUCTION

Our starting point is with John Brand and James Brand. This book deals with them and with William Harrison Brand, who was brought up by one of the sons of James Brand. According to the best information obtainable, John and James were born in the State of New Jersey. A beautiful but pathetic story, handed down in the family, tells us that their father was abducted from Edinburg, Scotland, about 1720. As the story goes, one James Brand, then about twelve years old, when on his way home from school with his little sister and several playmates, was induced, with the other boys, to go on board a British trading vessel to see the beauties of the ship and to hear the music. The girls remained on shore. While the boys were seeing the sights and were writing their names in a book, the vessel quietly withdrew from shore and was several feet from land before they realized it was moving. Little James Brand came upon deck just long enough to hear his sister's bewailing cry and to see her beckon him to jump off the ship. He attempted to do so, but was caught and taken below deck where he was securely kept. After fourteen months of sailing on a stormy ocean, the ship with her human cargo reached the colony of New Jersey. Here the little boys, twelve in number, were sold out to serve as apprentices until they became twenty-one, James Brand to a Presbyterian preacher, whose home was near the sea. Often, it is said, little James would go out into a clearing along the beach to sit upon a stump and long for a ship to come and take him back to Scotland. But he was closely watched and was not allowed to stray far from home. Being kindly treated by his new associates, gradually he began to be reconciled to his new surroundings; and gradually there came into his life another to take the place of that little sister, whose despairing cry had been the sad farewell of his native land. The daughter of the Presbyterian preacher, according to the tradition, became his wife and the mother of John and James. Another version of the story is that, not being treated well, he "upset" his master shortly before his apprenticeship expired and then ran away.

John Brand, James Brand, and Joseph Brand, three sons of James Brand, on many occasions repeated the above story of their grandfather to the younger generations. No trace of it can be found in the Samuel Brand family or in any of the families on the John Brand side. Unfortunately, however, a diligent search among early records of New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and Pennsylvania has failed to confirm this tradition.

Charles I. Brand, Henry G. Brand, and John M. Brand, grandsons of John, all agreed that the two men were brothers. Their history begins in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania.

John and James may have taken part in the George Rogers Clark expedition, which started to Illinois in 1778. William Harrod, a captain with Clark, recruited most of his company from the Redstone country in Pennsylvania. James Brand is mentioned in Collins's History of Kentucky as a member of Harrod's company, which was stationed in 1780 near the point where Louisville now is. The same authority lists John Brand as a resident of Harrodsburg, near Louisville, in 1778 and 1779. William H. Lewis, in his Conquest of the Northwest, shows that Sergeant John Brand was allotted 200 acres of land in Clark County, Indiana, for services in this expedition. However, there were two men, named James Brand and John Brand, in Augusta County, Virginia, who might have performed this service. The records indicate that one of them was in Kentucky about this time. The connection, if any, between their family and ours is not known.
PART I.

JOHN BRAND

The boyhood days of John Brand will have to be passed over in silence. The first authentic public record in regard to him is found in the Pennsylvania Archives, where he is mentioned as a member of Captain William Conwell's company of Rangers of the Frontiers between 1778 and 1783. It is not known what services he performed with this company, which was apparently composed of twenty-five men. Their names were as follows: William Conwell, (captain), Samuel Adams, William Davidson, Samuel Scott, John Adams, John Adams, Jr., Alex Hinds, Thomas Major, Samuel Lynch, Michael Flud, John Brand, James Linsey, Robert Walker, Jr., George Hill, John McConnell, Ephriam January, Adam McConnell, John Hall, Henry Hortman, Joseph McClean, Alex Stewart, Samuel Birnes, David Allen, Elijah Barclay, and Robert Walker. With a slight variation in the spelling, this list of names appears in the Pennsylvania Archives, Third Series, Volume 23, in two places; once on page 284, and again on page 316. Samuel Lynch, Michael Flud, John McConnell, David Allen, and Elijah Barclay are mentioned in other places in the Archives as residents of Franklin Township in Westmoreland County. They were probably neighbors of John Brand.

In another place in the Pennsylvania Archives is found a list of the names of one hundred and three men who signed receipts for pay for services in the Pennsylvania militia in Westmoreland County in the year 1782. The name of John Brand appears in this list. (Pa. Arc., 6th Series, Vol. 2, page 349). Several of the men named above are also mentioned. Joseph McClean, James Lindsay, Alexr. Hinds, Saml. Linch, Michael Flood, Ephriam January, Alexr. Stewart, David Allen, and John Adams, Jr., whose names appear here, are probably the same persons named in the previous list.

John Brand is also mentioned in a list of the soldiers of the Continental Line from Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. (Pa. Arc., 5th Series, Vol. 4, page 736.) But an extended search has failed to reveal the nature of the services performed by him in any of these capacities.

These same Archives show that he was assessed in Franklin Township, Westmoreland County, in the year 1783. The tax return informs us that he had one hundred acres of land, two horses, two cattle, and one sheep; and that there were six members of his family. Owing to the fact that Fayette County was formed out of part of Westmoreland, September 26, 1783, later assessments for Franklin Township appear in Fayette County. There is no record of any assessment for the year 1784; but for the years 1785 and 1786 John Brand is listed in the same township for state tax. The amount of his property and the number of members in his family are not given for these years.

There is nothing on the land records of Westmoreland and Fayette Counties to show when or how John Brand received title to the land assessed to him in 1783. The records at Harrisburg fail to show that any land was granted to him by the State of Pennsylvania. Virginia also granted land to settlers in this section, as this portion of Pennsylvania was then claimed by that State. But there is no record of a grant from Virginia to John Brand. From the early history of Westmoreland County it appears that much land was taken up in that county under what was called a "Tomahawk Right." To establish a claim under this method a settler simply went upon the land, built a cabin, and marked his boundaries by peeling trees.
In the course of time such rights came to be respected by all the settlers and were bought and sold. John Brand probably had only a right of this kind to his land in Franklin Township. The following deed, recorded at Uniontown, Pennsylvania, has enabled us to locate, approximately, the place where John Brand lived in Pennsylvania:

"Know all men by . . . . . . . Presents, that I, John Brand, of Franklin Township, Fayette County, State of Pennsylvania, for the consideration of the sum of Thirty Pounds Specie to me on hand paid by William McVey, of the same place, the receipt Whereof I do hereby acknowledge & myself therewith fully satisfied & paid, have Bargained, sold, sett over, and confirmed & by these presents do Bargain, sell, sett over and confirm unto him, the said William McVey, a Tract or Parcel of Land, lying and being in the county aforesaid, joining lands of Isaac Quick & thence by a path leading from the graveyard towards Samuel Gibson's, thence by an agreeable line made between me and sd McVey to the place of beginning, containing sixty acres of land. To have and to hold all & singular the said lands to the only proper use & behoof of him, the said William McVey, his Heirs, Executors, Administrators & Assigns against all manner of Person or Persons Claiming, or that may Claim the same (The Lord of the Soils accepted), Shall and Will Warrant and Defend by these Presents.

"Sealed with my seal & dated this twenty-fourth day of October, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty-Seven.

John Brand (Seal)

This deed was admitted to record on the 9th day of May, 1788, and appears in Deed Book A, at page 218. It will be observed that this conveyance disposes of only sixty acres of land. The record does not disclose what became of the other forty acres. It may be that in those days the acreage was only approximated and that the tract transferred by this deed was in fact all the land he had. John Brand’s wife did not join in the above deed.

An examination of the records relating to the lands of William McVey and Isaac Quick discloses that these lands were on the waters of Redstone Creek near the present village of Upper Middletown in Franklin Township, Fayette County. Several years ago Charles I. Brand told the writer that his grandfather, John Brand, came to Monongalia County from a place called “Plum Sock” in Pennsylvania. All the early historians of Westmoreland and Fayette Counties mention this place, which is usually written in their narratives “Plump Sock.” After the lapse of many years the name has been shortened to “Sock”, which the inhabitants of neighboring communities make use of even to this day in their taunting remarks about Upper Middletown.

The records at Uniontown furnish but little additional information in regard to this pioneer family. At the June term of court, 1788, John Brand and Jane, his wife, brought a suit against Samuel Gibson, from which it appears that the parties lived eight miles north of Uniontown. But the nature of the controversy and the amount involved must be left to conjecture. However, at the following September term of court John Brand alone filed a suit against Samuel Gibson and Thomas Neely wherein the amount sued for was forty pounds. It may be that John Brand was at that time making preparations to move to Monongalia County and was collecting what his neighbors owed him.

He lived in Pennsylvania until at least the year 1790. The census records for that year show that he then lived in Franklin Township, Fayette County. The members of his family at that time numbered nine, one male over sixteen, three males under sixteen, and five females, with no slaves. The family record, which is given below, shows that John Brand had only three daughters at that time. From this census record it would seem that he had four. Comparing the family record also with the number reported in his family by the assessor in 1783, we find the same discrepancy. The name of this extra member of the family of John Brand is a mystery.

It is not known just what time he left Pennsylvania to become a resident of the State of Virginia. The county records disclose that his youngest daughter was born in Monongalia County. As will be shown by the family

*In this connection it should be mentioned that Rev. William J. Newlon, a Baptist minister, once told James P. Brand that the maiden name of his grandmother Allen was Brand and that she was raised near Morgantown. It appears that his grandfather was Joseph Allen, a Methodist Protestant minister of considerable note in his day. According to Rev. Newlon, there were eight children in this Allen family: John; William Joseph; George; Joshua; Ethan; Mariah Campbell; Nancy, and Isabel. From the county records it appears that Joseph Allen made several conveyances of real estate in Monongalia County, by which it is shown that his wife’s name was Elizabeth. His last deed was made to Moses Cox, June 26, 1837. It was acknowledged by Joseph Allen and his wife before Aaron Barker and Nimrod Dent, two justices of the peace who lived at that time near Laurel Point. The land was near the farm then owned by “Blacksmith” John Brand. Joseph Allen was jailer for Sheriff Nicholas Vandervort from 1810 to 1812. On January 11, 1814, he was qualified as a constable of Monongalia County. However, we do not have sufficient evidence to connect this Allen family with ours. According to the family record, John Brand had no daughter named Elizabeth. Had she been his daughter, Charles L. Brand, Henry G. Brand, and John M. Brand, would in all probability have known about her, since the record shows she lived in their neighborhood until at least the year 1837. However, this matter is worthy of further investigation. record, the date of her birth was the 27th day of July, 1792. He bought one hundred and ninety acres of land in Monongalia County of Thomas Dawson on the 11th day of February, 1793, for the sum of one hundred and twenty pounds, which he paid in cash. This farm is located on Dent's Run, then called Scott's Meadow Run, about five miles west of Morgantown, a part of it being still in the Brand family. Some of the trees referred to as corners in his deed are still standing.

The price paid for this land, while it may seem small at this time, being not much more than the total taxes on it for the year 1921, was a considerable sum of money in those days, when land was being granted to settlers for a mere trifle. This consideration also indicates that John Brand was in better financial circumstances than the majority of early settlers. It is hardly likely that he accumulated so much money after coming west of the mountains, where there was no demand for labor and where few farm products were raised for sale. In those days a man did well to provide for his family. He did not expect to realize much from the sale of crops. Indeed, we are told by some of the historians of that time that the early settlers of Westmoreland County often found it necessary to share in a spirit of hospitality their scanty hoards of food with new arrivals who had lately come from the east side of the mountains. It also appears that about the year 1780 there was a very serious shortage of food in that part of Pennsylvania. Taking all these things into consideration and viewing them in the light of the history of those early days we are led to wonder where John Brand received an amount of money equal to more than five hundred dollars of our present currency. This is another mystery that remains to be solved.

John Brand, as well as his brother James, was one of the pioneers of Monongalia County on the west side of the river. Zacquill Morgan, after whom Morgantown was named, had made a settlement on the east side of the river as early as 1767. But there were few attempts at settlement on the other side, the Indian side, until about 1773, when the record of surveys shows that settlers had begun to take up land on the west side of the river. It is probable, however, that settlements made prior to 1780 were not of a permanent nature. Some people evidently lived on the east side and raised a crop of corn on the west side in order to set up a claim to land there. Most of the land in John Brand's neighborhood was not surveyed until the year 1785.

Monongalia County was formed in October, 1776, from a portion of the old District of West Augusta, which originally included all the territory of Virginia west of the mountains. At the time of its formation this county included about half the present State of West Virginia and portions of Fayette, Greene, and Washington Counties, Pennsylvania, which were then thought to be a part of Virginia. Its first county seat was on the plantation of Theophilus Phillips, two miles from the site of the present town of New Geneva. In 1782 it was removed to Morgan's Town, which was not established as a town until 1785. The total population of the entire county, which at that time included all of the present county of Preston and parts of Marion and Taylor, in 1790 was only 4,768.*

When John Brand established his home on Dent's Run, this county was not regarded as free from the depredations of Indians. At the time of the incorporation of Morgantown, 1785, the act of incorporation required the purchaser of each lot to erect upon it within four years a house at least eighteen feet square with a chimney of stone or brick. In 1788 this time was extended for three years on account of Indian hostilities. It is said that the final Indian attack in this section took place on the site of the present town of Blacksville in 1791. However, historians say it was not until after General Wayne's defeat of the Indians in 1795 that the settlers were left to live in peace.

But the Indians were not the only source of trouble for the settlers. The records of the county show that wolves were somewhat numerous in Monongalia County until at least the year 1823. For many years sums of money were regularly paid out at the May term of the County Court as rewards for the scalps of wolves killed the previous year. In 1818 the price for the scalp of an old wolf was four dollars and for that of a young one two dollars. These prices declined in later years, probably because the damage done by the wolves as the years passed by was not sufficient to justify the high prices. In 1818 there was paid out for these scalps $178.00; in 1819, $58.00; in 1820, $57.25; in 1821, $33.75; in 1822, $27.50; in 1823, $39.00; in 1824, $35.00.

There was evidently no road to John Brand's farm until the County Court on the 9th day of January, 1797, by the following order directed one to be laid out:

"On the motion of John Dent, it is ordered that Jeremiah Hoskinson, William Throp, John Brann, John Barker, Benjamin Wilson, and Samuel Byers be appointed to view and lay out a road from the State Road near Jacob Scott's to John Dent's saw mill and from thence into the State Road above said Dent's near Benjamin Wilson's, the nearest and best way and report to the next court."

On the 13th day of February, 1797, these men made their report in the following language:

"Agreeable to an order of court to us directed we have viewed and marked a road, leaving the State Road by the Widow Pindall's, and from that to James Leggett's, and from that to Dent's saw mill, run up the run to the saw mill, and from that to Samuel Byers's, through his field by his barn, and continued up to John Brand's, and from thence to intersect the State Road between Dent's and Benjamin Wilson's."

(Signed)

Jeremiah Hoskinson.
John Brand.
Samuel Byers.
John Barker.
Benjamin Wilson.
William Throp.

The exact location of this road cannot be determined at this time. The old State Road, laid out about 1786, extended from Morgantown by way of Romney to Winchester, passing from what is now known as the Red Bridge across the hill by the site of the present Zoar Church, up the hill through the farm later owned by Alexander W. Brand, and on toward Indian Creek. The new road was made to start from this State Road not far from the farm later owned by Abner Mercer and now in the possession of his grandson, Jesse A. Mercer. The record does not disclose where the Widow Pindall and James Leggett lived at that time. Jacob Scott lived in the vicinity of the Red Bridge. John Dent's saw mill was apparently where the village of Laurel Point now is. But John Dent, who was then a member of the County Court, had his residence farther up the run, just above John Brand's. Benjamin Wilson had his home on the State Road, just west of John Dent, on the farm afterwards owned by Alexander W. Brand. The home of Samuel Byers was just east of John Brand on a part of the Hamilton land, which he afterwards sold to George D. Barns, son-in-law of John Brand. Jeremiah Hoskinson no doubt lived on the farm adjoining the land that was patented to James Brand, where "Blacksmith" John Brand afterwards lived. Just west of John Brand and south of Benjamin Wilson was the farm of John Barker, a part of which was afterwards owned by Alexander W. Brand. The other man who signed this report, William Throp, was then the surveyor of the road on Jacob Scott's Run; but his residence cannot be ascertained from the record. At the present day there is a road from the old State Road, passing the Mercer farm and intersecting the Morgantown and Fairmont Pike near the place where Charles Martin formerly lived, which is probably a part of the one originally marked out by John Brand and his associates under the above order. On the same day that this report was made the County Court designated certain men to "cut" the road, which signifies that the country through which it passed was a wilderness. Later in the year John Brand was one of the men ordered to work on this new road.

There was no road laid out above John Brand's up Dent's Run until December 10, 1798, when William Hamilton, John Brann and William Willey were appointed "to view and lay out a road from the Dunker Creek road near Luke Davis's by William Willey's saw mill to intersect the county road by John Bran's." These men made their report on the 5th day of June, 1799, stating that they had laid out the road, which probably extended from what is now Cassville to Dent's Run. But it was not opened as a road until some years later.

Owing to the fact that most of the county records were destroyed by fire in the year 1796, we can gather nothing from that source in regard to John Brand prior to that date. The following is a copy of the first record showing his appearance as a member of the grand jury in the County Court:

"At a court held for Monongalia County, the 8th day of August, 1796. Present: William John, Robert Ferrell, Edward Jones, and Russell Potter, Gentlemen, Justices."
"Robert Minnis, foreman, and James Wilson, John Brann, James Brann, Samuel Byers, Aaron Henry, John Barker, Joseph Barker, Isaac Lemasters, Waitman Furbey, Francis Tibbs, Zebulon Hoge, Josiah Wilson, James S. Wilson, Davis Meredith, Capel Holland, George Baker, Enoch Jenkins, and John Wimp were sworn a grand jury of inquest for the body of this county..........

Afterwards he was frequently called upon to serve in this capacity. The record shows that he failed to appear once when he was summoned. The following order is copied from the records of the Superior Court, under date of September 2, 1823:

"John Brand, senior, who was summoned to attend on this day as a grand juror, being solemnly called, failed to appear. It is therefore ordered that the said John show cause on or before the first day of the next term of this court why he should not be fined the sum of eight dollars according to law for said non-attendance, upon first being served with a copy of this writ."

However, he appeared on the 12th day of April, 1824, that being the first day of the next term, and presented an excuse, which was evidently satisfactory to the Hon. Daniel Smith, who was then the judge of the Superior Court; since we find this further order on the record.

"John Brand, senior, against whom a rule was made at the last term of this court for failing to appear as a grand juror, this day appeared, and for reasons appearing to the court, it is ordered that the said rule be discharged."
He was at the time of this failure to appear, the only one on record against him, over seventy-one years old, eleven years beyond the age at which men now cease to be called for jury service. Unfortunately the record does not show whether he relied upon h's age to excuse him or whether he had some other excuse.

Aside from his services as a juryman, it is not likely that John Brand took any active part in the public affairs of the county. It appears that the freeholders of Monongalia County were at an early date entitled to vote for candidates for Congress and for two members of the Virginia Assembly. On the 11th day of April, 1803, Russell Potter, then sheriff of the county, held an election at Morgantown, the record of which, showing how each man voted, appears on the county records. The candidates voted for were Thomas Wilson and John G. Jackson for Congress; Dudley Evans, William G. Payne, James Scott, and Bartholomew Clark for Assembly. John Brand at this election voted for Thomas Wilson for Congress, for Dudley Evans and James Scott for Assembly. The result was that Wilson received 456 votes; Jackson, 106; Evans, 463; Payne, 328; Scott, 279; and Clark, 26.

One June 11, 1811, John Brand and his brother James appeared in the County Court as witnesses to prove the execution of the deed of John W. Patterson and wife to Daniel Michael for one hundred and eighty-five acres of land on B'g Indian Creek. John Brand was appointed one of the appraisers of the estate of John Lough (father of Samuel), April 12, 1816. He was also present at this man's sale, for the sale bill shows he bought two hogs for one dollar and ninety-six cents. On the 15th day of the following October the County Court appointed John Dent, John Brand, and John A. Berkshire "to examine into the situation of William Smith, as to his property, the situation of his mind, and the manner in which he is treated'.' Their report was made on the 11th day of November, 1916, in the following language:

"Agreeable to the within order, we have visited William Smith; his senses has departed from him so that he knows nobody, nor is not capable of giving any account of his property. It appears to us that he is as well taken care of where he is as he could be anywhere else, or as the nature of his situation will admit of."

The practice of apprenticing orphan children was prevalent in Monongalia County in early days. The following order is copied from the order book of the County Court, under date of April 28, 1818:

"Ordered that Jefferson Morris, an orphan child, aged about eight years, be bound unto *John Brand until he arrive at the age of twenty-one years, and that Rawley Martin, one of the overseers of the poor of the county, perfect the indentures.'"

The record discloses that John Brand had but one lawsuit after coming to Monongalia County. His neighbor, John A. Berkshire, attempted to secure a patent for about seven and one-half acres of land between his farm and the land of John Brand. The latter, however, who claimed that most of this land was included within his boundaries, brought a suit in the Superior Court on the 15th day of April, 1819, to prevent a patent being issued to Berkshire. The land in dispute was surveyed by Samuel Hanway, the county surveyor, whose survey was apparently not satisfactory to John Brand, who had the court to appoint Robert Boggess to make another survey. On the 10th day of April, 1820, the case came up for trial before a jury, but there was a mistrial at this time and it was continued at the costs of John Brand. On September 19, 1820, it came up for trial a second time. The following jury heard the case: Joseph Pickenpaugh, Nicholas Schisler, John W. Thompson, William Stewart, Michael Kern, Jun'r., Abe Reece, Joseph Dunlap, Noah Ridgway, Francis Billingsley, John Evans, Jun'r., Daniel Stewart, and James Buckhannon. This jury found that nearly six acres of the land in dispute belonged to John Brand; and the court decided that Berkshire was not entitled to a patent.

*It may be that this order has reference to "Hill" John Brand, son of James Brand. "Blacksmith" John, son of John, was not married at this time.

During the lifetime of John Brand conditions were quite different from what we now find in Monongalia County. At that time the law authorized many of the ancient modes of punishment for crime. The stocks, pillory, and whipping-post stood in the court house yard, and were sometimes used for the purpose for which they were erected. On September 28, 1798, the Superior Court ordered one Obediah Williams to be put in the pillory for the space of fifteen minutes. The record also shows that the County Court, on the 4th day of April, 1812, after finding a negro slave guilty of burglary and larceny, fixed the punishment as follows:

"—and the court, proceeding to give such judgment as the law in this case authorizes to pronounce, do order that the said Grace, the prisoner at the bar, be burnt in the hand, which being accordingly done, the court do further order that the said Grace, the prisoner at the bar, do receive thirty-nine lashes on her bare back at the common whipping-post of the county, and that the jailor of said county execute the latter sentence of the court."

However, it should be added that there was apparently much sentiment among the best people of the county against punishments of this sort. This is indicated by an order of the County Court, November 11, 1805, requiring the attorney for the commonwealth to institute suit for exemplary damages against Wm. N. Jarrett, Nimrod Evans, Thomas R. Chipps, James Evans, Marmaduke Evans, and Robert Hawthorn for "throwing down and breaking the public stocks and pillory of Monongalia County". These persons were all prominent men.

At that time the residents of the county probably thought the time would never come when intoxicating liquors would be regarded as anything else than a public necessity. It was quite common in those days to have something on hand to stimulate the bidding at public sales, the expenses for which would be charged to the estate. In the settlement of the administrator of one William Smith in 1810 there was allowed the sum of $4.00 for 73\(\frac{3}{4}\) gallons of whiskey at the appraisement and sale. In another case, in 1801, the administrator paid out for funeral expenses and the coffin fifteen shillings; for "two gallons of whiskey at the burying", ten shillings; for "one quart of whiskey at the appraisement", one shilling and six pence; and for "nine gallons of whiskey at the sale", two pounds and five shillings.

It also appears that parents were then expected to exercise a control over their children which would be regarded as somewhat rigid in our day. The county records show that Nathan Hall, a justice of the peace, fined Martin Currant $8.30 and 51 cents costs because his son, William Currant, swore ten profane oaths.

Many farmers of those days distinguished their live stock by markings which they would have recorded on the county records. The following, under date of September 13, 1796, is a sample of the many that appear on the records of the County Court:

"Thomas Chipps records his ear mark, a crop in the left ear and under-bit in the right ear".
To the memory of a little boy, John McCray Brand, whose early life, until he was about eight years old, was spent in close association with his grandfather, we are indebted for the only description we are able to give of the personal appearance and disposition of John Brand. In addition to the vivid recollections of his childhood’s associations, the death of his grandfather left a profound impression on the mind of this eight year old boy, which he never forgot. In his old age he related to the writer how he had walked with some of the sons of his Aunt Nancy Mercer to his grandfather’s funeral, the first he had ever attended, at the old Burnt Meeting House. According to him, John Brand was not a tall man, probably not over five feet six inches in height, but was of heavy build, weighing about one hundred and ninety or two hundred pounds, with a round clean-shaven face. In giving a concrete example of how his grandfather looked, he said he was “built about like my brother Hosea”. In disposition, John Brand was of a quiet turn, never inclined to talk much.

He was undoubtedly a man of strong religious convictions. Another of his grandsons, Alexander Wade Brand, who was past ten years old when the subject of our sketch passed away, once related to his children that his grandfather would not allow the children at his home to make any noise in their play on the Sabbath day and would hardly permit them to go outside the yard gate on that day. Charles I. Brand, another grandson, claimed that his grandfather had belonged to the Covenant church, which was Calvinistic in its views, at a place called Laurel Hill in Fayette County, and that the members of the church used the old Psalms, “lining them out” a line at a time before singing them. All the early histories of Westmoreland and Fayette Counties mention a church of this kind at Laurel Hill, which is sometimes called the Seceder church and sometimes the Associate Reformed church. But no records can be discovered to show his connection with this church. So far as we have been able to discover there was no church of that denomination in Monongalia County. It is probable that he became affiliated with the Presbyterian church after coming to this county. Alexander W. Brand thought he was a Presbyterian. It was the Presbyterian graveyard that was selected as his final resting place.

The wife of John Brand was Jane McCray. But we are unable to give the date of their marriage or anything in regard to her parents. It is said that she came from Ireland shortly before the Revolution, when she was about sixteen years old, being eight weeks on the sea. Unlike her husband, she was a constant talker, using the Irish brogue. She had a brother, William McCray, who came to Monongalia County about the same time that the family of John Brand came. He is often referred to on the county records. His death occurred in Harrison County, West Virginia. Quite a number of his descendants live in the neighborhood of Fairmont to this day. George, Andrew, John, and a daughter, who married a Nixon, were some of his children; but there were others.

According to a record discovered in an old Bible, which formerly belonged to "Blacksmith" John Brand, the ancestor of this branch of the family passed away on the 12th day of January, 1834. This record also states that he was eighty-two years old at the time of his death. This fixes the date of his birth about the first of the year 1752. Jane McCray Brand died on the 12th day of July, 1843, aged eighty-nine years, according to the same record.*

*This record was discovered by Price G. Brand, a grandson of "Blacksmith" John.

JOHN BRAND (Seal).

The will was "signed, sealed, and delivered in the presence of" Thomas Hamilton, Solomon Huffman, and Francis Henry, who signed their names to it as witnesses.

This will was probated at the February term of the County Court, 1834, and is found recorded in Will Book No. 1, at page 79. The original will is on file in the County Clerk's office, showing the signature of John Brand in a plain hand. According to the directions in the above will George and James did divide the tract of land by a line surveyed through the center of it by Robert Boggess. The original plat made by Boggess is in the hands of the writer.
The following is a copy of the order appointing George Brand and James Brand executors of their father's will, February 24, 1834:

"On the motion of George Brand and James Brand, (John Wagner, Nimrod Dent, Anthony Smith, and Andrew Brown, justices, now composing the court); a certificate is granted them to obtain letters testamentary on the last will and testament of John Brand, deceased, they having taken the oath prescribed by law and entered into bond in the penalty of four hundred dollars, with Thomas B. Fetty and Francis Henry their sureties, conditioned as the law directs; and on the motion of the said executors it is ordered that James Arnett, Sen'r., Evan S. Pindall, and Otho Henry be appointed to appraise the personal estate of the said deceased, after being duly sworn for that purpose."

*This family Bible passed into the hands of his son James Brand, whose daughter, Caroline Rosina, kept it as long as she lived. She gave it to William II. Brand, who still has it. According to an inscription in the book itself it was purchased by John Brand in Uniontown in the year 1808 for $18.00. According to tradition it was secured in exchange for maple sugar.
The above is a true inventory of the personal estate of John Brand, deceased.*

JAMES BRAND
Exor.
GEORGE BRAND

We, the undersigned, have viewed & appraised the within personal estate on the 28th day of February, 1834.

Given under our hands

JAMES ARNETT.
OTHO HENRY,
E. S. PINDALL.

The following is a list of the children of John and Jane Brand, with the dates of their births as given in the old Family Bible: (1) MARY, born December 5, 1779; (2) GEORGE, born May 19, 1781; (3) MARGARET, born December 24, 1782; (4) JEAN, born May 10, 1784; (5) JOHN, born April 26, 1786; (6) JAMES, born October 5, 1788; (7) WILLIAM, born June 3, 1790; and (8) AGNESS (NANCY), born July 27, 1792.

These children will now be given consideration in the above order. It might be stated here that our account of two of them, Mary and William, will necessarily be short, as they left no children. The others had large families.

MARY BRAND* (DAUGHTER OF JOHN BRAND)

Mary Brand married David Scott; but no record of their marriage has been discovered. He was one of that large family of Scotts, who took an important part in the settlement of Monongalia County. On October 13, 1807,

*The above list is given as nearly as possible with the spelling as in the original list, which is also in the hands of the writer. An examination of the above list, with a careful note taken of what is not found on it, will give some indication of how our ancestors lived in those days.
he was appointed by the County Court a major in the 118th Regiment of Virginia militia under command of Col. James Scott. He took the oath of office before Boaz Burrows, a justice of the peace, January 11, 1808. Thereafter he was known as "Major David Scott".

He was a large landowner in his day. In the year 1838 he was assessed with 370 acres on Meadow Run, upon which the total tax was $3.36. This land is now owned (1921) by William B. Hess, John Chisler, and others. The David Scott residence was on that part of the farm now belonging to John Chisler. He and his wife Mary lie buried in the little graveyard in the orchard on that farm.

Mary Scott had no children. David had been married previously, and, judging from his will, had at least twelve children. He states in this will that he had previously conveyed to his sons Jacob and Enoch the Lemasters farm. To his son James he gave 162 acres of land in Kentucky. He also gave his daughter Cintha Fortney, wife of Eli, 200 acres in Kentucky. Judith Bouslog, wife of David, got 100 acres in Ohio. Other children who received bequests were: Hannah Chesney, Meriah Huffman, Jefferson Scott, Rachel Chipps, Phoebe Hess, (great-grandmother of Ora E. Hess, who married George F. Brand), Jemima Neely, and Katharine Barrickman, wife of Henry Barrickman.

His death occurred in the month of March, 1846. His will is recorded in Will Book No. 1, at page 177. One clause of this will reads "I do hereby constitute and appoint my wife, Mary Scott, and my brother-in-law, James Brand, executor of this my last will and testament". As James Brand died in 1844, Mary Scott alone qualified as the executrix of her husband's will, March 23, 1846. Caleb Tanzey became her bondsman. Later he became dissatisfied and asked the County Court to release him as surety. When she made no objection the court did so on the 25th day of October, 1847. However, she had her brother John Brand on hand to become her surety in a new bond.

Mary Scott was very fond of horseback riding and was skilled in the management of horses. When about seventy years of age she was seen riding her horse in a gallop up the road past the John Brand homestead. Later when she was asked by some members of the family why she was riding so fast on that occasion, she replied that she did so to keep her horse from scaring at the ice, which the high water had left in the road.

Her will was made on the 9th day of September, 1853, and proved before the Clerk of the Circuit Court on the 15th of the same month, which shows that her death took place between those two dates. The following is a copy of her will:

I, Mary Scott, of the County of Monongalia, and Commonwealth of Virginia, do hereby make this my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say:

First: I desire that all my debts and funeral expenses shall be paid out of my estate.

Second: I give to my sister Nancy Mercer forty dollars, to be paid in money, also all my wearing apparel, also my cow.

Third: I give and bequeath my gray mare to James and David Huffman equally in share.

Fourth: I give and bequeath to Mary Huffman one bed and bedding.

Fifth: I give and bequeath to Minerva Mercer the sum of twenty dollars, to be paid in money.

Sixth: I give and bequeath to Sarah Thomas my young heifer.
Seventh: I give and bequeath all the remainder of my estate to my brothers and sisters, now living, and to the children of those that are dead, to be equally divided between them, the children of those that are dead to have their father or mother's share, leaving out Nancy Mercer, who is provided for in the first part of this instrument.

In witness whereof I have hereunto signed my name and affixed my seal, this 9th day of September in the year 1853.

Witnesses: W. M. Dent, Caleb Tanzey.

John Brand was appointed curator of her estate, October 24, 1853. He gave a bond in the penalty of two hundred dollars with Enoch Huffman his surety. On April 14, 1854, he was appointed administrator of the estate. John Camp, Sr., became his bondsman on this occasion.

GEORGE BRAND (SON OF JOHN BRAND)

George Brand was evidently about eleven or twelve years old when his father came to Monongalia County. He lived the remainder of his life on the land purchased by his father. His home after his marriage was on the southern half of his father's farm not far from the place where his grandson, Thornton Luther Brand, now lives. He was not active in the public affairs of the county. However, his name occurs somewhat frequently on the public records. On April 8, 1805, he was one of the witnesses to the deed of Jacob Harrow to James Neely, which conveyed a tract of land on a branch of Dent's Run near where the Sugar
George Brand

Grove church now stands. On December 13, 1813, he was appointed by the County Court surveyor of a road to take the place of James Arnett and held the position until the 12th day of June, 1815, when David Barker was appointed to succeed him. At John Lough's sale, in June, 1816, he bought one skillet for 27 cents, one griddle for 80 cents, one wheel for 86 cents, one reel for $1.26, and two hogs for $1.80. On May 27, 1822, he and his brother John were appointed appraisers of the estate of Robert Mercer, father of Abner Mercer. He and his brother James were witnesses to the will of Aaron Henry, which was admitted to probate at the November term of court, 1825. He was again appointed a road surveyor on the 24th day of May, 1830, this time having charge of the road laid out by his father in 1797. He was also one of the witnesses to the will of John A. Berkshire, probated at the May term of court, 1832. On June 30, 1840, he was appointed one of the appraisers of the estate of Otho Henry.

He was a farmer all his life. It is said that at one time he was engaged extensively in the making of maple sugar, which he sold in Uniontown and Cumberland. The life of a farmer in those days was quite different from what it has become since the advent of modern farm machinery and the other comforts now enjoyed by the rural population. Even the poorest farmers of today have conveniences that would have been looked upon as luxuries in the time of George Brand.

The lack of capital was the one great stumbling block in the path of the farmer's progress at that time. The appraisement lists and settlements of estates among the old records of this county, to the curious, seeking to know about such matters, speak eloquently of the manner in which our ancestors lived. In pecuniary affairs George Brand was probably in a situation no better than that of a majority of the farmers of his time. As a simple illustration of this point, we find mentioned in the appraisement list of the estate of one Joseph Pickenpaugh, November 8, 1822, "one note on George Brand for $10.70, due December 25, 1822". The settlement of the estate shows that the note was paid.

At the time of his death he was not the owner of any large amount of property. He still had the farm that was given to him by his father. But far greater than any material wealth he could have bequeathed to his children was the example of an upright and honorable life, which was their legacy. George Brand stood very high in the estimation of his neighbors. He was probably affiliated with the Presbyterian church. It is said that he was a member of the old Whig party.

MARTHA (HART) BRAND

His wife was Martha Hart, daughter of Charles and Jane Hart. Rev. John W. Patterson officiated at their marriage on the 27th day of December, 1808. Martha Hart was born in the State of Maryland on the 27th day of March, 1783. She had one brother, Joshua Hart, who lived for a few years in Monongal’a County and then moved to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Her mother, after the death of Charles Hart, married John Lough and was the mother of Samuel Lough, who married a sister of George Brand. He died on the 26th day of July, 1849. His widow, however, lived until the 19th day of January, 1876, having reached the advanced age of ninety-two years. The following is a copy of the will of George Brand, with some corrections in the spelling:

In the name of God, Amen, I George Brand, of the County of Monongalia, and State of Virginia, being weak in body but of a sound mind and a disposing memory, do will and bequeath to my dear wife Martha and children my property as follows: To my wife Martha one-third of my personal and real estate, and to my son William four acres of land including the house down on the point, running along the pike so as to include four acres. The balance of my land I will and bequeath to James Brand and Charles Brand, my two youngest sons, to be divided equally between them both; they are also to have their mother’s dower at her death, to be divided equally between them, both the above named James and Charles is to pay each of the girls thirty dollars at the end of three years after their father’s death. Jane Hess, Julia Ann Barb, this to be paid out of the personal property. They are also to pay Joshua’s two children ten dollars when they become of age. I leave my wife Martha and son James executrix and executor of this my last will and testament to settle my books, pay all just debts, and collect all debts coming to my estate, just leaving the property in their hands, without any sale, to manage as they think best and as above mentioned and directed.

Given under my hand and seal, this 26th day of March, 1848.

GEORGE BRAND (Seal)

James Robison,

Nimrod Neely.

The appraisers of his estate were Alfred C. Barker, William F. Mercer, and John Brand (his brother).

The George Brand family record has been furnished by Martha A. Wolfe as follows: (1) Jane, born December 28, 1809; (2) John, born May 15, 1812; (3) Julia Ann, born November 17, 1814; (4) William Alfred, born August 15, 1817; (5) Joshua Hart, born April 16, 1819; (6) James Elmer, born December 29, 1822; and (7) Charles Ithimar, born October 14, 1825.

Mary Ellen Hess (1-6-1) married Martin Luther Shaw, son of Samuel Shaw, in Doddridge County, October 16, 1904. (Rev. B. B. Brooks). Her death occurred on the 9th day of April, 1906. She left one daughter, Audra Estella, born April 9, 1906.

Charles Walter Hess (1-6-2) died unmarried on the 23rd day of May, 1904.

Sherman Hess (1-6-3) married Rena H. Willis, daughter of A. W. Willis, at Lick Run, September 15, 1917. (Rev. Gregory Bleakley). Their home is at Blandville, where he works for the Hope Natural Gas Company. They have no children.

John Brand died when a young man in 1830.

The numbers after the names of individuals are for identification. In the family of George Brand (and the others which follow) the children are designated by a number in the margin of the page. Two numbers, separated by a dash, after a name indicate grandchildren; three numbers, thus separated, great-grandchildren. Thus, the numbers (1-6-5) after the name of Ila Hess show that she is the fifth child of the sixth child of the first child of George Brand.
Julia Ann Brand married Jeremiah Barbe, son of Henry Barbe, in Monongalia County, July 29, 1841. (Rev. James Davis). Their home was in Grant District, Monongala County. Jeremiah Barbe was prominent in the political affairs of his day and was a man of considerable intellectual attainments. He served as secretary of the Board of Education of his district for several years. His wife was an active church worker and was a power for good in her community. Both were faithful members of the Presbyterian church. He died, February 24, 1870; his wife, January 7, 1878. Children: (1) George, born December 10, 1843; (2) Emaline, born August 22, 1846; (3) Martha Sarah Jane, born June 1, 1849; (4) Nancy Jane, born June 21, 1853; and (5) Henry, born March 26, 1858, died February 6, 1866.

George Barbe (3-1) married Julia Ann Davis, daughter of Joshua Davis, in Monongalia County, September 25, 1875. (Rev. E. J. Wilson). He lived for a time on Dent’s Run, just below the former residence of Charles Martin, having purchased thirteen acres of land at that place of Hanes Jones on the 30th day of September, 1874. He had previously owned a part of the Alexander W.
Brand land. Later he removed to Maidsville in Cass district and afterwards to Morgantown, where he conducted a hardware business in partnership with his brother-in-law, Marcellus W. Davis.

On August 22, 1872, he was elected assessor of the western district of Monongalia County for a term of four years at a salary of $475.00 per year, which was afterwards increased to $600.00. In recognition of his faithful and efficient public service, at the next general election, October 10, 1876, he was again elected to the same position, receiving 1803 votes, the largest vote given by the voters of the county to any candidate on the Republican ticket. Joshua M. Davis and William Barbe became sureties on his official bond for $3,000.00.

He was always held in high esteem by the public officials of Monongalia County. The judge of the Circuit Court appointed him foreman of the grand jury on at least two occasions, once on the 11th day of February, 1896, and again on the 14th day of February, 1899. In the years 1910 and 1911 he was chosen one of the commissioners to assess the value of land taken by condemnation in several railroad cases.

During the Civil War he was first a corporal in Captain Ambrose Waters’s Company C, 15th Monongalia County Militia. Afterwards, on March 18, 1865, he enlisted in the Union army at Grafton and at the close of the war was mustered out at Cumberland, Maryland, June 27, 1865, a private in Company I, First West Virginia Infantry.

A man of integrity and of sound judgment, he was considered one of the leading business men of his home town. Regardless of his own personal interests he worked for the good of his community. In Sunday School and church work he was a leader, accomplishing in his quiet, unassuming manner, for these organizations, undertakings that would wholly discourage others. He was a member of the Methodist Protestant church.
His death occurred on the 15th day of November, 1917. His wife died on the 16th day of February, 1911. Children: (1) Clyde Davis, born November 21, 1877; and (2) William Clemmer, born in 1880, died in infancy.

Clyde Davis Barbe (3-1-1) married Flora E. Binns, daughter of John H. Binns, in Marion County, June 9, 1909. He graduated from the West Virginia University in the class of 1899 and was for several years engaged with his father in the hardware business. At the present time (1921) he is a real estate dealer and insurance agent. He also is a member of the Methodist Protestant church of Morgantown, where he makes his home. There is but one child in this family, Mary Aileen, born July 20, 1913.

Emaline Barbe (3-2) married Charles Williams and after his death became the second wife of Marcellus W. Davis, November 15, 1892. (Rev. T. W. Ireland). His death occurred, December 1, 1917. She has been a prominent member of the Presbyterian church and has always taken an active interest in the welfare of the community. She lives in Morgantown.

Martha Sarah Jane Barbe (3-3) died unmarried in Monongalia County, February 17, 1902.

Nancy Jane Barbe (3-4) married Marcellus W. Davis, son of Waitman Davis, in Monongalia County, May 28, 1881. (Rev. W. F. Cannon). She was a member of the Methodist church and was esteemed by all who knew her. Her husband was the founder of the Barbe and Davis hardware store, which did a thriving business in Morgantown for several years. He also was a member of the Methodist church. Her death occurred on the second day of April, 1890. Children: (1) Elizabeth Belle, born April 18, 1884; and (2) George, born in March, 1890, died in infancy.

Elizabeth Belle Davis (3-4-1) attended the University of Wisconsin and studied music at the West Virginia University. She belongs to the Presbyterian church, is a member of the Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, and takes an active interest in the music and literary clubs of Morgantown. On May 2, 1906, she married Dell Roy Richards, son of William H. Richards, in Monongalia County. (Rev. A. M. Buchanan). Mr. Richards is cashier of the Bank of Morgantown and the family lives at 581 Spruce Street. No children.

William Alfred Brand was a blacksmith. For several years he worked at his trade in the village of Cassville, which was formerly called Jacksonville. On the 14th day of September, 1847, he bought about three acres of land at that place of Leven Fleming and Peter A. Layton for the sum of thirty dollars. Later he bought of the same parties an additional half acre for twenty-five dollars. He probably lived in Cassville, however, before he bought this land; for the county records show that on the 25th day of April, 1842, Burton Pride, Draper Cole, William Brand, Samuel Berry and others petitioned the court for the establishment of a road from the dwelling house of Elisha Wade to the Dunkard Creek road near John Lawlis’s. On the same day John Liming, John H. Bowlby, and John Ramsey were appointed to lay out such a road. On July 27, 1846, he was one of the men designated in an order of the County Court to work on the county road under Peter A. Layton. He sold his property in Cassville to Peter A. Barrick, March 24, 1856, for the sum of four hundred and sixty dollars. Soon after this he moved to Laurel Point, where he lived the remainder of his life. They lived at Laurel Point for a number of years, where he had a blacksmith shop. But a few years ago they moved to Westover and are now (1921) living there in retirement.

Charles Martin enlisted in the Union army at Clarksburg, June 25, 1861. He reentered the service as a veteran volunteer, February 1, 1864, being transferred to Company F by consolidation. This company was organized at North Branch, Maryland, and moved to New Creek, West Virginia, September 16, 1864. On November 27th it took part in an engagement near Moorefield, where two men were killed and one was wounded. The next day the whole company was surprised and captured at New Creek. Part of the men escaped and were sent to the remount camp at Pleasant Valley, Maryland. The survivors of the company then went to Opequon Crossing in the State of Virginia, scouting for the guerrilla "Mosby" until April 15, 1865. Coming back to the remount camp they met the other members of the company, who had been exchanged and remounted. The next move was to Berryville, where the company was placed in the Second Cavalry Division under General Chapman. The members of the company reached Falls Church, Virginia, April 23, 1865, and were ordered back to Washington two days later. On April 26, 1865, they marched to Surratsville, Maryland, in search of the assassins of President Lincoln. The company formed part of the escort of the court which tried the assassins. It was relieved of duty at Washington, June 4, 1865, but was later sent to St. Louis and then to Fort Leavenworth. At some point between these two places several men left the company, claiming that they had enlisted only for the duration of the war. Charles Martin was one of these. The charge of desertion was preferred against them for this; but at a later date the charge was removed and all of the men were restored to good standing.

A Republican in politics, Charles Martin has always taken a keen interest in all public affairs. On November 6, 1900, he was elected by the voters of Grant District a member of the Board of Education for the term of four years. At the expiration of his first term he was again elected and served for another four years. In July, 1906, he was chosen by the Circuit Court as one of the commissioners to assess the value of land to be taken in condemnation proceedings by the Philadelphia Gas Company. Again in 1911 he was chosen for a similar purpose in a railroad case.

Marshall Brand (4-2) enlisted in the Union army at Wheeling, September 11, 1862, served till the end of the war, and was mustered out at Cumberland, June 27, 1865. He was a well known figure in Monongalia County for several years after the Civil War. When a boy in the streets of Cassville he learned the art of taking care of himself. It is said that the only time he was ever completely whipped was at that place in a boyish encounter with one Newton Furman, who took the advantage of him by filling his eyes with pine tar. In the course of his military career he was compelled to make use of his skill on several occasions. Coming out of the army with a reputation as a fistic artist, he had to fight to sustain it. In Monongalia County and in the adjoining county of Greene in Pennsylvania at that time there were many persons who were still willing to fight for a lost cause. In this factional strife, which existed for years, the best men of the Southern side were brought forth to defeat Marsh Brand. But they all failed. Although he lived away from Monongalia County for the last fifty years of his life, his fame still lives in the recollection of the older residents of this county.

He married Rebecca Finch at Cassanovia, Illinois, January 11, 1870. (Rev. William Parker). They first went to Harper County, Kansas, and later to Kingman County in the same state. When the Oklahoma country was opened they went there, but later returned to Kingman. He and his wife celebrated their golden wedding on the 11th day of January, 1920. He was born in Barbour County, West Virginia, and at the time of his marriage had his residence in Taylor County. He learned his trade of saddler and harnessmaker with his Uncle John W. Tucker, who was for many years engaged in that business at Cassville. For several years the Thomas family lived at Laurel Point, where Bowen E. Thomas had a harness shop. He bought a half acre of land at that place of Silas W. Fleming for the sum of twenty-five dollars. It appears that he built a house on this lot and sold it to Leroy Taylor for three hundred and fifty dollars. Taylor in turn sold it to Mathias Allender for the same price. Thomas then bought it back from Allender for four hundred and fifteen dollars, one deed being made to cover all these transactions, April 13, 1878. He sold a part of this lot to Mary E. Rice, Laverna Rice, and Walter R. Rice, August 9, 1879, for twenty-five dollars. The Thomas family probably left Monongalia County in the year 1886, as the land records show their home was sold to Margaret Mannings and Elva A. Snider on the 8th day of April of that year. The heirs of Elva A. Snider still own the property.

James Elmer Brand had his home for over fifty years near Easton on a farm he purchased of Owen John on the third day of October, 1857, for the sum of sixteen hundred ninety-three dollars and twenty cents. During the Civil War period he was a member of Captain John O. Vangilder's Company C, Monongalia County Militia, which was twice called into service under a proclamation of the Governor, once on August 4, 1864, and again on September 30, 1864. On these occasions the duty of the militia was to guard railroad property, and the men from Monongalia County were sent to the neighborhood of Fairmont and Grafton.

He was an industrious and a prosperous farmer. In the later years of his life he was often referred to by his neighbors as "Uncle Jimmie Brand." His wife was Mary Robe, whose maiden name was Robinson. She was a daughter of James Robinson and was born on the 18th day of December, 1818. The Robinson family lived near the Monongahela River in the vicinity of the land that was patented to James Brand. The father of James Robinson was also named James. There is a tradition in the Robinson family that this James Robinson, grandfather of Mary (Robinson) Robe, was killed by Indians in the early days of Monongalia County. James Elmer Brand and Mary Robe were married in Monongalia County, November 30, 1848. (Rev. James Davis). They were both members of the Presbyterian church of Morgantown. He was an elder in this church for many years. His death occurred, December 6, 1903; his wife died just a few months previously, May 29, 1903. Children: (1) Malzenia, born September 15, 1849; (2) Mary Ellen, born February 7, 1853; (3) James William, born September 15, 1856; and (4) George Emmett, born November 15, 1858.

Coomb’s Company A, Monongalia County Militia, which was called into service during the Civil War at the times above stated. Their home was on a farm near Easton. Malzenia was a member of the Avery Chapel Methodist Protestant church for many years. She died on the 17th day of May, 1910. Her husband lived until the 18th day of September, 1917. George Emmett Brand (6-4) was born on a farm in Union District, Monongalia County. He attended the common schools of his district and was a student at the West Virginia University for a few terms. On May 27, 1885, he married Effie Dora Pixler, daughter of William and Malissa Pixler, in Monongalia County. (Rev. H. Young). They lived on his father's farm for two years and then moved to Grafton, West Virginia. Here he was employed in the general store of T. E. Davis and Company. Later he engaged in the general mercantile trade for himself at the same place. In 1896 he moved to Fairmont and became district manager for the Singer Manufacturing Company, directing the affairs of that company in Taylor, Marion and Monongalia Counties. From 1902 to 1905 he conducted a grocery store in Fairmont. For several years after this he was a traveling salesman and was also interested in the real estate business. As a result of the memorable fight on the license issue in 1910 he was elected a member of the city council on the dry ticket. The forces opposed to the saloons had a majority of only one in the council, and the saloon people were constantly seeking in various ways to secure the one vote necessary to license. Bribes were offered; positions were tendered; and other inducements were held out; but George E. Brand voted against licensing the saloon consistently during his two years of office. Finally, in July, 1912, the necessary vote was obtained from another source, and licenses were granted.

On July 4, 1910, he was appointed a local humane officer. Two years and a half later he became general field agent for the West Virginia Humane Society. For three years he traveled over the entire state in the interests of orphan children, hundreds of whom he placed in good homes. During these years his residence was at Elkins. In 1916 he returned to Fairmont, where he built a comfortable home in Edgeway, which is now his residence. They have but one child, Pearl, born June 1, 1887.

Pearl Brand (6-4-1) married B. J. Wilson, November 18, 1914. (Rev. W. B. King). They live in Fairmont and have no children.

7 Charles Ithimar Brand was a farmer. On the 18th day of February, 1864, he bought a farm of one hundred and sixty-four acres of James McVicker for the sum of four thousand two hundred and fifty dollars. After that date he made his home on this land for the remainder of his life. The farm lies on West Run near Easton, not far from the former residence of his brother James Elmer.

He was a man of high standing in his community and was esteemed by all who knew him. Practically all his life he was a faithful and consistent member of the Presbyterian church. He was twice married. His first wife was Sarah Caldwell, whom he married in Monongalia County, September 2, 1852. (Rev. James Davis). She was born on the 7th day of August, 1831, and died on the 23rd day of July, 1861. He received his honorable discharge at Camp Sherman, January 20, 1919.

While in France he took part in the Argonne and St. Mihiel battles. At St. Mihiel he was gassed and was taken to the hospital, where he contracted influenza and was seriously ill for quite a while. He returned to the United States as a convalescent and was sent to West Baden Springs, remaining there two months in the hospital. He received his honorable discharge at Camp Sherman. The family lives at Clarksburg. No children.

MARGARET BRAND (DAUGHTER OF JOHN BRAND)

Margaret Brand was evidently about ten years old when her father came from Pennsylvania to Monongalia County. She married George D. Barns on the 24th day of November, 1800, this being the first Brand marriage on the county records. Rev. James Fleming was the minister who performed the ceremony.

But little is known of the early life of George D. Barns. According to the record, as shown by the Barns family Bible, still in existence, he was born in Monongalia County, Virginia, on the 29th day of August, 1779. Consequently he was in his twenty-second year at the time of his marriage.

For a time he and his wife lived on a farm of 62 3/4 acres on what is now Dent's Run, but then called Scott's Meadow Run, adjoining the land of his father-in-law, John Brand. He bought this farm of Samuel Buyers for 67 pounds and 15 shillings on the 19th day of November, 1801, the next day after his first son, John Barns, was born. He kept this place until the 15th day of April, 1806, when he sold it to John A. Berkshire for $500.00. On the 10th day of the preceding March he had bought of John Pettyjohn a tract of 400 acres on a branch of Tygart's Valley River below Gray's Creek for a cash consideration of $640.00. He sold this tract to Richard Nuzum on September 14, 1807, for $40.00 less than he paid for it. On September 19, 1812, he paid James Hamilton $400.00 for a tract of land supposed to contain 100 acres. This was the home farm of George D. Barns for the balance of the time he remained in Monongalia County. It was originally a part of a 373 acre tract of land granted to Josiah Prickett, and was situated on Prickett's Creek, near the Monongahela River, on the east side, about 20 miles south of Morgantown. On August 13, 1813, he bought of Andrew Boyd 150 acres on Prickett's Creek for $300.00. This land was located near his home farm, but it did not adjoin it.

George D. Barns disposed of this land in parcels, beginning on the 3rd day of February, 1821, when he sold to John Carpenter 96 acres of the Boyd tract for $160.00. Two days later he sold to John Grayham five acres from the same tract for $30.00. On September 19, 1821, Elijah Hoult bought 60 acres of the Hamilton tract for $300.00. On October 21, 1821, Elizabeth Hoult bought 21 1/2 acres more of the home tract, including the house where George D. Barns lived and the orchard, for $130.00. The balance of the home farm, 48 acres, was sold to Horatio Morgan, November 13, 1821. The remainder of the Boyd farm, consisting of 64 acres, was not disposed of until after the Barns family went to the State of Kentucky. By deed dated March 1, 1833, and acknowledged before W. W. McCroskey and Nat P. Saunders, two justices of the peace for Bullitt County, George D. Barns, "of the County of Jefferson and State of Kentucky", conveyed to John Satterfield the remainder of the Prickett's Creek farm for $100.00.

In writing of George D. Barns we are compelled to resort to the county records of Monongalia County for the chief part of our material. At the risk of being somewhat tedious, the writer will mention some of the things that appear of record with the hope that they will throw some light on the life and character of this man, who was quite active in the affairs of Monongalia County.

At the election held by Sheriff Russell Potter at Morgantown, April 11, 1803, George D. Barns voted for John G. Jackson for Congress; for Dudley Evans and James Scott for Assembly, which was not the way his father-in-law voted. On November 12, 1804, he was appointed by the County Court an ensign in the militia to take the place of Frederick Guise, who had resigned. On the 19th day of March, 1813, he was appointed by the County Court a constable, apparently for an unexpired term; for he was again appointed on the 14th of the following June. He gave a bond in the penalty of $1,000.00 with Henry Gallihue and James McVicker, his sureties. On July 12, 1813, he was appointed surveyor of a road in the place of Samuel Swearingen. On the same day he was allowed an account for services performed as constable in criminal cases. It appears that he gave up the office of constable early the next year, for we find in the records of the County Court, April 12, 1814, that ‘George D. Barns having accepted of a lieutenancy in the United States army, it is ordered that James Morgan be appointed constable in his place.’ It would seem from this that he might have performed some services in the War of 1812. But nothing has been discovered which would throw any further light on the matter. On December 12, 1814, the County Court allowed him an account of $7.50 for services in criminal cases before Morgan was appointed. October 17, 1817, he was appointed surveyor of the road ‘leading from the mouth of Papaw Creek to Prickett’s Creek, and the road leading from the same to Reynear Hall’s ford, and also from Hall’s ford to the road leading from Morgantown to Mellett’s ferry.’ He was appointed by the County Court one of the appraisers of the estate of Reynear Hall, April 27, 1818. He was also in attendance at the sale of this man’s property, on the 15th of May, 1818; for the sale bill shows he bought a box of old irons for $2.31 and sundry old geers for $7.10. James Morgan resigned his office of constable, and George D. Barns was in turn appointed, May 28, 1818, in his place to hold office for two years. This time James McVicker and Enoch Scott went on his bond for $1,000.00. On May 22, 1820, he became surety in the amount of $150.00 for John Malone, who was granted license to keep a house of private entertainment at Smithfield. He was appointed administrator of the estate of Daniel Lee, June 28, 1820, and gave a bond of $200.00 with Philip Patterson as his surety.

He was evidently held in high esteem by the leading men of Monongalia County. On May 23, 1820, he was recommended by the County Court to the Executive of the Commonwealth as a suitable person to exercise the office of justice of the peace. This was a very important office at that time; for the several justices of the county made up the membership of the County Court, which, besides having control of the fiscal affairs of the county, presided over the trial of cases, empaneled grand and petit juries, and disposed of chancery matters. The County Court was a self perpetuating body. When a vacancy occurred, the remaining justices selected a man to fill the place. It does not appear when George D. Barns received his commission from the Governor. But he appeared in court on the 24th day of July, 1820, took the oath of office, the oath of fidelity to the Commonwealth, the oath to suppress dueling, and the oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and took his seat as a member of the court. As all the justices of the county were not required to be present at every session, a term of court would frequently be held by only three or four of the many justices of the county. The next and only time that George D. Barns thereafter appeared as a member of that body was on the 25th day of September, 1820. His associates on that day were John Evans, Jr., David P. Morgan, and Nathan Hall.

The county records show that he indulged in considerable litigation in Monongalia County. On May 8, 1809, his execution against Amos Chipps on a judgment rendered by Ralph Berkshire, justice, for $10.00, was returned by George B. Hoskinson, constable, "no property found". In his attachment proceedings against Amos Chipps and Augustus Werninger, March 12, 1810, he recovered judgment for $24.00. July 15, 1815, his execution against Thomas Conaway for $4.00, debt, and 30 cents costs, issued on a judgment rendered by William Willey, justice, March 30, 1811, was returned to the clerk's office by David Musgrave, constable, "no property found." January 26, 1819, the case of James Collins against George D. Barns, appealed from a justice's court, was reversed and Collins had to pay the costs. He had an execution issued on a forthcoming bond, April 27, 1819, against John Collins and Thomas Wells, the amount involved being $20.80. On May 24, 1819, in the appeal case of Nathan Stansberry against himself, he had the original summons quashed and recovered costs. Just one year after this, the case of John Bunner against George D. Barns, which the latter appealed from the judgment of a justice, was affirmed by the County Court; and he was ordered to pay the judgment of $20.00 and the costs, which amounted to 71 cents. William Powell went on the appeal bond for Barns in this instance. The record does not show the nature of this controversy, but it seems to indicate that there might have been some trouble between Barns and one member of the Bunner family; for shortly after this suit had been decided, the County Court, August 28, 1820, required Francis Bunner to give a bond of $100.00 "to keep the peace and be of good behaviour towards all the people of this Commonwealth and particularly towards George D. Barns". On September 26, 1820, in the appeal case of Adam Fast against himself, the justice's judgment against him for $7.00, debt, and 50 cents costs was affirmed. James Morgan went on his appeal bond in this case.

Some of his legal contests appear to have been bitterly fought. On August 11, 1814, he started two suits in the County Court against Samuel Swearingen, perhaps the same man whose place he had taken as road surveyor. One was an action of case and the other of trespass. After nearly two years, on March 15, 1816, the action of case was tried by a jury and Barns was given judgment for $69.00 and the costs of the suit. The trespass case was carried along for nearly another year, when there was a trial by a jury on the 12th day of March, 1817, which resulted in a verdict for Swearingen, and Barns was ordered to pay the costs. But he appealed the case to the Superior Court; and on the 29th day of May, 1818, that court decided that the County Court had not allowed Barns to introduce some testimony which was proper for the court to hear. It accordingly reversed the judgment of the County Court and sent the case back for a retrial. On November 23, 1818, the case was again docketed in the County Court. But nothing was done until July 1, 1819, when the record shows that the case was continued at the costs of Barns; and he was given 30 days in which to amend his declaration. This continuance was probably necessary on account of the absence of a witness, the record of the previous day showing that George D. Barns had secured a rule against John Kirkley for his failure to appear as a witness in the Swearingen case. In addition to the rule, the court ordered him fined $16.00 unless he should come into court on or before the first day of the next term to explain his absence. It does not appear what became of Kirkley; but after more than four years in two courts the Swearingen case came to an end in the following manner, August 25, 1819, quoting from the court record:

"George D. Barns vs. Samuel Swearingen. In Trespass. This day came the parties by their attorneys, and a jury, being called for the trial of the issue in this cause, came, to-wit: Jacob Madera, Isaac Cooper, John Wagner, Alexander Wade, Joseph Gill, Daniel Medzker, Joseph Garing, Pernel Houston, George Buckhannon, Gasper Orth, William Baldwin, and William Trickett, who, being elected, tried, and sworn the truth to speak upon the issue joined, upon their oaths do say that the defendant is guilty in manner and form as the plaintiff against him has declared, and they do assess the plaintiff’s damages by occasion thereof to the sum of forty-two cents. It is therefore considered by the court that the plaintiff recover against the defendant the damages aforesaid—".
The Brand Family

His becoming surety for others no doubt cost him considerable litigation. August 25, 1818, execution was issued on forthcoming bonds in two cases in which he was security for Henry Gallihue for small amounts. He was surety for John Bunner in an appeal case, which was decided against Bunner, December 28, 1819. On November 28, 1820, an execution was issued on a forthcoming bond against Isaac Pierce and George Barns, his surety. Prior to any of these, however, there was another case, which involved George D. Barns in a long lawsuit. On March 13, 1816, one Benjamin Wilson, Jr., suing in this instance as assignee of Lemuel E. Davison, brought a suit against William Sallyards, who had formerly been Wilson’s partner. The record shows that this man Wilson was at that time bringing many suits, usually as assignee of some other person, which raises a strong presumption that he was engaged in the business of buying lawsuits. At any rate, George D. Barns appeared in court and acknowledged himself special bail for Sallyards, which meant that if Sallyards did not pay the debt or deliver up his body to prison in execution for it that George D. Barns would do it for him. About four months before this, on November 14, 1815, Richard W. Smith had likewise acknowledged himself special bail for Sallyards in two other cases wherein he was sued by Wilson. On May 14, 1816, these two cases were tried by juries and both resulted in judgments. Some time afterwards Smith took Sallyards into custody and delivered him up to the sheriff of Harrison County, presumably to be put in jail. Then he came into the County Court of Monongalia County, produced the receipt of the Harrison County sheriff, and asked to be relieved of any liability as special bail for Sallyards. The court granted his request on the 11th day of November, 1816. Just two days after Smith had been released as special bail, the case in which George D. Barns was surety was tried by a jury and a verdict given for $60.00 against Syllards, with interest from August 1, 1815. Early the next year an execution was issued by the clerk of the court against George D. Barns, as special bail for William Sallyards, for the $60.00 and interest, the costs of the suit, and the costs of the execution. It appears that Job Prickett went on a forthcoming bond for Barns at this point to prevent anything being done under the execution. On November 24, 1817, a motion was made in the County Court for an execution on this forthcoming bond against Barns and Prickett. There was no appearance by either of them and the motion prevailed, the amount of the judgment, interest, costs, etc., having by this time jumped to $89.70. Just three days after this George D. Barns appeared in the County Court and asked for an injunction against Benjamin Wilson and others to stop any further proceedings in the matter. A preliminary injunction was granted upon the condition that Barns should give a bond before the clerk of the court with good security within thirty days. It does not appear who signed this bond; but on the 22nd day of February, 1819, the court required Barns to give a new bond, as his former surety had left the commonwealth. On the 25th day of April, 1820, the defendants sought to have the case heard and disposed of, but the court refused to take it up at that time. At the May term, 1820, the case was continued. Finally on the 27th day of September, 1820, the County Court settled the matter by making the injunction permanent, which had the effect of relieving George D. Barns as special bail for Sallyards.

The record discloses only one instance where he apparently abandoned a legal contest. On June 13, 1819, James Hurry, as assignee of David Barker, brought suit against him for $70.00. Jesse Ice promptly came into court and acknowledged himself special bail for George D. Barns. The case was tried by a jury, June 29, 1820, and a judgment for $70.00 rendered against him. He adopted the same course in this instance as he did in the Wilson case, winning the preliminary fight in the County Court by getting a temporary injunction on the 8th day of August, 1820, to become effective when he should give a proper bond. But on the margin of the record it is noted that he failed to give the bond.

It also appears from the records that he would sometimes engage in a physical encounter. On August 9, 1813, he appeared in the County Court in answer to an indictment against him for assault and battery and had the indictment quashed. He was tried for assault and battery in the Superior Court, April 3, 1815, found guilty, and fined $15.00. Shortly before he left Virginia he had a controversy of some kind with the sheriff of the county, John Cox. There do not appear to be any papers in existence to show the full history of this matter. The following account is based upon the county records:

The County Court was called into session on Friday, the 26th day of October, 1821, for the examination of George D. Barns, who was charged with stabbing John Cox, while acting in his official capacity, on the 26th day of May, 1821. The justices present at this hearing were Dudley Evans, Booz Burrows, Augustus Werninger, Richard Watts, and Aaron Barker. They decided that he should be held to await the action of the grand jury at the next term of the Superior Court. Upon his motion, however, he was permitted to give bond in the penalty of $900.00 before Dudley Evans and Ralph Berkshire. It does not appear just when this bond was given. But Barns failed to appear at the next term of the Superior Court in answer to the indictment, which was found on the 8th day of April, 1822. On the same day the court ordered a writ of scire facias to issue against George D. Barns and the four sureties on his bond, who were Joseph Merrill, John Carter, John Brand, and James Brand. These men were all relieved of liability on this bond, April 18, 1823, when the court decided that there was some defect in the record.

Judging from the number of men that were paid for their services in connection with the arrest in this case, we might infer that it was not a commonplace affair. The Co. Court allowed Samuel Merrifield $2.08 for guarding George D. Barns two days before a justice of the peace. It also allowed Hedgman Merrifield and Abraham Devault each the sum of $2.64 for traveling and serving as a guard over him. In addition to these, John Harris was paid $3.36; David P. Morgan, $2.68; and James Cunningham, $1.60 for their services as guards. Whether these men were secured as a precautionary measure or on account of necessity, we are unable to say. But there is one circumstance in connection with the matter that seems to indicate that their part in the transaction was not altogether precautionary. John Barns, who was then about twenty years of age, and who had probably not then learned that "Discretion is the better part of valor", was apparently invited to accompany the officers to a justice of the peace at the same time. Samuel Merrifield was also paid $1.57 for guarding him. David P. Morgan, Chalfant Powell, and Amos Powell were each paid $1.04 for their services as guards over him.
Hedgman Merrifield was likewise paid $1.57 as a witness and as a guard over John Barns. Abraham Devault was paid $1.68 for serving a warrant on him. Thus eight different men are named here as having taken part in this detention before the justice. As a further side-light, it might be mentioned that another son of George D. Barns was 18 years old at this time. However, his name is not mentioned on the record. In view of what will hereafter appear in regard to this son James, it may be safe to assume that he was not at home on that day. John Barns was not indicted for any offense. If he was guilty of anything, it was probably only a breach of the peace, which may have been disposed of by the justice of the peace. The fact that five months had elapsed from the time the alleged offense was committed until George D. Barns was brought before the court would of itself indicate that this was not a serious charge.

The object of this somewhat lengthy sketch of George D. Barns has been, not to show that he was unduly contentious among his neighbors; for we believe that he was not. The County Court books of that period are full of records of suits and controversies that may appear trivial at this time. Money being scarce, it was necessary to resort to suit to collect even small debts. The record discloses not a single instance where George D. Barns brought a suit as assignee of some other person. On the contrary, in the year 1818, James Brand brought a suit in the Superior Court "for the use of George D. Barns" and recovered a judgment against John A. Stinespring for $100.00. It has rather been our aim in this narrative to name the friends of George D. Barns, to show the nature of his surroundings, and to give some insight into his real character. His attorney in all his litigation was probably William G. Payne, a prominent lawyer of his day. The record shows that he conducted the Wilson suit and appeared in another case, which was decided in favor of Barns after he had gone to the state of Kentucky. At all events, the subject of our sketch was a prosperous man and a man of affairs. While he may have been somewhat embarrassed by indebtedness at times, his land was not sold by the sheriff. He appears to have been a man of great determination and aggressiveness. He usually stayed with an undertaking until it was finished. As he was faithful to others, so he had friends upon whom he could rely. And when we see John Brand and James Brand, mentioned as his bondsmen in the time of his trouble, we know that his relatives did not forsake him.

But little is known of him after he went to the State of Kentucky, evidently in the latter part of the year 1821. The home of the Barns family in that state was on the road between Fairmount and Mt. Washington southwest of Louisville near the Bullitt County line. His wife died not long after the family left Virginia, probably in the year 1826: as her daughter, Evaline Dodge, wrote to her relatives back in West Virginia many years later that her brother Seldon was about two years old when her mother died. From the records of Jefferson County it appears that George D. Barns afterwards remarried, his last wife being a widow, whose maiden name was Nancy Stewart, a daughter of Hugh Stewart. James Barns says in his diary that his father's funeral was preached on the second day of November. Coupling this with the record of the appointment of his administrator, it would appear that his death probably occurred on the first day of November, 1845. The following is a copy of the record of the appointment of his son James as his administrator:

"November 10, 1845. On motion of James Barns, who made oath according to law, administration of the estate of George D. Barns, dec'd., late of this county, is granted him; whereupon he gave bond with Burton Farmer & Price Henry (who justified), his sureties, in the penalty of two thousand dollars, conditioned according to law: Nancy, the widow, having waived her right to qualify”.

The Hagan graveyard is the place where several members of Barns family were buried.

James Barns, admr. of George D. Barns, dec’d.

Att. S. W. Barns, Clk Sales.
The following is a list of the children of Margaret and George D. Barns, as given in the family Bible: (1) John, born November 18, 1801; (2) James, born October 25, 1803; (3) Nancy, born December 29, 1806; (4) Julia Ann, born September 28, 1808; (5) Jeremiah, born December 26, 1810; (6) Peyton Randolph, born January 18, 1813; (7) Nimrod Evans, born March 2, 1817; (8) Evaline, born December 1, 1819; (9) Jane, born November 19, 1822; and (10) Seldon W., born September 17, 1824.

John Barns was a physician, practicing his profession in Jefferson county, Kentucky, near Fairmount, on the Bardstown road, 13 miles southeast of Louisville. For a time he and his brother James were partners in trade under the firm name of "J. & J. Barns," conducting a general store and managing a farm of about two hundred acres. On May 15, 1840, John sold his interest in the business to James, making him a deed for the farm and all the other partnership property, which was valued at $3,179.00. Included in this transfer were "one negro boy named Reuben, belonging to the said John," 4 horses, 2 cows, 6 sheep, 20 hogs, 1 wagon, and about $1,000.00 in accounts.

On May 22, 1856, James reconveyed the property to John, as trustee for his children. It is said that Dr. John Barns at one time traded the lot of land in Louisville upon which the Gault Hotel now stands for a violin. The violin is still in the family of his granddaughter, Mrs. John H. Taylor.

John Barns was a highly respected citizen and was esteemed by all who knew him. His wife was Susan Sanders, daughter of George Sanders, of Bullitt County.

The above record is contained in the family Bible now in the possession of the widow of Charles Brown, one of the sons of Julia A. Brown. James M. Davis says there were two other children in this family, twins, named Joseph Elisha and Benjamin Elijah, who died in infancy. They are not mentioned in the record. The date of the birth of Margaret Barns is given in this record, December 25, 1783. But this is undoubtedly incorrect.
County. They were married on the 23rd day of June, 1825, by the Rev. Robert Gailbreath. No record of the death of John Barns has been discovered; but it probably occurred in the year 1857. The deed above mentioned from James Barns to him as trustee is the last record of him at Louisville. He made no will and no administrator was appointed for him in Jefferson County. His granddaughter, Susan Hawes, says she has been informed that he died just before she was born (October 16, 1857). Children: (1) Margaret, born November 21, 1827; (2) George Duffee, born March 23, 1830; (3) Frances Ann, born November 8, 1834; and (4) Joseph, who died in infancy.

Margaret Barns (1-1) married Andrew Hawes, son of Henry Hawes, July 11, 1844, in Jefferson County, Kentucky. (Rev. Robert Gailbreath). The wife of Henry Hawes was Elizabeth Reynard, whom he married in Philadelphia about 1798. The Reynard family had fled from France to Holland during the French Revolution, later coming to Pennsylvania. The Hawes family lived in Manchester, England, until the time of the Revolution, when they, too, fled to Holland. There the two families met and became acquainted. Henry Hawes was a sea captain before coming to America. It is said that his father, also named Henry, was killed in the battle of Brandywine. The father and mother of Andrew Hawes went from Philadelphia to Frankfort, Kentucky, about 1800, where Andrew Hawes was born. Afterwards the family moved to Louisville. Margaret Hawes died on the 4th day of February, 1898. The death of her husband occurred about one year previous. Children: (1) Catherine Baum, born February 4, 1846; (2) Jacob Baum, Mrs. Richard D. Sale, who is now living (1921) at an advanced age near Morganfield, Kentucky, tells James M. Davis that Dr. John Barns had a daughter named Mary Ellen, who died when she was about ten years old. Mrs. Sale in her girlhood days lived on a farm adjoining the Barns farm and says that she and Mary Ellen were school girls together. However, the members of the family, who are now living, do not mention this child.

born February 13, 1848; (3) Elizabeth, who died young; (4) Lydia O'Bannon, who also died at an early age; (5) John, who did not live to grow up; (6) Susan Ramy, born October 16, 1857; and (7) Fanny Fern, born August 9, 1861.

Catherine Baum Hawes (1-1-1) was united in marriage to Thomas Roberts, June 1, 1881, at Louisville. (Rev. Spurrier). Mr. Roberts died in the year 1883; and Catherine married Thomas Wilkerson, son of Millard and Sarah Wilkerson, June 15, 1884. She had no children, and her death occurred on the 18th day of June, 1908.

Jacob Baum Hawes (1-1-2) lived for a time at Lockland, Kentucky, where he conducted a grocery business and was postmaster. He was also a contracting painter. On May 27, 1880, he married Myrtle Garner, daughter of Alexander Garner, at the St. Dominican Church in Louisville. (Father Bouchet). They are now (1921) living at the corner of 32 and Virginia Streets in Louisville. Children: (1) Myrtle J., born August 20, 1882; died April 26, 1898; (2) John, born in 1884 and died in infancy; (3) Jacob, who died in infancy; (4) Louis Buckner, born December 31, 1890; (5) Pauline Buckley, born November 23, 1894; and (6) Catherine, born in 1896, and died in 1917 unmarried.

Louis Buckner Hawes (1-1-2-4) entered the military service about the 24th of July, 1918, and was sent to France from Camp Zachary Taylor the following October, being stationed at Bordeaux. He returned to the United States, February 13, 1919, and received his honorable discharge at Louisville. He is not married.

Pauline Buckley Hawes (1-1-2-5) married Arthur W. Distler at Louisville, April 14, 1915. (Rev. J. N. Birdford. They live in Louisville and have one daughter, Tessebelle Elizabeth, who was born on the 21st day of January, 1918.
Susan Ramy Hawes (1-1-6) is unmarried and lives in Louisville with her sister, Mrs. Corbett.

Fannie Fern Hawes (1-1-7) married John Corbett at Louisville, July 9, 1914. She lived for a time at Osborne, Kansas, but in the year 1920 returned to Louisville where she now resides. No children.

George Duffee Barns (1-2) married Letitia Gallahue, daughter of Charles Gallahue, January 17, 1860. He served for a time as constable of the Hay Spring District in Jefferson County, Kentucky. Later he removed to Flat Rock in the State of Illinois, where he was a merchant. He died in Terre Haute, Indiana, on the 30th day of March, 1897. His widow is still living (1921) at Flat Rock. Children: (1) Charles Shannon, born December 21, 1860; (2) Louise Coleman, born June 14, 1862; (3) Fannie, born September 7, 1867; (4) Nellie, born August 6, 1871; (5) John Marshall, born January 26, 1876; and (6) Willa, born August 17, 1878.

Louise Coleman Barns (1-2-2) married John H. Taylor, son of George T. and Elizabeth Taylor, September 5, 1882. (Rev. J. D. Reeder). Before her marriage she attended the St. Mary’s Academy of Georgetown, Kentucky. She and her husband are members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Margaret E. Robey (1-3-3) married William Wadsworth. She is a member of the Court of Honor and lives at 4013 W. Pine Street, St. Louis, Missouri. No children.

James Barns has handed down to us a memorandum covering about four years of his life, which tells the story of how he lived perhaps better than any writer at this time could picture it. A part of his paper is here produced, in a slightly abbreviated form, beginning with January, 1846.

The remainder of the paper records similar transactions for the three following years. Only a few of these matters will be noticed here. In a list of articles purchased by him in Louisville, October 27, 1848, appears "one barrel of whiskey, $8.00." In line with the customary experience of horse traders, it appears, though he does not say so, that he may have been left with only a saddle and bridle on one occasion; for he records that he went to Louisville in a stage on the 11th day of February, 1849. Under date of August 1, 1849, he says his bay mare burned up in Andrew Hawes's stable, with saddle, bridle, martingales, and blanket, his loss being $60.00.

He evidently continued his travels for a long time after this narrative closes. Some time in the fifties he visited his relatives in Virginia, being remembered by many people, now living, who were children when he was here. Emaline Davis, formerly Emaline Barbe, granddaughter of George Brand, told the writer that she would never forget James Barns; for he took her by the hand and led her to a camp meeting at Laurel Point, when she was about five years old, buying her some candy on the way. According to her recollection of him, he was a tall, fine-looking man, exceedingly popular among his relatives and those who knew him. It is only reasonable to suppose that a man of this description, with silk hat and kid gloves, could create somewhat of a sensation among the ladies of almost any country community in those days. Consequently we are not surprised when told by others, who knew him, that he became engaged to a young lady, who lived in the vicinity of Mannington near the home of his Uncle John Brand. But he went back to Kentucky and remained a bachelor.

James M. Davis, his nephew, related to the writer his experiences in a trip across the State of Indiana with his Uncle James Barns after the Civil War. But his time was not all taken up with such travels. He was a useful man in many capacities. Several of his nieces and nephews are now proud to exhibit articles of furniture, such as tables, chairs, bedsteads, etc., that were made by this skilled workman. James M. Davis says he saw his uncle wear false teeth that he had made for himself. This evidence of his genius as a mechanic is corroborated by some of the people who saw him on the occasion of his visit to Virginia.

The last days of his life were spent among his relatives in Union County, where his death occurred on the 23rd day of July, 1874. In the Dodge Hill cemetery, near the graves of other members of the family, there is a little monument, upon which the sculptor has fittingly carved the figure of a horse, which marks the final resting place of James Barns.

3 Nancy Barns married Benjamin Finley, son of George Finley (sometimes written Fenley), November 10, 1831, in Jefferson County. (Rev. Thomas Waring). Their home was in the same county. There was but one child in this family, George Washington, who was born August 20, 1832, in Jefferson-town, Kentucky.

Since no family record has been discovered, it is not certain that the above children are named in their proper order.

James W. Brown (4-3) was probably born in the year 1834, as he was said to have been 82 years old at the time of his death. He married Violinda Barker in Jefferson County, December 6, 1882. (Rev. B. Ritterman). He lived at the old homestead on Cedar Creek in an immense pine forest near the Bullitt County line. As a soldier in the Union army, he had lost a leg in the service of his country. A kind and affectionate neighbor and a friend to the poor, he was known among his acquaintances as "Uncle Jimmy".

He met his death on Friday, November 17, 1916, at his home. Just after dark he had gone to feed his pigs and was shot in the back. His body was discovered the next morning by Stanton Farr's, a crippled farm hand, who made his home with Brown. An inquest was held under the direction of William Kammer, deputy coroner of Jefferson County, and the coroner's jury composed of James Finley, Joseph Hawes, J. T. Bates, E. H. Bouert, and J. P. Martin found that he came to his death as a result of a gunshot wound inflicted by parties unknown.

Captain C. J. Burcell, chief of the county police, conducted an investigation, but could find no trace of the perpetrators of the crime. Brown's cane was found hanging on the fence near where his body lay; and a wad out of a shot gun shell was picked up about thirty feet away. Some empty 12 gauge shot gun shells were also found. Several witnesses were called and examined; but nothing was discovered to throw any light on the mystery of his death.

It was currently believed at the time that robbery was the motive for the crime, as he was supposed to have money hidden about his premises. He had been granted a pension of forty-six dollars a month and had just received a quarterly payment of this. But many searches made after his death failed to reveal any hidden treasures and it was discovered that he had used the last payment of his pension to pay a debt.
His wife was not living at the time of his death. One daughter Julia, born February 1, 1888, is now (1921) on the farm where her father was killed. Some members of the family say there was another daughter in this family, older than Julia, that died in infancy.

Jeremiah Barns probably did not live to reach manhood. The family record does not show the date of his death and the living members of the family are not able to say how long he lived.

Peyton Randolph Barns evidently received his name from the famous Virginia statesman who served in the Continental Congress. On August 11, 1843, he and Ellen Martin were united in marriage in Jefferson County by Rev. Charles W. Page. She was born on the 5th day of September, 1826, and died on the 6th day of June, 1860. Afterwards Peyton Randolph Barns moved to Union County, Kentucky, where he married Rachel Kerney, July 20, 1878, being her third husband. His death occurred on the 27th day of June, 1885. There were no children in his family.

Nimrod Evans Barns was named, no doubt, in honor of that Nimrod Evans, who was for many years the popular and efficient clerk of the County Court, and who was evidently a friend of George D. Barns. His name is perpetuated in the family of his sister Jane, but it is not known how long he lived. He probably died before he was grown.

Evaline Barns married Joseph Curry Dodge in Union County, October 30, 1853. He was born on the 4th day of February, 1816, and lived in Union County, Kentucky, until his death, October 13, 1896. He was a farmer and mechanic, a member of the Baptist church and of the Masonic Lodge, a good neighbor, and a friend to the sick. Evaline Dodge was also kindhearted, affectionate, and religious in temperament, being a member of the Methodist church. Taken to Kentucky when she was only two years old, she always had a desire to know all about her relatives back in Virginia. She carried on a correspondence with some of these relatives until just a short time before her death. One of her letters, written in 1895, coming to the hands of the writer a few years ago, afforded the means of locating some of the living members of this Barns family.* In this letter she stated that her Uncle John Brand visited the Barns family in Kentucky when her mother died and that her cousin John Brand, probably John Daugherty Brand, was there when the children had all grown up. Her death occurred on the 7th day of July, 1898. Children: (1) James N., born September 1, 1854, died in infancy; (2) Emily Taylor, born February 6, 1856; (3) Julia Ann, born October 8, 1857; (4) John Catlett, died in infancy; and (5) Joseph Payton, died in infancy.

He was a farmer and lived until the 12th day of August, 1892. After his death Emily married James T. Hall, son of Robert Hall, in Union County, in 1894. (Justice J. C. Dodge). Her death occurred, February 12, 1910. But after applying for passage in accordance with this decision he received a premonition that something was going to happen, so he changed his mind and took the same boat that had conveyed him down the river, fortunately, as it turned out; for the boat he would have taken, in its course up the river, ran upon a snag, took fire, and was destroyed, most of the passengers being drowned.

JANE BRAND (DAUGHTER OF JOHN BRAND)

Jane Brand was born in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. In the old Bible of her father her name is written "Jean". But this was probably the old way of spelling the name. The marriage record in the County Clerk's office shows her name "Jane". Likewise in the deed of her husband to Joseph Lough, hereafter referred to, her name is spelled in the same manner. But she signed by mark, which might be taken to indicate that she could not write her name. However, it should be noted that in those days many women made their marks when in fact they could write. Margaret Barns on one occasion did this. All the other children of John Brand could write, and it is difficult to believe that this daughter was not equal to the others in that respect. Matthew B. Evans and Mary Ann Jett, grandchildren now living, say their grandmother's name was Jane.

She married Samuel Lough, son of John and Jane Lough, in Monongalia County, December 28, 1808, the next day after her brother George was married. Rev. John W. Patterson was the officiating minister. John Lough, who is said to have come from Scotland, was one of the early settlers of Monongalia County. His farm was about a mile up Dent's Run from the home of John Brand. A part of his land is still in the Lough name. He was twice married; and there were at least nine children in his family: Joseph, John, Sarah, Nelly, Robert, Samuel, George, Easter (Esther), and Thomas. Joseph and John are said to have been children of his first marriage, while Samuel and Thomas were sons of the second wife. The proper relationship of the others cannot be stated with certainty. For reasons that are obvious a brief mention will here be made of some members of this Lough family.

Joseph Lough, probably the eldest son in the family, spent his entire life in Monongalia County. In his will he mentions the following children: John, Matthew, Andrew, Joseph, David, Mary Kelly, Elizabeth Cole, Jane Mercer, and Nancy Fleming. A daughter of this Matthew married William Hart Brand. Lena Brand, wife of John T. Brand, is his granddaughter. Andrew Lough was the father of J. Marshall Lough, who married Nancy Ellen Brand. Ellery Judson Lough, two of whose daughters are hereafter mentioned in this history, was also a son of Andrew. The name of Jane Mercer will appear hereafter in connection with the large Mercer family. Nancy Fleming was the wife of Waitman Fleming, an uncle of Mary Alice Brand, wife of James C. Brand.

John Lough, the son of John, was known as "Major John." His children were: Mary, who married Henry Jones; Elizabeth, who married Curtis Cordray; Matthew W.; Sarah, who married William L. Cordray; Jane, the first wife of Isaac Cordray, who afterwards married Mary Elizabeth Brand; and Julia Ann, who married Curtis Arnett.

Not much can be said with respect to the daughters Sarah and Nelly. One of them married a Lynch, a brother of William Lynch, and lived in the State of Indiana.

Robert Lough at one time owned several large tracts of land in Monongalia County. His son, John Lough, married Mary Ann Brand, daughter of "Blacksmith" John Brand. The wife of Otto Henry is also said to be one of his descendants. Moreover, his family was connected with one branch of the Brand family in another respect. His wife was Sarah Lynch, a sister of Nancy Bussey, who was the wife of Edward Bussey and the mother of the first wife of Alexander W. Brand.
George Lough married Sarah Neely, May 20, 1813. He went to Decatur County, Indiana, and had at least two sons, James and Samuel. Anna Lough, a daughter of this Samuel, married Warner Evans, son of Hester and David Evans and grandson of Jane (Brand) Lougn.

The marriage records show that Easter (Esther) Lough married William Lynch, October 20, 1808. He was a son of John Lynch, an Irishman, whose wife was Nancy Pierce. Erma Violet Brand, wife of Elmer Clyde Brand, is a great-granddaughter of this member of the Lough family.

Thomas Lough also married a Lynch. He lived in Decatur County, Indiana. George W. Lough, one of his sons, was still living at the Soldiers Home in Tennessee, March 17, 1920. One of his grandsons, son of William J. Lough, whose name is Thomas, is now (1921) living at Bloomfield, Davis County, Iowa.

But little is shown on the public records of Monongalia County with respect to Samuel Lough. He and Joseph Lough were securities for John Lough as administrator of his father, February 13, 1816. He was clerk of his father’s sale in June of the same year. At this sale he bought one looking-glass for $1.50, one meat tub for $0.90, one steel cutting knife and screw for $0.51, one barrel for $0.17, one reel for $1.12½, one table for $1.61, one loom for $10.00, two hogs for $2.00, one-third of a field of grain for $5.10, and two-thirds of the orchard field of grain for $1.50.

He was given fifty acres of land by his father’s will. His residence while he remained in Monongalia County was near the place where Sherman Lough lives now. A pile of stones that formerly furnished the chimney for his house marks the spot. On October 25, 1817, he sold his land to Joseph Lough, who also bought George’s share. This is the last record we find of Samuel Lough in Monongalia County. He went to Butler County, Ohio, probably soon after this. Their home in that county was about one mile from Okeana, originally called Tariff. Samuel Lough died about 1851. After his death Jane Lough made her home with her daughter Mary Davis. Her death occurred in the year 1857. Both found a resting place in a little cemetery near Okeana.

The record of their children has been furnished by Charles T. Evans, who has the family Bible of the Samuel Lough family. Judging from some of the dates that appear in this book, it would seem quite likely that it was carried away from Monongalia County by the family, for it was printed in 1767 and bought, May 25, 1774. There is some writing in the book also that indicates that the Bible originally belonged to Jane McCray, mother of Jane Lough. If it was hers, she probably brought it with her from Ireland. Children: (1) Mary, born September 18, 1809; (2) Jean, born January 8, 1812; (3) George, born May 6, 1814; (4) John, born May 7, 1817; (5) William, born November 24, 1819; (6) Hester, born March 6, 1822; and (7) Samuel, born November 12, 1824.
Mary Lough married Samuel Davis in Butler County, Ohio, February 20, 1840. (Magistrate Isaac Clark.) His death occurred in the latter part of the year 1861. The date of his wife's death is not known. Several years ago the family went to Sumner County, Kansas, where a number of them now live. He was a farmer and stockraiser all his life. On the 4th day of January, 1900, he was shot and instantly killed by an assassin. His body was laid to rest in the circle of the Grand Army of the Republic at Liberal, Kansas.

Samuel Lough, the youngest son in this Lough family, evidently spent his entire life in Butler County, with the exception of the time he was in the army. He served as a lieutenant in the Mexican War. His wife was Susan McClain, daughter of Allen McClain, whom he married in Butler County, April 22, 1849. (Magistrate Robert J. Bell).

The exact date of his death is not known. But the records of Butler County show that Joseph Davis was appointed administrator of his estate, November 30, 1859, and gave bond in the sum of two hundred dollars with John McClain and H. W. Dowty, his sureties. The appraisers of his estate were James Jones, William Yanger, and Hiram Ashcraft. JOHN BRAND (SON OF JOHN BRAND)

John Brand was evidently born in Franklin Township, Fayette County, Pennsylvania. The record as given by the members of his family shows the date of his birth one year later than the family record of his father has it. Being a blacksmith, he was always referred to by his neighbors as "Blacksmith John" to distinguish him from the other men of the same name. Many times he is mentioned on the Four Generations of John Brands.
county records in the same manner. It is said that he learned his trade of one John McDougal. His first shop was located on his father's farm near Dent's Run just below the point where the bridge now spans that stream in the rear of the residence formerly occupied by Edmund Warren Brand. The first reference to this shop on the county records is contained in a road order, dated July 27, 1818; but it was undoubtedly built several years before that time.

On the first day of September, 1826, he received a deed from Jeremiah Hoskinson for a farm containing a fraction more than one hundred and ninety-two acres. The consideration mentioned in the deed is twelve hundred dollars "cash in hand paid". A small part of this land was originally patented to his Uncle James Brand. He had evidently taken possession of the land and lived on it before the deed was made, for the county records show that he had a little controversy with the County Court in regard to a road through his farm in the year 1825. As this seems to have been his nearest approach to a lawsuit in Monongalia County, it will be given a brief notice here.

On September 26, 1825, upon the motion of Isaac Camp the County Court appointed Dudley Evans, Benjamin Hamilton, and Moses Cox to view and lay out a road from near the house of Baltzer Hess to John Dent's mill. They made their report on the 24th day of the next month, and it was ordered that Baltzer Hess, John Brand, Jr., Samuel Brand, John Dent, and Thomas Hamilton, "through whose land the said road passes", be summoned to show why the same should not be established. It seems that John Brand was the only one of these to appear. He came into court on the 28th day of November, 1825, and asked for a writ of ad quod damnum, as it was called, which required the sheriff to summon twelve freeholders to assess the damages. It is not shown who these twelve men were, but they made their report on the 26th day of December, when the court ordered the road to be established. He was probably allowed compensation to the amount of eight dollars, since at the following May term of the court, which was the term at which such accounts were audited and ordered paid, he was given an order for that sum. The record further shows that he was appointed surveyor of this road, March 27, 1826.

His home was on this tract of land until he removed to Marion County. It was later known as the Joe Fisher farm. The larger part of it is now owned by Charles Tate. On the 8th day of August, 1839, John Brand sold twelve acres of this farm to Moses Cox for one hundred dollars. The remainder was sold to Jonathan Taylor, August 29, 1853, for twenty seven hundred three dollars and seventy-five cents, "excepting one-half an acre of ground donated by said John Brand to the Union church for a graveyard". This deed shows that he lived in Monongalia County at that time. The Marion County records show that he purchased of the heirs of Ebenezer Blackshear a farm of two hundred and sixty-one acres, March 27, 1854, for twenty-eight hundred dollars. He paid eighteen hundred dollars in cash and agreed to pay the balance in two equal payments. He had received no cash payment for his Monongalia County farm, having taken deferred notes for the whole consideration. The deed for this Marion County farm recited that he was then a resident of Marion County. His home was on this tract of land for the remainder of his life. The farm lies in Lincoln District near Downs Station. A part of it is still in the Brand family.

On the 22nd day of March, 1858, he conveyed the one-half acre, which was reserved to him in the conveyance to Jonathan Taylor, to James Robinson, Sr., Francis Marvel Brand, William T. Brand, Henry G. Brand, Ulysses Camp, and Charles I. Brand "in trust for a public burying ground. and for the use of an old school Presbyterian church or house of public worship". This is the cemetery, so often referred to in these pages, where a large number of the Brand family found a final resting place.

The county records show that he purchased a set of blacksmith tools at Philip Coombs's sale for thirty dollars, January 19, 1847. Later in the same year, November 24, the following order was entered by the County Court:

"Ordered that John Brand (blacksmith), William M. Jones, and John B. Yeager be appointed to appraise the personal estate of Thomas Pindall, deceased, after being duly sworn for that purpose, and make report thereof to the court."

The record of other members of the Brand family will show that he was willing at all times to come to the relief of his relatives when they needed assistance. He was often called upon to furnish security for an administrator and to act in that capacity himself. His honesty and unswerving devotion to duty caused him to be looked upon as a man of great worth to his community.

He married Elizabeth Greer of Belmont County, Ohio, December 28, 1819. (Rev. John Phillips). His wife died while the family lived in Monongalia County, February 7, 1845. He lived until the 8th day of December, 1873. His remains were brought from Marion County and deposited by the side of his wife in the cemetery he provided.

George A. Brand died on the 14th day of February, 1833, before he was seven years old.

Emily Jane Brand might be said to have taken the place of her mother in this family. She was but eighteen years old when her mother died, but the younger members of the family soon learned to look to her for advice and counsel. Many of the excellent qualities of John Raymer Brand might be traced directly to her influence since she had charge of him from the time of his mother's death until he became a man. After her father's death she remained at the old homestead and was still the "good old aunt" as long as she lived. Her home was headquarters for all family gatherings. Her death occurred on the 9th day of March, 1901.

Henry Gipson Brand is said to have received his middle name in honor of his grandmother Greer, whose maiden name was Gipson. He was a member of the Presbyterian church and taught school for several years. His wife was Chloe Ann Martin, whom he married in Marion County, September 7, 1858. (Rev. M. Allen). John Daugherty Brand married Louisa Neptune, daughter of Samuel and Rebecca Neptune, in Marion County, April 2, 1863. (Rev. Flennikin). The grandfather of Samuel Neptune, whose name was Henry, was one of four brothers who came to America from Greece about 1760. Two of these brothers went to Ohio and another recrossed the Atlantic for Ireland. Henry Neptune settled in Virginia and is said to have served in the Revolutionary War. His only child was Henry, the father of Samuel.

The home of John Daugherty Brand was in Lincoln District, Marion County. He was a farmer and served for several years as a constable of his district. section originated with Freidricke Ice, a Hollander, who settled in Monongalia County at Ice's Ferry. His eldest son, Adam Ice, is said to have been the first white child born west of the Alleghany mountains. This son Adam removed to Barrackville, now Marion County, and was the grandfather of Marcus Ice.*

JAMES BRAND (SON OF JOHN BRAND)

James Brand had his home on the land that was given to him by his father. His residence, which is still standing, was within a few feet of the house in which his father lived. The old house, which had been the residence of John Brand, was for a long time used by the family of James Brand as a "loom house". The residence built by Edmund Warren Brand in which his granddaughter, Ivy P. Berry, now lives, is near the spot where John Brand originally had his home.

*For an extended account of this Ice family, see Callahan and Butcher's History of the Upper Monongahela Valley, Vol. 3, page 1020.
Very little can be shown from the public records with respect to this man, as he cannot always be distinguished from the other men of the same name. The people of his community called him "James of John". Since the other James Brands lived some distance away, he was undoubtedly referred to in the following order of the County Court, May 28, 1832:

"Ordered that James Brand be appointed surveyor of the road from the west end of Elizabeth Britton's farm to Dent's mill, thence to intersect the State Road at the east end of Benjamin Wilson's farm, and from John Brand's blacksmith shop up the run to Dent's house in the room of George Brand."

This was evidently the road which his father helped lay out in 1797. Charles Wolverton took charge of the road the next year.

As the other three men named were his neighbors, it is quite likely that he was the man mentioned in the following order, which was entered by the County Court on the 28th day of December, 1840:

"It is ordered that Robert Lough, Peter Fogle, Rawley E. Dent, and James Brand, or either three of them, be appointed to appraise the personal estate of the said deceased (James Scott) ————."

On the same day the County Court entered another order, given below, which evidently relates to him.

"Nimrod Dent vs. James Brand. On an application to establish a road. This day came the parties by their attorneys, and they being fully heard, the report of the commissioners examined, and all the circumstances weighed, it is the opinion of the court that the said road ought not to be opened as proposed. It is therefore considered by the court that the petition of the said Nimrod Dent be dismissed and that he pay to the said James Brand his costs by him in this behalf expended. From which opinion and judgment the said Nimrod Dent prayed an appeal."

This order refers to a proposed change in the road up Dent’s Run from Laurel Point to the Dent farm. It was originally located near the run. Several years after the death of James Brand it was changed to its present location.

In appearance James Brand was a tall man, probably a little over six feet in height, and very slender, weighing about one hundred and thirty-six pounds. He evidently took no active part in the public affairs of his county. At this late day nothing can be said in regard to his church connections or party affiliations.

He married Elizabeth Wade, daughter of Alexander Wade, May 25, 1820. Her father evidently came to Monongalia County at an early date, for he received a patent for three hundred and sixty-six acres of land on what is now Wade’s Run, October 19, 1789. According to the family record, he died on the 10th day of May, 1803, aged fifty-four years, six months, and eight days. His wife is said to have been a Moore, but her first name is not known. His children are mentioned in the following order in a suit brought by them against Thomas Wilson, June 10, 1810: George, Aaron, Mary, Elijah, Alexander, Thomas, Abigail, Sarah, Elisha, Elizabeth, and Hosea. All of them, except the first three, were infants at that time, which indicates that probably all of them were under age at the time of their father's death.

Since many members of the Brand family are descendants of Alexander Wade, the other children in his family will be noticed briefly.

George Wade is probably the man who married Easter Little, as shown by the marriage records, February 4, 1800, since his wife signed her name "Esther" in a deed made by him in 1852. They lived at that time in Switzerland County, Indiana.

Aaron Wade, whose wife's name was Julia, lived in Park County, Indiana, in 1852.

Mary Wade married Waitman Trippett and lived in Gibson County, Indiana. She died prior to 1852, leaving five children, Alexander, Caleb, Hosea, Aaron, and Rachel, who married Stewart Cunningham.

Elijah Wade left four children: William B., Thomas, Rebecca, and Elizabeth, who married William Wager and lived in Warren County, Ohio, in 1852.

It appears that the son Alexander Wade was never married. According to a tradition in the family, he met his death in Cincinnati by falling from a window in a building. It can be shown by the county records of Monongalia County that he died between the tenth day of January, 1852, and the fifteenth day of September, 1853.

Thomas Wade cannot be identified on the records of Monongalia County with absolute certainty. From a deed made by him, April 1, 1825, by which he disposed of his interest in his father's estate, it appears that his wife's name was Rachel. The records show that Thomas Wade and Rachel, his wife, made at least thirty conveyances of real estate in Monongalia County. Assuming that all these relate to one man, which is by no means certain, it seems that he lived in Monongalia County till about 1846, when he went to Marion County. He lived in Lucas County, Iowa, in 1854. The village of Wadestown probably took its name from this man, as the records show he sold the first village lots there. But it can be stated with certainty that Thomas Wade, the son of Alexander, had a son named Alexander. This is made plain by the will of Sarah Liming, in which she designates him as the executor of her will and calls him the son of her brother Thomas. Before the Civil War there was an Alexander Wade in Battelle District, probably this man, who was a large landowner and was quite prominent in public affairs. He moved to Wayne County, Iowa, where a large number of his descendants still live.

Abigail Wade died unmarried before 1821.

Sarah Wade married George Liming, January 8, 1839, and died without children about 1851. Her share of her father's farm was sold in a court proceeding to John M. Brand, May 26, 1852.

Elisha Wade married Phoebe Davis, January 4, 1821. He died in 1843, leaving seven children: Daniel D., Mary E., who married John Deusenberry; Hosea M., Elisha Basil; Lurena Ursula; Alexander T., and Leroy Milton, who lived in Monongalia County on land adjoining the farm of Hosea M. Brand.

Hosea Wade, whose wife's name was Clarissa, lived in Monongalia County until at least 1841. He probably removed to some other county about that time.

Elizabeth (Wade) Brand was born on the 12th day of September, 1798. In many respects she was a remarkable woman. Being a widow at the age of forty-six, she was confronted with the task of bringing up twelve children, only two of whom were of age when her husband died. How well she did this may be judged from the following pages. She was a woman of strong will and great determination. Although ably assisted by her sons, she took upon herself the entire management of the farm for several years.
ELIZABETH (WADE) BRAND

She always impressed upon the minds of her children the necessity for hard work, and she took good care to see that her boys did the farm work laid out for them. If one of them shirked he was not likely to do it again soon. Apparently thinking it was best to keep all her children at home as long as possible, she almost uniformly objected to any marriages in the family. Her son John, although past twenty-eight years old, found it prudent to leave home for a few days on the occasion of his matrimonial venture. In the case of her youngest daughter, an engagement was broken to appease the maternal wrath, and Rosina never married until after the death of her mother. She was a member of the old anti-mission Baptist church.

James Brand died on the 20th day of September, 1844; his widow lived until the 8th day of March, 1885.
COPY OF THE WILL OF JAMES BRAND

In the name of God, Amen, I, James Brand, of the County of Monongalia and State of Virginia, being of sound mind, do bequeath my property to my dear wife and children as follows: To my wife Elizabeth I bequeath all my personalty and real estate during her life, provided she remains my widow, and should she remarry she is to have one-third of my estate, both personal and real. I desire that the children should be raised out of the proceeds of the estate until the youngest becomes of age (say eighteen years old), then for the property to be divided equally among them all, deducting one hundred dollars of my son Alexander's interest for property he has already received. I do appoint my wife Elizabeth and my son Alexander my executrix, and executor of this my last will and testament, to settle my books, to collect all debts due the estate, and to pay all just debts, just leaving the property in their hands without any bill of appraisement or sale to be managed as above directed.

Rosina Isabelle Cordray (2-4) died unmarried in Monongalia County, December 25, 1898.

Alexander Wade Brand, being the eldest son of James Brand, was named as one of the executors of his father’s will. As he was under age at the time of his father’s death, he did not qualify until the 23rd day of December, 1844. The bondsmen for him and his mother in their fiduciary capacity were his two uncles, John Brand and Thomas Wade.

That this son was well aware of the responsibility that rested upon him in connection with this family is indicated by the following order of the County Court, entered on the 23rd day of September, 1844, just three days after his father’s death:

"Ordered that Alexander Brand be appointed a supervisor of the road from Margaret Dent’s to the forks of the road near George Snider’s, with the hands under him who live on the lands of Peter Fogle, Edward Bussey, Elizabeth Wilson, and the said Alexander Brand."

He was an industrious and enterprising man all his life. Farming and stockraising were his chief occupations, although he had learned the trade of carpenter and cabinetmaker in his early days. During the first few years of his business life he worked in his shop during the winter seasons, making bedsteads, chairs, bureaus, and other kinds of furniture. He was a hard worker all his life. The attitude he always took in regard to labor may be shown by an incident related by some of his neighbors. One morning, when he was an old man, he went to the wheat field where some men were cutting wheat for him and started to bind the grain. But after an hour or so the men noticed him starting for the house and asked him why he was leaving. He replied that he wouldn’t stay in the field when he couldn’t "rake the grain off the cradle." Being thoroughly imbued with the idea that work with the hands was absolutely essential to success, he was somewhat prejudiced against other lines of work. Although proud of his son Edward's achievements, he could never be persuaded to come to Zoar church to hear his son preach a sermon until long after that son had become famous as a Baptist minister. Late in life he became affiliated with that church and was a member at the time of his death.

As a reward for a life of industry and thrift, he became the owner of a large and valuable farm. He began to buy land at an early age. On October 23, 1845, he and William Jamison bought one hundred and sixty acres of George Russell for nine hundred dollars. They sold this land to Draper Cole the next year for twelve hundred dollars. On March 19, 1847, he bought of Edward Bussey eighty-nine acres for eight hundred dollars. This was a part of the tract that was originally patented to Benjamin Wilson, and upon it was the home of Alexander Brand as long as he lived. At the time he bought this place there was a Baptist church, called Mt. Tabor, located near his residence on one acre of land that had been sold off the original tract to the church trustees by Levi Clark in 1839. When the members of the congregation decided to relocate the church, this old church lot was sold to Alexander Brand in March, 1859, for fifty-four dollars, the new church, called Zoar, a name no doubt cherished in the memories of all the children in this family, being erected on a lot conveyed to the church trustees by Jarrett Lynch, December 12, 1860. The old church was probably abandoned and the new one erected before the year 1859; for James P. Brand says his father had his workshop in the old church building for several years before that time. Alexander W. Brand next, May 6, 1867, bought twenty-four acres of the land of his cousin, William Alfred Brand, which was sold under a decree of the court. But before the deed was made to him for this tract there was another farm of one hundred and eight acres, known as the Eleazer Arnett land, adjoining his home place, sold under a court decree. He bought the Arnett land, September 2, 1867, for thirty-five hundred and twenty-five dollars. This purchase was no doubt a big undertaking for him in those days. The way in which the matter was handled shows that, in his shrewd business way, he was careful not to buy more than he could pay for. He had evidently arranged for John H. Cole to take the twenty-four acre tract in case he bought the Arnett farm; for the deed was made to Cole for that tract, September 19, 1867. Being apparently still unwilling to venture too far, he sold to George Barbe thirty-five acres of the Arnett place, probably with the understanding that he would buy it back; for the land was reconveyed to him, November 1, 1870, for a consideration about equal to what Barbe paid and the accrued interest. He sold his share in his father's estate to his brother Edmund Warren, March 3, 1869. Later, February 19, 1873, he bought an additional ten acres of Owen Hawker for five hundred dollars. All this land he owned at the time of his death.

His first wife was Sarah Bussey, daughter of Edward and Nancy Bussey. They were united in marriage in Monongalia County, February 1, 1844, by the Rev. James Davis. She died on the 7th day of March, 1856. For his second wife he married Narcissus Snider, a daughter of George Snider, September 26, 1859. Her death took place on the 23rd day of February, 1884. Mrs. Martha Snider, widow of Jeremiah Snider and daughter of James Start, became his third wife, March 9, 1889. (Rev. J. E. Darby).

Edward Parrish Brand (3-6) has attained eminence in a marked degree as superintendent of the Illinois Baptist State Convention. His work in this capacity has been carefully reviewed by President George M. Potter, of Shurtleff College, in an article which appeared in the Baptist Standard, October 18, 1919. As his account of this member of the Brand family, written at close range by one who has been closely associated with him in his work, portrays the character of Edward P. Brand better than this writer could hope to do, it is here reproduced, being entitled "A Kingdom Highway Builder."
Twenty-one years ago the Illinois Baptist State Convention for the third time offered the superintendency of its state convention work to E. P. Brand, then pastor of the Alpha and Orion churches in Henry County, Illinois. The work of the convention was in a discouraging situation. The superintendent had resigned, there was no great amount of funds, the churches were not enthusiastic about the work and altogether it was a most uninviting offer. Nevertheless, it was accepted and for twenty-one years E. P. Brand and the Baptist State Convention of Illinois have been inseparable in the minds not only of the Baptists of this one state but also of the Baptists of all the states in the central Mississippi valley.

The preparation of Mr. Brand for this position was somewhat unique. He was born near Morgantown, W. Va., on August 9, 1854, and he was the product of the farm. We who have been reared in the Middle West where land is fertile and production abundant have only a faint conception of the ruggedness of some of those West Virginia counties. To us who know him best it seems that some of his ruggedness of character, honesty of purpose, and directness of speech must have come naturally to Doctor Brand through his early associations with West Virginia hills.

His education was in the public schools of the state, in a private school in Pennsylvania, in the State Normal and State University of West Virginia. He then spent two years at Newton Seminary. In 1878 he was licensed to preach, being ordained at Zoar, W. Va., October 30, 1880. Thirty-four years ago last June he left the halls of the seminary and since that time has been almost continually working in his chosen field. In 1885 he was married to Miss Vienna Moore of Point Marion, Pa., to whom he himself has eloquently paid tribute for his success and accomplishments in life.

"His education and seminary training complete, with enthusiastic energy he began his work with a pastorate in Pennsylvania, but soon came west and settled at Madisonville, Ohio. He afterwards went to Atchison, Kansas, and from there came to Illinois where he has spent the last quarter century. Such in brief was the preparation of the man, and such his equipment when he was called to this important position which he has held for the last twenty-one years.

"The State of Illinois in common with the other commonwealths of the nation is developing a keen interest in its highways. Expert commissioners are employed who are inspecting the lines of communication throughout the state and the main trunk lines of roadway transportation are being developed very efficiently. It goes without saying that the most expert judgment and foresight have been exercised in the laying out of these roadways and it is also safe to assume that the future agricultural, urban, and commercial development of the state will lie along these larger state highways."
"Road-building of the same importance Doctor Brand has been carrying on in the state of Illinois for the Baptist commonwealth which is to be developed in the future. With keen foresight and consecrated judgment he has laid out certain lines along which Baptist work is to be developed. He has spied out the land, has had a vision of the future and with able leadership has led the Baptist hosts of the state to catch the vision and to give themselves to the realization of certain definite plans.

EVANGELISM

"It would be impossible in so short an article as this to outline all of his outstanding activities, but some stand out prominently as being particularly successful. As his title implies he is superintendent of missions and there has always been demonstrated in his work a constant evangelical effort. He has stressed evangelistic campaigns, encouraged churches to develop the evangelistic gifts of their pastors and to employ the most consecrated and efficient evangelist. Moreover, he has sought to bring to the state splendid men to carry on statewide campaigns and he has always met the offers of the national societies by securing abundant funds with which to place evangelists in the field and to carry on the campaign for the conversion and spiritual development of men and women. It is the writer's opinion that Doctor Brand himself must think this phase of his work one of the most satisfying and outstanding of his numerous activities.

ENDOWMENT FUNDS

"A second line of work justifies the enthusiasm of the friends of this road-builder. When Doctor Brand undertook the state work the trust funds of the convention were small. He felt that in a rapidly growing state with such cities as Chicago, Peoria, East St. Louis and others filled up with alien people we should have a permanent fund to support the work of the convention. He set himself resolutely to increase these funds and the endowment has gradually grown to such an extent that within a few years it will pass the $100,000 mark. More than any leader before him in the state, he has succeeded in interesting men and women of means in this phase of convention work and many large gifts which are to come in the future will no doubt be traced to his influence. In this connection, too, our superintendent has made the convention the conservator of Baptist property and the friend of all needy Baptist churches. Many a church has looked to the convention in time of distress and need, when a changing population has weakened its strength, and many a struggling new organization has been helped until it was able to build a church and support a pastor. The starting of the Baptist work in some localities and the chance to carry on such work in many others has been due to Doctor Brand's help and counsel.

DENOMINATIONAL EDUCATION

"A third highway which has been laid out is along educational lines, an effort prompted by Doctor Brand's vital interest in the education of Baptist young people. When the affairs of Shurtleff College were at their lowest and many of its best friends were confused and doubtful about the outcome, it was Doctor Brand who called for a committee of the board of trustees of the institution to meet with the state board of the convention at its session in Bloomington. Out of this meeting came the decision which resulted in the action of the state convention at its meeting in Elgin in 1911 whereby Shurtleff College became the College of the state convention, recognized as the Baptist state college of Illinois. While the efforts of the other members of the committee are not to be minimized in any way, it was upon the initiative of Doctor Brand that the whole matter was taken up, and it was through his effort and leadership that the vote was taken which completed the bond between the college and the convention. He has ever been a friend and well-wisher of the college and in these last years has been an enthusiastic and loyal trustee.
STATE UNIVERSITY CHURCH

"He has also brought about the building and establishment of our Baptist work at the State University of Illinois. Even before the work had been authorized Doctor Brand had a leader for it in mind. With his active enthusiasm he threw a representative of the state convention into the canvass and secured the present grounds lying in a strategic location. A few years later the state convention authorized the building of the church edifice and pastor's home and Doctor Brand was directed to employ a man to push the campaign for funds. This he did and in a few months more than $30,000 was raised and the erection of the church was immediately begun. Ours was one of the very first Baptist conventions to undertake work at the state university and Doctor Brand's plan still stands as a model of the type of work that should be done for our Baptist students by large universities.

THE CHICAGO ASSOCIATION

"No state in the union outside of New York has so diverse a population as Illinois and the whole question of evangelistic work in our large cities is constantly before our leaders. This is pre-eminently true of the Baptist situation in Chicago. The Chicago Association has such urgent and tremendous problems on its hands that a number of years ago the Baptists in that association felt that they could not give much assistance to religious activities outside of Chicago. Doctor Brand applied himself to help work out a strong relationship between the Chicago Association and the state convention, for he felt that neither could do its best work separately. The splendid cooperation now existing between the Baptists of Chicago and those of the rest of the state has justified the present working plan between the two parties—a plan which is to be a great highway for Baptist progress in future years.

"No summary of Doctor Brand's work for the Baptists of Illinois can be complete, for who can count the days and nights spent on trains, in carriages, in automobiles, as he has traveled over our boundless prairies? He has been a veritable builder of highways for the kingdom of Jesus Christ, and these five great trunk lines stand out pre-eminent as roads over which he has led the Baptist host toward greater things: constant evangelistic endeavor; greater financial strength for the convention; denominational education of our young people; care of them while they are being educated at our state universities; and strong cooperation between our great metropolis and the rest of the state; from these great highways Doctor Brand is even now laying out branch lines. The rural church question, the influx of the Negroes into Illinois, a much-needed church building fund—these and other pressing problems demand and are obtaining his attention. And these problems will be met and solved as the Baptist host of the state marches on to victory. Shurtleff College, Alton, Ill."
It may not be out of place to add a few words to what has been said in the above article. At the beginning of his career he taught school in Monongalia County. He was elected valedictorian of his class at the time of his graduation at the Fairmont State Normal School in 1878. The years he attended the West Virginia University were 1882 and 1883. During the time he was attending the University he was engaged in preaching at some of the Baptist churches in Monongalia County. The County Court records show that he was authorized "to celebrate the rites of marriage in all the counties of this state," August 2, 1881, when he gave bond in the penalty of fifteen hundred dollars with Edmund W. Brand and Franklin R. Sinclair, his sureties.
Before he became superintendent of the Baptist state convention he had been pastor of the following churches: Taylortown and Sugar Grove, Greene County, Pennsylvania, 1885-1886; Madisonville, Ohio, 1886-1890; Orion and Alpha, Illinois, 1890-1891; Atchison, Kansas, 1891-1892; and Cambridge, Alpha and Orion, Illinois, 1892-1898.

In June, 1906, Ewing College, Illinois, conferred upon him the honorary title of Doctor of Divinity; and Shurtleff College, the oldest college in the Mississippi valley, also, in 1915, conferred upon him the same honorary title.
In addition to his work as superintendent he was editor and publisher of the Illinois Baptist Annual from 1898 to 1921, and has published the Illinois Baptist Bulletin since 1909. He has also found time to manage a farm near his home.

Since he began his career as a minister he has always made it a rule to preach a sermon every Sabbath day, wherever he may be. As a pulpit orator he has obtained considerable distinction. He has done work in the line of his calling in seven different states of the union and has traveled in thirty of our states and in eight foreign countries. Sometime ago he let it be known that he desired to give up the work of superintendent on January 1, 1922; and at the last State Convention, in October, 1921, his request was granted; but he was unanimously elected to another position for life, which will involve lighter duties, including the writing of a Baptist history, and will occupy about half of his time.

His wife was a daughter of Joseph and Sarah Moore. Rev. J. E. Darby, D. D., now of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, officiated at their marriage, September 10, 1885. Their home is at Normal, Illinois. Children: (1) Sylvia Pearl, born September 22, 1886, died October 18, 1891; (2) Sarah Hazel, born November 26, 1888; (3) Lila Marjorie, born August 9, 1894; and (4) Mildred Dorothy, born February 21, 1896.

She graduated from the Normal High School in 1904, from the Illinois State Normal University in 1906; taught school two years, and received an A. B. degree from the University of Illinoi’s in 1910. At the University she was a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority. After her college course she traveled for three years as a reader for the Wehrman Concert Company. She married Oswald Karl Yeager, of Danville, Illinois, October 10, 1913. (Rev. E. P. Brand).

Oswald Karl Yeager was born at Danville, Illinois, February 5, 1888. He graduated from Danville High School in 1906, attended DePauw and Chicago Universities, and graduated in architectural engineering, University of Illinois, in 1911. He is now a member of the firm of Yeager & Sons, builders, is an Elk, a member of the University Club of Chicago, and a Shriner. During the late war he was a captain in the construction division from June, 1918, till July, 1919, being in charge of construction work at Frankfort Arsenal, Philadelphia, and at Camp Knox, Kentucky. In the years 1919 and 1920, he was a member of the committee on government legislation from the association of government contractors. He is now (1921) a member of the American Concrete Institute, the American Association of Engineers, and the Society of Military Engineers. Their home is at Danville, Illinois. Children: (1) Elizabeth Ann, born August 8, 1914; and (2) Philip Edward, born October 2, 1916.

Lila Marjorie Brand (3-6-3) was born at Cambridge, Illinois. She graduated from the Normal University High School in 1913, from the Illinois State Normal University in 1915, taught music in the schools of Petersburg, Illinois, during the year 1915-1916, graduated from the University of Illinois in 1918 and has been assistant principal of the Antioch Township High School since 1918. She also is a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority.

Dorothy Mildred Brand (3-6-4) was born at Alpha, Illinois. She graduated from the Normal University High School in 1914, from the Illinois State Normal University in 1917, and taught school at Centralia the following year. The next year she attended the University of Illinois, where she, too, was a member of the Delta Gamma Sorority. She married Lyndon Rutledge Wilson, August 20, 1919. (Rev. E. P. Brand). Her husband was born at Bloomington, Illinois, May 28, 1895. He graduated from the Normal University High School in 1914, and completed a course in electric engineering at the University of Illinois in 1918. At the University he was a member of the Sigma Phi Sigma, the Eta Kappa Nu (honorary electrical), and the Sigma Tau (honorary engineering) Fraternities. He has been employed by the Wisconsin River Power Company, Prairie du Sac, Wisconsin; by the Central Illinois Light Company, Peoria, Illinois; and by the Tucson, Gas, Electric Light & Power Company, Tucson, Arizona. (his present position, 1921). He is also secretary of the Southern Arizona Motor Company. They live at Tucson, Arizona, and have one child, Margaret Anna, born July 29, 1921.

Margaret Rosina Brand (3-7) married Draper Millard Riggs, son of A. Z. and Babara E. Riggs, in Monongalia County, March 23, 1890. (Rev. J. E. Darby). They live on a farm in Monongalia County, rural route No. 1, Morgantown. Children: (1) Clarence Willis, born January 10, 1891; (2) Clyde Brand, born August 25, 1893; and (3) Claude C., born December 11, 1899.

Clarence Willis Riggs (3-7-1) married Goldie Straight, daughter of Franklin and Nancy Straight, in Marion County, January 26, 1916. (Rev. D. H. Perkins). He is a worker in the oil field, and the family lives on rural route No. 2, Rivesville, West Virginia. Children: (1) Clarence Earl, born February 20, 1917; (2) Goldie Waneta, born July 25, 1918; and (3) Nellie June, born March 18, 1921.
Clyde Brand Riggs (3-7-2) entered the military service, July 21, 1918, being sent to Camp Meade, Maryland, where he was in Company C, 71st Infantry, 11th Division, called the Lafayette. When the armistice was signed he was just ready to be sent to France. He received his honorable discharge at Camp Meade, January 31, 1919. He is a farmer and lives with his father and mother.

Claude C. Riggs (3-7-3) also lives with his father and mother on the farm.

George Douglas Brand (3-8) married Alice Jane Morgan, daughter of Smallwood G. and Anarah Morgan, in Monongalia County, December 24, 1889. (Rev. J. E. Darby). His wife is a direct descendant of that David Morgan who made an early settlement near Rivesville, now in Marion County, and who was the famous Indian fighter. His brother Zacquill was the founder of Morgantown. Ephriam F. Morgan, the present Governor of West Virginia, is a member of this same Morgan family.

George Douglas Brand has been a farmer all his life but has taken considerable interest in educational affairs. At the election held on the 8th day of November, 1910, he was elected a member of the Board of Education of Grant District, receiving 232 votes. At the next election, November 3, 1914, he was elected president of the Board with 249 votes. His address is Morgantown, R. F. D. No. 2. Byron Morgan Brand (3-8-2) attended the Fairmont State Normal School and taught school for one term. He entered the military service, May 23, 1918, being sent to Columbus Barracks, then to Fort Riley, Kansas, next to Camp Custer, Michigan, and finally to Camp Sherman, Ohio. He was a member of Company C, 40th Infantry, and received his honorable discharge, September 25, 1919. He belongs to the Woodmen of the World and is a farmer.

Hazel Beryl Brand (3-8-3) married Charles Miller Brock, son of William Sanford Brock, in Monongalia County, August 23, 1919. (Rev. J. A. Adams). She taught one term of school in Monongalia County. They live near Lowsville and have one child, Mabel Bonita, born October 15, 1920.

Roxie Myrtle Brand (3-8-4) has taught several terms of school. She married Arthur Lloyd Conway, son of Joseph R. and Gracie May Conway, in Garrett County, Maryland, September 9, 1920. (Rev. S. E. Wicker.) They live on rural route No. 2, Morgantown. No children.

John McCray Brand was widely known in Monongalia County for many years. He began to take an interest in public affairs several years before the Civil War. He was appointed by the County Court one of the commissioners to hold two different elections at Laurel Point in 1853. In May, 1854, he was qualified as constable; and for the next two years he was designated by the County Court as officer for the elections at Laurel Point.

In the month of May, 1862, he was elected sheriff of the county to take up the duties of the office, January 1, 1863. His deputies were his two brothers, Edmund W. Brand and William N.*Brand. It does not appear what his salary was the first year; but on December 23, 1863, the Board of Supervisors fixed it at one hundred dollars per year for the year 1864. In addition he was to be allowed the sum of thirty dollars as jailer. The yearly salary was afterwards raised to one hundred and sixty-five dollars. He was also allowed certain fees for his attendance at court, jail fees, and pay for keeping the criminals and lunatics confined in the jail. As some of the court records for the Civil War period have been mutilated it is not possible to state with certainty the amount of his income from these various sources. But there is enough on the order books of the court to show that it was very small. For example, he was allowed ten dollars for his attendance upon the August and November terms of the Circuit Court in 1863. At that time there were four terms of court a year. For keeping the criminals and insane people he was paid at the rate of thirty-five cents a day for each one. But it appears that he did not have more than about three persons who were charged with crime during the first year, and one of these for only a day or so. It was necessary at that time to confine the lunatics of the county in jail for rather long periods, for, probably on account of conditions brought about by the war, they could not always be taken to the Insane Asylum. It appears from the records that one of these unfortunate persons was kept in the jail by Sheriff

JOHN M. BRAND AND WIFE

Brand from the beginning of his term of office until the 12th day of December, 1863. Another one was kept by him for a large part of his first year, until he took her to Indianapolis, Indiana. It was evidently the practice in his day to keep the criminals and insane persons in jail bound with chains, for the record shows that F. S. Dawson was paid for "making chains and irons and putting them on H. B. Allsup," one of the prisoners. Similar entries are on the records with respect to others who were confined in jail during his term.

The chief compensation of the sheriff, however, consisted of commissions on the taxes he collected. It does not appear what these amounted to during his term. But judging from the amount of taxes probably collected in Monongalia County at that time, they could not have been large. The records are not available to show what the taxes totaled while he was sheriff. But for the year 1874, eight years after his time expired, the total taxes for Monongalia County were only $18,000.00, about one-eighth of what is now collected in Grant District alone, and about equal to what is paid by the small town of Westover. So far as can be ascertained from the records, it seems to have been the practice in those days to give the commissions to the deputies as a compensation for their services.

In the trial of any felony case the sheriff was required not only to board and lodge the jurymen but also to pay them for their services when the case ended. He got this money refunded to him from the state treasury upon an order from the Circuit Court, which was not usually entered until the last day of the term. It is easy to see that in a long case this method would work a hardship on the sheriff.

It was during his term of office that an event happened, the like of which has never been seen in Monongalia County. April 27, 1863, a part of the Confederate army marched into the county. This date appears in connection with the following order of the County Court:

"Whereas it appears from statements made to the court that a body of Rebel Cavalry are marching on the county seat of this county, it is ordered that the clerk of the court remove the records of said court out of the reach of danger."

Alexander L. Wade was later paid an account of $44.07 for removing the records of the County Court. The records of the Circuit Court were removed by Lewis S. Layton, for which he was paid $37.00. William Corrothers received $12.00 for the use of his wagon to haul away the records. B. F. Baldwin apparently did the hauling, for he was paid $6.00 "for hauling the county records to Jesse Everly's and back to the court house."

This was one time when Sheriff Brand was unable to maintain order in the county. No attempt will be made here to describe the excitement that prevailed in the county at that time or to give an account of the raid. As nearly all the able-bodied men were then in the army, no effort was made to check the progress of the march. On this occasion, however, this member of the Brand family was more fortunate than he was in another experience he had with the Confederate army, which will be related in its place; for this time he was not captured, being the owner of a sorrel mare that was rather fleet of foot.

Before he was elected sheriff he had been a drover. The acquaintances he had made in that capacity throughout the county were probably responsible for his election to that office. He would buy hogs and cattle from the farmers and ship them to Baltimore or Philadelphia.
During his term of office and for a long time after his term had expired he devoted considerable time to this business. As Monongalia County was then without transportation facilities, his stock had to be driven over the roads to the nearest railroad point in some adjoining county. To help him in this part of his work he made use of the young boys in the neighborhood where his purchases were made; and many are the men in this county, now grown old, who can trace their first spending money to the fact that they helped John Brand drive hogs to Burton or Fairmont. In his big-hearted way he was always a friend to the boys.

In the spring of 1863 when he was on his way to Baltimore with a shipment of cattle and hogs his train was stopped at Harper's Ferry by an army of about eleven thousand Confederates at eleven o'clock at night. His cattle were confiscated and taken up the Shenandoah Valley, but his hogs were allowed to go on to Baltimore. The owner of the cattle was also taken into custody and was kept under guard one night. That night he spent on a board on the bank of the Potomac River at the Ferry where he could hear the guns rolling all around him. But his captors allowed him to go to a hotel in the morning for his breakfast. However, he managed to keep in close touch with his cattle all the time. They were taken to the farm of a man named Purdue, where they were appraised at sixty-five dollars per head, and he was given an order on the State of Virginia for their appraised value, about nine hundred dollars. It happened that he knew George Cursley, the Confederate commissary at that point, who had a brother living in Fairmont. He finally persuaded Cursley to give him two hundred and fifty dollars in United States currency. With this money tucked away in his inside pocket he left for Baltimore to look after his hogs. In a few days he came back to Harper's Ferry and tried to find somebody to cash his order. Not meeting with any success there, he went up to Charlestown, where he met a man by the name of Sadler, to whom he proposed to assign his claim at five per cent discount. But Sadler pretended that he had already bought too many such claims and could not handle one of that size. Yet when Brand offered him ten per cent discount he wrote his check on the Charlestown bank for the balance due on the order less the ten per cent. It is perhaps needless to relate that John Brand lost no time in getting to the bank. When he received his money, to use his own expression, he "skedaddled" for home, coming back on the train by way of Harrisburg to Pittsburgh and from there to Greensboro on a boat. He probably walked from that point to his home, a distance of ten or twelve miles.

John McCray Brand was a large man, tall and robust. His bearing was portly and almost dignified. He always walked with his head erect and never became stooped with age. In his later years his cane and long beard added to his venerable appearance. He was thoughtful and meditative in his conversation and was inclined to look upon the serious side of life. The jocular and mirthful trait, so characteristic of some of his brothers, notably Alexander and Norval, was only a small part of his personality. When not actively engaged in conversation his countenance usually indicated that some cogent thoughts were occupying his mind. When amused he would smile but would seldom indulge in a hearty laugh. He was far from reticent in speech and never seemed to enjoy himself better than when he was talking with some of his neighbors or friends.

He married Sarah Conn, daughter of Rev. George F. C. and Susannah Conn, in Monongalia County, June 28, 1854. (Rev. James A. Hogue). Their home was on the tract of land that formerly belonged to his Aunt Sarah Liming.
Their son George C. Brand now lives at the old homestead. John McCray Brand died on the first day of March, 1912; his wife, on the twentieth day of April, 1912. Children: (1) William Cary, born July 24, 1856; (2) George Conn, born June 27, 1859; (3) Alice, born July 8, 1862, died February 20, 1863; and (4) Harvey, born May 24, 1864.

William Cary Brand (4-1) married Mary Weaver, daughter of Joseph and Eliza Weaver, in Greene County, Pennsylvania, June 30, 1878. (Rev. J. J. Mason). He is a very successful farmer and lives in Monongalia County near Vanvoorhis. Children: (1) Elmus Lloyd, born November 20, 1881; (2) Ella J., born January 20, 1894; and (3) John Dale, born January 13, 1900.

Elmus Lloyd Brand (4-1-1) married Nellie Snider, daughter of Lindsay and Sophrona Snider, in Monongalia County, October 17, 1908. (Rev. W. H. Hart). They live in Morgantown and have no children.

Ella J. Brand (4-1-2) married Wayne Franklin Parker, son of Frank W. and Carrie E. Parker, in Monongalia County, June 23, 1917. (Rev. F. F. Briggs). He enlisted in the army, February 16, 1918, and was sent to the Pacific coast, where he became a first sergeant in the 27th Spruce Production Squadron. He received his honorable discharge at Camp Sherman, January 25, 1919. On January 1, 1922, he was appointed one of the assistant assessors of Monongalia County. They live near Vanvoorhis and have one child, Mary Kathleen, born January 10, 1920.

George Conn Brand (4-2) married Kate Boyles, daughter of William and Hester Boyles, in Monongalia County, December 17, 1881. (Rev. John Billingslea). He has always been a farmer. Sometimes he indulges in the luxury of a fox-hunt. His wife died on the 29th day of December, 1883. Harry Brand, born on the 20th day of December, 1883, is their only child.

Harry Brand (4-2-1) married Anna Beall, daughter of Columbus and Belle Beall, in Greene County, Pennsylvania, January 6, 1912. (Rev. Mossburg). He is a farmer and lives with his father at the old homestead. They have one child, Catherine Elizabeth, born January 24, 1917.

Harvey Brand (4-3) spent his early life on his father's farm in Cass District. He completed the free school course in 1881 and began teaching school the following October. Soon afterwards he entered the West Virginia University, alternating in teaching and attending college, and received his A. B. degree in 1890. He taught the following year at Cassville. In July, 1891, he was elected principal of the public schools of Morgantown, which position he held for eight successive years. For three years he was a member of the board of examiners for county teachers in Monongalia County. He was also a member of the first county school book board. In November, 1900, he received a civil service appointment and became one of the first letter carriers of Morgantown. He has been continuously in this service for twenty-one years. When he entered the civil service he was made a member of the first board of examiners in Monongalia County.

On September 23, 1893, he married Rettie N. Bussey, daughter of Jesse D. and Olive Bussey, in Monongalia County. (Rev. Ross Ward). Their home is in Morgantown. Harvey Wayland Brand, born September 6, 1896, is their only child.

Harvey Wayland Brand (4-3-1) married Adaline Oliver, daughter of Rev. W. L. Oliver, of Alexander, West Virginia, September 5, 1916. They live in Morgantown and have one son, Richard Wayland, born April 23, 1917.
Hosea Moore Brand learned the carpenter trade when he was a young man but never followed it for a livelihood. He was a farmer all his life. Having received a very limited amount of schooling, his success in life was due to hard work and perseverance. He was a man of unusual strength and physical endurance. When a young man, he was employed as a laborer on the construction of the Morgantown and Fairmont Pike, where he could throw dirt farther than any other man on the road. It is said that he once shouldered five bushels of wheat on a wager and carried it up five steps. In some lines of farm work he was exceedingly skillful. His neighbors used to say he could rake as much hay with a hand rake as any two ordinary men. In his busy seasons he was many times known to follow the plow for hours after dark, guiding his team by the light of a lantern hung on his plow handle.

In disposition, he was obliging to his neighbors and was a friend to the needy. He was not talkative, but was jovial, good-natured, and fond of a joke. In the public affairs of the county he took no active interest. But he always attended the elections and voted the straight Republican ticket.

Before he was twenty-one he bought of William Berkshire a house and one acre of ground, adjoining the farm on which his mother lived, for one hundred dollars. This was his first real estate venture. Seven years later he sold the property for twelve dollars more than he paid for it. In the year 1852, after the death of his Aunt Sarah Liming, he and his brother John undertook to buy the interests of the different heirs in her tract of land. It is likely that he made a trip to the State of Indiana on this business at that time, as a great many of the heirs lived there. However, they succeeded in getting deeds from only a few of these heirs before a suit was brought by one of them, Thomas Wade, which resulted in the land being sold at public auction, when John M. Brand alone bought it. On the 11th day of April, 1856, he bought one hundred and four acres of Denune Wade and Josephus Wade for a cash consideration of two thousand dollars. This tract of land is on the headwaters of Guston Run, adjoining the land that had been patented to his grandfather, Alexander Wade. It was a part of the home farm of Hosea M. Brand as long as he lived. His residence, however, for practically his entire married life was on an adjoining tract of sixty acres, which he first rented and finally bought of William Donley and Irene Donley, the deed being made to him on the 18th day of March, 1860. Afterwards, January 17, 1880, he bought an additional ten and a half acres of Victoria Lawlis, which became a part of his home farm. In the meantime he had become the owner of other lands. On March 30, 1870, he bought of Reason Liming, Abraham W.
James Brand (of John) 229

Tennant, Michael Core, and James V. Boughner the Deusenberry farm of one hundred and five acres for thirty-six hundred and twenty-five dollars. He bought sixty-two acres of the Cyrus W. Lawlis land, October 5, 1875, for twelve hundred dollars. Three years later he secured fourteen acres more of Leroy M. Wade, adjoining the sixty-two acre tract. His son James C. took charge of these two tracts about 1878 and lived there for seven years. On March 24, 1885, he bought of Nimrod Cole a farm of one hundred sixty-two and a half acres on the headwaters of Dent’s Run, in Grant District, and his eldest son moved there. Later, on the 16th of the following June, he made a deed to this son for the Dent’s Run farm; and on the same day, a deed to his daughter and her husband for the place where James C. formerly lived. His son Elmer was provided for, July 30, 1894, with forty-nine acres of land adjoining the Deusenberry land, which was bought of Jacob Raber, Margaret Pride, and Nancy C. Stoker, heirs of William Raber, March 7, 1891. In the case of these children, Hosea M. Brand gave each of them a substantial advancement to start them in life and afforded them a chance to pay him the balance on the land in easy payments. By his will he gave the home farm to his son Charles, his Deusenberry farm to his son Elmer, and provided that they should pay to his other two children certain sums of money. Elmer and Charles remained with him on the home farm as long as he lived.

His wife was Emaretta Weaver, who was born on the 13th day of May, 1832, a daughter of Jacob and Mary Ann Weaver. They were married on the 14th day of October, 1852. (Rev. James A. Hogue). In this Weaver family the other children that grew up were Joseph, George, James, Isaac, Sarah, Mark, Louise, and Sanford. This Joseph Weaver was the father of Mary Brand, wife of William Cary Brand, and the grandfather of Rettie Brand, wife of Harvey Brand. The father of Jacob Weaver was Joseph Weaver. Other children in his family were John, George, Joseph, Calvine Pierpont, Rebecca Ridgway, and Nancy Crumbel. This son John was the father of Rufus E. Weaver, who married Malzenia Brand. Jacob Weaver’s wife was a daughter of Col. George Cunningham, who has numerous descendants living in Morgantown.

On March 25, 1865, he bought of Mahlon Riggs one hundred and thirteen acres of land on a branch of that stream for twenty-eight hundred and twenty-five dollars. A year later he bought eighteen acres more of John H. Fetty for five hundred and forty dollars. He sold both of these tracts to Shelby P. For a large part of his life Edmund W. Brand was engaged in public service for his county and magisterial district. He served as deputy sheriff under his brother John M. Brand for four years, having charge of the collection of taxes in that part of the county west of the river. During the Civil War he was a member of Captain S. J. Cole's Company A, 15th West Virginia Militia, which was called into service under a proclamation of the Governor on two occasions, August 4, 1864, and September 30, 1864. He was elected a justice of the peace for Grant Township, October 26, 1871, took the oath of office on the 7th day of December, and gave bond in the penalty of four thousand dollars with Alexander W. Brand and Eugenius Shafer, his sureties. His term of office began on the first day of January following his election and was for four years. However, the State of West Virginia adopted a new constitution, which was ratified by the people at an election held on the 22nd day of August, 1872, and which materially changed the law in regard to the duties of a justice of the peace. From the time of the formation of the state until this constitution went into effect the duties of a justice were similar to what they now are in West Virginia. The fiscal affairs of the counties during that period were managed by a Board of Supervisors, one supervisor being elected from each township. Under the new constitution the townships were called magisterial districts and a County Court was established to take the place of the Board of Supervisors. This County Court was given a wider and more varied jurisdiction than had been exercised by the former tribunal. Its powers and duties were very much like those of the "old County Court" of pre-war days. In Monongalia County the County Court was composed of a president, elected by the voters of the whole county, and fourteen justices of the peace, two elected by the people of each district. The members of the first County Court of Monogalia County under the new arrangement were elected on the same day the new constitution was adopted by the people. Edmund W. Brand was elected one of the justices for Grant District to serve for four years. The other members of this first court were: Manliff Hayes, president, Harvey Staggers, James A. Davis, Albert C. Rude, John N. Dawson, Moses Steele, John A. Holland, Shelby P. Barker, John W. Tucker, John K. Barrickman, Simon P. Tennant, Coverdill Williams, Perry Hennen, and Peter A. Tennant. Terms of court were held in March, May, June, August, September, and December of each year. These men first met together as a court on the 24th day of March, 1873. A majority of the justices were required to be present when the county levy was laid at the August term. At other times the court was composed of the president and two justices. At the first meeting the president designated the justices who were to sit with him at each term for the entire four year period. Edmund W. Brand and Harvey Staggers were named for the June term in 1873, the August term in 1874, the September term in 1875, and the December term in 1876.

At the conclusion of his first term as justice he was again elected for another term of four years, receiving 217 votes in Grant District. His associate on the Republican ticket, Shelby P. Barker, was defeated by James E. Dent, the Democratic candidate, who received 205 votes. During his second term he was designated to sit with John Howell and the president of the court at April term in 1877, at May term in 1878, at June term in 1879, and at August term in 1880. If any justice failed to appear at the term for which he was designated the president called another one to sit in his place. But the record shows that no justice was ever called to sit in the place of Edmund W. Brand. He was there every day of his terms during his entire eight years of service.

Space will not permit of an extended account of his work as a member of this court. In those days the County Court had jurisdiction not only of actions at law but of chancery causes as well, performing a great many of the functions now exercised by our circuit courts. The fact that he was designated to sit as a member of the court only once in each year must not be taken to indicate that he had nothing to do the remainder of the time. In fact most of his time as a public official was spent outside the court room. A single example will be given here to show the nature of this outside work. On May 1, 1875, Shelby P. Barker reported to the court that the probable cost of constructing a new bridge at Laurel Point would be twelve hundred dollars. On the same day the court appointed Edmund W. Brand a commissioner to sell out the contract for the work to the lowest bidder. On the second day of August, 1875, the following order was entered:

"E. W. Brand, commissioner, this day reported to the court in writing, in pursuance of the order of the court, that he had sold out the contract for the stone work and filling the abutments of the bridge across Dent's Run near Charles W. Martin's blacksmith shop to Owen Hawker at the price of four hundred and seventy dollars and the contract for the woodwork of the same at one hundred and thirty-four dollars, to be paid when the contracts are completed. Whereupon it is ordered that the said contracts be confirmed and that said E. W. Brand superintend the construction of the said work and report to court."

On the third day of January, 1876, he reported to the court that the bridge was done.*

Many such orders are on the county records, and his activities in this respect were not confined to his own district.

About the time of the close of his second term of office a change was made in regard to the duties of the County Court and to the number of men that should compose it. Our present court, composed of three commissioners elected by the entire county for terms of six years, is the result of this change. Edmund W. Brand was elected one of these commissioners, November 6, 1888, receiving 2066 votes. Beginning the discharge of his duties on the first day of January, 1889, he served the entire term and was president of the court during the years 1892 and 1893.

He also served as a member of the Board of Education of Grant District from 1875 to 1877 and was president of the Board in 1881 and 1882. For many years he was a member of the Zoar Baptist church. He was a man of excellent judgment and of pleasing personality. During the time of his public service his farm was not neglected. He was regarded as one of the best farmers in his neighborhood.

He married Elizabeth F. Shafer in Monongalia County, April 16, 1861. (Rev. G. F. C. Conn). He died, December 25, 1898; his wife, September 2, 1910. Children: (1) Franklin Milroy, born February 16, 1862; (2) Anna Belle, born March 20, 1866; (3) William Harvey, born October 23, 1867; and (4) Mary Ella, born March 5, 1875.

William Harvey Brand (10-3) served as deputy sheriff under M. S. Garrison from 1897 to 1901. Later, on the third day of November, 1908, he was elected sheriff of the county, receiving 2670 votes, and served in that capacity for four years as one of the most efficient and popular officials the county has ever had. He was elected president of the Board of Education of Morgan District, November 3, 1914, with 274 votes and served for four years. At the earnest solicitation of his many friends he consented to become a candidate for county commissioner at the election in 1918. This time he received 3069 votes and was elected without opposition. In the meantime he had become a farmer on an extensive scale and he soon found that his duties as a member of the court were taking too much of his time from his farming duties. Consequently he resigned the commissionership on the 5th day of January, 1921. Since that time he has been devoting his entire time to his farm. He has been president of the Monongalia County Farm Bureau since its organization in 1916. For several years he has been a member of the board of directors of two of the largest banks in Morgantown, the Farmers and Merchants Bank and the Bank of Morgantown. He is a member of the Baptist church and of the Knights of Pythias. They live near Morgantown and have one child, Donald Wilbourn, born December 15, 1916.

Dessie Nadine Brand (10-3-2) married Carl Kinnan, son of Thomas W. and Dora Kinnan, in Monongalia County, September 24, 1919. (Rev. F. F. Briggs). He entered the army, May 15, 1918; sailed for France, September 1; and took part in the Meuse-Argonne offensive from October 26 to November 11, 1918. Returning to the United States on the 20th day of March, he received his honorable discharge at Camp Meade, April 9, 1919. He was a member of Company E, 27th Engineers. Willis Delmont Brand (10-3-4) is an athlete of some distinction. He was elected captain of the football team of the Morgantown High School for the year 1921. But before the beginning of the school term he decided to attend Fork Union Military Academy at Fork Union, Virginia. His work as a player at this school his first year resulted in his selection as captain of the team for the coming year (1922). At the same school he has also distinguished himself as a baseball player.

Elza Prater Brand was a member of Captain Francis B. Richardson's company of the 14th Militia during the Civil War. He married Maria Morris, daughter of Ezekiel and Sarah Morris, in Monongalia County, September 15, 1864. (Rev. G. F. C. Conn). For several years they made their home in Monongalia County on a tract of land between the headwaters of Doll's Run and Indian Creek. Ezekiel Morris conveyed this farm of forty-seven and a half acres to Maria Brand on the 5th day of January, 1870. Two years later Elza P. Brand bought seventy-four acres more adjoining this of Shelby P. Barker. On the 7th day of January, 1876, he sold the Barker farm to Ezra Shuman. The other tract was, on the 28th day of March, 1883, conveyed to David L. Wade, who still owns it. Soon after this the Elza P. Brand family removed to Marion County.

Like his brother John, he was for many years engaged in the business of buying and shipping live stock. In the course of his active life he traveled over portions of Monongalia and Marion Counties every year, gathering sheep and hogs. He had a wide acquaintanceship in both counties.

Sometimes in his travels he would stop for a night at the home of some of his relatives; and he was always a welcome guest. A visit from him meant a pleasant evening, for he was undoubtedly the most talkative member in the James Brand family. His chief characteristic was the manner in which the words flowed from his tongue. The rapidity and fluency of his conversation was such as to excite wonder in the minds of youthful listeners. After his visits it was no uncommon occurrence to find some of the children amusing the rest by trying to talk like "Uncle Elza." His talk was not idle or foolish, but interesting and entertaining. He always had something worth while to say and said it in his own matchless way.

The last days of his life were spent in Marion County at the home of his son James, where his death occurred on the 27th day of September, 1919. His wife died on the 18th day of June, 1911. After being transferred to the federal service he was attached to the 113th Ammunition Train, 38th Division, in September, 1917. He trained at Camp Shelby until July 10, 1918, when he was sent to Clintonville, Wisconsin, to assist in convoysing trucks to the Atlantic coast at Raritan Arsenal, N. Y. After making two of these trans-continental trips he sailed for overseas, October 6, 1918, and landed at Liverpool, England, eleven days later. He went to France about a week afterwards. On the 12th day of November he entrained for Marseilles to be placed on duty near the front. From that time until the 27th of December he was with the S. O. S. convoysing into the advance sectors. On December 31, 1918, he returned to

On the 21st day of May, 1888, she married Jasper Newton Arnett, son of James and Rachel Arnett, in Monongalia County. (Rev. J. H. Burns.) They made their home near Rivesville in Marion County. Her husband died about the year 1900, and after his death she returned to the old homestead, where she made her home with the family of Franklin Milroy Brand as long as she lived. She had no children. Her death occurred on the 19th day of May, 1921. Her demise marked the passing from life of the last grandchild of John Brand.
THE TWO YOUNGEST CHILDREN AND 27 GRANDCHILDREN OF JAMES BRAND.

WILLIAM BRAND (SON OF JOHN BRAND)

William Brand, the youngest son of John Brand, died in early manhood. He was preparing himself for the medical profession. The exact date of his death is not known. It was probably about 1815. It appears that fitting tribute to his memory was given by the other members of the John Brand family. With a single exception, that of Margaret Barns, he had a namesake in every family.
AGNES (NANCY) BRAND (DAUGHTER OF JOHN BRAND)

The name of the youngest daughter of John Brand is written "Agness" in the family record, but she was always called Nancy. She wrote her name "Nancy Mercer" when she signed the appraisement list of her husband's estate, February 1, 1830. She married Abner Mercer, October 26, 1814. He was a son of Robert and Elizabeth Mercer. The following record of the children in the Robert Mercer family has been furnished by Prof. E. E. Mercer:

I did not discover this Mideon Peden Mercer family "until the last day in the afternoon." Having made investigations in practically all the counties of Illinois and in many places in several other states, I had given up all hope of finding these people, when, on the third day of May, 1922, Sarah A. Wright informed me she had a photograph of a part of the Mideon Peden Mercer family, taken at Goodland, Kansas. This picture is shown above. The next day she found some old letters written by her Uncle Mideon Peden to her father from Elliott, Iowa. These enabled me in a few days to locate some of the living members of the family. Practically all the persons connected with this family have been very prompt in furnishing information. Julia Hoyt, Mrs. J. W. Mercer, and Mrs. J. J. Mercer are deserving of special mention for the interest they have shown in the matter.

He was sent to the Base School at St. Aignan (Loir et Cher) on the 8th day of October, 1918, where he remained until the 19th day of December, 1918. On that date he was sent to a casual company and remained a casual until his discharge. He sailed from Marseilles, June 10, 1919, and arrived at Camp Mills, June 27, where he was honorably discharged.

Bertram Longfellow Mercer (7-5) graduated from the Fairmont State Normal School and entered the ministry of the M. E. church. His first assignment was to Halleck in Monongalia County, where he remained for three years. He was forced to retire from his charge on account of failing health. His wife was Mollie E. Taylor, whom he married on the 15th day of September, 1895. Their only child died in infancy. His last days were spent at the home of his wife’s parents on the South Branch of the Potomac, where his death occurred, December 2, 1898.

The number of living descendants of John Brand, classified by families, appears in this book to be as follows: George Brand, 200; Margaret Barns, 257; Jane Lough, 199; John Brand, 52; James Brand, 276; and Nancy Mercer, 336. These total 1320, including 9 for the daughters of Jane Jolliffe, 2 for Samuel Evans, 4 for Elizabeth Hamilton, 3 for David Mercer, and 3 for Mary Jane Mewhirter. Classifying them by generations, there seem to be 89 of the fourth (great-grandchildren), 435 of the fifth, 692 of the sixth, and 104 of the seventh generation.

The 104 members of the seventh generation are to be found in the families of 15 of the grandchildren of John Brand as follows: Joshua Brand, 17; John Barns, 2; Nancy Finley, 10; Julia A. Brown, 10; Jane Davis, S; Mary Davis, 3; Jane Jolliffe, 8; George Lough, 1; John Lough, 4; Hester Evans, 1; Sarah Jane Thomas, 2; Alexander W. Brand, 1; Alphens Newton Mercer, 7; Mideon Peden Mercer, 27; and John B. Mercer, 1. The oldest living representative of this generation is William Frederick Mefer, born November 9, 1905.

Of the 33 grandchildren of John Brand,—this being the number that had families,—Mideon Peden Mercer has the largest number of living descendants, at least 167. The record among the great-grand-children is held by Narcissa Young, with a family of 66. John Wesley Anderson, of the next generation, has the largest family, 9 children and 11 grandchildren. Clara Belle Eddleman and Stella Apgar are tied for honors in the sixth generation with five children each.

Mary Sue Boston and Mertie Hughes Ware each have 11 living children, the largest number living in any single family. 14 children (both living and dead) in the family of Mary Sue Boston constitute the largest family mentioned in this book.
PART II.

JAMES BRAND

The first record we have been able to find with respect to James Brand is found in Volume 2 of the Pennsylvania Archives, 6th Series, at page 335. It is here shown that he served in the Westmoreland County militia from October 16, 1781, to October 25, 1781, in a company of ten men, whose names were Wm. Sparks, captain, And. Byers, Sam'l Byers, James Allen, Wm. McMillen, James Brand, John McClean, Isaac Pollock, Nich's Dawson, and Joseph Sterrett. Under the name of James Brann he is also listed in Captain Joseph Pearce's Company of Rangers of the Frontiers between the years 1778 and 1783, in the Pennsylvania Archives, Vol. 23, 6th Series, at page 318, together with a number of other men, including Andrew Byars, James Allen, and William McMillan, named above. In the same volume of the Archives he is again listed under the same name as a Ranger of the Frontiers, at page 286. He was probably engaged in the service at two different times. But there is no record of the kind of service performed. In Volume 4 of the Pennsylvania Archives, 5th Series, at page 736, the name of James Brann occurs as a private in the Continental Line from Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania.

According to a tradition in the family he lived on Redstone Creek, near Fort Burd, in Westmoreland County. This agrees with what has already been said with respect to the residence of his brother John Brand. Both evidently lived in the same community. James Brand was listed for taxation in Franklin Township of that county in the year 1783, the return showing that he had 100 acres of land, 2 horses, 1 cow, and no sheep, and that there were three persons in his family. For the years 1785 and 1786 he was assessed with a state tax in Franklin Township of Fayette County, which was formerly a part of Westmoreland. This is all the Pennsylvania Archives show in regard to him. His name does not appear on the records of either Westmoreland County or Fayette County. He, too, probably had only a "Tomahawk Right" to his land on Redstone Creek.

There is a tradition in the family that James Brand was in the Battle of Brandywine during the Revolutionary War, where he was wounded. But extended research in the Congressional Library at Washington and elsewhere has failed to confirm this.

He undoubtedly came to Monongalia County, Virginia, two or three years before his brother John. He is not listed in the census record of Fayette County for the year 1790. On the 12th day of December, 1787, as assignee of James Ferry, he had a survey made for 400 acres of land about three miles from Morgantown on the headwaters of a little stream, which has since been known as Brand's Run. In accordance with this survey a patent was issued to him on the third day of September, 1788.

EDMUND RANDOLPH, Esquire, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia:

Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty-Eight, and of the Commonwealth the thirteenth.

(Seal) Edm. Randolph.

On the 17th day of June, 1810, he had this land resurveyed to include about 18 acres of surplus land; and another patent was granted to him in accordance with this survey, calling for 418 acres, March 1, 1814. On the margin of the record showing this patent at Charleston, West Virginia, is endorsed "del'd to Mr. Sam'l Brand, the bearer to West, May 24, 1814." His home was on this tract of land as long as he lived in Monongalia County.

Nearly all the Monongalia County records were destroyed by fire in 1796. But the records of surveys and some of the Superior Court records were saved. The following is a copy of the first court record in the county containing the name of James Brand:

"At a Superior Court held for the District composed of the Counties of Harrison, Monongalia, Ohio, and Randolph, at Monongalia Court House, on Tuesday, the 21st day of September, 1790. Present the Honorable Spencer Roane, Judge.

"The Commonwealth vs. Jesse Martin, Charles Martin, David Scott, and William Martin upon an indictment for an assault and riot.

"This day came as well the attorney for the Commonwealth as the defendants by their attorney, and thereupon came a jury, to-wit: William John, Smallwood Wilson, Aaron Henry, John Doyle, James Dunkan, Edward Pindall, Samuel Lewellen, Ezekiel Yourk, Boos Burrows, James Tibbs, James Brand, and Michael Carnes, who, being elected, tried, and sworn the truth to speak upon the issue joined, and having heard the evidence, upon their oaths do say that the defendants Jesse Martin, Charles Martin, and David Scott are guilty in manner and form as in the indictment against them alleged and do assess the amercement against the said defendants, the said Charles Martin to eight pounds, the said Jesse Martin to eight pounds, and the said David Scott to eight pounds, and the said William Martin not guilty ———.

Afterwards he served in the capacity of a juryman on many occasions, which shows that in the opinion of the public officials of the county he was a man that stood for law and order. Judging from the court records of those days, it appears that it required considerable fortitude to maintain peace and good order in the county, the administration of justice being somewhat hampered occasionally. The proceedings had in the District Court in the case of one Charles Donaldson will serve to illustrate this point. On the 20th day of September, 1796, the following order was entered:

"It appearing to the court that an attempt may be made to rescue Charles Donaldson, a prisoner indicted for murder, it is ordered that the sheriff summon a guard of fifty men over him, and, if necessary, that he call the whole force of the county of Monongalia to his assistance, and it is further ordered that he do not permit any person to go into the jail, except the prisoner's counsel."
On the same day John Tibbs came into court and stated that he had seen John Odewalt, one of the guards of the jail, give the prisoner a pistol. Oldewalt was then taken into custody and sent to jail. The court also required John Tibbs and Richard Bell to enter into a recognizance in the penalty of one hundred pounds to appear before the grand jury on the next day as witnesses against Odewalt. When the time arrived for court to convene on the following morning it was found that Jesse Martin, one of the grand jurors who had indicted Donaldson on the previous day, was not present. He was ordered to pay a fine of thirty dollars, unless he appeared on or before the first day of the next term to explain his absence. John Fairfax was called and sworn as a grand juror in his place.

When the court proceeded to get a jury for the Donaldson trial it was discovered that Jurdin Hall, who had been summoned as a petit juror, had failed to appear. The court ordered him fined six dollars, unless he should appear and show good cause to the contrary. The following men were then called to serve on this murder case: Asa Dudley, Daniel Sayres, Frederick Guise, James Smallwood Wilson, Robert Hill, Thomas Lazzell, Elihu Horton, James Brand, Charles Snodgrass, and Philip Shively. This jury found Donaldson guilty on the same day, which was the next day after he was indicted. He had been in the custody of the jailer under guard since the 20th day of May, 1796. During the same term of court, however, his attorney made a motion that judgment on the verdict be not entered against him for the reason that the charge of "choaking, strangling, and suffocating William Donaldson" was not sufficiently stated in the indictment. The court took time to consider this motion and continued the case until the next term, Donaldson being recommitted to jail. On the last day of the term of the court there was an order entered allowing pay for fifty men as guards over Donaldson for one day. In addition to these, the following men also received pay for several days as guards over him: John Plom, seven days; John Gallagher, seven days; William McCray, seven days; Joseph Jennings, fourteen days; Jacob Boyers, twenty-five days; John Odewalt, thirty-one days; James S. Smith, thirty-two days; Anderson Spencer, fifty-seven days; Edward Grayham, sixty-seven days; Ananias Hutson, seventy-three days; and James Scott, seventy-seven days. The pay was fifty cents a day.

At the following May term the court sustained the motion made at the previous term, which had the effect of setting aside everything that had been done in the case. But Donaldson was again sent back to jail to await the action of the grand jury, which was then in session. He was again indicted, tried by another jury, and again convicted. The court sentenced him to be hanged on the 19th day of the following June. The last chapter in this famous case, from which it appears that James Brand had no conscientious scruples against inflicting the death penalty, was apparently written on the 19th day of September, 1797, when the court allowed Robert Ferrell, the sheriff of the county, an account of $10.00 "for erecting the gallos for the execution of Charles Donaldson".

On the 11th day of October, 1796, Edward Evans, James Brand, and Peter Hess were appointed to view and lay out a road from James Brand's up the run from the said Brand's past Jacob Pindall's so as to intersect the old road near Isaac Lemasters's. Again on the 10th day of April, 1798, Dudley Evans, Samuel Smyth, and James Brand were appointed to view and lay out another road from the new road leading by John Dent's mill to intersect the Indian Creek road. On Monday, the 11th day of April, 1803, he was present at the election held by Sheriff Russell Potter, above referred to, and voted for Thomas Wilson for Congress, and for Dudley Evans and William G. Payne for Assembly. He became bondsman for James Robinson and Ann Robinson, as administrators of the estate of James Robinson, deceased, June 11, 1804. He was also present at the sale of this man's property, in 1804, where he bought a pair of chains for ninety-six cents. The County Court appointed him surveyor of a road on the 9th day of June, 1807, to take the place of Edward Evans. On the 8th day of August, 1808, the following order was entered by the County Court:

"Ordered that Sarah McAllister, an orphan girl, be bound unto James Brann until she arrives to the age of 18 years and that Calder Haymond perfect the indentures."

The County Court, June 13, 1814, appointed Adam Camp, James Brand, and James Robinson to appraise the personal estate of Humphrey B. Wilson. Later, on the 12th day of October, 1818, Dudley Evans, James Robinson, and James Brand were appointed to make the settlement of the administrator of this estate.

What has already been said with respect to conditions as they existed in Monongalia County in the days of John Brand will apply equally well to James Brand. These two brothers lived in the same neighborhood, their farms being about one mile apart. How closely they were associated in the affairs of life we are unable to say. However, there are a few matters on the public records to indicate that they may have called upon each other for favors occasionally. They were probably two of the bondsmen for George D. Barns, in the case heretofore mentioned. In the year 1825 a judgment for twenty-five dollars in favor of Wm. A. Harrison and James Pindall, was entered at rules in the clerk's office against James Brand "and his appearance bail John Brand"; and on the same day another for the same amount, the same parties being plaintiffs, was entered in the same manner against John Brand "and his appearance bail James Brand’. But it may be that these defendants were some of the younger members of the family.

James Brand was probably a member of the Presbyterian church, as we find that two of his sons were brought up in that faith. But his name is not found in any of the early Presbyterian church histories of that day.

He was twice married; but no record of either marriage has been found. His first wife lived until about the year 1818, as it appears that she joined in a deed made by her husband on the 7th day of September, 1817. He made deeds to three of his sons on the 11th day of September, 1819, in which no wife joined, which indicates that his wife was not living at that time. The name of his first wife cannot be stated with certainty. Most of the older members of the family say she was an Elliott; but Dr. Charles B. Brand thinks her maiden name was Musgrave. There must have been some relationship between the Musgrave and Brand families, for the descendants of John Camp, whose wife was a Musgrave, claim to this day that there was a connection between the two families. The Christian name of this wife of James Brand is also a matter of some speculation. The four deeds made by her husband, in which she joined, give her name in a variety of ways. In the deed to David Scott, dated September 15, 1806, her name is written Elizabeth in one place and Elice in two others. Her signature was always by mark. In the deed to Jeremiah Hoskinson, dated June 13, 1808, the name is written Elecie, Elsey, and Alice. The next deed, June 11, 1810, to Isaac Van Camp shows the name Alee and Alice. In the last one in which she joined, being a deed to Joseph Lowry, her name is written Alice in every place where it occurs. In this instance she made the letter ‘‘A’’ for a mark. The members of the family write her name Ailse, which is said to be the Scotch equivalent of Alice. This wife was the mother of all the children of James Brand.
The History of the Upper Monongahela Valley, written by Dr. James M. Callahan and Bernard L. Butcher, shows that the second wife of James Brand was Mary Dudley, a daughter of Samuel Dudley. She was born at Saybrook, Connecticut, in the year 1761, and died in 1843.

James Brand evidently died in the first part of the year 1836. In addition to what is shown by his will, the deed of Samuel Brand to John Brand, made in compliance with one provision of this will, indicates that his death took place before the 25th day of February. He was probably about two years younger than his brother John. According to the best information obtainable, his body was laid to rest in the "Old Presbyterian Burying Ground", now known as the Burnt Meeting House Cemetery, which was not far from his home. His grave cannot now be located with certainty. It is said that the grave stones which originally marked the spot were of sandstone and that time has erased the markings.

The following county Court order, under date of May 23, 1836, relates to the will of James Brand:

"The last will and testament of James Brand, dec'd., was this day produced in court, duly proven by the oath of Thomas Hamilton and Francis M. Brand, witnesses thereto, and ordered to be recorded."

COPY OF THE WILL OF JAMES BRAND

I, James Brand, of the County of Monongalia and Commonwealth of Virginia, being weak in body but of sound mind and disposing memory, being desirous to dispose of such earthly estate as it hath pleased God to bless me with, I do hereby make and ordain this my last will and testament in manner and form following, that is to say: 1. After the payment of all my just debts and funeral expenses
I give to wife Mary Brand and Joseph Brand, my son, all my estate both real and personal, that is during her natural life and after her decease my will and desire is that my real estate and personal estate shall be enjoyed by my son Joseph Brand and his heirs forever.

2. Whereas, in pursuance of a former agreement, I desire that my son Samuel Brand should convey by deed to my son John Brand seven acres of land in the sugar camp he formerly occupied.

3. If the above mentioned estate should not be sufficient for the support of wife Mary Brand, my will and desire is that my sons John Brand and Samuel Brand each should bear one third part in supporting her in the decline of life.

4. I wish to be understood that out of my real estate I have conveyed to my son John Brand ninety-three acres of land, and also to my son James Brand I have conveyed twelve acres of land, and also to Samuel Brand, my son, I have conveyed one hundred and thirty-four acres of land, which I consider as their part of my estate.

5. And lastly, I do hereby ordain and appoint my two sons Samuel Brand and Joseph Brand executors of this my last will and testament, and hereby revoking all other wills and testaments heretofore by me made. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal this nineteenth day of August, in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Eight Hundred and Thirty-Four.

mark
Signed, sealed, and delivered and acknowledged in the presence of Thomas Hamilton and Francis M. Brand.

Although he signed by mark in this instance, there are many papers on file in the County Clerk's office, which show his signature in a plain, legible hand.

James Brand had four sons: (1) John, born in 1782 or 1783; (2) James, born January 29, 1787; (3) Samuel, born March 18, 1793; and Joseph A., the date of whose birth is not known. Dr. Charles B. Brand thought there was a daughter in the family, named Mary, who died in infancy. But the other members of the family make no mention of her.
JOHN BRAND (SON OF JAMES BRAND).

John Brand, the eldest son of James Brand, was born in Pennsylvania in 1782 or 1783. The record of his death furnishes the only means we have of arriving at the date of his birth. He spent most of his life in Monongalia County, living on a farm. The first time his name appears on the county records is in an order of the County Court, dated July 4, 1807, which is as follows:

"Ordered that Edward Evans, Jr., Joseph O'Neal, and John Brand be appointed to view and lay out a road from the little falls on the Monongalia River to intersect the road leading from Morgan Town to Papaw, the nearest and best way, and report to September court next."

The next time is an order of the court, February 13, 1809, requiring him and several other men to work under Joseph O'Neal on the public highway from the Little Falls road to the Papaw road. On May 28, 1821, he was appointed surveyor of the road from his residence to the Monongahela River below Little Falls to take the place of James Robinson. He held this position one year, George Robinson being appointed to succeed him. On May 23, 1825, he was given charge of the road from the forks near Isaac Camp's to Enoch Scott's. He may have acted in a similar capacity afterwards. But as there were three John Brands in the county it is often difficult to distinguish them on the records. The people of that day distinguished them by calling this man "Hill John," since he lived on a hill overlooking the Monongahela River.

On September 11, 1819, he received a deed from his father for ninety-three acres of land. He bought thirty-three and three-fourths acres more of Aaron Tichenor, April 11, 1829, for one hundred and fifty dollars. In accordance with the will of their father, his brother Samuel conveyed to him an additional seven acres on the 25th day of February, 1836. On the third day of February, 1865, the portion of his brother Joseph’s estate, which he inherited, was assigned to him, being twenty-nine and one-half acres.

The seven acres which Samuel Brand conveyed to him he sold to Henry Potter, February 4, 1860, for one hundred and fifty dollars. On the same day he conveyed to his son, Josephus Jackson, all of the Tichenor tract. The balance of his real estate was partitioned among his six children after his death.

No record of his marriage has been discovered. John A. Brand, son of Amaziah Ward Brand, said his grandmother was Rachel Ellet; but practically all her grandchildren who are now living say that her maiden name was Boggs and that she had a brother John Boggs, who visited the Brand family in this county many years ago. She was raised at Falling Springs in Greenbrier County. She died on the 10th day of October, 1847, at the age of fifty-six years. John Brand died on the 12th day of March, 1869. His daughter, Martha, gave the information in regard to his death, which was recorded at the Court House. According to her statement he was aged eighty-five years and eight months at the time of his death. But the inscription on his grave stone says his age was eighty-six years and six months. Eugenius Shafer was appointed administrator of his estate on the 7th day of June, 1869. The sale of his personal estate was on the 17th day of June. He made no will.

The children in this family were: (1) James Ellet; (2) Francis Marvel; (3) Martha; (4) Amaziah Ward; (5) Josephus Jackson; and (6) Sarah Elizabeth.
James Ellet Brand was probably born about the year 1808. The county records show that he and his brother Francis Marvel entered into a contract with Isaac Van Camp for the purchase of ten acres of land on the 7th day of November, 1831. Francis Marvel was probably over twenty-one years old at that time; and all the older members of the family say that James Ellett was the oldest child in the family.

On the 5th day of May, 1838, James Ellet and Frances Marvel bought of Samuel Dudley a tract of land along the Monongahela River, supposed to contain one hundred acres, for two hundred and fifty dollars. This land lies near the farm formerly owned by their father. James Ellet had his home on this tract while he lived in Monongalia County, the site of his residence being near the point where the Hildebrand station on the Monongahela Railroad now is. His house was the stopping place for many river men who were engaged in transporting timber down the river.

After the death of his father, James Ellet received twenty-one and one-half acres of land, which was assigned to him under an agreement, dated December 31, 1869, and signed by all the heirs, appointing James Evans, Silas Wisman, and Justinian P. Thorn to make the partition. He sold this land to John A. Brand, who in turn sold it to Jacob P. Coombs.

*His name is written here as it is given by the members of his family and as it occurs in most of the county records. However, it appears from one deed he made that he wrote his name “James Elliott”. This may be taken to indicate that he was named for his grandmother as well as his grandfather. We find in the family of James Brand (son of John) that the son who was given his grandfather’s name took for his middle name the maiden name of his grandmother, John McCray Brand. Carrying the analogy still further, we infer from the names that the father of “James Elliott” was named for his Uncle John, and the father of “John McCray” for his Uncle James.
His wife was Susannah Rice, a daughter of Frederick Rice, whom he married in the year 1831; but no record of the marriage has been discovered. About the year 1880 they went to live in Wood County, West Virginia, where his death occurred on the 16th day of April, 1881. If the information shown by the record at Parkersburg in regard to his death is correct, he was born before the year 1808; for this record states that he was seventy-five years old at the time of his death. Moreover, his son Frederick Marshall claims he was seventy-six years old on the 15th of the preceding September. The record as kept by his daughter, Rachel Henry, shows he died on the Francis Marvel Brand, according to the best information obtainable, was born on the 8th day of June, 1810, although some members of his family place the date of his birth as late as 1815. But this is hardly probable, for he served on a jury in Monongalia County, November 19, 1834, and had previously entered into a contract for the purchase of ten acres of land from Isaac Van Camp, as heretofore stated, on the 7th of November, 1831.

He was a farmer all his life. His name occurs quite frequently in the records of public sales in Monongalia County. At the sale of Boaz Burrows's property, 1836, he bought two augers for $0.50; a drawknife for $0.37½ and a sieve for $1.00. At Adam Camp's sale, June 25, 1842, he bought three shoats for $0.87½, and one white hog for $1.14. He also bought nine hogs at Robert Robe's sale, 1846, for $8.95.

Under date of March 27, 1843, we find the following order on the County Court records:

"On motion of Francis M. Brand, ———— a certificate is granted him to obtain letters of administration of the personal estate of Frederick Rice, deceased, he having taken the oath prescribed by law and entered into bond in the penalty of one thousand dollars with John Brand and John Brand (blacksmith), his sureties, ————".
Another order of the County Court, dated on the 24th day of February, 1845, is as follows:

"This day came Jacob Shafer, Peter Gilmore, and others, and filed their petition ——. Whereupon it is ordered that Marvel Brand, Ellet Brand, and Rawley Evans be appointed to view and mark out a route for a road from the finger board at Hostutler’s blacksmith shop, down a run past Thomas Pratt’s and Peter Gilmore’s, and past Jacob Shafer’s to strike the Monongahela River below James Kern’s mill ————."

On May 25, 1846, he was appointed surveyor of the road from the forks of the road near Joseph Brand’s past James Robinson’s to Jesse Thorn’s lane to take the place of Jacob Coombs. He resigned the next year and Elijah Waters was appointed in his place.

Although not known to be connected with the Bussey family in any way, he is mentioned in the will of one Jesse Bussey, which bears date the 28th day of June, 1848, as follows:

"Item 8th. My desire is that after my decease that my executors shall have the graves where my wife now lies and where I wish to be buried to be enclosed with strong locust posts and good boards sixteen feet long and ten feet wide. I also wish Francis M. Brand to do the work."

He married Catharine Rice, who was born in the year 1821, daughter of Frederick Rice, in Monongalia County, June 14, 1840. (Rev Alexander Summers). Their home, while they lived in Monongalia County, was near that of his brother James Ellet in the neighborhood where his grandfather had settled. He bought fifteen acres of the Frederick Rice land, which he sold to John Camp, March 6, 1862. The part of his father's land which was assigned to him in the partition, he sold to John A. Brand; and, as John A. Brand had sold it to Jacob P. Coombs, the heirs of Francis M. Brand made the deed to Coombs in 1874. The family moved to Wood County, West Virginia, probably soon after the Civil War, and located on the Little Kanawha River. Francis M. Brand died in that county on the 18th day of August, 1873. His wife lived until September 3, 1894. Children: (1) Malissa, born October 12, 1842; (2) Rachel, born April 12, 1844; (3) John Franklin, born June 2, 1845; (4) Martha, died in childhood; (5) George Harvey, born November 8, 1849; (6) Nancy Ellen, born June 20, 1852; and (7) Charlotte Melvina, born September 30, 1853.

Malissa Brand (241) married Levi Weekley, son of Thomas Weekley, in Greene County, Pennsylvania, December 25, 1859. Levi Weekley enrolled for service in the Union army at Morgantown, being mustered in at Wheeling, September 3, 1862. He was a member of Company D, 3rd West Virginia Cavalry, being mustered out as a corporal, June 6, 1865. James R. Utt was commissioned captain of this company, October 22, 1862. He was killed at Piedmont Station, Fauquier County, Virginia, May 16, 1863. On the next day George W. McVicker, the same man who was afterwards sheriff of Monongalia County, was made captain. The following account of the activities of this company, which traveled over 3,000 miles, is taken from the State Archives at Charleston, written by some member of the Third West Virginia Cavalry:

"April 22, 1864. Upon the above date we marched from Charleston, West Virginia, to Logan Court House, from which place we went upon a scout to Twelve Pole Creek; thence to the Trace Fork and down it to Pigeon Creek, in four miles of the Big Sandy, where we crossed the chain of Guyandotte Mountains at a place where they were almost insuperable; and killed Captain Smith and captured three of his men. We were thirty-

Some difficulties are met with in regard to the date of the birth of John Franklin. The family record shows the second day of June, 1844. When he entered the army, September 3, 1862, he gave his age as eighteen. The record of his marriage at Parkersburg shows that he was twenty-three at that time. Rachel Golden, who was still living when this information was obtained, said John Franklin was two years younger than herself. It seems well established that she was born on the 12th day of April, 1844. In view of all the circumstances it has seemed best to compromise on the date here given.) six hours out in which we did not rest or feed, the suffering of our men being very severe. And coming into camp at 11 P. M., we joined General Averill’s command, and started early next morning to Wythesville, Virginia, some two hundred miles away. At Cove Mountain Gap, four and one-half miles from the above named place, we engaged the enemy in superior numbers under General Morgan. We led the charge; the battle continued some four hours on the 10th of May. On the 13th we led the charge at Lake Mountain. On June 13th, we engaged at Lexington; the 14th, at Buckhannon; the 18th, at Lynchburg; the 21st, at Liberty; July 20th, at Winchester; July 24th, at Winchester; and on the 25th, at Martinsburg. On the 7th day of August, we led the charge at Moorefield, crossed the river under heavy fire, and drove McCausland, and gained a great victory. On the 31st, we engaged at Martinsburg; on September 6th, at Bunker’s Hill; on the 19th, at Winchester; on the 21st and 22nd, at Fisher’s Hill; and on the 23rd, at Mount Jackson. On the 27th, we engaged and charged the enemy and drove the left, and saved General Custer, who was coming to take command of the division at Port Republic. On the 19th day of October, we engaged at Cedar Creek, Virginia; on the 26th, at Flint Hill; November 12th, at Nineveh, near Front Royal; and on the 22nd, at Rude’s Hill, Virginia, near Mount Jackson.”

JAMES BRAND (SON OF JAMES BRAND)

The home of this James Brand for several years was no doubt on the twelve acres of land he received from his father in 1819. In accordance with the prevailing custom of those days, this son, having a trade, did not receive as much land as his brothers. He sold this small tract to his nephew, Amaziah Ward Brand, in 1842. But he probably continued to live in that section of the county after that date, as the County Court records show that he was appointed surveyor of the road to succeed Amaziah Ward Brand, May 25, 1846. In the year 1852 he bought one acre of land on Little Indian Creek, which he conveyed to Alfred C. Barker on the 8th day of March, 1867, in part payment for a tract of forty-two acres which he got from Barker on the 23rd day of June, 1866. This place, which is now known as the Loar farm, was the home of James Brand for the remainder of the time he lived in Monongalia County. He sold the farm to David P. Thorn, October 1, 1869. The last record we have been able to find in Monongalia County with respect to this James Brand is a release of the lien retained for the payment of the balance of the purchase money on this tract of land, signed by him on the 14th day of April, 1880, in Vernon County, Missouri, which shows that he was still able to write his name, although he was then over ninety-three years old. The exact date of his removal to the State of Missouri is not known, but it was probably soon after he sold his home in Monongalia County.

He was a wheelwright, which earned for him the name of "Wheelwright Jimmy," given to him by his neighbors to distinguish him from the other James Brands. He made the small spinning wheels for flax, known as the Virginia wheel, one of which, made in his shop near Laurel

Moreover, the large spinning wheels, used for wool, reels, winding blades, and other such articles came within the scope of his handiwork. It is said that he also manufactured for the people of his day many articles of furniture of the finest walnut. Among the papers pertaining to the settlement of estates of that period may be found many receipts similar to the following:

"Received of John Lough, administrator, five dollars for making his mother's coffin. December 30, 1820. James Brand."

In short, he was a mechanic of extraordinary skill.

In religion he was a Presbyterian, very devout, never breaking bread without returning thanks in a quiet and impressive manner. He was kind to his family, true to his friends, and obliging to his neighbors. In political matters he was affiliated with the Democratic party. According to Wiley's history of Monongalia County, page 489, he was a private in Captain Jesse Ice's company in the War of 1812. He was recommended to the Executive of the Commonwealth for ensign in the 118th Regiment of Virginia Militia, June 10, 1816, but it appears that he refused to serve. On May 7, 1815, he married Sarah Burrows, daughter of Boaz and Bridget (Willey) Burrows, in Monongalia County. Rev. Joseph A. Shackleford was the minister who performed the ceremony. The father of Bridget Willey was William Willey, one of the earliest settlers of Monongalia County. On September 12, 1796, he bought of David Watkins four hundred acres of land where the village of Cassville now is. A part of this farm is now owned by Herbert W. Fleming, a grandson of Leven Fleming, who married Mary Willey, a granddaughter of William Willey. Senator Waitman T. Willey was a grandson of this same William Willey.
Boaz Burrows is said to have come to Monongalia County from the State of New Jersey. On June 8, 1801, William Willey and Ann, his wife, conveyed to Boaz Burrows one hundred acres of land, being a part of his four hundred acre tract. The home of the Burrows family was on this tract of land. It is now known as the Neely land, as the heirs of Boaz Burrows sold it to John Neely. He was very prominent in the public affairs of Monongalia County, being for many years a justice of the peace and by virtue of that office a member of the County Court. His death probably occurred in the year 1834, since James Brand was appointed administrator of his estate on the 24th day of June of that year. There were at least six children in his family. His son Edward Burrows, whose wife was Peggy Snider, died in 1812, leaving three children: Ruhama, who married George W. Dietz; Nancy, who married Anthony Cable; and Emily (Permelia), the wife of Alexander Martin. Castilla Burrows, daughter of Boaz, married Robert Tibbs. Another daughter, Hester Ann, married Abraham Cox. Jemima Burrows was the wife of Thomas Dawson. The other daughter was Emily, who married Thomas Boydstone. She evidently died before 1844, as her four children in that year conveyed to John Neely their interest in the estate of Boaz Burrows, signing their names Charles, Belinda, Presley, and Enoch.

Sarah Brand lived until the third day of February, 1880. James Brand died on the 26th day of July, 1882, having reached the advanced age of ninety-five years. Their children were: (1) Hester Ann, born November 25, 1816; (2) Thirza Willey, born October 25, 1818; (3) Jemima, born June 23, 1820; (4) James Lockhart, born October 8, 1822; (5) Emily, born February 11, 1825; (6) Ann Samantha, born April 23, 1827; and (7) Charles Burrows, born March 13, 1831.
Hester Ann Brand married Eli Glasgo, in Monongalia County, April 10, 1867. (Rev. Philip McInturff.) They went from Monongalia County to Ohio and thence to Missouri, where they lived the remainder of their lives. She died on the 25th day of March, 1893. No children.

Thirza Willey Brand married Alfred C. Barker, son of Aaron and Sarah Barker, in Monongalia County, September 4, 1838. (Rev. John Smith). Sarah Barker was a daughter of Jacob Scott, one of the very early settlers of Monongalia County. Aaron Barker was also a representative of one of the oldest families of that section. They were united in marriage by Rev. John W. Patterson, in Monongalia County, March 27, 1800. Aaron Barker was a paymaster in the War of 1812.

The home of Alfred C. Barker was on the Morgantown and Fairmont Pike about six or seven miles from Morgantown. His name occurs quite frequently on the county records in connection with many of the public sales in his section. He was clerk at the sale of the property of Phoebe Hamilton, January 12, 1841, and bought a clock for $8.63. Just three days later he was clerk at another sale, that of James Scott.

On July 26, 1841, he was appointed a constable for the western district of Monongalia County. At the expiration of his first term of two years he was again appointed. James Brand became his bondsman in the penalty of $2,000.00. He was appointed a road surveyor, October 22, 1849. He also acted in a fiduciary capacity on several occasions, being qualified as executor of his father’s will, May 26, 1851, and administrator of the estate of Boaz B. Cox, March 28, 1853. For six successive years, beginning with 1854, he was designated as one of the commissioners to hold the election at Laurel Point. On May 1, 1857, he was again made surveyor of a road.
The practice of dueling was evidently not a forgotten institution in his early days. On the 26th day of March, 1832, Aaron Criss was indicted in the County Court for sending a challenge to Alfred C. Barker. Morgan R. Mock was also indicted as the bearer of the challenge. Barker was indicted, too, for accepting the challenge. However, they were never brought to trial.

Alfred C. Barker lived till the 25th day of May, 1899; his wife, till the 15th day of November, 1903. Children: (1) Wellington Pembroke, born March 22, 1840; (2) Edgar L., born April 3, 1842; (3) Mary, born November 2, 1844; (4) Almanda Louisa, born May 18, 1847; (5) Drusilla, born March 29, 1850; (6) Asenith, born August 13, 1852; (7) Delia, born May 24, 1855, died November 29, 1865; (8) Sarah Maude, born June 11, 1858; (9) Aaron, born September 23, 1860, died October 6, 1860; and (10) Joseph Johnson, born March 18, 1862.

Wellington Pembroke Barker (2-1) was appointed a constable of Grant District, January 4, 1870, for a term of two years; and was again appointed, October 26, 1875. He was collector of tolls on the Fairmont and Morgantown Pike from August 10, 1877, till August 8, 1878. On the 4th day of January, 1883, he was selected by the County Court to have charge of the County Infirmary at Cassville to be paid $1.25 per week for each person, beginning with the first day of the following April. He remained in this position until the spring of 1893, when he went to live on his farm at a place on Scott's Run now called Barker. On six different occasions he was elected a justice of the peace for Cass District to serve for terms of four years, in 1884, 1888, 1892, 1908, 1912, and 1916. For many years he was one of the directors of the Second National Bank. He was one of the founders of the Farmers and Merchants Bank. Being a shrewd business man, he was exceedingly prosperous in a financial way. In the latter part of the year 1917 he disposed of his home farm to a coal company. The next spring he moved to the village of Granville near Morgantown, where he lived in retirement until his death, January 12, 1919. His wife was Celina J. Arnett, daughter of William Arnett. They were married on the 17th day of January, 1861, in Monongalia County. (Rev. J. N. Waters). Milton Stewart at one time owned the farm on Dent's Run known as the Titus land, having bought a part of it from Felix Scott, March 29, 1851, and the balance from Joseph Scott and Reuben Finnell, April 2, 1861. He sold the farm to Eli N. Titus on the first day of March, 1867, for $6,650.00. On March 29, 1851, he bought another tract of fifty acres on a branch of Dent's Run, adjoining the land formerly owned by Boaz Burrows, of William R. Wade, which he sold to John Neely and Alfred C. Both Jamison and Wilson were in many of the dashing cavalry charges of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart.

Walter Glenn Stewart (3-4-2) volunteered in the United States army at Dodge City Kansas, April 23, 1917, becoming a private in Battery C, Fifth Field Artillery, First Division. This regiment of field artillery was first organized by Alexander Hamilton as the New York Provincial Company of Artillery in 1776. After having trained at Fort Bliss, Texas, the regiment was ordered to France, embarking at Hoboken, July 29, 1917, and landing in France the latter part of August.

On the 25th day of October, 1917, the first 155 mm shot fired by American artillery at a German target went out from Battery C. From this time until the close of the war the Fifth Field Artillery took a conspicuous part in all the important engagements. Walter Glenn Stewart was with this unit in the Luneville sector, in the Toul sector, in the Cantigny offensive, in the Saizerain sector, in the Montdidier-Noyon offensive, in the Aisne-Marne battles, in the St. Mihiel operations, and in the Meuse-Argonne drive. He took part in all actions in which Battery C was engaged, never being off duty on account of sickness or injury. At the time the armistice was signed he had been in the Argonne Forest for forty-two days.

In the latter part of May, 1918, the gunners of Battery C were specifically cited for bravery by Major General Bullard as having "served their guns continuously and with great skill while subjected to a hostile gas bombardment." In the famous St. Mihiel operation the entire regiment was cited for "distinguished conduct" by Major General Sumerall.

After the armistice was signed the regiment started for the German border, which was reached on the first day of December, when the American flag was carried across the Saur River into Germany. Walter Glenn Stewart remained with the army of occupation until he was started homeward on the 18th day of August, 1919. On the homeward journey he took part in the parades in New York City and Washington. He was honorably discharged from the service at Camp Dodge, September 24, 1919. His address is Elkhart, Kansas.

Beulah Stewart (3-4-3) married Thomas C. Holland, son of Alva Holland, at Oswego, Kansas, April 7, 1917.
The Brand Family

(Rev. Johnston). They live at Sallyards, Kansas, where her husband is engaged in the oil business. No children.

James Lockhart Brand was in partnership with Boaz B. Tibbs in the mercantile business in Monongalia County for a few years, probably from about 1845 to about 1850, as the records show they had an attachment issued against Hugh Daugherty, November 26, 1846, and brought a suit against Notley C. Carter, April 10, 1850. He evidently went to Mannington in Marion County soon after this, for he was married there in the year 1851. His wife was Delia Furbee, a daughter of James Furbee.

From Callahan and Butcher's History of the Upper Monongahela Valley it appears that the Furbee family was among the early English settlers of the Delaware-Maryland peninsula. Benjamin Furbee, born in 1693, was a leading man of the colony. He died in 1724, leaving five children, the eldest of whom was Bowers Furbee, whose residence was at Kent, Delaware, on a fine farm. He died in 1775, naming seven children in his will: (1) Waitman; (2) Caleb; (3) Jonathan; (4) Amy, who married John Davis; (5) Marion; (6) Elizabeth; and (7) John. This Caleb Furbee, son of Bowers, was born at Kent, November 22, 1752. He served in the Revolutionary army from Delaware, taking part in the Battle of Brandywine. About 1790, with his wife Sarah and four sons, Waitman, John, George, and Caleb, he removed to Monongalia County, Virginia, where he purchased large tracts of land on Paw Paw Creek. He later removed to Tyler County, where he died, April 16, 1837. His son, George Furbee, however, remained on Paw Paw Creek, where he engaged in farming and stockraising. He married Elizabeth Pritchard in 1796 and had one son James and a daughter Sarah, who married Jeremiah Beatty. This James Furbee was also a successful farmer in the same vicinity until he purchased eight hundred acres of land where Mannington now stands, moving there about 1840. He thus became the founder of that city, which has since become quite prominent in the oil industry. In 1823 he married Mary Ann Lindsay Boggess, who was born on the 26th day of June, 1803. Their children were: George Lindsay, James Hilary, Henry Boggess, Alcinda Jane, Milly Ann, Delia, and Sarah.

James Lockhart Brand was a practicing physician at Mannington until after the Civil War, when he went to Vernon County and later to Bates County, Missouri, where he continued in the practice of his profession. His wife died in August, 1878; James Lockhart lived until August 16, 1905. Children: (1) Virginia Dare, born July 6, 1852; (2) Homer Pryor, born January 6, 1861; (3) Robert E. Lee, born August 2, 1863; (4) Sallie Burrows, born December 29, 1865; (5 & 6) Mary Jackson and Charles Stonewall, born March 16, 1868; (7) James Frederick, born December 27, 1872; and (8) Willey Millie, born January 23, 1875.

Virginia Dare Brand (4-1) married D. W. McNeill, son of R. W. McNeill, in Vernon County, Missouri, November 17, 1871. (Rev. Galbraith). His death occurred on the 24th day of October, 1881. Afterwards, on the second day of August, 1883, she married Jeffrey B. Sterett in Vernon County. (Rev. W. T. McClure). Their home is at 520 South Cedar Street, Nevada, Missouri. Children: (1) Pearl McNeill, born September 17, 1872; (2) Abbie Kate McNeill, born March 1, 1875; (3) Hugh Brand McNeill, born June 24, 1877, died August 18, 1878; (4 & 5) twins, Paul Robert McNeill and Pauline Roxana McNeill, born May 25, 1879; (6) Lucy McNeill, born October 5, 1880, died in March, 1881; (7) Max Clark Sterrett, born August 27, 1884; and (8) James Fred Sterrett, born September 17, 1886, died in November, 1888.

Pearl McNeill (4-1-1) married Jack H. Bean in Vernon County in 1900. (Rev. C. M. Bishop). They live at Nevada, Missouri, where her husband is editor of the Nevada Mail. They have one child, Mary Virginia, born October 15, 1902.

Abbie Kate McNeill (4-1-2) is a teacher in the ward schools of Kansas City, Missouri, her home being at Nevada.

Charles Burrows Brand attended the public schools of Laurel Point in Monongalia County, and the Monongalia Academy at Morgantown. He received his medical education at the Starling Medical College, Columbus, Ohio.

It is said that he received a sergeant’s commission in the First Virginia Regiment under command of Col. William J. Willey at the beginning of the Civil War and was present at the battle of Rich Mountain, (Carnifax Ferry). After this battle he was persuaded by his friends to enter the secret service of the Confederacy and continued in that service for the period of the war as No. 58 of the Secret Service of the Confederacy. He went to Ohio with instructions to get such contraband articles as quinine and morphine and to put them through the blockade at Wilmington, North Carolina. In Ohio he became acquainted with a Dr. Armstrong, who was known as a “violent rebel”. Dr. Armstrong’s son, Alfred, married a very wealthy girl at Cleveland and soon entered the wholesale drug business under the name of Strong and Armstrong at Cleveland, Ohio. Just across the line in Canada the Confederates had stationed an agent who received the contraband sent over by Dr. Brand from Cleveland through Strong and Armstrong. This contraband was then shipped to an agent in New York City, who turned it over to a blockade runner, who in turn got it through to the Confederates at Wilmington.

About 1853 Dr. Brand had occasion to spend considerable time in the telegraph office at Mannington, West Virginia, which was in charge of Henry L. Hunt. He soon learned the code and became quite adept at reading and sending messages. This knowledge proved of great advantage to him during his secret service work. About twelve miles west of Harper’s Ferry the Confederates tapped the main line of the Federals from Baltimore to Wheeling. It was an easy matter for one conversant with the code to drop casually into a telegraph office, loiter around for a short time, and then as casually leave. If any message of importance was intercepted, such as movements of Federal troops, it was then easy to report such by means of the secret wire.

In Maryland Dr. Brand was arrested and taken before Jesse Fitch, brigadier general of militia. Knowing that Fitch was a Mason, he gave the signal of distress. Fitch ordered him locked up under heavy guard. About three o’clock A. M. there was a rap on his prison door. When he opened the door Fitch entered and told him to get ready to leave at once. He was given a guard of five men to take him safely through the Federal lines.

It is also said that he was present at the execution of John Brown. But the details in regard to his connection with this affair have not been ascertained.

For a few years he was a practicing physician at Mannington, West Virginia, but later he removed to Vernon County, Missouri, where he continued in the practice. In 1870 he was admitted to the bar at Nevada, Missouri, taking his examination under Waldo P. Johnson, U. S. Senator, Meigs Johnson, a lawyer from West Virginia, and Amos S. Wight, an attorney of Nevada, Missouri. However, he made but little use of his legal knowledge, preferring to continue with his medical profession. He practiced continually until 1894, when he decided to retire and removed with his family to a farm five miles west of Sheldon. After having spent several years there he removed to Sheldon, where he and his wife are now (1921) living. When this sketch was written he was the only surviving grandchild of either of the two early Brand settlers of Monongalia County.

His first wife was Sarah Ann Pryor, whom he married in September, 1876. She died in August, 1877; and he afterwards, April 13, 1882, married Sarah Katherine Loudin, who was born in Buckhannon, Upshur County, West Virginia. Children: (1) Byron Burrows, born May 28, 1877, died February 1, 1881; and (2) Sara Virginia, born October 24, 1893.

Since the information for the above sketch was given by his daughter, the death of Charles Burrows Brand occurred on the 8th day of March, 1922.

Sara Virginia Brand (7-2) graduated at the Nevada High School in 1912; received the degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy from the State Normal School at Springfield, Missouri, in 1914; graduated with A. B. degree at Fairmount College, Kansas, in 1917; and completed her college training with a master's degree at Kansas University in 1920. During her college course she specialized in American history and did considerable research work bearing on the early history of railroads west of the Mississippi. She has taught several terms of school in the junior high schools of Kansas. During the year 1920-1921 she occupied the position of Assistant Professor of History in Fairmount College. She married Harry L. Ream, September 6, 1917. Their home is at 615 North Topeka Avenue, Wichita, Kansas, where her husband is in the insurance business. No children.
SAMUEL BRAND (SON OF JAMES BRAND)

Samuel Brand was born in Monongalia County, Virginia. But little is known of his early life. His name occurs a few times on the records of this county. On the 15th day of January, 1813, he made an entry for fifty acres of land adjoining his father's farm. But he evidently sold his right to this, for the following endorsement appears on the margin of the entry book, apparently in his own handwriting:

"For value received I assign this entry of 50a. to Jonathan Tichinell, this 18, Sep., 1813. Saml Brand."

Again on the 14th day of April, 1820, he entered twenty acres more in the same vicinity, which he assigned on the record to Jeremiah Hoskinson.

In Wiley's History of Monongalia County he is mentioned as a sergeant in Captain James Hervey's Company in the War of 1812. The muster roll shows that he was in service at Norfolk, Virginia, in 1814. He evidently visited the City of Richmond on this occasion; for the patent records, copies of which are at Charleston, West Virginia, show that the second patent issued to James Brand was delivered to him on the 24th day of May, 1814.

On February 12, 1816, he was appointed surveyor of a road to take the place of Adam Camp. The next year, June 23, the County Court named him as the surveyor of the new road just opened through the lands of David Barker and Noah Ridgway, describing it as "leading from Barker's ferry on the west side of the Monongahela River in the county of Monongalia to the index board near the house of Noah Ridgway". On May 27, 1833, he was given charge of the road from the forks of the Pawpaw road (leading to Dent's mill) to Henry Barb's, where Jacob Scott formerly lived, to take the place of his brother John Brand. He held this position for two years, James Robinson being appointed to succeed him, May 25, 1835.

Under date of October 15, 1816, the following order appears on the records of the County Court:

"Ordered that Mary Basnett, daughter of Winney Basnett, be bound unto Samuel Brand until she arrive to the age of 18 years, and that Rawley Martin, an overseer of the poor of this county, perfect the indentures."

On November 28, 1825, Samuel Brand, John Lough, and Otho Henry were appointed appraisers of the estate of Daniel Arnett. At the sale of this man's property, in the fall of 1826, he bought two sheep for two dollars and ninety cents.

Samuel Brand married Margaret Gilbert in Monongalia County, October 13, 1814, probably soon after his return from the War of 1812. Rev. Joseph A. Shackelford was the minister who performed the ceremony. The family record shows that she was born on the tenth day of January, 1794. Her father was Stephen Gilbert, a millwright, who probably came to Monongalia County from Greene County, Pennsylvania. Her mother's name was Permela. She had one sister, named Phoebe, who married Jacob Schroyer; and another, named Rachel, who married Abijah Rice. Her brothers were Stephen, Enoch, and Joseph.

His father-in-law, Stephen Gilbert, died in the latter part of the year 1820, his will being produced in court on the 28th day of November of that year. The sons Stephen and Joseph qualified as the executors of this will, giving bond in the sum of one thousand dollars, with Samuel Brand and Thomas Wells their sureties. Richard Wells, Joseph Gerring, Dudley Evans, and John Brand, or any three of them, were named appraisers of the personal estate.
One provision of this will gave to Samuel Brand and Margaret Brand one hundred acres of land in Preston County, part of the Bull Run tract. The personal estate of Stephen Gilbert was sold in the month of June, 1822. Samuel Brand purchased several articles at this sale, some of which were: a book case for $8.32, Josephus's Writings for $5.00, one red heifer for $1.30, one steer for $2.70, and one heifer for $3.03.

It has already been stated that Samuel Brand received a deed from his father for a tract of land and that one provision of his father's will was to the effect that he should convey to his brother John seven acres of land. Samuel complied with this provision of the will on the 25th day of February, 1836. On the same day he sold to Nathan Henry the balance of his farm, consisting of one hundred and thirty-four acres, for the sum of six hundred dollars.

As his father had been a pioneer in Monongalia County, it now became the turn of Samuel Brand to assume that role in the country farther west. We should like to be able to describe his trip to the State of Iowa, but the material is not at hand. For the same reason we are not permitted to tell of the feelings and emotions of his ten children, most of whom were small, as they took their departure from the scenes of their childhood to make their home they knew not where. It is said that the family went down the Ohio River on a flat boat, stopping for a time in the State of Indiana at Richmond or Dublin. Apparently not finding this country to their liking, they embarked again, proceeded down the Ohio, and then up the Mississippi to the town of Burlington, Iowa, then in Wisconsin territory, which was a real frontier country full of Indians. Here Samuel Brand engaged in the hotel business for a short time and afterwards went on to West Point in Lee County, his home for the rest of his life. He conducted a hotel at this place until he retired from business shortly before the death of his wife. After her death he made his home with his daughter Mrs. Perdew. In 1864 he visited his old home in Monongalia County, coming back to dispose of his interest in his brother Joseph's estate. On the 5th day of August of that year he made a deed to Milton Stewart for his one-third interest in the land his father had willed to Joseph Brand. He acknowledged the deed before Alexander L. Wade, recorder of Monongalia County.

Samuel Brand was a Presbyterian, very strong in his religious beliefs, and a diligent reader of the Bible. Judging from an old paper that has been preserved in the family of his daughter, Mary Gillham, it seems that he was quite active in church work in Monongalia County. A copy of the paper is here produced:

Saturday, March 1, 1823—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Monongalia Auxiliary Bible Society, Thomas Wilson, 1st Vice President, presiding:
It was ordered, That the district No. 9 include all that part of Monongalia County two miles from Morgantown between Indian Creek and Scott’s Mill Run & if they do not reach the western boundary, to extend west from the heads thereof, and that the superintendence of the same be assigned to Directors Samuel Brand and James Robinson, whose duty it shall be to use their best endeavors to procure subscribers to the Constitution of said Society, and as far as practicable ascertain the number of families within the same which are destitute of Bibles, as well as individuals unconnected with families, who are in the same destitute condition. And for these purposes the Directors may associate with them in their labours any member of the Society resident within their districts, and shall make report of the result of their inquiries at the stated meeting of the Board in the month of June next.

An Extract:—

Thomas P. Ray, Secretary, pro tem.

Attest:—Thomas Wilson, 1st Vice President.

He was a Republican in politics, although he took no active part in political affairs. For fifteen years he served as justice of the peace in his home county. Having a remarkable memory, he had accumulated a store of knowledge on subjects of general information. He could readily quote whole chapters of the Bible. The faculty of remembering names remained with him until he was an old man. Some of his grandchildren say that they heard him only a few years before his death repeat the names of the one hundred and nineteen men who served in his company during the War of 1812.
He passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gillham, at West Point, Iowa, on the 8th day of January, 1874, his wife having died on the 9th day of February, 1861. Children: (1) Eales, born June 26, 1815; (2) Abijah, born May 2, 1817; (3) Pamela, born June 17, 1819; (4) Lorena, born April 27, 1821; (5) Mary Malinda, born March 23, 1823; (6) Margaret Louisa, born April 20, 1825; (7) Rachel Savina, born July 18, 1827; (8) Samuel Erastus, born April 17, 1829; (9) Jane Corilla, born January 28, 1832; and (10) Joseph Cresson, born October 4, 1833.

1 Eales Brand married Isaac Watts Griffith, son of Philip and Lydia (Lee) Griffith, in Lee County, Iowa, September 17, 1840, Rev. Asa Turner, of Denmark, Iowa, performing the ceremony. His mother was a daughter of Abijah Lee. His father, a carpenter and joiner by trade, had removed from Montgomery County, New York, to Trumbull County, Ohio, in 1816, where Isaac W. Griffith was born, April 2, 1820. His father and mother spent the remainder of their lives in that county. His father died at the age of fifty-eight and his mother at the advanced age of ninety-two.

Isaac W. Griffith spent his boyhood days in Trumbull County, assisting his father in the carpenter trade and attending the primary schools. He was a student for one term at the academy of Farmington, Ohio, a branch of Western Reserve College. In 1838, being then eighteen years of age, he launched out into life for himself, with no capital but a vigorous constitution. Leaving Farmington on the 28th day of August of that year, under a contract with a man named Grosebeck, who had engaged his services for a year, he drove a team to Fort Madison, Iowa, then known as the "Black Hawk Purchase". Here he worked on a farm till his year's service had expired. Then he rented the farm and managed it himself for a year.
When he had gathered his crop he went to West Point, where he resumed his trade as a carpenter. It was here that he met and married the daughter of Samuel Brand.

In 1839, during the trouble concerning the boundary line between Iowa and Missouri, he was sent as a member of the state militia to the disputed territory, when it was feared that a civil war was about to take place. The questions in controversy were settled, however, by the Supreme Court of the United States, and he returned home. In 1842 he was elected justice of the peace and coroner of Lee County and served three terms. In the meantime he had been appointed lieutenant of the militia by Governor Lucas. On March 30, 1843, he was commissioned by Governor Chambers as captain of Company 3, 1st Regiment, 1st Brigade, 1st Division of the Territorial militia. In 1846 he volunteered under the first call for troops for the Mexican War, but was unable to get into the service, since so many regiments were accepted from the eastern states that the Iowa troops were not needed. Later, however, a regiment was organized, comprising six Ohio companies, two companies from Michigan, one from Wisconsin, and a tenth from Iowa, known as the Fifteenth United States Infantry. Griffith enlisted in Company K, which formed a part of this regiment, and was made a corporal. In 1847 the men were ordered to Mexico to join the forces of General Scott at Vera Cruz, where they arrived on the 24th day of May. The regiment reached the headquarters of General Scott at Pueblo on the second day of July, where Griffith was promoted to a sergeant. Later, in fighting its way through guerrillas, his company lost its captain and several men. At the battle of Churubusco, August 20, 1847, Griffith was struck by a bullet, which shattered the bones of his right arm, just above the elbow, necessitating amputation near the shoulder. He was probably injured in other ways at this time, for the members of the family say he lay on the field of battle for a day and a half without medical attention. However, he remained with his company until the army entered the City of Mexico on the 15th day of September. On the 27th day of October he was discharged from the army, but remained for a time at Baton Rouge on account of his wound. In the following February his wife was joyfully surprised when he appeared at his home. Due to the fact that there was another man of the same name killed in the army, the newspapers had erroneously reported his death.

The public also called upon Isaac W. Griffith for his services in a legislative capacity. In August, 1848, he was elected a representative from Lee County in the second legislature under the state organization, as a Democrat. On this occasion he served his people in one of the most important sessions ever held in the State; for this legislative body elected the first United States senator and the first chief justice of the State Supreme Court. It also had the distinction of being the only legislature to elect three United States senators, General A. C. Dodge, General George W. Jones, and James Harlan. Moreover, many of Iowa's most important statutes had their origin at this session. Griffith became sponsor for a number of important measures, which became laws. He introduced the bill which gave to the State of Iowa her first homestead exemption law. The people in the West were poor in those days. The money in circulation was only one dollar and eleven cents per capita. At a time when pioneer families were struggling to secure homes, loan sharks were demanding forty-five per cent interest; and hundreds of families, being forced to mortgage their property at such exorbitant rates, lost their homes. Among the Iowa statutes of today are to be found the basic principles of this law, which was enacted to cure evils of this sort and was passed largely through the efforts of Isaac W. Griffith.
Upon the completion of his term of office as a legislator, the duties of which he had discharged with eminent ability and to the satisfaction of his constituents, he was appointed a deputy sheriff of Lee County and served until November, 1850, when he resigned the position to become an assistant doorkeeper of the United States Senate at Washington, where he served for three years. He was next appointed a member of the police force of that city, serving in that capacity until April, 1858, when President Buchanan appointed him Register of the Land Office, a position he held until July, 1861. In the meantime he had removed his family to Des Moines. Upon the breaking out of the Civil War he was made a member of a committee to look after the expenses and other matters incident to the raising of an army. But he afterwards resigned to accept the nomination for sheriff of Polk County, which his friends urged upon him. He was elected to this position in the fall of 1861 and began the discharge of his duties on the first day of the following January. In the fall of 1863 he was again a candidate for sheriff, but this time, he was defeated by a shrewd politician named Bush. In the fall of 1864 he was appointed master mechanic in the United States quartermaster's department at Memphis, Tennessee, and acted in that capacity until October, 1865, when he was selected a deputy United States Marshal for the western district of Tennessee. He held this position for three years, returning to Des Moines in 1868. Upon his return to that city he was made toll gate keeper at the Court Avenue Bridge and remained there until the bridge was made free in 1879. Meanwhile, in 1872, he had been elected coroner of Polk County, an office he held continuously for twenty years. In 1886 he was appointed bailiff of the State Supreme Court and served many years. At the May term of the court, 1895, he was honored with the privilege of unveiling the splendid Yewell portrait of Charles Mason, the first chief justice of the court, for whom he, as a member of the legislature, had voted in the year 1848.

Few men have enjoyed more fully the confidence of their fellow citizens than did Isaac W. Griffith. He was not a crafty politician, but secured his numerous positions of public trust on account of his sterling qualities and unswerving devotion to duty. Never a blind follower of political partisans, he aimed to place his influence on the side of right. He was active in the affairs of the Democratic party until the beginning of the Civil War, when he became an earnest supporter of the Union party. Living for a long time at the seat of the state government of Iowa, he became acquainted with the foremost men of the state, most of whom were his friends. Governors Merrill, Kirkwood, and Newbold successively appointed him a staff officer with the rank of lieutenant colonel of cavalry.

In appearance he was tall and athletic in build. Being a public speaker of no mean ability, his services were sought at many public meetings. In 1888 he was sent by the Crocker Grand Army Post as a delegate to the encampment at Columbus, Ohio, where he met Col. Morgan, under whom he had served in the Mexican War. In 1896 he was one of the speakers at the Iowa Semi-Centennial held at Burlington.

He was for more than forty years a member of the Odd Fellows lodge. For many years he and his wife were earnest and devout members of the Methodist Episcopal church. The death of the husband occurred on the 6th day of January, 1897. His wife lived until August, 1900.

Selby S. Griffith (1-1) was a page in the United States Senate when the family lived in Washington. While a student in the law school at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, he enlisted in the Union army, remaining in the service nine months. In the year 1864, his health having become impaired on account of his army experience, he went to Memphis, Tennessee, hoping to benefit from the change of climate. Here he was employed by the wholesale grocery firm of Ladd & Cartright as head bookkeeper. The next year he became associated with Dr. Dodd in the dry goods business at Wild Haws, Arkansas, where he was also postmaster. Later he returned to Des Moines and became a court stenographer. His wife was Martha A. Skinner, daughter of Daniel J. Skinner, whom he married in Des Moines, Iowa, March 3, 1863. (Rev. C. C. Mabee). His death occurred on the 23rd day of February, 1877. Augustus J. Griffith (1-3) has become lost to the other members of the family. The newspaper account of his father's death relates that he was present on that occasion. It is said that his wife was Harriet Waterbury and that they were married in Dayton, Ohio. But a search there has failed to locate the marriage on the records. His wife and two sons were in Chicago some years ago. His sons were called Charles and Isaac. A careful search was made in several Chicago directories in an effort to locate them but without results.

His wife, supposing herself to be a widow, married John Porter in Lee County, December 12, 1856. (Rev. George Powers). However, her brother-in-law, Elkanah Perdew, who was a lawyer, and her father, Samuel Brand, who was wise in worldly affairs, had her to take the precaution of first getting a divorce from Sherman. About a year after her last marriage Daniel M. Sherman returned to West Point. He had gone from California to Australia, where he had been somewhat prosperous in a financial way. The letters he had written from this far away land had never reached his family. His three children went to live with him; but after a time, upon his remarriage, they returned to make their home with their mother. The family moved from West Point to Des Moines in 1861. Rachel Savina was a faithful member of the M. E. church for the greater part of her life. She lived until the 11th day of March, 1908. JOSEPH A. BRAND (SON OF JAMES BRAND)

Joseph A. Brand spent his entire life in Monongalia County on the farm that was given to him by his father. Being very small in size, he was called “'Little Joe’’. He was appointed surveyor of the road from the forks of the Papaw road, leading to Dent's mill, to Henry Barb’s in the place of James Robinson, May 27, 1839. Twice he was called to serve as a juryman in the County Court.

His peculiarities have been the source of many amusing stories. It is said that, instead of hauling the hay for his horses and cows, he would carry it from the stack to the barn on his back. On one occasion a neighbor, becoming short of feed for his stock, wanted to buy of him a stack of hay. He had a very large stack that he did not need, but he insisted on selling it by weight. The neighbor, who knew there was in that community no method of weighing hay in bulk, offered him 24 dollars for the stack, which was nearly twice what it was worth. But Joe said “'No, boy, it might not come to that much’”. However, as the man needed the hay and could get it nowhere else, he was forced to accept Joe’s proposition. The hay was weighed on steelyards, a bunch at a time, several days being required for the work. In the end “'Little Joe’” received very much less than he had been offered. But he let his neighbor have the hay and seemed better satisfied than if he had taken the twenty-four dollars in the first instance. In the later years of his life he might have been seen almost any day during the summer months on the public highway with a long cane in his hand. When at home he used this cane as a sort of “'shepherd’s crook’” to keep his stock out of his meadow. He seemed to prefer this method to the building of a fence to enclose his pasture. In spite of his whims and his oddities, he was respected by all who knew him. It is claimed by some of his relatives that he had the most remarkable memory to be found among the early members of the family. He was never married, and died on the 17th day of March, 1864.
