"As to the Patriarchs of this Brotherhood, the Lodge they opened is closed to them on earth forever. The lights they kindled have long ceased to burn before their altar. The voice of greeting and admonition resounds not in the solitary chambers of the dead; and the swelling notes of their parting hymn have long ago passed with the extinguished winds which bore them.

Where they lie scattered in the little burying grounds a thousand leagues asunder—sleeping on the lonely desert, by the jagged bastions of the mountains, beneath the sighing branches of the trackless wilderness, by the crowded mart, or in the infinite and ever-sobbing sea, we know not, nor will we ever know; but only this, that they filled the places we fill today, joined in the same welcome, wore the same badge, wrought in the same Order, bore the same jewels, taught and received the same lessons, and uttered the same farewell on the shore of the far Atlantic, as we today in the presence of the monarch mountains of the West; that one by one they laid down the rod, the jewel and the gavel; one by one surrendered the key, the pen and the scroll; one by one dropped the axe, the fascicle, and the hour-glass, and passed silently from among their brothers to the undiscovered country, and the hidden life."

Oration of H. P. H. Bromwell (1873).

CERTIFICATE OF MARRIAGE OF DAVID HALL AND DEBORAH FELL (1758).
(The Parents of Beulah Hall.)

Whereas, DAVID HALL, son of MATTHEW HALL of Marple, in the County of Chester, Province of Pennsylvania, and DEBORAH FELL, daughter of EDWARD FELL of SPRINGFIELD,* in the county and province aforesaid, having declared their intentions of marriage with each other before several meetings of a people called Quakers at Providence, in the county aforesaid, according to the good order used among them, and having consent of parents and relations concerned, their said proposal of marriage was allowed of by said meeting. Now these are to certify whom it

It is interesting to note that both the grandmothers of Abraham Lincoln were sisters and Quakeresses named Shipley, Mary being the mother of Thomas Lincoln, and Nancy being the mother of Nancy Hanks.

THOMAS AND LYDIA FELL requested a certificate from Latshaw in Lancashire, Nov. 17, 1714, to Chester Monthly Meeting.

EDWARD FELL had a certificate granted him from Hartshaw monthly meeting, Dec. 12, 1717. Among other things his “Clearness from Women on acct. of Marriage” is mentioned. That certificate was read and accepted at Chester Monthly Meeting, July 29, 1718. (Fell Gen. By Sarah M. Fell.)

Among those who had “Old Rights” in Chester Co. were:

HANNAH MUSGROVE, 400 acres, 1701.
JOHN MUSGROVE, 600 acres, 1712.
MOSES MUSGROVE, 300 acres, 1713.
THOMAS MUSGROVE’S Children, 500 acres, 1703.

WIDOW MUSGROVE, 500 acres in Philadelphia Co., in 1701, and in Bucks Co. WIDOW MUSGROVE had 500 acres in 1702.

THOMAS MUSGROVE, in York Co., had 1,250 acres in 1682; 1,500 acres in 1698.

JOSEPH MUSGROVE, Phila., 1780. Estate valued at $122,000. Paid taxes among the highest in Phila. (Penn. Arch.).

AARON MUSGROVE, Phila., 1780. Property assessed for $12,000.

Among the old owners of land in Chester Co. are:

OSWIN MUSGROVE, who had, in 1683, a place or lot of land in the territory between Priest Creek and Crum Creek.

Springfield was near Philadelphia, near the present site of Swartmore College. Darby Creek bounds it on the East, and Crum Creek on the West. Marple lies just above it, also, between these two creeks, bounded on the North by Newton Twp. and Radner Twp.; Upper Providence Twp., and Nether Providence Twp. are due west of Springfield and Marple. Friends’ Meeting House was in line between the two Providences. There seems to have been no F. M. H. in Marple, but in Springfield, near the line of Marple.

DAVID HALL (Marple). Tax paid by him among the highest in the Twp. Only nine out of a hundred paid so much tax. 1785. (Chester Co.)

family. He was b. in Leicestershire, Eng., in July, 1624; early in life became a lay-preacher. Was a man of rare executive power. “I never saw the occasion,” said Penn, “to which he was not equal; he had a lofty soul, and deep spiritual insight.” Margaret was of a very ancient family, which had lived on the same estate in Lancaster for nineteen generations. Before her marriage to George Fox in Bristol, in 1669, her home, Swartmore Hall, had been the place of the earliest meetings of these persecuted people. She used to petition the King in their behalf. Her grandson, Charles Fell, m. the grand daughter of William Penn. To this grandchild, Gulielma Maria Fell, Penn granted Fell Manor, in Pa., consisting of 10,900 acres (1727).

WM. FELL was of a Comm. (1775) to treat with parties in the Springfield meeting who were concerned in instituting military preparations. A Blessed are the dead that in the Lord doth die,
The holy scriptures fully testify;
They from their labours cease, and their reward
Is sure with him who doth their souls regard:
Their troubles and their trials that were great
While here below will end in joy complete.
And now, dear sister, as thou hadst a share
Of troubles and of sore afflictions here
Which thou for thy dear Savior's sake did bear,
I make no doubt but at that port of rest
Thy soul will land and be forever blest.
With saints and angels thy glad voice will raise
In endless hymns to celebrate His praise
Who's been thy guard, thy council and thy friend
And led thee safely to thy journey's end.

Now let us take a retrospective view
Thy conduct and thy steps let us pursue;
Thy precepts and example did agree
Which gave them weight and bid us follow thee
As thou hast followed thy Redeemer, dear,
We ought to follow thee, and then how clear
Our evening sun will set, and how serene
Our close will be, dear friend, as thine has been.
Did we not see, did we not hear thee say
To this import, there's nothing in the way.
Pale Death approached with but solemn pace
Without one terror in his awful face
And bid thee leave this scene of sorrow here
And us (poor mourners) in our griefs to share.

Why should I say "poor mourners?" Is there cause
To mourn? But nature our affection draws
Against our reason when we grieve for thee
Whom we believe is in felicity.

No cause at all to grieve; but rather say
The Lord who gave hath right to take away;
Then let us dry our tears, and weep no more month later these parties were recommended to be turned out of the society on the advice of Pell and others. (Revolution.)

WILLIAM FELL was on comm. to repair Providence Meeting House (1754).
On thy account, but our own loss deplore.
But since it is so ordered and decreed
That thou must go, and we must thee succeed
I know no better way to show our love
To thee, than that we do thy ways approve
And follow on as thou hast led the way:
And then with hearts rejoiced we may say,
Not only say, but also with thee sing
With cheerful voice, Oh! Death! where is thy sting?
Thy boasted might no terror is to me,
And then, oh grave, where is thy victory!*

EXTRACTS FROM A LETTER WRITTEN BY MR. ABRAM P. MORGAN OF JARRETTOWN, PA., TO THE EDITOR OF THIS RECORD, OCT. 14, 1897.

Respected Friend: On the evening of the 8th inst. I received another letter from thee dated September 28th, and postmarked October 4th, informing me that thy great-great grandfather and mother, David Hall and Deborah Fell, were married in 1758. Thee says thee must now find her mother’s name and trace them back.

I think there are no records more reliable than the records of a monthly meeting of Friends, and I fear thee has not the whole record of that marriage or thee would have her mother’s name.

The minutes should show that David Hall and ———, his wife, were of the town of ——— and county of ———, etc. They would also show whether he was a member of Chester Monthly Meeting, or of some other Monthly Meeting. By tracing the minutes back further it would show whether she came to be a member of that Meeting by certificate from some other Monthly Meeting either here or in England. If she did not so become a member she became so by birthright and the record of births would show when she was born and where, and who her parents were. I am inclined to think that Deborah Hall, thy great-great grandmother, is one generation earlier than any I have known of either personally or by tradition till thy first communication, though possibly she may have been an older sister of my wife’s grandfather.

William Penn made his first visit to his Province of Pennsylvania in the summer of 1682, landing first at New Castle, in the State of Delaware adjoining, thence Upland, which was his first landing place in his Province.

*Wife of David Hall and mother of Beulah. This manuscript has been handed down in the family for over a hundred years, and is now published probably for the first time.—(Ed.)
He said to his friend Thomas Pearson, who was with him, "What shall I name this place?"—intimating that he would name it as Pearson wished.

Pearson replied, "Name it Chester, after my native place." So it was named Chester, and remains as thus named to this day.

Penn remained here nearly two years, and busied himself in perfecting his government, making treaties with the Indians, planning for his city of Philadelphia, and forming counties, the first four of which were Philadelphia, Chester, Montgomery, and Bucks counties. Philadelphia county was principally between two rivers embracing the land around his projected city; Bucks county was laid out up and along the Delaware river; Chester county was laid out down the River Delaware to and along the Delaware state line and west of the Schuylkill river, and Montgomery county was the land lying between Chester and Bucks counties, and principally east of the Schuylkill river. Chester and Montgomery were very large counties, and, with Bucks and Philadelphia, embraced all the land within thirty miles of Philadelphia west and north, and these comprise the extreme southeastern portion of the state. The boundaries of these remain the same with exception of Chester county, and this is what I want thee to get clear in thy mind when we speak of Chester and Delaware counties:

About the last of 1700 or the beginning of 1800 a portion of the county of Chester about twelve miles wide, lying along the Delaware river and down to the Delaware state line, being the southeastern portion of Chester county as originally laid out, was cut off from that county and erected into Delaware county.

Chester Monthly Meeting and all of its branches, or the meetings for worship belonging to it, are situated in what is now Delaware County, but all of the old records with which we are interested will call it Chester county.

William Penn had sent three vessels to his province previous to his

* Thomas Pearson was the father of Sarah Pearson, mother of the eminent American painter Benjamin West, who, in 1792, became President of the British Royal Academy, and was perhaps the only American who ever declined the honor of Knighthood which is conferred on the artist in this position. This representative American was born in Springfield, Pa., in Chester Co., and was an early friend and associate of Deborah Fell, our ancestress. It has been said in the family that at one time they were sweethearts. Before he went away to Europe and to fame she had married David Hall and settled down in Chester Co. His father was John West. The old house of stone where he was born is still standing on the campus of Swarthmore College, near Phila. It is a fine house for that day, and is used now by the faculty of the school. When West declined the honor of Knighthood it was on the ground of being a Quaker. He was the successor of Sir Joshua Reynolds in this position. He was born in 1728.

* William Penn was b. in London in 1644, and d. in 1718. He was the son of Admiral Penn, who was ailing at a Peereage, and was much disgusted that he should take up theology. He was in college in Oxford when he met Thomas Lowe, the eloquent and forceful leader who was making so many converts, and was influenced by him to become identified with the new religious movement. He was finally, in Ireland, completely converted. Lowe embarking for the first time, and twenty-three came while here on his first visit, and it was believed there were about 2,500 persons (including a few Dutch that were here when he arrived) here at the time of his return.

It is reasonable to suppose that Chester Monthly Meeting was established soon after his arrival; say the next year, 1683. Thee informs me in thy last that Deborah, thy great-great grandmother, died in 1801, aged 65. This would bring her birth down to 1736, and from this, back to 1683, would leave not more than 53 years of record of the family to trace through the records of Chester Monthly Meeting in America, but if the family were members in England, thee will not have much difficulty in tracing them there.

What I have written before this was principally to do thee a kindness, and assist thee in thy desire, and it has been my pleasure to do it, and thee is very welcome to what little I have done, and am willing to do more if I can, for thy latest information has aroused a desire in myself to know more.

Were I living in my native county of Delaware about three miles out of Chester, I would like to examine those old records for myself, and doubt not but I could get the opportunity; but that was sixteen miles southwest from Philadelphia, and I am now in Montgomery, as many miles north of that city, and about thirty miles from my old home.

worked and secured many disciples in that country. Penn married Gulielma Maria Springett, dau. of a baronet.

NOTE—Several very beautiful letters were received from Mr. Morgan, and also from Mr. Henry Mendenhall of Media, Pa., all expressing the refined courtesy of the Quaker. Without their help these records could not have been secured.—Ed.

ISAAC BROMWELL and Geo. Pewzie, masters of the ship ASSURANCE, examined by the minister of the town of Gravesend of their conformity in our religion: the men have taken the oaths of allegiance and supremacy. July 24, 1635. ASSURANCE brought 220 passengers; 53 ships came in this year to Virginia; the ASSURANCE seems to have been one of the largest of them. (Lists of emig. to Amer., bet. 1,600 and 1,700, by John Camden Hotten.) Thos. Hall, aged 15, and Wm. Hall, aged 21, were among the passengers.

DR. OLAF BROMEL or OLAUS BROMAL. Swedish Physicist and Botanist, after whom the order Bromeliaceae, in Botany, is named. Very eminent writer, author of many works in the Latin language, the principal ones being "Chloris Gothica" (published Gothenburg, 1692. 8vo., which made known Swedish plants: "De Pleuritide" (1667, in 4to); "De Lumbriecis terestribus" (1673); "Catalogus Generalis" (1698), and "Lupologia," published in 1687, in Stockholm. He accompanied, as physician, the Swedish ambassadors in England, Holland and in Germany, pursuing his researches, and died in 1705. He was born in the province of Nerecie in 1639.
MARCUS von BROMELL, his son, b. in Stockholm, 1679; d. 1731; became a physician, and was first physician to the King of Sweden, at the same time being President of the College of Medicine of Stockholm. He was the author of several important works on medicine written in the Latin language.

ANTHONY BRUMEL. The most noted contrapuntist of the ancient French school, of whose works we have any, remains. Contemporary with Jusquin and scholars of Okenheim. He is not likely to be inquired after in the present age, but the fame of the great musicians of antiquity is so established in books that, though not a single relic of their works has been known these 2,000 years, their names and renown are still held in veneration by mankind. (Rees Cyc., 1818.)

DR. B. BROMEL. Author of work on Etienne Marcel, Basle.

BROEMEL. Writer (liberal, political). Potsdam, Germany.

Prof. L. Fr. Leffler, of the University of Stockholm, Sweden, sends the following notes concerning the name in Sweden. (It is by no means certain that our ancestors came from that country, however).

The name of BROMELL is shortened from an older form BROEMELIUS, as is usually the case with Swedish names ending in ell.

In the province of Nerike (Narke), some persons with the name of Bromelius occur in the 17th century.

OLOF GUNNARSSON. Merchant and burgher of Orebro in Nerike, had a son, OLOF BROMELIUS, b. 1639; d. 1705; Med. Doctor. He had two sons, MAGNUS and OLOF BROMELL. Magnus was ennobled and became known as Von Bromell, and was a celebrated physician. His son, JACOB VON BROMELL, died 1790. OLAF BROMELL was commissary of war.

Another:

OLAF BROMELIUS and wife, Anna Hielmer, had a daughter, Brita Bromelia; m. about 1700, Sebastian Geijer. She was d. 1761 in Orebro. No information as to whether this is related to the one above, nor as to the fact of his having sons.

Another:

JACOB BROMELL. b. 1718; was Lieutenant Colonel of the Swedish artillery; Captain in the French army, and Chevalier de l'orde pour le Merite Militaire.

Another:

OLOF BROMELL. d. 1721, Stockholm; had a son.

CARL MAGNUS BROMELL. Lieutenant of the artillery; went abroad (?)

ERIC BROMELIUS. Lived in Stockholm, 1667.
BROMWELL GENEALOGY.

(1) JACOB BROMWELL. Planter; Talbot Co., Md. Was b. about 1700, and d. not earlier than 1751, which was the year in which his youngest child was born. He may have lived much longer than this date, though was dec'd in 1773, the year of his son's second marriage, as the fact is mentioned in the marriage certificate. His wife's name was Mary.

The first census of Maryland, taken in 1790, could not include him, but a number of the names are mentioned as among heads of families in Talbot and Dorchester Counties. The spelling of the clerks and recorders of that period was very irregular, and the name appears as Bromwell, Brumwell, Bramwel, Bromel, Brummell, Brumel, etc.; indeed, it is rather likely that the name of Bromley may sometimes be intended for this name, and possibly that of Bromhall. However, we must be contented with tracing those lines which spell the name Bromwell. Our ancestor William spelled his name in this way, and it is likely that this form of spelling is more ancient than his day, as the descendants of other lines, which must be those of his brothers and cousins, still use it.

In the census of 1790 the following heads of families are found in Talbot and Dorchester Counties: (The records of the county adjoining these were destroyed by fire.) Records include heads of families.

JACOB BROMWELL. 2 free white males over 16 years, 1 free white made under 16, 3 free white females, and 5 slaves.

ABRAM BROMWELL. 1 free white male over 16, 4 free white males under 16, 3 free white females.

EDWARD BROMWELL. 1 free white male over 16, 5 free white females, and 7 slaves.

EDWARD BROMWELL, JR. 3 free white males over 16, 1 same under 16, 7 free white females, and 17 slaves.

The above are all in Talbot Co. In Dorchester occurs the name of SHEDDIN BRUMWILL (Spedden, ?), with 3 free white males over 16 (1 under 16), 7 free white females, and 3 slaves.

"MERLYN PARK."

Old Plantation Home of the Cecil County Bromwells, in Maryland, on the "Eastern Shore."
These records show so many of the name, there was no doubt a large family previous to the time of our ancestor's death. The name seems to occur in the earliest Maryland records. Among the first wills recorded in Maryland is that of William Brummale, or Brumale, which was recorded Dec. 4, 1660, and three chil. mentioned, Luke, Richard and Charles. Later the will of Richard is recorded, leaving wife Joyce, 1676. There was a place called Brumlye, on Wye River, left by Henry Parker, 1687. There was another old estate, Bramfield, in Queen Ann Co., in 1709. These coincidences suggest that the name was long in the country. It is supposed they were Quakers from the fact that our ancestor, William, was twice married in Quaker meeting, both times to daughters of old Quaker families. It is known that the Quakers were persecuted elsewhere, and took refuge in Talbot Co. in 1680. Easton, Talbot Co., was once a more important point than Baltimore, and probably larger. It was called Talbot Court House. The first Masonic Grand Lodge of Maryland was organized there.*

The following data is copied from an old Bible of Deborah Bromwell, daughter of our ancestor William. It is believed to be a record of his brothers and sisters, the children of Jacob. It has the appearance of having been copied from an older book, being in the handwriting of a later generation:

2 ROBERT BROMWELL. b. Feb. 11. 1729; d. 1801.
4 JOHN BROMWELL. b. May 24, 1735; d. 1802.

*"There was a Masonic Lodge at Talbot Courthouse (now Easton), Talbot Co., Md., prior to 1763 (no written records). Also one at Port Tobacco, 1761, called Port Tobacco Lodge at Leonardtown. These are extinct. Lodge No. 34, at Talbot Court House, was chartered in 1780. The Grand Lodge of Maryland was founded on the Eastern Shore, meeting, for the first time, in Talbot Court House, 1733, and elected Grand Officers. This was not a success until three years later, when another convention assembled on the Eastern Shore, elected officers, and established the Grand Lodge of Maryland. A Lodge at Cecil Co. was established about this time, and Elkton No. 8, at Elk, now Elkton. Port Tobacco was instituted about 1790. These are now gone. The corner-stone of the Capitol at Washington was laid by the Grand Lodge of Maryland, Sept., 1793. The Grand Lodge convened in Easton, Md., until 1794, then removed to Baltimore, only once thereafter meeting in Easton, in 1806. The first Grand Lodge meetings in Baltimore were in old Concordia Lodge rooms, now unknown. Afterward in second story of the old Watchhouse, corner of Belvedere St. (now North), and Orange Alley (now Lexington)." (Maryland Proceedings.)
5 EDWARD BROMWELL. b. April 27, 1738; d. ——.
6 MARY BROMWELL. b. Jan. 17, 1733 (?), (1739?).
7 SPDN (SPEDEN) (? BROMWELL. b. March 26, 1741.
8 MARY BROMWELL. b. May 3, 1745.
9 DAVID BROMWELL. b. Sept. 1, 1749.
10 WILLIAM BROMWELL. b. Sept. 14, 1751.

NOTE—There is a record of the will of Robert Brummel, planter, Dorchester Co, who died in 1709. Widow, Rebecca, and sons John, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. He leaves plantations called "Taylor's Promise" and "Partnership." (Early Wills of Md. Baldwin.) There is another family of Brum- mels descended from Joseph of Annapolis, whose family settled later at Hampstead. He came not long before the Amer. Revolution. This name is sometimes spelled Bromwell.

SECOND GENERATION.

The Descendants of William. (10)

(10) WILLIAM BROMWELL. b. Sept. 14, 1751; d. aged about 69 years, Dec. 31, 1820; m. twice, both times in Friends' Meeting, first to Mary, dau. of Moses and Alice Forster of Phila.; second to Beulah, dau. of David and Deborah (Fell) Hall of Springfield, Pa.; the second marriage was of date April 1, 1779.

At the time of the marriage to Beulah his estate is assessed at $7,700, in Philadelphia, which was quite a fortune for that time, when one dollar would buy as much as four dollars would buy at the present date. This may represent his patrimony. In addition to his own taxes he seems to have paid taxes and been administrator for estates, valued at $10,000. He was evidently a man of unusual sense and ability to be entrusted with property in this way, when only twenty-eight years of age. He seems to have had a shop for the manufacture of wire and wheat fans, sieves and other articles used in the milling and building trades. Removing to Baltimore this business was increased, and in time became quite large, so that he was enabled to leave at his death considerable to each of his large family of children. In addition to the factory he carried on a large lumber yard, and bought and sold lumber, and owned parcels of land in different parts of Maryland and Delaware. The place of business in Baltimore was for many years at 17 McEldery's Wharf. In 1865 William West kept office in the building, formerly owned by him, and which he had erected near Fell's Point. Before and after his death his sons William and Henry B. and Jacob carried on business at the same place under the firm name of W. & H. Bromwell. (1817-1822.)

It is probable that he died in Baltimore, though this is not certain, as he possessed country property, where he carried on planting, and may have died at one of these places. All of his children were reared in the religion of the Society of Friends, and were educated in the Friends' schools, which were the finest the country afforded at that time. He was a strict disciplinarian and very religious.

There is a tradition in the family that William and Beulah were both very handsome, Beulah in particular being of remarkable sweetness and gentleness, with face of regular and beautiful features. She was an exhorter, and would sometimes "speak in meeting when the spirit moved," and, though very refined, was fond of expressing the natural eloquence that was in her. She used to wear silvery gray dresses, with snowy kerchief of the finest linen, with cap to match. These would be hem-stitched with much delicacy, for while the Quakers eschewed embroideries and laces, they allowed themselves much luxury in quality of both material and workmanship on their clothing, and their plain dresses were often marvels of dainty needlework. Beulah was considered a most remarkable woman.

She died at 1 o'clock a. m., March 21, 1824, aged 61 years, 10 months and 17 days. Her funeral was attended by many Quakers from all the country around, and even from Phila. and Chester Co., where she had spent her girlhood.

At the present time a trolley ride through enchanting bits of woodland and by exquisite little glens will well repay the descendant of William and Beulah who visits Philadelphia, and wishes to see the country made sacred by several generations of ancestors whose lives were remarkable examples of goodness and usefulness. The lovely Brandywine River, so wonderful for its scenery, flows down through Chester Co. and empties into the Delaware near Wilmington. The famous and beautiful Wissahickon is not far away, and all the country around is filled with groves of fine trees, some of these of ancient date, with the luscious color which the rich soil produces, this being the "Garden of Pennsylvania." A trip to old Darby and to Swartmore and to old Chester, where many ancient houses can be seen, should be part of the pilgrimage, and it will not be complete without a visit to some of the old meeting houses, several of which are yet kept up in the old style.

Was always a devoted Quakeress, and noted for works of charity, and for her fine quilts and needlework. She is buried at Nottingham Churchyard, near Port Deposit, on the "Eastern Shore."
15 DAVID HALL BROMWELL. b. Jan. 28, 1783; d. Feb. 9 or 10, 1815, in a British Prison ship, at Halifax, where he had been taken, having been a soldier in defense of Maryland and in the war of 1812. Was for a time in business with his brother William in Balt., but moved to Richmond. Was married. No issue.
16 JACOB BROMWELL. b. Aug. 3, 1785 or 6, Richmond, Va.; m. twice; first to Maria ———, and second to Mrs. Ellen (Moore) McNabbs (a cousin of Sir John Moore, the noted English General), Oct. 14, 1814.

*NOTE—Her father, Moses Forster, of Phila., seems also to have had a dau. Alice. His estate was assessed at $30,000, which would equal over $100,-000 in our money.

(11) MARY BROMWELL. b. Oct. 26, 1774; m. Henry Broughton, who died Oct. 21, 1818. His family was of Henrico Co., Va. They lived in Richmond at one time, and seem to have been very intimate with the Bromwells, both in Baltimore and Port Deposit. It is an old English name, and first occurs in Va. as far back as 1635. In England it has been a great name ever since the time of Henry IV. Broughton Hall is in Eccleshall, County Stafford. Noted branches of the name are also found in Cheshire. It is also an old name in Maryland.

The Descendants of William (13).

(13) WILLIAM BROMWELL. b. in Phila. Jan. 1, 1780; m. Eliza Coulson. He d. July 10, 1827, from drinking a glass of ice-water after being overheated in the sun. He had lumber yards and other business in Baltimore, and carried on a business in weaving wire and the manufacture of wheat fans. In 1805 was in partnership with his brother David, and later with his brothers Henry B. and Jacob, in the manufacture of wire and wire weaving, and making of wire goods. He was very devout and religious, and an excellent business man, and made a great deal of money, but lost much of it, in company with his brother when the lumber yards were burned in 1822. He kept up a fine country home in Cecil Co., and spent much of his time there. The quaint old house still stands where he lived when in Port Deposit. The place was called Merlyn Park, and all his children were born there. It is on the land now owned by the heirs of his son, Dr. Robert E. Bromwell, and is used now by the tenant. Dr. Bromwell died in the newer house, which was called Hillwood, and is situated some distance from the old one. The place is most beautiful, with fine old trees and lawns. The scenery about Port Deposit is ideally lovely, being varied, with hills of broken outline, and much coloring. Nottingham Church is near by, with its hedges of clipped cedar and grand old elms. Here the family of William have always worshipped, and in the beautiful grounds surrounding the little edifice of pinkish stone, many of them are buried.

Article of agreement made and concluded the twenty seventh day of March in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and twenty two and eventh tide, between Mr. Bromwell of the one part, and Henry B. Bromwell of the other part, witnesses that the said Mr. Bromwell and Henry B. Bromwell, have joined and by this present do join themselves to be partners in the lumber business together under the firm of H. & W. Bromwell, upon such conditions, perquisites and agreements, as are hereafter mentioned, enjoined and enjoined of and concerning the same, such as partners to be common from the day of the date hereof and continue until the same shall be finished at the request of either of the parties above named, and for carrying on the business, the said Mr. Bromwell hath brought into trade and furnished stock to the amount of Nineteen thousand four hundred and ninety one dollars and forty two dollars, for the use of the firm, and Mr. Bromwell hath furnished and brought in the use of the same firm, Four thousand five hundred and eighty one dollars, and twenty eight cents, as new inventory signed by the parties, and it is agreed that Mr. Bromwell shall pay to Mr. Bromwell an annual interest of seven percent on the one thousand part of stock put in trade by Mr. Bromwell, which sum plus amount to Eleven thousand two hundred and forty eight dollars, and eighty six cents, one third of which, is Three thousand seven hundred and eighty two dollars, and ninety six cents, being the sum amount on which Mr. Bromwell has to pay interest to Mr. Bromwell. And it is further agreed that Mr. Bromwell shall be two thirds interest.

Leaf from an old contract drawn up by Henry B. Bromwell, Sr., when he was 24 years old (in 1817), being a part of an agreement between himself and his elder brother William on going into the lumber business together in Baltimore. The business was built up very greatly, and five years afterward, when the fire occurred which swept it out of existence, was worth over $25,000, which would represent as much as $100,000 in the money of the present day.

(son of Maria, dau. of his eldest son, William), and now a large establishment. He m. first Maria ....... , by whom he had two children, and second on Oct. 14, 1814, Mrs. Ellen McNabb, who first saw him as he was passing her house in Baltimore in his regiment (he having participated in the war of 1812).
There is a romantic tradition related of this lady, which has been handed down to her descendents, and is worth recording. It is said that her father, with his two little daughters, Helen or Ellen Stuart Moore, and Rennie Moore, came to the Colonies when the children were two and three years of age, having his own ship, and returning to Scotland later, leaving the children in care of a relative. He was never afterward heard from, and it is supposed the ship was lost, or that he had been killed in the rebellion going on at that time. His name was Robert Moore, and his wife was Helen Stuart. He was thought to have been a relative of Sir John Moore. There is also in this branch of the Bromwell family a tradition relating to Bromwell, which might be worth mentioning; it is to the effect that the name was originally Cromwell, and that the first ancestor in America changed the first letter of his name on coming to this country, because he was a political exile, following the Cromwellian downfall in England. For a long time after the Restoration the name of Cromwell was held in disrepute in England. Even in the Colonies families were not anxious to acknowledge any connection with the fallen Protector, as it often in those times meant political and social death to them. The Protector died in 1658, and no doubt it was at least a hundred years before this persecution and the fear it created, wore out.

Jacob Bromwell was said to have been a very large, portly man, and to have been fond of good living, and to have kept open house and table for all of his friends and kindred, almost to the detriment of his estate.

(19) HENRY BROUGHTON BROMWELL. b. in Richmond, Va., Oct. 11, 1793; m. in Balt., Md., Aug. 18, 1818, to Henrietta, dau. of Lemuel and Patience (Harlow) Holmes of Plymouth Co., Mass. He d. in Charleston, Ill., March 25, 1867. His wife survived him almost fifteen years, dying Jan. 7, 1882, in Denver, Colo.
He was reared in the Quaker schools of Baltimore, the finest the city afforded, receiving a classical education, and being taught, as all his father’s children were, the religion of the Society of Friends. His father had a very handsome and comfortable home in Baltimore, and also visited often his plantation on the “Eastern Shore.” He reared his children with strict religious observances, but for some reason those who “married out of meeting” did not displease him as much as they did his gentle and pious wife Beulah. While he was a very religious and good man, he was not fanatical as some were, and had broad views. Henry, who was the pet and darling of his mother, and much like her in disposition and temperament, very much wished to go to England and study art, for which he was said to have great talent. His grandmother Hall (Deborah Fell) had been a friend of Benjamin West, the famous painter, when West was a boy in Chester Co., Pa. She was fond of relating stories of West, and his success in Europe so interested young Henry that he for some time wished to cultivate this talent in schools abroad, but was never able to carry out his design. His early years were spent in work and study in his father’s office as bookkeeper and accountant. He wrote a very beautiful hand, and his letters give evidence of excellent education and manners.

In the war of 1812 he, with his brothers Jacob and David, took part, for Quaker youths could fight to protect their homes. He was one of the defenders of Baltimore in the Battle of North Point, the decisive battle of the war. He was then 17 years of age, but his brothers were older. He first went into business for himself with his elder brother William in 1815, and, according to the articles of agreement between them, William contributed all the capital, $14,854.75, while Henry and James Clark, the other partner, were to carry on the business, and pay William interest on the money thus loaned. This arrangement seems to have worked well, for only two years later, in 1817, this firm was dissolved, and William and Henry again made articles of agreement by which William contributed $19,000 cash, while Henry put in nearly $4,000, which represented the profits from the previous venture. They had a large lumber-yard and carried on quite a business. William, in addition to this, had a shop where he carried on the business of wheat-fan making and wire-weaving. His connection with Henry was only in the lumber-yard, and he probably helped with advice and in other ways, as he was much older and more experienced. The business was flourishing in every way, and growing month by month, when, in 1822, June 23rd, a fire swept all away. It was Sunday morning, and the yards were surrounded by high fences. A man had whipped a negro that morning, and in revenge the negro had set fire to his master's store near the lumber yards. The shingles and other dry piles of wood and lumber easily caught from the blaze of the store, and in a very few hours all the worldly possessions of Henry and his brother William were destroyed. It was not possible to put the fire out, and there was no insurance. William did not feel the loss so much as Henry, for he had another good business, and also land and other property. Later, when the father's estate was divided, the children all shared in the patrimony, and this gave a start again to Henry, but he was much discouraged and diffident for years afterward, although he again went into the lumber business after his removal to Cinn., or about 1826. Here he was associated with others in the building of steamboats for use on the Ohio River, then a great thoroughfare to the west and south.

The following old paper serves to show the sort of boats that were built in those days, as well as to explain several items of his business at that time:

"Cincinnati, Feb. 23, 1825.

"This is to certify that we, John Newton, Henry B. Bromwell, and Abraham P. Howell, have this day contracted with Isaac Hamet to build us a Steamboat, to be called the 'Dandy,' of the following size and construction, and on the following conditions:"
"She is to be 80 feet straight rabbit on the keel, and 19 feet beam, and precisely the shape of the model shown us, and to be built of the very best of material, and that to be well seasoned. The keel to be of good white oak, the timbers to be one-third locust, one-third red cedar, and the other third white oak, clear of rots, bad knots, sap and windshakes. The kelson and keel are to be cut out, and the timbers let in so that the kelson and keel meet each other and make a good joint. The clamps are to be made of white oak, and notched into the timber about one inch. The bottom of the boat is to be made of good, sound white oak, of such thickness and width as we may think best, and to be spiked and bolted on in the best manner.

"The Deck is to be made of good, sound timber, clear of rots, bad knots, windshakes, etc., and both bottom and deck to be caulked and pitched in the best manner; she is to be finished with a guard and railing, rudder and bowsprit, and, in fact, to be finished in first-rate style and full as well as the best of boats are finished, and to be delivered to us in the water, clear of all breakages, injuries, or anything of the kind. For which we are to pay him $1,000. We are, if we think proper, to pay for the timber and lumber and hands' wages to his order, to the amount of $600, and when the boat is finished, we are to pay him the balance of $400, or he is to find every article of material and pay hands' wages, and we are to pay him $150 when the boat is one-fourth completed, and $150 when two-fourths completed, and $150 when three-fourths completed, and the balance when fully completed and delivered. He also agrees to complete and deliver said boat in three months from this date, and as much sooner as possible, or to pay $5 each day for each day we may be kept out of said boat after the three months expire, and he also agrees that John Newton may be there and see the work going on, and have the privilege of making such alterations as he may think proper, and throw out such timber as he may think unfit to go into said boat. It is also agreed that all spikes and bolts are to be made of the best Junietta iron. It is also agreed that he is to furnish the capson, and we the iron for said capson.

"JOHN NEWTON,
"HENRY B. BROMWELL,
"H. P. HOWELL,

"Test: JACOB BROMWELL."

The family have a tradition that the boats were operated at a loss on account of several breakages and wrecks. At any rate, he seems to have removed to Dayton, Middletown, and later to Coshocton Co., O., and in 1836 to Illinois, where he took up some land, to which he was entitled as a "bounty" for his services in the war of 1812. This land was in Cumberland, on the "National Road," then finished thus far, and, as fortune would have it, was stopped at Cumberland, and instead of being the great thoroughfare to St. Louis that the people expected, was never completed much beyond this point. It was a fine road, macadamized, built at the expense of the government, and had been promoted by Henry Clay. Many persons filled the country at this time traveling along this road. It had stone bridges, and property along it was considered likely to be valuable. The family lived in exile here for twelve years before they were able to trade this land for other property and move away.* He had brought with him in moving to Illinois a number of excellent books, and they were able to educate their children, and, in fact, started a school in the place which they kept up for some time. He was always anxious to help in every way to promote education in the county, and it did much good. He was always greatly beloved for his sweetness of nature, which, united with his generosity and attractive manners, made him one to be singled out in any community, and remembered with tenderness even by those in no way related to him.

He was always very fond of children, and especially of his little grandchildren, Genie in particular being his favorite. He always called her "Little Pet," and otherwise gave her great attention. The two eldest children of his daughter Laura had been his first favorites, and as they were one after the other stricken by death, his heart was almost broken; he grieved for years over this loss of these two little grandchildren; one was born after the other died, and both died at the same age. His daughter Henrietta was the idol of his heart at all times, but she died at the age of 25 years. He could not give her up, but would take his chair and spend hours in the graveyard grieving and refusing to be comforted. She was a remarkable young woman and an unusual child, very studious, always writing (her poetical compositions were frequently published in the papers of the time), and she had high ambitions for her brother. She was said to be very handsome, with beautiful dark brown eyes, and hair that curled naturally and hung in long ringlets around her shoulders. The Bible she read incessantly, and became filled with the spirit of it, as persons did at that time in those lonely situations. She had a little Sunday-school for the children of the neighborhood, which she kept up for years, and also a little private day school and a class in singing. She was much like her brother in disposition and appearance and temperament.

The country was full of malaria, occasioned by the opening up of the rich soil of the prairies and forest lands. Every house had a case of sickness, and many deaths occurred in every family during a number of years. They were all ill most of the time for fifteen years after coming to Illinois, and the country contained no money, and there were no markets. They had so much sickness during this period that the survivors of the family for thirty years afterward, or as long as they lived, continued to complain and feel that they were not quite well and never would be. They were never reconciled to the death of this beautiful and gifted daughter and sister, a martyr to the settlement of Illinois. Her mother would grieve and weep over the loss forty years afterward. She was buried in the little "Cumberland Burying Ground," on the "National Road," near the house where she died.

His wife was a woman of so much vigor that she kept things from becoming stagnant even in a western wilderness. If she could have moved every year she would have done so, and encompassed the earth in her desire for change. He gave up the place in 1848 and went to Vandalia, which had been the capital of Illinois, afterward removed to Springfield. He was a Mason, having been a member in Baltimore of King David's Lodge, and of Jerusalem Chapter R. A. M. of Maryland. In Vandalia he joined Fayette Lodge, and later on removing to Charleston, after about ten years in Vandalia, he was a member of Charleston Lodge No. 35, which performed the beautiful rites of the Craft at his funeral, which was very large. Many of the Masons appeared in blue sashes, a fashion not now in vogue. The diploma herein represented was always carried by him on his travels to New Orleans and other distant places during the active years of his life.

They had six children, but only three grew to adult age. He adored his son "Pelham," and this feeling was returned. So strongly had it been impressed on the son that he should take care of his father, that in dying, when an old man nearly 80 years of age, years after the death of his father, he talked incessantly in his delirium of his feeling of responsibility, saying: "Where is father? Is he in the house? Don't let him go out into the storm."

"PELHAM" IN 1848.
HENRY PELHAM HOLMES BROMWELL. b. Aug. 26, 1823, in Balt., Md.; m. Elizabeth Emily, dau. of John Wright Payne and Elizabeth (Rice) Payne, on June 20, 1858, in Marshall, Ill.; he d. in Denver, Colo., Jan. 9, 1903.

He came with his parents to Cinn., O., in 1824, when an infant; lived in childhood in Montgomery, Middletown, Dayton and in Coshocton, O., in that state, and in 1836, when 13 years of age, came to Cumberland, Clark Co., Ill., a town no more on the map, but which was on the site of the present town of Casey.

In 1844, when 21 years of age, he taught school in the old stone school house in Marshall (called "The Academy") and was very successful, and esteemed a great scholar by the neighborhood. But his ambition was to study law, so as soon as the land could be exchanged for a newspaper, the family departed for Vandalia, where they lived during a number of years, or from 1848 until 1858. Here he assisted his father in the work of carrying on his paper, "The Age of Steam," and at the same time studied law, and came to the bar in Nov., 1853. He made very elaborate preparation for his examination in law, and was fortified at all points, having exhausted himself in studies to be able not only to pass, but to pass without a mistake, and in fact to surprise the old lawyers by his perfect work. To his astonishment and chagrin the board declined to examine him at all, but had a few jokes at his expense, and gave him his certificate. This was something he had not thought of, and was one of the great disappointments of his young life. In speaking of it years afterward, he always used it as an illustration of the fact that his whole life through he had had much to contend with.

In 1853, soon after being admitted to the bar, he was elected County Judge of Fayette Co., being elected at the same time ex-officio chairman of the County Board, which went at that time with the office of County Judge. While in this office he had charge of rebuilding the court house (formerly the state capitol building), and made all the plans, drawings and contracts, and let all the work, and it was finished in good style for the time. It still stands, one of the examples of the old court houses of that period.

While in Vandalia he made a campaign for Congress against Aaron Shaw, who was successful. His friends and intimates at this period included Robert G. Ingersoll, who was much devoted to him, and wrote him some very friendly letters for years afterward. Ingersoll was also studying law, and trying to write, and sent many communications to the "Age of Steam," some of which, by the way, had to be rejected.

Vandalia, besides having been the capital of the state, was for many years one of the largest and most important places, and most of the eminent lawyers of the time, such as Lincoln, Sidney Breese, and others, practiced in the courts there, and many others since famous were frequently in the place. Joseph and David Gillespie, of Madison Co., came there often, and on the eastern side of the circuit Richard W. Thompson came over from Indiana. He and Joseph Marshall and Caleb B. Smith were thought to take the palm. Breeze was an illustrious man (of Carlyle). He was U. S. Senator, and afterwards on the Supreme Bench of Illinois, being Judge under three different constitutions of the state. Years afterward, in old age, in reviewing the eminent lawyers whom he had known in Illinois during his life there, he gave the palm to these, and to Judge Gregory of Fayette Co.; to Uri Manley of Clark Co., who was a splendid lawyer and fine gentleman; to James C. Allen of Palestine, who ran against Breeze for Congress at one time; to Edmund Y. Rice of Montgomery Co., who was in the Constitutional Convention of 1870; to Charles H. Constable of Marshall (splendid lawyer); James M. Davis of Vandalia; Samuel W. Moulton, who was member of Congress (Shelby Co.) in 1864; to James R. Connolly of Charleston, who was later in Congress from that district; to Judge Thornton and Judge Anthony of Shelby Co.; Seth Post of Macou, Co.; Judge S. B. Gookins of Terra Haute (Ind.); John P. Usher, afterward Secretary of the Interior under President Lincoln; Stephen T. Logan of Springfield, who, with Lincoln and "Long Archibald Williams, were counted the three heads of the state for many years. Later, on removing to Charleston, he made the acquaintance of Orlando B. Ficklin, who was the leader of the Democracy in Coles Co. at that time, and whose wife was Elizabeth Colquitt, daughter of Senator Colquitt of Georgia, the noted leader in the Rebellion. John Scofield of Marshall was another who was intimately associated with him, and grew up in Marshall, and afterward attained to the Supreme Bench of Illinois, and was offered a place on the Supreme Bench of the United States, but declined for the reason that his wife was an invalid and could not leave Marshall to live in Washington.

Illinois was, in fact, at that time and later not a bad environment for a young lawyer. He could find plenty of good subjects to sharpen his metal upon. During all the years of his residence in Cumberland he studied incessantly, and was becoming proficient in Latin, Greek and the modern languages, besides mastering mathematics and the natural sciences.

In 1856 he was on the Republican ticket for Elector for Fremont, but was defeated. In 1857 he removed to Charleston, Ill., (Oct.), and in 1860 was a candidate for Presidential Elector for Lincoln, and was elected. He was on the school board, also, in Charleston. In 1861 he was nominated for the Constitutional Convention for counties of Douglas, Moultrie and Coles. His Democratic opponent, O. B. Ficklin, was elected. In 1864 he was nominated for Congress against John Eaton (Dem.), and elected by 3,300 majority.* The nomination (as in all cases where he was concerned), had been unanimous. He was again nominated and elected in 1866, his opponent this time being Gen. John C. Black, the District being the 7th, and this time his majority being 4,300. Then, in 1869, he was nominated (by acclamation) and elected a member of the Second Constitutional Convention for the counties of Coles, Douglas and Vermilion.

He came to Colorado in Oct.-Nov., 1870 (arriving Nov. 10th). Was President of the School Board Dist. No. 2 for four years. Elected to the Territorial Legislature (upper House), in 1873-5, serving two years. Made campaign for Congress in 1874, being defeated through the interests which he had antagonized in the Territorial Council, when he had prevented some legislation which was directed toward the confiscation of the public lands.

In 1878 he was elected to the Legislature of Colorado, and during his term of office was appointed County Judge, but declined to accept. He was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention of Colorado in 1875, and was the one who more than any other secured for the women of Colorado the right to the franchise. For this he has been called "the Father of Woman Suffrage in Colorado." He was a most eminent

NOTE—* In a communication from Gov. Richard Yates of Ill. to President Lincoln, of date Nov. 1, 1864, he requests the President to furlough any troops that can possibly be spared of the 49th, 114th and 119th Regs. of Ill. Inf. (then moving back to Ill.), in order that they may vote: "It need not detain them longer than four days, and the necessity for electing a loyal State Senate is absolute; and increase of three members of Congress, viz.: Jehu Baker defeating Morrison; Bromwell defeating Eaton, and Cullom defeating Stuart, depends on these regiments; and the Presidential and State ticket need that aid to guarantee success; defeat in Ill. is worse than defeat in the field, and I do hope you will immediately order that these regiments may be allowed to remain and vote on the route to Tennessee. Please answer at Springfield as soon as possibly convenient."

member of this body, serving on the Committee on "Order of Business and Proper Rules for the Government of the Convention;" Chairman of the Committee on "State, Municipal and County Indebtedness;" "Revisions and Adjustments;" on Standing Committee on "Rules;" on "The Right of Suffrage and Elections," and his Minority Report brought in from this Committee is printed in page 266 of the Proceedings of the Convention (edition of 1907.) In 1881 he was appointed to revise the laws of Colorado, which he did, working several years. (Statutes of 1884.) The work is still the official law of the state. (His name does not appear on the book, however, except in the preamble.)

He was always most eloquent. When, in Congress, he made his speech on the Civil Rights Bill, Thaddeus Stevens came to him, and, taking both hands, said, "It was grand." As Stevens was the finest orator in the House, the praise was appreciated.

He ran on the same ticket with Lincoln in 1856, both being candidates for Presidential Elector, Lincoln being for Elector-at-Large, and he being for elector for the Seventh District (Buchanan's time). Both voted for Fremont. Others on the ticket were Colonel Olney of Chester, and John W. Palmer, who was candidate from the Springfield District; Allen C. Fuller of Winnebago Co., Judge Plato, Leonard Swett (Blooming- ton), Lawrence Weldon (Clinton). The ticket stood:

ABRAHAM LINCOLN
H. P. H. BROMWELL
LEONARD SWETT
LAWRENCE WELDEN
WM. B. PLATO
JOHN OLNEY

For many years he had been one of the most influential and prominent speakers and orators in promoting the organization of the Republican party in Illinois, and to show how he worked, and what his influence was, a few letters of that period are appended to this biography. He “stumped” the state with Lincoln, and assisted him in that most important campaign of 1860. (See Article, p. 72.) For twenty years he played a most important part in the political work of Illinois.

He was made a Mason in Temperance Lodge No. 16, at Vandalia, Ill., in 1854; Senior Deacon, 1855; Worshipful Master, 1856-7. Removing to Charleston, he was, in June, 1858, elected a member and Worshipful Master of Charleston Lodge No. 35, being re-elected in '59-'60-'61-'62 and '63. In 1861 he was appointed Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Illinois.

In 1862-4-9 he continued to fill this office. In 1863 he was elected Senior Grand Warden, Deputy Grand Master in 1864, and Grand Master in 1865. He declined re-election in 1866 as being unjust to J. R. Gorin, who had served as his deputy during his absence in Washington attending the stormy sessions of the Congress of 1865-6.

He took the Royal Arch Degrees in Edgar Chapter, Paris, Ill., in 1859. He was High Priest of Keystone Chapter, No.
54, Charleston, Ill., in 1861-2-3, received the Degree of Royal and Select Master at Paris, Ill., in 1860 or '61; the orders of Knighthood in Ellwood Commandery in Springfield, Ill., in 1861, and the Scottish Rite Degrees to the 32d in Denver, Colo., 1877. He was an honorary member of Naval Lodge No. 4, and Pantalpha Lodge No. 25, in the District of Columbia. In Denver he affiliated with Lodge No. 5, April 4, 1874, and with Denver Chapter No. 2, May 22, 1878. He was Grand Orator of the Grand Lodge of Colorado in 1874, and was made an honorary member of this body in 1889. He was also an honorary member of the Scottish Rite bodies of Denver. He was the originator of a branch of Masonry known as the F. & A. Architeets, which flourished for a number of years. It was designed to impart to students of Masonry a knowledge of the symbolism not otherwise obtainable. It had five Lodges—one in Charleston, Ill.; one in Washington, D. C.; at Denver, and at Portland.
AN OLD WHITE HOUSE DINNER INVITATION OF AN HISTORIC PERIOD.
Maine, and San Francisco. There was also a Grand Lodge. After his retirement from active work in it, the Lodges became dormant.

His work on Symbolry occupied him for twenty years in the composition, and was not published until after his death, under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Colorado. He made elaborate and beautiful plates for its illustration, finely drawn in water color. This work, now published and circulated in nearly every Grand Jurisdiction in the world, has been made the subject of resolutions by the Grand Lodge of Illinois, by which it is characterized as “The most remarkable contribution of its class ever made to Masonic literature.”

Lawrence N. Greenleaf characterized him as “The foremost Mason of his time.” The late Dr. Joseph Robbins, one of the most eminent scholars in Masonry the Craft has ever had, said in an address delivered before the Grand Lodge of Illinois that he was “the most singularly striking personality that has graced the presence and adorned the annals of this Grand Lodge since its organization.”

The following is from William E. Ginther of Charleston, Ill. (It was published in The Charleston Courier, in 1903):

“His orations have never been surpassed, if, indeed, they have been equaled. A few brief quotations from one will prove this assertion: ‘Truth, Most Worshipful Grand Master, is the corner-stone of the Masonic edifice; the stone of foundation of Enoch, and the glory of the Grand Architect of the Universe. * * * Truth is freedom, and error is slavery throughout the universe of God; and truth, and the freedom it confers, must prevail at last. Error may wrestle and combat under countless transformations, and at times grow strong, and become as a devastating storm; but truth, the celestial fire-bolt of Jupiter, hidden in the clouds, breaks from its own bosom to scatter and dissipate its rage, and make way for the standards of light. * * * For these reasons I have said that truth is the corner-stone of the Masonic edifice. For, if it were otherwise, the Masons would be neither free nor accepted; the edifice itself would not be the temple of knowledge and light, but a cave of superstition and darkness. Every crime would find a refuge in its courts, and instead of the Divine order of Jerusalem and the glory of the Shekinah, the confusion of Babel, and the darkness of Egypt would settle about its crumbling tower. Well might the philos-

Resolutions of Thanks

To

M. W. Bro. H. P. A. Bromwell.
P. G. M. of Illinois.

Resolved. That the thanks of Andrew Jackson Lodge No. 120 A. F. & A. M. are due and are hereby tendered to H. P. A. Bromwell, P. G. M. of Illinois, on account of the highly entertaining lecture delivered by him before the Lodge at Alexandria, Va., in the evening of the 22d of January, 1869.

Resolved. That on the memory of Andrew Jackson Lodge no less revered and可愛之於 the great and noble men of the past, with the highest esteem and the deepest respect, we unite in expressing our deep and heartfelt sympathy and our unqualified admiration. Let all who knew him speak of his illustrious career and of the example which his life has set us. May the union of the Supreme Grand Master be ever thus, and his name be a name by which the Grand Lodge may ever stand as an example and a pattern to all the lodges in the Grand Lodge.

Resolved. That a duplicate copy of these resolutions be sent to H. P. A. Bromwell.

RESOLUTIONS OF ANDREW JACKSON LODGE, A. F. & A. M.
(Alexandria, Virginia, 1869.)
RESOLUTIONS OF CHARLESTON LODGE NO. 35, A. F. A. M.
(Illinois, 1870.)
ophers of all ages seek for truth as the most precious object to which man may attain in mortal life, whether it be set forth in the plain enunciation of Solomon, or veiled in the awful myths of the seers of Chebar and Patmos; whether taught in simple household words, or the wondrous allegories of Pandit and Rosicrucian. This must suffice for want of space.

"At any and all times when he arose to speak he commanded undivided attention. His conclusions and advice were always adopted without a question, and to this day I do not remember any one who ever spoke an unkind or unloving word of him.

"In the beginning of his public career he possessed and gave life to native talents, found in comparatively few cases among the sons of men. To those, and to his persistent studies must be ascribed the wonderful development by his own efforts to that remarkable and profound erudition which distinguished him in after life. He was equally at home in history, and in the arts and sciences, and his poetic works prove his conspicuous ability in that direction, notably that upon the "Boulder."

"His extraordinary command of the English language was derived from an industrious study of philology, both in its primary and general sense. He knew as much, or more, of the German tongue and the German masters as the writer of this biography, who is of that nationality by birth. He who will read his translation into English of Schiller's great poems of 'Das Lied von der Glocke' (The Song of the Bell), and 'Der Taucher' (The Diver), and his comments thereon will be readily convinced of the truth of this assertion.

"There can be no wonder, therefore, to one knowing these facts, that he attained to extraordinary powers of eloquence in oratory, and instant readiness to respond in a telling manner to a call for a speech upon any topic upon which he had not been previously apprised. During one of his terms in Congress he accepted an invitation from the Masonic Fraternity in Baltimore to a great festival, and a request for an address upon purely Masonic mysteries. Upon his arrival from Washington, in the large hall where he was to speak, he found to his astonishment and dismay that it was filled not alone by the Masons, but also by their mothers, wives, sisters, sweethearts and aunts, whose presence (not to speak of their beauty, which ordinarily would have delighted and moved his loving and widowed heart to palpitation), was entirely out of place with him upon that occasion, as it ruined his carefully prepared speech, and left him stranded upon the shores of his immediate resources. He pulled himself together, however, and, as he expressed it to the writer, succeeded in making the best of all the orations that he had ever delivered impromptu or otherwise. The Press of Baltimore afterwards confirmed his opinion.

"The power and volume of his voice also contributed to his effectiveness as an orator. When he delivered his great speech upon the newly-laid corner-stone of the Masonic Temple in Washington, his eloquent words were distinctly heard by some ladies of his acquaintance at an open window, blocks away.

"He had, and ever preserved, a sunny temper; this, and his pleasing ways, together with his accomplishments as a conversationalist, unconsciously made him the central figure upon all occasions among his associates, both of high and low degree of culture.

"One of the most conspicuous of the traits that made him popular was his humility, and constant effort to ascribe to others what really came from himself, and made for success and use. His greatness and talents were conspicuous, and appreciated wherever he went."

The "Song of the Wahbeck" was written at different times during his life, some portions of it, such as the story of the Whippoorwill having been published in The Age of Steam in Vandalia. This paper seems to have had a wide circle of exchanges, and was sent as far as Boston and New York. The connected poem as it was published in 1909, years after his death, was the result of much changing and amending, the last copy having been made in the declining years of his life. He did not add anything to it, but rearranged it somewhat, and took out portions he considered too long. In its first connected form, but very much smaller than at the time of its publication, it was read at McKendree College, in Illinois, in 1868, and on that occasion he received the Honorary Degree of Master of Arts. He was already well known as a scholar all over the state. He loved his poem of the Wahbeck, or "Boulder," as he at first called it, and was fond of reading it to gatherings of his friends. Once, by invitation, it was read to the assembled members of the Constitutional Convention of Illinois, in 1870. He was a fine reader and could deliver it in a style to make its beauties appreciated. At such times it seemed to be a piece of music in which the time and harmony were perfect.

He had only three children, the youngest of whom, Emma M., died soon after her mother, or in February, 1865; this child was born Aug. 16, 1864 (110), in Corydon, Ind., where his wife died. She was a most beautiful and gifted woman, and during their brief married life they were very happy. In her way she was as popular and successful as her husband, and a woman of fine style and education; a great loss to him. They were said to resemble very much, and used to be mistaken for brother and sister in traveling. (Elizabeth Emily Payne; m. June 20, 1858.)

Henry Pelham Payne Bromwell
Henry P. H., 4.
Henry B., Sr., 3.
William 2.
Jacob 1.

His second child, Henry, or Henry Pelham Payne Bromwell (109), was b. in Charleston, Ill., Jan. 8, 1862, and d. in Denver Nov. 18, 1881, aged nineteen years and some months. He was a fine, tall, athletic boy, ambitious, studying law in the office of his father's former partner, Mr. Ezekiel B. Sleeth. He had more than the usual talent for the study, and was progressing well, when he was suddenly stricken with typhoid fever and died after a short illness. He was a boy of noble character, very unselfish, absolutely honest, with that honesty which is incapable of the slightest deceit. He would have made a partner of his father, and in his death all the father’s plans were abandoned. He never recovered from this loss, and was never the same again. Henry was the hope of his old age, and his death broke his father’s heart.

The only member of this family now living is the daughter, Miss Henrietta Elizabeth Bromwell (108), who lives in Denver, Colo.

The Denver Republican of Jan. 10, 1903, had the following editorial, written by Judge Oliver B. Liddell:

“There will be a funeral in this city to-morrow of one of the most distinguished citizens in the life of the state for more than thirty years.

“Enfeebled by ill health and age, and in retirement for nearly twenty years, his abode among us has been largely lost sight of in the hustle, tumult and commotion of a commercial age.

“To those who knew Judge Bromwell no encomium or eulogy is necessary, for his attainments, nobility of character and splendid citizenship are a joy to those who come within the charmed circle, and ought to be deeply memorialized in the minds and lives of the younger generation: dying towards the close of his eightieth year, his life exemplifies the noblest product of our country in the last century.

“Drifting into the current of law his learning therein became of the most proficient, and he rose to the plane of the best, with Lincoln, Baker, Logan, Douglas and Palmer as his associates, co-workers and friends. Deeply versed in constitutional, statutory and common law, he added the quality of statesmanship, and was called by his fellow citizens of Illinois to represent them in Congress when in very truth ‘the office sought the man.’

“What a sterling, worthy picture the character of this man presents to us at this time, as we see the travesty, caricature and burlesque practiced of the ‘office seeking the man.’ Without guile, dissimulation or slightest deceit in public or private, he was a model servant of the people, ready to make any sacrifice or perform any labor within his power in such service, and the people of Illinois made him one of the builders of their constitution, and when the foundations of our state were laid he fitly became the master builder of our constitution (and well would it be for our people if his master hand could have followed and guided the many devious wanderings of its amendments added thereto).

“In private life and purity of character he was the ornament and pride of his associates. In the order of Masonry to which he was attached he had more of its learning than any in our state, and his writings therein voluminous. His productions as a poet are endowed with lofty sentiment, fine rhythm, and creative imagination.

"Such a man he was, in truth and in fact, without overdrawn description or fulsome flattery, a model in most things for young men, and a fine study and copy for all.

"Fortunate was the friend who had his friendship and enjoyed close communion with him as gentleman, lawyer, poet, scholar, philosopher and statesman."

LETTER OF COL. W. B. ARCHER.

"Washington, D. C., June 12, 1856.

"H. P. H. Bromwell.

"Dear Sir—This week I did well hope that my case would be decided, being assigned for Monday, the 9th, but there were not members enough to form a quorum in the House this week, and the matter will not be taken up until after the return of the members from Convention in Phila., and I have come to the conclusion to go to New York, see in person Messrs. L. Winslow, McMartin, etc., of and concerning our M. and A. R. R. I cannot hear from Mr. Walte, and does it not take him a long time to make out and have published the detailed statement of the affairs of our Company, which he assured me would be done in quick time?

"Call a meeting and elect a President to take charge of the work, put it under contract, as our citizens in Clark and Cumberland are desirous to know if the line will be altered from the present location, of which I intend to have their views in N. Y. I have no desire to spend a dollar unnecessarily, but I will, if possible, learn our prospects as to this road, and for the interest of all citizens on the line I make the trip."
REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE UPON

MEMORIAL FOR H.P.H. BROMWELL.

Whereas, the said H.P.H. Bromwell, a member of the State Constitutional Convention, departed this life on January 13th, 1903, and

Whereas, the said H.P.H. Bromwell, in his ability, scholarship, and high character won the respect and friendship of all, and

Whereas, in memory and as a mark of respect, the members of the State Constitutional Convention have sent a monument to his greatness, and by the kindness and philanthropy has shown himself to have been a true friend to all in distress, therefore:

Resolved, that we extend our sympathies to his surviving relatives and that a monument with their name be erected in his honor.

Resolved, that as a mark of respect and admiration for him, it is desired that these resolutions be printed in the journals of the Senate and House of Representatives, and that an inscription of the same be prepared and transmit to the surviving daughter of the said H.P.H. Bromwell.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF COLORADO. (1903.)
"Well, Mr. Buchanan is the nominee of the Party, and ours will be selected next week, and I am of the opinion that Judge McLean will be that man, though I may be mistaken. I know him well, and, casting about, think he is the most available man. His father was an Irishman from the Sod, came in before the Revolution, was in the service with Washington for years. His mother is of New Jersey, in which state he was born, and moved to Warren Co., O., in very early day. His father's farm and that of my father were one mile apart. I lived with him in 1810, went to school from his residence in Lebanon that summer; previously went to school to him in our neighborhood. They may take him from his youth up, and not a blemish to be found in his character. A self-made man, as yourself, struggled to get his education, etc. I hope you will accept the appointment as elector, and then we may hope and expect a defeat in our District, as to Constable and Ficklin. It will place you in the high road to fame, and will enlist you in political life, for which you have some slight inclination. It is a stormy life, and not the most lucrative in a monied point of view, but you must yield, and undertake the labor for the good of the cause."

"Mr. Chittenden introduced a Resolution requesting the President to send out Gen. Scott to make peace in Kansas. I heard them in opposition to it yesterday in Senate. They will vote it down. Mr. PRESTON will tell the tale too strong on them, so Seward made a short speech in favor of it, a strong appeal to them to settle the war and stop the effusion of blood, which they will not do."

"Judge BUTLER holds forth today on Kansas matters. Mr. Douglas and Trumbull cannot agree, and take a shot at each other occasionally. Trumbull has courage, and will never yield to his colleague."

"You will please drop me a line how political matters are in your section since Mr. Douglas failed to get the nomination. Is Alfred KITCHELL out on our side in the slavery question? I see Ben BOND has gone over to the enemy. As near as I can learn, Mr. Allen will not be a candidate for re-election, and Mr. A. SHAW will be the man."

"I will know my fate about the 24th of this month, be retained or returned home in quick time to my own private matters."

"With respect I am, Yours truly, W. B. ARCHER."

"H. P. H. Bromwell:

"Dear Sir—The House as good as adjourned on the 29th of May, a goodly number of the party attending the Cincinnati Convention. Many on our side went to the Philadelphia Convention, and have generally returned. Nothing has been done in the House until yesterday. My case will come up this week. On the 13th I went to New York on the subject of our road; on Saturday, 14th, saw Mr. Lanier and Winslow. They have not as yet settled with contractors, but intend to do it. Mr. Smith was there; did not see him; they were expecting SANGER et al. on there. The road will be made and completed at each end, and work to the center; my plan to haste the work and conciliate the friends of the road, and this must be conceded. You have learned that at Phila, we nominated Fremont and DAYTON. I was the devoted friend of Judge McLean; only 19 of our delegation for him; the balance for Fremont. He is a man who cannot be warped from his own views or moved from the position he takes by these flattering deceptive office seekers. He will have made out the true character of Mr. Fremont and Dayton, and that of Mr. Buchanan. In a short time you shall be furnished with all the documents you desire on each side to enable you to do up the work understandingly. I started A. Lincoln for V. Pres. on the morning of the 18th, after dark, and it took well. They, however, were committed to Dayton, who is a first-class man, and, with his influence so near and immediate, the citizens of the two states and Pennsylvania can be carried for Fremont."

"The contest will be warm not to the extent in our state as if Douglas had been nominated. His satellites in Ill. must be deeply wounded. Controllable had thrown himself into his arms some time since. Douglas is and will be down; his name being deserted by the high-flown, fradulent, and honorable men of his party in the South and elsewhere. He was neglected—overlooked—and F. Pierce, he, too, is—must be—a miserable man. A Whig meeting was called here this evening. I attended, as did Mr. Staunton of our house; James Jones of Tenn., Senator, led off full of fire, etc., to organize over this land the old Whig party. Some five or six hundred present, Democrats, Fremont, Fil-" more men, etc. They ask extension from the 4th of July to the last Wednesday in July to meet in Louisville. Such bitterness I never saw. L. D. Campbell was present; came to look on; did not intend to speak, but when observed was called out, and stated that he had ever been a Whig, a Clay Whig, was an American, belonged to the order which Jones abused. Well, sir, a scene took place which I never expected to see, and it appeared to me that violence must take place. Campbell is extension of slavery, and he spoke fearlessly, though a motion was made to drag him down, a motion to move to the City Hall, and at this moment all the lights in the house but one were instantly put out and an attempt to put that last one out. We stood by Campbell and went to the City Hall, and on the steps Campbell gave them his views fearlessly, denouncing the administration.

"One man made at Campbell; he was recognized as an agent of the Post Office. 'Come on,' says Campbell, shaking wickedly his neat small cane at him. He was stopped by the crowd around him. Campbell spoke defiantly, and as brave as Caesar. Warm and unpleasant will be the contest, but it must be met, and we will succeed. Fremont and Dayton we will carry in our state. You must take care of your health, and when furnished with all the documents and evidence necessary—as you will be—in the style I named have buggy and trunk moved over the district, and when commenced make a business of it. Please write me, and how the current is setting. Yours truly,

W. B. ARCHER.

A STORY OF THE LINCOLN CAMPAIGN.

Interview published in the Denver Tribune during 1880 (?). Published by permission of Mr. Stapleton, Editor of the Denver Republican.

"It was during the last session of the Legislature that the interview between George Alfred Townsend and Judge J. P. Usher concerning President Lincoln, whose Secretary of the Interior Mr. Usher was, was published.

"It is interesting," said Judge Bromwell, speaking to a Tribune reporter concerning the matter; "it is decidedly interesting, but it is incorrect."

Now, in the days of President Lincoln, Hon. H. P. H. Bromwell was a prominent man in Illinois; indeed, in national politics; a member of the same bar as Mr. Lincoln, politically of the same faith, he and the Judge were naturally warm friends. Hence the reporter was disposed to get Judge Bromwell to relate his version of the affair. But he was very busy making laws, and although he told the reporter that he was present on some of the occasions referred to, he declined to go into details. Yesterday the patient reporter was rewarded. He met the Judge, and, finding him comparatively at leisure, asked him about the Lincoln anecdote. "The anecdote was that concerning a lawyer and a doctor," put in the reporter; "you told me you were present, if I recollect."

"I was present, and know all about it; except I forget some of the most laughable parts of the altercation between the lawyer and doctor referred to. If I could recollect every word I could not tell it as Mr. Lincoln could, and did. There is a sequel to the story, more interesting than any part of it, which must go with it; it concerns Mr. Lincoln directly in the last days of his life. There is not now another person than myself alive who knows all of both parts of this story. I will give you the facts just as they happened, and you may be assured that every expression attributed to Mr. Lincoln is in the very words used by him, unless where I state it to be otherwise."

"Late in September, 1856, Mr. Lincoln and I were on a trip together speaking through the old Seventh Congressional District of Illinois. We left Charleston, Coles County, about ten o'clock in the morning, on a freight car on the Terre Haute and Alton Railroad to go to Grandview, a small town about two miles from the railroad, in Edgar County, where a township meeting was to be held at one o'clock that day. There were no other passengers, as I can recollect, and we got off at Dudley, two miles from Grandview, and went to dinner with R. B. Sutherland, who lived then at the station, an old and leading citizen of Grandview, and one of the best men of Edgar County. He is now "no more of earth," but he was one of those men whom I cannot mention with indifference at any time.

"After dinner we went in a one-horse wagon with Mr Sutherland and others to Grandview, where a platform had been built in a grove that was fenced in, and the ground was covered with a rank growth of blue grass nearly two feet high. The scenery around Grandview was worthy of the name; the whole neighborhood presented a succession of undulations, the summits covered with walnut groves, the trees being tall and straight and just enough scattered to give all the beauty of mingled shade and sunshine, and the mellow autumn sunlight breaking through the wide-spreading branches of the pensive-seeming walnut trees, bending with the weight of their orange-like fruit, together with the wide and quiet landscape toward the north, gave a wonderful air of repose to the whole scene. The people assembled and sat down on the cushion of blue grass which filled every square foot of the inclosure, and shortly after one o'clock the speaking began.

"Mr. Lincoln was one of the Republican nominees for elector at large on the Fremont ticket, and I was nominee on the same ticket for elector for the district which involved Logan County, running seventy miles north of Springfield, and Lawrence County, opposite Vincennes on the south.

What our chances were in that region may be inferred from the numbers of each party present (it being a Republican meeting), which were ninety Democrats and forty-six Fillmore men, or forty-six Democrats and ninety Fillmore men, I forget which, and six Republicans.

"Although that may seem a slim showing for us, yet by comparison it didn't seem so bad to me, for there were present five more Republicans than I found in all Clay County, and six more than in Piatt County at the beginning of the campaign.

"Mr. Lincoln spoke first, and made one of the most masterly speeches of his life, and his jovial spirit seemed to fill the assembly, and there was not only universal good humor, but, from some cause, there grew up a remarkable disposition to have some roaring fun."
Everybody was at ease and leisure; all had been to dinner, and to eat dinner with the Edgar County people meant to get what the Frenchman called 'a ver grand satisfy' of all the good things which a country produced when it was constantly remarked that 'a man could work one day and live on it six.'

"The lawyer and doctor mentioned by Mr. Usher were both there, though not by appointment. The lawyer was Hon. J. P. Cooper, a Republican of Marshall, Clark County, formerly Democratic member of the Legislature, and afterwards Judge of the County Court of Coles County; and the doctor was Dr. A. Goodale of Paris, then, as always, a devoted Democrat. They were both men of remarkable fluency of speech, both excitable, and each for certain peculiarities never had an equal that I ever saw. Each for some reason had a special desire to get after the scalp of the other, and each had come to make a speech if a chance could be had. Each was full of wit and droll, comical expressions; but they were so different that if either had been pitted against any man than the other, nothing extraordinary would probably have happened. But the combination brought them out. They were both restless while the appointed speakers were on the stand, and just before Mr. Lincoln concluded, Dr. G. came and asked me if we had any objections to his taking the stand. I said no, and went and told Mr. Lincoln what he wanted, and he announced that the doctor would speak. Judge Cooper, as it seems, did not expect that, was annoyed, and came to me saying he wanted to speak. I mentioned this to Mr. Lincoln and it was arranged that Cooper should follow the doctor. The crowd cheered the announcement, and as soon as Mr. Lincoln concluded the doctor mounted the stand, amid a roar of cheers, with his attention fixed on Cooper, who was in front of the stand, and seemed to take to himself everything the doctor had to say, and it was plain that each rejoiced in the scalp of the other in advance.

"Among the doctor's peculiarities the most remarkable was his wonderful stock and flow of words—words of all descriptions, but especially those of the sciences, theology and metaphysics, besides his medical vocabulary; he spoke fast and the crowd cheered, and as the cheering went on increasing it became necessary for him to speak louder and louder in order to be heard above the din, and as this excited him he went faster and faster. He was witty, and made some remarkable hits, and as the cheering went on he seemed to credit it all to that account, though the crowd enjoyed a good deal more than that, in what was going on.

"Judge Cooper, who seemed to take the whole speech to himself, was in front of the platform passing back and forward and gesticulating violently, and frequently making some retort at which the crowd shouted with all its might, whereupon the doctor would start upon another flight of his remarkable words, the crowd roaring until he was utterly drowned out by noise, and he would stop for breath, and the screaming and laughing would go on. As soon as it slackened the Judge cut in between them with something that set all going louder than ever, and the next holler the doctor, with fresh breath and a new supply of his curious words and wit, took all by storm.

"Now, Judge C. was short and fleshy, and, being lame in one hip, used a very stout cane, which he flourished much in speaking, and as he moved back and forth in front of the stand, and the doctor on the platform chassed from one end of it to the other, each letting fly at the other in his peculiar way, and the people rolling and sprawling in the blue grass and roaring, and the noise increasing every moment, it soon became a question of time, or rather endurance on the doctor's part, how long before he must yield the platform, and Cooper take his place.

"The doctor held the stand an hour, when he closed, utterly out of breath. Everyone jumped up and shouted for about five minutes, until the noise could have been heard a mile at least. Cooper was instantly on the platform, and as soon as he could be heard, went for the doctor, who was now in front and moving back and forth, every minute making some repartee, until it became a regular set-to between them.

"I lay on the grass, and at times leaned against the trunk of a walnut tree, about seven feet from the right hand corner of the platform. Mr. Lincoln lay at full length, with his feet at the same corner, and his head supported at times on his hand, his elbow on the ground. Sometimes he moved around and cracked a joke with somebody else. He remembered all the strange, witty or ludicrous things that were uttered by either party, or by the audience; but I have forgotten most of them. I recollect, however, that Cooper was descanting on the fact that, just at the time of such momentous movements in the political world, this doctor should make his appearance among men, and, in addition to that, should have a vision and see the obsolete things of all dictionaries in every language, and nothing that the people wanted to know.

"'That's more than any lawyer around here has seen lately,' shouted the doctor; 'a vision of anything homogeneous with a dictionary would throw their whole system into spasms.'

"'If a lawyer or anybody else should take spasms, or get foundered on any kind of valuable knowledge,' said Cooper, 'a Democratic speech would work it all out of him in time to save life.'

"And so they went on. All questions concerning the Nebraska bill, Missouri compromise and slavery were lost sight of in the contest of outwitting each other. Each was several times on the platform, and sometimes both, the crowd shouting, 'Go it, Pill-bags,' 'Go it, Lawyer,' 'Stick to him, Doctor,' etc., hats flying twenty feet high in the air, some standing, some rolling in the grass, and all in a roar of laughter.

At one time the Judge let off a hit at the Doctor, and he replied with a short, 'That's not so; that's a lie!'"
"'You say that's a lie, do you?' screamed Cooper; 'well, Doctor, I'll take that off of you; I'll take anything in the world from you, but for God's sake don't give me any of your pills!' "

"I've got no pill that would help your case; I don't treat delirium," said the Doctor; 'I'll let you know that I am not practicing medicine at all now!'

"'You don't practice medicine any more, you say?' shouted Cooper'; 'my God, the country is safer than I had supposed.'

"And so it went on, from four o'clock until just as the sun set, when the speakers subsided from sheer exhaustion, and the crowd began to stir around and separate; but the cheering and laughter did not slacken. On every road that they went you could hear them more than a mile off, making the woods ring. Mr. Lincoln had laughed till he was worn out. Several who were near us found it impossible to stop. For my part, it was the first and only time in my life that I laughed till I became alarmed; but the fact was, it produced a kind of spasm through the chest and body, which did not pass off for several hours.

"We rode back to Mr. Sutherland's and nobody thought of going to bed before midnight; yet even then the laughter would break out somewhere about the house, and all hands would join in, and so it went on for hours.

"The next morning we separated, and I saw Mr. Lincoln no more, till we met at Atlanta, Logan County.

"Well, what was the other part of the story?"

"Nearly nine years after, in the last days of March, 1865, I was at Washington, and went with Judge James Steel, then chief clerk of the Land division of the Indian Bureau, to call on Mr. Lincoln. We found him writing a letter at a long table. Governor Yates and Delegate Burleigh of Dacotah were in an adjoining room and came in. Mr. Lincoln asked us all to excuse him till he should finish the letter. Before he had finished writing, the door opened and Mr. Seward came in with a portfolio under his arm, and advanced to the opposite side of the table. As he did so Mr. Lincoln spoke out in a loud, ringing tone:

"'Good morning, Mr. Secretary; I was just writing a letter to send to you, but as you are here now I will give it to you myself;' and with that he said it made him think of a story about a lawyer up in one of the northern counties of Illinois, who wrote a letter to the Judge while the Court was in session, because the Judge would not allow him to speak further in the case.

"After he had told the story he introduced me to Mr. Seward, and said, 'This is the man who was with me at Grandview the time I told you of, when we had so much fun.' Then he said to Governor Yates, 'You never heard that story, did you?' The Governor said he had not. Thereupon
Mr. Seward said to Governor Yates that he must hear it, and Mr. Lincoln began to tell it with all the particulars.

"The table was a long one, standing about six feet from the fireplace, and in one corner of the room stood a long hickory cane, with the bark on. It was about four feet long. As he began to describe the performances at Grandview, he stepped to the corner, took that long staff, and came round on the side of the table farthest from the fire, and, flourishing the cane, and limping as though with a lame hip as he used it, he went backward and forward before the table, imitating Judge Cooper in action and voice; then laying the cane on the table he would give the Doctor's part, and so on, the room in a roar of laughter.

"Governor Yates, Judge Steel and I knew Judge Cooper, who was very short and fleshy, with a white head, and here was Mr. Lincoln, over six feet high, slender and straight, with a cane far too long even for him, showing off a man of such opposite form and likeness, which made the whole thing ten times more laughable than otherwise.

"Just as he had repeated the words of Cooper, 'Then the country is safer than I had supposed, and was whirling around the corner of the table, with the cane against his right hip—Secretary Seward, Governor Yates and all the rest convulsed with laughter—the door opened and in came the usher, saying:

"'Mr. President, that soldier is out there waiting to see you again. He wants to know when you will see him.' Mr. Lincoln said:

"'Tell him I can't see him any more about that matter. I've seen him as many times as I can.' And, turning toward the rest of us, he continued: 'I wish that man would let me alone; I've seen him again and again, and I've done everything for him that I can, and he knows it just as well as I do; and I've told him over and over, and he ought to let me alone, but he won't stop following me up. He knows I can't do anything more for him. I declare if he don't let me alone, I'll tell him, as I did a fellow the other day, that I'll undo what I have done for him.' The usher withdrew, and Mr. Lincoln went on, saying, 'There is no end of these cases of people that come to see me for something or other that nobody else can do for them. I do everything I can for them, but I can't do everything; and some of them are so unreasonable about it they won't let me off after I've talked it over with them time after time. It seems to me sometimes they will wear the very life out of me; but then all of these matters are nothing to these cases of life and death, and there are so many of them, and they all fall on me. I reckon there never was a man raised in the country on a farm, where they are always butchering cattle and hogs, and think nothing of it, that ever grew up with such an aversion to bloodshed as I have; and yet I've had more questions of life and death to settle in four years than all the men who ever sat in this chair put together. But I've managed to get along and do my duty, as I believe, and still save most of them; and there's no man knows the distress of my mind. But there have been some of them I couldn't save—there are some cases where the law must be executed. There was that man —— ——, who was sentenced for piracy and slave trading on the high seas. That was a case where there must be an example, and you don't know how they followed and pressed to get him pardoned, or his sentence commuted: but there was no use of talking. It had to be done. I couldn't help him, and then there was that —— ——, who was caught spying and recruiting within Pope's lines in Missouri. That was another case. They besieged me day and night, but I couldn't give way. We had come to a point where something must be done that would put a stop to such work. And then there was this case of Beal on the lakes. That was a case where there must be an example. They tried me every way. They wouldn't give up: but I had to stand firm on that, and I even had to turn away his poor sister, when she came and begged for his life, and let him be executed, and he was executed, and I can't get the distress out of my mind yet.'

"As he uttered these words the tears ran down his cheeks, and I not only saw them, but saw them drop one by one on the floor. (He was then sitting within five feet of me.)

"There was not a dry eye in the room, but the most profound silence, until we all, except Mr. Seward, rose to depart. Mr. Lincoln followed us to the door: we shook hands with feelings not to be described. To me it was the last grasp of the hand, and the last sound of the voice of Abraham Lincoln. In less than three weeks the telegraphing instruments were announcing at every station throughout the civilized world the unspeakable crime of his assassination."

(107) LAURA EUGENIA BROMWELL. b. Cinn., O., July 7, 1830; d. in Jefferson Co., Colo., at "Sunnyside," Dec. 23, 1909; m. in Cumberland, Clark Co., Ill., on Feb. 28, 1848, to John Wesley Cook, the wedding taking place at "Camp Meeting" (Rev. Mr. Palmer officiating). She had been brought to Illinois when a child of six years, and was educated at home by her father and sister Henrietta, and was always of a most refined and almost angelic disposition; a more absolutely unselfish nature was never created; she was all affection, not only for her own but for all persons, giving of what she had and having no doubt or suspicion of any living creature, but believing all to be spotless and good. In youth she was fresh and attractive, with brown eyes and hair, and red cheeks and good health. She was always modest, not very ambitious, except to do good and have affection, of which she never seemed to find enough. Her husband was a very unusual character, very positive, witty, fond of anecdotes, and able to occupy the center of the stage at all times and keep any number of persons convulsed by his sallies of humor. He was kind-hearted, and placed very little value on practical things, enjoying himself hugely with his many retainers (for many always lived off his bounty), and he was never so happy as at those times when the crowd would be thick and much applause paid him for the entertainments which persons so freely accepted from him. He carried on a nursery in Cumberland, and when the California excitement was great, in 1852, took a voyage to that state, taking with him considerable nursery stock, grapes, peach trees, etc. Here he spent six years, while his family lived with his wife’s brother. He returned in 1858 and again embarked in horticulture in Casey, but became possessed with a desire for change in 1870 and removed to Colo., where he settled down upon a ranch and did not make any further move, and had the first grapes and apples ever raised in the vicinity of Denver; he was fond of experiments, and liked to breed new varieties, and had a watermelon which he thought the finest ever bred, but which has not survived; it disappeared even during his lifetime, and he always used it as an illustration of the human race, saying that people were like watermelons and should not be planted next to pumpkins, as the next generation would be "some pumpkins," and the one after that would be "all pumpkins."

112 HENRIETTA MELINDA COOK (2D). b. June 16, 1852; d. in Vandalia July 7, 1854, aged 2 years, 21 days.

One of the stories told by him illustrates his dramatic abilities; he went at one time to Nebraska, intending to "break that country to fruit," taking with him, as usual, a large amount of nursery stock; nothing was heard from him for some time, no letters, and the family left in Cumberland became very uneasy; inquiries were sent out, but nothing resulted; at last, as they had about given up hope of hearing from him, he walked in one day, looking happy and pleased, and full of interest in Cumberland and vicinity. "Why, little ones," he said, "I wouldn't stay in Nebraska if you could get somebody to give me the whole state set in peaches. When I first passed through there I thought it was some windy, but supposed it would stop. I noticed a shock of corn blown up in the gable of a barn; it seemed to stay there without danger of falling; the heifers under it stood with their noses pointed upward; three months later, coming back, I passed the place and the same shock of corn was still there, and the heifers, too, in the same position, only they had grown some."

H. P. H. BROMWELL.

We certify that at a meeting of the employers of H. P. H. Bromwell, the above named teacher, held at Marshall, on the 24th day of November, in the year 1843, we were appointed trustees of said school, that we have performed the duties of said trustees, by visiting said school and superintending the same, that we have examined said schedule and find it to be correct; that the scholars named therein were at the dates of their attendance residents of Township No. 11 North, Range 12 West, and that there is due said teacher for instructing said scholars the sum of forty-two dollars and seventy-nine cents.

Witness our hand and seal this 27th day of December, A. D. 1844.

(F) JACOB BROMWELL. Lived a hundred years ago (?), on the Eastern Shore of Md. Was loved and honored by all; was a Wesleyan, a friend of Cookman, Bishop Scott and other noted Methodists, who used his house as a preaching place. He freed his slaves for conscience sake, and impoverished himself and family. He had issue (order uncertain): 1, John (came West in 1840 (Iowa); had James, and Mary, who m. Mr. Edgington. 2, Jacob; 3, Wm.; 4, Nicholas; 5, Sam'l; 6, James E. The last named, b. 1818 in Md.; came West in 1840; m., 1st, Catherine Gray, 1842; 2d, Mary E. Bunnell. (Iowa.)
Issue:  a, Wm. H., who m. Mary Whitmeeck, and has Harley E., James A., Flora, Carrie W.; (Neb.).  b, Carrie; m. M. W. Kepler; has Maud, Evelyn, and Jessie.  c, Leonidas H.; m. Mary A. Lathrop (has Elsie and Thomas D.).  d, T. G.; m. Ella Bailey (has Zulah, Nina, Jas., Max, Vince, Lura).  e, James E. (atty. in Marion, Ia.; m. Theodora Stearns; has Marion).  f, Addie B.; m. Vince G. Shumack; has Marion.  (Iowa.)

This family had an ancestor who was a Gov't pilot in Chesapeake Bay. They also have the tradition that the name was changed from Cromwell, and this is curious, as the other branch having the tradition have had no communication with this branch for over a hundred years.

WILLIAM BROMWELL. Lived in Balt. in 1812; merchant, etc.; very well off, but misfortune overtook him. Was captured by the British Fleet when they were coming up the Chesapeake to attack Baltimore. He and his wife were on their wedding trip, and were kept several days, but were allowed to go; were well treated by the British while prisoners. He was brother of John (A) and uncle of Wm. R. Bromwell above.

(c) Probably this refers to Wm. J. Bromwell (B) above.

(d) JACOB BROMWELL. A very old man in Trappe dist., Md., when Jno. Thomas Bromwell above was a small boy, or about 1835 or '40; thought he may have been a brother of his gr. f.

Henry Broughton Bromwell, Sr., had a cousin Jacob, whose dau. Susan m. Charles Townsend.

(Notes made by H. P. H. B. in Md. in 1866). JOHN WILLIAM and EDWARD BROMWELL were brothers. John settled in Dorchester, Edward in Talbot Co., and Wm. in Balt., Md. William was the father of William, Jacob, David, Joseph, Henry B., while JOHN was the father of John, William J., Jacob and Edward.

John (3) was father of Josiah R., John E., William, Sophia, and Mary Anne; all descendants of Edward, and lived in Talbot Co.

The Descendants of Rev. Jacob Lowe Bromwell.

(A) REV. JACOB LOWE BROMWELL.  b. of Methodist parents at Bayside, Talbot Co., Md., Aug. 1, 1792; d. at Waverly, Ind., March 9, 1871; m., 1st, Melinda Davis of Va., who d. without issue; 2d, Oct. 30, 1828, Charlotte, dau. of Jno. Brunnemer of Va.  He was son of Jeremiah Bromwell, who d. Aug. 15, 1806, or 1807.  He was the oldest and only son; his father m. twice; had by first wife, in addition to this son, 3 daughters: Anne (b. 1795; m. Mr. Hearst; d. in Morgan Co., Ind., Nov. 24, 1864, leaving descendants; Alice, who was burned to death when 3 years of age from clothing catching fire, and Nancy, d. in inf. By his second wife Jeremiah Bromwell had Eliza, Susan, and Mary Anne; the last m. a Mr. Hopkins of Annapolis, Md., and had son, Samuel, who in 1858 was Clerk of Court in Easton, Talbot Co., Md. Jeremiah also had a brother, Jacob Bromwell, who was living in 1807, and had by a second wife sons John, Jeremiah, Jacob, and possibly others. The Rev. Jacob Lowe Bromwell was an orphan by the death of his mother at 7 years of age; his father d. when he was 15 years old; his uncle Jacob was made his guardian; he entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and joined the band of traveling ministers, preaching through the pioneer settlements of Va. and Ind.; for 40 years he was a member of the Baltimore Conference, and could remember when the old building on Light St., Balt., would hold all the ministers of the Conference. His work was very difficult, and obstacles almost at times insurmountable.

He was converted in early life in Baltimore, and was licensed to exhort by Rev. Henry Boehm, Presiding Elder in Talbot Co., at the quarterly meeting at Trappe, May 10, 1815. His first license to preach was given by Rev. Jacob Gruber, Presiding Elder, dated June 15, 1816; he was ordained Deacon by Bishop R. R. Roberts in Balt., March 14, 1819, and Elder by Bishop Enoch George, Sept. 23, 1821, in Lexington, Ky.; in 1817 he was admitted to trial in the Baltimore Conference, and appointed to Huntington Circuit, Carlisle District, and in 1818 to the Pendleton Circuit, Greenbrier District; in 1819 to the Greenbrier Circuit, and in 1820 to the Monroe Circuit, in the same District. In 1822 he was sent to the Lancaster Circuit, Potomac District; in 1823-4 to Berkeley Circuit, and in 1825 to Botetourt Circuit, Winchester District; in 1826 he was superannuated on account of an affection of the throat, but became effective again in 1829, and was sent to the Greenbriar Circuit and Rockingham Circuit; he was again superannuated in 1830, and sustained the relation until death. He came to Indiana in 1831 and entered land in Morgan Co., where he d. His dau. Mary S. now lives on a part of this old estate. When he came to Ind. the country was a wilderness, and he commenced his labors as he was able, preaching in cabins, log schoolhouses and in the woods as opportunity offered, and preaching funerals all over the range of country where he lived. He became the founder of a number of societies, and especially of Shiloh and Salem churches; although a superannuate for forty years, he did good service for the church in the country around him. He was Justice of the Peace also most of this time. He was ill only a short time when he died at the age of 79 years, and the fifty-fourth of his ministry. His Conference was in session in Baltimore at this time.

He did not know the precise degree of his relationship to William Bromwell (No. 10, p. 20), but thought himself to be a great-nephew. He said he had a great-uncle in Md., on the Eastern Shore, who had a grist mill, and also a line of ferryboats, and had so fine a voice that it could be heard across the river when he would call his ferryman, "Stanley."

(b) JOHN BRUNXEMER BROMWELL, b. Dec. 16, 1833, in Johnson
Co., Ind. In the autumn of 1861 he volunteered and entered the army (Company E, 26th Reg. Ind. Vols.), and was engaged in chasing Price.
Was in the Battle of Prairie Grove when the bullets were flying thickly about him, cutting off twigs above his head, but never touching him. He was taken prisoner at Morganza, and marched to Tyler and guarded with other prisoners in an open place. His fare was rough. One pint of meal, unsifted, and a small piece of blue beef.
After about two weeks he tried to devise means to escape. He could not get any of his company to join him, but three members of another company intended to go, and he determined to go with them.
In some way their other companions attracted the attention of the guard on his beat, when they went out on hands and feet, expecting at any moment to hear the guns go off.

They soon found themselves among the pines, and as the wind was blowing quite hard, thought the hounds were after them, and made fast time in flight. But they were taken up by the conscript catchers, and carried along with them, and once more made an escape. Being very hungry they stopped at a house to get something to eat, and a negro betrayed them. They were again taken, but escaped a third time, and then ran into the Rebel picket lines, were caught, and carried away to Shreveport, where they were put into a log jail. John, on looking about him, saw a crack in the walls of the building, and with a dull piece of iron he worked at this until he made an opening, through which he could pass, and for the last time released himself, and later, after severe suffering, reached the Union lines.

His feet were worn out, so that the toe nails came off. After reaching home he seemed at first to be doing well, but took erysipelas and d. Jan. 7, 1865, and was buried with the honors of war on Jan. 8th. He had m. Mary E. Bressler in 1854. She survived him, d. Jan. 12, 1884. Issue: Alice, d. while her father was in the army. WILLIAM JEREMY BROMWELL. b. in Trappe, Md., May 7, 1831 (?); son of James D. and Emeline (Smith) Bromwell. He was finely educated, was an author and contributor of both fiction and poetry to magazines and papers, and wrote several books. He studied law with Barton, Key and Carlisle of Washington, and became a fine lawyer and highly respected. During the Civil War he lived in Richmond, where he was Secretary to Judah P. Benjamin, the Secretary of State of the Confederacy. He is said to have been of very great talents in every way, and remarkably handsome also. He m. Oct. 24, 1860, Alice, dau. of Capt. Otway H. Berryman, of the U. S. Navy, of a family which lived in Winchester, Va., before the war. The first soundings for the Atlantic cable were made by Capt. Berryman, who commanded at that time the U. S. brig. Dolphin.* He was a most loyal and noble officer, considered of great value to the Union, and if the story could be told of the courtship of his child by the Secretary of the principal Cabinet officer of the Confederacy no doubt it would be a romantic one.

William J. Bromwell and Alice Had Issue.

ALICE BERRYMAN BROMWELL. b. June 15, 1862; m. June 19, 1889, to Wm. H. Johnson, and 2nd Joseph Foster, and had dau. Dorothea, b. Nov. 1, 1895. (There may be other issue from this dau.), Wash., D. C.

*Note—In Henry Field's book, "The Story of the Atlantic Telegraph," he gives a very interesting account of the labors of Berryman, both in the matter of making the soundings for the cable, a daring undertaking, and in his unselfish and brave work for the Union, when he rendered so much assistance to the cause. Field styles him "This gallant officer who did such service to science and to his country." He died soon after the war. William J. Bromwell, above, said that the name of Bromwell was Welsh, and had been at one time Bromwellyn.
THE BIRD THAT SANG IN MAY.

BY WILLIAM J. BROMWELL.

A bird last spring came to my window shutter,
One lovely morning at the break of day,
And from his little throat did sweetly utter
A most melodious lay.

He had no language for his joyous passion,
No solemn measure nor artistic rhyme;
Yet no devoted minstrel e'er did fashion
Such perfect tune and time.

It seemed of thousand joys a thousand stories,
All gushing forth in one tumultuous tide;
A hallelujah for the morning glories
That bloomed on every side.

And with each canticle's voluptuous ending,
He sipped a dew-drop from the dripping pane;
Then, heavenward his little bill extending,
Broke forth in song again.

I thought to emulate his wild emotion,
And learn thanksgiving from his tuneful tongue;
But human heart ne'er uttered such devotion,
No human lip such song.
At length he flew and left me in my sorrow,
   Lest I should hear those tender notes no more,
And though I early waked for him each morning,
   He came not nigh my door.

But once again, one silent summer even,
   I met him hopping in the new-mown hay;
But he was mute and looked not up to heaven,
   The bird that sang in May.

Though now I hear from dawn to twilight hour
   The hoarse wood-pecker and the noisy jay,
In vain I seek through leafless grove and bower,
   The bird that sang in May.

And such, methinks, are childhood's dawning pleasures;
   They charm a moment, and then fly away:
Through life we sigh, and seek those missing treasures,
   The birds that sang in May.

This little lesson, then, my heart remember,
   To seize each bright-winged blessing in its day,
And never hope to hear in cold December,
   The bird that sang in May.

The following is appended to a reprint of this poem, made many years ago in a Maryland paper (clipping date unknown):

"This beautiful poem was written by Mr. William Bromwell, a native of Trappe, and resident until the period of his early manhood. While employed as tutor in the Lloyd family of this county, he met the noted Judah P. Benjamin, who was then Senator from Louisiana and who afterward became Attorney General of the Confederacy. Mr. Bromwell's ability attracted the attention of this brilliant lawyer and statesman, through whose influence he was employed by the government at Washington, and later by the Confederate government in Richmond. It was in Washington that this poem was written, and it was published in Harper's Magazine of June, 1857.

"After the close of the Civil War, Mr. Bromwell, having studied law, accompanied Mr. Benjamin to London, where they made their residence, the latter winning favor and distinction at the bar, but Mr. Bromwell only lived a few years longer. A widow and two daughters survived him, and they returned to their early home in Virginia. Many of the older residents here were well acquainted with this gentleman of talent, and he was a brother to the mother of Mr. H. E. Mullikin." SARAH ELLEN BROMWELL.  b. Sept. 26, 1836; d. in 1864 or 1865; m. Henry Mullikin and had issue: Harry Edgar, b. Aug. 1, 1860; m. Jan. 14, 1886, Roberta Lee Raffle (b. In addition to the son above mentioned, Sarah Ellen had an ason, who d. in inf. It was another case of a mother leaving her little one to be reared by others, as she died when her eldest was only about 4 years old. She was a sister of Wm. J. Bromwell above, and they had also a brother Alfred, who was said to have lived in Cuba at one time.

Ancestors Names in Capitals and Italics.

(1) REV. JOHN HOLMES. b. prob. in Eng.; thought by Vinton to be the son of William of Marshfield, one of the "Coniuhasset Planters," a company of 26 colonists who purchased the land near Scituate, and operated it after the manner of a modern corporation. William was Freeman of Plymouth Colony in 1658, and in Scituate 1641, later removing to Marshfield. He was identified with the Colonial wars. His son John studied at Harvard College, and became Pastor of the Church at Duxbury, and m. Mary, dau. of John Wood, or Atwood of Plymouth; m. 1661. The Rev. John Holmes d. Dec. 24, 1675, 3 years before his father; his will is dated Dec. 16, 1675; he describes himself as "teacher of the Church of Christ at Duxbury," gives to his eldest son Joseph "all my Latin and Greek books;" gives to his wife Mary, "all my houses and lands in Duxbury, with all my moveables excepting, etc." His widow Mary afterward remarried to Major William Bradford, son of Gov. William Bradford. She was a grand-daughter, on her mother's side, of Richard Masterson, who never came to the Colonies, but who remained in Leyden for twenty years after the sailing of the Mayflower, the Ruling Elder and leader of the remnant of the flock who did not leave Holland.

Rev. John Holmes and Mary had with other issue:

(2) JOSEPH HOLMES. b. July 9, 1665, Duxbury; d. Kingston, June 26, 1753. He established an iron manufacturing business in Kingston, on Jones River, which later grew to large proportions, and has been carried on by a number of generations of his descendants. His grandson, or great-grandson, George Bass Holmes, became a noted iron manufacturer, and was promoter of the first cotton mill to be operated by steam in Massachusetts. Joseph, our ancestor, m., 1st Sarah Sprague; nothing authentic known of their son John. His second wife was Mary Brewster, our ancestor, b. Kingston, Feb. 10, 1678-9, and d. April 17, 1761, aged 82 years. She was dau. of Wrestling, son of Love, son of Elder William Brewster, the spiritual leader and guide of the Pilgrims both in Plymouth and Holland, who was b. at Scrooby Manor-House, Nottinghamshire, Eng., a place already made famous as the house where Cardinal Woolsey stopped after being banished from public life by Henry VIII. Brewster was Assistant Secretary to Davidson, Secretary to Queen Elizabeth, but abandoned public life on Davidson’s downfall, and, becoming converted to Puritanism, went to Leyden with the earliest of the Pilgrims, who left England in search of religious freedom, and there supported himself by teaching English and Latin in the University. His chil. were William, Patience, who came in the “Anne,” and was later the 2d wife of Gov. Thomas Prence; Fear, who was the 2d wife of Isaac Allerton; Wrestling (d. unmarr.), and Love (came in the Mayflower), m. Sarah Collier, dau. of William Collier, merchant of London, one of the promoters in a financial way of the Mayflower expedition, and who cast in his lot with the Pilgrims, removing to the Colony, where he was assistant for 28 years, and one of the first plenip. at the first meeting of the Congress of the United Colonies (1643); d. 1670; was one of the first purchasers at Dartmouth. Mary and Joseph lived at “Brewster Place,” Kingston.

Joseph Holmes had (with other issue) by Mary Brewster:

(3) JOSEPH HOLMES. b. Oct. 4, 1696; m. May 20, 1731, Rebecca, dau. of Robt. Waterman. She was born Oct. 9, 1710, her mother being Mary Cushman, dau. of the Rev. Isaac Cushman, first pastor of the first church at Plympton, dying on Oct. 22, 1732, in the eighty-fourth year of his age, and the thirty-seventh of his ministry; he was described as "that eminent and faithful steward and servant of Christ." His father was the noted Elder Thomas Cushman, who came in the Fortune, and preached the first sermon ever printed in America. He is buried on Burial Hill, Plymouth, where his descendants have erected a monument. He was styled "that faithful Servant of the Lord." He was son of Robert Cushman, the business agent of the Pilgrims in London, who rented the ship for them, and otherwise managed the financial part of the enterprise of the expedition from Leyden of those who came to the new world. The mother of our ancestor, Rev. Isaac Cushman, was Mary Allerton, who came in the Mayflower with her father Mr. Isaac Allerton; he had m. in the exile in Leyden Mary Norris of Newbury, Eng. He was b. in Eng. between 1583 and 1585, and m. in 1611, Nov. 4. His second wife was Fear, dau. of Elder William Brewster. Allerton was the wealthiest of all the Pilgrims; he was the fifth signer of the Compact. Mary Allerton was the last survivor of the Pilgrims.

Joseph Holmes had (with other issue) by Rebecca Waterman:

(4) JOSEPHII HOLMES. b. Oct. 20, 1733, Kingston; m. Nov. 29, 1770, Jemima, dau. of John, son of Francis, son of Richard Adams, who came from Eng. and was killed by Indians in his efforts to effect a settlement on a tract of twelve thousand acres of land in New Hampshire, he having the intention to colonize it with English colonists. He was engaged in the work of making the preliminary survey when killed. Joseph Holmes and Jemima had the following children:

5 LEMUEL HOLMES. b. Oct. 15, 1771; m. Patience, dau. of Capt. Zephaniah Harlow. They had issue:
6 HENRIETTA HOLMES: m. Henry Broughton Bromwell.
6 MELINDA HOLMES; m. Matthew Trimble.
6 LEMUEL HOLMES; m. Mary Newton.
5 JOSEPH HOLMES; b. Dec. 11, 1772; m. his double cousin, Lucy Holmes. Kingston.
5 PELHAM HOLMES; b. Nov. 10, 1774; m. Mary Lobdell. One son (d.) Pelham.
5 CLARISA HOLMES; b. Jan. 11, 1779; m. 1803, Lemuel Bryant.
5 PAMELIA HOLMES; b. March 18, 1781; m. Capt. Robt. McLauthlin.
5 POLLY HOLMES; b. Sept. 24, 1783; m. Solomon Leach.

The Descendants of Lemuel.

(Joseph, Joseph, Joseph, Rev. John, William, I.)

(1) LEMUEL HOLMES. b. in Plymouth Co., Mass., Oct. 15, 1771; d. in Cumberland, Clark Co., Ill., Aug. 21, 1847; m. in 1794 in Plymouth, to Patience Harlow, dau. of Captain Zephaniah Harlow, whose wife was Patience Johnson. The descent of Patience Harlow can be found in Davis' Landmarks of Plymouth, in N. Eng. Gen. Reg., in Savage, and other well known authorities.

Lemuel and Patience are buried in Illinois, in a little neglected burying ground in what is now Casey, but was formerly Cumberland, a town that has disappeared. She died in 1849. During their last few years they were cared for by their daughter Henrietta (Mrs. Bromwell), who was very much devoted to them. There has been two portraits of Lemuel, both painted in oil; one was ordered painted by his Masonic Lodge (in Newbern, N. C.), to which he had given a set of fine china, brought back from one of his oriental trips. Correspondence with the officers of this Lodge has failed to trace any record of this picture, which seems to have disappeared. It was said to have been of full length, and life-size. It must have hung in the Lodge halls a long time, but since that period a hundred years have passed, and it is gone. The other portrait, which is here reproduced, was painted also in oil, and is still in possession of the family. The artists of both portraits are unknown.

Patience was born March 5, 1775, in Plymouth, probably in Summer St., as there seems to have been an old house there, owned at that time by Zephaniah Harlow. Lemuel was born at a country place called by the family "Egypt," because they brought corn from it and shipped it to other places along the coast in their boats. The house at Egypt was two-storied, shingled all over, with ten rooms, and wide doors and fireplaces. It was burned about 1870. Some lilac bushes marked the spot for many years afterward, and may still be seen growing by the cellar, which is all that remains of the old home, so long the abode of this generous family.

In personal appearance Lemuel Holmes was light in complexion, with very bright gray eyes, and light brown hair, and a most cheerful and amiable expression, which reflected an optimistic and loving disposition, and a regard for the rights and feelings of others which was most unusual. He was of medium height, rather slender, with broad shoulders, had a finely-shaped hand and foot, and was very erect in his carriage, and although sprightly, was dignified, and commanded the respect of all who had any relations with him either in business or society. He was of a fearless mould, could make "ventures" which seemed very hazardous, and when he met with reverses, as he several times did, was never overcome with disappointment, but could go again into still more difficult enterprises. During the war with Great Britain in 1812 he many times "ran the blockade," bringing through the British lines cargoes and ships into port when it seemed to be impossible to do so. He was for years a very successful shipping merchant, doing business along the coast between Kingston, North Carolina, New Orleans and other points, sometimes having twenty and thirty vessels, many of them quite large, engaged in the trade. He would visit a locality, taking with him a cargo of goods from some other point, would trade it, load up with some other kind of goods, then make another point, and finally after many trades would come back to Plymouth with a snug little fortune. He had several ships out on the water at the time the Congress laid an embargo on American shipping, and his boats could not enter the ports, and were most of them captured and sunk by the British. This loss he bore with fortitude, however, and made renewed efforts, which were more or less successful. Only in his old age, when his powers were not so great did he decline in his business sagacity, and make some investments which met with failure.

He came West to engage in the river trade between New Orleans and Cincinnati and other places on the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers. He spent a number of years in this business, and had river boats constructed with which to carry on the trade.

In New England, his family remaining in Plymouth Co., are among the wealthiest and best-known people in the place. The descendants of his brother Joseph (Brown Univ. graduate, 1796), still own the old house where he lived after he was married. It is a fine old mansion, with a wonderful wall paper (on the walls of the parlor), which was brought from Europe in some of the old ships. The effects in this paper are of Italian landscape and architecture, against a background of blue sky, with figures in costume of the period of the empire; none of the composition is repeated, but makes a continuous picture all around the room.

Some old elms are at the back of this house, and across the street is the ancient burying ground, with its black-green cypress trees and slabs of Welsh slate. The charm of this old cemetery is unusual; around it stretch away the dense "Plymouth Woods," and opening into the town nearby are many embowered lanes and walks of great beauty. The three children of Lemuel and Patience were born in Kingston. Henrietta was born in the old Francis Adams house, near the river.

2 HENRIETTA HOLMES. b. Sept. 4, 1795; m. Henry Broughton Bromwell.
3 MELINDA HOLMES. b. 1796; m. Matthew Trimble.
4 LEMUEL HOLMES. b. March 11, 1798; m. Mary Newton.

Second Generation.

(Lemuel, Joseph, Joseph, Joseph, Rev. John, William 1.)

(2) HENRIETTA HOLMES. Lived in her childhood in Kingston, except for occasional trips with her father on his boats to places down the coast not very far away from home. At 14 years of age she was sent to Bath, Me., to attend the academy there, and to be with her Aunt Eliza Morse, whom she loved very dearly, and who was one of the strong, good and brainy women of her time. Her situation with this aunt was most happy, and she formed some friendships, one with John Neal, and also with his sister Rachel, both afterward celebrated in different ways, she as a teacher and he as a writer. In the academy she had instruction in dancing, for, while her family were very pious people, they always taught that art to the children. Her other studies were history, English literature, and what would now be called elocution, or the art of reading with expression and effect, in which she became very clever, being assisted by a natural genius in this direction. For music she had no "ear," and could not sing anything, but she enjoyed it seemingly as much as other persons. She was a little blonde, and only weighed 90 pounds, and had light grey eyes, with the innocent expression of a kitten; but she had a very firm and determined will to always have her way, and never failed to do so. She became well educated for her time, always read the best masters, had no desire to embroider or make quilts at a time when these arts were most practiced by women, never was known to gossip, and thought the Holmes, Harlow, Morse, Brewster, Cushman, Warren and other Plymouth Co. families the only ones having the real quality.

She used to say that her family descended from the Duke of Clarence, and when any one would express doubt would become very indignant. She did not seem to know in what way the descent was derived, but had a knowledge of many of her ancestral lines, which a search of the books has proved to be correct.

Her desire for change of scene was uncontrollable, derived from sea-roving ancestors. Never was she contented long in one place, and it was owing to this disposition that after her marriage she kept the family moving until they arrived in Colorado and declined to go further. Here she died Jan. 7, 1882.

Her marriage to Henry Broughton Bronwell took place
HON. FREEMAN HARLOW MORSE,
Member of Congress, Consul to London, etc.

JOSIAH HARLOW HOLMES.
Aug. 18, 1818, in Baltimore, Md., where her mother took her to visit some cousins. Here she met her fate, and never afterward returned to her beloved Plymouth, which was a constant source of mourning and lamentation all her life long. She was most eloquent, her powers of expression inexhaustible. Her wedding was made the occasion of a large party, and she wore a white canton crepe dress which her father had brought her from one of his trips to China, and the family still have her wedding slippers of white satin, and the silk stockings and garters, and silver garter buckles of the groom.*

She was most generous and affectionate, and adored her children, and reared two children who were in no way related to her, as well as two grandchildren. The two "bound children" were called Willie and Vinie Bromwell, but their real name was Ingram, they being little orphans of some people who died of cholera in Cumberland, Ill. She was intensely religious and romantic, and fond of observing signs and omens; to hear her read and intone the psalms was a treat; she could give the exact value to each word and line, and chant like a trained chorister. In Illinois, when the state was almost a wilderness, she used to entertain large companies during the "camp meetings," when the traveling preachers would come through the country, and was often known to deliver very fine addresses and exhortations without any previous preparation. The family still possess an old melodeon which was used on these occasions.

(3) Melinda Holmes. b. in Kingston, Mass., in 1796; m. Matthew Trimble, and went to Ohio, where they bought a place in the country in Coshocton Co., calling it "The Maples." They built quite a handsome two-story brick house, with large rooms and good furnishings, and they erected at their own expense a little brick church or chapel, and the professors from Kenyon College, a few miles distant, would fill the pulpit, so that they always had services each Sabbath. The church was on a corner of their land, and they gave a little space, also, for a grave-yard.

They kept a very hospitable home here for many years, and she enjoyed having a house full of friends staying with her, and was a fine housekeeper, delighting to make dainties for her little nephews and nieces, as well as for others, and to give entertainments for the pleasure of her neighbors. She died in 1873, and is buried near the chapel, which is in a state of decay, if, indeed, it still stands, to keep guard over the little country graveyard, now grown up in weeds and wild flowers.

JOSEPH HOLMES. (The only brother of Lemuel Holmes, who left descendants). b. in Plymouth Co., Mass., Dec. 11, 1772: d. in Kingston; m. his double cousin, Lucy Holmes, b. Oct. 9, 1776, dau. of Jedediah Holmes, by wife Sarah Adams, dau. of John, son of Francis, son of Richard Adams. Joseph Holmes graduated at Brown University in 1796, with his cousin John, afterward the noted Senator from Maine. He then entered upon a business career, becoming a ship builder, and following navigation the rest of his life. He was always an honored resident of Kingston, doing much for the support of the church, and in every way having the esteem of the community. He lived in the old mansion represented on p. 119, and the reproduction of the old wall paper shows, with the picture of the front entrance, something of the style of the comfortable houses of that period in Plymouth Co. He had seven children, but only three of them left descendants. They are as follows:

ALEXANDER HOLMES.  b. March 31, 1803; m. his cousin, Eliza A. Holmes, and had two sons. He was a very prosperous business man, and President of the Old Colony Railroad Co., and a promoter of benevolent enterprises in Boston and Kingston. Letter from Joseph Holmes to His Brother, Lemuel Holmes.

January 1st, 1842.

Mr. Lemuel Holmes:

Dear Brother—Yours of the no date came to hand some time ago, and I have no particular reasons to offer why I have delayed answering it except being very much engaged in my business, having much to attend to, and considering it something of an undertaking to write all I wished to communicate in my answer.

To your enquiries about our connections, etc., I shall begin with my family. We continue to live in the same house we did when you last visited us, having something of an addition of some size to it. We have five sons, three married and two unmarried, and two daughters, both unmarried. Our children thus far have been good and dutiful children; those who are married are all settled around us in the neighborhood.

I am doing very well. As regards this world's goods, I have no reason to complain. I have a great property in my possession. I have six dwelling houses in this town; I own seven schooners of about one hundred tons each; I have two ships of five hundred tons each, and part of another of 300 tons: I own four wharves in Kingston and a large fishing establishment, which business we carry on to considerable extent. I own considerable land about the vicinity, some very choice pieces, and do considerable in the farming line, and keep two horses. My oldest son, Alexander, lives where Abiel Washburn formerly lived, is doing business by himself, and owns a number of vessels, and is married, and doing a very good business. My fourth son, Horace, is married and in trade in the neighborhood, and doing well. My third son, Edward, is married and lives at Landing, and is connected with me in vessels and fishing. My second son, Paraclete, has always followed the seas; he has commanded my ship Rialto of Kingston for the last seven years, in the freighting business between New Orleans, and has been one-quarter of his time in New Orleans, and I think it strange you have never found him out. He is now at home, and I think will not go to sea again. He, with my two daughters, are with us, and we are well. (Lucy Evaline and Pamela).

Our sister Clarissa, you will remember, married a Lemuel Bryant, and lived in Plympton. He died some twenty years ago. She lives a widow. She has lost a son, and a daughter; has two sons and three daughters living. Her children are all settled near and about and with her. She was left with some property, and has everything necessary and comfortable about her and at her disposal. Our sister Pamela, you know, married a Robert McLauthlin. She has been dead some twenty years, leaving four daughters—Pamela, Mary, Lucia, and Ann. They are all married, the three youngest settled in Kingston, all well off as to living, etc. Our sister Polly, you recollect, married Solomon Leach. They removed to Matapoppett. They have five children, W——, W—— (handwriting illegible). Alexander, Harrison and Catherine. Two of them are dead; one settled in South Carolina, the others with her at Matapoppett. He has been dead about ten years, leaving her a widow with some property, so that she lives very comfortably, and has brought up her family well.

The foregoing is a history of our family as near as I can give it on such reflection as I am able at this time to afford to it.

I am sincerely sorry for your misfortune and afflictions. But, my Dear Brother, you must remember afflictions come not from the ground: no troubles from the dust; we have, Sir, a good, a kind, and a merciful GOD who watches over and directs the events of the universe, and, though his ways are in some respects mysterious, yet they are doubtless right.

May His spirit attend you and yours to guide, sustain, and bless you.

Joseph Holmes
Letter from Mrs. Eliza (Harlow) Morse to Mrs. Patience (Harlow) Holmes, dated December 25, 1841. (Bath, Me.)

My Dear Beloved Sister:

I cannot express my feelings on receiving your kind letter. How much have I to be thankful for when I have such a friend and sister.

But far am I from making that progress in the Divine life that you would fain think. No, I am a stupid, ungrateful creature, with scarcely a glimmer of hope that I have been translated from a state of sin and wretchedness into a state of rich grace; my mind is dark and beclouded with sin.

It gladdens my heart to think that you are enjoying the presence of the blessed Saviour; may you ever live in the light of his reconciled countenance. If I could have your society now, I think I should prize it more than ever. I should not write today, as my head is very dizzy and painful, which is very often the case this winter, but I wish to put this in the office in the morning.

I expect Freeman here this week, with his wife and children, to spend the winter. He spends the winter in Augusta. Dear Edwin sent word he is coming with his children to make a short visit. The last time he was here he came after Mary to carry her home; it must be very trying to his feelings when he comes again.

Do, my sister (I love the word sister, there is something so sweet in the sound), do write about your health, and all the family. How is my own Henrietta? Should I see her now, instead of the lively girl, it would be the sober matron. Give my love to all dear friends; I wish much to hear how Henrietta M. enjoys her health. Pelham Holmes' widow was very ill last summer; have not seen her since.

When I attempt to write, am thinking all the time how sweet it would be to see you; why should I feel so unreconciled at being so great a distance from you? The Lord knows what place and circumstance is best for us. I want to feel entire submission to His Holy will. Remember me in your prayers.

DESCENDANTS OF CAPT. ZEPHANIAH HARLOW.

Copied in 1897 from a Bible 130 years old by Mrs. Anne Allen of Monmouth and North Livermore, Me., a grand-daughter of Zephaniah Harlow and Patience Johnson.

ZEPHANIAH HARLOW. b. May 25, 1748. PATIENCE JOHNSON, b. March 27, 1752. She d. in Bath, Me., 1819; m. April 11, 1772; He d. in Bath, March 22, 1827.

Note—FREEMAN HARLOW MORSE (nephew of Patience Harlow) was b. 1807 in Bath, Me., and made his home there and in Augusta, and in Washington, D. C. He was always a most eminent man, a fine lawyer, as a congressman noted for ability and sterling character. His diplomatic talents were great, as is evidenced by the official correspondence published with the Civil War records, which show his fine work for the Union when in London as U. S. Consul, where he kept constant watch on the movements of hostile emissaries and was able to advise and warn the government, through the Secretary of State. (Official Records, War of the Rebellion.) For his work in Congress see Congressional Record. He had only one son, Freeman Harlow, who d. in childhood, and two daughters, Clara Francis, b. 1836, and Abbie Augusta, b. 1840. For gen. of the Harlow family see N. E. Gen. Reg.
ELIZABETH. b. Oct. 27, 1783; d. ———; m. William Morse; had 11 chil.: William Morse, 1803; Freeman Harlow Morse, 1807; Edwin
A. Morse, 1809; Henrietta Holmes Morse, 1810 (namesake of her cousin, and afterward the wife of Rev. Wm. Day); Alfred Morse, 1812 (clergyman and missionary); Zephania Harlow Morse, 1817
(called Harlow); Elizabeth Morse; Abigail Morse; Daniel Brainerd
Morse; Henry B. Morse, and Patience Morse.

ELLEN. (The date of this child was not recorded in the Bible, and she was the youngest, and the mother of Mrs. Allen. She married Joseph Littlefield and they lived in Bath, Me., and had 9
chil.: Malinda Littlefield, Ellen Littlefield, Ann Eaton Littlefield, Patience Johnson Littlefield, Lemuel Littlefield, Emily Littlefield, Eliza Littlefield, Joseph Littlefield, Charlotte S. Littlefield. Of these chil., Joseph Littlefield had 5 chil.: Francis, George, Margaret, Amelia and Harriet. Malinda and Ellen never married; Ann Eaton Littlefield, the 3rd child, m. David Allen of Monmouth, Me., in 1839 (he
d. in March in 1883), and had 2 chil.; Walter Allen, who d. at the age of 24 unmarried, and Annie Allen, who married John W. Jackson, and had two sons, Willie E. Jackson, who died in 1880, and Walter A. Jackson, who married and had son, Cyrus. This last family lived in Medway, Mass. Mrs. Ann Eaton (Littlefield) Allen d. in N. Livermore, Me., about 1900.

*Note—Elizabeth Harlow Morse, the mother of this family, d. June 7, 1853, and her husband, William, the following July 11. Of her children old letters indicate that in that year William, Freeman and Edwin were in Bath, all with fine wives and beautiful children, and great pains taken with their education. Alfred and wife were in Maumee City, Ohio, he being pastor of a Presbyterian Church. Harlow, with his pretty, pleasant family, was in Rockland, on Penobscot Bay. Brainerd and Henry B., the two youngest sons, were in California, where they had been for three years, unmarried. The two daughters, Elizabeth (Wiggins) and Abbie (Wadbridge), with their husbands and Abbie's two little girls, left Bath, in March of this year, and, sailing around the Horn, arrived in Stockton, Cal., in August. Henrietta's husband, Rev. Mr. Day, was a Baptist minister in Bangor, Me., and elsewhere. She d. in East Boston about 1890, or later. They had one son, Fred B. Her grandson, Frederick W. Day, was a well-respected alderman of Boston.
From an old water color painting handed down from Captain Zephaniah Harlow of Bath, Me., through his daughter Ellen, who married a Littlefield, whose daughter Ann married an Allen, and kept the relic. She died at a great age in recent years, in North Livermore, Me. Captain Harlow of Bath was the father of our ancestor, Patience Harlow. There has always been communication between this branch of the Harlows and the western branch. The following notes are from Dr. William Page Harlow, of the faculty of the University of Colorado:
THE HOLMES FAMILY. 133

HARLOW (Essex) Sa, three inescutcheons ar. on each a lion rampant, Gu.

HARLOW (Gray's Inn, London, and Preston Co.). Northampton, granted 1629). Gu, a fesse vairé, betw. 6 billets or Crest a cinquefoil or, issuing from between the horns of a crescent vairé.

HARLOW. Per saltire, or and az; on the first 2 martlets, on the 2d as many cinquefoils, all countercharged.

HARLOW. Per saltire, or and az; on a chief of the first a martlet of the second, charged with a cinquefoil, gold.

The second mentioned above was the one brought to this country. The crescent in the crest signifies the second son of the first house, and upon the death of the father, was changed to a lion ——— (erased).

The Harlow family contributed over seventy soldiers to the Revolution from Massachusetts alone, thirty being from near Plymouth. Most of these were "Minute Men."

WILLIAM HARLOW (the first), b. about 1624 in England. Probably came to the Colonies when about thirteen years of age with Thomas Hampton of Sandwich, for he is a beneficiary of Hampton's will, and there is evidence that he was related to Secretary Morton of Plymouth Colony, as the will of Morton testifies, and he is an executor of this will. It is thought they came from the same localities in England. Some accounts have given Essex, and the village of Harlow as the birthplace of William. He first appears in Sandwich, Mass., in 1637, and was later of Lynn. Then moved to Plymouth, where he was afterward a most respected and useful member of the colony, representing it in the General Court 1673-75, and being Selectman for fifteen years from 1669 to 1691. He was very public-spirited, and a most virtuous and exemplary character. He first m. REBECCA BARTLETT, our ancestress, daughter of ROBERT BARTLETT, and his wife, MARY WARREN, daughter of RICHARD WARREN, the Pilgrim who came in the Mayflower. The second wife of William Harlow was Mary, daughter of Elder Thomas Faunce, and he m., 3d, Mary Shelley, who survived him, and became the wife of Lient. Ephriam Morton of Plymouth. In Plymouth still stands the old house once occupied by William Harlow, built out of the old timbers of the fort of the Pilgrims. It is weatherboarded, and well painted at this day, and presents quite a modern appearance. (From published records.)

(From Rees' Cyclopaedia, 1819):

HARLOW. A parish and village in the hundred of the same name, County of Essex, Eng. Formerly a market town and place of considerable trade, but fallen into disuse. Inhabitants chiefly supported by agricultural pursuits. Three annual fairs. Harlow Bush fair for sale of cattle, etc. The church was partly demolished by fire in 1711, but was soon restored and ornamented with much painted glass. The original structure was in the cathedral form, but the tower, which rose from the center, has been replaced by a cupola. Harlow is 23 miles from London; in 1801 had 265 houses and 1,514 inhabitants. About three miles distant, in the Parish of Latton, are the remains of an Augustine Priory, founded previous to 1270 (see Morant's Hist. and Antiq. of Essex, 2 vols.).

THE PAYNE FAMILY

Descendants of Jonathan Payne and Elizabeth Wright.

(1) JONATHAN PAYNE. b. Nov. 3, 1770, Bedford Co., Va., or Pa., according to different family traditions. The names of these states when abbreviated and written carelessly resemble each other very much. The fact of the descendants having two traditions is easily accounted for. He d. Sept. 16, 1845, aged 74 years. He is said to have been a descendant of Josiah Payne, who was a relative of Sir Robert Payne, one of the original proprietors of Virginia. He was a very remarkable character, deeply religious, of a most refined, sensitive nature, of sterling integrity and very proud. He married in Shelby Co., Ky., Aug. 20, 1798, Elizabeth Wright, who was 16 years old at the time, born in 1782, April 22, in Virginia, Berkeley City, Berkeley Co. She remembered her native state, and often spoke of the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains which she had crossed in childhood, going to her Western home in the forests of Kentucky, then inhabited by Indians to a great extent, and a place of adventure and wonder. In personal appearance Elizabeth was said to have been small, and in youth pretty, and had a sober, serious disposition, without much humor, but very tender-hearted, and, like her husband, ardently religious. She was a Methodist, and always did a great deal to help the cause of religion, promoting camp-meetings, entertaining traveling ministers, and giving freely of all she had, so that it was said that she was one of the large-hearted women of her time. She was also skilled in spinning, the making of wine and preserves, and could keep such fine discipline among her thirteen children that it was said she had a real talent for governing.

In 1822 her third son William became possessed with a fever to go to Indiana, and nothing else would do but the family must sell the place in Kentucky and go with him. She finally consented, and they went out on horseback, and later returned and moved there with all their belongings. Her eldest son at this time was studying law in Louisville, and did not go with them, but all the others went together, and soon established themselves in Owen Co., on a place which is still owned by some of their descendants. Here they both died, Elizabeth surviving her husband, and dying Feb. 24, 1862, aged 79 years. Her daughter Elizabeth W. Payne, was perhaps her favorite of the children, and was said to resemble her very much. The portrait of this daughter, published on page 145, is said to be a better likeness of the mother.

Elizabeth is said to have been a sister of Richard Wright.

(2) JOHN WRIGHT PAYNE. b. Dec. 14, 1799 (Shelby Co., Ky); d. in Corydon, Ind., Jan. 27, 1846; m. Elizabeth Rice, dau. of Henry and Elizabeth (Leffler) Rice in 1826. He lived in Ky. until early manhood, when he studied law, came to the bar, and removed to Corydon, Ind., which was then the capital of the state, and a place of some considerable business importance. In politics he was a Whig, which was not in his favor, as Indiana was then a Democratic state. He made several unsuccessful campaigns for Congress, the last one against Robert Dale Owen, and it was from a cold protracted during this campaign that he died at the early age of 46 years. He was a member of the Indiana House of Representatives in 1833, and in the State Senate in 1834-'35-'36. In 1841 he was a Presidential elector for William Henry Harrison, and later was Prosecuting Attorney for the Second Judicial Circuit of Indiana.

He was so highly esteemed that years after his death he was still held in affectionate remembrance by the community. His unblemished character, learning, eloquence and personal dignity, and perfect manners, made him one not to be forgotten. In personal appearance he was handsome, even more so than is usual even among Kentuckians. He had literary tastes, and a highly poetical nature, and was considered a fine speaker and orator. He was called Major Payne, but it is not certain what his military record was, if anything. He was of a delicate constitution, though not subject to diseases, and had brown eyes and hair. In Corydon he lived in a large, substantial house, and had his law office in the front west room on the second floor, an entrance to which was effected by a staircase erected on the outside of the house, which was frame, painted white, and stood on a side street near the Public Square. It is still standing, but has been cut in two, and moved apart. It had originally twelve rooms, a wide hall, handsome staircase and fireplaces. In the yard behind it there was one of those curious "wind caves" sometimes seen in southern Indiana. A country place across the river called "Peach Hill" was also owned by him, and he left property enough to enable his widow to educate and rear her children, to which she devoted herself. She survived him more than thirty years.

Corydon was in his time a place of much interest. It was settled with Kentuckians, very well bred, and polite people; they entertained, dressed and lived in good style. It was a beautiful place, too, full of fine old elms, one of which is still pointed out as the tree under which the Legislature is said to have met at one time, when in special session, in the warm weather. The old stone Capitol is still standing in the Square, and so was the old mansion of Governor Hendricks until a few years ago. The first Constitutional Convention of Indiana met in Corydon in 1816. His law partner at the time of his death was Judge Slaughter, who had formerly been his law student, and with whom young Walter Q. Gresham studied law when he came up to Corydon from Lanesville to begin a career which ended in the United States Cabinet.* Associated with Payne as friends were Joseph G. Marshall, Joseph L. White and Richard W. Thompson, all well-known lawyers of his time. On his grave stone in Corydon is the following inscription:

"An eminent Jurist.
A distinguished Legislator,
An humble Christian."

"Let me die the death of the righteous,
And let my last end be like his."

*NOTE—Hon. Walter Quinton Gresham, who was the most prominent Republican candidate for the Presidency before the nominating convention of 1884, and who was at different times postmaster general, secretary of the treasury, and at the time of his death secretary of state, was b. near Lanesville, Harrison Co., Ind., March 17, 1833, a son of William Gresham and Sarah, dau. of John Davis of Ky. His parents were m. Nov. 3, 1825, and always lived in and near Lanesville, which is a very quaint little hamlet in a most picturesque part of the beautiful southern Indiana hills. They had several sons who achieved note, besides Walter Q., for Benjamin gained distinction in the Army of the Potomac, while William was a noted jurist. The mother lived to be over 100 years old. During the term of his student days he lived at Cedar Glade with his old friends, the McGrains, and later m. one of these fine girls, but not before he had been an unsuccessful suitor for the hand of Emma Payne, who was his first sweetheart.

(Harrison Co.), June 21, 1827; d. in Kansas City, Mo.; Graduated in medicine in Louisville, Ky., and practiced in Corydon, Ind.; then in Marshall, Ill., and finally in Kansas City, Mo. During the Civil War he was a medical director (1861-4), and surgeon of the 10th Ill. Reg., with the rank of Major.

In appearance he was erect, distinguished, with clear brown eyes, and dark, curling hair. In old age his hair was white, which greatly added to his attractiveness. He was very tall, dignified, and of a serious disposition. He m. in Corydon, Jane Anne, dau. of Col. Thomas McGrain. Her sister m. Wal-

TWO PORTRAITS OF DR. ROBERT LEFFLER PAYNE AT DIFFERENT AGES.

Dr. Payne spent years in compiling material for a genealogy of the Payne family, tracing back to the English ancestors. After his death the manuscript disappeared, and probably the matters he had preserved are now forever lost to the descendants.
(19) ELIZABETH EMILY PAYNE. b. in Corydon, Ind., March 3, 1837, and d. in same place Jan. 1, 1865. Educated in Corydon, New Albany, Ind., and at Asbury College, and was noted for beauty and for a kind and sweet disposition. Her old negro nurse, "Aunt Morn," speaking of her thirty years after her death, said: "Miss Emma was the most inoffensive woman I ever saw; she never in her life hurt the feelings of a single person." She was an accomplished musician, on the piano and guitar, and had a fine soprano voice, well trained, and was fond of society, and entertained a good deal, and had unusual talent in conversation. She married H. P. H. Bromwell in Marshall, Ill., at the home of her uncle, Dr. Fleming R. Payne, June 20, 1858. The wedding was a very handsome one with all the windows of the house, both up-stairs and down, illuminated with candles, and brides maids dressed in white tulle. The groom's attendant was a young lawyer of Marshall, John Schofield, afterward Chief Justice of Illinois. (For a further account of her family see Bromwell. Gen. (No. 104).

(20) DR. WILLIAM ALEXANDER PAYNE. b. in Corydon, Ind., March 26, 1840. Was a soldier in the Civil War, had his health ruined by exposure, and died in Dec., 1874, after several years' suffering. He studied medicine in Louisville, Ky., graduated and practiced there and in St. Louis. He at first desired to enter upon a theatrical career which his family opposed, but later he went upon the lecture platform, and was becoming distinguished in this field when he took up the study of medicine. He wrote several treatises for medical magazines, and two books which are now out of print. In person he was very much admired, and had a disposition very ardent, poetical, and inclined to literary and artistic effort. He was generous to a fault. He married Undine.......... Had no children.

(21) DR. ROBERT LEFFLER PAYNE. b. in Corydon, Ind., Nov. 23, 1842; d. in Mattoon, Ill., in Nov., 1881.
Educated in Corydon and New Albany, Ind., studied medicine, graduated in Chicago, and practiced there and in Mattoon and Charleston, Ill. Served three years in the Civil War (Sergeant Co. D, 66th Reg. Ind. Inf.), and was greatly injured in health; m. Mrs. Mary Van Deren, widow of Dumas Van Deren whose brother was Theophilus Van Deren,* a well known resident of Charleston. She had two chil. by her previous marriage—Frankie, who married Allen J. McFall, and Jessie, who d. in childhood. Dr. Payne had no children.

(4) WILLIAM PAYNE. b. March 5, 1803, in Shelby Co., Ky.; d. March 14, 1883, in Owen Co., Ind., aged 80 years; m. Amma, dau. of Daniel Beam, Nov. 2, 1826. She d. May 31, 1877. He came to Ind. in 1822, accompanying his brother-in-law, Valentine Lyon and wife. They took land in what was then called the “Steel Neighborhood,” now called Montgomery Twp. (Owen Co.) The place is now known as the Eli Anderson, or John Hyden tract, being at that time unbroken forest, save a “deadening” of fifteen acres. They cleared it, built a house, and fifty years later ate their golden wedding dinner in the same room where they came as bride and groom. They were married in a little brick house (the only one in the country) several miles distant. The country was so new that there was no tailor to be had, and William Payne,

*NOTE—Theophilus Van Deren was for many years a noted character in Charleston; he was a writer, and contributed verse to the papers of his time, but most of his work is probably lost. In character he was usually attractive, being very unselfish and a devoted friend to all humanity. He was very absent-minded, and a number of good stories used to be told of this peculiarity of his: One of the best ones Mrs. Ficklin was fond of relating. It happened that he at one time escorted her to make a call on a celebrated visitor sojourning in Charleston. The great lady was found (for it was a lady), and, being somewhat embarrassed, her callers opened the conversation on that universal topic, the weather. This they discussed so much as to make it seem rather an exhausted subject; a pause occurred, and just as Mrs. Ficklin, and probably also the distinguished hostess, were wondering what topic to bring up next, Theophilus shifted in his chair, coughed, and Mrs. Ficklin saw that he was going to speak. She experienced a feeling of relief, and the visitor gave an interested look toward her callers:

“It is a fine day,” said Theophilus, with a slight blush.
who had bought himself a new suit of broadcloth for the occasion, had to take it to Bloomington to be made. They united with Salem Methodist Church, and were always devoted to religious observances. He was a tall, finely-formed man, and bore a striking resemblance to Abraham Lincoln. He served in the Civil War, being in Co. K, 55th Reg., Ind. Vols. (Corporal). He had but one son, among seven daughters, and there is no male descendant to carry his name after his grandson, the Rev. John William Payne, passes away.

76 EMILY ISABEL THROOP. m. — Allison, 1862. Issue: Jessie, Wallace, Higgins and Maxwell.
REV. WILLIAM HARRISON THROOP. b Oct. 25, 1846; d. in Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 17, 1884. Lived, when a boy, in Worthington, Ind., where he was a very remarkable child, writing letters in verse at an early age, and making unusual advances in education. He studied for the ministry, and was very successful in the work when established, as the following, clipped from the "Historical Sketch of St. James Episcopal Church, Milwaukee, Wis.," will show: The book was published by the parish in 1907:

"The Rev. William H. Throop was Rector of the church from 1875 to 1882. Just before he entered upon his rectorship, the following advertisement appeared in an Eastern paper, which shows very plainly the darker side of St. James, for it is true that there was much friction in our church in the past than is now:

"Wanted—a rector for St. James' Church, Milwaukee, Wis. He must possess all the Christian graces, and a few worldly ones. Must have such tact and disposition as will enable him to side with all parties in the parish on all points, giving offense to none. Should possess a will of his own, but agree with all the vestry. Must be socially inclined, and of dignified manners, affable to all, neither running after the wealthy, nor turning his back upon the poor. A man of high-low church tendencies preferred. Must be willing to preach first-class sermons and do first-class work at second-class compensation. Salary should not be so much of an object as the desire to be a zealous laborer in the vineyard. Should be able to convince all that they are miserable sinners without giving offense. Each sermon must be short, but complete in itself—full of old-fashioned theology in modern dress—deep, but polished, and free from the eloquence peculiar to newly graduated theologians. Should be young enough to be enthusiastic, but possess the judgment of one of ripe years and experience. He only who possesses the above qualifications need apply. To such an one will be given steady employment for a term of years. For further information apply to any member of the congregation."

This remarkable notice seems to have suited William H. Throop, for the record goes on to say:

"Under Mr. Throop the church grew rapidly, and much work was accomplished. He had great influence among people, and was much beloved. He organized St. James' Brotherhood, which worked for many years in the Palmer's Addition Mission Sunday School. The outgrowth of this mission is the present St. Stephen's Church. Rev. Mr. Throop's death was very sad. He was still a young man, and his life-work seemed only beginning. But there are those who accomplish much in the few years allotted to them on earth, and leave an influence and name which others might envy."

The church later erected a handsome memorial window in honor of the talented, but martyred young man, who fulfilled all these requirements; d. unm.

JAMES E. THROOP. b. Jan. 25, ——; d. June 17, 1890.

JULIA THROOP. b. May 23, 1849; m. T. H. Hollis, Nov. 24, 1868;
one son, Wm. Herbert. In addition to the children enumerated, Susan Willis Payne and H. H. Throop had two daughters, Margaret Elizabeth and Mary Adeline, who died in infancy.

(12) EMILY FRANKLIN PAYNE. b. in Shelby Co., Ky., Dec. 27, 1819; d. in Danville, Ind., July 9, 1851; m. Sept. 27, 1842, Rev. John B. De Motte, who was a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, member of the Northwest Indiana Conference, afterward Presiding Elder, of much prominence in the field, Principal of Asbury College, at Greencastle, Ind., an institution which later became De Pauw University. His father was the Rev. Daniel De Motte, an earlier preacher of note, who has been called the “builder of Indiana Methodism.” After her marriage she lived at the following points with her husband: Martinsville, La Porte, South Bend, Russellville, Perrysville, and finally Danville, where her death occurred. She is remembered in the family as a beautiful and most refined woman, and deeply religious.

82 JOHN BREWER DE MOTTE. b. in Waveland, Ind., Aug. 21, 1848; d. in Greencastle, Ind., Sept. 1, 1907. Graduated at Depauw University, Greencastle, with degree of B. A., in 1874; of M. A. and Ph. D., pro merito, later on, and was also honored with the degree of M. D. from the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Was principal of the preparatory department of the University for ten years, six years Associate Professor of Mathematics, and in 1882 became full Professor of Physics, which department he made famous, his lecture rooms and laboratory being crowded with students attracted by his enthusiasm, and the charm of his personality. In 1891 he severed his relations with the University, and entered upon his great public career as a lecturer. His engagements took him to every state in the Union, and his pre-eminence was generally recognized. He made many trips to Europe for study, and with the advantage gained by so much post-graduate work in the foreign schools, and his twenty years' experience as Professor of Mathematics and Physics at Asbury and DePauw Universities, he was well equipped to make for himself a unique position among American lecturers.

His illustrations were of his own designing. He was said to be the first to photograph sound waves, and reproduce them by mov-

The Descendants of Fleming Rice Payne.

(13) DR. FLEMING RICE PAYNE. b. Feb. 22, 1821, in Shelby Co., Ky.; d. in Marshall, Ill., Dec. 1, 1873, aged 52 years. Graduated in Medicine in Louisville, Ky., and removed to Marshall, Ill., where he was for many years at the head of the profession, and where his practice grew so much that he was unable to find opportunity for sleep, and had to resort to artifice to obtain needed rest each day. He was well liked in every way, and socially was very prominent. He was a factor in the political world, also, frequently naming the ones from the district who were most sure of election and securing their nominations. He was always consulted when the tickets were made up, and his advice never disregarded, even in the selection of the federal and state officers from that part of Illinois. In medical circles he was admitted to be one of the foremost members of the profession. He wrote articles for medical journals, and at the time of his death had a work of a technical nature ready for press, several hundred pages of matter, which had occupied him for many years during his rare moments of leisure, and this valuable manuscript was burned through the carelessness of a servant soon after his funeral.

His health was injured by a trip to California in the winter of 1871, and he was never so well thereafter. He had married, 1st, Sarah, dau. of Nineveh Shaw, who died July 1, 1852. That she was very much beloved the following letter written to H. P. H. Bromwell will testify. It is of date Sept. 28, 1852:

"You have probably heard of the death of my wife. Although I have long been satisfied that she could not recover, yet this calamity falls upon me with great severity. To be separated forever from a devoted companion is truly a great affliction. She was ever ready to share with me not only in the joys and pleasures, but in the sorrows and conflicts of life. When enemies strove to blight my professional prospects, I could with confidence look to her for a smile of approbation, a word of encouragement. Through all my misfortunes, trials and difficulties in trying to relieve us from the disadvantages of poverty, she was ever ready to support, comfort and console. But now, when the prospects of brighter days are before us, she has been called to try the realities of an invisible world. No longer can she be a source of happiness to me, only in remembrance of the past. She is gone; but I shall ever look back with pleasing emotion upon the many happy hours I have spent in the unreserved enjoyment of her society. 'I weep not as those who have no hope,' for confidently do I believe that she is now in that world where sickness, sorrow, pain and woe cometh never."

Dr. Payne said that he remembered the visit to his father's home (in 1833) of John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home," who was, he thought, a relative of his father. He was a man of fine memory, and most accurate in all his statements, and if he were living could most likely add a great deal to this work from his knowledge of the elder lines of the family.

He married, 2d, Mary Esther, dau. of Col. Washington Alexander of Paris, Ill. (a widow of Dr. Chestnut), by whom she had had chil.—Sallie, who d. unmarried, aged 25 years, and

He was named John Washington for his grandfather, but was always called "Dick," after Governor Oglesby, who called to see Dr. Payne on the day of the young man’s nativity. It was near the dinner hour, and after some time spent in the library the Governor was invited out into the dining room to partake of some of the triumphs of Dr. Payne’s good negro cook; the table was laid for twelve, but there seemed to be an absence of persons of the family, and especially of the hostess; Dr. Payne, who made one or two excursions away from the dining room, explained that she was upstairs attending to some important business. The Governor was a little surprised, as it was not her custom to prefer business to her social duties; but he ate his dinner, and took his departure, and for several days the town of Marshall regaled itself with hilarity at his expense.

She was a most charming, refined woman, and loved all good works. James Harvey Payne was a man of deep religious convictions, and in his later years took great comfort in going to church, no matter what the weather or state of his health, he was never absent from a meeting. For many years, in his old age, he had to relinquish active effort, and devote himself to the study of his Bible. He had a wonderful memory for everything in the book, and could quote freely concerning any point which might be mentioned. He was very domestic, devoted to his family and their material comfort, and left them houses and other property at his death. He never returned to the friends of his youth in the middle west. He was a Freemason, being a member of Junction Lodge No. 69, Point Commerce, Ind., Green Co. (H. H. Throop was Sec'y 1852.)

RICE'S FORT, PENN.

(1) JACOB RICE. Had wife Anne. Was one of four brothers who came from Germany to Hagerstown, Md. He came from Maryland to Western Pa. about 1770, and established a fort against the Indians, which became known as "Rice's Fort," in the histories of the time. Daniel Rice has been mentioned as the builder, but as he was the son of Jacob, and was not married until 1777, it is probable that it was built by the father, but with the assistance of all the other parties concerned.*

The territory where the fort stood is now within or near the celebrated oil region of Pa., and not very far from the present city of Pittsburg, which was at that time Fort Pitt, or Fort Duquesne. The country is rolling, with some high hills, and many fine bits of meadow and bottom land between. At this day it is disfigured with oil derricks, and very untidy villages, though there are some places bearing evidence of the previous conditions, such as the quaint, beautiful little county seat of Washington, with its historic old college buildings, for which Benjamin Franklin had labored to secure endowments early in the history of the commonwealth. Washington Academy, incorporated by act of the Legislature, 1787, was the first institution of learning west of the Allegheny Mountains, in the "Great Mississippi Valley." Benjamin Franklin, in 1790, presented it with fifty pounds toward a library. Jefferson College was first located in Cannonsburg, seven miles from Washington. They were later consolidated. Rice's Fort was near the present site of this college, and next to the state line, on Dutch Fork of Buffalo Creek, according to old maps, between the present Claysville, and West Alexander, Dutch Fork, a little north of middle of line, West Alexander seeming to be the nearest post office to the old site.

*NOTE—The names of part of this pioneer company were Jacob Conrad Isaac Leffler (Jacob ?), Dr. Pfrimer, Jno. Winter, Henry Miller, John Simler, Mr. Hoover, and their several families.

The old block house of Fort Pitt is still preserved by a patriotic society in Pittsburg, and it is probably much like the other posts of defense, and there were a number of them, for Miller's block house was three miles east of West Alexander; Vance's Fort one mile west of Cross Creek village (a descendant of Major William Vance, Allison Vance, was lately in possession of the land of Vance's Fort) and Lamb's Fort, and Wright's Fort are all to be found on the old maps, not very far apart. One authority mentions Rice's Fort as being two miles down the creek from Miller's Fort; Doddridge's Fort was another, a few miles away. The eminent Congressman, Dr. Philip Doddridge, was reared in this place, and his brother, the equally noted writer of the history of the Indian wars of western Pa. (edited after his death by his daughter Narcissa).

Captain Isaac Craig, on his march from Carlyle to Fort Pitt in 1780, stopped at Rice's Fort, May 14th. The fort seems to have been a rectangular stockade, with a block-house in one corner, and containing dwellings within its enclosure. It was never overwhelmed, but suffered one of the worst battles with Indians in the annals of the border wars. The following is from Kercheval's "History of the Valley of Virginia" (1833):

"Previously to the attack on Rice's Fort, which took place in the month of September, 1782, several of the few men belonging to the fort had gone to Hagerstown, to exchange their peltry and furs for salt, iron and ammunition, as was the usual custom of those times. They had gone on this journey somewhat earlier that season than usual, because there had been 'a still time;' that is, no recent alarms about the Indians.

NOTE—Dr. Joseph Doddridge, who wrote the history of this region, and who was a friend and comrade of these people, living near Rice's Fort, was born in Bedford, Co., Pa., in 1769, and came to Washington Co., when a child four years of age. He became one of the finest writers. Had great powers of observation, and his work gives evidence of culture and mental attainments of a high order. His pleas for the slave for freedom, etc., are most eloquent. He was a brother of the eminent Dr. Philip Doddridge, jurist and statesman, who d. while serving his term in Congress, and is buried in the Congressional Cemetery in Washington, D. C.
"A few days before the attack on this fort about 300 Indians had made their last attack on Wheeling Fort. On the third night of the investment of Wheeling the Indian chiefs held a council, in which it was determined that the siege of Wheeling should be raised: two hundred of the warriors return home, and the remaining hundred of picked men make a dash into the country and strike a heavy blow somewhere before their return. It was their determination to take a fort somewhere and massacre all its people in revenge for their defeat at Wheeling.

"News of the plan adopted by the Indians was given by two white men who had been made prisoners when lads, raised among the Indians and taken to war with them. These men deserted from them soon after their council at the close of the siege of Wheeling. The notice was indeed but short, but it reached Rice's Fort about half an hour before the commencement of the attack. The intelligence was brought by Jacob Miller, who received it at Dr Moore's, in the neighborhood of Washington. Making all speed home he fortunately arrived in time to assist in the defense of the place. On receiving this news the people of the fort felt assured that the blow was intended for them, and in this conjecture they were not mistaken. But little time was allowed them for preparation.

"The Indians had surrounded the place before they were discovered; but they were still at some distance. When seen, the alarm was given, on which every man ran for his gun and took refuge in the block-house. The Indians, answering the alarm with a war whoop from their whole line, commenced firing, and running towards the fort from every direction. It was evidently their intention to take the place by assault; but the fire of the Indians was answered by that of six brave and skillful sharpshooters. This unexpected reception prevented the intended assault, and made the Indians take refuge behind logs, stumps and trees. The firing continued with little intermission for about four hours.

"In the intervals of the firing the Indians frequently called out to the people of the fort: 'Give up, give up, too many Indians; Indian too big; no kill.' They were answered with defiance: 'Come on, you cowards; we are ready for you; show us your yellow hides, and we will make holes in them for you.'

"During the evening many of the Indians, at some distance from the fort, amused themselves by shooting the horses, cattle and sheep, until the bottom was strewn with their dead bodies.

"About 10 o'clock at night the Indians set fire to a barn about 30 yards from the fort. It was large and full of grain and hay. The flame was frightful, and at first it seemed to endanger the burning of the fort, but the barn stood on lower ground than the fort. The night was calm, with the exception of a slight breeze up the creek. This carried the flame and burning splinters in a different direction, so that the burning of the barn, which at first was regarded as a dangerous, if not fatal occurrence, proved in the issue the means of throwing a strong light to a great distance in every direction, so that the Indians dare not approach the fort to set fire to it, which they might have done at little risk, under the cover of darkness.

"After the barn was set on fire, the Indians collected on the side of the fort opposite the barn, so as to have the advantage of the light, and kept up a pretty constant fire, which was as steadily answered by that of the fort, until about 2 o'clock, when the Indians left the place and made a hasty retreat.

"Thus was this little place defended by a Spartan band of six men against one hundred chosen warriors, exasperated to madness by their failure at Wheeling fort. Their names shall be inscribed in the list of heroes of our early times. They were Jacob Miller, George Leffler, Peter Fullenweider, Daniel Rice, George Felebaum and Jacob Leffler, Jr. George Felebaum was shot in the forehead, through a port-hole, at the second fire of the Indians, and instantly expired, so that in reality the defense of the place was made by only five men.

"The loss of the Indians was four, three of whom were killed at the first fire from the fort; the other was killed about sundown. There can be no doubt but that a number more were killed and wounded in the engagement, but were concealed or carried off.

"A large division of these Indians, on their retreat, passed within a little distance of my father's fort. In following their trail, a few days afterwards, I found a large poultice of chewed sassafras leaves. This is the dressing which the Indians usually apply to recent gunshot wounds. The poultice which I found having become too old and dry, had been removed, and replaced with a new one.

"Examples of personal bravery and hair breadth escapes are always acceptable to readers of history. An instance of both of these happened during the attack on this fort, which may be worth recording.

"Abraham Rice, one of the principal men belonging to the fort of that name, on hearing the report of the deserters from the Indians, mounted a very strong, active mare and rode in all haste to another fort, about three and a half miles distant from his own, for further news, if any could be had, concerning the presence of a body of Indians in the neighborhood. Just as he reached the place he heard the report of the guns at his own fort. He returned as fast as possible, until he arrived within sight of the fort. Finding that it still held out, he determined to reach it and assist in its defense or perish in the attempt. In doing this he had to cross the creek, the fort being some distance from it on the opposite bank. He saw no Indians until his mare sprang down the bank of the creek, at which instant about fourteen of them jumped up from among the weeds and bushes and discharged their guns at him. One bullet wounded him in the fleshy part of his right arm above the elbow. By this time several more of the Indians came up and shot at him. A second ball wounded him in the thigh a little above the knee, but without breaking the bone, and the ball passed transversely through the neck of the mare. She, however, sprang up the bank of the creek, fell to her knees and stumbled along about a rod before she recovered. During this time several Indians came running up to tomahawk him. Yet he made his escape, after having about thirty shots fired at him from a very short distance. After riding about four miles, he reached Lamb's Fort, much exhausted from the loss of blood. After getting his wounds dressed and resting a while, he set off late in the evening with twelve men, determined, if possible, to reach the fort under cover of night. When they got within about two hundred yards of it they halted, the firing still continued. Ten of the men, thinking the enterprise too hazardous, refused to go any further and retreated. Rice and two other men crept silently along towards the fort, but had not proceeded far before they came close upon an Indian in his concealment. He gave the alarm yell, which was instantly passed around the lines with the utmost regularity. This occasioned the Indians to make their last effort to take the place and make their retreat under cover of the night. Rice and his two companions returned in safety to Lamb's Fort.

"About 10 o'clock the next morning sixty men collected at Rice's Fort for the relief of the place. They pursued the Indians, who kept in a body for about two miles. The Indians had then divided into small parties, and took over the hills in different directions, so that they could be tracked no farther. The pursuit was, of course, given up.

"A small division of the Indians had not proceeded far after their separation, before they discovered four men coming from a neighboring fort in the direction of that which they had left. The Indians waylaid the path, and shot two of them dead on the spot; the others fled. One of them, being swift of foot, soon made his escape; the other, being a poor runner, was pursued by an Indian, who, after a smart chase, came close to him. The man then wheeled around and snapped his gun at the Indian. This he repeated several times. The Indian then threw his tomahawk, but missed him. He then caught hold of the ends of his belt, which was tied behind in a bow knot. In this, again, the Indian was disappointed, for the knot came loose, so that he got the belt, but not the man, who wheeled around and tried his gun again, which happened to go off, and laid the Indian dead at his feet."

JOHN RICE'S NOTES CONCERNING RICE'S FORT.

"In 1770 Jacob Rice and family, in company with ten or twelve other families, came from Maryland across the Allegheny Mountains, and settled in Wash. Co., Pa., on Short Creek, near where Wash. Coll. now stands. There they built a fort to protect themselves against the Indians, calling it Rice's Fort.

"The Indians were very aggressive at this time, and gave them much trouble. On one occasion two of the lads belonging to the fort were outside its walls skimming stones on the creek, one of them being nine, and the other eleven years of age. Suddenly two Indians came up, took them prisoners, and carried them a distance of five miles. When night came the Indians stacked their guns and tomahawks and laid down, with the boys between them.

"A deep sleep came upon the Indians, and the boys got up quietly, the elder one taking a stick of wood which he laid beside the head of one of their captors, placing a gun on the stick with the muzzle near the Indians' head, and his little brother at the trigger. Then he took a tomahawk and stood over the other Indian, and said to his brother, "When I strike, you pull the trigger." Thus they killed their captors, and reached the fort before daylight: their report was found to be true by a party of men sent out to explore.

"At another time five men from the fort were out hunting, and were captured by the Indians. They were all killed by being chopped to pieces (most of them were old men), the feet, legs and arms being taken off first. When it came to Mr. Leffler's turn the Chief said: 'No kill him, good warrior: keep him.' So they bound him with thongs of raw-hide. During the night he chewed these thongs in two and escaped safely to the fort.

In Oct. — the fort was attacked by over a hundred Indians. Daniel Rice was away at the time, but hearing the firing started home. As he neared the fort, riding a fleet mare, he made a dash through the line of Indians, under a heavy fire, and just then his mare received a shot in the neck and fell to her knees. Several Indians advanced towards him with uplifted tomahawks, and raising the war whoop so frightened the wounded animal that she sprang up, and, dashing away, carried her rider beyond the reach of danger. He gathered a posse of men and returned at daybreak to succor the fort, but found one mightier than he had come to their aid. The fight had been carried on by five men, the women moulding bullets as fast as they were needed, and loading the guns for the men, so a constant fire was kept up. It was a still evening at first, and the sun set in a clear sky; but after a while some large clouds came up. The Indians, who were in hopes to fire the fort, had backed some combustibles against it and set fire to it, but just as the pile of flax was beginning to blaze, and all hope seemed gone, the rain began falling, and increased until all the fire was extinguished. The Indians seeing this became convinced that the "Great Spirit" was angry with them, and departed, taking their dead with them.
"Shortly after this occurrence some of the boys were at the creek fishing, when their hooks caught in an Indians’ breech-clout. They drew him to the top of the water and then ran toward the fort, crying: ‘Indians, Indians,’ causing all men, women and children to rush to the guns immediately. Boys were the same in 1770 as in later times."

Jacob Rice’s tract of 400 acres was surveyed to him by William Hoge, Sept. 21, 1785, and was called “Turkey’s Nest,” and was taken up by him on a Virginia certificate granted in Jan., 1780. This tract adjoined “Sylvia’s Plain,” an estate on which Jacob Leffler had made settlement in 1774.

(3) HENRY RICE. b. May 4, 1762; lived at Rice's Fort, where he was m., in Dec., 1790, to Elizabeth Leffler, a. sister of the wife of his brother Daniel. In 1807 the Indians being so very aggressive in Western Pa., he, with many others, removed to Indiana, where there was never at any time so much trouble with them. They traveled down the Ohio River on a flat-boat with their effects, to Tobacco Landing, opposite Brandenburg, Ky., where his sister, Mrs. Boone, then lived. Other members of the Boone family came with them, and their descendants still live in Harrison Co. The boats used at that time for river travel were made of green oak planks, caulked with tow, or some other pliable substance, and fastened with wooden pins to a timber frame. After a landing was made the family lived for several years in the country ten miles south of Corydon, and in 1813, when that place was made the State Capitol, they removed to Corydon, where Henry Rice built himself a comfortable two-story brick house, the first in that part of the state, and where he died.* He was a strong, fine character, very religious, and from the first was an elder in the Presbyterian Church. He was prominent in the affairs of the town, and president of the first town board (1817). He d. in Corydon, Sept. 25, 1825, aged 63 years, and was buried in the old burying ground, now “Cedar Hill Cemetery.” Elizabeth d. Sept. 28, 1831, aged 57 years.

17 ISAAC RICE. b. May 6, 1794; d. July 6, 1794, and is buried near the old fort.
18 REV. HENRY LEFFLER RICE. b. Rice’s Fort, June 25, 1795; m., in 1822, Gertrude (sister of Dr. Van Dyke of New Jersey). He d. May 3, 1837, aged 32 yrs. (no chil.); his wife d. June 9th, following (Chambersburg, Pa.). Dr. Rice was educated in Lexington, Ky., and graduated at Troy University, 1818, and studied theology at Princeton. After serving as missionary in the west, he became pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian Church at Spottsylvania, N. J., and pastor, later, of the church at Chambersburg, Pa. (1834-37). Dr. Jos. H. Dubbs, in his "History of Marshall College," has the following: "The first blow which fell upon the young institution was the unexpected death of the President of the Board of Trustees, the Rev. Henry L. Rice, of Chambersburg. He had been enthusiastically devoted to the work of establishing the new college. His death was believed to have been caused by exposure (scarlet fever). Dr. Rauch delivered the eulogy." The church erected a handsome monument to the memory of their beloved pastor, and his beautiful and amiable wife, who had done so much for the cause. It stands in the grass in front of the edifice on South Main St., in Chambersburg, and is about three feet at the base, and seven feet high. The church stands twenty feet from the sidewalk, and is the original building erected one hundred years ago, has a beautiful white spire, and is kept in excellent repair, with exterior unchanged, though the interior has been several times remodeled and beautified. The Rev. Henry Lettler Rice and his beloved wife Gertrude are buried under the monument, which has the following inscription:

"The exclusive aim of his life was
The glory of his Master.
He loved his flock, the Reformed Church and her institutions, and dying left them his blessings and admonitions.

"Finally, Brethren, farewell: be of good comfort: be perfect, be of one mind: live in peace, and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

(16) ANNA RICE. b. at Rice’s Fort, July 7, 1792; m. in 1810, James Harbison, who was b. in 1795, Aug. 21, and d. of cholera, Aug. 8, 1833, of the epidemic during that period. He was a son of John Harbison of Pa. (said to be a Revolutionary soldier), whose wife was Catherine English. Both names are old ones in Pa., and seem to have appeared first near Phila.

After the death of her husband, Anna Rice Harbison was left with a large family of children, and only one of the number was old enough to be of much service to her, those next in order of age being girls, but she bravely met her difficulties, and succeeded in rearing well the large family, giving them education, and making of them all good and useful citizens. 42 ELIZABETH ANN JUDSON WILLIAMSON. b. May 21, 1832.

43 MARY REBECCA WILLIAMSON. b. 1835; d. 1851.

44 WILLIAM HENRY WILLIAMSON. b. Feb. 25, 1837; m., 1865, Dora S. Tripp. He d. Oct. 30, 1908. He was a successful teacher in schools, academies and colleges until the day of his death. Issue: John Alexander, Lydia J., Anne, Harriet, Philip, William Henry, Charles Brainerd, Robert. One of the sons is a business man, and the other three are teachers.

(20) ELIZABETH RICE. b. Jan. 26, 1800; m. Hon. John W. Payne. She was a small, bright, brown-eyed, handsome woman, and had wonderful executive ability, both in business matters and in rearing and educating her family. Her children were: Dr. Henry Rice Payne, Judge Jonathan Payne, Rev. Jno. W. Payne, Elizabeth Emily Payne (m. Hon. H. P. H. Bromwell), Dr. Wm. Alexander Payne, and Dr. Robert Lefler Payne. (For a more extended notice, see Payne Gen., No. 2. and Bromwell Gen., No. 104).
(22) JOHN RICE. b. in Wash. Co., Pa., April 16, 1804; d. in Crawfordsville, Ind., at the age of 94 years, Feb. 5, 1898; m., 1st, Sophia Hinsdale, of Hinesburg, Vt., a lady of fine accomplishments and education, who had come to Indiana to teach. The wedding was on June 29, 1829 (by the Rev. Alexander Williamson), at Mauckport, Ind. He m., 2d, Nancy, dau. of Robert Baldwin of Blue River, near Corydon (Feb. 20, 1849). John Rice was a merchant miller, a man of great sense and sagacity, very firm, very honest, religious, a supporter of the church, a strong Presbyterian, always an elder in the church, training his family to strict religious observances. In politics he was conservative, Republican, very pronounced in his views. In business life he was greatly respected, and his word was always as good as his note.

He built a large mill in Corydon, and on Aug. 10, 1856, it was burned to the ground, entailing a total loss of $20,000. He rebuilt the mill, but a short time afterwards thought best to go to New Albany, and built there a large brick mill on Main St., and was doing a very good business when the Civil War began. He had made several shipments of flour to New Orleans and Memphis, amounting to $8,000, but before getting returns from these shipments war was declared, the ports blockaded, and this proved a total loss. He was then 57 years of age, with a large family, and the clouds of financial embarrassment never afterward lifted. He was a man of so much deep religious conviction, however, that he was enabled to bear with fortitude these misfortunes, and died a happy and untroubled death. He removed to Bloomington, Ind., in 1864, and in 1870 to Crawfords-ville, his last home, where he had the care in his declining years of his devoted daughter, Mary (Mrs. Truax).

In his old age he was fond of reminiscences of his long and useful life. One of these is so pretty as to deserve record: "I recall very plainly a scene of a time when my sisters Lydia and

LYDIA ANNA RICE (51).
Elizabeth sat in an up-stairs room singing "Coronation." Suddenly the roof and windows were covered with martins. So vividly did this scene impress me that, almost unconsciously, I seemed to be singing, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and was immediately joined by these two sisters, and a chorus of others singing this same tune and hymn. As it was finished I heard in imagination my mother's voice as she used to often sing as she sat and helped me rock the cradle, "Come Ye that Love the Lord, and Let Your Joys be Known." From that day to this these voices have been with me constantly, cheering the last days of my life." The hymn, "How Firm a Foundation, Ye Saints of the Lord," was sung to him at his request, as his spirit took its flight.

Issue (By First Wife, Sophia).

45 GERTRUDE HOYT RICE. b. May 1, 1830; d. (Corydon), Oct. 11, 1845.

49 MARY ELIZABETH RICE. b. Aug. 8, 1836; m. in New Albany, Ind., Feb. 26, 1863, Rev. W. B. Truax, a Presbyterian minister of Chicago. She was educated in New Albany, became a teacher there, and in Kentucky in Stanton and Huntville Academies. Mr. Truax later in life was financial agent for the McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago, and was Supt. of Missions for the American Sunday School Union. He d. Feb. 23, 1885. She assisted Judge Sanford Hinsdale of Denver, Colo., in the compilation of the Hinsdale Genealogy. No chil.
50 HENRY MARTIN RICE. b. March 14, 1838; m. June 26, 1867, in Washington, Ind. Mrs. Alma Sherman. She d. June 12, 1880. He then went to Kansas, and later to Minneapolis, Minn., where he was in the flour milling business. He was a deacon in the Presbyterian Church there at the time of the death, which was sudden (while in church), April 30, 1891. No issue:
51 LYDIA ANNA RICE. b. April 22, 1840; m. in Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 6, 1871, by the Rev. R. F. Caldwell to Alfred Ryors. One son, Dr. Ernest Hinsdale Ryors, b. Aug. 15, 1872. He grad. at the Salt Lake Collegiate Institute in 1892, and in 1896 at the University of Michigan (medical dept.). She lives in Parkville, Mo. She was for years a very successful teacher in Bloomington, Ind.

Chil. of John Rice by Second Wife.

54 RUTH SOPHIA RICE. b. in Corydon, Feb. 4, 1850; d. in 1907. Educated in New Albany, where she attended a private school, taught by Mrs. Michael C. Kerr, whose husband afterward became Speaker of the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C. During these years Ruth was never tardy, and never missed a single question in any recitation. She was m. to James E. Kenton of Springfield, Mo., Sept. 6, 1871. Her husband was always an elder in the Presbyterian Church. He d. in 1897. Issue: William R., b. Jan. 26, 1873; d. same day. 56 LUCINDA J. RICE. b. May 24, 1853; d. Sept. 20, 1863.

58 WILLIAM BALDWIN RICE. b. Nov. 19, 1860; d. Aug. 27, 1863. "Little Willie," as he was called, was the pet of the family. At the age of two years he could sing, all unaided, many war songs of the time, such as "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," and "Rally 'Round the Flag, Boys," which he had learned at the two soldiers' hospitals in New Albany, Ind., near where his father lived. He was a great comfort to the wounded soldiers, sick and far from home, and used to give performances for them in these places, and was idolized by them.
He had blue eyes and a profusion of golden curls piled up on his head, and wore little pink cambric frocks braided in white. He was a very angelic little child. (d. of diphtheria; was b. in Corydon).

The Descendants of Catherine.

(8) CATHARINE RICE (dau. of Jacob, 1st, and Anne), b. Dec. 9, 1768; d. Jan. 19, 1842, aged 73 years, 11 months; m., 1st, Henry Fullenwider, who died soon of malaria (for her descendants by this see Fullenwider, Gen.): m., 2d, April 11, 1793, Jonathan Boone, nephew of the famous Daniel Boone, of Ky., he being a son of Squire and Jane Boone, and b.
Aug. 30, 1766, and d. March 9, 1831, and lived at Rice's Fort, at Brandenburg, Ky., and in Alton, Ind. He was a man very much inclined to love a life of adventure, and a story is related of him that on one occasion, early in the morning, he started to a neighbor's house to borrow some fire, and, passing along the shore of the Ohio River (near Brandenburg), he noticed a boat with oars and other conveniences moored near the banks, and the temptation was so irresistible that he immediately got into it for a little sail, at first intending to defer borrowing the fire only a few moments, but he did not return for several months. The story does not include the feelings of his wife and the children who had to go themselves for the fire. But he was a fine, whole-souled fellow, and was idolized by his family, and they easily forgot these small slips of memory. It is said that he was clever in many ways in addition to being a fine hunter. One of his descendants has a book which he wrote, quite a wonderful piece of workmanship, binding and all most remarkable, made entirely by him, written in a fine style of penmanship, and exhibiting much scientific knowledge, and for that day and age (a hundred years ago) is marvelous.*

*The binding is bear-skin; the leaves are very thick and fastened to the cover with leather strings; the book measures 16x10x1 inch, and on the first page are the words: “JONATHAN BOONE, his book. A. D. 1787.” The subject is surveying; there are no family records in the book.

It has been handed down to the oldest grandchild of the Boone name, and is now owned by Charles Boone of Texas (Brandon), and will pass to his baby, little DANIEL BOONE.

THE RICE FAMILY.

of Col. Hiram C. Boone of Ky. John Tipton Boone was lost in 1849 on his way overland to Cal.

(Notes Anne Clementine m. Dr. Ray of Louisville, Ky., and Malvina m. Thos. Hite. Roberta, dau. of Col. Hiram C. Boone, Jr.; m. Wm. L., son of Wm. Hayden Fullenwider, son of Peter Rice Fullenwider, son of Henry, son of Catherine Rice above; (8) by first marriage.)

NOTE—Squire Boone, the father of Jonathan, Moses and Isaiah Boone, of Kentucky and Indiana, and brother of Daniel Boone, was buried in a cave in Harrison Co., Ind.; was killed by Indians and scalped, it is said. The Boones emigrated from Bucks Co., Pa., to N. C. in 1748, during the time when that country was being colonized. They were Quakers, and this partly accounts for the way in which Daniel could always live with the Indians, and never have trouble with them. He was greatly beloved by them, and must have been a very humane man and of utmost integrity and beauty of character. He was chosen an old chief as his son, and historians have related accounts of the ceremonies used on this occasion. He was born in Bucks Co., Pa., Feb. 11, 1735, one of the sons of Squire, Boone and Sarah Morgan, and his grandfather was George Boone, who came from Eng. in 1717. Daniel was induced to go to Kentucky by the noted explorer John Finley, who, in 1767, had visited this wilderness and told of its wonders. He made several trips back and forth, and was employed by the government to negotiate treaties with the Indians. Daniel, m. Rebecca Bryan, and is said to have had the following children: Col. Daniel Morgan Boone, who lived in La., and d. about 1860, aged 80 yrs. James Boone and Israel Boone (killed by Indians). Jesse Boone, who came to La. in 1806, and d. a few yrs. later in St. Louis, Mo. Major Nathan Boone, who lived in La., and in Green Co., Mo.; Jemima Boone, and Rebecca, Susanna and Lavina Boone, the three last living marrying and dying in Ky. Daniel's brothers and sisters all lived to a great age. George d. in Shelby Co., Ky., Nov., 1829, aged 82. Samuel d. aged 88, Jonathan at the age of 86. Mrs. Wilcox, a sister, at the age of 91, and Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Smith, other sisters, attained the age of 84 yrs. Daniel Boone d. in Mo., Sept. 26, 1830, aged 86. (Niles Reg., Vol. XIX.)

It is said in history that Gov. Caleb F. Bennet, 15th Governor of Delaware (1835-1837), was a grandson of Mary, a sister of Daniel Boone, and the second Governor of Indiana was Ratliff Boone, who was probably a near relative. He represented Illinois for many years in Congress, and lived in Corydon. The Boones were said to have been related to the Leas family, still living in Oley, Berks Co., Pa. The names of Daniel's brothers and sisters were: Israel, Sarah, Samuel, Jonathan, Elizabeth, Mary, George, Edward, Squire, and Hannah.

Some Descendants of Nicholas Rice.

NICHOLAS RICE. Came from Pa. (some say Va.), to Hardinsburg, Ky., when his son Jacob was 4 years old, thought to be a cousin of Henry Rice of Corydon. Had chil., as follows:
(a) JACOB RICE. (Always claimed that John Rice of Crawfordsville was his second cousin). b. Jan. 26 or 28, 1780; m. Oct. 21, 1802, Susannah Peckinpaugh. His son found him dead not far from the house April 4, 1840. They lived at Fort Hardin, where Hardinsburg, Ky., now stands, and there Jacob saved the life of old Mr. William Hardin, brother of Robert Hardin. The chil. of Jacob and Susanna Rice were:

THE OLD GERMAN BIBLE OF PETER FULLENWIDER (1752) USED AT RICE'S FORT.
THE FULLENWIDER FAMILY.

REV. PETER FULLENWIDER. Came from Switzerland to Hagerstown, Md., in 1752, with his young wife, making the voyage in thirteen weeks; in mid-ocean they were called upon to give up their only child, which they consigned to the waves. He was a preacher of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, and it is said had two brothers who also came to America, near the same time, and went to the South Carolina settlements, where their descendants still live, though spelling the name somewhat differently—Fullwiler or Fullwider—and having many of the family traits and resemblance. The name is said by family tradition to be only about three hundred years old; there is an interesting and curious story as to its origin; it is said that the ancestor who first adopted the name was a "morganatic" son of a nobleman of the Royal family of Holland, and as he could not legally assume his father's name, he was called Full-wiler, or Veul-wiler, which meant in Dutch a wild or strong colt, he being as child and man of remarkable strength and activity. This Fullwiler, or his son, passed into Germany, where the name in High Dutch became Fullenwider. This story is related by Dr. Austin L. Fullenwider of Plaza, Wash., who was a son of Dr. Fullenwider, who married Jane Houston, a niece of Gen. Sam Houston, of Texas fame. His father was one of the younger sons of Jacob, son of Rev. Peter Fullenwider, and had written the story out for the family to have and hand down, and stated that it was a tradition of his grandfather.

In coming to the new world it had been the desire of the Rev. Peter Fullenwider to convert the Indians, and it was on this mission that he sought the border countries. It is probable that he experienced great disappointment in this work, but no doubt found much to do in preaching righteousness to the members of his own race, and was a power for good wherever he so-journed; he was at many of the forts, at Rice's, Boone's, most likely at Wright's block-house, and at Doddridge's and Vance and Miller's forts, all of which lay in close distance of each other except that of Boone. The Indian atrocities became so dreadful that traveling was most difficult, yet in 1783 he is said to have gone to Kentucky, where the family lived in constant fear of assassination. One of his little grandchildren, a boy about three years old, was taken and scalped, and his body left in a field. The family at the time had thought him inside the house, but found too late that he had taken his cup of bread and milk outside to eat, and had been carried off before they learned their mistake. On another occasion a son-in-law was killed and scalped by the Indians, and also his eldest son Peter, but this was possibly after the father's death. One Sunday as he, with several of the grandchildren, was returning from meeting, which had been held at some distance from the block-house, a company of Indians drove up, and demanded their surrender; the young people put spurs to the horses and managed to reach the fort, but the old grandfather was walking, and could not follow; he threw up his hands in sign of surrender, but the savages let him go on, and he finally reached the block-house in safety.

He died in Shelby Co., Ky., in 1799, and was buried under the house, safe from Indian scalp-hunters. The old Bible, illustrated above, was brought by him from Switzerland in 1752, and has been carried in all his wanderings, taking part in the many picturesque incidents of his remarkable career. To him it was as the cherished treasure of his heart. Although it weighed thirty pounds, it was carried on horseback all over the country, and from its pages the little congregations at Rice's and many of the other forts were taught the Gospel. Many were the Indian companies that listened to his translations from this book, for he tried to study their language as far as he could.

In old age it was for years his custom to sit at a long table and read from this cherished volume, and daily he could be seen, his silvery locks falling over his shoulders, stooping over the book, enjoying its promises and enraptured with its beauties. One morning when his little grandsons were tiny boys playing about the house with their little sisters and cousins, the venerable grandparent was found to be dead with his face in the old Bible. "God had taken him thus," it was said.

The following list of his children is thought to include all the sons, but there may have been one or two daughters, whose names are not now known; his wife was named Barbara:

1 MARY FULLENWIDER. b. Hagerstown, Md.; m., 1st, Mr. Lutze (killed by Indians); 2d, Wm. Cooper; her dau. Polly m. Jacob Rice.

2 BARBARA FULLENWIDER. m. Samuel Ryker.

3 PETER FULLENWIDER. m. Nancy Rice (?). He was b. probably in Hagerstown, Md., and was killed by Indians in Ky. (?)

4 HENRY FULLENWIDER. d. of malaria, leaving a small family; m. Catherine Rice, dau. of Jacob, of Rice's Fort. There is uncertainty as to which of these brothers m. Catherine, but there seems to be evidence that it was Henry.

5 ELIZABETH FULLENWIDER. m. Wm. Carr; among other issue had Barbara, who was reared by her uncle Jacob, and m. Gerardus Ryker Robbins, and had dau. Sarah, who m. Wm. Carroll Young, and Mrs. Young still lives in Ind., aged 84 yrs. (b. Feb. 5, 1826). Other issue of Barbara and Mr. Robbins were: Elizabeth, Isaac, Anne, Jacob, Sarah, Charity, Catherine.

6 ANNA FULLENWIDER. m. Thos. Infield. Lived in Ind.

The Descendants of Jacob.

(Rev. Peter 1.)

(7) JACOB FULLENWIDER. b. Hagerstown, Md., June 2, 1767; d. in Scott's Station, Ky., in 1848. In 1783 he went to Kentucky with his father, and was always a great Indian fighter, and was later in the army of "Mad Anthony Wayne," it being his last campaign against the Indians. He lived for a time at a fort, and later returned to Pa. to claim Anne Leffler as his bride, but this capricious young lady had changed her mind, and gave out that she did not wish to go to such a wild place as Kentucky, preferring the more civilized environment of Rice’s Fort.

Young Jacob was feeling rather badly when the benevolent Mr. Christopher Winter,* who had observed the state of his feelings, came forward with sympathy, saying to him: “Now you don’t care for her as much as you think you do; look at all these other fine girls; why don’t you take one of them?” “They might not want to go to Kentucky either,” said Jacob, ruefully. Mr. Winter became more and more sympathetic, seeing such a fine young man in such trouble, and at last said, “there’s my Katherine; she’ll go with you!” And so they were married almost immediately, on April 18, 1796, but spent several years in Pa. before going, as the first three children were born there; whether this tardiness in keeping her part of the bargain was pleasing to Jacob, history does not inform us, but they finally left Pa. and journeyed toward Ky., part way on horseback and part way by boat on the Ohio river. A story which illustrates her character is told of her presence of mind during this trip; the boat was not very well constructed, and some leaks came, and it was seemingly filling with water; every one made an effort to leave when she called for knives and tow, and began calking the cracks, and her bravery so inspired the others that they soon had the boat quite tight, and by watching and working with it managed to keep it afloat until they reached their destination. The captain was very grateful to her for this conduct.

Jacob was for fifty years an elder in the Presbyterian

*Note—In a quaint old hymnal possessed by Mrs. Bettis (a desc.) is the following inscription:

“1806, den 6th April gebe ich, Christophel Winter, dieses gesangbuch meiner Tochter Chaterina Follenwiderin zum gebranach für Ihre Seele zu haben mit lesen und Singen; in Ihren Mutter Sprach; und di meine Rhat folgest und dieses Buch fleissigen gebranach da von machst so wirst du eine manchen Trost für dich finden schon hier in den zeit und einen Platz für die Ewigkeit der nicht verwelket. Ewigkeit lass mich dich nicht vergessen.

“Amen.

“Catherina Follenwiderin ist geboren im Jahre ein Tausent sieben Hundert und sieben und siebzig den zweiten August.”

*The brothers and sisters of Catherine Winter (copied from an old record by Mrs. Nash—Clara La Follette) are Mary, who m. a Reed; Susanna, who m. 1st, Rev. John Simler of Ind.; 2d, Mr. Hanks (a relative of Nancy Hanks, Lincoln’s mother); John, Jacob, Samuel, Christopher, David.
Church, and was the principal founder of Shiloh and Olivet Churches; he was a man of much vigor, even in old age, and made a trip to Indiana on horseback when 80 years old, returning the same way. His wife died about the time of his death. They reared to manhood and womanhood fifteen children.

Chil. of Jacob and Katherine (all but three were born in Shelby Co. Ky.).

(I) PETER FULLENWIDER. b. in Pa. (Rice’s Fort), June 6, 1797; became a minister and went as a missionary to Texas, and lost his sight from riding in a fierce sandstorm. He and most of his family died of yellow fever about 1860; m. Belinda.

(II) JOHN FULLENWIDER. b. May 14, 1798, in Pa., and d. in Shelby Co., Ky., at an advanced age. He was a student at Princeton Univ. Said to have been unm. Was by many persons considered the best Greek scholar in Ky.

(III) ELIZABETH FULLENWIDER. b. Oct. 6, 1799, in Pa.; m. in Shelby Co., Ky., Louis Beatty, whose mother was Miss Mount (a Virginia fam. originally). Elizabeth was the first graduate of old Science Hill, still a flourishing college in Shelbyville, Ky. Issue: James Stuart Beatty, who m. Mary Blankenship and had Clarence Beatty, Lilly Beatty (Mrs. Smith), and Virginia Beatty, who m. Walter Smith. (B) Thomas Beatty and (C) Crow Beatty were twins and d. young. (D) Harriet Beatty, b. Oct., 1837; d. Sept. 7, 1901; m., in 1861, Rev. James Presly McMillan. Had Elizabeth McMillan, who m. Robt. Anderson Bettis, and Georgia Ray McMillan. (E) Lieut. William Beatty, who perished on the Sultana in the Civil War.

The Rev. James Presly McMillan is living near his daughters in Athens, Tenn. He is a native of Georgia, and is now in his 80th year. Graduated at Centre College, Danville, Ky. His first charge was Old Shiloh and Olivet, at that time two separate houses of worship, alternating meeting days, and congregations overlapping. His life work has been in the mission field, in the hill country, Cumberland Co., Ky., where he established Alexandria College, and built a brick chapel; the building and grounds of this college were most beautiful. He later removed to Chatanooga, Tenn. After five years he went to Lumberton, N. C., for the health of his wife, who d. in this place (near Wilmington). He then accepted a call to Citronville, Ala., where he remained until Nov., 1909, when he became pastor of the church at Athens, Tenn., near Chattanooga. Here he lives in the Manse, with a young college professor for company, and “Tennessee,” the colored house-keeper, who is devoted to him. He is very active, and nothing would induce him to relinquish his work. His daughters graduated at Oxford College, O. (Their mother had been a graduate of Stuart's College, Shelbyville, Ky., in 1854.) Elizabeth then studied music at Columbia College, New York.

(IV) ANNE FULLENWIDER. b. in Ky., Sept. 14, 1800; m. Asa Tucker and lived in Ky. Had David, Kate (who m. Mr. McWilliams), and probably others.

(V) ELEAZER FULLENWIDER. b. at Scott's Sta., Ky., Feb. 5, 1802; d. Crawfordsville, Ind., 1870; m. Lavina Allen. Issue (11 chil.): William, who m. Mary Benefield and lived near Bloomington, Ill. Elizabeth, m. Rev. Joseph Platt. Samuel, who lived in Kan. Joseph Newton, who m. Miss Long and lived in Montgomery Co., Ind., and had four chil. (Henry, Robert, Scott, and Lavina Lofland). Harriet X., who m. Joseph Milligan, and had Harry J., who is a prominent atty. of Indianapolis, and daughters Clara and India, both of whom d. prior to the death of their mother. The 6th child of Eleazer and Lavina was Jennie, who m. Dr. Crozier, and lives in N. M. 7th, Narcissa, who m. Andrew Shular (Black Falds, Alberta, Canada). 8th, James C., who perished in the Civil War (33d Reg., Ind.). 9th, Robert Allen, who lived near Indianapolis, and had chil.: [Josephine, Catherine (Mrs. Ohaver), Jessie (Mrs. Goss), and Robert J., who lives in Denver.] 10th, Chalmers, who lives in Crawfordsville, Ind., and has James Samuel, Wesley A., J. Newton and Frank C. The 11th and last child of Eleazer and Lavina is Jacob C., who lives near Bloomington, Ind., and had Alice, Grace and Earl.

(VI) SAMUEL FULLENWIDER. b. Sept. 6, 1803: d. in 1896, aged 92 yrs (Burlington, Ia.). Was a physician, and one of the three who knelt in the snow when Wabash College was dedicated. His brother David visited him in Iowa shortly before his death. It was a love-feast, for the brothers had not been together for fifty years. Dr. Samuel Fullenwider m. Ist, Jane Houston, and had children; his son, Dr. Austin L. Fullenwider, lives in Plaza, Wash.

(VII) MARY FULLENWIDER. b. Sept. 20, 1805; m. Robert Cooper, and lived in both Ind. and Ky. Had Catherine, Jennie, Lavinia and James. Had desc. in Wilmington, N. C. (Cummings).

Ils. (Sangamon Co.). They had 9 chil.: Samuel N., Jacob Nelson, a. dau. (who m. Rev. Arnold Bowman), Solomon N., Simon Peter, Marcus, John II., and others. In Powell's Sangamon Co. Settlers (1876) the descendants of this line are given some length, but it is not carried as far back as the generation before Henry. He may have been either a nephew or a grandson of the Rev. Peter Fullenwider, but is too young to have been a son. He is said in this history to have had a young brother who was killed by Indians; there is some confusion of identity, for the Henry Fullenwider whose brother was killed in this way died leaving a small family, and Peter, Jr., was killed some time after being married. It is likely that a generation has been skipped here by some oversight. Possibly the Henry above is a son of Peter, Jr. (This record is mentioned so as to give all the evidence at hand.)

Jacob Nelson Fullenwider, the 4th child of this family, b. June 5, 1814, d. Jan. 22, 1887; m. Sarah Bullard, and had 11 chil. Several d. in inf. Elizabeth J., b. March 7, 1838; d. Thompson Grout, and had Bertha P., Frank H., Joseph Fred, and Wm. Chas. Bertha P. Grout m. Joseph P. Otis of San Antonio, Tex., and has Eleanor Grace Otis, b. Sept. 12, 1910. The youngest child of Jacob Nelson F. was Homer, b. Aug. 19, 1856; m. Jennie, dau. of Col. N. G. Ragland of Shelby Co., Ky. They had Agnes, Natalie and Leah. (Mechanicsburg, Ill.)

John Grant F., and Henry Allen F. of Colo. are sons of John H. Fullenwider, the youngest child of Henry and Harriet Neal. Lavinia, who m. Capt. Theo. True of the U. S. Army, and lives in Los Angeles, is a dau. of the Rev. Arnold Bowman and Nancy N., the fifth child.
HON. SHEPHERD LEFFLER (21).

The first Representative in Congress from the State of Iowa. President of the First Constitutional Convention in 1844, and member of the second Convention as well. He was a member of the 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th Legislative Assemblies of the Territory. He was first elected to Congress in 1845, and served until 1851. The following extract is from his speech delivered at the opening of the first Constitutional Convention, from the History of the Constitutions of Iowa, by Benj. F. Shambaugh, 1902:

"Under your auspices, the youngest and fairest daughter of the whole American family is to commence her separate political existence, to take her rank in the Union of American States. It is not yours to gild or finish the superstructure, but to sound the bottom, to lay the foundation, to place the cornerstone: In all its essential features it should be as good, if not wiser and better than any other instrument which has ever yet been devised for the government of mankind: So that Iowa, young, beautiful, blooming as she now is, endeared to us by every attachment that can bind us to our country, may at no distant day, for anything that is great, noble or renowned, rival, if not surpass, the proudest State of the American Confederacy."
THE LEFFLER FAMILY

Extract from letter of PROF. L. FR. LAFFLER to H. E. B., RELATING TO THE LEFFLER FAMILY AND NAME IN EUROPE:

"Djursholm, Sweden, Feb. 5, 1909.

"As I am that member of the Leffler family in Sweden who takes especial interest in the history of the family, and during many years has made researches on the Genealogy of the Lefflers, my brother Gosta has asked me to answer your letter of May 3d.

("As I am a friend of the spelling reform, I have changed my name into Laffler).

"We have a complete genealogy of our family from the beginning of the seventeenth century, when our ancestor, Georgius Leffler, lived in Breslau, Schlesia, Germany. His son, Tobias, emigrated to Sweden about 1655, probably for the same reason for which the "Mayflower" emigrants went to America—religious liberty. From this Tobias Leffler, I and my brothers are descended in the sixth degree.

"A grandson of this Tobias, with the name Anders Leffler, who was a super-inspector of the customs in Gothenburg, had eighteen children, among whom was a son, Anders Gustaf Leffler, b. Feb. 15, 1756. Of him it is said in the family history: 'He went to London, and has never since been heard of.' It could be that he has emigrated from London to America, though the year, 1770, seems to be a little too early. If you can find the name of that Leffler who first came to America, and if it should really be Anders Gustaf, I shall give you further particulars about the family.

"The name of Leffler (older form Leffeler, in the sixteenth century) signifies in German Leoffelshied, or, what might be called a 'smith of spoons,' a fabricant of these silver and gold spoons from the end of the middle ages and the beginning of the new age [here Prof Laffler makes a little drawing of a spoon with ornamental handle], which are so much appreciated among collectors. Perhaps, also of wooden spoons. The name belongs to the class of family names which signify the executor of some craft.

"As the old word Leffel, spoon, now has changed into Laffel (comp. Lowe, instead Leve, older form), the name Leffler, often now occurs in Germany, as Loeffler, as found in the name of the Professor of Medicine, the renowned bacteriologist, Friedrich Loeffler, in Grieswald: the Professor of Laws, Alexander Loffler in Wocer: the Professor of Geography in Copenhagen, Ernst Loffler. A daughter of a Swedish Colonel, Balik, is married to an English gentleman (of London, I believe, with the name Leffler (of German origin, of course).

There are also Lefflers yet in Germany: for instance, two painters, artists, and there are surely several different families with the name. In Sweden there is another family with the name of Leffler, which came to Sweden from Germany a little earlier than my family. One branch of this family has been ennobled, and is now Reuterskold, a great family. The genealogical tables of this family have been printed, and there are among the members several men about whom nothing is known except the birth year, for instance: Lars Leffler, b. 1693; Simon Leffler, b. 1698; Johannes Leffler, b. 1699; Peter Magnus Leffler, b. 1705.

Among the German Lefflers or Leofflers, there is one who is known in Swedish history, though nothing is known about his relation to the Swedish families Leffler. His name was Jacob Leffler (also spelled Leoffer), Von und der Neidlinger. Dr. Jurisprudence, Chancellor in Wurtemburg, in 1633, Vice-Chancellor of the “Evangelist Union,” in Germany. (The Evangelist Union was quite a Swedish creation during the Thirty Years’ War), Royal Swedish Privy Council, Sweden Legate to Paris.

Perhaps you have heard mention of my sister, Anna Charlotte Leffler, who died in Naples, Italy, in 1892, as Duchess of Cajanello. She was a renowned authoress; several of her works have been translated into English, and one, the Biography of Mrs. Kowalevsky, has been published in an American edition.

"Respectfully yours,

L. Fr. Laffler.

(1) JACOB LEFFLER. Date and place of birth unknown at present, though the family in one branch have a record of one of this name, born June 9, 1745, but as the record has been several times copied, it is not likely to be absolutely reliable, especially as there seems to be confusion in the identity of the person, one branch of the family taking it as a record of the birth of Jacob (11), his son. He seems to have lived, first, at Hagerstown, Md., as one of his chil., Anna Margaret, the eldest, was b. there in 1762. After this time he may have re-

Note by H. E. B.: Prof. Laffler is a brother of the equally distinguished Prof. Gosta Mittag Leffler, Ph. D., and a member of the Faculty of the University of Stockholm. They are sons of Rector J. C. Leffler, member of Parliament. Prof. Leffler is a member of nearly all the learned societies of Europe, including the Institute of France. Anna Charlotte Leffler, Duchess of Cajanello, left a son, b. 1592, called Gaetano Leffler Del Pezzo. He is the only son of the Duke of Cajanello, and will, if he survives his father, succeed to the title. He has already published a little book of poems.
moved to Washington Co., Pa., where he made a settlement in 1774. There is record of a transaction by which a tract of 400 acres of land, named "Sylvia's Plain," is granted Jacob Leffler on Feb. 17, 1785, and the fact of his previous settlement of the tract is mentioned. It was granted by a Virginia certificate, in which it was described as adjoining lands of Jacob Rice and Christopher Wygand in the county of O., on Buffalo Creek (a place near the present site of Washington College). Rice's Fort, probably occupied the land of Jacob Rice, and all the families of the settlement used it as a post of defense. Later on the county was divided, and Westmoreland Co. erected, and later still Washington Co. It is a very lovely piece of country, and but for the Indians would have proved an ideal home where every kind of game was to be had, abundant fish in the rivers, sugar trees, wild fruits of many kinds, some now unknown, rich land for grain and fine pastures for horses. The hunting of fur-bearing animals was also followed both for pastime and profit. The company at Rice's Fort seem to have included several Swiss people, and there is a probability that the Lefflers and Rices, too, were from Switzerland, as they followed the tenets of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, and their descendants have more of the characteristics of the Swiss than of the German people. They were very religious; seem to have been more than usually well educated, and to have been refined; that is to say, not of a vulgar or ordinary sort, as they had among them breeding and manners, above the common class; and the features of their descendants indicate this in a marked degree.

The name of Leffler seems to have appeared in several localities in Pa. earlier than the time of Jacob. There is a Jacob Leffler in Berks Co., as early as 1767, and Major Conrad Leffler (6th Battalion Berks Co, 1776, with whom was associated Lieut. Col. John Rice), may have been a relative, especially as the name of Conrad seems to occur at Rice's Fort, and a family of the name came to Corydon, Ind., from Western Pa., and had been more or less associated with the Lefflers. The names of Peter, Philip, John, Frederic and others of the Leffler sir-name appear in the Archives among the Militia and taxpayers of Pa. even earlier than the settlement at Rice's Fort. The descendants have a tradition that Jacob Leffler, their ancestor, was born in Germany; this could easily have been Switzerland, however, as the boats came from German ports.

In disposition the families have always been most kind, open, without fear, very hospitable, and of sterling integrity. Many of them have lived to a great age, and have been firm supporters of the Presbyterian Church almost without exception.

Jacob Leffler married Catherine Miller, and he must have died about 1785, near the time of his Virginia Certificate, as his widow seems to have remarried to the Rev. Jasper Simler in or near 1786. (For her descendants by this marriage see Simler Gen. at back of book.)

Issue of Jacob Leffler and Catherine.

3 JOHN JACOB LEFFLER. b. Aug. 9, 1767; m. Jane Smith.
5 ELIZABETH LEFFLER. b. Feb. 19, 1774; m. Henry Rice.
6 ISAAC LEFFLER. b. Dec. 4, 1777; m. Margaret Vance.
7 CATHERINE LEFFLER. b. April 21, 1782; m. Peter Miller.

Second and Third Generations.

(2) ANNA MARGARET LEFFLER. b. Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 25, 1762; m., 1st, Daniel Rice. She was a woman remarkable for her understanding and retention of mind and memory to the last moment of life. She died in a paroxysm of congestive fever, being ill but a few hours. At the time of her death she did not appear to be over 60 years of age, though approaching 90. Her teeth were beautiful and white, and almost perfectly even. Her sight was good, and hearing perfect.
After the death of her first husband she m., 2d, David Craig, a Protestant Irishman, a man of fine person and excellent intelligence, and of very great decision of character, who was said to very much resemble President Jackson, both in physical and mental characteristics. (Notes from Dr. H. J. Rice.)

David and Anna Margaret are buried at Waveland, Ind., where they removed from Corydon. By her first husband, Daniel Rice, she had 7 chil., as follows: Elizabeth, m. Mr. Bowman (see portrait). Jacob, m. Polly Cooper. Abraham, John, Henry, Anna Margaret, Isaac, m. Narcissa Montagu Allen. For a further account of her descendants see Rice Gen. No. 2.

By her 2d husband, David Craig, she had issue (all born at Rice's Fort):

8 DAVID CRAIG. b. 1798. When a young man he went down the river to New Orleans on a flat-boat, and was never afterward heard of. It is supposed he died. He was a fine young man and ambitious.

9 JANE CRAIG. b. 1800, Pa.; m. twice, 1st to Mr. Martin, and 2d to a Mr. Bullen or Bullitt. Her descendants live in and near New Albany, Ind. Issue by both marriages.

(3) JOHN JACOB LEFFLER. b. Aug. 9, 1765 or 1767, according to different authorities. In the record handed down among many of his descendants the name of John seems to have been omitted, but in the Simler family (descended from his mother's son by a 2d marriage) there is a record which gives this name, and so it is thought best to include it. According to tradition, he was a very fine man, tall, athletic, strong as a lion, and of firm will and good disposition, gentle, loving peace, and promoting it, if necessary, with force. He m. Jane Smith, Feb. 5, 1788, and lived on Short Creek, seven miles out of Wheeling, Va., acquired land, built distilleries, mills, and assisted in educational movements, promoting the University of Bloomington, Ind., and being Justice of the Peace in Donegal Twp., in 1805. (Washington Co., Pa.) He later removed to Iowa, for he is said to have been buried in Burlington; d. March 3, 1844, aged 78 yrs, 6 m. and 22 d. (?) He had ten children, and with exception of one, each of his sons received a college education. Two of his sons became members of Congress, one from Virginia, and the other from Iowa.

THE SIMLER FAMILY OF RICE'S FORT.

(1) REV. JASPER SIMLER. b. in Switzerland, either in Zurich or Geneva; date unknown at present. He was a student, became highly educated, was well versed in Latin, Greek, and also spoke French, as well as his native tongue, the German. In Switzerland he held a professorship in some institution of learning, and was said to have made money, and when the tide of emigration turned to America was one of those who chose to come and try the new world. He probably belonged to the same circles in Switzerland as Rev. Peter Fullenwider, and the ancestors of the Rice and Leffler families. He came to Westmoreland Co., Pa., in the early day, perhaps before Washington Co. had been erected. He was in Rice's Fort, and m., perhaps, about 1785 or 1786, to the widow of Jacob Leffler (1), who was Catherine, dau. of Mr. Miller (probably of Miller's Fort). They had only one son, and are not known to have had any daughters. The name of Simler has not increased much in the United States.

A few years after Jasper Simler came to America and married he rode over the mountains to the town of Reading, Pa., to hear the Wesleyans preach, was converted, and ever afterward a devoted Methodist, was ordained to preach, and continued a minister until his death. He did not attain a great age.

Issue: (One son.)

(2) REV. JOHN SIMLER (Jasper 1). b. in Pa., and probably in the vicinity of Rice's Fort, June 25, 1787; d. in Harrison Co., Ind., July 5, 1846; m. Susanna Winter, who was a sister of Catherine, who m. Jacob, son of Rev. Peter Fullenwider. She was born in Pa., probably near the same place as her future husband, Oct. 25, 1785, and d. in Harrison Co., Ind., July 5, 1844. They emigrated from Pa. about 1808, near the time during which the Rice and Boone families came, and made a home in Jackson Twp., Harrison Co., on Raccoon Creek, a short distance north of Zoar Church. The place is now known as the Hugh Dyer farm. Here his eldest children were born, perhaps all of them, and John Jr., lived and died here. The country was very wild, but beautiful, at that early day. So much was it infested with wolves that large premiums were paid for their scalps. It is said that John Simler, Sr., often had considerable money for them, as he was a very successful hunter. He was a man of much more than ordinary ability in many ways; was a teacher and composer of music, and read medicine a good deal. Two of his sons became ministers. He was a promoter of the University at Bloomington, contributing money to it, and helping it in many ways. Some time before his death he became an ordained minister and continued the work up to the end of his life. After his death his widow remarried to Mr. Hanks, a relative of the mother of Lincoln. He had eight chil., as follows:

Chil. of John Simler and Susanna (Perhaps not correctly arranged):

3. DAVID SIMLER. Drowned when 16 years of age in the Ohio river; he and his brother were persuaded to go in by an older young man, who could swim, and were drawn in by the quicksand; both drowned.

4. JACOB SIMLER. Was drowned with his brother above; aged 14 years. He went to his brother's assistance and the sand overwhelmed them both. The place was Frank's Hollow, Harrison Co.

5. JOHN SIMLER, JR. m. 1st, Isabel Stevenson; 2d, Mary Anne Gwartney.

6. SOLOMON SIMLER. d. of brain fever at 19 years of age.

7. ELIZABETH SIMLER. m. Absolom Mauck; had 3 dau.: Lucinda, Susanne, and Adeline; all now d. She d. of heart disease, aged 56 years.

8. DR. WILLIAM ANDERSON SIMLER. d. of typhoid fever, aged 27 years; a very bright young man; a physician; m. and left a widow and 2 little daughters.

9. ISAAC C. SIMLER. b. 1832; m. Elizabeth Fravel, and moved to Mo. in 1853 (?). Had 8 chil.: Catherine, Wesley, Daniel, Mary Anne, Isaac, Lucinda, George and John, the last living in Adair Co., Mo.
Isaac C. Simler d. in 1898, aged 76 years. He was an officer in the Civil War; his son Daniel Simler was killed during the war. Wesley Simler was also a soldier, but lived to return home.

10 MARY ANNE SIMLER. m. Joseph Fravel, and moved to Gibson Co., Ind. She was b. in Harrison Co., Ind., Sept. 14, 1821, and d. in Owensville, Gibson Co., March 3, 1907.

(5) HON. JOHN SIMLER. (John 2, Jasper 1.) b. in Harrison Co., Ind., Nov. 29, 1812; m., 1st, Isabel, dau. of James and Elizabeth Stevenson (who came from Shenandoah Valley, Va.); 2d, Mary Anne Gwartney, April, 1859. He was a student and teacher of music, a school teacher, and also studied medicine. He was an ordained minister. Lived all his life near Lanesville, on the old home place where he d. June 12, 1889, aged 76 yrs, 6 mo. and 14 dys. He was a member of the Indiana State Legislature in 1850, and in many ways had the confidence of the community, and was much respected and liked. He had twelve chil., as follows:

Chil. of John Simler and Isabel (married April 21, 1836: Rev. Henry Bonebrake, officiating).

11 ELIZABETH M. SIMLER. b. Feb. 20, 1837; studied to be a teacher and taught several years before her marriage; she d. June 13, 1903; m. James H. Benson, and had 7 chil.: Albert McClellan, Annette Clara, Celesta Atlantic, Francis Doane, Nellie, Carrie Sylvia, and an inf. boy, who lived but a few days.

13 JOHN JASPER SIMLER. b. Nov. 27, 1840. Lives near Lanesville, Ind., and has been a school teacher and music teacher, etc., and is a devoted Christian worker, teaching the Bible class in Lanesville, and being prominent in the work of the church there. He m. in 1879, Mary E. Gresham, a relative of Hon. Walter Q. Gresham, and had 10 chil.: Minnie R., b. Dec. 21, 1880; Sallie Jane, Julie, b. 1882; Luella, Kate, Hattie, Charles, Carrie, an infant son, who, d., and Mary Anne, b. Jan. 30, 1895, a few days before her mother’s death. The last was reared by her aunt, Mrs. Elmyra Shafer.
JAMES STEVENSON SIMLER. b. April 3, 1843; d. July 18, 1905; m. Martha J. Barrows in Oct., 1867 or 1868. Issue: 4 chil., twin boys, who d. in inf.; Stella May, who d. in 1895, aged 23 years, and John Lee, who survives, and lives in Harrison Co. James Stevenson Simler served 3 years in the Civil War; came home ruined in health. with chronic rheumatism so bad that for the last years of his life he could not walk without crutches.

EMILY SIMLER. b. Feb. 1, 1845; m. Agrippa F. Sonner, who d. in 1910. They had 10 chil.: Emmet, Minnie, Annie (d), Stella, John W. (d.), Emma (d.), Albert, Ella, David (d.), Willard.

ELMIRA ALICE SIMLER. b. Aug. 7, 1847; m. March 24, 1869. George G. Shafer, a widower with a dau., Mary Catherine, or Kate, who afterward m. Edward Gresham, a nephew of Hon. Walter Q. Gresham, and lives in Lanesville (no chil.). Elmyra A. Shafer had no chil., but reared several little orphans, and takes great interest in the family.

SARAH ISABEL SIMLER. b. Dec. 30, 1848; m., 1st, William Trotter, and had James M., and Minnie, who d. in 1910. Mr. Trotter was a soldier, and d. when the chil. were small, and she married Thomas Irvine of Corydon.

SETH WILLARD SIMLER. b. Feb. 18, 1853; m. in Ky., Josephine Chism. Was thrown from a horse and very badly injured. Had 5 chil.: Noah, who d.; John, Mary, Gola (?), and a dau., who d. in infancy.

CLARA LOUISE SIMLER. Twin of Seth W., above: m. Wm. Moyars, and had John Ward, and Daisy; the last d. in inf.; the first is m.

ATLANTA SIMLER. b. May 17, 1855; m. Geo. A. Smith; 4 chil.: Maud, Howard Elton, George Arthur, and a son, who d. in inf.

A SON. (Unnamed: buried with his mother); d. Nov. 4, 1857. By his 2d wife, Mary Anne, John Simler, Jr., had issue:

LAURA SIMLER. b. March 14, 1861; m. Mr. Lewis, and lives in California.

RESTORATIONS OF MASONIC GEOMETRY AND SYMBOLRY

Published under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Colorado, edited by Ernest LeNève Foster, P. G. M., and the other Past Grand Masters of Colorado. Has subscribers in nearly all the Grand Jurisdictions of the world.

An authority says of the work: "We speak advisedly, with a knowledge of the general trend of Masonic investigation, when we say that it stands unequaled; and the Mason who possesses it will have a store-house of Masonic wisdom from which he can draw priceless treasures during a lifetime."—Lawrence N. Greenleaf, P. G. M., in Square and Compass.

Blue silk-cloth, half morocco, 40 full page illustrations in color. Five hundred and fifty-nine pages. 4-to $10.00

THE SONG OF THE WAHBEEK

A POEM

BY H. P. H. BROMWELL.

"A narrative poem concerning a superior race who occupied the West before the coming of the Indian, a people who worshiped the sun, and traditions of whose existence have been handed down by the red race.

"The theme is the poetic story of Klo-Lo-War and Lowiel, a youth and a maiden of this ancient race, and the verses are set to a stately rhythmic measure, the lyrical qualities of which are liquid and musical. Four travelers of profound learning meet by chance, near a sachem's medicine stone in a western wilderness, and to them appears the spirit of the Wahbeek who tells the tale of the lost race, and of the extermination of its people by fire and flood."—Baltimore Sun.

"It leaves one in a fit atmosphere of the great twilight land celebrated by him."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

175 pages. 12-mo. Cloth, $1.00; leather, $2.00.
