This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world’s books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that’s often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book’s long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google’s system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google “watermark” you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can’t offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book’s appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

Some years ago the author undertook to trace the history of his family to its beginnings in America. One of the results of this endeavor has been the accumulation of a mass of genealogical matter pertaining to other colonial families of the Cox name. This he believes to be of sufficient interest and value to warrant its publication in the form in which it now appears.

A list of authorities is elsewhere given, but it does not include the scores of correspondents, East, West, North and South, who have contributed much additional information and whose kindly co-operation is recognized with gratitude and appreciation.

Special acknowledgments are due to Mrs. Mary H. Rue, of Cream Ridge, N. J., Mr. Albert S. Cox, of Summit, N. J., and William Nelson, Esq., Secretary of the Historical Society of the State, for numerous courtesies in connection with the preparation of the New Jersey genealogies, and to my friends and collaborators, Mr. George W. Cocks, of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, and Mr. John Cox, Jr., Custodian of the Quaker Records in New York, for free access to many valuable private papers. No effort has been spared to make both the historical and genealogical portions of the book as nearly accurate as possible, but in spite of every care, some errors have undoubtedly crept into the text. It is hoped that these may be regarded with indulgence and that the ancestral records, many of which are here brought to light, for the first time, may prove of interest to the reader and a substantial contribution to the family history.

CHAPTER I

ENGLISH ANCESTRY

The earliest mention of the Cox name occurs in connection with the history of the Norman Conquest. Among the families of France that followed the fortunes of the redoubtable King William was that of Le Coq. This was subsequently changed to Le Cock, and later to Cockys, and from that, by easy transition, to the great variety of names under which the family has since been known in England and America.

As to the origin and meaning of the word there has been much speculation.

Lower, in his book on English surnames, suggests that it is probably a synonym of little, from which it might be inferred that the founder of the family was somewhat diminutive in stature. He thinks it possible, however, that it may have been derived from the Latin cocus, a cook, and corrupted from that to the more familiar name, Cocke, Cocks, Cox and Coxe.

Bloomfield, another authority, in his history of Norfolk County, England, derives the family name from Coke or Cocke, meaning a river or water course, and in support of this view, refers to such names as Cokesford, Cockthorpe, Cockermouth and Cockside, which, he says, were in use among the early Britons.

There is perhaps an element of truth in both theories, and among the numerous Cox families of Great Britain it is quite possible that many may have originated after the manner described. On the other hand, it is not unreasonable to suppose that many more, and perhaps the greater number, have descended from the man who came from France bearing the distinctive appellation of the Cock, which afterwards became the patronymic of the family. Surnames were not in general use at the time, and did not become common in England until about the thirteenth century.

It is probable that the founder of the family was dubbed Le Coq, from some circumstance which suggested a resemblance to that valorous bird, and that the name, whether given in jest or earnest, was significant of fighting qualities, and of constant watchfulness, whether with a view to defense against a foe, or to aggressive warfare. This latter view corresponds, moreover, with the heraldic devices and mottoes which appear on a number of the more ancient of the family crests.

One of these is distinguished by a cock, bearing his head aloft, underneath which is the significant motto: "Vigilantia praestat," "Watchfulness excels."

Others have two, and still others, three cocks on their coat of arms with the motto: "Semper vigilans," "Always on the alert."

Cock, of Newcastle, had on his escutcheon a Beant between three cocks, indicating descent from one of the valiant men at arms who followed the fortunes of Richard Plantagenet in the third crusade, (1188-1192). A collateral branch of this family, represented, a few years ago, by William Cox, Esq., of Ballynoe, County Limerick, Ireland, claims lineal descent through the Plantagenet kings, from William the Conqueror, he being the twenty-fifth representative in direct line from that prince.

Of the twenty-seven or more English families of the name, bearing arms, not all apparently, have sprung from the same stock. The armorial devices indicate both kinship and difference.

Richard Snead Cox, Esq., better known as Cox of Broxwood, in a letter to a Canadian correspondent, in 1895, divides the twenty-seven families referred to into three general groups which he believes to be unrelated and of entirely distinct ancestry. The origin of neither group can be traced beyond the eleventh century, and it is not until some two hundred years later that any clearly defined history of these different lines can be discovered.

One of the earliest accounts of the family in England is found in the pedigree of Walter Cokkes de Chelworth, or Walter Le Cock, as the name is sometimes spelled, who lived in the County of Kent. about 1250, and who appears to have been a lineal descendant of Walter de Chelworth who was perhaps the original Le Coq who came over from France with William the Conqueror.

The name, under one or other of its numerous variants, appears a little later, in nearly all of the counties in the vicinity of London, notably in that of Hertfordshire, and by the close of the sixteenth century it was well known in every quarter of the United Kingdom. It included "all sorts and conditions of men." During the reigns of Henry VIII, Elizabeth, Mary, and James I, several of its members were connected with the royal household. Others, not directly related to the nobility, were scarcely less prominent.
Among them were merchant princes and rovers of the sea, country gentlemen and men of war, members of the learned professions, and, in addition, a great multitude of the same name and blood, not less worthy, though unknown to fame.

To the Hertfordshire family belonged many men of note. Of those who figure prominently in the religious controversies which prevailed during the period of the Reformation, none were more widely known than Richard Cox, the famous Bishop of Ely (1499-1581).

He was a type of the militant churchman, and the great protagonist of the Scottish reformer, John Knox.

Whatever we may think of his theological views, there can be no question as to his scholarly ability, his loyalty to conscience, church and king, and withal, his splendid fighting qualities. The blood of Le Coq was evidently in his veins.

Of the same family, presumably, was Sir Richard Cox, (1563-1623). He was buried in Westminster Abbey, and on his tombstone is described as “the third son of Thomas Cox, of County Hertford, Esquire.”

Sir Edmund Cox, of Broxwood, belonged to a later generation. He was one of the heroes at Poitiers, a devoted adherent of the King, and died of a wound received at the battle of Naseby, in 1645.

Col. Alban Cox, on the other hand, one of the landed gentry of St. Albans, in Hertfordshire, allied himself with the cause of the Commonwealth, and was an officer of distinction in the army of Oliver Cromwell.

Another leader among the Independents and Non-Conformists of the period, was the Rev. Benjamin Cox, who is said to have been a grandson of the Bishop of Ely.

He was a university graduate, a man of great learning, at one time a minister of the Established Church and zealous for the superstitious ceremonies which Archbishop Laud had made obligatory upon the clergy, but later he changed his views, and was equally zealous in his advocacy of the principles of the Baptist faith. In 1645 he became the minister of one of the seven so-called Anabaptist churches in London, and was one of the subscribers to the Confession of faith which they presented to Parliament in the following year. His religious views involved him in frequent controversy, in consequence of which he suffered persecution and imprisonment. He submitted at first to the Act of Uniformity, in 1662, but his conscience upbraided him, and he withdrew his submission and died at an advanced age, a Non-Conformist and a Baptist.
Scarcely less widely known than the Hertfordshire branch of the family were those offshoots of the same stock that had become established in the four or five counties adjacent to Bristol.

Gloucester, Hereford, Worcester, Somerset and Monmouth were the original homes of many of the Cox name who have figured in English history and whose descendants were widely scattered throughout the United Kingdom, and the English colonies of America.

Thomas Cocks, Esq., of Gloucester, was the ancestor, in direct line, of Charles Cocks, whose plain English name was superseded by that of Lord Somers, Baron of Evesham, on his elevation to the peerage in 1784. His son and successor, John Cocks, was created a viscount in 1821. The earldom has recently become extinct, but the Barony succeeded to Philip Reginald Cocks, representing a collateral branch of the house of Somers. Eastnor Castle, near Ledbury, in the county of Hereford, has long been the seat of this ancient family, now represented by Lady Henry Somerset, a lineal descendant of Thomas Cocks, of Castle Ditch.

A few miles to the north, in the adjoining county of Warwick, are the Malvern Hills, a name which was brought to this country by the Cocke family of Virginia, as early as 1638. Their magnificent seat on the James River, a few miles below Richmond, still remains, and the stately old manor house which they built has been preserved intact, and is one of the finest as it is one of the earliest specimens of colonial architecture.

To the south of Bristol lies the county of Somerset, where, in the seventeenth century, Daniel Coxe, Gent., had his seat. Of this English gentleman we know little more than that he was the father of the famous Dr. Daniel Coxe of London, who was born in that city about 1640. The latter was an author of note, a staunch churchman, a court favorite, one of the physicians of Charles II, and afterwards of Queen Anne, and probably the most eminent medical authority of his day.

Through his influence with the Crown he acquired title to vast tracts of land in America which his vessels were employed in exploring. They are said to have been the first to ascend the Mississippi River. His landed possessions included a large part of West Jersey, of which he was the proprietary governor from 1687 to 1697. This office he administered by proxy, he himself having never set foot on American soil. His son, Col. Daniel Coxe, however, settled in New Jersey, in which state, as in Pennsylvania, the family was long prominent and influential.

Among the sea faring and merchant classes of England there have been many of the Cox name and lineage. These naturally, were most numerous in the coast towns, and in the great commercial centers.

Captain William Cocke, of Plymouth, was one of those who had acquired wealth apparently, in the foreign trade, but his chief title to distinction lies in the fact of his public spirit and of his exceptional patriotism and generosity, at a time of grave national danger. He it was who, in 1588, fitted out at his own expense, a ship in which he sailed against the Spanish Armada. He was called "the cock of the game," although he lost his life in the adventure.

The armorial bearings of his family suggest a connection with that of the earlier Walter Le Cock, as do those of Captain George Cock, the friend of Pepys, who mentions him frequently in his diary. Captain Cock was of Newcastle, in the county of Northumberland.

At Norwich, in Norfolk, in 1633, we find Peter Cock, whose pedigree and coat of arms seem to indicate that he was of the same stock. Thus, in the north and in the south, in the interior counties of England, and in Scotland, Ireland, and Wales, the name was as widely known as in those localities where the family was first established.

In a list of the twenty-four English merchants who furnished most of the supplies for Virginia and Maryland, in the early part of the seventeenth century, occur the names of Richard Cox and Anthony Cocke, of London. The former was probably the same Richard Cox who, from 1609 to 1620 was one of the wardens of the Grocers Company of London, a powerful commercial organization in its day, and a member also of the Virginia Company, under whose auspices the colony of that name was founded.

The family were largely interested at the same time, in the trade and colonization of New England.

Among those mentioned in the Colonial Papers in connection with the project for the settlement of Maine in 1622, by Captain Robert Gorges, was Edward Cox, and it was Thomas Cox, master of the good ship Bonaventure, who in 1629, sailing from the Isle of Wight, transported the Puritan minister, Rev. Samuel Skelton, to Salem, Massachusetts.

Another interesting scrap of history which suggests both Puritan and New England connections, is found in the last will and testament of William Cox, Gent., a citizen and cloth worker of London. One of his apprentices, and a witness of his will, was Thomas Harvard, brother of the more famous John Harvard, who emigrated to Massachusetts and gave his name and his library to the oldest of our American universities which he founded in 1638.

Among the curious provisions of this gentleman's will is that relating to the compensation to be made to the minister who should officiate at his funeral. Mr. Morton and Mr. Osney, preachers of God's word are both mentioned, one apparently, as the alternate of the other.

"Whichsoever preacheth, to have twenty shillings more, so as he wear a gown and hood." From this it would appear that even Puritans and Dissenters were not averse to such externals of dress or form, as might lend dignity and impressiveness to a solemn service.

That the Cox family of England during this period was largely of the Puritan faith is evident not alone from such documents as this, but from the great number of their kindred or descendants, whose names appear in the early records of the New England churches. Many of them also, responding to the fervid preaching of George Fox, became identified with the Society of Friends, and in common with others who had suffered persecution for their faith's sake, sought refuge among the American colonies. They were in the West Indies, on Long Island, and in parts of New Jersey and Maryland, some years before Penn planted his colony on the shores of the Delaware.

In 1682, the province of East Jersey passed into the hands of the twenty-four proprietors. The Duke of York confirmed the sale by a new grant, more full and explicit than that of any which had been previously made.

Among these proprietors were a number of wealthy and influential Quakers, including William Penn and others whose names figure prominently in the early colonial history of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Several of the nobility also were interested in the grant. To this class belonged Robert West, a London lawyer and a son of Lord De La Warr whose name was given later to the neighboring province of Delaware. It is of family interest from the fact that a few years before, in 1675, he had married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Cocke, of Hertfordshire.

His proprietary rights in East Jersey were transferred in the same year that they were acquired, to another member of the family,
Thomas Cox, a London gentleman, who in turn, sold his property to Dr. Daniel Coxe, also of London, in 1690. A few years later, in 1711, the will of Thomas Cox, citizen and vintner of London, was admitted to probate. He appears to have been one of "the people called Quakers," and was perhaps identical with Thomas Cox, the East Jersey Proprietor. He also had extensive landed interests both in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. To one of his sons he left eight hundred acres of land in the vicinity of Philadelphia, and to another a tract of four hundred acres on the opposite side of the Delaware River, in New Jersey. John Cox, the Quaker, who appeared in Philadelphia about this time, or a little earlier, and who afterwards located in New Jersey, may easily have been the son, John, to whom the New Jersey property was devised. The fact of his making other bequests to members of the family of John Harvard, would seem to indicate a connection with the family of William Cox, before referred to, to whom Harvard's brother had been apprenticed many years before. However this may be, the relation of the Cox family in England to the numerous families of the name in America, seems clearly established.
CHAPTER II

THE COCKE FAMILY OF VIRGINIA

The earliest English colony in America was established in Virginia in 1607. The earliest member of the Cocke family, in that province, so far as known, arrived three years later.

He came over from England on the ship "Godspede," in 1610. In Hotten's List of Emigrants, his name is given as William Coxe, and his place of residence, as "Elizabeth Cittie."

Nothing more is known of him beyond the fact that he was 26 years old, at the time, as appears from the muster roll of his town.

In the list of "adventurers," as they are called, whose names appear in the charters of the Virginia Company between 1609 and 1620, the name, which occurs repeatedly, is spelled in not less than four different ways, viz: Cock, Cocke, Cox and Coxe.

This variation is without special significance although the spelling to which the Virginia families have commonly adhered, is Cocke.

The founder of the earliest and perhaps the most important branch of the family in Virginia was Col. Richard Cocke, sometimes called Richard Cocke, Gent, of Henrico County. The date of his arrival in the colony is not definitely known but it seems reasonably certain that it was prior to 1632. He patented, in all, about 8,000 acres of land, 3,000 of which he acquired in 1636, and the remainder, in 1639, and 1652. A few years later (in 1662), Richard Cocke, senior, as he was then called, together with John Beaufchamp, patented nearly 3,000 acres more, on the south side of the Chickahominy River.

These vast landed interests would seem to indicate not only large wealth, but a social position which placed him in the forefront of the Virginia aristocracy.

As a matter of fact, he was one of the leading men of the colony, in his day,—a military officer of high rank, a member of the House of Burgesses, and otherwise prominent in the civil and social life of the period.

From his five sons, the Henrico branch of the Cocke family has descended. It was much more numerous than the other branches and not less influential and important.

The original seats of the family were "Bremor" or "Bremo," and Malvern Hills, both belonging to the same estate, and located on the James River, about fifteen miles below Richmond.

The manor house, which was probably built by Richard Cocke, and which was occupied by his descendants for nearly two hundred years, is still standing.

The architectural beauty of this fine old colonial dwelling has been often noted by the passing tourist. It is one of the historic homes of Virginia. Here, not less than five or six generations of the family have lived and died. To conjure up the past, is to tell the story of the princely hospitality that has been dispensed within its walls, and of the notable men and women who have been identified with its history. It is one of the ancient landmarks which has survived the changes time has wrought during the past three hundred years, and which links the living present with the life of long ago.

Thomas Cocke, the eldest son of Richard, succeeded to his father's estate, and lived at Bremo. He was one of the members of the Henrico County court in 1680, and High Sheriff from that year until 1688.

His children, of whom there were four sons and two daughters, intermarried with leading families of Virginia, and were not less prominent in the civil and social life of the colony.

Captain Thomas Cocke, the eldest, like his father, was Sheriff in 1699, and again in 1707, and in the meantime, represented his county in the House of Burgesses.

He was twice married, his first wife being Mary Brazier, of Nansemond.

Of the others, Stephen became the progenitor of the well known Cocke family of Tennessee to which belonged Gen. William Cocke, a United States Senator in 1695; his son, Gen. John Cocke, for a number of years a member of the National House of Representatives, and Hon. William M. Cocke, also a member of Congress, from 1849 to 1853.

James shared with his brother Thomas in the political honors of his day and was long active and eminent in public life in Virginia. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Pleasants, a wealthy Quaker, who came from Norwich, England, and settled in Henrico County in 1665. William, the youngest son, married Sarah Dennis, a member of the well known Virginia family of that name.
Richard Dennis, her father, apparently, was a member of the House of Burgesses, and perhaps a son of Captain Robert Dennis, who was sent over by Cromwell, in 1652, to establish his authority in Virginia.

The daughters, Temperance and Agnes, married brothers; the former, Captain Samuel Harwood, and the latter, Captain Joseph Harwood, both of Charles City. These men were also prominent in official life, and both were members of the House of Burgesses.

To trace the family history through succeeding generations, would only be to reiterate with some slight variations of names and dates, such facts as have already been noted.

The descendants of Richard Cocke, second of the name in Virginia, are not less numerous nor have they been less eminent than those of his older brother. They have served the State, always with credit, often with distinction, and are to this day among the most numerous and respected citizens of the Commonwealth.

The same is true of other branches of the family, as also of those who have descended from the three brothers, Thomas, William and Walter Cocke, of the counties of Surry and Princess Anne, who came to Virginia about 1690; of the family of Dr. William Cocke, of Williamsburg, who came from Suffolk, England, about 1705; and of the Cockes and Coxes of Lancaster, Middlesex, and Westmoreland, who were established in those counties some years earlier.

Of this latter line, the earliest Representative was Nicholas Cocke who was in Lancaster, and (perhaps) later, in Middlesex, in 1658. Prior to that time was Mr. John Cox a justice of the county from 1653 to 1655, who may have been connected with the older family of Henrico, and may, or may not have been identical with the John Cox of Rappahannock County, brother of William, whose will, bearing date of 1669 was probated in 1695.

By the close of the seventeenth century, or a little later, we find the family established not only at Bremo and Malvern Hills, but at other points on the James River which have become historic.

At Curle’s Neck, in 1670, a settlement had been located by Thomas Curle who gave his name to the place. The estate was owned at one time by the Randolph family, but prior to that was in the possession of one of the Cockes of Henrico, and was known as Curles—without the apostrophe.

The beautiful and well known estate of Shirly was the seat of Bowler Cocke, third of the name, and a descendant of Col. Richard, about the middle of the eighteenth century. This was, originally,
Shirley, on the James River, Virginia Seat of Bowler Cocke, 3rd, about 1760
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

the homestead of the old Carter family of Virginia. It was built in 1642, and was long occupied by their descendants. It was the birthplace of Annie Carter who married "Light Horse Harry Lee," of Revolutionary fame. Here also, her daughter was born, who became the mother of the distinguished Confederate General, Robert E. Lee.

Prior to the Revolution, it passed into the hands of Bowler Cocke, who had married a daughter of Col. Edward Hill.

His father was a member of the House of Burgesses in 1752, as he himself was a few years later, in 1765, when Patrick Henry introduced his famous resolutions against the Stamp Act and supported them by one of the most thrilling speeches ever addressed to an American legislative assembly.

Whether he was one of those who cried "Treason!" or whether he voted for the resolutions, we may never know. Interest, family tradition, ties of kinship or of blood, might naturally have led him to support the Crown, but whatever his position on that burning question, it is a matter of historic interest, to his family to know that Bowler Cocke was present on the occasion.

Shirly is no longer in their possession and the magnificent estate at Malvern Hills has long since passed into other hands, but the Cocke name still lingers in the Old Dominion, and the descendants of those ancient Cavaliers still cherish the traditions which link them with the land from which their fathers came, and with the earliest development of English institutions on American soil.

There is a flavor of old time romanticism about their history, and a love of chivalry which has not been altogether relegated to the past. If we have but little interest now in "the divinity" that "doth hedge a king," we can at least appreciate the charm of knightly courtesy and queenly grace which kings demand of those that are about them. The Cocke family of Virginia were unquestionably of that number before they crossed the sea.

Much of their history reads like "a dream of fair women" and brave men.

That they were of gentle blood, might be inferred from their armorial bearings, but the fact is based on more substantial evidence.

No one can study the map of Virginia and read the names especially of the older counties on or near the James River, without coming to the conclusion that the men who settled that region were Royalists to begin with, and that they had previously had their homes in certain English towns or counties, the names of which they brought with them.

Prince George, King William, Princess Anne, Henrico, Elizabeth City, Charles City, Caroline, King and Queen,—these all suggest a love of royalty and a desire to honor in the New World, those whom they had revered and honored in the old.

And if we raise the question, whence came these pioneers, who braved the terrors of the sea and reared new homes in our wild western land, we shall find at least a partial answer by a further reference to the map.

Norfolk, Warwick, Isle of Wight, Surry, New Kent, Lancaster, Gloucester, Middlesex and many more—what more natural than that these familiar names of the home land should be incorporated into the geography of the land of their adoption?

But these men brought with them more than names; they brought traditions; they brought history; they brought their own peculiar type of character.

Captain Dennis, when he sought to enforce the authority of Cromwell, compelled submission, but elicited no love nor enthusiasm for the great Protector. They were not Roundheads; they were Cavaliers.

Independency had no foothold in Virginia at this time. The Established Church was the visible embodiment of their religious ideals, and the Cocke family were in sympathy with the established order both in church and state. Their landed and commercial interests were large. They were therefore, naturally, conservative. Their character and mode of life allied them with the English nobility and gentry to which classes they had unquestionably belonged. Whether they were from the east of England or the west, from Hereford or from Hertford, from Broxton or from Eaton Bishop, they represented, perhaps more largely than most others of the name in America what may as well be recognized as the aristocratic element of the family.
CHAPTER III

WILLIAM COX, OF PEMAQUID AND HIS NEW ENGLAND DESCENDANTS

Bristol vied with London, as a trade center, during the early colonial period. Her merchant vessels plied continually, between England and the ports of Holland, and were extensively engaged in the carrying trade with the American colonies.

In Bristol also, as in the region adjacent to that port, the Cox family was numerous.

The name begins to appear upon the probate records as early as 1572, at which time the will of Richard Cox is recorded.

In 1628, letters of marque were granted to Captain William Cox, master of the ship Rosemary, of Bristol, a vessel of 100 tons; and a few years later, in 1630, to Captain William Cox, the same man apparently, for a 30 ton ketch.

The same year, and only a little less than a month later, we find William Cox, (another William this time, it would seem), applying for a pursership, through the good offices of his uncle, Thomas Nichols. Perhaps this was the same man who, as William Cox, gunner, made application the next year, to the Lord admiralty for his pay on the ship Maria.

Thomas, Robert, Richard, William, Charles, Abraham, Ezerhialis, and Anthony, are some of the family names which appear in the Bristol records of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, that of Thomas, leading all the rest, in point of frequency, with William a close second.

These men, for the most part, were either merchants, mariners, or fishermen. They belonged to a race of hardy adventurers.

Many of them found their way to various quarters of the New World, and of this stock, the Cox family of New England was chiefly composed.

In 1625, a deed was executed at Pemaquid, Maine, which has been described as "the first deed of conveyance of American soil." Whether it was or not, the date is early enough to bring us close to the beginning of things in America, and from a family viewpoint it is of interest to know that William Cox of Pemaquid was a witness to that old conveyance. In less than five years after the Pilgrims had landed at Plymouth rock, English settlements began to be established on the coast of Maine, and William Cox was one of the first to arrive in that quarter. He was the pioneer, if not the progenitor of the Cox family in New England.

Various circumstances seem to point to Bristol, England, as the place from which he came. Not only was the name, Cox, common in that vicinity, but the name William Cox, as we have seen, was of frequent recurrence in the old Bristol records.

Of even greater significance is the fact that the men who settled in the neighborhood of Pemaquid brought the name of Bristol with them and gave it to one of the first towns they founded. The occupations of the people also, in and around old Bristol were similar to those of the men who brought that name with them to New England.

As a rule, the settlers of Massachusetts, of which the colony in Maine was originally a component part, were not large land owners; they followed the sea and found abundant scope for their enterprise either in the business of fishing, or in marketing, through their coasting trade, the extensive product of that industry.

William Cox, of Pemaquid, it is true, acquired some 1,300 acres of land in the neighborhood of his home at Cox's Cove, but it is doubtful whether, at that time, any considerable part of it was under cultivation.

In 1660, two merchants of Bristol, in England, Robert Aldworth and Gyles Elbrige, became interested in Pemaquid property, and the name of William Cox appears as a witness in the deed which conveyed a certain tract of land to them on the 8th of August of that year.

This is still another link in the chain of evidence that connects him with Bristol as the most probable place of his former residence. It is also the last public record in which he is mentioned, or at least, in which the name is known positively to refer to the original William Cox, of Pemaquid.

That he was married once at least, is certain, for the name of his wife, Mary, appears upon record. That he was married a second time seems probable, although the fact cannot be proven.

It is altogether likely that William Cox of Sagadahoe and Salem, was his son, and that John Cox, who is spoken of as the brother-in-law of William, was, more properly speaking, a half brother, and the son of the first William, by a second marriage.

In 1674, under an order of the General Court of Massachusetts, a Court was held at Pemaquid, at which time eight members of the Cox family of that place, took "the oath of fidelity," as it was called, thereby avowing their allegiance to the Crown. Thomas Cox was, at the same time, sworn in as Constable, an office of somewhat greater consequence in former years than now. Of these eight men, four bore the name of Thomas. The others were, John, Shadrick, Richard and William.

They were evidently, children and grandchildren of William Cox, the emigrant ancestor, and founder of the family in New England.

Life at Pemaquid, in those early days, was anything but a summer's dream. The peace of the settlement was frequently disturbed by Indian invasions. One of these outbreaks occurred about 1677, when the family were compelled to flee for their lives, to the older settlements in the vicinity of Boston.

Some removed to Dorchester, others to Salem and to Beverly.
When the Indian excitement had subsided a number returned to claim their possessions at the mouth of the Kennebec River where some of the descendants of the original settlers are still to be found.
The greater number, however, remained in Massachusetts, and from these old families a numerous race has sprung, now widely scattered throughout New England and the middle states, and not unknown in the nearer and remoter West.

John Cox, at the time of the first Indian war in 1677, appears to have removed with his family, to Dorchester. He was, in all probability, a son of the first William, and was born at Pemaquid prior to 1640, his older brother, or half brother, as the case may have been, and who is known as William of Sagadahoe, having settled at Salem, where he appears to have died some years later.

In 1686, or thereabout, John Cox, or Cock, as the name is sometimes spelled, returned to Maine, taking with him his sons John and Thomas, and the rest of the family.

They lived on the lands which belonged to his brother William, for about three years, when they were again driven off by the Indians, and again took up their abode in Dorchester, in 1689.

Nothing further is known of the elder, John. He may have been killed in an Indian encounter, but John, the younger, remained in Dorchester, where he died in 1742, in the 85th year of his age.

He married Susannah Pope, and by her, became the father of a numerous family consisting of seven sons and as many daughters.
His younger brother Thomas, settled at Beverly, where he mar-rried Hannah Woodbury. He was the father of at least six children, whose names appear on the baptismal register of the First Church, of that place.

Captain John Cox Jr. who was born as early as 1688, was a son of John Cox and Susannah Pope. His marriage to Tabitha, daughter of Ebenezer Davenport, of Dorchester, occurred on the 11th of December, 1712. That they were godly people we infer from an old church record which informs us that they both "laid hold on ye cov't, August 9th, 1713." They remained in Dorchester, "where most of their children were born," until 1729, when they removed to Falmouth, Maine.

Captain Cox was admitted to citizenship at Falmouth in the same year, in place of Thomas Cox who may have been a deceased uncle or other relative, to whose civic rights he succeeded. In the allotment of town lands, sixty acres were assigned to him in 1732.

He was killed at Pemaquid, in an Indian affray, in 1747, as another John Cox, perhaps the son of his brother, Thomas, had been killed under similar circumstances, in 1725.

His son, John Cox, 3rd, also known as Captain John Cox was born at Dorchester, in 1719. Ten years later, he removed with his parents to Falmouth where the greater part of his life was spent, but during the Revolutionary war, his royalist sympathies provoked the ill will of his neighbors and in 1782, he removed to Nova Scotia, where he received a large grant of land from the Crown. The children of his second marriage accompanied him to Canada where his descendants are still numerous, those of his first wife remaining in the neighborhood of Portland where they married and also reared large families. Of these, Josiah was the only son who lived to maturity.

He was the father of John Cox, Esq., (1795-1871), of Portland, well known as the founder of the extensive shipping interests with which the family have long been identified. His vessels were among the fleetest and best equipped of the early American merchant marine.

Among those that "go down to the sea in ships and do business in great waters," there have been many in the various branches of the Cox family of New England, from the earliest years. But their interests have not been confined wholly, or even chiefly, to navigation.

William Cox, of Lynn, Massachusetts, a weaver by trade, became a Captain of Infantry, in the French and Indian War, and covered himself with glory at the siege of Louisburg, in 1758. For his services he received a grant of land at Mount Desert.

This William was the second son of John, of Dorchester, and was born in 1694. He married Thankful, daughter of Captain Thomas Maudsley, and like his father, reared a numerous family.
Ten children blessed the union of William Cox with Captain Mauds-ley's daughter.

Of these, the best known was Lemuel, born in Boston, in 1736.
He was a typical New England boy whose inventive genius found full scope in some of the most important engineering enterprises of his day. He has been called "an eminent English engineer," but beyond the fact of his English sympathies and perhaps an English training, there seems no reason to suppose that he was of foreign birth, or other than the Lemuel Cox, of Boston, and a son of the hero of Louisburg, whose services the British government so generously rewarded by a grant of land.

In 1788, he was appointed to build the Essex Bridge at Salem, and for his services in superintending the work on the approach from the Beverly side, the Directors voted to pay him nine shillings per day and board, including punch, together with other gratuities which were added later.

Whether the punch acted as a disturbing influence we are not informed, but it was not long before he got into difficulties with the Directors, and the trouble culminated a few months later, in his discharge from the superintendency of the work. His engineering ability does not appear to have been questioned but it is quite possible that politics and bridge building were as closely allied at that early day, as they have sometimes been in public enterprises of more recent date.

Rev. Melville Beveridge Cox, of Hallowel, Maine, (1799-1833) was a man of a different type. With something of the heroism and love of adventure which characterized his forebears, his energies were enlisted in a form of religious enterprise, which in recent years, has taken on large proportions. He was the first foreign missionary sent out by the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was commissioned by that body to carry the gospel into Africa.

He lost his life in the endeavor, but his dying message to the Church at home, reveals the spirit of the man. "Let the work in Africa go on," he urged, "though a score of lives be lost,"—a sentiment that rivals the last words of the gallant Lawrence, as he was borne bleeding and dying from the deck of the Chesapeake—"Don't give up the ship."

References to other members of the family are numerous in the annals of the Colonial, the Revolutionary, and later wars.

Robert Cox, of Marblehead, was in the Great Swamp Fight that occurred during King Philip's war, in 1675.

Thomas Cox, of Beverly, died in the expedition against Quebec, in 1758-9.

Francis Cox, of Salem, was an officer in the Revolutionary war.

Col. Matthew Cox, of Lynnfield, was connected with the military service of a later day.

Among the men of peace also who have contributed, in greater or less degree, to the glory of New England, to her commercial and industrial prosperity, and to her great religious and philanthropic work, it is interesting to know that hundreds trace their ancestry to William Cox, of Pemaquid.

CHAPTER IV

WEST INDIA CONNECTIONS

The term West Indies has been loosely applied to about 900 islands lying to the east of Central America and the Gulf of Mexico. Nearly half of these belong, or have belonged, to Spain. Of the remainder, the larger part are British possessions.

The Bahamas were acquired about 1629, and many of the Windward and Leeward islands, including Antigua, St. Lucia, Barbadoes, St. Christophers, and others, the names of which are mentioned frequently in the early colonial records, came under British rule a few years later.

The English population of these islands has always been relatively small, and limited for the most part, either to those who were in government employ, or engaged in foreign trade. Even the planters were so closely identified with these classes that it seems scarcely worth while to place them in a separate category.

In addition to those mentioned, there were large numbers who came neither to exploit the trade of the islands or to develop their resources, but who were banished from home on account of their political offenses. Shiploads of prisoners were transported to the Barbadoes—some because they had incurred the wrath of Cromwell, and others, of a later day, because they were not as submissive as they might have been to the rule of his successors, or because they were too outspoken in their religious views to meet with their approval.

The day of political and religious toleration had not yet dawned in England, and the problems with which her statesmen had long been wrestling, were rapidly transferred to her distant colonies.

Thus it happened that a large infusion of the independent, the liberty-loving, and the non-conforming element of her population, was intermingled with the society that had already become established in her island possessions.

Many of these people afterwards made their way to the New England settlements, or to the English colonies in New York and elsewhere. But the genealogical fact which is of special interest to the Cox family is, that, from the beginning, it was largely represented in these southern islands.

A list of the inhabitants of Barbadoes, owning ten acres of land or more, in 1638, (only four years after it had become a British possession), contains the familiar name of William Cox, a name which presently crops out again in connection with the early settlement in Rhode Island. How long he remained in the West Indies, or whether he changed his place of residence again, we have no means of determining. But it is a matter of record that a brisk trade was carried on for many years, between the Barbadoes and New England, and that the commercial relations between that colony and Rhode Island were particularly intimate. A century later the Cox family begins to swarm in the land of Roger Williams, and one of the earliest records of St. Michael's Church in Bristol, Rhode Island, is that of the marriage of William Cox and Sarah Pearce, in 1741.

The only Cox marriage in Rhode Island that antedates it, so far as our knowledge goes, was solemnized at Newport, in 1737, when Thomas Cox and his wife, Mehitable, were made one.

It is known that many of the early settlers of Rhode Island came from England by way of the Barbadoes. The town of Bristol which they founded, carries with it, in its name, very strong presumptive evidence of the fact that Bristol also was the earlier home of the family in England.

But to go back to the West Indies,—John Cox, in 1673, appears on record, as a member of the Council of the Sommer Islands; a man of consequence apparently, and very close to the seat of authority.

Five years later, Captain Josias Cox looms up on the family horizon in Barbadoes. From his title, we might surmise that he was a man of some importance also. That he was the owner of 247 acres of land, may or may not have added greatly to his distinction. But when we learn that he was surrounded with a retinue of nine servants, and 122 negro slaves, it is fair to assume that Captain Josias was the possessor of no mean establishment.

Contemporary with him was Samuel Cox, Esq., Clerk of the Navy office, a position of dignity which he held by appointment of the Crown, and subject to the royal pleasure.

Philip Cox was one of a hundred prisoners—prisoners for conscience' sake, as we may well believe,—crowded into a sailing vessel, destined for the Barbadoes. This was in 1685, the last year of Original Homestead of the Cox Family in Bermuda

Cedar Hall, a later Cox Home in Bermuda
the reign of Charles II. He had survived the close confinement of an English jail, only to suffer from the closer confinement of an English vessel. Providence was kinder to him than his foes, for he died on the voyage, and was buried at sea.

Francis Cox was a passenger on the ship, John and James, bound from the Barbadoes to New England, in 1679. He seems to have reached his destination and to have remained in Massachusetts.

In 1706, Thomas Cox, of Salem, is mentioned as mate of a vessel, lately arrived from Antigua.

The Bermuda islands, though not properly included in the West Indies, came into the possession of the British, in the early part of the seventeenth century. Here also, we encounter many familiar names.

The first of record, is that of Edward Cox who was there in 1616.

Richard Cox is named, in a book printed by the "Governor and Council of the Somer Islands," in 1620, as one of the "Adventurers."

Mr. Samuel Cox is referred to, in the record, of the islands, two years later.

In 1631, he was Reader for Smythe's Tribe, the name of a neighborhood or parish, it would seem.

The mention of this fact suggests the absence of any settled clergyman, at that time, religious services being regularly conducted by a lay reader. His death occurred in 1655, and his effects, by order of the authorities, were delivered to his widow, Martha Cox.

Captain Cox, who is described as "our Cape merchant," was a resident of Bermuda, a little later. His trade was mostly with Charleston and Philadelphia, although he appears to have made an occasional trip to Cape Cod and New York.

John Cox lived on the island of Eleuthera, the largest of the Bermuda group, in 1663. He was the owner of 40 acres of land in the vicinity of Brackish Pond, where the principal settlement was located.

Other names that occur in various records of the same period are those of Roger Cox who was a member of the Grand Inquest for the Northampton Tribe, in 1652, and Joseph Cox who was one of the 54 inhabitants who appear in a complaint against the Bermuda Company, and were given a hearing in 1679.

Of the three last mentioned, John Cox, of Eleuthera, was the founder of a highly respectable family, many of whose descendants are living in New York, Pennsylvania, and other states, both East and West.

His grandson, of the same name, originally of Bermuda, removed to Charleston, South Carolina; and Isaac Cox, a son of the latter, who lived at one time, at Nassau, on the island of New Providence, settled in Philadelphia, about 1761, where he remained until his death, in 1776. His will was probated at Canterbury, about eight years later. In it he is described as a native of Devonshire Parish.

The mention of these English names, together with the long time which elapsed after his death, before the will was admitted to probate, are somewhat confusing. They can only be explained by the supposition that his parents were living in England when he was born, and that family interests abroad were involved in the settlement of the estate.

From these facts it is evident that there was a close connection between the English Cox families who settled in the West Indies, almost as soon as they came into British possession, and those who, sooner or later, were scattered throughout the American colonies of the North.

In their religious and political affiliations they were divided, as they had been in England. Some were staunch members of the Established Church who lent their wealth and their influence to its perpetuation in America. Others were of the Puritan faith, although these appear to have been few in numbers in the West Indies, and to have tarried there only until they could join their kindred and co-religionists in the northern provinces of New England. It is supposed that there were some Quakers of the Cox, or Cocks name also, who either voluntarily or involuntarily, had taken up their abode, for the time being, in these southern islands, but who ultimately found their way to the northern settlements.

Of these early Quakers Ann Austin and Mary Fisher were in the advance guard. They sailed from the Barbadoes, and arrived in Massachusetts in 1656.

Three years later, James Cock, the progenitor of the numerous Cocks family of Long Island, appears at Cromwell's Bay, now Setauket. Nothing is definitely known as to his antecedents, but he is supposed to have come from the West Indies.

These early Cox families were divided politically also. Among them were Royalists and Republicans, Roundheads and Cavaliers, besides the large numbers of non-combatants who belonged to the peaceful Society of Friends. All had their part in the early and later development of the American Colonies. But the history of the family would not be complete, if mention were not made of those who came hither, by way of the Bermudas, the Barbadoes, and other islands of the south.
CHAPTER V

THE QUAKER ELEMENT IN THE FAMILY

The Religious Society of Friends, otherwise known as Quakers, originated in England, through the preaching of George Fox, about 1648.

He began his ministry a year earlier, and soon gathered about him a large number of adherents. His preaching and his manner of life proved highly attractive. Men and women of every rank and station became his admirers first, and then his devoted friends and followers.

Fox himself was a man of humble birth and of limited education, but his calm dignity, his fervent spirit, and his great natural ability, overcame obstacles that might otherwise have proved insurmountable, and in an incredibly short time he had won the respect of his enemies and had founded a society of far reaching influence.

Some of his disciples were of those who had before been closely identified with the cause of Oliver Cromwell and who, after the stress and storm of his eventful career, were glad to enlist in the army of peace and to share in its bloodless victories.

Col. David Barclay, of Scotland, was one of these. His son, Robert Barclay espoused the new faith with even greater fervor, and became one of its chief exponents as he was, without doubt, its most eminent theologian.

William Penn imbibed its principles while a student at Oxford University, and afterwards lent the weight of his great influence to organize the movement and to establish the society on a firm footing in England, Holland and America.

Together with other Quakers of wealth, including the Barclays, father and son, he acquired large landed interests in the provinces of East and West Jersey, and before he received from the Crown his extensive grant of land in Pennsylvania, many of his Quaker friends and followers had preceded him and were already established in the colonies of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York and along the banks of the Delaware both in New Jersey and farther south.

Of the twenty-four original Proprietors of East Jersey in 1682, more than half were Quakers.

The Cox name does not immediately appear among them, although the wife of Robert West, as we have seen, belonged to one branch of the family, but during the same year in which the land grant was confirmed, West transferred his entire interest to "Thomas Cox of London, Gentleman." It is not known that this Proprietor ever visited New Jersey, but the sale of his interest in the Eastern division of the province, to Daniel Coxe, of London, eight years later, is a matter of record.

We are not told that he made other investments in American realty, but it is altogether probable that he did. Land speculation was rife in those days, and aside from the interest of London capitalists in the development of the resources of the country, they were not indifferent to the early attempts at colonization.

They supported such movements both from personal and religious motives, and for this reason it is not unlikely that Thomas Cox increased his holdings from time to time, or parted with them, when favorable opportunity offered.

In 1685, if he were, as we suspect, the same Thomas Cox, who in a record of that date is described as a "citizen and vintner, of London," he gave a power of attorney to one Francis Collins, of West Jersey, brick layer, to act as his general agent.

This does not prove, in itself, that Thomas Cox was the London Quaker of that name, but it is a link in the chain of evidence that points in that direction.

We come now to his will, executed in 1709, and probated two years later, in which he is described in the same terms as in the power of attorney.

To his son Thomas, he leaves "two tenements lately built in the Burying Ground of the people called Quakers." It is hardly to be supposed that he would have had any interest in a Quaker burying ground if he were not himself of that faith. To the same son, he leaves also, 800, of his 920 acres of land, in Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, in trust for his six children, and to his son, John, 400 acres, in the County of Gloucester, Province of West Jersey. Before the will was executed, one John Cox had arrived in Philadelphia, and shortly after, with his Quaker bride, was living upon his estate in New Jersey.

In the counties of Pennsylvania, adjacent to Philadelphia, and in the counties of New Jersey, along the banks of the Delaware, from Burlington to Cape May, Cox families have been numerous, ever since the country was settled.
Most of these were originally of the Quaker faith, and it is not unlikely that some were the direct descendants of Thomas Cox, the London wine merchant, and one of the twenty-four Proprietors of East Jersey. The name appears often in the records of other Quaker communities in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and while the ancestry of these families cannot in every instance be clearly traced, there can be little doubt that they were of one blood, as they were of one faith and name.

Before Penn arrived in the colony, George Fox made his first visit to the Quaker settlements in America. His interesting journal deals with his experiences both at home and abroad. Referring to a meeting held in the town hall at Kendal, England, in 1652, he says that "several were convinced there and many appeared loving," and then adds: "One Cock, met in the street and would have given me a roll of tobacco. I accepted his love, but did not receive the tobacco." The Cock family of Quakers which settled originally in Western Pennsylvania, came from Kendal and are very likely descended from Fox's loving friend.

In 1671 he visited Barbadoes, where he drew up a paper setting forth the religious belief of the Friends. In the following year, he was at work among the Societies that had been established in the English colonies to the north. His visits included them all, from Maryland to Rhode Island.

He was at Middletown, N. J., for a short time. There he found a few Friends, (not many, we suspect, for Middletown was a Baptist community, in those days); but he did not tarry long because "pressed in the spirit" to attend the half yearly meeting at Oyster Bay.

We cannot follow him in all his peregrinations, from there to the other settlements on Long Island and thence to his starting point, in New Jersey, and later, to Rhode Island, and Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. But it is safe to say that wherever he went, he encountered the Cox family, for they were in all of these places.

William Cox, of Maryland, was one of the first to offer him hospitality, when he passed over from Delaware, to the eastern shore.

On Long Island, they were particularly numerous, and from a very early date, the name in that section being usually spelled Cock or Cocks. These have descended for the most part, from James Cock of Setauket, afterwards of Matinecock, a name formerly applied to the region included in the township of Oyster Bay.

The Cock family which appeared later, in Westchester and Dutchess counties was an offshoot from the Long Island branch, and most of these also were originally Quakers. In all the early English settlements on Long Island there were many of this once despised sect. Some of them had been driven out of New England, only to encounter bitter persecutions at the hands of the Dutch Governor, Stuyvesant. Others came from the island of Barbadoes, or elsewhere.

Connecticut, following the example of Massachusetts, enacted laws against them in 1656, and in the following year, they began to arrive in New Amsterdam. A number of families settled at Gravesend, where Lady Moody, who had removed from Massachusetts, some years before, was then living. Meetings were held at her home and in other ways, her interest and sympathy found expression, although she did not herself become a Quaker.

For a hundred years, or more, they suffered all manner of indignities. Some were banished from the colony; others were fined, or imprisoned, or subjected to corporal punishment.

From an old record we learn that Josiah Cock, in 1751, was mulcted by the constable in the sum of sixteen shillings, or its equivalent in property, for a demand of 12/10, priest rates, which he apparently felt under no obligations to pay.

Such were some of the experiences of the family under Dutch rule in New York. Elsewhere, they were treated with more consideration.

In New Jersey and in Pennsylvania they continued to multiply. They prospered in business; they became successful cultivators of the soil; many of them amassed wealth, and acquired influence. On principle, they were opposed to war, and thus it happened that those who kept the faith, refused to be drawn into the Revolutionary struggle, but this did not always prevent their children from taking an active part in the cause of the colonies, and the rosters of the Continental army contain the names of many of the Cox family who were of Quaker birth. There is some reason also to believe that many more were silent sympathizers with the struggle for independence, and that they did not entirely withhold their support from the American government, although they continued in the list of non-combatants.

John Cox, of Moorestown, New Jersey, whose name figures prominently in the public affairs of Burlington County, for half a century or more, including the Revolutionary period, was of a Quaker family. He did not fight, but continued to provide entertainment for man and beast, throughout the war, at his hostelry in that town. It was his colored servant who gave timely warning to the Friends, who were assembled for worship, on a certain day in 1778, of the approach of the British, when a part of their army passed through Moorestown, on its way to New York.

It was William Cox, his son most likely, who by correspondence, kept Mr. John Little informed of the movements of Washington's army in the same neighborhood, the year before.

Whether these men were friends or foes, Tories, or patriots, does not appear. They were Quakers, at least, beyond a doubt, as were many more of the Cox name in that part of New Jersey, at the time and to this day. In later years, John Cox, of Burlington, a son perhaps of the innkeeper, became one of their most eminent preachers, succeeding John Hoskins, as the head of the important Quaker meeting at Burlington. His home was at Oxford, near Greenhill, an estate which had formerly belonged to Samuel Jennings and which was for years, the seat of men long active and influential in the Society of Friends.

Among the earliest settlers of Talbot County, on the eastern shore of Maryland, was Isaac Cox, also a Quaker, and the founder of a distinguished family which has since figured largely in the religious and social life of America. One of his descendants, James Cox, was a prominent merchant in Philadelphia and New York. Of his three sons, Dr. Abraham Liddon Cox, became one of the best known surgeons of his day and attained high rank in the medical profession. Another, the Rev. Dr. Samuel Hanson Cox, was one of the most learned and eloquent divines of the Presbyterian Church, famous alike for his wit and his wisdom, to say nothing of his numerous eccentricities. He was a brilliant and effective speaker and an early and distinguished advocate of the temperance and anti-slavery movements. Though born and reared in a Quaker family, he had no great love for that particular form of religious belief, as appears from a book which he published, entitled, "Quakerism not Christianity." He was the father of Arthur Cleveland Coxe, an eminent Bishop of the Episcopal Church.

The Quaker element in the family is large and widely distributed. From the older settlements in Pennsylvinia and to some extent from those of Long Island and New Jersey the trend has been southward and westward.

Prior to the Revolution the family began to swarm into Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, and still later, from these states into the newly acquired territory of the Middle West and the remoter South, and thence to the Pacific slope where the name is almost as common as in the localities where it was first known.

Not all of the descendants of those who wore the Quaker garb are thus distinguished now, nor have all adhered to the faith of their forebears. But of the many throughout the country, who bear the Cox name, whether identified with the Society of Friends or not, a large proportion are unquestionably of Quaker origin.

Some, like their fathers, are tilling the soil and doing it well. Others are active and influential in business, in the professions, in public life and in educational and philanthropic work.

These all, regardless of their present-day beliefs or religious affiliations, owe much to the homely virtues they have inherited from a sober, industrious, peace loving and liberty loving ancestry.
CHAPTER VI

EARLY COX SETTLERS IN NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY

To the Dutch belongs the honor of having established the first trading post and settlement within the present limits of the State of New York.

Shortly after Henry Hudson had discovered and explored the river that bears his name, traders from Holland began to arrive. No attempt at a permanent settlement was made, however, until 1613, when in addition to the two forts that had been built on the river, four houses were erected on Manhattan Island.

The English followed closely on the heels of the Dutch and in less than twenty-five years were firmly entrenched on Long Island.

In 1640, a company from Lynn and Ipswich, Massachusetts, obtained a grant of land from Lord Stirling and by agreement with the Indians, and settled at Southampton.

Other places on Long Island were settled by English families from Massachusetts and Connecticut between 1640 and 1660,—Southold, in 1640, from New Haven, by a colony that had come from England a year or two before; Gravesend, in 1645, by Anabaptists and other refugees from Massachusetts, among them, Lady Moody, latter, a warm friend of the Quakers; Newtown, in 1652, by "a goodly company of Englishmen," some of whom were from Greenwich, Stamford, and other villages along the Connecticut shore, and some from Cape Cod and Massachusetts Bay.

Hempstead, Jamaica, Crookhaven, and other towns were founded by colonists from New England, during the same period.

John Cox, Sr., of Hashamomack, (West Southold), whose name figures in the early records of the eastern end of Long Island, may have been one of these.

William Cox, of Southold, (1681-1751), was perhaps, his son. He was twice married and was the father of several children, Samuel Cox, (1712-1784), being the only son that lived to maturity whose name is known.

John Cock, was a resident of the town of Gravesend in 1656, but no records have been found that afford any clue to his antecedents or family connections. He was very probably the John Cox whose name appears, a few years later, among the settlers of Middletown, New Jersey, some of whom are known to have come from Gravesend.

In the year 1657, James Cock appeared at Southold, but whence he came, is a matter of conjecture. He belonged to the Society of Friends and may have emigrated from one of the English colonies in the West Indies, perhaps from Barbadoes, where Ann Austin and Mary Fisher had labored before they visited New England in 1656, as the pioneers of the Quaker faith in the colony of Massachusetts Bay.

Two years later, his name occurs in connection with an application which he made, with others, to the Hartford Colony in 1659, asking that the settlement at Setauket be placed under its governmental jurisdiction, which request was granted. Lots in Setauket were given to him in the same year.

In 1669, he bought land of the Indians in Matinecock, and settled at Killingworth, near what is now Locust Valley. He was the founder of the numerous Cock, or Cocks family of Long Island, prominent among whom, of those now living, are the venerable George W. Cocks, the genealogist and historian, of Glen Cove, Hon. William W. Cocks, Member of Congress, and John Cox, Jr., an architect of New York, and Custodian of the Quaker records of that city.

Thomas Cox, of Marshpath Kills in the town of Newtown, was the next of the name, in the order of time, of whose family a continuous history has been preserved.

Nothing is positively known of his ancestry. An old plate now in the possession of one of his descendants and bearing the date of 1661, is said to have been brought by one of the family from Virginia, which suggests the possibility that he may have come from that quarter.

The first authentic record that we have concerning him is found in a license, dated April 17, 1665, signed by Richard Nicolls, the first English Governor of New York, authorizing his marriage to Elizabeth Blashford, also of Newtown.

This is believed to be the oldest marriage license of record in the State of New York as it is our first introduction to a man who afterwards figured somewhat prominently in the early history of Monmouth County, New Jersey.

It is not likely that he had been long a resident of Newtown for no mention of him occurs in the early annals of that neighborhood, nor did he remain there for any considerable time. Soon after his marriage he took up land in New Jersey under the Nicolls patent and joined the colony, composed chiefly of families from Long Island and Rhode Island, which settled at Middletown, between 1665 and 1667.

The name Cox appears very often in the chronicles of New Amsterdam. Somewhat disguised by the Dutch spelling under a variety of forms, as Kock, Koeck, Koks, etc., it runs through ancient records, civil and ecclesiastical, far back into the seventeenth century, when English traders began to mingle with the early settlers and Dutch maidens were given to them in marriage.

Among the Cox families that were resident at the time, in New Amsterdam, and later in New York, some had come from New England, some from the English settlements in the West Indies, and in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the southern colonies, some direct from England, and others, as we have reason to believe, from England by way of Holland and Germany, whither they had been driven by civil or religious persecution.

The Dutch twist that was commonly given to their names when they became citizens of a Dutch community does not alter the fact that the greater number of them, at least, were of undoubted English ancestry.

Then as now, courtship was attended with occasional difficulties, which the civil authorities were sometimes called upon to adjudicate.

Pieter Kock, a bachelor of New Amsterdam, became involved in an action of this sort, an interesting account of which has been preserved. To him Anna Van Vorst, spinster, of Ahasimus, [Har- simus; now included in Jersey City], New Jersey, had plighted her troth and afterwards broken the marriage engagement. Kock sued for breach of promise and won, the Court refusing to release his fiancéé from her engagement without the consent of the plaintiff.

As to the final outcome of the matter we are not informed, but it is fair to assume that the decision of the Court was respected and that Kock's wounded feelings were ultimately assuaged by marriage.

In connection with this incident it is interesting to note that in 1664, Annetje Kocks, a wealthy Dutch widow, owned and occupied a fine house at what is now the corner of Broadway and Battery Place in the city of New York, then New Amsterdam. It may be she was the Anna Van Vorst whom Pieter Kock successfully sued for breach of promise, and who after the lapse of some years, had become his widow.

She continued to reside for a long time, in the mansion at the foot of Broadway. Her property was rated by the assessors as of the first class and her estimated wealth was set down at $5,000, an amount which seems insignificant now, but a comfortable fortune, as values were reckoned in colonial days.

Contemporary with the widow, Anna Cox, as her name was spelled after the English began to keep the town records, was one John Cox, or Cox, of whom we know no more than that Thomas Francen complained that Cox's dog bit his horse. Cox replied that the dog in question was not his, but belonged to the General, whereupon the Mayor was appointed to speak to the General, and thus the matter was disposed of.

William Cox, who lived a few years later, in the neighborhood of Hanover Square, was an interesting and more or less important personage. Besides owning a valuable mill property, he was a well known merchant in his day, and extensively engaged in the West India and other foreign trade. Public interests also appear to have claimed a share of his attention. In 1683, he was an Alderman of the city, and in 1689, was sent to Amboy by Leisler, the self-constituted and then acting Governor, to proclaim the accession of William and Mary. Returning from this errand, which he had accomplished with due pomp and ceremony, he was drowned while disembarking from his vessel. He left an estate of some £2,000, and from the inventory of his personal belongings it is evident that luxury was not unknown to New York merchants even in those early days. Costly plate and articles of rare value from foreign lands are enumerated in detail. His home was completely furnished and in a manner which would seem to indicate large wealth and social prominence.

He appears to have died childless, the only members of the family named in his will being his wife and his brother, Samuel.

He married Sarah Bradley in 1685, the marriage license bearing date of April 17th of that year. She subsequently married John Oort, and after his death, became the wife of the notorious pirate, Captain Kidd. Kidd was not so ill thought of, at the time, as he has since been and piracy was a form of crime often winked at by the authorities and by many otherwise respectable merchants whose fortunes were largely increased in that way.

Other Cox names appear in the records of the latter part of the seventeenth century, but no clue to their ancestry is given.

Dorothea Cox married Richard Hartfort in 1686. Mary Cox married Richard Glover in 1690, and Laurens Cornelius Coeck married Margaret Barent. Their son, Barent Coeck was baptized by one of the ministers of the Dutch Church in 1691.

Jacobus Cock, a citizen of New York, was admitted as a freeman in 1698. He was perhaps the Jacobus Kok who married Catharina Davits (Davis) in 1694.

Early in the eighteenth century, Michael Cox, or Koch, as the name was also spelled, arrived with his wife from Germany. He settled in or near New York and became the founder of the family to which belonged the late Gen. Jacob D. Cox, of Ohio. Charles Finney Cox,* Treasurer of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway, and Kenyon Cox, the artist, both of New York, and Jacob D. Cox, of Cleveland, are among the best known of his descendants, now living.

Major James Cock, an officer in the Revolution, born in Scotland, came later, married and settled in what is now Putnam county. Representatives of this family are more or less numerous in the city and state.

John Cox, Senior, was of English parentage, but is supposed to have been born in New York City, about 1735. He married in Westchester County, was an ardent Tory, during the Revolution and suffered in person and fortune because of his activity in behalf of the British cause. Several of his children removed to Canada; others remained in New York. Traces of his family are found in Ulster and in Dutchess counties, and two at least, of his descendants are living in New York, the last of his line, in this country, of the Cox name.

John and Isaac Cox were brothers who came from Philadelphia near the close of the Revolution, or soon after. They were among the leading merchants of their day.

John married a daughter of Peter De Lancey, and Isaac married Catharine, daughter of Gerard Beekman. These ladies belonged to old New York families and were prominent socially, as their descendants have been for many years.

Before coming to New York, Isaac Cox had figured largely in business and in public affairs in Philadelphia. He was a member of the Council of Safety in 1776, and Regimental Paymaster of the Pennsylvania troops in the Continental service, ranking as Major.

In 1780, the year in which he was married, he was one of those who received letters of marque from the government. His place of business in New York, in 1786, was at 194 Queen St. (now Cedar St.), as we learn from an old city directory.

The Cock family of Ulster County is another of the older families in the state. They came from England and settled in the neighborhood of Marbletown.

The earliest Cock marriage in Ulster County, was that of the young man, Anthony Koeck and Jannetie Crafort, a Dutch maiden from Amsterdam. The banns were published September 28, 1667, and the ceremony was performed by "the Honorable Justice." Their daughter, Maria, was baptized by the Dutch Dominie, Samuel Drisius, of New York, in 1669. They had also a son, Henry, who married in Ulster County and had a daughter, Mary, baptized in 1696, and with that record the family of Anthony Cock drops out of sight.

John Cock and Magdalene Wood, both from England, were married at Marbletown, in 1679.

They had seven children, six of whom grew to maturity, married and settled, some in Ulster County, and others in New Jersey.

John, the eldest, appears to have removed to Somerset County, New Jersey, and lived near North Branch. His descendants are still numerous in that locality and in the adjoining counties. For more than a hundred years the family name has been spelled Cox.

Thomas and William Cock, brothers of John, married sisters, daughters of William Ashfordby, an English gentleman who had settled at Marbletown. Samuel, another brother, also married in Ulster County where his five children were born, the youngest about 1736.

No further mention of the Cock family appears in the records of the Dutch Church of Kingston from which the above facts have been gleaned. It is quite probable however, that many of the Cox name now living in Ulster and Orange counties are offshoots of the same stock.

About the year 1700, a road was built by the Dutch settlers, extending from Esopus to Pahaquarry in Northern New Jersey, a distance of something like a hundred miles. This is said to have been the first road of any considerable length built by Europeans in North America. By that route, in all probability, Cox families from Ulster made their way to the northern counties of New Jersey where they appeared in considerable numbers, a few years later. There the streams of immigration met and English settlers from Ulster on the north, and from Massachusetts Bay on the east, from Connecticut, Long Island, and from Monmouth County, on the south, attracted by the liberal inducements held out by the West Jersey Proprietors, acquired the land which they developed and where many of their descendants are still to be found. Of those who bear the Cox name in Hunterdon and Somerset counties, a large number trace their ancestry to John Cock, of Ulster.

The descendants of Thomas Cox, of Monmouth, are scarcely less numerous in Hunterdon County. This branch of the family has sprung from Joseph Cox, of Upper Freehold, a millwright, by trade, who settled in the town of Readington about 1764, and who died there in 1768.

Other Cox families which were among the early settlers of New Jersey, were of Quaker origin.

Some of these appear to have come from Long Island or from New England and were of the company that founded Shrewsbury about 1667, but by far the greater number came direct from England a few years later, and settled originally along the banks of the Delaware and in the southern part of the state.

The first settlers of West Jersey came from London, on the ship Griffith, in 1675. Among them was John Fenwick, an English Friend, whose colony was one of the oldest in the state.

The Kent, in 1677, brought 230 more Quaker emigrants from London and Yorkshire.

The vessel landed near New Castle, Delaware, the London emigrants locating on what was known as "the lower tract," which extended from New Castle to Burlington, while those from Yorkshire settled on "the upper tract," which included the Bucks County region in Pennsylvania. Some of the Bucks County settlers afterwards removed to Hunterdon County, New Jersey, on the opposite side of the Delaware.

Sarah Cox, who was born about 1716 and died in 1801, (the widow of Adam Todd) whose second husband was the original John Jacob Astor, of New York, appears to have sprung from one of these old Quaker families.

Her mother, Ann Cox, was born in New Castle, Delaware, in 1677 and died in New York in 1785, having lived to the extreme age of 108 years. Her maiden name is not known, nor the given name of her first husband whose surname was Cox. Her second husband was William Sloo.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

If the date of her birth is correctly given, she must have been one of the first white children born in the County of New Castle.

There were Swedes also of the Cock name who were settled on the banks of the Delaware as early as 1672. One of these was among the first to welcome William Penn when he dropped anchor near the site of the present city of Chester in 1682, before proceeding to the mouth of the Schuylkill where he was soon after to lay the foundations of the city of Philadelphia. Many of the older Cox families of Pennsylvania and perhaps some few in New Jersey and New York are of this ancient Swedish lineage. They are not known to be related to those of English ancestry except as they have become merged with them, to some extent, through intermarriage.

John Cox, an English Friend from Gloucestershire, emigrated to America with his wife and three children, in 1688. He settled first in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, but removed later to Rancocas, New Jersey. There he bought the ferry which he owned and operated until his death which occurred prior to 1724. He was the progenitor of many of the well known Quaker Cox families of New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

In point of wealth and social prestige the descendants of Dr. Daniel Coxe, of London, long held a conspicuous place among the old colonial families of New Jersey. They are not so numerous as in former years and the name, though of large historic interest has become practically extinct in New Jersey. Those of the family that remain are found, for the most part, in Pennsylvania.

Another English family of note which came early to America was that of Isaac Cox, a London merchant, who is thought by some to have been a brother or near relative of Dr. Daniel Coxe, the West Jersey Proprietor and Governor. He settled at Elizabethtown about 1690 and is said to have been one of the original incorporators of the West Jersey Land Society. His first wife was Hannah Trembley, a daughter of Sir Henry Sutton and Elizabeth Berkeley and a grand-daughter of Lord John Berkeley. When he married her, she was the widow of George Trembley, a Huguenot nobleman.

From Elizabethtown the family removed to the Blue Hills in Somerset County, where they remained for several generations.

John Cox, the founder of the Cox family of Sussex County, is believed to have sprung from this stock. Other branches have been found in Central New York, Ohio, and Western Virginia.

William Cox, also from England, found his way into New Jersey in the early part of the eighteenth century. For a number of years he lived in New Brunswick. When the city received its charter in 1730, he became a member of its first board of Aldermen, and figured more or less prominently, in local affairs until about 1748, when he removed to Shrewsbury where he died, four years later.

His wife, Catharine Longfield, (or Langeveldt), of New Brunswick, was a lady of Dutch ancestry and a descendant of one of Holland's famous admirals.

To this family belonged Col. John Cox, of Trenton, and Philadelphia, a wealthy merchant, the friend of Washington and Quartermaster General, in the Revolution. He left no sons to perpetuate his name, but his six daughters married men who became eminent in public and professional life,—among them, John Stevens, of the well known Stevens family of Hoboken, and Samuel W. Stockton, both of New Jersey, Horace Binney, the leader of the Pennsylvania bar, and Dr. John Redman Coxe, of Philadelphia,—the latter a descendant of Dr. Daniel Coxe, of London, already mentioned.

Lieut. Col. Cornelius Cox, of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, was a younger brother of Col. John Cox. He served also in the Revolution, and was the ancestor of a branch of the family found chiefly in Pennsylvania, but represented in New York by John Bowes Cox, the fourth of that name in direct line of descent from Lieut. Col. Cornelius Cox.

From these early settlers have descended the greater number of the Cox families of New York and New Jersey that are of Colonial ancestry. Others there may have been, but if so, they died and left no trace behind.
CHAPTER VII

THE DISPERSION OF THE TRIBES

Various causes contributed, as we have seen, to the settlement of the Cox families in America. Some came from pure love of adventure, and others in the hope of bettering their fortunes. Some weary of Old World tyranny and oppression, sought freedom and quiet under the more favorable conditions of which life in the New World gave promise. Others were driven from home through stress of circumstances,—banished only to be set free. Some came as masters, and some few as servants. Some brought with them wealth, and the hope of increasing it; others brought poverty and a determination to conquer it.

The religious spirit was strong in the hearts of many and grew stronger when it had ampler scope for development.

But once established in America, natural causes have been chiefly responsible for the wide dispersion of the Cox tribes. When the nest becomes too small for the accommodation of a flock of young birds, the fledglings must fly. And when the old home has sheltered a family of children until they have grown up, and is no longer able to contain them, the time comes at length, when, like the birds, they mate and move on to establish new homes of their own.

In rural communities, especially, these migratory movements began often, in the second generation, and by the third generation, families were sometimes widely scattered.

From the older settlements in New England, the trend was westward and southward.

The fertile valley of the Connecticut was soon occupied, and not long after, the sons of the Puritans were numerous on Long Island, on the island of Manhattan, and in parts of New Jersey, and among them, the Cox name is of frequent recurrence.

The Monmouth County family is still largely represented in New Jersey, and to some extent in Pennsylvania and New York, but for more than a hundred years, it has been sending out its branches to the north, south and west.

Shortly after the Revolution, a colony from the old Upper Freehold neighborhood settled in Saratoga County, New York. Others removed to Kentucky, and others still, were among the pioneers of Ohio.

Throughout the Middle West and scattered here and there among the states beyond, are many Cox families that have sprung from this source.

The Cocke family of Virginia has always been most numerous in that state, but when it has extended its lines it has usually been towards the south. Important branches have long been established in North Carolina and Tennessee, and some traces of it have been found as far south as Texas.

The Cock or Cox name was widely prevalent in nearly all of the early Quaker settlements as it is among their descendants in all parts of the country, to this day.

The family of James Cock, of Matinecock, is still strongly entrenched on Long Island whence it has spread to Westchester and Dutchess counties, and to other sections in the state of New York. Offshoots from the old stock are also to be found in Virginia, and in a number of the Western states.

The Cox Quakers that settled originally along the Delaware have been somewhat more migratory in their habits, owing no doubt to the fact that they were much more numerous.

Successive generations kept pressing on into the wilderness as the lands in the older settlements were pre-empted and occupied. From the neighborhood of New Castle, Delaware, some moved into New Jersey, and others to Chester County, Pennsylvania. A little later we find them "over the Susquehanna." For a number of years, the tide of emigration turned towards the western part of Pennsylvania, then southward, to Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina.

The greater number, if not all, of the older Cox families in these states, of Quaker origin, were from the Pennsylvania settlements included in which were the three counties of Delaware, and the province of West Jersey, all of which were at one time under the jurisdiction of William Penn.

His controversy with the Maryland government regarding certain territory in that province to which he laid claim, was no doubt accentuated by the fact that many Quaker families were already established in Maryland. One of the earliest of these was that of Isaac Cox, of Talbot County, who may have lived previously in Pennsylvania. He was the founder of the well known Cox or Coxe family of New York.

The Cox emigration from Pennsylvania to North Carolina, began about the middle of the eighteenth century. No trace of any tendency towards race suicide appears in the early or later records of this branch of the family. It has increased and multiplied to a degree that is somewhat unusual in recent years. As evidence of the fact, it is said that at a single election in one county in Tennessee, not long ago, 180 voters were of the Cox name.

From North Carolina and Tennessee, the migratory movements of the family, for many years, have been towards the West.

When the great Northwest Territory was opened to settlement, they crowded into Indiana, and from Indiana they have followed "the course of Empire" across the plains, to the Pacific, and even beyond, to the Hawaiian Islands.

So far as can be ascertained, these descendants of the early Quakers of Pennsylvania constitute by far the largest single element in the Cox family of America as it is known to-day.

About the time that the Quakers were migrating to North Carolina, other Cox families of Scotch-Irish ancestry, and presumably of the Presbyterian faith, were moving southward, along the line of the Alleghenies and establishing homes among the mountains of Western Virginia, and in North Carolina and Tennessee. Among the pioneers of this immigration were the brothers David and John Cox, who settled in Grayson County, Virginia, prior to 1750. They were the progenitors of a numerous race, many of whom still linger in the neighborhood of the older settlements, while others have become widely scattered chiefly through the south and west.

The founders of the Cox family of Ulster County, New York, came from England about 1669. At the beginning of the eighteenth century they had taken root in Somerset and Hunterdon, and a little later, in Mercer and Middlesex counties, New Jersey, where their descendants are chiefly to be found. Since the beginning of the nineteenth century, they have usually spelled their name, Cox.

Another old New Jersey family was that of Isaac Cox, son of Philip and grandson of Sir Isaac Cox. He was a London merchant who emigrated to America about 1690, and settled at Elizabethtown. His son Philip, removed later, to the Blue Hills in Somerset County, where several generations of the family lived and died. From the Blue Hills they have spread to northern New Jersey, western New York, Virginia, and Ohio.

The family of Dr. Daniel Coxe of London, the West Jersey Proprietor, who may or may not have been a brother of Isaac, the London merchant, was represented originally in New Jersey by his son, Col. Daniel Coxe, who lived at Burlington and afterwards at Trenton.

His descendants in this country, are not numerous and are found, for the most part, in Pennsylvania.

William Cox, who emigrated to America in the early part of the eighteenth century, and lived at first in New Brunswick, and afterwards at Shrewsbury, left a family of eight children, all of whom married and settled either in New Jersey or Pennsylvania. There appear to have been no extensive migrations in this line, which is still chiefly confined, so far as its genealogy has been traced, to the region above mentioned.

Joseph Cox, who came from England in 1788, and settled in Otsego County, New York, is believed to have been related, collaterally, to William Cox, of Shrewsbury. This branch of the family, has remained in New York, and is well known in Otsego and Albany counties.

Among the Loyalists of the Revolution were a number of colonial families of the Cox name. Many of these, at the close of the war, were attracted to various parts of Canada, where, as an indemnification for the losses they had sustained, they were granted, in some instances, large tracts of land.

Conspicuous among them was Captain John Cox of Portland, Maine, who, leaving in New England, the children of his first marriage, removed with his second wife to Nova Scotia, where he reared another family as large as the first, whose numerous descendants are scattered throughout Canada and in some instances, have settled in various parts of the United States,—in Connecticut, New York, Maryland, and as far west as the Pacific.

John Cox, Sr., of Westchester and Dutchess counties in New York, was another staunch friend of Great Britain, during the Revolutionary period. His family also were somewhat divided, after the war, some remaining in New York and others removing to Canada.

There were Loyalists also in the family of Daniel Coxe of New Jersey, but they all appear to have remained in this country with the single exception of Daniel Coxe, of Trenton, who first fled to Lord Howe for protection, and afterwards removed with his family to England, where he died.

Traces of other colonial Cox families than those above mentioned, have been found in Maryland, Virginia and in the eastern counties of North and South Carolina, as also in New England and the Mid-
The States. To place them all in their proper tribal relations is not altogether practicable, nor is it possible to connect them always, with the successive generations that have sprung from them.

So far as the facts are available, the migrations of these earlier families in America, during the past three hundred years, are thus briefly outlined.

Of those that have come later it is enough to say that they constitute a considerable and important part of the family though their relations to those that have been long established in America are too remote to be clearly defined.

From whatever source or sources they have sprung, Cox families are found in practically every part of the Union. They are particularly numerous in the states along the Atlantic coast, from Maine to North Carolina, and the directories of the larger cities throughout the Middle West and on the Pacific slope, bear striking testimony both to their numerical strength and to the wide dispersion of the tribes.
VIRGINIA.

The history of the family in Virginia begins shortly after the settlement at Jamestown, in 1607. Among the members of the Virginia Company whose names are mentioned in the second charter, granted May 23, 1609, were Richard Cox, iron monger, Robert Cock, grocer, and Admiral Sir George Somers, whose family afterwards became connected by marriage with the Cocks family of Herefordshire, England, since widely known as the Somers-Cocks family.

Sir George Percy, Governor of Virginia, 1609-1611, married into the family of Thomas Cock, of Gloucestershire, in 1620, and Robert West, son of Lord De La Warr, Captain-General of Virginia under the second charter, married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Henry Cocke, of Hertfordshire, about 1675. These families were all prominently identified with the colonization of Virginia and more or less closely related to the early Cocke or Cox settlers.

William and Richard Cox, brothers apparently, arrived in the colony in 1627, during the administration of Captain Francis West, a brother of Lord De La Warr. Richard, whose surname is commonly spelled, Cocke, patented one hundred acres of land in Elizabeth City which was then included in what is now Princess Anne County, in 1628, and William Cox patented also one hundred acres in the same county on September 28th, of the same year. No record of the family of William Cox has been discovered. Probably he never married.

Other names which appear in the early records of the colony are those of John Cocks, who is described as one of thirteen "new Adventurers," to whom a patent was granted, October 24, 1621, and Hugh Cox, to whom five hundred acres of land in Charles City County were granted by order of the court, December 6, 1634, and patented December 27, 1635. Others of the Cocke name came later.

Nicholas Cocke was in Lancaster in 1658, in which year six hundred acres were patented to him and, in 1663, a grant was made to his son, Maurice, of a like amount in the same county. The fact that he was naturalized in 1673, along with Minor Doodes and other Dutch settlers in Middlesex, has led to the belief that he was from Holland, but the coat of arms on his tombstone is identical with that of the Cocke family of Lancaster and Cornwall in England, indicating English ancestry. The family probably came from England to Virginia by way of Holland, to which country many English families emigrated during the period of the Civil War (1450-1471). He married about 1661, Jane, widow of Bart. Curtis; children—i. Jane, married Rice Jones; ii. Maurice, who married Elizabeth, widow of Doodes Minor, son of M. Doodes.

He died in 1687. The male line in this family became extinct on the death of his son, Maurice, about 1696.

Another important branch of the family, represented by Captain Thomas Cocke, his brothers, William and Walter, and his cousin, Captain Christopher Cocke, settled in Virginia about 1690. From these are descended the greater number of the Cocke families of Surry and Princess Anne counties.

Dr. William Cocke, of Suffolk, England, came over about 1705 and settled at Williamsburg. He was a member of the Council, Secretary of the Province and a Judge of the General Court. He married Elizabeth, sister of Mark Catesby, the celebrated English naturalist. Catesby Cocke, his son, lived at Belmont, Fairfax County. The male line in this family also, soon became extinct.

The numerous Cox families of central and western Virginia are for the most part, of a different origin and are not known to have been related to the earlier settlers of the eastern counties. They have an interesting history, however, and have played an important part in the development of the territory extending from the mountains of West Virginia, along the line of the Blue Ridge, as far south as the present state of Georgia. Some years later, they crossed the Ohio and were among the pioneers of the states of Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois.

Many of them came originally, from the Scotch-Irish and Quaker settlements of Pennsylvania, following successive waves of emigration which did not rest until the wilderness had been reclaimed, and the new territory of the North West, which was opened to settlement, after the close of the Revolutionary War, had been fully occupied.

Some of the genealogies which follow have been published either wholly or in part, in fragmentary form, but much of the material which has been gathered has only recently been brought to light.

FAMILY OF RICHARD COCKE.

FIRST GENERATION.

Richard⁴ Cocke, founder of the Henrico county branch of the Cocke family; settled in Virginia about 1627; patented 100 acres of land in Elizabeth City in 1628; member of the House of Burgesses from Weyanoke, Charles City County, in 1632; patented 3,000 acres in Henrico County, 1636; added to his holdings, the same year, 700 acres near "the Bremoes dividend"; established his family seat at Bremor, or Bremo, on the James River, about eighteen miles below the present city of Richmond.

His landed estate, acquired at various times, aggregated upwards of 8,000 acres; member of the House of Burgesses again, in 1644: also held the office of County Commandant, or Lieutenant Colonel of the County; said to have been a descendant of Captain George Cocke, of England, frequently mentioned in Pepys's Diary; perhaps of the same family to which belonged Sir Henry Cocke, of Hertfordshire, whose daughter, Elizabeth, married Robert West, son of Lord De La Warr, and nephew of Captain Francis West, who had his seat at Westover on the James River, a few miles below Bremo.

SECOND GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF RICHARD$^1$ COCKE.

i. THOMAS$^2$ COCKE, (Richard$^3$),—of Bremo, and Malvern Hills; known as Captain Thomas Cocke, Sr., of Henrico; Sheriff, 1680-1688; member of County Court at various times, and otherwise prominent in the affairs of the colony; his will dated, 1689; probably died soon after.

ii. RICHARD$^2$ COCKE,—born at Bremo, 10 December, 1639; member of County Court, 1680, and at intervals to 1714, which was probably about the date of his death.

iii. WILLIAM$^2$ COCKE,—referred to as a son of Lieut. Col. Richard Cocke.

Children: 1. Mary, who married Obadiah Smith, about 1702; others, if any, not known.

iv. JOHN$^2$ COX,—so spelled; will, February 19, 1691-2; probated February 1, 1696, Henrico County; married Mary ________.

THIRD GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS$^2$ COCKE.

i. THOMAS$^3$ COCKE, (Thomas$^2$, Richard$^1$),—of Henrico County, known as Captain Thomas Cocke; born about 1662; Sheriff in 1699 and 1707; member of the House of Burgesses, 1702; he and his brother, James, the most prominent of the family at the time; married (1) Mary Brazier, (some times spelled, Brasure, Brashear, etc.) of Nansemond, (2) Frances ________.

At least four of these, including the two daughters, were probably children by his first wife.

ii. STEPHEN$^3$ COCKE,—born about 1664; died 1717; married (1), in 1688, Mrs. Sarah Marston, (2) in 1694, Martha Bannister.

Children: i. Abraham, ii. Agnes; probably others.

iii. JAMES$^3$ COCKE,—born about 1666; died 1721; Clerk of Henrico County, 1691-1707; married January, 1691, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Jane Pleasants. She died, 1751, aged about 75 years.

Children: i. James, ii. Pleasant, iii. a daughter.
iv. William Cocke,—born about 1670; died 1717, married Sarah Dennis, probably a daughter of Richard Dennis, a member of the House of Burgesses. Captain Robert Dennis who was sent over by Cromwell, in 1652, to establish his authority in the colony, may have been the emigrant ancestor of the Dennis family.

v. Temperance Cocke,—born about 1668; married about 1688, Captain Samuel Harwood.

vi. Agnes Cocke,—born about 1672; married Captain Joseph Harwood, brother of Samuel.

CHILDREN OF RICHARD² COCKE.

i. Richard Cocke, (Richard², Richard¹), of Bremo; born 1672; died, 1720; in 1714, he bought 2447 acres of land on the north side of the James River, for £12, 10 shillings, equivalent to about $350 in the money of the present day. No record of his will has been found but a memorandum states that it was probated, October, 1720. Ebenezer Adams, Nathaniel Harrison and Henry Harrison, were named as executors. He was twice married; names of his wives not given.

ii. Elizabeth Cocke,—born about 1675; married Miles Cary, Clerk of Warwick County, 1695.

iii. Martha Cocke,—married Joseph, son of John Pleasants, a wealthy Quaker who came from Norwich, England, in 1655, and settled in Henrico County. He was the ancestor of the Pleasants family of Virginia.

CHILDREN OF JOHN² COX AND MARY ———, HIS WIFE.

Children: i. Elisabeth, who married John, son of Col. Lawrence Smith, of Abingdon Parish, Gloucester County, member of the House of Burgesses, 1685; and of the Governor’s Council, about 1706; died about 1704.
iv. William Cox,—died 1711; will, 10 February, 1711; probated June, 1712; married Sarah Perrin, 1695.

The last not named in her father’s will, but in that of her mother, Sarah Cox, of Goochland County, dated March 26, 1726, and pro-bated January 20, 1747; probably born after her father's will was executed.

FOURTH GENERATION.

ii. JAMES POWELL Cocke, (Thomas, Thomas, Richard),—lived at Malvern Hills, on the James River, one of the ancient seats of the Cocke family; married and had at least one son, the father of James Powell Cocke, who lived on the same estate; his immediate family not traced.

CHILDREN OF JAMES Cocke and ELIZABETH PLEASANTS, HIS WIFE.

i. JAMES Cocke, (James, Thomas, Richard),—born about 1692; executor of will of his mother who died 1751.

ii. PLEASANT Cocke,—born in Henrico County; died, 1744; married ——— Fleming.

iii. ——— Cocke, a daughter; married ——— Poythress.

CHILDREN OF RICHARD Cocke AND ———, HIS FIRST WIFE.

i. BOWLER Cocke, (Richard, Richard, Richard),—of Turkey Island; born about 1700; in 1728, succeeded William Randolph as Clerk of Henrico County; served until about 1751, when he was succeeded by his son, Bowler.

Children: i. Bowler, and probably others.

CHILDREN OF RICHARD Cocke AND ———, HIS SECOND WIFE.

iv. RICHARD Cocke,—born, 1707; died, 1772; married (1) Elizabeth Hartwell, an heiress of Swan's Point, Surry, and settled at Bacon's Castle, in that county; (2) Elizabeth Ruffin, widow of ——— Kinchin.

v. BENJAMIN Cocke,—married a daughter of Arthur Allen, of Bacon's Castle, Surry, to which place he removed after his marriage.

vi. MARTHA Cocke,—married Thomas, son of Ebenezer Adams; the latter, one of her father's executors. Thomas Adams was a member of the Continental Congress, 1778 and 1780, and the progenitor of the Adams family living in Richmond at the beginning of the nineteenth century.

vii. ——— Cocke, a daughter; married ——— Epps.

viii. ——— Cocke, a daughter; married ——— Acrills, of Charles City; name now extinct.

i. ABRAHAM Cocke, (Stephen, Thomas, Richard),—son of Stephen Cocke and Sarah ———, widow of ——— Marston, his first wife; born between 1690 and 1700; "progenitor of the distinguished Cocke family of Tennessee."

FIFTH GENERATION.

i. Bowler\(^6\) Cocke, (Bowler\(^4\), Richard\(^4\), Richard\(^3\), Richard\(^2\), Richard\(^1\)),— succeeded his father in the office of County Clerk of Henrico, 1751.

Tennessee; member of Congress, 1845-1849; died at Nashville, Feb-uary, 1896.

CHILDREN OF GEN. JOHN7 HARTWELL COCKE AND ANN BLOWS BAR-RAUD, HIS WIFE.

i. JOHN HARTWELL8 COCKE, (John Hartwell7, John Hartwell6, Hartwell5, Richard4, Richard3, Richard2, Richard1),—born, January 25, 1804; died June 29, 1866.

ii. LOUISIANA BARRAUD8 COCKE,—born, June 29, 1806; died, December 8, 1829; married Dr. John H. Faulcon, of Surry; no children.

iii. PHILIP ST. GEORGE8 COCKE, of Belmead, Powhatan County; born, 1809; died, December 26, 1861; married Sally Elizabeth Courtenay Bowdoin.

Children: i. John Bowdoin, ii. Louise Barraud, iii. Sally Brown, tenay Bowdoin, viii. Charles Hartwell, ix. Mary Augusta, x. Helen Hansford, xi. Ann Blows, born March 19, 1857; died March 24, 1857.

iv. ANN BLOWS8 COCKE,—died, February, 1862; married Nicholas Francis Cabell.

v. CHARLES CARY8 COCKE, M. D.,—of Bremo Bluff, Fluvanna County; born, January 1, 1814; died, 1888; married Lucy W. Oliver, May 30, 1839.

Children: i. Mary Braxton, ii. John Hartwell, married Ruth How-well, Charlestown, West Virginia, iii. Leila Barraud.

vi. SALLY FAULKON8 COCKE,—born, September 8, 1816; married Dr. Arthur Lee Brent.

THE COX FAMILY OF GRAYSON COUNTY.

David Cox and his brother, John Cox, are said to have come to this country from Scotland in 1740, another tradition says, from Wales; and still another, that they were of Scotch-Irish descent, which would mean that their ancestry was Scotch and that they were of that race of Protestants which has long been numerous in the north of Ireland, notably in the county of Ulster, and the region adjacent to it.

They settled on New River, in Grayson County, four miles west of Little River. John Cox was Captain of the Home Guard, during the Revolutionary war. After the close of the war he removed to Ashe County, North Carolina where he lived, on the South fork of New River, until his death.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

His brother, David, remained with his family, in Virginia, where many of his descendants now live.

FAMILY OF DAVID COX.

FIRST GENERATION.

David Cox,—emigrated from Scotland in 1740; settled on New River, in Grayson County, where he died and was buried; married Mc Gowan.

SECOND GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF DAVID Cox AND Mc GOWAN, HIS WIFE.

i. Joshua^2 Cox, (David^1).—born, January 20, 1766; married, about 1788, Ruth, born December 26, 1770, daughter of Enoch Osborne who lived on New River, near the mouth of Saddle Creek, where John Osborne now lives; lived on Bridle Creek.

ii. John^2 Cox,—born, April 4, 1771; married Lucy Terrell, born, September 21, 1780; lived on Potato Creek.

iii. David^2 Cox, Jr.,—married Reeves; lived on Little River, Alleghany County, North Carolina.

iv. Samuel^2 Cox,—lived for a few years in North Carolina; while there, was elected High Sheriff of Ashe County, which comprised the three present counties of Ashe, Alleghany and Watauga; later, returned to Virginia and became Sheriff of Grayson County; married Rebecca, daughter of Enoch Osborne.

v. Richard^2 Cox,—lived in Mexico several years; though small of stature, was considered a bully: fought a number of times but was never whipped; fought a duel with a Mexican much above his size, the weapons chosen, being bowie knives; both combatants seriously, but not fatally wounded; returned to Virginia and died, later, at the home of his brother, Samuel; unmarried.

vi. Rankin^2 Cox,—married Burton; lived in Indiana,

vii. Andrew^2 Cox,—lived in Indiana.

viii. Alexander^2 Cox,—married Lyddie, daughter of Enoch Osborne.
ix. Margaret Cox,—married John Douglas; lived on Little River, Alleghany County, North Carolina.

x. Mary Cox,—married ——— Phipps.

xi. Katharine Cox,—married John Blevins; lived in the eastern part of Grayson County.

xii. Annie Cox,—unmarried.

Third Generation.

Children of Joshua Cox and Ruth Osborne, his wife.

i. David Cox, (Joshua, David)—born, 1790; died, 1878; married Jane Doughton.

ii. John Cox,—born, 1792; married Nellie Ward.

iii. Hardie Cox,—born, 1796; died, 1868; married Nancy Reeves.

FAMILY OF THOMAS COX, OF BERKELEY COUNTY.

FIRST GENERATION.

THOMAS Cox,—ancestry unknown; said to have been a native of Bucks County, Pennsylvania; born May 2, 1766; lived in Berkeley County, Virginia, (now West Virginia); married, October 25, 1786, Margaret, daughter of Edward and granddaughter of Gideon D. Mercer. She was born in Berkeley County, May 9, 1759.

Thomas Cox was one of the executors of the will of his father-in-law, Edward Mercer. In his mature years he removed, with his wife, to Miami County, Ohio. They died, and were buried in a graveyard on the Andy Johnson farm, about two miles northwest of Adison, Ohio. Their children preceded them to Ohio and settled near Cincinnati, where many of their descendants still live.

ISAAC Cox,—supposed to have been a brother of Thomas, married Elizabeth Prothress, of Berkeley County, Virginia, September 18, 1790.

WILLIAM Cox, of Berkeley County, Virginia, brother of Thomas, married Elizabeth Williams, January 29, 1800, Rev. Richard Swift, officiating.

FRAGMENTARY RECORDS.

THOMAS COXE, OF JAMESTOWN, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

FIRST GENERATION.

THOMAS1 Cox, —said to have been of Welsh ancestry. His forebears having resisted the authority of the English King, their lands were confiscated. Settled at Jamestown, about 1614; owned a fine estate on the James River; reared ten sons.

SECOND GENERATION.

GEORGE2 Cox, (Thomas1), —youngest son of Thomas. It is related of his father's family, that they bought of a Dutch trader, coming up the James River, two African negroes, man and wife. The negro woman nursed the young child, George, until, losing her husband, who died of typhoid fever, she became disconsolate and attempted to drown herself, her two sons, and the infant committed to her care. In this she was successful except in the case of the last named, who was rescued and resuscitated. She loved the children but was influenced, in what she did, by a superstitious notion that after death, they would all rejoin her deceased husband in Africa.

After about a hundred years, one branch of the family removed to North Carolina, and thence, after another century, or so, to Georgia. After the Revolutionary War, (in which a number of the family served under Washington), the final e in the name, Coxe, was elided and it has since been commonly spelled, Cox. Asa Cox, of Harris County, and Ichabod Cox, of Stewart County, Georgia, were brothers. The latter was a grandfather of Gen. John B. Gordon, and the former, of J. A. Cox, of Tennessee, by whom the statements above recorded, have been communicated. Asa Cox was 91 years old when he died, and his son, ———, the father of J. A. Cox, lived to be 95 years of age.

No case of tuberculosis is recorded in this family. Physical characteristics: eyes, gray or brown,—sometimes, blue or black; many are tall—six feet or more; some low in stature; hair, black, brown, and sometimes auburn to red.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

Beyond that, as a rule, they are said to think a good deal of themselves and families; are always gallant to ladies; believe in education; are born soldiers, no cowards; have served in every war, but, at the same time, are civil and peaceable.

COL. ISAAC COX.

I. Isaac Cox,—from Pennsylvania; b. 1720; died, 1794; another authority says: born, 1724; died, 1784; said to have been a Colonel in the Revolutionary war; family removed to the western part of Virginia, now West Virginia; perhaps a brother of Friend Cox, of Pennsylvania, born in Switzerland. (See Pennsylvania Families).

II. George Cox, (Isaac),—born, 1748; died, 1838; lived in or near, Wellsburg, now West Virginia; an Indian fighter.

III. Friend Cox, (George, Isaac),—

Children: i. R—— W——, ii. a daughter, now Mrs. S. C. Priest, of Newark, Ohio.

IV. R—— W——. Cox, (Friend, George, Isaac),—

V. Friend Cox, (R—— W——, Friend, George, Isaac),—Wheeling, West Virginia; Vice President, Rosebud Fuel Company, Fairmont, West Virginia.

VI. J. Frank Cox, (——, R—— W——, Friend, George, Isaac),—nephew of the above.

GABRIEL COX.

I. Gabriel Cox,—name appears in the early records of Hampshire County, Virginia, (now West Virginia), along with names of Friend Cox and other members of the family; believed to have been related to Col. Isaac Cox, above mentioned, perhaps a brother; removed to Brooke County, now West Virginia.

Children: i. Israel, ii. David, iii. Peter, iv. a daughter.

All killed by the Indians in Ohio, with the exception of Israel; David Cox, killed on the site of the present city of Cincinnati.

II. Israel Cox, (Gabriel),—married Elizabeth Newkirk and settled on a four hundred acre farm in Brooke County, now West Virginia; there built a double-hewed log house where he lived until 1800, when he sold his farm and removed to Ohio. He had nine children—two sons and seven daughters—the youngest being six years old at the time.

III. Israel Cox, (Israel, Gabriel),—eldest son of the above; married Ruth Richardson; spent his entire life in Brooke County and was buried, at his own request, in a country graveyard, near the home of his childhood. To him and his wife were born ten children,—six sons and four daughters.

IV. Friend Cox, (Israel, Israel, Gabriel),—eldest son of Israel Cox; born, 1824; died, Nov. 19, 1911; married Mary C. Barnes.
Children: i. Martha J. Cox, Wellsburg, West Virginia; ii. Dr. J. A. Cox, Wheeling, West Virginia; iii. Sarah Serena Cox; four died in childhood.

JOSEPH COX

I. Joseph\(^1\) Cox,—a descendant of one of seven brothers who came to this country from Holland, by way of England and settled along the coast of Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina. It was also a tradition in the family that his ancestors came from the neighborhood of Hanover, in Germany, from which locality also came the progenitors of the late Gen. Jacob D. Cox, of Ohio. His father was a surveyor, prior to the Revolution, and is said to have served, later, in Washington's army. He married Ann Halpense, an own cousin, according to the late Archbishop Purcell of Cincinnati, of Daniel O'Connell, the great Irish agitator and orator. He was a shoemaker by trade and a farmer; a giant in stature, six feet and seven inches tall, and the strongest man in the county. He met his death by an accident while chopping wood in a forest, not far from Williamsport, Maryland. His son, a lad, about twelve years old, with difficulty got him on a sled and took him to Williamsport where he died from loss of blood in 1818. There also, he was buried. His widow lived for more than fifty years after his death, at Berkeley Springs, West Virginia, where her life was spent in good works.

II. Hiram\(^2\) Cox, M. D., (Joseph\(^1\)),—son of Joseph and Ann (Halpense) Cox; born in Maryland in 1800; died, 1867; married and removed to Winchester and later to Chambersburg, Pennsylvania; was clerk of the Courts for a time at Lancaster; removed to Ohio in 1832; a physician of note and an ardent temperance man; vigorous in his opposition to blood letting and the too free use of alcohol, in consequence of which he incurred the enmity of some of the older physicians; a fine chemist, also.

III. Judge Joseph\(^3\) Cox, (Hiram\(^2\), Joseph\(^1\)),—born in Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, 1822; died, 1900; served in the Common Pleas and Circuit Courts of Ohio, for about thirty years, and was otherwise prominent in many ways in the state and through the West.

IV. Joseph\(^4\) Cox, (Joseph\(^3\), Hiram\(^2\), Joseph\(^1\)),—of Cincinnati, Ohio; lawyer.

MAINE.

FAMILY OF WILLIAM COX OF PEMAUQUID

First Generation.

William\(^1\) Cox,—first of the Cox name of record in New England; witness to a deed executed at Pemaquid, July 15, 1625, whereby a certain tract of land was conveyed by two Indian sakamores to John Brown, of New Harbor; lived at Cox’s Cove and owned a farm adjoining the property conveyed to Brown; supposed to have come from Bristol, England and to have located in the neighborhood of Pemaquid at some time prior to the date above mentioned; was living, August 8, 1660, when his name again appears on record as witness to a deed; possibly the same as “William Cox of Beverly, Massachusetts, who died, December 23, 1661, etat 60;” probably married twice, his wife, Mary, however, the only one whose name is known; William Cox, of Sagadahoc, Maine, later of Salem, Massachusetts, thought to have been a child of the first marriage, and John Cox, his “brother-in-law,” so called, was more likely a half brother of William of Sagadahoc; Thomas Cox, born at Pemaquid, about 1664, is also said to have been a son of the first William.

Shadrack Cox, Richard Cox, William Cox, John Cox, Jr., Thomas Cox, Thomas Cox, Jr., and two others of the name of Thomas Cox, all of whom took the oath of fidelity at Pemaquid, July 22, 1674, were in all probability either his sons and grandsons, or otherwise nearly related to him. The following are believed to have been his sons.

SECOND GENERATION.

i. William² Cox, (William¹),—lived for many years, at Sagadahoc, at the mouth of the Kennebec River; driven from his plantation, during the Indian war, about 1677, he removed to Salem, Massachusetts; married Hannah, daughter of Andrew and Mary Woodbury, of Salem, who was born, April 1, 1664,—perhaps his second wife. In 1720-1, his widow and her only child, Mary, sold their individual common rights in Salem. From this record it is evident that he died not later than 1720.

Children: i. Mary, born at Salem, 1688; perhaps others of an earlier marriage.

ii. John Cox,—born, 1658: died, November 25, 1742: buried at Dorchester, Massachusetts; married Susanna Pope.

iii. Thomas² Cox, (William¹),—mariner; born, Pemaquid, Maine, (?) about 1664; settled at Beverly, Massachusetts, about 1689; probably the same as Thomas Cock, of Beverly, who bought a 1½ acre lot, of Thomas Gardner, of Salem, “Marriner,” February 13, 1605-6, three months’ after the death of Gardner’s father, which lot was bounded by land of Hugh Woodbury, William Dodge and by the seaside (see Essex Inst. Hist. Collections); married Hannah Woodbury who “owned ye covenant of God and submitted to ye government of Christ in ye Church, and had her child baptized 8. 4. 1690,” and joined the First Church of Beverly, 5. 4. 1698.

CHILDREN OF JOHN Cox AND SUSANNA POPE, HIS WIFE.

i. MARGARET Cox, (John, William),—baptized, March 5, 1692-3.
Margaret Cox married Joseph Cook, of Salem, Massachusetts, August 14, 1706; four children.
ii. MARY Cox,—baptized, March 5, 1692-3.
iii. SARAh Cox,—born, 1688, or earlier; baptized, March 5, 1692-3.
iv. JOHN Cox,—known as Captain John Cox, Jr.; born probably before 1688; baptized, March 5, 1692-3; married, December 11, 1712, Tabitha, born, May 13, 1688, daughter of Ebenezer Davenport, of Dorchester,—Rev. John Danforth, officiating; John and his wife "laid hold on ye cov't," August 9, 1713; lived in Dorchester, where most of his children were born, until 1729, when he removed to Falmouth, Maine; admitted to citizenship in Falmouth, in place of Thomas Cox, perhaps a deceased uncle; an allotment of sixty acres of land made to him, August 3, 1732, in what is now the center of the city of Portland; some portion of this property remained in possession of his direct descendants until 1857, when on the death of Mrs. Susan (Greenleaf) Cox, it passed out of the hands of the family. Captain John Cox was engaged in the fishing business and was killed by the Indians when on an expedition to Pemaquid Falls, May 22, 1747. The others of his party, retreated, but he stood his ground and lost his life in consequence.
v. THANKFUL Cox,—baptized, March 5, 1692-3.
vi. WILLIAM Cox,—baptized, May 27, 1694; a weaver by occupation; lived at Lynn, Massachusetts, 1740-1751; a captain of infantry, at the taking of Louisburg, 1758; for his services, received a grant of land at Mount Desert, Maine; married Thankful, daughter of Captain Thomas Maudsley.

vii. JAMES Cox,—baptized, April 18, 1696.
viii. EBENEZER Cox,—baptized May 10, 1696. (Wife of Eben. Cox, of Beverly, Massachusetts, died, September 11, 1749; he was one of those living in the parish, 1752, who had had smallpox.)
ix. ELIZABETH Cox,—born, August 27, 1697.
x. THOMAS Cox,—baptized, 1698.
xi. SUSANNA Cox,—born, November 29, 1698; married Enoch Wiswell, November 30, 1722.

xii. JOSEPH Cox,—born, April 8, 1700.
xiii. Submit Cox,—born, September 20, 1703; married Thomas Maudsley, Jr., June 12, 1725.

xiv. Benjamin Cox,—baptized 12 m. (December) 1705.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS Cox AND HANNAH WOODBURY, HIS WIFE.
i. Thomas Cox, (Thomas, William),—baptized, August 4, 1690; died, November 5, 1737, or 1738; mariner; lived at Beverly, Massachusetts; married (1), December 15, 1709, Judith Elliot, who died, April 19, 1718, (2), June 21, 1727, Mary Woodbury, born, 2 August, 1703, died, 1738, widow of Josiah Trask, of Salem, to whom she was married, May 13, 1719.

ii. Elizabeth Cox,—baptized, August 4, 1690.

iii. Richard Cox,—baptized, Beverly, June 14, 1692; drowned, 1746.

iv. James Cox,—born, 1690.

v. Hannah Cox,—baptized, July 28, 1695.

vi. John Cox,—baptized, July 17, 1698; killed at Pemaquid, 1725. (?) See, Wm. Cox of Pemaquid.

vii. William Cox,—baptized, September 5, 1703; died December 23, 1761; married Sarah Trask, November 9, 1721; she married (2) Samuel Woodbury, January 22, 1764.

FOURTH GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF JOHN Cox, JR., AND TABITHA DAVENPORT, HIS WIFE.
i. James Cox, (John, John, William),—born, 1713; died, February 25, 1717-18.

ii. Josiah Cox,—mariner; born June 28, 1715; married Martha Ingersoll; died prior to 1752.

iii. Tabitha Cox,—born, February 14, 1717-18; married February, 1735-6, Joseph Bailey or Joshua Moody.

iv. John Cox,—known as Captain John Cox; born at Dorchester, Massachusetts, August 3, 1719; died at Habitant, Nova Scotia, 1789; removed with his parents, in 1729, to Falmouth, now Portland, Maine; married (1), Sarah, daughter of Samuel and granddaughter of John Proctor who was executed for witchcraft at Salem, August 19, 1692; married (2), May 20, 1760, in Christ Church, Boston, Sarah Bodkin, of Boston, whose emigrant ancestor appears to have come from England in 1629, in the ship, Young William, bound for Virginia.

He was a staunch Loyalist and in consequence suffered many indignities at the hands of his neighbors at Falmouth, which led ultimately, to his removal in 1782, with his second wife and her children to Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, where he had received from the Crown a grant of between six and seven hundred acres of land. He afterwards received an additional grant at Cape Blomidon and a large tract of timber land at St. Martin's, New Brunswick. The children of his first wife remained and married in the neighborhood of Portland. In 1894, his remains were transferred to the Cox plot in the cemetery of the Congregational Church at Habitant.

Sold property in Calvert Co. to Richard Stallings.

James Cox,—witness, Charles Co., 1702.

Captain James Cox,—one of the original members of “The Ancient and Honorable Mechanical Company, of Baltimore,” organized Sept. 22, 1763, said to be the oldest civic organization in the United States; in 1769, aided, with others, in procuring by general subscription, an engine for the extinguishment of fires. In 1773, with others, he bought the lot corner of Front and Fayette streets, where the shot tower now stands, and there built the First Baptist Church. This congregation is said to have been composed entirely of "Rebels," many of them following Cox to the front when the Revolutionary War broke out. He was a member of the Sons of Liberty and among the first, if not the first, to enroll a company in Baltimore for the defense of the colonies; member of Committee of Observation, July 13, 1775, and as such, appointed with another, to search the house of James Christie, a supposed Tory, for arms and ammunition intended for the British. In 1776, he received his Captain's Commission and his Company became a part of the Baltimore town Battalion. On Dec. 13, 1776, he was directed to have his troops in readiness to march to Philadelphia; one of a company who, on March 25, 1777, entered the house of William Goddard, who had been ordered to leave the town and county and had refused; at the battle of Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777; joined Gen. Wayne, Sept. 21st; killed at the battle of Germantown, Oct. 4, 1777; the first Maryland soldier killed during the Revolution. Prior to his enlistment in the army, Captain Cox was the most fashionable tailor in Baltimore and apparently, a man of excellent education. His prominence in local affairs and his sturdy patriotism bear witness to the qualities of leadership which he possessed and to his strength and decision of character. But for his untimely death he would undoubtedly have attained greater distinction. (See, "The Ancient and Honorable Mechanical Co." by George W. McCray).

His wife was Mary ———, a pious woman, apparently, one of whose letters to her husband, written shortly before his death, has been preserved. She carried on a fashionable millinery establishment for years afterwards and d. Feb. 20, 1789, in reduced circumstances. No record, has been found either of his ancestry or descendants. It is possible he may have been the James Cox, nephew of the Rev. James Cox, of old Chester, mentioned by the latter in his will, 1752.

John Cox,—a member of Assembly of the Freemen of Maryland, July 26, 1775. Delegate from County of Cecil, to meeting at Annapolis, same date. [Md. Mag. of Hist.]

William Cox, Samuel Cox,—sign petition in the interest of Patrick Graham, 1775.

Ezekiel Cox,—officer in militia, Frederick Co., 1776.

Walter Cox,—a gentleman, willing to serve as an officer in either the Continental or Provincial army.

Henry Cox,—appointed for the upper part of Monocacy Hundred, to solicit money for the Revolutionary War.

John Cox,—assistant clerk, Baltimore Yearly Meeting, Society of Friends, 12th day, 10th month to the 16th, inclusive, 1795; m. Sept. 4, 1800, Matilda Bowen Lee Smith, daughter of Dr. Walter Smith, of Georgetown, D. C., and left issue.

James Cox,—cashier, Bank of Baltimore, chartered, 1795—capital $1,200,000.

Dr. James Cocke,—lecturer on Anatomy, Baltimore, 1800; in 1809, with others, applied to the Legislature for the privilege of establishing, a medical college: he, a professor in the institution.

ii. REV. SAMUEL HANSON Cox, D. D., LL.D.,—b. at Rahway, N. J., Aug. 25, 1793; d. at Bronxville, N. Y., Oct. 2, 1880; removed to Philadelphia in 1801; educated at Weston, Pa.; studied law at Newark, 1811; served in a volunteer regiment of riflemen in the war of 1812; was baptized in March, 1813; studied theology; was ordained and installed pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Mendham, N. J., July 1, 1817, and of the Spring Street Church, New York, December 25, 1820; one of the founders of the New York University; went to Europe for his health in 1833 and took a prominent position in English religious and social circles; became Professor of Pastoral Theology at Auburn Seminary in 1834 and pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, in 1837; Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, 1846; retired, April, 1854, to Owego, N. Y., but preached frequently in New York and elsewhere; lived for twelve years at Bronxville, N. Y., where he died; funeral at the Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn which was originally built for him.

During the active years of his ministry, he stood in the front rank of the American clergy. His pronounced anti-slavery sentiments caused him to be mobbed, and his house and the church in Spring Street, New York, which he was serving at the time, were sacked by the lawless elements. His opposition to slavery may have been in part, an inheritance from his Quaker ancestry, but with the theological views of the disciples of George Fox, he, apparently, had little sympathy, if we may judge from a somewhat famous volume which he afterwards published, entitled: "Quakerism not Christianity." He was the author also of "Interviews, Memorable and Useful," and of many occasional discourses of more or less public interest. His scholarly attainments were recognized by his election to the chair of Sacred Rhetoric, at Auburn, and, later, to that of Ecclesiastical History, in Union Theological Seminary, New York.

He had a wide reputation also as a preacher and a platform orator, and was not less famous for his ready wit than for his gift of eloquence. Whether or not, he was seriously disturbed by the fact that several of his children, became identified with the Episcopal Church, the circumstance gave occasion for more than one illustration of his aptness at repartee. To a casual inquiry as to the number of his children, he replied that he had ten, five of whom were wise and five were Episcopalians. When one of the latter was ordained to the priesthood, a friend remarked to Dr. Cox that he had not seen him at the "laying on of hands," to whom he made answer: "No, but if I had laid hands on that young man somewhat earlier there would have been no occasion for the ceremony to-day."

Such stories, and they are innumerable and apparently well authenticated, are fair samples of the quality of his humor and will account for the exceptional power that he had with an audience, when wit and wisdom were conjoined to point an argument or give emphasis to his public utterances.

Dr. Cox was twice m., first at Boston, April 7, 1817, to Abia, daughter of Aaron Cleveland and Elizabeth Clement Breed, and second, late in life, to Anna Fosdick, daughter of George Bacon and Nancy Skinner, at Hartford, Nov. 16, 1869.

iii. Susan Hanson Cox,—b. April 16, 1797; d. Dec. 31, 1831.
v. Abraham Liddon Cox, M. D.,—b. New York, Nov. 23, 1799; d. at Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, July 28, 1864; an eminent physician; resigned his large and lucrative practice in New York, at the beginning of the Civil War, and became a surgeon in the army; was promoted to be Surgeon-in-chief of a division: was with the Army of the Cumberland at the time of his death which was hastened by the labor and exposure incident to the active campaigns of that army; m. Feb. 17, 1825, Abby Ann, daughter of William and Mary Newbold.

M., Katharine, daughter of Simeon Hyde and Catharine Cleveland; ordained deacon, in the Protestant Episcopal Church, June 27, 1841, and priest, Sept. 25, 1842; Rector, St. John’s Church, Hartford, 1843-54; Grace Church, Baltimore, 1854-63; Calvary Church, New York, 1863-5; elected Bishop of Texas in 1856, but declined; consecrated Assistant Bishop of Western New York, at Geneva, Jan. 4, 1865, and on April 5, 1865, became Bishop of the diocese, living in Buffalo; author of many poetical and theological words and one of the most eminent members of the House of Bishops.

The first volume of his poems, entitled “Christian Ballads” appeared in 1840. This was followed by “Athenasian and other Poems,” in 1842, and “Saul, a Mystery, and other Poems,” in 1845.

Among his prose works were “Thoughts on the Services,” “Im-

THE COX FAMILY OF QUEEN ANNE COUNTY.

Some doubt exists as to the date of their settlement in Maryland. The earliest known members of the family were the Rev. James Cox, and his brothers, Christopher, and Thomas, but whether they came direct from England or were the descendants of English settlers who had preceded them, has not been clearly ascertained. They were originally members of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

FIRST GENERATION.

REV. JAMES¹ COX,—Rector of St. Paul’s Church, Old Chester, 1729-1753; the old brick house at Centerville wharf is supposed to have belonged to him. His will, dated 1752, mentions the two brothers above referred to, also his daughter, Lucy Dames, to whom he left his lands.

Children: i. Lucy, m. ——— Dames.

CHRISTOPHER¹ COX,—brother of James and mentioned in his will; his home near Centerville.

THOMAS¹ COX,—brother of James and Christopher; the former devised to him the sum of £30.

MICHAEL COX, HANOVER, GERMANY.

FIRST GENERATION.

Michael¹ Cox,—b. in Hanover, Germany; emigrated to America, about 1702, when a young married man; settled in the neighborhood of New York.

The family name, in Germany, is said to have been spelled Koch which was afterwards anglicised to Cox. Though born in Germany, it is probable that he was of English descent, and may have sprung from one of the numerous families which fled from England to Holland and Germany, during the religious persecutions of the sixteenth century. He is known to have had one son, Michael. There may have been other children, but no record of them has been discovered.

SECOND GENERATION.

THIRD GENERATION.

Nicholas Cox,—m. Jane Beatty; daughters, (1) Chrissy, b. 1772; (2) Jane, b. 1774—(Records First Presbyterian Church, New York).

THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

FIFTH GENERATION.

Children of Jacob Dolson^4 Cox and Thedia Redelia Kenyon.

iv. Gen. Jacob Dolson^6 Cox, (Jacob D.^4, Michael^3, Michael^2, Michael^1),—b. Montreal, Canada, Oct. 27, 1828; d. Magnolia, Mass., Aug. 4, 1900; graduated, Oberlin College, 1851; removed to Warren, Trumbull Co., Ohio; became Superintendent of public schools; studied law; admitted to the bar, 1853; elected to the Ohio Senate, 1859, and was active in that body until the outbreak of the Civil War, when he was commissioned, Brigadier General of Volunteers. He trained a number of regiments at Camp Dennison, and on July 6, 1861, was assigned to active duty in West Virginia, which, through his efforts, was saved to the Union. His military record includes two campaigns in the Great Kanawha Valley in 1861. In September, 1862, he took part in the battles of South Mountain, and Antietam, in which he commanded the 9th Army Corps; promoted to Major General for services in this campaign; not confirmed; drove Wise out of West Virginia, for the second time in 1863; was engaged in the campaign about Knoxville, Tenn., in 1864, and later, in the Atlanta campaign; was in the battles of Resaca, Ga., New Hope Church, Pickett's Mill, Kolb's Farm, Kennesaw Mountain, Atlanta, Utoy Creek; Franklin and Nashville. The last engagement is said to have been the most decisive of the war, Hood's forces being almost annihilated. For gallant services, he was promoted a second time, December, 1864, from Brigadier to Major General. In 1865, he was in the battles of Wilmington and Kinston, N. C.

At the close of the war, he was elected Governor of Ohio; afterwards resumed the practice of law at Cincinnati; in 1869, became Secretary of the Interior in Grant's cabinet; was appointed receiver of the Wabash Railroad of which he was President from 1873 to 1875, living at this time, in Toledo; elected to Congress, 1876; served one term and returned to Cincinnati; became Dean of the Law School in that city, and afterwards President of the University; retired in 1897, and removed to Oberlin, where his declining years were spent.

Gen. Cox was the author of "Atlanta" and "The March to the Sea" in Scribner's "Campaigns of the Civil War," "The Second Battle of Bull Run," several articles in "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War"; "The Battle of Franklin"; and "Military Reminiscences of the Civil War". His reputation as a military critic and historian was high and he contributed many articles and book reviews to the "Nation", "Atlantic Monthly", "North American" and other magazines.

About 1873, he became interested in microscopical investigations which he took up as a recreation. His labors proved valuable and won for him wide recognition. He was made a member of the Royal Microscopical Society of London, and received a gold medal at the Antwerp Exposition in 1891 for his work on Diatomaceous Shells.

Yachting was one of his later diversions. Of this he was passionately fond, and it was while on board of his son's yacht that he was overtaken by his last illness to which he succumbed before other members of his family could reach him.

Gen. Cox was a versatile man. He was also a man of strong religious convictions. In early life, he had come under the influence of the Rev. Charles G. Finney, a noted evangelist in his day, and for a number of years, president of Oberlin College, whose daughter he married while he was a student in that institution. He had intended, at one time to become a minister of the gospel. Theological differences with his father-in-law, diverted him from this purpose, but to the end of his life he continued steadfast in his adherence to the faith of his earlier years.

v. Kenyon Cox,—b. June 8, 1831; d. Long Beach, Cal., March 13, 1911; for a number of years a prominent Wall St. broker, and railroad man; partner with Daniel Drew in the firm of Kenyon Cox and Co.; financed and built the Canada Southern Railway; controlled that and the Wabash R. R., prior to 1873; retired after the panic of that year and removed to Southern California where he remained until his death; m. Eliza Adelaide Saxton, Sept. 28, 1852: one son.

xi. Charles Finney Cox,—b. Tompkinsville, Staten Island, Jan. 16, 1846; d. Yonkers, N. Y., Jan. 24, 1912: at the time of his death. Treasurer, Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway; Trustee, Oberlin College; member, Union League and Century Clubs, and of many scientific societies in New York; one of the managers of the N. Y. Botanical Garden from its formation, its Treasurer for many years, and deeply interested in the upbuilding of the institution; m. Helen Middlebrook, April 30, 1878; daughter, Ruth, m. Dr. Edwin B. Jenks.

SIXTH GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF GEN. JACOB D. COX AND HELEN FINNEY.

i. HELEN FINNEY Cox, (Jacob D., Jacob D., Michael, Michael, Michael),—b. Oberlin, July 8, 1850; m. John G. Black, Aug. 6, 1878, two daughters.

ii. JACOB DOLSON Cox,—b. Warren, O., May 15, 1852; attended public school until 1869 when his studies were interrupted by ill health; recovering, he entered the employ of the Cleveland Iron Co.; worked in every department of mill and machine shop; studied bookkeeping and mechanical drawing, and in 1876, with a capital of $2,000, borrowed of his father, began, with a partner, the manufacture of twist drills and machinists' tools at Dunkirk, N. Y.; removed, the same year, to Cleveland, where the business is still carried on, the factory now employing a thousand hands and turning out tools to the value of $2,000,000, yearly; became an incorporator of The Cleveland Trust Co., 1894, and is prominently identified with various financial institutions and with the social life of Cleveland; has patented many inventions, for one of which he was awarded the Longstreth medal of merit by the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, in 1896; member, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and of many other societies and clubs in Cleveland, New York, and elsewhere including the Society of Mayflower Descendants; Trustee, Case School of Applied Science; married, Oct. 9, 1878, Ellen Atwood Prentiss; children: i. Samuel Houghton, b. July 3, 1880; ii. Jacob Dolson, b. Nov. 1, 1881; iii. Jeannette Prentiss, b. June 15, 1886, m. Jan. 6, 1909, Gordon Niles Morrill, of Boston, son, Ferdinand Gordon, b. May 23, 1910.

iii. KENYON Cox,—New York; artist; b. Warren, O., Oct. 27, 1856; studied in Cincinnati and Philadelphia; spent seven years in Paris where he received further instruction under Carolus Duran and Gérôme; returning to America, he established himself in New York, became a member of the Society of American Artists and attained high rank as a portrait and landscape painter. His portrait of the sculptor, Augustus Saint-Gaudens (1887), took the medal at the Paris Exposition. Among the best known of his other works are, "A Corner Window" (1884), "Vision of Moonrise" (1886), "Hope and Memory," "Painting and Poetry," two life size, allegorical figures (1887), and "An Eclogue" (1890). He has given much attention also to mural decorations and many fine specimens of his art are to be found in the public buildings of New York, the capitol of Iowa and Minnesota, and in other cities. He is as facile with his pen as with his brush, and his art essays and magazine articles have a literary flavor which is as attractive as the subjects of which they treat. He is the author of "Old Masters and New," and "The Classic Point of View;" is a member of the National Academy vi. Dennison Cox,—b. Columbus, O., Dec. 8, 1867; d. in infancy.

JOHN COX, SENIOR, OF NEW YORK.

First Generation.

John¹ Cox, Senior,—of English parentage; said to have been a native of N. Y. City; born, May 7, 1735; died, Rhinebeck, N. Y., Mar. 25, 1825. He had inherited a fortune, from England and, at the outbreak of the Revolutionary war, warmly espoused the British cause; fitted out some privateers which were captured by the Americans. He himself was taken prisoner and lodged in the city prison which stood, at the time, in what is now City Hall Park, New York. His wife accompanied him and there gave birth to their son, George, named probably for the British sovereign, George III. She was Elizabeth Palmer, of New Rochelle, N. Y., to whom he was married about 1755. He spent his last days with his eldest son, at Rhinebeck. One of the pleasant traditions of the family is that of a sleighing party on the Hudson River, at Rhinebeck, on Christmas day, 1824, which included John Cox, Sr., his son, his grandson, and his great-grandson, each of the last three mentioned being the eldest son of his generation. All but the youngest died within a year; children: i John, Jr., ii. Elizabeth, iii. Jameson, iv. William, v. Stephen, vi. George.

At the close of the Revolutionary war, John Cox and George Cox of New York, went to Shelburne, Nova Scotia. The former, who was a loser by his loyalty, received from the British government, a grant of land in Canada. He had a family of seven children. [See Sabine’s Loyalists of the Am. Rev.]

John Cock, Sr., b. Chiswick, England; name in list of Loyalists of American Revolution, 1784; went to Canada; lived at Carleton, New Brunswick, John Cock, Jr., on same list. [N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, v. 35.]

Second Generation.

Children of John¹ Cox, Sr. and Elizabeth Palmer.

i. John² Cox, Jr., (John¹)—b. April 10, 1756; d. Rhinebeck, N. Y., Jan. 26, 1825; lived in the neighborhood of Katshaan, Ulster Co., N. Y., from 1776 until about 1790, when he removed to Rhinebeck, having bought the farm which previously belonged to a Mr. Cockburn. For a number of years, he was manager of the estate of Gen. Richard Montgomery, who settled at Rhinebeck in 1772 and was killed at Quebec, Dec. 31, 1775. He married, April 9, 1776, Maritje Hudler (or Holler on Scholten), a German Swiss girl of exceptional beauty, whose three brothers also were all large and handsome men; children: i. Elisabeth, ii. Catharine, iii. Hannah, iv. Maritje (Maria), b. Sept. 16, 1786, d. Dec. 18, 1806; v. Margaret, vi. John Palmer.

The older children, baptized in the Reformed Dutch Church at Katsbaan.

ii. Elizabeth Cox,—b. about 1758; m. John Burnham—licensed New York, Sept. 28, 1778; removed to Halifax, Nova Scotia.

iii. Jameson Cox,—name appears in memorial of New York Loyalists, lately found in Nova Scotia, date presumed to be about 1782; was living in New York, 1825, as appears from a letter to his nephew, Dr. John P. Cox, dated May 15th of that year; Alderman, New York, 1825-6.

iv. William Cox,—removed to Halifax, N. S.

v. Stephen Cox,—said to have married a Miss Holbrook; another authority says that he married Mrs. Boorman, daughter of a wealthy man, of Hyde Park, N. Y.

vi. George Cox,—b. in the city prison, New York, where his father was confined after his capture by the Americans; m. Rosanna Smith; lived at Rhinebeck; children: i. William Warburton, ii. David Story, iii. Sarah Mariah.

THIRD GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF JOHN Cox, JR., AND MARITJE HUDLER.

i. Elizabeth Cox, (John¹, Jr., John¹),—b. June 12, 1776; m. Maria—Hagadoorn; daughter, Maria, m. Adams, brother of Rev. Hiram Adams.

ii. Catharine Cox,—b. April 1, 1779; m. Collins; d. of cholera, 1849.

v. Margaret Cox,—b. Dec. 23, 1791; m. Peter Faure.

CHILDREN OF JOHN PALMER Cox, M. D., AND EMILIE VACHÉ.

i. John Vaché Cox, (John P.¹, John¹, Jr., John¹, Sr.),—b. Aug. 10, 1818; d. Oct. 6, 1882. His mother, not returning to Rhinebeck, after her husband’s death, lost nearly all of her property there, which was sold and the proceeds diverted by the agent in charge. Obliged to earn his living at an early age, he entered the employ of a wholesale drug firm, (Prall and Ray); afterwards became a drug broker, and still later a mercantile broker; m. Dec. 10, 1844, Eliza, b. Sept. 26, 1823, daughter of Henry Pilcher from Canterbury, England; children: i. Emilie Frances, ii. Mary Eliza, iii. Anna Vaché, iv. Isabella Vaché, v. John Henry.

MAJOR JAMES COCK OF PUTNAM COUNTY.

FIRST GENERATION.

James Cock,—b. in Scotland, 1745; d. Oct. 21, 1801, aged 56 years; a descendant of one of the old Scotch Covenanters; emigrated from Greenock, Scotland, to America, in 1764; settled in what is now Putnam County, formerly included in Dutchess County, New York; volunteered in the Revolutionary War, in 1775, under Col. Samuel Drake, Lieut. Col. John Hyatt and Nathaniel Delevan; promoted soon after to Adjutant; served in New York City; was in the battle of White Plains; marched to Peekskill; appointed Commissary of the army by General Washington, with the rank of Major, in 1776; had a guard under his command for the protection of the mills and stores at Red Mills, N. Y., and continued in this ser-vise throughout the war. (His predecessor as Commissary, Thomas Henderson, had been dismissed as a Tory and traitor). While residing at Red Mills, Major Andre was brought to his house, under guard and lodged for the night. Phoebe, the infant daughter of Major Cock, who had been asleep in her cradle, awoke when Andre entered the room and looking up at him with a smile, touched his feelings deeply, leading him to exclaim with melancholy tenderness:
"Happy childhood! We know its peace but once. I wish I were as inocent as you." The above incident is related by Blake in his History of Putnam County (1849), and is vouched for by members of the family. Major Cock frequently entertained at his home at Red and other soldiers, and is said to have been a favorite officer of General Washington. His heirs received March 23, 1851, $2450, and on June 15, 1851, $5175, as pension under Act of Congress passed July 4, 1836. He m. Feb. 19, 1767, Hannah, daughter of John How,

THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

COL. EBENEZER COX, OF CANAJOHARIE.

FIRST GENERATION.

COL. EBENEZER Cox,—of Canajoharie, New York; raised and commanded a regiment and served in the Revolution, under Gen. Herkimer; killed in the battle of Oriskany, August 5, 1777. It was probably due to his urgent but injudicious advice, and that of other officers, that the American troops were led into ambush and met with serious disaster.

With regard to his ancestry, nothing is positively known. By some of his descendants it is believed that he was heir to a large estate in England which was confiscated by act of Parliament, in consequence of his having taken up arms against the Crown. This act, it is said, was repealed later, and all rights restored, which placed the estate in Chancery where it has since remained.

The name, Ebenezer, however, which is common in the Cox family of New England, suggests the possibility at least, that he was of New England birth and had emigrated to the Mohawk Valley, as did many others, either from Massachusetts or from one of the Eastern colonies.

He married Margaret, daughter of Judge George Klock, of Canajoharie.

The only child of this marriage of whom any positive record has been preserved, was George Cox. William Cox, familiarly known as "Uncle Bill," may have been either a son or brother of Col. Ebenezer Cox. He was a man of great courage and was probably the William Cox, of Minden, Montgomery county, who, at the battle of Oriskany, avenged the death of his comrade, Henry Dievendorff, who had been shot by an Indian, by promptly killing the Indian.

SECOND GENERATION.

HENRY FREY Cox,—appears to belong to this generation and family, but his parentage is not known. In 1812, by deed of gift from his grandfather, dated May 4, of that year, he came into possession of a grist mill built by Col. Henry Frey, about 1770, together with 750 acres of land. This was the second grist mill built on the Canajoharie.

THIRD GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF GEORGE Cox AND ——— WALRO.

i. EBENEZER Cox, (George4, Ebenezer1),—m. ———; d. at the age of 88; no children.
ii. Daniel Cox,—drowned.

iii. John Cox,—b. Minden, N. Y., Sept. 22, 1806; d. Nov. 28, 1891; buried at Plano, Ill.; m. in N. Y. State, 1836, Mary, daughter of Joshua Howes, or Howe, a descendant of a younger brother of Lord Howe, who settled near Cape Cod, Mass., during, or immediately after, the Revolution. She was born near Fall River, March 21, 1811, and died at Plano, Ill., Aug. 12, 1881. Before her marriage, her family had removed to Gouverneur, N. Y. In 1843, John Cox removed to Kendall Co., Ill., and settled on the south bank of Fox River, near Oswego; removed, 1855, to the farm in the Little Rock township where his family have lived for many years; children: i. Mary Elizabeth, ii. George, iii. John, iv. Joseph H., v. William, vi. Reuben, vii. Levi, viii. James M., ix. Joshua, x. Emily Lucy.

iv. Amelia (or Phoebus) Cox,—married ———; five children.

CHILDREN OF JOHN COX AND MARY HOWES, HIS WIFE.

i. Mary Elizabeth Cox, (John, George, Ebenezer),—b. 1837; d. 1846.

ii. George Cox,—clerk of the District Court, DeKalb County, Ill.; served four years, studied law and was afterwards admitted to the bar; removed to Storm Lake, Iowa, where he was in successful practice for several years; died at the age of fifty years.

iii. John Cox,—b. July, 1840; enlisted 1862, in the 127th Regiment, Illinois Volunteers, in the War of the Rebellion; d. 1864, of disease contracted, while in the service.

iv. Joseph H. Cox,—b. 1842; enlisted, 1862, in the same regiment; taken prisoner July, 1864; escaped December, 1864, while being removed to Jacksonville prison, Florida; reached the Union lines in the following February; now living at Skedee, Oklahoma.

v. William Cox,—Aurora, Nebraska; b. 1844; farmer.

vi. Reuben Cox,—Denver, Colorado; b. 1846; has been a farmer.

vii. Levi Cox,—St. Joseph, Missouri; b. 1848; engaged in the live stock commission business; served one term in the Nebraska Legislature.

viii. James M. Cox,—Hampton, Nebraska; b. 1849; has lived at Hampton since 1879; serving his third term in the Nebraska State Senate; has been successful in business and is regarded as the wealthiest man in his county.

ix. Joshua Cox,—York, Nebraska; b. June 21, 1851; removed to Hamilton County, Nebraska, 1879; originally a farmer; later, engaged in the lumber business, afterwards in banking; served two terms in the Nebraska Legislature, 1883-5; President of German-American Bank, of York, and of the Bank of Polk, Polk, Nebraska; m. Feb. 5, 1878, Cora J. ————, b. Dryden, Tompkins County, N. Y., May 22, 1860; children: i. Raymond L., cashier of Polk Bank, Polk, Nebraska, ii. Grace.
x. Emily Lucy Cox,—b. 1853; d. 1897; m. 1874, James M. Sears, of Plano, Illinois.

THE COX FAMILY OF OTSEGO COUNTY.

FIRST GENERATION.

Joseph Cox,—of Warwickshire, England; came to America with Abijah Gilbert, of Nuneaton, in the same county, in the autumn of 1786. Gilbert spent the winter with relatives in New Jersey and there met Lewis and Richard Morris who had received from the State of New York, August 14, 1786, a grant of 35,000 acres of land in Montgomery, now Otsego County, as an indemnity for the destruction of their property by the British in the Revolutionary War. From them he purchased a tract of one thousand acres in Otsego County, for £571, 8s, 8 d. or about $2,500, "sight unseen," covering the site of the present village of Gilbertsville, in the town of Butternuts, N. Y., of which he was the first settler.

Joseph Cox also remained with relatives in New Jersey until the following year. In the spring of 1787, he accompanied Gen. Jacob Morris, (son of Lewis Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence), and his friend, Abijah Gilbert, to Butternuts where he afterwards purchased of Gilbert, a tract of land, portions of which are still owned by some of his descendants. Before leaving England, he was betrothed to Elizabeth Nichols, but the young lady who appears to have had a mind of her own, declined to marry until she had seen for herself the new home in the wilderness. Accordingly, she journeyed thither on a tour of inspection and as she did not return but was married soon after, the new country evidently had made a favorable impression upon her. The wedding which was the first in the town, occurred in the spring of 1788. In the absence of any clergyman, Gen. Jacob Morris, who besides being a military officer was also a Justice of the Peace, performed the ceremony at the Morris Manor.

The circumstance of his having spent some time with relatives in New Jersey, together with the fact of his subsequent purchase of land belonging to the Morris patent in Otsego County, suggests the probability that the kinsfolk whom Joseph Cox visited were of the Cox family of Shrewsbury, N. J., where also a branch of the Morris family was living at the time. It is more than likely that he there made their acquaintance and through them became interested in the property he afterwards purchased.

That he belonged to the Church of England, is another circumstance that suggests kinship with the Shrewsbury family, who were also of that faith, while the great majority of the Cox families of New Jersey, at that time, were either Baptists or Quakers; children: i. Joseph, ii. Thomas, iii. Richard, iv. Lucy, vi. William, vii. John, viii. Isaac; all born at Gilbertsville.

Ann Cox,—m. John Gilbert, b. 1758, settled at Gilbertsville, 1791.
SECOND GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF JOSEPH¹ COX AND ELIZABETH NICHOLS.

i. JOSEPH² COX, Jr., (Joseph¹),—b. December 15, 1789; m. Charity ——; children: i. DIANTHA, ii. JERUSA, iii. HARRY.

ii. THOMAS² COX,—b. May 1, 1792; d. April 2, 1848; a soldier in the war of 1812; m. May 11, 1815, Sally Bump, b. Richmond, N. H., September 2, 1798, d. Aug. 26, 1892, daughter of Asa Bump, who settled at Gilbertsville, about 1802, and Lydia Daudley, and granddaughter of Jacob Bump, who was b. at Mendon, 1738, and d. at Richmond, Dec. 17, 1829, and Dinah Slew. Jacob Bump served in the French and Indian War, in Capt. Maynard's Co., William Williams' Regiment of Mass. Militia.

At the repulse of the French on Lake George, 1759, he was sent with a small party across the wilderness to Quebec to inform Gen. Wolfe of the retreat of the French and Indians to Montreal, and their probable reinforcement of Gen. Montcalm at Quebec. This small party of Colonial soldiers were probably the only Americans at the assault and capture of Quebec by Gen. Wolfe.

It is said that owing to their unerring marksmanship and skill in woodcraft they were the first to scale the cliffs and hold the surprised French at bay until the main body of British Regulars had time to ascend and reinforce them. During the Revolutionary War, he was known as a "patriot," having signed the "Association Test Oath"; children: i. BETSEY, ii. JOSEPH T., iii. POLLY, iv. SARAH ANN, v. JAMES WILLIAM, vi. JARED COMSTOCK.

iii. RICHARD² COX,—b. Aug. 30, 1793; m. Clarissa Caulkins; children: i. NANCY, ii. WILLIAM, iii. CHARLES, iv. HENRY, v. GEORGE, vi. JOHN, vii. LEWIS.

THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

NEW JERSEY.

THE COX FAMILY, OF MONMOUTH COUNTY.

First Generation.

Thomas Cox,—born, probably, in England; died in Middletown, N. J., 1681; a resident of Newtown, Long Island, in 1665, as appears from his marriage license, issued in that year, by the Colonial Governor, Richard Nicolls, of New York. The following is a transcript made from the original document in the State Library at Albany, in 1908:

"Whereas I have received information of a mutual intent and agreement between Thomas Cox of Marshpath Kills in ye Lymnits of New Towne, and Elizabeth Blashford to enter into the state of matrimony, and that there lyeth no lawful obstacle or obligation on either part to hinder the performance thereof, I do hereby grant unto them Lycences so to do—and do also require one of ye Justices of ye peace of ye North Ryding of Yorkshire upon Long Island or ye Minister of some Parish therein to Joyne the said Thomas Cox and Elizabeth Blashford in Marryage, and to pronounce them man and wife and so to record them according to the law made in that behalf, for doing whereof this shall be sufficient warrant.

Given under my hand and Seal at James Hart in New York this 22nd day of April, 1665.

Rich. Nicolls."

No mention of his name occurs in the early records of Newtown, nor is anything positively known as to the time or place of his birth, or the date of his arrival in the colony. From the Public Record Office in London, however, we learn that in 1650, one Thomas Cox, with two others, was licensed to pass to Virginia. There is also in possession of one of the descendants of Thomas Cox, of Newtown, an old plate, somewhat elaborately decorated, and bearing date of 1661, which has been handed down from generation to generation, and which is said to have been brought by one of the family, from Virginia. Beyond that, no clue to his antecedents has been discovered.

Shortly after his marriage, he joined the colony which, during the summer and autumn of 1665, settled at Middletown and Shrewsbury, New Jersey. The majority of those who took up land in Monmouth County, under the Nicolls patents and who organized these towns, were from Long Island and New England, the latter coming chiefly from Rhode Island. The settlers at Shrewsbury were, for the most part, Quakers; at Middletown, the Baptists predominated. There is nothing to indicate that Thomas Cox was actively identified with either body, although his family and his descendants, for several generations, were of the Baptist faith, as many of them are to this day. Between the Baptists and the Quakers of that period, there appears to have been an entirely friendly feeling. Intermarriages were not unusual among them, and a community of interests, social, religious and political, had drawn them somewhat closely together.

His love for Elizabeth Blashford may perhaps have made him tolerant of her faith, if he did not accept it as his own. But whatever his religious predilections, he was, evidently, a just man.

The lands which he acquired were guaranteed to him by the Nicolls patent, but he recognized the prior right of the Indians to the property and paid them, in full, for the portions which were allotted to him.

His activity in local affairs dates from the beginning of the year 1667, when he was chosen one of the overseers of the fence. To what extent the lands of the early settlers were inclosed, does not appear, but it is evident from the frequent record of ear marks, that cattle were allowed to range at large, on lands that were owned in common. The following entry was made in the book of the Town Clerk, January 4, 1668: “Tho: Cocks his marke is the top of the right eare cutt off and a swallow taile and a hole in the left eare.”

From overseeing the fences, he advanced another step in his public career, when in the following year, he was appointed “rate maker” of the town. Later, he was chosen to assist the constable, and still later, he became a town deputy. That he had a mind of his own may be inferred from the fact that, while serving in that capacity, he dissented from certain laws ordered at the town meeting. The habit of dissent appears to have been a family characteristic, inherited perhaps, from ancestors who had been trained in the school of Cromwell and who had caught the spirit of independence which he inspired in his followers.

The next public office to which he was chosen was that of town overseer, which may have differed somewhat from that of town deputy, although the distinction is not quite clear.

By this time, or a little later, he had made his mark in the world. He may have made it before, but it is certain that he made it on the 8th of November, 1673, for it appears on a document bearing that His mark date, and is thus recorded: “Tho: Tec Cokes.”

signum talis

It would have been more gratifying to family pride if this suggestion of illiteracy had not been discovered. But the schoolmaster was not largely in evidence in his day, and comparatively few of the early pioneers had opportunity for acquiring even the rudiments of an ordinary education. In spite of this handicap, many of them through sheer force of character, industry, and native ability, were able not only to accumulate wealth, but to exercise large influence in the social and political life of the communities in which they lived, and Thomas Cox appears to have been of that number. Within a few years after his settlement at Middletown, he had become an extensive land owner and a recognized man of affairs in Monmouth County. In 1676, he was chosen a deputy, to meet the Governor
AN OLD HEIRLOOM

Said to have been brought originally from Virginia by a member of the Cox family of Monmouth Co., N. J.
and his Council at Woodbridge, a circumstance which seems to indicate that he was a man of some consequence and a representative citizen.

The occasion of his errand to Woodbridge is not a matter of record, but in the light of contemporary history, it is fair to assume that he appeared in support of the popular, as opposed to the proprietary interests.

He died in August, 1681, leaving a widow and six children, two of whom are described as being “very small.”

The necessity of caring for these small children, to say nothing of the others, the eldest of whom was only thirteen years old at the time, may have inclined the widow to entertain the proposition of a second marriage, shortly after her husband’s death.

At all events, the days of her mourning were not unduly protracted. The administrator of the Cox estate appears to have lost no time in pressing his suit. Whatever considerations he may have urged, the following extract from the town records tells its own story of the speedy culmination of an exceptionally brief courtship.

“Tho. Ingham and ye wid. Elizabeth Cox were married by Cap. John, bowne Justis of the peace in Middle Town, Sep. ye 9:1681.”

This second marriage was terminated by the death of Ingham, in 1690-1. The children, by this time, had grown larger, and as there appears to have been no urgent need of a further matrimonial alliance, the presumption is that Elizabeth Ingham died a widow; children: i. Thomas, ii. John, iii. James, iv. Joseph, and two others, probably daughters.

SECOND GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS¹ COX AND ELIZABETH BLASHFORD.

i. THOMAS² COX, (Thomas¹),—b. Feb. 11, 1668; d. 1723; described in his will, as a yeoman, of Freehold, Monmouth County, Freehold being the name of the township, now Upper Freehold, where his family had become established. By the terms of the will, an “acre square * * * on the hill above the orchard,” was left as a “burying place for the family of the testator and his brother, John Cox,” His personal estate was valued at more than £630, which, together with his landed interests, was a considerable fortune, for that time. His business capacity may be inferred from the frequent mention of his name in connection with the settlement and administration of estates. Though not an office holder, apparently, he was actively interested in public affairs and a staunch supporter of popular government.

He was one of those who, in 1700, signed a remonstrance, complaining of certain acts of the Proprietors, and asking for the appointment of a competent Governor.

A year later, he signed a similar petition, urging that the Province be taken under the government of the King unless the Proprietors appoint a suitable Governor. Thus early was the way being prepared for that great popular uprising which culminated, seventy-five years later, in the American Revolution.

In the matter of religion, he was a Baptist and one of the earliest members of the old church of Middletown, in the communion of which he died at the comparatively early age of 55 years.

ii. John# Cox,—born probably about 1670; died in the autumn of 1729; little is known of him beyond the fact that he figured somewhat prominently in the riots which broke out in Monmouth County in 1701.

Despairing of obtaining relief by peaceful methods, from the arbitrary exactions of the government, he became identified with the movement to secure, by force, the justice which could not be wrung from the authorities, through petition or remonstrance.

At a Court of Sessions held at Middletown, March 6, 1701, he and other citizens were fined ten shillings each, for contempt and misbehavior before the Court. A few days later, the Governor and Justices were seized by the excited populace and held as prisoners from the 25th to the 29th of March. There was as little doubt of the contempt in which the authorities were held by the people as there was of the utter disregard of popular rights on the part of the authorities.

John Cox was no advocate of the doctrine of passive resistance. He was openly aggressive, and, in character and spirit not unlike the men of his blood who, in after years, at the battle of Monmouth, continued the fight which their fathers had begun, in a small way, at Middletown, at the beginning of the century.

His part in the riots does not appear to have affected his standing in the Baptist Church of which he continued to be a member until the end of his life.

He died at his home in Upper Freehold, leaving a widow and eight children to mourn his loss and a comfortable estate to cheer them in their affliction.

The names of the children occur frequently in the early annals of the neighborhood, but in the absence of family records, and the multiplicity of identical names, at the same time, in other branches of the family, it has not been found possible to identify them all with any degree of certainty. He married Mary ———; children: i. John, ii. Joseph, iii. Samuel, iv. Elisabeth, v. Rachel, vi. Mary, vii. Alice, viii. Mercy. (The order in which their names are mentioned in his will).

iii. James# Cox,—b. Aug. 18, 1672; d. Oct. 14, 1750, described in his will as “James Cox, of Upper Freehold, in the County of Monmouth and Province of New Jersey, Gentleman.”

The title, so far as it has any special significance, is suggestive of a man in easy circumstances and of recognized social position, both of which conditions of gentility he appears to have met. Like his father and his elder brothers, he was a man of affairs. In property matters, his counsel appears to have been frequently sought and his judgment valued.

His political sympathies were with the people as opposed to the proprietaries. If he were not as active and outspoken as his brother John and others had been at the time of the outbreak at Middle-town, he was not less interested in the success of the popular movement.

When the rule of the Assembly had become intolerable and the titles of freeholders to their lands seemed likely to be called in question, the governing body were denounced as enemies to the country.

In 1707, an attempt was made to bring about the dissolution of the Assembly and to elect a new one. With this end in view a fund was raised, known as “the Blind Tack,” to which James Cox and his brother, Joseph, were liberal contributors.

Whatever may have been the outcome of that campaign, the rights of freeholders were ultimately assured and he lived for many years afterwards in peaceful possession of his estate at Upper Freehold, which passed at length, without a cloud upon its title, to his numerous family.

He was long identified with the Baptist Church and died at a good old age in the religious faith in which he had been reared. His body was interred in the family plot on his farm at Upper Freehold, where, as his will states, many of his kindred were buried. His own grave and the graves of two others are all of which any trace remains.

iv. Joseph Cox,—b. Sept. 15, 1679; d. between 1748 and 1750; one of the two children referred to by the administrator of his father's estate as being "very small" at the time of his father's death. Joseph increased in stature, however, as the years went on and when he arrived at man's estate, married Catharine, daughter of Thomas and Deborah (Grover) Shepherd.

This matrimonial alliance introduced him to one of the oldest families of the colony. Catharine Shepherd was a great grand-daughter of William Lawrence Sr., one of the founders of Middletown, who is said to have been a son of Sir Henry Lawrence, President of Cromwell's Council, and Amy Peyton, whose family afterwards became prominent in Virginia.

In 1706, Thomas Cooper, a London merchant and one of the twenty-four proprietors of East Jersey, conveyed one-half of his proprietorship, or one forty-eighth part of all the lands in the Eastern division of New Jersey, with the exception of 5000 acres, to thirteen persons, resident in the township of Middletown.

The name of Joseph Cox and that of his brother James, appears in the deed of conveyance among the grantees who thus came into possession of a very extensive and valuable tract of land. The consideration named in the deed was only £260, but even that sum, in hard cash, was no doubt, of more value to an enterprising London merchant than an untamed wilderness three thousand miles away. But whatever his point of view it is clear that the purchasers made an entirely safe and judicious investment. A year later, he became interested in the movement to dissolve the Assembly and to bring about a new election, and contributed £12 towards the fund, that was raised to further this object, his brother, James, contributing a liberal though somewhat smaller amount. How this money was used we are not informed. John Bowne who was the custodian of the fund, doubtless gave an account of his stewardship but was not required, apparently, to make public his disposition of the so-called "Blind Tack."

Thereafter his name occurs at intervals, in public records, for a period of forty years, chiefly in connection with the transfer of land, the witnessing of wills, and the recording of the ear mark with which his cattle were branded. The last conveyance that he is known to have made bears date of February 29, (?) 1747-8, when in consideration of £400 he gave to Matthias Johnson, his son-in-law, and Obadiah Bowne, yeomen, both of Middletown, a deed for certain property in Middletown, Shrewsbury and Barnegat, reserving as a burying ground for his posterity, one chain square, (in Middletown?) where his wife and children were buried. Reference is made in the same instrument, to land in Middletown which he had previously given to his son Thomas. That his death occurred soon after the above transaction, may be inferred from a town record of November 17, 1750, to the effect that "Matthias Johnson, Jr., used the ear mark of his grandfather, Joseph Cox," at that time, apparently, deceased; children: i. Thomas, ii. a daughter, wife of Matthias Johnson, and others whose names are not known.

THIRD Generation.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS² COX AND MARY———.

Catharine³ Cox, (Thomas³, Thomas¹),—b. Sept. 20, 1695; m. Cornelius Van Horn. She is said to have died within a year after her marriage.

As she and her son, Thomas, are both mentioned in the will of her father, February 16, 1722-3, her marriage probably occurred in 1722 and her death in the following year. Cornelius Van Horne afterwards married Elizabeth Lawrence by whom he had three children. He was appointed a member of the Governor's Council and took the oath of office and his seat in the Council, at Perth Amboy, August 25, 1727; children: i. Thomas.

ii. Mary³ Cox,—b. Nov. 5, 1696; m. prior to Feb. 16, 1722-3, Benjamin Lawrence, of Upper Freehold, son of William Lawrence, Sr., of Middletown; children: i. Elizabeth, ii. Joseph, iii. Mary.
iv. Thomas Cox,—b. June 23, 1700; d. June 5, 1783; m. (1) Rebecca, daughter of Thomas Potts, Jr., whose parents came from Hull, England, in October, 1678, in the ship, "Shield," the first vessel to drop anchor before Burlington. Her mother's maiden name was Mary Records.

The Potts family belonged to the Society of Friends, but appear to have had no great aversion to the intermarriage of their daughters with members of the Cox family of Upper Freehold, who were of the Baptist faith.

Thomas Cox, Jr., is mentioned among those who were present at the wedding of Thomas Potts, Jr., of Mansfield, and Sarah Beakes, of Chester, Burlington County, 29th day, 8th month, 1730, and signed the marriage certificate, which would seem to indicate that his own marriage had occurred prior to that time. He was named as one of the executors of his father-in-law who died in 1754. His wife apparently, was not living at the time, as no mention is made of her in her father's will. He afterwards married (2) Hannah Morford, a widow of Monmouth County; children: first marriage—i. John (?), ii. Mary, iii. Richard, iv. Thomas, v. Elizabeth, vi. Rebecca, second marriage—perhaps, vii. Phoenix, or Fenwick, viii. Mercy.

CHILDREN OF JOHN Cox AND MARY ————.

i. John Cox, (John², Thomas¹),—b. about 1696 (?); d. probably not earlier than 1768; mentioned in a deed, Dec. 5, 1737, as having inherited from his father, jointly with his brothers, Joseph and Samuel, a plantation in Upper Freehold, which, according to the terms of the will, was equally divided amongst them. On March 10, 1757, "diers valuable causes and considerations him thereunto moving, also £5 proclamation money," he conveyed a tract of 212 acres in Upper Freehold, together with 10 acres of meadow, on Empty box brook, to his son, John Cox, Minor, (Junior?). His wife, apparently, was not living, at the time. She was probably the Rachel Cox, wife of John, who died, 1750, aged, about 50 (buried in Upper Freehold).

Elizabeth Holman, who married John Cox, of Upper Freehold, 1768, (license, Jan. 1), may have been a second wife. The only child, of record, was John Cox, Minor, (or Junior), above named.

ii. Joseph Cox,—b. about 1698 (?); nothing known of him except that he shared equally with his brothers, John and Samuel, in the division of his father's plantation, after his death, in 1729. As his name drops out of the Upper Freehold records, it is probable that he removed from that neighborhood, early in life, perhaps to the adjoining county of Middlesex. The data given below, may perhaps, refer to him and his descendants.

Joseph Cox, of Middlesex Co., died intestate, about 1773.
ters of administration on his estate granted to Prudence Cox, (his widow?), Apr. 28, 1773.

John Chamberlain, of Middlesex Co., grandson of Joseph (and Prudence?) Cox, [and son of Thomas and Hannah (Cox) Chamberlain,]—Guardian appointed for him, 1790.

Joseph Cox,—of Middlesex Co., [son of Joseph and Elizabeth (Chamberlain) Cox?] had as his guardian, James Newell, appointed July 24, 1793.

Mary Cox, (Joseph, Joseph?),—m. Peter Jackson, 9th, 11th mo. 1797; both of Shrewsbury (Friends, apparently); witnesses—Jonathan Cox, Hannah Cox, Phebe Cox, Abigail Cox, etc.

Jonathan Cox, (Joseph, Joseph?),—m. ———; d. before Mar. 19, 1823; had son, William, who sold property in Stafford Twp., Mar. 6, 1828.

iii. Samuel Cox,—b. about 1700 (?); joint heir, with brothers, John and Joseph, to the above named plantation in Upper Freehold, left them by their father, John Cox, who died, 1729; sold his share, 5 Dec. 1737, for £300; described in conveyance as “Cordwainer,” (saddler, or shoemaker), residence, Upper Freehold; wife, Ann, party to conveyance; no further record of him in Upper Freehold.

Samuel Cox, perhaps the same man, was a member of the Baptist Church, Hightstown, 1745-1785; dismissed from Hightstown,—date of transfer and to what church dismissed, not stated.

Other names from the Hightstown records:

John Cox was a trustee of the church, 1786.

Samuel Cox and wife Margaret, of Middlesex Co., conveyed 31 acres of land in Upper Freehold, Apr. 1, 1801,—“the widow, Molly Cox, mother of said Samuel, her right of dower excepted.”

Samuel Cox, on same day, bought a lot in the Southward of New Brunswick, of Isaac Snowden, the elder.

iv. Elizabeth Cox,—Monmouth Co.; m. Richard Compton, Jr.; license, Jan. 15, 1727 (?).

vi. Mary Cox,—Monmouth Co.; m. William Enelman; license, Apr. 28, 1729 (?).

viii. Mercy Cox,—Upper Freehold; m. Ephraim Robins; license, Apr. 21, 1746 (?).

Children of James Cox and Anne ———.

i. James Cox, Jr., (James, Thomas),—b. about 1698 or earlier; d. 1753, leaving a widow, Elizabeth, five sons—two by his first wife—besides daughters referred to in will, but not named; brother-in-law, Thomas Fenton, Jr., an executor; personal estate appraised by Joseph Robins, at £152:11, including “a Palatine boy” valued at £11, the latter probably an indentured servant; value of realty not given:
taxed on 300 acres, in Upper Freehold, 1731; married at least twice; last wife, Elizabeth (Fenton?); Hannah Robins who m. James Cox, Monmouth Co., license Nov. 1, 1745, may have been his wife; if so, a previous marriage must have occurred to account for his large family; children: i. Nathaniel, ii. John, iii. a daughter, iv. a daughter, v. a daughter; second or third marriage—vi. Thomas, vii. Isaac, viii. Elisha; the last three under age, in 1753.

ii. Elizabeth Cox,—b. 1700; d. 1796. When a child, she planted the box bushes at the old home in Upper Freehold. They grew very large and suggested the name, "Box Grove," by which the place was afterwards known. She married ——— Ansley. Thomas Ansley, of Monmouth Co., who married Rebecca Cocke (Cox?), 1760, and Elizabeth Ansley who married Jacob Morris, both of Monmouth Co., 1765, may have been her children.

iii. Thomas Cox,—name on Upper Freehold tax list 1731; assessed on 120 acres; record book of Baptist Church, Middletown states that Thomas Cox, one of its members died, about 1733 or 1734; m. ———; children: i. Mary, ii. Dinah, iii. John.

iv. John Cox,—b. 1710; d. May 4, 1788; buried in the church yard of the old Yellow Meeting House near Cream Ridge; m. Mary daughter of Thomas Potts, Jr., and Mary Records, of Burlington Co., a sister of Rebecca Potts, who married his cousin, Thomas Cox. From his father he inherited a considerable estate, which, together with property otherwise acquired, made him a man of wealth. His wife survived him and died, about 1800, at the age of 96; children: i. John, b. 1738, d. Nov. 26, 1739; ii. Catharine, iii. James, iv. Joshua, b. 1747, d. 1759; v. William, vi. Mary.

v. Joseph Cox,—commonly known as "Judge Joseph"; b. Aug. 18, 1713; d. Apr. 17, 1801; m. Mary, b. May 31, 1715, d. Nov. 24, 1800, daughter of Thomas Mount, of Shrewsbury; described as "a farmer, in easy circumstances, of unblemished character, of strong mind and highly respected:" honored no man because he was rich; never ashamed of honest labor; reading the Bible aloud, one of the delights of his old age. One of his grandsons refers to his fine and venerable appearance and to that of his wife, who was in no respect his inferior and who, he thinks, must have been beautiful in her earlier years. [From the Life of Hon. S. S. Cox, by W. V. Cox and M. H. Northrup].

The wealth that he left to his children was not insignificant, although, when divided by ten, it could scarcely have gone far; but their lives were enriched by the nobler heritage of a godly character and an untarnished name; children: i. Catharine, ii. Margaret, b. June 17, 1738, d. Apr. 8, 1740; iii. William, b. July 5, 1740, d. May, 1759; iv. Thomas, v. Ann, vi. Asher, vii. Joseph, viii. Samuel, ix. James, x. Esekiel, xi. Mary.

viii. Dorothy Cox,—m. William Hartshorne; buried in the private plot, on her father's farm; her tombstone one of the three that remain there; children: i. William, d. at age of 22; buried at Cox's Corners.
ix. Rebecca Cox,—perhaps identical with Rebecca Cocke, who married Thomas Ansley, of Monmouth Co.; license, Nov. 1, 1760.

x. Ann Cox,—m. ———— Jewell; d. before 1747; referred to in her father's will, as Ann Jewell; left four daughters, all provided for in said will, but names not mentioned.

CHILDREN OF JOSEPH Cox AND CATHERINE SHEPHERD.

i. Thomas Cox, (Joseph Cox, Thomas Cox),—b. 1713; m. 1735, Rebecca Shepherd, perhaps a cousin.

His father, in conveying certain parcels of land, at Middletown, Shrewsbury, and Barnegat, Feb. 29, 1747-8, to Matthias Johnson, his son-in-law, and Obadiah Bowne, who may have been also a son-in-law, both described as yeomen, of Middletown, includes, as he says, "what I formerly gave to my son, Thomas Cox." How the property which he had given to his son, happened to revert to him, we are not informed.

In 1767, Thomas Cox was living, with his family, at Upper Freehold, on a place which belonged, at the time, to his son, Joseph Cox, of Hunterdon Co., who provided in his will, executed in that year, that his parents should be allowed to remain there as long as they lived.

From these records it may be inferred that Thomas Cox, through some fault or misfortune, had lost his patrimony and was living in his later life, in somewhat reduced circumstances. He was probably the Thomas Cooper Cox, whose name appears on the tax list of Upper Freehold in 1758, as the owner, at that time, of four acres of land.

Thomas Cooper, it will be remembered, was a London merchant, one of the original proprietors, of whom Joseph Cox, his father, with twelve others, had bought about 5,000 acres of land in East Jersey, in 1706. Thomas Cox was very probably named for him, although the middle name Cooper was not often used in designating him. It is quite likely also that he was the Thomas Cox who was disciplined by the Baptist Church, for absenting himself from public worship and reflecting on the minister, John Coward, for whom he appears to have had no great regard. If so, his life was not blameless, but it is to his credit that he afterwards acknowledged his fault and was restored to church fellowship "on Monday the 22 day of August 1765, at freehold Meeting house."

The date of his death and the place of his burial are not known, but it is probable that his remains were interred in the family plot at Middletown, which his father had reserved as a burial place for his posterity; children: i. Joseph, ii. Catharine, vii. Deborah, viii. John, and probably four others, at least, Deborah being the seventh child.

ii. ———— Cox,—daughter of Joseph Cox and Catharine (Shepherd) Cox; m. Matthias Johnson; son, Matthias, Jr.

FOURTH GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS³ COX AND REBECCA POTTES.

i. John⁴ Cox, (Thomas⁴, Thomas³, Thomas¹),—probably d. young.

v. Elizabeth⁴ Cox,—m ———- Morris (?); Thomas Cox, Mary Coward and Elizabeth Morris, named as co-heirs of Thomas Cox, in quit claim deed, 1798.

vii. Phoenix³ Cox,—given name sometimes spelled, Fenwicke, and Phencck; a native of Monmouth Co.; b. Mar. 10, 1755; d. May 17, 1813; enrolled among the N. J. militia, 1776, though not in active service; removed, 1786, to Charleston, Saratoga Co., N. Y., where other families from Upper Freehold, including some of his own relatives had previously located; some doubt as to his parentage, but supposed to have been a son of Thomas³ Cox, of Upper Freehold, and Hannah Morford, his second wife, and identical with Phenck Cox, as he signed his name in a quit claim deed, Nov. 10, 1794, in which he is named, along with Richard Cox and Mary [Cox] Coward, as one of the heirs of Thomas Cox, late of Upper viii. Mercy Cox,—b. about 1758; parentage not positively known; perhaps a daughter of Thomas and Hannah (Morford) Cox; a cousin, according to family tradition, of Chloe (Cox) Taylor; m. Edward Kelly, said to have come from a Scotch family which went to New England, and from there to New Jersey, (Trenton, Bordentown, or vicinity); was living, with her husband, in Newark, N. J., 1787; removed, 1793, to Charlton, N. Y.; were three weeks going up the Hudson River in a sailing vessel; afterwards removed to East Line, Saratoga Co.; children; i. John, ii. Hannah, iii. Edward W., iv. Samuel.

John Cox, Minor, [or Junior] (John, John, Thomas),—son of John and (?) Rachel Cox; had deed from his father for 222 acres, Upper Freehold, 1757; m. Margaret Morris; license, Oct. 29, 1769.

All named in conveyance of property, as also, Thomas Chamberlain, husband of Hannah.

Ann Cox,—of Upper Freehold; perhaps a daughter of Samuel and Ann Cox; m. Zachariah Coulter, of New Windsor, Middlesex, (now Mercer) Co.; license, Dec. 25, 1759.

John Cox, of Penn’s Neck, (? Samuel, John, Thomas),—b. 1744; d. 1809; believed to have been a son of Samuel and Ann Cox, originally of Upper Freehold who appear to have removed to the neighborhood of Hightstown; lived, for a number of years, at Penn’s Neck, township of West Windsor, now in Mercer Co.; married, about 1769, Maria, daughter of Albert G. Schenck, of Penn’s Neck; name on tax list, Windsor township, 1785; one of his father-in-law’s executors, 1786; Trustee, Baptist Church, Hightstown, same year; on Township Committee, West Windsor, 1798; sold his property in West Windsor, 1801, and bought of Joshua M. Wallace, of Burlington, a farm of 356 acres in Bridgewater Township, Somerset Co., on the north side of the Raritan River, where the remainder of his life was spent. This farm belonged at one time to Lord Neil Campbell and, later, to Cornelius Low. His son, Albert S. Cox, and Dr. Samuel Swan, were appointed administrators of his personal estate and, by special act of the Legislature, Feb. 1.
1812, authority was granted to sell his realty, and Dickinson Miller, John Brokaw, and Samuel Voorhees were appointed trustees for that purpose. They conveyed the property, soon after, to his sons, Robert and Gideon, who had previously lived as tenants on the farm; children: i. Sarah, ii. Zachariah, iii. William, iv. Albert Schenck, v. Robert, vi. Gideon, vii. Job, viii. Hetty.

CHILDREN OF JAMES Cox, JR., AND ————, HIS FIRST WIFE.

i. Nathaniel Cox, (James, Jr., James, Thomas),—the first named in his father's will; probably the eldest son; b. between 1720 and 1730. The following records appear to refer to him: Nathaniel Cox, assessed on 20 acres, Upper Freehold, 1758; m. (1) Rachel Vahan—license, Feb. 18, 1761, (2) [?]. Mary Evans—license, Dec. 19, 1772; letters of administration, estate of Nathaniel Cox, late of Monmouth, to Mary Cox, Mar. 15, 1791; Mary, widow of Nathaniel Cox, conveyed to William Cox, 30 acres, Upper Freehold, Apr. 22, 1793.

Mrs. Samuel C. Merwin, of Glen Ridge, N. J., a descendant of Nathaniel and Mary Cox, has in her possession, an old brown sampler, made by Ann Cox, one of their daughters, when a girl of sixteen, on which the names of the family have been wrought in needle work, together with birthdates of the children, viz.:

[No record found of children of Nathaniel and Rachel (Vahan) Cox.]

ii. John Cox,—referred to in his father's will, as one of the children of the first marriage.

CHILDREN OF JOHN Cox AND MARY POTTS.

ii. Catharine Cox, (John, James, Thomas),—b. about 1740; second wife of Benjamin Loxley, of Philadelphia, captain of Artillery, in the Revolution, afterwards, Colonel; m. 1761, license, Sept. 1, Col. Loxley b. in England, 1720; came to America, 1734; Keeper of the King's Stores, Philadelphia, at the outbreak of the Revolution; resigned, and enlisted in the cause of independence; a personal friend of Franklin and of Washington, with whose army he shared the hardships of the bitter winter, at Valley Forge; his property in Philadelphia destroyed by the British and a reward offered for his capture; she, "an amiable and pious woman," and lived to a very advanced age; her husband died at Darby, Pa., Oct. 1801; children: i. Elisabeth, b. and d. 1761; ii. Mary, b. 1763, d. 1767; iii. Jane, iv. John, b. and d. 1767; v. Catharine, b. and d. 1768; vi. Stephen, b. and d. 1769; vii. Elisabeth, viii. Ann; ix. Catharine, x. George V.

iii. James Cox,—b. 1746; d. 1805; a farmer, in easy circumstances; lived about a mile and a half from Box Grove, the home of his cousin, Gen. James Cox; perhaps, the James Cox who served in the Revolution, as "wagon maister", or conductor of a team brigade ranking as Captain; one of the executors of his father's will, 1788, the others being his brother, William, Elisha Lawrence and Edward Taylor, all of Upper Freehold; m. Elizabeth ———, probably, Elizabeth Cox; license, Feb. 95, 1769. According to a well authenticated family tradition, she was one of the ladies who served at a banquet given by some of the officers of the Continental army, after the battle of Monmouth. She brought to the feast some wine of her own making, which, because of a scarcity of dishes, she poured into a tea pot belonging to La Fayette, which he had brought with him from France. He was so well pleased with the wine that he presented her with the tea pot which is still in possession of the family. It is said to be in excellent condition and is one of their most valued heirlooms. Children: i. Joshua, ii. Abel, iii. Elisha, iv. Benjamin, v. Charles (?). No daughters mentioned.

v. William4 Cox,—b. Apr. 12, 1749; d. Mar. 14, 1826; m. (1) Elizabeth ———, b. 1756, d. July 5, 1811, a worthy woman and a member of the Baptist Church, Upper Freehold; no children of this marriage. Late in life he married (2) Mary (?) ———, by whom “he had four children to inherit the property, greatly to the disappointment of his brother’s eldest son (Joshua?) to whom it was otherwise entailed.” [Rev. S. J. Cox]. He is said to have been somewhat eccentric, but honest, generous and kind. His farm adjoined that of Gen. James Cox, whose family and his own were on terms of friendly intercourse; children: i. Henry T., ii. John C., iii. William (?), iv. a daughter.

vi. Mary4 Cox,—b. about 1751; d. about 1798 (?); m. Mar. 4, 1770, Robert Jones, an English sea captain, afterwards an officer in the U. S. Navy; marriage recorded in register of First Baptist Church, Philadelphia. Her husband lost most of his property through an unfortunate land speculation in the interior of Pennsylvania. She was a woman “with some singularity of character,” but a zealous and devout Christian; children: i. Robert, ii. Mary, iii. Samuel, iv. a child. All died before their parents.

CHILDREN OF JOSEPH8 COX AND MARY MOUNT.

iv. Thomas4 Cox,—b. Oct. 15, 1742; d. June 17, 1782; calls himself, in his will, an unworthy Deacon of the Baptist Church, Upper Freehold, to which he bequeathed £15; m. Deborah Taylor, d. May 20, 1782, in her 34th year, sister of Edward, Lawrence, and Mehitable Taylor, (the latter, m. Richard Kinnan); license, Nov. 4, 1767; children—i. Thomas, d. before 1782; ii. Lewis, d. June 24, 1774 aged 4 years, 6 months.

vi. Asher4 Cox,—b. Nov. 8, 1746; d. Mar. 17, 1812; lived on a part of his father’s farm, at Upper Freehold, which he afterwards viii. Samuel Cox,—b. Mar. 2, 1750; d. Oct. 30, 1785; said to have served four years in Congress, but no record of such service appears; perhaps a member of the Legislature; m. Priscilla Holmes, of a respectable and wealthy family, of Holmesburg, Philadelphia Co., Pa.; license, Oct. 9, 1775; children: i. Enoch, ii. Jane, iii. Hannah, iv. Mary.

ix. Gen. James Cox,—b. Oct. 16, 1753; d. Sept. 12, 1810; remarkable as a young man, for mental and physical vigor; enlisted at the beginning of the Revolution, as a private in the First N. J. Regiment; chosen, First Lieutenant of his company, soon afterwards; took part in a number of engagements, including the battles of Germantown, and Monmouth; became a Major of Militia, at the close of the war; subsequently advanced by the Legislature, to the rank of Brigadier General; in command of the Monmouth Brigade, until his death. He was elected, repeatedly, to various local offices, and in 1801, was made a member of the N. J. Assembly, to which he was re-elected, from time to time, for seven years; chosen Speaker of the Assembly, during his third term, and continued to serve in that capacity, while he remained in the Legislature; elected to Congress in 1808 and died, suddenly, of apoplexy in 1810 before completing his term of service.

His grandson, Hon. Samuel S. Cox, thus refers to him in an address delivered in Monmouth County, in 1868:

"He was an honest, just, courteous, courageous and fearless Democratic champion. He was the warm friend of Jefferson and the devoted advocate of Madison. He believed in the Democratic rules of interpreting the constitution. His hatred of restraints upon personal and soul liberty, his diatribes against the alien and sedition laws, his steadfast dislike of Englishmen and English policy have been handed down as heirlooms." On February 29, 1776, he married Ann Potts, born February 13, 1757, died March 21, 1815—daughter of William Potts, of Burlington County, N. J., whose grandfather, Thomas Potts, came from England in the ship, Shield, in 1678. Her mother, was Amy, youngest daughter of Joseph Borden, founder of Bordentown, N. J., and sister of Col. Joseph Borden, of the Revolutionary army. Thomas Mc Kean, of Delaware, afterwards Governor of Pennsylvania, and Francis Hopkinson, of New Jersey, both signers of the Declaration of Independence, married her sisters. Thus, through his marriage, he was brought into intimate social relations with families that were distinguished for their patriotism and prominently identified with the cause of the Colonies.
Gen. Cox was not only a public spirited but a profoundly religious man. In early life he had made an open avowal of the Christian faith and, for thirty-four years, was a consistent member of the Baptist Church of which he was also an officer. He died at his home in Upper Freehold and was buried with his fathers, in the cemetery of the Old Yellow Meeting House at Cream Ridge.

xi. Mary Cox,—b. Sept. 2, 1760; d. Dec. 10, 1779; said to have been remarkable for her beauty; m. William Snowden, afterward Judge Snowden, of Bordentown, N. J.; no children.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS Cox AND REBECCA SHEPHERD.

i. Joseph Cox, (Thomas, Joseph, Thomas)—b. about 1736; d. 1768. His wife's name was Sarah as appears from the family record; surname not given. Possibly she was Sarah Haines who married Joseph Cox, of Burlington Co., license, Aug. 31, 1761. He was a mill-wright, by trade, and lived, during the latter part of his life, in the township of Readington, Hunterdon Co.; his will, executed in Readington, Dec. 17, 1767; probated, Tewksbury, N. J., Mar. 16, 1768. The original document, bearing his signature and the signatures of Samuel Williams, Peter Sutfin, and Samuel Barclay, witnesses, and of John Ten Brook and John Bray, Executors, is on file in the office of the Secretary of State, at Trenton. It disposes of the property in Readington, where he lived and of lands in Upper Freehold, Monmouth Co., where his parents were living, at the time, and provides that they shall remain in undisturbed possession of the same, during their natural lives, but that the property shall ultimately revert to his son, Thomas, for whose benefit also, the proceeds from the sale of his Readington place were to be set aside and safely invested until he should come of age. In the event of his death, prior to that time, he directs that the Upper Freehold property be divided equally between his wife, his mother, and his two sisters, "Debrow and Catrine."

To his loving wife, Sarah Cox, he generously bequeaths "all that she has had from her parents since she was my wife," which may mean simply, the return of the dowry which she had brought to him at her marriage, and to which she was justly entitled; children: i. Thomas, an only child.
Old Yellow Meeting House, Upper Freehold, N. J., and Burying Ground in which are many Cox graves, Parsonage in background
ii. Catharine Cox,—mentioned in the will of her brother, Joseph, as living in Upper Freehold, 1767.

vii. Deborah Cox,—b. Jan. 12, 1747; d. Oct. 13, 1793. In the marriage record, made by her husband, she is said to have been the seventh child of Thomas Cox and Rebecca Shepherd, who was the fourth child of Thomas Shepherd and Deborah Grover. He describes himself as “Thomas, b. 1739, son of Connor, son of John Mc Curtan, of Doon, Ireland.” They were married, Jan. 21, 1771. She had been brought up in the Baptist faith and was at one time, a member of the church at Upper Freehold, but after her marriage, embraced the religion of her husband and became a Roman Catholic.

McCurtain was a schoolmaster. He taught at Mount Holly, N. J., and, later, in Philadelphia, where both he and his wife died of small pox, he, on the 23rd of September, and she, Oct. 13, 1793. The following entry appears in his diary, under date of Apr. 4, 1785: “I opened school at the Northern Liberties, Philadelphia.” He was, apparently, a man of excellent education; children: i. Marianne, ii. John Alexander, iii. Anne, b. 1781, d. 1783.

viii. John Cox,—b. about 1762; d. about 1778. Nothing is known of him beyond the tradition which is given as related by a descendant of his sister, Deborah (Cox) McCurtain. When a lad of sixteen, he enlisted in the Revolutionary army; was with Washington, at Valley Forge, 1777-8; desiring to go home, and failing to obtain a leave of absence, he went without permission, with one of his companions, and was afterwards, shot as a deserter. His mother, as the story goes, pleaded, with tears, for the life of her boy, but in vain. Washington was relentless and unmoved by the extenuating circumstances which might have influenced a less rigid disciplinarian. If the facts were as stated, it is little wonder that the heartbroken mother was never quite able to forgive the Commander-in-Chief for approving what appeared to her a cruel and unnecessary sentence. Before condemning Washington, however, it would be interesting to know whether the tradition can be substantiated by documentary or other evidence.

Fifth Generation.

Children of Richard Cox and Mercy Taylor.

ii. Rebecca Cox,—b. July 5, 1753; d. Feb. 1792; m. Sept. 1, 1778, Rev. John Pitman, b. 1751; d. July 24, 1822; a Baptist clergyman, pastor for a time, of the Church at Upper Freehold. They lived for a year at Allentown, N. J., and afterwards removed to Providence, Rhode Island, where the remainder of her days was spent; children: i. Rebecca Cox, ii. John, iii. Elizabeth, iv. Mary; all living, May 4, 1802. (See Monmouth Co. Deeds).

iii. Major Richard Cox,—b. Jan. 3, 1755; d. Mar. 9, 1816. At the outbreak of the Revolution, he entered the army and in 1780, became a Captain in the 3rd N. J. regiment, under the command of Col. Elias Dayton; afterwards promoted to the rank of Major; remained in the army until the close of the war and then engaged in mercantile pursuits; a member of the firm of Cox and Davison, of Mount Holly, N. J.; the old grist mill in that town, still standing a few years ago, built by them, in 1796. He also built the brick house, east of the old Farmers' Bank; entered, later, into a business partnership, under the firm name of Cox and Shreve, which continued until the death of Mr. Shreve, in 1815; was prominently identified with the Society of the Cincinnati, in New Jersey, and served as treasurer of the organization for many years, until his death; married Jane, daughter of Dr. Alexander Ross, of Philadelphia, a Surgeon of note, in the Revolutionary army. Harriet Ross, a twin sister of Jane, married his younger brother, John; children: i. Kitty Vaughn, ii. Rebecca, iii. Marion Hannah, iv. Elisa H.

v. Mary Cox,—b. Oct. 13, 1757; m. John Morford, of Freehold, a saddler and harness maker and a soldier in the Revolutionary War. He was one of the administrators of his father-in-law’s estate, the other being Richard Cox, his brother-in-law, presumably, better known as Major Richard. He died in 1817, at which time, his wife was still living. Their house in Freehold stood, originally, on the site of the building which, in 1885, was the parsonage of the Reformed Church; children: i. a son, b. 1783.

viii. John Cox,—b. Feb. 7, 1770; removed to Woodford Co., Ky., where he died at the age of 93.

Children of Thomas Cox and Sarah Kinnan.

ii. Elizabeth Cox,—b. Nov. 12, 1757; d. before 1815; m. Dey, probably David Dey, mentioned in inventory of property of
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

Sarah Cox, Jan. 2, 1815; Elizabeth Dey, referred to, in her mother's will, as deceased; her daughter inherited her share of estate; children: four daughters, names not given.

xi. Mary⁶ Cox,—twin sister of Joshua; m. ——— Read.

CHILDREN OF MERCY⁴ COX AND EDWARD KELLY.

ii. Hannah Kelly,—unm.; buried at Clifton Park, N. Y.

iii. Edward W. Kelly,—b. 1793; unm.

iv. Samuel Kelly,—m. Amanda Faxon; buried at Clifton Park, N. Y.; two children, d. young.

CHILDREN OF JOHN Cox AND MARIA SCHENCK.

iv. Albert Schenck Cox,—b. Dec. 23, 1780; d. Jan. 2, 1853; m. Margaret, daughter of Abraham and Sarah (Stout) Runkle, b. June 7, 1785, d. Mar. 22, 1869. The Runkles lived in Hunterdon Co., near the present village of Annandale. After his marriage, he lived for some years in Somerville; in 1813, bought of Daniel Doty, 46½ acres of land, known as the old parsonage lot, a part of which is now occupied by the N. J. Central R. R. station; sold the property, ten years later, to Col. Isaac Southard and bought 150 acres, elsewhere, in Bridgewater Township, which he also sold, soon after; removed to the neighborhood of Flemington; bought a large farm to the west of that village, where the remainder of his life was spent; elected, Overseer of Roads, for Raritan Township, Hunterdon Co., Apr. 9, 1838, at the first meeting held after the organization of the township; buried with his wife in the Presbyterian graveyard at Flemington; children: i. Abraham Runkle, ii. Dickinson Miller, iii. Peter Schenck, iv. Sarah M.

v. Robert Cox,—b. about 1782; d. 1850; m. Apr. 11, 1811, Magdalen Van Middlesworth; after his father's death, in 1809, remained, with his brother, Gideon, a tenant on the farm, until 1812, when the property was sold to them by the trustees of the estate; name appears on records of the First Reformed (Dutch) Church of Raritan (Somerville), in connection with the baptism of his children; he himself, "unbaptized," a circumstance which appears to indicate that he had been brought up in the Baptist faith, as were most of the early members of the Cox family of Monmouth Co., to which he undoubtedly belonged; children: i. Maria, ii. Jane, iii. Garret Probasco, iv. Tunis V. M.

vi. Gideon Cox,—b. about 1784; remained with his brother, Robert, on his father's farm, after his death, and became, with Robert, a joint purchaser of the property in 1812; was living in the neighborhood of North Branch, N. J., about 1856.

vii. John Cox,—b. about 1786; m. Apr. 19, 1812, Nancy Nesbitt; bought, May 18, 1812, of Matthias Ten Eyck, 125 acres of land on the North Branch of the Raritan River, for $3,434.50; removed to LeRoy, Genesee Co., N. Y., where he was living in 1817.

viii. Hetty Cox,—m. Charrick Rosenkrantz, Apr. 19, 1810.
(Somerset Co. Mar. Records.)

CHILDREN OF NATHANIEL  COX AND MARY (EVANS ?)

i. Meribah Cox, (Nathaniel, James, James, Thomas),—b.
  Upper Freehold, Jan. 11, 1773; conveyed property, Jan. 21, 1801, to Nathaniel Cox, her brother, son of Nathaniel Cox, of Upper Freehold, deceased.

ii. Letitia Cox,—b. July 20, 1775; m. Richard Mason; both names appear in the above named conveyance.

iii. Nathaniel Cox,—b. Jan. 21, 1778; d. about 1814; estate inventoried at $2,880.93, May 25, 1814, by Thomas Cox and William Andrews, appraisers. The following names, among others, appear in the inventory: William Cox, deceased, William Cox, Corner, (Cow's Corner), James Cox, mill-wright, Joshua Cox, James N.
  Cox, Richard Cox, Elizabeth Cox, John Cox, and Joseph Taylor;
  m. Mary Andrese (?); [Nathaniel Cox m. (1) Mary Andrese

In a decree in Chancery, Oct. 14, 1825, Nathaniel Cox, Almira
are mentioned among the heirs of Nathaniel Cox; also, Elizabeth Davison and Deborah Davison, all of whom, with the exception of Nathaniel and Ann, are described as infants. It is known that Nathaniel Cox had three daughters of whom Almira was one. The other two were probably, Ann and Mary, mentioned in the decree.
He is also said to have had a daughter, Elizabeth, who may have been the mother of Elizabeth and Deborah Davison.

iv. Ann Cox,—b. July 29, 1780; m. James Snedeker, of Middlesex Co.; license, Oct. 14, 1798. It was she who made the brown sampler, with the family record wrought in needle work. (See, p. a daughter, m. Conover; vi. James, vii. Rachel, viii. Florence Em-bley, and three others.

CHILDREN OF CATHERINE COX AND BENJAMIN LOXLEY.

iii. Jane Loxley, (Catharine Cox, John, John, Thomas),—b.
  1765; d. 1847; m. 1790, Samuel Clark, b. 1756, d. 1824; a wealthy shipping merchant, of Philadelphia.

vii. Elizabeth Loxley,—b. 1770; d. 1863; m. Captain Lloyd Jones, who commanded a ship belonging to his brother-in-law and his brother, Clark and Jones, until he was able to obtain a vessel of his own. Her husband's brother, William Jones, was a member of Congress, from Philadelphia, and Secretary of the Navy, under Madison. Through his influence, Captain Jones was appointed to the command of the vessel which conveyed the American Commissioners, first to St. Petersburg, and then to Ghent, to negotiate the treaty of peace with Great Britain, in 1814. His health was undermined by exposure, during a winter cruise in the Baltic. He died in Philadelphia; his remains, deposited in the Loxley family vault.

viii. Ann Loxley,—b. 1775; d. 1849; a devoted and zealous member of the Baptist Church; m. 1796, Rev. Morgan John Rhees, b. 1760, d. 1804, a Baptist minister from Wales and a man of very considerable intellectual ability. He was at the head of an unfortunate land speculation in Cambria Co., Pa., so called from Cambria, the ancient name of Wales, his native land. He afterwards removed to Somerset Co., Pa., where he held the office of Prothonotary, and there died. She afterwards returned to Philadelphia, and lived until her death in Loxley’s Court; children: i. John Loxley, ii. Benjamin Rush, M. D., iii. Morgan John, iv. Elizabeth Jones, v. Mary Ann, vi. ii. Charity Cox,—b. about 1777; mentioned in the will of her grandfather, Joseph Cox, Jan. 28, 1786; m. Joseph Cook; lived near Long Branch, N. J.

CHILDREN OF SAMUEL Cox AND PRISCILLA HOLMES.

i. Enoch Cox, (Samuel, Joseph, James, Thomas),—b. about 1776; died a young man in Augusta, Georgia.

ii. Jane Cox,—b. about 1778; an estimable woman; for many years a member of the Baptist Church; in her youth celebrated for her beauty, much resembling her grandmother Cox; m. Hon. James J. Wilson, editor for many years of "The True American," of Trenton, a man of extraordinary talents and of wide political influence. He held, in succession, the offices of Surrogate, Clerk of the Assembly, member of the Assembly, Adjutant General of the State, and United States Senator from New Jersey. At the time of his death he was Postmaster of Trenton. A strong attachment, social and political, existed between him and Gen. James Cox, whose sons, Samuel and Ezekiel, were placed with him to learn the printing business and lived, for a time, in his family. He died poor, but his children, of whom there were several, appear to have inherited his ability, and are said to have been highly intelligent.

iii. Mary Cox,—though less beautiful than her sister, she was more intellectual; a woman of many virtues and of deep religious experience. She married Rev. Edward Welch, who afterwards became a Baptist minister, and died in Trumbull County, Ohio, before 1848, leaving a family of children.

iv. Hannah Cox,— unm.; was living with her sister, Mrs. Wilson, in 1849; long a member of the Methodist Church.

CHILDREN OF GEN. JAMES Cox AND ANN POTTS.

i. William Cox, (James, Joseph, James, Thomas),—b. Mar. 27, 1777; d. July 28, 1803; m. (?) Sarah Potts; daughter, Virginia; m. William Marston.

iii. Lewis Cox,—b. April 27, 1780; d. Apr. 3, 1835; m. Elizabeth, only child of James and Mary (Rogers) Lawrence, and a cousin of Captain James Lawrence, of the United States Navy, whose dying words, "Don't give up the Ship," uttered as he was borne from the deck of the Chesapeake, have become immortal. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Boggs, on the evening of January 14, 1807. His widow survived him for many years, and died June 3, 1861, in the 76th year of her age. Children: i. James Lawrence, ii. George Willocks, iii. Mary Lawrence, iv. Ann Potts, v. Lewis, vi. Benjamin Yard, vii. William, b. Sept. 5, d. Sept. 14, 1822; viii. Samuel J., b. Aug. 3, 1823, d. Nov. 18, 1841.

v. Amy Cox,—b. 1783; d. Mar. 29, 1830; m. Jacob Vandeveer, of Mount Holly, N. J.

vi. Mary Cox,—twin sister of Amy; m. Rev. David Bateman, a Baptist minister, of Hunterdon County; children: i. Emma V., who went to Ohio; m. ———— Cary, and had one child, Edward R. Cary, m. and d. in Des Moines, Iowa; no children.

viii. Rev. Samuel Jones Cox,—b. Nov. 2, 1789; d. Zanesville, Ohio, Aug. 23, 1870; was employed for a time when a young man in the office of "The True American," in Trenton, making his home with the editor, Hon. James J. Wilson, who had married his cousin, a daughter of Samuel Cox, his father's brother. He afterwards became a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church and belonged to the Philadelphia Conference. In 1848 he wrote a clear and succinct history of the Cox family, of Monmouth County, the manuscript of which has been preserved and copied, although it has never been put in type. Much of the information set forth in this volume has been derived from that source; m. Hannah Lodge; children: i. Lavinia, ii. a child, name not given; had a granddaughter of the name of Parrish.

xi. Hon. Ezekiel Taylor Cox,—b. May 25, 1795; d. May 18, 1873. With his brother Samuel he was sent to Trenton at an early age to learn the printing business, and acquired a valuable experience through his association with Hon. James J. Wilson, editor of "The True American," and for many years a prominent figure in the political world. His business aptitude, together with his studious habits and strict probity, commended him to Mr. Wilson, who rewarded him by giving him an interest in his paper. Later he was appointed by the Legislature, State Printer of New Jersey. He removed subsequently to Ohio, at that time one of the frontier States, settled at Zanesville and became editor and publisher of "The Muskingum Messenger," an influential Jacksonian organ. For many years he was active and prominent in public affairs, serving success-ively as Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, Clerk of the Supreme Court and Recorder of Muskingum County. In 1831 he was elected to the State Senate and during his term was instrumental in securing an appropriation for slack water navigation between Zanesville and Dresden. In 1833 he established the first steam paper mill west of the Alleghanies. Some years later he was appointed United States Marshal, an office which involved much disagreeable experience in connection with the execution of the slave laws. Although opposed to slavery, he did not shrink from the duty of arresting a runaway, in spite of angry threats and at the risk of his life. In consequence of this he was expelled from the Market Street Baptist Church, of which he was, at the time, a deacon. For a few years, in his later life, he was engaged in business in Washington, but returned to Ohio, where, on April 8, 1872, he celebrated the 50th anniversary of his marriage to Maria Matilda, daughter of Judge Samuel Sullivan and Mary Freeman. She was a woman of strong character, loved and honored by all who knew her, and with a reputation for quick wit and repartee. She survived her husband for twelve years and died April 3, 1885, at the age of 84; children: i. Thomas Jefferson, ii. Samuel Sullivan, iii. Lavinia, m. ——— Sedgwick; iv. Eliza, v. Alexander, a lawyer of some note; vi. Maria Matilda, m. ——— Van Rensselaer; vii. Ezekiel Taylor, viii. Angelina, ix. Edwin, x. Augustus, xi. Elizabeth Miles, xii. Mary Sullivan, xiii. a child.

xii. Rev. Morgan Rhee6 Cox,—b. Nov 27, 1798; d. Jan. 11, 1881. In early life he worked at a trade in Philadelphia; in 1822, m. Mary, daughter of Jonathan Rittenhouse and Delilah Bray, a daughter of Gen. Daniel Bray, of Hunterdon County, N. J.; ordained to the Baptist ministry in 1827 and became pastor of the church at Mount Bethel, Somerset County, where he remained until 1848; served Baptist Churches in Cape May and Middlesex Counties, and in 1860, on account of failing health, retired from the active ministry and removed to Sandy Ridge, Hunterdon County, where he died; children: i. Ann, ii. Mary Elizabeth, b. 1835, d. 1901, unm.; iii. James Morgan

THOMAS Cox, of Readington, N. J., (Joseph⁴, Thomas⁴, Joseph², Thomas¹),—only child of Joseph and Sarah Cox; b. in the town of Readington, Hunterdon Co., N. J., Feb. 28, 1765; d. June, 1805, according to the family record, May 13, 1805, according to a statement which appears in the inventory of his personal estate, on file at Trenton. His farm was on the county line between Hunterdon and Somerset, and about midway between the villages of White House and North Branch. At the time of his death it included a number of acres in Somerset County which he acquired by deed from Nicholas Stillwell and Catharine, his wife, Apr. 30, 1802. He married, Oct. 26, 1788, Sarah, eldest child of John Bray and Susannah Bray, who were own cousins. His grandmother, Susanna, was a sister of Daniel Bray, afterwards Brigadier General of the New Jersey Militia, the young officer who was commissioned by Washington to gather the boats with which he made his famous crossing of the Delaware on the night of December 25, 1776, a trust which he fulfilled greatly to his own credit and to the satisfaction of his chief. Notwithstanding that Thomas Cox was an only child, and the chief beneficiary of his father's will, he appears to have died comparatively poor. No record has been found to indicate that he ever came into possession of the property devised to him either in Readington or Upper Freehold. His wife, who was born April 6, 1763, died July 13, 1850, and was buried at Clinton, N. J.; children: i. Susannah, ii. Joseph, iii. John Bray, iv. a son, still-born; v. James Bray.

CHILDREN OF HON. EZEPIEL TAYLOR Cox AND MARIA M. SULLIVAN.

ii. Hon. Samuel Sullivan Cox, for many years a member of the National House of Representatives and a conspicuous figure in the public life of his day; b. Zanesville, Ohio, Sept. 30, 1824, d. New York, Sept. 10, 1889. He was a son of Hon. Ezekiel Taylor Cox, Clerk of the Supreme Court of Ohio, and a grandson of Gen. James Cox, a Revolutionary soldier, Speaker of the New Jersey Assembly and afterwards a member of Congress from that State. His maternal grandfather, Judge Samuel Sullivan, for whom he was named, was also a prominent and influential citizen of Ohio, and after serving in the Court of Common Pleas, was elected State Senator and afterwards State Treasurer. The aptitude for public affairs which he manifested early in life would thus seem to have been largely a matter of inheritance, as were the gifts of mind and heart with which he was so generously endowed. But it is to his credit that he achieved success by dint of his own industry rather than by any reliance on the exceptional advantages that belonged to his birth and lineage. At the age of twenty-two he graduated with high honors from Brown University, and after three years spent in the study of law, was admitted to the bar in his native State of Ohio. In 1853 he abandoned his law practice and entered on the more congenial field of journalism, having purchased a controlling interest in "The Columbus Statesman," which he also edited. His glowing description of a sunset which was published in the Statesman, won for him the familiar sobriquet by which he was afterwards so widely known. Three years later he was elected to Congress and served for four terms as a Representative from Ohio. In 1864 he was re-nominated, but the rising tide of Republicanism proved too strong for him and he went down with his party to defeat. Shortly after, he removed to the city of New York, expecting to resume his law practice, but in 1868 he was again elected to Congress, and continued to represent the district in which he lived for nearly twenty years. His Congressional career was interrupted only for a short time while he was serving as U. S. Minister to Turkey. Returning to New York in the autumn of 1886 he was once more elected to Congress and remained a member of that body until his death. Throughout his public career he kept in close touch with the rank and file of his constituents and was the able champion of many measures looking to the relief of the oppressed and the betterment of the less favored classes.

He favored Cuban annexation long before that matter became a national issue. He sought to secure some expression of national sympathy for the persecuted Jews in Russia. He was the advocate of equal rights for all Americans, regardless of foreign birth. He labored assiduously and successfully in the interest of the Life Saving Service, and was largely instrumental in securing legislation which has materially affected the well-being of the letter carriers of the country, a service which they recognized by the erection of a notable monument to his memory on Astor Place, New York.

In the intervals of his political activities Mr. Cox traveled extensively. He was also a popular lecturer, and the author of a number of books which have had a wide circulation. He wrote "The Buckeye Abroad" (1852), "Eight Years in Congress" (1865), "Search for Winter Sunbeams" (1870), "Why We Laugh" (1876), "Three Decades of Federal Legislation" (1886), "Diversions of a Diplomat in Turkey" (1887), etc. These titles are suggestive of his range of thought and of the wit and wisdom for which he was famous, but he will be best remembered for those kindly qualities which endeared him to the people and made him one of the best-loved and most useful public men of his day.

After completing his legal studies he was married October 11, 1849, to Julia A., daughter of Noah and Anna (Hale) Buckingham, of Zanesville, Ohio, a descendant of one of the old Puritan families of New England. The strength and beauty of her character blended rarely with his own and contributed, in no small degree, to his public successes and to the happiness of their long wedded life. She was born March 9, 1829, and died at her home in Washington, D. C., August 22, 1911. They had no children.

vii. EZEKIEL TAYLOR Cox,—b. 1829; d. Kansas City, Nov. 15, 1910; a railroad engineer, in the employ of the St. Louis and San Francisco R. J., July 31, 1841; removed to Sandy Ridge, Hunterdon Co., 1860; has at various times been employed as teacher, merchants' clerk and farmer; now living on the farm which formerly belonged to his father; an active and honored member of the Baptist Church at Sandy Ridge; became Superintendent of its Sunday School in 1862, and continues to serve in that capacity. “Uncle Jim,” as he is familiarly called, is a great favorite with the old and young in his community. His sunny disposition and his love of music are noteworthy traits of character which contribute in no small degree to his popularity. He and his cousin, Charles C. Cox, of Chicago, are the sole surviving grandchildren of Gen. James⁴ Cox. He married Mary J. Rittenhouse, who died some years ago; no children.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS⁸ COX AND SARAH BRAY.

ii. Joseph⁸ Cox,—b. Dec. 1, 1791; d. 1867; learned the tanner's trade and, for a number of years, was successfully engaged in that business; afterwards, bought property in Lebanon township, Hunterdon Co., and spent the remainder of his active life in farming; at one time, tax collector of Clinton township, the only public office he is known to have held; a devout man who feared God and served his generation long and well; his descendants numerous in Hunterdon and Morris counties; m. Feb. 6, 1816, Margaret Felver, of Hunterdon Co., b. 1792, d. 1869; children: i. John Bray, ii. James, b. Mar. 25, 1819, d. May 25, 1822; iii. Robert Shaw, iv. William Johnson, v. Emily T., vi. Harriet D., vii. Richard W., viii. Frances, ix. Susan Adaline, x. George Felver.

iii. John Bray* Cox,—b. Apr. 27, 1794; m. May 1, 1819, Elizabeth ———, of Readington; removed to Michigan and later, to Southern Illinois, where he died, 1855; children: i. James B., d. an infant, 1825; ii. Sarah Ann, m. ———- Palmer; iii. Susan, m. ———- Creamer; iv. Wesley, unm.; v. Emanuel.

v. James Bray* Cox,—b. Bray’s Hill, near Lebanon, N. J., May 30, 1798; d., New Brunswick, N. J., Aug. 8, 1882. When he was but seven years of age, his father died, and shortly afterwards, he was placed under the care of his uncle, John W. Bray, of the firm of Bray and Taylor, long and prominently identified with the business interests of Hunterdon Co. Through their enterprise, the village of Clinton was founded, and became a center of commercial activity for the rich agricultural region which surrounds it. John B. Taylor, the junior member of the firm, was his cousin,—Thomas Cox, his father, and Archibald S. Taylor, father of John B., having married sisters of John W. Bray. With this firm, he grew up, acquiring, under the tuition of his kinsmen, a valuable business education. Later, he became associated in business with his uncle, in New Brunswick, under the firm name of Bray and Cox, and still later, established an extensive grain business which he carried on successfully, for a number of years, in his own name. The old house, on Commerce Square, in which he lived, a part of which is still standing, was built by him during this period.

As a young man, he was one of the mounted escort that attended LaFayette, on the occasion of his visit to New Brunswick, about 1825. It was probably a little later that he became an Alderman of the city, but although, in politics, an ardent Whig, he had no special fondness for public office, and having served his term, was more than willing to devote his energies to private business.

For a number of years he was a director of the State Bank, when that institution was at the height of its prosperity, and might have been its president, had his modesty allowed him to cast, for himself, the deciding vote which gave the election to another.

He was twice married; first on Nov. 27, 1827, to Frances N., daughter of Hon. Samuel Swan, M. D., of Somerville, for many years a Member of Congress, from New Jersey. She was born in 1805, and died, May 27, 1846. He afterwards married, Aug. 26, 1847, Emily Elizabeth, born May 17, 1822, died, December 20, 1903, daughter of Rev. George Benjamin Miller, D. D., of the Lutheran Church, Professor of Theology at Hartwick Seminary, N. Y.

By this time he had removed from New Brunswick and thereafter, for the greater part of his life, was in the grain and commission business in New York, living, for some years, in Brooklyn and, later, in Jersey City. Business reverses, together with advancing age, at length compelled his retirement and he returned to New Brunswick, where amid the scenes of his earlier prosperity his declining years were spent.

By those who knew him best, he will be remembered for his genial, social nature which made him a general favorite in society. He was a famous raconteur and no company could ever be dull that afforded opportunity for the exercise of his talent in that direction, nor was a story ever spoiled by his manner of relating it. It was not until middle life, or later, that he made any open avowal of his religious faith. It found expression ultimately, however, perhaps in answer to the prayers of his godly and devoted wife, and he became a member of the Wayne Street Reformed Church, of Jersey City, of which he was also, for a number of years, a Deacon, and afterwards an Elder, serving in that capacity to the time of his removal from the city. Children: first marriage,—i. Samuel Swan, b. Feb. 20, 1830, d. Aug. 23, 1852, unmarried; ii. Sarah Louisa; second marriage—iii. James Bray, iv. George Miller, b. Bound Brook, N. J., Nov. 6, 1850, d. THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

ISAAC COX, OF ENGLAND.

FIRST GENERATION.

ISAAC¹ Cox,—b. in England, about 1590; supposed to be identical with Sir Isaac Cox. It has also been claimed that he was a son of John Coxé, b. 1560-62 and a grandson of John Coxé who was the second son of Sir Richard Coxé, b. 1499, d. 1581; but no proof appears in support of this statement; m. Elizabeth Clinton and had a son, Philip.

SECOND GENERATION.

PHILIP² Cox, (Isaac¹),—of London, England; b. about 1620; m. Anna Irving Moore,—son, Isaac.

THIRD GENERATION.

ISAAC³ Cox, (Philip², Isaac¹),—merchant; b. in London between 1650 and 1655; thought to have been one of the original incorporators of the West Jersey Land Society; bought land and settled at Elizabethtown, N. J., about 1690; m. (1), in 1676, Sarah Trembley, née Sutton, widow of George Trembley, a Huguenot nobleman, and daughter of Sir Henry Sutton and Elizabeth, his wife, daughter of Lord John Berkeley; m. (2) Martha Graves, née Bentley, widow of Captain Jacob Graves, of the English Navy, whose daughter, Martha, was the second wife of Peter Trembley; Trembley's daughter, Hannah, was the third wife of Philip⁴ Cox, whom she married, about 1737-8, m. (3) Mary Trembley, née Noe, widow of the Huguenot, John Trembley, brother of George, and daughter of Peter Noe and Margaret Clark, his wife. They had no children. Martha Graves was a daughter of William Bentley and his wife, Mary, daughter of Col. Richard Townley, by a daughter of Philip Cartaret; children: first marriage,—i. Philip, probably others, but no record.

FOURTH GENERATION.

PHILIP⁴ Cox, (Isaac³, Philip², Isaac¹)—b. in England, Jan. 17, 1677; d. Sept., 1785; came, when a child, with his parents, to Elizabethtown, N. J., about 1690; removed, later, to the Blue Hills, in Somerset Co., where he died at the remarkable age of 108 years; m. (1), Sept. 24, 1698, Hannah, b. June 7, 1679, daughter of John and Mary Trembley, his step sister; name of second wife not known; possibly, Dorcas, only daughter and heiress of Captain Graves, of the English Navy, above mentioned, who came to Elizabethtown, about 1700, and died soon afterwards; more likely, however, that Dorcas Graves m. his son, Philip⁵ Cox, q. v.; m. (3) Hannah, daughter of Peter Trembley and Martha, his second wife, widow of Captain Graves; Hannah, a niece of Hannah Trembley, first wife of Philip⁴ Cox; children: first marriage,—i. Philip, ii. Sarah, iii. Annah.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

(Hannah ?), iv. Mary; third marriage—v. Isaac; other children, but of which marriage, not known—vi. Hannah, vii. Susannah. His will, Mar. 10, 1785, probated Sept. 29, same year, mentions only three children, viz.: Isaac, Hannah (Sutton), and Susannah (Sutton); the others probably not living, at the time.

FIFTH GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF PHILIP Cox AND HANNAH TREMBLEY.

i. PHILIP Cox, (Philip4, Isaac3, Philip2, Isaac1),—of the Blue Hills, Somerset Co., N. J., a name given formerly to a region lying to the north of the present village of Somerville; b. Elizabethtown, N. J., about 1699; d. 1736; his will, Sept. 7, 1728, probated Aug. 18, 1736, mentions the four children, named below, but makes no reference to his wife. She may have been the Darkes (Dorcas) Cox, named in an instrument, dated Feb., 1753, to whom Philip Cox “signed over” certain property, “for rate resined” by him, and was perhaps identical with Dorcas Graves, previously mentioned, who m. Philip Cox; children: i. John, ii. Philip, iii. Phineas, iv. Elisabeth.

iii. ANNAH Cox,—m. Jacob Cosart, b. 1701; probably his second wife; children: i. Anthony, youngest son, m. Catharine Coon; other children of Jacob Cosart were Jacob, b. 1724, Anna, Mary, who m. Sutton, and Leah, who m. Joseph Riggs, but it is not known which of these, if any, were of the second marriage.

iv. MARY Cox,—m. John Sutton, brother of David; daughter, Elisabeth, first wife of Jacob Cosart, Jr.

vi. HANNAH Cox,—sister of Isaac6; m. ——— Sutton.

vii. SUSANNAH Cox,—another sister; m. ——— Sutton. One of these sisters, not certain which, m. Rev. James Sutton, son of David.

CHILDREN OF PHILIP Cox AND (?) DORCAS GRAVES.

i. JOHN Cox, (Philip6, Philip5, Isaac4, Philip3, Isaac2),—eldest son; b. Blue Hills, Somerset Co., probably about 1721; believed to be identical with John Cox, one of the pioneers of Sussex Co., whose will, dated June 4, 1767, suggests connection with the Cox

ii. PHILIP Cox,—mill-wright, Somerset Co.; bought of Francis Hollinshead, same county, fifty acres of land, between the first and second mountains, called Blue Hills; deed dated, Nov. 17, 1743; “signed over by Philip Cox to Dorkes (Dorcas) Cox, Feb. 1753, for rate resined by me”; deed recorded, Oct. 30, 1794; Dorcas Cox, probably his mother.

iii. PHINEAS Cox,—of Somerset Co., N. J., bought of William Burnet, 193 acres; deed, Apr. 15, 1749, recorded at Perth Amboy, witnessed by Robert Lane and John Cox, the latter perhaps his brother.

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM* COX AND MARY HUFF.

v. WILLIAM* COX,—b. 1800; d. 1893; lived and died near Hilton, Monroe Co., N. Y.; m. Patty Johnson; d. 1887; children: i. Lavinia, ii. Benjamin, iii. a son.

THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

A. Hamilton Cox buys 140 rods of land in town of Alabama, of Joshua Cook and Dorcas (Cox ?), his wife, 8.24.1840; figures in other land transactions, in same locality, about same time; on Mar. 4, 1860, with wife, R. Emily, gives deed to Samuel Wyman, for 12 acres in Parma.

Nicholas Cox and wife Artemitia, of Parma, N. Y., conveyed 12 acres in Parma, Nov. 30, 1854, to Jonathan S. Pease. Nelson D. Cox conveyed property, 1854; letters of administration granted to his widow, Almira E. Cox, Feb. 4, 1875—[Rochester Records].

i. Jonathan Clark Coxe, (John7, John6, Isaac5, Philip4, Isaac3, Philip2, Isaac1),—b. Osborn, O., Jan. 6, 1828; d. Aug. 19, 1897; m. ———; son, Edwin B., b. Nov. 25, 1851, Superintendent, Public Schools, Xenia, O.

Ninth Generation.

ii. James Cox, (Nicholas I., John7, John6, Philip5, Isaac4, Philip3, Isaac2),—Sussex Co., N. J.; b. about 1812; d. ———; Freeholder, Wantage, 1852-4; Trustee, Cemetery Association, Deckertown, 1872, and 1881; Deacon, Wantage Baptist Church; family among the early settlers of the town; m. 1835, Sarah Van Fleet; children: i. John M., ii. William, m. Mary Wilson; iii. Lewis, m. Margaret DeWitt; iv. Emily, m. Peter Couse; v. Delia, m. Evi Wilson; vi. Meribah, unm.

vii. Charles A. Cox, (Gabriel, William, John (?), Philip, Philip, Isaac, Philip, Isaac),—of Cox and Rice, lumber dealers, Hannibal, N. Y.

Tenth Generation.

i. John M. Cox, (James, Nicholas I., John, John, Philip (?), Philip, Isaac, Philip, Isaac),—of Sussex Co., N. J.; m. 1863, Mary J. Coe; only child: Sarah E., m. 1888, Frank Holbert, Cashier, Farmers' National Bank, Sussex, N. J.; children—(1) Theodore Margarum, b. 1890, (2) Adelaide Coe, b. 1891, (3) Jacob Nor- thorpe, b. 1899.

Daniel Coxe, of County Somerset, England.

First Generation.

Daniel Coxe,—otherwise known as "Daniel Coxe, of County Somerset, Gent"; progenitor of the well known Coxe family, long prominent in the social and political life of New Jersey and Pennsylvania; d. at Stoke Newington, one of the suburbs of London, 1686; had his seat in Somerset, one of the counties bordering on the Bristol Channel and the river Severn, in the early part of the seventeenth century; son, Daniel.

Second Generation.

Dr. Daniel Coxe, (Daniel, b. London, about 1640; d. Jan. 19, 1730, in the 90th year of his age; one of the notable figures of his day; graduated from the University of Cambridge, about 1669; a medical writer of distinction and court physician to Charles II and later, to Queen Anne. Enormous tracts of land in America, were granted him by the King, one of them including all the territory between the 31st and 36th parallels of latitude and extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. He spent a fortune in having what he could, of this vast domain, explored, and called it Carolana, in honor of his sovereign. His vessels are said to have been the first to ascend the Mississippi from the Gulf of Mexico, and the published accounts of the voyages and explorations of his agents comprise some of the earliest and most interesting chapters of American history. He afterwards acquired large landed interests in New Jersey and in 1687, became Proprietary Governor of the Western division of that province, ruling by proxy, until 1691, when he surrendered the governorship, retaining, however, his interest in the propriety. In 1690, he bought from Thomas Cox, of London, one of the East Jersey Proprietors, his interest, consisting of one twenty-fourth part of the entire territory. These purchases made him the largest landholder in the Jerseys, his possessions extending from Cape May, on the south, to the northern boundary of the present State of New Jersey.

During all of this period, he was a staunch defender of the prerogatives of the Crown and of the Church of England and was deeply interested in the establishment of one of the earliest organizations of that church, located near Cape May, in the province of West Jersey. Of his immediate family nothing is known beyond the fact that he left a son, Daniel, who succeeded to his father’s fortune and his father’s name.

THIRD GENERATION.

COL. DANIEL COX, (Daniel², Daniel¹),—b. 1673; bap. London, Aug. 31, 1673; d. Apr. 25, 1739, aged 65 years, as appears from the inscription on his tombstone in the graveyard of St. Mary’s Episcopal Church, Burlington, N. J.; came to America probably with Lord Cornbury, who in 1702, received his appointment and entered upon his duties as Governor of New York—New Jersey, at that time, being under the same jurisdiction; appointed by Cornbury, to the command of the King’s forces in West Jersey, and thereafter known as Col. Coxe; returned to London, where in 1704, he made a vigorous defense against the attack of certain of the New Jersey Proprietors who represented large Quaker interests in that province.

In 1705, through the influence of Lord Cornbury, and despite the opposition of the Quakers, he was made a member of the Governor’s Council, of New Jersey, and, in the following year, shortly af-after his return to America, became an associate Judge of the Supreme Court of the province, under the appointment of Cornbury.

The unfriendly feeling of the Quakers towards him does not appearance to have prejudiced him against their daughters or to have rendered him indifferent to the charms of one of them, in particular, who afterwards became his wife.

The Jersey shore, opposite Philadelphia, has been the scene of many elopements from the Quaker City, but the first in the order of time and in the quality of historic interest, was the romance of Col. Coxe and Sarah, (b. about 1690, d. June 25, 1725) daughter of John Eckley, of Philadelphia. At the appointed time, Lord Cornbury’s chaplain awaited their coming and, by the light of a fire that had been kindled under a tree, in the small hours of the morning, the two were made one. The date of the marriage is not given, but it must have occurred about 1708.

In the following year when St. Mary’s Church of Burlington, was chartered, he became one of the incorporators. About the same time, he was once more, a member of the Governor's Council, in which he continued to serve until 1713, when he was removed by Gov. Hunter. In 1714, by the aid of the Swedish vote, he was elected to the Assembly, and again in 1716, both from the County of Gloucester and from the City of Salem. He chose to serve as the representative of Gloucester; was made Speaker of the House, but, shortly afterwards, was expelled from the Assembly by his political opponents. Returning to England, he exerted his influence for the next two years, to bring about the removal of Gov. Hunter. While living in retirement, he wrote a description of Carolana which he published in 1722. It was re-published in 1727, and in 1741. On his return to New Jersey, he again became immersed in political affairs and about 1724, drew up his plan of union of the colonies, some thirty years before Franklin proposed the same thing in the Assembly at Albany. In 1725, he was a candidate for the Assembly, from Burlington, and on June 25th of that year, his wife died at the age of 35. Col. Coxe was prominent in Masonic circles and was the first to be honored with the office of Provincial Grand Master of the Order, for New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, to which he was chosen in 1730. In 1734, he was made a Judge of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, by appointment of Gov. Cosby, and remained on the bench until his death, which occurred at Trenton, where the last years of his life were spent.

The children of his marriage with Sarah Eckley, so far as known, were: i. Daniel, ii. John, iii. William, and probably, iv. Grace, v. Rebecca; other children named in his will: vi. Charles, vii. Thomas, b. about 1735; viii. Mary, b. about 1737, d. before 1739.

FOURTH GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF DANIEL Coxe AND SARAH ECKLEY.

i. DANIEL Cox, (Daniel\textsuperscript{4}, Daniel\textsuperscript{3}, Daniel\textsuperscript{2}),—b. probably at Burlington, N. J., about 1710; d. Trenton, 1750; his life, uneventful; few notices of him in contemporary records; one of the Burgesses named in the first charter of the borough and town of Trenton, 1746; identified with the Proprietary party, at the time of the rioting, in 1747; m. Abigail ——; children: i. Grace, ii. Daniel.

ii. JOHN Cox—b. Burlington, about 1712; admitted to the bar, 1736; ranked high as a lawyer; defended the Rev. William Tennant, an eminent Presbyterian minister, in a famous case into which he had been reluctantly drawn, and secured his acquittal, though with little aid from the defendant who was as guileless of the law as he was deeply versed in the principles of evangelical religion, of which he was an eloquent exponent. In 1750, he was retained as counsel in a suit which came before Gov. Belcher, at Burlington, for adjudication, but declared publicly that it was useless for him to practice before that magistrate. He shared with the family, in the estates which they inherited, and, with his brothers, Daniel and William, figured in some of the largest land transactions ever recorded in New Jersey; d. 1762; unmarried.

iii. WILLIAM* COXE,—b. Burlington, 1723; d. 1801; a resident of Philadelphia during the greater part of his life, but died in the city of his birth. His interests appear to have been divided between Pennsylvania and New Jersey. In a deed of conveyance dated 1760, he is described as "William Coxe, Gent., of Philadelphia. He was still a resident of that city in 1761, but when the odious Stamp Act of 1765, went into effect, he was living, apparently, in Burlington, which was also the home of Gov. William Franklin, to whom he probably owed his appointment by the Crown as Stamp Officer for New Jersey. Both men belonged to St. Mary's Church, of Burlington, and were on terms of friendship if not of intimacy, but neither had accurately gauged the popular sentiment with regard to that measure.

The office involved some responsibility and gave promise of being fairly lucrative, but when he entered upon its duties, the indignation of the people knew no bounds. His house was besieged and he was threatened with personal violence, as a result of which he promptly and prudently resigned.

Ten years of agitation, followed by almost as many more of actual war, kept the colonies in a continual ferment. During that period his name was less prominent than it had been previously. His royalist sympathies had probably driven him into retirement, as he appears to have taken no active part either in the Revolutionary struggle or in the controversies which preceded it. His youngest child, born in Philadelphia in 1769, was baptized at Sunbury, Pennsylvania, in 1771, from which it would seem that his home in Burlington had, for the time being, at least, been abandoned. He married Mary, born 1729, daughter of Tench Francis, Esq., of Philadelphia, Attorney General of Pennsylvania. Thirteen children were the fruit of that union. Their names are given, so far as known. Children: i. Sarah, ii. a daughter, iii. Mary, iv. John D., v. Tench, vi. William, vii. Rebecca, xiii. Daniel William; five other children, names unknown.

The following marriages are noted in the records of Christ Church Philadelphia:

Christian Coxe, m. Peter Stecker, Feb. 26, 1788.
Elizabeth Coxe, m. Joseph Poole, June 15, 1797.

iv. CHARLES* COXE,—commonly known as Charles Coxe, of Sidney; b. probably at Trenton, Mar. 25, 1733, old style; d. Sept. 13, 1815. His tombstone, in the old cemetery of the Bethlehem Presbyterian Church, near Clinton, N. J., and not far from his old home at Sidney, bears an inscription which recites his many virtues. There has been some question as to his parentage, but it seems altogether probable that he was the Charles Coxe, son of Col. Daniel, mentioned in the will of the latter, and that his mother was Mary Johnson, of Trenton, referred to in the same instrument, who died prior to April 18, 1739. In 1759, he married Rebecca Wells, of Philadel-Philadelphia. For many years, together with others who were prominent in society, he spent his summers at Schooley's Mountain, N. J., then and long afterwards, a fashionable watering place extensively patronized by the Philadelphia aristocracy.

The costly and brilliant equipage which he used in his journeyings to and fro, was much admired and of the summer throng that frequented that popular resort, no one attracted more attention than Judge Coxe. In the latter part of the eighteenth century, he bought the large estate at Sidney, comprising some 1200 acres, which had previously belonged to Judge Johnson, where he dispensed a princely hospitality which made the old mansion and its master famous.

Charles Coxe, the same, apparently, was a member of the Legislature, from Hunterdon County, in 1776-7, and later, his name appears as one of the Justices of the County.

Mrs. Charles Coxe was one of a committee of influential women of New Jersey, who organized at Trenton, in 1780, a movement for the relief of the suffering soldiers of the Continental Army, from which it may be inferred that not only Mrs. Coxe but her husband were in hearty sympathy with the patriot cause; children, so far as known: i. Rebecca, ii. Maria, iii. Grace.

Eliza Augusta Coxe, m. Lucius W. Stockton, Dec. 16, 1795. [Hunterdon Co. Records.]

FIFTH GENERATION.

Daniel Cox, (Daniel4 Daniel3, Daniel2, Daniel1)—fifth and last of the name, in direct line of succession from Daniel Coxe of County Somerset, England; b. probably in Trenton, New Jersey, about 1740; d. in England, prior to 1828; studied law and was admitted to practice in 1761. In 1767, together with his brother-in-law, John Tabor Kempe, Attorney General of New York, he sailed for England where they succeeded in getting their Carolina claims adjusted by accepting extensive grants of land in western New York. In 1771, he was made a member of the Governor's Council and served until 1775, when the Council ceased to exist; m., 1771, Sarah, daughter of Dr. John Redman, of Philadelphia.

He was a prominent Tory, and throughout the Revolutionary War, remained strong in his attachment to the British cause. Notwithstanding this, his beautiful home on the banks of the Delaware, at Trenton, was burned by the British, December, 27 (?) 1776, and in the following year, he fled to New York and placed himself under the protection of Lord Howe.

His family appear to have taken refuge with his father-in-law, Dr. Redman, and to have remained under his care until the close of the war. Dr. Redman was a staunch patriot and a surgeon in the Continental army.

In consequence of his Tory sympathies and activities, the estates of Daniel Coxe in New Jersey, were confiscated.
Besides the valuable property at Trenton, he owned farms at Hopewell, Kingston and Rocky Hill, N. J., all of which, together with lands in Burlington County and elsewhere, were sold by order of the government.

At the close of the war he removed with his family to England, where they remained until 1806, when his wife returned to America to comfort her aged parents. Some years later, (in 1828), her husband having died, she brought suits in New Jersey, to recover her dower rights in the property which had been confiscated and succeeded in obtaining judgment therefor; children: i. John Redman, ii. Leonard Steel, iii. George, iv. Edward Plaisted, v. Anne Philadelphia.

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM⁴ COXE AND MARY FRANCIS.

ii. ———⁶ COXE,—m. Thomas Force, b. about 1740, and lived in the neighborhood of Spruce Run, N. J., where her father owned extensive tracts of land.

iii. MARY⁷ COXE,—of Burlington, N. J.; d. 1804; unm.; will probated Dec. 24th, of that year, disposes of a considerable estate the greater part of which was left to her brothers then living and to the children of her sisters, Sarah and Rebecca, deceased.

iv. JOHN D.⁸ COXE,—of Philadelphia; one of the executors of his father, William, and of his sister, Mary Coxe; m. (1) Aug. 27, 1789, Grace Riche, (2) May 2, 1792, Mary Footman; figured, as executor and otherwise, in numerous land transactions.

vi. WILLIAM⁰ COXE, Jr.,—b. Burlington, N. J., 1762; d. 1831; pomologist; author of a work on Fruits, the first of the kind ever published in America; Alderman, Burlington, 1790-'91; a Federalist, member of N. J. Assembly; Speaker, one year; Mayor, 1807-13; Member of Congress 1813-15; m. Rachel, b. 1773, d. 1832, the only surviving child and heir of Richard Smith, of New Jersey. In consideration of what he had received from his wife, he bequeathed to her by will, dated 15 January, 1822, his entire estate in Pennsylvania and New York; children: i. Maria, ii. Margaret, iii. Anne, iv. Harriet, v. Emily, vi. William Smith, vii. Richard Smith, viii. Elizabeth.

SIXTH GENERATION.

i. JOHN REDMAN⁴ COXE, (Daniel³, Daniel², Daniel¹),—an eminent physician; b. Trenton, N. J., 1773; d. Philadel-philadelphia, Mar. 22, 1864; his infant son was the first person in the United States to be vaccinated. The lymph used was received directly from the celebrated Dr. Edward Jenner, the discoverer of vaccination, after whom the child was named. He married, (1), Mar. 6, 1798, Sarah, daughter of Col. John Cox,* of Philadelphia, (2), ———, daughter of Robert, and granddaughter of Thomas Potts, at one time British Governor of Honduras. She was living in Philadelphia as late as 1800; children, so far as known: i. Edward Jenner, ii. Esther Maria.

CHILDREN OF TENCH* COXE AND ———.

ii. ANN* COXE,—d. Sept. 25, 1823; a beneficiary of the will of her aunt, Mary Coxe, of Burlington, who d. 1804.

iii. CHARLES SIDNEY* COXE,—b. 1791; d. at a ripe age; m. 1832, Ann Brinton; of this marriage there were several children of whom Brinton was the eldest.

v. JAMES SIDNEY* COXE,—d. June 30, 1822.

vii. RICHARD SMITH* COXE,—of Burlington; brother of the above; a lawyer of distinction; said to have removed to Virginia; d. 1865.

SEVENTH GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF DR. JOHN REDMAN* COXE AND SARAH COX.

iii. EDWARD JENNER* COXE,—physician; Philadelphia.

EIGHTH GENERATION.

iv. EDWARD PARKE CUSTIS* LEWIS,—b. Feb. 7, 1837; m. Lucy Bateman Ware, b. 1839; d. 1866.

*See Genealogy of William Cox, of N. J.

CHILDREN OF GEORGE WASHINGTON\textsuperscript{a} LEWIS AND EMILY JOHNSON.

TENTH GENERATION.

iii. WASHINGTON LEWIS\textsuperscript{a} STEVENS, (Emily C. Lewis\textsuperscript{a}, George W.\textsuperscript{a}, Esther M.\textsuperscript{c} Coxe, John R.\textsuperscript{a}, Daniel\textsuperscript{a}, Daniel\textsuperscript{a}, Daniel\textsuperscript{a}, Daniel\textsuperscript{a}, Daniel\textsuperscript{a}, Daniel\textsuperscript{a}),—b. Sept. 26, 1883; m. Nannie Nye, Oct. 28, 1905.

JOHN COX, OF RANCOCUS FERRY.

FIRST GENERATION.

JOHN\textsuperscript{a} COX,—said to have emigrated from Gloucester, England, with wife and three children, about 1688; settled in Bucks Co., Pa., where he lived for a number of years; afterwards bought the ferry at Rancocus, N. J., and there died, prior to 1724, at the age of 83 or 84 years; m. ———; children: i. John, ii. Samuel, iii. Mary, and probably, iv. William, and others.

SECOND GENERATION.

i. JOHN\textsuperscript{b} COX, (John\textsuperscript{a}),—b. in England about 1686; d. Rancocus, about 1731; grew to manhood, probably, on his father's plantation in Pa.; m. 9, 25, 1717, in Bibery, (the northernmost township of Philadelphia Co., Pa.), Jane Phillips, née Jones; afterwards bought a tract of wild land in Nottingham Tp., Burlington Co., N. J., near Trenton; cleared about 50 or 60 acres, built a log house and barn, paid more than half the purchase price of the property and mortgaged it for the balance, to Anthony Morris, of Philadelphia; removed later, to Rancocus, where he died in the 45th year of his age, leaving a widow and five children, in very poor circumstances. The widow removed from the ferry, soon after his death, and married again; children: i. John,, ii. David, iii. William; names of the others not known, possibly, iv. Jonathan, and v. Jacob.

WILLIAM\textsuperscript{c} COX, (Jno.\textsuperscript{a})—d. 1759; a carpenter, by trade; described in his will, 9 Sept., 1753, prob. 27 Oct., 1759, as a yeoman, of the WILLIAM COX,—survey made for him, Dec. 6, 1726, of four tracts of land in Nottingham Tp., Burlington Co.—719 acres in all. (See, West Jersey Records, Burlington).

THIRD GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF JOHN² COX AND JANE PHILLIPS.

i. JOHN³ Cox, (John², John¹),—b. Nottingham Township, Burlington Co., Feb. 18, 1720; d. before 1803; in 1745, bought property of Nehemiah Haines and kept a tavern for many years at Moorestown; town clerk of Chester Township 1747-1790; held other public offices in the town, at various times; said to have been a good business man and "wrote a very plain hand;" in 1759, he, with four others, advertised a line of stages to run from Cooper's Ferry, now Camden, N. J., opposite Philadelphia, via Mount Holly and Middletown, to Sandy Hook, connecting there with the boat to New York; a man of affairs identified with various business enterprises; executor (or administrator) of estate of James Borden, of Burlington Co., 1771; appears to have acted often in a similar capacity for others. His name figures also, in numerous real estate transactions, on his own account.

It is said that when the British army passed through Moorestown on its way to New York, in 1778, the Friends were assembled for worship. On their approach, the colored hostler at his hotel gave the alarm; m., license dated Sept. 30, 1744, Abigail Ellis. b. Nov. 16, 1726, d. Dec. 30, 1797; his will Nov. 20, 1800, mentions sons: i. John, ii. Samuel, iii. William.

iii. WILLIAM³ Cox,—yeoman; d. 1769; will, Dec. 19, 1768, wife Sarah, executrix; a captain in the army; was present at the taking of Quebec, 1759; owned land, same year near Trenton; house near site of the present town of Riverton, N. J. Tradition says that, for his military services, he received a grant of land in Western Virginia. He died in 1769, and was buried in Chester Meeting yard, at Moorestown, i, 9, 1769, leaving a widow and two small children. At his death he owed his brother, John, 33£, 13s, 2d, which debt John discharged, owing to the needs of the widow and her children; m. Sarah —________; names of children not known.
THOMAS COX,—said to have been born in Bucks Co., Pa., 1766, who afterwards moved to Berkeley Co., in Western Virginia, may have been a son of William Cox, above named. (See, Virginia Genealogies).

CHILDREN OF WILLIAM² COX AND HANNAH ———–.

iii. ELIZABETH⁴ COX, (William⁴, (?) John¹),—of Willinborough Township, m. Elisha Reed; license, July 3, 1765.

v. WILLIAM⁴ COX,—b. about 1740, or earlier; d. about 1776. On Mar. 2, 1739 [probably, 1759], John Cox, who was an executor of William Cox, who d. 1759, paid "Aunt Hannah Cox," a certain sum in cash, for the use of her son, William, according to an old ledger account, on Apr. 15, and Dec. 20, 1760, he was at "the ferry," (at Rancocus), which William appears to have bought on the last named date. "The old ferry" as it was called, and a plantation of 124 acres, in the township of Willinborough, which belonged to it, with a frontage on the north side of Rancocus Creek, was offered for sale by John Mason and Jacob Perkins, executors, Mar. 20, 1776. This date fixes approximately, the time of the death of William Cox who was undoubtedly the same who m. Rachel Mason; license, Dec. 15, 1761; no record of children.

vi. JONATHAN⁴ COX,—of Burlington Co., a Revolutionary soldier; in Captain Mitchell's Company, 1st and 3rd Regiments.

vii. JOSEPH⁴ COX,—also of Burlington Co., served in the same company.

FOURTH GENERATION.

i. JOHN⁴ COX, (John³, John², John¹),—of Burlington; sometimes called John Cox, Jr.; presumably a son of John³ Cox, of Moores-town, and sole executor of his will, dated 1800; b. probably about 1755; d. not earlier than 1842, nor later than 1847, his will having been executed in the former, and probated in the latter year; a prominent member and well known preacher of the Society of Friends; on the death of John Hoskins, became the head of the Friend's Meeting; m. (1) Ann; daughter of William Dillwyn, of Burlington, who inherited from her father, the place known as "Oxnead," near Greenhill, formerly the home of Samuel Jennings, where they appear to have lived until her death, which occurred after 1797. In 1792, John Cox, Jr., and wife, Ann, conveyed property at Hopewell, Hunterdon Co., on Delaware River, which property had been conveyed to her by her father, William Dillwyn, in 1776, from which it may be inferred that she was born not later than 1755; m. (2) Hannah (Tallman?), also prominent as a religious leader, who survived him; children: first marriage—i. Susannah, second marriage—ii. Hannah.
ii. SAMUEL Cox,—b. about 1752; probably referred to in the following record: "Samuel Cox, Jr., of Burlington Co., m. Sarah Emley, [or Imlay] of New Hanover, [same county]; license, Oct. 17, 1774; the term "Junior," perhaps used to distinguish him from his father's cousin of the same name. Sarah Cox, of New York, whose will, of July 6, 1803, is recorded in Monmouth Co., N. J., no doubt, his widow; will refers to personal belongings left at the hotel of her sister, Mary Imlay, [at Imlaystown?]. The latter may have been Mary Cox, daughter of Asher, of Upper Freehold, and wife of Samuel Imlay—in that case, a sister-in-law. Her brother-in-law, John Cox, of Burlington, is named as one of her executors, which seems to prove that Samuel Cox, Jr., and John Cox, Jr., were brothers; children: i. Phoebe, ii. Elizabeth, iii. Samuel.

iii. WILLIAM Cox,—"emulating the example of his uncle, William Cox, he became a soldier and held a Captain's commission in the patriot army of the Revolution." [John Bellangee Cox]; same name appears in Stryker's "Officers and Men of N. J. in the Revolution," as a private from Burlington Co., in Capt. Holmes' Company; perhaps the same William Cox who wrote Mr. John Little regarding the movements of Washington's army in the neighborhood of Moorestown, Nov. 18, 1777, (Pa. Mag. x:34); bought a smithery of his father, in Moorestown, in 1780, where he appears to have carried on business for twenty years or more; property sold by administrators, in 1803; Collector, Chester Tp., 1786; Town Clerk, 1790-1800; m. (1) Phoebe Duffield, licensed in Pa. Jan. 11, 1773, (2) Sarah Leeds; children: first marriage—i. Charles Duffield; second marriage—ii. Benjamin, iii. Abigail, m. Joshua Humphreys; iv. John.

CHILDREN OF DAVID Cox AND SARAH SMITH.

ii. DAVID Cox,—b. Haddonfield, Oct. 24, 1756; joined the Revolutionary army in the spring of 1777; enlisted with his brother, Jacob, in Morgan's Kentucky Rifle Brigade, then near Red Bank; rather unusual, as they were Quakers; in prison in New York harbor, but escaped; returned to Haddonfield at the close of the war; m. 21st of 10th month, 1790, Sarah Stevenson, of Burlington Co., d. 10th of 4th mo., 1813; in old age, went to Cape May where he lived with his daughter, Ann, until his death, 14th of 2nd mo., 1833; children: i. Sarah Stevenson, ii. Molly, b. 2, 5, 1794, d. in infancy: iii. Molly Smith, b. 3, 3, 1798, d. in infancy; iv. Ann Morgan, v. Abigail, vi. William Killey.

iii. ISAAC Cox,—removed to Ohio about 1790; father of a numerous family.
iv. Abigail Cox,—m. Hezekiah Kemball; removed to Ohio with her brother.

Fifth Generation.

ii. Hannah Cox,—daughter of John Cox and Hannah ——, his second wife; m. George Davis, of Philadelphia; children: i. George, ii. Lewis, iii. William.

i. Phoebe Cox,—daughter of Samuel Cox and Sarah Emley, (or Imlay); b. 1775; m. ——— Barker.

ii. Elizabeth Cox,—her sister, b. 1780; m. ——— Hull.

FIRST GENERATION.

Thomas Cox,—yeoman, of London Grove, Chester Co., perhaps a son of John and Rachel Cox, of New Castle Co., Del.; bought 150 acres of land in London Grove, of Tobias Collett and Co., or the London Company, Mar. 14, 1722; m. (1) 9 mo. 2, 1722, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Martha (Taylor) Fincher, at Friends' Meeting, London Grove, (2) 1730, "with License by ye priest," Mary, daughter of Peter and Elinor (Normand) Cooke; sold property in Chester Co., 1733, and removed with his family, "over the Susquehanna," to what is now York Co., where he was granted a tract of 200 acres on which he settled; owned other land in the same county; a witness at the first Friends' marriage in York Co., 5 mo. 29, 1740, and again, at the marriage of his daughter, Rebecca, "at ye house of William Garretson," in Warrington, 22d of 8 mo., 1740; removed, about 1759, with his wife and younger children to North Carolina; perhaps a brother of John Cox, also of York Co., whose descendants are numerous in North Carolina. (See Thomas Cox, of Wayne Co., N. C.); children: first marriage—i. Rebecca, ii. Isaac, iii. Elizabeth; second marriage—iv. Mary, v. Peter, vi. Harmon (?) and others.

SECOND GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF THOMAS COX AND ELIZABETH FINCHER

i. Rebecca Cox, (Thomas Cox),—m. Warrington, 8, 20, 1740, James Frazier. Among those who signed the marriage certificate were Ann Cox, Thomas Cocks, Mary Cocks, Isaac Cox and John Cox.

ii. Isaac Cox,—m. Warrington Meeting, 9, 27, 1746, Olive Underwood; removed to N. C.; perhaps the same Isaac Cox of N. C. who m. Elizabeth Marley, who may have been a second wife. (See N. C. Genealogies).

iii. Elizabeth Cox,—m. 5, 14, 1754, David Jenkins; removed to N. C. 1756.

THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

JOHN COX, OF WARRINGTON.

FIRST GENERATION.

John Cox,—one of the early settlers at Warrington, now in Huntington Tp., York Co., probably a brother of Thomas Cox, who removed from Chester Co., to the same neighborhood, 1733; present 1740, at the marriage of Rebecca Cox, (daughter of Thomas), and James Frazier, at the house of William Garretson. Nearly all of the early Friends’ marriages in that locality, however, were celebrated at the house of John Cox, prior to the establishment of the Huntington Meeting in 1750. Nothing is positively known as to his parentage, but he is believed to have been a son of John and Rachel Cox, of New Castle Co., Del., m. Mary ——, perhaps the Mary Cox, daughter of Moses and Margaret Harlan, mentioned in the will of Moses Harlan, of Menallen Tp., 10, 10, 1747; children: i. Sarah, ii. Benjamin, iii. William (?), iv. Samuel, v. Naomi, vi. Joseph (?), vii. Hannah (?), viii. Jacob, ix. Dinah,—the two last named in the will of their grandfather, above referred to.

SECOND GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF JOHN¹ COX AND MARY (?) HARLAN.

i. Sarah² Cox, (John),—b. about 1721; m. Nicholas, son of William Wierman, of Huntington, 8, 24, 1745. Among the signers of the marriage certificate, were Joseph, Hannah, Naomi, John, Thomas, William, Samuel, Ann, and Benjamin Cox, and Martha, Naomi, Mary and Joseph Garretson; children: i. William, ii. Benjamin, iii. Phebe, iv. Nicholas, b. 1756, d. 1839, m. Lydia, daughter of John Giest—nine children.

iii. William² Cox,—supposed to have been a son of John¹; b. about 1725; m. Naomi Garretson; son, Joshua, m. 1787. Amy Wierman, b. 3, 14, 1765, and removed with his family to the West.

iv. Samuel² Cox,—b. 1727; d. about 1796; m. at Huntington, 8, 22, 1747, Hannah, b. 1727, daughter of William and Gertrude Wierman; certificate granted him and his family, to Cane Creek Monthly Meeting, N. C., 8, 20, 1757. Samuel Cox and wife, Hannah, conveyed land in York Co., Pa., Apr. 1768. There were several Cox families at Cane Creek, but it was probably this Samuel Cox and his sons, Herman and Samuel, who were disowned by the Monthly Meeting, in 1771, for joining the “Regulators.” In the same year, “denials” were published “against Benjamin and James Underwood, Joshua Dixon, Isaac Cox, Samuel Cox and his two sons, Herman and Samuel.” (See, Southern Quakers and Slavery, by Stephen B. Weeks). The term “Regulators” appears to have been applied to a military organization the object of which was to resist exorbitant taxes, unreasonable lawyers' fees and the like. Thompson's School History refers to the battle of Alamance—which was fought, May 16, 1771, near the Alamance River, between the "Regulators" and Gov. Tryon's militia. Samuel Cox afterwards returned to Pa., where he died. Letters of administration on his estate were granted to Herman Cox at York, 1796; children: i. Herman, ii. Samuel, iii. Elisha, iv. John William, and probably others.

v. Amy², or Naomi, Cox,—b. 9, 27, 1729; d. 5, 1792; m. 6, 8, 1753, at Huntington Meeting, Pa., William, son of William and Gertrude Wierman, b. 8, 10, 1729, d. May, 1802; certificate to New Garden Monthly Meeting, N. C., granted them by Warrington Monthly Meeting, 8, 19, 1758. In 1784, they returned to Pa. and settled in Warrington Tp., York, now Adams Co., taking with them certificate from Cane Creek Monthly Meeting, N. C.; children: i. Catharine, b. 9, 6, 1754; m. John Pickerell, founder of Pickerellville, Ind.; lived in Grayson Co., Va., prior to 1808; ii. William, iii. Amy, b. 3, 14, 1765, m. 3, 14, 1787, Joshua, son of William Cox and Naomi Garretson; removed to the West; iv. Mary.

FIRST GENERATION

Friend¹ Cox,—b. Switzerland, 1720; his family said to have fled to that country from England in 1675, probably on account of the religious persecutions or political disturbances which then prevailed; emigrated to America and settled at Lime Rock, now Shire Oaks, Washington Co.; m. Nancy Schurck, 1746; children: i. John; others, if any, unknown. Tradition says he went to Washington Co., Pa., from Baltimore.

Col. Isaac¹ Cox,—b. 1724, who is said to have come originally from Germany, and who settled at or near Brownsville, Fayette Co., Pa., if not a brother, was doubtless a near relative of Friend² Cox. The circumstances which lead to this conclusion are: (1) the frequent recurrence of the name, Friend, which is uncommon, among the descendants of both men; (2) the fact of their settlement in the same part of Pennsylvania, Washington and Fayette counties being separated only by the Monongahela River, and (3) the similarity of the traditions of both families, as to the country from which their emigrant ancestors came, one from Switzerland and the other from Germany, the truth probably being that both came from German-Switzerland; probably the same Isaac Cox who was appointed Colonel of a Pa. regiment by Washington; mentioned under Virginia families (p. 63); children: i. George, ii. John, iii. Joseph, iv. Michael, v. Margaret.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

SECOND GENERATION.

i. George² Cox, (Isaac¹),—(See, Virginia families, p. 63).

ii. John² Cox, (Isaac¹?),—Fayette Co., near Brownsville; his father said to have come from England, early in life and settled in Pa.; he himself, according to family tradition, a Captain, afterwards Major in the Revolutionary War; more likely that this military tradition refers to Col. Isaac¹ Cox, who was probably his father; m. Elizabeth Marlow; children: i. "Mordici" (?).ix. Jacob Marlow, the only one whose name is known; his daughters married into the Wallace, Townsend, and other families of Pa., O., and elsewhere; removed, 1802, to Franklin Co., Ky.

iii. Joseph² Cox, (Isaac¹),—(See, Virginia families, p. 64).

THIRD GENERATION.

CHILDREN OF JOHN² COX AND POLLY COLLINS.

i. Benjamin³ Cox, (John², Friend¹),—b. Mar. 19, 1775; m. —, 5, 1807, Elizabeth Metcalf, b. 1791; children: i. Sally Morgan, b. 1807; ii. Ralph Enoch, b. 1809; iii. John Metcalf James, b. 1824; iv. Latitia Moses, b. 1826; v. Benjamin Edgar, b. 1829; vi. Mary Walker, b. 1830.

Mordici³ Cox, (John²?, Isaac¹),—Cattaraugus Co., N. Y.; probably a son of John² Cox, of Brownsville; removed to Northern Illinois, 1834, d. soon after; may have m. a Wallace (See family tradition, under John² Cox); had son, William Wallace.

xi. Rev. Jacob Marlow³ Cox, (John², Isaac¹ (?)),—a Baptist minister; b. Fayette Co., Dec. 15, 1799; removed with his parents to Ky., where he grew to manhood; became one of the pioneers of Indiana; lived in Jefferson Co.; removed, Dec. 1845, to Jennings Co., where he died; twice married; children: i. R. M. J., by the first wife, and ii. John Henry, his half brother, the only names given.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

FOURTH GENERATION.

WILLIAM WALLACE\(^4\) COX, (Mordici\(^8\), John\(^8\), Isaac\(^1\)),—b. Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., 1832; removed with his parents to Ill., 1834, and thence in 1861, to Nebraska, and there d. 1907; children: i. Elmer E., d. 1906, one son, Albert, in Chicago; ii. Lincoln W., Scott’s Bluff, Neb., one son; iii. Omar L., iv. Charles B., Oakland, Cal., no sons.

LEGEND\(^4\) COX, (———\(^3\), John\(^8\), ? Isaac\(^1\)),—Chicago; a cousin of William Wallace\(^4\) Cox.

-----

JOHN HENRY\(^4\) COX, (Jacob M.\(^8\), John\(^8\), Isaac\(^1\)?) , grew up on his father’s farm; acquired his early education in the subscription schools of the locality, and in the free schools which were then in their infancy, but as their terms were brief, was obliged to rely mainly on his own unaided efforts; was about to enter college when the Civil War broke out; became a soldier in the Union army, as did his four brothers, two of whom lost their lives in the war; returned to the farm at the close of the war; became prominent in local politics; elected to various township offices and in 1880, became County Treasurer, succeeding himself two years later; removed to Sheridan, Ind., 1886, and established a private bank; in 1892, organized the State Bank of Sheridan, of which he became President; in 1900, the State Bank became the First National Bank, of which also he became and continues to be President; m. Lucretia M. Baily, 1867.

FIFTH GENERATION.

ii. WILLIAM FRIEND\(^6\) COX, (John\(^8\), Enoch\(^8\), John\(^8\), Friend\(^1\)),—m. Anne Tonks; children: i. William Biddle, ii. Alice Maud, iii. Ada Mary.

iii. OMAR L.\(^6\) COX, M. D., (William W.\(^4\), Mordici\(^8\), John\(^8\), Isaac\(^1\)),—Iola, Kansas; children: i. Legrand W., ii. Herschel D., both of Iola.

-----

FRANK C.\(^5\) COX, (———\(^4\), Abraham\(^8\), Michael\(^8\), Isaac\(^1\)),—Attorney at Law, Wheeling, W. Va.; member of Sons of the Revolution and State Secretary of the Society, 1902, (cf. p. 63.)
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

SIXTH GENERATION.

Related doubtless to the families above named, are those mentioned in the following line:

I. GABRIEL$ Cox,—he and Austin Piety m. sisters, Sarah and Nancy Polke, kins-women of President Polke. Capt. Charles Polke, brother of Sarah and Nancy, went from Frederick Co., Md., (then Virginia), via Brownsville, Pa., to Wheeling, W. Va., thence to Ky., and later to Detroit, Mich.

II. BENJAMIN$ Cox, (Gabriel$),—a weaver by trade; from England; brothers, DAVID$, JONATHAN$, ISAAC$, GEORGE$, etc.; one sister m. Nathan Chalfant, another m. ——— Lemen; Benjamin$ m. Sarah Piety, his first cousin.

A., Dennison University, Ohio, 1910; learned to make jewelry by hand; attended Cleveland Art School, 1911.

—— COXE, OF IRELAND.

FIRST GENERATION.

The original home of this branch of the family is said to have been in County Clare, Ireland. One of its members, whose Christian name has not been ascertained, removed to England. According to the family tradition, he taught George IV, when a young fellow, to play the newly invented game of tennis. The tennis courts which were first set up in London are now marked by a plate or stone.

SECOND GENERATION.

PHILIP 2 COX, son of the above. His portrait of date about 1800, was procured not long since, by one of his American descendants, on a visit to England.

THIRD GENERATION.

PHILIP 3 COX, (Philip 2 ),—of Richmond Surrey, England; eldest son of Philip 2 Cox; m. ——— Healy; the Healy family numerous in Surrey and Kent; the first of the family to leave professional life and go into trade; this alliance with "trades people" as late as 1859, frowned upon by his own kin, but he was a stern Democrat and established a successful business.
FOURTH GENERATION.

Francis^4 Cox, (Philip^3, Philip^2),—second son of Philip^5 Cox; m. Frances Mary Standen, b. 1883, d. 1909, whose father, William Standen was a paymaster in the British Navy and traced his ancestry to the Domesday Book record of Wilhelm Standchen who came over with William the Conqueror in 1066. Her mother, Mary Grieve, or Greave, was a descendant of David Grieve, or Greave, of Scotland, the family claiming descent from David I. It is more probable however, that they were closely associated with the early Scottish rulers and chiefs by personal service rather than by kinship. As a girl, she was amanuensis to Rev. Samuel Cox, D. D., of Nottingham, the famous Biblical Expositor; children: i. Albert Francis, ii. Arthur S., iii. Harold P., iv. Sidney Herbert.

FIFTH GENERATION.

iv. Rev. Sydney Herbert^6 Cox, (Francis^4, Philip^3, Philip^2),—Congregational clergyman; b. Australia; has held pastorates in New York city and Brooklyn; minister of the Central Congregational Church, Philadelphia, 1912; lyceum lecturer and member of the editorial staff of The Religious Weekly, of Philadelphia.

(For other Pennsylvania families, see under West Indies.)
RHODE ISLAND.

Many of the early settlers of Rhode Island were from English families which came from the island of Barbadoes. A brisk trade had long been carried on between the two colonies, one result of which was the frequent removal to the northern settlements of those who had previously been living in the tropics. As far back as 1638 the name of William Cox appears in a list of the inhabitants of Barbadoes who were possessors of ten or more acres of land. By the beginning of the eighteenth century the name was of more or less frequent recurrence in Rhode Island. No attempt is here made to connect the Cox families of that colony, genealogically, but the marriage records which follow go to show that they were of a common ancestry and that they were not of the Puritan faith, but were identified with the Church of England and resident, for the most part, in or near Newport and Bristol.

1718—Martha Cox m. Robert Case, Jan. 19, Newport.
1723—Sarah Cox m. Mark Maylem, July 24, Newport.

1825—Nancy Cox m. Parker Hall, May 19, Bristol.
1826—Edith Cox m. John Ring about Oct., 2, Newport.
1827—Frederick Cox m. Catharine Carr, daughter of William P., Apr. 1.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

NORTH CAROLINA.

INTRODUCTORY NOTES.

As in the other colonies, so in North Carolina, members of the Cox family were among the earliest settlers. They began to arrive near the beginning of the eighteenth century. Some appear to have come direct from England, others from the English settlements in Virginia, and many more about the middle of the century, with the Quaker migrations, from Pennsylvania.

Robert Cox, of Little River, Perquimans Co., is the first of the name to be mentioned in the probate records of the province. His will dated Feb. 20, 1725-6, was proved, Nov. 25, 1730. It names his wife, Elizabeth, and children, (1) Robert, (2) Sarah, and (3) Ann (Weeks).

Thomas Cox, of Currituck Co., died about 1743, or later, leaving a widow, Ann, and the following children: (1) Edward, (2) Solomon, (3) Marmaduke, (4) Mary, (5) Dinah, and (6) Ann; will July 5, 1743.

Edward Cox, of Currituck, who may have been a son of Thomas, died 1751; children: (1) Thomas, (2) Absalom, (3) Elijah, and (4) Jemima (Parker).

Charles Cox, of Duplin Co., will 1752, had a wife, Francesina, and daughter Anne. He was perhaps the Charles Cox, of Dublin (Duplin), brother-in-law of John Hecklefield, of Perquimans, who was appointed guardian of Heckeley's son, John, in 1716.

The Quaker families of the Cox name were scattered somewhat widely, throughout Wayne, Guilford, Randolph and the adjoining counties, in the central part of the State. Many of them, after the Revolution, owing largely to their objections to slavery, crossed the Ohio, and were among the pioneers of the great North West Territory, when that region was opened to settlement. Their descendants are numerous in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Kansas, California and other Western States, and scarcely less so, in the neighborhood of the original settlements, and in other parts of the South.

Other Cox families, from Western Virginia, crossed the borders and settled in the northwestern part of the State. These were largely of Scotch or Scotch-Irish descent, and of the Presbyterian faith. From North Carolina, they have migrated to Tennessee and thence to the West and South.

They are not related, so far as known, to the Cocke family of Tennessee, which came also from Virginia, but is descended from Col. Richard Cocke, who settled originally on the James River, a few miles below Richmond.

THE COX FAMILY OF BERTIE COUNTY.

The first authentic record of this family appears in the will of Benjamin Cox, dated Jan. 13, 1804, probated February of the same year.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

John Cox, of Onslow Co., in his will Apr. 18, 1743, mentions children Benjamin and Martha.

The fact that he left but two children suggests the probability that he died early in his married life, and that Benjamin Cox, of Bertie Co., who died sixty years later, was the son named in the will.

Assuming this to be the case John Cox, of Onslow, may be regarded as the progenitor of the Bertie Co. family.

FIRST GENERATION.

JOHN¹ Cox,—b. probably in the early part of the eighteenth century; d. in Onslow County, after Apr. 18, 1743; m. Christian ———; children: i. Benjamin, ii. Martha.

SECOND GENERATION.

THIRD GENERATION.

THE COX FAMILY, OF PERQUIMANS COUNTY.

The emigrant ancestor of the Quaker Cox family of Perquimans is said to have come from England with two of his kinsmen of the Cox name, one of whom settled in New Jersey and the other in Wayne Co., N. C. The tradition does not indicate clearly whether these three were brothers, or whether they were otherwise related; merely states that they were of the same family. It is known from family Bible records, that Thomas Cox, born in England, about 1690, migrated to Pa., where the six children of his first marriage were born, between 1717 and 1737, and that he afterwards removed to Wayne Co., N. C., a fact which so far as it goes, tallies with the Perquimans Co. tradition, and suggests the inference that he may have been one of the three.

FIRST GENERATION.

John¹ Cox,—of Perquimans Co.; one of the first Friends of record in that county; may have been a son, or nephew of Thomas, above named, but scarcely a brother, the date of his death, precluding that idea; no record of his father’s name; his will, 4th day, 10th mo., 1807, mentions wife, Maria, (Miriam) and six sons; executors, son, Joseph, and Chalkley Draper; witnesses, Chalkley Albertson, John Elliott; children: i. Jacob, ii. Caleb, iii. Joseph, iv. John, v. Josiah, vi. Aaron.

Joseph Cox, Sr.—Perquimans Co.; not clear whether a brother or son of John¹, though doubtless of same family; will 7th day, 2nd mo., 1813, probated Feb. 1813, together with title of “Sr.” would seem to indicate that he was of the same generation and probably a brother; Francis White, executor, John S. Chowman and Francis Albertson, witnesses; will names wife, Mary, and children: i. Myles, ii. Willis, iii. Laban, iv. Joseph, v. Lydia, vi. Gilly, vii. Mary.

Note—One of his daughters m. Nathan Bagley. See, will of Mary, widow of Joseph Cox, Mar. 30, 1827; Joseph Cox, his son, presumably, m. Polly Cain, 1793.

SECOND GENERATION.

ii. Caleb² Cox, (John¹),—Perquimans Co.; will 15th, 5th mo., 1824, probated Nov., 1824; refers to his mother, and names brothers, Joseph, Jacob, John and Aaron—Joseph, executor; Caleb unm., apparently.

iii. Joseph³ Cox,—son of John¹ and Miriam; m. Margaret ———; son, Jonathan Elliott, only child whose name is given.

THIRD GENERATION.

Jonathan Elliott⁴ Cox, (Joseph³, John¹),—b. Perquimans Co., 1819; m. ———; son, J. Elwood.

FOURTH GENERATION.

J. Elwood⁵ Cox, (Jonathan E.⁴, Joseph³, John¹),—President Commercial National Bank, High Point, Guilford Co., N. C.

THE COX FAMILY OF SURRY COUNTY.

The name of the progenitor of this family is not positively known, but he is said to have come from Virginia and to have settled in Surry Co., N. C. In the matter of race, creed and tradition the family appears to be identical with the Grayson Co. Cox family of Va., some of whose members are known to have removed either before or after the Revolution to counties in N. C. adjoining Grayson Co., Va., on the South, of which Surry Co. is one.

John Cox, who together with his brother David, settled in Grayson Co., prior to 1750, was of that number. It is quite possible that he may have been the father or at least a near relative of Matthew and John Cox whose names are the oldest of record in this branch of the family.

FIRST GENERATION.

John\(^1\) Cox,—from Va.; settled with his family in Surry Co., N. C.; m. ———; children: i. Matthew, ii. John; probably others.

SECOND GENERATION.

i. Matthew\(^2\) Cox, (John\(^2\)),—present at the Mecklenburg Convention, held at Charlotte, N. C., May, 1775, which declared for American independence; a Revolutionary soldier; removed afterwards to Ohio.

THIRD GENERATION.

Martin\(^2\) Cox, (John\(^2\), John\(^1\)),—d. about 1850; settled on Poplar Creek, a tributary to Clinch River, in Roane Co., Tenn.; m. (1), Lucretia Henson, of Irish blood, from which union has sprung a family whose distinguishing traits are strong emotion, tenacity of purpose, will power and physical endurance. Clear blue eyes and ruddy complexion are also characteristic of the family; m., (2), —— Jackson, (3), —— Bryson; children: first marriage,— Tennessee; third marriage,—x. Lou, xi. Alice.

CHILDREN OF MARTIN Cox, AND LUCRETIA HENSON.

i. THOMAS Cox, (Martin, John, John1?),—died before reaching manhood.

ii. HENRY HARRISON Cox,—b. in Roane Co., Tenn.; when a lad, removed with his father to Overton, and later to Smith Co., Tenn.; enlisted with his brother, Enoch, for the Mexican War, but was not permitted to serve, the State having its full quota of soldiers; in 1849, went to California gold fields with a small company of adventurers; after many hardships and a number of hair-breadth escapes, returned with his companions to Tenn. just before the death of his father. His life was clean, courageous, upright, and characterized by a strong love and loyalty to his family, his country, especially the southland, and to the Democratic party. Together with the older members of his family, he was of the Cumberland Presbyterian faith; d. ae. 83, at Dixon Springs, Tenn., full of years and of the hope of the gospel; m. (1) Nancy French, of Jamestown, Ky., (2) Mrs. Frances Marena (Bates) Mitchell; children: first marriage,—
i. William Henry; ii. Franklin, iii. Hugh, iv. Herschel M.; second marriage,—v. Sallie, d. ae. 8; vi. James M., vii. John B.

iii. ENOCH Cox,—a daring and intrepid soldier; served in the Confederate Army, throughout the Civil War in Tenn., Va., and Miss.; went to Ill., after the war, thence to Texas where he died, near Sherman. His widow and family afterwards settled in Missouri; m. Peggy McMillan; children: i. John N., ii. Thomas; had also daughters who married in Missouri.

iv. JOHN Cox,—b. in Tennessee; m. (1), at Livingston, Tenn., Levina Jane Lynch, (2) Nannie Kemper, of Station Camp, Tenn.;
iii. William A., iv. H——— B———, v. Frank, besides daughters, momarried and living in different States; second marriage,—vi. Martin, vii. Thomas, both of Dixon Springs, Tenn.

v. FRANCIS Cox,—spent some time in the gold fields of California; moved to Texas; enlisted with the Texas Rangers; d. at battle of Malvern Hill; unm.

vi. ELIZABETH Cox,—m. Thomas Lovelady; removed to Mo.;
after the death of her husband, removed to Texas, where she died;
children: i. John H., Mayor of Weatherford, Tex.; ii. Thomas, Weatherford; iii. James, iv. Corda; the two last named, of Tecumseh, Okl.

vii. MARTIN VAN BUREN Cox,—enlisted in a Texas regiment:
fought through the Civil War; d. recently at Seba, Ark., leaving a large family.

viii. MARY Cox,—m. Ransom Guthrie, in Ky.; d. recently at the home of her son-in-law, Campbell Shelley, at Gunter, Tex.

ix. TENNESSEE Cox,—m. Sam. Garrett; removed to Tex.

x. LOU Cox,—deceased; m. Hardin Smith, Willow Springs, Mo.

xi. ALICE Cox,—deceased; m. James Smith, of Livingston, Tenn.

Mark McCormick, a business man of Nashville; a sculptress of unusual ability; studied art, for nearly two years at Chicago; the successful competitor in the contest for the monument to be erected by the State of Tennessee in memory of the late U. S. Senator, Hon. Edward Ward Carmack.

JOAB COX, OF TENNESSEE.

FIRST GENERATION.

Joab* Cox,—a hatter by trade; b. in North Carolina; travelled from town to town, making hats; lived at Jonesboro, also at Bridge-man's Mills, in the eastern part of Tenn.; removed, with his family, about 1821, or 1822, to Southern Indiana. They settled permanently, in Monroe and Green counties, Ind.; all farmers; m. Margaret Wilhite, who died during the Civil War. She was small in stature, but a strong woman, mentally, notwithstanding the limited opportunities which her generation afforded. She remembered the battles of King's Mountain and Cow Pens and had one or more relatives who served in the Revolution under Generals Green and Morgan. Her family and that of her husband appear to have come originally from Virginia; children: i. Lorina, m. John Bridgeman, of Tenn.—son, John, a Major in the Confederate Cavalry; ii. Isaac, the first brickmaker in Monroe Co., Ind.; iii. James, settled in Green

Note—John Wilhite and Tobias Wilhite, were residents of Orange Co., Va., 1743. (See, Scott's Hist. of Orange Co., Va., 1907).

BROXWOOD COURT
PEMBRIDGE
9th June 1895

DEAR SIR,

I duly received your interesting letter of the 13th May and should be glad to give you all the information I can, and only regret that it is so limited. Indeed as to the dates of any emigrants to the new world, or whence they came I am sorry to say I can give you no information on that branch of the subject so interesting to you.

From what you tell me, your ancestors must have been early settlers in Massachusetts—as the colony was, if I remember right founded in Charles the 1st time.

As to community of descent the armorial bearings (unless arbitrarily assumed and of late date) are an important guide: Now in Burke's armory (he was Ulster King at arms, and hence an authority) I find 27 families of the name bearing arms—and of these with very few exceptions they may be grouped in the following divisions having as far as heraldic evidence goes no relationship to each other.

The first and most numerous group bear Or—3 bars azure—on a canton gules a lions head argent. In this group the crest is a goat's or antelope's head pierced with a spear or an arrow for these slight and unimportant variations were sometimes adopted to distinguish different branches of the same stock.

The second group the arms borne are sable—a chevron between three stags heads argent.

The third group bear—argent or sable 3 cocks gules or argent.

I apprehend that these three groups do not spring from the same stock.

Now the first group contains the families of Beamonds, Chichester, Dunmanway, Coolecliff, Broxwood & many others. To these may be added Cox of Charton & another who bear Barry, (of ten), or, & azure. Many of these have distinctive changes, merely showing a separate branch from the same stock.

The first wholly reliable mention of this name is that of John Cox in the time of Henry Eighth. He purchased from Sir Anthony Denny the estates of Beamonds &c. which had formed part of the property of the suppressed Abbey of St. Albans. Of this family was Sir Richard Cox who held office in the Courts of Elizabeth & James 1st. He is buried in Westminster Abbey where a flattering epitaph records his virtues. Of this Branch was a Col. Alban Cox who commanded the Hertford militia in the days of the commonwealth and to whom an interesting letter from Cromwell may be found recorded in the pages of the Gentleman's Magazine.

Of a collateral branch also was my ancestor Sir John Cox killed at the battle of Solebay 1672, while in command of "The Prince," the Duke of York's flag ship—his son Gabriel being an ardent adherent of James II had to retire abroad & died in France. He married Elizabeth daughter, and in her children, heiress of Richard Snead who died high Sheriff, 1678. Saml Cox son of his daughter married Alice Kilbye, eventual heiress of Robt Kilbye of Souldern and from whom I lineally descend.

The second group contain Cox of Beaminster, Castleditch (Earl Somers) &c. &c.

They generally spell the name Cocks. But this is of little consequence as our ancestors were somewhat "Phonetic" in their spelling and I have seen the name spelt by Chauncey (Hist. of Herts.) three different ways in about as many pages.

The arms of the third group seem to be "quartering arms" assigned rather from the sound of the name than from any knowledge of the family.

This motto though now retained from father to son was not an integral part of the bearing.

Trusting that the above may be interesting if not valuable I am

Yours truly R. S. Cox.

THE SOMERS-COCKS FAMILY.

The family of Cocks was seated in Kent as early as the beginning of the reign of Edward I (1274), and was of importance in the county until its removal into Gloucester, in the time of Henry VIII, (b. 1491, d. 1547). Thomas1 Cocks, Esq., of Bishops Cleeves, County Gloucestershire, married Elizabeth Holland, a Lancashire lady, by whom he had ten sons and three daughters, and was succeeded, at his decease, in 1601, by his second, but eldest surviving son, Richard2 Cocks, Esq., who purchased Castleditch, County Hereford, and settled there. He married Judith, daughter and co-heir of John Eliot, Esq., of London, and had son, Thomas3, his heir.

Richard Cox, of Dumbleton, County Gloucester, was created a Baronet, in 1661.
THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA.

Thomas⁴ Cocks, Esq., of Castleditch, married Anne, daughter of Ambrose Elton, Esq., by whom he had five sons and three daughters. His eldest son, John⁴ Cocks, succeeded him, but as he was unmarried, the property went to the Rev. Thomas⁶ Cocks, the second son, who died, 1724, leaving an only daughter and heir, Mary⁸, who became the wife of her cousin, John⁴ Cocks. The fifth son, Charles⁸ Cocks, Esq., M. P., 1692, married Mary, daughter of John Somers, Esq. (1651-1716), of County Worcester, sister and co-heir of John, Lord Somers, Lord High Chancellor, who died, 1717.

James⁸ Cocks, Esq., of Bruckmans, County Hertford, M. P., was his son and successor. He married (1), in 1718, Lady Elizabeth Newport, (2), Anne, youngest daughter of William, fourth Lord Berkeley, and was succeeded by his son and only child, James⁸ Cocks, Esq., who died, unmarried, in 1758, his extensive estates reverting to his uncle, John⁶ Cocks, Esq., of Castleditch, who died, June 24, 1771. He was the father of twelve children, viz.: i. Charles, ii. Thomas, 1727-1779; iii. John, rector, unmarried; iv. Joseph, barrister, two daughters; v. James, 1734-1772, married Martha, daughter of Rear Admiral Watson, and had son, James, M. P., and four daughters; vi. Philip, rector, unmarried; vii. Thomas Somers, b. 1737, banker, m. 1768, Ann, daughter of Thomas Thistlethwayte, Esq., who had son, Thomas Somers, and other children; viii. Richard, barrister, 1740-1821, unmarried; ix. Robert, 1741-1765, unmarried; x. Timothy, 1748-1757; xi. Mary, xii. Elizabeth, died, 1808.

Charles⁸ Cocks, Esq., of Castleditch, M. P., eldest son, and successor of John, was born 1725; created a Baronet in 1772, and in 1784, became a Peer, under the title of Lord Somers, Baron of Evesham, County Worcester. He married (1), Elizabeth, died 1771, daughter of Richard Eliot, Esq.; (2), Anne, died 1833, daughter of Reginald Pole-Carew, Esq., of Stoke. Lord Somers died, 1806, and was succeeded by his son, John⁷ Somers, second baron, born, 1760, created Viscount, 1821, died 1841. John Somers, his son, and the second Earl, born, 1788, succeeded his father, died, 1852, and was succeeded, in turn, by his son, Charles⁸ Somers, the third Earl, who was born, 1819, and died 1883, when the earldom became extinct. The barony succeeded to his cousin, Philip Reginald⁰, the fifth baron, in succession from Charles Cocks.

—From Burke’s Extinct Peerage.

PREFACE

To the descendants of James and Sarah (?Clarke) Cock, these Presents come greeting, trusting that their compilation during the intermittent opportunities of leisure, amid the urgency of business life, may be of some satisfaction to all both lineal and collateral. This work was commenced by the elder compiler about 1880, without any definite expectation of publication, but on becoming acquainted, through correspondence, with the younger, arrangements were made for charting our collection in such form, that if ever we or any other parties should desire to commit to print, such plan would greatly facilitate its accomplishment. By a diligent correspondence throughout several years, many of our charts were well filled, but before the close of the nineteenth century, by pressing business engagements on our part and decadent interest of our correspondents, communications almost entirely ceased; and when in 1911 the opportunity of publication came, our addresses were many of them out of date and useless. The compilers hereof have used freely all accessible public and private records; have been favored with assistance from sundry co-workers in the genealogical field, and as they are a legion, to name some and not all would seem invidious; we therefore hereby acknowledge our obligations to all and singular.

By our collaboration with Rev. Henry M. Cox we are enabled to accomplish our long cherished desire of publication, and now trusting that our efforts have not been in vain, we commend it to your sympathetic consideration.

George William Cocks,
John Cox, Jr.

October, 1912.

FIRST GENERATION

1. JAMES COCK, ancestor of the Quaker Family of Long Island, New York, and elsewhere in America, was with small doubt born in Old England, and probably in the County of Norfolk, Blomefield's History of which, shows upon its pages, the name with even greater diversity of orthography than obtains here in America at the present time, applied to all sorts and conditions of men; Aldermen, Bishops, Chaplains, Esquires, Gentlemen, Lawyers, Members of Parliament, Mayors, Merchants, Priests, Priors, Rectors, Sheriffs, Sirs, Vicars and Yeoman within its bounds from early in the Fifteenth Century. In 1401 "Bukenham Manor formerly belonging to Bury Abbey was divided into small parcels, for in the feudary of that year Adam Cock of Bukenham and his partners held it. In 1479 John Coke was ordered buried in the new aisle of St. Martins Church in New Bukenham and he gave five marks towards leading [roofing] the Church". In 1631 "the site of the Close alias Cromwell's Manor in Bukenham, Attleburgh and Besthorp was settled by George Cock, Esq., Robert, Richard and Francis Cock, Gentlemen."

This would have been of small account but for the appearance on the Records of the Township of Oysterbay on Long Island about 1730 of the name "Buckram" designating a territory, then and formerly occupied by the descendants of James Cock; later shown to have been used in denoting the districts of the Highway Overseers of the Town, thus, "1741 George Frost for Buckeram, 1742 Samson Hauxhurst for Buckeram, 1743 Samson Hauxhurst for Buckerham, 1744 Joshua Cock for Buckeram, 1745 Joshua Cock for Buckerham, 1746 Hezekiah Cock for Buckeram;" and continued in vogue as name of place and Post Office until about 1854 when the progressives of the period procured the substitution of Locust Valley because of the abundance of the Robina Pseudacacia (Yellow locust) there abounding.

There is a tradition current among some branches of the family that our ancestor came from Wales, but the absence of distinctively Welsh names among the descendants tends to discredit it. Another tradition perhaps more authentic, was to the effect that the vessel on which James Cock came, encountered a great storm, in the midst of which a severe shock was felt as of striking a rock, and the vessel springing a leak, it was feared they were lost, but the persistent prayers of the passengers so prevailed that the ship was brought to land at the Bermuda Islands, and being "hove out" it appeared that the side of the vessel had been penetrated by the weapon of a great swordfish, which was broken off by the shock and remained imbedded in the planking.

Inquiries have been made and it is found that the Cock family was represented at the Bermudas even earlier than James Cock's arrival thereat. Whether he tarried awhile or continued with the vessel, is not known, but the records of the Town of Southold, situated on the "North Fluke" of the East end of Long Island, show on a list of the inhabitants of the Village Plot in the period 1648-1658, the names of James Cook (on the map Cock) with those of Capt. John Underhill, John Bayles (also from Bermuda) Thomas Mapes (also from County Norfolk) and Thomas Terry all of whom were associated with him at Seatauke and Oysterbay.

These records also show that James Cock was in the use of a House and Lot which Geoffrey Easty on August 12, 1657 did sell to Thomas Mapes of Southold, planter, and which Thomas Mapes conveyed on Apr. 14, 1659, to Henry Case, describing it as "late in occupation of James Cock".

There were Quakers at Southold, notably Humphrey Norton who was haled to the court at New Haven for traducing the Rev. John Youngs, and was, for spreading sundry heretical opinions fined £20, whipped and banished from the jurisdiction. There were then and later, sympathetic with Friends, the Sylvesters, the Booths, John Hallock, who, marrying a Quaker damsel, was disinherited by his father, John Budd Sr. who was fined for entertaining Friends, and several sons of Thomas Mapes, of whom Joseph was an outspoken Member of Friends and in 1700 "desired a meeting to be appointed once a year at Southold".

Some of the Friends were Merchant-adventurers as indicated by the following from the Southold records. Certain young men without the love of their neighbors as themselves in their hearts, went down to Oysterpond Neck ostensibly to hunt for wild turkeys, but coming across some of their neighbors' swine, which had been turned on the Neck to forage for themselves and to increase and multiply, they the said hunters killed and dressed several of the swine and carrying the meat down to the ships, "traded it with the Quakers for cloathes", one of the men getting for his barrel of Pork "a cloate, a read suite and a Silk Neck Cloath".

Southold with Setauket, Huntington and Oysterbay had a very considerable trade with the West India Islands, sending thither salted meats and pipe-staves with which to construct barrels, hogsheads and pipes to contain the sugar, molasses, rum and sack for the return cargo, which then being transhipped to smaller vessels, was delivered in New Amsterdam without payment of customs duty to the Dutch.

Our ancestor next appears at Ashford on Cromwell Bay, alias Setauket, in the now Town of Brookhaven, about forty miles west of Southold, bounded north by the Sound, and being opposite Bridgeport in Connecticut. He was accompanied thither by Capt. John Underhill, William Frost, Thomas Mapes, John Bayles, and probably William Simson and Samuel Dayton. With his neighbors at Setauket he joined in the following petition to the General Court at Hartford; the original of which is still to be seen in the Connecticut State Archives at Hartford.

"Cromwell Bay alias Setauke Aug. ye 6, 1659 It having pleased God to dispose the harts of us the inhabitants of the place aforesaid, to subject our plantation, persons and estats under the protection and government of the Coloney of conetoke, for the full accomplishment of the premises, wee the said inhabitance doe request the favour of our trusty and beloved associates Ensign Alexander Brian and Samuel Sherman to solicit our union with the said Colloney, that we may be accepted a member of the sayd body pollutick; the terms specified in all humbleness, three years rate free in respect of our low estate and charge in poynt of purchas, Secondly, in regard of our remoteness from the head Court and the uncertain passage over the Sound; that like privilege might be granted us liveing on Long Island equall with South and East Hampton; the aforesaid terms being granted unto us, wee, the sayd inhabitance aothorize the sayd Alixander and Samuel to ratifie and conclude the sayd union as if wee the sayd inhabitance were personally present. Subscribed with a unanimous Consent, the day and date above written". Signed by "John Underhill, Richard Woodhull, Roger Cheston, John Jenner, William Frost, Thomas Harlow, James Cock, John Diar, Edward Rous, Thomas Francis, Thomas Mabbes, George Wood, Henry Rogers, Robert Acreley. These in the name of the rest."

Colonial Record of Connecticut. Vol. 1. p. 40-1 At a session of the General Court at Hartford, Oct. 6, 1659. "Cromwell Bay being propounded to this Court to be admitted and receaved under this Government, The Court considering the same, have and doe declare their willingness to accept the said plantation of Setauke under this Jurisdiction, soe far as they do not intrench upon the Articles of Confederation with the other Colonies and therefore desire the inhabitants of Setauke to attend the next sitting of the Commissioners at New Haven and if they think meet to act for and in their own behalf in ye premises". The mark of our Ancestor as on above record, is "James X Coke".

James Cock seems to have had several allotments of land at Setauke in 1661 which were assigned to Henry Perrin, and early in 1662 he appears in Oysterbay as purchasing a House and house lot.

Oyster Bay so called (in 1650 by Cornelis Van Tienhoven, Secretary of the Province,) from the great abundance of fine and delicate oysters which are found there, is an arm of the Sound running in Southerly between two headlands, Lloyd's Neck on the East and Hog (now Centre) Island on the West, situated about thirty miles East of New York, and opposite Stamford on the mainland. From this Bay was named the territory purchased of the Indians, Anno Domini, one thousand six hundred and fifty three, as followseth.

"This writing witnesseth ye Assiapum alias Mohenes have Sold unto Peter Wright, Samuel Mayo & William Leverich, their Heires, Executors, Administrators & Assignes all His Land Lying & Scituate

The expedition for the settlement of Oyster Bay was organized by Rev. William Leverich who came in the “James” from London to New England in 1633 and preached in Boston and other places including Sandwich, Cape Cod, where he arranged with Samuel Mayo, owner of the sloop “Desire” of Barnstable, Capt. John Dickinson, to bring his and Peter Wright’s goods and chattels to Oyster Bay. The vessel was seized while in Hempstead Harbor by one Thomas Baxter under pretence of authority from Rhode Island while cruising against the Dutch, the vessel being as was alleged within the limits of Dutch territory. On an appeal to the General Court at Hartford by Mayo it was adjudged that Baxter should pay
Mr. Leverich £150, but that the sails, ropes, two guns &c &c if returned with the vessel should be accounted as £18 toward that amount.

Coming to Oyster Bay in 1662 James Cock must have found there besides those mentioned in the Indian Deed, Nicholas and Caleb Wright, Robert Forman and sons, Francis Weekes and sons, John, Henry and Richard Townsend, Daniel, Robert and Nathaniel Coles, Nicholas Simkins, Richard Harcourt, Jonas Halstead and John*
Dickinson, with sundry of whose progeny his descendants later formed alliances.

The records of the Town of “Oysterbay” (the official title of the Township as distinguished from “Öyster Bay” designating the “settlement place” or “Village”) show as follows:—

“Oysterbay this 2th of ye 6 month 1662. Be it Known Unto all men by this presence, that I, John Digeson of Oyster bay on Long Island do hereby Acknowledge and Confess to have fully Sold all my Right, Title and Interest of ye House and house lot that was Henry Desborah’s, which is Two thirds of ye lot Granted by ye Sd Town bounded with my Land on ye East and henry Townsend’s Land on ye West and ye highway on ye Southend: and I have also Sold with it one Shear of Meadow at Montinecock and all common rights & privilidges of Common Land & Timber yt do any ways [appertain] to or belong to ye Sd house & Lot as other Townsmen have, yt is to be taken up; unto James Coke of Seacaucket on ye Sd Island for Satisfaction already received and do hereby promise to fence half between my land and yt I have Sold, provided James do fence ye other haff with me. I say I have Sold and am to deliver the afore named house and Lott with all ye appurtenances above mentioned on ye Last of 8th month next Ensuing ye date hereof and yt I am to give quiet possession, Having Sold it from me, my heirs and assigns. To him his heirs and assigns [forever] to Injoye Without Molestation by me or any from me, as witness my hand. In presence of us John Dickinson (Seal) the mark X of John Townsend

Henery Townsend.”

This property was in the Westerly part of the “Town” as the residential portion was called, near the Mill built by the Townsends, and here our ancestor lived until 1669, acquiring by Town Meeting grants, purchase and exchange, some considerable increase to his holdings; served in 1668 and 1669 as one of the four Overseers, who with the Constable constituted the Town Government, and in May of the latter year made the following contract with the Indians:—

“Oyster Baye this 29th of May 1669.

Under the foregoing Deed of conveyance eight generations of the Cock name have here lived about two hundred and thirty years. This deed was, in the ’60s, mounted on canvas for better preservation, but insects, attracted by the paste, having wrought injury, it was hermetically sealed between glass plates about twenty years ago, at which time the photograph herein reproduced was made. The original is in possession of Miss Emily Cock, at Oyster Bay, L. I., 1912.

This purchase from the aborigines was bounded north by a “little neuk” or strip of salt meadow separating it from the Beach of Long Island Sound. This beautiful beach, formed in pre-historic times by the winds and waves wearing down and distributing longitudinally the detritus from the adjacent headlands of Oak Neck on the East and Fox Island on the West, lies about opposite Byram Point, Port Chester, on the Mainland. The Plantation was bounded on the East by the Salt Meadows of Oak Neck Creek, West by the meadows of Simson’s or Frost’s Creek, and South by Matthew Priar’s plantation, being about three fourths of a mile in length North and South and containing probably one hundred acres of arable land. The soil is glacial drift, covered, except on the few elevations, with fine sand blown from the beach, and noted in more recent times for the production of superior asparagus. The dwelling was situate at the south end of the tract, facing South and near a convenient water supply, there having been as noted in some early descriptions a “Run” or little brook, just south of the house.

From Town Records:—

“At a Town Meeting held ye 12th January 1669/70 Whereas James Cock hath purchased of John Tompson a piece of Medow which was given him by ye Town; upon ye request of James Cock ye Town hath given him leave to lay down as much of ye South End of ye Medow as he shall think fit & to take up as much at ye North End as he shall lay down at ye South end, provided he ye said James doeth leave A. Sufficient highway for carting &c, &c, And James Cock also doeth in ye presents of ye Town, Ingaige myself, my heirs & assignes, for Ever to leave out of my land at Matinecock for a highway for ye Towne's-use on ye West side of my land, one pole wide ye whole length of my land & on ye North End, Joining to ye Medow which was given by ye Indians to Capt. John Underhill, Six pole wide ye breadth of my land.

Matinecock, as a local designation, according to Mr. Wm. Wallace Tooker, than whom I know no higher authority on the etymology of the language of the Aborigines, is a purely descriptive term, signifying a "Hill-country" or the "Land that overlooks". The following extracts from the Hempstead records indicate its early settlement.

"This Indenture or Covenant made between the Inhabitants of ye Towne of Hempsted upon Long Island in ye New Netherlands on the one part, and Thomas Terry and Samuel Deering, [or Dayton] Planters, on ye other part, Witnessing, the ye foresaid Inhabitants of Hempsted, upon ye sute and request of the aforesaid planters for granting them Liberty to setle themselves upon a parcell of ground on the North side of ye Iland, on the East side of our harboure, Bounded on ye West side by that Bay Commonly Called Hempsted Harbour, and one ye South side by ye harbour hill, And so by an east line to run as far as their boundes goe, and so downe to ye North Sea. The said Inhabitants of Hempsted do grant their request, and freely give leave to the aforesaid Planters to setle themselves, and some of their friends on that tract of land above Described, to have and hold it and Injoy the priviledges thereof by our Patent. With these Conditions, that ye aforesaid Planters shall engage themselves and any that they shall bring with them, or any of their successors, not to trespass against ye towne of Hempsted, by letting any of their Cattell Come upon ye great plaines and spoyle their corne or do the like harme, and if they shall, to make satisfaction to any person or persons so wronged. Also the abovesaid Planters do Ingaige themselves, and those they bring, and their successors to bring in no Quakers, or any like opinionists to bee inhabitants amongst them, but such as shall be approved by the Inhabitants of Hempsted, And furthermore they binde themselves and their Company that shall settle with them and Inhabit in ye aforessaid plantation, or trackt of Land granted by the Town of Hempsted, to bee subject to ye Laws of Hempsted according to their Patent, Accounting themselves to bee and being members of ye said Towne of Hempsted” . . . “and whereas there being not any Limytation of what number of persons or families should be settled thereon: Therefore it is now further hereby confirmed, and likewise agreed and concluded upon by certaine Men formerly Chosen and appointed by the Towne for that purpose, and Mr. Thomas Terry, that hee ye said Mr. Thomas Terry shall settle seven families there-upon forthwith (as soon as Convenience will suffer) And that the towne shall have liberty (if they see good) for to make them up to ten families at the least. In witness whereof both parties do here- unto subscribe their hands this 23d Day of June 1663.

Matinecock at this period was supposed to have been included in the Sale by the Indians, and Patent executed by the Dutch Governor Kieft to the Wethersfield and Stamford Company of Englishmen coming hither under the leadership of Rev. Richard Denton in 1640, but in the lapse of twenty years the new generation of the natives coveted more pay for the land and in a suit before the Governor and Council claimed that they had not sold Matinecock to the English, and that the payment was so inconsiderable that there was very little for the many to receive it. It was adjudged by the Council that Hempstead's title to all of Matinecock was defective, but that the English that were then seated on said Matinecock lands were under no pretence to be be molested or disturbed. And the Governor wrote to Capt. John Underhill “It is not that I give very much credit to what they [the Indians] say but for quietness sake and to prevent all further contests, I do recommend that you agree amongst your selves to give ye Indians some gift or gratuity in requital, since they say they have never received any pay for the land”. Pursuant to this advice, negotiations were concluded by which at Kelenworth (colloquially Killingworth) on 22d day of June 1667 the Indian Proprietors Aseton, Arumpas, Seahor, Nothe, Sometamok, Shoskeene and Matares executed deeds conveying to Robert Williams, William Simson (assigned to William Frost) John Dyer (assigned to William Hudson) Henry Reddocke (passed to Joseph and Samuel Weekes) Christopher Hawxhurst, Matthew Priar and Nathan Birdsell, each a specified tract of upland and an undivided one seventh interest in the adjacent salt meadows, together with a right of commongage of grassing and timber in the unallotted part of the whole tract. This is very quaintly located and described in an agreement between the representatives of the township at large and those of the proprietors under the Seven Purchase Deeds, so called, to wit—

“We do agree and consent yt our Neighbours now Inhabiting Killingworth upon Matinecock, shall have ye privilege to purchase all ye lands yt lies to purchase upon Matinecock Neck lying on ye North side of ye Footpath between Oyster Bay and Musketa Cove by way of ye Sho [chute], so called and to possesse it from any claim of ye Town as their other lands they now improve, which said Footpath shall be their limits or bounds Southwards”.

In the location of the several allotments of upland Robert Williams had “The Easter most of the two Matinecock Islands, so called” some time earlier than this known as “Meutalear Island” and subsequently Woolsey’s Island and Butler’s Island when owned respectively by Rev. Benjamin Woolsey and Mr. John Butler, now known as East Island, owned and occupied by Mr. J. Pierrepont Morgan Jr. Williams also had a small allotment of four acres on the mainland about where the Price mansion now stands, which with enlarged bounds came into the possession of Daniel Whitehead a noted man of the period; he gave it to his daughter Mary who married John Taylor, and he dying intestate it passed to his only child Abigail, who became as per record the wife of the Rev. Benjamin Woolsey, “Dissenting, Protestant, Presbyterian Minister” who it is believed, called the estate “Dos uxoris” literally the “wife’s dowry” modified in current usage to “Dosoris”.

John Dyer’s allotment assigned to William Hudson, was a part of the farm of the late Dr. James Cock Townsend, sometime occupied by Samuel49, son of Henry Cock, and grandson of James the settler.

William Simson, (some time of Setauket) from whom the Creek now known as Frost Creek was named, had his house lot by the side of Samuel Dayton’s Swamp, northeast of the Frost family burial place, and another lot on which the house and outbuildings of the late Valentine Frost stood, both of which were assigned to William Frost in 1674.

Henry Reddocke as he signed it, or Reddough as his daughter wrote it, came from Rhode Island, where he had been Town Clerk of Warwick. He had Lots 58 and 59 according to a survey made by the Hempstead authorities, which passed at his death about 1674 to his two sons-in-law, Joseph and Samuel Weekes, sons of Francis Weekes.

Christopher Hawkhurst’s lot came next east of Reddocke’s, with same north and south bounds, and with the residence plot on the south end, on north side of road to Matinecock. He married a dughter of Henry Reddocke.

Matthew Prior as he wrote it, later by his descendants Prier, Prior and on sundry records Pryer, an English Friend coming hither from Setauket, with a remarkably interesting history, had the next allotment.

Nathan Birdsall had the seventh lot and was James Cock’s nearest neighbor, He was from Massachusetts and had been successively at New Haven, East Hampton and Southold before coming to Matinecock.

Adjacent to the Birdsall lot on the East was another lot of Matthew Prior, sold in 1678 to his son-in-law John Underhill, son of the great Indian fighter, Capt. John Underhill, on which it is believed the younger John built some part of the house still standing on the site now (1912) owned and occupied by Mr. Cutcheon.
South of the Priar second lot was a tract of one hundred and fifty acres given by the Indians to Capt. John Underhill, who after exterminating some hundred of them seems to have brought the remnant "to heel" and became their adviser in the contest with Hempstead about the payment for their lands. Capt. John Underhill came to Matinecock as a Deputy Sheriff and Surveyor of the customs, in an endeavor by the Government to break up the smuggling then rife in the Harbors on the north side of Long Island, especially at Oyster Bay and Musketa Cove. Accompanying him came his young bro-in-law John Feke (as he wrote it) son of Lieut. Robert Feake and Bess Fones, the widow of Henry Winthrop, and it appears that he gave young Feke the Southeast part of the tract received from the Indians, on which Feke built and reared a family of considerable note, the last representatives of which in this vicinity were Mrs. Thomas F. Underhill and the late Miss Emelina A. Feeks.

Killingworth as a territorial designation first appears on the Town records in the form of Kelenworth at the heading of each of the "Seven Purchase deeds," June 22d, 1667, and subsequently in same year in deed of Capt. John Underhill of Killingworth to George Dennes of Oyster Bay; in deed 1669, Matthew Priar of Killingworth to Richard Townsend, and in deed 1672, Robert Williams to John Frost of Killingworth. This name, if given by Capt. John Underhill in memory of the town of Kenilworth, Warwickshire, Eng. applied not only to the Underhill possessions but to the territory included in the "Seven Purchase" deeds, as is amply shown in sundry places on public records.

Friends' Meetings were held and marriages performed at Killingworth in the houses of James Cock, Matthew Priar, John Underhill Jr, and John Feke, as well as at Oyster Bay, where the house of Anthony Wright was spoken of as being "the usual place of meeting".

1671, witness to will of Capt. John Underhill.
1673, witness as "ye mark of Jeames Coke" to a settlement between the heirs of his neighbor Henry Reddocke, deceased.
1682, Buys of Susconeman and Werah, Chief Proprietors of Matinecock Lands, 40 acres of Woodland "bounded north and east by ye Commons or unsold land, south by ye footpath from Oyster Bay to Musketa Cove and west by Christopher Hawxhurst taking in ye Boges near ye halfway tree". This land, including other lots subsequently purchased, adjacent to the site of the Friends' Meeting House, built in 1725, was given to his son John, and the fine spring in the midst of "ye Boges" is still (1912) enjoyed by the seventh generation.

1683 On the list of the Estates of Oysterbay, Jeames Cok is marked for tax on £100.
1683/4 Was one of the witnesses to an Agreement by Ann Coles, widow of John Coles of Matinecock, to assign to her son Solomon Coles ye one half of ye estate his father left at her disposal, she being about to change her condition by a marriage with William Lines (or Loines).

1684 Witness on behalf of the Town of Oysterbay, on account of the establishment of a line of division between it and the Town of Huntington, by Thomas Townsend & Nathaniel Coles for Oysterbay and John Wickes & Thomas Powell for Huntington, Jos: Hubartt witness for Huntington.

1684 With Thomas Townsend, arbitrates the difference between William Frost and Samuel Tillar, about their respective boundaries.

1684 Buys of Susconeman, Sawmus and Quaropin, land, described as bounded by "ye cartpath by ye Rock at ye head of ye Hol- low, to muscheda cove, ye East bounder, ye highway to muscheda Cove ye North bounder, ye highway or cartpath from Matinecock as now laid out on ye west side of Benjamin and Steven Burchall's lands his west bounds, and ye said Burchall's lands ye south bound- er; acres more or less." This with the addition of the Burchall (Birdsall) lands acquired later, constituting the Piping Rock farm, given to his son James.

1684/5 Deed extinguishing the Indian claim of title to Matinecock land, by the Indians to James Cock, John Underhill and John Feke, (and seventeen others) "all our land unsold upon Matinecock bounded East by Oysterbay Ancient Purchase, on ye South by ye line between Hempstead, and Oysterbay, on ye west by ye highway from Musketa Cove to ye Plains, which highway is on ye west side of ye Cedar Swamp and north by several men's lands formerly sold by ye Indians".

1687 Gives to son John Cock, 31 acres of land on south side of the Hollow or Littleworth old Footpath, being part of his dividend in the foregoing deed.

Note, The Rock heretofore referred to as "at ye head of ye Hol- low [or road] to Muscheda Cove", and subsequently applied to the "Piping Rock Farm" is on the north side of the highway to Mus- keta (now Glen) Cove, at the south east corner of the premises of Mr. Pate. The origin of the name is in doubt, but in one rendering of the name on the Town records as "ye pipe and tree Rock" there seems to be possible ground for the tradition that here the aborigines and the settlers smoked the pipe of Peace.

In the Oysterbay Town Records, Book "C", p. 19, appears the will of James Cock.

"In presence of God and ye witnesses hereof I, James Cock, senior of Matinecock do make & ordaine this my last will & Testament, In manner and form following.

Imprimis. I give to my son Thomas Cock, Twenty six acres of Land, be it more or less lying near Jerico, Joying to Thomas Miller's land, with Half Lot of meadow lying at ye South upon ye Little neck.

Item, I give unto my son John Cock ye Land which he now lives on, as may appear by deed of Gift already given to him for ye same & I also give my said son John, half ye Meadow I had of ye Town of Oysterbay with ye share of my meadow yt Lyeth upon Unqua Neck.

Item, I give to my son James Cock all my land lying on ye South side of Musketa Cove path with two third parts of my right of Commons, In ye new purchase to him and his assigns forever.

Item, I give to my son James my meadows I had of John Tomp- son, to him and his assigns forever.

Item, I give to my son Henry Cock my Homestead with all my Land & Rights of Land or Commons in Matinecock with all ye housing, fencing, orchard, and Improvements thereon, whatsoever, With all my Right upon Oak Neck and Pine Island, together with half my meadow yt I had of ye Town of Oysterbay with one third part of my Right of Commons, In ye new purchase, all which above- said, I give to him & his assigns forever.

Item, I give after mine and my wife's Decease all ye movables that there remains, to be Equally divided betweene my four Daughters, Mary Bowne, Hannah Delaplaine, Sarah Cock & Martha Cock.

Item. It is to be understood yt all ye above said land and meadow Given unto my said Sons shall not be [alienat]ed by them nor any one of them until my and my wife's decease But yt I and my wife shall have possession thereof to use either part or ye whole as we shall see cause or have occasion as long as we Live and then my said sons to enjoy it as aforesaid after our Decease, and I do hereby appoint my loving friends John ffeake and John Dewsbury to be ye overseers of this my last will to see it performed. In witness thereof I have hereunto Sett my hand & Seale this twenty third day of Jully 1699.

Signed, Sealed & Delivered

In presence of us
Nathan Birdsal
Daniel Underhill
Henry Birdsal"

Daniel Underhill presented the will before Justice Thomas Hicks and Daniel Whitehead and Edward White Esquires and it was approved 10th Mo. (Dec) 11, 1699.

Nothing is known regarding the ancestral relations of Sarah the wife of James Cock. No reasonable suggestion of consanguinity with any of the neighboring families at either of the places at which he was settled has been heard. The temporary occupancy of Thomas Mapes' house and lot at Southold by James Cock, and the appearance together of the names of Mapes and Cock in their progress westward, seem to suggest a possible connection of some kind, but no proof appears.

John Bayles likewise coming to Southold via the Bermudas, whose children intermarried with the Mapes family and removed westward on Long Island coincident with James Cock, might possibly have been Sarah's ancestor, but proof is lacking.

Since writing the foregoing the compilers think they have had sufficient reason to believe that the family name of Sarah, the wife of James Cock, was Clarke, probably sister of Samuel Clarke, of North Sea, Southampton, Long Island, N. Y. (See Appendix).

From the earliest record of the Society of Friends on Long Island.

SECOND GENERATION

2 MARY (COCK) BOWNE (James') b. 1/11 mo. (Jan.) 1655; d. Flushing, Long Island, N. Y.; m. there at the house of John Bowne, the usual place of Meeting for the Society of Friends in Flushing 26/4 mo. (June) 1693, to the said John Bowne, as his third wife, he having previously had to wife, 1st, Hannah Feake, dau. of Lieut. Robert Feake and Elizabeth (Fones) Winthrop his wife, and 2d, Hannah Bickerstaff late from Tupton, Derbyshire, Eng. with a certificate as to clearness. John Bowne was b. at Matlock, Derbyshire, Eng. 9/3 mo. (May) 1625 and d. at Flushing 20/10 mo (Dec) 1695, "and was buried ye 23 day of the same, being about 68 years of age; he did Freely Expose himself, his house and Estate to ye Service of Truth and had a Constant Meeting In his house near About forty years; hee also suffered very much for ye truths seak". (See Appendix).

Issue by 3d wife (Bowne):

i Amey, b. 1/2 mo. (Apl.) 1694; d. 7/9 mo. (Nov.) 1733; m. 14/9 mo. (Nov.) 1717, Richard Hallett, b. 17/9 mo (Nov) 1691; d. 19/5 mo (May) 1769; son of William and Sarah (Woolsey) Hallett of Newtown, Long Island.

ii Ruth, b. 30/11 mo. (Jan.) 1695/6; d. young, no record.

Amey was probably named after Amey Borden, second wife of William Richardson, who in his will dated 20/10 mo (Dec) 1692, bequeathed to "Mary Cock £20 her just due, and all my last wife’s wearing apparel, with childbed linen, also one pair of silver-hafted knives and a pair of scissors, with silver chain to them” &c, indicating a near relationship, perhaps cousins of some degree.

3 THOMAS COCK (James') b. Southold, Long Island, 15/8 m. (Oct) 1658; d. before 1691 at Lusum, now Jericho, Long Island; m. Hester or Esther Williams, dau. of Robert and Sarah (Washbourne) Williams. 1685/6 A committee of Friends was appointed to labor with Thomas Coke to bring him to a sense of his condition. 1687 Committee to get Thomas Coke and Hester to write a paper to the world proclaiming ye truth, but nothing further appearing in the records as to this it is probable that they had been married by a Magistrate, contrary to good order amongst Friends. 1680 His father gave him 26 acres of land adjoinig the Line of Division between the Town and Robert Williams at or near Lusum, now Jericho, L. I.

1691. Sarah Williams, widow of Robert, with sons John and Hope, did formerly give and grant to Thomas Cock, now deceased, W. Burling (733) Cocks' house, on or about the site of John (5) Cock's house.

Peter (251) Cock's house, built 1846, near the site of James (1) Cock's house which stood at the left of the foreground till that date.
10 acres of land lying East of Henry Townsend, for which he had no writings to show; We now allow it to Esther, relict of ye said Thomas and dau. of Sarah Williams, and to her son John Cock and daughter Charity Cock, being at Springfield near Lusum. (? Lewis- ham, a suburb of London at that date).

1693. Sarah Williams, widow of Robert, bequeaths “to my young- est daughter Hester Cock, my great Brass Kettle, but to lend it to her brothers and sisters on account of boiling cider; also my House in the orchard, during her widowhood, also my neger man for six years and then to be appraised and given to whatever master he chooses and who will pay for him; Hester is to have the wheat on the ground and one fifth of the stock & moveable”.

Issue:
† 11 John, m. 1710 Lydia Cooper.

5 JOHN COCK (James^4) b. Oyster Bay, Long Island, 22/11 mo. (Jan.) 1666; d. on the farm his father gave him, situate near and adjacent to the site whereon the Matinecock Meeting House was erected a few years after his death, which occurred between 15/12 mo (Feb) 1716/7 and 10/10 mo (Dec) 1717. The Westbury M. M. Records show 29/11 mo (Jan) 1706 “John Cock gave a paper condemning his marrying twice out of unity of Friends, which was accepted” Also shown on record of Friends’ “Sufferings” John Cock had “some Bacon carried off by Benjamin Carpenter because he would not train with the Militia”. John m. 2d Dorothy Har- curt (Harquart) b. Oyster Bay, d. Matinecock between 31/11 mo (Jan.) 1738/9 and 17/10 mo. (Dec.) 1739, dau. of Richard and Eliz- abeth (Potter) Harcourt of Oyster Bay Cove and earlier of Rhode Island. (See Appendix)

Issue by first wife (name unknown):
† 13 Hannah, b. 23/8 mo. (Oct.) 1689; m. Matthew Priar.
† 14 Thomas, b. 14/11 mo. (Feb.) 1692; m. Hannah __________.

Issue by second wife:
† 15 John, b. 25/1 mo. (Mar.) 1698; d. unm. before 1734.

Dorothy, dau. of John & Hannah (Feke) Bowne, who died 26/9 (Nov) 1690, without living issue. He was a bricklayer by trade and was sometime a landholder at Oak Neck, near James Cock. History of First Settlers of Newton Township (now Camden) N. J. show that in 1700 Henry Franklin of Flushing L. I. sold to John Champion of Hempstead 330 acres of land in Camden Co, to which he previously removed. Flushing M. M. records show 4/9 mo (Nov) 1707, a "Testimonial against Henry Franklin for an unbridled tongue," of which he later states, "yt he hoops to be more Carefull on all occasions for ye time to come"

Issue by 2d wife (Franklin):

MARmIAGE CERTIFICATE OF JAMES (B) COCK, 1698
8 JAMES COCK (James') b. Killingworth upon Matinecock, Long Island, 4/2 mo (Apl) 1674; d. Buckram, now Locust Valley, L. I. 26/3 mo (May) 1728; m. Matinecock, 1/10 mo (Dec) 1698, Hannah Feke, b. there 6/8 mo (Oct) 1695; d. Buckram 28/2 mo (Apl) 1750, noted on the Westbury M. M. record of her death as an "innocent (pure) woman," dau. of John & Elizabeth (Priar) Feke of Killingworth. (See Appendix). The marriage certificate of which a copy is herein reproduced is still extant in possession of George W. Cocks of the seventh generation. The noted minister Thomas Chalkley, who signed this certificate as a witness, writes in his journal at this time, "We had a meeting at a place called Matinecock, where I met with some of the people called Ranters, who disturbed our meeting. I may say as the apostle Paul (only altering Ephesus to Matinecock, I fought with beasts there"; referring to the "Ranters" who gave Friends much trouble at this time. James Cock was given by his father's will "all my land lying on ye South side of ye Musketa Cove Path" comprising about 200 acres, bought by his father James Cock and Benjamin Birdsall of the Indians in 1684/5, later known as the "Piping Rock Farm"; resided there until his purchase of the Samuel Birdsall homestead on west side of road to Matinecock, late in the occupation of Joshua Cock of the Seventh generation. Here he died, as per Will, before 10/4 mo (June) 1728. On a commission to re-establish a Boundary Line "Wee Coll. Isaac Hicks, William Willis, & Thomas Williams with the consent and voat of ye Town of Hempstead together with Capt. Jarwise Mudge, Jeames Cock & Samuel Underhill, chosen at a Town Meeting in oysterbay the second of November 1723—did on the second and third days of December 1723 Perambulate and Remark ye old marked trees from ye East sid of hempstead harbourne Right over against the East end of ye bar of beach to a walnut tree at Cantiage point and remarked the trees with a splice down ye north west and south east side of ye old marked trees & three Chops on the South west & North east sides of sd trees".

Thomas Story, a visiting Friend, had a Meeting at John Feake's house on the occasion of the marriage of his daughter to Henry Cock, "The Ranters Kept pretty still most of the time, save one old man who hooted like an Owl, making a ridiculous noise as their manner is and stood up and bore testimony against Friends' set forms of Marriage".

Henry was one of the first Overseers of the Westbury Meeting in 1705. As shown by an account of Sufferings at the back of the Book of Ministers and Elders of Flushing and Westbury, "Taken from Henry Cock ye 13d. 12mo. 1707/8 by John Weaks, Constable of, Oysterbay, three bushels of oats worth four shillings & six pence for ye priest John Thomas of Hempstead, his demand was 3s 9d by warrant from John Townsend, Justis of ye peac."

above Norwich" about 1725; m. Hannah (perhaps dau. of James Dickinson) who survived him. The Town Records show that in 1718 "Thomas Cock for £140 paid by Dorothy Cock, [his stepmother] sold all my lands & meadows given me by will of my father." Also show that for £126 he had bought of James Townsend a tract of land near Norwich, in 1719 mortgaged to his uncle Henry Cock, which Mortgage was canceled, and his widow Hannah sold the property to Thomas Townsend. The names of the children were discovered by the appearance of certain indemnity Bonds executed by them in settlement of their Uncle John Cock's estate, preserved in an ancient desk some time in use by John Cock, the father of Thomas, and now (1912) in possession of William E. Clowes of Hempstead, a descendant of John Cock* of James*.

15 JOHN COCK (John*, James*) b. Matinecock, L. I. near the site of the present Friends' Meeting House, 25/1 mo. (Mar.) 1698; d. unm. Duck Pond, in the bounds of Musketa Cove, L. I., prior to 1734, as shown in the Records of the N. Y. Surrogates Office, in appointment of his brothers Daniel and James as administrators. By his father's will he was given 20 acres at the southwest part of the homestead, the southerly part of which in 1725, he, as "John Cock, son of John Cock, dec'd," conveyed to James Cock, Henry Cock and Samuel Underhill as Trustees, for Westbury Monthly Meeting, two small pieces of land, situate, one on ye East and ye other on ye West side of the road to Jericho and both on the North side of the road to Musketa Cove. On the East 10 rods North and South and 8 rods East and West, ½ acre (for a Burial place,) and on the West side adjoining the Townsend Plantation as far North as the crook in the road to Matinecock, for the Building of a Meeting House," which was erected the same year by John Mott. John's mother having purchased the property of William Carpenter, in the Musketa Cove Patent, called "Duck Pond", gave part of it to him, on which he conducted his business until his death. He was a Cordwainer, i. e. shoemaker.

16 DANIEL COCK (John*, James*) b. Matinecock 5/8 mo (Oct) 1699; d. Duck Pond, Musketa Cove, L. I. according to his will dated 3.7.1771, proven 5.1.1771; m. 1st (supposed) Levine, widow of John Carman and dau. of Daniel and Elizabeth (Coombes) Kissam. She d. without known issue. m. 2d 27/2 mo (Apl) 1748, Sarah Rushmore, dau. of Thomas and Sarah (? Lefferts) Rushmore. She died before 1765 and he m. 3d before 10.29.1766 Susannah Youngs, dau. of Richard and Phebe (Weekes) Youngs of Oyster Bay, who survived him.

He was a Friend and farmer and one of the promoters of a ferry to Rye from Fox Island Beach. His mother gave him the farm she bought in part from William Carpenter and part from John Lovell, and at time of his death he was occupying the John Lovell portion now (1912) belonging to Charles F. Willits. Westbury M. M. records show 10.29.1766, "Daniel Cock having married out of Unity of Friends to one too near of kin to be married amongst Friends, and he having been precautioned and advised against the marriage, in the judgement of the Meeting a paper should be drawn up to disown him against the next M. M. unless superseded by his sincere acknowledgement and condemnation". At next M. M. the paper was ordered signed by the Clerk, and John and Joshua Cock were directed to inform him. Susannah was a grandchild of his mother's sister, in common parlance "1st and 2d cousins".

Issue, by 2d marriage:

† 43 Sarah, b. 6/1 mo. (Mar.) 1748/9; m. Jacob Coles.

17 MERIBAH (COCK) TOWNSEND (John, James) b. Matinecock, L. I. 2/1 mo (Mar) 1701/2. m. there 1st Joshua Townsend, son of James and Jean (Reddough) Townsend, of Cedar Swamp, now Greenvale, L. I. He bought of Robert Townsend's sons, and resided on, the land formerly of Caleb and Harvey Coles, situate near Glen Cove (? Nassau) Station, L. I. R. R.; and d. there according to probate of will between 1741 and 1753 "leaving to son Noah Townsend, all that farm whereon the testator now lives, provided that if son Noah die before coming to age of 21 yrs. the real estate to be sold and one half the proceeds given to wife Meribah and other half divided between sister Patience Lovell, sister Deborah Townsend and deceased brother Ruemourn Townsend's children, Restore, Sarah and Mary", m. 2d Micajah Townsend (as his second wife) son of Mill John Townsend and his second wife Esther Smith, of Oyster Bay, "ye Town", and Meribah d. soon thereafter leaving issue by her first marriage (Townsend).

i Noah, m. Margaret Wright, dau. of Zebulon and Clemence (Feke) Wright, and d. 1763, leaving an only child Joshua, who as he grew up, determining to "go to Sea", his guardians placed him with Capt. Farley bound for London. There he shipped on a "Whaler" from which he was impressed to a man-of-war and never more heard from. The settlement of his grandfather's estate, by reason of the uncertainty of Joshua's death, was in the hands of the Executors for twenty six years.

18 HEZEKIAH COCK (John, James) b. Matinecock, L. I. 28/9 mo (Nov) 1703; d. there, will dated 4.4.1768, Proven 1.5.1769. Filed in N. Y., Liber 26, p. 493; m. Roseannah Townsend, b. Oyster Bay, 12/1 mo (Mar) 1712/3; d. about 1780, dau. of George and Roseannah (Coles) Townsend.

Hezekiah Cock was given in his father's will an equal share with his brothers John and James in the homestead and certain other lands; and a one fifth interest in all his meadows, creeks and creek thatch lying in the Town of Oysterbay &c. At the death of his brother John he became seized with an equal one half of the said homestead, and by an agreement made April, 1747, the Northern part of it, where he had doubtless been in occupation since his marriage, was specifically laid out to him, and is now in the possession of his great grandson, Hon. Townsend D. Cock.

of the present Friends Meeting House, 27/2 mo. (Apl.) 1708; d.
there 12/4 mo. (June) 1746; m. Deborah Feke, dau. of Elder Robert Feke and Clemence Ludlam of Hog Island, his wife. Deborah m.
2d Thomas Doughty, and d. 10.30.1794. In 1755 Deborah Cock appears on Wright Frost's List as having "two slaves". James was a farmer and Justice of the Peace, a birthright member among Friends, but doubtless disowned for marrying out.

Issue:
50 Phianey (modification of Levine, Vine, Phianey), b. abt. 1730; d.
unm. 11.15.1778. She desired some time to become a member of the Society of Friends and was accepted, but in 1772 was disowned as having "gone to the Baptists". Phianey, when a child, was probably the subject of an oil painting on wood by her cousin Robert Feke, the distinguished Portrait Painter of the period, still in existence, a valued possession of the chronicler hereof (George W. Cocks).

51 Loretta, b. about 1735, lived with her mother and step-father on the farm, North side of Road to Musketa Cove, opposite the now residence of Mrs. Benjamin W. Craft, and d. 5.25.1810,

20 SARAH COCK (James⁸, James⁴) b. 24/12 mo. (Jan) 1700, on the Piping Rock Farm, South of the Highway from Oyster Bay to Musketa Cove, by way of the "Shu". d. about 1784 at her brother Joshua's late residence, opposite (east) of her brother Samuel's house on west side of road to Matinecock. Joshua Cock in his will dated 28/7 mo. (called July) 1777, gives "to my sister Sarah Cock, the issues and rents of the Houses and land where I now live, and the issues and rents of the land bought of John Mott, during her life and at her decease the same to go to my cousin [nephew] Stephen Lines, son of my sister Penelope Hawxhurst". This property taxed to “Sarah Cock, single woman” appears as “paid” on the Tax List until 1784, which fixes approximately the date of her death. She was doubtless a Friend.

21 SAMUEL COCK (James⁸, James⁴) b. 20/5 mo (July) 1702, on the Piping Rock Farm; d. 20/7 mo. (Sept.) 1741, at the house probably built by Jeremiah Smith, on the little “Gore” bought of Samuel Birdsell, situate on north side of road to Musketa Cove and on west side of highway to Matinecock, at Buckram, now Locust Valley; m. 1729, probably by Elder Feke, Martha Alling, d. 1742, dau. of Abraham Alling of Oyster Bay, blacksmith, and his wife Mary Hawxhurst, widow of George Townsend. Samuel was a weaver and a farmer; was m. before 26/1 mo (Mar) 1729, at which date he “condemns his outrunning in marriage contrary to advice, and to one not of our Society”, vide Westbury M. M. Records. The identity of Samuel’s wife was discovered by the writer in the quaint settlement of a part of her father Abraham Alling’s Estate, accruing to Samuel as her husband. Samuel bought a 100 acre farm and a home lot near Susco’s wigwam, Beaver Swamp Hollow, about 1731, but as he soon sold it, lived there but about one year.

22 JOSHUA COCK (James⁸, James⁴) b. 2/7 mo (Sept) 1704, on the Piping Rock Farm; d. 3 mo. (Mar.) 1778, at his house on property situate on east side of highway to Matinecock and on south side of “the narrow Lane leading Eastward to George Frost’s Mill”. Joshua never married, but, as acknowledged by his cousin (nephew) Samuel Cock Jr., “did as Executor of his brother Samuel, take the houses and lands into his care and management, and therewith by his prudence and care bring up and support the family and children of the deceased bro. Samuel Cock in their minority”; willed legacies to sister Sarah; cousin (nephew) Stephen Lines, so called, son of sister Penelope, wife of John Hawxhurst; to kinsmen, Samuel and Clark Cock; to brother Robert Cock; to Joshua Titus, son of James Titus of Westbury, when he comes of age; to my Executors in trust for Hannah Coles wife of Joseph Coles; to cousin (niece) Elizabeth, dau. of bro. Josiah; to Executors in trust £50 for use of the poor in Westbury Meeting and £50 for same purpose in the Meeting at Harrison’s Purchase; to the children of sisters Martha Frost and Mary Frost, and of brother Josiah Cock; to bro.
Robert one of my cows, and all the remainder of my personal estate to the family of my brother Samuel.

24 JOSIAH COCK (James, James) b. 27/1 mo (Mar) 1709, on the Piping Rock Farm; d. as per will dated 7th of 9th month called September 1761, Proven June 4th 1766, at North Castle, Westchester Co., N. Y.; m. Rebecca Frost, b. 28/8 mo (Oct) 1714, dau. of William and Hannah (Priar) Frost of Killingworth upon Matinecock. On his removal to the “Main Shore” about 1758, he sold the patrimonial homestead to Daniel Kirby, who after holding it about three years, sold it to Zebulon Frost. From him it passed again to the Cock family, into possession of Clarka Cock son of Samuel. They were farmers and Friends; she although not of a Friendly Family probably became one by request.

27 MARTHA (COCK) FROST (James8, James7) b. about 1714, on the "Samuel Birdsall Place" then recently purchased by her father, now (1912) in possession of Anton Hopenyl; d. Cortlandt Manor, Westchester Co., N. Y., 3d mo (Mar.) 17.1756; m. about 1734, Joseph Frost, b. Matinecock, 4/1 mo (Mar.) 1714, d. Cortlandt Manor 1.17.1774, son of Wright and Mary (Underhill) Frost of Matinecock, L. I. Joseph was a farmer, having in 1732 received from his father by Deed of Gift, "all my land and meadows at ye South side of ye Island, upon Unkaway and Latten's Neck" (now Massapequa) which was doubtless part of the land given by the Indians in 1694 to William Frost Sen'. and John Cock, by reason of many kindnesses and favors to them granted. In 1734/5 Joseph, with his cousin Samuel Frost, sold to Thomas Wekes, "our land and meadow" at Latten's Neck, Oysterbay south, 214 acres of land and 13-1/2 acres of meadow, probably retaining his interest in the Unkaway Neck property. In 1745 he buys of Penn Townsend and Esther, for £853, a farm of 120 acres, bounded south by the road from Oyster Bay to Muskata Cove, east by the Meeting House Lot and the road to Matinecock; this in 1767 he sold to Daniel Cock and his sister Phiany, and it was occupied by their mother after her second marriage. From hence Joseph and family removed to the "Main Shore".

28 ROBERT COCK (James, James) b. on the Samuel Birdsall place, above noted, about 1718; d. Yorktown, Westchester Co., N. Y.; m. before 26 1st mo (Mar) 1739, a sister of the wife of Samuel Cock of Henry, as appears by Samuel’s will.

By the will of James Cock, father of Robert, the real estate was to be divided into three equal parts between his sons Samuel, Josiah and Joshua, and “to his son Robert £150, when of age” without any provision of land. This was remedied by the brothers, they making equivalent payments of money, with which he bought in 1742 a part of the John Mott farm with house, etc., in 1745 the Henry Springer farm adjoining the “Planting-field” Road, and in 1754 the “Buckram” lot on north side of Chechagon Swamp Road. He was a weaver and a surveyor and mentioned in will of his cousin Samuel Cock as his “brother-in-law”, they probably having married sisters. Removed to Cortlandt Manor about 1756. Vide Westbury M. M., 1st mo. 26.1739, Robert Cock spoken to in regard to his m. out of Unity; and Training with the Militia, which he condemns and wishes to be continued in care of Friends. His acknowledgment was accepted.

They were farmers and Friends. In 1741, Isaac Frost bought from Charles Wright and Mary Wright his mother, 47 acres of land with buildings thereon, on the west side of Mill River Neck, adjacent to the Papaquatunk or Beaver Swamp River, and located quite convenient to the “lumbering spring”; also, in 1754, bought of Samuel Fosdick, 8 acres in the vicinity, and in 1755 a tract from Nicholas and Townsend Weekes adjoining the road to the “Town”. In 1763 Isaac and Mary Frost sold the abovemented farm to John Underhill of John and Rebecca (Frost) Underhill, in which family it continued for four generations. There is on it now the Mill Neck R. R. Station and Post Office.
Isaac and family removed to Crom Pond in Cortlandt Manor, now Tp. of Cortlandt, Westchester Co, N. Y. and thence to Tp. of Clinton, Dutchess Co, N. Y.

38 ELIZABETH (COCK) TOWNSEND (Henry⁶, James³) b. Killingworth, Long Island, 14/10 mo (Dec) 1715; d. Duck Pond, Musketa Cove, L. I. 11.30.1794; m. William Townsend of Oyster Bay and Duck Pond, b. Oyster Bay 13/2 mo (Apr) 1716; d. Duck Pond, of small-pox 5.5.1777, the first interment in the little cemetery, adjacent to the (1912) Nassau Country Club, at Glen Cove, L. I.
“William Townsend in the Revolution was a warm Whig, and in consequence had his house filled with troops and refugees, to his great loss and annoyance”, vide “Townsend Memorial”. The Provincial Council minutes show that his son-in-law Daniel Cock was Captain of a Militia Company in the District of Musquito Cove, L. I. Issue (Townsend):

i James, b. 26/4 mo (June) 1742, Oyster Bay, L. I.; d. Duck Pond 9.12.1798; m. 24.1.1762, Freeloove Wilmot, b. 2.25.1744; d. 7.21.1809, dau. of Rev. Walter Wilmot and Freeloove, dau. of Jotham and Martha (Coles) Townsend, of Duck Pond, L. I.

40 SAMUEL COCK (Henry\(^{6}\), James\(^{1}\)) b. Killingworth on Matinecock, L. I. about 1720; d. Lattingtown, L. I. as appears by will dated 10/6 mo (Aug) 1754, proven 23/5 mo (May) 1755, filed in New York Surrogate’s Office, Liber 19. p. 264; wife not mentioned, probably then deceased, children as below; Executors brothers John and Henry Cock and bro.-in-law Robert Cock\(^{48}\), Witnesses Wright, Thomas and Zebulon Frost, who were his near neighbors. His father’s will of 1724 shows bequest “to my youngest son Samuel, the principal sum of money now in the hands of Nathaniel Seaman, when he comes of age, and the interest to go to my wife; I also give to my son Samuel, my negro Girl Pegge”. No record of Samuel’s birth or marriage or the name of his wife has so far been discovered. From an analysis of the given names of the female descendants of Samuel, and noting the persistent preferences, it would seem probable that his wife’s given name should have been Hannah; and from the gist of the will of George Bayles (shown in next Generation) who m. Martha, dau. of Samuel, it likewise appears exceedingly probable that her patronymic was Bayles, and a descendant of John Bayles, born in England 1617, coming from thence in the “True Love” to the Bermudas in 1655, and subsequently to Southold in 1656, and a contemporary of James Cock there and at Setauket.

The records of the Township of Oysterbay show that Samuel Cock, of Henry, was an Overseer of Highways at Matinecock from 1741 to 1745, inclusive, also that he “hath for a mark for his Creatures, a crop on ye near ear of each; purchased of Aaron Forman, having laid down his former mark”. Also the purchase in 1741/2 from Aaron Forman of a farm of more than 100 acres, situate of Lattingtown, L. I., where he subsequently lived and died.

I. 6/1 mo (Mar) 1748/9; d. there of Yellow Fever 9.18.1798; m. 7.4.1765 Jacob Coles b. 3/1 mo (Mar) 1742/3; d. 6.3.1808, son of Daniel and Anne (Carpenter) Coles, of Musketa Cove, L. I. He was a farmer and member of the Society of Friends. Daniel Cock devised to his dau. Sarah Coles, all his land and meadows, creek-thatch, housen and other buildings subject to certain provisions for his widow's comfortable maintenance, "according to an agreement that she and I made before we were married", and some legacies to his grand daughters but, in case she, my dau. Sarah Coles, die, her husband Jacob Coles is to have the use of her share so long as he remain single until her children are of age. As it eventuated Sarah d. in 1798 when her youngest child was only four years of age; and Jacob m. again in 1800 Jean Mudge dau. of Coles and Dorothy (Coles) Mudge of Musketa Cove, L. I. Jacob dying in 1808, the following year his sons executed an Agreement in which Daniel Cock Coles released to his brother Solomon Coles "the west part of the farm, our father Jacob Coles died seized, formerly the estate of our mother Sarah Coles lying at Duck Pond" etc., and Solomon Coles released all the east part of said farm to his brother Daniel C. Coles, which after his decease was bought by Richard Willits of Westbury, L. I. and now (1912) is in the occupancy and ownership of his grandsons, Frederick E. Willits and his cousin Charles F. Willits. Solomon sold his westerly part to Isaac Coles who devised it to his son Thomas Coles, who resided there until his death in 1859, since which, having meanwhile sundry owners, it has been subdivided, and the residence part is now owned by H. L. Baterman.

I. 14/8 mo (Oct) 1738; d. there 3.29.1822; m. 3.20.1760, at Chappaqua Meeting House, Westchester Co., Elizabeth Pearce, b. Musketa Cove, L. I. 17/2 mo (Apr) 1743, d. Buckram, L. I. 11.8.1835, dau. of James Perce (as he wrote it) and Elizabeth Coles his wife, who were of Musketa Cove, but subsequently removed to Philipsburgh, now Pleasantville, N. Y. Clark was by trade a Tailor, kept a country store, and had a farm that had sometime belonged to his uncle Josiah. The farm came to Clark as follows, being a part of the tract bought of the Indians by Nathan Birdsell in 1684, sold by him 1713/4 to James Cock 2d, passed by his will 1728 to his son Josiah, who sold it in 1758 to Daniel Kirby, who resold it to Zebulon Frost. Clark bought it from him in 1766, and at his death in 1822 it passed to his only living child Samuel, thence in 1855 to his son Samuel, and 1882 to his son Joshua, who sold it recently to Mr. Anton Hodenply. During the Revolutionary War Clark suffered considerable loss by raids of the “Wheleboatmen” from the Main Shore, and removed some of his business to New York, much to the anxiety of Matinecock P. M., as also did his persistence in “carting [some of] his Hay for use of the Army”, contrary to Friends’ testimony against War.

Yorktown, 5.28.1775, son of Samuel and Keziah (Wright) Frost of Long Island. They were Friends and farmers; the farm being on or about Turkey mountain, opposite the place late owned and occupied by Jordan Cock Frost, about three miles from Amawalk Meeting House. Tradition says that the British and American Armies, during the Revolutionary struggle were at different times encamped in the immediate neighborhood and the foragers of either army would "run off" the cattle and horses of the natives. Jordan C. Frost had in his lifetime an old hopple, with a peculiar lock, with which his grandmother, Mary (Cock) Frost (who remained on the place all through the war) used to secure an old horse, when turned out, to prevent his being stolen.

THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

1732; d. Flushing, N. Y., about 1816, son of Amos and Elizabeth (Seaman) Underhill, of Cedar Swamp, L. I., and N. Y. City. Isaac Underhill was a farmer, merchant, and interested in flour mills; was a member of the Society of Friends and some times a Minister. No issue.

78 WILLIAM COCK (John8, Henry9, James1), b. Buckram, L. I., 11/10 mo. (Dec.) 1732; d. after 1812; m. 1st ("out of meeting", which he condemned 1755) Dinah Hopkins, dau. of Daniel and Amey (Weeks) Hopkins of Musketa Cove, L. I.; m. 2d Anne Feke, b. Matinecock 17/11 mo. (Jan.) 1741; d. Buckram, 4.20.1796, dau. of Charles and Catharine (Tillier or Tilley) Feke of Matinecock; m. 3d Clemence Feke, sister of his 2d wife. She d. without issue 4.23.1815, aged 68. William was a farmer, merchant, commissioner of Highways, overseer of the Poor and chief promoter of the Matinecock Academy. He was despoiled of valuable goods and money by the "Whaleboatmen." (See Appendix for his narrative of his sufferings in those troubous times, preserved by his great-granddau. Elizabeth M. (Evans) Kellar).

The records of Westbury M. M. show in 1761, that Dinah Cock (1st) wife of William Cock of Matinecock, desires to be under care of Friends, and in 1764 "as William Cock has married the second time out of Unity with Friends, after he had condemned the first marriage and has been received, it seems to be the judgment of Friends that he be dealt with and disowned until he sees his misstep, and condemns it". As his children continued in Friendly dress and address it is to be assumed that William made his peace with the Meeting.

William Cock and his cousin Thomas Cock88, having opposed the election of Deputies from Queens County to the Provincial Congress in 1775, were imprisoned for a time, but on petition, promising to obey all orders of the Continental and Provincial Congresses, were liberated and allowed to return to their respective homes.

"Matinecock the 13th February 1801.

Whereas usefull Learning is found to be very Necessary and Beneficial for the use-of Society and in our quarter of the County we are very much behindhand on that account it is proposed to build a good House in some convenient place to command a large School for the encouragement of a good Master for that purpose. The Place proposed is the Northeast corner of Charles Cock's land adjoining the Highway that leads from Matinecock to Buckram and likewise the Highway that leads from Lattintown across the said Highway to Mill-Neck, It is supposed that it will be necessary to build the House 30x20 feet with a 10 feet Hall—two stories high which it is calculated to cost the sum of 700 Dollars, which is to be divided into 35 shares of 20 Dollars each Share—and these Shares to be transferrable and that each share to have one vote, both for constructing the Building and fixing the compensation. And whereas it may happen within the compass of this School that there may be some men that would wish to encourage it and not thinking themselves competent to subscribe for a whole share, it is agreed that two or more may join together and subscribe for a share and for the encouragement for all who wish to help so useful and beneficial an institution—as those that will do nothing to encourage it must not expect to be benefitted by it without making some compensation to the proprietors.

Now we whose names are hereunto subscribed Do promise and Oblige ourselves to pay the Respective sums annexed hereunto in three Instalments, the one half when it is required to purchase the lumber, one fourth in six months thereafter and the other in twelve months from the first of May next. The money to be paid into the hands of the trustees hereafter to chosen, or their successors". Trustees for ensuing year, Robert Feeks, Samuel Cock Jr. and Charles Weeks. Among the contributors were William Cock, Daniel Cock, Samuel Cock, Charles Cock, Mary Cock, Henry Cock, Daniel Cock Jr., Ambrose Cock, Townsend Cock, Oliver Cock, Andrew Cock, Isaac Cock, Thomas Cock, Samuel Cock Jr. The first Trustees were Robert Feeks, Samuel Cock Jr. and Charles Weeks. First teacher probably Bernard McKenna. On the establishment of the Public School System the management was undertaken by the Town with a Board of Trustees elected by the District and the building was continued in use until about 1848 when with a legacy of $5000 from Daniel Cock of Buckram a new building was erected on an adjacent site.

95 ABRAHAM COCK (Henry86, Henry8, James4), b. Matinecock, L. I., 4.11.1755; d. ——-; m. 1.26.1779, Rhoda Carpenter, b. 1755; d. Canterbury, Orange Co., N. Y., after having m. successively Henry Reynolds and Samuel Seaman. She was dau. of Zeno and Elizabeth (Thorn) Carpenter. No issue from either marriage.

"The Five Brothers" Schooner, 24 tons burthen, Capt. Abraham Cock, master, was taken below highwater mark Feb. 1779, nine miles west of Huntington Harbor by Capt. Elderkin of the True Blue".

96 JOSEPH COCK (Samuel40, Henry8, James4), b. doubtless at or near Matinecock, L. I.; d. Crum Elbow, Dutchess Co., N. Y., probably before 1790; m. about 1761, Rhoda Frost, b. Mill River Neck, L. I.; d. Wheatland, Monroe Co., N. Y., about 1823, dau. of Isaac and Mary88 (Cock) Frost. They were Friends and farmers, resident at Crum Elbow when son Isaac was b. but Samuel was probably b. in Westchester Co., and James was b. in Phillips Patent (now Putnam Co.), N. Y. Rhoda m. 2d (without issue) James Baker at some time before 1808 (when she witnessed her dau. Martha’s m. cert.). After James Baker’s death, Rhoda removed, about 1815, to Wheatland Tp., Monroe Co., N. Y., and lived with her sons Samuel, James and Levi. She was probably buried in what is now the front lawn of the (then) Joseph Cox farm, later the Ira Carpenter farm, on the west side of the River road, south of Scottsville. Her grandson James "three times" described her as rather stout and fleshy, quite good looking, not appearing very old, and "as good and as plain (dressed) a woman as ever lived". He remembered once pulling her chair away and letting her fall "just for fun". All the children had light complexion, hair and eyes.

Issue of Joseph and Rhoda:

98 ZOAR, (Samuel⁴⁰, Henry⁹, James¹), b. Lattingtown ? abt. 1745; d. ———; m. Ruth ———.

Zoar Cock bought property in Cortlandt Manor, Westchester Co., N. Y., in 1773-1777, adjoining some Travis to whom it has been thought Ruth was related. He was a Loyalist in the Revolutionary War and his property being confiscated he went with the Fleet to Nova Scotia in 1783, but subsequently returned to Long Island, where in 1798 he was witness to a Deed. The New York Directories show that he was doing a milk business there from 1804 to 1807. He is supposed to have returned to Musket Cove and died there. His sons were seafaring men and of them no record is known beside their names furnished by a grandson, Benjamin Coles.

"Thomas Cock commenced the study of medicine in company with Drs. Valentine, Mott and Cheeseman in the office of Dr. Valentine Seaman, 11th month 1800, and graduated in medicine in Columbia College in the autumn of 1805; practiced medicine in his native place for one year and nine months, and then returned to the city and became a partner of his preceptor, then a noted practitioner in N. Y. During the epidemic of Yellow Fever in N. Y. City in 1822, he was amongst the most indefatigable and untiring in his efforts to overcome the disease; and again during the cholera in 1832, his protracted labors and ceaseless devotion were appropriately recognized by the City authorities in the presentation of a service of silver. During his long career he occupied various positions of importance in the profession, and a number of men since eminent in the medical world pursued their studies under his auspices. He was President of the Academy of Medicine of New York; Professor in, and subsequently President of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and for many years connected as attending and consulting physician with that time honored institution, the New York Hospital. He was long an active member, and at his death a Vice President of the American Bible Society. Retired for some years through the infirmities of age and ill health, from the practice of his profession, he now leaves the worthy rec-

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

WILLIAM CHARLES COLE CLAIBORNE,
GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF LOUISIANA AND COMMANDER IN CHIEF OF THE MILITIA THEREOF.

In the name and by the authority of the State of Louisiana.

Know ye: That relying special trust and confidence in the Patriotism, Valor, Fidelity and Abilities of Caleb Cox, I do appoint him Captain in the First Regiment of the militia of the State of Louisiana. He is therefore carefully and diligently to discharge the duty of Captain in said Regiment by doing and performing all manner of things thereunto belonging, and I do strictly charge and require all Officers, non-commissioned Officers and privates under his command, to be obedient to his orders as Captain and he is to observe and follow such orders and directions from time to time, as he shall receive from me, or the future Governor of the State of Louisiana, or other Superior Officers, according to the rules and articles of war, and in conformity to law.

In testimony whereof, I have caused these Letters to be made Patent, and the Seal of the State to be hereunto annexed.

Given under my hand at the City of New-Orleans, on the twenty-third day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-four, and in the thirty-eighth year of the Independence of the United States of America.

BY THE GOVERNOR

Secretary of State.

252. SAMUEL COCKS or COX (Joseph\(^8\), Samuel\(^10\), Henry\(^6\), James\(^1\)), b. prob. Westchester Co., N. Y., about 1762; d. Wheatland Tp., Monroe Co., N. Y., 9.—1827, aged about 65; m. 1st, about 1784, Martha Thorn, b. ———; d. Stillwater Tp., Saratoga Co., N. Y., about 1797; dau. of Joseph and ——— (———) Thorn of ———, and sister of Jacob Thorn, whose son Joseph was a beloved minister of Wheatland meeting of Friends (Hicksite) and his dau. Harriet m. Alfred Horton, son of Sarah. Samuel m. 2d, prob. Stillwater, Sarah Wood, b. 5.15.1757; d. Wheatland 1837, without issue, dau. of ———. Samuel was living in Stillwater when dau. Keturah was b., though Joseph was prob. b. in Westchester Co. and Isaac b. in Dutchess Co. Samuel Cocks and Daniel Shadbolt bought 12.1.1795 100 acres in Stillwater, Saratoga Co., of Samuel Leavens, and 6.1.1804, Samuel Cox sold his half, 50 acres, to Daniel Shadbolt. Samuel removed to Western N. Y. after his sons Joseph and Isaac had gone thither (see their record), but probably not later than 1806, and purchased, 3.27.1809, 73½ acres and the next year 144¼ acres, probably on both sides of the River road in Wheatland, south of Scottsville, N. Y. The part west of the road was later included in his son Joseph’s farm, and that east of the road his son Isaac’s. They were farmers and probably Friends, as the children mostly were. Samuel was quite stout and fleshy, of medium height.

Issue by 1st marriage:

† 592 Joseph, b. 11.15.1785; m. 1st, Dorothy Farwell: m. 2d, Chloe Aldrich.

† 593 Isaac, b. 9.17.1786; m. 1st, Anna Shadbolt.

253 ISAAC COCK or COCKS (Josepha, Samuelii, Henryii, Jamesii), b. Crum Elbow (properly Crom Elbow), in the present Tp. of Clinton, Dutchess Co., N. Y., 5.4.1764; d. Amawalk, Yorktown Tp., Westchester Co., N. Y., 7.26.1834; m. 1st, prob. Salem meeting house, 11.17.1790, Phebe Underhill, b. at what is now Somers Centre, Westchester Co., 11.6.1764; d. Amawalk, 4.24.1817, dau. of Thomas and Sarah (Weeks) Underhill, of Salem Tp., Westchester Co. Isaac m. 2d Chappaqua meeting house, Westchester Co., 11.19.1818, Hannah (Fowler) Thorn, b. Manhattan Island 10.18.1778; d. Rush Tp., Monroe Co., N. Y., 4.4.1862; dau. of Stephen and Elizabeth (Dickinson) Fowler of Northcastle Tp., Westchester Co., and widow of John, son of Elnathan and Martha (Weeks) Thorn, b. 3.27.1779; m. 1.12.1803; and d. suddenly 1.17.1803 while bridling a horse, five days after their marriage, without issue. John Thorn had previously m. 1st Hannah ———, by whom he had one child, Hannah, who m. Samuel Briggs. Stephen Fowler purchased a farm in North Castle, now New Castle, Westchester Co., in 1775, but being a non-combatant Episcopalian, was later, with others, driven to abandon it and take refuge on Manhattan Island, because of the depredations of freebooters from both armies. He and an infant son d. there. After the war his widow and little daughter returned, but the farm was confiscated under the State act of 1787. Isaac was indentured to his uncle Mordecai Frost after his father’s death. On reaching his majority he used his first earnings to pay off a few debts his father had left. He was a farmer, removing in 1800 from Clinton, Dutchess Co., to a farm in Yorktown near the Croton river, and later to another near Amawalk, later owned by James Travis. All were Friends, and members of Amawalk M. M. of which Isaac was an Elder from 1829 to his death. His tombstone, a rough field stone on which his son-in-law, Gabriel Horton cut “I. C.” still shows above the sod in the Quaker burial ground behind Amawalk meeting house. His first wife was also buried there, but Hannah removed to Monroe Co., with her son John, and was buried in the Quaker burial ground in Wheatland. This burial ground, given to Wheatland meeting by Joseph Cox, was on a knoll, back from the River road, on his farm. It reverted to the farm on its abandonment, the remains were removed, and it is now only a memory. At that time, 1881, her remains were transferred by her son John to the North Rush Cemetery. Isaac was of average build, light complexion and blue eyes. He never voted.

Issue by first marriage:

254 JORDAN COCKS or COX (Joseph, Samuel, Henry, James), b. doubtless Crum Elbow, Dutchess Co., N. Y., 6.18.1765; d. near Battle Creek, Calhoun Co., Mich., 1839, as per probate records of Calhoun Co., which seem to show that letters of administration were granted to his widow that year. M. 1st about 1796, (name and family unknown) who d. Wheatland Tp., Monroe Co., N. Y., before 1815; m. 2d 1819, Mary Oakley, b. prob. Caledonia Tp., Livingston Co., N. Y., 8.20.1799; d. prob. Calhoun Co., Mich., after 1839, parents names unknown. Jordan was a farmer, coming from vicinity of Crom Elbow, Dutchess Co., to Caledonia, and owned the farm now (1912) owned by Malcolm Stewart. Sold that after his wife's death to brother Levi, and lived with him till his 2d m. when he removed to a log house on the farm on the River road, then occupied by his wife's parents, and later known as the Ambrose Cox farm, now owned by Oscar Giles. This may have been held on a leasehold till 9.1.1836, when Masterton Ure and John Gordon, by their attorney, Joseph Fellows, conveyed to Jordan Cock 20 acres in Caledonia. Jordan and Mary Cock conveyed the same parcel to Isaac Cock, 3.7.1837, and removed to the new State of Michigan, purchasing a farm north of Battle Creek in Calhoun Co. Jordan was rather stout, with a pale but pleasant face. Rochester M. M. records show that Jordan Cox was reinstated 5.22.1823, having been disowned by Creek M. M. doubtless for his first marriage to a non-member. Jordan and Mary were prominent members of Wheatland meeting, and he an overseer, 1836. They with their children took removal certificate to Plymouth (Later Battle Creek) M. M. 12.29.1837. His first children do not appear on Friends records, and are said to have removed to Ohio.

Issue by first marriage:

609 William, b. 1797; enlisted with many other Wheatland men, 8.29.1814, in Capt. Levi Lacy's Co., participating in the successful defence of Fort Erie 9.23.1814, but was taken prisoner by the Indians, taken by them to the head of Lake Ontario, and did not succeed in making his escape until May, 1815. He received in 1850 a bounty land warrant for 160 acres in Iowa, which he assigned to one Samuel M. Ballard of Johnson Co., Ia., who located it at the Kanesville, Ia., land office 6.21.1853. Samuel M. Ballard may have been a brother-in-law.

Issue (Slocomb):
i Ida Barnes, b. New Orleans, 4.6.1830; d. there 4.10.1910; m. there 1867, as his 2d wife, Dr. T—— G—— Richardson, b. _____; d. New Orleans, ____, 1892; son of ____. No issue. Dr. Richardson was a widower who had lost his wife and two children by an accident at sea. He had distinguished himself in the medical profession and at the time of his second marriage was the Dean of the Tulane Medical University which office he held up to a few months of his decease. Dr. and Mrs. Richardson were enthusiastic botanists, and in the collection of rare and interesting plants, travelled extensively in foreign lands, besides visiting Mexico, South and Central America, and made the ascent of Mount Popocatapetl. Mrs. Richardson having been the first woman to reach the summit. She had for many years been prominently identified with the Charities and the Educational and Religious institutions of New Orleans. At the time of her death, she was the President of St. Anna’s Asylum Board, an institution with which she was associated from its foundation. She was the organizer of the Woman’s Auxiliary of the Woman’s Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church in New Orleans, and its President for twenty-one years; she was one of the Charter members of the Christian Woman’s Exchange; a Regent of the Louisiana branch of the Mount Vernon Association, an organization whose object is the preservation of the historic home of Washington. She was one of the founders of Tulane University, and her passing marks the last of the founders of that institution. Her donation of $100,000 to Tulane for a Medical Building in memory of her late husband was supplemented by an equally generous gift when it was found practicable to build another Medical Building on the campus of the big University, and $100,000 more was given by Mrs. Richardson for that purpose. Her endowment of a Chair of Botany at Tulane, singles out that Institution from all other Southern Colleges, as it is the only one that has such an endowment. The Chair is occupied by Professor —— Cocks. On June 6th, 1908, the New Orleans "Progressive Union" announced that Mrs. Richardson had been awarded the Picayune Loving Cup which is given each year to the Citizen who has done the best service to the Community.

592 JOSEPH COX (Samuel286, Joseph180, Samuel50, Henry50, James1), b. prob. Westchester Co., N. Y., 11.15.1785; d. Wheatland Tp., Monroe Co., N. Y., 3.18.1863; m. 1st, 1806, Dorothy Farwell, b. 1788; d. 2.20.1824, aged 36 years; dau. of Elisha and Sarah (Heath) Farwell, early pioneers of Wheatland. He m. 2d, Wheatland, 5.—1824, Chloe Aldrich, b. prob. Wayne Co., N. Y., 12.26. 1806; d. Illinois, 5.19.1891; dau. of Bryce and Huldah (Farrington) Aldrich, pioneers of Farmington, Wayne Co., N. Y. Early in 1804, when Joseph was in his nineteenth year, accompanied by his brother Isaac, a year younger, he migrated from Saratoga Co., to what became in 1821 the Town of Wheatland, Monroe Co., but was then a part of the new Genesee Co., which included all of the State west of that Genesee River. They came in the late winter, in the old fashioned long sleigh, turning the box up on edge at night, and sleeping in it before the fire, which served secondarily to warm them, but primarily to keep the wolves away. Their descend- ants may well reflect on this migration over the roads that were little more than trails, as they now motor over the highways with no greater danger than a fine for overspeeding. Joseph’s father and family came on later. The brothers had jointly owned a farm in Saratoga Co., and both soon became large landowners in Wheat- land. In 1820 Joseph established a ferry across the Genesee River at the point where the road from Wheatland to Rush now crosses that stream. In 1836 Joseph Cox and Thomas Halstead took the contract to construct a canal from Scottsville to the Genesee River, by which the Scottsville mills could ship flour in bulk to Rochester, or through the Erie Canal to tidewater. In 1838 he sold his farm of 282 acres, reserving the graveyard (Friends’ Burial ground) and he and his brother Isaac purchased the mill in Scottsville of Abra- ham Hanford. They operated it for ten years and sold it to Samuel Scofield and Samuel Wood, who soon resold it to William H. Han- ford. Joseph was said to greatly resemble George Washington in figure and appearance, and was prominent in the community and in the Quaker meeting. He was disowned 1824 by Farmington M. M., (which then had jurisdiction over this territory) for marrying “out of good order,” but Chloe was retained a member on her acknowledgment of the fault. He was reinstated by Rochester M. M. 1832. In 1828 he contributed liberally to the building of the Methodist Church in Scottsville. After the death of his first wife, his regret at having no likeness of her led him to have painted his own portrait and those of his children, and probably of his second wife. Several of these paintings are still extant, and his, now in possession of his great granddaughter, Clara H. White, of Buf-
Wheatland Meeting House, built shortly after 1828

House of Isaac (593) Cox, built about 1844 falo, would have been here reproduced, but was considered by those who knew him, not a sufficiently good likeness to justify it.

593 ISAAC COX (Samuel252, Joseph28, Samuel40, Henry5, James1), b. Dutchess Co., N. Y., 9.17.1786; d. Wheatland, Monroe
Co., N. Y., 11.19.1846; m. there 11.28.1808; Anna Shadbolt, b.
Westerch Co., N. Y., 5.1.1788; d. Wheatland 8.20.1879; dau.
of Darius and Martha (Weeks) Shadbolt, latterly of Wheatland, and great grand dau. of Isaac and Mary29 (Cock) Frost. (See his brother Joseph's record for their migration to Wheatland). Isaac was a farmer and large land owner, one year raising 200 acres of wheat, a very large undertaking for those days before the reaper was invented, but the grain cradle, still comparatively new, and many men, made it possible. Bears were still common in the first decade of the century, and one seized a pig from the pen and made off, but Isaac pursued and shot it without puncturing the skin, they being face to face at the critical moment, and the shot entering the bear's mouth. Isaac was joint owner with his brother Joseph of the Hanford mill in Scottsville from 1838 till his death. Shortly before his death he built the fine stone house, on the River road, one and a half miles south of Scottsville, and here his widow lived to the ripe age of 91 years, a fine example of the old school. This house is one of the best examples of Colonial architecture in Wheatland. It is faced with glacier worn cobbles, picked from the farm, graduated slightly in size from the ground to the top. It is a two family house, so that one of his sons could live with him. Isaac had previously built nearer the village, opposite his brother Joseph's, the frame house which was later incorporated into the present residence of his granddaughter Helen1884 (Cox) Budlong. Isaac and Anna had no religious membership, though they used the plain dress and address of the Quakers, and occasionally attended meeting.

John purchased a farm in Chili, but in 1854 traded this to his nephew Frederick Fellows for the farm on the south road in Wheatland formerly owned by Harrison Cox, where he lived and died, surrounded by good neighbors, the last of his generation.

"I would that I might put in living words
What now through the long reach of misty years
I clearly see, the many-sided Man.
When I was young I was too close to see,
But now, in the perspective of the Past,
I see him clearer, and would fain make clear
His deep religious feeling, his great heart,
Full of the love of God, and Man, and beast.
He was a Mystic in the deepest sense,
And by the Light within he lived and moved;
Unselfish absolutely, thoughtful, kind:
The Golden Rule was his, and constant prayer."
—From "A Memorial," by John Cox, Jr.

ALLIED FAMILIES

CLARKE LINEAGE

The problem of the ancestry of Sarah, wife of James Cock the immigrant, seems nearest to solution, with the assumption that she was of the Clarke family, living contemporaneously with the Cocks at Southold, L. I. The persistence of the use of the Christian names Clark, Samuel and Richard in several generations of the Cock family, suggested an examination of sundry Clarke records, wherein these and several other concurrent names were found both male and female. Other evidence, pointing to a former residence at Rhode Island, indicates that Sarah's father was very probably a near relative of Dr. John (4) Clarke, (Thomas (3), John (2), John (1)) b. 1609. John Fiske in his "Beginning of New England," gives his portrait and says of him:

"John Clarke, one of the worthiest and most highminded among the founders of New England, was born in Suffolk in 1609. It is not known where he obtained his excellent education; but he was esteemed a learned physician and good classical scholar, while it is clear that he could read his Old Testament familiarly in Hebrew, for he was the author of a manuscript concordance and lexicon to the same. He seems to have become a Baptist before his arrival in Boston 1637. He went to Aquidneck and took part with William Coddington and Anne Hutchinson in establishing the Colony of Rhode Island. In 1639 a Baptist Church was founded at Newport and Dr. Clarke was for many years its teacher. His services to the commonwealth were so great that history must place him by the side of Roger Williams. Upright and capable in all relations of life he never failed of the courtesy and the dignity that mark the perfect gentleman."

He d. Apr. 4, 1676, leaving, among many other bequests the above mentioned lexicon and concordance to Richard Bailey, presumably of Southold, as this gift is next to the bequest of "an ewe sheep" to Katharine Salmon, wife of John Salmon of Southold. (This suggests a Bayles connection with the Clarkes).

Austin's Dict. of R. L. states that in 1651 John Clarke, Obadiah Holmes and John Crandall, as representatives of the church at Newport, having presumed to hold religious services in the house of an invalid were arrested and fined. This (Rev.) Obadiah Holmes had land at Southampton on Long Island, in the use and occupation of Samuel Clarke thereat, and later went to Jamaica, and thence perhaps to New Jersey.

Jeremiah Clarke, perhaps brother to John, came 1633 to Aquidneck (later Rhode Island) from whence between 1656 and 1660 many essayed the wrath of the Bay and of its high priest of persecution John Endicott. Among them were Mary Clarke, Christopher Holder, John Copeland, William Brend, William Robinson, Marmaduke Stevenson and Mary Dyer. Jeremiah served aceptably in several official capacities and d. 1651. The Friends' Records thus comment on his death. "Jeremiah Clarke one of the first English Planters of Rhode Island; he died at Newport on said Island and was buried in the tomb that stands by the street by the water side in Newport upon the ______ day of 11th mo 1651."

Walter Clarke, son of Jeremiah, sometime Governor of Rhode Island, m. as 2d wife, Hannah Scott, dau. of Richard and Catharine (Marbury) Scott, and as third wife, Sarah (Priar) Gould, widow of John Gould and dau. of Matthew and Mary (——) Priar, of Killingworth upon Mattinecock, L. I. It may transpire that Matthew Priar's wife was Mary Clarke.

THE COX FAMILY IN AMERICA

BOWNE LINEAGE

JOHN BOWNE was b. Matlock, Derbyshire, England, 9th of Third month (7 Mar. or May) 1627 and bapt. in Matlock parish church 29th same month, son of Thomas Bowne, bapt. there May 25, 1595. Thomas Bowne with his children John and Dorothy came to New England in the latter part of 1648 or early in 1649. In October 1650 John, leaving behind his father and sister, returned to England, and again arrived in Boston in May 1651. In June of the same year he visited Flushing, L. I., in company with his brother-in-law Edward Farrington (who had m. his sister Dorothy, probably during his absence in England) and seems to have been much pleased with the place, as he removed thither shortly after to live. On the 7th of May, 1652, he m. Hannah Feake, b. (supposed) at Watertown, Mass., about 1637, and after living for a time at Greenwich, Conn., and New London, came to Flushing, with her mother, brothers and sisters, before 1649. She was dau. of Lieut. Robert Feake and Elizabeth (Fones) Winthrop his wife, (see Feake Lineage).

John Bowne was at this time in the 29th year of his age, and his worth and personal attractions were such as to elicit the favorable notice and commendation of Capt. John Underhill, then living at Southold, L. I., who, writing from that place under date of April 12, 1655, to John Winthrop Jr., at Pequot (New London), thus acquaints him with the new engagement; "Sir, I was last at Flushing, Hannah Feke is to be married to a veri jentiele young man of gud abiliti, of lovit fetture and gud behavor." As Hannah had made the acquaintance of some of the Friends who were holding meetings for worship in the woods, she soon became a member; and her husband, as he himself relates, on occasion going out of curiosity to look at them when assembled together, was so powerfully affected by the beauty and simplicity of their worship that he invited them to hold their meetings for the future at his house. It was not long before he joined them himself, not merely, as he states, from kindness and affection to his wife, but his judgment was convinced of the truth of the principles they held forth. Meetings had not long been held at John Bowne's house before complaints were made "by the Magistrates of Flushing Aug. 24, 1662, that many of the inhabitants are followers of the Quakers who hold their meetings at the house of John Bowne." An ordinance of the West India Company of 1662 provided that "besides the Reformed religion no conventicles should be held in houses, barns, ships, woods or fields, under the penalty of fifty guilders for the first offence, double for the second and arbitrary correction for every other."

Under the authority of this ordinance we find that great numbers, including many women, suffered severely both by direct action of the Governor, and his courts held at Gravesend. John Bowne was arrested, ninth month 1st, 1662, charged with "harboring Quakers and permitting them to hold meetings at his house."

He was then taken a prisoner to Fort Amsterdam, and on the 14th of the same month the "court held by the Lords, Director General and Council at Fort Amsterdam in the Netherland" entered the following judgment: "Because John Bowne, at present prisoner, dwelling at Flushing upon Long Island, has made no scruple in visipendation of the orders and mandates of the Director General and Council of the New Netherland, we do in justice to the high and mighty states of the United Provinces and the administrators of the West India Company of the Chamber of Amsterdam having heard the demand of the substitutes, and the acknowledgement of the prisoner, have condemned and do condemn the said John Bowne by these present boete [penalty]—5 and 20 pounds Flemish with the charges of the Justician, and with express admonition and interdict to abstain from all such forementioned meetings and conventicles, or else for the second boete, he be condemned in a double boete, and for the third boete to be banished out of this province of New Netherland." John Bowne refused to pay the fine, and was then confined in a dungeon and restricted to bread and water, no person whatever being allowed to speak with him. As this did not change his steadfastness of purpose he was sometime afterward taken to the Stadhuis and put in the prison there, and allowed to see his wife and other friends. He was then notified that the Court had resolved that he must pay the fine that had been imposed or be sent out of the Country; or he would be set free if he would promise to leave the country in three months. He still remained firm in his purpose not to compromise his principles in any way. On Tenth mo. 21st he was permitted to visit his friends under a promise to return in three days, and on the 31st of that month he was put on board ship and sent a prisoner to Holland. He arrived at Amsterdam on the 29th of Second mo. 1663. The following statement was forwarded by the authorities of New Netherland to the West India Company: "Honorables, Right Respectable Gentlemen. We omitted in our general letter the trouble and difficulties which we and many of our good inhabitants have since sometimes met with, and daily are renewed by the sect called Quakers, chiefly in the county and principal in the English villages, establishing forbidden conventicles and frequenting those against our public placards, and disturbing in a manner the public peace, in so far that several of our magistrates and well affectioned subjects remonstrated and complained to us from time to time of their insufferable obstinacy, unwilling to obey our orders or judgment. Among others has one of their principle leaders named John Bowne, who for his transgressions was, in conformity to the placards, condemned to an amends of 150 Guilders in suaveant, who has been now under arrest more than three months for his unwillingness to pay, obstinately persisting in his refusal, in which he still continues, so that we at last resolved, or were rather compelled, to transport him in this ship from this province in the hope that others by it be discouraged. If nevertheless by these means no more salutary impression is made upon others we shall, though against our inclinations be compelled to prosecute such persons in a more severe manner, and which we previously solicit to be favored with your Honour's wise and foreseeing judgment. With which after our cordial salutations we recommend your Honours to God's protection, and remain, Honourable and Right Respectable Gentlemen, your Honour's faithful servants."

The officials of the West India Company considered the case and drew up a paper for John Bowne to sign. In reply he sent to the Company the following dignified statement: "Friends, the paper drawn up for me to subscribe I have perused and weighed, and do find the same not according to that engagement to me through one of your members, viz: that he or you would do therein by me as you would be done unto, and not otherwise. For which of you being taken from your wife and family, without just cause, would be bound from returning to them unless upon terms to act contrary to your conscience, and deny your faith and religion, yet this in effect do you require of me and not less.

But truly, I cannot think that you did in sober earnest ever think I would subscribe to any such thing, it being the very thing for which I rather chose freely to suffer want of the company of my dear wife and children, imprison-ment of my person, the ruin of my estate in my absence there, and the loss of my goods here, than to yield or consent to such an unreasonable thing as you thereby enjoin me unto.

For which I am persuaded you will not only be judged in the sight of God, but by good and godly men, rather to have mocked at the oppressions of the oppressed and added afflictions to the afflicted than herein to have done to me as you in the like case would be done unto, which the royal cause of our God requires. I have with patience and moderation waited several weeks expecting justice from you, but behold an addition to my oppression in the measure I receive.

Wherefore I have this now to request for you, that the Lord will not lay this to your charge, but to give eyes to see and hearts to do justice, that you may find mercy with the Lord in the day of judgment.

John Bowne."

In the Fourth mo. John Bowne was released. He returned to America by the way of England and the Island of Barbadoes, but did not reach Flushing until First mo. 30th, 1664.

The authorities in Amsterdam sent to the officials in New Netherland the following decision, dated Amsterdam, April 16th, 1663: "We, finally, did see from your last letter, that you had exiled and transported hither a certain Quaker named John Bowne, and although it is our cordial desire that similar and other sectarians might not be found there, yet as the contrary seems to be the case, we doubt very much if rigorous proceedings against them ought not to be discontinued except you intend to destroy your population, which however, in the youth of your existence, ought rather to be encouraged by all possible means.

Wherefore it is our opinion that some connivance would be useful that the consciences of men, at least, ought ever to remain free and unshackled. Let every one be unmolested as long as he is modest, as long as he does not disturb others or oppose the government. This maxim of moderation has always been the guide of the magistrates of this city, and the consequence has been that from every land people have flocked to this asylum. Treat thus in their steps and we doubt not you will be blessed.

(Signed) The directors of the West India Company Amsterdam Department.
Abraham Wilmontok
David Von Baerle."

This document has peculiar historic interest because of the fact that it was one of the first official proclamations of religious liberty for any part of America, the establishment of religious liberty in Maryland by Lord Baltimore, (a Catholic), having antedated it. With this decree the persecution of Friends on Long Island ceased.

While in Holland John Bowne wrote letters to his wife and numbers of Friends, which are still preserved. They are remarkable for the illustrations they give of unflinching steadfastness of purpose, for the beautiful and lofty ideas expressed in them, and for their elegant and sometimes scholarly diction. In one of these he said: "Dear George Fox and many more Friends desire their love and tender salutations remembered to all Friends." From this we may infer that he was visited at Amsterdam by George Fox and others.

Hannah, wife of John Bowne, became more and more zealous in religious devotion and having "received a gift in the ministry," she, in the earlier part of the year 1675, left her home to pay a religious visit to Friends in Great Britain. The letters of her husband sent to her there are admirable in their expression of tender affection and of interest in her religious service. In one of these he quaintly remarks: "Dear heart, to particularise all that desire to be remembered to thee would be exceedingly large, but this I may say for all Friends in general, relations and neighbors, and people, the like largeness of love for one particular person I have seldom found amongst them, as it is for thee."

He joined his wife in her religious service in England in the year 1676 and accompanied her through England and Holland. Returning to London at the beginning of winter of 1677 she was taken sick with a fatal fever and died at the house of their friends John and Mary Elson, at the Peel Meeting Place, in St. John Street, London, on the 31st of Eleventh Month (Jan.) 1677-8.

John Bowne took with him on this journey the following minute of approval.

"In the Men's and Women's Meeting on Long Island in America.

These are to certify to all whom it may concern that our dear and well beloved Friend John Bowne, of Flushing (his occasion at this time requiring his being in Ould England by the first conveyance) is for his life and conversation unblamable and of good report, and is likewise in true love and unity with all Friends in the truth here, as by large experience we have all found and witnessed." (Signed by many Friends).

The records of the same meeting nineteen years later contain the following minute.

"John Bowne dyed the 20 day of the 10 month in the yeare 1695 And was buryed ye 23 day of the same being about 68 yeares of age he did Freely Expose him self his house and Estate to ye service of Truth And had a constant Meeting In his house neare About forty yeares hee also suffered very much for ye truths seek."

He was thrice married. His second wife was Hannmah Bickerstaff who brought a certificate from Tupton in Derbyshire, England. They m. 1679. He m. 3d, 26/4 mo. (June) 1698, Mary Cock. (See p. 14).

FEAKE LINEAGE

To Henry F. Water’s "Genealogical Gleanings in England" we are indebted for information concerning the ancestry of ROBERT FEAKE who came to Mass. Bay in the fleet with Governor Winthrop in 1630. First appears the will of William Feake the elder, citizen and goldsmith of London, dated 7 May, 1658, proved 19 May, 1659, "To be buried in the parish church of St. Edmund the King in Lombard Street, London where I am a parishioner, at my pew door." Mentions wife Mary (Wetherill); his birth place, Wighton, Co. Norfolk; children, Thomas, John, Edward, Sarah, m. William Smith, Rebecca Bourneford, James m. Judith Thomas, William m. Mary ———, Mary m. Thomas Barnehem; brothers James deceased, Edmond and Simon Feake, sister Jygg, and brothers (7th law) John and William Angell.

The will of the widow repeats the names of the children and gives to "Alice Feake dau. of my son James one hundred pounds, and to my grandson James Feake and Robert Feake each one hundred pounds." Mr. Waters adds note, "There can be but little question that to the above family, belonged Lieut. Robert Feke of Watertown, Mass., who with Sergt. Palmer of Yarmouth, N. E. and Judith his wife, and Tobias Feke (aged 17) son and dau. of James Feke late of London, goldsmith deceased, made a letter of attorney to Tobias Dixon citizen and mercer of London to sell one tenement or house and shop in Lombard Street, London held by the company of Goldsmiths in London. (See Thomas Letchford’s Note Book p. 283-9). And I have no doubt that he was akin to the John Feke of London goldsmith, whose pedigree is given in the Visitation of London (1633-4) published by the Harleian Society, Vol. 1, p. 288. (Henry F. Waters)."

Robert Feake came to Massachusetts Bay in the fleet with Governor Winthrop, in the year 1630. He married 1631 or '32, Elizabeth, the young widow of Henry Winthrop (son of the Governor) to whom she had been married in England as recently as the month of April, 1629. She was the daughter of Thomas Fones of London, England, Apothecary, and Anna Winthrop daughter of Adam and Anne (Browne) Winthrop of the Manor of Groton, County Suffolk, consequently niece of Governor Winthrop and own cousin to his wife. When the latter, following his father, sailed from England in the month of April, 1630, he left her at Groton to come over subsequently with his stepmother, both then on the verge of maternity. Henry arrived in the ship Talbot in the Harbor of Salem, in July 1st, 1630 and on the following day, while walking out to view the country, in attempting to swim across the river was taken with cramps and drowned. The widow with her little daughter Martha Johanna, b. Groton, May 9, 1630, came over to New England in the ship Lyon, Captain Pierce, which arrived on the 2d of November, 1631, bringing also the Governor's wife and others of his family. Her marriage with Robert Feake must have occurred not very long after her arrival. This connection with the Governor's family quickly brought him to notice. He was admitted a Freeman of the colony in May, 1631, and on the 4th of September, 1633, he was appointed Lieutenant to Captain Patrick, then chief military officer at Watertown and the neighboring settlements, which position he held until the month of March, 1636. He had his "homestall" in Watertown, and was grantee and owner of a number of plots in the same place. He held for several successive years the office of Selectman of the town,—one of the persons termed "freemen chosen to order all civil affairs of ye towne." In 1634, '35, '36, he was representative in the General Court from Watertown. On the third of September, 1634, he with Captain Underhill, Daniel Patrick and others were appointed by the General Court of Boston to fix upon the site for a fort on Castle Island in the Bay. He appears to have continued to follow the fortunes of Captain Patrick, and in 1639-40 accompanied him on his removal to Connecticut. In the month of July, 1640, they united in purchasing from the native Indian proprietors the lands which subsequently constituted the town of Greenwich, Conn. Included in this tract was a parcel of land, some time called, "Elizab'th Neck" in honor of the wife of Robert Feake, being declared in the Indian deed to be her "pettinler purchase." Although this settlement was made under the sanction and in the interest of the New Haven colony, Director-General Kleff of New Amsterdam soon warned them off as intruders on Dutch territory. Patrick and Feake persisted and continued for two or more years in the occupation of these lands, uncertain between the strifes of the English and Dutch, which power to acknowledge; harassed and threatened meanwhile by the treacherous Indians of the neighborhood until they finally decided to put themselves under the protection of the Dutch. This submission was signed by Capt. Patrick alone on April 9, 1642, it appearing Robert Feake was then sick and could not attend; although it also appears that he had commissioned his wife, Elizabeth Feake, to act instead.

In May, 1642, Captain Underhill had become a resident of Stamford, adjoining the plantation of Patrick and Feake, and was now in the service of the Dutch in their encounters with the Indians. Patrick, who had been Underhill's early companion in arms, was ignominiously assassinated by a Dutch soldier at Robert Feake's house in January, 1644. His death undoubtedly proved a serious loss to his co-proprietor in the Greenwich lands, and not unlikely precipitated the malady which a few years afterward terminated in his "loss of reason." In the month of October, 1647, we find him in Boston, on the point of setting sail for England. What was the occasion or object of this journey is not apparent. That it was necessary, perhaps compulsory, may be inferred from some expressions in a letter which he at that time wrote his friends at Stamford in reference to the management and disposition of his estate in his absence, saying, he reserved the whole propriety of his estate till he saw how God would deal with him in England. How long he continued abroad is not known. That he returned to Greenwich some time prior to September, 1649, is shown by a letter from Robert Husted and others to the Dutch Governor, in reference to their rights of property conveyed to them by Mrs. Feake in the absence of her husband. If Robert Feake of Greenwich, be identical with the "Robert Feake" whose name appears in a resolution of the House of Commons, adopted on the 4th of March, 1649, approving and directing the issuing of a pardon to him and others, then he undoubtedly attained the object of his visit. But what the offence could be for which such pardon was sought is not stated.

The succeeding years of the life of Mr. Feake were to him a blank. The darkness which first overshadowed his mental faculties at Greenwich never passed until death came to his relief. He found an asylum in the house of Samuel Thatcher of Watertown, Mass., when he died in February, 1662. An inventory of his personal effects taken on the 18th of that month, may be seen in Vol. 1, of Wills in the Probate Office at East Cambridge. His interest in the land and property at Greenwich had been entrusted by him, prior to his voyage to England in 1647-48 to his wife and William Hallett. They appear to have sold and conveyed parcels of these lands to new settlers; but this region still continued to be debatable ground between the two rival governments of New Haven and New Netherland, so they were compelled to abandon the settlement, and repaired with the children to New London, under the protection of her brother-in-law and cousin John Winthrop, Jr. In spite of the vigorous efforts for the restoration of Mrs. Feake to her rights at Greenwich, the privilege of returning was not accorded to them, and Hallett, in the early part of 1649 removed to Long Island, probably to Flushing—taking with him Mrs. Feake and her children. It is not unlikely this removal was at the suggestion of John Winthrop, Jr., himself, who at this time entertained intentions of settling nearer New Amsterdam. William Hallett in 1652 made a purchase and settlement at Hell Gate, L. I., and doubtless Mrs. Feake and her children continued to constitute his household and as conveyances of Greenwich lands were made by William Hallett and Elizabeth Hallett, we are justified in the belief that they were married by, or before 1649. Here at Flushing and Newtown the family came under the Quaker influence, and three at least of the children became members; and Hannah, the wife of John Bowne, having received a gift in the ministry made two several religious visits to Friends in Great Britain, dying on the last one in England.

At the time of the preparation of this paper by Mr. Letting, the date of the death of Mrs. Feake does not seem to have been known, but the Annual Report of the New York State Historian for 1897, Vol. 2, p. 182, shows that on Apr. 26, 1674, William Hallett had recently m. Susannah, widow of William Thorn of Flushing, consequently it may be assumed that Bess (Fones, Winthrop, Feke) Hallett had deceased some time in the year 1673 at Newtown, L. I. Her daughter Martha Johanna Winthrop, b. Groton, Eng., May 9th, 1639, came to Mass. in 1631, m. about 1646, Thomas Lyon of Stamford, Conn., and died without living issue. (She d. 1665. See Fones Lineage).

PRIAR, PRIER, PRIOR LINEAGE

MATTHEW PRIOR or PRIAR as he subscribed himself, was according to Savage's Gen. Dict., of Salem, Mass., in 1638, where he had a grant of land; later removed to the Town of Brookhaven, L. I. He probably went back again to England where he had been the Bailiff of two estates of Major Daniel Gotherson who had recently married as his second wife, one Dorothea Scott, a Friend and supposed kinswoman of Richard Scott who m. Katharine Murbury, sister of Anne Hutchinson, the martyr; Richard Scott being, as said by Gov. Hopkins of Rhode Island the "first Quaker to convert in New England."

Matthew Priar was probably accompanied on his return by Capt. John Scott who had armed himself with sundry forged titles to territory about Setauket, and claiming kinship to Mrs. Gotherson, captivated the Major into an investment of nearly £200 in land at or near Ashford alias Cromwell Bay in town of Brookhaven. Matthew was engaged to go to Setauket with a son of Major Gotherson and have Captain Scott put him in possession of land as appears by the agreement recited before the Captain of the ship on the way over.

"These are to authorize thee to order and manage my estate at Long Island according to thy discretion and I desire thee to take my loving kinman Col. Scott in Cattle at Sidllucut [Setauket] Milch Cows at £3.16.0 at corn, there on Long Island, the money [in all £182.4.0] being paid certain persons here in England."

This land or some of it was to pay an indebtedness of Major Gotherson to said Priar for services on his Estates in England. Priar soon discovered that the title to the land was worthless, and that Scott having been threatened with arrest on account of his nefarious transactions, had fled from the jurisdiction; and applied in 1664 to the Town authorities for relief, being as he alleged "in great distress, complaining of the injury received from Mr. Scott," so it was ordered "that there be so much of the sequestered goods of Mr. Scott, sold by the Constable as will amount to £15, to procure the said Priar three cows for the relief of his present necessity," Vide Brookhaven records. Failing in this direction to obtain adequate relief, and learning that Scott had made considerable investments of land in the name of Major Gotherson within other parts of the Colony, especially in the Township of Oysterbay, Prior appealed to the Government at New York saying he had been wasting four years and odd months and was in an undone condition. In response to this plaintive statement there must have been obtained the following order which appears on the Records of the Town of Oysterbay ye 8th of March 1668.

These may Sertifie to all whom it may any wayes Cunseren yt I, Jonas Halstead, Constable have made a Legall Seasure of ye two Town Shippes which doe belong unto Major Daniel Gotherson for and in ye behalfe of Matthew Pryer, for a debt which is due unto him from said Gotherson.

Jonas Halstead."

To fortify his title Priar secured the following:

signed by Francis Muncy and seven others.
Coming to Oyster Bay he bought the Walter Salter lot near the Steamboat Dock of more modern times and on his removal to Mattinecook sold it to Henry Townsend Senr. His house lot thereat was between those of Christopher Hawkhurst on the west and Nathan Birdsall on the east. The house location is approximately determined by the traditional mention of the spot as "Priors old orchard," subsequently possessed by the Underhill family.

FROST LINEAGE.

The first appearance on Long Island of WILLIAM FROST as shown on any authentic record is his signature to the petition to the General Court at Hartford, given on P. 3.

The Brookhaven records show grant of meadows to William Frost 1664, and his name also appears 1668 on "the list of the first 'loot mente' (allotment) that was in the townes." Mr. Latting says that on September 26th, 1672, William Frost "then of Oyster Bay" was awarded by the Town "a new purchaser's accommodations, to wit, a piece of land between Mr. Brewster's and Thomas Thorp for a home lot, and the rest where it can be found convenient, so that it may not be prejudicial to highways and watering; the said Frost paying the purchase as others do." As this purchase of a home lot plainly indicated the expectation of a family, it may be safe to conclude that William Frost had been to Oyster Bay and was then engaged, or married, to Rebecca (Wright) Leverich, of whom later.

It has been said that he was a ship or boat builder and perhaps was influenced to come to Matinecock by his quondam Setauket neighbor William Simson, who was captain or master of a merchandise boat plying on the Sound, and had located near the entrance of the Creek subsequently known by his name and later as Frost Creek.

Simson had first taken in 1666 an assignment from Samuel Dayton of the title of Lot 52 as laid out by the Town of Hempstead, then having jurisdiction over this territory, but subsequently repudiated. On the north end of this lot was his residence, as shown by the description of the adjoining lot on the west as being bounded "east by William Simson's House Lot." In 1667, as one of the "Seven Purchasers" of Matinecock Lands William Simson received title from the Indians to 40 acres of woodland "as by us bounded" and one-seventh interest in all their undisposed meadows, with commonage right of grazing and timber (on Matinecock Neck as understood). This on Dec. 4, 1674, he assigned to William Frost of Setauke or Brookhaven, the original papers being before the compiler at this present writing. On this 40 acre tract William Frost built his house, a few yards northwest of the site of the one recently burned, near by a spring of living water, used later for household and farmyard supply. The situation has a superb view, north and east, of the country and Long Island Sound.

For his friendly services to the Indians, he received title to large tracts of land on Unquagwa and Lattin's Necks at the south side of the Township, now known as Massapequa, some of which he exchanged with the heirs of John Coles for a sixty acre tract, next lot but one east of his house lot, and other parcels were sometime occupied by his grandsons Samuel and Joseph Frost, and sold by them before removal to the "Main Shore." He acquired sundry other tracts, south of the Musketa Cove road, on southwest side of road to Jericho, and on Jak Neck and Pine Island, becoming one of the chief proprietors of the Township. He died about 1720 and was buried on his own land near the north end of the 40 acre lot. His grave formed the nucleus around which, his descendants for successive generations have been gathered to their last resting places. The Home Place remained in possession of the family until 1859, when it was sold, by the daughters of Valentine Frost of the seventh generation, to Paul D. Cravath of N. Y. City.

William Frost m. prob. Oyster Bay, about 1672-3, Rebecca Wright, dau. of Nicholas and Ann Wright, of whom see Wright Lineage. She was b. Lynn, Mass., about 1646, and m. 1st, Oyster Bay, Eleazer Leverich, son of the Rev. William Leverich, from whom however the Court of Assize, sitting in New York, Oct. 22, 1670, granted (her) Rebecca Leveridge a divorce from her husband Eleazer, on account of "his alleged impotency after they had been married seven and a half years past, and due examination of the matter by surgeons well skilled in the matter and sober matrons, who privately examined both the man and the woman" And an order being made the 24 Feb. 1670/1 it was decided that "Eleazer Leverich do pay, or cause to be paid unto Rebecca Wright, from whom he is divorced, the sum of £25, in living cattle, to be apprised by indifferent men, or in corne, beef for pork, at price current, in lieu of what she brought him at their marriage." The date of Rebecca's decease does not seem to have been known. In the will of 1698 her husband gives and bequeaths "all my movables to my wife and after her decease to be equally divided between my two sons, and they are to take care of their mother and to see that she wants for nothing as long as she doth live." Now there appears in the Frost Genealogy, 1912, by Mrs. Josephine C. Frost, p. 177, the discovery of an old Bible endorsed "Benjamin Frost's Book" with dates 1719, 1772 and Oct. 12, 1793. It is said to contain the record of Benjamin Frost's children and also a record of "Mary Frost's marriage to Zebuln Dickinson in the year 1701 and her death in 1720." And on p. 51 of the same work it is said "In the Frost Cemetery at Locust Valley, N. Y., is a very old stone with dates not readable, and the name of Mary Dickinson on it." Chronologically there is no place in the Frost lineage for Mary but as the dau. of William (1) b. about 1683, and the wonder is that she did not share in the reversion of the movables in his will 1698. In the New York Surrogates Office, Liber 9, p. 198, it appears that "William Frost Esq., of Oyster Bay in Queens Co., died Intestate and Letters of Administration were granted to wife Elinor, July 19, 1720." While this can hardly be a transposition of the letters forming Rebekeah as it was early written, it is certainly not a possible phonetic rendering, as the pronunciation of Elinor was El-in-er, or colloquially Lanah. It has been stated in one of the public prints that Elinor was a dau. of Rev. William Leverich, but on call for proof there was no response. It is therefore probable that William Frost (1) was twice married.

A footnote, p. 18, of the Frost genealogy, states that "William Frost may have been born at Binsted, Co. Hampshire, Eng., but the probabilities are he was born in America, and his father (perhaps John) may have been a brother of Elder Edmund of Boston, Mass., or William, may have been the son of Elder Edmund, as no children are given the latter between the years 1632 and 1637. An unusual occurrence for those times, and tradition tells us one or two of his sons disappeared from Boston, and it is not unreasonable to suppose they may have followed the families who went from there to New Haven, as some of the younger sons of Elder Edmund did and later returned.

A letter from George Frost, New Town, Alton, Hants, England, on a business sheet headed "Appointed Emigration Agent for the Government of New Zealand, South Australia and Canada" says that his grandfather's name was George and that he had a brother William. All his father's children were born in Binsted and he looked up some baptisms that are also found on the list from that parish. The letter is not dated, but it is known to have been written about 1871."

JOHN FROST, ?brother of William (1). The records of the Township of Oysterbay, show that in the year 1670, Abigail Frost (?wife of John) was one of the witnesses to the will of Robert Forman of Oysterbay Cove, L. I. 1672 John Frost of Killingworth (whether of Killingworth upon Mathne-cock on Long Island or Killingworth in Conn. is not known) buys land of Robert Williams, situate at Lusum (now Jericho). 1679 Granted by the Town to John Frost a lot of four acres, for a Home Lot, where he shall choose, with liberty to take up 10 acres of woodland. Laid out two days later at Oysterbay Cove, opposite Thomas Youngs. This lot was subsequently in the possession of William Frost Senr of Mathnecock, being mentioned in 1724 as having been laid out to him and later conveyed by his sons William and Wright Frost to Moses Forman, (Known as the John Frost lot).

1681 Memo. of an Order for "John Frost to pay unto Thomas Townsend, the balance due on last bill of Hats" signed by John Wright, John Wright probably being the manufacturer and John Frost the retail merchant.

1683/4 John Frost sells to Thomas Miller, his lot of 18 acres, with House at Jericho, probably on the eve of his going to New England.

HARCURT (HARCOURT) LINEAGE

RICHARD HARCURT appears in Hist. of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations Jan. 23, 1648/9, as one of the signers of the Fundamental Agreement of the Inhabitants of the Colony of Warwick; Feb. 26, 1648/9 with Henry Townsend, Mr. (Robert) Potter, and Mr. (Esckiel) Holliman, appointed to lay out the meadow and upland in "ye neck." 1648 as Constable, the (then) highest office in the Town government; 1652 Licensed to keep a Victualling House and to sell spirituous liquors; 1655, ordered that Richard Harcourt is appointed to be an Ordinary Keeper (i.e. tavern keeper) together with Stukely Westcott; 1657, at Jamaica, L. I., on list of citizens, with the three Townsends, subsequently neighbors at Oyster Bay; Feb. 16, 1661, at Jamaica, on list of those proscribed for sympathy with Quakers. In September of the same year, his name appears among the grantees of the Mill Right to Henry Townsend at Oyster Bay. The Oyster Bay records show that his first residence was on a lot bought of Mark Meggs situate on South side of the main street just east of the mill dam; his next and probably last residence was on south side of the road to the Cove, including property of the late Edward M. Townsend.

He held at times the offices of Overseer, Constable and Surveyor and was on sundry commissions for laying out lands in the Town. Of his ancestry this compiler has not made any attempt at discovery, but believes him to have been a cadet of the Harcourt Family. The following extracts may be a beginning for some future chronicler.

"1652, Richard Harcourt, mentioned as heir or assignee of Frances Weston, and Margaret his wife," another deed calls Richard cousin (nephew) of Francis Weston from whom he had inherited land. It is suggested that Richard's mother was a sister of Francis Weston. Francis Weston was of Salem, Mass., Providence and Warwick, R. I.; recalcitrant Puritan and one of the twelve original members of the Baptist

COCK—COCKS—COX GENEALOGY

Church at Providence. According to Austin's Gen. Dict. of R. I., p. 158, Richard Harcourt m. 1st, Elizabeth Potter, dau. of Robert Potter and Isabel Anthony (as shown by induction) dau. of John and Susannah Anthony of Portsmouth, R. I., Inn Keeper etc.

Robert Potter in 1638, being under criticism in the Church, removed to Portsmouth and Warwick, R. I., where in 1643 he with sundry others including Samuel Gorton were notified to appear before the General Court at Boston, as "they held blasphemous errors, which they must repent of" or go to Boston for trial; and they were soon carried thither. At the time of the capture of the Warwick men, their wives and children were forced to betake themselves to the woods and suffered hardships that resulted in the death of three women at least, one of these being the wife of Robert Potter. 1655, May 25, he was appointed by the Court of Commissioners to keep a house of entertainment, but died before expiration of the year.

Richard Harcourt, m. 2d, Mariam Hoyt, dau. of Simon Hoyt of Stamford, Conn., and widow of Samuel Forman, son of Robert of Oyster Bay. Richard d. Oyster Bay after May 2, 1696, that being the date of Codicil to his last will.

The very interesting will (See Townsend Memorial, p. 73 et seq.) does not name all his children and their alliances, but the following arrangement here presented while making no pretense to regularity of birth, nor anything but possibility in cases of those marked interrogatively, is approximately correct.

Children of Richard and Elizabeth (Potter) Harcourt:

I Susannah, m. John Townsend son of John and Elizabeth (?Montgomery) Townsend.

II Daniel, m. Sarah ?Forman, dau. of Samuel and Mariam (Hoyt) Forman.

III Isabel, m., as 2d wife, Thomas Weekes, son of Francis and Elizabeth (Luther) Weekes.

IV Elizabeth, m., as 2d wife, Thomas Youngs, son of Capt. Joseph and Margaret (Warren) Youngs.

V Mercy, m. (?Edward) Ketcham son of ?John of Huntington, L. L.

VI Meribah, m., as 2d wife, Abraham Alling, son of Abraham and Mary.

VII Mary, m. 1st, ?Maurice Shadbolt; m. 2d, Robert Coles son of Nathaniel and Deborah (Wright) Coles.

VIII Dorothy, m., as 2d wife, John (5) Cock.

IX Sarah, m., as 3d wife, Nathaniel Coles, son of Robert and Mary (Hawxhurst) Coles.

X Benjamin, m. ?Hannah Dickinson, dau. of Capt. John and Elizabeth (Howland) Dickinson.

Of John's 14 children, Samuel, b. 1627, Governor of Antigua 1672, was a Quaker.

DEPLAINE LINEAGE

1 NICOLA de la PLAINDE of the Seigneurie de la Grand Plaine, near Bremsure in France, is said to have been a Huguenot refugee, fleeing to England long before the Revolution of 1649 and after a brief stay there came to New Amsterdam where his name appears as taking the oath of allegiance Apr. 13, 1657. The records of the Reformed Dutch Church show Sept. 1658, the m. of "Nicolas de la Plaine van Bersweer in Vranckrýck [Kingdom of France], en Susanna Cresson, Van Ryswyck," dau. of Pierre Cresson and Rachel Cloos his wife, refugees from Picardy, France, who fled to Holland, where he is said to have gardened to the Prince of Orange, (but the relative dates make it improbable) and after seventeen years sojourn came to New Amsterdam.

Children of Nicola and Susanna (Cresson) Deplaine:

I James, b. ?1660; m. Hannah (6) Cock.
II Elisabeth, b. ———; m. Casper Hoedt.
III Judith, b. ———; Thomas Griffith.
IV Susanna, b. ———; m. Arnold Cassell.
V Christian, b. ———; m. Ivi Belanger.

2 JAMES de la PLAINDE (as he wrote it) eldest son of Nicola, the first of the name in America, m. Hannah (6) Cock. (See p. 16 for issue). He settled in Germantown, Pa., now a part of Philadelphia, and there bought 100 acres of land in the years 1691 and 1692. In 1698 he was Clerk of the Court of Germantown, and in 1703 or 1704 gave to the City of Germantown, what is known as Market Square. The de la Plaine house, at the corner of Market Square, which remained in possession of the family for over a century, was demolished in 1888, to make way for a more modern building, the structure of the Mutual Insurance Company. The site of the house was marked by the Colonial Dames in 1905.
3 JAMES DELAPLAINE, eldest son of James and Hannah (Cock) Delaplaine, b. New Castle, Del., 1695, was Justice of the Peace at Philadelphia, 1745 to 1749. The following is from Philadelphia Friends' Records:

"At our Mo. Meeting held ye 25/1st mo. (Mar.) 1728. Whereas James De La Plaine and Elizabeth Shoemaker having Declared their intention of Marriage with Each Other before Two Mo: Meetings Enquiry being made of Persons appointed & found Clear from all other on Ye account of Marriage, Are left to Accomplish Ye same in Good Order. Ye 25th of Ye 1st mo. 1728." Elizabeth was dau. of George and Sarah (Wall) Shoemaker. Their eldest son

4 NEHEMIAH DELAPLAINE, m. 1756 in the old church of Gloria Dei, Mary Marshall, dau. of Samuel and Sarah (Ashmeade) Marshall, and the family since have been Episcopallians. They removed to a place near Wilmington, Dela-aware, after marriage. He was a Captain in the First Battalion of New Castle, Del. Company troop during the Revolutionary War.

5 JAMES DELAPLAINE, their eldest son, b. 1756; d. 1797; m. 1788, Mary Kirk, dau. of Jonathan and Jane (Proctor) Kirk. He was a Lieut. in the Revolution.

6 NEHEMIAH DELAPLAINE, their eldest son, b. 9.12.1790; d. 2.17.1860; m. 1814, Lavinia Springer, dau. of Jeremiah and Mary (Reese) Springer.

7 LEWIS SPRINGER DELAPLAINE, their eldest son, b. 1815; d. 11.27. 1893; m. 11.9.1841, Ann Mc Coy, dau. of General Robert and Elizabeth (Dunn) Mc Coy.

8 ROBERT McCOY DELAPLAINE, their eldest son, b. 12.2.1842; d. Apr. 1884; m. 3.24.1883 at Canton, O., by Rev. Thomas Wells of Grace Church, Mansfield, O., Mary Louisa Burke, b. 1847, dau. of Judge William Hand Burke and Annetta Mum his wife, and had issue: I William Augustus Delaplaine, b. 1864; d. 1904. II Louis Springer, b. ———. III Mary Hulda, b. ———; m. ———, and d. ———. Burke from Galway, Ireland, said to be from Lord Con-getherville, who m. the mother of William the Conqueror, and was Count de Moraigne 1080, and Earl of Kent and of Cornwall 1087.

CHANGE OF CALENDAR

"OLD STYLE" TO "NEW STYLE"

Down to 1752 the Julian Calender, established by Julius Caesar, remained in use in England. The Gregorian Calendar, by which most of the world now computes time, was introduced by Pope Gregory in 1582, at which time the greater part of continental Europe adopted it. The English Parliament considered it in 1585, but did not adopt it until 1751, when it was ordered that the New Style go into effect the following year, 1752, which was to begin January 1st, and that eleven days should be omitted after the 2d of September 1752, making the following day the 14th. Russia still uses the Julian Calendar, and the difference is now thirteen days. The year formerly began March 25th (The Feast of Our Lady) but had been generally changed to January 1st (The Feast of the Circumcision) long before the English reform. In the Old Style December was the tenth month as its name indicates, January the eleventh, and February the twelfth, and while March was the first month, the first 24 days in it belonged to the previous year.

Therefore for a long period preceding the reform, English dates between January 1st and March 24th inclusive, were expressed in both styles, as 1/Jan. 1695/6, 24/Mar. 1695/6 or in Quaker parlance, 1/11 mo. 1695/6, 24/3 mo. 1695/6.

The difference between Old and New Style, both in the common or "vulgar" notation, and in that used by Friends, and which now, like many of their reforms, is generally adopted in the business world, is shown by a quotation from the statement issued by London Yearly Meeting in 1751 "By the said Act it is Ordered and Enacted that the Computation according to which the year of our Lord beginneth on the 25 day of March shall not be made use of from and after the last day of December 1751." The following form will help to keep in mind the differences caused by the change.

The boundary lines of this map agree with the cardinal points, and include the northern part of the Township of Oyster Bay in the present County of Nassau, which was set off from Queens County in 1899.

The designation Matinecock originally applied to all the territory shown on the map.

Killingworth upon Matinecock was applied to the territory between the Sound and the Piping Rock road, bounded east by Beaver Swamp river and west by Island Swamp brook.

Buckram was used indifferently for part of the same territory on both sides of Chagechagon brook, which runs easterly near the railroad into Kentuck pond. The name of the post office was changed in 1856 to Locust Valley.

Masheta Cove, which in the Indian tongue meant the cove of "grassy flats," was the initial name of the settlement, known since 1834 as Glen Cove.

Pound Hollow was probably Pond Hollow, originally so called from the accumulation of water there during Spring and other freshets.

Oyster Bay has been used indifferently to represent the arm of the sea, running in from the sound, and the place of settlement fronting on it; the Township, extending from Sound to Ocean, is properly written a solid word, Oysterbay.

The identifying numbers were omitted from the following names: Samuel (21) Cock, and John (32) Cock, west of the road from Beaver Brook to the railroad crossing; William (78) Cock, whose house was north of the railroad, and whose distillery was on Frost creek, near the Sound; Samuel (40) Cock, southwest of the Frost burial place, and Richard (140) Cock, south of Littleworth Old Path. The latter's house is here shown nearly half a mile south of its true location.
