THE DEEP ROOTS OF THE JARRHLL FAMILY AND THEIR TANGLED BRANCHES

A careful survey of the first Jarrell families who came to what is now Boone County, West Virginia, as well as the ones who came during the next few decades, will disclose that all of them were descended from a common ancestor, John Jarrell, the immigrant, who came to America from Holland in 1654 and settled in the neck of land between the Potomac and Rappahannock Rivers in Northumberland County, Virginia.

There is some obscurity concerning the second generation, but it is believed that John Jarrell had a son named William who followed the Rapidan River Trail into what is now Orange, Culpeper, and Madison Counties, Virginia. This William had at least two sons, James and William, both of whom lived in the part of Orange County that later became Culpeper.

James Jarrell, son of William, was the father of Daniel, James, Jr., Jeremiah, John, Solomon, and William. There were also several daughters. At least three of the sons, James, Jr., Solomon, and William, served in the Revolutionary War.

Solomon Jarrell, born 2 October 1748, son of James, Sr., enlisted in Orange County, Virginia, in the Revolutionary War in a company of musketry commanded by Capt. John Hunter Holt, and attached to the 1st Virginia State Regiment, commanded by Col. George Gibson. His Pension Record shows that he served three full years and was discharged at Frederick Town, Maryland, in the latter part of 1779 or the early part of 1780.

He spent the winter 1777 and 1778 at Valley Forge in Chester County, Pennsylvania, with George Washington's army. The company's pay roll for that period shows that he was paid at the rate of six and two-thirds dollars per month. However, for one of the months, because of sickness, he received only half pay.

The suffering of the soldiers during that winter and spring was almost incredible. Washington remained with his men throughout the period and in the spring, with the aid of Baron Steuben, reorganized his army and Camp was broken 18 June 1778.

In his pension application Solomon Jarrell states that he was in the Battle of Monmouth. This battle was fought ten days after they left Valley Forge. He also states that he was with General Anthony Wayne at the storming of Stony Point on the Hudson.

After the war, Solomon moved to Monroe County where he received a pension in 1818 for his service in the Revolution. It is not known for certain what became of his children, but it is believed that some of his children and grandchildren made their homes in Boone County. Perhaps Simeon and his family, and Tommie's children were some of them.

Daniel Jarrell, son of James, Sr., after his marriage to Mary, lived for about ten years in Culpeper County then moved, soon after the Revolutionary War, to Monroe County, West Virginia. His proven children are: Gibson, Elijah, John, Lemuel, Mary, and a daughter who married John Harvey.

The other sons of James, Sr. - James, Jr., Jeremiah, John, and William, apparently remained in Culpeper County, for at least a generation or two.
Soon after 1800 settlers from Greenbrier, Monroe, Kanawha, and also from other parts of Virginia and North Carolina, began rapidly to occupy the land which now comprise Boone County. These first settlers who came to the area, as well as the ones who came in greater numbers during the years that followed, were by no means a chosen or selected class of people, but rather a hardy group of pioneers that were willing to make sacrifices and to face the hardships of wringing their substance from the fields and forests.

There was perhaps no family more intimately associated with the early settlement of Boone County than was the Jarrell family and their connection by intermarriage with the families of Brown, Coon, Green, Gore, Miller, Toney, White, Workman, and several other families.

There were several families already living in Boone County when Elijah and Simeon Jarrell and their families arrived sometime between 1810 and 1820. Elijah settled near the present town of Bim and Simeon built his home near what is now Uneeda. Tradition is that they were brothers, but records indicate that they could have been cousins instead.

John Jarrell, son of Daniel, was perhaps the next of the name to make his home in Boone County. He came from Fayette County, where he had lived for a few years after leaving Monroe County, and settled a short distance below the present town of Van. This was probably in 1824 or 1825.

As far as is known, Gibson and Lemuel Jarrell, sons of Daniel, never lived in Boone County. They lived in Raleigh County, a short distance from the Boone-Raleigh line. It was their children and grandchildren that first make their appearance in Boone County soon after 1830.

About 1832 or 1833 Louden Jarrell, born 1810 in Monroe County, who was perhaps a grandson of Solomon Jarrell, first appears in the Boone County records. He married about 1836 Lucy Browning, born about 1821 in North Carolina, a daughter of Reuben Browning.

It was not until the twentieth century that non-related Jarrell families moved into Boone County. These families were descended from the North Carolina Jarrells, who, as far as can be determined, were unrelated to the ones who had already established their homes here.

Joseph was a native of Bim, West Virginia, grew up there and in the vicinity. His parents were Overton and Miherva (Green) Jarrell; his grandparents, on his father's side, were Daniel and Hannah (Workman) Jarrell; those on his mother's side were George and Jane (Scott) Green; all of Bim and the surrounding community. All of these families have been represented in this part of Boone County for generations and are typical of the thrifty and industrious folk that have peopled the upper Pond Fork since the first settlers arrived. Just who the first settler in this region was cannot be determined at this time, but certainly one who was there very early was James Workman, the maternal great grandfather of Joseph Jarrell. Joseph and Virginia "Jenney" Jarrell were the parents of seventeen children:

LOUDEN AND LUCY JARRELL OF BOONE COUNTY
And Some of Their Descendants

Louden Jarrell, born 1810 in Monroe County; married about 1836 Lucy Browning, born about 1821 in North Carolina. There has been much speculation as to who were Louden's parents, also as to who were Lucy's parents. There has been no record found which would prove the parents of either. However, some records tend to indicate that Louden was a grandson of Solomon Jarrell, the Revolutionary War soldier, and that Lucy was a daughter of Reuben Browning of North Carolina.

Louden first appears in the Logan County Tax List for the year 1833 which indicates that he was here in 1832 in order to owe taxes for that year. In 1835 he patented 25 acres of land on top of the mountain between Pond Fork and Bull Creek. This patent included a large area of several acres of almost flat land, and a spring. This place is known to this day as Louden's Field. There is evidence that an old house once stood there, but tradition is that it was torn down or burned before the Civil War.

The old house was probably built by Louden and Lucy as their first home. The records are not clear as to when they moved back down in the valley. However, in 1853 they purchased land from John, Jr. and Leah Jarrell that was located between what is now Cazy and Bim. Probably built somewhere near what is now called the Noah White place.

Louden and Lucy were the parents of eight children:

I. Martha Jarrell, born June 1838; married 25 March 1869 Lemuel J. White, born February 1840, son of Benjamin W. and Sarah (Jarrell) White. They had five children all born in Boone County:
   I-1. Alberta White, born March 1870. No further information.
   I-2. Edwin Scott White, born 14 July 1873; married 10 October 1902 Elmira Griffith, born 1879.
   I-3. Virginia White, born 17 September 1875, died 27 November 1940; married about 1892 Joseph Jarrell, born 6 April 1868, died 5 January 1924. Their seventeen children are listed under their father's lineage (II-1-C-4).
   I-2. James Noah White, born 10 September 1877, died __________; married about July 1898 Carrie Alice Coon, born 23 December 1881, daughter of George and Ora (Workman) Coon. They had thirteen children. (Their children are listed in Volume III, page 139-Kith and Kin of Boone County, W. Va.)

II. Floyd S. Jarrell, born about 1839; appears in the census of 1850, 1860, and 1870 - Boone County. No further information.

III. Irvin Jarrell, born about 1841; appears in the Boone County 1850 and 1860 census. No further information.

IV. Jackson Jarrell, born about 1843; appears in the Boone County 1850 and 1860 census. No further information.
V. John A. Jarrell, born about 1845, died 1894; married Nancy Alzine Price, born January 1862, daughter of William and Margaret (Dempsey) Price. They lived on Pond Fork, three or four miles above Van, near where the Island Creek Coal Company's cleaning plant now stands. The hollow there, Prices Branch, is named for William Price. Nine of their eleven children have been identified.

V-1. Viola P. Jarrell, born 15 January 1877, died 20 December 1937 in Plymouth, Wayne County, Michigan; married 7 June 1898 Homer Wallace Buttrick, born 7 November 1874 in Ohio. They had six children:

VII-2. George W. Green, born June 1878; married Nancy born March 1878.
VII-3. Deborah Green, born May 1882; married 27 Feb 1902 David Wesley White, born 5 October 1877, son of Floyd and Emily (Jarrell) White.

VIII. Margaret Jarrell, a twin born June 1850; married Ballard Pauley, born 1853, son of Joseph and Julia Pauley. They had seven or more children:

VIII-1. Bell Pauley, born 1875.

REFERENCE NOTES:

Material for the Jarrell Family of West Virginia was obtained from many sources - including records of birth, death, marriages, and wills from dusty files in many courthouses in West Virginia and Virginia. Material was also obtained from records in the Search Room of the West Virginia Department of Archives and History, Charleston; from the Virginia State Library, Richmond; and from the Federal Archives and Record Center, San Bruno, California.

Much personal data about the Jarrell family was obtained from descendants through interviews and correspondence. Special thanks and credit go to Esther M. Jones, Dr. James E. Ehipps, Thelma Rogers, Florence Ferrell, Bonnie Lorrison, Esther Mae Zontini, Edward Lee Jarrell, Arley Paul Jarrell, Lyle Jarrell, Juel Jann Ticken, Mrs. Howard R. Jarrell, Mrs. Bennett H. Jarrell, Mavis Ann Endicott, Linda Eversole, Auldie Jarrell, Omega Carnet Starling, Cledith N. Jarrell, and Mrs. Dennis B. Brown. Time made it impossible to contact hundreds of other Jarrell descendants whose names should have been recorded in this article - the roots of the Jarrell family indeed grow deep.
