A BRIEF RESUME OF SOCIETY ACQUISITIONS

Acquisitions to the Society's Library are made in three different ways—by gift, by loan, and as custodian for the Donor's Family, etc. They are invited and welcomed, and will be catalogued and filed for future historical reference.

The most notable matter we have placed in our custody by S. H. Modisett, of Luray, Virginia. This is an old Family Bible published in Switzerland in 1536, and in America was the property of Jacob Strickler. It is placed with us for the benefit of all his descendants. Mr. Modisett also gave the Society a lot of ancient almanacs and newspapers.

The Henkel Sisters, Martha and Julia, of New Market, gave several large lots of publications, prints, etc., issued by the Henkel Press over a period of more than 100 years. We have in our possession numerous publications dealing with the History of the Lutheran Church, consisting of doctrinal books, pastoral letters, pastor's contracts for services, newspapers, etc.

A. M. Turner, of Broadway, Virginia, gave us 40 books from his library. Mr. Turner is 87 years old and almost a county historian himself.

Kirby S. Bassford has secured many valuable donations for the library. He is a member of the Acquisition Committee. Among those who made contributions through him are Glenn Alexander, of Los Angeles, California. Mr. Alexander is a Rockingham boy; his contributions have been mostly photographs. Mr. Alexander is a photographer. Another is R. E. L. Russell, of Baltimore, Maryland, also of Harrisonburg originally, who gave us through Mr. Bassford a Railroad Lantern given to his Father, Mr. Ed. Russell, by the Fire Company of Harrisonburg in 1884. It has never been lit. Mr. Russell has written the early history of the Telegraph System in our county for the Society. Numerous others have given valuable matter to us through "Tommy."

C. R. McGahey has made several gifts and loans to the Society. Mr. Wm. S. Fallis is another donor of valuable gifts, one of which is a copy of the first license issued to operate a restaurant business in Harrisonburg, dated 1780.

F. H. Hoover, of Broadway, gave us a Genealogy of the Hoover Family. We also have a copy of a Branner and a Showalter Genealogy.

The Librarian is collecting a complete daily file of the Daily News-Record, and has 6 years to date. We also have 2 copies of the "Virginia Echo" of 1895, probably the only copies in existence.

Etta Wenger gave us numerous old letters dated in 1820, and sent through the old Bowman’s Mill Post Office long before Broadway was in existence.

We have a large collection of papers, letters, account books, diaries, etc., left by Mrs. Judd, who died in Page County at the age of 90. Mrs. Charles Spitler, one of her descendants, gave us this lot. We also have part of the J. J. Bowman diary, which is very interesting.

Several interesting stories have been written for our library. One by J. S. H. Good, on the Dale Enterprise Community and School. J. O. Myers, of British Columbia, wrote his recollections on the Broadway Schools.

Several recent acquisitions by the Society include a pewter Baptismal Bowl and one Communion Plate from the Peaked Mountain Lutheran Church, at McGaheysville, presumably used in the original church edifice. Another interesting addition is a copy of the “Kentucky Harmony”, published in Harrisonburg in 1826 by Ananias Davison. Mr. Davison also composed some songs.

We also have numerous books on County Histories, Atlases, etc., published by Dr. J. W. Wayland, Jos. K. Ruebush, Ruebush-Kieffer Company, Noah D. Showalter, and other publishers.

Miss Elizabeth Harris gave us some early Court Records, used by Judge John T. Harris.

We also have numerous museum trophies, dating before the year 1800.

Some work has been done on the erection of Monuments. The Monument at the Broadway High School is a notable example. It was erected some years ago prior to the Society’s formation to commemorate the Rockingham Schools from before 1800 to the present time.

DR. PETER AHL TEACHES JOHN HUP (HUPP)
MYSTERY OF A PHYSICIAN.
1794-1796

It is recorded by historians of the Old Dominion that Governor Spotswood and his “Knights of the Golden Horseshoe” were among the first white men to visit the now-famed Valley of Virginia, or, as it is sometimes called, the Shenandoah Valley. That visit was in the early 1700’s.

By the late 1700’s the Valley was still distinctly frontier, a virgin land beckoning young, courageous and energetic men and women. Land was theirs practically for the asking; it was inexpensive and the King’s quit rent seldom if ever collected. Joel Hite and Adam Mueller had, by the middle of the century, paved the way for the further settlement of one of America’s currently best-known garden spots. Physiocratic followers of Hite and Mueller, some crossing the Blue Ridge from settled “Piedmont,” most travelling south from Pennsylvania and other Northern Colonies, found economic security in the Valley within a few years and by 1783 had secured the blessings of political independence after a long drawn-out war with the Mother Country. Their primary original objective, however, was to settle down and make themselves self-sufficient in the necessities demanded in normal, progressive living.

In this frontier setting, and at this early period in our State history, an episode took place which resolved itself into a story some of us think worth telling. It is a commonplace tale, but we think it significant because of two reasons. In the first place it took place here in Rockingham County, and in the second place it happened one and a half centuries ago.

The year was 1794 and the setting was Rockingham County in the Old Dominion. Major characters were Dr. Peter Ahl, practicing physician of the County, Martin Hupp, aged nineteen and apprenticed to the physician, and the young man’s guardian John Hupp, both ward and guardian being from Shenandoah County.

On 15 August 1794 Dr. Ahl and Martin Hupp entered into a contract that called for the latter to be apprenticed to the former for a two year period expressly “to learn the Art and mystery of a Physician.” Young Hupp was to “graduate” on his twenty-first birthday. This procedure was customary not only on the American frontier, but also in the more settled America on the East Coast as well as in the most settled and civilized portions of the Old World. It was not customary in those days, however, for the apprenticeship to be of so lengthy duration. A half-century later medical standards were no more exacting.

By the terms of the contract the apprenticeship was of two year's duration. On signing the contract the physician received £30 in Virginia currency and could demand an additional £20 whenever desired. Martin Hupp was to be tutored in the "Lattin, & English, & Jerman languages . . . . ." Latin was the language most commonly used by European medical authorities in textbooks and research publications, while the provision that the youth be tutored in German was in all probability predicated upon the fact that the Valley was to a large degree settled by Germans or their descendants. Furthermore, it is rather interesting to note, "Lodging, washing and diet" was to be furnished the would-be physician.

On the other hand, Martin Hupp, as was the custom of the day, understood he was to make himself generally useful to the physician in his general practice. Not only were there three languages to be learned, and the "Art and mystery of a Physician" to be mentally and spiritually absorbed, but the office needed an occasional cleaning while the horse and stable needed daily attention. These, and many others, were the tasks set before the late Eighteenth Century disciple of Hippocrates.

Provision was made for the abrogation of the contract if either party to it died within one year. In case the apprentice was called to his fathers the other party was to return £30 and also interest accrued since 15 April 1794; and, had he during that time demanded the additional £20, that, too, without interest, was to be returned. The contract states quite specifically that only the death of one, or both, parties, would invalidate the carefully drawn-up provisions.

It is regretted that extant records covering the story are incomplete. There is documentary proof that basic provisions of the contract were put into effect, and we know that the sequel to what has already been told resulted apparently from failure on the part of Dr. Ahl to properly carry out his portion of the contract, but the intervening period, covering several years, is dependent purely upon an interpretation predicated on circumstantial evidence.

According to John Hupp the contract was broken by Dr. Ahl. The former then brought suit in a state court. On 24 January 1796 M'Williams, Clerk of the Rockingham County Court, issued a writ commanding Sheriff Ezekiel Harrison, in the name of the Commonwealth of Virginia, "to take Peter Ahl, if he be found within your bailiwick, and him safely keep, so that you can have his body brought before the Justice of said county Court, at the Court-House, on the fourth Monday of March next, to answer John Hupp of plea of Covenant Broken: damage five hundred pounds." On the back of this writ there was written in longhand: "For not performing the Covenant, in his written agreement, entered into with the plaintiff as guardian, with his hand and Seal; Bail required."

This sudden turn of affairs must have been occasioned either by the defendant's refusal or neglect to fulfill his portion of the contract. Obviously this is strong circumstantial evidence which must be accepted in lieu of authenticated documentary evidence. That the plaintiff was serious and persistent is not to be doubted, for there are extant monthly writs from January thru July of 1796 demanding the arrest and detention of the physician.

On 2 July 1796 Benjamin Reighart and Isaac Peters of Rockingham County appeared before Asher Waterman, Justice of the Peace, and offered bail amounting to £1000 for their friend the physician, promising to either deliver the latter to the Court when his case came up or pay the £500 demanded by the plaintiff for the breach of contract. This was satisfactory to Justice Waterman and the defendant was released.

Shortly before the case came up Dr. Ahl surrendered himself to the Sheriff and was lodged in Harrisonburg's criminal and civil detention hostelry, there to await the pleasure of the Court. This information reached the ears of Martin Hupp, the former apprentice, who immediately dispatched a note to the Sheriff and the Court requesting release of the defendant from bail requirements.

Obviously from the extant facts of the case, the whole affair constituted a matter of litigation, which having been entered into was, to say the least, slightly distasteful to all parties concerned. The plaintiff and his ward were persistent in pushing legal charges but did not want the defendant in jail—a rather peculiar reaction—and certainly the defendant did not relish detention in the town brig. One gathers that the matter should have been settled out of court.

A trial was finally held and the litigation legally settled on "Damage and Judgment" amounting to £262.50—something in the neighborhood of one-tenth the original amount demanded by the plaintiff. Right there the story ends. No papers on the subject following this date have been found, or rather, are known by the writer or his associates. Many questions are left unanswered, and the two main ones, from the point of view of the writer, are: 1. did Martin Hupp ever learn the "Art and mystery of a Physician;" and 2. just how and why did Dr. Ahl fail to live up to his part of the contract?
For the Tuition of poor Children, Paid by the Treasurer of the School Commissioners of Rockingham County, in the year ending 30th Septbr. 1834.

Pertinent Items

The regular rate for tuition was three and a half cents a day per pupil. In one account the rate was three and a fourth cents. The number of pupils in most cases, as shown in the tabulation, was small. It is probable that the teachers at the same time had other pupils in school whose tuition was paid by parents or guardians.

The several textbooks as listed in the margins of the different reports present an interesting variety. They were the following:
Adams's Geography, American Elementary Spelling Book, Baxter's Saints' Rest. The Bible, C. F. Reader, No. 2, Comley's Spelling Book, English Reader, Nos. 1, 2, Goldsmith's Rome, History of the United States, Juvenile Reader, Life of Marion, The New Testament, New York Reader, Nos. 1, 2, 3, Pike's Arithmetic, U. S. Primer, U. S. Reader, Walker's Dictionary, Webster's Spelling Book. Not all of these were used in any one school, but the New Testament, Webster's Spelling Book, and one or two of the readers appeared in most of the lists.

It is not possible at this time to fix the locations and boundaries of the several school districts, but some of them may be vaguely located by the residences of the commissioners, who, we may assume, lived in their respective districts. John Vigar may be identified with the region between Bridgewater and Spring Creek; Dorman Lofland possibly lived in the vicinity of Lacey Spring; John Kratzer at or near Linville; Jesse Rolston west or northwest of Harrisonburg; Jacob Trumbo may be associated with Brock's Gap, W. G. Thompson with Timberville, and G. W. Kemper with Port Republic.

Beginning of the War

It was my desire to enlist in Capt. Brock's Horse Company called the Valley Rangers, but my parents retracted my enlistment from fear I would indulge in bad habits which often has been the case with many young men, thoug I was 25 years of age. So I obeyed my parents. As my brother George was captain of Co. 116th Regt., Va. Malitia and I belonging to that company and the company not properly organized, there was vacancy of officers 2nd Lieut. So the Capt. and men prevailed on me to announce myself as a candidate to fulfill the vacancy, and after a long study and hesitating, I at last consented and was unanimously elected as 2nd Lieut. Co. K 116th Regt. Va. Malitia, and of course I excepted of the office on the 3rd day of May 1861. On or about the 15th of May the malitia was ordered to drill every week. And on the 17th of June the entire malitia force of Rockingham County was ordered to Strasburg, takeing the cars at Mt. Jackson on Sunday, the 18th at 9 O'clock A. M. and reaching Strasburg about 2 O'clock P. M. We had a fine car ride. There the order was countermanded and had a lively trip in returning home. Myself and Mr. John Thomas came as far to Mr. John Zirkle in New Market and remained there all night and returned home next morning. And from this time on all efforts being made for volunteers but still the number was too slow filling up so preparation was made for drafting. Received orders the 2nd of July all drafted men (included three of my brothers—the Capt. Isaac and Casper) to report in New Market the 6th of July by 12 O'clock M. At that time this generation was ignorant what equipments was required but all preparations was made to fully equip ourselves to start when we were called upon. During the draft existed. I remained at home till the 25th of July. I was ordered to report in New Market with the balance of my brother's company and was ordered to fairground, 1 mile below Winchester. Arrived there on the 27th of July 1861, and on the evening of the 28th the malitia were properly organized, and as they were a surplus of malitia officers I was relieved from my command for a short time. I returned home the morning of the 29th of July. Left Winchester at 8 O'clock A. M. and reached Mr. Hoovers, 2 miles from Woodstock by sundown and remained there all night. Left Mr. Hoovers early next morning in company with Peter Long and Col. Dovel. I reached home by 4 O'clock P. M. by the way of New Market. Then remained at home till the 12th of November 1861. I was then ordered to report to New Market with all the men belonging to the 116th Regt. Va. Militia. The command was ordered to Winchester. I was then ordered to fill vacant company H, 4th Regt. Va. Militia in Capt. Harvey J. Rosenberger's company from Smith’s Creek, Rockingham County. Myself and John Kerlin were lieutenants in the above stated company. I was then stationed on Fair Ground till the 6th of January 1862, when Gen. Jackson with his force, and the militia commanded by Gen. Meen, went to Capon Mountain, Rumney, Bathe, Hancock and other places. At that time I been detailed to impress teams for Capt. Shoup. Gen. Quarter-master for Gen. Jackson in Winchester. I was engaged in pressing teams in the County of Frederick, Clark, Berkeley and Jefferson till in the evening of the 17th of Jan., then the command had returned to Fair Ground. On the morning of the 18th of January was ordered to Martinsburg, the County seat of Berkeley Co. and were quartered in fine houses, and on double rations till in the evening of 27th of February 1862, when the enemy advanced on the place, and our forces being weak we were necessarily compelled to retreat back to Winchester in a force march. Casper had the mumps very bad. We reached the Fair Ground on the 28th, at 12 O’clock M. where I remained till on the morning of the 9th of March 1862. I then enlisted during the war under Col. Sipe, recruiting officer for Col. Ashby Command. Col. E. Sipe formerly Col. of 1st Regt. Va. Militia. After I enlisted a furlough of 15 days was given. I left Winchester the same day at 2 O’clock P. M. I reached Mt. Jackson at 3 O’clock in the morning of the 10th of March 1862 in company with J. W. Kratzer. I reached home by 8 O’clock in the evening of the 10th of March. Teste, Wm. McK. Wartmann, C. C.

The word “Drawn” appears twice; “Dr.” probably means drawn. The other dates, without “Drawn” or “Dr.”, perhaps indicate when the several men were summoned for possible jury duty.

Franklin Township evidently included the region of Bridgewater, Spring Creek, and Beaver Creek; Ashby Township, apparently, centered around Cross Keys and Friedens Church. Stonewall Township took in only a part of the present Stonewall District—that part extending from Port Republic to or towards McGaheysville, while Elk Run Township centered around Conrad’s Store, now Elkton.
