NECROLOGY

Mrs. William Dean, January 24, 1948.
Mrs. Elon O. Henkel, October 19, 1948.
Conrad T. Logan, January 9, 1948.
James H. Ruebush, April 4, 1948.
Noah D. Showalter, November 4, 1948.

HONORED IN FELLOWSHIP

Martha Bower, daughter of James R. Bower of Bedford County and Roanoke, Va., and his wife, Mary Scott Shands of Harrisonburg, married William Dean of Harrisonburg, November 12, 1889. Of their eight children, Anna Martha (Mrs. Clarence Crist) is a resident of Harrisonburg. Mrs. Dean took an active interest in local history and genealogy.

Julia Kurtz Henkel was born in New Market, November 8, 1867, daughter of Dr. Solon P. C. Henkel and his wife, Maria Miller. In early life she taught art in several schools. On October 8, 1907, she married Elon O. Henkel (1855-1935), editor and publisher of the Shenandoah Valley, weekly newspaper, at New Market, where the Henkels have been prominent in professional life and as publishers since 1790.

Conrad T. Logan was born in Harrisonburg, July 15, 1890, son of John Lester Logan and his wife, Margaret Elizabeth Conrad. On December 23, 1913, he married Mary Harnsberger Jarman of Elkton. After teaching in several institutions he, in 1919, became professor of English and head of the department in (now) Madison College, continuing in that capacity until his death. Beginning in 1928, he did much for the expansion and usefulness of the Rockingham Public Library in Harrisonburg.

James H. Ruebush, second son of Ephraim Ruebush and his wife, Lucilla Virginia Kieffer, was born near Singers’ Glen, October 19, 1865. On August 7, 1889, he married Ella V. Funkhouser of Shenandoah County. Professor Ruebush was a distinguished musician, teacher, composer, and educator. For many years he was an active member of the

Ruebush-Kieffer Publishing Company at Dayton and was a popular contributor to many of the music books issued by that firm. At the same time he was one of the mainstays of Shenandoah College, serving that institution as president and in other capacities.

Noah D. Showalter, born in Rockingham County in 1886, was a lover of music: taught singing and published singing books. He was also a surveyor and published county atlases in the Middle West and in Virginia. In later life he devoted much time to local history and in 1944 was one of the organizers of the Rockingham County Historical Society which he served efficiently as corresponding secretary and custodian. He was notably active and successful as chairman of the acquisition committee.
A NEWCOMER SALUTES THE GREAT VALLEY

By Earl C. Cochran

From Blue Ridge billows to the serrate crags
Of Alleghany's crest I gazed, and felt
At one with Moses and the hosts of God,
When from the heights of Moab they beheld
A vale that beckoned weary wand'rers in
To strike their tents and tarry there for aye.

I saw Gibraltar's twin, the peaked brow
Of Massanutten, imperturbably
Gaze forth, Sphinx-like, not on Ghizeh's dead
Nor tombs of Pharaohs, but bulging barns
And fatted kine, and husky, lusty sons
Of Shenandoah, Daughter of the Stars:
True melting pot of nations, bringing forth
A race not Teuton, Slav, or Celt, but all
American; their grandsires hither came
And set rude boots and moccasins upon
The fresh-made track of Knighthood's Golden Shoes;
Now Baughers, Dofflemyers, and Armentrouts
Are kith and kin with Johnson, Smith, and Jones,
While Fitz- and Mc- and O- ring proudly out
Like skirling pipes in Lomond's distant glens.

Thrice blest by Time: a PAST of golden deeds,
A PRESENT rich with progress and with wealth,
A FUTURE bounded only by your dreams!
May I be one of your adopted sons,
O Shenandoah, Daughter of the Stars?

GARRISON'S HISTORY

Rev. J. Silor Garrison, D. D., of Harrisonburg, a member of the Society's Honorary Advisory Board, has recently received from the press his monumental "History of the Reformed Church in Virginia, 1714-1940," an octavo volume of 475 pages. In addition, there are 118 inset pages of illustrations—portraits of church leaders, pictures from photographs of church buildings, etc. This book contains materials collected by Dr. Garrison over a period of 50 years, and will be an authoritative source of reference for students of church history in all time to come.

THOROUGHBRED HORSES

Mr. Alexander Mackay-Smith, of White Post, Va., a member of our Honorary Advisory Board, is the author of an attractively printed and illustrated booklet of 48 pages entitled "The Thoroughbred in the Lower Shenandoah Valley, 1785-1842," a product of the Pfifer Printing Company, Winchester. The publication gives evidence of extensive and careful research by the author and provides much interesting information on a subject that is familiar only in a general way to most persons, even those living in the region covered.

TURNER ASHBY CHAPTER, U. D. C., SEMI-CENTENNIAL

On October 2, 1947, the Turner Ashby Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Harrisonburg, celebrated its semi-centennial with an appropriate program, and in connection published an attractive 20-page historical booklet prepared by Mrs. Edwin A. Hering, who was president of the chapter from 1939 to 1947. The chapter was organized on February 14, 1896; its charter was received from the Virginia Division on November 11, 1897. The booklet contains the names of the 24 charter members and lists the present 62 members in Harrisonburg and Rockingham County, also the 14 members who live elsewhere. An appropriate tribute is paid to Mrs. William Dean of Harrisonburg and Mrs. Katherine Paul Letcher of Lexington, members of the chapter who have died recently.
STORIES OF THE SHENANDOAH

Under the above title Mrs. Silva E. Clem of Staunton, a member of our Society, published an illustrated volume of 111 pages in November, 1948. The stories have a basis in historical fact. Among the pictures of unusual interest are one of the old Willow Spout Tavern and the original Willow Spout, one of an old fort cellar in Page County, and another of the old house of John Lewis near Staunton.

LURAY BREEZES

In a collection of interesting old publications recently presented to the Society by Mrs. Charles A. Lee of Harrisonburg is a copy of Luray Breezes, a 12-page monthly magazine that was published for some years at Luray by Miss Nena B. Barbee, later Mrs. Albert Lane. The issue before us is No. 1 of Volume 2, dated September, 1885. The printers were Henkel & Co., New Market. William Randolph Barbee, Miss Barbee's father, and her brother, Herbert Barbee, were both talented and distinguished sculptors. Mr. and Mrs. Lane, in their declining years, resided in Harrisonburg. In this particular issue of Luray Breezes is an essay on "The Literature of the New South" by Virgie A. Strickler, later Mrs. L. R. Milbourne, who over a period of many years collected valuable materials relating to the history of Page County.

THE RODEFFER FAMILY

One of our members, Mrs. Carrie R. Power, has recently published a book of 275 pages on the Rodeffer Family, the 1400 members of which are widely distributed over the United States. Most of them are descendants of Conrad and Nancy Showalter Rodehafer who were married at Harrisonburg in 1805. The book was manufactured by the Shenandoah Press at Dayton. Mrs. Power's address is P. O. Box 14, Phoebeus, Va.

A BIBLE OF 1748

Dr. C. E. Nicholas of Harrisonburg has presented to the Society an old Bible of special interest, printed at Tubingen, Wurttemberg, in 1748. It is the German translation of the Old and New Testaments made by Martin Luther, with the several books of the Apocrypha. In the front part of the volume is a biography of Luther and his wife, and near the end is the Augsburg Confession. There are also forewords, summaries, and extended tables of references. In all there are 1192 pages, 8 by 13 3-4 inches in size.

In Volume VII, "Papers of the Albemarle County Historical Society," is an illuminating article of 17 pages by W. Carl Whitlock on Dr. William Holmes McGuffey, author of the celebrated speller and readers. McGuffey was born (1800) in Pennsylvania and grew up in Ohio. After teaching school, launching his readers, and serving in several institutions of higher learning, he became professor of moral philosophy in the University of Virginia in 1845, continuing there until his death in 1873.

Fred P. Myers, a member of the Society's Honorary Advisory Board, was one of a small number selected in 1948 by the Virginia Society of the District of Columbia to receive certificates of distinction conferred by that organization. Mr. Myers, a native of Rockingham County, Va., for a number of years a practicing lawyer of Washington City, has been active in various educational enterprises and has made important contributions in historical fields. For two years he was commander-in-chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy Magazine of October, 1948, presents on its front cover a picture of the monument near Harrisonburg marking the spot where General Turner Ashby was killed, June 6, 1862; and in the body of the magazine, pages 21, 22, is an account of the program rendered at the monument on June 6, 1948, by the Turner Ashby Chapter, U. D. C., of Harrisonburg and Rockingham.
County. The occasion recalled the 86 years since the death of Ashby and 50 years since the monument was dedicated by the Turner Ashby Chapter, June 6, 1898.

TWO WAR STORIES

Recently Mr. Irvine S. McNeill, Sr., has presented to the Society two interesting booklets: "McNeill's Last Charge" and "Two Generals Kidnapped," both by Rev. J. W. Duffey, D. D., who was a member of McNeill's Rangers, a company first recruited and commanded by Capt. John Hanson McNeill and after his death commanded by his son, Capt. Jesse McNeill. Capt. John Hanson McNeill made his last charge near the river bridge above Mt. Jackson, October 3, 1864, upon a Federal camp, being mortally wounded in the fight. He died in Hill's Hotel, Harrisonburg, November 10, 1864. The two generals, Federals Crook and Kelly, were kidnapped from their sleeping quarters in Cumberland, Md., February 21, 1865, by a squad of the Rangers under Capt. Jesse McNeill. The generals were lodged temporarily in Harrisonburg, en route to Richmond.

This morning Gen. Lee's army is in motion. Gen. Jones brigade left Madison C. H. about daylight and marched in front of Gen. Ewell command. We bin reconnoitering and skirmishing all day. Encamped 5 miles west of Culpepper C. H. Our regt. on picket on the Sperryville road.

Sunday, 11.

This morning Gen. Stuart attacked the enemy about 10 O'clock 5 miles west of Culpepper C. H. and fought them all day. Lieut. Thomas was mortally wounded and died in a few hours.

Monday, 12.

Left both about 10 O'clock and took the Rixaville road. After reaching the place found the enemy cavalry on this side of the river. Charged them 5 or 6 times during the day, capturing a number of prisoners. Advanced after night to Warrenton. Wounded Garber Branaman and Kaufley.

Tuesday, 13.

Left Warrenton and took the Catlet Station. Was skirmishing with the Yankees near Catlet Station. In the meantime the Yankee army commenced falling back in two columns, one to our right and left. Night overtook us. We laid on Dough Hill all night.

Wednesday, 14.

Our batteries fired into Yankees camps at daybreak, and the firing was heavily returned. We took back a mile or 2 and by little skirmishing we got through their lines.

Thursday, 15.

Our division took down the railroad to Manassas Junction, thence to the right, and our squadron engaged in sharp shooting late in the evening.

Friday, 16.

Left Manassas on a scout middle afternoon and took in direction of Aldie. Camped 5 or 6 miles of Aldie about 12 O'clock after night.

Saturday, 17.

Started after daylight, leaving Aldie to the left and went to the left of Fairfax C. H. Skirmished with a corps of infantry a short time and returned. Camped near Aldie.

Sunday, 18.

Our Division moved to Gainesville and encamped near there in large corn field to be ready for a fight by daylight.

Monday, 19.

Left at 5 O'clock. Fell back to the Warrenton road, the enemy following closely near Warrenton. In the meantime Lee's Division got in their rear and our division charged their front. Captured 300 prisoners. Wounded Thomas Perry mortally, Martin Holsinger slightly.

Tuesday, 20.

Our cavalry fell back beyond Hazel River. Camped near Rixaville.

Wednesday, 21.

Our Regt. on reserve picket near Hazel River on the Rixaville road at the Hazel River.

Thursday, 22.

Our Regt. still remaining on picket. Our Regt. relieved from picket and encamped at Culpepper Court House. Our Regt. still remained on picket. All quiet.

Friday, 23.

Our Regt. relieved from picket and encamped above Rixaville, towards Culpepper Court House or on the road leading to Brandy Station.

Saturday, 24.

In camp 1 mile west of Rixaville on the Culpepper road. Myself, Solon Bowman, B. F. Strickler, Sam Dundore, Rob. Leck put in for detail to go home for horses.
Sunday, 25.
In camp 1 mile west of Rixaville. Everything quiet along the lines. My mare is in a bad condition.

Monday, 26.
Moved camp to Gaines Cross Roads. Left camp near Rixaville about 9 O'clock. Traveled Bawly 8 miles. Being very much broken down I left her with Mr. James Mason. His Post Office is Caslin.

Tuesday, 27.
In camp at Gaines Cross Roads. Everything quiet along the lines. Plenty of corn and grass for our horses.

Wednesday, 28.
In camp at Gaines Cross-roads. All quiet. The brigade wagons moved this evening in the direction of Little Washington, the County seat of Rappahannock Co. Casper made of—a list of clothing. My amount is $47.00.

Thursday, 29.
In camp near Gaines Cross-roads. Moved camp about 400 yards from our former camp. Our camp is most an excellent one. Plenty of corn and grass for our horses.

Friday, 30.
In camp near Gaineese Cross Roads. Drilled twice today. All quiet along the picket lines.

Saturday, 31.
In camp near Gaines Cross Roads. The 12th Regt. ware mustered in for pay. A. D. Jones returned and reported Bawly is no better yet. Started home on detail. Left camp at 6 O'clock in the evening, being very cold.
