1 For a long period during the 17th century the Virginia authorities tried to prevent waste of powder in firing salutes at weddings, entertainments and funerals. Like other laws relating to social customs it seems to have been difficult to carry it into effect.
Another Letter to Privy Council that the Governor Sir George Yeardley is dead in praise of whom much is said that they have chosen Captain Francis West Governor that there is nothing to support the Govern’r or other places but their private Estates. last Summer if they had not wanted Should [shot?] they should hav entirely extirpated the Savages desire Soldiers and other Supplies and again pray against any Monopoly of their Tobacco. Council and General Assembly have ordered a Stint and

monopolizing their Tobacco has Spoiled the Trade and disheartened the people from works of greater consequence deeming it

King for favours in dissolving former Contracts and for exhibiting [prohibiting?] Spanish Tobacco that the raising other Staple Commodities mentioned in the King’s Letters is to great a work for so poor people to perfect and hope for his help therein as to Tobacco they agree the King shall have it all at 3s. 6d. lb. here that it shall be very good But if it must be delivered in England at 4s. per pound And if the King wont have all the Tobacco to let them after they have paid Custom for it transport so much as he will not have to Holland Ireland and Turkey and Elsewhere

ple owe much every Master may make 200lb. and 125lb. for a Servant which will amount to 412,500 there being 3000 people here to accept of ½ in hand and the rest at 5 and 5 Months cant agree to, cant make pitch and Tar because not worth the pains

⁹ George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore received in 1621 a patent for the southern part of Newfoundland which he named Avalon. He was greatly disappointed in the coldness and sterility of the country granted him and his visit to Virginia led to his applying for a grant of the territory now Maryland. This grant was made in 1632 but he died before all the legal formalities were completed and never saw the colony of which he was the founder.

Go vernor an d C ouncil of Virginia to the Privy Council in Regard to Lord Baltimore.

To the Right Honourable the Lords of his Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council.

Right Honourable

May it please your Lordships to understand that about the Beginning of October last there arrived in this Colony the Lord Baltimore from his plantation in Newfoundland with an intention as we are informed rather to plant himself to the Southward than Settle here altho since he has seemed well Affected to this place and willing to make his residence therein with his whole Family we were readily inclined to render to his Lordship all those respects which were due to the honour of his person or which might testify well with how much gladness we desire to receive and entertain him as being of that Eminence and degree whose presence and Affection might give great Advancement to the Plantation whereupon according to the Instructions from your Lordships and the usual Course in this place we tendered the Oaths of Supremacy and Allegiance to his Lordship and some of his followers who making profession of the Romish Religion utterly refused to take the same a thing which we could not have doubted in him whose former Employments under his late Majesty might have endear'd to us a perswasion he would not have made denial of that in point whereof Consisteth the Loyalty and fidelity which every true Subject oweth unto his Sovereign His Lordship offered to take the Oath a Copy of which is included but in true discharge of the trust imposed in us by his Majesty we could not imagine that so much Latitude was left for us to decline from the prescribed form so strictly Exacted and so well Justified and defended by the pen of our late Sovereign King James of happy memory and among the many Blessings and Favours which we are bound to bless God and which this Colony hath received from his most gracious Majesty there is none whereby it hath been made more happy than in the freedom of our Religion which we have enjoyed and that no papists have been Suffered to Settle their abode amongst us the Continuance whereof we most humbly implore from his most sacred Majesty and Earnestly beseech your Lordships that by your Meditations and Councils the same may be Established and Confirmed unto us And we as our Duty is with the whole Colony shall always pray for his Majesty's long Life and Eternal felicity from whose Royal hands this plantation must expect her Establishment and for whose honour God hath reserved so glorious a Work as the perfection thereof.

We humbly take our Leaves

Your Lordships very humble Serv'ts.

7There is no instance in our records of a fine of real estate being imposed, so "fine" here is doubtless used in its old legal sense of a conveyance of land. The first mention of fine and recovery in our laws is in an act of 1705, which prohibited its use, and declared that estates tail could only be barred by Act of Assembly (Henin, III, 320.) In the the early Virginia records in the Library of Congress, is a minute that a fine for land in Essex, England, was acknowledged at Jamestown.

[ROYAL COMMISSION to the Earl of Dorset and Others to Consider the State of Virginia, June 17, 1631.]

Charles by the Grace of God King of England Scotland

8Many of the commissioners appointed were men of note and a number of them had been members of the liberal faction in the Virginia
France and Ireland Defender of the Faith &c To our Trusty and well beloved Cousins and Councillors Edward Earl of Dor-

Company. The Earl of Dorset, as Sir Edward Sackville had in 1623, been rebuked by the king for the fiery manner in which he had defended the Southampton–Sandys party. He was grandson of Thomas Sackville first Earl of Dorset better known as Lord Buckhurst who has a place in the early history of the English drama as the author of Ferrex and Porrex. Henry Danvers (1575–1644) Earl of Danby and K. G. was a distinguished soldier seeing much service in the Low Countries, France and Ireland. Dudley Carleton, Viscount Dorchester, spent a large part of his life as English ambassador to various European powers. The collection of letters written to and by him constitute one of the most valuable sources of information in regard to the time. John Pory, speaker of the first Virginia Assembly, was one of his friends.

Sir John Coke (1563–1644) was Secretary of State 1620–1639. His elder brother Sir Francis Coke, of Trusley was ancestor of John Coke who emigrated to Virginia and founed the family of the name here.

Sir John Davers or Danvers (1588–1655) had been a zealous member of the liberal wing of the Virginia Company and is said to have been instrumental in procuring the copies of the records which now exist. He took the side of Parliament in the civil wars, was one of King Charles’ judges and signed the death warrant. His first wife was the widowed mother of George Herbert the Poet.

Sir Robert Killegrew had been a prominent member of the Virginia Company. His connection with Governor Berkeley and the Woodhouse family of Virginia has been noted in this Magazine, XV, 362, Sir Robert Heath (1575–1649) was appointed Solicitor General in 1621 and Attorney General in 1625. He was a learned lawyer and assisted to the fullest extent of his powers in all of the arbitrary measures of the king. He was appointed Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, in 1631, but was suddenly removed in 1634 on account it was said, curious as it may seem, of leaning towards Puritanism. In 1642 when the king was at war with Parliament he was appointed Chief Justice of the King’s Bench, but in a few years fled abroad.

Sir Henage Finch (d. 1631) was speaker of the House of Commons in 1625. He was a first cousin of Governor Francis Wyatt of Virginia. Sir Henry Finch an uncle of Henage Finch was the father of Sir John Finch, speaker of the famous House of Commons, 1628–9, and of Henry Finch, who came to Virginia and was appointed to the Council in 1630 (Virginia Magazine, VII, 384). Sir Dudley Digges long a leader of the opposition in Parliament and afterwards Master of the Rolls, was father of Edward Digges, Governor of Virginia.

Sir John Wolstenholme was a member of the Virginia Company and set Lord Chamberlain to our Dearest Consort the Queen Henry Earl of Danby and Dudley Viscount Dorchester one of our principal Secretaries of State To our Right trusty and well beloved Councillor Sir John Coke Knight one other of our principal Secretaries of State To our Trusty and well beloved Sir John Davers Knight Sir Robert Killegrew Knight Vice Chamberlain to our Dearest Consort the Queen Sir Thomas Rowe Knight Sir Robert Heath Knight our Attorney General Sir Heneage Finch Knight Recorder of our City of London Sir Dudley DiggsKnight ght Sir John Wolstenholm Knight Sir Frances Wyatt Knight Sir John Brook Knight Sir Kenelme Digby Knight Sir John Zouch Knight John Banks Esq’r Thomas Gibb Esq’r Samuel Rott Esq’r George Sand Esq’r John Wolstenholme Esq’r Nicholas Farrar Esq’r Gabriel Barber Esq’r and John Farrar Esq’r Greeting Whereas Divers and Sundry Commissions have been issued heretofore under the great Seal of England touching the Plantation in Virginia to some of you and others which have not taken that good effect hitherto which was was for thirty years closely connected with colonial affairs. Sir Francis Wyatt had been Governor of Virginia. Sir John Brook had also been a member of the Virginia Company and a patentee of land in the Colony. Sir Kenelme Digby (1603-1665) was an author, astrologer, mathematician, naval officer and diplomatist, and was one of the most brilliant and versatile man of the time. Before his marriage with the beautiful Venetia Stanley the scandalous chronicle of the time had much to say about her and the Earl of Dorset, and it might have been embarrassing for the two men to serve on the same commission, but it is stated that Digby so thoroughly forgave the fair Venetia that it was the custom for Dorset to dine once a year with the happy pair.

Sir John Zouch and his son as is well known settled in Virginia. John Banks (1571–1630) of London, mercer, was a member of the Virginia Company. His daughter and heiress Ann married Edmund Waller the poet. But if Brown (Genesis, II, 823) gives the correct date of John Bank’s death the member of the commission must have been another man. Thomas Gibbs had been a member of the Virginia Company. Samuel Wrote or Rott had been one of the leaders in the opposition to the Sandys faction in the Virginia Company. George Sandys and Nicholas and John Ferrar are too well known in connection with Virginia to require further notice. Gabriel Barber was the very generous member of the company who signing himself “Dust and ashes," gave £550 for the promotion of religion in Virginia.

[Governor Wyatt had held office a little more than a year when he was superceded by Sir William Berkeley. No reason appears to show why Wyatt, so popular with the Virginia people, and apparently standing well with the English authorities, was so soon removed. Probably personal influences entirely unconnected with politics secured the place for Berkeley.

The beginning of the period here treated of was marked by a continuance of the effort to re-establish the Virginia Company. Charles I was evidently friendly to many of the men who had been leaders in the Company, and at one time it appeared that the effort would succeed. George Sandys, who had been commissioned by the Virginia Assembly to protest against the reincorporation, is stated to have disobeyed his instructions and advocated it. The Assembly of April, 1642, then sent to England a "Declaration against the Company," and a "Remonstrance" (Hening, I, 230–238). These protests were successful, and what was probably the last communication from Charles I to Virginia was one giving assurance that the Company should not be revived.

Throughout the first part of the Civil War in England, Virginia appears to have been practically independent. The authority of the king was nominally accepted; but as the Parliament controlled the seas, and most of the ports from which trade to the Colony was conducted, neither could in any effectual way govern the distant dependencies of the kingdom. From 1642 to 1649, the relation between Virginia and the Parliamentary authorities seem to have been peaceable. The execution of the King and the establishment of the Commonwealth in 1649 caused a revulsion of feeling in Virginia and legislation hostile to the English government, and this in turn was followed on the part of England by non-intercourse acts and armed expeditions.]

NOTE—SIR THOMAS LUNSFORD.

Close to the wall of old Bruton Church, Williamsburg, Va., lies a slab with the inscription: “Under this marble lyeth the body of Thomas Ludwell, Esq., Secretary of Virginia, who was born at Bruton in the county of Somerset in the Kingdom of England, and departed this life in the year 1698; and near this place lie the bodies of Richard Kemp, Esq., his predecessor in the Secretary’s office, and Sir Thomas Lunsford, Knight, in memory of whom this marble is here placed by Philip Ludwell, Esq., nephew of the said Thomas Ludwell, Esq., in the year 1727.” This tomb was removed from “Richneck,” James City county, once the estate of Richard Kemp, and later of the Ludwells. Sir Thomas Lunsford, as will appear, married Kemp’s widow, and no doubt died and was buried at his wife’s home. The site of these graves is now unknown.

Lunsford was a man whose name at one time was known in almost every hamlet in England, and who was an object of intense hatred and fear to a large part of the English people; served the King gallantly in the Civil War, and spent his latter years quietly in Virginia, where he now lies, almost forgotten in an old country graveyard. To most readers, however, his name will not be entirely strange, for besides being transmitted to the present day as a Christian name among his descendants, he is described by Clarendon; Butler, in Hudibras, says to the Puritan preachers,

“Make children, with your tones, to run for’t
As bad as bloody-bones or Lunsford.”
Macauley describes the old Cavaliers, after the Restoration, talking over his and Goring's exploits, while most familiar of all the allusions to him is where Scott, in Woodstock, makes Roger Wildrake to have been one of “Lunsford's Babyeaters,” as the Puritans called them. He was, says Clarendon, “a man, who, though of ancient family in Sussex, was of very small and decayed fortune, and of no good education.”

Sir Thomas Lunsford, who was born about 1610 and died about 1653, was a member of an ancient family in Sussex. He was son of Thomas Lunsford, of Lunsford and Wilegh, in that county, by his wife Katherine, a daughter to Thomas Fludd, Treasurer of War to Queen Elizabeth, and sister of Robert Fludd, the roscricuan. The family had been of good estate down to the time of Sir Thomas' grandfather, Sir John, but had been greatly wasted by the father, Thomas Lunsford.

A writer in the Gentleman's Magazine, in 1837, says that the Elizabethan mansion of Wilegh, Whilegh or Wiley, still existed at that time as a farmhouse, though its exterior had neither a very striking or antiquated appearance. There was a large parlor, wainscotted, but since painted white, about thirty feet long, where the date, 1587, remained on the chimney piece. Some of the bed-chambers were large and the passages wide.

Sir Thomas Lunsford appears to have been in his youth of lawless disposition and violent temper. He was charged with killing the deer of his kinsman, Sir Thomas Pelham, and on June 27, 1632, was fined in the Star Chamber £1,000 to the King and £750 to Pelham. In August of that year, probably in revenge, he stopped Pelham on his way from church and fired two balls at him, which however missed their mark. As Pelham was a man of prominence this outrage caused considerable stir, and there is a letter from the Earl of Dorset, in which he states that the Council would at once take into consideration the affair of that "young outlaw, Mr. Lunsford, who fears neither God nor man." On August 16, 1633, he was committed to Newgate, whence he escaped in October, 1634, although "so lame that he can hardly go in a coach." In his absence he was outlawed and fined £8,000. He fled to the Continent and entered the French service. In April, 1636, he was raising a regiment in Picardy. He remained abroad about six years, seeing much service in France and the Low Countries, and gained such a reputation for courage and skill that he was promoted to the command of a regiment of foot.

Tiring at length of his exile he returned to England in 1639, and lost no time in petitioning the King for pardon, which was not only granted (on April 24th), but a large part of his fine was remitted. The next year he held a command in the army sent against the Scots, and distinguished himself at Newburn, where the English were routed, by twice repulsing the enemy and bringing off his men and cannon.

It was soon after this that his name began to be known throughout the length and breadth of England. On December 23d, 1641, he was appointed Lieutenant of the Tower, which at once caused the most intense excitement all over the country. The long contest between Charles and the Parliament was fast drawing to a crisis; the terrible Irish rebellion had occurred; the King was suspected of having instigated it, and great numbers of the people believed that he was preparing to erect a despotism by force; so when a man like Lunsford, who had no public services to recommend him, and who had been outlawed, was appointed to such an important position, it was at once conceived that he was to be one of the chief agents against the liberties of the people. There was doubtless something of fear, too, in this outbreak against him, for all who knew him were aware that he was an experienced soldier, and a man of great courage and audacity, and one, who, in the words of a contemporary, was "very resolute." But there is absolutely nothing to show that there was any personal reason for the panic he created and the hatred he excited. His sympathies were, of course, all on the side of the King and he doubtless showed the contempt he seems to have felt for the Parliamentarian party; but there is no evidence that he was different from the great mass of cavaliers of his stamp, or that he was in any way the wild beast his opponents at the time described him. Indeed, when at a later period he fell into their hands, they had become conscious of their folly, and no charges of the sort were brought against him. But at the time of his appointment, between those who really feared him and those who wished to use his appointment to inflame the people still more against the King, there was a sufficient commotion caused.

On the same day the Common Council and other citizens of London petitioned the House of Commons to secure the co-operation of the Lords and remonstrate against his appointment, stating that he was a man notorious for outrages and fit for any dangerous attempt. The Commons, who entirely agreed with the Londoners on this question, forwarded the petition to the Lords, with additional reasons of their own: that Col. Lunsford was of decayed and desperate fortune, and that he did not go to church. They also cited his early offences. The Lords refused to agree, thinking that such an appointment was part of the King's prerogative, whereupon the Commons unanimously passed another resolution declaring that Lunsford was unfit for his position, and a man they could not trust; stating that from fear the merchants had withdrawn their bullion from the mint and would not unload their ships. On December 26th the loyal Lord Mayor Gurney having informed the King that the 'prentices were preparing to attack the Tower, he was induced to remove Lunsford; but as a recompense knighted him two days afterwards.

During this excitement, and long afterwards, every means that ingenuity could devise or malice execute was employed to excite the populace against the object of Charles' favor. He was accused of being one of an imaginary band of murderers who were to assassinate many of the Lords and Commons; letters were dropped about the streets, and afterwards published, which purported to be addressed to him, implicating him in all sorts of plots against the people and the Protestant religion, and it was even currently reported, and fully believed by many a Puritan that he was a cannibal and eat children. Among the pictorial attacks on him was one representing him in the act of cutting a child into steaks; another, a large caricature which was published in 1642, shows him in armor and behind him his soldiers, burning towns and murdering women and children. The political versifiers too took their share in the attack upon him. Beneath the last-mentioned picture are the lines:

"I'll help to kill and pillage and destroy
All the opposers of the Prelacy,
My fortunes are growne small, my friends are less,
I'll venture therefore life to have redress;
By picking, stealing, or by cutting throats
Although my practice cross the kingdom's votes."

Another sings:

"From Fielding and from Vavasour, Both ill-affected men,
From Lunsford eke deliver us,
Who eateth up children."

Cleveland, the royalist, ridiculing the round-head opinion of Lunsford, says:

"The post that came from Banbury,
Riding on a blue rocket,
He swore he saw when Lunsford fell,
A child's arm in his pocket."

And in another place:

"They fear the giblets of his train,
Even his dog, that four-legged cavalier;
He that devours the scraps that Lunsford makes,
Whose picture feeds upon a child in steaks."

These specimens will show how violent was the feeling against him.

On the day after his removal he went, with a number of officers and others, to Westminster, where the citizens were accustomed to assemble and jeer and threaten the peers and others who passed. A collision followed, as might have been expected, and several persons were wounded; but when all the parties were called to the bar of the House, it seemed that they were all equally to blame in the matter, and only a captain was cashiered.

The peaceful struggle was now almost at an end, and upon the failure of the King's attempt to seize the five members, and his refusal of Lord Digsby's offer to take Lunsford, now Sir Thomas, and others, and capture the patriots or kill them, Charles and the Queen left London, and we find Lunsford one of their escort. He seems to have commenced at once active measures to raise forces to support the Royal cause, and, in consequence, on the 12th of January, 1641, Parliament declared him and Digby traitors. A warrant was issued for his arrest, and an officer proceeded with it to Windsor, where he then was; but there were so many of his friends there that it was not deemed prudent to attempt to execute it until he left and went on a visit to his father-in-law, whose house (Billingbere) was in a lonely and secluded situation. Here, after much cautious manoeuvering, the house was surrounded at night by a large posse, and the officer, with a good deal of trepidation, ventured in and served the warrant. Sir Thomas told him he might have saved himself trouble and arrested him at Windsor, as he had no idea of resisting, and that if he would dismiss his posse he would accompany him in the morning. He was accordingly brought before the House, but nothing was done, and, after a short imprisonment, he was bailed.

In June he was again in arms, and from that time to the end of the war continued to gain a reputation for courage and conduct, and for unshaken loyalty. He rallied six hundred men to the King's cause at Leicester, and proceeded to York, where Charles was.

About the end of June he commanded two regiments at the siege of Hull, and after this service held a command under the Marquis of Hertford at Wells. At Mendip was stationed a Parliamentary force of several thousand men under Sir John Horner and others. They commenced an advance on Wells, but their movement was checked by the defeat of their advance guard by Lunsford. He effected this by a stratagem. Lunsford himself, with a party of fifty men, concealed themselves in a ditch by the road; another mounted party of the same force was drawn up in it. The Roundheads came up, five hundred strong, and attacked the little party of horse, who retired without attempting a defense until the enemy was opposite the ambuscade, when, at the same moment, Lunsford's party rose up and fired in their faces, and the horse charged. In a few minutes the Parliamentarians were broken and scattered in every direction, leaving a number of killed, wounded, and prisoners. Elated by his success Lunsford offered, if the Marquis would give him five hundred horse, to attack Horner's main force, but his request was not granted.

On the 8th of August he, with the Earl of Northampton and others, captured at Banbury all the ordnance that the enemy had intended for Warwick Castle, and on the 20th of the same month he was made Governor of Sherburne Castle, where he was besieged unsuccessfully by the Earl of Bedford. A Parliamentary paper of the time says: "When Colonel Lunsford was summoned to surrender, he said he would keep the castle against forty thousand Roundhead soldiers, and did not value that number. He is very resolute." When Bedford began to retreat Lunsford sallied out from the castle and tried to surprise him, but was defeated with considerable loss.

He was then for a short time in Wales, but returned to the King’s army in time to take part in the desperate battle of Edgehill, where he was unfortunate enough to be captured. He was committed to Warwick Castle, and was tried on a charge that when he was Lieutenant of the Tower he intended to deliver it to the enemies of the people. His speech before the commission that tried him has been preserved. He begins: "I stand here before you a prisoner, accused of high treason, and liberty is offered me, 'tis true; but you value it, like the merchants, at such a rate that my fidelity, and all that is due to a noble mind, must be the price to purchase it. If I refuse what you propose, racks, torture, loss of goods, land, and perhaps of life itself, is threatened. Hard choice! Yet I must choose. It is in my power to be a freeman; but how if I will be a slave?" After asserting his innocence, and telling them that the devil was the first rebel and Judas the only traitor among the Apostles, he concludes: "For my part I am in your power. Howsoever you dispose of me, I will never stain mine ancestors, nor leave the title of traitor upon my posterity, but will end with the saying of a worthy gentleman: you may, when you please, take my head from my shoulders, but not my heart from my sovereign." Nothing came of this prosecution, and he was exchanged, but barely escaped being murdered by some Puritan fanatics as he left his prison. He immediately took up arms again and was made one of the governors of Oxford, which he left on the 6th of July with eight hundred men to relieve Greenland House, then besieged by about double that number of the enemy. This was very successfully accomplished. After capturing all of a small party sent to ambush him, he made a fierce attack on the besiegers, completely scattered them, and provisioned the garrison. He then took part in the capture of Bristol, and was made Lieutenant-Governor; was Governor of Monmouth in March, 1644, and while holding that position cleared all that part of the country of the Parliamentarians, captured in various raids two guns, a great store of provisions, and three thousand head of cattle. This career of success was stopped by his defeat on the 4th of June, with a loss of four hundred men. This defeat, which was said to have been caused by conflict of opinion between officers, does not seem to have cost Lunsford any loss of reputation, for shortly after we find the Royalist writers speaking of him in high terms. After the battle of Naseby he was sent to Wales to raise troops, but was again captured, with many others, at the surprise of Hertford, December 8th, and on the 20th was again ordered to the Tower for treason. How he obtained his release is not known, but he was at liberty before June 29th, 1648; for there is a letter of that date from him to the Prince of Wales telling him he had not been idle, and that if a commission to raise men was sent him he thought he could be of service; and in December, 1648, he was at Amsterdam ready to cross to England, but in January 1649, the King was beheaded, and the great mass of his adherents gave up the Royal cause as lost.

Lunsford, who had been created a baronet in 1647 (though the patent was never issued) now, like many other cavaliers, sought a refuge in the colony of Virginia, which still held out for the King.

Col. Henry Norwood, who has left an account of his voyage to Virginia with two other cavalier officers, says that he found at Capt. Ralph Wormley's several friends and brother officers who had shortly before come from England. They were Cols. Philip Honeywood, Mainwaring Hammon, Sir Henry Chichley, who had just been released from the Tower (when Col. Eusebius Andrews, arrested at the same time, had been beheaded) and Sir Thomas Lunsford.

Released from the perils which surrounded them in England and received with open arms by the Virginians, it may well be believed that there was high feasting, as Norwood says. By the latter part of the next year he had brought his family to Virginia, and in October, 1650, is a patent to him for 3,423 acres on the Rappahannock river. Among the names mentioned in the patent are "The Lady Lunsford" and her daughters "Mrs. Elizabeth," "Mrs. Philipa," and "Mrs. Mary." This Lady Lunsford, who was his second wife, Katherine, daughter of Sir Henry Neville, of Billingbere, Berkshire, died not long after her arrival.

When Governor Berkeley was expecting an attack from the Parliamentary forces such a noted soldier as Lunsford could not be overlooked. In a list of members of the Council present November 1, 1651, appears the name of Sir Thomas Lunsford, Lieutenant General. He, of course, retired form the Council on the surrender to the Parliamentary authorities. He died about 1653, as in that year is an order among the English records appointing Lady Neville, the grandmother of the daughters of the second marriage, their guardian. They had no doubt returned to England. Among the few remaining entries in the records of Virginia General Court is one dated in 1670, stating that there were living in England three daughters of Sir Thomas Lunsford by a former marriage, and by a later marriage in Virginia, one daughter, Catherine, who was the heir to his Virginia estate.

Sir Thomas married in Virginia a third wife. She was Elizabeth, widow of Richard Kemp of "Richneck," James City county. By this marriage he had one child, Katherine, who married Ralph Wormeley of "Rosegill," Middlesex county (his first wife). Her death is recorded in the Christ Church parish register as follows (the book is worn): "The Honerable Lady Madam Katherine Wormeley Wife to the Hon'ble Ralph Wormeley Esq'r Departed this life 17th of May 1685 & was buried in the Chancell of the Great Church betweene ye Hon'ble Chichley."

There was also an only child of this marriage. The old Bible of the Lomax family records her marriage, "married June 1st, 1703 John Lomax and Elizabeth Wormeley daughter of the Hon. Ralph Wormeley and Catherine Lunsford, only daughter of Sir Thomas Lunsford."

"The Lady Lunsford" was living in Lancaster county in 1655. In 1658, in the same county, Lady Lunsford was taxed on 14 tithables. There is a deed dated April 28, 1656, recorded from Dame Elizabeth Lunsford to her loving friend Richard Lee. She married again to Major General Robert Smith of Middlesex county.

The land Lunsford patented on Rappahannock River was named "Portobago," and was at first in Lancaster and afterwards in Rappahannock, Essex and Caroline counties. It was long the seat of the Lomax family, descendants of the patentee. Their descendants have miniature portraits of Sir Thomas and his brother Sir Henry. There is or was a full length of him in armour, at Audley End, England, and a print in the British Museum, which has been reproduced in a London edition of Hudibras. Sir Thomas had two brothers, who were likewise distinguished royalist officers: Colonel Henry, whom Clarendon calls an office of "great sobriety, wisdom and courage," was killed leading a charge at the capture of Bristol, and Sir Herbert, a twin brother of Thomas, who like him served in Germany and France and in the Royal army in which he held the rank of Colonel, and was again in the French service where he commanded three regiments in 1658. Letter in Regard to the Duty on Imported Negroes, &c.
Northumberland County, Ss, Septemb’r 4th, 1713.

To the Honorable Alexander Spotswood, Esq’r; her Maj’ties, Leu’t Governor, Commander in Chief of Virginia:

The Humble petition of John Ingram in all Humility Sheweth that on the second day of July Last past there came a Negro Man to this County and had with him a Clause of a will and Certificate from under Two Justices Hands the will sett the s’d Negro Free & the Certificate Confirm’d the same to be true with this will and Certificate this Negro past for some time and would fain have some of the Justices of y’e peace to review the same and to give him a pass to go on bound Some Ship bound for London whereupon he was Advised to come to your petition’r who Narrowly Inspected his papers had a strong Susspition that he was Run away; whereupon y’e petition’r apprehended the s’d Negro, and because he had passed So Long and no body regarding him y’e petition’r sent his papers to the Honorable Rob’t Carter & prayed his Advices who was soon of the same Opinion that he was run away; by whose Advice I proceeded to Scourge y’e s’d Negro and thereby brought him to Confession; that he was a runaway Slave belonging to one George Fergusson a liver in Maryland In the Eastern Shore whereupon Immeadly Committed him to the Custody of the Shir; and Advised him to send his s’d Master word who accordingly did; but so it happened May it please y’r Hono’r, that when his master came he was Loath to Carry his Negro away & protest he was Never Guilty of that Crime before and that he could saw plank & told y’r petition’r that if I would Give him an Other good Neg’r Man and pay Some part of the Charge he was at he would Leave him with me; y’r petition’r who haveing a Small Occation of Sum plank was Deluded to Change and Gave him another good Honest Negro man for his run away, since which Time I find him to be an Idle fellow; and I Live in Continuall fear of his runing away from me; yet Soe it happens May it please your Hono’r, that Notwithstanding the Disadvantage I had in the Exchange there is a Rumor rais’d by Sum that are no well wishers. To your petionn’r, that there is Five pound to be paid or the Negro forfeited by reason to runaway from Maryland; Your petionn’r w’th Submission to better Judgm’t, Humbly Conceives that the Law relateing to Imported Negros hath no regard to runaways & Especially where there is no fraud nor Collusion In the parties; the Negro I now have is a Marylander borne and bread, Which sort of Negros I humbly Conceive were not thought on by the Makers of y’r Law, nither could they think to Raise much Money by the Natives of Maryland, nither is there any fear of many of those Negros coming to overstock this Countrey. May it please your Hon’r had the s’d Negro (being born in Maryland) been Actually Imported here to be sold I Supose it would have come within the words of the Law but not within the Meaning thereof provided the makers thereof Used y’r Same Reason for Negros as that did for Indians; to bring an Indian here by Water is five pounds, but to bring one by Land is but Twenty Shill; w’ch is a plaine Demonstration y’t ye Impression was Designed for those Countreys from w’ch in all Likelyhood there would Most Come; Such an Accident as this w’th Submission to your Hon’r its Like never was; nor ever may be againe; now as to the Importer which ye Law Mention there is none As I know of, to which it may be Answer’d; that by ye Instruction to ye Collectors; he that Layes claim to the goods Shall be Esteemed the Importer; w’th Submission I presume this is meant where there Is an Importer and by Some Clandestine means has Landed ye good on Designe to Defraud the Officers of the Impression; but may it please your Hon’r none of these fraudulent designes are in this Case; to all this it might be Objected y’t the words of the Law are Generall & saith from any port or place whatsoever, to w’ch it might be Answered that ye Reason of y’t might be that without Such Generall words Those persons that bring Negros from fouraine Countreys might have Landed y’r Ither in North Carroliner or in Maryland and So have made y'm Travell here by Land and by that Means have Defeated the Whole Intent and Meaning of ye Law, May it please your Honour, I have always understood that it was the policy of all Statesmen to Lay the greatest Impression on y't Commodity that was Like to Over-burden there Nation & by which they could hope to raise most Money to Defray publick Charges & if Soe by Maryland Negroes they Could never Expect to Raise Much Money and as to ye other Reason one coming & another going In his room has made no Addition to the Countrie; and to take any Law by the Strick words without the Intent would many time make that which was Intended for good prove Evill; for may it please your Hon'r, Should a man out of this Countrie travell Into Carrolina, Penselvanie or Maryland, &c., and one of his Negroes born in this Countrie to wait on him and after Ither send him or bring him into this Collony per ye words of ye Law he must pay five pounds; or if a man Living here has a plantation In Maryland and Send Some of his Negroes there for a short Time and After send for them back againe, he Imports them, & must pay five pounds, which could never be the Meaning of the Law makers no more then to think to Raise Money for Negroes borne in Maryland. I have always thought it (and I hope will your Hon'r), that it is a good and pious rule to Straine the Strings of ye Law to ye Highest tune to bring in wilfull Offenders; and if Innocent persons be relived by Equity from the Strick words of the Law, I hope it will be my fourtune; upon these and the Like Consideration your petitioner went to Mr. Thomas Lee, Naval Officer and acquainted him with ye truth of the Case as it is here Represented who Considering the Same told your petitioner that I would doe well to Represent it to your Hon'r. And that he was willing to stay till I could Conveniently doe the Same and Desired to have it done before the Generall Court; and Said y't Considering the Innocence of the fact; was not Satisfied, That it Lay within the Meaning of the Law; whereupon y'r most humble petitioner Craves Leave to Lay this paper at your Hon'rs feet beseech-ing you to pardon all Imperfection & Impertinances here inscribed, and to make Such award, Order, Judgm't or decree as to your Hon'r Shall Seem most Meet and Convenient, and your petitioner further prayes y't y'r Honour would Send y'r pleasure to Mr. Thomas Lee Navall Officer and your petitioner as in duty bound. Ever Shall Most Humly Pray,

RELIEF FOR VIRGINIA VOLUNTEERS\(^7\) IN SOUTH CAROLINA SERVICE, 1715, (FROM GOVERNOR SPOTSWOOD?)

Gent'n.

Being exceedingly concern'd for the unjust delay w'ch the Govern't of South Carolina hath used in performing the Engagements to the Voluntiers listed in this Country, and being sensible that the Wives & Familys of many of them suffer through that disappointment I am desirous to advance a Sum of money for the Relief of such of them as are most in necessity, as I have already done to some who have made application to me, upon the Credit of what their Husbands are entitled to for their service; but because it is better known to you than to me, which of 'em are fittest objects of Relief, I desire you will appoint two or three of yo'r bench at some convenient time and place to examine into ye Circumstances of the Familys of such of the s'd Voluntiers as were listed in yo'r County, and accordingly to return the names of those you judge most necessitous, that I may give Orders for their Relief. At the same time you will give notice to all persons who have Assignments upon the pay of those Voluntiers, either as Creditors or Attorneys to deliver in to the Gentlemen appointed by you an acconempt of their Respective Claims or pretensions, of which I desire you will cause a true Report to be made to me.

\(^7\) In 1715 the Governor of South Carolina, then engaged in an Indian war, requested assistance of men from Virginia. South Carolina proposed, in order to pay the men, to send to Virginia slaves to the number of volunteers, to work on the plantations for their benefit. The Council agreed to comply with the request, and to defray the charges incurred until the men should reach South Carolina; and for this purpose the Governor and Council postponed the payment of their own salaries. Early in July Spotswood dispatched a number of men and arms.

Honourable Sir:—

I have advanced six miles from Fort Patrick Henry which

1 In the early summer of 1776 a party of seven hundred Cherokees advanced against the Watauga and Holston settlements with the design of destroying everything as far as New River, but the men on Holston, on both sides of the Virginia line, hastily assembled, and, under the command of Captain Thompson, defeated the Indians in a hard-fought action at Long Island of Holston (Kingsport, Tenn.) About the same time the fort at Watauga was unsuccessfully attacked by the Cherokees, who, however, ravaged the settlements in various directions, killing one man and wounding others at the present site of Abingdon, Va. At the same time other bands of the tribe were raiding the frontiers of the Carolinas and Georgia. The States whose territories were endangered determined to strike such a severe blow at the Cherokees that they would no longer be a source of peril. In the summer of 1776 four expeditions were sent out by Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. In August the North Carolina army, under General Griffith Rutherford, 2,400 strong, crossed the Blue Ridge at Swannanoa Gap and destroyed every Indian town—thirty-six in all—upon the Oconaluftee, Tuckasegee, the upper part of the Little Tennessee and Hiawassee. At Waya Gap, in the Nantahala Mountains, there was a hard fight, in which the Cherokees were repulsed; but the North Carolinians lost forty men.

On September 26th the South Carolina army, under Col. Andrew Williamson, 1,860 strong, joined Rutherford near the present Murphy, N. C. The South Carolinians had destroyed the lower Cherokee towns near the head of the Savannah River, and had several sharp fights.

In July the two hundred Georgians, under Col. Samuel Jack, had destroyed two towns at the head of the Chattahoochee and Tugaloo rivers.

The Virginia forces, after rendezvousing at the Long Island of Holston, followed the well known Indian war-path to the crossing of the French Lieutenant Colonel Russell\(^2\) has called the Fort at the great Island.\(^4\) I will inclose you herewith a return of the Army with me, besides which about 100 men are left at the Fort to Guard the Stores there. Lieut. Colo. Morgan\(^4\) of Colo. Lewis's Battalion is on his march with about 140 men officers included but I doubt is too far behind to have any probability of overtaking me.

I came to the Island on the 21 of September, since which time several parties of the Enemy have been about us; they killed one Soldier and one of the countrymen near the Island

Broad, near the mouth of what is known as Dumplin Creek, and proceeded onwards to the towns on the Little Tennessee. The Island Town, the last point reached in the reports as far as here published, was about thirty miles from the present Knoxville, somewhat to the west of south. Not long after the date of Christian's last letter, printed above, the Cherokees begged for peace. This was granted on condition that all prisoners and captured stock were given up, and that as soon as the representatives of the tribes could meet in the spring all the disputed territory in the Tennessee settlements should be ceded to the whites.

Mooney (19th Annual Report, Bureau of Ethnology,) says: "The effect upon the Cherokees of this eruption of more than six thousand armed enemies into their territory was well nigh paralyzing. * * * * From the Virginia line to the Chattahoochee the chain of destruction was complete."

For accounts of these campaigns see Mooney, as above: Ramsey's Tennessee, pp. 150-159, and other authorities cited in Mooney's Myths of the Cherokees, 47-53. For Christian's expedition he only refers to Ramsey and Roosevelt (Winning of the West).

\(^2\)William Russell, son of Col. William Russell, was born in Spotsylvania county in 1735. He was educated at William and Mary, served as a captain in the French and Indian War, and in 1770 removed to Southwestern Virginia. He was actively engaged in exploration and in the protection of the frontier. He was appointed Colonel of the 13th Virginia on December 19, 1779, transferred to the 5th Virginia September 14, 1778, taken prisoner at Charleston May 12, 1780, exchanged November, 1780, and served to November 3d, 1783; brevet Brigadier General November 3d, 1783. He died January 14th, 1793, and has many descendants. See William Russell and His Descendants.

\(^4\)This was probably Daniel Morgan. He was released on parole from his prison at Quebec in the summer of 1776, and it is likely had been duly exchanged by October.
and took another prisoner who escaped the second night after he was taken, but was not able to give me any information, more than, that the party were twelve in number and making homewards. Several of the country people have been also fired upon and some wounded since I came to Holston. The Enemy generally fire from behind Logs and bushes, and seldom at a greater distance than eight or ten steps; last Tuesday three of them fired upon two men and broke one of their arms but they got away, nothing has been done since. I have no intelligence from Brigadier Rutherford since his letter of the 27th of August. I will inclose you both his letters, and my answer to his first. The last I have not answered. If he is an enterprising man he may finish the Campaign before I get to the Indian Towns. The difficulty of marching from the valley Towns to the Overhills is not half so great as from Green Bryer to Point Pleasant.

I shall march in less than an hour and take with me 30 days flour and seventy days Beef. I hope to cross Broad river the 15th Instant where it is most likely I shall be attacked or meet with proposals of peace. The men who have fled from the Towns say that the Indians will surely fight desperately; which they promised Stewart the King’s Superintend’t to do; and Camron his deputy who remains amongst them is daily encouraging them to defend their country against a parcel of Rebels. I Heartily wish that they may first attack me; and it is the wish of the Armys. Camron being an awful man, may invent measures to delay our march if the Indians will execute them with dexterity, but still I have no doubt of returning to the Island in five weeks from this time; six at the farthest.

Yesterday I sent four of my Scouts to the Towns to endeavour to take a Prisoner, that I may know what the Enemy are doing, but the attempt being new, and the probability of meeting some of them before they can reach the Towns so great, that I have but little hopes of success. I have promised the four men £100 if they succeed.

I have also sent another party of Scoutts, about Eighty miles from here & within fifty miles of the Towns to watch the path.

If anything new occurs at Broad river I shall send you an Express as speedily as possible. If I am attacked there and my march delayed I must send back to the Island for more Flour.

Mr. Madison¹ the Commissary in chief will write you fully about the Provisions, so that I will not trouble you and the Honourable Council on that head.

The people on Holston and Clinch from ten miles above Stallnakers⁸ downwards are in Forts, the number of souls contained in them, I am told amounts to more than 3000 their distress is very great; I called at such as are upon the main road and found many in want of provisions, great numbers sick, and heard of many that had died; occasioned I suppose by their close confinement & being too much crowded together. I ventured to direct that a few loads of Flour should be distributed amongst the Wives and Widow mothers of those men who are with me, and gave orders to the Commissary to keep an account thereof, that the men may be called upon to pay for it, or such other steps taken therein as your Excellency and the Honourable Council shall please to direct.

In all Probability there will be more Flour than I shall want for the Expedition. It might prevent great distress if your Excellency and the Hon'ble Council would allow some of it to be sold to such of the Inhabitants as have lost their Crops by the War.

dered by the Convention; took into the service a great part of the men in the Forts; that step, and that alone, prevented the people from starving or getting out of the Country altogether.

I should have written your Excellency several times since I wrote to his honour the President, but I really did not know well what to say; I could not until within a week past speak with such certainty as I wished to do.

WILLIAM CHRISTIAN.

To His Excellency Patrick Henry, Esq’r, Governor of Virginia.

Bank of Broad river,9 October 14, 1776.

Hon’ble Sir:—

I am now encamped with the Army on the Bank of Broad river next the Cherokee Nation. On the 12th in the evening just before I was about to Encamp, a white man with a Flag met me about five miles from the river. He said that the Nation desired peace, and that the Raven Warrior of Chote in particular had sent him to desire he might speak to me & that he did not doubt but that we should agree in case I would treat upon reasonable terms. He told me moreover that the advanced parties were at my present camp and that the whole strength of the Nation were expected here that evening in order to oppose my crossing, which was easily to be done at this Foarding without great loss.

Yesterday about twelve O’clock I came to and formed my camp on the other side from where it was discovered there was Indians here. I sent up and down the river to search for foradings one was discovered above by our men seeing four Indians pass over, and Below a place unfrequented was found which it was supposed could be crossed at Ten O’clock at night I set off with betwixt ten and eleven hundred men, 200 of them mounted on Horses and by one o'clock in the morning got over with much danger and difficulty; the river being so Deep and rapid that none of the men could waid, the night was so very dark I was obliged frequently to make lights: the river about half a mile counting the several windings we were obliged to make. About an hour before day I marched within a mile of this spot where I expected the enemy were, and at Sunrise surrounded the place; but found no enemy. Upon this I ordered the remaining part of the Army with the Provisions and Baggage to be brought over, which is now effected.

At twelve o'clock the three men mentioned in my former letter returned; without a Prisoner, but with intelligence (but the manner of getting it, I must not now mention, least this may be mis-carried,) that the whole Force of the nation is now near me, with a determined resolution to attack me, and to skirmish at me from here to the Towns; aiming to destroy the Cattle & Horses and in obedience to Stuarts orders (now at Mobile) never to make peace; to Fight and retreat on. It appears also that the Flagg was disapproved of by most of the Towns except three, under the influence of the Raven; that him his Broth. & Capt. Gist were here, when the white man was Sent home with the flag. I forgot above to mention my answer to the Raven's message, it was: How can he send to me for peace before he has delivered up Camron that enemy to white and red people. How can the Nation think of asking peace of me when they retain our Prisoners. How can they ask a peace when they have the assurance to assemble their men to Fight me, if they should dislike my terms. That I would cross the river and that I would Proceed to the Towns—That mercy and Bravery was the characteristock of the States of America—and that I should distinguish betwixt these Towns who had behaved well towards us; and others who had not done so, They have not sent to me since; but it seems more than Probable that the Proposals although really the Sentiments of three Towns, that the majority hoped to take me unguarded while a Treaty was on Foot. Six Indians were seen this day one six miles down the river where I crossed last night and four within half a mile of this Camp. I shall look for an attack to-morrow. However I judge the enemy will be vexed and disconcerted at finding me here to-day. It will I dare say take me four or five days to reach the Towns as I must March Slow and always in order.

It is reported in the Towns that Stuart is sending 800 Creeks who are to be there in a few days. However be as it may I shall proceed and endeavour to have matters settled before I return.

General Rutherford has returned to the Senaka Towns somewhere about Keonee after laying waste the Valley, one of my say that he has sent a woman Prisoner with proposals of Peace, another says He has not. This is all I can hear But I believe it to be certain, he has returned. Perhaps another Flagg may come as the Indians say we travel as fast as them and seem very impudent. They attended me all the way from the Island but seldom came nearer than to hear the Tapping of the Drums, which was pretty constant, in order to keep the several lines in order.

It is now evening and I intend to March tomorrow by ten o'clock if possible. Should anything new occur before then I will add it.

I am sir your most obed. Servant,

WM. CHRISTIAN.

Capt. James McCall of South Carolina who was taken Prisoner the first day of July last by the Cherokees is now with me & a brave man. He has a wife and five children and wishes it to be Published in the Gazette that he is here and well, by this means it will get into the Carolina Paper & reach his family.

Camp on French Broad River, Oct. 17, 1776.

May it Please your Excellency:

Yesterday about noon our whole Army arrived at the river but from the accounts Colo. Christian received from one Harland a white man who the Indians sent with a Flag of Truce, he did not think it prudent to attempt crossing in the day. Harland told us there were 7 or 800 Indians lying on the opposite bank of the River, and that he overtook several parties of them as they came from their Towns, on their way to the river. About 8 o'clock at night Colo. Christian took about 1,100 men with him and marched down the river about 4 miles to a Ford the spies had discovered, though there was no appearance of its ever being used; crossed safe with all the men, and after a most surprising march through the woods arrived at the place the Indians were said to be at before sun rise. But instead of a general engagement as was expected, the banks of the river was found clear and no signs of more than three or four Indians. Upon which the Colo. ordered the rest of the army to cross which was done today and the whole in good order.

From the accounts Colo. Christian received to day from three men he had sent to the Cherokee Towns we have the greatest reason to expect an attack in a day or two. Our men are in high spirits and really wish for an attack that they may have it in their Power to Chastise the cruel villians.

I am sorry to tell your Excellency that from sickness and deaths I have not been able to bring but a little more than 300 men of the 2nd Battalion on this important expedition. The men being so very sickly while they were in the service below gave the people of the Counties that composed the Battalion such a distaste to the minute service that a very few new recruits could be raised by the officers. But the deficiency has been amply made up by the activity and good conduct of Colo. Christian in raising the men in the back Counties.

I am yr. Excellency's most obedient humble serv't,

CHAS. LEWIS.

To His Excellency Patrick Henry, Esq., Governor in Chief of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

Bank of Broad River, Oct'r 15, 1776.

Hon'ble Sir:

I wrote to you yesterday evening what news I then had. This is a little after sun rise and I am preparing to march! About an hour after dark last night Captain Gist came in with a Flag from the Raven Warriour to intercede for Chote. He seems to doubt my other Intelligence that the whole force was to fight me. He says from the answer I gave the first Flag that the Raven had hopes and had turned all he had influence over; the enemies forces were encamped about four miles from here; that when his party drew off the others followed, and that yesterday morning great numbers were moving off their families & corn. He says that Camron offered a great reward for his Head and the man who brought the first Flag. That he advises the Indians to burn their Towns and Corn; because they must then depend on him for ammunitions to get meat & by that means to continue the war. He says that one thousand of the Carolina Gide Indians are over on this side. He says that Camron will try to assemble them all somewhere about Highwassey & to defend that place or to bring them to fight. I intend to speak to some of the Warriours to catch him if possible. He says there are several small parties about us, who will do what harm they can, but that no General Battle will be fought except when I cross the Fences or towards Highwassey, if I follow there. He says that the whole people of the Valley and lower settlements have come over and quit that country. That their loss of men was very inconsiderable. I judge the Flag was only an excuse for him to get with me. I believe he is sorry for what he has done. I did intend to have him put in Irons, but the manner of his coming I believe will Prevent me. The officers tell me that the Camp is in great confusion about him, some think there are many favorable circumstances attending him—And many for killing him; of the last the Greatest part. I spoke but little to him & don't know whether he wants to go back or not. He says the Creeks are expected soon. I believe I shall push first for the Island Town & those who bred the war & have thoughts of sparing Chote.

I am sir Your mo. obet. & H'ble Serv't,

WILLIAM CHRISTIAN.

To His Excellency Patrick Henry, Esq.,

Wms' Berg.
Hon’ble Sir:

I crossed the Tenesee on the 18th Instant passed through the Town of Toquo and encamped in the Town of Tornattee on the 19th I moved from Tornattee here after passing through the Town of Fuskeeege & a Town on Tilliko river. This Island Town is about six miles from Toquo, where I crossed the River; and it is the lowest on the River except a new Town opposite to the lower end of it called Uivle. I met with no opposition in crossing the River and found the Indians had ran off hastily, some of them had shut their doors and some had not: they had carried off their cloathes & best of their Household goods but took but little provisions, the greatest part of them I judged went off in Canoes down the Tenesee. They left Horses, Cattle, Dogs, Hogs and Fowls, The crops of Corn and sweet potatoes are very great. It appears to me that in the Towns on this side of the Hills, there must be between forty and fifty thousand bushels of Corn and ten or fifteen thousand Bushels of Potatoes.

Harlin, the man who met me with the Flag at Broad river says that every party he delivered my answer to Turned about and ran home as quick as possible that he rode fast from Broad river to the Towns, and that some of them kept up with him on foot. That the next day after all the people in the Towns packed up and Fled; those that did not go down the river went to the Highwassey river, where there is a Town on the path to the Creeks, that Camron employed some of the Indians to kill him and Gist for being concerned in talking of peace; but that he kept out of their way: on the 21st I sent two men towards Highwassey and two up this river in order to meet with some of the Indians & tell them that as they refused to fight I would now hear what the Raven and the other chiefs had to say.

The men that went towards Highwassey returned last nigh and informs me that ten miles from here they met an old woman and two children who had been there six days and nights in the woods without Fire or provisions other than Grapes and Hawes; the two men made them a Fire and gave them victuals

10 The Island Town appears to have been about thirty miles S. S. W from the present Knoxville.
they then proceeded ten miles farther and met a young man who had lost his wife and was then in search of her; as soon as they saw him they called to him to come in; which he clubbed his Gun & came up. His information was that the Indians were so much afraid that they would fly before us wherever we went that Camron had pushed off for the Creek Nation as soon as he knew I had crossed Broad river with only his own family and two or three of his wife's relations; one or two white men and a young woman daughter to one Captain Smith in South Carolina. She was taken prisoner by the Indians and bought by Camron from them. He treats her well; she told him when it was reported I was coming that she would run to the army as soon as she could; He answered she must not for the rebels would murder all without distinction.

I wrote to the Raven that, as he wished to speak to me I was now here and found His Nation would not Fight that I was willing to hear him & the other chiefs that I did not come to War with women and children but to Fight with men. That his people had better be upon their Guard, Because if they did not comply with my terms after seeing me that I should see them safe from my camp, and then consider them as enemies.

Three white men who had always been our friends with their wives and children and the woman and two children I mentioned above are to be in my camp this morning; they were within three miles last night. Tomorrow I expect the Raven Occunas-tota the Carpenter & many others of the chiefs, and I suppose that in three days after I can open a treaty or begin to destroy the Towns and pursue the Indians towards the Creeks. I know six that I could kill & take Hundreds of them, and starve hundreds by destroying their corn: but it would be mostly the women and children as the men could retreat faster than I can follow and I am convinced that the Virg'a State would be better pleased to hear that I showed pity to the distressed and spared the suppliants; rather than that I should commit one act of Barbarity in the destroying a whole nation of Enemies. I believe that all the old Warriours and all the women in the Nation on this side of the Hills were averse to the war; and that the rest were led on by Camron, sometimes by Bribing them and at others by threatening them a chief called the Dragon Canoe lately raised to Power went to Mobile last spring & came from there with Henry Stuart, and through the Chickasaws where Gist joined them they brought in about Three thousand Pounds of good powder & a good deal of other presents. This chief was the principal agent in hastening the War. I came through other towns without touching any thing in them and am now destroying his. I intend to destroy some others that was under his influence whether I make peace or not, particularly a Town in which a man was burnt that was taken at Watuga.

It is said here that M. Wilkinson the Agent for South Carolina in lower Towns has all along coresponded with Camron & from several circumstances I believe it to be true. One McClean at Augusta Town in Georgia it is said has also corresponded with Camron. I find his intelligence has been pretty good. He told the Indians that the Carolina Armies would be about 4000 and the Virginia Army about 2000 men. When the Shawnese came here with the war belt they told these people that they meant to amuse the White people with treaties and then fall on them When unexpected. But amongst them there was not one chief or a man of note, nothing has been heard from them since.

When the Carpenter was at Mobile perhaps between three weeks & a month ago he was informed that the English men of war had taken a number of vessels belonging to the Continental Fleet near that place several small vessels were brought up to the Town and shewn him [illegible] as I hope in a week more to know what is to be done; I do not send this letter by a particular Express but by a few Drovers who intend to move their families to Kentucky this fall they will carry it to Botetourt from whence I will direct it to be sent by Express to Augusta or Bedford to which place a post comes with the News Papers. I have now written to the Commanding officer at the Great Island to let me know by Express whether the Shewnese has broke out or not.

I forgot to mention in any former letters that I had left with the Lieutenant of Botetourt 200 lb. Powder, with the Lieut. of Fincastle 300 lb. that I had distributed some amongst the Forts on Holston and that I had sent to the people of Harrodsburg on the head of Salt river near Kentucky 100 lb. Powder & 176 lb. lead. I sent it by Capt. Harrod & Capt. Benj’a Logan who came unto the Inhabitants to procure some and followed me to the Island on Holston on that account. I expect to be in Botetourt by the 20th of November Whether I treat or not unless I am detained along the Fronteers of Fincastle and Botetourt by the Shawnese being broke out.

Mobille is an object worthy of the Publick’s attention more so than Detroit. There is great quantities of Indian goods there. I hope to gather a good deal of information respecting the American affairs to the Southward before I go down. The report is here that the Indians say that they thought Colo. Henderson was sent by Government to buy land from them. The two members of the Convention that are with me will get what information they can about that affair as they expect to be at Wms'Burg early in December & reckons the Convention will not rise until Christmas or after it.

If the people can settle in peace I fear differences about land near the Carolina line will grow high if Something is not done about it.

I think these Towns are about 60 miles from Boundary betwixt Carolina & Virg’a when extended South Carolina formerly gave laws to the White people & regulated the Indian Trade but if No. Carolina is only one Degree wide it will take in Tenessee here. If North Carolina can take a Degree & half Which it is said by one of its officers with me; it will have a most valuable part of the back country. I like it better than the Virginia part of this side of Ohio.

I am Sir your most obed’t Servant,

William Christian.

[Though the records, which have been examined, do not specifically state that Robert Parker was brother of George Parker, ancestor of a well known Eastern Shore family, there seems no doubt that he was so.
The testator was an example, of which there are many, of a resident of Virginia who owned land in England. It is evident that Robert Parker was of a Hampshire family, as his father and grandfather were buried in the Church of St. Lawrence, Southampton. This English town seems also to have been his own home. In the records of Northampton county, Va., is a certificate, dated December 29, 1650, to Mr. Robert Parker, proving that he might obtain a land grant, the importation of certain persons. Among these, in addition to himself, were Jane Parker, John Waler [Waller ?], Henry Etheridge, &c. This date doubtless indicates the time of his removal from England to Northampton county. In the same county is recorded a deposition, dated January 30, 1653, of Robert Parker, aged thirty-two years. On December 8, 1654, Robber Parker made a deed of gift of a heifer to John Elzey, George Parker a witness, and on the next day John Elzey conveyed the same heifer to George Parker, Jr., son of Robert Parker, and, if he died, to his sister Abigail Parker, George Parker being again a witness. On March 21, 1656, Robert Parker, of Northampton county, Va., gave a power of attorney to Mr. Richard Cornelius, of the town and county of Southampton, England, merchant, authorizing him to ask and receive all such rents "as shall be due me " from William Shawcroft [or Chaw-croft] for a tenement or farm called Copers Hall [or Sopers Hall] now in his tenure by lease from me, and also unto me from one Mendhurst from rents "for lands in his tenure and occupation of my Lord Montague's holding," and also to dispose of said lands for tearme or time, and to make absolute deeds of conveyance and sale. Robert Parker's wife, Jane Jones, John Elsy and George Parker witnesses. On January 28, 1658, Mr. John Parker, attorney of Mr. Robert Parker, by power of attorney from Jane Elzey of Old England, petitioned Northampton Court that Mr. John Elzey, executor of Mr. Ralph Barlow, be ordered to pay to said Jane Elzey 500 lbs. tobacco given her by the will of said Barlow. Robert Parker probably returned to England at the Restoration, as on November 12, 1660, there was a suit by the wife of John Hould for her freedom from being a servant to Mr. Robert Parker. The suit was brought in his absence, and he proved by evidence taken before Mayor of Southampton, &c., that her service was not yet completed.
He was, however, apparently in Virginia at a later date, as there is recorded in Isle of Wight county a power of attorney, dated January 27, 1661, from Robert Parker, of Northampton county, to his friends, Mr. George and Mr. John Norsworthey, authorizing them to demand of Thomas Parker, of Isle of Wight county, any papers concerning the said Robert Parker which might be in his hands.

There is in Northampton county a deposition, dated April 25, 1654, of Mr. George Parker, aged 28, or thereabouts. Also two depositions of Mr. John Parker, dated in 1663, in one of which he states that he is 28, and in the other 29. George Parker, in his will dated 1674, names his brother John.

He was condemned by the new High Court of Justice of having accepted an embassy from the King. It is possible that there may have been some relationship between Sir Henry Hyde and Robert Hyde, a prominent lawyer in York county, Va., about the beginning of the 18th century.]

THE BROOKE FAMILY.

By Prof. ST. GEORGE TUCKER BROOKE, Morgantown, W. Va.

(The instalments for July and October, 1908, were contributed by Dr. S. V. Brooke, Sutherland, Va.)

HUMPHREY BROOKE, OF FREDERICK COUNTY.a

Humphrey Brook, of Frederick, is said to have been born about 1752. He was the son of Robert Brooke, of King William county, by his first wife, Anne Aylett.6 He married Sallie Page dau. of Robert Page of Broadneck. His granddaughter, writing under date of 13th May, 1905, says: "My cousin, Mary Braxton Page, asked me if my grandfather desert the British Navy. I remember my grandfather perfectly; he told me he resigned from the British Navy in Colonial times." This settles the question that he was in the British Navy. This writer wrote to the Secretary for Naval Affairs, British Ministry, for proof that Humphrey Brooke was a midshipman in the British Navy in Colonial times but received no answer. But the tradition that he had been a student of Oxford is not well founded. In the large library of the Union Club at Oxford are several large volumes containing the names, ages and dates of matriculation of all the students of Oxford from the year 1500 to 1886. There are pages of Brookes with the final "e"—138 in all. The only one named "Humphrey" is entered as follows: "Humphrey s. of Robert of London, gent, St. John's College, matric 12 May 1637, aged 16—fellow College of Physicians 1674." In the library of Cambridge this writer could find no volumes containing the names of students other than graduates. Humphrey Brooke's name was not among those. If he was at school at all in England it seems probable that he was at some such school as Rugby, Eton, &c. Nor can this writer verify the tradition that Humphrey Brooke was a volunteer aide on Washington's staff, or that he was captured by the British and treated with harshness.\textsuperscript{c} Rev. J. William Jones, the distinguished Secretary of the Confederate Memorial Association, writing under date April 21, 1905, says: "He (Humphrey Brooke) died in Clarke county, at Gaywood, near Millwood, the residence of my wife's father, William T. Helm. I used to hear my wife's sister, Miss Sallie Page Helm, speak a great deal of her grandfather. He was an accomplished scholar, a graduate of Oxford, England, and a great book worm. A story is told of him that, under the then existing law, he was imprisoned at Berryville, then called Battle Town, for debt, and as he denied the justice of the claim against him, he said he would rot in jail before he would pay it. A few days after he went to jail on of the lawyers who represented the creditor in riding out from Battle Town met Mr. Helm's large ox cart with four oxen hitched to it and a cart body filled to the brim with books. He asked the negro driver where he was going. 'Going up to Battle Town, sir.' 'What are you going to do with all of those books?' 'Carry them to ole Marse, sir.' 'Why what does he want with all those books?' 'Well, sir, he say he gwine spend his life in jail, and he cannot live without his books.' The lawyer immediately said, 'Now you turn right around and carry these books back home. If your old master gets his books he will live always in jail at our expense, and I am going to have him turned loose to-morrow!' Accordingly this was done."\textsuperscript{d} Humphrey Brooke lived in King William county before moving to Frederick.\textsuperscript{e} Humphrey Brooke is said to have died in 1840.

Robert Brooke, of King William county, was brother of Col. George Brooke, of Mantapike, and of Humphrey Brooke, of Fauquier, and of 'Mollie' Brooke, who married Dr. Robert Baylor.\textsuperscript{f} These four were the children of Humphrey Brook, Sr., who was brother of Robert Brooke, Jr., Knight of Golden Horse Shoe, and of William Brooke, I, and of Mary who married Leonard Tarrant, Sr.;\textsuperscript{g} these last four were children of Robert Brooke, Sr., whose wife was Catherine \textit{nee} Booth. Robert Brooke, Sr., (b. 1652) was probably brother of Richard Brooke\textsuperscript{h} (living in Essex in 1699) and probably sons of William Brooke (clerk of

9. Benjamin Robinson (Christopher) born 1689 (chart), was bequeathed by his father 1,200 acres, part of Moone's Mount estate, in Essex county, and 900 acres adjoining which had been lately patented. Benjamin Robinson lived during his whole life at this place, which later, by the formation of a new county, was in Caroline. He was sheriff of Essex, 1724 and 1725, and clerk of Caroline 1726-1761. He married Sarah Ring, evidently of the family of the name in York county. He died in 1761.

As the will books and early marriage records of Caroline county have been destroyed, it would have been difficult to trace the descendants of Col. Benjamin Robinson had it not been for the fortunate discovery of a suit in the records of the old Fredericksburg District Chancery Court, which concerned his family and estate. The suit was Lyons, representative of the estate of Speaker John Robinson vs. Anthony Thornton adm'r of Capt. Joseph Robinson. It appears that Benjamin Robinson had borrowed money from his nephew the Speaker. There are references made by witnesses in the suit to the intimacy between Benjamin Robinson and Charles Carter of "Cleve" King George county. One of the papers recorded is a mortgage, dated April 18, 1749, with Charles Carter as trustee, in which Benjamin Robinson and Sarah his wife, conveyed for the benefit of Humphrey Bell, of Great Britain, the estate called Moone's Mount, Caroline county, which had been devised by Christopher Robinson to his son, the said Benjamin. There was also filed a letter from Anthony Thornton of "Ormsby," Caroline county dated 1787, in which he states that Captain Joseph Robinson, son of Benjamin, was in his last illness. Thornton, in his answer in the suit, stated that he understood that Benjamin Robinson and Charles Carter married sisters, that they were very intimate and that Joseph Robinson died about 1787.

Edmund Pendleton testified that Col. Benj. Robinson lived at "Moone's Mount" and that he died about 1761. He also stated that Benjamin Robinson's legatees were his wife Sarah, his eldest son and heir Joseph Robinson, daughter Mary, and Sarah and sons Benjamin, Charles and Thomas. Mrs. Robinson died in 1765. Lawrence Battaile, gentleman, married the daughter Sarah Robinson. Another deponent mentions a daughter Hannah, though this may have been an error.

The issue of Benjamin and Sarah (Ring) Robinson were:

27. Benjamin,10 married Susanna, daughter of Joseph Brock, of Spotsylvania county, but died without issue, having survived his wife. His will was dated August 11, 1785, and proved in Spotsylvania December 1, 1795. His legatees were his brother Charles Carter Robinson and sister Sarah Robinson.

29. Thomas,12 no information.

30. Mary,13 born September, 1729, died unmarried July 17, 1813 (a family Bible).

31. Sarah,14 married prior to 1765, Lawrence Battaile, of Caroline county.

20. Christopher1 Robinson (Christopher2) was born in 1705 (chart); died July 2d, 1768. His seat was "Hewick," Middlesex county. He was a member of the House of Burgesses for Middlesex at the sessions of February, 1752, November, 1753, February, 1754, August, 1754, October, 1754, May, 1755, August, 1755, October, 1755, March, 1756, September, 1756, April, 1757, and March, 1758. His will, as that of "Christopher Robinson, Esq.," was dated July 17, and proved in Middlesex, December 6, 1768. He directs his estate in Yorkshire to be sold and the proceeds laid out in lands and negroes in Virginia for his son Christopher. To his wife Sarah one third of all his estate, real and personal, in England and Virginia, (except the parts he had given to his daughters Mary and Betty), for her life. To his daughter Mary Robinson all his land in James City county, and certain negroes. To his daughter Betty Robinson certain negroes and £800 sterling. Rest of the estate to son Christopher.

The will of Sarah, widow of Christopher Robinson, was dated December 6, 1771, and proved in Middlesex February 5, 1772. She left her estate to her daughter, Elizabeth Robinson, and son Christopher.

In 1774 is recorded in Middlesex an account with the estate of Christopher Robinson, deceased. The rents of Hewick, Yorkshire, are stated to have been as follows: In the year 1771, £415; in 1772, £425.17.9; in 1773, £433.14.11, and in 1774 £424.14.6, all sterling. Christopher Robinson is stated in the chart to have married, first—daughter of Col. Barclay. The parish register gives the name of this wife as Mary. She was no doubt one of the Berkleys of "Barn Elms," Middlesex. Edmund Berkeley, of "Barn Elms," who died in 1718, had a daughter Mary. The parish register corrects the chart in some respects. Christopher Robinson married secondly (marriage bond dated May 6, 1750,) Sarah, daughter of John Wormley, of "Rosegill," Middlesex. She was born March 23, 1717.

Issue of Christopher Wormeley (by first marriage):
32. Judith,8 "daughter of Christopher and Mary Robinson," born June 2, 1736 (Register), and married (marriage bond dated Middlesex, June 16, 1755,) Carter Braxton, afterwards signer of the Declaration of Independence. Her portrait is now in the possession of her descendant, Mrs. Edgar A. Pole, Hot Springs, Va.

33. Christopher,8 "son of Christopher and Mary Robinson," born March 9, 1737-8 (Register). He must have died young.

34. Lucy,8 "daughter of Christopher and Mary Robinson," died March 7, 1734 (Register).

By second marriage:

35. Christopher,8 born 1754, made his will, which was proved in 1784. Unmarried (Chart). Named in father's and mother's wills.

36. Mary,8 named in father's will.

39. Elizabeth,8 named in father's and mother's wills. She married on May 19, 1782, William Steptoe. She inherited the "Hewick" estate in Middlesex.

In accordance with the will of Christopher7 Robinson, his executors, Richard Corbin and Ralph Worneley, sold, about 1776, the manor of Hewick, in Yorkshire, containing about 900 acres, to Sir Fletcher Norton for £17 000, and of this amount a portion was laid out in land in Virginia and the remainder invested in the English funds.

N. B.—The generation numbers of the children of John6 Robinson are wrongly given on page 217 of the October Magazine. They should be: 18. Christopher7, &c., instead of Christopher8, &c.

HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL NOTES AND QUERIES.

Prices at Norfolk and Richmond, 1793.

Europeans have been very curious about America from 1775 and earlier to the present day. This is not surprising, since America is so largely Europe transferred. The early observers are perhaps the most interesting. They could comprehend at that time, whereas to-day the visitor is apt to be merely bewildered, like the natives. From 1778 to 1800 there were but two or three years in which a book of Travels in America was not produced. J. F. D. Smyth, Anburey, Chastellux, Dr.
Schoepf, Brissot, Isaac Weld, the Duke de la Rochefoucauld-Liancourt, John Davis, and others have assembled a body of information and impressions which is really the best history of this country for that period.

The following items, of a strictly realistic sort, were supplied by the Rev. Mr. Toulmin to Dr. Thomas Cooper and are found in Dr. Cooper's Some Information Respecting America, Dublin, 1794 *

Mr. Toulmin went West, and going into politics became conspicuous in Kentucky. Dr. Cooper, as is well known, was for many years President of the University of South Carolina. Dr. Cooper was of Manchester and his book is distinctly of that school.

Mr. Toulmin landed at Norfolk in July, 1793. His memoranda:

"Animal food dear. Vegetables cheap. Horses cheap to purchase but dear to hire. The hire of a horse a dollar a day. They go unshod during summer. Board and lodging for adults in a plain but plentiful way, four to five dollars a week, for children two dollars, servants three dollars. Board and lodging per ann. 35l. 15s. The great influx of French emigrants from the islands had rather increased the price. Milk 6d. a quart, owing to carelessness and bad farming. Most of the houses wood; some brick. A neat house, 30 feet by 29 feet, 2 stories high, with a kitchen on one side and a smoking room (for bacon, hams, &c.) in the yard, costs compleat 150l. Dress of the people much the same as in England."

Coming to Richmond Mr. Toulmin noted first the published prices at the Eagle Tavern:

Breakfast, 2s. currency—i. e., 1s. 6d. sterling.
Dinner, with grog or toddy, 3s. currency—i. e., 2s. 3d. sterling.
Cold supper, 2s. currency—i. e., 1s. 6d. sterling.
A bottle of porter, 2s. 6d. currency—i. e., 1s. 10½d. sterling.
A quart of punch the same.
A quart of toddy 1s. 6d. currency—i. e., 1s. 1½d.
A quart of grog, 15d. currency—i. e., 11½d.
A bed room furnished, if above stairs, 1s. 6d.—i. e., 13½d. sterling.
Horses kept at livery, 3s. (2s. 3d. sterling) per 24 hours.
Servants 3s. (2s. 6d. sterling) per day."

Dr. Cooper adds: "These prices are higher than in the Northern States. The tables are also plentifully supplied. In the article of breakfast, all over the American continent, are included ham, eggs, stakes, chops, &c.,—some or all of them. You are not obliged to drink after dinner. You have nothing to give the servants or waiters. In the article of supper, tea and coffee are usually included as accompaniments."

*Pp. 95 ff.
Mr. Toulmin resumes: "Prices of various articles at Richmond (sterling)—

Indian corn 1s. 6d. to 1s. 10½d. per Winchester bushel.
Wheat, 3s. 4½d. to 3s. 9d.
Oats, 11½d. to 1s. 4½d.
Potatoes, 1s. 6d. to 1s. 11½d and 2s. 3d. per bushel.
Flour from wheat, 19s. 6d. to 22s. 6d. per barrel of 196 lbs. net.
Butter, by the cask of 60 lbs., 5½d. to 6½d.
Treacle, 1s. 6d. to 2s. 3d. per gallon, by the hhd.
Sugar (brown), retail 6d. to 5s.; loaf, 2s. 4d. to 3s.
Virginia peach brandy, 3s.
Whiskey, 3s.
Madeira, 45l. to 50 guineas per pipe. Beer not used.
Cyder, per gallon, by the cask or hhd., 3d. to 5½d.
Beef, grass fed, 1½d. to 2½d.
Stall, or winter fed, 2½d. to 3d.
Veal, 3½d. to 5d.
Pork, of excellent quality, 11s. 3d. to 17s. per cwt by the hog.
Bacon and hams, 3½d. to 5½d.
Turkeys, 1s. 6d. to 3s. 4½d. each.
Firewood, 7s. 9d. to 9s. a cord—that is a load—8 feet long, 4 feet high, and 4 feet broad.
Coals, 7½d. per bushel.
Hats (country-made wool hats), 1s. 10½d. to 4s. 6d.
Fur hats (raccoon and fox), 15s. to 27s.
Horses, fit for the wagon or plow, 7l. 10s. to 15l.
Working oxen, 9l. a pair.
Sheep, 4s. 6d. to 12s. each.
 Waggons, with geer compleat, for four horses, that will carry a ton and a half, 12 to 18l."

The traveller could live at the Eagle Tavern, in 1793, for little more than $2 a day, including a quart of punch. A horse could be hired for a dollar a day and be fed corn at 40c. Wheat and flour were about as now. Butter was cheap, sugar extremely high, good beef was cheap, excellent pork was cheap, turkeys and firewood were very cheap, and a good horse could be had for $75. The extraordinary item is that of 150l., at Norfolk, for a two-story house 30x29, with kitchen and smoking-room.

Alfred J. Morrison.

The Godwins and Borlands.

Patience Godwin who married James Gregory was the daughter of Thomas Godwin and Mary Godwin. This Thomas Godwin was presumably the son of the Edward Godwin whose will was probated on on the 24th of June, 1713, and who was a son of Thomas Godwin, the first settler. Thomas Godwin, the original settler and ancestor of the Godwins of Nansemond county, represented Nansemond county in the House of Burgesses in 1658 and other years. In the act of 1674 (2 Hen- ing, 318) ascertaining the bounds of the counties of Isle of Wight and Nansemond, he is designated as "an ancient inhabitant of the Nansemond County Court"—and the act directed that the boundary line should be so run as to leave the house and cleared land of Capt. Thomas Godwin within Nansemond county. His will is dated March 24th, 1676-7.

Joseph Godwin, son of the said Thomas and Mary Godwin, was a brother of the said Patience Gregory, nee Godwin. His will dated October 12th, 1747, provides:—"Item, I give to my sisters Mary Holladay, Patience Gregory and brother Jeremiah each fifty shillings to buy them a mourning ring." The Jeremiah Godwin here mentioned, son of Thomas and Mary Godwin, married Mary Holladay, and had among other children, Jeremiah Godwin, designated as Jeremiah Godwin, Jr. Jeremiah Godwin, Jr., married Sally Wilkinson and had among other children, David and Harriet. David married Cherry Kelley, and had among other children David Jeremiah Godwin, who married Lucrece P. Wilson, daughter of W. H. Wilson and Ellen Keeling. He was an eminent lawyer, Lieut. Col. of 14th Va. Inf., and afterwards Col. of 9th Va. Regt. C. S. A.; and became Judge of the Corporation Court of Norfolk city on the 1st of February, 1880.

Harriet Godwin married in 1805 Dr. Thomas Wood Borland. Of this marriage there were three sons, Roscius C. Borland, born 1807; Euclid Borland, born in 1809; and Solomon Borland, born August 8th, 1811, all of Suffolk, Va. Of these the late Thomas Roccius Borland, in a letter dated January 19th, 1897, says: "The oldest son Roscius C. Borland studied law under Chancellor Wythe, and after moving to Murfreesboro, N. C., was married to Temperance Ramsay, April 25th, 1837; the said Roscius, who was my father died in 1845; he had four children of whom I am the sole survivor; my full name is Thomas Roscius Borland, I was born March 3rd, 1844."

"Euclid Borland, the second son of Dr. Thomas Wood Borland and wife, married Elizabeth Moore. By this marriage there were four children, the youngest, Euclid Borland was born February 7th, 1844, and died at my house September 26th, 1896. He was the only living child of Dr. Euclid Borland."

"The third son of Dr. Thomas Wood Borland and wife, Solon Borland, had an adventurous career; he was educated as a physician, and graduated in Philadelphia; was afterwards editor of newspapers in Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas; was Major of Cavalry in the Mexican War; was United States Senator from Arkansas; Minister to Central America; Brigadier General of Cavalry in the army of the Confederate States, and died in Texas during the war.''

General John Hodges, Father of Margaret Hodges Crocker.

General John Hodges descended from William Hodges, of Hodges Ferry plantation, on the Western Branch of the Elizabeth River in Norfolk county, Virginia. The said William Hodges left a son, John Hodges, who married Lydia Thomas on the 4th of July, 1760, and had a son William Hodges, who married Sally Deans, and had John Hodges, the father of Margaret Hodges Crocker, who was born 31st December, 1786. On the 25th of August, 1812, he married Ann Carney, nee Ann Northcott, who died on the 7th of March, 1814, without issue. On the 15th of June, 1816, he married Louise Harrison, the daughter of William Henry Harrison, of Nansemond county, whose ancestors were from Isle of Wight county. She died 4th of July, 1826. He had by her several children, but only two survived him—William Henry Harrison Hodges and John H. Hodges. William Henry Harrison Hodges on the 13th day of May, 1856, married Mary A. Griswold. He died the 27th of January, 1860, leaving surviving him his widow and two children—Mary Louisa, who married Robert J. Armistead, and Susan Green, who married William T. Baker. John H. Hodges married Eliza F. C. Benn, June 16th, 1842, and died 27th of April, 1863, leaving his wife and children, Frederick, Mary E. and Maggie E. surviving him. Gen'l John Hodges on the 28th of February, 1828, married Jane Adelaide Gregory, the widow of Dr. Richard Bayham Gregory, of whose issue an account is given above. Gen'l Hodges died 31st July, 1855. Gen'l Hodges was one of the most noted citizens of Norfolk county for his high character, intelligence, wealth, social position and for his public services. For a number of years he was a member of the County Court. He served in the General Assembly of Virginia. In the war of 1812 he, as captain, commanded a company attached to the 30th regiment of the third requisition for the State of Virginia, commanded by Maj. Dempsey Veale, and mustered into the services of the United States at the camp near Fort Nelson on the 26th day of April, 1813, which was engaged in the battle of Craney Island. A list of his company was found among his papers, and is published in Col. W. H. Stewart's valuable History of Norfolk County. He subsequently held the commission of Colonel in the 7th Regiment of Virginia Militia and later was elected, on joint ballot of both houses of the General Assembly, brigadier-general of the Ninth Brigade in the Fourth Division of the Militia of the Commonwealth, and commissioned by Gov. John Tyler on the 7th day of January, 1826. The venerable editor of the Norfolk Herald, T. J. Broughton, in its issue of August 2d, 1855, says:

"It was not in his nature, however, to court or seek distinctions, for he was modest and unobtrusive; and though decided in his political principles, was not in the common acceptation of the term a politician. While enjoying the unlimited confidence, respect, and esteem of his fellow-citizens he felt no ambition to soar beyond the sphere of a useful, virtuous and exemplary citizen. In this sphere he 'passed through life, loved and honored by all who knew him, fulfilling the duties of husband, father, friend and neighbor, with a pure heart and the most devoted attachment.'

James F. Crocker.

GREGORY FAMILY—Correction—On page 91 in lieu of paragraph 3d" insert:

2nd. Margaret Gregory, born January 1st, 1785, married Gen'l Joseph F. Dickinson, of Winston, N. C., a brigadier-general in the war of 1812-14, and afterwards married Dr. Isaac Pipkin. She had no children by her first husband, but had by her last one child, Eleanor, who married Capt. William B. Muse, of the United States Navy, and had by him one child, William, who died young unmarried.

EXTRACTS FROM ENGLISH WILLS, &C.

Will of Anne Garrard, of Uplamborne, Berks., widow. Grandchild Ann Busher, daughter of said Abraham Busher, now wife of Thomas Hinton, gent., lately gone to Virginia, on whom I have lately bestowed a competent part of my estate at her going, only $3 for a further remembrance.

RANDALL vs. BEALE.

14 May 1689 Orators Robert Randall of Southwark, Surry, in the colony of Virginia beyond the seas and Mary his wife, late wife and administratrix of Thomas Swan. Trade for many years between Thomas Swan and John Beale of London, Merchant. Object of suit to obtain

SMITH-CRAWFORD.—Wanted, names of parents, etc., of the Elizabeth Smith who married Capt. David Crawford (d. 1762), of New Kent and Amherst counties.

BOWCOCK.—Is there a record giving names of sisters of Jason Bowcock (of Albemarle, I believe)? Had he a sister Susan, and whom did she marry?—and were they related to the Salem Bocock, of Louisa county, 1747?

JOEL JOHNSON.—Wanted, parents, etc., of Joel Johnson, who died in Spotsylvania county, 1733. Was he related to William Johnstone or Johnson, of same county (sheriff in 1731)?

EMBRY.—I am convinced that Sarah Embry 1st Read, 2d Scott, was daughter of Henry Embry, Jr. Records show that Henry Embry, Jr., died 1753, his widow Priscilla Embry took out letters of administration. Henry Embry, Sr., died 1763. Mrs. Hill's will mentions only one living child Mary Merritt, and she is one of the executors, but he mentions "granddaughters Mary and Sarah Embry, daughters of my son Henry Embry."

Priscilla Embry, widow, married Wm. Hill, 1758 as shown by marriage bond.

October 6th, 1771, "Isaac Read releases John Coleman from Guardianship of his wife Sarah daughter of Henry Embry, deceased."

Bishop Meade said that Sarah Embry Read's father was Burgess at the same time with her husband's father Clement Read. I believe that both Henrys were Burgess of Lunenburg and Brunswick. Henry Embry, Sr's., wife was named Martha; Sarah Embry Read named her daughter Priscilla, which was the name of Henry, Jr's., wife.

Have you information which will settle the matter?

X, Baltimore.

VIRGINIA CURRENCY.—There is in my possession a five-pound note, current money of Virginia, according to Acts of Assembly April 3, 1710 or 1770—can't tell which—and signed by some Hamilton as President and John Peyton, Treasurer. Also accompanying it is the copper plate from which the note was engraved. Can you give any data as to what date the act was passed, and at what time Hamilton was president and Peyton treasurer of the Assembly?

D. E. S., Bluefield, W. Va.

[There could have been no Act of Assembly dated April 3, 1770, for the Assembly was not then in session, nor was there any session in April, 1710. No Hamilton was ever "president" of the Assembly, nor was John Peyton treasurer.]

DANIEL PARKER.—I note on page 106 of Vol. XI of the Virginia Historical Magazine that a correspondent signed "M," Montgomery, Ala., asks for information of a Daniel Parker. If "M," of Montgomery, Ala., will address me I can, 1 believe, give him the information asked, which I found in looking up my own people.

W. S. R. PARKER, Beaumont, Texas.

AYLIFFE.—William and Benjamin Ayliffe or Ayloffe, successively baronets, of Braxted Magna, Essex, England, in letters written 1658-1675, refer to their cousin, Richard Ayliffe, as being in Virginia. Richard Ayliffe patented 800 acres in Northumberland county, Va., on the south side of Wicomico River, February 4, 1662, and 248 acres in the same county on the same day. The last tract was on the southward side of Great Wicomico River, adjoining the land of James Pope and that claimed by Mr. Peter Knight.

Betty, their oldest child, was born October 16, 1784, and evidently was "colicy."

The other entries consist of groceries, wearing apparel, farming implements, blacksmith repairs, &c., &c., and at a later date a list of his slaves, followed by a list of others born as late as 1828, after he removed to Kentucky.

SOLOMON.—The King Solomon Memorial Association of Kentucky is very anxious to ascertain if William (King) Solomon, who was born in Virginia in 1775 and died in this city, November 22, 1854, has any relatives now living in Virginia. As far as is known, Solomon never married, but he may have had sisters or brothers that did marry and left children that are still alive.

FERRAR.—I have been looking up more details concerning the Ferrar family, and am engaged in writing a memoir of Doctor John Mapletonfit Nicholas Ferrar's great-nephew and godson, who was brought up a Little Gidding by his aunt, Mary Collet. John Mapleton's sister Mary, born in 1629, and also educated at Little Gidding, evidently went out to America. She wrote to her brother from "Spesutia, Maryland," the letter is dated Feb. 26, 1662, and she signs herself Mary "Abie" or "Ubie." Would it be possible to identify the name, or to find out anything about her or her husband? In her letter she says "It hath pleased the Lord to visit us boath this last summer very much with sicknes. I was sick from June till December, & my husband 3 mounths. But now through mercy we Injoy our healthe againe, so have many thoughts & I greate hopes of seeing sweet england againe this yeare or next, but as yet cannot resolve, the poor juice of our sory comodity, unstable tobacco, makes us afraid to venture."

If you can in any way help me, by referring me to some authority in your country who would throw light on the name, I should be very much indebted to you. * * * Henley on Thames, England.

[John Utie, of "Utimaria," York county, Va., was member of the Council 1631, &c., and was dead in 1642. His son John and daughter-in-law Mary, his wife, sold "Utimaria," and the name disappears from Virginia. John Utie, the younger, evidently removed to Maryland. Nathaniel Utie, of "Spesutia," Anne Arundel county, was a member of the Maryland Council, and was no doubt son of John Utie, Jr., and Mary his wife, who appears from the above to have been Mary Mapleton.]

PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

ANNUAL MEETING

HELD IN THE

Hall of the House of Delegates, January 1, 1909,

WITH THE

LIST OF OFFICERS AND MEMBERS OF THE SOCIETY.

RICHMOND:

WM. ELLIS JONES, BOOK AND JOB PRINTER.

The annual meeting was held in the Hall of the House of Delegates in the State Capitol, with Captain W. Gordon McCabe in the Chair.

The Chairman called the meeting to order at 8:30 P. M., and after referring to the absence of a President, introduced the speaker, Dr. H. Morse Stephens, of the University of California. The subject of the address was “The Napoleonic Empire versus Napoleon. A study in Historical Perspective.”

Dr. Stephens’ learned and eloquent address was heard with deep interest by an audience composed not only of members of the Society, but of other citizens of Richmond.

At the conclusion of the address the Chairman read the annual report of the Executive Committee, which is usually submitted by the President. It is as follows:

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The sad event which occurred a little over a month ago deprived not only this Society, but this community, of one of its most intelligently active citizens. The press, the different organizations with which he was connected—indeed the people in all departments and walks of life, have spontaneously given loving evidence of the esteem in which our late President was held. On this anniversary of our Society, all who have assembled here for years will miss him this evening—sadly miss his presence here; will miss the privilege of hearing the enthusiastic, the vigorous, yes, the triumphant reading of the annual report of this Society by one whose heart was in every word he uttered. How he would pause in the report, and in a conversational tone, with heartfelt delight, emphasize each item which gave evidence of interest on the part of the public in the work which was being done and in the prosperous condition of the institution over which he presided.

We, my friends, who were associated with him are better able to tell of his worth, and the Acting President has appointed a Committee from our Board to recount some, at least, of the good, loving work which he accomplished while serving this Society as its chief officer.

I will now proceed to read the annual report.

A year ago there was good reason for fear that this Society might be seriously affected by the extreme business depression, as membership in a historical society is regarded by so many people as a luxury to be dispensed with when there is need to economize. It is very pleasant to state, however, that the panic has injured us so little as almost to be negligible.

We were probably prevented from getting a few members, and it is known from the letters of most of those who have resigned that their action has been caused by hard times.

We have, again during this year, had a severe loss from deaths, which have been sixteen in number.

As usual we have had to drop some of those ladies and gentlemen who seem willing to receive the publications of the Society, but ignore year after year bills sent them.

The repetition is wearying, but we must again call attention to the fact that there is no excuse for any one to remain a member of the Society a day longer than he or she feels able to pay dues. A resignation is accepted at any time on payment of dues to its date.
PROCEEDINGS.

With losses from all causes since last year our net decrease is only six, the present membership being 746.

FINANCE.

Our efficient Treasurer, Mr. Robt. A. Lancaster, Jr., is enabled this year to make a very gratifying report. It is as follows:

Permanent Fund.

Three per cent. bank certificate, ....................... $ 900.00
Three per cent. Virginia Century Bond, .................. 100.00
Mortgage 5% running three years from May 10, 1907..... 5,000.00
Fifteen shares stock Citizens Bank of Norfolk, Va., paying ten per cent. dividends, estimated value............ 3,375.00

It should be stated that $182.92 of the interest reported were accrued dividends on the James' bequest. Since the end of the fiscal year that part of the permanent fund, which was in bank certificates and a Virginia Century Bond, both paying three per cent., has been converted into a $1,000 real estate mortgage paying five per cent. Three hundred ($300) dollars of the amount added to the permanent fund during the past year was appropriated from the regular income of the Society. The donation of our very generous friend, Mr. Byam K. Stevens, of New York city (to whom we now owe $500 of the fund), the bequest of our colleague Mr. James, and the appropriation by the Society has increased our permanent fund during the past fiscal year by the very considerable amount of $4,075.

Nor is this the only reason for gratitude. In 1907, omitting bookkeeping entries made necessary by altering the investment of part of the permanent fund, and amounts given by the Exposition Company, the Colonial Dames, and the A. V. P. A., for specific purposes, and which were entirely expended for such purposes, the receipts were:

From gift to the permanent fund, $100. From the regular sources of income of the Society, $3,840.93. A total of $3,940.93.

During 1908, the gifts to the permanent fund amounted to $3,775, and income from other sources $4,189.21, a total of $7,964.21.

The income from regular sources this year exceeded that of last year by $348.28, or if we deduct the accrued interest on the James' bequest, by $165.36.

Such a result during a panic year it most gratifying, and is a fine evidence of the position this Society holds in the estimation of its members and other friends.

Since the end of the fiscal year and since this report was submitted to the Executive Committee, Mr. Stevens has given $100.00 more to the permanent fund, making his gifts amount to $600.00.

The Society's building, dear to us as our first permanent home, as having come to us chiefly through the influence of our late beloved President, and as the residence of Gen. R. E. Lee, has, during the year required and received many repairs. The roofs, the three massive porches rising one above the other in the rear of the main building, the brick wall in several places in the rear building, and the flues in one of the chimneys have been repaired or renewed. The work on the back porches, which had begun in some places to show signs of decay, was quite extensive; but the most serious question in regard to the house, which the Executive Committee had to meet, arose from the building on the lots immediately adjoining to the west of the house, to be used as a temporary postoffice.

The excavations for foundations were to come so close to the western wing of our building, that it was very necessary that minute attention should be given to our walls during the course of the work, and every protection which might be needed, promptly given. As soon as it was announced that the work of clearing away the houses in the lots to be used for the temporary postoffice would be begun, a sub-committee was appointed to look after the interest of the Society and the protection of our building. The thanks of the Society are due to Mr. C. V. Meredith, the chairman of the sub-committee, for his constant and vigilant attention to the duties devolved upon his committee. A prominent contractor and builder was engaged to watch and protect our walls in any way necessary.

GIFTS.

The Society is indebted for gifts or loans of objects of historical interest, manuscripts, or books to the following ladies and gentlemen: Mr. St. Geo. T. C. Bryan, brother of our beloved President, has evinced a constant interest in the Society. Among his gifts have been an ancient door-bell from "The Glebe" in Gloucester county; a Virginia penny of 1773; forty-two letters written in the early part of the Nineteenth Century, by Miles C. Wills, manager for the Cary family, of "Carysbrook," Fluvanna county, and containing interesting matter in regard to planting and economic conditions.

Mrs. Joseph Bryan gave an English stone weight, formerly one of the Colonial standard weights of Amherst county.

The largest gift of MSS came from Mr. Herbert Du Puy, of Pittsburg, Pa. These papers, 954 in number, comprise the business correspondence of Henry Banks, who was a prominent merchant of Richmond, from the period of the Revolution. They refer to business matters and land speculations from Charleston to Philadelphia and contain a great amount of material valuable to the student of the commerce of the times. To our collection of articles of personal use in days past was added a very old and quaint embroidered purse given by Mrs. M. W. Smithson, of this city.

Other donors of MSS were Mrs. Norman V. Randolph, of this city, and Mr. Wyndham R. Meredith, who representing the owner, gave a very interesting memoir of Conway Robinson, by Col. T. H. Ellis, together with notes by various persons on the bench and bar of Richmond in the past.

Mr. Robert Beverley Herbert gave a book plate of William Beverley, of Blandfield, with his arms and the inscription "Mr. Beverley, Trin. College;" and Messrs. A. G. Anthony and A. G. Anthony, Jr., of this city, gave a musket marked, “Virginia Armory, Richmond, 1814.” This is probably one of the very few remaining weapons manufactured at the old State armory.

Prof. William M. Fontaine, of the University of Virginia, has loaned to the Society that very interesting Huguenot relic, one of the original narratives in French, written by Rev. James Fontaine, who escaped from France at the time of the revocation of the edict of Nantes.

Mr. Robert Reade Thruston, of Gloucester, has deposited several very old MSS. relating to that county.

Additions to the Library.

The additions to our Library in books and pamphlets have probably been more numerous and valuable than in any preceding year. The additions number 686. Especial note should be made of the donation of Mr. Isaac Davenport, Jr., who gave 103 volumes of valuable books and has indicated his intention of further favoring the Society in this way.

Mrs. F. T. Boykin, of this city, gave during the year twenty volumes, most of them very old and interesting works.

Among those to whom thanks are due, chiefly for books and pamphlets, but in some cases photograph views, etc., are Mrs. F. A. Walke, Mr. Heth Lorton, Dr. S. C. Mitchell, The Chicago Historical Society, Capt. W. Gordon McCabe, Judge Geo. L. Christian, Hon. John Lamb, The John Carter Brown Library, Mrs. W. G. Standard, Mr. Gherandi Davis, The Wyoming Commmemorative Association, Dr. Elmor J. Miller, Virginia State Bar Association, The Swedish Historical Society of Chicago; Mr. Malcom Macbeath, St. Nicholas Society of New York, Princeton University, President Lyon G. Tyler, National Society of Colonial Wars, Mr. J. S. Moore, Dr. L. V. Brooks, Mr. F. F. A. Jermain, Mrs. Susan C. Christie, Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, Mr. F. M. Farquhar, Mr. J. G. Leach, Prof. C. L. Beer, Dr. J. S. McMaster, Dr. B. W. Green, Mr. R. Winder Johnston, Mr. Clarence M. Burton, Mr.
Lawrence Washington, Burrows Brothers, etc., Mr. John D. Williams, Mr. A. C. Gordon, Lodge No. 2 F. & A. A. M., Philadelphia; the publishers of "Corks & Curls" at the University of Virginia, Professor J. W. Wayland, Washington, D. C., Society of Colonial Wars and Association for Preservation of Virginia Antiquities.

Considerable work has been done this year in collecting the very numerous pamphlets in the custody of the Society and placing them in binders. There is much more of this yet to be done. Many of the very valuable periodicals obtained by exchange have been bound in past years, but there is a very considerable mass which still remains as issued. During the fall these were collected and a preliminary arrangement of them made. They will be bound as the means of the Society will permit; until this is done they will be placed together in chronological order so that they may be readily accessible.

There is not at present shelf room for all of these pamphlets and historical periodicals if they were bound. During the year the committee bought several sectional cases and these, together with some shelving in the third story, placed at the cost of a member of the Society, will enable us for some months to come to care for volumes already bound or which come in during that time.

Additional shelving might be placed which would accommodate all of the pamphlets and periodicals now in our possession, or what are likely to be received during the year.

The inability of the Jamestown Exposition Company to meet all of its obligations prevented it from carrying out its promise to our Society to pay for rebinding all the numerous MSS which were taken out for exhibition. This failure made it necessary for the work to be done by the Society. It was found that the best way to restore the MSS would be to mount them by entirely flexible and transparent hinges on sheets of paper larger than the MSS so as to serve as a guard.
This work is being done by the Librarian and his assistant. One volume has been completed and the sheets so arranged, bound, and another volume is well under way. The work requires care and time but will be finished at an early date.

Among the papers devised to the Society by the late Cassius F. Lee, was a large number of MSS chiefly of letters written by members of the Lee family. Part of these copies were in ink on paper with an inch margin, and others were in pencil, written close up to the edge of the sheet. The first class, has been bound and the others mounted in the manner before described. These Lee transcripts have been referred to, as frequently perhaps, as any papers in our collection and having them bound will be of great assistance to students. During the past year the letters of Richard Henry Lee were copied to form part of the edition of his papers which is projected. This will be a very valuable addition to American Historical Literature.

Publications.

The desire of the committee that the publication of a volume of the magazine should coincide with the calendar year instead of beginning with the July numbers as here-to-fore, was carried into effect by making the numbers for July and October, a separate volume. Volume 17 will begin with the number for January, 1909, and end with that for October of the same year. This two-number volume has, of course, a title page, table of contents, and full index.

As usual the magazine has been confined chiefly to hitherto unpublished documents, the true sources of our history. The publication of the minutes of council in Executive Sessions 1737-66, from fragmentary Journals in the State archives, was completed during the year.

There is much lacking for a full knowledge of the history of Virginia during the French and Indian war, especially after the close of Dinwiddie's administration, when we lose the aid of his valuable letters.

Full copies of the council journals exist in the British Public Record office—and transcripts of these, together with the letters and other papers from Virginia during the period—are much needed material for knowledge of our history.

The Journals we have printed, though imperfect, have been of much value especially in regard to the history of the Western portion of this colony, and of the French and Indian war. An interesting contribution of documents on this latter subject was also made during the year by Mr. Chas. E. Kemper.

The last of the copies from Virginia Seventeenth Century records in the Library of Congress was printed in the January, 1908 magazine. These papers treated largely of the protection of the colony and of commerce during the war between England and Holland, 1665, etc.

In April, Dr. A. J. Morrison contributed a series of well selected and annotated extracts from the letters of Roger Atkinson, a prominent merchant of Petersburg. These give much information on business and politics between 1769 and 1776.

Probably no MSS. collection has been of greater value, or more frequently consulted by students of our Seventeenth Century History, than the volume in our library, known as the Randolph Manuscript. Much that it contains has been printed in widely divided places, and there is an equal amount which has never been in print. In the April number of the magazine, was begun a complete publication of the unprinted portions, together with a full list of papers already published, including a reference to the places where they may be found. We deem this perhaps as important a piece of work as we have yet undertaken.

Other useful contributions to Seventeenth Century sources, have been made in the publication of the Sainsbury abstracts and full copies from the McDonald and DeJarnette papers, Virginia State Library.

The period of the outbreak of the Revolution has been illustrated by the Legislative papers, which are the important documents sent to the Convention Assembly, etc., in 1774, 1775 and 1776. These papers contain a vast amount of most interesting information in regard to the time they cover.

For the Revolution, there have been the Army Orders, 1777-78, and the pension declarations which tell of the militia service of which so little is known.

The "Gleanings" in England, kindly furnished by Mr. Lothrop Withington, have been published throughout the year, and to judge from comments made by many members, are regarded as among the most interesting features of the magazine.

There have been numerous other articles of interest which time will not permit us to mention, and for the same reason, the section containing notes and queries, genealogies, reviews, etc., must be passed with the simple statement that they have been up to the usual standard.

During the coming year it is proposed to publish large instalments of the "Randolph Manuscript" and to continue the Sainsbury abstracts and copies from the McDonald and DeJarnette papers. A large part of these papers will treat of the period, 1641 and 1660, during which so much of our history is obscure.

After the well-known "Calendar of Virginia State Papers" was completed, a number of important papers were found which would have been included in the calendar, had they been found in time. We have had for some years copies of these important documents and propose to print them in the coming year. Also included in the list for 1909, is a copy of a MS volume in the Virginia State archives containing important commissions, letters, etc., 1690-98.

It is very gratifying to the committee to feel that we are at last within not distant view of the time when all the Virginia Seventeenth Century records in public offices, or in the collection of this Society, with the exception of council and assembly journals, will be printed, either in full copies or in abstracts.

When the Sainsbury Abstracts, the McDonald and DeJarnett papers, the Randolph Manuscript and the miscellaneous Virginia records, referred to, have been published by our Society, and the early Virginia records in the Library of Congress printed, as is proposed, by that library, students will have access to the material for a true history of Virginia in the Seventeenth Century.

Of course, the council and assembly records are of very great importance, but it is hoped that the copying and publication will be done by the State of Virginia in the same careful manner in which the late Eighteenth Century Journals of the House of Burgesses have been printed.

The Legislative papers, with their valuable information in regard to the early years of the Revolution, will be continued. A very interesting portion of the papers is the series of reports by Col. William Christian, of his campaign against the Cherokees in 1776. This important expedition secured the frontier for some years at a very critical period of the war, but no reports have ever been printed. It has sometimes been believed that these reports were lost.

The history of the Revolution will be given in the Army Orders, 1777-78, which will treat of the movements of Washington's army on leaving Valley Forge, and the Virginia pension declarations will tell how and where the militia of various counties served.

These are only a part of the valuable documents whose publication has already received the approval of the committee and which have not been used.

As in previous years the papers printed in our magazines have been constantly used by writers on Virginia history. It can be stated with confidence, that no book on Virginia history, can now be published, which does not show how useful our magazine has been to the author. This has been one of the chief objects of the Society, and it is a source of deep gratification to us that our purpose is to this extent carried out. Many students have also used our manuscripts at the rooms of the Society.

Deaths.

Charles A. Welch, Boston, Mass.

This is one of the largest lists of deaths which the Society has had to deplore, but far more than these mere numbers was the character and influence of those who have been taken from us. This it is that makes it the saddest year in our history.

The Society's sense of sorrow and of its great loss in the deaths of its President, and of one of the most active and useful members of its Executive Committee will be more fittingly set forth in the memorials which will be published in the magazine.

Our Society has for many years had a large membership of ladies and they have always been active agents in promoting our progress, but the quiet life of a woman rarely gives opportunity for comment such as is made here. An exception should be made, however, in the case of Mrs. Lyon; every work for charity, for the preservation of our antiquities or history, or indeed any work for public good, appealed to her generous sympathy and indefatigable energy. As a leader in all such, she will long be missed.

Mr. Folsom and Mr. Welch were prominent citizens of Massachusetts, who had long been interested members of our Society. To Captain Folsom we were frequently indebted for gifts of books and pamphlets.

Mr. Snowden had studied closely the local antiquities of the interesting neighborhood of Alexandria, and published valuable information in regard to them, and Rev. Dr. Stone was well-known to many people throughout the country as the Secretary and one of the leading spirits of the Stone Family Association.

Mr. Everett Waddey, one of Richmond's leading business men, was for many years a member and good friend of the Society, as was Col. Ward, of Louisville, whose close attention to his profession, the law, which he practiced with great success, did not prevent him from giving time to historical investigations. Edward Pleasants Valentine, who died in the prime of his manhood, was the successful head of a great business; he was foremost in every work for the good of the city, and was perhaps the most active of the Trustees of the Museum founded by his father, but that phase of his activity which can be most properly referred to here was his deep and most intelligent interest in Virginia history. He had for a number of years employed competent persons to make copies and extracts from the Virginia county records and State archives, and these papers he had arranged and studied with unsurpassed zeal and intelligence. It was his purpose to take as a text the history of some thirty or forty Virginia families of varying social standing, and through these, by the use of his immense store of original material, to prepare a social history of Virginia from the early seventeenth Century down to the end of the first quarter of the Nineteenth. His papers have been given to the Valentine Museum, but the combination of his great knowledge, acute mind and love of truth and history will be hard to replace.

Captain Marion J. Dimmock, whose death occurred only a few days ago, was a gallant Confederate officer, a distinguished architect and a much beloved and highly accomplished Christian gentleman.

Jamestown Island.

It has been the custom of our President for some years past to refer briefly to the works of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. While the work of that Association during the past year had no features of especial interest, the fact that this report was not prepared by our late President enables us to make a statement which would never have been made by him.

The very striking statue of John Smith, now at Jamestown, and which unhappily could not be unveiled in his lifetime, was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryan.

Election of Officers.

The next business was the election of officers, and, on motion, the Chairman appointed a Nominating Committee, composed of Messrs. Wm. Ellis Jones, Wm. Clayton Torrence, and Kirkwood Mitchell.
The Committee brought in the following nominations:

President—W. Gordon McCabe.

Vice-Presidents—Archer Anderson, Edward V. Valentine, Lyon G. Tyler.

Corresponding Secretary and Librarian—William G. Standard.

Recording Secretary—David C. Richardson.

Treasurer—Robert A. Lancaster, Jr.

Ex-Governor A. J. Montague was asked to take the Chair, and on the question being put, the persons named were unanimously elected.

The new President then resumed the Chair and in returning thanks, paid a tender and beautiful tribute to his predecessor, the late Joseph Bryan.

Mr. E. V. Valentine moved the thanks of the Society to Dr. Stephens.

The vote was given amidst applause.

Then, on motion, the meeting adjourned.

A Brief Memoir

by

W. Gordon McCabe,
President of the Virginia Historical Society.

Reprinted from the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, April, 1909.
Joseph Bryan.

And let me treat him largely; I should fear
(If with too prying lens I chanced to err, Mistaking catalogue for character,)
His wise forefinger raised in smiling blame—
Nor would I scant him with judicial breath;
And turn me critic in an epitaph.....
I would but memorize the shining half
Of his large nature that was turned to me.

Thus Lowell, in his noble elegy on Agassiz, and such must be the scope and purport of this halting tribute to our noble "Virginia Worthy."

Since his death, the press throughout the whole country has teemed with appreciatory articles dealing with his marvellous energy, intuitive sagacity, bold initiative, and consummate administrative ability, as a man of affairs.

His success there was, indeed, brilliant, but it is the other "shining half" that shall abide with us, when its more material complement, if not altogether forgot, shall, perhaps, be unregarded.

Yet even here, there must needs be more or less of "catalogue," for 'tis a trite aphorism that "character," however virile and self-poised, always owes much to environment.

Joseph Bryan, eighth child of John Randolph Bryan and Elizabeth Tucker Coalter, his wife, was born at his father’s plantation, "Eagle Point," in the county of Gloucester, Virginia, on August 13th, 1845. He died at his country-seat, "Laburnum," near Richmond, November 20th, 1908.

His father, John Randolph Bryan, godson and namesake of the brilliant and eccentric John Randolph of Roanoke, after receiving a sound education at excellent fitting-schools and at Yale, entered the Navy of the United States as Midshipman, at the age of seventeen, cruized in the Pacific, Mediterranean and elsewhere for six or seven years (with intervals of "leave"), rose to be Past-Midshipman, but resigned the service, and settled down as a planter, soon after his marriage to Mr. Randolph’s favorite niece, Elizabeth Tucker Coalter, in January, 1830.

He was the very highest type of the country-gentlemen of his time—of aristocratic lineage (for he was the great-grandson of that “pestilential Rebel,” Jonathan Bryan*).

*This Jonathan Bryan (grand-son of Joseph, the first of the name in the Colonies, who settled in South Carolina some time during the second-half of the seventeenth century) was born in 1708, left South Carolina (where he had several plantations) in 1733, joined Oglethorpe in Georgia, assisted him in selecting the site of Savannah, took part in his “expedition” against the Spaniards in Florida in 1736, and finally settled down on a plantation (which he called “Brampton”), on the Savannah river, a few miles above the newly-established town of the same name. He owned several other plantations in Georgia besides “Brampton.”

For twenty years (1754-1774), he was a member of the King’s Council of that Province, but he was “a furious Whig,” and, on the first mutterings of resistance to the encroachments of the “Royal Prerogative,” was so outspoken in his denunciations of any invasion of the rights of the people, that he was summarily expelled from that august body (1774). Whereupon, the “Union Society in Georgia,” composed of equally recalcitrant gentry-folk, prayed his formal acceptance of a noble silver tankard of generous dimensions (still at “Laburnum”), on which one may see inscribed: “To Jonathan Bryan, Esquire, who for Publicly Appearing in Favour of the Rights and Liberties of the People was excluded from His Majesty’s Council of this Province, this Piece of Plate, as a Mark of their Esteem, is Presented by the Union Society in Georgia.

Three years later (1777), we find him “Acting Vice-President and Commander-in-Chief of Georgia and Ordinary of the Same.” He took a very active part in the Revolution, was a member of the “Com-
"Acting Vice-President, Commander-in-Chief, and Ordinary of the Province of Georgia" in Revolutionary days), of courtly manners—a fine classical scholar, who to the day of his death could read, if not his "Plato," certainly his Livy and Horace "with his feet on the fender," as Emerson neatly puts it—a keen sportsman, a devoted Churchman, a kind neighbor, and the very soul of hospitality.

The mother, "Betty" Coalter, allied by blood to what were mittee of Public Safety for Georgia," and, when he was surprised and seized on one of his plantations by a raiding party of British soldiers, General Prevost in a letter to Lord George Germain rejoices at the capture of such "a notorious ring-leader of Rebellion." (One sees that our Joseph Bryan came rightfully enough by his "Rebel spirit!")

He, with his son, James, was sent northward, by sea, to languish on one of the dreadful "prison-hulks" lying off Brooklyn, but in 1780 they were exchanged, and Jonathan at once returned to his treasonable activities.

But while Jonathan Bryan is best known to us on his militant side, it should be added that he was a man of deep and fervid piety, as was also his brother Hugh, both of whom fell under the religious influence of John Wesley, and, later, of George Whitefield, and became their intimates. Whitefield, as is well known, was a thorn in the flesh of the clergy of the Established Church, both in South Carolina and in Georgia, reviled the memory of Archbishop Tillotson as that of a lukewarm "Laodicean," prayed extemporê prayers in churches of his own communion, preached in "Dissenting" meeting-houses, and generally scandalized the gentry as well as the clergy of both Provinces, who regarded him as "a fluent mountebank." But Hugh Bryan became his most extravagant disciple, and, in the matter of censuring the clergy, out-heroded Herod. Doyle, indeed, calls him "a reckless partisan" of Whitefield, who stopped at nothing in his religious zeal. Because of a violent letter written by Hugh, and corrected by Whitefield for the press, both of them (together with the printer) were threatened with criminal proceedings in South Carolina. Nothing came of it, and Hugh eventually drifting into a sort of "Mysticism" wrote a book about it, which no one seems to have understood but himself, if indeed, he did.
known in Colonial days as "the grandees" of Tidewater Virginia, was a beautiful woman of rare culture, wrapped up in husband and children, known and loved through all the countryside for her gentleness, her ready sympathy, cheerful piety and unobtrusive benefactions. Wordsworth might, indeed, have had her in his mind's eye when he spoke of—

"Those blessed ones who do God's will and know it not."

Such was the refined, cultured, and wholesome home that

The family grew apace in wealth and influence, and Jonathan's grandson, Joseph (grandfather of our Joseph), being the only child and heir, was reckoned one of the richest planters in Georgia.

Joseph was a man of vigorous native parts, which had been sedulously cultivated by training in the best schools at home and abroad. After completing his academic studies at the University of Cambridge in England, he returned to America, and in 1793 studied law in Philadelphia under Edmund Randolph, at that time Washington's Attorney-General. Here, he had for his fellow-student (there were but these two), and room-mate, John Randolph of Roanoke, between whom and himself there sprang up a friendship that was romantic in its intensity. Mr. Randolph has left us a picture of him as vivid as any that was ever drawn by the hand of that eccentric genius—of his fine bearing and notable beauty of person, adding (and this should arrest the interest of students of heredity), "he was brave even to rashness and his generosity bordered on profusion." He further descants on the brilliancy of his intellectual gifts and on his sobriety of judgment, and declares "he has rendered me such service as one man can seldom render another." He does not enlighten us as to what that service was. Apropos, Moncure D. Conway, speaking of John Randolph, in his Omitted Chapters of History, Disclosed in the Life and Letters of Edmund Randolph (p. 137), says: "The Attorney-General's other student, John Bryan" (a slip for "Joseph") "got John Randolph out of a scrape so serious that neither would reveal it." This Joseph Bryan, after finishing his law course under Edmund Randolph, went again to Europe (this time for travel, not for study), "made the grand tour," and on his return to Georgia in 1802, was almost at once elected to Congress, in which he served for three sessions, but resigned on his marriage in 1805, and retired to one of “Joe” Bryan (for no one ever called him Joseph) was blessed with in his boyhood, and, in the coming years, when tried by both extremes of fortune, remembering the lessons taught there, he showed himself equal to each and proved himself worthy of the noble stock from which he sprung.

When this lovely Virginia matron lay a-dying, she called her little brood about her, and taking them one by one in her arms, whispered, along with the mother-kiss, a few words of his estates (known as “Nonchalance”) on Wilmington Island, having decided that he would find his truest happiness in the domestic circle, and among his beloved books.

He died at the early age of thirty-nine, leaving a beautiful widow (who in time married Col. Scriven, of Georgia), and five small children, the oldest of whom was Jonathan Randolph Bryan (“Jonathan” after his great-grandfather, and “Randolph” after the father’s bosom friend of “Roanoke”). The lad was always from the first called “Randolph” and, in time, the “Jonathan” was changed to “John.”

A year after his father’s death (1812), the little fellow was sent by his mother to school in Savannah. There he boarded in the family of a Madame Cottineau, who with her children, had fled to America from the horrors of the negro insurrection in San Domingo. Madame Cottineau’s “spiritual director” was a certain accomplished French ecclesiastic, the Abbé Carle, who had accompanied the family in their flight, and under his care little Randolph learned to speak French with elegance and precision, besides being taught the rudiments of Latin.

At ten years of age (1816), Randolph, with a younger brother, Thomas, came to Virginia at the earnest solicitation of the master of “Roanoke,” who wanted his namesake near him and who urged the better facilities for education in this State.

Here he remained at school for four years, he and his brother spending all their winter holidays and summer vacations at “Roanoke,” and from that time Mr. Randolph always regarded and treated him as a son. At the expiration of this time, he returned to Georgia to be with his mother, and, after spending two years at school there, came North in the summer of 1822, where for a short time he attended a fitting-school at Repton, Conn., and in October of that year, entered Yale College at the age of sixteen.
loving counsel, well within their comprehension, then, smiling, quietly fell on sleep.

The memory of that scene and of her words never faded from heart or brain of "little Joe," and in the days of stress and storm (happily not many) he ever counted them a precious sheet-anchor in life.

On the death of his mother, he entered the "Episcopal High School" (near Alexandria, Virginia), then under the

He remained at Yale but a single year, for having applied for a warrant as Midshipman in the Navy, of the United States, his application was promptly granted, chiefly through the active interest of his father's old friend and neighbor, Col. Edward Tatnall, of Georgia, brother of Commodore Josiah Tatnall, of "Pelho" fame, afterward a distinguished officer of the Confederate Navy.

He remained in the navy little over seven years, seeing much active sea-service, but in January, 1830, he married John Randolph's "darling niece" (as Randolph calls her in his letters), "Betty Coalter," at her father's home, the historic "Chatham," opposite Fredericksburg, and almost immediately thereafter resigned his commission, the young couple taking up their residence at "Eagle Point." There were ten children born of this union.

Mrs. John Randolph Bryan died at "Eagle Point" in 1856. Her husband survived until 1887. They sleep side by side in the beautiful old family burying-ground almost within a stone's throw of the home of their married life.

There is no need of any note touching "Betty Coalter's" family. The history of her family is, in great measure, the history of the Colony and of the Commonwealth.

I am indebted for the larger portion of data relating to Jonathan Bryan and his descendants to the courtesy of the Rev. C. Braxton Bryan, D. D., of Petersburg, Virginia, a younger brother of the subject of this slight memoir. Dr. Bryan is a keen antiquarian, and by patient industry has collected a great mass of most interesting and valuable papers and records touching his family. As he has "the pen of a ready writer," it is greatly to be hoped that he may be induced to publish in this, or some other historical magazine, or even in more ambitious guise, the results of his researches concerning the Bryans of Georgia and Virginia and their times.—W. G. McC.] headmastership of the Rev. John P. McGuire, and remained there until the beginning of the war (1856-1861).

Though not sixteen when the war began, he was eager to enlist at once, but he was a delicate lad, and, as an ever obedient son, he yielded to his father's earnest wishes in the matter, and remained with him at "Eagle Point," and, later on, at another of his plantations, "Carysbrook," in Fluvanna county (whither they went on the occupation of the former by the enemy), until the autumn of 1862. In October of that year, he entered the Academic Department of the University of Virginia, where he remained until July of '63. He was now keener than ever to be "at the front" (as the phrase was then, instead of the modern "on the firing line"), when, by an untoward accident, he broke his bridle-arm badly, and was again condemned to inaction, while his brothers were winning "glory" in the field. He felt that he must do something; so he took service for a few months in the "Nitre and Mining Bureau," donned his grey uniform and was assigned to duty in Pulaski county, Southwest Virginia.

In May 1864, he got leave of absence, immediately volunteered with the "Second Company, Richmond Howitzers," and took part in the sanguinary engagement of May 18th at Spotsylvania C. H. On the expiration of his leave, he had, of course, to report for duty to his chief in Pulaski, but his arm was now sound again, and after a few months' time he joyfully took service as a simple trooper in Captain Mountjoy's Company of Mosby's command.

He had not been in the command a month, when he was shot twice and sent back to "Carysbrook." But his wounds soon healed, and back he went to Mosby, and from that time to the very end was to be found riding hard by the bridle-rein of that brilliant partisan officer in all his daring raids and desperate hand-to-hand encounters.
No more devoted soldier of "the Lost Cause" ever wore his country's gray. He believed in the righteousness of that Cause with all the passion of his mighty heart, steadfastly counting it worthy all the splendid sacrifices made for it by his people, for in it, and through it, as he clearly discerned, had been developed to heroic pitch by fire of battle the noblest virtues that God has allowed to mortal man.

Unless forbidden by the imperious demands of great interests (in which were involved, apart from his own, the interests of others), he never in all the years missed a "Re-union" of Lee's veterans. To any one of these veterans in want, his purse was always open, and the writer of these lines happens to know that when, at last, fortune was lavish of her favors, he gave a trusted comrade, with characteristic prodigality, carte blanche to relieve the necessities of every indigent Confederate soldier, or widow of such soldier, in his county, instructing him to "draw at sight" for whatever amount he deemed proper. This comrade expended literally thousands of dollars in this noble benefaction, which, it is safe to affirm, is here made known for the first time to even the intimate friends of Mr. Bryan. He made but one stipulation—that neither they nor anyone else was to know from whom the money came.

It would take pages, indeed, to set down like good deeds which he did by stealth, and of which there is no record save in hearts grateful to the unknown donor.

Yet, strong and unwavering as was his conviction of the absolute righteousness of our contention, with that sanity of vision and breadth of tolerance, which characterized him in things, great and small, he loyally accepted the results of the unequal contest, and, with broad patriotism, urged by pen and tongue a thorough reconciliation between the sections.

It was mainly because of his belief that the various "patriotic societies” throughout the country were no mean agents in fostering this spirit of reconciliation, that he joined “The Society of Colonial Wars” (of which he was made President), “The Society of the Sons of the American Revolution,” and became a member of “The Society of the Cincinnati.” He also took an active interest in the affairs of the “Phi Beta Kappa.”

The disastrous end of the war found his father broken in fortune, as was well nigh every man of former affluence in the State. “Carysbrook” might be held with rigid economy, but “Eagle Point” had to go. To anticipate a little—that was, indeed, a day of (what the Romans would term) “pious happiness,” when “Joe” Bryan, having surmounted earlier difficulties, was enabled to buy back his boyhood’s home, remodelling and refitting its interior with such faultless taste and luxury, as must have compelled a nod of approval (could they know) from departed “grandees,” who “rarely hated ease,” and had been wont to live “in a manner becoming a gentleman of fortune.”

Just before the end came, a band of Mosby’s men had captured a Federal paymaster, plethoric with “greenbacks,” and Joe’s share was a goodly “wad” of the same. But when those bold horsemen disbanded, April 21st (twelve days after the final scene at Appomattox C. H.), the big-hearted young Virginian gave every dollar he had in the world to an impecunious comrade eager to get back to his home in Kentucky.

Thus penniless, yet undismayed by the “res angusta domi,” young Bryan, bent on completing his interrupted education, cast about for the means to secure that cherished object.

Scarce six weeks after Lee’s surrender, his chance came, and, as always, he was swift to seize it.

It was well known to his companions that he was not only a superb rider (as all Virginia boys were in those days), but a fine judge of horse-flesh, not excluding "the humble, but useful, mule."

Captain William Glassell (who had proved himself a daring officer in the Confederate naval operations in Charleston harbor) now approached him with a scheme for purchasing "Government mules," that were being sold for a song by the thousand in Washington, on the disbandment of the vast Union armies.

"Joe" saw instantly the great possibilities of the proposal and jumped at it.

The government no longer wanted the mules, and there was nothing that the Virginia and Carolina farmer needed more. Glassell was to furnish the money (obtained from a brother in California); "Joe," the experience.

The scheme proved a brilliant stroke of business from the start. They went back again and again for "more mules." They grew rich and incautious. Some envious rival whispered the Government officials that the shrewd mule-buyer was "one of Mosby's men," and they were ordered to leave town at once.

That night they slipped away, but the mules (branded "U. S.") went along too.

They had "turned the trick"—the profits were divided—and that autumn young Bryan entered again the Academic Department of the University of Virginia.

Little did the struggling young undergraduate of twenty dream then that in the coming years he was to become a member of the governing body, and a munificent benefactor, of that great foundation of learning.

For two years he pursued his academic studies*, and in October 1867 entered the Law School. At the end of the session, his money was exhausted, and he was unable to return another year for his degree.

But he had compassed more than he had hoped for—the foundation had been laid deep and strong, and, like Shakespeare's "puissant prince," he was "in the very May-morn of his youth, ripe for mighty enterprises."

During the summer (1868), he went before the judges of the Virginia Court of Appeals, passed satisfactorily the "Bar Examination," and at once began the practice of law at Palmyra, in Fluvanna county, within easy riding distance of "Carysbrook," where his father was still living.

Here he remained but two years, moving in 1870 to Richmond, which seemed to offer a more promising field for substantial success in his profession.

Allied by blood to many of the most prominent families of the capital, a young man of fine presence and engaging manners, with the sure passport to his people's heart of honorable wounds, he speedily became one of the most popular men in the community, and his foot was now firmly set on "the first round of the ladder."

It has been deemed not impertinent to set down here these personal details of his "years of preparation," because, outside his family and the circle of his intimates, few people know little, if anything, about them.

In 1871, he married Miss Isobel L. Stewart, daughter of John Stewart, of "Brook Hill," and, within a few years, so many large financial interests were confided to his management, that gradually he relinquished the active practice of his Philosophy. The catalogues of those years do not state the "Schools" in which he graduated. In 1907, Mr. Bryan received the degree of LL. D. from Washington and Lee University.

profession and entered upon his memorable career as a man of affairs.

The story of his phenomenal success in that career, which death cut short in the fulness of beneficent fruition—his intuitive sagacity—quick decisive action, when once his mind was made up—his indomitable pluck and imperturbable "nerve," when financial storm burst over the country—his prodigious industry and intelligent alertness—his inflexible integrity—his absolute observance of "the golden rule"—his large-hearted generosity—his happy secret of winning the confidence and affection of his men, who were proud to take his wage, and of imbuing them to a unique degree with his own enthusiasm for the prosperous issue of the work in hand—his munificent unselfishness in furthering every scheme for the moral and material advancement not only of his city and his county, but of the whole Commonwealth—all this has been told by his civic and industrial colleagues, who, following his initiative, worked in unison with him, and who, beyond all others, are able to speak with authority.

It is, in truth, no exaggeration to say that, in his immediate industrial domain, he happily solved the vexed problem of "capital and labor." Though an aristocrat by instinct and heredity, the humblest artisan never felt him condescend, for, with high and low alike, he was always his natural self, and amid all sorts and conditions of men "bore himself at manhood's simple level."

During the last ten years or more of his life, the mental and physical strain on him was enormous, but the spirit of the man was high and invincible to the end.

He not only had on his hands the exclusive management for years of a great manufacturing plant, in which he and those near to him had a tremendous stake and on the successful maintenance of which depended the support of thousands of bread-winners and their families, but, in addition, he shared the direction and control of so many large corporations, industrial and otherwise, from New York to Alabama, that only the names of the more important may be enumerated here.

Yet (and this is the paramount object-lesson of his noble life), he was never too busy to be accessible to the humblest of those who served him, white or black—never so absorbed, no matter what the stress of urgent engagements, as to turn a deaf ear to the cry of distress. The busy brain never held the mastery over the generous heart. The active hand was always the open hand. Above all, he knew how to give, a thing that many of the most philanthropic never learn. It was because his was what Dante finely calls "the intellect of love." Those who came to him for help were given, in addition to the assistance sought, such words of unaffected sympathy, such kindly encouragement, that, not seldom, they carried away something still more precious than the gift itself—the largess of a rekindled self-respect, a dawning hope, that "changes winter into spring."

No doubt, he often gave foolishly, as the world counts it. On that score remonstrance was hopeless. He used to laugh his cheery laugh and say, "Oh, well, I'll acknowledge it's selfish, for, after all, I get so much more pleasure out of it than they possibly can."

Even in cases where there could be no question of pecuniary aid, his ready sympathy, his delicate perceptions, his high ideals of conduct, made him one of the wisest and most helpful of counsellors in nice and difficult situations.

Insensibly there arises before the inner eye that shining Vision that came to Abou Ben Adhem, when, awaking from his "dream of peace," he sees an Angel in the flooding moonlight "writing in a book of gold," and asks:
"'What writest thou?' The Vision raised its head;
And, with a look made of all sweet accord, Answer'd—'The names of those who love the Lord.'
'And is mine one?' said Abou. 'Nay, not so!'
Replied the Angel. Abou spoke more low,
But cheerly still, and said—'I pray thee then,
Write me as One that loves his fellow men!'
The Angel wrote and vanish'd.
The next night
It came again, with a great wakening light,
And show'd their names whom love of God had bless'd:
And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest."

When we consider the long array of organizations—religious, philanthropic, patriotic, social and economic—in which he was no mere "figure-head," but an impelling force, it seems almost incomprehensible how he managed to find time to play the active part he did in so many, and such widely varying, fields of business endeavor.

Apart from his mechanical and industrial activities (such as the Schloss Sheffield Works, the American Locomotive Co., and others of like kind), he was a director in the Southern Railway Company, director in the New York Equitable Life Assurance Association (this, at the express solicitation of Grover Cleveland, when Chairman of the "Committee on Reorganization"), a member of the Board of Visitors of the University of Virginia, a trustee of the "University Endowment Fund," President of the Virginia Historical Society, member of the "Advisory Board" of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, a most active and munificent vestryman in two parishes (one in Henrico, and the other in Gloucester), a member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Virginia, a delegate, year after year, to the Episcopal Council of Virginia, a delegate, from 1886 to the day of his death, to the General Convention of his church in the United States (which convened in Richmond two years ago, owing in chief measure to his instance), a trustee of the "Episcopal High School," a director of the "Jamestown Exposition" (the chief management of which was twice pressed upon him and declined), and last, though by no means least, the controlling power in directing the policies of a great daily paper, of which he was sole owner.

And it must be remembered that this takes no account of his almost numberless municipal and county activities, or of his "social duties," which last were enormous to a man of his genial temperament, and wide acquaintance, to whom open-handed hospitality was an instinct and an inheritance, and who was never happier than when he could gather about him under his own roof-tree kinsmen and comrades and friends.

His fondness for entertaining amounted, indeed, well-nigh to a passion. At "Eagle Point" especially, whither he would steal away at times from the incessant demands of business for a week or ten days, his unbounded hospitality recalled to more than one of his guests of a past generation those palmy ante-bellum days, when Virginia squires, descendants of the men, who "rode with Spotswood 'round the land, and Raleigh 'round the seas," still kept bright in our "Old Dominion" by song and hunt and open board the brave traditions of Yorkshire and of Devon.

Though an ardent "Churchman," and, beyond question, the most influential layman of his communion in the diocese, he was absolutely free from anything savoring of ecclesiastical narrowness or sectarian prejudice. No Baptist nor Presbyterian, nor Methodist, no Jew nor Gentile (be his creed what it might), no Salvation Army "Captain" nor negro evangelist, ever came to him in vain, seeking aid to further the cause of the Master. Not only did he eagerly open his purse to them, but, in some unaccountable fashion, he found the time to listen patiently to their plans, to discuss these plans minutely, and to give them freely of the rich stores of his experience as a man of affairs. When the Union Seminary (Presbyterian) was moved from Hampden-Sidney to Richmond, he was one of the most liberal subscribers to the fund necessary for the undertaking, and his last appearance in public (ten days before his death, when he was so ill that he could scarcely stand) was to urge upon his fellow-citizens the completion of the endowment fund for the "Greater Richmond College" (Baptist), to which he himself had made an almost princely contribution.

Of all the secular organizations which claimed his active interest and service, the chief in his affections was our Historical Society, which was the constant recipient of his lavish benefactions and of which he was for so many years the efficient President. It was largely through his influence that Mrs. Stewart, of "Brook Hill," and her daughters made to the Society the munificent donation of a permanent home (the old residence of General Robert E. Lee), and it is an open secret that, had he lived, he purposed to erect a fire-proof annex to the "Society House" as a secure repository for our manuscript treasures.

Scarceless less keen, however, was his interest in the affairs of our sister Society, the "Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities," to whose members it must prove a grateful, if mournful, reflection that one of the last of his many benefactions was made to them, when he and his wife presented to the Association a superb bronze statue (to be unveiled soon on Jamestown Island) of his pet hero, the virtual founder of Virginia—the man of blood and iron, "John Smith of Willoughbie _juxta_ Alford in the Countie of Lincolne."

Paramount, indeed, of all earthly sensibilities (save love of family), was his devotion to his mother-state. It was no abstract sentiment, but the passionate personal loyalty that a Hielander of the eighteenth century felt for the chief of his clan, and, from boyhood to gracious age, burned with a deep and steady glow. He was saturated with her history and traditions. In the moments of leisure that came to him, he never tired of reading or discussing some book dealing with her genesis and development, and in his noble library at "Laburnum" is to be found a priceless collection of "Virginiana," which, in point of completeness and rareness, stands unrivalled of any collection, public or private, in America.

His intimates will long recall how the color would steal into his cheek and the fire kindle in his luminous eye, as some eloquent speaker would recount the pre-eminent part that Virginia had played in establishing the new nation and in shaping its destines for years after—how breathlessly he hung upon the glowing periods portraying the instant readiness of her people—down through all the centuries, whether under Nathaniel Bacon or under Robert Lee—to attest by their blood their devotion to those principles, which men of their breed had wrested from John at Runnymede.

He loved to hear recounted, and to recount in turn, stories of the beautiful and gracious old civilization, which he had seen swept away by war and the subsequent shabby tide of "Progress." Though unconscious of it, he himself was, in his generation, a consummate flower of that civilization, which, in the old Roman phrase, "was of its own kind," and to which, despite his twentieth-century spirit of enterprise, he always turned with wistful eyes.

Once, when we were travelling together in the far South and our talk was of the proper ambitions in life, he turned to the writer and said with the most perfect simplicity, "of earthly things, my highest ambition is to live and die as becomes a Virginia gentleman."

Doubtless, it seemed to those of a younger generation that, in his passionate loyalty, this man of ardent temperament somewhat idealized the picture that he drew of those brave old days, but he had seen with his own eyes, in his boyhood and young manhood, its high-bred simplicity, its generous courage, its unfailing courtesies to gentle and simple alike, its reverence for women, its simple faith in things religious, and he believed with all the fervor of his soul that it was the highest and finest type of civilization in the western world. He held with Emerson that "the true test of civilization is not the census or the size of the cities, nor the crops—no, but the kind of men the country turns out." Tried by this test, Virginia civilization need fear comparison with none other on earth.

As to slavery, he had seen only the gracious, kindly side of it, as actually administered in Virginia and not as grotesquely caricatured in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Like the great majority of gentle folk in Virginia, his family had long regarded slavery as wrong in principle, if beneficent in practice, and as an economic blunder, the remedy for which lay in gradual emancipation. In his father's and mother's immediate family connection, the opinions of John Randolph of Roanoke (his father's "foster-father," his mother's "dearest uncle"), naturally counted for much—of even greater weight were the views of his mother's grandfather, the learned and accomplished St. George Tucker, a judge of the General Court, who had succeeded George Wythe as professor of law at William and Mary College, and who afterwards became President of the Court of Appeals and a United States Circuit Judge. He remembered that as early as 1796, St. George Tucker had published his "Dissertation on Slavery with a Proposition for its Gradual Abolition in Virginia"—that John Randolph in his will had manumitted all his slaves, stating in that last testament that he "greatly regretted that he had ever been the owner of one”—that Randolph's brother Richard (the language of whose will is even more emphatic as to the evils of the system) had done the same, as had Edmund Randolph at the time of his resignation as Washington's Secretary of State.

But he also remembered, with a sort of righteous indignation, and with a virile scorn, the mawkish maunderies of the self-righteous Pharisees, who, harping on "the blot of slavery," derided Virginia's claim to a high civilization.

He had at his finger's end the whole story of how Colonial Virginia repeatedly during the eighteenth century tried to rid herself of the moral and economic burden, but had always been estopped by the mother-country—how in the Convention of 1787, that framed the Constitution, Virginia's efforts to put a sharp and definitive stop to the slave-trade, had been defeated by the votes of the New England delegates—finally, how the carefully matured plans of the leading men of the Commonwealth put forward in 1831-32 to bring about gradual emancipation, had been wrecked by the insolent and aggressive interference of the fanatics, who afterwards reviled her as a "slave-holding oligarchy."

His own relations with the large number of colored servants employed both at "Laburnum" and at his plantation, "Eagle Point," were quite those of ante-bellum days, when the master was the friend, supporter and defender, and the servant (they were never called "slaves" by gentle-folk in the old days) proudly regarded himself as a member of the family. His affectionate personal interest in them, when ill or in trouble of any sort, was constant—his benefactions in-umerable, extending even to their relatives not in his employ. In turn, they simply worshipped "Mars' Joe," as they always called him ("freedom" or no "freedom"), and, when the end came, eight of these faithful servitors tenderly bore him, shoulder high, to his last resting place, in the quiet country churchyard, on a spot overlooking a typical lowland Virgina landscape—the land he loved best.

His services to his city, to his county, and to the State cannot be detailed here. In time, the actual record of them will most probably be known to few beyond determined students or "the curious."

But they will long endure as a great tradition.

He was never in public life, as the term is commonly understood, nor did he hold any public office of importance.

Yet he was reckoned the first citizen not only of Richmond, but of the whole Commonwealth.

No such private funeral was ever seen in the State, though the simple rites were held in a country church several miles from the city.

But, while not holding public office, he frequently spoke at great public meetings, and his words always carried tremendous weight. He was not so much an orator in the highest sense of the word, as he was a most persuasive and convincing speaker—his frankness won good-will and his transparent honesty carried conviction. His manner was singularly simple, earnest, virile, without a touch of that artificial gravity, that so many "weighty orators" and "ripe divines" see fit to assume in delivering themselves of ponderous platitudes.

He wrote quite as well as he spoke, and when any "burning question" kindled the eager interest of the people, the leading articles, easily recognized as from his pen, in the great journal he controlled, were accepted, even by those opposed to him, as the candid utterances of a man, who had made conscientious investigation, and, who, with an eye single to the honor and well-being of city, State or country, presented to them the truth as apprehended by a clear head and an honest heart.
He would resolutely put aside the most pressing business matters to thus give editorial expression to his convictions, whenever he deemed that the public weal demanded it, for he was no opportunist, but held to Archbishop Whately's admirable precept that "it is not enough to believe what you maintain, but you must maintain what you believe, and maintain it because you believe it."

Here, as in his public speaking, he struck straight from the shoulder, but never "below the belt," for, as has just been said, even his political opponents, while regarding him, as they did every other independent thinker, as a wrong-headed doctrinaire, allowed that he was scrupulously fair.

There was, however, one exception, and the incident is worth recalling, as it made a profound impression at the time. Some subordinate on the staff of his paper, "The Times" (for it was before the days of the consolidated "Times-Dispatch"), wrote an account of what had taken place at a meeting of the "City Democratic Committee." A member of that committee took umbrage at the printed report and immediately demanded a retraction from the editor. Mr. Bryan had not even seen the article, but he at once made careful investigation, satisfied himself that his subordinate had reported the proceedings accurately, and declined to make any correction or apology. The aggrieved politician, thereupon, demanded "the satisfaction usual among gentlemen." Mr. Bryan, with a courage that few can realize to-day, promptly declined the challenge in a letter that is a model of courtesy, firmness and cogent reasoning, the blended spirit of an humble Christian and fearless citizen, sworn to maintain the law, breathing through every line of it.

Duellling, many sober-minded people still think, had its undoubted uses in an earlier stage of society, but, in the evolution of manners, those uses had passed. "D'autres temps, "d'autres moeurs," as Voltaire pithily says. In Virginia, "the code" may be said to have received its mortal wound from the tragic Mordecai-McCarty duel—the refusal of a man of Mr. Bryan's unquestioned courage to accept a challenge, gave it the coup-de-grâce.

To those who possessed the privilege of his intimate personal friendship, it is but sober truth to declare that his loss is irreparable. Other civic leaders as public-spirited as he, will, no doubt, arise again, but to his old companions-in-arms, whose faces have long since been turned towards the westering sun, there can never be another "Joe" Bryan. They loved him so dearly, apart from admiration, because he made them feel that their affection was returned with like intensity and with an invincible fidelity.

In what is called general society, he will be missed longer than falls to lot of most men in this prosaic age. He was possessed of a singularly handsome person (the outward and visible sign of the inward refinement and nobility of his character), a happy knack of saying those charming "nothings," that yet count for so much, an infectious gayety of spirit, a certain boyish ingenuousness and eagerness at times, and with never the faintest touch of supercilious condescension.

It was said of the late Lord Houghton that he never came into a room without making every man and woman in it have a kindlier feeling for each other. That is a beautiful thing to be said of any one, and it was absolutely true in the case of "Joe" Bryan. He seemed to diffuse, as it were, a sort of social sunshine wherever he might be—to create an atmosphere of courtesy, refinement and good-will, as he went along the pleasant ways of the world. He carried the same air with him when he slipped away to enter the sombre abodes of want and misery and lightened their gloom by the radiance of his presence.
JOSEPH BRYAN.

Who of us, indeed, can ever forget the compelling charm of that presence in all social intercourse—his air of distinction—the unconscious urbanity, that in some nameless way suggests aristocratic birth—his “Old World” courtesy to women—his winning smile, that could so subtly express either affection or amusement—the kindly greeting in “the eyes whose sunshine runs before the lips”—his unaffected modesty—his lively play of mind, and those flying shafts of nimble wit that never left a sting.

But, after all, it was with three or four of his intimates grouped around his generous board that he was seen at his best as a charming host. There, under his own roof-tree, one best discerned the manifold and enchanting graces of his private life.

He possessed a keen zest for everything which makes life enjoyable, and had an instinctive talent for eliciting the best that was in his guests. He delighted in “chaff” and in that admirable “nonsense,” which is the small change of thorough good-fellowship. He had a large fund of anecdote himself, and was the most sympathetic of listeners when a good story was told.

As no coarse thought ever found lodgment in his pure soul, so no coarse word ever passed his lips. An “improper story”—not, of course, told at his board, but elsewhere in the world of men—always froze him—though even then he never forgot his innate courtesy. But there was just a hint of austerity in his manner, that caused the lively raconteur never to try the experiment again in his presence.

His face was singularly mobile and almost instantly betrayed any strong emotion that possessed him.

At times, in intimate personal talk (à deux), when the generous heart and busy brain were devising some beneficence, that must prove its own reward, one might mark, for a fleeting moment, a look of exaltation, a sort of spiritual radiance, that made his face beautiful and noble beyond the compass of words.

In the midst of the poignant sorrow of the present, there is surely some adumbration of comfort in the thought—nay, in the assured belief—that the glory of that rapt expression, that ethereal radiance, which transfigured his countenance here only at rare and intermittent moments, is no longer evanescent "in the land beyond the stars," but glows with ever steadier glow, forever and forever, in the light supernal, now that the mortal has put on immortality.

His married life was ideally full and happy, but there are matters too sacred to be more than alluded to in print, especially when one is honored with the confidence of the living. Rash, indeed, would be the hand, that would seek to rend the veil from the sanctities of that beautiful home-life, which was, in truth, the very citadel of his aspirations and affections. It may be said, however, without impertinence, that, though he had reached three score years and more, he kept in absolute touch with the younger generation, and his affectionate camaraderie with his own sons and his playfulness with his grandchildren was lovely thing to see.

Before the beauty of his Christian life, one pauses abashed, and almost fears to speak at all.

The writer can only set down again the few halting lines, that he wrote, through blinding tears, the very night that this guileless spirit passed away and left us desolate.

If to labor is to pray— if to visit the fatherless and the widow and bind up the broken-hearted and keep one's self unspotted from the basenesses of the world, be, in truth, pure religion and undefiled,—then are we sure that, when "the one clear call” came, this gentle and fearless spirit “crossed the bar” with no misgiving, but went with the glad alacrity and unquestioning faith of a little child to “meet his Pilot face to face.”

When his old comrades stood by his coffin, and, shaken with sobs, looked down on that gracious figure, “hushed in the alabaster arms of death” and clad in the simple jacket of gray, in which, more than forty years agone, he had swept through the dust and sweat of battle, storming into the fight in all the joyous valor of his youth—gazing on his delicate patrician features, clear cut as a Sicilian cameo and accentuated into an even finer beauty than that they wore in life—surely there must have flashed through the mind of more than one of them those words that Shakespeare puts into the mouth of Gloucester touching the dead king:

A sweeter and a lovelier gentleman
Framed in the prodigality of nature...
The spacious world cannot again afford.

“Life is an instrument with many stops,” and, good player that he was, he used the best of them with courage, constancy, vigor and discernment. In his young manhood, he knew what it was to be very poor—he came, in later years, to know what it was to be very rich, but the sweetness of his nature and the vigor of his soul disdained to consider the temptations that both offer, and he remained, through storm and sunshine, just the same—his own simple self—pure, fearless, just, generous, and loving.

Those who did not know him, if their eyes ever chance to light on these pages, will say that what has been set down here is all mere eulogy. No doubt, it will sound like eulogy to them. Yet every word of it is simple truth, only marred in the telling, for to those who knew him as he really was, any portrait, drawn by even the most "practiced hand," must prove at best but a blurred semblance of the noble gentleman, whose simple, unselfish, godly life disdains, as it were, all human panegyric.

And now we have lost that bright and vigorous and lovable personality, that represented to not a few of us so much of the joy of life.

As is the inexorable law of being, even the memory of that radiant figure shall first grow dim, and then altogether die out, as the men and women of his generation pass away, unless, indeed, a grateful capital shall seek to perpetuate in enduring bronze the form and figure of one justly counted the greatest citizen of the Commonwealth in his day and generation.

Whether this be done or not, the tradition of his robust and gentle virtues and of his manifold activities for the well-being of his State and his people, must, we repeat, long endure.

To some of us it was given to know him long and well—to sympathize with his enthusiasms and to take pride in his achievements—above all to discern the beauty of his daily life, that still lives on "in hearts he touched with fire."

To the least of these, it has seemed a pious duty to set down, even if in homeliest fashion, what he himself saw and knew of this vivid and beneficent personality, to the end that future generations shall have something more than mere tradition offered them, when they inquire how this noble "Virginia Worthy" lived and died.

For his public service they must seek the public record.

And when the young Virginian of a hundred years to come shall bend over the page thatchronicles the history of his mother-state, and shall scan with kindling eye and flushing cheek the long roll of those, who have made her "glorious by the pen" and "famous by the sword," though he shall see there greater names, which, perchance, may quicker stir the pulse's play, yet shall he see there none worthier of his reverence or of his emulation than the name of Joseph Bryan.

W. Gordon McCabe.

[Note.—This paper was prepared at the special request of the Executive Committee of the Virginia Historical Society].
To Our very good Friends the Governor and Council in Virginia.

After our very hearty Commendations we have thought fit to let you know that his Majesty of his Royal favour and for the better encouragement of the planters there doth let you know that it is not intended that Interests which men had Settled there when you were a Corporation should be impeached, that for the Present they may enjoy their Estates and Trades with the same freedom and privileges as they did before the recalling of their patents, to which purpose also in pursuance of his Majesties most gracious Intention We do hereby Authorize you to dispose of such proportions of Lands to all those planters being freemen as you had power to do before the Year 1625. We have also thought meet to recommend unto you in particular Captain William Button in regard to the Service done by him to the Plantation as we are informed as is best known to your selves, requiring you to allow him so much land on either side of the River Appamatock as may be most convenient for him as hath been heretofore usually granted for himself and so many Servants as he hath or shall now transport and for your further powers it is now had in consideration. And you shall shortly know the King's further pleasure and we bid you heartily Farewell. From Whitehall, 22nd July, 1634.

[Appointment of Commissioners to Consider the Subject of a Contract between the King and the Colonies for All Tobacco Produced.]

Charles by the Grace of God, King of England Scotland

1 Captain William Button, who had commanded a ship in the expedition to releave Rochelle in 1628, came to Virginia in 1633. At the request of the planters he returned to England in February, 1634, and presented their wants to the Council. He was successful, and obtained the order of Council printed in the text. Button died before 1639, and his widow became the wife of Ralph Wyatt, who had been wounded in the expedition against the Isle of Rhé. (Neill's Virginia Carolorum, 93, 94.)

2 These commissioners were to aid in carrying out a favorite scheme of the King—a contract with the tobacco growing Colonies by which he should have the sole pre-emption of that product. In spite of the determination expressed by the King, the contract was never completed, as the Colonies, Virginia especially, strenuously opposed the terms offered. Many of these commissioners were men connected with the collection of the public revenue, or were noted merchants.

and renewed our streight Commands and directions to all our Justices of Assize our Justices of Peace our Mayor Sheriffs and all other Our Officers of our Several Counties in their several places to be aiding and Assisting to those we have and shall Employ for the Rooting out and Depressing all English Tobacco lately planted &c. growing in divers places of our Realm of England & Ireland which said proclamations being Duly Executed will no doubt much advantage the benefit of the said foreign plantations as also a better conformity in the Orderly Payments of our customs and Imports usually paid us for the same. Yet having of late received creditable Information that many of the Planters residing upon the said Colony have and are Still likely to Suffer under the Burden of many Oppressions Occasioned by the Secret and Indirect Trade of particular Merchants and Shop keepers who make a prey of them and their Labours by Supplying their Necessities with commodities at such unreasonable rates that they are usually forced to pay fifty or Sixty pounds weight of Tobacco for a pair of Shoes with such like unconscionable Advantages in several other Merchandizes that the poor planters have had Scarce necessaries for their Bodies but have engaged the most part of their Crop before hand to their said Merchants and Shop keepers insomuch that they only Labour and Live to enrich those that thus work upon their Necessities without any Ability Either to Satisfie Us our Duties or to Apply themselves to more noble and Stable Commodities Whereby they may become of Consequence to our Crown of England Which Unjust and Unconscionable Course of the said Merchants and Shop keepers (as we are likewise informed) have some Years past been so grievous unto the said Planters that they have Contrary to expect-tion been not only forced to petition for Abatement of our Ordinary Customs and Imposts but have in Extream necessity begged their bread from Door to Door without any help and relief from the said Merchants and Shop keepers By which means and out of the woful Experience of their miseries they have been of Late Years Compelled to offer their Tobacco to divers of the Merchants in London tendering unto them a contract for some term of Years which being refused they have since been force to send their Tobacco or the most part for foreign ports without any payment of our ordinary Duties any regulations either in Quality or Quantity of Tobacco or any respect to us or our Dominions from whence they have annual Support of their munition and Provision and this contrary to our Royal command in our Several proclamations and several Orders of our Council in that behalf By all which and other Indirect and disorderly proceedings in the said plantation we apparently see the Danger of their Utter Ruin besides the Loss of those Just profits that do belong unto us and being lately Sollicited by divers of that Body (who do sensibly groan under the Burden) to take all those grievances into our Royal consideration and finding that in their Infancies as yet the chiefest Commodities that must Support and enable them to more Stable Commodities is this of Tobacco for which if they fail of an indifferent and reasonable rate the said Planters must wholly be disabled and impoverished having advised with our Lords and others of our Privy Council we are resolved and our Will and Pleasure is to have hereafter the sole preemption of the said Tobacco Growing upon the said Plantations and that at such Rates and Prices as shall be found fit (having respect to the Support of the said Colonies and being moved to make choice of some fit and able Persons who have Experience of the Value and Quality of the said several sorts of Tobacco as also of the Condition of the present State of the said Plantations and have observed the great necessities and Miseries they have endured by the irregular Planting and ordering thereof and unconscionable Practices put upon them in the State thereof Know ye therefore that we reposing Especial trust and Confidence in the fidelity long Experience and Diligence have nominated constituted and appointed Willed and Required and by these presents do nominate and appoint Will and require you the said Sir William Russell Sir William Uvedale Sir Dudley Diggs Sir John Wolstenholme the Elder Sir Sampson Durel Sir John Wolstenholme the Younger Sir Abraham Daws Sir John Jacob Henry Garaway Anthony Abdy John Latch John St. Almand Isaac Jones Marmaduke Royden Robert Oxwich John Slany Phillip Burlamachy Edward Ditchfield Ruben Burne and George Brumley to be our Commissioners Giving and by these presents Granting unto you and unto any Seven or more of you (whereof you the said Sir John Wolstenholme the Elder Sir John Wolstenholme the Younger Sir Abraham Dawes or Sir John Jacob to be one) full power and Authority to call before you all such person and Persons as have any Interest in the Plantations of Virginia Bermudas the Caribe Islands and any other of our English Colonies and acquainting them with this our Royal Will and Pleasure to require them to declare unto you or any such Seven or more of you their several Interests and to demand and know what Quantities of Tobacco they have upon their Several Plantations what they expect upon their return and when they expect the same and in our Name to Contract and Treat with them either in part or Company for their Several Quantities that their Several Quantities being taken of at reasonable rates and in different days of payment they may bring no interruption in our intended contract with the Planters themselves upon the said Plantation And because many of them upon some private End may seem unwilling to make this Contract Alleging that some of the Planters Inhabiting in the said Colonies are the Chief Owners and Ingrossers of the said Tobacco and that there is little belonging to them but for Satisfaction of Several Parcels of Goods and Wares which they have * * * [illegible] into those Plantations or Colonies for which they have no payment but by Tobacco These are to require you and Authorize you and any Such Seven or more of you to assure on our behalf the said Planters and Owners that we are now sending our Commission into every of the said Plantations and treat and conclude the Contract there and that we hold it fitting first to begin at home that the said Planters may see we have omitted nothing that shall conduce to this Service or that may take away any obstacle thereupon pretences of Debts or otherwise and if any of the said Debts shall appear to be of so great Value You are likewise to enquire of the Condition of them and whereupon they grow that if it shall be found Just and fitting we may give order to Examine the same there also and to regulate such order to the Merchants and Shop keepers here as shall be reasonable for their Gain and not now oppressive and burdensome to the said poor planters and because the Season calls upon a Dispatch of this business and that we may be the better informed of all difficulties that may arise in the Same our Will and Pleasure is that you forthwith give us an account of your proceedings and Conclusions herein and if any oppressions be made as in all business of this Nature the begining is full of Doubts and Interruptions Our Will and pleasure is that you certifie unto us the Names of such that are refractory to this our Command And if they shall demand greater rates than you on our Behalf shall think fit to be given or shall make any other pretence why they should not Submit themselves unto this our Royal Pleasure wherein our aim is not for our own private Profit as for the Support of our said Colonies and preservation of our Subjects who live and reside there Our Will and Command is also that you or any Such Seven or more of You Certifie together with such their refusal the reasons they Offer for the same to the End that we may perceive what can be objected against this our Royal intention And because Our Desire is to have all Expedition in this Contract and to proceed abroad upon the said Plantations with the said Expedition we Go at Home Our Will is and we do require you to give such Attendance upon this our Service that we may have this our Commission returned unto us before the fourteenth day of July next and herein to consider of all such Occurences that as well here as upon the said Plantations may fall out for the Advancement of this our Service together with the prices you shall think requisite to be Given the Day of Payment you shall agree for with the Quantities and Qualities of Each Plantation to be Yearly allowed and for what Term of Years the Contract of Years shall continue and by what means it may be best Effected and the said Tobacco orderly brought into our said Port of London from whence all Domes-tick and foreign part are to be supplied with such other Incident Considerations as that our Service shall require that Accordingly we may immediately Dispatch our said Commission to the said Plantations and make a Settlement of this business for the more speedy relief of our said poor Subjects and the full performance of this our pleasure and Command.

A Charge * * * against Captain Abraham Read [words illegible].

Since his last Arrival in Virginia hath behaved himself Contemptuously to the disturbance of the peace of the Governor and Government of this Colony settled by Authority of Parliament.

That the said Read said that he could and would by his own Commission command Lieut. Coll. Cornelius Loyd and not only him but his General meaning the Governor who is Stiled Captain General of Virginia.

That the said Abraham Read taxed the Governor that he had

This affair of Reed's seems to have been some personal quarrel. It is not clear whether he thought the Navigation Act had not been enforced with sufficient thoroughness or the reverse.
done so much [words illegible] the Spanish Flemmings meaning the two Ships lately arrived from Dunkirk and Ostend and that he would be called home into England and there they would deal well enough with him.

That the said Abraham Read contumaciously vaunted that if he had been below he would have shot too against the Ship wherein the Governor was as the other three Ships did and would have sunk her for wearing the Spanish Colours in the main top notwithstanding the Governor’s being there or else she should have sunk him.

That the said Read falsely and injuriously taxed the Government with supplying the Utter Enemies of the Commonwealth of England and that he could make it appear with many other Agitations to that purpose.

That the said Read said that if he had been below he would have disobeyed the Governor’s Warrant as he heard Captain Pott had done.

That the said Read hath injuriously uttered in Discourse that no foreigners ought to have trade in Virginia Which [illegible] is Contrary to Act of Parliament for the Increase of Navigation and the Articles granted upon the Surrender of this Colony to the Obedience of the Parliament.

That the said Read being told that the Captain & Merchant of the Dunkirk Ship had carried their Commissions and Cocquetts to the Governor Said what have they to do to carry them to the Governor they should have brought them unto us Captain Gunnell being then in Company and saying the Same.

That Charge and everything therein contained according to the several Articles is acknowledged by me Abraham Read to be true and Just. I confessing myself guilty of them Do humbly refer myself to the merciful censure of this Assembly.

ABRAHAM READ.

This Acknowledgment made in Open Assembly this 7th July, 1653.

He Yet humbly reimplores your Clear Considerations of the great Meekness of Humanity how that Passion is or Man be Stirred up which your petitioner is now sorry for and that your honours and Worships would also be pleased to look upon more Clemency the Rigour in regard to the Petitioner and his Wife and Children are now fitter Objects of Pity than Punishment and be pleased to remit the fine imposed on the Petitioner.

And he shall pray &c.

To the Right Honourable Richard Bennett Esq'r Governor and Captain General with the Honourable Council of State.

The Humble petition of Edward Gunnel Presenteth—

That Whereas your Honours have been informed that Something hath been said and Acted by your humble Petitioner that hath been taken as high Disobedience to the just power of this Government and whereas your Honours have been graciously pleased to afford your petitioner both Means and time to answer the said Delinquents he now presenteth his humble Adresses to your Honor's feet, publickly declaring that whatsoever hath been said or Done in Offence to your Honours

At a Grand Assembly holden at James City the first day of December, 1656.

This Day Mr. Peter Ashton Mr. John Wilcox Mr. Thomas Ramsey, Mr. Job Barclay were admitted Burgesses, Whereas by a former Act of Assembly privilege was Granted to any Parish to send one or two Burgesses and Several Disputations arising thereupon how the Charges of the said particular Burgesses should be Defrayed It is Ordered that every County shall pay the said Burgesses usually sent from the Respective Counties as formerly and if any Parish shall return a Burgess for their particular Occasion then the Charge of the said Burgess to be Levied in and by the Parish that Elected him.

[The Number of Burgesses for Each County, November 20, 1654.]

[The names are printed in Hening, I, 386–387.]

The Publick Levy for this Assembly [November, 1654] laid as followeth:

Westmoreland Dr. 170 Tithables at 20 $ poll is 4,420.
Whereas John Fipps by his petition shewed that there was due to him from the Country by former Order One Thousand one hundred pounds of Tobacco but Ommitted in Casting up the Last Levy, It is therefore Ordered that payment be made him of the said sum the next Assembly.

Whereas Thomas Loving High Sheriff of James City County by petition Requested the Opinion of the house whether Coll. Higgison having been so long absent out of the Country should Enjoy the Privilege of Councellor by exempting certain persons out of the Levies, It is Resolved that in Respect of his Long Abscense he being in no Publick Employment shall not have any Persons belonging to him Exempted.

Whereas there was an Order 1650 Granted for three thousand six hundred and Ninety Pounds of Tobacco to be paid out of the Levy of the County of Lancaster to be paid unto Coll. Samuel Mathews which yet remains unsatisfied, It is Ordered that the Collectors of the said County make present thereof and in case of their failing their Security to pay it.

Upon the petitions and Articles of Mr. James Crewes' Exhibited against Capt. Philip We having heard and seen all the 6 Col. Humphrey Higginson, of James City county, who had been appointed to the Council in 1641. He died in England in 1665.

7 James Crews, of Henrico county, afterwards took the side of Bacon in the Rebellion and was executed. Perhaps this judgment had something to do with his opposition to the Governor. At this time the Assembly was a Court of Appeal and continued to have such jurisdiction until 1683, when it was abolished by order of the King. (Hening, III, 550.)
proves and Arguments that the said Crewes could produce for the Confirmation of them as also the defence and Reply of Capt. Peibles to the same Do unanimously Conceive that the said petition and Charge of Crews is Malicious and Scandalous for neither the taking away of the Neat nor tearing the Book mentioned in the first Article was any ways prejudicial to the said Crewes nor more than Peibles might Lawfully do and for the Stuff mentioned in the second Article it was no cheat (as Charged) but might be disposed of by Capt. Peibles as he pleased and that Crews had Received Satisfaction for the same by Account and for the Stabs and Blows mentioned in the third and fourth Articles they were Occasioned by Crews unworthy and uncivil provocation for which Notwithstanding Peibles hath Given Satisfaction according to order of the County Court. And to the fifth Article no just proof appears on Crews's part whereas we humbly conceive that the said Crews ought to be made Example for such foul Base and unworthy Defamations against Capt. Peibles—by paying Costs of Suit and a fine to Capt. Peibles for two Thousand Pounds of Tobacco and that this be a final Determination of the Differences between them this Report being by the Unanimous Vote of both Houses. Ordered to be confirmed.

Upon a full hearing a Serious and mature consideration of Mr. Harlowe's Petition having weighed his Objections to the bond which by several proofs appears to us to be Authentick, We conceive that Mrs. Whitby's Quietus est hath been Legally and Justly obtained and that there are no Assets discovered by Us in her Hands to give any other Satisfaction to the said Harlow than what are mentioned in an Order of the Governor and Council of the Ninth of October, 1655, which according to the provisoe therein Expressed (viz) (not infringing the Right and precedency of any former Judgment) we Conceive may be performed towards Satisfactions of the said Harlow it appearing to us that the Order was grounded upon and according to Mr. Harlow's own proposition which said Order Mrs. Whitbey never refusing to perform we conceive Mr. Harlow had no Cause to put her to this great Charge and Molestation and therefore have Ordered that the said Mr. Harlow pay three thousand pounds of Tobacco for costs and damages upon thrice Voting of which Report in the House on Saturday and Confirming it by another upon Monday at the petition of Mr. Harlow for taking off his damages It is Ordered by this Grand Assembly that the Estate mentioned in the Deed be confirmed to the said Mrs. Whitbey their proper Estate and Remain free and discharged from the Claim of any person or persons that may pretend any title or Interest therein as Creditor to her Late Husband Mr. Whitby.

Upon the Petition of Major John Bond Sheriff of the Isle of Wight County and the petition of Mr. Theophilus Hone Sheriff of Elizabeth County Complaining that their Counties have been over Rated in the List of Tithables (viz) the Isle of Wight by 38 persons amounting to twelve hundred Ninety and two pounds of Tobacco and Elizabeth City 32 persons amounting to one Thousand Eighty and Eight pounds of Tobacco, It is Ordered that the said Sums be taken off the said Counties respectively and Laid upon Lancaster County where they are Increased since the last Year's List 152 persons.

Upon The Petition of Mr. John Page it is Ordered that he be allowed five hundred pounds of Tobacco more for a Horse lost in the last Expedition having formerly had two Thousand pounds of Tobacco allowed him by the Governor and Council which we conceive too little.

Upon the petition of Mrs. Margaret Skinnar It is Ordered that the Schedule annexed to her petition for the making Good of her Articles to her Children out of Mr. Skinnar's Estate done by Order of the Isle of Wight Courts as very Reasonable and Just be so confirmed by this Assembly.

Upon the Motion of Coll. Flood against Mr. Will. Batt for tending of Seconds and being found guilty of the Breach of the said Act, It is Ordered that the Seconds be destroyed and the said Batt to pay two thousand pounds of Tobacco according to the said Act.

It is Ordered that Thomas Woodward Clerk to the Committee of private Causes this Assembly being allowed out of the next Year's Levies fifteen hundred pounds of Tobacco.
Upon the petition of Richard Nicholas, it is ordered that the county pay unto the said Nicholas sixteen hundred pounds of tobacco to be placed in Charles City County towards the charge and costs he hath been in recovering and finding a horse which was carried away of the said Nicholas which horse was upon the service in the second expedition.

Upon the petition of Robert Ellison whereas in the former sessions of this Assembly the difference between him and Lieut. Coll. Swan appeareth to have been debated at the committee for private causes and a report thereof made to the Assembly but not determined by reason of Mr. Ellison's sudden departure out of town this Assembly finding that former report just and reasonable have ordered the same to be ratified and confirmed.

In the business between Nicholas Seabril and Capt. Giles Brent by consent of both parties it was agreed that an inquest of the old neighbours (viz't) Mr. Nicholas Brook Ralph Simkin and Mr. Richard Daines should to the best of their knowledge lay forth the said land and after it is laid out that the sheriff possess the said Seabril therewith and this to be a final determination of the business the said Brent paying Seabril fifteen hundred pounds of tobacco for costs and damages (viz't) five hundred pounds of tobacco this year and one thousand pounds of tobacco the next year which is ordered and confirmed accordingly.

Upon the petition of Thomas Dipual it is ordered that he be allowed five hundred pounds of tobacco for damages done to his boat in carrying soldiers provisions up to the fort.

Mr. Anthony Langston's petition is reversed to further proof.

Upon the petition of Ralph Langley concerning damage sustained by a boat of his press for the service of the country it is ordered that he be allowed five hundred pounds of tobacco.

Upon the petition of Master Anthony Wyat for satisfaction concerning a boat bulged in the country service, it is ordered that he be allowed five hundred pounds of tobacco.

Anthony Langston, who had been an ensign in Prince Maurice's regiment during the Civil War in England, returned to that country in 1662 after fourteen years' residence in Virginia. He killed a man in a brawl and was found guilty of manslaughter, but was pardoned and became a captain in the navy. (Neill's Virginia Carolorum, 287.)
Upon the Petition of Mr. Bannister it is Ordered that he be allowed four hundred pounds of Tobacco for the use of his Boat and two hundred Seventy and Seven pounds of Tobacco for provisions that he furnished Coll. Hill withall for the use of the Soldiers.

Upon the Petition of Coll. Edward Hill It is Ordered that he be Satisfied Six Thousand pound of Tobacco for Ammunition and other provisions procured by him for the use of the Army.\(^{10}\)

Upon the Petition of Walter Cooper It is Ordered that fifteen hundred pounds of Tobacco be allowed him for his Attendance and Service done to the last Assembly and this.

Upon the Petition of Thomas Hunt It is Ordered That three hundred and twenty pounds of Tobacco be allowed to the four Men for their Service done to the Publick mentioned in his Petition.

Upon the Petition of Henry Walker It is Ordered that he have four hundred pounds of Tobacco for his pains of finding a Horse of Wm. Jupons and four Hundred pounds of Tobacco more when he shall bring in the Other Stray Horse supposed to be Rich'd Egleston's.

It is Ordered that Sir William Berkeley be allowed four Thousand five hundred pounds of Tobacco and Cask with the Tobacco upon the Sale of his House It being according to the Agreement tho' Omitted by the Clerk and that it be placed upon James City County.

Upon the Petition of Thos. Loving Sheriff of James City County We think fit that he should be allowed two thousand three hundred pounds of Tobacco.

FRANCIS MORYSON, Speaker.

Charles R.

Sir William Berkeley’s Commission.

Breda. 3rd June 1650.

Charles, by the Grace of God, King of England, Scotland, France & Ireland, Defender of the Faith &c.

To our Trusty and Welbeloved Servant, Sir Will’m Berkeley

2According to Gardiner (Commonwealth and Republic) Charles II embarked at Breda for his voyage to Scotland on June 2, 1650. The new commission to Berkeley was therefore post dated or else was signed on shipboard. It is not certainly known by whose hands this commission reached Virginia. Col. Henry Norwood, the refugee Cavalier; states that in May, 1650, Governor Berkeley sent him to the King to solicit (for Norwood) the place of treasurer of Virginia, which Berkeley deemed vacant through the “delinquency” (i.e., friendship to Parliament) of William Claiborne, who had held the office for many years. Norwood states that when he arrived the King had gone to Scotland. Gibbon,

Whereas, Wee have taken into our Royal Consideration the State and Condi'con of Our Colony in Virginia, And of those of an English herald, who spent a greater part of 1659 with Col. Richard Lee in Virginia, says in his Introductio ad Latinam Blaseonum (p 156), "the Honorable Colonel Richard Lee, some time Secretary of State there, and who after the King's martyrdom hired a Dutch vessel, freighted her himself, went to Brussels, surrendered up Sir William Barcklalie's old commission (for the Government of that Province) and received a new one from his present Majesty." Though there is no other record of this, Gibbon would hardly have made such a statement unless it were true, for his book was published at a time when many persons were living who knew the facts in the case. So it may be believed that this commission was brought to Virginia by Richard Lee.

Cromwell's victories at Dunbar, September 3, 1650 and at Worcester, September 3, 1651, put an end to all hopes of the Royalists not only in England but in the Colonies.

It will be convenient to group here the references to the various commissions and instructions to Virginia Governors of which full copies have been printed in this Magazine.

Instructions to Yeardley, Nov. 18, 1618, Vol. II, 154-165.
Commission of Yeardley as Governor pro tem., Sept. 18, 1625, Vol. XVI, 121-123.
Instructions to Yeardley, April 19, 1626, Vol. II, 393-396.
Instructions to Nicholson, 1690 [?], Vol. IV, 49-54.

It will be noted that the names of the councillors in the text (the Commission of 1650) are not uniform in the three instances in which the names are given. This is probably due to an error in transcription.

(Interregnum Entry Book, Vol. 146, p. 229.)

*This non-intercourse act was the first step taken by Parliament for the reduction of the loyal colonies. It is evident that when information of this act reached Virginia, Governor Berkeley called an Assembly which met in March, 1650-51. No account of the proceedings of this Assembly has been preserved, and only the names of a few Burgesses are known; but the Governor's address and the reply of the Assembly to the non-intercourse act were published in a pamphlet of which there is a copy in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, and which have been reprinted in this Magazine, I, 75-81.

The resolutions of the Assembly, as copied in this pamphlet, give incorrectly the date of the act as October 3, 1651, instead of 1650. It should be remembered that under the old style October, 1650, came before March, 1650-51.
Draft with corrections in the handwriting of Bradshaw and another. Indorsed "Reported 19 Sept. 1650."

N. B. This Act was read a first and second time on 27th Sept. and passed with amendments on 3rd Oct., 1650. See Commons Journal.

Note—Sir Henry Chicheley.

The family of Chicheley from the beginning of the 15th century was of great wealth and note in the city of London, and one of its members, Henry Chicheley, became Archbishop of Canterbury and founder of All Soul's College, Oxford. From a brother of Archbishop Chicheley descended the family of the name at Wimpole, or Wimpole, Cambridgeshire. Sir Henry Chicheley, son of Sir Thomas Chicheley of Wimpole, was born in 1615, matriculated at University College, Oxford, April 27, 1632, and was B. A. February 5, 1634-5. He served as an officer in the royal army during the Civil War in England. The account in the State Trials states that when Col. Eusebius Andrews was arrested in London for a royalist plot (for which he was executed) Sir Henry Chicheley, "found casually in the same tavern with him," was sent for a short time to the Tower. Norwood, in his Voyage to Virginia, says that in Feb., 1649-50, he found Sir Henry Chicheley and other recently arrived Cavalier officers feasting at Captain Wormeley's, on York river; but his account was written some years later and is inaccurate in this respect. He, no doubt, met Sir Henry in Virginia during the summer of 1650. Chicheley soon settled in that part of Lancaster county which is now Middlesex, and resided there for thirty years, becoming thoroughly a Virginian in his habits and tastes, and by his amiability and geniality winning the regard of the people. About 1652 he became more closely associated with the colony by marrying the widow of his old host, Captain Ralph Wormeley. She was Agatha, daughter of Richard Eltonhead, of Eltonhead, Lancashire. (See Hayden’s Virginia Genealogies, 228, 229.) There is recorded in Lancaster a deed of settlement, dated May 30, 1652, from Sir Henry Chicheley and Agatha, his wife, widow of Ralph Wormeley, to her sons, William and Ralph Wormeley. The trustees named were Captain Wm. Brocas, Mr. Wm. Eltonhead and Mr. Rowland Burnham. The first and last of these had married sisters of Lady Chicheley, and the second was her brother. In 1654 Sir Henry was assessed in Lancaster with 24 tithables.

On December 1st, 1656, he took his seat in the House of Burgesses, having been elected from Lancaster to fill a vacancy; but he was not re-elected.

In 1660 he was for a time in England and doubtless regarded himself as being most fortunately a witness of the King’s restoration. Pepys, in his diary under date May 7, says that Sir Henry Chicheley, Sir Philip Honeywood and others, visitors, came aboard Montague’s flag ship, which was about to sail with the fleet for Holland to bring over Charles II.

On November 20, 1673, he was commissioned lieutenant-general of all forces raised in Virginia under Governor Berkeley, and on February 28, 1673-4, the King appointed him Deputy Governor of the colony. In the beginning of 1676, when the Indians were ravaging the frontier, Governor Berkeley directed a force to be raised and under Chicheley’s command to attack the invaders; but when the command had assembled Berkeley countermanded the expedition.

In spite of the willingness he had shown to defend the country, Sir Henry was proscribed by Bacon’s convention at the Middle Plantation as one of the Governor’s “Wicked and pernicious Counsellors.” The report of the English commissioners on persons who had suffered in the Rebellion includes “Sir Henry Chicheley Barbarously Imprisoned and treated by Bacon and his party for many months together and much damaged in his estate. This worthy Person was employed by the Governor on the Indian Expidicon to disarm and subject them; But being upon the very point of Execucion, was on a Suddaine countermarched by the Governor and noe effectual care thereon taken: In which service had he proceeded, hee had (in all likelyhood) ended the warr as soon as began. Wee humbly present his Services and Sufferings to his Majesties Royal consideracon.”

He was appointed to the Council on Nov. 16, 1676, and on Dec. 30, 1678, on the death of Governor Jeffreys, Chicheley produced his commission as Deputy Governor, and remained the Colonial Executive until Lord Culpeper came on May 10, 1680. During Culpeper’s frequent absences Sir Henry acted as Deputy or Lieutenant Governor. In August, 1680, Culpeper left Virginia and Chicheley again became acting Gov-
There was unusual distress on account of the low price of tobacco. It was hoped that the trouble might be remedied by a cessation of tobacco planting. In compliance with the petitions from several counties, and, it was thought, largely influenced by his neighbor, Robert Beverley, Clerk of the House of Burgesses, Chicheley, without consulting the Council, called an Assembly. This met in April, 1682, but adjourned without finding any remedy for the prevailing hard times. Many planters in Gloucester, New Kent and Middlesex thereupon proceeded (in May, 1682) riotously to cut up their own plants and those of others.

Governor Chicheley ordered out the militia and suppressed the riots. A few persons were punished, but the good-natured Governor soon issued a general pardon. Culpeper returned in November and, like the English Government when the news was received there, was angry that Chicheley's clemency had prevented farther punishment of the plant cutters.

Sir Henry had become at this time very feeble, and died in the succeeding spring. He apparently made no will, as in Middlesex county, on March 5, 1682-3, Dame Agatha Chicheley qualified as his administratrix. He left no issue. He appears for a time to have returned to England, as there is on record in Rappahannock county a power of attorney, dated 1662, from "Sir Henry Chicheley of Wimple in the County of Cambridge." In a letter to Sir Thomas Chicheley, dated June 12, 1682, he signs "Your most affectionate brother and Humble Servant—Hen. Chicheley."

Though Sir Henry left no children, he had through his marriage a very large and influential family connection in Virginia. Ralph Wormeley, his wife's former husband, had been member of the Council, and uncle to Richard Kemp, Secretary of State and acting Governor. Ralph Wormeley, of Rosegill, the step-son, was also a member of the Council before Sir Henry's death. Wm. Eltonhead, Lady Chicheley's brother, was member of the Maryland Council and was killed in the conflict between the Stone and Fendall factions in 1655.

Of her sisters, Eleanor married first Captain Wm. Brocas, of the Council, and, secondly, Col. John Carter, also a Councillor. Alice married first Rowland Burnham and, secondly, Henry Corbin, of the Council, and Martha married Edwin Conway, of Lancaster county.

PETITION OF GODFREY POLE FOR LICENSE TO PRACTICE LAW, 1715.

To the Honorable Alexander Spotswood his Majesties Lieut. Governor of his Colony and Dominion of Virginia, And to the Honorable the Council of the Colony & Dominion aforesaid—

The Humble Petition of Godfrey Pole.

Sheweth

That your Petitioner duly served as Clerk to our Attorney

1 Godfrey Pole was clerk of the Committee on Propositions and Grievances of the House of Burgesses from 1718 to 1727, inclusive, and was clerk of Northampton county from June, 1722, to his death, which occurred a short time before January 13, 1729–30. His private papers, which had been left in the Northampton clerk’s office, included many interesting legislative documents, and also indicated that for several years before and after 1720 he was a lawyer in extensive practice in the General and County Courts.

In 1836 Mr. N. J. Winder, clerk of Northampton, presented many of the Pole papers to the Virginia Historical Society. A number of them have been published. His library, of which a catalogue is among the papers given to this Society, had the honor to include, as far as the records examined show, the first copies of Chaucer and of Milton’s Paradise Lost which were in Virginia. The catalogue is as follows:

²The battle of Sheriffmuir, fought on November 13, 1715, followed not long afterwards by the complete collapse of the Jacobite revolt. The Pretender, who had landed in Scotland on December 22d, gave up the cause as lost for the time, and departed for France on February 4th. Probably news of this had reached Virginia.
Majesty on this Occasion for w'ch purpose he had prepared an address which he laid before the Council and the same being read was approved of and ordered to be fairly Transcribed for the Governor & Council's Signing.

Mr. Attorney Gen'll Mr. Holloway & Mr. Beverley to whom it was referred to prepare a Scheme for the Better qualifying persons practising as Attorneys having reported their Opinion therein the same is referred to the next meeting of a full Council.

\(^3\) The will of Robert Slaughter was dated February 3, 1725, and proved in Essex county August 16, 1726. His legatees were his wife Frances, son Francis (to whom he gave 1,000 acres in the fork of Rappahannock), son Robert and son Thomas (to whom he gave land in the mountains. &c.) Robert Slaughter's wife Frances is stated by the late Capt. Mercer Slaughter to have been shown by documentary evidence to have been a daughter of Col. Cadwallader Jones, of Stafford county. The son Francis was married twice. There is a marriage contract, dated July 11, 1711, in Richmond county between him and Ann Hudson, and in Spotsylvania, June 3, 1729, is the marriage bond of Francis Slaughter and Ann Lightfoot. The marriage licence of Robert Slaughter, Jr., was recorded in Spotsylvania June 7, 1723, and on November 1, 1726, Augustine Smith, gent., of Spotsylvania, sold to his daughter Mary, wife of Robert Slaughter, 432 acres in the fork of Rappahannock.

The published accounts of the Slaughter family are all exceedingly deficient in details, dates and references to authority; but the best is in Green's Culpeper County, 84-95.

\(^5\)In 1716, William Byrd, who had been for some years Receiver General of Virginia, sold that office to James Roscow for £500. There had been great antagonism between Byrd and Governor Spotswood, and the former was no doubt glad to be rid of an office which had given him so much trouble. Of course such sales had to be with consent of government. James Roscow was commissioned March 26, 1716, and admitted to the office on January 22, 1717. And to the end you may the better know what Accompts of his Majesties Revenues ought to be kept in distinct books, You are to understand, You are to demand the book or books wherein the Accompts of his Ma'tys Revenue of Quit Rents are kept, the book or books w'ch contain the Accompts of Lands found to escheat to his Majesty and of the Compositions paid for the same; the book or books containing the Accompts of his Ma'tys Revenue of two shill's $3$ hogshead, and of the Port dutys & head money; the book or books containing the Acco't of all Fines & forfeitures accruing due to his Majesty, and of the moneys received for the same; the book or books containing the Accompts of all Rights issued for & money rec'd for ye Sale of his Ma'tys Lands, and the book or books w'ch contain ye Gen'll Acco'ts of the Receipts & paym'ts of ye s'd Revenue Acc't. Col. Dorsey Pentecost to Governor Patrick Henry.

West Augusta, November 5th, 1776.

Excellent Sir:

Your favour of the 23d of Sept. p. Express I received the 8th of Octob'r. I have exerted every nerve of my abilities to Protect the Inhabitants of this Country and have observed the utmost frugality that the nature of my situation would admit and have been so fortunate (with the utmost Industry) to prevent the people from Emigrating, but the extent and scattered situations of this frontier together with the late hostilities committed on our inhabitants has made it necessary to augment my Guards by placing one company at the mouth of Fishing Creek, & another on the heads of Dunkard & Middle Island Creeks being the Indians old crossing place and War path which I hope your Excellency & Council will approve, especially as I am obliged to act on the Defencive and so Extensive a frontier to guard against the cruel Depredations of an Infernal

1 Col. Pentecost was the active and efficient county lieutenant of West Augusta. This county embraced the country as far as Pittsburg, then claimed by Virginia and occupied by Virginia forces. See letters from him and a note in regard to him in this Magazine, XVI, 41, 42, 48, 49, 50, and numerous references in the valuable Revolution on the Upper Ohio, published by the Wisconsin Historical Society. An incomplete copy (or rather abstract) of this letter is given in the work referred to, pp. 212–214.

Fishing Creek is about twenty-five miles below Wheeling, Middle Island Creek about twenty-five miles below Fishing, Dunkard Creek flows into the Monongahela in the present Greene county, Pa., Grave Creek is in Marshall county, West Va., with the town of Moundsville at its mouth. Fort Randolph was at Point Pleasant. Colonel Morgan was Zackwell Morgan, who soon afterwards was appointed county lieutenant of Monongahela county. See Revolution on the Upper Ohio, 230, &c.
Relentless Bandittie of Mingoies. It is with sincere concern and truly anxiety of soul that I am obliged to be a spectator to the Massacres of my neighbours and act on the Defensive only on the 9th of October two women was killed at the mouth of Fish Creek, and a Little Boy, taken prisoner, the Husbands of the women were in canoes moving home from the fort at Grave Creek one of the men upon hearing the women fired on ran ashore & Discharged his gun at one of the Indians and it is thought wounded him as the party that went to Bury the dead the next day found near where he stood three Bags of grain a hopper pr. of Mockensons a Looking Glass and a head Dress and on the Eleventh of the same month seven men on their return from the Caintuck was fired on in their Camp nearly opposite the mouth of hockhocking. One was killed on the spot & scalp'd one shot through with two Bullets of which he Died the next day, two of the men had a arm broke each: one slightly wounded the other two not hurt, when the men awakened the Indians was amongst them with their Tom-mahawks and war Clubs a scuffle insued but the Indians being prepared and having the advantage the men was obliged to run, one was cut with a Tomehock by the side of his Backbone to the hollow of his Body; another cut under the shoulder to the ribs after plundering the Camp they crossed the River one of the well men run back to fort Randolph, the other (Edward Mitchell) a near neighbour of mine sent the person who was slightly wounded up to Grave Creek and hid the wounded in an obscure place & sustained them nine days upon pappaws; the Captain of the Militia stationed at Grove Creek with 33 men of his own Company joined with an Ensign & 12 men of the regulars at Weeling went down & four days ago came up with the wounded who are likely to do well, the Captain informs me he discovered on his return a fresh raft on our side of the river but as there had been a great rain could not Discover which way they went, he also says that all the Houses below Middle Island Creek is Burnt and the corn fields Distroyed & Distroying and Colo. Morgan from high up the Mononngahela was with me this day who informs me that the Scouts on that Quarter have lately Discovered the tracts of several Little parties in and about their settlements, but as the people are all closely Forted above Cheat River he hopes they will not be able to do them much Damage, he also says that about a week ago a Couple of young men went out a hunting; one of them saw some Indian Tracts and Come in the other has not been heard of since, suppos'd to be either killed or taken prisoner; and I hourly expect to hear of more mischief being done. I am told by the Commissioners & others that a Town of Mingoes that lies high upon the Sciota that has committed those several Hostilities. If I had had ammunition and have to have proceeded I certainly would have Destroyed that Town, and exterminated that nest of Rascals before now; there is a considerable Quantity of ammunition sent here by Congress for the use of this & the Westmoland Militia, I hope we shall soon be in a capacity to chastise them I am of opinion the best time to reduce them fellows to a sense of their Insignificancy would be about or a Little before Christmas as a Company of Horsemen with a few days provisions under them could ride in two days and nights from the Ohio to their Town, and it would be Impossible for them to make their escape at that Season. I think this might be effected with ease and a Tolerable degree of safety If it would have no bad effect with our friendly Indians the course is clear none of the Delawares nor Shawanese Towns lying in the way; nothing would be wanting to facilitate the measure but Prudent Economy & I think it would effectually secure peace to this part of the Country, and without something is done I am apprehensive the People will (on the frontier) be obliged to continue Forted during the Winter they live so near us they can come in to our settlements at any time if it should be thought advisable to go against them now. Horses and provisions sufficient to effect the Business can be got ready in a few days. Nothing but the Deepest anxiety for the Distress of my Country could have Induced me to have sent this Express to your Excellency nor have taken the Liberty to lay this Proposition before you which with your Excellency's goodness will be (I hope sufficient) to excuse.

Your Excellency's most obedient and very humble serv't

Memorial of Wilson Miles Cary, 1776.

To the Hon'ble the President and the Convention of Virginia.

The Memorial of Wilson Miles Cary humbly represents. That your Memorist received a Letter from Lord Dunmore the Governor of this Colony dated Ship William off Norfolk 14th Oct'r 1775, requiring him as the Naval officer for the lower District of James River to repair to Norfolk or Portsmouth and promising your said Memorialists Protection, and on your Memorialists offering an objection to a Compliance with the said Injunction on account of Captain Squire's very ungenteal and rancorous Behaviour towards your said Memorialist his Lordships sent another Letter dated ten days after the former, renewing the Registration and promising Protection either to your Memorialist or his Deputy Col. Selden if it should be more agreeable to send him; as by the said Letters may more fully appear.

Your Memorialist begs Leave further to represent that tho' his own opinion was rather against complying with his Lordships commands yet on the advice of such of his Friends as the time limited gave him an opportunity to consult (and among them some of the officers of the army and members of the County Committee) he did send his Deputy aforesaid with the Books of Entry & clearance & necessary office papers; and for that Purpose your Memorialists hired a Boat and two Slaves of Mr. John Jones who suspicious of the Event insisted on an Indemnification from your said Memorialist which he readily agreed to under Faith in the assurance contained in the Fore-said Letters, Notwithstanding which as soon as Col. Selden had arrived at Norfolk the said Boat and Hands were perfidiously seized and detain'd by his Lordships and have never since been returned.

Your Memorialists prays therefore that out of such of the effects of the said Lord Dunmore as are within this Colony, he may be allowed to receive an Indemnity in such manner as this Hon'ble House may judge reasonable.

[Endorsement]

Col. Cary. Ref’d to Prop’ns reasonable & Mem’st has a claim ag’st Estate of Lord Dunmore £240.

THE HUMBLE REMONSTRANCE\(^\text{1}\) OF THE CAPTAINS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY, [1785].

Please your excellency & the honourable Council.

The necessity we are under of troubling your excellency & honourable board at this time gives us much concern: but deliberating on a late nomination of Field officers for this County, effected with design by the County Lieutenant to strengthen his interest; to promote his operations which are pursued with unrestrained measures; to misguide the people & allure them at every Hazard, to attempt an immediate separation from the State of Virginia. We cannot therefore set still silent spectators of so much artifice, injustice and oppression as the nominations is intended to produce. For instance, artful in having a Majority of the Court favourers of his proceedings for a new state. Unjust in prefering some men in the nomination who never held commissions in the County, thereby depriving others in commission equal in abilities of a progressive right claimed by every military order of men at the same time leaving out officers now in possession of their commissions who we think (according to his Excellencies late proclamation continuing all old officers in commission) are obliged to act and finally oppressive to all the inhabitants of Clinch an entire frontier of the Country; being without a Field Officer & with design to de-range the former Battalions & compel those people to cross that rugged mountain leaving their Families exposed to a savage

\(^{1}\)While this paper appears, without date, among those of 1776, its position is certainly an accident. The true date should be 1785 or 1786, at the time that Col. enemy to perform battalion duty on Holstein. These recited grievances which we conceive highly repugnant to the Welfare of this County, we humbly hope may be sufficient to claim the earliest attention & interposition of your honourable Board; to the equity of rank amongst the officers & convenience & safety of the County in General.

And while we trouble you sir & the honourable Council on the present occasion we cannot omit to observe that for three years past partiality in the present County Lieutenant by advancement of Favourites unjustly in the County; hath prevented several valuable officers holding commissions under him; and in fact their services must be lost to the County, till an enquiry can be had & Justice restored in a grievance if not in the power of the Executive heretofore to remedy. We are now prone to hope may be removed: either during suspension of the late militia act or when that may take place under the present divided sense of the people will it not be consistent with the powers of the honourable Executive to direct a board of officers from the neighbouring Counties to adjust all disputes of rank within this County.

We humbly hope sir this representation which is intended to preserve justice & effect as well the convenience of Clinch inhabitants as other parts of the County may meet the timely meditation of your honourable board, and we whose names are hereunto annexed will ever pray.

Charge against Joshua Hopkins for Assisting Dunmore, 1776.

Capt. William Davies deposes that about 6 or 8 weeks before Joshua Hopkins was apprehended the Commanding officer at Kemp's was informed that he was then gone with provisions to Lord Dunmore, but it was too late to detect him in the fact the commanding officer desired his informer to watch for his going again and give immediate information of it. Hopkins in the mean time made two applications to the deponent for leave to go on board under pretense of settling an account with Neil Jamison which was refused. In a short time after information was given that Hopkins had gone down with provisions, to Lord Dunmore upon which a party was sent who lay in wait for him two nights and a day and about two o'clock in the morning did at length detect him coming from the fleet with Simon Whitehurst and a negro. Simon Whitehurst being separately examined in the presence of this deponent did declare that Hopkins had been down to the fleet with his son that he left his son there who was to go into Lord Dunmore's services. The negro it appeared had been threatened by Hopkins (his Master) with death if he made any discovery, and did in the deponents presence being separately examined, confirm what was said by Whitehurst and added that Hopkins took his son to Lord Dunmore and asked him how he liked him upon which Lord Dunmore directed him to enlist with Capt. Saunders.

The deponent further says that the political character of the prisoner is uncommonly bad in his County and that the people in general were very glad that he was apprehended.

The deponent also further declares that the prisoner was taken when the troops first marched to Norfolk as he was then strongly suspected of inimical practices.

And further this deponent saith not. William Davis.

Petition of William Christian, William Preston and Arthur Campbell in regard to their services in Dunmore's War.

To the honourable the President and the gentlemen of the Convention.

The Memorial of William Christian in behalf of himself & Wm. Preston and Arthur Campbell Esquires of the County of Fincastle.

Humbly Sheweth—

That in the month of May 1774 your Memorialists being on the Assembly was advised by Lord Dunmore to return home to the County of Fincastle and use his best endeavours to prevent the flight of the inhabitants from the approach of an Indian War then just about to break out on the Frontiers, to give an assurance to the people that the war should be carried into the enemies country, and to advise Wm. Preston Esq'r Lieut. of County to take proper steps for its defence. That upon returning home your Memorialists found the inhabitants in great consternation which increased daily so that numbers fled from their homes and it was feared great part of the county would be evacuated. That in order to determine what was best to be done, a council of officers was held on the 25th of June when it was resolved amongst other things that your Memorialist who was then a Lieut Colo. should march with a body of men to the Frontier of Clinch which he immediately did & continued in actual service about three weeks when it appeared an expedition against the Indian Towns was resolved on and altho' he was not in the field again until the 12th of August when he was appointed to take command of the Fincastle Troops for the expedition yet during the intermediate time he was chiefly employed in promoting the service so as to neglect his own private affairs.

That William Preston Esquire on your Memorialist delivering the message above mentioned from Lord Dunmore did immediately write to his officers directing them how do conduct themselves on the alarming occasion That from thence forward to the last of October he was chiefly employed in the service of the Country so as not to be able to pay attention to his own affairs Altho' his own plantation was considered as his home he was a considerable part of his time abroad in the County on the business of the public: and when at home where he was induced to keep his family at a dangerous pass for the encouragement of others to make a stand, his house was the resort of multitudes who were troublesome & expensive in consequence of the frequent applications and intelligence from different parts of the County which required answers and instructions. That the said Wm. Preston from the time of the expeditions being set on foot to the 12th of August was expected to go on the same at which time or thereabouts Lord Dunmore's letter to Colo. Lewis appeared setting forth that the said Wm. Preston should not march because he could not spare him from the Frontiers. That afterwards as well as before he continued to exert himself for promoting the expedition as well as taking care of the Frontiers so far that he often made himself liable for sums of money and indeed often had to do the duty of a contractor as well as that of an officer.

That Arthur Campbell Esq'r was the eldest captain on Holston's river & Clinch which constitutes one half of the County and of course had much trouble and spent much of his time in the service of the Frontiers of that part from the breaking out of the War until sometime early in the month of August when he was appointed a Major of the Militia. That from his situation & usefulness as an officer he was ordered to take the immediate charge of that part of the County which from its extent was impracticable for the Lieut. of the County to inspect as minutely as was necessary into the conduct of the officers soldiers & scoutts & to give the requisite orders from time to time. That he did all these matters with great care & ability until some time in November, and your Memorialist conceives that the services of the said Arthur Campbell Esq'r had very beneficial effects as he exerted himself in an uncommon manner for the county's interest. Your Memorialists for these reasons & many more which might be adduced begs leave to submit his case & that of the above Gentlemen to this hon'ble house and that he & they may receive such compensation as in the wisdom of the house is judged adequate to their services & in duty bound shall pray &c.

Jno. Goodrich’s Confession.
Petition⁵ of the Committee of Safety of Princess Anne County, 1776, in regard to the proposed removal of the people of that section.

To the Hon'ble the Committee of Safety for the Colony of Virginia.

Gentlemen

We the chairman and committee of the County of Princess Anne in behalf of ourselves and the Inhabitants of this County beg leave to address your Hon'ble Board and hope for your attention to this our Humble Petition.

The consternation and surprize we were in on hearing of your Determination to remove the Inhabitants of Norfolk and Princess Anne Counties cannot be hardly equalled by anything but by the great dejection of the Inhabitants and the miseries and Distresses which we humbly apprehend will attend and await on such a measure. The Reasons why your Hon'ble Board have entered into such a determination you have been pleased to communicate and say that it is from several Letters from the Secretary of State lately intercepted and other papers and from your being informed repeatedly upon oath from Persons who have escaped from the Fleet of a constant Intercourse being kept up between the Inhabitants on the Norfolk side who furnish the ⁵On May 3, 1776, the General Committee of Safety having considered this petition, and consulted Major-General Charles Lee, appointed a committee composed of Wm. Robinson, Thos. Reynolds Walker, Thos. Old, John Thorogood, James Henly, Erasmus Haynes, and Wm. Wshart. Gentlemen who should make inquiry into the conduct and character of the citizens of Princess Anne, and report to Major-General Lee, or to the commanding officer of Suffolk, who should permit those friendly to the American cause, or neutral, to remain peaceably at home, but to remove their live stock. All enemies of America, together with their families and effects, should be compelled to remove according to the former resolution. Princess Anne and Norfolk counties, from their extensive coast lines, were exceedingly difficult to defend from the attacks of an enemy who controlled Chesapeake Bay. To this difficulty was added the fact that many of the people of the two counties were not friendly to the American cause. As a measure of defence the Virginia authorities had issued the very drastic order that the whole population should be removed.

enemy with provisions and give Intelligence of all your measures. That some in and about Norfolk and Tanners Creek have not manifested such good designs for the American Cause as we could wish and hope for we most sincerely lament and that there has been too free an Intercourse between them and the Ministerial Fleet we must agree with your Hon'ble Board (from the general opinion of us and the Inhabitants of this County) there is too great reason for, but we will venture to affirm that from any of the Inhabitants of this County except in one Instance, and that of a man who was always suspected and reputed as inimical to the common Cause, that there has not been hardly one or any Instance of the Inhabitants furnishing the Fleet at Norfolk with Provision, or keeping up an intercourse of any kind and that as to the inimical Disposition of many of the Inhabitants of this County, we beg leave to assure you that we who have lived and bred up with them and have heard their Sentiments on this unhappy Dispute and have been witness of their conduct think that there are as few in this County as in any part of the Colony and are as willing to join in any measure for the advancement of the American Cause, but such is our unhappy Fate that from the manoeuvres of Lord Dunmore in this County when it was almost in a defenceless state that we have thought in general Inimical, and has been a great means of our being grossly misrepresented. As to our situation we humbly conceive that many Counties in the Colony are from the Geography of them as much exposed as we are, and that an Enemy could effect Landing with much greater Facility and be more in the heart of the Country as we are bounded on the Bay of Chesapeake and the Sea, where with difficulty Boats can Land in the most calm weather. If the Determination of your Hon'ble Board can be relaxed in any degree with Safety to the whole Colony we are certain from the Humanity that breathes through the whole of it and the Letter from the President to the Gent'n appointed to carry it into Execution that you will with the utmost Cheerfulness adopt it.

That this can be done we beg leave to inform you. We are of opinion that to lay off the County in so many Divisions as proper persons appointed may think proper for the most speedy removal of the live stock in the County, that upon the arrival of an Enemy it may be effected within the space of forty eight hours the farthest Part of the County being about five & thirty miles to the Great Bridge, and about seventeen from a place called the North Landing the head of the North River which is about twenty yards wide over which there might be a floating stage laid and the Landing place is but a mile from the main Road that leads to the Great Bridge, lying eight miles to the Southward of it and over the limits you have prescribed from which Landing place there is already a foot way, and might be made in sufficient order within three Days with forty Hands for ten men to go abreast and about two miles from thence and six from Great Bridge at the Head of the Southern Branch there is a pass which might be made sufficient within a week or less for any number of men to pass it being only swampy Ground.

As to our slaves, We have but few and when Lord Dunmore took possession of the County and continued in it several Days, there was but about the number of fifteen or Twenty who joined him; tho' he held out the most promising Terms which we attribute to the smallness of their number, and chiefly managing them ourselves and by that means attending to the good usage of them and we assure your Hon'ble Board that from the General detestation of the slaves in the County to Lord Dunmore's measures, that we apprehend trible the number would fly from him than what would join him; and tho' till lately might have gone to him; whenever they thought proper we had few or no Instances of it. This being the case we humbly hope that the reasons for our Removal if not altogether are in some degree answered.

Having the greatest confidence in your good Intentions to protect all the Inhabitants of this Colony, as far as is consistent with the safety of the whole. Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that the Resolution of the Inhabitants and the live stock of this Country being removed, may be altogether for the reasons we have advanced or in part be rescinded.

And your Petitioners shall pray &c.

WM. ROBINSON, Chairm'n.

Princess Anne Comm'ee their Petition.
Petition of Sundry Inhabitants of Princess Anne and Norfolk Counties, 1776.

To the Honourable the Convention of Virginia now sitting in the City of Williamsburg.

The Petition of sundry Inhabitants of Princess Anne and Norfolk Counties humbly sheweth that your Petitioners have from the Commencement of the present unhappy Disputes between the British Parliament & Colonies, been uniformly active in promoting those Measures which have at different Times been recommended by the Congress & Convention for the Preservation & Defence of our native Rights & Liberties. In consequence of this Conduct many of us have of late been reduced to the cruel Necessity of abandoning our aged Parents our Wives our children & Families and leaving them to the mercy of insidious Neighbours, the lawless plundering Soldier & the more savage Slave: Our Plantations have been ravaged, our wives & Children stripped almost nakedness, our very Bed-Chamber invaded, at the Silent Hour of Midnight, by Ruffians with drawn Daggers & Bayonets; our Houses not only robbed of Plate, Specie & every Thing valuable but wantonly reduced by Fire to Ashes; our Persons treated with every Indignity that elated Insolence & Cruelty could suggest, some of us dragged into confinement where many of our Friends & associates still languish under the Hands of oppression. All this however horrid & shocking to Humanity your Petitioners can make appear to be no aggravation, but a just & candid Representation of their Grievances. We have also to lament that the tardy equivocal conduct of some lukewarm friends encouraged Lord Dunmore to begin those Depredations which with the assistance of our concealed as well as open & armed Enemies he continued to commit so long with Impunity. Your Petitioners would farther represent to your honourable Assembly that notwithstanding their present State of Safety whilst our Troops Keep Possession of this country the probability of their being dislodged presents such a dreadful Prospect of the Renewal of former or Exercise of Superior Cruelties that we can not help being apprehensive of & endeavouring to guard against such calamities in future we would likewise humbly beg Leave to inform your Honours that we apprehend the number of friends to their Country is much inferior to its Enemies, Among the Leaders of the People in these two Counties and that we have every Thing to fear from those who have been busy in spiritting up the People as well as those who have borne Arms against us,

Whenever they shall have it in their Power:—That the Friends to the cause being obliged to abandon their Homes & remove from the scene of Action puts it out of their Power to bear Testimony against a number of Delinquents: That those who continued at Home have for the most Part confined themselves within Doors to avoid the Insults that were hourly offered to every suspected friend to America, by which means the Behaviour of many of our Enemies particularly those who acted behind the curtain of which there are not a few, cannot immediately be brought to Sight, your Petitioners would therefore humbly pray that some Persons may be appointed to make strict search into the conduct of those who are thus suspected, that the Court of Enquiry may be furnished with full and proper Information. Your Petitioners would further pray that those who have been active in spiritting up the People, as well as those who have borne arms against us, be removed as soon as may be to some distant Part of the Colony or otherwise according to your superior wisdom, So disposed of, as to prevent them from doing farther mischief; and though your Petitioners would not wish to alter your lenient & merciful Determination respecting the Slaves who bore arms against us, we by no means think ourselves safe even at present, while they are suffered to go at large we would therefore humbly & earnestly beg that they may be confined until an opportunity offers to transport them to some of the West India Islands or elsewhere and your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall ever pray &c.

Some misunderstandings and mistakes in Consequence have-ing arisen with respect to Major Generals Command, the Commander in Chief directs that till a more perfect arraignment Can be made under the new Establishment or till further Orders on this head, each Maj’r Gen’l is to Command the Division heretofore assigned them previous to the late disposition for a march, but in Case of an allarm or any other Gen’l movement of the Army the three eldest Maj’r Gen’ls present & fit for duty are during the occation to Command the Right & left wings and second line of the Army agreeable to the Gen’l Order of the 23 of May last, the N. Carolina Brigade is to supply the Place of Maxwells in L’d Sterlings Devision till further Orders.—upon firing the Signal Guns for an alarm the Troops are to form immediately in front of their Respective Brigades & are to be marched by the Senior Major Gen’l as above, to their Respective alarm posts.—the 1st & 2d Maryland & Varnoms Brig’e are to draw up in front of their respective in Campments & send to the Comm’d in Chief for Orders. A Major Gen’l is to of the day amongst the field Officers of it, he is to Receive & Report to the Command’r in Chief all the remarkable occurances which happened during the tour of duty & will attend in an especial manner to the Order of the 9 Instant, respecting Prisoners, as their is reason to believe that many of them are improperly detained in the Provost.—All unnecessary waist of timber is to be avoided, the Commanding Officers of Brigades will know that their Q. Masters tend particular to this business, the Commander in Chief having received ample testimony of the General good Character & behaviour of Lt. Jones who was Sentenced to be discharged the Service by a Gen'l C. Martial which Sentence was approved by him on the 6th Instant & being further satisfied by Gen. Woodford Scott & other Officers that the Gentleman is not adicted to the Vice of Gameing. Restores him to his Rank & Command in the Regiment he belonged to & in the Line of the Army.

The Comm’r in Chief utterly disapproves the Sentence as altogether inadequate to the offence the mutinous & dangerous Spirit which actuated Capt. Norwood merited in his opinion the most exemplary punishment he is to be released from his arrest.—At a G. C. Martial June 5, '78, Colo. Chaimbers Presid’t Lt. Colo. Hubly⁷ of the 10 Pens’a Regim’t Tried for malitious behaviour in being the occasion of Colo. VIRGINIA GLEANINGS IN ENGLAND.

Communicated by Mr. Lothrop Withington, 30 Little Russell street, W. C., London (including "Gleanings" by Mr. H. F. Waters, not before printed).

Consistory of Carlisle, will filed 1670.

JOHN NELSON of Penrith, County Cumberland, Batchelor. Will 6 July 1724; proved 25 January 1725-6 [?]. To my sister Mrs. Sarah Nelson a guinea. To my niece Mrs. Dorothy Wilkinson a guinea. To my nephew Mr. William Nelson, late of Barbados, but now of Virginia, one guinea to be paid by my

[In this Magazine, XIII, 402, 403, were printed abstracts of the wills of Hugh Nelson, of Penrith (pro. 1709), father of Thomas Nelson, the emigrant to Virginia, and of Hugh Nelson, of Penrith, brother of the emigrant. In the text are now printed the wills of William Nelson, grandfather of the emigrant, and of John Nelson, another of the emigrant's brothers. Thomas Nelson, who settled at Yorktown, Va., was born in 1677, and, therefore, by the ordinary computation of generations his father, Hugh Nelson, was born about 1647, grandfather, William Nelson, about 1607, and great-grandfather, Hugh Nelson, about 1587. Mr. Withington has compiled from the Consistory Court of Carlisle abstracts of a considerable number of wills and grants of administration, and copies of inventories, beginning with the will of George Nelson, of Penrith, proved 1556. These wills, administrations and inventories are thirty-four in number; but except the two here printed, none of them show any connection with the immediate ancestry of the Virginia Nelsons. None of them mention Hugh Nelson the elder, and there is likewise no mention of him in the numerous extracts from the transcripts of the Penrith parish registers which Mr. Withington has also made. The only entries referring to the immediate line of the emigrant are those of the marriage on April 3d, 1662, of Anthony Meason and Elizabeth Nelson; of the birth, February 20, 1663–4, of Hugh, son of Thomas Nelson; of the marriage of Hugh Nelson and Sarah Nelson, both of Penrith, in February, 1673–4 (the parents of the emigrant), and of the baptism of William, son of Hugh and Sarah Nelson, on October 15, 1674 (an elder brother of the emigrant).

The Nelsons were very numerous in and about Penrith, and, indeed, appear to have been almost a small clan, comprising people of various trades and occupations, though none of them large property owners.]

ADDENDA.

Mr. Withington returned from the United States to England last year too late for his corrections of the "Gleanings," published in January, 1909, to be used. The most essential were as follows:

Robert Parker. The probate act styles him of "Bosham, Sussex." He gives to his "kind daughter Anne Parker £60 sterling." Sir Henry Hyde is "of London," in the probate act. His executors are his beloved brothers, Dr. Thomas and Dr. James Hyde.

One of the few remaining tombstones in the old abandoned Queen's Chapel burying ground, about three miles northeast of Washington, bears the above inscription. This Anna Carroll was the first wife of Daniel Carroll, of Duddington, and the daughter of William Brent, of Richland, and his wife, Eleanor, daughter of Daniel Carroll, of Rock Spring, Montgomery county, Maryland. Eleanor Carroll, above mentioned, was the sister of Archbishop John Carroll.

Dudley Digges, son of George Digges, of Warburton, and his wife, Catherine Brent, who was the daughter of Robert Brent, of Woodstock, Stafford county, Virginia, and his wife, Anne (Carroll) Brent, another daughter of Daniel Carroll, of Maryland.

† The “Diary of a young lady of Virginia,” published some years ago, and which was found among the papers of a descendant of the Richland family; contains a good deal of personal information and throws an interesting light on the manners and customs in Colonial Virginia. This, however, is not the collection of letters referred to above.

THE BROOKE FAMILY.

By Prof. St. George Tucker Brooke, Morgantown, W. Va.

William Brooke, a son of Robert Brooke, Jr., of Farmer's Hall, Essex (the "Horse Shoe Knight"), left by his first marriage with Miss Fontaine, descendant of John de la Fontaine, two orphan children, viz: (2) William and (3) Phœbe. (Essex Co. Will Book, No. 11, page 389.) These children were placed in care of their uncle and guardian, his brother Robert.

William Brooke (2) ran off to sea, became captain of a vessel, and returning, married Mary, daughter of Capt. William Beale, of Chestnut Hill, Richmond county. He settled at "Locust Dale," Rappahannock county, where he had a large landed estate, and left nine children, viz: (4) William, (5) Phœbe, m. McPherson; (6) Robert, d. s.; (7) Fontaine, d. s., (8) Reuben, married Ann Pierce, died 1859; issue: William, Julia, Jeannie, George, all died single; (9) Harriet, m. McPherson; (10) George, m. Winifred Beale; (11) Susan, m. George Beale; (12) Whitfield, m. Sarah Newton; issue: Mary, Caroline, Robert.

James Vass Brooke (18) was born at Falmouth, Va., October 10th, 1824. He studied law in the office of Judge R. L. C. Moncure, the afterwards distinguished Chief-Justice of the Virginia Court of Appeals.

Settling in Warrenton, he was licensed to practice law at the early age of nineteen, and married, in 1845, Mary, daughter of Thaddeus Norris, a leading merchant of Warrenton, of which marriage there were six children.

James V. Brooke took an active part as public speaker in support of the Whig party and policies, even before he became a voter. He was a most ardent supporter of Henry Clay, a lock of whose silver hair, sent him in recognition of his support, he always cherished. He was at one time Commonwealth's Attorney for Fauquier, and was State Secretary of the American party. In 1861 he was elected to succeed Capt. J. Q. Marr (the "first blood of the war") as delegate to the Secession Convention, and his name appears as one of the signers of the Ordinance of Secession.

The necessary arranging of matters in which he was fiduciary and guardian for minors prevented his enlistment upon the opening of hos-utilities; but in March, 1862, he organized, and took to the war, what was known as Brooke's Battery, attached to Poague's Battalion of Artillery, Jackson's Corps.

While stationed that spring at Belle Isle for preparatory drill, Captain Brooke was placed in command of the well known prison camp at that place.

During the Valley Campaign of 1862, while extricating a gun from the mud, his ankle was shattered by the kick of an artillery horse. Nevertheless he rejoined his battery on crutches in time to take an active part in the battle of Fredericksburg. He was acting Colonel of his regiment during the succeeding winter in the absence of Colonel Brown.

By the advice of the surgeons, his wound being dangerous, he withdrew from active service in the spring of 1863, and entered the Virginia House of Delegates, where he served until the fall of Richmond. He took an active part there in the conduct of the war, and was member of the Secret Committee, which advised with the generals in the field.

At the close of the war Mr. Brooke formed a partnership with the Hon. R. Taylor Scott, afterwards Attorney General of Virginia, under the firm name of Brooke & Scott, which partnership lasted for thirty years.

Mr. Brooke practiced for fifty-five years at the Fauquier bar, the longest practice of any lawyer at that bar. He also had an extensive practice in adjoining counties, before the Court of Appeals, and before the Supreme Court of the United States. Before the latter court he represented John Marshall's heirs as senior counsel in the famous Potomac Flats case, pending at the time of his death, and afterwards argued on his brief.

Before a jury he seldom lost a case, and in the Hixon Will case, involving the largest fee, perhaps, ever paid at the Loudoun bar, secured a verdict over the best legal talent the defense could procure in the State.

He canvassed actively for every Democratic nominee for President from 1865 to 1896, when he supported Palmer and Buckner. He served many times in the Virginia Senate and House. In 1877 he was elected to the State Senate as an advocate of an amicable readjustment of the State debt, and offered at that session the first measure, the "Brooke Bill," which passed the Senate but failed in the House. In the ensuing term he was chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and had a leading hand in the extensive revision of the Code of Virginia made at that time.

Mr. Brooke gave freely of his time and talents to the local affairs of Warrenton, serving as Mayor, Recorder and Councilman, and being largely instrumental in the modernization of its pavements, lighting and water supply. His talents, literary, poetical and oratorical, were at the public disposal wherever required. He was open-handed to the poor, and few lawyers have given so much practice without compensation.
He was an active Mason and Knight Templar, was for forty-five years an elder of the Presbyterian church, and many times delegate to its General Assembly. He was for twenty-five years superintendent of the Sunday school, and in the absence of the pastor filled the pulpit for two years acceptably. He was of domestic tastes, yet fond of out of door sports, an ardent angler, fine shot and expert swimmer, and exceedingly fond of little children and domestic pets. He enjoyed a keen sense of humor, which lightened many trials. He passed away at his home in Warrenton October 9th, 1898, at the age of seventy-four, after a brief illness, leaving a name peculiarly honored in the county of his adoption.

Issue of James Vass Brooke (18) and Mary Elizabeth Norris: (25) William Throckmorton, City Engineer, Norfolk, Va., married Mary, daughter of Hon. John Goode.

(26) Richard Norris, artist, of Washington, D. C., unmarried. Former Consul, La Rochelle, France.

(28) James Vass, lawyer, of Cando, North Dakota, married Annabella Bailey, of North Dakota.

(29) Francis Calvert, merchant, of Warrenton, married Lavinia Sims.

(30) Annie Amelia, died young, — 1876.

Issue of Francis Calvert Brooke (29) and Lavinia Brooke: (46) Francis Calvert, lawyer; (47) Newton.

The Late Mrs. Walker Brooke.

"Mrs. Walker Brooke, whose death was chronicled in The Herald, Sunday, was one of the oldest and best beloved of our citizens. Her maiden name was Jane Lewis Eskridge, and she was born at the old family home (Monteagle) near Charlottesville, Virginia, September 30, 1824. She retained vivid recollections of her childhood's home and often spoke interestingly of her visits to Monticello nearby. When she was ten or twelve years of age her father moved to Mississippi and settled at Shongalo (now Vaiden) where in 1840, at the age of sixteen, she was married to Mr. Walker Brooke, a young lawyer of Richmond, Va. The young couple settled in Lexington, Miss., where Mr. Brooke rose to eminence as a lawyer and politician. About 1856 he was elected to the United States Senate to fill the unexpired term of Henry S. Foote. Mr. Brooke filled other important positions and had a host of friends who always delighted to do him honor. He moved to Vicksburg about 1856 and died here in February, 1869. Mrs. Brooke continued to reside here until her death last Saturday morning. She was a woman of bright mind and entertaining speech and had a wonderful faculty of making new friends and holding on to old ones. She retained all of her faculties to the last and took a deep interest in passing events to the day of her death. Her funeral conducted by Rev. J. S. Hillhouse, was held at her late residence on Cherry street, Sunday afternoon and was attended by a large concourse of friends and relatives. She was the eldest in a family of fifteen children and is survived by three sisters and two brothers. She was also the mother of fifteen children, nine of whom passed away many years ago. The six children who survive her are: Mrs. Lucy Mathews, Mr. C. M. Brooke of Kosciusko, Messrs. Horace and Hugh Brooke, Mrs. Jennie James and Miss Mary Brooke. She left also a number of grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren."—The Daily Herald, Vicksburg, Miss., October 4, 1904.

"AN EMINENT MISSISSIPPIAN."

"Among the eminent citizens who have honored Vicksburg in the past with their residences, none are more kindly remembered than Senator Walker Brooke. Senator Brooke was elected to the Senate of the United States to succeed Senator Foote, resigned in 1858. He followed his State at the breaking out of the war and was elected to the Senate of the Confederate States. He also served on the committee which adopted the flag of the Confederacy. His death occurred in Vicksburg in 1869 and was caused by apoplexy. The view of his former residence was taken expressly for this edition. This old building will soon be removed to make room for the new Presbyterian Church on that beautiful corner."—The Daily Herald, Vicksburg, Miss., 1905.

"My grandfather (Humphrey Brooke) lived at a place called Oakley in Clarke which was afterwards occupied by Mr. Otway Byrd. He then moved to a place called the 'Cottage,' where my grandfather died and was buried in the Old Chapel Church Yard. The 'Cottage' was burned down sometime afterwards."—From a letter from Mrs. Selden S. Wright, San Francisco, Cal.

"We have on record a deed from John W. Page to Sarah W. Brooke, wife of Humphrey Brooke, for a portion of the estate 'Oakley.' This deed was admitted to record here in 1828 and the property was devised to John W. Page by his brother, Walker Y. Page, whose will is on record here. The portion deeded to Sarah W. Brooke consisted of only a part of the 'Oakley' estate, and the consideration between her and John W. Page was something over three thousand dollars.

N. B.—On page 93, for "20 Christopher Robinson," read "to Christopher Robinson." He, as "Christopher, son of Christopher Robinson of C. M. [i. e. Co. Middlesex], in Virginia," matriculated at Oriel College, Oxford, May 21, 1724, aged 19 (Foster's Oxford Matriculations).

In Vol. XVI, p. 216, to children of Christopher Robinson, add Elizabeth, who married Matthew Whiting, Jr. The marriage bond, in Middlesex, is dated March 31, 1763. John Robinson, whose will is printed below refers to her as his sister.

In the Virginia Gazette of July 28, 1768, appears the following obituary: "On Monday the 18th instant, died Christopher Robinson Esq., of Middlesex; a man possessed of all those good qualities that perfect humanity. In the character of father, husband, and friend he was excellent; for affection, tenderness and benevolence were the ruling passions of his breast. Few equalled him in virtue, fewer in piety. His time was spent in the uniform practice of doing good. The sick he administered to, the needy he assisted, and the poor he fed. Thus living he was by all esteemed and is now by all lamented."

After the Virginia custom his personal estate was sold after his death and in the same year his executors Richard Corbin and Ralph Wormeley advertised that all of the personal estate of Christopher Robinson, Esq., would be sold on March 6, 1769, at his late dwelling house in Middlesex, and that at Urbanna, on the next day, about 100 Virginia born slaves would be sold.

12. John Robinson (Christopher), of Middlesex county, born about 1708 (Chart), and died in 1787. He owned a very large estate; but appears to have held no public office unless it were that of magistrate. In 1774 John Robinson appears to have lived in Gloucester county. He is said to have married first, ——— Yates, and secondly, ——— Churchill of "Bushy Park," Middlesex. It appears from the Christ Church, Middlesex, register, that his first wife was named Anne, and the second Frances. The very imperfect register does not contain an entry of either marriage, and the same is the case with the county marriage records which remain. There is nothing in the published accounts of the Yates and Churchill families to throw any light on the matter.

The will of John Robinson was dated February 21, 1785, and proved in Middlesex, July 23, 1787. He gave his home plantation in Middlesex to his daughters Judith, Mary and Priscilla Robinson for their lives, with reversion to his son William. The Quarter Plantation in Middlesex to son William. The plantation called Green Branch, which he purchased from Col. Churchill, to his son John. The lands, negroes, furniture, stocks of horses, cattle, &c., he purchased from Jonathan Watson, Esq., to son Christopher. To daughter Mary, certain negroes. To daughters Judith Robinson, Katherine Robinson, Priscilla Robinson, and sons John, Robert, William and Peter, certain negroes. The money he has in the British funds, to daughters Mary Judith, Katherine and Priscilla. £300 sterling to Elizabeth Whiting, and £300 sterling to purchase a tract of land to be held for her in trust by his nephew Benjamin Robinson. To Mary Robinson Whiting, eldest daughter of Matthew Whiting and testator's sister Elizabeth, his wife, £300 sterling. To testator's son John, £800 sterling. To son Robert, £1,200 sterling. To son William, £300 sterling. To son Peter, £1,000 sterling. To Elizabeth, daughter of his nephew Benjamin Robinson, £100 sterling, and remainder of money to testator's son Christopher. Legatees of horses, cattle, furniture, &c., appoints Philip Ludwell Grymes, Benjamin Robinson, sons Christopher and William, and daughters Judith and Mary, executors.

Issue (by 1st marriage):

40. Judith,"*daughter of John and Ann Robinson" (Register), born September 14, 1736.

41. Christopher,"*son of John and Ann Robinson" (Register), born April 2d, 1738. No farther information, except that in the Gloucester county Surveyor's book is a survey, 1791, of the lands of Christopher Robinson, deceased, which were divided amongst his brothers and sisters and their heirs, corresponding to the children of John Robinson. So he d. s. p.

Issue (by 2d marriage):

42. Robert,"*son of John and Frances Robinson" (Register), born April 29, 1750. He was a student at William and Mary College, and left to join the English army, becoming a lieutenant in the "King's Loyal Americans." He settled in Nova Scotia after the war; married Dorothea Budd, of Digby in that province, and died about 1814.

Issue: 50. Judith,9 living in 1853 in New York city, at 257 Green street; 51. John,9 who was father of Thomas Robinson, of St. Johns, New Brunswick, president Western Union Telegraph Company in 1880.

Issue (which of John7 Robinson's marriages unknown):

43. William,8 said by General C. W. Robinson to have married Elizabeth, who married, after his death, Mr. Chowning, of "Locust Grove." But he might also be William Robinson, whose license to marry Ursula Robinson was issued in Middlesex, August 22, 1784, and who is appointed by Christopher8 Robinson as "my son-in-law, William Robinson," one of his executors.

44. John,8 said to have been of Caroline county. No farther information.

45. Mary.

46. Priscilla, married ——— Elliott. From a bill in chancery filed in Williamsburg District Court, April 1st, 1816, it appears that Seaton and John Elliott were her sole heirs.

47. Catherine, married Thomas Wiatt and left a son.

49. Peter, married (1st) ———, (2d) in 1818, Milly Humphreys.

16. William7 Robinson (Christopher4) was born March 5, 1716, and matriculated at Oriel College, Oxford, April 2, 1737, and took his B. A. in 1740 (Foster's Oxford Matriculations). In a letter written by him in 1765, he says (Meade's Old Churches and Families of Va., I, 377): "I was born in Virginia. At ten years old I was sent to England for my education, which was in the year 1729. I continued at school in the country until the year 1737, at which time I was admitted a member of Oriel College in Oxford. After I had taken my B. A. degree I was chosen by the Provost and Fellows to one of Dr. Robinson's Bishop of London's exhibitions, (who was my great uncle,) which I enjoyed for three years, the term limited by his Lordship. In June, 1743, I was ordained Priest by Dr. Gibson, Bishop of London. I returned to my native country in the year 1744, (October); the November following I was received into Stratton Major parish in King and Queen County, where I have continued rector ever since"

In 1761 Mr. Robinson was appointed Commissary of the Bishop of London, and became, as usual, a member of the Council. Bishop Meade states (Old Churches, &c., 377) that "Governor Fauquier was much dissatisfied with his appointment (as Commissary), and so expressed himself in a letter to England. The opposition of the Governor was no sure proof of the unworthiness of Mr. Robinson. He was an arbitrary and high-tempered man, who could brook no opposition, and Mr. Robinson was no negative submissive character to crouch before authority. During the six or seven years of his Commissaryship, his correspondence with the Bishop of London on the affairs of the Church was lengthy and able. He espoused the cause of the clergy on the occasion of the Two-Penny Act, or Option Law, with zeal and fearlessness, though without success. He had an independent fortune of his own and was therefore less liable to be charged with mercenary motives."

Commissary Robinson died in 1767 or 1768. He married a daughter (probably Alice) of Benjamin Needler, of King and Queen county, and his wife, Alice, daughter of Gawin Corbin, and had issue:

50. Christopher⁸ (of whom later).
51. Benjamin⁸ (of whom later).
52. Rev. Needler,⁸ rector of Dale parish, Chesterfield co., from 1790 until his death in 1823. The Episcopal Church had at this time nearly disappeared from Chesterfield, and Mr. Robinson’s time and labors were chiefly devoted to a well known and successful school. (Meade, I, 451.) Possibly he married and left issue; but there is no farther information in regard to him.
53. Alice,⁸ died unmarried.

17. Peter⁷ Robinson (Christopher⁶), of King William county, born March 1, 1718, (Register) and died in 1765. He matriculated at Oriel College, Oxford, April 2, 1737, aged 18. He was a member of the House of Burgesses for King William at the sessions of September, 1758, November, 1758, February, 1759, November, 1759, March, 1760, May, 1760, October, 1760 and March, 1761. His wife was Sarah Lister. The marriage bond on file in Middlesex is dated August 9, 1750, and has with it the consent of her guardian Edmund Berkeley.

Peter Robinson’s will was dated June, 1765, and proved in King William in that year. His legatees were his three daughters Judith, Lucy and Sarah, all under age, whom he placed under the guardianship of his brothers Christopher, John and William Robinson; and his sons Christopher and Peter, both also under age, whom he placed under the guardianship of his friend Philip Whitehead Claiborne.

Issue:

50. Christopher.⁸ It seems very probable that he was the Christopher Robinson, loyalist, who went to Canada. Though this can not be positively ascertained, the last named Christopher and his descendants will be treated under 50 Christopher Robinson, when the number is reached.
51. Peter.⁸ No farther information; but he probably married and had issue mentioned in the will of his sister Judith.
58. Judith. The will of a Judith Robinson, dated July 28, 1826, was proved in King William on November 26, 1827. She names no brothers, but makes bequests to her niece Susan Braxton, "daughter of Mrs. B. F. F. Braxton;" nephew Alexander Lister Robinson, also to "the son of J. H. Robinson;" her nephew Alexander Lister Robinson's children, her sister Sally P. Grymes, and her niece Mary Lister Bayley.

59. Lucy. married Benjamin Grymes of Orange county. Her daughter Elizabeth married Charles C. Braxton, and was no doubt the Mrs. B. F. F. Braxton of Judith Robinson's will.

Correction: On p. 208, immediately preceding, the individual numbers are erroneously given. The proper reading should be "52. Christopher; 53. Benjamin; 54. Rev. Needler; 55. Alice; 56. Christopher; 57. Peter."

ADVERTISEMENT FOR A VIRGINIA DESERTER.

TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD.

DESERTED from the 6th Virginia regiment, on the 31st of August, JOHN LEWIE, a Frenchman, speaks broken English, 5 feet 7 inches high, well made, has light hair and blue eyes, is a good barber, and much addicted to drunkenness: Had on when he went away, a pair of linen breeches, shoes almost new, osnabrigs or sheeting shirt, is about 20 years old. CHAPLAIN HURT'S ADDRESS TO THE VIRGINIA BRIGADES.

(From the New Jersey Gazette, September 9, 1778.)

The miscarriage of the following Address prevented its publication at the proper time.

An Address to the first and second Virginia Brigades at the feu de joye at Valley Forge, by the Rev. John Hurt, Chaplain to the second Brigade.

Friends, Countrymen and Fellow-Soldiers.

By the wisdom of our councils, and the magnanimous perseverance of our troops, during three campaigns, we have at length received the most manifest tokens of Divine approbation; and now, by the alliance of a great and warlike European power, we stand in a situation that bids defiance to our enemies—a situation which affords the fairest prospect—the blessings of PEACE, LIBERTY and SAFETY, the end of our warfare.—For these ye fought, for these ye bled—and not in vain!

But though from the goodness of our cause, the wisdom of our councils, the abilities of our Generals, the courage of our troops, the strength of our armies, as well as our foreign alliances, we now have the most reasonable hope of establishing American freedom; yet it is a truth which reason and experience, as well as religion, teach us, that the race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong; that the event of all things is in the hand of God, and more especially the fate of nations is weighed and determined by him. And if, in the common occurrences of life, it is our wisdom and interest, as well as our duty, to look up to Heaven for a blessing on our labours, it certainly becomes a far more indispensable duty on so important an occasion. A presumptuous confidence in our own strength might justly provoke God to give us up to the tyranny of our enemies; while a pious trust in his mercy may be a powerful means to draw down his blessing in our favour. Let us then consider the present duty as a point on which the fate of nations is suspended; and let us, therefore, redouble our diligence, and endeavour to acquire the highest perfection in our several duties, whether religious, civil or military; for the more we do for ourselves the more reason have we to expect the smiles of Providence. In the name then of all that is sacred, and in defence of all that is dear to us, let us exert ourselves from the highest to the lowest, to deserve the great and wonderful deliverance which Providence hath manifested toward this infant land!—A few months steady perseverance in the cause of virtue and truth, will probably give a final and favourable issue to this important contest: Anticipate then, my fellow-soldiers, the joy of your kindred, and the blessings of your country, that will welcome your return to those beloved connexions, from whence you gallantly broke forth to repel the invading foe, and secure to yourselves and posterity the name and rights of freemen. Oppression thenceforward shall be banished the land—Peace shall till the desolated soil, and commerce unfurl her soils to every quarter of the sea-encircled globe; while the soldier, who has bravely stept forth to establish these blessings, shall live revered, and die regretted, by his country.

Who is there that does not rejoice that his lot has fallen at this important period; that he has contributed his assistance, and will be enrolled hereafter in the pages of history among the gallant defenders of liberty? Who is there who would exchange the pleasures of such reflections for all the ill-gotten pelf of the miser, or the dastardly security of the coward? You, my fellow-soldiers, are the hope of your country; to your arms she looks for defence, and for your health and success her prayers are incessantly offered. Our God has heard them—The princes of the earth court our friendship—We have a name among nations—Victory and triumph attend us; and unless our sins forbid, our warmest wishes shall be most amply compleated. Let us then join in one general acclamation to celebrate this important event; and while our voices proclaim our joy, let our hearts glow with gratitude to the God of nations, who is able to help us, and whose arm is mighty to save.

Thus shall we see, and triumph in the fight,
While malice frets, and fumes, and gnaws her chains,
America shall blast her fiercest foes!
Out-brave the dismal shocks of bloody war!
And in unrival'd pomp resplendid rise,
And shine sole empress of the Western World!

BOOK REVIEWS.

Students of American history are glad to know that Mr. Beer is planning a series of volumes on the development of the British Colonial system from the earliest attempts at colonization in America up to 1754. These volumes, together with his work on the "British Colonial Policy, 1754-1765," will bring the history of England's Colonial Policy up to the Stamp Act. The entire colonial period of American history has been very inadequately treated. Doyle's works are not reliable, but in Professor Osgood's "American Colonies," and Mr. Beer's works, we are getting a new viewpoint as to the life and conditions of colonial days.

Mr. Beer recognizes the close relation between the political and economic life of the English people in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, but necessarily his discussion deals mainly with the economic features of the old British Empire. The work under consideration has twelve chapters, dealing first with the beginning of the English expa...
sion; second, emigration and over-population; third, the economic theory of colonization; fourth, the early history of tobacco; fifth, the English fiscal system and the colonies, 1604-1620; sixth, the Stuart regulation of the tobacco industry; seventh, restrictions on colonial export trade; eighth, the exclusion of foreigners from colonial trade; ninth, the economic development of the colonies, 1607-1642; tenth, the imperial administrative system, 1666-1640; eleventh, the Empire during the the Civil War, 1642-1649; twelfth, the colonial policy of the Commonwealth and Protectorate, 1649-1660.

The work is an historian's book in view of the fact that every statement is backed up by a foot-note. He has consulted all the publications relating to the colonial period before 1660, both English and American; also many manuscripts in the British Museum, such as the Egerton, the Rawlinson MSS in the Bodleian, the published and manuscript records of Parliament, the Admiralty Papers, Calendars of State Papers, the papers of the Public Record Office of London, and also the manuscript registers in the Privy Council Office. Many other sources might be cited, but these are sufficient to show that Mr. Beer's researches have been extensive.

The prime importance of Mr. Beer's work lies in bringing before us the fact that before 1660 was inaugurated the English system of colonial restrictions which came to be the policy of the Empire until the English people turning to free trade, removed all restrictions upon the colonies and built anew within the nineteenth century a new Empire with practically no strings tied to the colonies, demanding no allegiance of them save such as would naturally be produced by common interest and racial ties not unlike that which existed between the Greek States and their colonies.

Very accurately has Mr. Beer shown that England's expansion in the seventeenth century was the result of England's desire to enjoy commerce equal to, if not greater, than any other European nation. The East India trade for a time seemed forever beyond England's grasp, and her only possibility seemed to turn westward in which direction some hardy fisherman from the western ports of England had shown possibilities by engaging in fishing on the banks of Newfoundland. Moreover it is not to be forgotten that England hoped to secure a passage either by the northeast or northwest to Asia. But the bitter conflict between Spain and England was chiefly responsible for driving England to the New World. Hawkins, Drake, Gilbert and others of equal foresight feared the growth of Spain in the New World, hence Gilbert's efforts, succeeded by Raleigh's, to establish a footing upon American soil. Suddenly the English met with some success by the organization of the East India Company, and with other causes resulted in the establishment of a commercial company for the settlement of Virginia. It is not to be forgotten, however, that soon after settling Virginia, England took possession of the Bermudas and some islands further south of the West Indies. These colonial undertakings were made chiefly by charters, but they were public in their character rather than individual, though they resulted from individual initiative and enterprise. Therefore, one thing to note is that every charter contained an immunity of one kind or another, usually an exemption from those laws of England which forbade the importation of certain commodities into the realm.

Mr. Beer makes particularly plain the contact in the early days between the English on the one hand and the Spanish, the French and the Dutch colonies on the other; such, for instance, as the attack in 1613 by Captain Argall on the French settlements in Nova Scotia, and a few years later the action of a Virginia planter in seizing a French vessel off the coast of New England. Also he notes Virginia’s attitude in 1631 towards the Dutch in New York. These are facts which have not been brought out by our historians.

He emphasizes with great stress that the colonization of America by the English was fundamentally an economic movement. He takes the view, which, I believe, a careful study of history will show to be correct, that while the Puritans who settled New England emphasized in their writings the religious side, as a matter of fact the religious motive was superficially prominent and was fundamentally subordinate, and that the real New England spirit can be gotten from the point of view of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, who urged more foreign plantations on the ground that it added glory and greatness to a nation by the “increase of trade and commerce which always brings with it increase of shipping and mariners; matters, this kingdom of all others hath most reason to be careful of, in that, our safety doth much consist therein.” Due to economic conditions in England, there was much pauperism, and this made possible the establishment of colonies for economic reasons in the New World.

A study of English conditions explains why it was that the early settlers were constantly searching for mines, as there was great demand for more metallic currency in England. Most of England’s supplies for hershipping and potash for use in woolen manufacture came from along the shores of the Baltic, and at any time these might be cut off by hostile conditions. Consequently, there was a great desire to provide new resources, so that the trade along the Baltic might be lost without injury; so not only were the colonies established for increasing the volume of trade, but for self-protection, commercially speaking.

The first article of trade resulting from the English settlements in America was tobacco, and with reference to the growth and development of the tobacco trade Mr. Beer goes into much detail, showing how tobacco used in England at the time of the founding of Virginia was derived from the Spanish-American colonies and was heavily taxed; how this tax was removed and then replaced and constantly changed, resulting in dissatisfaction in America and also among English merchants, and causing a fluctuation in the market value of tobacco. The English policy on the whole, however, was to divert the colonies from an overproduction of tobacco and advise the production of other commodities. Mr. Beer cites the Colonial Papers to show that the Bermudas and other islands in the West Indies under English control were advised to raise "hemp, flax, wines and other good and staple commodities," mentioning among them also "sugars and cottons"; advising the same likewise for Virginia. This was as early as 1636.

The discussion of the steps by which the colonies got a monopoly of the English markets is particularly interesting, especially so, when one discovers that the granting of monopolies to control the tobacco trade was responsible for the demand that colonial products should be shipped to English markets first and from English ports to be distributed to other portions of Europe (if reshipped at all), thus laying the foundation for the Navigation Acts and the restriction of trade, which were to become of so much importance in the 18th century. Charles I was determined that all colonial products should come to England before going to any foreign market. In this connection, Mr. Beer says: "An analysis of the economic ideas underlying the early English colonial movement leads to the conclusion that the chief function of the dependencies was to supply England with commodities that were essential to her development but which she herself could not produce. From this fact it inevitably followed that the colonies would not be permitted freely to export their produce to foreign countries because, in the eyes of the English government, such action would nullify the most fundamental of the reasons that justified a policy of colonial expansion." And right here it is interesting to note that Emanuel Downing, in defending Massachusetts in 1633, intimated that "in time they (the people of Massachusetts) will revolt from their allegiance and join in trade with strangers and so deprive the land of those staple commodities which that country may afford us." Of course, as a necessary corollary from the English principle of restricting colonial trade followed the exclusion of foreigners from any trade with the American colonies. Especially did the Dutch disturb the English, and this fact furnished one of the motives which impelled the English to seize the New Netherlands.

The treatment of the imperial administration from 1606 to 1640 gives us a decided new viewpoint, first of all showing that the relation of Virginia to England was feudal; secondly, that though the Crown claimed that Parliament could not act on American affairs, yet, as early as 1621, Parliament did assert the right to legislate concerning America, even claiming at one time that parliamentary sanction should be given to all colonial charters. In the period under consideration, the superintendency of the American colonies by a committee of the Privy Council, known as the Board of Trade, not fully established until the 18th century, was foreshadowed by special commissions appointed by the Crown, and really as early as 1634, there was appointed a standing committee of the Privy Council for foreign plantations; and thus to the Privy Council, presided over by the King, fell the ultimate decision of matters pertaining to the colonies. So in the early days of American colonization the Privy Council had more to do with American affairs than historians have thought, for the Privy Council, and the commissioners subordinate to it, assumed to hear appeals from the decisions of the colonial courts. In general, we might say that in the early days the British-Colonial system was fixed by the King in Council until Charles I engaged in war with Parliament, resulting in the establishment of parliamentary rule at home, and preparing the way for the passage of a number of Navigation Acts by Parliament after the Restoration.

Students of Colonial history will eagerly await the appearance of Mr. Beer's second volume, in which, doubtless, will be shown the inconsistencies of England's colonial policy, in part shaped by the King in Council, and in part by Parliament. In his first volume, Mr. Beer has laid well the foundations for a study of the British Colonial system.

J. A. C. Chandler.

[In the multiplicity of topics to be treated, Dr. Chandler has not mentioned one of the most curious facts developed by Mr. Beer—that during the early years of the Seventeenth Century, the cultivation of tobacco was regarded, not only by King James, but by the leaders of the Virginia Company, as much a moral as an economic evil. They felt in regard to it, says the author, as men of later days felt towards the opium trade to China.—Ed.]

Having read the author's carefully prepared and scholarly Impeachment and Trial of Andrew Johnson, we welcomed the appearance of this work and find it fully up to the standard he has set for himself. To the events surrounding the tragic event of the 14th of April, 1865, he has given a clear setting. The narrative opens with a sketch of the erratic and brilliant Junius Brutus Booth, from whom the son, John Wilkes Booth, appears to have inherited his reckless and partly insane nature. In January, 1865, brooding over the gloomy prospects of his beloved Southern Confederacy, John Wilkes Booth, in his determination to deal a striking blow in its behalf, set on foot in Washington, a plan to seize Lincoln, with the aid of some desperate associates, while he was at Ford's Theatre, and, hurrying him across the Potomac river at a point east of Washington, to carry him a prisoner to Richmond. Lincoln failed to attend the theatre at the expected time, and the fool-hardy plot was abandoned. In April, 1865, Booth formed a new plot for the taking off of the heads of the government, reserving to himself the bad pre-eminence of being Lincoln's murderer. A vivid account is given of that Good Friday's night, of the pursuit of the conspirators, and of the capture and death of Booth. The author makes a strong argument for the total unconstitutionality of the military tribunal that was convened for the trial of the guilty parties and suspects, and he leaves little room for doubt, not only that poor Mrs. Surratt was innocent, but that she was sacrificed in the place of her son, who at the time was in northern New York on another mission and soon escaped abroad. There is a discussion of the question upon whom must fall the dark responsibility for her sad fate. The account given of the capture of John H. Surratt, his trial and release is very interesting. The author deals with all these subjects in a frank and pleasant manner.

D. G.

The United States Census Department has begun the good work of reprinting the detailed returns of the Census of 1790. Unfortunately those for Virginia are among several which have been lost.

Between 1782 and 1785 the State had enumerations made and a few of these remain among the State Archives. In place of the missing census of 1790 these enumerations have been printed, and form a collection of much interest to Virginians. If it should ever be the desire of the State to complete the work the material exists to a great extent. The land and personal property assessment books for all of the counties have been preserved beginning, generally, in 1782.

It is to be hoped that some day the State Archives department will have sufficient room and clerical force to gather these most valuable records from storage warehouses and dusty basements and have them arranged by counties and years. It is useless to say what a boon this would be to students of our history.

Mr. Ashe has given in one compact and handsome volume the history of his native State from the period of Raleigh's explorations and settlements down to the close of the Revolutionary War. This is the first history of North Carolina which has been written since the great mass of its manuscript materials became accessible, and it was most fortunate as well as as most natural that the work should be undertaken by one who was familiar with the documents even before they were made public by the State and who has been a life-long student of the history of his people.

The book is divided into six "epochs" or sections, and these are subdivided into chapters treating generally of administrations of governors. The history shows everywhere marks of thought and study, and is a most valuable addition to the history of the State and country at large.

Particular note should be made of the illustrations which include many rare maps, views and portraits.

"From 1776 to 1861 the original laws of Virginia were enrolled upon single sheets of parchment, and each session's acts were rolled into bundles and placed in tin tubes for preservation. In this inaccessible shape they remained until, at the session of 1906, the General Assembly directed that these rolls be properly arranged, cleaned, bound and labelled." (Preface). The act also directed that an index be prepared.

Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. Williams for the very admirable way in which he has done his work. He has prepared a compact, well printed and well bound volume, which will be indispensable to every Virginia lawyer, and to every citizen who desires to consult our laws on any subject. The many removals and dangers through which the enrolled bills have gone, might lead us reasonably to suppose that many had been lost; but this is apparently not the case, except in a few instances. For examples of the fullness of the index, citing at random, we find thirty-nine references to oysters, one hundred and thirty-six to Richmond city, and nine to the Mutual Assurance Company. After Hening, part of whose period is covered by this index, there has heretofore been no recourse for investigators, except a most wearying search of the indexes of the separate session acts. Now a means has been furnished by which one can ascertain in a minute what once might have required days.

The only trouble with the book is the small size of the edition. The next Legislature should authorize a large one, to be sold at a reasonable price.

⁶Hening, II, 240.

¹Col. John Lear, who was probably of the Devonshire family of the name, emigrated to Virginia about the middle of the seventeenth century and settled in Nansemond county. As "Captain John Lear" he was a member for Nansemond in this Assembly. He was appointed a member of the Council in 1683, and died June 27, 1696. He was four times married, (1) name not known, before 1678, by whom he had a son Thomas, and a daughter Martha who married first Col. William Cole, Secretary of State, and secondly, Major Lewis Burwell, member of the Council; (2) after 1678, Anne, widow of Col. John George, of Isle of Wight county; (3) after 1688, Rebecca, widow of Col. Charles Moryson and Col. Leonard Yeo, of Elizabeth City county; (4) Ann Willis, of Elizabeth Streeter shewing that whereas the said Elizabeth had impleaded him the said Lear in the General Court for £25 Sterling due to her for so much paid to Thomas Bowler on the said

Ipswich, Massachusetts, widow of Seth Sothell, Governor of North Carolina. She died before 1695. By his first marriage Col. Lear had a son Thomas Lear, who represented Nansemond county in the House of Burgesses in 1685, and probably other years, and who married Elizabeth, daughter of Col. Joseph Bridger, of Isle of Wight county, also a member of the Council. Thomas and Elizabeth Lear had issue, named in Col. Lear's will, (1) Thomas, (2) John, (3) Elizabeth, (4) Martha. The son John married Elizabeth, executrix of Isabella Havield, who was executrix of Dr. Luke Havield, of Nansemond, and was sheriff of Nansemond in 1723 (see William and Mary Quarterly, IX, 124).

It should perhaps be stated in view of the numerous military titles just mentioned, and for persons not familiar with the details of Virginia history, that throughout the Colonial period, there was a complete militia establishment for each county, and that the militia officers were always addressed and described by their titles.

By some accident a copy of the will of John Lear drifted many years ago to Henrico County Courthouse, where it remains. The following is an exact copy:

"In Ye name of God amen the twenty first of November in ye Yeare of our Lord one thousand six hundred ninety five I John Lear in ye County of Nansemond in Virg'a being weak in body, and in good and perfect memory, thanks be to God doe make this my last will and Testament in manner & forme following, that is to say first I bequeath my Soule & Spirit unto ye hands of God my heavenly father, by whom of his mercy & only grace I trust to be saved & received into eternal rest, through ye death of my Saviour and redeemer Jesus Christ in whose precious blood I sett ye hope of my salvation, and my body in hope of a joyfull resurrection, I commit to ye earth to be buried decently as my deare relations shall think fitt. A Committee appointed to attend the Honourable Governor for drawing the Instruments for Wm. Capt. Joseph Bridger, Chairman, Capt. Daniel Parke, Lieut. Colo. Mees,
Mr. Thomas Ballard, Major Hill.

This is to certifie those it may concern that upon request of Major Thomas Walker of Gloster County I have caused to be counted those white Mulberry Trees" under mentioned Vizt:

19The vision of silk production long lingered in Virginia. In March, 1660-61 a former act for planting mulberry trees was revived (Hening, II, 32), another act was passed in March, 1661-2 (ibid, 121), in September, 1663, the time for planting the trees was prolonged (ibid, 191); but in October, 1666, the Assembly claiming that sufficient stimulus had been given by the public, repealed all acts concerning silk and mulberry trees Planted by him or his Order which are now growing and tender in Anno 1664.
Planted in 1665 found in the abovesaid condition

This abovesaid Account I found to be agreeable and just. Witness my hand 17 May 1666 in Virginia.

Agrees with the Original,
Received 7 November, 1666.

November 7 1666.

The House called and the other propositions read and approved were sent to the Governor for approbation.

But before the house met the Committee attended the Governor's Honour who was pleased to desire Mr. Secretary to draw up the Instruments and Instructions who after upon consideration that himself was one of the Commissioners desired the house to appoint some other persons to draw them up.

Upon Reading the Governor and Council's approbation with the alterations annexed they were all gratefully assented to Except the dissent from the Act concerning lower Norfolk's Exemption from giving the Lists of Tobacco to which Mr. Ballard, Capt. Carver, Capt. Lear, Colo. Yeo and Captain Bridger and Capt. Thoroughgood were appointed to acquaint his honour with the reasons inducing them to pass that proposition and to return the Governor thanks for the forbearance of his Silk Money.

Mr. Ballard and Mr. Lear appointed to take Mr. Knolls and Mr. Hunts acknowledgment of a Judgment before the Governor (iib., 241). One of the chief promoters of the silk industry was Governor Edward Diggs, who imported two Armenians skilled in the business. Some of the raw silk made for him long remained at "Denbigh," Warwick county, one of his estates, and a small portion is in the possession of the Virginia Historical Society.

There appears no record of silk given by the King to Virginia, but in 1668 enough silk was given by the Colony to the King to make some article of dress for him. There is in the Calendar of State Papers, Colonial, a letter from Charles II to Governor Berkeley, dated November 25, 1668, acknowledging the present, and stating that he had commanded it to be wrought up for his own use.

This 7 of November 1666 Mr. John Knolls and Mr. Thos. Hunt appeared before the Court and Confessed Judgment upon the breach of a penal Bond for the Sum of 264,000 lb. of Tobacco and Cask due to the Honourable Robert Wynne Speaker of the grand Assembly and was for the performance of certain Conditions expressed in the said Bond of which they failed and Judgment is Entred accordingly.

Test. Thomas Ludwell Secretary.

Proposition about the Repeal of the Act prohibiting the Importation of Salt into Northampton County.

Whereas the County of Northampton hath Shewed that by a former Act of Assembly the Importation of Salt into that County was prohibited for the better Encouragement of Colo. Edmund Scarbrugh who had Erected a Salt Work in Accomak but he not furnishing the people's Wants in that County of Northampton according to Expectation and the Law restraining their Relief from other places.

It is humbly proposed That the said Act for so much as relates to that County be repealed and Liberty given to any person to Import and Sell Salt as freely as before the making of that Act of restraint as before he might have done. Colo. Scarburgh himself having given his full Assent to the premises.

Whereas the Act ascertaining the fees of Surveyors by reason of the means of the Salary (which seems to have been set in times when Tobacco was of a greater Value than can be now expected) both discourages any man of parts Ability and Integrity from Exercising the said function in the well discharging whereof the peace and possession of the Inhabitants of the Country are so much concerned and yet for want of a penalty give every one leave to extort from the people what Sums they please.

It is humbly proposed that for Encouragement of able men and prevention of Extortion the fees limited in the said Act be advanced to double what they were Viz't forty pounds of Tobacco for measuring one hundred Acres of Land if the parcel Exceed five hundred Acres if under to be allowed 200 lbs of Tobacco and for the same shall deliver an Exact plot of Each parcel Surveyed and measured and if any Surveyor upon reasonable demand (not being by Sickness or any other Lawfull impediments hindred) shall refuse to Measure the Land of any person whatsoever for the Consideration and Satisfaction afore-said Every such Surveyor shall be fined for such his refusal 4000 lbs. of Tobacco and for Exceeding The fee 200 lbs Tobacco for Every 100 Acres half to the party injured half to ———.

Whereas in some few frontier Counties the Number of Wolves killed and brought in by the Indians tho' from never so great a distance hath been by some Inhabitants thereof through a Covetous desire of the Incouragement given by Act purchased to the insupportable burden tho' little benefit of the people.

It is therefore humbly proposed That the allowance for Wolves killed by Indians and the Means of Inquiry and Discovery by whom and where Wolves are killed may be left to the several County Courts by their Laws to take Order and provide for.

Whereas upon the Establishment of a Cessation It will probably ensue that Creditors may be rigorously importunate in recovering their Debts which if wholly paid in Tobacco will consequently deprive many people of any means to provide for the supply of their necessities for Remedy and Relief thereof.

It is humbly proposed that for all Debts already contracted for to be paid this present Year in Tobacco any debtor paying one half of his debt in kind may have Liberty for the payment of the other half until the tenth of November 1668 Giving reasonable Security (if required) for the Remaining at the time aforesaid And in Case the Creditors will not stay that time but prosecute his Debtor for payment to be made sooner it shall be in the Liberty and Choice of the Debtor to make tender of his Estate before the next Justice of the peace to Legal Valuation for payment of the said second Moiety Provided that if the Debt be under the Quantity of two hhds. of Tobacco It shall not be lawful for the Debtor to prejudice the Creditor by breaking a hhd. of Tob'o and paying a parcel thereof.

And that for payment of publick dues this Year (in respect of the Cessation and Consequent Expectation of advancing the Roll of Tobacco) there be an abatement of the sums formerly allowed.

And that all publick and County debts Ministers parish dues Officers fees fines Quit Rents and other Rents generally that shall become due or Contracted in the Vacant Year from planting may be paid in the Country Commodities at the Rates set this Assembly.

Whereas the County of Lower Norfolk lyeth most in this River and therefore not so to be suspected to ship Tobacco without paying the Impost.

It is humbly proposed that the Inhabitants of the said County may have equal Liberty with others to dispose of their Tobacco without the Trouble of the Address of Every——.

Whereas Lieut. Colo. John Washington hath Shewed that he obtained a patent of Land lying in Westmoreland and Rappahannock Counties part whereof is now included within the bounds allotted by the Grand Assembly to the Nanzatico\(^4\) Indians. It is Ordered according to the said Washington’s petition That upon the Indians deserting the said Land he the said Washinton may be readmitted to enjoy and possess the same by Virtue of his former grant and that no other after Claim may prejudice him in his right.

Whereas John Catlet Gentleman in the behalf of Francis Slaughter Orphan hath shewed That Francis Slaughter obtained a patent of Land which is included within the bounds allotted by Order of the Grand Assembly to the Nanzatico Indians It is Ordered according to the said Catlet’s Petition on the behalf of the said Orphan that upon the Indians deserting the said Land the Orphan may be readmitted to enjoy and possess the same by Virtue of the Grant and that no other after Claim may prejudice him in his Rights.

Whereas Thomas Lucas Gentleman hath Shewed that he

\(^4\)In March, 1661–62, the Assembly enacted that commissioners to be appointed by the Governor should go to the several Indian towns and settle the bounds of their lands. The same act contained various provisions for the protection of the Indians. The Honourable Governor sent Knowledge of his pleasure to the House that two or more of the Council might Joyn whith the House in Granting and Confirming the Sum of the Levy.

The Humble Answer of the House is that they conceive it

15 In 1661 the English Council for Foreign Plantations had asked that Virginia have a resident agent in England. Francis Moryson was appointed; but there seems to have been some difference of opinion as to how his salary should be paid.

16 We have here the much abused "Long Assembly," which is frequently said to have been the subservient tool of the Governor, asserting its rights over taxation in opposition to his wishes. This was done early in the life of this Assembly, and when it was near its close, in 1675, it still showed the same independence, for the Virginia agents in England, acting under its instructions, claimed that a charter applied for should provide that "No manner of imposition or taxes shall be laid or their privilege to lay the Levy in the House and that the House will admit nothing without reference from the Honourable Governor and Council unless it be before adjudged or Confirmed by Act or Order and after passing in the house shall be presented to their Honours for their approbation or Dissent.

Mr. Ballard Major Weir and Capt. Bridger are appointed to present this Answer to the Governor & Council.

This is willingly assented to and desired to remain on Record for a Rule to walk by for the future which will be Satisfactory to all.

WILLIAM BERKELEY.

A Committee appointed to wait on and treat with the Hon'ble Governor about the Castle Duties and Arrears Granted by his Sacred Majesty to this Country by his gracious Letters toward the Erecting of a Fort and to present the Order and request of the house dated November the 7th 1666 concerning the Fort at point Comfort.

Sent to the Governor by Major Hill Mr. Hone.

An Order for concealing Tithables.

The House going down to wait on the Governor's Honour his Honour was pleased to recommend to them the Necessity of an Agent and recommended to them Colo. Morison which being put to the Vote It was proposed that the Governor's Honour should be requested and Intrusted to make Choice of an Agent and to impower the person by his Honour made Choice of to act as an Agent for this Country in England for the Ensuing Year and to proceed according to such instructions as his Honour shall find the Necessities of the Country's Affairs require.

John Goddon petitioning for a Vessel built by him in the County of Accomack of the Burden of 25 Tuns was not allowed for want of Due Legal proof.

Whereas It is apparent to all that the Establishment of a Cessation from planting will greatly advance the Merchant's profit by giving him time to vend his Commodity and for that Consideration it might be expected that he should make an Abatement of his Debts Yet this Assembly Who have been ever careful not to take away from the Interests of any person have not taken that Course but only for supply of people's Necessities and Enabling them to provide for their Subsistance in the Vacant Year from planting have Enacted and by the Authority of the &c.

LETTER OF GENERAL ANDREW LEWIS IN REGARD TO MR. STADLER,

1 Engineer, 1776.

To The honourable the President and Convention:

Brigadier General Lewis begs Leave to represent to the honourable Convention, that this Country will certainly be deprived of the Assistance of Mr. Stadler the only Engineer now in this Colony under continental Commission unless some addition be made to his Pay, that may enable him to subsist. The necessity of fortifying many places for the Defence of this Government, makes it highly necessary he be retained in the service. Nor can he think such addition can be drawn into President that could effect the Honour of the House as nothing is more common than addition and extraordinary pay given to Engineers whose services are approved of.

General Lewis abt. Stadler.

1 John Stadler, probably a German, seems to have been the first trained military engineer in the service of the State. In October, 1778, on his petition, the Legislature allowed him a fund for travelling expenses, as he then had charge of erecting the fortifications at York, Hampton and Portsmouth.
Recommendation of Tarleton Payne\(^2\) for Commission.

We have known Mr. Tarlton Payne during his service in the Army both as Sergeant and Cadet. We have always observed him diligent punctual and ready in the discharge of his duty in both stations. We look upon him to be a deserving young gentleman and should be pleased at his promotion as we think he is worthy of it.

Sir Herewith you will receive five thousand pounds Sterling in Bills of Exchange to lay out in Powder which I make no doubt of your best endeavours to do, as you're well acquainted with our great want of it. I wou'd recommend to you to communicate this Scheme to your Brother for fear of any accidents happening to you to prevent your transacting the business we must rely altogether for your endeavours for the best as it is impossible for me to say what is the best method to take in the Islands therefore leave it to you to transact this matter as you

\(^2\)Tarleton Payne was 2d Lieutenant, 1st Virginia, October, 1776; 1st Lieutenant, January 20, 1777; Captain, November 18, 1777; taken prisoner at Charleston, May 12, 1780; transferred to 7th Virginia, February 12, 1781, and served to the close of the war. He was son of Josias Payne, Jr., of Goochland county, Va., and afterwards of Nash's Lick (now Nashville, Tenn.), and was born February 21, 1758. His half sister Anne Payne married Gideon Pillow, and was mother of General Gideon J. Pillow, U. S. A. (see this Magazine, VII, 81, 82).

DINWIDDIE COUNTY COMMITTEE TO EDMUND PENDLETON.

Petersburg, January the 2d, 1776.

Hon'ble Sir:

The committee of corrispondence for Dinwiddie County beg leave to inform you that a certain Thomas Irving an inhabitant of this town is deputy post-master for Mr. Dixon that he is also an agent for Neil'Jameison, who we understand is inimical to this country, and a partizan of Lord Dunmore's.

The committee would not chuse to be officious in acting with-out authority from the Convention, but are clearly of opinion it is highly improper and may be of great prejudice to suffer the said Irving to continue post-master which may give him an opportunity by opening letters—of conveying intelligence of the most dangerous nature to the welfare of this Colony.

We are fully persuaded that in no other part of America would an agent for an avowed enemy, at this time assisting Lord Dun-more in the most atrocious acts of violence & despotism be suf-fered to keep open store in the heart of that very country on which they are using every diabolical measure in their power to bring ruin & desolation. Tho' solicitous to serve our country ever ready to offer the right hand of friendship in the cause of Liberty, yet we are anxious not to exceed the line of our duty and therefore beg, Sir, you would be pleased to point it out to us.

Your Honours most obed't and very humble Servants,

HECTOR MACALESTER TO EDMUND PENDLETON.

On board the Adventure off Norfolk 4th Jan'y, 1776.

Sir:
The occasion of this present address to you as President of the Convention will, I hope, without any appology for troubling you, claim your attention. A sloop of mine called the Swallow George Burrell Master arrived about the 22nd Ulto with a load of salt from Turk's Island & I am informed is carried into Hampton, being seized for the use of the inhabitants of this Colony and I beg leave thro' your means to make application to the Convention for payment of the said vessel and her cargo. Ever since I have been settled in this Colony, I have, I trust, conducted myself so as to bring no imputation on my character as a trader, which by any subsequent conduct I will never forfeit to maintain this, it is now a duty very incumbent on me to urge justice being done to me by the Convention on this occasion, as I am considerably in debt in the Country and should my substance, already lessened by sudden & unexpected losses, be subject to this additional one, will be disabled from doing that justice which I ought & wish to do to every creditor. As it is not my intention to withdraw any part of my effects out of this Country untill I pay my debts in it (which without payment of my claim I will be unable to do) so whatever money will arise from the vessel & cargo will be applied to that purpose, and I hope, from this consideration & a regard to justice the Convention will be pleased to order me payment. So soon as I have an opportunity of knowing their sentiments on this subject, shall transmit proper vouchers & account of my demand, which at present I am not enable to do for want of the papers which came by the vessel. I am Sir very respectfully,

Your most obedient humble Serv’t,

Hector MacAlester.

ORDER OF THE COMMITTEE OF SAFETY IN REGARD TO THE BURNING OF NORFOLK.⁴

In Committee of Safety. Williamsburg January 31st 1776.

Lord Dunmore, having in his Gazette of the Instant, charged the Provincial Troops, with burning the Town of Norfolk. Ordered a strict enquiry be made into conduct of our Troops on that occasion, and Colonel Howe is desired to transmit the depositions taken on such enquiry to this Board.

Extracts from the proceedings of the Committee.

Order to inquire into Conduct of Troops.

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY COMMITTEE TO EDMUND PENDLETON.

Northampton Jan’y 14th 1776.

Sir:

Your favour of the 7th Inst. I have been honoured with, and without loss of time laid it before the Committee of this County, ⁴On January 1, 1776, Norfolk was fired by a party of sailors and marines from Dunmore's fleet, and the Virginia troops were so prejudiced against the town as a refuge for Tories that they made no effort to stop the flames. Three-fourths of the town were destroyed, and not long after, Col. Howe, acting under the orders of the Convention, destroyed the rest. See Campbell’s History of Virginia, 639, 640.

who have dispatched the prisoners to Williamsburg under the Guard of Lieut. Stith & 6 privates.

It is with the utmost satisfaction this Committee find their Conduct respecting those deluded people approved by your Honourable Body; and you may be assured not only of their cheerful obedience on all occasions, but of their utmost endeavours & exertions for the publick service. I am very respectfully

Sir your most obedient servant,

Sam'l Smith McCroskey.

The Hon'ble Edmund Pendleton Esq'r,
President of the Convention Williamsburg.

Isle of Wight County Committee of Safety in Regard to John Goodrich.

At a Committee held for Isle of Wight County the fourth day of January 1776.

It appearing to the Committee that Capt. John Goodrich late of Portsmouth hath frequently passed in a small Schooner up and down Nansemond and James Rivers—unmolested by the Man of War or any of their Tenders, and the said Capt. John Goodrich being brought before this Committee acknowledged that he attends Lord Dunmore once in every ten days, & declaring that he now intends to transport in his Vessel a Load of Corn from his plantation in this County to Nansemond and also acknowledging that he has liberty from Lord Dunmore to pass and repass at his will and pleasure to his different plantations without being interrupted by the Men of War or Tenders. This Committee considering that indulgence a priviledge denied to every other Inhabitant of Virginia and conceiving it to be their duty to prevent any kind of provision from being transported by water without a special [ ] from the Honourable convention or committee of safety, have thought proper to order the said Capt. John Goodrich with his Vessel to be conducted to Burwells ferry Landing and delivered to the commanding officer at that place in order that the Honourable convention may proceed against him as to them shall seem just an equitable. Capt. Goodrich having satisfied the Committee that he will im-Immediately proceed with his Vessel to Burwells ferry, the Committee have thought proper to order the above proceedings to be laid before the Honourable convention by Mr. John Mallory.

James Buchanan being sworn on the holy Evangelgs of Almighty God deposeth and saith that about Sunday Week past being on Board his Vessel the Schooner Polly then on the ground on the swatch, they saw a Boat which he thought was a pilot Boat, but was afterwards informed by one of the Pilots that it was Capt. Goodrich's Boat, and that they were Prisoners for she was a Kings Tender, that when a Capt. John Goodrich came up he ordered this deponent to deliver up his Papers which he did to the said Goodrich who told this deponent his Schooner was a Lawful prize and that his Master Capt. Wright was below & would be in that night who would be on Board the said Schooner, or on Board whom the said Buchanon must go—that on the same night the Schooner was Boarded by an Armed Boat belonging to the said Capt. Wright who put a prize Master and some hands on Board said Schooner and plundered her of all her live stock and took a Gun and from this deponent—That a Sloop supposed to belong to one Lot strange run up the sound that night which Sloop the said Goodrich saw, and the men on Board said Goodrich were desirous of taking which Goodrich opposed on account of her being an empty Vessel and harrassed by the Committees (as the pilots told him the said Sloop was not allowed to load on account of violating the association), that Capt. Wright next day blamed him much for not making a prize of her supposing her to have Cash on Board—that when the said Schooner Polly was on Ground on the Swatch, Goodrich desired Capt Wright to discharge Mr. Buchanon & his Schooner as she was old and could not be got off without much delay and her Cargo was of little value to them, which Wright positively refused and swore she should proceed round to Norfolk and this deponent further says that Capt. John Goodrich hailed a certain Capt. Adderlys Vessel and ordered said Adderly to bring his papers on Board which he did and delivered them to said John Goodrich, who told him he should deliver them to Capt. Wright who would determine the matter in the morning and that the said Capt. Wright carried the said Adderly over the Bar with him the Tuesday following. And that he heard Harney tell Goodrich he should not have flashed his Gun at him if he had not ordered his Crew to fire on the Boats

CHARLES CARTER⁵ TO WILLIAM FITZHUGH.

Dear Sir:

I have a proper sense of the honour intended me by the Convention from my appointment to a seat in the Privy Council, and am much obliged to the Gentlemen for the good opinion they have been pleased to entertain of my Integrity, this mark of their esteem, I shall always think of with pleasure and ever wish to deserve, but as I cannot so effectually serve my Country in the high Station now allotted me, as some other members of the Community, who are ready and willing to undertake this most important duty, I must beg leave to resign all pretentions to the office, and flatter myself, that (without censure) I may be allowed to walk in the humble path of retirement long ago marked out for the remainder of my life.

I have thus early, my Friend informed you of my determined resolution, that you may communicate it to the House before their adjournment. I am dear Sir,

Y'r Affect. h'bles Servants,

Copy. Chas. Carter.

⁵Charles Carter, son of Hon. John Carter, of "Corotoman," Secretary of State, was born in 1732 and died in 1806. Until the death of his stepfather, Bowler Cocke, in 1776, he resided at "Corotoman" in Lancaster county, which he represented in the House of Burgesses at the sessions of September, 1758, November, 1758, February, 1759, November, 1759, March, 1760, May, 1760, October, 1760, March, 1761, November, 1761, January, 1762, March, 1762, November, 1762, May, 1763, January, 1764, October, 1764, May, 1765, November, 1766, March, 1767, March, 1768, May, 1769, November, 1769, May, 1770, July, 1771, February, 1772, March, 1773, May, 1774, June, 1775, and of the Conventions of 1775. He was twice married and has many descendants. The ancient seat "Shirley," Charles City county, is still the home of the family.
Gents:

Your letter of the 1st ulto. I had the Honor of receiving a few days ago by way of Statia, and agreeable to your request, immediately waited on the Governor, Count Dargout, with the several interesting Resolves it contained, which I have the Happiness to inform you were received with politeness & Thanks, perused with pleasure, and are now on the way to the Court of France. I embraced this occasion of Broaching also to his Excellency the other more delicate part of your Commands, and for answer on that subject, am authorized to assure you that the Americans may rely on a hospitable reception here, Protection, and every Indulgence in his power to grant them, at the same time being unable to accomodate them, openly, with so free and extensive a Trade in certain articles, as they might wish, he can only assist them by connivance, and therefore expects on their part secrecy & Discretion in the management of these matters, until he knows the result of his representations to the King, when perhaps less reserve may be necessary. This, Gentlemen, is as much as he can well promise, is sufficient to demonstrate his friendly Disposition & will I conceive suffice for your temporary purposes.

As to the people in general, I can venture to say, they are as united in their wishes for the success of America as the Americans themselves, and the ancient Distinctions of Whig & Tory are as much used among them. I believe they are sincere. For were we to admit them divested of all regard for the Rights of Humanity (which I by no means intend to insinuate) every Event tending to humble the Pride & Power of their Rivals, would, we may naturally conclude, contribute to their Joy & Triumph.

the Northward and more will shortly follow, several of them with ammunition, which is now plenty & cheap. Dunmore keeps them from Virginia & Maryland, whither they have a great Inclination to trade. Could you once remove him I do not doubt but you would soon be well supplied with every necessary.

There are now two Vessels on the point of sailing, which I am persuading to the port you mention, and I believe they will attempt it, one of them is a fine Sloop mounting 12 Guns, well manned, and determined to fight her way through. If you should think it expedient to grant Commissions to such Vessels, I have reason to believe many more would be fitted out of this place; as they would then have the double Temptation of Trade and making captures. I should not have mention'd this matter to you, had I not been applyed to by some who are desirous of engaging in such an Enterprize provided I could procure them Commissions. Should you think proper to send me any I shall endeavour to make a prudent use of them.

My design by coming to this place was to serve my Country. Whenever therefore I can be of use to Virginia, by your Command freely, and depend on their being executed with much pleasure, by Sirs,

Your Mo. ob't and Mo. h'ble Serv't,

VIRGINIA INDIAN COMMISSIONERS' TO COL. PENTECOST.

Pittsburg Sept. 1st 1776:

Sir:

The Commissioners for Indian affairs in this Department have reasons to expect in four or five days a large Body of Indians in this place, whether they come with designs altogether Friendly and merely to attend the Treaty, or whether under the Pretext of Treating with us they mean to attack the Fort & Town we cannot as yet with certainty Determine, upon the most mature deliberation we are clearly of opinion, that it will conduce much to the publick service, and greatly secure the Preservation of the Country to have a number of good men well armed in and about this Town as soon as possible. We beg therefore Sir you will order three Hundred men of your Militia to march here Directly. Proper care should be Taken that the men should be Directed good marksmen and Equipp'd chiefly with Rifles and properly Officered, you will take the necessary steps to supply them with Provisions for their march thither, and we shall have a proper stock laid in for them here. We do not mean to alarm or affright the Country, or that the Inhabitants have reasons to be filled with uneasy apprehensions at Present, on the contrary we think this mode of procedure will convince the Savages that

Hon'ble Sir:

As Mr. Wythe and myself who were appointed by the late hon'ble Convention to superintend the engraving of the Seal of the Commonwealth and to take care that the same should be properly executed, finding it impracticable to procure an Engraver in this State, those who were in any manner qualified for such an undertaking being engaged in engraving Plates for the Paper Money, have been under the necessity of employing proper Persons to execute this Business in Philadelphia. I have been informed by Mr. Jefferson whom I applied to, to engage Artists qualified for the work, that he had employ'd such as were excellent and that the work must now be in great Forwardness but, that from the Nature of it, it will be some Time before it can be compleated. I expect to have a particular account of the State of this Business from Mr. Wythe by the next Post. I thought it my Duty Sir, to lay this short account of the unavoidable Delay of this important Business before you that the House may take such steps to remedy the Inconvenience arising from the want of the Seal, as they may judge proper. I have the honor to be Sir,

Your Mo. obed't h'ble Serv't,

®On July 5, 1776, the last day of the Convention of 1776, George Mason, from the Committee to which the matter had been referred, reported a device, the same as that now used, and George Wythe (who is believed to have suggested the design), and John Page were desired to superintend the proper engraving of a seal. No full and accurate account of the Colonial and State seals of Virginia has been published; but it is believed that Mr. E. S. Evans of this city, formerly of the Virginia State Library, has material for a valuable work on the subject. The best account yet published is in Vol. IV, William and Mary Quarterly.

L’r to Mr. Leheup to present Case about Fines &c. on Northern Neck, 1726 or ’27.

1By the Northern Neck patent issued by Charles II and confirmed by James II, the General Assembly of Virginia was given full power to impose taxes on the territory of the Northern Neck and to make and execute laws for the people of that section in the same manner as for those in other portions of the Colony (Hening, IV, 519). The Northern Neck never was in any sense, a palatinate, or had any independent jurisdiction. The proprietors, Culpeper, Fairfax, &c., simply owned the lands, and such profits as quit rents and escheats, which arose from them.

PAPERS IN REGARD TO THE FORT LAND AT POINT COMFORT.*

Blanfield Dec'r ye 7th 1742.

Hon'ble Sir:

When I had the honour to dine with you at W'msburg I show'd you my Patent for Point Comfort which includes the Fort and all the buildings and as the Government hath thought fit to build them there without giving me any thing for my Land I think I have an undisputed Right to them all, but as I design to sell the Land and would avoid a Lawsuit I hope the Governor & Council will be pleased to buy All the Island &c of me and as I may recover the Fort & buildings I hope that they will not scruple to give me £120 Sterl'g for the whole there being 120 acres more or less. I beg the favour of you to lay this matter before the Governor and Council & to let me know what I am to expect. Pray pardon me for Giving you this trouble for I am most sincerely Hon'ble Sir,

*There was a long contest over the title to the land at Old Point Comfort whereon Fort George was built; but the Colonial government evidently believed that Beverley had a legal title to the land. Unless it had been escheated it is difficult to see how there could have been any unpatented land at Old Point as late as 1706.

Memorial of Thomas Bullitt.\(^6\)

\(^5\)Henry Embry was at this time commander of the militia of Lunenburg county. He was a Burgess for that county at the sessions of October, 1748, and April, 1749, and died in 1763. See this Magazine, XVII, 100.

\(^6\)On February 19, 1754, Governor Dinwiddie issued a proclamation offering a bounty of 200,000 acres on the east side of the Ohio to such volunteer officers and soldiers of Virginia in the war with France as should deserve the same (\textit{Hening}, VII, 661, 662). Thomas Bullitt served with distinction throughout the war and was appointed Adjutant General of Virginia at the beginning of the Revolution.
Close of the war your Memorialist, did engage to act for several of the officers (not present) Claimers in the Two hundred thousand Acres of Land, and being desirous of Complying with his ingagement, with due deference to the superior wisdom of the board, would propose, that as the distinction of ranks will probably be made in Quantity, the further preference of Choice, may not Likewise be given as it will enable a Few principle officers, by Annexing Purchased Claims to their own, to Lay of and possess themselves of the Most Fertile parts of these Lands, without Giving their Fellow Soldiers, the Equitable Chance of Balloting for Choice, where it is not agreed on, Your Memorialist always submitting his opinion to the Superior wisdom of the Board, would further observe the Undeterminate Allotment of these Lands by the Proclamation, as the Express words of it Imploys they are Given as a reward, to the officers and soldiers according to their Respective Merits, this seems to be a necessary Consideration of Your Honours, before any Devisition Can be Made. And so some Cadets served on the Canpeign 1754, who had not their Comissions made out for them, Till after the Action of the Meadows, tho Vacancys Happened to which they succeeded before, (which is the Case with your Memorialist) hope they will be Considered, otherwise they will be Excluded the Bounty Intended by the Proclamation.

Your Memorialist as in duty Bound will pray.

Thomas Bullitt, his Memorial read in Council Oct. 31, 1770.
At same time Claim of Col. Carlyles was put in, and ment’d in a private letter to Mr. Fairfax.

Memorial7 of James Abercromby.

The Memorial of James Abercromby, Agent for the Government of Virginia in Support of The Address to his Majesty from the Council of Virginia.

7In 1755 the English government had directed Governor Dinwiddie to give to South Carolina £2,000 out of the public money of Virginia which was subject to the Governor's warrant. He obeyed; but the use of the Colony's funds, without its consent, brought forth a strong protest from the Council of Virginia.
Humbly Sheweth, That your memorialist being Instructed, in the Most Earnest and peremptory manner, by the Council of Virginia, To make Use of every Consistant Argument, and means that can be Suggested, to his Majesty’s Ministers, for Supporting the Address, which he has the Honour herewith to put into your hands, and in which they Conceive, that his Majesty’s Service, and the peace and quiet of that Colony, is most Essentially Interested.

Your memorialist thereupon, in the first place, begs leave to Observe, that the Council of Virginia, by the Constitution of that Colony, are The Judges, and the only Judges of Law in the Province, And as such, that they are called upon, by Virtue of their Office, to take Notice of, and to Maintain the Laws of the Province, whether in Council or on the Bench, and Accordingly with great Humility, and respect, they have pointed out to his Majesty in how far The Warrant now in question, and, the Secretary of States Letter to Lieutenant Governor Dinwiddie in Consequence of Such Warrant, do Appear to them, to be Inconsistent with the principles, and with the Letter of the Laws of Virginia.

Secondly, That as the Council of State for the said province, as privy Councillors, in provincial Matters, they are in Duty bound, to Represent to the Crown, whatever may advance or prejudice, the service of Government, and therefore, with great Judgment and prudence, they have Taken up the Consideration of this Matter, as a Matter of State, and without throwing it into the hands of the Legislature, and the house of Burgesses, which in the Critical posture of Affairs in the Province, must have Distracted their Measures, Distressed his Mastey’s Service and disquieted the Minds of the people in America, where Accord and Unanimity In Government Measures, is so Essentially Necessary Against the Common Enemy; and with so great Circumspection, the Council of Virginia have Acted on this Occasion, that they have kept in profound Secrecy, from The House of Burgesses, the Application of the money (in Consequence of his Majesty’s Orders) to Extra provincial Services.

That the Council of Virginia, thus Situated, Actuated by no other Motive; from no other principle, than that of his Majestys Service, and the peace and Tranquility of his Majestys Subjects
Inhabiting Virginia, thro' the Security of their Laws, have with great propriety Addressed his Majesty, that he will be pleased, to reconsider the Warrant mentioned in their said Address, And to revoke the same, Together with his Orders Given in Consequence thereof, to Governor Dinwiddie Amongst many others, for these following Reasons, which they Conceive to be well founded on the principles of the Laws of the Country, on the Rules of Sound Policy of State, with regard to Plantation Government and on Prudence, with regard to Virginia.

And First, Because that it does Appear to them, by Comparing the Kings Warrant, with the Act of Assembly of Virginia of the 23d of Car. 2d Cap 3 S 2 fo. 32 in the Book of Virginia Laws, "Intitled An Act for raising a publick Revenue for the better Support of the Government of his Majestys Colony of Virginia." That the said Warrant is Inconsistent with, and not Grounded on the principles of the Law, in so far as that, the Money arising from the Duty of Tobacco in Virginia, is Directed in, and by the said Warrant, to answer and to repay, Services of other Governments as well as that of Virginia.

Whereas, the Law does direct, the Money arising from such Duty, to the purposes of the Government of Virginia only: And, it is to be here observed, that the Averment, in the Pre-amble, to that part of the Warrant relative to the Application of this Duty does Declare (and, In so far, does agree with the Law) that the Duty, of 2s. 6d. hogshead on Tobacco in Virginia is applicable to the Contingent Expense of Government There meaning Virginia. Nevertheless, by Subsequent Words therein Set forth, it does direct the Application of the said Money, so arising from the said fund, to Answer the Services and purposes of Other Governments, a Latitude thereby taken, which if by no means Given, by the Law, the Words whereof, as set forth in the Address, are Expressly, that the said Duty, so Granted to his Majesty his Heirs and Successors, shall be to, and for no other Use, Intent, or purpose whatsoever, then that of Virginia; In so far then, the Letter from the Secretary of State to Lieut. Governor Dinwiddie, in Consequence of this Warrant, Directing him to pay One Thousand pounds of the Money Arising from this Duty, in Virginia, to the Government of South Carolina, must be deemed, manifestly Repugnant to the Express Letter of the Law of Virginia; which Law, nor any other Law in the plantations, Assented to by the Crown, without an Infringement of the Rights of the People, cannot be Dispensed with, and on this principle alone, the Council of Virginia Confiding in the Rectitude of his Majestys Government, might have rested their Address To his Majesty, for the Reconsideration of this Warrant and for the Revocation thereof, together with the Letter of State in Consequence of the Warrant, as being Repugnant to the Laws of the Country.

But, the Council of Virginia, being Sensible how much The Fate of this their Address may Influence the Measures of all Other his Majestys American Governments, as well as Virginia, from the principles of Policy, as well as of Law.

They think it becomes them, therefore, in Duty to his Majesty thereupon further to urge, the Revocation of this Warrant, and the Necessity of a very Strict Adherance, on the part of Crown, to the principles, and to the Express Letter of the Law: Because, the Law now in Question, is the only Instance in Law, and the Government of Virginia, the only Government in north America, Wherein that Capital Point of Government, so Essentially Necessary for his Majestys Service in the Plantations, and which of late, has been very wisely, more particularly Attended to, by those at the head of the plantation Affairs, has been Effectually Carried into Execution, by the Law, in Terminis of the Kings Instruction, for the Establishment of a permanent, & Indefinite Revenue by Law, Applicable by the Governor & Council, without the Intervention of the Assembly, for Defraying the Necessary Charges of Government, any the least Deviation then, from the principles of this Law, by the Application of the Money thereby Given to the Crown, for provincial purposes only, towards Extra Services, in other Governments, it is humbly Conceived must Defeat the Operation of the said Instruction, and prove a perpetual Bar, and Example to future Assemblies, against their granting permanent & Indefinite Revenues to the Crown, for provincial Services.

Lastly the Council of Virginia, to Legal and Political Arguments, in Support of their Address, have very wisely pointed out, to his Majesty's Consideration, prudential Reasons, why the further Operation of this Warrant (admitting the same as it now stands, was not Lyable to Exceptions in point of Law) should now be restrained, in its further Operation, Because, this Revenue of 2 Shillings ³⁄₄ Hogshead, being the only Revenue, in the hands of the Crown, Subject to the disposal of the Governor and Council, in Subordination never the less, to the Orders of the Crown, According to Law, for the Ordinary and Extraordinary Exigences, of the Government of Virginia, as the Warrant now stands quo ad the Extraordinary Exigencies of Government, the hands of Government are thereby tyed up, in so far as that, the half yearly Balance thereof, According to the Letter of the Warrant, is become mortgaged, To the Use of the pay Office only; and in so far therefore, Absolutely Anihilated as to any Extraordinary, and Eventual Emergencies of Government, that may require Immediate provision, as in the Case of Arms, taken Notice of in the Address. And so in fact, from the Strict Execution of this Warrant, by Governor Dinwiddie Upon the last Ballance, there now remains in the hands of the Government of Virginia, no more than Seven Hundred pounds, a Sum, by no means equal to Answer Extraordinary Exigency of Government, in time of Eminent Danger, especially, when it comes Attended, with this Meloncholy Circumstance, that in proportion, as the Danger and Exigency of Government do Increase, that the Fund for the Support of Government does decrease in its produce. Consequently, the Ballance, beyond the Ordinary Expence of Government, greatly reduced; a Consideration Added to that of the Necessity, of Resupplying the provincial Military Magazine with Arms and other Implements of War, and the many Urgent Reasons Offered by the Council of Virginia, it is humbly hoped, may Engage his Majestys favour, in now totally revoking the said Warrant inasmuch as that the said Warrant has been fully Carried into Execution by the Lieu’t Governor, so far as the present posture of Affairs will Admit of, or that his Majesty will be Graciously pleased, to put such Construction thereon, as may reconcile the further Operation thereof To the Rules of Law, and the peace quiet and Security, of the Government of Virginia.

For which good purposes Your Memorialist Earnestly begs Leave to crave the Interposition of Your good Offices In Con junction with those of his Majestys Ministers.
And your Memorialist shall &c't,

James Abercromby.

To his Grace the Duke of Newcastle.

1Thomas Stagg or Stegg, a merchant, ship owner and planter, who seems to have divided his time between London and Virginia. His home in the colony was in Charles City county, though he and his son owned much land near the present Richmond, which was inherited by the Byrds. Thomas Stegg was appointed to the Council in 1642, but either did not accept or was soon superseded, as at the session of Assembly, March, 1642-3, he represented Charles City, and was Speaker of the House of Burgesses. It is curious that shortly before receiving this important commission from Parliament, he was appointed by Charles II, when at Breda, a member of a new Virginia Council, apparently intended to be strongly royalist. He, with his colleague Captain Dennis was lost on the ship John on their way to Virginia. His will, proved July 14, 1652, is in Waters' Gleanings, 101, and that of his son Thomas Stegge, member of the Council and Auditor General, proved May 15, 1671, is in the same work, page 102. The latter died without issue, leaving his estate to his nephew, William Byrd, first of the name.

Orders of the Council of State, September 25, 1651.

That it be referred to the Committee of the Admiralty to consider what is fit to be done concerning the discovery* that is to be made to the west of the Falls of James River in Virginia and present to the Council what they think fit to be done thereon.

*It is evident that many royalists came to Virginia without special passes to go to that Colony. For instance such well known men as Guy Molesworth, Henry Norwood and Philip Honeywood do not appear to have had passes to go to Virginia.

*This doubtless refers to the exploring trip made by Edward Bland and others from Appomattox River toward the southwest. An account, The Discovery of New Brittaine, was published in London in 1651.
That the petition of William Wood desiring liberty to carry shoes to Virginia be referred to the Committee of the Admiralty to consider what proportions are fit to be allowed to be carried thither and to report their opinion therein to the Council.

That an Instruction be drawn up for Sir George Ayscue to make him a Commissioner in Virginia with the rest of the Comm'rs now sent from hence if he shall come thither.

That an Instruction be drawn up for Capt. Robt. Dennis to open when he shall be twenty leagues to the west of the Scillies according to the debate now had at the Council.

That it be added as an Instruction to the Comm'rs for Virginia wherein to express that for their pains and travel herein, they shall when the service is finished be considered by the Council according to their said service.

That the Committee for prisoners have power to dispose the Scots Ministers who are prisoners so as the Merchants for every 200 men they have do carry over one Scottish Minister gratis & that when they come there they be free from servitude.

Rev. Thomas Harrison, the Puritan minister who had been expelled from Virginia.
[Lord Baltimore's] Reason of State Concerning Maryland, 1652, August ?.

It is much better to keep that Government still divided from Virginia as it hath been for twenty years past, than to unite them, for by that means this Commonwealth will have more power over both by making one an instrument to keep the other in their due obedience. In case of any defection in either Colony, as lately was in Virginia, the other may be a place of refuge for such as shall continue faithful to this Commonwealth, as Maryland lately was, which she could not have been had they been united. It will cause an emulation in both which shall give the better account of their proceedings to the supreme authority of this Commonwealth and also the better satisfaction to the planters & adventurers of both. Lord Baltimore having an estate and his residence in England, this Commonwealth will have a better assurance of the due obedience of that Plantation and the Planters and Adventurers thither of having right done to them in case the Government thereof have still a dependance on him and he upon this Commonwealth as he had before on the late King, than if the Govern't of that place at so remote a distance should be disposed of into other hands who had little or nothing here to be responsible for it, And whose interest and residence were wholly there. By the continuance of his interest in the Govern-m't thereof this Commonwealth and the people there are eased of the charge of a Deputy Governor, which he at his own charge maintains, the inhabitants being yet so poor (and so likely to be for many years) as that they are not able to contribute anything towards it. If Lord Baltimore should by this Commonwealth be prejudiced in his Patent and right to that Province it would be a great discouragement to others in Foreign Plantations upon any exigency to adhere to this Commonwealth, because it is notoriously known that by his express directions his Officers & the people there did adhere to the interest of this Commonwealth when all other English Plantations (except New England) declared against the Parliament & at that time received their friends in time of distress, for which he was like divers times to be deprived of his interest there by the Colony of Virginia & others who adhered to the late King & his son. And it would much reflect upon the honour of the Parliam't, if he should, as he would in that case, be a laughing stock to their Enemies and his, for his fidelitys & affection to this Commonwealth. Indorsed "Lord Baltemore's paper ab't Maryland in Virginia."

NOTE—FRANCIS LOVELACE, &c.

Francis Lovelace, Governor of New York, was long believed to have been identical with the second son of Richard, first Baron Lovelace of Hurley; but recently it has been ascertained that he was of a different family, and was really the Royalist officer who came to Virginia during the Civil war.

In a volume in the Congressional Library which was bought from President Jefferson and which contains copies of miscellaneous historical records relating to Virginia, are two documents signed by Francis Lovelace, Governor of New York. The first of these is a letter evidently written to Governor Berkeley of Virginia. It is as follows:

Deare Sir:

Since my last to you sent by Mr. Machen in answere to yo'rs I receiued a letter from Mr. Tho. Todd of Mockjack bay who being appointed Guardian to the will Whitbey's son by my neice Mrs. Ruth Gorsuch he having hitherto taken great care and paines in the adjusting his interest in severall plantations being devolve to him by the death of his father. Mr. Tod desired me to signify to you that this lad I have brought over is the recitable child, and heare to Mr. Whitby w'ch by these I declare to be soe and if you be satisfied with this relacon w'ch I assure you upon the faith of a Xtian and Honor of a gentleman you may rest assured of it but if the ceremony of an oath be requisite I shalbe ready (if desired as necessary) to make my Deposicon of it, and I shall furt'r desire of you that when an application is made to you in his behalfe you would affourd him what favor and countenance the Justness of his cause & pr'tentions will beare he is now an orphant & I have been at considerable charge both to his transport education & clothing expecting noe other retorne but when he is in a capacity to make it onely to re-imburse me with what I have expended for him.
S' r I know his cause is safe in yo' r hands to whome I must refer him & the experience all that know you have of yo' r justice & compan * * * (?) in p'tecting the fatherles shall be argum' ts sufficient that I shall not miscarry in these my desires for him in gratitude of w' ch I can pay noe other returne but if you please to prepare any service for me you shall find me most ready to obey in when you reflect upon what I subscribe w' ch is,

Yo' r most assured faithful servant,

Fran: Lovelace.

From ye Barbadoes I hear yo' r Bro: Ld. Berkeley is designed to be governor but the truth I refer to your Consideracon. Mr. Winthrop Newley sent me This newes w' ch here inclosed will Kisse yo' r hands adue, Jeames Fort 6th Decemb' r, 1669.

Jan. ye 7th, 1669.

Richard Awborne was clerk of the Virginia Council, and this letter was evidently recorded for young Whitby's benefit.

The other paper is entitled "Resolutions for the settlem' nt of Comerce to and from all his Maj'tes Plantations in America and other places to the port of New York & the rest of his Royall Highness his Territoryes not p'hibited by act of Parliam't," and concludes "Given und'r my hand at Fort James in New York on Manhatans Island the 18th day of November, 1668.

Fran. Lovelace."

This also had been copied into the Virginia Records and attested by Awborne.

In the present discussion this last paper is valuable as proving that the writer of the letter to Berkeley was certainly Governor Lovelace of New York.

The chain of evidence which appears to contradict the commonly accepted statement in regard to Governor Lovelace's family begins with the pedigree of a family of Gorsuch in the Visitation of London, 1633-4.
(Harleian Society, p. 327.) In this pedigree it is stated that John Gorsuch, rector of Walkhome, Hertfordshire, 1633, married Anne, daughter of Sir William Lovelace, of Kent, Knight, and had the following children, at the time of the visitation: 1. Daniel "about 4 a' o 1633;" 2. John; 3.
William; 4. Cathrin.

On April 1st, 1657, Richard, Robert and Charles Gorsuch, sons and co-heirs of John Gorsuch, "P'fessor in Divinity," petitioned the Court of Lancaster county, Va., that their sister, Katherine Whitty, might be their guardian for "such estate as doth in any ways belong to them in England," and that Francis Moryson [afterwards governor of Virginia] be their guardian for Virginia.

Shortly afterwards all of these boys removed to the eastern shore of Maryland. The records of that colony not only make notice of them, but also show that they had another brother, Lovelace Gorsuch, and a sister Anne, who married Thomas Todd of Mockjack (now Mobjack) Bay, Gloucester county, Va.

The Quaker records of West River, Maryland, contain the record of marriage, in 1690, of Charles Gorsuch, "son of John and Anne Gorsuch of the Kingdom of England, deceased," and Anne Hawkins. In 1669 Charles and Lovelace Gorsuch confirmed title to certain lands which had been granted to Lovelace Gorsuch in 1661.

On January 13, 1676 7, Mrs. Anne Todd made a deed to her children and appointed her brother, Chas. Gorsuch, trustee.

It seems certain then that John Gorsuch, the "Professor in Divinity" was identical with Rev. John Gorsuch of Walkhome, who married Anne, daughter of Sir William Lovelace of Kent, and that one of his daughters Ruth married William Whitby of Virginia, while another Anne married Thomas Todd of the same colony. This explains at once why Thomas Todd was appointed, as stated by Governor Lovelace, guardian to William Whitby, Jr. Young Whitby was the nephew of Todd's wife.

When these facts were made clear the rest of the identification of Governor Lovelace seems easy. Sir William Lovelace of Kent, the father of Mrs. Anne Gorsuch, was also the father of Richard Lovelace, the poet. The other sons of Sir William were: Col. Francis (of "Lucasta"), Thomas and Dudley.

The Dictionary of National Biography only knows of Col. Francis Lovelace, that he served the Royalist Cause in Wales, and commanded Caermarthen from June, 1644, until it was captured by Langhorne in October, 1645.

From Governor Lovelace's friendship with Berkeley, it seems very probable that it was indeed he (and not the son of Lord Lovelace as stated in the D. N. B.) who received licence from the Council in 1650 to go to Virginia, and who in May, 1652, was sent by Berkeley to inform Charles II of the surrender of Virginia to the Parliamentary forces.

Francis Lovelace and the members of the Gorsuch family, evidently came in the large royalist emigration to Virginia during the Civil War.

In conclusion it may be worth while to trace Governor Lovelace's kinsman and protege, William Whitby, Jr.

William Whitby, the elder, the husband of Ruth Gorsuch, lived in Warwick county, Va., and was Speaker of the House of Burgesses in 1653. He received two considerable grants of land, one in Warwick where he lived, and another on Potomac Creek.

The son resided in Middlesex County, Va., and appears to have led an uneventful life and to have died unmarried. His will, as that of William Whitby of Pyanketank River in the county of Middlesex, "planter," was dated July, 1676, and proved July 23, 1677. He gave "to Major Robert Beverley £100, Mrs. Mary Kibble [Keeble] £100, and my brother, Joseph Summers £200, all out of a rent due me out of Kent in Englnad;" John Cocking to have 700 acres, and John Wright 500, both on Moratico Creek; his land on Potomac Creek to be divided equally between his brother, Joseph Summers and Mrs. Mary Kibble, and also makes a bequest to Thomas Todd. Summers and Beverley, Executors.

In examining the history of the Lovelace family and its connections with Virginia a very interesting series of relationships was discovered, which shows how, at a time when kinship had much more weight than today, a number of persons, having common interests, were linked together. There is a very remarkable exhibition of how men and families, who for several generations took a foremost part in Protestantizing England, in opposing Spain, and in discovery and colonization, were connected by blood or marriage. The younger and the elder William Lovelace were members of the Virginia Company, and the former died fighting for the Dutch Republic against Spain. The wife of the latter was first cousin to the wife of Sir Humphrey Gilbert, the half-brother of Raleigh, a connection which no doubt brought with it a deep interest in American colonization. The wife of Sir William Lovelace the younger, was a niece of the two Sandys', George, the poet, and treasurer of the Virginia Company, who while at Jamestown made part of his translation of Ovid, and Sir Edwin, who was imprisoned for parliamentary opposition to James I, and was chiefly instrumental in giving Virginia her first legislature, and in inducing the King to permit the Puritan fathers to settle in America. Lady Lovelace's father, Archbishop Sandys, had been imprisoned for heresy during Mary's reign and had been one of the Protestant exiles. Another line of ancestry went back through the family of Barnes, great merchants and civic dignitaries of London, who were active in the earliest of the English movements for trade and discovery, and who were also ancestors of Christopher Carleil, (one of the great soldiers and sailors of the Elizabethan era, and Drake's most efficient second in the famous campaign in the West Indies and the Spanish main in 1584-5) and of one of the wives of Sir Francis Walsingham, the Queen's celebrated minister. In this line, also came a connection by marriage with Philip Sidney. Others in this great group were Sir Dudley Digges, interested in exploration and settlement in many quarters, and father of Edward Digges, Governor of Virginia; and Sir Francis Wyatt, twice Governor of the Colony.

These connections can be better shown by a chart,
Sir George Barnes, Sr. = Alice Brooke
Lord Mayor of London 1552-3, the first merchant adventurer to Barbary, Russia and Genoa; an incorporator of the first English Company for discovery, &c., in 1551; a "principal doer" in sending Sir Hugh Willoughby to the North East in 1553, and a friend of Bishop Ridley (the martyr). He died Feb. 8, 1558.

Sir George Barnes, Jr. = Ann Gerrard.
Lord Mayor of London 1586-7, a leading merchant adventurer. D. Feb. 8, 1592.

Sir William Gerrard = Isabel Nethermill.
b. 1507, d. Sept. 27, 1571; Lord Mayor of London 1555.

Sir Anthony Aucher = Affra Cornwallis of Otterden, Kent.

Mabel Wrothe = Edward Aucher.

John Aucher = Ann Kellaway.

Joan Aucher = Sir Humphry Gilbert.
As is well known, he was a half brother of Sir Walter Raleigh.

Anne Barnes = (1) Alexander Carlyle = (2) Sir Francis Walsingham, K. G. = (2) Ursula St. Barbe. died on a voyage in 1585. Queen Elizabeth's famous minister.

Christopher Carlyle = Mary Walsingham. Frances Walsingham = (1) Sir Philip Sidney, (2) Robert Devereux, Earl of Essex, the favorite of Elizabeth.

Elizabeth Colepeper = Thos. Wilford, Esq. = Rose Whetenhall.

GEENEALOGY.

THE BRENT FAMILY.
Compiled by W. B. Chilton, Washington, D. C.

GEORGE BRENT OF WOODSTOCK OR AQUIA.

George Brent, the son of George Brent and Marianna Peyton and grandson of Richard Brent and Elizabeth Reed came to Virginia about the year 1650, settled in Stafford county and received large grants of land including the estates of Woodstock* and Brenton. From the †Drummer, July 28, August 28. £2.10. Total am’t pay roll for the month, £175.

*Map entitled “Virginia and Maryland as it is planted and inhabited this present year 1670. Surveyed and exactly drawn by the only labor and endeavor of Augustin Herrmann. Scales 12 miles to the inch, published in 1673.” Shows location of Brent’s house on Aquia Creek.

A legend on the Herrmann map states that the region between the Roanoke and James Rivers abounds in “tygers, bears and other devouring creatures.”

In Justin Windsor’s Critical and Narrative History of America it is stated that Augustine Herman and Resolved Waldron were Embassadors on behalf of the New Netherland to the Governor of Maryland in 1659.

In the outfit of a settler enumerated by Smith (Capt. John) is the item, a complete suit of armor. It is of interest to note that portions of a steel cuirass, exhumed at Jamestown, are in the collection of the Virginia Historical Society at Richmond.
records of the period it appears that he was a man of ability and influence in the community in which he lived. On May 2, 1683, he was appointed by the Governor and Council Receiver General north of the Rappahanock. He was the partner in the practice of the law of William Fitzhugh and is referred to very frequently in the published letters of the latter, who addresses him as "brother," meaning no doubt his brother in the legal profession.

At some time prior to 1687, Nicholas Hayward the younger, together with his brother, Richard Foote, Robert Bristow, (the last two merchants of London) and George Brent, of Woodstock, Virginia, purchased from the proprietors of the Northern Neck thirty thousand acres of land in the present Prince William county, then in Stafford, which they called Brenton. Portions of this land, which lies about the present village of Brentsville, long remained in the possession of the descendants of the four purchasers. On February 10th, 1686-7, a proclamation issued by King James II authorizes the purchasers of the said tract to freely exercise their religion. Presumably all of them were Roman Catholics. A copy of this proclamation is here reproduced. It will be noticed that the privilege as to the exercise of their religion is granted not only to the individuals named, but to all the inhabitants of the town or tract mentioned.

Copy from the original formerly in the possession of the late J. C. Brent, Washington, D. C.

Right trusty and well beloved, Wee greet you well. Sam'l Scorey, Not. Pub'k.

At an earlier date, Governor Charles Calvert writes to his father Lord Baltimore (April 27, 1664): “We heare nothing as yet of the Pattent w'ch some Bristol Merchants has of that neck of land betwixt Rapa. & Potowmeck but its said when the ships are gone it will be product.” This probably refers to a previous patent. (Calvert Papers.)

From the letters of William Fitzhugh it appears that great efforts were made to build up the town of Brenton, which it was thought would be a valuable outpost to ward off attacks from the Indians.

WILLIAM FITZHUGH TO NICHOLAS HAYWOOD, APRIL 1, 1689.

* * * This sudden turn of times in England may perhaps at present give a check to the Increment of Brenton from your French expectation but I believe may be additionally supplied by those methods. Capt. Brent intimates though not plainly expresses, by being a Refuge and Sanctuary for Roman Catholics. * * *

Fitzhugh further intimates that every indulgence should be shown to Catholics who wished to settle in this part of Virginia.
In 1683, Fitzhugh writing to Lord Culpeper speaks of "Mr. Brent your Lordship's agent in these parts," referring evidently to George Brent. George Brent was a member of the Virginia House of Burgesses for Stafford county in 1688.

Bishop Meade in his "Old Churches Ministers and Families of Virginia," p. 205, referring to the records of Stafford county, going back to 1664, states: Among the items furnished in the presentment, in the year 1693, by Richard Gipson, of George and Robert Brent as being Papish recusants. He calls upon the court to assist upon their taking the test oath in order to [admit them] to the practice of the law. That oath is abjuration of trans-substantiation. The court sustains the presentment and requires them to take the oath; but they refuse and appeal to the General Court in Williamsburg. What was the issue we know not, but we believe that they were leading men at the Bar after that. One of them was associated in the practice with the first William Fitzhugh, and one of them was joint sponsor with the first George Mason at the baptism of an Indian boy whom they had taken prisoner."

The incident of the capture of the Indian boy and the fight with the Indians in which George Brent and Colonel Mason were engaged is described in an early account of Bacon's Rebellion as follows:

THE MORTON PATRIARCHS OF VIRGINIA.

By Daniel Morton, M. D., St. Joseph, Mo.

There were several men of the name Morton, living in Virginia prior to the year 1800, from whom have come distinct lines of descent. What relationship the heads of these families sustained to each other is unknown to me. In some instances their descendants have intermarried without any knowledge of kinship existing and really supposing that there was none. Anyone whose Morton ancestors lived in Virginia prior to 1800 is probably descended from one of these men. The information is believed to be accurate, though not all of it is documentary. If the reader can throw additional light upon the origin or relationship of these men he is requested to communicate with Daniel Morton, M. D., St. Joseph, Mo.

1. John Morton. In 1694, one, John Morton is found living in Northumberland county, Virginia, and in that year bought 157 acres of land in Richmond county from James Orchard. Presumably he then moved to Richmond county, and twenty-seven years later there is found in Richmond county, Sittenbourne Parish, one John Morton, presumably the same John, making his will and mentioning sons: 11, John; 12, William; 13, Thomas; 14, James; 15, Richard; wife Deborah, Mary and Winifred Morton, relationship not stated. One year later he died, his will being proved May 2, 1722.

John and William were cut off with four shillings each, otherwise there might have been subsequent court records confirming their sonship to John Morton. On the contrary it is possible that an advancement of their share of the estate had been made during the life time of the father and that the court records will show it. It is desirable to establish more firmly the fatherhood of this man John Morton, to Captain John Morton, Jr., and to William Morton, and to this end more record searching should be done in both Northumberland and Richmond counties. There is a persistent tradition in the family to the effect that, in early colonial times and long before the creation of the District of Columbia in 1790, the Mortons owned large tracts of land upon portions of which the city of Washington now stands. The District of Columbia was cut off in 1790 from two Maryland counties, Prince George and Montgomery, and a search of these two Maryland counties should be made. This tradition seems founded in fact when it is known that King Charles II granted a large tract of land in the Northern Neck of Virginia to some of his followers among them Sir William Morton, Knight. May it not be possible that Sir William sent to America a son who represented his father's interests and became the founder of one line of the Morton family in America? See Calendar State Papers, Charles II, Colonial Series. Lenox Library, New York City.

11. Captain John Morton, Jr., lived in Richmond county, Virginia, in 1713. He is variously spoken of as "John Morton, Jr.," "Lieutenant," After 1721, Capt. John Morton, Jr., seems to drop the suffix "Jr.," from his signature. This is easily accounted for when it is remembered that the man John Morton, 1, who is believed to be his father died at this time. Capt. John Morton, Jr., was a man of affairs as the records show and was constantly buying land. He must have been a man of energy.
He died without a will as proved by his wife in court, October 2, 1728.
He died a short time previously which fixes 1728 as the year of his death.
He married Mary Mountjoy, daughter of Alvin Mountjoy and Mary Lane Mountjoy. The Mountjoy family seems to have had large holdings of land and to have been wealthy. Mrs. John Morton, Jr., after the death of her husband in 1728, married William Jordan. This man must have had a strong personality and been highly esteemed by his kinsman, as his name had been handed down the line ever since as a given name for the Mortons. There have been many William Jordan Mortons since that time. By her Jordan husband, Mary Mountjoy had a son, John Morton Jordan, whom she doubtless named for her first husband. John Morton Jordan died July 23, 1771, and mentions in his will his wife Dorothy and a minor son John Nesbit Jordan.

111. Joseph Morton, of whom hereafter, married (1) Frances Colston, m. (2) Margaret Beckwith, dau. Sir Marmaduke Beckwith. 112. George Morton b. August 17, 1717, m. October 23, 1742, Lucy Baylor dau. Robert and Frances Baylor. Justice of Peace in King George county in 1744. Will dated July 8, 1765. Mentions sons: 1121, John; 1122, George; 1123, Robert Baylor; 1124, Joseph; 1125, daughter Frances Hedgeman, wife Lucy. Besides these children, George Morton is said to have had daughters, 1126, Elizabeth; 1127, Lucy; 1128, Patsy.

114. Frances Morton, m. (1) Nicholas Meriwether whose will is dated January 21, 1753, proved in Goochland county, July 18, 1758, m. (2) Dr. Samuel Pryor of Goochland, marriage bond August 27, 1760. No other facts concerning Frances Morton.

WILLIAM MORTON, ORANGE COUNTY.

Children: Morton:

121. Son Jeremiah m. Sarah Street? Mallory? Which?
122. Son Elijah m. Elizabeth Hawkins.
123. Daughter Ann, m. Henry Bourne prior to August, 1746.
125. Daughter Mary Minor? Or Morris? Which?
126. Daughter Jane, though his will does not mention her but does mention her husband Andrew Bourne.
127. Son John. Then under 21 years of age. He is believed to have married a Miss Bourne, sister of Henry and Andrew Bourne.
128. Son George. Though his name is not mentioned in will because he died before his father and prior to October 25, 1744. Will book 2, p. 21, shows qualification of Jeremiah Morton as administrator of George Morton, died October 25, 1744, and at page 30 the inventory and appraisement of personal estate of George Morton made October, 1744, amounted to £391 16s. 19d. There was a George Morton who married Margaret Strother, April 6, 1744, in Overwharton Parish, (see register) and lived but a few months. Perhaps he was this man, 128, George Morton.

None of William Morton's children were of age in January, 1734-5.

Although William Morton is commonly spoken of as being "William Morton of Orange county," my record researches prove that he previously lived in Richmond county and was married to Ann Mothershead daughter of Alvin Mothershead. While living there he is found associated in business transactions with Capt. John Morton, Jr. After 1736 however, William Morton drops from the Richmond county records and is found in Orange county, where he died in 1748. Although the proof is not positive, there is a good reason to believe that this same William Morton is identical with that William Morton who married Ann Batchellor, daughter of Thomas and Mary Batchellor of Westmoreland county Parish of Cople, lived at this latter place and had one son John. It would seem that he was twice married, one wife being Ann Batchellor, and one wife being Ann Mothershead. In 1827 at Russellville, Ky., Marmaduke Beckwith Mothershead, (a descendant of Capt. John Morton, Jr.,) and Nancy Caldwell, (a descendant of William Morton) were married, thus commingling the blood of the two men, who a century before lived side by side in Richmond county, Virginia. William Morton was an ancestor of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart, Confederate States of America. See William and Mary Quarterly Magazine, 1897-1898.

A large amount of documentary Morton data can be found in the Virginia Magazine History and Biography, Vols. 11 and 12.

In the account of the descendants of Ann Gregory, daughter of James Gregory and Patience Godwin, published in the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. XVI, No. 2, page 202, a grave error was made by the writer. A more correct and fuller account is here given.

V. Ann Gregory married Josiah Granbery of Chowan county, N. C. He was a member of the vestry of St. Paul's Church, Edenton. (North Carolina Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 1, No. 4, p. 607.) He was a member of the People's Assembly held at Newburn in April, 1775, and at Hillsboro on 25th August, 1775. (Wheeler's History of North Carolina, Chowan county, 90.) They had the following children: Thomas Granbery, John Granbery, James Granbery, Ann Granbery and Elizabeth Granbery.

1. Thomas Gregory born 1782, married Pherebee Peele Parker, daughter of Job Parker of Chowan. He died in 1828, leaving one child, Josiah Thomas Granbery who was born in 1806. Josiah Thomas Granbery on the 16th January, 1826, married Sarah Anne Baker Sawyer, daughter of Willis Sawyer of Bertie county, N. C., and Sarah Baker. This Sarah Baker was the daughter of John Baker and Mary Wynns. Sarah Anne Baker Sawyer was their only child to live. Josiah T. Granbery and Sarah Anne Baker Sawyer had a daughter, Mary Isabella Granbery who was their only child to live. Mary Isabella Granbery married Lucius Junius Johnson, a descendant of Elizabeth Gregory and Rev. Daniel Earl. He was a distinguished lawyer of Elizabeth City, N. C. He died in 1866, leaving his wife surviving him, who died in 1869. They had the following children: Sarah Ann Johnson, Mary Granbery Johnson, Charles Earl Johnson, Betsy Johnson, Granbery Johnson, James Madison Johnson and Henrietta Martin Johnson. Sarah Ann Johnson now living in Baltimore, Md., is their only surviving descendant; all the others have died without issue. Col. Josiah T. Granbery died in 1862, leaving his wife surviving him, who died in 1878. Col. Josiah T. Granbery lived and died in Perquimans county. He was a large property owner, a successful farmer and a leading citizen. On the 12th November, 1857, he was elected President of the Seaboard Agricultural Society, and under his administration the Fair held at Norfolk was a great success. In 1835 and 1836 he was a member of the House of Commons of the General Assembly for his county.

2. John Granbery married Mrs. ——— Cowper and had two children, John J. Granbery and George W. Granbery, both died unmarried. Their names are mentioned in Nansemond county Court's certificate of the heirs of Capt. John Gregory, made 9th December, 1833.

3. James Granbery married Nancy Gordon, daughter of Jacob Gordon and Bathsheba his wife of Gates county, whose will is dated 22 September, 1817. They had the following children: Joseph Gordon Granbery, Thomas John Granbery, Bathsheba A. Granbery, Wm. Geo. Granbery and Elizabeth Esther Granbery.

(b) Thomas John Granbery died unmarried.

(c) Bathsheba A. Granbery married James Leigh and had Richard Leigh who died unmarried.

(d) Wm. George Granbery married Sarah Simmons and had the following issue: Thomas Granbery, Mary Granbery, Lydia Granbery and James Granbery.

(e) Elizabeth Esther Granbery married Capt. Benjamin Shannonhouse and moved to Charlotte, N. C. She left several children.

4. Ann Granbery married William Wood of Perquimans county. His will was admitted to record November term, 1824. William Wood mentions in his will Anne his wife and his three children, William Edward Wood, Elizabeth Wood and Lucy Anne Wood.

(a) Dr. William Edward Wood married Sophie Martin Trotman, daughter of Ezekiel Trotman and Emily Dauge, a daughter of General Peter Dauge of the Revolution. Dr. William Edward Wood and his wife Sophie had children, of whom the following are living: Dr. Julian E. Wood, Rev. Thomas Granbery Wood, Charles Stanton Wood, Mary Shaw Wood, Annie Granbery Wood, now wife of J. T. Whitehurst.

(b) Elizabeth Wood married Rev. James G. Hall and moved to Mississippi. Eight of the family died with the yellow fever. Their son Dr. William Hall was a surgeon in the Confederate Army, and their son James G. Hall, Jr., was a judge in Tennessee.

(c) Lucy Anne Wood died unmarried.

5. Elizabeth Granbery married Joseph Gordon, son of Jacob Gordon and his wife Bathsheba, and had the following children: Mary G. Gordon, Bathsheba N. Gordon and Jane Gregory Gordon.

(a) Mary G. Gordon married John Jacob Harvey her first cousin and had Elizabeth Gordon Harvey and Mary Granberry Harvey.

(b) Bathsheba N. Gordon married first John L. Shannonhouse and had Benjamin Gordon Shannonhouse, Thomas Lynch Shannonhouse and Nora Gordon Shannonhouse; and married secondly, Edwin Brace and had by him Elizabeth Granberry Brace and Belle Gordon Brace.
(c) Jane Gregory Gordon married Arthur Lee Butt and had by him: Margaretta Tucker Butt, Jennie Weaver Butt and Fannie Arthur Butt.

20. John Robinson (John) was born “February ye 3d about io of the Clock In the Afternoon * * Ann. Dom. 1704” (Register) in Middlesex County, and died May 11, 1766, at his home, “Mt. Pleasant,” in King and Queen county. Unlike a number of other members of his family he was educated entirely in Virginia, completing his studies at William and Mary College. The influence of his family, and his own wealth, ability, great generosity and genial manners soon brought him into prominence. For many years he was probably the most influential man in Virginia. He was a member of the House of Burgesses for King and Queen at the session of Aug., 1736, and, without intermission, represented that county in thirty-nine sessions, dying as a member-elect. He was Speaker 1738-1765, and Treasurer of Virginia during the same period. The years during which Mr. Robinson was Speaker and Treasurer covered a period of great prosperity in Virginia, and at the same time one of extravagance and expensive living. As has been stated the Speaker was an open hearted and open handed man and liberally responded, from his own means, to numerous appeals for loans. When this recourse could not be used farther he lent the paper money of the Colony which had been redeemed and which, by law, he was directed to destroy. He also lent other public money. This was, of course, a very grave breach of trust; but it seems certain that Speaker Robinson expected to be easily able to return the whole from the payments of his creditors or from his own estate. In the end, after many years, this was indeed done.

Among the well-known incidents of his life is the occasion, when by order of the House, he was to tender a vote of thanks to Colonel Washington. The modest officer arose and tried in vain to express his thanks. “Sit down, Mr. Washington,” said the courtly Speaker, “your modesty equals your valor, and that surpasses the power of any language I possess.” And in 1765, horrified by Patrick Henry’s boldness, Mr.
JOHN ROBINSON,
SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF BURGESS.

From a portrait in the possession of Mrs. Benjamin Robinson.
Robinson interrupted the famous speech on the Resolutions with the cry of "Treason."

After Speaker Robinson's death it was found that he owed the public £100,761 7. 5, and that the debts due his estate amounted to £105,000.

The Committee of the Assembly appointed to examine into this defalcation also reported that besides the outstanding debts, the estate of which the said John Robinson died seized and possessed consisted of about 4,000 acres of land where he lived, in the county of King and Queen, about 3,200 acres on Morocosick, in that county and Caroline, about 6,500 acres in the county of Spotsylvania, about 4,250 acres in the county of Hanover, 1,200 acres in the county of King and William, some houses and lots in the city of Williamsburg, and about 400 acres of land in the county of James City all of which lands might be reasonably valued at £11,000; besides which he was interested in one third part in some lands and slaves employed working a lead mine in the county of Augusta, and the whole of those lands and slaves were bound to reimburse him the sum of £8,000, advanced for carrying on the said works; he was also interested in one share in the Dismal Swamp, and some slaves employed in draining the same, and that he died possessed of about 400 slaves and a considerable personal estate.

An examination of the above pedigree shows that all statements are verified by reference to the wills, registers and deeds. A doubt may arise in the minds of some as to the identity of Will'm Plesants¹ 1583 of St. Paul's Norwich with William Plesannce husband of Katherine Plesanne¹ 1558 of All Saints, Norwich. Reference to the latter's will shown that her husband is left in unrestricted possession of the All Saint's dwelling only during the minority of his son Robert², and that he probably moved to St. Paul's parish about the time of his second marriage. The ownership of property in both parishes by Robert² seems to settle the question of identity, in connection with the other evidence.

It is regretted that a careful search of the Norwich records prior to 1550 with a view to carrying back the pedigree further was not practicable. The indices of wills prior to this date are very defective, in many cases being under Christian names only. It seems quite possible that Will'm Plesants¹ might be traced back in descent from William Plesannce, brewer 33 Henry VI (1454) mentioned in Rye's "Calendar of Freeman of Norwich," which is the earliest mention of the name found.

HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL NOTES AND QUERIES.

Errata.—In the memoir of the late Joseph Bryan, published in the April magazine, the following corrections should be made: on p. iv, l. 1 of note, for "grandson" read "son;" on p. vii, omit "(who in time married Col. Scriven of Georgia)" on l. 5 of note; on p. viii, l. 2 of note omit the comma after Navy; on p. xxxiv, l. 16 insert "the" before "lot."

Scarborough.

The following extract from a list of "Grants and Certificates of Arms," in the Genealogist (xxv, 249) throws light on the Virginia family of Scarborough: "Scarburgh, Henry, John and Edmund, sons of Henry Scarborough of North Walsham, Co. Norfolk, confirmation of arms and grant of crest, to Sept. 1614, or, a chevron, between 3 towers gules. Crest: From a mural coronet gules, a demi-lion or, supporting a spear erect, on the point a Saracen's head all ppr., the latter wreathed argent and azure. Add. Ms. 12, 225." It is pretty clear that the Edmund Scarborough here mentioned was the Virginia emigrant. Further evidence is afforded by the records of the Provincial Court of Maryland (Lib. P. C., fol. 52-53). 16 October, 1668, Henry Scarborough of Norwalsham in the County of Norfolk, Gent., gives letter of attorney to Edmund Scarborough the elder of Accomack in Virginia, Esq., and Charles Scar borough of the same place, Gent., to receive all debts due him in Maryland or Virginia, &c. Witnesses: Robert Pitt, James Weedon. 1

Colony of Virginia, Gent., attorney of Henry Scarborough of Norwal-sham in the County of Norfolk, in England, gives power of attorney to

GEORGE MERCER TO THE KING.

1772, February 20, London. Copy of a memorial, with a memorandum that the Earl of Hillsborough has the original in his possession, requesting some reward for his services in North America during the late war.

Accompanied by a copy of another Memorial presented in June 1766 to the Lords of the Treasury, recounting what he had gone through on account of his employment in Virginia as distributor of stamps and desiring repayment for the expense he was obliged to incur.

3 pages and 1½ pages respectively, (p. 82).

[George Mercer a son of John Mercer of "Marlborough," Stafford county, Va.; served as Captain and Lieutenant Colonel in the French and Indian War, and being in England in 1765, was appointed one of the collectors under the Stamp Act.

Campbell's History of Virginia, doubtless quoting the Virginia Gazette, states that "In the last week of October [1765] George Mercer distributor of stamps for Virginia, landed at Hampton and was rudely treated by a mob, who by the interposition of some influential gentleman were prevailed on to desesperate without offering him any personal injury. At Williamsburg, as he was walking toward the Capitol, on the way to the Governor's palace, he was required by several gentlemen from different counties, the General Court being in session, to say whether he intended to enter on the duties of his office. At his request he was allowed to wait on the Governor before replying, and was accompanied to the coffee-house, where the Governor, most of the Council, and many gentlemen were assembled. The crowd increasing and growing impatient in their demands, Mr. Mercer came forward and promised to give a categorical answer at five o'clock the next evening. At that time he met a large concourse of people, including the leading merchants of the Colony. He then engaged not to undertake the execution of the Stamp Act until he received further orders from England, nor then, without the assent of the Assembly of Virginia. He was immediately borne out of the Capitol gate, amid loud acclamations, and carried to the coffee-house, where an elegant entertainment was prepared for him and was welcomed there by renewed acclamations, drums beating, and French horns and other musical instruments sounding, at night the bells were set a ringing and the town was illuminated."

The news of the acceptance of a position as Stamp Act Collector by a member of a well known Virginia family and one who had been in the military service and the legislature of the Colony, caused intense feeling. One of the manifestations of it was the burning of Col. Mercer in effigy at Westmoreland Court House. As this act was believed to have been chiefly instigated by Richard Henry Lee, who had been charged with applying for a position as Stamp Collector, the indignation of Mercer’s brothers in Virginia was aroused and some angry correspondence appeared in the Gazette for 1768.

George Mercer’s position in Virginia was probably not comfortable and he soon returned to England. As his estate consisted chiefly of Virginia lands, distant from the seaboard, he appears to have been reduced to great financial straits. Among the Adams papers in the collection of this Society are several letters from Col. Mercer which are curious as showing phases of life of a colonist in England. Thomas Adams, a Virginian, who was afterwards member of the Continental Congress, was for some years a merchant in London, seems to have been recipient of many appeals from his needy countrymen. The first is undated but was written in 1771:

"Thursday morning.

Dear Adams:

I want much to see you but find it so uncertain catching you at Home that to Day I can not attempt a visit. I expect my good Friend the E. of H. [Earl of Holderness] has made his report as he swore, tho’ I know he can lye, it should be done Yesterday. If he has the affair will be finished on Monday or Tuesday next and he shall want all you can say about Stuart and the Cherokees, which I must pray you to write out as soon as you can conveniently.

My dear Adams you must by some means or other procure me £50 by Tuesday morning, or I must go to the Dogs. The note I mentioned to you formerly falls due on that day it has already been renewed about six Times and is in the Hands of a Lawyer who has sent me word he can’t lay out of his money any longer, d—n the Fellows Conscience he has added 6s. 8d. for a Fee for writing to me besides Interest every Time it has been renewed, and yet yesterday sent to remind me of the notes falling due with the addition I mention & that I must take it up. I can’t help troubling you Adams as necessity knows no law. I shall ask no more from you till Anderson arrives who I hope will bring me half a hundred puncheons of Shanandoah [tobacco], which will honestly pay all my Debts. I know both you & B's poverty, and yet I cannot help, and I am sure you will both do me the Justice to believe I would not trouble if it was possible to avoid it. If you can by any means negotiate the note I send I shall be strong enough by the time it falls due, tho' at present I give you my oath I have not a Brace of pounds in the world nor do I know where to get Them unless you or Brown will help me. I am

Dr. Adams your most faithfully &c.

Mr. Adams appears to have raised the money, for not only does Col. Mercer escape the debtors toils, but a little later is adding to his troubles by trying to marry a young lady whose parents or guardians oppose the match. The next letter is addressed to "Mr. Thomas Adams No. 41 Fleet st. London," is written during the flight towards matrimony. It is dated "Yarmouth, 4 o'clock Tuesday the 6th of August, 1771." It is as follows:

"My dear Adams:

From the golden anchor at ——— we reached this place without any stop or accident, except the Post Chaise being once overturned & this occasioned after the first moment more laughing than crying. I expect to settle the affair here, and if the d—d marriage act throws no difficulties in the way, we shall be sure as Colonel Willis himself could be. * * * We are this moment only arrived here and mean to go six miles further to (perhaps to an old * * * of an Aunt) I can say nothing certain as to the Point so speedily, but I suppose even you can not doubt it must must be so now as this is an open and full Discovery of every Thing relative to her Partiality to your Friend, and through Detestation of the Friends of another Person. We sent the servant where she was to dine and spend some Days, to tell them we really meant to go, and told him we should wait his Return but as he had 15 miles to ride before he could deliver his message we presumed we had sufficient start of him, notwithstanding we rode all night to be sure of the matter.

I am obliged to be in town on Sunday if it is possible to settle this affair beyond Doubt, but as I have two bills amounting to £60 which fall due on Tuesday (for Fear of Disappointments) I must beg the favor of you to get me the money by Hook or by Crook for the interest Bills, and leave it with my House Keeper on Monday, as will not appear quite so decent should I be arrested on my Return Home with Madam, for such a sum as £60. Adieu till we meet, don't tell any one where I am or my Business, till I tell you the knot is tied and you must never mention a syllable of this scuffle to Maria, as she says she shall never be able to look any one except myself in the face who knows it. I am dear Adams

Your most Faithfully

G—— M——
I have told her I am writing to a particular Friend—She desires for Heaven's Sake and for the sake of my own character, that I will not mention to him that I have a giddy hot headed runaway young girl with me, especially if the friend has any thing serious about him."

There are a few other letters of dates close to the above referring to negotiations with the girl's family and begging to have bills negotiated or money lent, but nothing which tells of the termination of the affair. Col. Mercer, however, evidently found means to live on, as he did not die until 1784. See this Magazine, XIV, 232, for note on Mercer family.

How colonists spent their time during visits to England and what they learnt is a rather interesting subject, which has not been investigated.

It is feared that all did not keep as good company as Mr. Warrington.

There are letters in existence (Col. Mercer's are not referred to) which show that some of the colonists while "at home" could be a little dissipated and could talk of "citizens" wives as coolly and contemptuously as any rake in an old comedy.

BOOK REVIEWS.

The publication in recent years of the archives of various States for the Colonial period and of the British Government documents relating to America has made it possible now to write satisfactorily on Colonial history. The present volume is an effort to make important unpublished British manuscripts easily available to American students. It is one of a series of guides to foreign historical material bearing upon the United States which the Carnegie Institution is preparing and printing. The Cuban and Spanish guides preceded the British; the French, Mexican and Roman are to follow.

The plan of printing a guide to material on American history in London was first taken up by the American Antiquarian Society, which, however, relinquished the task to the Carnegie Institution. Professor Andrews and Miss Davenport, representing the Institution, have prepared the guide, which will probably be followed by the former's work on the documents in the Public Record Office, London.

Professor Andrews and Miss Davenport have rendered the cause of historical research a valuable service. Thousands of manuscripts have been listed, and the titles, though necessarily brief, are clear. Abstracts are included in some cases. The descriptive notes are excellent. The guide will be a boon and a blessing to every student who goes to England for a knowledge of American affairs.—H. J. Eckenrode.

The Acts of the Privy Council will appear in five volumes, covering the field to 1783. The present book includes 1613-1680. The Calendar of the Acts of the Privy Council as printed ends with 1603, and no provision was made by the British Government for continuing the work.
Publication was begun in 1834, and between that date and 1837 Sir Harris Nicholas issued seven volumes including the record up to 1542. A new series of 32 volumes was published between 1890 and 1906 by Sir J. R. Dasent which brought the work down to the death of Queen Elizabeth. At this point, fortunately for American history, the present editors took up the task in the volume under consideration.

The Council records from 1603 to 1613 were burned in the fire at Whitehall in 1618, and thus the documents of the Jamestown settlement were lost. The Civil War caused another break from August, 1645, to May, 1649. Colonial affairs during the Protectorate must be studied in other calendars. The records now in the Council Office consist of a large number of folio volumes, written by the clerks of the Council and narrating the proceedings; the "Plantation Register," which contains colonial laws and instructions to governors from 1677 to 1806; and a large collection of loose documents, mostly petitions and reports submitted to the Council by the Board of Trade.

The limited range of the work does not permit of the printing of all the extracts in full. Consequently certain parts have been condensed and such places in the text are indicated by brackets. The pruning has been so judiciously done that the student is rather grateful than otherwise for the cutting down. The volume is a very valuable addition to the sources of American Colonial history. The editorial work is careful and intelligent, and the result is a book which is both attractive and useful.—H. J. Eckernrode.

Mr. Crozier, who is well known through his various volumes on subjects relating to Virginia genealogy and heraldry, has determined that, instead of publishing occasional volumes (such as make the first five of "Virginia County Records"), he would issue a quarterly. This publication appearing oftener would afford space for presenting a very much larger number of abstracts, &c. Instead of the work being confined to one county, from fifteen to twenty can be included. It can be seen at once how valuable it will be to genealogists to have, as will be the case when Mr. Crozier's plans have been carried out, complete genealogical abstracts of all Virginia wills, lists of Revolutionary soldiers, of grantees of lands, of marriage bonds and similar indispensable source material.

No. 1 of the quarterly, which was issued in March last, contains the beginnings of series of abstracts of wills in Elizabeth City, old Rappahannock, York, Hanover counties; Surry county records in general; Northampton and Norfolk county marriage bonds, lists of Revolutionary soldiers, and of early grantees of land in several counties.
The work is carefully done, and only a few errors in names, a thing almost inseparable from such a great amount of transcribing from old records, are noted. These will no doubt be corrected.

Mr. Crozier's work can be heartily commended, and it is hoped that he will receive such continued encouragement as will enable him to carry out his plan of publishing abstracts of all old Virginia records, which may be of use to the genealogist.

The Bishop of London is one of the greatest preachers and best and most useful men of the day; but this book is hardly a worthy memorial of his very noteworthy visit to America in 1907. His time has been too much occupied in other pursuits for him to have much knowledge of American history, and his transcriber, Mr. Phillips, is not gifted in presenting what the Bishop said. It is sometimes a little difficult to tell who is speaking and one feels a little surprise upon coming upon such a sentence as this: "You can trace the list of Bishops in my little book called 'Fulham Palace,' published by Wells, Gardner, Darton & Co.," until it is found by referring back to the title page, that it is Mr. Phillips who is talking and not the Bishop.

And even a Virginian must smile when, after quoting (p. 38) Governor Belcher, of Massachusetts, in one of those formal pleas for reformation of manners, which were stock utterances of all colonial governors, the Bishop says, "we must recollect that Boston was at this time a place where the Book of Common Prayer was not by law established and the planters found that, deprived of its teaching our duty to God and our duty to our neighbor, men soon ran to lawless living. * * * * There is no such trouble mentioned in Virginia records, because the Church Catechism was there taught, and the Book of Common Prayer freely used."

The first chapter of this book, giving a Bishop's statement of theological beliefs to an audience of his own faith, is outside the limits of Virginia history.

The portion of the book relating to Colonial history begins with Chapter II, which treats of the "The King's Governors in the Colonies." There is nothing especially striking in the handling of the subject, but the chapter contains good summaries of the instructions to Governor Nicholson of Virginia in 1700 and 1702, a catalogue of his books, which he wished given to William and Mary College, of the Commission (1651) of William Coddington as Governor of Rhode Island, and various letters in regard to Church affairs in Massachusetts.

Chapter III on "The Bishop of London and his Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction in America" is a useful exposition of the subject, though the statement that officially the most important person after the Governor was the Bishop, is not borne out by the records. This chapter contains several interesting letters and petitions.

Chapter IV on the Missionary also contains a number of documents of interest, including several from Virginia. The next chapter has the letters patent to George II, giving the Bishop of London ecclesiastical jurisdiction in America—an important paper. The next two chapters cover the West Indies, Carolina, Georgia and Maryland. St. Philip's, Charleston, was stated in 1746, to be "the most elegant religious edi-face in America."

The final chapter is devoted to several valuable unpublished documents from Fulham. They are (1) extract from a letter of John Banister, dated "The Falls," (James River) April 6, 1679, giving a detailed account of the natural productions of Virginia; (2) a treaty of peace between Governor Spotswood and the Nottoway Indians, February 27, 1713; (3) draft of a charter for Harvard, July 12, 1700; (4) a long and most interesting letter dated July 21, 1724, from Alex. Forbes, minister of the Upper Parish of Isle of Wight and several petitions.

Bishop Ingram left the best memorial of his visit in the hearts and minds of all who had the great privilege of seeing and hearing him, and not only the people of his own Church but all Americans will be grateful for his friendliness and his desire that they might share in the rich stores of historical material which are in his custody.

A Calendar of Confederate Papers, with a Bibliography of some Confederate Publications. Preliminary Report of the Southern Historical Manuscripts Commission, prepared under the Direction of the Confederate Memorial Literary Society.
By Douglas Southall Freeman, Richmond, Va. The Confederate Museum, 1908, pp. 620, with Index.

The Southern Historical Manuscripts Commission, a branch or close ally of the Confederate Memorial Literary Society, has made an admirable beginning in its work of making the records relating to the Confederate States known to students. The selection of an editor and compiler has proved to be very wise and in this pioneer work Dr. Freeman has shown that the right man is in the place.

The Southern Historical Society and the United States Government have done much in publishing Confederate records; but the mass of papers essential to a thorough knowledge of any phase of the history of the great war and of the civil government established by the seceding States, is so vast that it would be impossible to print them in full, and even if such a thing were within the limits of possibility the time required would place beyond the period of the present generation power to know the truth of history. The plan has been adopted, therefore, of publishing a series of calendars, and that now under consideration includes most of the papers in the very valuable collection at the Confederate Museum.

The editor has, in the introduction, given a useful account of Confederate sources of material, of their value, and the pressing necessity for steps being at once taken to preserve them.

The entries in the Calendar are very clear and intelligible, the notes are numerous and carefully studied and there is a complete index.

In every way the volume is creditable to the Society and the editor, and is a most important contribution to the literature of Confederate history.

The bibliography of Confederate publications now a part of the noble collection in the Museum is excellently done.

1758–1761, Richmond, Virginia, MCMVIII, pp. xix, 313.

1761–1765. Edited by John Pendleton Kennedy, Richmond, Virginia, MCMVII, pp. lxxvi, 383, with several fac-similes, illustrations, and index to each volume.

Since the last notice in this Magazine three more of the massive, beautifully printed and carefully edited volumes of this series have appeared. The period covered—from the beginning of the French and Indian war to the Stamp Act—is one of great interest and importance, and was also the time when the prosperity of the Colony of Virginia reached its high-water mark. It was a time of rapid increase in population, wealth and cultivation, and likewise of a luxury and expensive living which soon after the close of the period treated of began to show its effects on the planters' estates.

The prefaces give clear and useful summaries of the work of the various sessions and many valuable illustrative documents are printed for the first time either in the preface to 1761–62, or as appendices to the other volumes.

It is superfluous to refer to the great value of these Journals to the student of Virginia history. It is a subject for regret that the price can not be such as to make them more generally accessible.
THE SETTLEMENT OF ILLINOIS, 1778-1830. By ARTHUR CLINTON BOGGESS, Ph. D., Professor of History and Political Science in Pacific University, &c., Chicago Historical Society's Collection, Vol. V, Chicago. Published by the Society, 1908, pp. 266, with index and maps.

Though published subsequently, this book was prepared before the publication of Professor Alvord's volume on the Cahokia Records. No use was therefore made of that valuable collection. Professor Boggess has made a very careful study of the, ofttimes obscure, subject of the settlement of Illinois between 1778 and 1835 including the time that the country was included in the Virginia domain. Every page shows in its notes the thoroughness with which his work has been done. Several maps, including one of the Illinois country in 1796, and a full bibliography of works consulted add to the usefulness of the book.

This very useful work has been found of such service to historical students that a second edition has been called for. It has been enlarged and revised as fully as the somewhat chaotic condition of the Washington records and the numerous obstacles to research would admit. It is a consummation devoutly to be wished that the time shall be not far distant when a great hall of records will exist at the National Capital, which will contain most of the immense mass of valuable records which are in the various departments.

The Library of Congress with its admirable facilities and wise liberality is, of course, an exception and is unsurpassed as a place for student work.

FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE LIBRARY BOARD OF THE VIRGINIA STATE LIBRARY, 1907-1908. To which is appended the Fifth Annual Report of the State Librarian. Richmond, Davis Bottom, Superintendent of Public Printing, 1908, pp. 154.

A CALENDAR OF LEGISLATIVE PETITIONS, arranged by counties, Accomac—Bedford. Special report of the Department of Archives and History. H. J. Eckenrode, Archivist.

A TRIAL BIBLIOGRAPHY OF COLONIAL VIRGINIA. Special report of the Department of Bibliography. William Clayton Torrence, Bibliographer.

It would be pleasant, if space permitted, to tell of the good work the State Library, strictly as a library, is doing. The rapidly increasing success of the travelling libraries, the large attendance of readers at the central library, the issue of most useful catalogues of special classes of books, the large number of magazines and newspapers on file and the other ways in which the library is living up to modern demands are well told by the Librarian.

Great as has been the success of the library with the increased means and facilities for work of recent years, it is not by any means what its Board and Librarian desire it to be, and what the Legislature should enable it to be. A good Library is a costly thing and our Legislators should recognize that this Library is the only one in the State in a position to ask large sums of money from the public. Thousands of dollars could be profitably spent every year, for a number of years to come, in the purchase of books. The historical student (and such students throughout Virginia can use the Library) is especially desirous that the division of history should be filled and kept abreast of the time with every historical work of value published.

Complete sets of the English State Papers, of every-class, should be bought as should be the collections and publications of the numerous societies which are publishing so much of inestimable value. If the Legislature will give the money, the Library is fully qualified to select and make the best use of the books.

It is of the divisions of the Library more strictly associated with Virginia history that it is desired to write here.

For some years past the arranging and indexing of the great mass of records now in the custody of the Library Board has been in progress, under the efficient charge of Dr. Eckenrode. Every facility possible is given to those who desire to examine the original documents; but the room in which the papers are kept is much overcrowded and utterly unsuitable for the purpose. New and proper quarters for the Manuscript Department is one of the things the next Legislature should consider. Not only does the great collection of public records now in the Library require more room, but if such room were furnished the personal property assessment books from 1782 to within recent years, probably comprising some ten thousand volumes, could be arranged and made accessible.

These books which are now in boxes in various places of storage would furnish an unsurpassed amount of information in regard to the economic history of the State.

Probably the most valuable collection of manuscripts in the Library is what is known as "The Legislative Papers." These comprised, originally, all of the papers submitted to the Legislature, petitions, letters, executive communications, &c., &c., together with many of the routine documents of the session's work. These papers had been kept together by sessions; but a former librarian probably as an argumentum ad hominem to the legislator (who, finding something from his own county, might be induced to take more interest in the records) directed that all of the petitions should be taken and arranged and indexed separately. There has been a difference of opinion as to the advisability of separating the sessions papers, and some think it would have been better to preserve their unity, and calendar all of one session together.

But there is no doubt about the need for beginning a calendar, and none whatever about the manner in which the one just published, has been done. Only those who are acquainted with the original petitions, many of them in bad condition and difficult to read, can appreciate Dr. Eckenrode's most successful work. He has studied the contents of each paper and given its substance in a brief abstract in a manner worthy of high commendation.

Space will not allow a discussion of the contents of the Calendar. It embraces petitions on almost every imaginable subject on which individuals or groups of people could approach a Legislature. The full index renders its examination easy.

While one division of the Library was attending to our manuscript records, another was taking up the work of listing and describing what has been printed in and about Virginia. This was pioneer work and is so essential to an understanding of our past that it is surprising that it should not have been sooner done. The expense and labor required have no doubt deterred individual students.

The selection of a bibliographer has proved a happy one. Though Mr. Torrence had not had experience in bibliographical work previously to coming to the State Library, it is evident that his deep interest in Virginia history and hard study have qualified him to do a piece of work which has received strong praise from learned and acute critics.

The bibliographer visited most of the large libraries in the eastern portion of the United States and made careful studies of every work prior to 1776, which related to Virginia. The result, now presented, is an admirable bibliography of Colonial Virginia from 1608 to 1753, inclusive. The bibliographical and historical comments are very interesting, and this is especially the case in those on early printing in Virginia and on the newspapers.

One should be a specialist in bibliography to do full justice to Mr. Torrence's work, but all students of Virginia history can appreciate the great help the "Bibliography of Colonial Virginia" is to them, and are duly grateful to the library and the bibliographer.

By a fire at the printers the only copy for titles between 1753 and 1776 was destroyed; but it is hoped that the work of replacing and publishing these will be promptly taken in hand.

Whereupon & in regard the Act of Parliam’’t of 3 Oct., 1650, prohibit’g trade with Barbadoes, Virginia, Bermudas & Antigua is not in force as to the English. The Council think fit that their said goods be restored to them. PETITION OF DIVERS MERCHANTS AND OTHERS TRADING TO VIRGINIA AND OTHER PLANTATIONS IN THE WEST INDIES, May 28, 1653.

It hath been the ancient practice of divers Nations to make new discoveries of places fit for Plantations and to settle Colonies thereon, thereby to advance trade, increase Navigation and other great advantages, which undertakings as of great consequence to this Commonwealth, so they could not be carried on by private persons alone but have required a public purse and encouragement. And whereas the plantations of Virginia, Bermudas and other islands in America have been many years planted and thousands of this nation with their families are there seated and unless supplied from hence must live in great want of clothing & other necessaries, or for want of arms & ammunition must be exposed to the cruelty of the barbarous Indians or otherwise admit free trade with the Dutch their & our enemies & have their commodity of tobacco taken off from them to Holland & other parts or else through the want of trade desert their plantations, which inconveniences petitioners humbly offer must unavoidably ensue unless the planting of tobacco in England be timely prevented. To which purpose petitioners addressed themselves to the House of Parliament with their reasons and allegations, whereupon in April 1652 an Act was passed to prohibit the planting of tobacco in England, yet notwithstanding pet'rs have received certain information that there will be more made in several places of this Commonwealth this year than hath usually been in one year brought from Virginia. Are humble suitors to their Honors to take the premises into serious consideration together with Reasons annexed and that said Act for the prohibition of planting tobacco in England may receive some encouragement and vigour from this honourable Council.

Signed by Samuel Mathews Agent for the inhabitants of Virginia and Seventy five others.

Annexed.

Reasons why the English Plantations abroad ought to be encouraged and the planting of tobacco in England, according to an Act of Parliament in April 1652 prohibited.

Reasons why the planting of tobacco in England is very prejudicial to the said Plantations and to this Commonwealth.

(Interregnum Entry Book, Vol. 97, p. 391.)

Petition of divers Merchants Adventurers within the City of London trading to Virginia and other Foreign Plantations, to the Council of State, July 20, 1653. Whereas by an Act of Parliament of 1 April 1652 the sowing planting and curing of English tobacco is absolutely prohibited for several weighty reasons (part of which reasons are annexed). Notwithstanding which prohibition many inhabitants of the Counties of Worcester, Gloucester, Somerset, Hereford, &c., have in contempt of said Act proceeded to sow & plant several thousands of acres of the best land with said weed And whereas power is given by said Act to grub, cut up, destroy and utterly consume such tobacco. But by reason of resistance already made and the cruel threats and menaces of the planters of said weed, pet'rs are utterly deterred from the prosecution of said Act, whereby the transgressors thereof are encouraged with a high hand to proceed in contempt thereof. Pray for assistance by soldiers or otherwise whereby said Act may be effectually maintained.

(Copy.)

Thursday 29th December 1653.

On reading the petition of Colonell Samuel Mathews Agent for Virginia, directed to the Lord Protector. It is ordered and declared in Council by his Highness that a letter be prepared to the Governor & General Assembly of that Colony, to encourage them and to establish the present Governor until further order. And that the other part of the said petition be referred to Mr. Strickland and Sir An. A. Cooper who calling to them Mr. Winslow Coll. Mathews and such others acquainted with the affaires of that plantation as they shall thinke fitt, are to consider how the same may for the future be settled to its advantage benefitt and security and to the service of this Commonwealth, as alsoe how the questions betwixt the Lo. Baltimore and the people of Virginia concerning the bounds claymed by them respectively may with most justice & equity be determined to which purpose they are to send for all papers referring thereunto which were in the hands of the late comittee of the Navy or of any other and thereupon to state the whole matter and report the same to his Highness.

Names of the Committee for "the Business of Virginia"

Mr. Strickland, Sir An. Ashley Cooper with Mr. G. Lambert and Sir Ch. Worsley, added 10 January.

(Interregnum Entry Book, Vol. 144, p. 2.)
THE LORD PROTECTOR AND COUNCIL OF STATE TO THE GOVERNOR AND GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE ENGLISH
PLANTATION OF VIRGINIA, WHITEHALL, January 4, 1653-4.

Colonel Mathews the Agent for Virginia, hath diligently attended the dispatch of some business referring to the peace and settlement of that Colony, the perfecting whereof hath been obstructed by the many public affairs here depending. It having pleased God to alter the government of this Commonwealth by entrusting the same to a Lord Protector and successive triennial Parliaments as they may perceive by the platform of government herewith sent & proclamation annexed which they are forthwith to have published, address has been made to his Highness by Col. Mathews's petition for determining those matters which have so long depended, whereupon his Highness hath been pleased to put into an effectual way the speedy resolution of those questions betwixt Lord Baltimore and the inhabitants of Virginia concerning the bounds by them respectively claimed and also to settle the government & other concerns of that Plantation, wherein they may receive his Highness' particular determination in due time, in the mean time the safety, protection and welfare of that plantation is under his serious thoughts and care. And to the intent it may not suffer any inconvenience by the unfixedness of the Governm't His Highness has thought fit to continue Col. Bennett (of whom his Highness hath received a good character) in execution of the place of Governor till his Highness shall further signify his pleasure in that behalf which in all probability they may expect by the next ships. And till such his further pleasure be declared his Highness and the Council recommend it to them that the public peace of the Plantation be diligently attended, that love be cherished and the great interest of religion be owned and countenanced "whereby you will engage God's care over you, who alone can make your affairs prosperous and more oblige this State tenderly to improve their opportunity for your protection and encouragement. Signed in the name and by order of his Highness and the Council." Henry Lawrence, President."

Read and approved in Council 31 December 1653.

TRADE¹ WITH THE WEST INDIES FOR SUPPLIES FOR THE VIRGINIA MILITARY FORCES, 1776.

In Council at Williamsburg.

September 12th, 1776.

The Commissioners of the Navy Board having, agreeable to a request of this Board, returned a List of such cruising Vessels as in their opinion might be sent to the greatest advantage with the Commodities of this Country for the purchase of Salt, Clothing, arms and other necessaries for the army, and also a scheme of Trade proper for this End; and a Recommendation of Persons proper to purchase suitable Commodities for the out-fit.

Resolved, That the Consideration thereof be put off till To-morrow.

September 13th, 1776.

The Board now resumed the Consideration of the Report made yesterday by the Navy Board: which is as follows, viz:

The Commissioners of the Navy are of opinion, that the scheme proposed to them by the Council for the Importation of Salt, Clothing, and medicines for the supply of the Army, is practicable and may probably be the means of providing those and many other articles Indispensably necessary for the Army and Navy on much cheaper Terms, than they can be procured in any other way. They think the following Cruisers to wit, the Sloop Congress, Scorpion, Liberty, Defiance and Schooners Hornett and Revenge may with propriety be spared for the purpose; and that they may be ready to take in their Cargoes ¹This paper and others on the same subject in former issues of this magazine are almost the only documents printed, which relate to the interesting matter of the means through which Virginia obtained supplies from abroad during the Revolutionary War. The vessels named were generally commanded by officers of the State Navy.

by the 15th of October next. They have no doubt the articles desired may be got in Europe on good Terms, but conceive these Vessels to be unfit for such voyage; more especially, as their return would probably happen in the winter season: they have therefore agreeable to the Request of the Council made out Invoices of the Cargoes that they judge best suited to the Markets in the Foreign West Indies, and a memorandum of such articles, suited to our wants, as may probably be purchased there to advantage.

Commissioners of the Navy Scheme of Trade and Councils Resolutions thereupon.
Laid before the Assembly October 8th 1776.

Resignation of John Tayloe from the Council.

Honourable Sir:

Truely sensible of the Honor done me, by your Hon'ble House, in choosing me a Member of the Privy Council, and of

*The first of this family in Virginia was Col. William Tayloe or Taylor, who came to the colony early in the Seventeenth century and settled in York county. He was a member of the House of Burgesses for that county in 1643 and 1647, and was appointed to the Council in 1651. He was a member of that body in 1655 and probably died not long after, leaving no issue. His name is commonly spelt in the records, Taylor; but in the one autograph signature which remains he apparently writes the name Tayloe. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Kingsmill, Esq., of James City county. She married secondly Hon. Nathaniel Bacon, President of the Council, and the epitaph on her tomb (which has now been removed to St. Paul's churchyard, Norfolk), divides the honors curiously by naming only Mr. Bacon as her husband, but bearing as arms Kingsmill impaling Tayloe: a sword between two lions addorsed. There is on record in York county a deed dated November 23, 1693, from Col. William Tayloe of Richmond county, "nephew and heir of Col. William Tayloe, late of Kings creek in York county, deceased," conveying to Lewis Burwell 1200 acres between Kings creek and Queens creek, on York river, formerly the property of Col. William Tayloe, the elder.

William Tayloe, the nephew, stated to have been a Londoner, emigrated to Virginia and settled in that part of the old county of Rappahannock, which is now Richmond county, and was sheriff of Rappahannock in 1687. He was one of the first justices of Richmond county, and in 1704, as "Colonel and Commander in Chief" of the militia of that county, subdued an attempted uprising of the Indians. (Richmond county records.) Col. Wm. Tayloe was a Burgess for Richmond county at the sessions of December, 1700; August, 1701; May, 1702; June, 1702, and April, 1706. He died, intestate, in 1710. An order of Richmond county court for the appraisement of his personal estate was entered on February 7, 1710. It was valued at £702. 8. 8. Col. Wm. Tayloe had a brother in Virginia, Joseph Tayloe of Lancaster county.*
the Duty I owe to my Country, and of the Respect I owe to them, yet conscious of my own inability, and sensible of the

There is recorded in Lancaster a letter from Joseph Tayloe to a sister-in-law telling of the death of her husband, Captain Robert Tayloe, master of a merchant ship trading between England and Virginia. It was dated July 10, 1705, and is addressed "To Mrs. Ruth Tayloe, Bassinghall Street, London, und'r cover to Mr. Benj. Tayloe, Bedford Street, Covent Garden, London." Land patented by Col. Wm. Tayloe of Richmond county, is included in the present "Mt. Airy" estate, which still, after an ownership of two hundred and twenty-five years, remains the home of the Tayloes. Col. Tayloe married Ann, daughter of Henry Corbin, of "Buckingham House," Middlesex, a member of the Council. They had issue.

(1) John, of whom hereafter.
(2) William of Lancaster county.

Col. John Tayloe, of "Mt. Airy," Richmond county (eldest son of William), was born February 5, 1687, and died in 1747. He was a member of the House of Burgesses for Richmond county in 1730 and probably other years, and was appointed to the Council in 1732, remaining a member of that body until his death. He married Elizabeth, widow of Stephen Lyde (formerly of Bristol, Eng.) and daughter and heiress of David Gwyn, of Richmond county. He became one of the wealthiest men in Virginia. His will was dated January 31, 1744, and proved in Richmond county, November 2, 1747. He gave to his wife, for her life, the whole tract of land, about 1200 acres, where he lived in Richmond county; also the use of the negro coachman, and all of the quarter and plantation slaves which should be on the Neck Quarter in Essex, and on the Home House and Fork Quarter, Richmond county, for her life. None of the house negroes to be embraced in this bequest. The inventories of Col. Tayloe's personal estate on his various plantations are also recorded in Richmond county. That for the home plantation (not in the present Mt. Airy house, but in an earlier one nearer the river), includes articles in the following rooms: the counting house, planter's hall, the passage, the green room, the dining room, (including "a sett of Reubens Gallery of Lusenbergh"), the back passage, Mrs. Tayloe's chamber, the inner room, the room above Mrs. Tayloe's, the passage above stairs, the great chamber, Mr. Fauntleroy's chamber (Mrs. Tayloe had half-brothers and sisters Fauntleroy), the passage, the room over the green room, and Slater's closet (which was probably the butler's as it contained plate valued at £160 sterling). There were also here 72 negroes, 160 head of cattle, 52 sheep, 101 hogs, a coach and harness for four horses, a chariot and harness for six horses, three carts and one tumbler. All in the inventory valued at £3380. 2. 9. Another Richmond county inventory contained 73 cattle, 45 fatted hogs, 50 out hogs, 39 sheep, 3 fatted "beefs," 8 horses, mares and colts, 239 cattle at Upper Quarter, 37 hogs, 4 draught oxen, 2 mares and colts, and 42 negroes, all valued at £1707. 11. 6. Inventory in King George county: 33 negroes, &c., valued at £886. 15. In Stafford county: 20 negroes, &c., valued at £745. 5. 3. Another inventory: 19 negroes, &c., valued at £475. 9. 9. In Prince William: 89 negroes, &c., valued at £3315. 16. 2. In Maryland: 40 negroes, &c., not appraised. These inventories show that Col. Tayloe owned 279 slaves, and that the value of his personal property (exclusive of 40 negroes, &c., in Maryland) was £10,038. 10. 10 sterling.

At Neabsco furnace and in Maryland, probably in Baltimore county, Col. Tayloe was largely interested in iron working. His son continued and enlarged the operations.

Col. John and Elizabeth (Gwvn) Tayloe had issue. (1) John, of whom later. (2) Betty married Col. Richard Corbin, of "Laneville," King and Queen county, Receiver General of Virginia. (3) Ann Corbin married Mann Page, of "Rosewell," Gloucester county (his second wife).

John Tayloe, of "Mt. Airy," second of the name, was born May 8, 1721, and died April 18, 1779. He is stated to have been educated at an English university. In addition to taking part in public affairs he was one of the most prominent of the early turman of Virginia. Some of his horses such as Yorick, Jolly Roger and Jenny Cameron were among the most famous of the day. In 1758 he built the present "Mt. Airy" house. Though the interior was destroyed by fire some years before the Civil War, it was promptly rebuilt, and the exterior remains as it was from the beginning. Col. Tayloe was appointed to the Council in

A letter from him at Eton in 1788 to his brother-in-law and guardian, Ralph Wormeley, has been preserved. He tells of the changes in the school since Mr. Wormeley's time, and expresses the hope that he may soon be sent to the university so that he may complete his education and return to his Virginia home for which he expresses great affection. Accordingly in the same year he was sent to Christ Church, Cambridge, from which he graduated. He returned to Virginia in 1792. Col. Tayloe was one of the wealthiest men in America and a very accomplished gentleman, and his homes in Virginia and Washington were famous for hospitality. He was for a time a Federalist State Senator in Virginia, but was best known for his prominence in society and as an ardent and very successful patron of the turf. From a period soon after his return to Virginia until his retirement from racing in 1810, his horses Gray Diomed, Calypso, Bel Air, Black Maria, Leviathan, Virago, Gallatin, and others, made his name famous in sporting annals. He married October 4, 1792, Ann, daughter of Benjamin Ogle, of Maryland, and granddaughter of Governor Samuel Ogle, and was ancestor of the various well known later branches of the Tayloe family.

I beg the Gent'l'n of the Convention, will consider that the money I received from the Country, was purely to make the experiment which was done upon as good terms as Circumstances would permit, and if it has not answered my expectations I do think the loss greater on my side then the Countrys. I am also sorry that any part of my conduct in the management of this undertaking or that my doing every thing in my power to bring it to perfection, should have excluded me from the management of any sun works that was to have been executed in this County or even this shore. One salt Pan is by no means work enough for me to carry on. And if the Hon'ble Convention had been pleased to have ordered me to erect that Pan which has been done at Mr. Lanes & to have cutt some sun Bonds to preparied the Brine 5000 Bushells of Salt might have asuredly been made in the Course of a summer at half the expence it now costs. As I have been so very unfortunate in geting an im-proper pan, to make the experiment, and as my credit & character seems so much at stake, Permitt me through you to beg of the Hon'ble Convent'n to order that Pan which is done at Mr. Lanes, to be erected by me on this shore, where I have every proper place both for Wood & Sun, let it be the Countrys property & carried on under the Eye of some Gentleman here, only put it in my power to showe the Country, what may be done in making salt by fire & Sun, and I will reffer the value of my trouble to the Hon'ble Honse.      Speaker of the House of Delegates, W’msburg.

Sir:—

Having spent the greater part of my time since last Decemb’r in actual service in the minute department; that service being nearly terminated, & having the most zealous wishes to continue active in the present contest with Great Britain, permit me through you to communicate these wishes to your Hon’ble House. I presume not to ask for any particular Post in the six Regiments, now to be raised. My earnest desire is to stand next in Rank below him who is preferable. I adopt this mode of application because I conceive that personal sollicitations would be less agreeable to your members—permit me also to signify my wishes that Colo. Stephens & Capt. Carrington, late of the minute service may be attended to on this occasion. I have spent some time in service with them; I know their merit & therefore am much interested in their promotion, to such posts as would enable them to render the most effectual service to their injured Country.

I am with much esteem for yourself & Hon’ble House.

Northampton Committee to the Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Northampton, November 14th, 1776.

Honoured Sir:

In consequence of a Resolve of the honourable the Committee of Safety of the 4th of April last permitting us to arm two Richard James was a member of the Cumberland county committee of safety in 1775. In 1776 the Convention determined to raise two battalions of minute men, and on May 10th elected Samuel Meredith colonel, John Ruffin, lieutenant colonel, and Richard James, major of the first. The two battalions were sent to the assistance of North Carolina, but before reaching that State it was found that they would not be needed. The second battalion under Col. Charles Lewis took part in the “Cherokee Expedition,” but the first did garrison duty as stated in the letter above and in that of Dudley Digges, until it was disbanded.

vessels for the defence of our Coast against the Piratical depradations of Tenders; we with the approbation of that board hired the bearer hereof Mr. Nathaniel Tyson to go to Philadelphia to purchase Cannon Shott, small arms, Cutlasses, sail cloth & a number of other articles for the completion of the Vessel, delivering him for the payment thereof £658. 16 Virginia currency
—he on his arrival there contracted for the Cannon & Shott, and purchased most of the other articles wanted (except Sail Cloth) & conveyed them here; we have referred him with his accounts to the Commissioners of the Navy with whom he will account.

But he informs us that while he was in Philadelphia he had his pockets picked (or lost in walking the street) of 540 dollars of the money delivered to him by this Committee, alledging he can no way account for the accident, and that he advertised it immediately and took every step for the recovery of it, but without effect. He informs us that he intends Petitioning the General Assembly relative thereto, and has requested us to mention the matter to them, stating his general Character, thinking they may not oblige him to replace the money, on being properly informed of the circumstances.

We therefore in justice to Mr. Tyson think proper to inform you that he has supported during his residence amongst us, a fair and unblemished character and that this Committee entrusted him with the execution of this business, as a person they placed much confidence in & could rely on, as an honest & assiduous Man and that we do not entertain a single suspicious thought of matters being otherwise than related by him.

Mr. Tyson is a man of small property, has a number of small children, and to his care & industry only, they look for their subsistence. A loss of this sort would be a severe blow to him, and perhaps may reduce him to want. We therefore hope that the House of Delegates, over which you have the honour to preside, will view his conduct in this affair in the most favourable light. With the greatest respect we remain honour’d Sir your most obt Serv’ts. By order of the Committee

The Council having been informed by Colo. On the other hand, to disband the present Garrison at Portsmouth, without appointing another to succeed them, and thus leave the Expensive and important Works there to the mercy of the enemy, seems to be most unadvisable. \(^1\)The letter from Abercomby, the Virginia agent in England, refers to the same subject as his memorial printed on pages 273-278, of this volume of the Magazine. The English Privy Council had directed that £1000 of the money raised in Virginia under the law imposing a duty on tobacco, should be sent to South Carolina. The Virginia Council regarded this as illegal and impolitic and sent a protest to England whose terms are embodied in the agent's memorial. This protest seems to have given great offence, which was increased, it would appear (for we have no other details except those given in these bon Salt shall come before Parliament my attention thereto shall not be wanting.

My letter, by a Man of War, going Express to America, a few days since, with the Memorial therein inclosed, will shew you, how much I have at heart, the success of your Address to the King, as well as the particular interest of those from whom it comes.

The Council of Virginia, not being the first who had taken up an opposition to this Measure of Government, it has been heretofore fully agitated, and accordingly there is not one person in the Administration here, whom I did not find engaged in support of what has been done, it became therefore necessary for me, in the first place to obviate the particular resentment to the Council of Virginia, for presuming as a Council of State in Virginia, to call in question what had been fully deliberated and resolved on by the Kings Council here, and approved of accordingly by the King. Another very unfavourable circumstance attending the Address met me likewise at first setting out (viz't) that this Address is looked on as a Sort of contrivance to favour particular persons in Office, more than the good of Government, and this Insinuation has been carried so far that I have been told, that they knew very well how to cut this matter short, by sending over another Receiver who knew his Duty, and I two papers) by some action by Richard Corbin, Receiver General of Virginia, (who must have been "the receiver" referred to,) and of Hanbury, his London agent, who refused to accept the bill drawn on him for the amount named. At the session of Assembly of June, 1680, three acts which had been prepared in England and brought over by Lord Culpeper were passed. They were the only instances of such legislation being forced on the Virginia Assembly. One of these acts imposed a duty of two shillings per hogshead on all tobacco exported from Virginia. The proceeds were given to the Crown as a perpetual revenue "for the better support of the government of this his Majesty's Colony of Virginia * * * and to and for no other use intent and purpose whatsoever." (Hening, II, 466, &c.) Therefore the act of the English government in ordering any of this fund to be used outside of Virginia was a distinct violation of the law. Disposing of taxes raised by a Colony without that Colony's consent was, of course, equivalent to taxing the Colony without its consent. It would be interesting to know what was the final outcome of the matter.

have reason to believe, that Governour Dinwiddies early zeal in remonstrating against this Warrant, met with a cool reception here, and Mr. Hanburys opposition thereto, with a very severe reprimand, I shall not take upon me to state to you the principles on which Mr. Hanbury grounded his opposition and objections to the Kings Warrant, but from the language that I have met with, since this matter has come into my hands, I am apt to believe that he must have called in question, the Right of the Crown to apply the Tobacco Duty in any Instance whatever, a Doctrine no doubt extremely alarming to the Crown, & by no means tenable, by the Law, nor from practice, witness the Address from the Council to the Crown, for Additional Salarys from this fund, hence there arises a tenaciousness in the Ministry, to parry and defeat every measure that points like an attack upon the Crown, in this case, bearing some Sort of resemblance to the case of Public Money in Ireland, which is now become very embarassing to the Council of this Kingdom.

Intangled with such prejudices and difficulties, I found it was best for me, to labor the case upon the abstracted points of the Law, and of Policy of State, (viz't) that the Thousand pounds paid to So. Carolina was straining the Law of Virginia, but to this it has been said, that securing the Peace & friendship of the Indians, does manifestly tend to the Security of Virginia, and accordingly on this principle, the King thought fit to apply ye one thousand pounds to this Service, thro' the hands of the Governour of South Carolina, it has been also said, that it is extremly unbecoming and ill timed in the Governour of Virginia to sound the alarm, on so trifling an occasion as that of 1000 pounds for Indian Services, at a time when this nation is expending Millions for the Colonys. It being my duty to adhere to Your Address, I have accordingly done it, and by the manner in which I have press'd your Argument, as to the illegality of the application of the 1000 pounds, I am satisfyed that the Ministry are thereby brought under difficulty, but on the other hand, I am apprehensive, that by laying fast hold of this Flaw (in point of Law) in the Warrant, and the Secretary of States letters thereon, that our Arguments from Prudence and Policy urged with their utmost strength, for Revoking the Warrant, will lose ground; for to speak the truth as one in my Station ought, I find the temper and the disposition of the Ministry, extremely averse to any alteration of their Measures, and how much more will they be irritated when they come to enter into this Affair, and find this Address pleading the Kings favour, upon the suggestion that in obedience to his Order, that the Warrant has been so far executed, when the Fact comes out to be that not one farthing has been paid thereon, nor likely to be paid in pursuance of the Receivers Order, because Mr. Hanbury does refuse the Order. As he has none of that Money in his hands, will not the Ministry hereupon infer as has been insinuated already a contrivance to impose upon the Crown, and on the Government of Virginia, and thereby Evade the Order, and may not the Kings Minister, from thence take occasion to urge and press, rather than Revoke the Execution of the Warrant; judge then from this state of the case, with what dexterity I must steer my course for the honour and for the Interest of Government in Virginia, and what difficulties are to be met with, in this negotiation, when Public & Privat interest interfere; difficulties I expect, of such a nature, might be increas'd rather than obviated, by the interposition of the Virginia Merchants. After the most mature consideration of this Matter I can devise no shape more proper, or more favourable to turn it into, than what is already done, by the Address, and by the Memorial attending the same, both of which are built upon the foundation of the Warrant being carry'd into execution pro tanto.

That no circumstance might be overlooked, I have from the fatal miscarriage of our Military operations under General Braddock, again urged to the Ministry, the further necessity of the free application of this Revenue, being left with the Governour & the Council in Virginia and to conclude, I have left nothing undone, in my public as well as privat capacity to remove prejudices, and give this Matter a favourable introduction to the Regency before whom it now lies, and from the freedom in which I have circumstantially laid this case open to you, I hope I shall offend nobody, for on this, and every occasion I think it my duty to act with great openness, Attention and Sincerity to you, and to the rest of my Constituents, where Government is concerned, or otherwise, thro' me, the Cause of the Public might suffer, while I am with great regard,

Your Most Obed't Servant,

James Abercromby to the Virginia Council.

London, March 25th, 1759.

Honourable Gentlemen

By his Honour the Lieut. Governor, you will be made acquainted with Mr. Leheups' resignation, and on this occasion, let the Zeal that I have hitherto occasionally shewn, in your Service, well recommend me to the continuance thereof, as Successor to Mr. Leheup, and whatever Terms, the Lieut. Governor & you shall prescribe to me, in your Service I shall acquiesce in.

I must do you the Justice, to let you know the agreeable reception that your Address to his Majesty, and the whole of your public Proceedings, concerning the present controversy, has hitherto met with, and such must ever be the reception, where public or privat business is conducted with a due consistency, and with Candor, Temper, and Moderation.

Taking example from the disposition that you have shewn, for accomodating matters, I should have most sincerly & heartily attempted to have compromis'd these differencies on this side of the water, had there been the least opportunity left open for the purpose, but after having given the case in all its circumstances a most attentive deliberation, I can see no resource but in His Majesty Judgement thereupon, and that we shall not have. You will, I hope, forgive this my general Address to you on the present occasion, an accident to my right hand, disables me from writing in a more particular manner. I beg leave therefore to conclude with returning you my thanks, for your ac-

Proclamation Declaring Virginia's Jurisdiction Over Pittsburg, &c.

Virginia Williamsburg.

Whereas, I have deemed it proper by and with the advice of His Majesty's Council to issue this my Proclamation requiring 3This paper, though without signature or date, is evidently one issued by Dunmore of purport similar to those issued at Williamsburg, April 25, 1774, and at Fort Dunmore (Pittsburg) September 17th, of the same year. It is, however, somewhat different from either. The controversy about the boundary line practically began in 1754, when Governor Dinwiddie ordered a fort to be built at the present site of Pittsburg, and issued a proclamation offering land in that part of the country to soldiers who would enlist for the French and Indian War. The French captured the little fort before it was completed and built Fort Du Quesne on its site. From this time until after Burquet's treaty with the Indians, the question was hardly more than an academic one; but from about 1771, there was an active renewal of the controversy. The Virginians occupied Fort Pitt and in 1774 rebuilt it, and named it Fort Dunmore. The district was considered to be part of Augusta county, and the papers (now in the Virginia Archives) in regard to the building of the fort are headed "Augusta County to wit." County courts were held at Pittsburg, under Virginia jurisdiction, and the great section of country from the Alleghany mountains northwest to the Ohio came to be called West Augusta. It was represented under this name in the Virginia conventions of 1775 and 1776. In October, 1776, the district of West Augusta was divided into the counties of Ohio. Yohogania and Monongalia. A portion of this territory, including Pittsburg, was claimed by Pennsylvania and there was much disorder and some bloodshed between the officers and adherants of the two Colonies. In 1779, commissioners from Virginia and Pennsylvania finally settled the line and Pittsburg and the adjoining country were surrendered to Pennsylvania. An excellent account of the Virginia claims to lands in Western Pennsylvania is given in Pennsylvania Archives, Third Series, 483-573.

and commanding all His Majesty's civil Officers to support the legal jurisdiction agreeable to their Commissions in all cases in and about Pittsburg, and it's dependencies, and all Sheriffs are hereby strictly enjoined to use due diligence in the collection of His Majesty's Quitrents, that the Crown may not sustain any injury by their omissions: considering the circumjacent Country within the Colony and Dominion of Virginia, notwithstanding the exparte Surveys made by the Proprietories of Pennsylvania. It is my absolute command to all civil Officers not to suffer any Surveys to be made by the Pennsylvania claimants nor Court houses to be erected for the discussion and decision of civil property by any delegated powers of the Governor of Pennsylvania.

All Militia Officers are commanded and required to observe Strict discipline in raising and exercising the Militia, that Sufficient force may always be in readiness for the Security and Protection of the Settlers in that Part of the Colony.

And Should any attempt be made by the Proprietories of Pennsylvania to obstruct the civil and Military Jurisdiction, by Law established in this Colony, in any part of this Ancient Dominion in and about the Territory near Pittsburg claimed by Virginia, the officers civil and Military are hereby ordered to oppose such Measures, in a legal, but vigorous manner. The Government of this Colony are determined to maintain His Majesty's just pretensions to every tract of Country, they esteem within the limits of this Royal Colony, and not to submit the decision of a question in the least Degree disputable to any tribunal but His Majesty and his privy Council.

Petition of a Criminal.

To the Honourable Francis Fauquier Esq'r, Lieutenant Governor and Commander in Chief of the Colony and Dominion of Virginia.

The humble Petition of John —— alias ——. Your Petitioner truly sensible of the disadvantagious Light he must appear in to your Honor as loaded with the triple Guilt of Horse stealing Desertion and Forgery would not have Trespassed upon your Honors good nature so far as even to have begged for Mercy was he not convinced in his own Breast that he appears at present, a much greater Criminal than he really is. This he can no way so well evince as by giving a Short Abstract of his Life. Your petitioner was born of honest and industrious parents in the county of Prince William where he married a Neighbours Daughter by whom he has a large Family of Children and always maintained an unsullied Char- acter till the Year Seventeen hundred and fifty six having Occasion to go upon some business to North Carolina in his return from thence in Company with one Peter Lehan and Oswald Adams, he had the Misfortune to tire his Horse and was persuaded by his Companions to take the first Horse he met with which at first your Petitioner refused to do, but they threatened to leave him if he did not, and not caring to be left alone on a Road he was unacquainted with, at length was so imprudent as to follow their Advice firmly resolved to leave the Horse he so took at the first publick House he came to and wait there till his own was Sufficiently refreshed to carry him Home, but the Owner pursuing him he was overtaken in a few Miles and together with his Companions sent down to Williams- burg where they were all three tried and condemned but some Circumstances appearing in favour of your petitioner his Honor the late Governor tho' he would not Grant a formal pardon Suffered your Petitioner to go at large upon Condition he would inlist as a Soldier upon this to free himself from a nause- ous Goal and the Sentence of Death which hung over him, your petitioner received the enlisting Money but never was Sworn or regularly enlisted a Soldier for when he had Time to Consider that he was to leave all his Friends to be Seperated from his Wife and a large Family of Children to whom he had no hopes of ever returning, for tho' your petitioners Father was very Able and always intended to leave him a good Fortune both in Lands and Negroes at his Death and would have Spared no Expence to have procured a Discharge for him, Yet as the pardon was only nominal the Sentence of Death still hung over his head and might have been pulled down upon him by every person he Offended, when your petitioner considered these things the Mercy extended to him appeared more terrible to him than Death itself, and he chose rather to Run the Risque of Suffering an ignominious Death by living with his Wife and Children than to embrace that Mercy which was to deprive him of every Blessing which made life dear to him.

What Hardships your petitioner hath since endured are too tedious to enumerate but if your Honour can form to yourself an Idea of a wretched Outlaw, whose Life was equally forfeited to Civil as well as Military Justice Seperated from the Society of his Friends and afraid of every Man he Met, Your Honors Humanity will Surely incline you to think that the punishment your petitioner hath already Suffered is more than adequate to the Offence he committed. With regard to the Crime upon which your petitioner was convicted he in the most Solemn manner protests his Innocence, assuring your Honour he did not know the Bills he had were Forged and calls upon that God to whom the Secrets of all hearts are revealed and before whose awful Tribunal he fears he is Shortly to Appear to attest the Truth of his Assertions.

Your petitioner begs leave to remind your Honor that the proof of his knowing the Bills to be Forged was by no means positive but Supported by such Slight Circumstances of probability that your petitioner conscious of his Innocence well hoped that the Jury would have acquitted him, but as for the Discouragement of all Offenders of this Sort they have convicted upon Slighter Circumstances than usual in other Offences. Your petitioner tho' Innocent hath now no other Hopes no other Resource left him than those tender Sensations of Humanity which inform your Honours Breast and which he hopes will incline you to Compassionate if not an unhappy Criminal, his aged Parents, his helpless Wife and Innocent Children. Your petitioner begs leave to remind your Honor that it hath been an invariable Rule with all your Honors Predecessors to pardon the first Offender convicted under their Administration, your petitioner in some measure looks upon himself as fortunate in this Circumstance of being the first convicted since your Honours Arrival as he flatters himself you will not think he hath offended so far beyond the reach of Mercy as to render it necessary that your Honours Administration and your petitioners Case should be the first Exception to that Rule and your petitioner Sincerely promises that if Mercy can be extended to him, so far from abusing your Honors Goodness he will by his future life and Behaviour Endeavour to set a more edifying Example than his death would Occasion.

Wherefore your petitioner humbly prays your Honour will grant him your most gracious pardon for the two Offences of which he is convicted and give him such a discharge from the Army as may Enable him without Fear to betake himself to an honest and industrious life by which he may become a Useful Member of that Society he has injured.

And your petitioner shall ever pray.

Hele, 5.

[George Tucker, of Milton, near Gravesend, Kent, was son and heir of George Tucker, of Milton, and grandson of William Tucker, of Thornley, in the county of Devon, Esq., by his wife Iota, daughter of William Ashe, of Devon. George Tucker, the testator, was a member of the Virginia Company. He married first, Elizabeth, daughter of Francis Staughton, of Crayford, Kent, and secondly, Mary, daughter of John Darrell, of Caleshill, Kent. By the first marriage he had a son, George, who was 25 years of age, at the Visitation of Kent in 1619, and by the second marriage, John, aged 19; Robert, aged 14, and Henry, aged 3. The son, Daniel, named in the will, was no doubt born after 1619. Captain Daniel Tucker, brother of the testator, was a member] of the Virginia Company, sailed for North Virginia with Chaloner in 1606, was a leading man in Virginia 1608-1613, was commissioned governor of the Bermudas February 15, 1615, and was in that island from May, 1616, to about January, 1618-19. He purchased lands in Virginia in 1621 and died at Port Royal, Bermuda, February 10, 1624-5. Henry Tucker, son of the testator, and probably other of his sons settled in Bermuda and left many descendants.

The history of the Tucker family is in some respects unique. Tracing its origin to the great colonizing and seafaring counties of Kent and Devon, fate seems to have given its members work to do in all quarters of the world.

Descendants of George and Daniel Tucker have played useful and frequently distinguished parts in Bermuda, Barbadoes, the United States, India, Japan, Africa and South America. Several of these Tuckers were members of the Virginia Company, and two or three settled in Bermuda, one of them being a very early governor. Their descendants held many positions of honor and trust in that island and in Barbadoes, whither a branch of the family migrated at an early period. From these two islands there have been several emigrations to the continent of North America, and one member of the family came directly from Kent to New England. A Tucker from Barbadoes founded in the eighteenth century a family of noted merchants in Norfolk, Virginia. In later migration from Bermuda to South Carolina one member of the family who became treasurer of the United States, and to Virginia another who became an able judge and writer on legal and constitutional subjects and was ancestor of a very distinguished Virginia family, which now includes a Bishop, a president of a college in Japan, the president of the Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition, and one of the first American Rhodes scholars. Still later removals from Bermuda to Virginia gave the latter a noted professor of its State university and an admiral in the Confederate States Navy. While some of the Tuckers were leaving the overcrowded Bermudas for North America, others remained steadfast to England and entered her service in various parts of the world. One who settled in England was the author of "The Bermudian" and other poems of some note at the time. Another was a distinguished naval officer who was severely wounded in the fight in which the U. S. Frigate Essex was captured and rose to be rear admiral. Still another, a brother of the last, was eminent in the Indian Civil Service and returned to England to become a director and chairman of the East India Company. Several later members of the family have been prominent as civil officials in India, while an old obituary notices the death at Delhi in 1859 of a young lieutenant in the 58th Bengal Infantry, who bore a familiar Tucker name. Tuckers who were soldiers followed the family habit of scattering widely over the face of the earth. During the great war following the French Revolution, two of the Tuckers, brothers and lieutenants in the army, arrived in London the same day. One had been sent to announce the capture of the Cape of Good Hope and the other that of Buenos Ayres.

Another family trait which, appears in widely separated quarters is interest in moral and religious work. This, as has been stated has given to the American branch ministers, a president of a missionary college, and a Bishop, and to that in England the well known author of children's books, A. L. O. E., and the gentleman who, as son-in-law of General Booth, is a leader in the Salvation Army.]

Audley, 111.

[The maker of the first will above appears in Foster's Alumni Oxonienses, as George Gower of the county of Worcester, gent., who matriculated at Oriel College, December 15, 1639. aged 15: B. A., June 17, 1613; M. A., June 20, 1616. Three Abel Gowers, of Worcester-shire, were at Oxford, matriculating in 1581, 1655 and 1691. An Abell Gower, who was doubtless of this family, came to Virginia and settled in Henrico county. He was a justice of the county from 1677 until his] death in 1689, sheriff in 1681, and a member of the House of Burgesses in 1679. He married Jane, daughter of Edward Hatcher of Henrico county, and widow of ——— Branch of the same county. He seems to have but one child, a daughter Tabitha. His will was dated December 25, 1688, and proved in Henrico, June, 1689. He gave his wife Jane the plantation he lived on for her life, with reversion to his daughter Tabitha, and if she died without issue, to Priscilla and Obedience Branch. His personal property was to be divided between his wife and daughter. The inventory shows a comfortable estate and included 1 silver tankard, 2 silver porringers, 6 small silver salt cellars, 12 silver spoons, a gold ring, a bible in quarto and two or three old books.

The will of Mrs. Jane Gower was proved in Henrico in October, 1699. She gave lands to her grandson Wm. Cox and daughter Mary Cox; and she lived on called Great Stone, to her granddaughters Obedience Turpin and Priscilla Wilkinson; personal property to grandson Wm. Farrar, granddaughter Mary Womack, Priscilla Farrar, John Spike, Wm. Womack, her daughter Mary Cox, granddaughter Priscilla Farrar (a silver porringer), sister Hatcher (a damask gown and petticoat), and grandchildren Abell and William Farrar and Judith Womack. Rest of estate to Mrs. Mary Cox. Through a child of her first marriage, Mrs. Jane Gower was an ancestress of Thomas Jefferson.

George Newton. Will 25 July 1633; proved 8 October 1634. Last will of George Newton, deceased 29 July 1633. To Michael Young, Surratt Calico. To my wife Mary Newton all wages and debts due to me from the Honourable East India Company or in the Ship Jonah. Executrix: Wife Mary. Thomas Corbyn of Hall End, county of Warwick, esq. Will 5 June 1637; proved 1 June 1638. Whereas have by deed 3rd of this present month of June, 13th year of our Lord the King that nowe is, settled vpon my truly and welbeloved friends Sir John Repingham, William Purefrey, esquire, John Dawkins, gent, and James Prescott, gent, for forescore and nynteen yeares to raise the portions of my younger sons and daughters, to Thomas my son and heir my lands in Hallensfeilde purchased from Sir Henry Goodacre in occupancy of Thomas Twelves and Francis Atkins and lands purchased of Thomas Orme of Fresley and Francis Nethersole of Pollesworth. To my 5 children, George, Henry, Gawin, Charles, and Lettice Corbyn, £20 each. To my 4 younger sons when 24, George, Henry, Gawin, and Charles, £400 each, and to daughter Lettice £300 when 21. Executors: Wife Winifrede, William Purefoy, James Prescott, and Anketill Wellington. To cousin Purefoy's wife £2. To servant Drakote and his wife the house they live for their lives and Old Mary his wife their house. To poor of Pollesworth £3. To sister Dawkins 5 marks. To poor of Willingcott £2. To brother James Prescott a bay nag. To brother Dawkins a ring. To Katherine Newman's son 20s. To Mrs. Neale her mare. To Jone Lewis £2. To Apprentice Moll £2. Son Thomas to deal well with cousin Hudson's wife. Witnesses: Thomas Lewinge, Gowen Grosvenor, Gregory Drakeford.

[The pedigree of the family of Corbyn or Corbin as recorded in the College of Arms, and given in Shaw's Staffordshire, &c., begins with Robert Corbion or Corbin, whose son Robert Corbin gave lands to the Abbey of Talesworth between 1154 and 1161. This pedigree is rather unusual from the fact that through successive entries in the College of Arms some lines of the American branch have been brought down to the present day. The testator, Thomas Corbyn or Corbin, was son of George Corbin of Hall End, and his wife Mary, daughter of William Faunt, and was born May 24, 1594. He married in 1620, Winifred, daughter of Gawin Grosvenor of Sutton Coldfield, in the county of Warwick, and dying in 1638, was buried at Kings Swinford, in Staffordshire, the ancient seat of the family. He had several sons and daughters, but the male lines of all of his sons, except Henry, are extinct. Thomas Corbin, the eldest son, had an only daughter and heiress, Margaret (1658-1699), who married William Lygon, Esq., and carried the estate to that family, since become Earls Beauchamp. Henry Corbin, third son of Thomas and Winifred Corbin, was born in 1629, came to Virginia in 1654, and died in Middlesex county, June 8, 1675. He was a member of the Virginia Council, married Alice, daughter of Richard Eltonhead of Eltonhead, Lancashire, and was ancestor of the well known Virginia family of the name.]

Edward Perrin, City of Bristol, Merchant. Will 8 June 1702, proved 23 December 1709. To be buried near my last wife in the Quaker's burial ground. Sole executor: son Thomas Perrin, to whom I give all my land in Virginia, Mary land, Pennsilvania, or elsewhere in America, also the house Isaac Noble lives in in Castle Street in Bristol, and another in Castle Street where William Nicholas lives, he to pay my two daughters Susanna and Anne Perrin £300 each when 21 or married. To my three younger children, Edward, Susanna, and Anne, my messuage in which I now live. To son Edward two messuages in Broadmead, St. James Parish, adjoining the house of widow Skinner, both now in possession of Widow Evans and John Baker, and three messuages in Chapell Street in St Philip and Jacob in possession of Robert Rookes, and my silver watch when of age. Overseers: Robert Ruddle, my brother-in-law, and Cornelius Sarjant of Bristol, sopemaker, and Benjamin Morse, Hosier. Witnesses: Sam'l Fox, Thos. Hayne, John Brinsden. Lane, 295.

[ Possibly ancestor of the Perrins of Gloucester county, Virginia. The births of several children of Thomas and Elizabeth Perrin appear in the register of Abingdon parish, Gloucester, between 1686 and 1702. See William and Mary Quarterly, V, 174.]

CATALOGUE OF THE LIBRARY OF DANIEL PARKE CUSTIS.

FROM A MANUSCRIPT IN THE COLLECTION OF THE VIRGINIA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

[Daniel Parke Custis, of "The White House," New Kent Co., Virginia, and of Williamsburg, died in 1757, leaving a widow, Martha, who married on January 6, 1759, George Washington, and one son, John Parke Custis. The catalogue here printed was no doubt made soon after the marriage of Mrs. Custis to Col. Washington, and as the initials indicate, a partial division of the books had been made, some going to Washington in right of his wife, and others set aside for young Custis, then only a child of six years. No doubt some of the books had been inherited by D. P. Custis from his father, Hon. John Custis.]

about 160 wounded. Among the killed were Lt. Col. Rudolph Bunner, 3d Pennsylvania, Major Edmund B. Dickenson, 1st Virginia, and Captain Henry Fauntleroy, 5th Virginia. The English Commander reported his loss at 188 killed and missing, and 170 wounded, though the American burial parties reported to the Commander-in-Chief that they had interred 249 English dead. As is well known General Charles Lee’s conduct in this action excited Washington’s indignation and Lee was court martialed and suspended from command for one year.

Bacon's Rebellion—Thomas Jefferson's Copy.

From this Englishman's bloud did (by degrees) arise Bacon's Rebellion with the following mischiefs which overspread all Virginia & twice endangered Maryland as by the ensuing account is manifest.

Of this horrid action Coll. Mason who commanded the Militia regiment of foot—and Capt. Brent the troop of horse in that County (Northumberland or Stafford) (both dwelling six or eight miles downwards) having speedy notice raised 30, or more men, & pursued those Indians 20 miles up and 4 miles over that river into Maryland, where landing at dawn of day they found two small paths each leader with his party took a separate path and in less than a furlong, either found a cabin, which they (silently) surrounded. Capt. Brent went to the Doeg's Cabin (as it proved to be), who speaking the Indian tongue called to have a "matcha comicha wee whio" i. e. a council called presumably (such being the usual manner with the Indians) the King came trembling forth, and wo'd have fled, when Capt. Brent catching hold of his twisted lock (which was all the hair he wore) told him he was come for the murder of Robt Henn, the King pleaded ignorance and slipt loos, whom Brent shot dead with his pistoll, the Indians shot two or three guns out of the cabin, the English shot into it,—the Indians thronged out at the door and fled, the English shot as many as they could, so they killed ten, as Capt. Brent told me, and brought away the King's son of about 8 years old, concerning whom is an observable passage, at the end of the expedition the unhappy scene ended; Collo Mason took the King of the Doegs' Son home with him, who lay ten days in bed, as one dead with eyes and mouth shut, no breath discerned, but his body continuing warm, they believed him yet alive; the aforesaid Capt. Brent (a papist) coming thither on a visit, and seeing the little prisoner thus languishing said "perhaps he is pawewawed" is bewitched, and that he had heard baptism was an effectual remedy against witchcraft wherefore advised to baptise him. Collo Mason answered no minister cou'd be had in many miles; Brent replied yo'r clerk Mr. Dobson may do that office, which was done by the Church of England Liturgy; Collo Mason with Capt. Brent godfather and Mrs. Mason godmother, my overseer Mr. Pimet being present, from whom I first heard it, and which all the persons (afterwards) affirmed to me; the four were returned to drinking punch, but Mrs. Mason staying and looking on the child, it open'd the eyes, and breath'd, whereat she ran for a cordial, which he took from a spoon, and gaping for more and so (by degrees) recovered, tho' before its baptism they had often tried the same means, but could not by no endeavors wrench open his mouth. This was taken for a crowning proofe against infidelity. (See Force's Historical Tracts.)

These events occurred in 1675. (Virginia Historical Magazine, IV, p. 118, etc.)

At the time of the panic in 1688-9 caused by false rumors originating in Maryland, that the Catholics were inciting Indian uprisings, Captain Brent was obliged to seek refuge in the house of his friend and partner, William Fitzhugh, and was protected by the latter at the risk of his own life from the fury of the mob, remaining there, according to one account, for five months. Of this anxious period William Fitzhugh writes:

William Fitzhugh to George Luke, Esq., October 27th, 1690.

* * * * "But I think I am as well fitted for that as for my former trouble, when I stood in the gap and kept off an approaching rebellion, to my no small charge and trouble, as you fully know, being sending almost every day for five months together and writing with my own above three quires of paper to quash their raised stories and settle their pannick fears, having my house most part of the time constantly thronged and in daily expectation of being plundered by the rabble and once of being treacherously murdered" * * *

This incident is also described in an article by Bernard C. Steiner in the Report of the American Historical Society, an extract from which may be of interest:

From "The Protestant Revolution in Maryland," by Bernard C. Steiner, Ph. D., Associate, John Hopkins University. Annual Report of the American Historical Association 1897, p. 296:

"The Virginia authorities appeased the tumult on their side of the River" * * * (caused by false rumors of a plot on the part of the Catholics of Maryland to excite the Indians against the Protestants). This "sillynesse in comineing and writing to Virg'a * * * without better assurances," vexed the Virginia Council, we are told by Clarke, and gave them some difficulty in preventing the Stafford County men "from their intent to kill, robb, and burne what Capt. Brent had"; for in some manner Capt. Brent had fallen under suspicion of being in the plot with the Indians. The council ordered Brent to go to Colonel Fitzhugh's house and "to justify his innocence * * * ordered his house to be searched for Armes and Amunicon," which they found "not sufficiently necessary for his own defence."

The foregoing occurrences were in 1689.

George Brent married first a daughter of William Greene and niece of Sir William Layton, and second a daughter of Colonel Henry Sewell of Maryland, whose widow married Lord Baltimore.
Two letters from William Fitzhugh to George Brent concerning his second marriage are given in full, and also a letter of congratulation from Lord Baltimore, written after the event:

LETTER OF WILLIAM FITZHUGH TO GEORGE BRENT OF WOODSTOCK.

Feb. 25, 1687.

Dear Brother:

John Simpson brought me your most acceptable letter, ill weather at our appointed time, for our last Court hindered me of the real enjoyment of your most desired company. The purport of your letter I will affectionately and fully answer, that is if your desired piece of gold and what cravats &c., fashionable, I have at present to supply you with, could wish I had more, and they should with the same alacrity and readiness be devoted to your service. By his return from Cullenn & disappointment there I was not only concerned but extremely troubled guessing at your concerns and intentions there and Before your return a full confirmation &c. In the carrying on all which designs I know you would neither be beholding, nor appear to have occasion thereof to any one in Maryland, therefore I have so far straightened myself as to supply you with all my stock except one piece of eight, which I hope may be enough to carry on your designs as I imagine there &c, or to supply your pocket expense on your journey; which please to accept with the same freedom as they are offered and sent. I hear Cullenn designs out before our court, therefore would have you send again before then, that you may not be disappointed of your expected money, and if you think that I may be in anyways serviceable to you please to lay your commands and they shall be readily obeyed. Mr. Newton now at my house informs me of abundance of rum now at Patuxent at 15d. p. Gallon and under, please do in that and other all concerns as for yourself. I have above 200 hdds, now by me the convenience yourself knows. I sent by this messenger I Guinea, 12 pieces of eight, one cravat and ruffles and cravat string.

Mar. 22, 1686-7.

Dear Brother,

Your full absolute and perfect assurance in yours fully, perfectly & absolutely pleases and contents me and gives me as great if not greater satisfaction than the welcome full bags to the most miserly usurer or the joyful and full harvest to the most industrious and thrifty husbandman and do with the same earnestness wish the consumption in facie Ecclesiae to furnish you with a full enjoyment and though the distance will not admit at that happy Day I shall not then fail to sing your remembrance. * * * Your intimacy and nearness to that good lady emboldens me though unknown to request the tender of my humble service to her.

Yours

Copy of an original letter from Lord Baltimore addressed to George Brent thus: "These For Capt. George Brent In Virginia."

Londo' 20th 8ber 1687.

S'r

I acknowledge my receipt of y'r obliging letter, & do verily & heartily wish yo' much joye, & happiness with my wife's daughter, whom (I und'rstand) you have lately married: I assure yo' I shou'd esteem it an advantage to me, & a great credit to Maryl'd would y'r affairs in Virg'a dispense with y'r settling in that Province: where you should command all ye favour and kindness I were able to shew you; But this happiness I cannot hope for, tho' I will not dispaire of obtaining my desire in this particular; since we live in an age in which stranger things have happened. I most indeed own there is, in this wish of mine, a great mixture of Interest, as well as Respect, and value that I have for you; which tho' I know to be no very good Compliment, may, yet prove a good Argument of my desires—of serving you, where the advantages will be so much my own; But, I will not, any longer, insist on this subject; lest I appear to much selfe interested and not fitt to be beloved at the same time, and I assure you I am with respect and kindness,

S'r Your most faithful humble servant

C. Baltimore.

My service to y'r Bedfellow.

THE ENGLISH DESCENT OF JOHN PLEASANTS (1645-1698), OF HENRICO COUNTY, VIRGINIA.

By J. HALL PLEASANTS, Baltimore, Md.

As seen from an examination of the above records, the Norwich family of Pleasance or Pleasants in the sixteenth or seventeenth centuries was distinctly of the middle class. As far as I can determine the name, during these centuries was almost entirely confined to the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk. The earliest English record of the name so far encountered is the Norwich reference of 1454. The name itself is probably derived from Plaisance, the name of an old French town. Norwich was the principal seat of the worsted weaving industry and large numbers of French weavers came there in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. There is not sufficient evidence at present to determine whether Norwich or the neighborhood of Bury St. Edmunds in Suffolk, where there were a large number of the name early in the sixteenth century, is the original seat of the family. If the latter, an earlier Norman origin is quite probable. In either event the French extraction seems unquestionable. The Suffolk branch became a county family of some little wealth and prominence, and as early as 1576 was entitled to bear arms. (Visitation of Suffolk.)

A branch of the family also rose to considerable prominence in Ireland during the eighteenth century, Thomas Pleasants of Dublin, a noted philanthropist contributing large sums for hospitals and for establishing a home for worsted weavers. (National Biography.) Fragments of a correspondence still extant between Robert Pleasants of Virginia, and Charles Pleasants of Dublin, written just prior to the Revolution, refer to the kinship of the two branches, (see also Gentleman's Magazine 1818, I, 113, 116.) It seems almost certain from these letters and a series of Irish wills in my possession, that this Irish branch is in direct descent from Thomas, brother of the emigrant. The arms of the Dublin branch differ in only a few details from the Suffolk family.

It is hoped that additional research may carry back the Norwich line still further, and that more light may be thrown upon the origin of this family.

Copies of the wills of John Pleasants, the emigrant, and his wife will follow.

Elizabeth Gregory, a sister of James Gregory, who married Patience Godwin, married Rev. Daniel Earl, an English clergyman. Rev. Daniel Earl succeeded the Rev. Clement Hall, the first rector of St. Paul's Parish, Edenton, upon his death in 1758, and remained rector of the parish until his death in 1785. They had two children, Elizabeth Earl and Ann Earl. After the death of his wife, Elizabeth, Rev. Daniel Earl married widow Charity Jones, but had no issue by her. Ann Earl died unmarried, leaving a will dated 21st June, 1796. Elizabeth Earl on 10th day of February, 1785, married Charles Johnson of Chowan county, N. C., and had only one child, Charles Earl Johnson. Charles Johnson survived his wife and died in 1802. In his will dated 23d July, 1802, he mentions a son, Thomas, who was by his former wife whom he married in England, before coming to this country. There is on record a report of the division of his estate in 1804, between his two children, Thomas Johnson and Charles Earl Johnson. It appears that this Thomas Johnson died without issue. Charles Johnson was a member of Congress for the Edenton District at the time of his death, and was succeeded in Congress for that district by Genl. Thomas Wynns, a brother of Mary Wynns who married James Gregory (2). Hon. Charles Johnson was a man of great wealth and distinction. He served in the Senate of the General Assembly from 1781 to 1792.

Lucius Junius Johnson married Mary Isabella Granbery, daughter of Col. Josiah Thomas Granbery and Sarah Ann Baker Sawyer, and their descendants are given in the account of the descendants of Thomas Granbery, son of Josiah Granbery and Ann Gregory.

Elizabeth Earl Johnson married Dr. Alexander Henderson, and died leaving her said husband and three children surviving her, to-wit: Elizabeth Earl Henderson, Jane Benedicta Henderson and Caroline Elizabeth Henderson. Alexander Henderson was the son of Maj. Pleasant Henderson of Chapel Hill, N. C., and his mother was Sarah Martin, niece to Gov. Alexander Martin, thrice governor of North Carolina, and daughter of Col. James Martin.

Elizabeth Earle Henderson married Lieut. Lawrence Simmons Baker, U. S. Army, later Brigadier General in the Confederate Army. He was the son of Mary Wynns Gregory, daughter of James Gregory (2) and Mary Wynns, a sister of Mrs. Genl. John Hodges, and his father was Dr. John Burgess Baker, son of Maj. Lawrence Baker of the Revolution, distinguished in arms and in the councils of his State. They have had four children: (a) Wm. T. Baker who married Susan Green Hodges, daughter of Wm. Henry Harrison Hodges, son of Genl. John Hodges and Mary A. Griswald. He and his wife have died, leaving two boys, now young men, William Hodges Baker and Lawrence Simmons Baker; Alexander Henderson Baker who married Mary Claudia Phillips, daughter of Dr. Edward Dove Phillips and Mary Matilda Riddick; (c) Elizabeth Earl Baker who has lately married Frederiek Brooks Hubbell; (d) Stuart Sigourney Baker unmarried.

Jane Benedict Henderson married William Walters Harris, son of Harris from Pleasant Hill, near Weldon, and Sarah Walters of Norfolk, daughter of Joseph M. Walters. They had only one child, William Walters Harris.

Caroline Elizabeth Henderson married first, John Tunis of Norfolk, and had by him John Waddy Tunis, who died in infancy, and Minnie Leigh Tunis who married Dr. Norcop of Asheville, N. C., and had by him no children, and then married Carroll Mercer, U. S. A., and had by him Violetta Mercer and Lucy Page Mercer; second, Caroline Elizabeth Henderson married Andrew Sigourney of Norfolk, and had by him one child, Martha, who married Harry S. Herman, the present treasurer of Norfolk. She married thirdly, Dr. W. M. King, Medical Director, U. S. N., and died without issue by him.

Dr. James Madison Johnson married Mary Weldon Smith and had the following children: Betty Norfleet Johnson, Cornelia Johnson, Lucius Junius Johnson and Richard F. J. Johnson.

Dr. Charles Earl Johnson settled in Raleigh, was eminent in his profession, and was during the Civil War, Surgeon General of his State. He married first, Emily Skinner, daughter of Charles Worth Skinner and Mary Creecy, and had by her Mary Johnson, Ann Johnson, Elizabeth Earl Johnson, Emily S. Johnson, Charles Earl Johnson; and he married secondly, Frances Lenox Iredell, daughter of James Iredell and Frances Johnston Tredwell. James Iredell was born in Edenton, N. C. He was a member of the House of Commons for many years; was speaker of the House; was judge of the Superior Court; governor of his State and United States Senator from North Carolina. His father was attorney general of the State, and in 1790 was appointed by President George Washington, Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Dr. Charles Earl Johnson had by his second wife, Frances Lenox Iredell, the following children: Frances Iredell Johnson, Charles Earl Johnson, James Iredell Johnson, Samuel Iredell Johnson and Helen Blair Johnson. For an account of his children see The North Carolina Historical and Genealogical Register, Vol. 2, No. 2, pp. 166, 167.

Edmund Randolph in his manuscript essay toward a history of Virginia says: "The death of John Robinson the Speaker of the House of Burgesses, and Treasurer of the Colony produced great agitation. These offices had generally been united in the same person. The chair, as the presidency of that house was called, was the seat of the procurator and being without a salary derived the support of its dignity as far as money was necessary to it, from the emoluments attached to the Treasury.

"This gentleman was a native, educated wholly in Virginia. His reputation was great for sound political knowledge, and acquaintance with parliamentary forms,—a benevolence which created friends, and a sincerity which never lost one. Then only had he an enemy when the private individual was to be sunk in the public office.

"When he presided the decorum of the house outshone that of the British House of Commons, even with Onslow at its head. When he propounded a question his comprehension and perspicacity brought it equally to the most humble and the most polished understanding. To committees he nominated the members best qualified. He stated to the House the contents of every bill, and shewed himself to be a perfect master of the subject. When he pronounced the rules of order, he convinced the reluctant. When on a floor of the committee of the whole house, he opened the debate, he submitted resolutions and enforced them with simplicity and might. In the limited sphere of colonial politics, he was a column."

In the preface and in the journals of the House of Burgesses 1766-69, published by the Virginia State Library may be found much information in regard to Speaker Robinson's defalcation.

Speaker Robinson married three times. He first married in Middlesex county, on November 8, 1723, Mary Storey (Register). By this marriage he is said to have had only one child who survived only a few days. He married, secondly, Lucy, daughter of Augustine Moore, of "Chelsea," King William county, and had at least two children, John and Lucy, named in their grandfather Moore's will in 1742. The son John, certainly died young. Speaker Robinson married a third time, on December 21, 1759, (Va. Gazette) Susan, daughter of Col. John Chiswell, of Williamsburg. On account of the destruction of the records of King and Queen county, the fact that no copy of his will seems to have been preserved, there is uncertainty as to Mr. Robinson's children, except those of the last marriage. He is stated to have had a daughter who married a Col. Boyd and whose descendants moved to the South. It is also possible that there were other children of the earlier marriages, but one of his grandchildren by the last marriage, who lived to a great age, and frequently talked of the family never mentioned any such relations.

61. John, died young and unmarried. In the Virginia Gazette, January 27, 1774, is the following obituary:

DEATHS.—Master John Robinson only son of the late Speaker, at the House of William Nelson in Caroline. His Corpse was brought to King & Queen, and buried on a high Point of land near Mattapony River, a small distance above Turner's Warehouse.

One favour'd son engag'd Susannah's care,
One pious youth her chief Affection crown'd;
In his young Breast the virtues sprung so fair,
Such charms display'd, such sweets diffus'd around.

But whilst gay Transport in her face appears
A noxious Vapour clogs the poison'd sky
Blasts the fair Crop—the Mother's drown'd in Tears
And scarce Surviving, sees her Darling die.

O'er the pale Corpse we saw her gently bend,
Heart-chilled with grief—my Thread she cry'd is spun!
If Heaven had meant I should my Life extend Heaven had preserv'd my Life's Support—my Son!

21. William Robinson (John) was born March 25, 1709, in Middlesex county. (Register.) He removed in early life to Spotsylvania county, where he married Agatha, daughter of Harry Beverley, of that county. The marriage bond was dated February 17, 1737. (Spotsylvania Records.) Wm. Robinson was long J. P. for the county and was commissioned major of militia September 17, 1743. But little is known definitely of William Robinson or his children. He is said to have married twice, first to Agatha Beverley and second to Miss Smith, and it has been questioned whether he was the William Robinson, whose will was proved in 1792. The first marriage is, of course certain, and there can be no doubt that he was the Wm. Robinson who died in 1792 leaving a widow Agnes. There is on record in Spotsylvania a deed, dated November 5, 1764, from William Robinson and Agnes his wife, of Spotsylvania county, to John Robinson, Esq., of King and Queen (his brother). The surname of the second wife, Agnes, is unknown. The will of William Robinson was dated March 5, 1792, and the executor's bond dated August 7, 1792. The executor was Beverley Winslow. The legatees were sons Benjamin, Francis, and Samuel, wife Agnes, daughter Agnes, and daughters Lucy Nelson and Elizabeth Nelson. No provision is made for the children of the first marriage, who had long before received their portions. It seems probable that at the time of his death, Wm. Robinson was not possessed of any large amount of property, and that his children removed from the county. Little or nothing is known as to the descendants of most of them, and it is hoped that any one having definite information will furnish it for publication.

Issue of William Robinson by 1st marriage with Agatha Beverley:

63. John. He is stated in a traditional account to have married a Miss Page and to have been ancestor of a family of Robinsons in King William county, but this statement is not borne out by the records. There is among the records of Orange county a marriage bond, dated November 24, 1757, for the marriage of John Robinson and Lucy Smith. By a deed dated November 3, 1763, William Robinson of Spotsylvania county, conveyed to his son John, 1190 acres of land in Spotsylvania, which Agatha, late wife of said Wm, had inherited from her father Harry Beverley, and by three deeds later in 1763 John Robinson and Lucy his wife sold to other parties the land which had recently been conveyed to him. There are also deeds in 1760 from William Robinson, and John Robinson and Lucy his wife, conveying lands in Spotsylvania. As the sale of 1763 included the place where John Robinson lived it is probable that he then removed from the county. Nothing more is known of him or his descendants, and information is desired. In the latter part of the 18th century a John Robinson and Lucy his wife lived in the Shenandoah Valley. Their descendants know nothing definitely of their ancestry, but the tradition among these descendants was that the family came from Yorkshire and that some of its members lived in Essex county, Va. This John and Lucy Robinson had two sons who went to Tennessee about 1800, and also a third son John Thomas Robinson who married Elizabeth Emerson and had issue: William, Richard, John, Beverley W., Arthur Samuel and Joseph Lewis. The latter is the father of Mr. P. M. Robinson, Vice-President of the Union National Bank of Clarksburg, W. Va.

64. Harry (of whom later).

65. Catherine. On December 2, 1757, William Robinson of Spotsylvania, made a deed of gift to his daughter Catherine. She married her cousin Col. Beverley Winslow of Spotsylvania county. (Marriage bond December 23, 1757.)

Issue of Wm. Robinson by second marriage with Agnes:

66. Benjamin. Named in his father's will. By deed dated June 12, 1770, Joseph Hawkins conveyed 100 acres in the upper end of Spotsylvania to Benjamin, son of William and Agnes Robinson, and by deed dated December 5, 1795, Agnes, relict of Wm. Robinson, and Benjamin Robinson and Catherine his wife, sold 62 acres in Spotsylvania, being the place where Wm. Robinson was living at his decease. The surname of Mrs. Catherine Robinson is not known, but it seems probable that Benj. Robinson had married a cousin. William Parker, of Spotsylvania, (who had married Susanna, daughter of Beverley Winslow and Catherine Robinson his wife) names in his will dated March 12, 1797, his daughter Catherine Robinson. There is no information in regard to their descendants.

68. Samuel. No information.
69. Agnes. No information.
70. Lucy. Married Joseph Nelson of Spotsylvania county.

HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL NOTES AND QUERIES.

Mt. Airy.—Thanks are due to Mr. Robert A. Lancaster, Jr., for permission to use a picture of Mt. Airy, Richmond county, which is one of the illustrations of his forthcoming book on old homes and historic houses of Virginia, a work for which he has been long collecting material.

The view, that from the rear, while not as imposing as the front where the main building and wings form a semi-circle, with the terrace and its stone balustrade as the chord, is more readily photographed.

Morton—Corrections.—On p. 314, for "Marmaduke Beckwith Mothershead" read "Marmaduke Beckwith Morton," and on p. 315, read that Joseph Morton, who was born in 1709, died in 1782, instead of 1772.

Osborne.—I note that the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography, Vol. IV, No. 3, page 247, and also Branchiana, failed to find a child of Captain Thomas Osborne, who in 1637 patented 1000 acres at "Fearing," on "Coxendale." May I call your attention to the following patent?

"Thomas Osborne, Sen'r, was on April 29, Ano. Dom., 1692, granted by Fra. Nicholson Esq., 1113 acres of land in Henrico, Varina Parish, on the south side of James River, known now by the name of Coxendale by a former patent by the name of "Fearing," &c., &c. The said 1113 acres is due to the said Tho: Osborne, Sen'r, as followeth, 1000 acres being formerly granted unto Capt. Tho: Osborne, father of this patentee, dated as above and the residue being surplus lands included within ye bounds of ye said patent & is due for importacion of of three p'sons. April 29th, 1692.

Mary Norman, William Buckston, Tom (a negro).”

Here we have, at least one child of Capt Thomas Osborne.

Was this child the same with Thomas Osborne, Junior, who in 1637 patented 500 acres in Henrico, on Procters Creek, by the name of “Batchelor” Branch?

ENGLISH RECORDS RELATING TO VIRGINIA.

C[harlotte], Countess of Dunmore, to [Lord Dartmouth].

1773, August 10, Berkley Street. On behalf of Captain Foy who went to America with Lord Dunmore as secretary while at New York, whence he accompanied him to Virginia. A vacancy has happened in the naval office at New York by the death of Mr. Williams. If his Lordship would confer this on Captain Foy, Lord and Lady Dunmore would feel essentially obliged.

[The Countess of Dunmore was a daughter of Alexander Stewart, 6th Earl of Galloway, and married in 1759, John Murray, Earl of Dunmore, afterwards Governor of Virginia. In the Virginia Gazette of March 3, 1774, appeared the following:

“Last Saturday Evening the Right Honourable the Countess of Dunmore, with Lord Fincastle [the eldest son], the Honourable Alexander and John Murray, and the Ladies Catherine, Augusta, and Susan Murray, accompanied by Captain Foy and his Lady, arrived at the Palace in this City, to the great Joy of his Excellency the Governor, and the inexpressible Pleasure and Satisfaction of the Inhabitants, who made a general Illumination upon this happy Occasion, and with repeated Acclamations welcomed her Ladyship and Family to Virginia.”

On the same day the president and professors of William and Mary College and the Mayor, Alderman and Common Council of the town presented addresses of congratulation to the Governor.

The same issue of the Gazette contains two enthusiastic effusions of local versifiers welcoming Lady Dunmore. When the Assembly met the Council and House added their congratulations. On May 26th, the Governor dissolved the Assembly on account of the resolution in regard to Boston which had been adopted by the House of Burgesses, but notwithstanding this interruption to good feeling, the House on the next night gave a "ball and entertainment" at the Capitol, to welcome Lady Dunmore. During her residence in Williamsburg, Lady Dunmore gave birth to a daughter, who, in honor of the Colony, was named Virginia. There is a tradition that the House of Burgesses, in acknowledgment of the compliment paid Virginia, resolved to provide suitably for the fortunes of the young lady; but an examination of the journals fails to disclose any such action.

Captain Foy, an officer of the English Army who had gained distinction at Minden, does not appear to have been popular in Virginia. At a meeting of Council in the spring of 1775, John Page, afterwards Governor, gave great offence to Dunmore by opposing a candidate named by him for the Board of Visitors of William and Mary College. Foy took his chief's part in such an insulting manner, that, says Page, "I was obliged to call him to account for it, and he, like a brave and candid man, made full reparation to me and my friend, John Innes."

Cyrus Griffin, son of Leroy Griffin, of Richmond county, was born in 1748, and entered the Middle Temple in 1771. He must have been on a visit to Virginia in 1774. About the time he completed his legal studies in England he met and made a runaway marriage with Lady Christina Stuart, daughter of John, 6th Earl of Traquair. He returned to Virginia and was a member of the Continental Congress 1778-1781, and 1787-88, and was in the last year President of that body. He was President of the U. S. Supreme Court of Admiralty during its existence, and United States District Judge from December, 1789, until his death, December 14, 1810. His wife died about December 1, 1807. Though their male lines of descendants are extinct, Judge and Lady Griffin have numerous descendants through female lines. The earldom of Traquair became extinct with the death of the 8th Earl in 1861. His sister, Lady Louisa Stuart, died at a very advanced age in 1876, and the estates of Traquair passed to the Hon. Henry Constable Maxwell, whose connection, however, with the Traquair line was more remote than that of the Griffins.]

The Earl of Dunmore to Lord Dartmouth,

1774, December 24, Williamsburg. The Associations first in part entered into by this Colony and adopted by the Continental Congress are now enforcing throughout the country with great vigour. A Committee is chosen in every county to carry the Association of the Congress into execution. They inspect the trade and correspondence of any merchant, watch the conduct of any inhabitant, may send for, catechize, and stigmatize him if he does not appear to follow the laws of their Congress. Every city [Lord Dunmore doubtless wrote “c'ty,” meaning “county”] besides is arming an independent Company to protect their Committees and to be employed against Government should occasion require. As to the power of Government which Lord Dartmouth in his letter of November 11th directs shall be exerted to counteract the dangerous measures pursuing here, it is entirely disregarded if not wholly overturned. Not a Justice of the Peace acts except as a Committee-man. Abolishing the Courts of Justice was the first step taken. The General Court is much the same, for the lawyers refuse to attend, nor would the people allow them. Interposition of Government in its present feeble state would only suffer the disgrace of a disappointment. But, he feels, every step taken by these infatuated people must defeat its own purpose. The non-importation and non-exportation agreements can not fail in time to produce a scarcity which will ruin thousands of families, and as to manufactures here, the people of Virginia are not naturally industrious. The arbitrary proceedings of the Committees cannot likewise fail of raising quarrels and dissensions which will create partisans of Government. He is persuaded that this Colony by its own acts and deeds must be brought to see the necessity of dependence on the Mother Country and embracing its authority.

WASHINGTON'S VISIT TO HIS MOTHER.

Fredericksburg, February 15, 1784.

On Thursday evening last, our late illustrious Commander in Chief arrived in this town from Mt. Vernon on a visit to his ancient and amiable parent, with every mark of heartfelt gladness, the Body Corporate, the next day waited on his Excellency with the following address as a public testimony of their grateful acknowledgements for his many services.

To his Excellency General Washington, late Commander in Chief of the Armies of America.

Sir,

While applauding millions were offering you their warmest congratulations on the blessings of peace, and your safe return from the hazards of the field; we the Mayor and Commonalty of the Corporation of Fredericksburg were not wanting in attachment and wishes to have joined in public testimonies of our warmest gratitude and affection for your long and meritorious services in the cause of liberty; a cause, sir, in which, by your examples and exertions, with the aid of your gallant army, the virtuous citizens of the western world are secured in freedom and independence. And though you have laid aside your official character, we cannot omit this first opportunity you have given us, of presenting, with unfeigned hearts, our sincere congratulations on your returning, in safety, from the noisy clashing of arms, to the calm walks of domestic ease; and it affords us great joy, to see you, once more at a place which claims the honor of your growing infancy, the seat of your venerable and amiable parent and worthy relations. We want language to express the happiness we feel on this occasion, which cannot be surpassed but by superior acts (if possible) of the Divine favor.

May the great and omnipotent ruler of all human events, who, in blessing America, has conducted you through so many dangers, continue his favor and protection through the remainder of your life, in the happy society of an affectionate and grateful people.
I have the honor to be, in behalf of the Corporation, with every sentiment of esteem and respect, Your Excellency's most obedient and most humble servant.

William McWilliams, Mayor.

Answer.

To the Worshipful the Mayor, and Commonalty of the Corporation of Fredericksburg.

Gentlemen,

With the greatest pleasure I receive, in the character of a private citizen, the honor of your address. To a benevolent Providence, and the fortitude of a brave and virtuous army, supported by the general exertion of our common country, I stand indebted for the plaudits you now bestow.

The reflection, however, of having met the congratulating smiles and approbation of my fellow citizens, for the part I have acted in the cause of liberty and independence, cannot fail of adding pleasure to the other sweets of domestic life; and my sensibility of them, is heightened by their coming from the respectable inhabitants of the place of my growing infancy, and the honourable mention which is made of my reverend mother, by whose maternal hand, early deprived of a father I was led to manhood. For the expressions of personal affection and attachment and for your kind wishes for my future welfare, I offer grateful thanks, and my sincere prayers for the happiness and prosperity of the Corporate Town of Fredericksburg.

G. Washington.

On Saturday at two o'clock, a committee from the Common Hall, the late officers of the army, and several gentlemen of the town and neighbourhood, waited on and conducted him to the Coffee house, where a public dinner was provided. On his approaching the place of entertainment, he was saluted with a discharge of twenty one rounds from artillery. Language is too weak to express the heartfelt joy that appeared in the countenances of a numerous and respectable number of Gentlemen, who had assembled on this happy occasion. After Dinner the following toasts were drank under the discharge of thirteen rounds of artillery to each toast.

1. The Thirteen United and Sovereign States of America.
2. The American Congress.
3. Our great and generous ally Louis XVI.
4. Our late virtuous and gallant army.
5. The American ministers in Europe.
6. May Commerce flourish and the landed interest of America increase.
7. The Seven United provinces and allies of Europe.
8. Unanimity in the Councils of America.
9. May the American Revolution induce those oppressed by tyranny to imitate them; and may every success attend their virtuous endeavors.
10. The Volunteers of Ireland.
11. The Order of Cincinnati.
12. May the increase of the American Navy be equal to the growth of her forests.
13. The memory of all our gallant heroes who have bravely fallen in defence of American liberty.

The General was then pleased to honor the company with a toast: "Fredericksburg; may it encrease and its commerce flourish," thirteen rounds.

On the evening an elegant ball was given at the Town-Hall, where a numerous and brilliant company of ladies assembled, who now in turn received the pleasure of beholding their great protector and virtuous defender. Joy sparkled in the eye, and every appearance was expressive of the animated feelings which warmed the hearts of all present. At twelve o'clock the General withdrew; and the next day left this place for Chatham on his return to Mount Vernon, where may he enjoy all the blessings this life can afford, and which his many virtues merit.

Offley.—"The plaintiff in this case was the daughter of ——— Offley of London," p. 109, this Magazine.
This was Robert Offley. See Offley pedigree, The Genealogist, Vol. XIX, part 4.—K. M. R.

Pleasants Correction.
There is an error in a date in the Pleasants notes in the last number of the Magazine. On page 320, line 3, "1558" should read "1583." This error confuses the early part of the pedigree.

Todd.—Can anyone give the family name of Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Todd, the eldest son of Thomas Todd of Mockjack Bay, Va., died 1676? Family tradition affirms that her name was Elizabeth Tabb of Gloucester, but as far as I know, this is unsupported by documentary evidence of any kind.—J. H. P., Baltimore.

Minor-Cocke.
About a dozen years ago I obtained a considerable batch of abstracts of land grants, court records, &c. Among others I was seeking the ancestry of Elizabeth Cocke of Middlesex county, Va., supposed to have married Doodles Minor. My correspondent was unable to find any lady of that name who could have married him, unless possibly she was the widow of Maurice Cocke. There the matter rested with me till a year or two ago, Captain Chas. M. Blackford (now dead) of Lynchburg, stated in your quarterly that “Doodles married —— Montague.” We know that Doodles' sister Mary married Peter Montague, Jr., that Peter Montague, Sr., had a daughter Elizabeth (named in his will 1659), that Doodles Minor's wife was Elizabeth (named in his will 1694), and that Mrs. Elizabeth Minor married (secondly) Maurice Cocke. Was she Elizabeth, daughter of Peter Montague, Sr., the immigrant? Two or three Minors have written me that she was Elizabeth Cocke and one "can't imagine where my cousin Captain Blackford got his information." As she was ancestress of so many notable men surely her name is known by this time. As Peter Montague’s will was made when Doodles Minor was a minor, of course, that throws no light on the matter.

Broadhurst.

Dr. Neil, in the Nation of November 19th, 1891, writing of his re-search regarding Walter Broadhurst and Ann, his wife, after reasserting his belief that the latter was Ann Pope, daughter of Nathaniel Pope, (now thought improbable) gives the following interesting information not generally known.

Walter Brodhurst, son of Wm. Broadhurst of Shropshire, Eng., first settled in Maryland, and his name appears in public records as early as 1639.

He was a member of the Maryland Assembly in 1642. A complaint being lodged against him in 1647, charging him with acknowledging Capt. Edward Hill of Virginia, as governor. He moved across the Potomac to the Virginia side and in 1653 was Burgess from Northumberland.

Wm. Brodhurst, (Walter's father) died at Lilleshall, Eng., in 1658, leaving a legacy to his daughter-in-law Ann.

Walter Brodhurst,2 son of Walter,1 returned to Shropshire, became church warden of Lilleshall Parish, and died August 4th, 1707.

Pension Declaration of Wade Mosby.

(Contributed by P. G. Miller, Cumberland C. H., Va.)

State of Virginia

Powhatan County, to-wit:

On this 19th day of September, 1832, personally appeared before the Justices of the County Court of Powhatan Wade Mosby a resident of said County in the State of Virginia who being first duly sworn according to law doth on his corporal oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provisions made by the Act of Congress passed June the 7th, 1832,

That he is now in his 72d, year of age, that he was born in the County of Powhatan, then Cumberland, that he has always resided in the County of Powhatan with the exception of a short residence eighteen months some years ago in the City of Richmond and a residence of about two years in Cartersville in Cumberland County near the Powhatan line: that the family Register of his age is now in the possession of his brother Benj. Mosby: That the first tour of duty which he performed was in or about the year 1777 or 1778 when he united with a number of his brother students then at Hampden Sidney Academy, soon after established as a college, in Prince Edward County, Virginia, and formed a volunteer company under Jno. B. Smith, one of the Professors as their Captain, Sam'l Venable as Lieutenant and Sam'l Hackley as Ensign: that they marched to Williamsburg and joined the troops stationed there, that to the best of his recollection this tour lasted about six months when they were discharged and returned home, that he was then about sixteen years of age. That his second tour was also about six weeks, and about a year after the first, when the same company again volunteered and marched under the same officers to Petersburg and that neighborhood, nor does he remember at this time the exact occasion which induced the call for troops: That after that tour he quit college and during the fall of the year 1779 or spring of 1780 his brother the late General Littlebury Mosby then acting as a Captain raised a Volunteer Company of Cavalry in which this affiant was a second Lieutenant & Horatio Turpin first Lieutenant they marched to Petersburg where they joined the army commanded by Gen'l Lawson and Col. Banister commanding the Horse where they were stationed sometime, and remained in Service from ten weeks to two months and were discharged. The occasion for this tour as well as he remembers was the appearance of some Hostile naval force that threatened Richmond and Petersburg and the country below there. That some time afterwards and after the defeat of Gen'l Gates at Camden there was a heavy call upon the militia in part of the state. That this affiant marched as a volunteer attached to the Company commanded by his brother in law Capt. Robert Hughes and acted as Adjutant to the Regiment, when they arrived at Moores Ordinary in Prince Edward about 50 miles on their march Capt. Cannon from Buckingham being taken ill on the Road and unable to proceed this affiant was appointed by Gen'l Lawson to command the Company, which command he continued in during that tour, that he was in the battle of Guilford, and remained in service to the end of the tour which from a comparison of recollections with others he thinks could not have been much short if any of three months. That the officers accompanying him in this expedition were Colo. Beverly Randolph who commanded the Regiment, and the late Judge Tucker and Colo. Henry Skipwith as Majors. That at the battle of Guilford Colo. Edward Carrington of the Continental Army acted as Quarter Master Gen'l, and laid off the battle ground. That the 5th and last tour of service which he performed was a very short time afterwards and grew out of the following circumstances—During the time Mr. Jefferson acted as Governor of Virginia he addressed a letter to this affiant's brother Littlebury Mosby calling upon him to raise as many Cavalry as he could and come to the assistance of the Marquis De La Fayette, that his brother called upon his old subalterns Horatio Turpin and this affiant who in the course of a week or ten days raised two companies of Cavalry, this affiant having the command of one and Horatio Turpin of the other and his brother Littlebury Mosby acting as Major. That they marched to Petersburg and remained there until forced to evacuate the place by the appearance of Gen'l Phillips. That the cavalry to which his company was attached covered the retreat of the army as they left there, and was employed in taking up the bridge after they passed. That they were afterwards kept very much upon vidette service in the neighborhood of Petersburg and Richmond. That the cavalry was at this time commanded by Colo. Call. The length of this tour according to his recollection was between two and three months. That this was the last regular service performed by this affiant but it may be proper for him to state that upon his return home, his father being the Militia Com-mmandant of the county, kept this affiant irregular periods frequently engaged in vidette service in watching the movements of Lord Cornwallis Army during the time of his being about Richmond and above there which might have been from 4 to 5 weeks. He hereby releases every claim whatever to pension or annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any state. Power of Attorney. Margaret Warren, of the City of Bristol, relict and administratrix of David Warren, late of the same City, mariner, deceased, to John Hull to enter into all that plantation at Rappahannock River in Virginia whereof "my said husband died seized." Dated 10 January 1667. Deeds, vol. 4, fol. 16.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

The above abridgement of the records were made during a visit to Tappahannock in the year 1894, because the mother of the writer was a Warren of a Virginia family, and the notes were made for possible use thereafter in tracing her lineage. I have never got beyond her great-grandfather, Thomas Warren, who, in 1780, emigrated to Madison county, Kentucky, in company with Capt. Estill (who was from near Waynesboro, Augusta county, Va.), and who was living as late as 1809, and whose son, Humphrey, was b. about 1772.

The following information may be of interest to Warrens in Virginia: One Thomas Warren was Sheriff of Bristol, England, in 1571. Matthew Warren was Mayor of Bristol, England, in 1633, and was sheriff in 1739. See The History and Antiquities of the City of Bristol, by William Barrett, published by William Pine. (1789.) BOOK REVIEWS.

As Mr. Munford’s most valuable book will be reviewed in the January, 1910, number of this Magazine by a distinguished historian, whose own studies have made him an especially good judge of the momentous subjects of which this book treats, the use which will now be made of the advance sheets will necessarily be limited.

The attitude of a people toward slavery is a matter of utmost import in the history of that people, and equally so is the cause which would make that people secede from a government they had helped so largely to form and were deeply devoted to, and enter into a bloody war. An author who would discuss in a manner worthy of attention the vital questions which this book treats of should have a large and intimate knowledge of the history of Virginia and of the United States, together with a sympathetic understanding of the people of the State such as no stranger can possibly have, and yet a freedom from prejudice and a capacity to appreciate the aims and ideals of all parties and sections.

It is fortunate for the cause of historic truth that the author of this book combines so many of these qualities. Mr. Munford is connected by descent and education with much that is best in Virginia’s past, and has a loving veneration for her great men and great deeds; but he is also distinctly a man of the new age and has been in close touch with all movements for the moral, political and intellectual improvement of the State. He has always been an earnest student of history and politics and, as a successful lawyer, has been trained to weigh evidence.

The author’s thesis is that “Virginia did not secede in order to extend slavery into the Territories, or to prevent its threatened destruction within its own borders,” nor was its secession due to “a wanton desire to destroy the Union or from hostility to the ideals of the founders;” but that “the attempt of the Federal Government to coerce the cotton States was the proximate cause of Virginia secession.” To sustain the ground he has taken he gives a series of exceedingly clear and definite arguments based on indisputable evidences.

The introduction contains one of the most concise and yet comprehensive accounts of the various causes or supposed causes of the Civil War which has ever been published.
The author next takes up Virginia's attitude toward slavery in the Colonial period, describes the numerous ineffectual attempts to check or stop the slave-trade, and gives an account of the measures to that end contained in the State Constitution and Bill of Rights. The succeeding chapter treats of the early Virginia (State) statutes abolishing the slave-trade, and of the part played by the State in the enactment of the Ordinance of 1787. This is followed by two chapters telling, with much wealth of evidence and illustration, of Virginia's opposition to the foreign slave-trade at the time of the adoption of the United States Constitution and later.

In the same line of investigation tending to develop the attitude of Virginia toward slavery, next come chapters treating of various statutes in regard to the subject, including those permitting and others prohibiting emancipation. After this is given a very full discussion of the celebrated movement for abolition or gradual emancipation in the Virginia Legislature in 1832, of the causes of its failure and of the growth of pro-slavery sentiment which soon followed.

This increase of sentiment in favor of slavery is held to be largely due to the violence of the abolition societies that were just beginning their work in the North, and a careful study is made of these societies, with quotations from the opinions of prominent men of various sections in regard to them.

The author next shows that this increase of pro-slavery ideas did not interfere with the steady efforts of many Virginians, and indeed of the State Government, to effect a gradual emancipation through colonization. Accounts of the State colonization societies and of the action of the United States Government are given, and numerous instances are cited of individual efforts in this direction. Much of the material in this chapter is derived from private and hitherto unpublished sources.

The 12th chapter continues this subject, and the 13th, 14th and 15th give a remarkable collection of anti-slavery opinions by prominent Virginians. The two chapters which follow these illustrate the widely spread feeling in Virginia against slavery by extracts from a large number of wills and deeds emancipating negroes. These chapters contain information hitherto almost unknown, and will be a revelation to most readers.

In chapters 18 to 22, other reasons why the secession of Virginia was not to protect slavery are most forcibly shown, and each statement made is carefully based on facts and figures. The small number of slave-holders in proportion to the white population is clearly shown as is the consequent small proportion of slave-holding soldiers in the Virginia forces in the Confederate Army. The injurious effects of slavery on the prosperity of the State, and the intense feeling among the people against slave-traders and slave-trading are described and the charge that Virginia made a business of slave-breeding for sale is answered.

Mr. Munford recognizes that, after showing what he conceives was the attitude of Virginia toward slavery, and giving so many evidences in support of his belief, he must answer the question: "If this was the case why did not Virginia abolish slavery or provide for gradual emancipation?"

The answer is given in three most carefully studied chapters. Then, turning from the past to the period immediately preceding the war, he discusses the status of the slave controversy at the time Virginia seceded, the attitude of certain Northern States in regard to fugitive slaves, and the violence of the abolitionists, including their advocacy of disunion rather than a continuance of slavery.

The third section of the book begins by narrating, succinctly, what Virginia had done for the Union and why it should have loved what it had so great a part in making, and then describes the efforts of the State, through the Peace Conference, to again bring about harmony; the large majority for the Union in the elections for the Convention, and the earnest attempts of that Convention to re-establish peace in the country.

The last section continues the study of the proceedings of the Convention, and shows that it was only after coercion of the cotton States by the Federal Government became certain, that the large Union majority felt that the only honest and patriotic course lay in voting for secession.

In view of the fact that, as stated above, a review is to appear in the next issue of this Magazine, anything in the nature of an estimate has been avoided as far as possible. The book is, however, so marked a contribution to American history that it has been deemed worth while, even in advance of the regular review, to give some account of it. It will be published about the middle of this month.
