FORWARD

The attempt to put together the history of a family is, at best, a frustrating task, not only because it is a story without an end, but because one is always finding, or hoping to find, more information about its beginning. A family history is never complete. However, I hope that a feeling of family solidarity will result from reading about the origins and development of this Currey clan.

My research began ten years ago with the reading of a book which belonged to my late mother, "History of the Currey Family of West Virginia" by Rev. Truman Lawler. It quickened my long-standing interest in genealogy, which soon became an all consuming interest, from which I have yet to tire. One of the greatest rewards for me in this effort has been the opportunity of meeting so many "new" cousins. I regret that my residence in Michigan precludes more extensive contacts. I look forward every year to the Currey Reunion, in the hope of getting better acquainted with my West Virginia relatives.

It's really not possible to recognize by name all of the people who have assisted me in this project, by contributing information about themselves and their immediate families. To them I give my profound thanks, and hope that the knowledge that they have had a part in this project will be of satisfaction. But I would be delinquent not to mention those who have gone far "beyond the call of duty" in providing special help and encouragement. One of my greatest debts is to my dear cousin, Opal (Goodwin) McCue, who has given me invaluable support with her extensive knowledge of the area and the people, and who, with infinite patience, has helped me locate and read countless tombstones in innumerable cemeteries in several counties.

In conclusion, may I say that no effort has been spared to get accurate names and dates, but the mass of data makes it inevitable that there are mistakes. I hope none of these will cause embarrassment to those involved.
NUMBERING SYSTEM

The record of each person in this book is as follows: each of the ten children of John and Eleanor (Welsh) Currey are listed in their own Chapters, I through X. Within each Chapter are listed their children in bold type, numbered consecutively in order of birth. Those who have married and have numerous descendants, or are those about whom I have acquired more extensive information, are listed with a number in bold type in the left margin. These are called calendar numbers. These calendar numbers are the numbers of the Sections where the children of these members are to be found. They are numbered consecutively within each Chapter. In the many cases where cousins have married, the children are listed with the male line. In many cases, the children are listed with their parents, thus there would be no calendar number of separate Section for them. At the head of each Section, the lineage of that individual is listed back to our common ancestor, John Currey. This will allow anyone to trace their lineage forward or backward. In the Indexes, all names are listed with the page numbers on which they appear.
INTRODUCTION

The Family of Currey can be traced back several centuries. We find some record of the name in the thirteenth century. Sir Walter de Currey swore allegiance to King Edward the First of England in 1296. He is thought by many to have been the ancestor of the Curry, or Currey, family in England. In Scotland the family spelled the name Currie, in Ireland they spelled it Currey, and in England they came to spell it Curry.

One William Currie of England is said to have been a prominent citizen in the sixteenth century. There was a banker by the name of William Currie in London in 1753. It is not known whether "Curries" or "Curreys" or "Currys" were the first to come to America, but it is generally believed that this family, in whatever way they spell the name, are of a common ancestry.

The first time that we find the name in America was in 1652. That was John and he spelled the name with an "e." In 1730 Rev David Currie came from Scotland and settled in Virginia. Robert Curry settled in Pennsylvania about 1730. Dr James Currie, a nephew of the James Currey who was the historical editor of the poetry of Robert Burns, came to North Carolina and later to Virginia. There are many people by the name of Currey or Curry in America today. They can be found in every state in the Union. In my research, I have found many Curry sons of Currey fathers, so whether the name is spelled Currey or Curry should be considered a matter of personal preference.

Many theories have been given for the origin of the name. Some say that the place of residence gave them their name. The Saxon name "Corrie" meant "the hollow side of a hill." Others say they got their name from their trade, that they were curriers, dressers of skins and tanners. But there may be some other ways that they got their names. The word "Curry" has been defined as "a powder composed of cayenne pepper, coriander, ginger, tumeric, and other strong spices."

The Currey family has a family reunion, organized July 4 1916, which is held on the Sunday nearest the first of September, meeting at the Harmony Grove Church in Taylor County, West Virginia. The Curry/Currey families, who compose this reunion, are the descendants of John and Eleanor Currey who came with their children from Eastern Virginia about 1800 to that part of Harrison Co, Va which is now Taylor Co, West Virginia. Many of their descendants remain in Taylor County at the present time, but many of them live in Harrison, Marion, Wetzel and other nearby counties. Some have gone to other states.

There is an article written by Elizabeth Williams found in "The History of Wood County" and called "My mother, Ernie Gaynell Currey Williams - her paternal grandparents down the years" which has the following: "In Yorkshire, England, was born John B. Currey, 1609 - wife, Elizabeth, Sept. 9 1606; died 1694. Their son, John, born 1630 - wife, Elizabeth Ann, also Yorkshire - they came to Hampton, Va. in 1649 - two known children are son John B., born June 5 1652 and Elizabeth, born 1654.

Henry Currey, born Oct. 9 1683; married in 1704, Mary Lee, born 1683, daughter of George Henry Lee of London, England, later of Elizabeth City, Va. To their union born Joseph, 1705; John, 1707; Ross, 1709; David, 1711; Sally, 1712; James Henry, born Feb. 16 1714; George, 1715; and Sarah, 1717.

There is more to the article, but I believe this last John mentioned MIGHT be our direct ancestor.

JOHN CURREY\(^1\), born 1760-1770; married ELEANOR "NELLIE" WELSH, born 1760-1770; both of whom died in Harrison Co., Va. John bought 50 acres on Lost Run on 18 October 1802, which he sold to his son, James, on 14 August 1810. He died between 1820 & 1830.
