WHITE FAMILY

The first religious services of the district were held in the home of George Woofter or Rush Run by Rev. John Davis, the Baptist minister from the Broad Run church. Many professed Christ and walked eight or ten miles, carrying children in their arms, to Broad Run for services. Mount Zion Baptist Church was officially organized in 1831, by Rev. John J. Waldo. Charter members included George and Lydia (Winans) Woofter, Carr and Sarah (Brown) Bailey, the John Whites, Jennie (Winans) Woofter (wife of Jonathan Woofter), James Cox, Mrs. Rachel White, Rebecca Cox, John Nichols, and Vincent Alexander. Jacob Straley and Alexander "Buck" Moffett were leaders in the church. For many years, church baptisms were in the creek on the Straley farm. The church, pictured here circa 1920 during a Straley-Freeman reunion, closed in 1972 but reopened in 1987 through the efforts of several former members.

WHITE SURNAME - English, Scotch and Welsh, first used to refer to "a white-haired man".

U. S. CENSUS: 9,523 WHITES listed in 1790 census
SOCIAL SECURITY: 592,200 WHITES on Social Security in 1964
While the Whites who entered the northern part of West Virginia came from Massachusetts and New Jersey, those coming into southern West Virginia came largely from the counties of southwestern Virginia. Likewise, those who came into Kanawha Valley came from Botetourt and Wyeth counties in Virginia. Interestingly, representatives from all three groups had ties in Wyeth County during the early 1800s. The New, the Elk and the West Fork and Monongahela River valleys, and then the Ohio Valley, welcomed them. Like other early settlers, the White families lived in a frontier region without electricity, without indoor plumbing, without automobiles, moving pictures and almost all of today's "necessities". Yet they lived long lives in the mountain state.

Albert Blakeslee White, a wealthy newspaper publisher with plenty of political savvy and a keen knowledge of government finance, was West Virginia's 11th governor.

He was a man obsessed with the state's faulty tax structure. Once in the governor's chair, he pushed successfully for tax reforms that continue to be a part of the state's fiscal foundation today.

During his administration the Legislature created the office of state tax commissioner. Certain maximum levies were fixed on properties. Taxes on corporations, inheritances and transfers of property were raised.

The Legislature further ordered the Board of Public Works to tax public utilities, and barred county courts and boards of education from spending beyond their means.

White believed firmly in more taxes geared to the economy of the state. He wanted direct state taxes reduced.

White was a son of Dr. Emerson Elbridge White, a nationally known educator who was for seven years president of Purdue University at Lafayette, Indiana.

The boy got his first newspaper experience as a private secretary to his father, who published the Ohio Educational Monthly and the National Teacher. He took the job at the age of 14.

He was valedictorian of his class at Marietta College in 1878. He then returned to Lafayette, where he purchased a one-third interest in the Daily Journal and became its managing editor for three years.

On Oct. 2, 1879, he was married to Agnes Ward of Marietta. There were five children: Katherine Vaughan, who became the wife of William H. Wolfe; Ethel Sabin, who married Harry O. Hiteshew; Grace Rolston White, Ward Emerson White and Albert B. White Jr.

In 1891, reportedly because of the adverse effect of the Indiana climate on his health, White moved to Parkersburg.

There he purchased the State Journal, a weekly newspaper printed by a hand press, from former Gov. William E. Stevenson.

Two years later he and his partner, S.B. Baker, began publishing the Journal as a Republican daily newspaper.

The paper was published successfully for 18 years, and it became a powerful political force. Through its influence White first made himself known on the West Virginia political scene.

For several years White was president of the West Virginia Editorial Association and in 1888 he was president of the National Editorial Association.

In 1891 he managed the successful campaign of Stephen B. Elkins for U.S. senator.

In 1901, the year that he became governor, White sold his interest in the Journal and permanently retired from newspaper work.

This very versatile man served three terms of about four years each as an internal revenue agent — twice before he was governor and once afterward. President Harrison appointed him in 1889, President McKinley in 1897 and President Harding in 1921.

White was acquainted with President McKinley over a period of about 25 years. After the President was assassinated, White was moved to say in a memorial address, delivered at Charleston, Sept. 13, 1901:

"I have been the recipient of repeated and very great kindnesses at his hands. I have seen glimpses of him in his home life and much of him in his public life, and I have been his devoted follower for many years."

In a letter, written on the same date, White told the Cincinnati Post that "electrocution would scarcely be all" the assassin merited.

White accepted the Republican nomination for governor at Charleston July 11, 1900.

White easily defeated Democrat John H. Holt, Huntington lawyer, in the 1900 election. His margin was about 20,000 votes — a wide one at that time.

On March 4, 1901, he delivered his inaugural address on the front portico of the Capitol. A drizzle began as the ceremonies were started, and rain fell in torrents as he proceeded with his speech. His audience stood under a mass of umbrellas on the Capitol lawn.

NOTE: GENEALOGICAL HISTORY OF LOGAN COUNTY (1896), by E. C. Ragland, lists the sons of John White as JACK, who married Susannah Marcum, of Franklin; Ben, who married Anna Stuart, of Montgomery (Co); James, who married Lucretia Elkins, a daughter of pioneer Richard Elkins; and William, who married a daughter of John Sansom, another old pioneer.

Complicating research is the fact that Jack named his first son William, whose mother was also a Sansom. Jack's large family is fully documented, but few records are available on the families of his brothers. This is especially true for brother William.

The exact date is not known when THOMAS WHITE came to the eastern part of Randolph County, locating at the head of White's Run on the summit of the Allegheny Mountains. Tradition says that he immigrated to America from England. In 1802 his will divided his property between sons William, Thomas and David. His wife's name was Abigail Summerfield.

These early settlers had to face Indian warriors as well as the mountainous terrain. William White was captured by the Indians in 1777 and taken to their villages in Ohio, where he procured a gun, shot his Indian guard and took his horse before making his way back safely to Randolph. At a later time he was killed by Indians near the present town of Buckhannon.

Cartine and Jacob White settled in the Beverly district prior to 1780. Isaac White, son of John, was born near the present town of Huttonsville in 1776, but moved to the Beverly District, where he lived the rest of his life. The Dry Fork region above Huttonsville was the home for most of the later White generations.

Early records of births, deaths and marriages are sparse, since such records were not required by the state of Virginia until 1850. Family Bibles did not always list dates.

Doc White

Writers liked to call Doc White a self-made professional man; that means he taught himself to be a doctor, dentist, fiddler, photographer and machinist. There were feature stories in the newspapers and a documentary by WVU journalism students after he passed age 83, and still going strong!

He completed the eighth grade, and didn't have a license to practice doctoring or dentistry. He had a midwife license for a year in 1931. His knowledge came from experience, and a wheelbarrow of medical books that he read, and from several doctors that he worked with over the years. Dr A.D. Adams was the first. He learned dentistry from Dr. Fast, assisting with the inmates from the penitentiary camp near Ivydale.

He was born six miles from Clay Courthouse in 1889; he delivered his first baby at Laurel Creek in 1930, where his sister was a midwife. He went on to deliver an estimated 1800 babies, riding his horse up nearly every hollow in Clay County, through rain and snow and in the middle of the night.

He was charged by another doctor of practicing medicine without a license for delivering babies, but he explained to the judge that he had never lost a baby or a mother and the Judge told him to "keep on catching them".

Doc White was a Justice of the Peace for thirty years. He was very proud of his ability to play the fiddle; he bragged that he had played many times with one of the all time greats in West Virginia, Clark Kessinger.

Doc White was also a photographer; his hobby was making small steam engines. He was making a tiny locomotive in 1971, when he was being interviewed by Larry Maynor for the Charleston Daily Mail.

Doc and his wife Locie celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Christmas, 1970. They raised four children, who in turn gave them six grandchildren. Written by Larry Maynor
White — Kemper

Frank Stonewall White was born February 4, 1877 on a farm near Tynor, Wood County, West Virginia. He was the son of Michael and Mary Ann Holleron White, one of nine children.

Dr. White began his career in teaching the rural schools of Wood County, at the age of 16. After teaching several years he went to Harrison County where he held principalships of the Shinnston, Adamstown and North View schools in succession. While teaching principal of the Shinnston School in Fairmont (1913-17) he was offered a position as teacher of education and psychology at Fairmont State Normal School and continued in this position until retirement in 1915. He was a graduate of the National Pen-Art Hall of Logansport, Indiana and Fairmont State Normal School. He received the A. B. degree from the University of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (1916), the A. M. from George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee (1923) and the Ph. D. from the University of Pittsburgh in 1948.

Frank S. White and Emma Blanche Kemper were married June 11, 1907 at the home of her father, A. H. Kemper, on Freeman's Creek, Lewis County, West Virginia during the early years of the state. Each of the girls is a graduate of FSC and has not married. She teaches music and French. The Whites have three daughters:

Mary Carol (known as Carol), born March 26, 1937. Married William M. Baker of Riverside. They adopted three children: Robert Martin, born Sept. 2, 1966; Todd Alan, born April 4, 1968 and Peggy Lynn, born Sept. 6, 1970. Carol and Bill both taught school in Madison, Ohio. He is now deputy director of the Board of Elections of Lake County. They live in Madison.

Margaret, a daughter, was born November 28, 1942, has not married. She teaches music and is librarian at Fairview Elementary School, Fairview, W. Va. She works with the deaf through a program for her church.

White — McOlvin

January 14, 1909 was the date of birth of Robert Ryland White, son of Frank S. and Emma K. White, in Morgantown, West Virginia, "Three Score and Ten" (1963) was largely his work. Neither of them had any prior knowledge of the craft, but this job became his for many years and began a life-long interest in printing. The Whites have three daughters:

Mary Carol (known as Carol), born March 26, 1937. Married William M. Baker of Riverside. They adopted three children: Robert Martin, born Sept. 2, 1966; Todd Alan, born April 4, 1968 and Peggy Lynn, born Sept. 6, 1970. Carol and Bill both taught school in Madison, Ohio. The Whites: L. to R. Carol, Gladys, Ryland, Jane, Frank. Margaret... (about 1932).

Each of the girls is a graduate of FSC and is active in church and community affairs; Jane with the Noank (Conn.) Baptist Church; Carol, the Park United Methodist, Madison, Ohio; and Margaret, the Southern Baptist of Fairmont. W. Va. Submitted by R. Ryland White.

Michael White was born in Ireland in 1824. His grandson, Robert Ryland, was a gifted teacher, professional colleague, dedicated Christian, and special friend of the author.

The Whites had two children: Robert Ryland, born Jan. 14, 1909 and named for William Ryland White, the first superintendent of schools of West Virginia; and Mary Rebecca, born March 4, 1912 and named for her grandmother. She married Dr. Armand Singer, professor at WVU and lives in Morgantown. Ryland lives in Fairmont. They have spent their lives in education.

Mary Carol (known as Carol), born March 26, 1937. Married William M. Baker of Riverside. They adopted three children: Robert Martin, born Sept. 2, 1966; Todd Alan, born April 4, 1968 and Peggy Lynn, born Sept. 6, 1970. Carol and Bill both taught school in Madison, Ohio. DR. WHITE is a native born West Virginian—a member of a family prominent since the Seventeenth Century in the building up of American citizenship and the development of the Nation. He was born near Morgantown (then Virginia), November 1, 1848.

DESPITE his three-score years and fifteen, Dr. White is as active mentally and physically as he was at fifty. He has led an exemplary, busy life and has reaped a reward of glory and riches. He loves people and is loved by them. He is only happy when he is doing something for his friends and his State. Only a year or two ago, he donated a two-million-dollar tract of coal land to the City of Morgantown and to the West Virginia University.

In the length and breadth of the State, there is no man more entitled to be dubbed “The Grand Old Man of West Virginia” than Dr. I. C. White, of Morgantown.

WHITE BROTHERS

Henry Solomon White

Born on a farm in Monongalia Cty, WV on July 12, 1840. He died on February 13, 1931 in Welch, WV. He was described in W126 as small of stature and possessing a hopeful disposition and an indomitable will...social, true and confiding, and analyzes men and methods with unerring certainty.

He attended common school in a log schoolhouse. He was a farmer, teacher, merchant, lumber manufacturer and contractor.

He was agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for twenty five years. He leased oil and gas land in twenty counties for the J. M. Guffy and Company.

Served as Clerk in the election which voted against the Ordinance of Secession in 1861.

He was a Republican who cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln. He was a Methodist, a Mason and an Elk.

He volunteered in the summer of 1861 as a soldier in the Union army in the Sixth West Virginia regiment. He fought the war through and was badly wounded while defending the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge at Fairmont, WV which was destroyed by General Jones of the Confederate Army, on April 29, 1863. In that engagement Mr. White was made a prisoner of war, but was shortly paroled along with 200 others.

He furnished lumber for the Davis Island dam above Pittsburgh, the first dam in the Ohio River improvement.
